THREE GERMAN AIRSHIPS ARE BROUGHT DOWN

By Associated Press. Paris, Sept. 29.—Three German aeroplanes, brought down in two minutes and thirty seconds by a stop watch, is the latest exploit of Second Lieutenant Georges Guynemere. Incidentally Guynemere, who is "king of the air," fell 10,000 feet but escaped unhurt. Guynemere went to the assistance of a comrade who was hard pressed by five German machines. He brought down two of them in thirty seconds and then rising overtook a third, which he shot down two minutes later. He was looking for the two other German machines when a shell burst under him and wrecked his machine. He plunged earthward. "When I recovered my wits I was in the midst of the fragments of my machine and I was practically uninjured. How am I still alive and uninjured, I asked myself. I believe it was the straps which held me to my seat which saved me," he said.

WOMAN KILLED; HOUSE BURNED; ARREST HUSBAND

By Associated Press. Mount Airy, N. H., Sept. 29.—Mrs. F. J. Small, wife of a Boston real estate broker, who was burned in a fire which destroyed the small summer home at Lake Ossipee last night was murdered. She was taken from the ruins. She had been caught over the head and strangled by a rope tied around her neck. The police believe the fire was set to cover the crime. By a mere chance, however, this failed. The body dropped into the basement and the head and neck lodged in a pool of water. The log which had been drawn twice around the neck was preserved. Mr. Small, who had left his cottage on a business trip six hours before the fire, was discovered and hurried back to assist the police in their investigation. He said he had seen a man enter the cottage when he departed. Later on his own authority Sheriff Chandler arrested Small to await instructions from the county commissioner.

STATE WAREHOUSE MANAGER PREDICTS TWENTY-CENT COTTON

Austin, Sept. 29.—Twenty-cent cotton is now predicted by the state warehouse and marketing department, through warehouse managers F. C. Weinert, and Peter Radford. This announcement is based on present conditions and because of the fact that heavy selling of the crop has not changed the prevailing price. Another reason assigned why the price should reach twenty cents is because of the limited supply of the cheap money facilities now available to the producer.

ORDER ELECTION FOR PARK BONDS

WILL VOTE ON ISSUE OF $15,000 ON NOVEMBER 7, 11 AM. PROVE CEMETERY.

TAX IS VERY SMALL

Mayor Estimates That Increase in Rate Would Be Five-Eighths of a Cent.

In pursuance of instructions of the council passed at their meeting last night, H. H. Nutt, city attorney, is today drawing up the necessary papers for the election of bonds for the issuance of $15,000 worth of park and cemetery improvement bonds. The election will be held at the same time of the general election, November 7. The bonds will be used for the beautification of the Riverside cemetery along the lines recently indicated, the finishing of the fence, building a concrete chapel and rest room and laying out the grounds along the most advanced lines practiced by the landscape architects. In addition, a scenic drive will be constructed around through the low ground between the cemetery and the river, circling back through the cemetery. A landscape architect has predicted to the park board that this drive would prove the most beautiful and the most popular drive in this section of the state, besides greatly enhancing the beauty of the cemetery.

The work of beautifying the cemetery along these lines will probably cost less than $15,000, but that amount will be voted on in order to provide plenty of money for the work. Any surplus which is left after the cemetery is cared for will in all probability be devoted to the beautification of other city parks and to the construction of a children's playground at the Huff-McGregor park.

The cost of this bond issue, according to the figures of Mayor A. R. Britton will be an addition to the tax rate of five-eighths of a cent on the hundred dollars. This will affect the tax rate next year but not this year. The park board already has a tax of 2 3/4 cents on the $100 valuation to care for park bonds already voted on and the beautification of the parks and the addition to this necessary for the beautification of the cemetery is so negligible that the council seems that the issue will meet opposition to the plan will develop with the cost at these figures, is absurd. The council seemed to be solidly in favor of the issue.

The New Playerphone

Is not a talking machine, or a phonograph in the common usage of the word, but a new invention that actually re-creates all forms of music. It actually re-produces the voice and tone of a singer, or the instrumental performance exactly as the artist renders it. For this reason it is far superior to any other instrument on the market. It has absolutely no metallic sound, the sound chamber being constructed of the finest violin wood, rendering the tone as soft and sweet as that of the finest violins. The tone is rounder, fuller and richer, and re-voices the artists work more life-like and natural than any other instrument made.

We invite your inspection of the Playerphone, in comparison with all other instruments. Note the prices:

JAPAN TO RENEW PROTEST TO U. S.

Oriental Will Insist on Right to Own Lands in This Country.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Japan's purpose to renew after the European war her contention for the right of her people to emigrate to and to own land in the United States, suggested in a New York paper Tuesday by Baron Yoshio Sakurai, former finance minister to the Tokyo cabinet, was frankly admitted Wednesday at the Japanese embassy. Negotiations over these questions, which came to a deadlock two years ago, are not regarded by Japan as concluded, it was explained, but merely postponed.

The deadlock followed a long series of conferences between former Secretary Bryan and Baron Chinda, then the Japanese ambassador and an exchange of notes between the two governments over the alien land legislation enacted in California. After the state department officials had pointed out that the United States government could do no more than to seek to prevent such legislation and that persons affected by it had recourse to the federal courts, Japan closed the exchanges with a note saying her complaint had not been answered and resuming "for the present" further discussion of the issue.

It has been generally assumed that the issue would remain in abeyance until the next administration with the war, but until now no one, in a position to speak with authority has said so. There will be no formal discussion of the subject by the embassy, at least until the arrival of the new ambassador, Dr. Amoro Sato, who was appointed when Baron Chinda was transferred to London and who is expected to arrive in Washington in a few months.

The position of the Japanese government, according to informal statements by embassy officials, still is that restrictions on immigration and land holding are not only derogatory to her dignity, but are unjust under international law. Removal of these restrictions and extending "for the present" as Japan's third and final steps in her rise to statehood, the first two being the abolition of extra-territoriality and the negotiation of commercial equality treaties with the United States.

The embassy believes the renewed negotiations will be most friendly in character, officials declaring good relations with the United States are regarded as Japan's third and final steps in her rise to statehood, the first two being the abolition of extra-territoriality and the negotiation of commercial equality treaties with the United States.

While it is admitted that the present difficulties probably have put off this proposed $15,000,000 Japanese loan to China, it is said that Japan will take her share in the $50,000,000 loan proposed by the foreign minister to the group of English, French, Russian, Japanese and American banks. Japan is said to be more than able to take her share of this loan because of profits on munitions sold to the United States.

Japanese policy toward the proposed trade war after the war will be outlined here Friday with the visit of Baron Sakurai who is just back from the recent allied economic conference at Paris. The baron will be entertained at lunch by James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie peace endowment and by Governor Tokitomi Tanaka, the Japanese charge in this city. It is said to be deeply interested in the proposed trade war, as her competitors in the various states of the Pacific islands north of the equator, including the Carolinas and Marshall groups, which were seized from Germany early in the war, will be awarded to Japan, according to the embassy view at the peace conference. Already cable dispatches have shown Japanese schools, banks and steamship lines have been established there and every effort made to make them part of the island empire.

SMUGGLING ON MEXICO BORDER

Practice Constitutes a Serious Annoyance to the Customs Authorities.

Laredo, Texas, Sept. 29.—The enforcement of the Harrison narcotic law has caused such a recrudescence of smuggling activities on the border as to constitute a serious annoyance to the customs authorities, along this section of the border. Almost daily here the customs inspectors discover attempts to smuggle morphine, cocaine and other habit-forming drugs to the American side from Mexico. The smuggling of drugs are not the class which formerly smuggled megal and other forbidden commodities, but are mainly well dressed and outwardly respectable persons, although a few negroes have been caught with the incriminating vial or package of drugs concealed about their persons.

Every possible ruse to outwit the inspectors has been used. The drugs are of such value that even a small package is worth a great deal, and the smugglers have not attempted to pass in large quantities in any single case, although the aggregate would amount to a considerable sum.

Secreted in the toes of shoes, sewed into the lining of garments, hidden under hats and concealed in every possible way, the drugs are found by the vigilant inspectors and confiscated. Even the coffers of some of the suspects are searched and some times successful.

But with each new discovery the ingenuity of the smugglers is baffled and unless they attempt the aeroplane route they soon will be unable to slip any of the forbidden drugs the carefully guarded lines.

BORDER WAR CRY IS GUARDS PAPER

is Edited by Men Who at Home Occupy Editorial Position on Newspapers.

Laredo, Texas, Sept. 2.—Despite the arduous duties of camp life with numerous drills, hikes, studies and lectures national guardsmen along the Mexican border frequently seek an outlet for their platform of energy. The latest effort in this direction with the object of entertaining comrades in arms comprised in the publication of a newspaper bearing the title: The Border War Cry.

This publication, edited by men who have occupied responsible editorial positions on various newspapers, contains numerous articles "guaranteed not to be the truth," in other words "all the news unfit to print."

News that troops will soon leave for home stations to be mustered out of service and even six months extra pay, be permitted to keep all their equipment, including rifles, and carry firearms at all times thereafter in civil life.

Travel homeward to his in company cars de luxe with dinners amply provided with delicacies of the season at government expense.

No objection to soldiers taking girl friends north on troop trains; it being stipulated however, that no man below rank of sergeant can take more than two friends.

As an offset to the news of the regiments call, many articles follows stating that orders have been placed for the purchase of 600,000,000 cubic yards of bricks for building barracks, indicating an indefinite border service and that applicants for discharge will be court-martialed and given from five to twenty five years penal servitude, at Leavenworth. Even the chaplain does not escape the share part of the deconolastic writer. The publication of the soldiers is immensely enjoyed by civilians as well as the soldiery and well serves its purpose—providing amusement for an idle hour.

Oh! have I seen at some cathedral door
A laborer pausing in the dust and heat,
Lay down his burden and with reverent foot
Enter and cross himself, and on the floor
Kneel to repair his paternoster o'er;
Far off the voices of the world retreat.
The loud vociferations of the street
Become an indistinguishable roar.
So, as I enter here from day to day
And leave my burden at this minor gate,
Kneeling in prayer and not ashamed
To pray,
The tumult of the time disconsolate
To hushed and hushed, the voices cease away,
While the eternal ages watch and wait.

TEA AT BURNSIDE HOME FOR MISS MCGREGOR

A more than passing bit of sentiment was attached to the hospitality of Mrs. S. H. Burnside and Miss Alice Burnside in the Burnside home, an informal tea at the Burnside home Thursday afternoon, for the two families have been longtime friends and for additional members and it is a tribute to the bride-elect that those who know her best are so eager to do her honor. This tea Thursday was an additional formality, the guests coming and going as they chose, lingering for a chat with the members of the bride party, the brides forming the house party, along with the mother of the honoree, Mrs. W. M. McGreggor, Mrs. Carter McGreggor, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Mrs. Wade Walker, Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. Mark Walker, Mrs. Beckman, and the two hostesses.

In the dining room, Mrs. H. A. Allen and Mrs. C. E. McCutchen presided at the attractively arranged table and as they poured the beverage it was a pleasure to hear Margaret Burnside, younger daughter of the house, and Miss Mattie Ruth Corlett, Sandwiches were passed in attractive baskets and the lights were in yellow and white tones.

Music by Mrs. Mark Walker as well as various members of the house party, entertained the additional members. The guests were greeted at the door by little Miss Jeanette Walker. There were more than a hundred callers.

STANDARDS FOR COTTON GRADES

U. S. government offers to Loan These to States for Benefit of Producers.

Washington, D. C. Sept. 27.—To assist in bringing about more extensive use of the official cotton standards of the United States by growers in belt sales, the office of markets and rural organization of the U. S. department of agriculture is co-operating with the states relations service of the department in placing in the hands of county agents in the cotton producing sections sets of practical forms of the standards. The forms are furnished only after the agents have given satisfactory assurances that they will be kept in a place accessible to cotton growers in the care of a competent custodian who does not profit directly from trading in cotton.

More than 60 sets of the practical forms of the standards already have been shipped to county agents. It is expected that more than 100 will soon be placed in this way. Each set of the practical forms consists of the nine grades of white cotton. The sets remain the property of the United States government.

In arranging for the keeping of the standards in the counties the office of markets and rural organization has approved such agencies as banks, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, stores whose proprietors do not trade in cotton, etc.

The official cotton standards of the United States are used by practically every important spot market and exchange in the south, and it is the desire of the cotton specialists of the department of agriculture that the sales and purchases of cotton from time to time leaves the farmer's hands until it reaches these larger markets also shall be conducted on the basis of the standards. It is believed that the presence of a set of the practical forms in each county, where farmers may examine and become familiar with them, will be a valuable educative force in grading and will tend to bring about the substitution of methods of more exact classification in place of the approximations to grades now often employed in gin, street and warehouse sales.

With the forms of the standards in each reach for examination and comparison and the published reports of grade prices in the nearest important spot market available through daily papers, it should be possible for growers to arrive at a reasonably close valuation of a given grade of cotton. It is expected that some county agents will figure the local valuations from day to day for the different grades, taking into consideration the cost of handling cotton to the near-by spot market, and will bulletin the figures. The office of markets and rural organization will furnish such county agents from time to time quotations on the various official grades from the nearest important spot market, as well as from all spot markets designated under the cotton futures act.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles. Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me. At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing. I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health. If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years. At all drugists.

SOME DELAY ON NEW PIPE LINE

Material Has Not Arrived and Fuel Oil May Not Be Available

October 1

None of the four miles of three-inch pipe, ordered by the Pipeline Refining Company for their fuel oil pipe line, has as yet arrived, says N. Lawton, and some of the industrial outsiders of the city are predicting a bad way if the gas companies cut off the supply of gas promptly October 1. For instance, the light and water company, which has both a large oil tank at the power house, south of the city, has been halted on account of the inability to get an oil proof cement with which the inside of the tank is to be coated, and it will be some days before it can arrive. In case the gas is cut off promptly this will put the company in a tight place, even if they have all their boilers equipped to burn oil by that date. By Saturday it is hoped to have an oil burner under one boiler and to have oil under about half of their boilers by the date for cutting off of gas. Should the gas be cut off promptly at the date fixed the city will probably be partially in darkness and with an interrupted water supply. However, Mr. Lawton does not anticipate such an action by the gas companies, as he believes that the companies will carry the plants that have been using gas long enough for them to complete their preparations for using some other fuel.

ARE PROMOTING TRADE RELATIONS

Representatives of American Exporting Concerns Are Busy in Sweden

Associated Press Mail Correspondence.

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 29.—National representatives of American exporting concerns here are endeavoring to maintain trade relations between the United States and Sweden so as to be in position to take advantage of the permanent opportunities expected with the conclusion of European peace.

Prior to the war America played an almost negligible part in the trade of Sweden, export and import alike. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, imports from the United States into Sweden amounted to $1,943,300, and exports to Sweden were valued at $1,000,000. In the first three months of 1916 having amounted only to $1,213,590 against $1,943,300 in 1915. Although the figures are not available here it is said the trade of more recent months has shown a similar or even greater falling off. The Swedish government has adopted the policy of not amounting export or import figures during the war and it is regarded as a misdemeanor to ask for them. In February 1916 the imports from the United States amounted to a little more than $2,000,000 against more than $13,000,000 a year ago. In March the decline was from eighteen millions in 1915 to four millions in 1916.

Enormous as was the increase in American imports during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, the first six months of the 1916 fiscal year eclipsed former figures for a similar period by nearly $7,000,000.

England contended that these enormous imports from America meant one of two things—either that they were going to Germany through Sweden or were reflecting on the market here Swedish goods shipped to Germany. And so the blockade "lid" was put on hard and tight with the result that English naval authorities now supervise all cargoes coming over the Atlantic ocean.

Sweden maintains that much of the increased imports from America represented goods formerly bought through Hamburg, that avenue of trade having been definitely closed by the war. It was said also to be due to increased shipping facilities between America and the Scandinavian states, including the establishing of a direct line from Sweden to New York.

Having established this direct trade connection the American importers are anxious to maintain it and thus permanently eliminate Hamburg as a "middleman." The same condition exists with reference to American trade with Russia, much of it having formerly gone through the Hamburg gateway.

The Germans are admittedly anxious over this phase of the war situation. In the recent propaganda planned in Sweden it was acknowledged that the direct trade lines between Scandinavia and America, both north and south, constituted a menace to German trading in future. They further said that the Swedes must be convinced that their best interests lay in maintaining former trade relations with Germany and should be induced to "specialize" only in certain directions. There is no indication here, however, that the Swedes will do anything of the sort notwithstanding the fact that their present relations with Germany are most friendly and trading between the countries is decidedly brisk.

American business men who have carefully studied the situation with an eye to the future say that the very character of Swedish imports from Germany in normal times show the great opportunities that exist here for the extension of American trade. Just prior to the war Germany was the greatest exporter to Sweden, enjoying more than 25 per cent of the total business as against 23.8 per cent for Great Britain and only 7.84 per cent for the United States. And these were the chief Swedish imports from Germany.

Coffee, cotton, tobacco, wheat and other cereals, wool and woolen goods, copper, dyes, chemicals, ready-made clothes, and various industrial products.

One glance at this list will show that most of the German exports came from overseas and were merely "handled" through Hamburg. Much of the wheat and other cereals came through Germany from Russia. Since the war began Sweden has established closed railroad connections with Russia so again the German middleman has been eliminated.

Holding the second position in world trade as an exporter to Sweden, Great Britain sent to this country, coal, cotton, copper, wool, yarns, oil machinery, rubber—another list offering opportunities for much direct American trade. Only Germany, France and Italy before the war brought more coal from England than Sweden. Now Sweden is getting her great supplies of coal from Germany. Sweden has been bought from America, but normally have consisted of cotton, mineral oils, copper, grain, bacon, fertilizers and machinery. Some coal has been bought from America but normally this would come from the near fields in England and Germany. With this exception and possibly that of tin and rubber, the Americans here declare their country is in a position to supply all Sweden's needs.

How this market has been neglected

ed by Americans in the past is evidenced by the fact that from 1896 to 1900 the United States had but 1.17 per cent of the Swedish import trade. From 1901 to 1905 the percentage was 2.99. In the next five years it had increased to 6.44 and then to 7.84. Just prior to the outbreak of the war, in 1914, the percentage was 23.8 per cent. During the fiscal years 1913 and 1914 American exports to Sweden averaged a little more than $7,373,818.

For 1915 they jumped to $78,373,818. While the total figures favor Germany as normally the leader in Swedish trade, Great Britain prior to the war was the greatest buyer in the Swedish market, paying 29.1 per cent of the output. Germany was next with 20.12 per cent and the United States was sixth with only 3.66 per cent. At one time Great Britain enjoyed nearly one-half the Swedish trade but there has been a steady reduction in recent years. The exports to the United States heretofore have consisted chiefly of paper, wood pulp, partly manufactured iron goods and iron ore. Sweden has sent similar products to Germany and Great Britain together with great quantities of timber and foodstuffs.

One of the developments of the war has been to enormously increase the trade of Sweden with Russia. America also has shared heavily in the Russian market, which had been virtually controlled for twelve years by Germany. But now a new and formidable factor has entered the field. Through her new alliance with Russia, Japan, it is realized here, occupies a most favorable position and may eventually take the place in Russian trade formerly occupied by Germany. Japan already has sent commercial missions into the field.

HUDSON SUPER-SIX BREAKS OCEAN TO OCEAN RECORD

The most coveted of all, the one that tests a car's endurance above all others, is the transcontinental race against time from San Francisco to New York.

The record is now held by the Hudson Super-Six Touring Car. It comes as the crowning achievement of the Hudson Super-Six, in speed, acceleration and endurance. There remain no other worlds to conquer to demonstrate the endurance, speed, and power of the Super-Six.

Last May a Cadillac "57" made the trip from coast to coast in 7 days, 11 hours, 53 minutes.

The record then considered unbeatable was lowered four weeks ago by a Marmon, which made the trip in 6 days, 15 1/2 hours.

The Hudson Super-Six made the trip in 5 days, 3 hours and 59 minutes, beating the Marmon time by 15 hours and 53 minutes.

A 7-passenger phaeton model was used by the Hudson. Both Cadillac and Marmon used roadster models. Hudson did not seem to reuse its car, in fact, at all times it carried 3, and sometimes 4 passengers were carried, as well as baggage, which brought the weight of the car, loaded, up to a preliminary 5,000 pounds.

Three drivers piloted the car in this great contest of endurance. A. H.

Patterson, the Hudson dealer at Stockton, California, started the trip, driving from San Francisco to Elko, Nev., 575 miles. To a schedule called for the completion of the trip into New York in 5 days and 10 hours, Patterson climbed over the Sierra Nevada mountains, crossing the divide at an altitude of almost 9,000 feet, and cut his schedule 6 1/2 hours.

At Elko Ralph Mulford took the wheel, and for 36 hours drove across the desert. He said the terrible monotony of the drive, the glare of the sun and the dust was more exhausting than his 24-hour drive, when he made the world's record in the Hudson Super-Six chassis, traveling 1819 miles.

Patterson again took the wheel at Pahrump, Nev., and drove the Super-Six over the Rocky Mountain Range and across Nebraska and into Omaha. The car left Omaha with Mulford driving 8 hours ahead of her time.

In Iowa Mulford came over the brow of a hill at 50 miles an hour and saw dead ahead of him a bridge, on which a hard of cattle blocked the way. He had to decide quickly whether he should go over the embankment into inevitable death, or take the chance of running into the cattle. He chose the latter course, and in a few moments he had crossed the bridge.

Now the Hudson holds the transcontinental record, the 24-hour record, the world's greatest hill climb, the record for having traveled the greatest distance with fully equipped 7-passenger car carrying 5 passengers, and the fastest mile over a measured course for a stock chassis.

And now it holds similar record in all local communities where it has contested. It has never failed to make good in any contest in which it has been entered. When the 24-hour record was established, we made but one attempt and went through with it. Other cars have unsuccessfully attempted, since the Super-Six established the 24-hour record, to beat that time. They have not finished.

MAN ARRESTED FOR GIVING BAD CHECK

A man was arrested last night by Officer Pitchford and Rawls on complaint from Jones-Kennedy that he had given them a bad check for $75 in payment for a cloak that he had bought for woman in the flats. The check was on a bank in Ryan, Okla., in which he had recently deposited $10 and immediately drawn it out again. However, he showed a deposit slip for $110 when giving the check, the police thinking that he merely added an extra figure one to the slip. The cloak was never delivered by Jones-Kennedy, that firm holding the cloak on a pretense of altering the check while they investigated the

While politicians are picturing dismal conditions that will result in this country at the end of the war because the European countries will flood the country with goods made by cheap labor, the manufacturers of the Pittsburgh district are joining in a movement to prevent their high priced labor from leaving their jobs in America to secure higher wages in Europe after the war is ended.

USEFUL AND PATRIOTIC CITIZENS The Jewish New Year at hand but again recalls the activity of that people in the affairs of the world, with every thing done by them to their credit.

The spectacle of so many of the racing members of a division of the United States army as to call for special services during the holiday universally observed by the Jews, is witnessed locally. During the progress of the European war there is no race of people who have suffered more than have the Jews, yet a legion published a short time ago by the Hebrew society of New York showed the large number of Jews fighting in the armies, most of these going patriotically to the Russian army and fighting for the defense of that country.

At this season there is brought to attention of the people of other churches the thorough devotion of the Hebrew people to their religion, such devotion as to command the respect and admiration of all—Austin American.

THINKING AS AN ART

Consecutive thinking is difficult for everyone, impossible for many. Perhaps, even newspaper editorial columns do not encourage it as much as they might. To hold a problem for the mind a quarter of an hour, observing all sides and considering different expedients, is an intellectual feat comparable with the physical one of carrying a sphere while rolling it across a stage.

Let a man of thirty, who has not previously tried it, sit in the train and endeavor to hold in his mind upon a subject which absorbs nearly all his natural interest. Suppose he tries to think out the possible causes of the European war. Or suppose he tries to compare, in an unprejudiced way, the makes of automobiles with which he is familiar.

It is easy to keep thought plied down to problems of immediate and pressing necessity; the whole night is sometimes eaten up by worry over a day. It is also easy to concentrate upon any activity which has the elements of a game. Chess cards, a problem in mathematics, the plans for a new house—let the intellect once taste blood and it follows these to the death.

Report From Dallas Shows Results Obtained From Similar Ordinance

"Practically all of the dairies supplying the city with milk have obtained permits to do business under the new ordinance, and the enforcement of the ordinance is going along smoothly," says Dr. J. T. Traylor, food and dairy inspector. With the reduction of the fee charged by the city for the tuberculin test to such a figure that it could not conceivably work a hardship on any dairyman, it does not seem a thing in the way to the compliance with the ordinance with perfect harmony between the city and the dairymen.

"According to Mr. Saville out of 850 cows in dairy herds supplying Dallas with milk, tuberculin tests this fall show only twenty-one or 2.5 per cent, were found to be infected with the disease. "At the same time last year, when the ordinance was first put in effect, 160 out of a group of the same size, or 18.8 per cent, were found infected. All cows reacting to the tuberculin test are killed at once.

PRONOUNCE RATES REVOLUTIONARY

LOCAL RAILROAD OFFICIALS DECLARE ACTION OF INTERSTATE COM. RADICAL

INSTANCE IS CITED

Allege That Some Rates Are Even More Than Those Asked by the Railroads.

The new schedule of Texas line tariffs, which have just been promulgated in pursuance of the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Shreveport rate case decision, have been the subject of local railroad officials, and after an examination of them, local railroad men declare that they present the most revolutionary and sweeping rate changes that have ever been known in the railroad history of the country. Besides absolutely ignoring the rates promulgated by the Texas railroad commission on intrastate traffic, the new schedule sweeps away every vestige of protection accorded to Texas manufacturers and shippers in the way of preferential rates. According to one railroad official, local manufacturing and jobbing enterprises, in common with those in other cities within the Texas common point territory, have been dealt a jolt like that of which they have not received in many a day, and in some lines of traffic the rate may mean driving them out of business.

In a number of cases the raises in freight rates on the new schedule will amount to in the neighborhood of 75 per cent and fifteen and twenty per cent raises are so common as not to be in any way remarkable. Inasmuch as the railroads of this state only asked for a five per cent increase from the state commission two years ago, this is to put it in the words of one railroad man, "going rather strong."

All these rates, it is said, merely mean that the legal battle that has been waged since the promulgation of the Shreveport decision will be expanded into one of the most epoch making legal fights since the beginning of railroad transportation. It is an instance of what this will mean to the flour milling interests of the state, the old rate on grain was 15 cents in the case of wheat, and 12 1/2 cents in the case of corn. The Texas commission had agreed to make a raise to 17 1/2 and 15 cents respectively, but the Interstate Commission raised it to 17 and 17 cents respectively. In the case of window glass, which took a commodity rate, the old rate was 15 cents, the Texas commission raised it to 17 cents, while the Interstate Commission raises it to 24 in their new order.

The class rates, under which most of the jobbers ship less than carload lots, have experienced similar raises. The application of the new rates is on all interstate traffic, and between all points in Texas where the shipment moves, and in 17 other states on all interstate shipments in Texas common point territory.

The Texas rates are governed by Western classification, the Texas classification having been abolished.

INTERVENTION IS MEXICAN'S VIEW

Former Villa Officer at Dallas Discusses Situation Across the Border.

Dallas, Sept. 29.—Dr. Antonio Villareal, formerly chief surgeon in General Villa's army in Mexico, is at the Adolphus Hotel. In an interview this morning he commented on conditions in his country and predicted that the United States intervention is bound to come soon.

Dr. Villareal left Mexico about a year ago, when Carranza was recognized by the United States. He has lived in El Paso since that time. He said that he is in Dallas for a holiday and to see the city for the first time.

"One great problem the commission will accomplish nothing," Dr. Villareal said, "intervention is the only solution, and it is bound to come soon. The better class of Mexicans would welcome the kind of intervention that the United States would bring about, for, as I understand it, the United States is not trying to take our territory, but would only try to stabilize the government."

"I have very little confidence in Carranza's promises," he said. "One time he promises amnesty to former opponents and the next thing he is prosecuting some of them."

"One great problem in the way of settling conditions in Mexico is the financial problem. Carranza's money is worth almost nothing, and foreign capital has left the country. Unless he can get a loan here and guarantee foreign capital protection, I can't see how he can succeed."

Villareal is a wonderfully strong personality. He is a man without culture, but of great force, and while he does many bad things, he is a great leader of the masses. He is likely to come back, and if he does intervention from this side is sure to come.

"The intellectual people and the rich people of Mexico are out of the country. Many are in El Paso, but most of them are in Los Angeles."

"Mexican money spent in El Paso has been a great aid to business. This is my first visit to Dallas. I am surprised at the growth of all the Texas cities I have seen."

"I have the misfortune to have a brother in jail in Mexico. He used to be Minister of Finance."

BROWNVILLE 'ATTACKED' IN WAR MANEUVER

Brownville, Tex., Sept. 29.—Approximately 11,000 soldiers, members of the National Guard stationed here, swarmed through the streets here last night after a "surprise attack" had been made on the city by the First Illinois Cavalry, after what was said to be one of the most comprehensive military maneuvers held here in less than an hour. The streets of Brownville were filled with soldiers, including cavalry, infantry, machine gun corps, and hospital corps. The attack was considered successful and Brownville was technically captured. The civilian population, accustomed to border excitement, was given an unusual thrill.

Enjoyment of Food.

There is a mistaken notion that the hygiene of food means "giving up all the things that taste good." While it is true that in many cases, sacrifices have to be made, the net result of reforming one's diet is not to diminish, but to increase the enjoyment of food. In general, it is extremely unhygienic to eat foods which are not relished. Experiments by Pavlov and others have shown that the taste and enjoyment of food stimulate the flow of digestive juices.

Painting on Silk, Satin or Velvet.

To paint on silk, satin and velvet in water colors, use the colors in the ordinary water colors in the usual way, but instead of water use gum arabic dissolved in a little warm water. The liquid should not be too thin. Use Chinese white to make the colors lighter if necessary, after they are mixed with the solution. Care should be taken not to have too much color on the brush otherwise the paint will run into the silk.

Results of Candor.

Candor is a delightful thing. A Glasgow magistrate in the marine police court got a staggering example of it the other day when he demurred at giving a prisoner an extension of time to help the payment of a fine. The prisoner was indignant at the refusal. "For 50 years past," he declared, "I've paid my fines regularly, and I think I'm entitled to a little consideration!" He got it!

Do Things Worth While.

Spend not your time in that which profits not; for your labor and your health, your time and your studies, are very valuable; and it is a thousand pities to see a diligent and hopeful person spend himself in gathering cockle-shells and little pebbles, in telling sands upon the shores, and making garlands of useless daisies.—Jeremy Taylor.

All to the Good.

He was suddenly somewhat smitten by a recognition of some good quality in the woman. Perhaps after all, he had been a bit hard upon her. So, with a touch of repentance, he said: "She wouldn't be so bad—if she had any education—and some breeding—and was better looking—and knew how to dress at all." It is, of course, these little touches that count.

The Stars.

There is no room for reasonable doubt about the claim of the astronomers that they "know perfectly well what the stars are made of." The instrument by the aid of which the substance of the stars is determined is called the "spectroscope," and its findings are almost infallible.

Victory in Bravery.

All work of man is as the swimmer's. A waste ocean threatens to devour him. If he front it not bravely it will keep its word. By incessant wise defiance of it, lusty rebuke and buffet of it, behold how loyally it supports him—beams him as its conqueror along.—Thomas Carlyle.

Example Counts for Much.

Example has more followers than reason. We unconsciously imitate what pleases us, and approximate to the characters we most admire. A generous habit of thought and action carries with it an incalculable influence.—Bovee.

Use of Metals as Money.

The use of metals as money is not of recent origin, but has gradually superseded other mediums. As the varied activities of human life developed it was necessary that money for common use should be a substance convenient to handle.

Daily Thought.

There is a tremendous difference between the selfishness or thoughtlessness practiced by the young and the selfishness which old age has made it settled and deliberate habit.—Beatrice Harraden.

Worth Knowing.

The Constitution requires a general census every ten years. The first was taken in 1790. The cost of taking this census is paid by the United States government, not by the state governments. REPORTS DIFFER AS TO TROOP MOVEMENTS
Washington, Sept. 29.—General Funston's official report to the War Department of the national guards organizations to be sent to home stations for mustering out, differs from border dispatches in showing that the Second Massachusetts Infantry and not the Second Massachusetts field infantry is included. That the Second and not the First Montana infantry has been ordered north and that New Jersey troops to be ordered north includes the First Squadron and First Cavalry, less Battery C of New York Cavalry.

EXPECT HEAVY GOLD EXPORTS

Such Conditions is Predicted Following War by Paul M. Warburg

By Associated Press.
Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 29.—Heavy exports of gold from this country to Europe may follow the close of the European war. This declaration was made here today by Paul M. Warburg, vice-governor of the Federal Reserve Board in his address before the American Bankers Association.

"Foreign loans in the old and the new world may attract our capital at interest rates far in excess of our own," he said, discussing the coming of peace. "Our exports will have to meet the keen competition of other nations, and which, the purchasing power of many a nation will be found materially reduced, even though in the beginning probably there will be a strong demand for certain of our raw materials."

"These conditions which in the long run may be the cause of heavy gold exports from the United States and which, if we remain unprepared, may prove a serious check on us, on the other hand, we foresee, we will be given the opportunity of taking our place as the world's bankers and furnish the basis of a solid expansion of our business."

Mr. Warburg appealed to the bankers to "forearm" the Federal Reserve banks and by letting go some of the gold in their vaults.

"Keep all the gold in your vaults where it is useless for ourselves and deprive of the additional force that it may gain in the hands of the Federal Reserve banks, keep every cash still in hotels, railroad stations, grocery stores and what not filled with gold certificates and you will rob the country of its legitimate opportunities of growth of helping the world."

He cited figures to show that the excess lending power of the Federal Reserve banks is $200,000,000 if loans are taken in "lawful" money and $501,525,250 if the loans are taken in Federal Reserve notes. He advocated speedy retirement of national bank notes in favor of reserve notes in order to obtain "currency that is elastic." The Federal Reserve act should be perfected, he said, in various details, although he is "profoundly convinced that the Federal Reserve act will prove one of the most constructive contributions ever made by Congress and the further the system develops, the more apparent will this become."

Mr. Warburg's address went into detail in discussion of the technical side of banking, taking up an advocate of the following:

"That all reserve funds should be kept on deposit with the reserve banks."

"The concentration of all gold in the Federal Reserve banks."

"The issue of Federal Reserve notes against a 100 per cent reserve gold."

"The repeal of laws fixing maximum interest rates and the enactment of laws punishing extortion."

"The placing of control over bank examinations and the gathering of statistics with the Federal Reserve Board, instead of the comptroller of currency."

LOCAL BANKER HAS RETURNED FROM MEETING

"One of the most imposing nights I have ever seen was when R. A. Long the millionaire lumberman of Kansas City entertained the 5,000 bankers in attendance on the national convention of the American Bankers Association at Junction at Logview, his country estate," said C. W. Reid, who has just returned from the convention. "The bankers were carried to the estate in 1000 cars furnished for the occasion by residents of Kansas City," said Mr. Reid. "There was not a hired car in the bunch. They certainly made a sight to see as they stood parked around the half mile race track on the estate."

Mr. Reid does not expect the main convention to take any action on the proposition of the country bankers to ask Congress for permission to make a charge on clearings under the Federal Reserve system. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Snider and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ferguson are still in attendance at Kansas City, said Mr. Reid.

 The Empress
 "The Devil at Elm Elbow," a wonder play in which Clifford Bruce and Dorothy Green are starred, is the big feature attraction at the Empress theatre today in this feature, which was produced by the Famous Players and Laskers. Mr. Bruce has the role of a mechanical engineer who has a contract with the government to complete plans for a new type of submarine. He fails when an accident in heavy drilling in order to get out his plans on time. Miss Green plays the part of a girl of the street. How both are instrumental in reclaiming the oil, and the unselfishness in the finale, makes one of the most dramatic stories of its kind ever shown on the screen. There is an edging supporting cast, which includes Edward Martindel, Mary Sandway, J. K. Roberts, Adolph Menjou, Frank Mc Donald and others. Burton King directed the production of "The Devil at Elm Elbow," and Harry Hevier supervised its direction.

PLAN SUGGESTED TO AVOID STRIKE
 Service Record Would Be Kept Upon Which Promotions Would Be Based.
 New York, Sept. 29.—An enlistment under contract for a stated term by railroad employees is the essential feature of a plan for the prevention of railroad strikes advocated by the Merchant's Association of New York. The association will ask the "Chamber of Commerce of the United States" to submit the proposal to a vote of the members. Resolutions adopted by the association contained the following: "Resolved, that the tenure of service of employees of public service corporations, particularly of transportation corporations, should be regulated by agreement in such manner that each person who voluntarily elects to enter such employment shall, as a condition of such employment, be legally obligated to continue therefor for a specified term, during which term he may not lawfully quit that employment, nor the corporation lawfully discharge him, except as provided by such contract; and that such contract shall provide adequate penalties for the violation of its terms."
 Henry B. Towse, a former president of the Merchant's association, who drafted the plan, in presenting it called attention to the fact that during the week of August, when the four railway-brotherhoods threatened to halt the commerce of the United States by a general strike.
 "That such a situation could develop is due chiefly to two causes, namely: (1) The growth in number, size and importance of the community of public utility corporations, and in the coincident and almost equal growth in numbers, power and influence, both for good and for evil, of organized labor."
 For the members of any group to claim or seek the right to inflict vital injury upon all the rest of the community would in effect be tantamount to a declaration that such members were not loyal citizens of the State, but public enemies.
 Here is the contract system the Merchant's association advocates:
 1. An enlistment or enrollment contract for a stated term, not longer than a probationary period, in the case of a new employee, removal by mutual agreement at the end of term, in the case of an old employee.
 2. A "Service Record" of each employee to be kept.
 3. Preference in promotions and retention in the service to be based on such records.
 4. Penalties for the violation of the contract by either party to consist of cash fines.
 5. Fines against company to be collected from a fund created by the company out of a trust.
 6. Fines against an employee to be collected from a fund created by the company's retaining, say 20 per cent of his wages until the fund equals two weeks' wages (would require ten weeks). The company to pay the interest at 8 per cent on this fund and repay it when the employee leaves the service as prescribed in the contract or dies. The fund to be in the custody of a trustee.
 7. Schedule of fines to be fixed by law and stated in the contract.
 8. Assessment of fines to be determined: (a) By mutual consent; (b) By joint board of award, duly appointed; (c) By public service commission on appeal. (d) By legal process.
 9. The company to have the right to terminate the contract:
 (a) Because of misconduct by the employee. "Misconduct" to be defined by law and in the contract, and also the fines attaching thereto.
 (b) Because of slack business or excess of help. In this case the employee to receive 30 days notice, or two weeks' pay and immediate release.
 (c) Because of disability or superannuation of employee, on stated notice, if any, as may exist.
 10. The employee to have the right to terminate the contract:
 (a) Because of valid family or personal necessity. In which case, honorable discharge without penalty.
 (b) Because of sickness or of unfavorable effect upon health.
 (c) For cause not stated, upon fair notice, say 30 days, without penalty.
 11. Violation of the contract by the company to be established, to subject it to stated fines, payable to employee from the funds vested in a trustee.
 12. Violation by the employee, if duly established, to subject him to fines collectible by the company from the fund held for that purpose by a trustee, and also, under specified conditions, to forfeiture of wages earned but not yet paid.
 13. The company to recognize the right of the employee to membership in any lawful organization, and not to discriminate against him on such account.
 14. The employee to respect the right of the public to uninterrupted service, and not to combine with others to cause its interruption.
 15. The employee to have the right, alone or in combination with others, to request concessions in wages, hours, work, or conditions of service from the company, and the company to give prompt and fair consideration to all such requests when properly presented, and not to discriminate against any employee because of participation therein.
 16. The employee to have the right to appeal from acts or decisions of the company to a "joint board of award," constituted under the law by joint action of the company and its employees as a board of arbitration.
 17. The company and its employees to have the right to apply from the rulings of the "joint board" to an appropriate federal or State commission, whose decisions shall be conclusive and binding, and until reversed by a court decision.
 18. During the term of any contract, the company and an employee to be discharged of the company (except as provided in No. 10, above) to be constituted an offense at law, and to be punishable as the law may prescribe.
 "The foregoing merely sets an outline of the most essential features of the proposed contractual relationship between the company and each of its employees. The exact details of the same," says "it does not pretend to be comprehensive, or final. Probably many variations would be needed to meet the many varying conditions existing in various localities and in the various public utilities."

IS PROFITABLE FOR A WICHITA COUNTY FARMER
 As a result of this year's bumper crop, John Starnadel, who came to this section about ten years ago, says most directly from Arabia is the owner of a 222-acre farm five miles south of town. Mr. Starnadel has just sold $200 worth of cotton raised on forty acres of land, and has more to be picked from the same forty acres. In addition to that, his other crops have panned out in a very satisfactory manner.
 Prosperity Points For Farmers.
 In the interest of further development and upbuilding the territory through which their lines are operated, the Fort Worth & Denver City and Wichita Valley Railway Companies have issued an attractive thirty-page booklet entitled "Prosperity Points for Farmers" and containing valuable information regarding soil conditions and the money-making crops to which same is best adapted as grown through the production of the bumper bumper crops which have produced generally prosperous conditions and are constantly making it possible for "Rome" to become a prosperous home owners. A few of these booklets are still available for those whom it may be possible to interest in the question of locating in Northwest Texas. If, therefore, you have any friends that you desire to interest, and will send their names and addresses, we will be glad to mail them copies of the issue referred to. If you have friends to whom you would like to send copies of itself instead of writing, we will be glad to send you the booklet desired free of cost.

GOOD ROADS ARE A NECESSITY SAYS WRITER
 Editor Daily Times.
 Being a reader of your daily paper, I noticed recently that the Auto Club in your city has taken up the question of good roads. A recent trip of the writer to Houston and back gives me reason to believe that good roads are a necessity.
 During this trip we encountered many pieces of good roads, also some of the very worst. The latter near your own city, in coming from Henrietta we encountered the very worst piece of road during the whole trip. With the mountains of rock near this road and a portable rock crusher it is a wonder the tax payers do not make the above road at least passable. The finest stretch of road between here and Houston is without doubt that portion from the town west to Waco. This is an asphalt pike and as smooth as a floor for perhaps 25 miles. There is also some nice roads between Fort Worth and Cleburne. Even the deep sand between Calvert and Navasota is not so hard on an auto as the rough places between Wichita and Henrietta. Many of the counties south are improving the highways with gravel, but they are too narrow and crowned to high making it difficult to keep a car on the top where it is smooth.
 My short experience with driving teaches me one thing, good roads are a necessity and must come. De-way with the bridges, put in crossings to stay forever and do away with the mud on the end of the wooden bridges.
 Two county seat towns located near as Wichita and Henrietta should have a splendid road connection. The jobs out on this road should be raised at least five feet to keep it above the flood water. With the immense amount of rock so near this would not be an expensive undertaking.

NOT ALL VICTIMS WEAR SAD FACES

Cheer is Freely Distributed by Many Who Have Been Wounded in War. Associated Press Mail Correspondent. London—Notwithstanding the well known fact that the number of wounded soldiers who are discharged from the front is steadily increasing, it is not true that the majority of these men are sad and dejected. Most of those who have returned from the front are cheerful and contented. Many of them are even happy. The reason for this is that the wounded soldiers are being treated in the best possible manner. They are given the best medical care and are being rehabilitated as quickly as possible. Many of them are being sent home to their families and are being reunited with their loved ones. This is a great source of comfort and happiness for them. The fact that they have been wounded does not mean that they are any less capable or any less brave. They are still men and they still have a lot to live for. They are being treated as heroes and are being given the respect and honor that they deserve. This is a great source of pride and satisfaction for them. They are being given the best of everything and are being treated as if they were still in the front. This is a great source of comfort and happiness for them. They are being given the best of everything and are being treated as if they were still in the front. GORGEOUS DISPLAY OF FASHIONS FANCIES

FALL STYLES ARE VIEWED BY A THROG

MOST SUCCESSFUL STYLE SHOW IN HISTORY OF CITY WAS HELD LAST EVENING AND WITNESSED BY THOUSANDS.

MANY VISITORS

Business Men Joined Heartily in Contributing to Event That is History Making in Wichita Falls.

Viewed even in the "cold grey dawn of the morning after the Second Annual Fall Style Show of Wichita Falls must be declared an unqualified success. In attendance would be too conservative an estimate to put on the crowd that filled the sidewalks and pavement from 7:30 until 9:30 and even later and a thousand or more of these were out to town folks, for on Tuesday evening all roads led to Wichita Falls, inasmuch for the time being, of fashion for Wichita county being held at the scheduled time when the curtains of the windows went up and the doors of the stores were opened to the waiting multitudes.

The crowd was even larger than that of the two previous style shows, when it seemed that the streets would scarcely hold them and even though there was such a jam they got by foot ball tactics were necessarily resorted to, it was a well merited crowd and at no time was there anything bordering on rudeness of conduct.

The merchants are all delighted by every measure at the success of the affair and the stores which have been lavishly decorated will retain their gaily attire for the entire week. Special displays are made and the local people as well as the out of town folks are invited to come down for a visit of inspection, preliminary to the window buying.

The W. C. T. U. following the custom established at the Spring Style Show last March, furnished for the majority of the firms of the city and some especially attractive windows were arranged by these ladies.

There has never been before in the history of the town a more beautiful collection of window displays, taken as a whole and these windows were objects of much complimentary admiration from the thousands congregated downtown.

Adding to the general brilliancy of the style show were the illuminated cars of the Chenault and Wheat Agency which paraded downtown until the closing hour. The colored electric lights outlined the cars and provided pleasing spectacles.

Live Models a Feature. In a majority of the shops live models displayed the feature. Dresses, suits and coats in a manner most attractive.

W. B. McClurkin Co. At the McClurkin Co store a broad promenade was arranged through the center of the building and room left on either side to partially accommodate the throngs of spectators. There were six models used at this store, including one modeling stout ladies' frocks and suits and a young miss of the teen age to display the Junior stock. The garments all bore a number which was found in the catalogue, one distributed which gave a description of the goods modeled and also the price, enabling those in attendance to get a practical idea of the garments.

Among the many handsome coats worn was one of costume velvet, a Fischel model in black. The bottom of the skirt was trimmed with squirrel was the collar and cuffs. The lining was of electric blue chamoisee. Another handsome coat was a black with velvet, also a Fischel model with the new ripple collar. It was fur trimmed and lined with a fancy flowered satin. A coat in the new green as much liked was of bolivia cloth trimmed with fox fur. The dresses shown were all handsome. The new types attracting much favorable comment were the Mary Pickford dress and the Theda Bara frock, designed to pay tribute to the popular motion picture actresses. Suits shown were beautiful and the popular priced one as well as the more expensive bore the same features which marked them distinctive of cut and finish.

The Pennington Store. The most attractive feature of this store's display. The long south window was decorated with backgrounds of simulated gray Carrara marble columns in the center of which was a marble throne. Seated on the throne was the Queen of Fashion in royal purple velvet robes and a gem set gold crown. The accents before fashion's throne shifted as the approved styles in coat suits, dresses, dress coats, sport coats and separate skirts and waists were displayed on the forms of attractive live models. An effective light arrangement enhanced the attractiveness of the display and the beautiful arrangement of the window and the fashionable garments displayed pleased the large throngs of people who packed the sidewalk very much indeed. Much praise is being given to Chas. Hill, manager, and Rudolph mel, decorator for the planning and execution of this display. The other also announces that the model parade will be repeated tonight between the hours of 8 and 9.

The Baum-Gardner Store. The windows of the Baum-Gardner store devoted to women's wearing apparel resembled nothing so much as a parade of fashion. The store was filled with those who are known to be dear to women throughout the country. The central window contained a striking fur coat and two dresses which were no less than creations and which beggar description. The millinery window was equally effective, the arrangement being blended with the true skill of the artist so that the whole made a composite, harmonizing picture. The interior of the shop was equally as attractive, the accessories and evening gowns and suits and coats displayed on wax figures.

Gildhouse Fashion Store. The Gildhouse Fashion Store's symphonies in autumnal green, arranged with careful eye toward effectiveness. There was a handsome dress green lined with an equally beautiful green coat, lavishly trimmed with fur in one window. The millinery window contained a miniature lake, banked with green and powers, which reflected the two exquisite hats which were displayed.

Perkins-Timberlake. The windows of this store were attractive and entertaining to the striking outside while those who could find room in the store yesterday entered with a parade of live models. Many handsome afternoon and reception gowns were worn, one of the most striking being a blue charmeuse cut on sweeping lines. The deep collar was hand with beaver as were the cuffs and the full skirt was bordered with a wide band of beaver. Another handsome dress on which fur was a feature was a castor Georgette crepe belted and hand with six inch beaver bands and trimmed with large buttons of the same ilk. The evening gown worn attracted much favorable attention also, one of these being a black tulle of striking design. A gold tissue frock, hand with silver lace and draped with rainbow tulle was worn with splendid effect by a dainty blonde model. The suits worn displayed the modes of the moment, long skirted cloaks, fur trimmings and accented waist effects. The coats worn were in the newest-cut of velvet, richly trimmed with fur and ornamental buttons.

Olive A. Child. The windows of the Olive A. Child Millinery parlors attracted an admiration from the thousands who were very attractive and displaying a number of highly striking hats, imported model copies of the latest extreme turn and shape, also in the new colors.

P. B. M. The P. B. M. windows were the eyesore of hundreds and hundreds, of eyes during the entire two hours of the opening last night, the living models attracting much attention. The automaton, C. R. Yauger of Wilburg Wood company was in the north window displaying men's clothes and in the south window the ladies and children's models held sway. The children's clothing was modeled by Baby Orr, a little miss who has gained quite a reputation as a singer and impersonator. The other models were girls in the store. The colored electric lights were decorated for the occasion and was made a thing of beauty.

The color scheme was gold with everything in harmony, upstairs, downstairs and in the window. While all possible packed the upstairs to watch the model parade others watched from the packed sidewalk while the models were in the window. A feature that caused much amusement were the twin Bell boys, little lads who were dressed in humorous style to advertise the quick service of P. B. M. The coats, dresses and suits modeled were of the handomest and from shoes to hats the P. B. M. stock was exemplified.

The evening costumes worn by the models were noticeably beautiful, one of turquoise and cloth of silver being worn with a silver dancing cap and slippers and hose, another costume was carried out entirely in cloth of gold.

Jeza Dickson Millinery Shop. Exclusiveness was the keynote of this shop for the style show. Just a very few of the model hats to correspond with the background and the ivory stands were displayed in the windows and in the parlor itself an equally artistic display was noted, with flowers all about. The hats shown this season are beautiful, whether models or products of the Dickson workshop.

The Colonna Toggery. Live models in this shop enhanced the natural beauty of the fabrics and added to the charm of the designs. The windows were effectively decorated and inside the models paraded wearing handsome suits, afternoon gowns and evening dresses. Especially was the display of evening gowns elaborate. One pink satin gown lined and unbordered with silver threads was made a with novel draped skirt. The bodice was of tulle, with silver embroidery over the shoulders. Other gowns in yellow, green, white and silver tulle were elaborately trimmed with metallic embroidery, beads or lace and tulle. The suits were all elaborately trimmed and some coats that were beautiful indeed were shown. The hats displayed were many of them elaborate in design and trim, with parasols as a leading favorite.

Jones Kennedy. Fur and heavy winter coats in the Jones-Kennedy windows gave suggestion of the winter weather that will soon be coming and also served to demonstrate the particular beauty of the coming season's modes. Both in

STATE MUST PAY MORE FOR STATIONERY

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Sept. 27.—Because of the scarcity and high price of white paper, the state of Texas will have to pay probably for the next two years from 10 to 15 per cent more for its stationery, blank books, pamphlets, legislative bills and resolutions, etc., and this percentage may yet go higher. Contracts just made by the state printing board with the local printing houses carried a proviso that the prices are subject to adjustment every six months, which is the first time in the history of the state that such a provision has been made. The contracts for two years aggregated $240,000, which is nearly $40,000 more than for the former years. In the event the European war should terminate it is confidently expected that the price of white paper will immediately take a drop.

NO REST IS BEING GIVEN THE GERMANS

FRANCO-BRITISH FORCES ARE TAKING ADVANTAGE OF THE GROUND GAINED IN THE BATTLE ON THE SOMME FRONT.

TAKE OVER 60,000

This Number of Prisoners Have Been Captured By the Allied Troops Who Some 100 Square Miles of Territory Gained.

The Associated Press summarizes the war situation as follows: No rest is being given to the Germans by the victorious Franco-British forces on the Somme front. The British capture of the long resisting Thiepval stronghold followed closely and undoubtedly upon the capture of Cambes by the combined allied forces, was itself followed up last night by a strike on the part of the French corps of the Somme, where they drove out from Verdun-d'Amiens and captured a strongly fortified wood east of the town.

Apparently this new drive is aimed at Chaunies, which bears to the southern end of the Somme line somewhat the relation that Cambes did to the northern sector. The beginning of a French effort to pocket this other German stronghold was apparent some time ago and a further move, such as that reported today in the drive east from Verdun-d'Amiens to a point two miles farther south of Chaunies, has not been unexpected.

The French lines already have been pushed well south of the town. Meanwhile the military importance of the gains from Thiepval to the Somme, secured in the smashing offensive of the present week, are expected by military observers for the entire capture of the Somme front by further inroads upon German held territory. The French advance beyond Bonehuyennes is pointed as a direct threat to the German line north of Peronne and preparing the way for an encircling movement intended to drive the Germans out of Peronne itself.

Related reports from the British front today announce the capture of between 3,000 and 4,000 Germans by General Haig's forces in the fighting Monday and Tuesday. The reported capture by the French brings this total up to more than 8,000. Unofficial figures show the aggregate number of prisoners taken by the Allies during the Somme offensive from July 1 to 9 have been 60,000 with some 130 square miles of territory and 44 villages.

In Macedonia the entrance forces apparently are encountering a stiffened Bulgarian resistance, especially west of the Vardar region. Paris reports Kaimakchian Heights, subjected to repeated attacks by Bulgarian forces, but declares the Serbians held fast to the captured position.

Official reports just received from Bucharest take back nothing of the claims made by the Roumanians of a notable victory over Field Marshal Von Mackensen in the great battle of last week in Dobruja. The Roumanians and their allies, it is declared, defeated heavy forces along the Danube end on the front and then, while the rest of the line held fast, the allies broke the resistance of the Bulgarian, German and Austrian forces. The Black sea drove them back in disorder.

Greece apparently is on the verge of entering the war on the side of the allies, King Constantine being now reported to have consented to such action. The revolutionary movement is continuing and on Crete 4,000 Greek troops in Candia are said to have joined the revolutionary forces.

"It tops the climax of the rottenness dealt any regiment ever got, said one of the officers of the five slighted companies. The men insist they will not walk home. The sentiment is openly expressed in favor of seizing a railroad train. Uncle Sam paid the Third's transportation back from the border to the State mobilization camp, but for reasons unknown, here the State officials refuse to furnish transportation the rest of the way home.

By Associated Press. Del Rio, Sept. 27.—Furney Seaborn, 16, found an empty bottle late yesterday while picking cotton and tried to see how far he could throw it. He did not see his sister Fay, 13, who also was picking cotton nearby, he said, and the bottle struck her on the temple. She died thirty minutes later.

SHORT GASOLINE SUPPLY EXPECTED

Globe, Ariz., Sept. 25.—A serious gasoline shortage on the Pacific Coast, the effect of which would extend throughout the country during the next year, was predicted here today during the closing sessions of the convention of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

W. R. Hamilton of San Francisco presented the gasoline industry data to the engineers. According to Mr. Hamilton, the only possible means of increasing gasoline production are by the increased production of either light oil or casing-head gasoline...

Discussing the value of chemistry to the coal mining industry, Edwin M. Chubb, secretary of the committee, read at today's meeting that Americans have in the past been purchasing coal on its looks rather than because of its heating value.

Tomorrow the engineers will leave Globe in a hundred automobiles for a day's tour of the Apache Trail and probably the greatest engineering feat of its kind in the world.

A SOUTHERNER IN NEW YORK.

New York democrats in Tuesday's primary nominated William F. McCombs for United States senator.

William F. McCombs was born in Hamburg, N. Y., December 2, 1875. His father was a Kentuckian. He is a Southerner through and through.

He went to school in the little village which was his boyhood home. Then he attended Webb school at Bellville, Tenn.—an educational institution which has been responsible for many of the brightest minds of this country.

From Princeton he attended Harvard law school where he attained distinction that is accorded only to those of remarkable merit.

That in fifteen years ago the time has passed quickly and busily for William Frank McCombs. Succeeding in the practice of law, came and remained with him his brothers of the profession honored him to an extent that is unusual.

President Wilson has ever been glad to give to Mr. McCombs due credit for the work of these campaigns and ready for the high places among the nation's honored men.

When the campaign of Woodrow Wilson for the democratic nomination and later for election to the presidency in 1912 that William McCombs attained national fame.

Mexico. Is that the Republican plan or is it not? A certain element—and an influential one—demands active participation in the European war on the side of the allies.

A certain element—and a large one—demands a sky high tariff on imports, while another element opposes it. Which is the real Republican plan?

A certain element—the banking interest—has already begun an insidious campaign which presents an attack on the Federal reserve bank act. Is it the Republican party's plan to repeal it?

The Democratic party has established a panic-proof banking system, has emancipated farmers from the clutches of mortgage sharks, banished dollar diplomacy, abolished government by injunction, chased lobbies into obscurity, provided for government aid in the building of good roads, emancipated child labor, forced the greatest military power in the world to respect American rights on the seas without one drop of blood being shed.

How much of this legislation does the Republican party purpose to repeal? These are perfectly fair questions. Mr. Hughes will not answer them. No Republican leader or newspaper organ will answer them.

The most rapid, uncompromising organ in the United States, the Boston Transcript, has said: "All the good legislation of the Democratic administration can be written on the back of a postage stamp with a whitewash brush."

We repeat—if the Republican party should be returned to power in the coming election, what would it do? No platitudes in reply, if you please. St. Louis Post Dispatch.

A WAR-TIME MIRAGE. It has been argued that war actually helps the masses of people in modern states because the masses play dual roles, first as humanity in the raw, and second as the particular commodity of commerce.

Who really pays the price of wars this ingenious theory does not explain. Perhaps it is paid by the dead, who have been dead, are none the worse for it.

The Tarrant county local option election comes off tomorrow. If the county goes wet, as a majority of people up this way expect, the next development that will be looked for will be an attempt to carry out the threat to drive the Rev. Frank Norris out of Fort Worth.

The prices of luxuries like those of necessities are mounting higher. Wines and whiskies are advancing. So is tobacco. At a conference of cigar manufacturers and jobbers in New York recently it was announced that the increasing cost of production must be shared by the consumers, the jobbers and retailers.

Henrietta has some citizens whose patriotism and spirit is worthy of the highest praise. A movement was started there recently to have some street paving done. It was proposed to have the court house square and to pave Bridge street for one block from the court house.

One of the delegates to the National Petroleum association at Chicago Friday declared that the producers of oil could offer no encouragement to users of gasoline and predicted that the price of crude oil would steadily increase.

BRING IN YOUR DOLLAR

Are you really a believer in Democracy? Do you want this government to be your government?

It is the idea that dominates Woodrow Wilson's campaign today. Again, we propose to fight secret millions with above-board dollars.

How much is democracy worth to you? What value do you place on service that obeys your orders, realizes your ideas, voices your aspirations, and considers your happiness and welfare?

Self-interest and self-respect alike command you. The Democratic National Committee has authorized The Times to assist in the collection of the Wilson Popular Campaign Fund.

It was a new idea, a great idea. It was an Emancipation Proclamation that took candidates away from back doors and back rooms.

To Every True American

Woodrow Wilson's fight is your fight. He was put equal rights above special privilege, human rights above property rights, national honor above organized greed and democracy over all.

How much does it mean to you that business is no longer at the mercy of politics, that credit and enterprise have been released from captivity, that the heart of the land is not torn by the wailing of widows and orphans, the slow shuffling of the blind and the maimed?

Every dollar contributed is payment on America's insurance policy. Don't let it lapse. Even as you have received generously, give generously. Even slight to give America was built on sacrifice.

What Will You Give?

A weak President would have plunged the United States into war. It is easy to hate, easy to strike. To do so requires neither bravery nor intelligence—and these are the very attributes which characterize our Chief Executive if he is to guide the nation aright.

He has stood firm against the lying clamor of concessionaires basely willing to guarantee their dividends with the blood of American youth. It is not alone that the United States is at peace, that the land is not filled with a wailing cry, that homes are not darkened, that our eyes are not scarred by the sight of the blind, the mangled and the maimed.

International law has been upheld, the rights of neutral nations secured, peace saved from the world ruin that would have followed America's leap into madness.

It has been shown that greed does not dominate us, that we square our practices with our professions, and that weaker peoples need not fear our friendship.

Do you stand for the proposition that no President may expect reelection who offends High Finance or who refuses to take his foreign policies from concessionaires and alien conspirators? If not, then show it.

Woodrow Wilson's campaign fund must come from the people, for it is the people alone that he has served and that he will serve. What will you give?

MR. CRAVENS DISCUSSES NEW INSURANCE RATES

To Editor Wichita Daily Times: While the question of fire insurance rates on property in our city is being discussed, I hope you will give such space to a short statement regarding the result of a careful investigation and comparison of present rates with those formerly applied.

This inspector went over in detail every building in the city except dwellings and barns and rated them in accordance with the state law applying charges for conditions that existed at that time, just as has been done in Dallas and Fort Worth and many other important cities in the state.

As a result of this work a new rate book was received by all local agents on September 18th to replace former books and applying to all policies written or dated on or after that day.

J. S. BRIDWELL RETURNS FROM VISIT TO MISSOURI. J. S. Bridwell has returned from a visit to his old home at Marshfield, Missouri. On his return Mr. Bridwell will give a talk at the Oklahoma State fair at Oklahoma City.

BOSTON BRAVES WIN SIXTH STRAIGHT TODAY. Boston, Sept. 27.—Boston won its sixth straight game 1 to 0 from Pittsburg today in the last home game of the season. Tyler kept the four hits well scattered.

It is very evident that many of these charges may be deducted by making proper corrections and at an insignificant cost. Any local agent writing fire insurance I am sure will gladly assist his patron in the proper way.

It is not my purpose to criticize nor to defend in the least, any one by my statements but to endeavor to face the conditions as they actually exist. The fixing of charges for deficiencies or for exceptional charges are the result of more than a hundred years of actual experience in the United States and the standards applied in this city are not discriminatory but are applied in every city in the state.

In this connection it is only just to call attention to the fact that reduction in the rates on all dwellings in the city on account of reduction in our key rate with any other first class city in the state. Yours very truly, H. O. CRAVENS.

THREE EVENTS OF BIG IMPORTANCE

MATTER AFFECTING AGRICULTURE OF UNITED STATES TO BE DISCUSSED.

MEET IN OCTOBER

In Connection with the Great Elephant Butte Dam Will Be Dedicated by President.

By Associated Press. El Paso, Tex., Sept. 23.—Three important events of an international character that will have a direct and lasting influence on the agriculture of the United States will be held here from October 14 to 19 inclusive. They are: The International Irrigation Congress, the International Farm Congress and the International Soap Products Exposition which lasts until October 24.

In connection with these meetings there will be the dedication on October 14 by President Wilson of the great Elephant Butte Dam, one of the greatest irrigation structures ever erected in the world, immediately after these ceremonies which are to take place at the dam, President Wilson comes to El Paso where he probably will speak at the congress that night.

This will be the twenty-third annual meeting of the International Irrigation Congress and it will be the second time that it has met here. The tentative program begins with the dedication of the Elephant Butte Dam. The congress will be held in discussion many important subjects regarding irrigation in both the United States and Mexico. It is probable that one of the main features will be held across the international border at Juarez, Mexico.

All of the foreign countries have been invited to send delegates, but owing to disturbed conditions in Europe it is not believed likely that many delegates from those will participate. From other countries, especially the western hemisphere, usually large delegations take part in the meetings and it is believed that this year's congress will not prove an exception. In its discussions the congress will give much attention to irrigation districts practices, legislation and engineering. Two of the important questions proposed to be discussed are rural credits and markets and marketing. The rural credits discussions are regarded of special importance in view of the recent passage of the Federal Farm Loan Bank Act and the present efforts of the farm loan board in districting the country and establishing the proposed farm loan banks.

"The work of the irrigation congress," says Arthur Hooker, secretary, "with respect to colonization and settlement, irrigation methods and results, and the extension of irrigation is to be continued and broadened at the El Paso meetings. The real aim of the congress is well expressed in its motto: 'Make Every Drop of the Home-Built'."

Besides President Wilson, many prominent men, leaders in the agricultural and irrigation extension movement are to take part in the congress. Among them probably will be the following:

Franklin E. Lane, secretary of the interior; David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture; W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture of Canada; G. P. Hunt, governor of Arizona; Hiram U. Johnson, governor of California; George A. Carlson, governor of Colorado; E. M. Ammons, ex-governor of Colorado; Moses Alexander, governor of Idaho; Arthur Campbell, governor of Kansas; S. O. V. Stewart, governor of Montana; William C. McDonald, governor of New Mexico; R. S. Williams, governor of Oklahoma; Frank M. Byrne, governor of South Dakota; James E. Ferguson, governor of Texas; J. B. Kendrick, governor of Wyoming; Ernest Lister, governor of Washington; and W. N. Cuyler of Harvard University.

The International Farm Congress concerns itself chiefly with dry farming methods in irrigation. It is expected that under the management of its officers it is to be held in the International Soil Products Exposition which was to be held in some building in the United States government many of the individual states and foreign governments. It is understood that even some of the warring nations of Europe will not be unrepresented this year.

Mrs. Robertson will give her customers full concert the later part of October and the date announcement will be noted with interest by the local music lovers.

On her way home she stopped at El Paso Springs, Tex., to put her daughter, Miss Ellen Adelle, in school at Crescent College. Miss Robertson has been studying with her mother this summer in New York.

BRITISH ARMORED BATTLE "TANKS" ARE MODIFIED AMERICAN INVENTION

TRACTOR LIKE THAT USED BY BRITISH ARMY

The British armored tractors, or "tanks" which have distinguished themselves in the battle of the Somme by smashing German opposition to their advance, are made out of "Caterpillar" tractors built in America. The British completed car, the American manufacturer believe, is made simply by enlarging the platform on the tractor so that it extends over most of the machinery and furnishes room for machine guns and their crews by covering the whole with a torsion shell of steel armor. The machine has a fore wheel which is used only for guiding purposes, and indeed in the smaller type of farm tractor wheels to the side, on trucks some of which is absent. No weight rests on this wheel, and it could be removed of together without causing the frame of the tractor to flex more than a few inches. The weight is carried on the weight of the two "caterpillars." These consist of two belts with corrugated surfaces on the inside of each of which are two lines of steel rails joined in shore sections and operated by sprocket wheels. As the endless belt turns with the progress of the machine the forward sprocket wheel goes down the track and the rear wheel picks it up again. On the rails thus laid down roll the wheels on which the machine is supported—five

DEATH DEALING IMPLEMENT OF MODERN ARMY

DESCRIBED AS REVELATION TO THE BRITISH TROOPS AND A WEAPON THAT BROUGHT HORROR TO THE ENEMY'S RANKS

DESCRIBE BIG BATTLE

The Day Was One of Unusual Success and Attended by Much Rejoicing of Part of England's Troops on the Comme Front.

New York, Sept. 24.—It is doubtful if there has been a similar revolution in modern warfare that has attracted so much comment as has the new armored motor which was used for the first time and so successfully, by the British in the noted battle of Courcellette on last Friday. A description of this death-dealing "monster" and of the incidents of the engagement are graphically given in an account from the field by one of the British officers who was present. This account is in part as follows:

Go into Battle.—The British were excited, excited by the small of victory, suggesting their gains in the belief that the last great smash had been made and that the end of this war was at hand. They went out at dawn yesterday filled with the spirit of victory. Many of them went over, too, in the greatest good humor, laughing as they ran, the children whose faces had been inflamed by some new weapon which was to be tried with them for the first time. The heavily armored motor machine guns of a new type mentioned already in the official bulletin.

This description is a dull one compared with all the rich and rare qualities which belong to these extraordinary vehicles. The secret of them had been kept jealously for months. Only a few days ago it was whispered that the "Caterpillar" monster, you know, the lightning-rod, said the officer. "I told him he was pulling my leg."

"But it's a fact, man," he breathed hard and laughed in a queer way at some enormous comicality. "They cut up houses and put the refuse under their bellies and walk right over 'em."

I knew this man was truthful, yet I could not believe him. They knock down trees like match sticks," he said, starting at me with shining eyes. "They go clean through a wood."

On the left, in front of Courcellette, the area of the British flank extended on the left from the ground north of Posieres to the line recently won to the north of Ginchy on the right, and its purpose was to break through the third German line below Courcellette, Martinpuech and Les Boeufs, a distance of about six miles.

On the left, in front of Courcellette, searching for German machine guns, thrusting over bits of wall, noising here and there and sitting on heaps of ruin while it fired down the streets. By 6:30 last evening the village was taken. The British took 400 prisoners and when the Germans had been driven down to Posieres last night they passed old "Crete de Meuth" who was going home. They held up their hands crying "Himmel" and asked how they could have done such monstrous things. The taking of Courcellette was a great achievement, skillfully planned and carried out by splendid men and one monster.

Attack Upon Martinpuech.—On the right of these troops there was a great assault upon Martinpuech and High Wood. Here also in High Wood the Germans had been ready for attack, and being forewarned in that they made a strong counterattack, which for a time had some success. The British drove back to the southern edge of the wood. The British troops had been heavily shelled beforehand, and they found the Germans in much stronger force than they had expected in that wood of bitter memory, but the British fought very gamely, some among the trees without the experience of the Somme kind of fighting, and they wilted a little before its ferocity of fire.

But the older men, veterans of the Somme, or more, cheered them on, kept their steady and led them. They counterattacked and regained their old line, and then, to their great joy, saw the tanks advancing through High Wood and on each side of it. "It was like a fairy tale," said a Cockney boy. "I can't help laughing over time I think of it. He lauged down the Germans, and a broken arm and was covered in blood. They broke down trees as if they were match sticks and were over the German lines. The British were thoroughly sacred.

"They came running out of their shell holes and trenches shouting like mad. Some of them attacked the tank and tried to bomb them, but it would be a bit of good, oh, eh? It was a rare treat to see the biggest tank that ever was. They just stamped down the German dugouts as one might a wasp's nest."

Little Shelter for Attacks.—On the left of High Wood was a very fine body of troops who had no trenches to die in, but they just lay out in shell craters under the constant fire of the whizz bangs, that is to say the field guns, firing at short ranges, which was extremely hard to endure.

"It was cruel," said one of these men, "but we went forward all right, for they were firing at us from the other side, who were lying in pools of blood, and afterward the Germans had to pay."

They were concentrating with some troops on their left who went straight for Martinpuech. These men went across No Man's Land for nearly 1000 yards in six minutes' racing. They made short work of the German who tried to snipe them from shell craters, and they only came to a check on the outskirts of Martinpuech where they were met with a blast of machine gun fire.

"Hungry" Monsters Brought Up.—It was then the turn of the tanks. Before dawn two of these battle-comers went on out of the darkness and lumbered over the British front line trenches, looking toward the Germans as though hungry for breakfast. Afterward they came across No Man's Land like enormous toads with tails in their stomachs and nosed at Martinpuech before testing the strength of its broken bars and bricks. The men cheered them wildly, waving their helmets and dancing around them. One company needed cheering, and the other two of their officers the night before in a patrol duty, and it was the sergeants who led them over, but now, when they saw the tanks, they about their faces with the others and laughed loudly.

Twenty minutes afterward the first waves were inside the first trenches at Martinpuech and in advance of them waddled a monster. The men were held up for some time by the machine guns but the monsters went on alone and had astounding adventures. They went straight through the shells of broken barns and houses, straddled on top of German trenches

WILL ENTERTAIN DALLAS VISITORS

Dutch Luncheon at Elk's Club and Dance at Lake Wichita to Feature Program

The sixty or sixty-five men who are to be here on the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants and Manufacturers association trip Friday are the executive heads of the Dallas enterprises and will not be here to sell anything, but merely to pay their respect to the local business men, says Richard Haughton, secretary of the organization in a letter to R. F. Johnson, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce. The Dallas special will arrive here from Vernon between 4 and 4:30 Friday afternoon, and after a parade over the downtown streets the party will disembark and call on the local business men for the purpose of getting acquainted, says Mr. Haughton. From then on they will be in the hands of the local Chamber of Commerce. The tentative plans for their entertainment call for a Dutch luncheon at 5:30 at the Elk's club, after which they will be carried to Lake Wichita on street cars and a dance will be held for the benefit of the young men in the city. This band, which is the crack organization of its kind in the state, will give a band concert lasting an hour at the pavilion, to which the entire citizenship of Wichita Falls is invited. These plans, while of a tentative nature, and subject to change at the directors' meeting in the morning, will in general probably be closed adhered to in the entertainment of the Dallas party.

Only Temporary.—A man whose married life had not been of the happiest lay dying. Calling his wife to his bedside, he promised to leave to his worldly possessions to her on one condition, that being that she would erect a tombstone and inscribe on it, "At rest." This she faithfully promised, but, finding nothing had been left her, she added to the above epitaph, "THU come."

BOB M'FALL IS AGAIN JAILOR

RETURNS TO HIS FORMER DUTIES AT COURT HOUSE AFTER SEVERAL WEEKS REST.

Bob McFall, one of the best known, as well as one of the most popular officers to be connected with the county government, is again associated with the sheriff's office and will have charge of the jail, as he was prior to his resignation several weeks ago. He was to have resumed work last Friday morning, but not being particularly in love with the idea of beginning a job on Friday, he entered upon his duties Thursday night.

Bob is very popular with the court officials, who recognize and appreciate his ability and energy, and they with his many friends over the county are glad to have him back on the job.

NOT ALL VICTIMS WEAR SAD FACES

There is Plenty Distributed by Many Who Have Been Wounded in War.

Associated Press Staff Correspondence.

London.—Notwithstanding the well known fact that the number of wounded soldiers are about the most cheerful in London has ever known.

A popular young Canadian officer, in a moment of exuberance, recently swung his way with no little difficulty into the lounge room of a hotel in the Strand.

"I was opping along from one dug out to another when I ups and stumbles over something hard. I guess it must be a bomb. Anyway it blew me blooming' foot off."

"Oh, somewhere out in No Man's Land," they'll say, "it was no man's fault."

"I was opping along from one dug out to another when I ups and stumbles over something hard. I guess it must be a bomb. Anyway it blew me blooming' foot off."

"I give everything I have to the Home for Sick Cats, London, provided they don't take any more black cats."

"I can't should die—(cheers)—I will everything to my mother—loud and prolonged cheers."

"I'm glad to see you. I hope you'll be back in a few minutes."

"I'm glad to see you. I hope you'll be back in a few minutes."

There is also the story of Tommie Dodd, the most cheerful and most indomitable little fellow in his command. Tommie was badly hit out a day or two ago with four or five nasty shrapnel wounds.

"Looks almost like a Blighly for me, sir, doesn't it?" he said to an officer who ran to his rescue.

"Just got in this morning." "Well, what you going to do?"

"Oh, he said in a "swanky" tone, "I was over to finish what you left."

"I'm glad to see you. I hope you'll be back in a few minutes."

BRITISH TANKS AMERICAN TYPE

Lay Their Own Tracks Seven Feet at a Time and Can Go Anywhere.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The British "tanks," the armored motor cars used in recent assaults on German trenches in northern France so successfully as to attract world-wide attention, were built for the most part in Peoria, Ill., in the town of caterpillar tractors.

he explained, in the utmost ignorance. Speaking broadly, the tractor crawls on two belts, with corrugated surfaces, on either side of the body.

"The body is supported by tracks with five wheels, something like small railroad trucks. These wheels never touch the ground, but run upon the steel rails.

"The width of track used on the machines sent to England, Mr. Baker said, was 24 inches. He declared that the ground pressure is about three pounds per square inch.

"The British government for a long time," said Mr. Baker, "and have not talked much about it. Since their recent military operations in the Balkans, the public press has been flooded with reports that led me to believe the secret would come out anyway pretty soon, so I decided it might as well be let out now."

"I'm glad to see you. I hope you'll be back in a few minutes."

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Against a background of crumbling edifices, majestic temples, and extensive amphitheaters, it is easy to project the idea of a picture which binds the life of the Greek race to that of the classic world from whom he claims direct descent.

Thinking of Homer, of Pindar, and of Phidias, one looks for Helen, for Demosthenes, and for Athens, but the only Helen ever seen in Athens was an American girl, married to a member of the cabinet, and whose golden hair, blue eyes and classic features made her at once the recognized beauty of the city.

The Attic year is sharply divided climatically into two seasons. One rainy and the other bright and sunny. The rainy season is the winter, the bright season is the summer.
