"I'm Sorry; I Was Wrong."

There may be virtue in the man
Who's always right, but he's right
Who'll never hear another's plan
And seek no further light;
But I like more the chap who sings
A somewhat different song;
Who says, when he has messed up
things,
"I'm sorry; I was wrong."
On many future days
It's hard for any one to say
That failure's due to him
That he has lost the fight or way
Because his lights burned dim.
He knows a man who says
The vanity that's strong,
Confessing, "I was my fault, I know;
"I'm sorry; I was wrong."
And so, figure those who use
This honest, manly phrase,
Hate it too much their way to lose
On many future days
They'll keep the path and make the fight.
Because they do not long
To have to say—when they're not right—
"I'm sorry; I was wrong."

COMMITTEE NEEDS STILL MORE MONEY

Treasurer Marsh Again Calls on Local Democrats For Funds To Cut Deficit.

While Wichita Falls democrats have already given about $150 toward the democratic campaign fund deficit, this city being the first in the nation to respond to the committee's call, it is still urgent need for any additional amounts that local democrats wish to give. Treasurer W. W. Marsh of the national committee has written the Times, pointing out the pressing need for money and explaining the deficit. His letter follows:

"My dear Sir—It is due you, as one of the newspaper men who proved his loyalty during the campaign just closed, that you should have more complete information with respect to the financial condition of the Democratic National Committee than was contained in my recent night telegram to you.

"My telegram told you of the deficit of approximately $200,000 and explained briefly the urgent necessity for quick action so that the shortage could be wiped out quickly.

"When the campaign began, the managers in behalf of the National Committee were so confident the expense could be kept within $1,500,000. We expected a hard fight; our opponents were determined and insistent and withal.

"Near the end of the struggle it was found we must enlarge our budget to meet the attacks of the Republicans. There seemed no length to which they would not go to accomplish the defeat of our ticket. Had we not spent this money during the last few days we would not now be celebrating our victory.

"We have expended more than $200,000 in excess of the amount that has been contributed. We made a clean fight. Not a dollar was wasted. It was a splendid victory for the people. We have no regrets. We are proud of the record. We must depend upon the people to make up this deficit.

"We need and expect your best support personally and through your newspaper. I am confident you will grant it freely and you will take a personal interest in it to see that our deficit is wiped out. I am writing this letter to a picked number of papers. Please write me how you are getting on. Also please send checks to me as fast as you get them. Very sincerely yours,

"W. W. MARSH, Treasurer."

HELEN KELLER, FAMOUS MUTE, IS AGAIN REPORTED ENGAGED

HELEN KELLER (X) AND FRIENDS

Despite the persistent denials of both parties, reports of the engagement of Miss Helen Keller to Peter Pagan, a socialist worker and former Miss Keller's secretary, were circulated in Boston and were generally credited by friends of the couple.

In Boston it was asserted that immediately before the departure of Miss Keller for Alabama, where she intended to spend the winter to regain her health, application for marriage intentions were made by both Mr. Pagan and Miss Keller. Friends believe that the publicity given to the reports led to the raising of objections against the marriage by Mrs. John A. Macy, lifelong companion and teacher of the famous blind and deaf mute. In the picture are seen: Miss Keller, Mrs. Macy, George A. Bentley of the Permanent Blind Relief War fund and Sergeant Middlemiss, a blinded British soldier.

CAPE-COLLARS, MUFFS AND HATS FIGURE IN EARLY WINTER STYLES

Special to The Times.—It is within the reach of everyone to have one of the smart little sets consisting of cape collar and muff which are considered such good style now. Of course they can be just as expensive as you like if you are going to have them of some costly pett; but on the other hand a little intelligently, a little velvet or plush and a few bands of fur, and you may have a set as distinctive as any of the Parisian importations. In Paris they are worn in these sets in a variety of charming models, and in New York, too, a walk on the Avenue at the hour when fashionable women are out, reveals numbers and numbers of them, leaving no doubt as to their popularity.

The vogue of these shoulder tapes is so great that there seems to be an endless variety of them. While some of them just cover the shoulders, others reach the waistline, and some go even below it. Hudson seal is one of the favored furs for them and is often effectively combined with ermine; perhaps a colley or just a band around the neck gives the necessary contrast. Koltinsky, mole and tape are other furs employed for these charming sets. In a great many instances there will be another addition to these sets in the shape of a hat, generally a tam or shanter or a turban. Hats, it is noticed have not occupied the craze for fur. There are

One of the many attractive styles is pictured here with a one-piece box pleated dress of serge. They are very often used in this way, for instead of wearing a suit, a warm woolen dress of serge, broadcloth or velvet with one of these capes is quite enough protection from the cold. The cape collar in the sketch or pelorine as it is sometimes called, fastens at the side instead of in the front as the majority of them do. It is laced with heavy cord or grosgrain ribbon from the high standing

Schonbrunn, When Austrian Emperor Died, Scene of Striking Events In History

Washington—Less than three miles southwest of the Ring-Strasse, which surrounds the inner city of Vienna, is the impressive pile of masonry known as Schonbrunn, where some of the most dramatic episodes in the history of Austria have been staged and where only a few days ago the sorrow-stricken Emperor Francis Joseph's death brought to a close a phenomenal reign of 68 years. A National Geographic bulletin of the war geography series gives the following description of the royal summer residence modeled on the episodes which have had a regal setting there:

"With its more than 1,600 rooms, Schonbrunn is a splendid example of imperial residence modeled on the standard of the great palace at Versailles. One of the striking peculiarities of this home of Austria's royal family, however, is that instead of crowning an eminence it is built on low ground while the magnificent park of nearly 600 acres occupies the high ground, rising gradually from the palace doors until it terminates on a hill adorned with a beautiful colonnade called the Gloriette.

"Three important events of the Napoleonic era were staged in the imperial apartments of Schonbrunn. The first was the treaty of 1805, signed here by Napoleon and Haugwitz, the latter acting for the king of Prussia. By this document Napoleon dictated a humiliating defeat to the Prussian statesman who agreed to surrender Cleves, Ansbach, and Neuchatel to France in exchange for Hanover, whereas he had come to see the emperor for the express purpose of delivering an ultimatum demanding a return of Hanover. In the same year, (December 27) Napoleon issued the Proclamation of Schonbrunn in which the Bourbon dynasty in Naples was declared at an end. Four years after Haugwitz's humiliation a second Treaty of Schonbrunn was signed, the principals this time being Napoleon and Francis I, the Austrian emperor who less than a year later was to become the father-in-law of the 'usurper Czarist.'

"On this occasion the Emperor of the French again drove a hard bargain, but this time his antagonist had no alternative, for the Austrian army had just sustained the crushing defeat at Wagram. The vanquished nation was forced to give up Salzburg, a portion of Upper Austria, and extensive territory in Carinthia, Carniola, Croatia, and along the Adriatic seaboard. In addition Francis was compelled to relinquish that share of the booty which

We have yet to hear of a Methodist minister who has joined in a boycott on spring chicken.

The National Guard, it was charged, lobbied for a military bill in the last congress, to retain the place of the National Guard as an important unit in the military system of the country. The National Guard idea was incorporated in the Hay military bill that was adopted by congress. After six months spent on the border the National Guard has changed its ideas about military service, and its members are not nearly so enthusiastic about the part of that organization in a national defense plan. Many of them whose forms of service are about to expire, it is reported, will not re-enlist notwithstanding there is a real need for their services on the border.

Colonel Roosevelt is out in an article in the Metropolitan explaining how it happened. We gather from his remarks that he is sore because some of the republican leaders in the first three years of President Wilson's administration thought well of some of the acts of the President and of the legislation enacted and said so. According to Roosevelt this was a mighty bad thing to do and was a serious handicap to the republicans when they began attacking the administration. The Colonel doesn't say so, but the inference is plain, that he doesn't believe in conceding anything good to Mr. Wilson. Here's one instance, in which the Colonel cannot be accused of not conforming his practice with his preaching. If he ever said anything good about President Wilson, it has not been reported.

This embargo proposal has caused some folks to take opposite and inconsistent positions during the past two years. At beginning of the European war farmers as a general thing, favored an embargo on shipments of munitions and had it not been for firm purpose of President Wilson to observe true neutrality, doubtless an embargo would have been proclaimed. In the early part of the war the people of the manufacturing centers of the East were the champions of unrestricted trade and the farmers favored a restricted trade with Europe. The mounting prices of foodstuffs, which are due in large measure to our unprecedented export trade, has resulted in a reversal of the attitude of farmers and of the people who live in sections of the country where the manufacture of munitions flourishes. The farmer is now the champion of unrestricted trade with the warring nations while the people of the manufacturing centers are clamoring for an embargo on foodstuffs. The farmer is getting his profits and the people of the cities and of the industrial centers are helping make them. The shoe is on the other foot and a wall is going heavenward. There is one class which has not changed attitude on the question of restricted trade; that class is the German-Americans whose views on domestic issues are liable to be colored by the effect they will have on the chances of Germany's success in the war. This class has been for an embargo on foodstuffs for the reason that they believe England and her allies would suffer as the result of such an embargo. Another class which has not changed its attitude is composed of patriotic, fair-minded Americans who saw the unpopularity of an embargo on munitions and who now see that it would not be fair to the producing class in this country to deprive them of legitimate profits growing out of a foreign demand, and who cannot see in present conditions such an urgent necessity as would justify an embargo that would entail suffering on the people of friendly nations and which might result disastrously to those nations.

GETTING DOWN TO EARTH

Perhaps it would be a good thing to abolish the Electoral College; perhaps not. The discussion, renewed every four years, is sometimes interesting and always futile. Many things may be good that are not possible. It is always well to long for perfection, but it is not well to go all worn out laboring for the attainment of the unattainable. Such labors waste the effort that might be employed on other things.

It takes three-fourths of the States to change the Constitution. It takes three-fourths of the States to amend it. It does not become a part of the Constitution. There are a number of States that might vote against an amendment to the Electoral College. We need not consider them. We need consider only those States that would certainly vote against it, vote against it to the end of time.

First there are the States that would never consent to Federal supervision of elections. These States are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee. There are eleven of these states.

and employer, time to form its opinion upon an impartial statement of the merits, and opportunity to consider all practicable means of conciliation or arbitration. It is nothing in that proposition, but the justifiable safeguarding by society of the necessities of the country, that is right or unjust in it unless it is arbitrary or unjust in it unless it can and should be done with a full and scrupulous regard for the interests and liberties of all concerned as well as for the permanent interests of society itself.

Three matters of capital importance await the action of the Senate which have already been acted upon by the House. The first is the bill which seeks to extend greater freedom of combination to those engaged in promoting the foreign commerce of the United States. It is now thought by some to be legal under the terms of the laws against monopoly; the bill amending the present organic law of Porto Rico, and the bill proposing a more thorough and systematic regulation of the expenditures of money in elections commonly called the Practices Act. It need not labor my advice that these measures be enacted into law. Their urgency lies in the manifest fact that they are not only opportune but necessary. Even delay would seriously jeopardize the interests of the country and of the government.

Immediate passage of the bill to regulate the expenditure of money in elections may seem to be less necessary than the immediate enactment of the other measures to which I refer; because at least two years will elapse before the measure which would greatly relieve the public mind of this important matter were dealt with while the circumstances and the dangers to the public morals of the present method of obtaining and spending campaign funds stand clear under observation and the methods of expenditure can be frankly studied in the light of present experience; and a delay would have the effect of a serious disadvantage of postponing action until another election was at hand and some special object connected with it might be in the mind of those who urged it. Action can be taken now with facts for guidance and without suspicion of partiality.

At the last session of Congress a bill was passed by the Senate which provides for the promotion of vocational and industrial education, which is of vital importance to the whole country, because it is a matter too long neglected, upon which the thorough industrial preparation of the country for the critical years of economic development depends. May I not urge its early and favorable consideration by the House of Representatives and its passage by the Congress? The country awaits with more thoughtful approval, or greater impatience to see a great admirable thing set in the done.

DEFINITE WORK ON COUNTY FAIR STARTED TODAY

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE INSTRUCTS SECRETARY TO PROCEED WITH PLANNING AND ORGANIZATION PROCEDURE APPROVED

FARM GIRLS' CLUBS

County Commissioners Will Be Asked to Help Put Work on Substantial Basis, Johnson, to Substantiate Toledo Party

Authorization to devote his time to the organization of a county fair association which would hold its initial fair next fall, was extended to Secretary Johnson at a busy session of the Chamber of Commerce directors this morning. This authorization carried with it the moral support of the directors to the movement and the promise of the Chamber of Commerce to provide financial aid from the individuals composing the directorate when the plans had been perfected to that stage. In this connection it was stated that active work on the organization of the fair association was a matter for a very near future after which the association would take the field in preparation for the first fair.

Plans for the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce at its next annual meeting, prepared by Secretary Johnson, were assigned to one of the previously announced through the Times and met with the approval of the directors. A committee which is to be organized to handle the reorganization, is to be announced by President Huff later, in pursuance of a motion by R. O. Harvey.

Outlining his plans for the directorate, Mr. Johnson pointed out that the chief limitation to the body's getting the full benefit of the possibilities of its membership was in its organization, which was practically limited to opportunities for doing constructive work to the members of the board of directors. Under the new form every member will be assigned to one of the bureaus, in whose sphere of activity he will be most interested, and to which work along this line will be referred. Each bureau will be represented on the board of directors by three directors, one of whom will act as its chairman. Sub-committees from the membership will be organized to handle the individual bureaus. There will be eight bureaus and 24 directors under the new plan. An executive committee composed of the president, two vice presidents, secretary and treasurer will act for the board of directors in matters needing immediate attention. The secretary's office will not be a permanent one, but will be held by a director who can be conveniently held.

He stated that the trip was not for the boosting of the Overland cars, as all those there would be men already handling these cars, but it was simply to see things, and the Texas dealers had elaborate plans for boosting them. In sending Mr. Johnson on the trip the directors expressed themselves as acting not so much with the idea that he could work on the dealers on the

"If all of Texas does as well as Wichita Falls, the students loan fund will be $100,000, instead of $100,000," reports Orville Bullington, who is chairman of the committee of State University alumni.

Wichita Falls citizens have given more than $3,000 already in cash and subscriptions and will probably amount that sum before Mr. Bullington gets through with his work here.

The fund will be used to help young men and women who would otherwise be unable to attend the University. They will borrow money from the fund, giving their notes for the full amount extended them, the loans to be repaid with interest when the recipients are able to do so.

Everything you will need for Christmas at the First Presbyterian bazaar Friday and Saturday at the Harrison-Everett music store. Dolls, home made candy, aprons and all sorts of fancy work.

Council Will Probably Be Asked to Put Measure Into Effect Here.

At an early meeting of the council consideration will be given to the advisory building code, urged for adoption by the state fire insurance commission, and which was recently brought to the attention of the council by Fire Chief J. L. McClure, according to Mayor A. H. Britain.

The adoption of the code will mean a reduction of three cents on the local key rate and a consequent saving of approximately $5,000 to insurance payers of the city.

One result of the adoption of the building ordinance would be the reduction of the securing time before the erection of a new building, the filling of which would give local people a chance to keep accurate tabs on the rapid building of the city.

TOTAL OF $52,900 IN DAMAGES ASKED

Four Personal Injury Suits Filed in 30th District Court on Monday.

A total of $52,900 damages was asked in suits filed in the 30th district court late Monday. The Katy system, by its receiver C. E. Schaff, is defendant in three of the suits, and the Wichita Falls Traction company and Wichita Falls Electric company are defendants in the fourth.

O. W. White, a switchman, filed suit against the Katy for $17,500 on account of injuries received in an accident November 21, while plaintiff was trying to make a coupling; he alleges that his shoulder and wrist were fractured and bruised, and that he sustained permanent injuries.

W. E. Bullinger filed suit against the Katy for $5,000 damages for injuries received September 18, when he and companion were forced to alight from a Northwestern freight train while it was going 18 or 20 miles an hour, near this city.

W. H. Wooten filed suit against the Wichita Falls Traction company for $15,000 damages for injuries received November 7, when he was struck by a street car while at work on the dam.

Bevo A BEVERAGE

Watch !!!

We make a prediction—watch for its fulfillment. For some years, various and sundry concerns have been making beverages which are grouped under the general description of "near-beer."

Now comes Bevo—a cereal beverage, not a "near-beer," nor do we seek its sale on any basis of being an evasion of the law or of being a substitute for anything.

Bevo met with instant and complete success. A whirlwind success. Surely there must be something special about Bevo that has won this success. That something is not the shape of the bottle or the beauty of the label but the goodness of the contents of the bottle.

We anticipate some beverages will be offered in a way to make the appearance of the package look as much like the Bevo bottle as possible.

But you don't taste the shape of a bottle—it's the flavor of the contents of the bottle that you must depend upon for enjoyment. Then beware of impersonators—don't be satisfied to try to identify Bevo by the shape of the bottle alone—

Look !!

There are these certain identification marks that are your protection against imitations. Not just imitations of the product, remember— but those more insinuating imitations which try to deceive you by putting an old failure into a bottle similar to a new success.

Look for the Seal

See that it is unbroken covering the Crown Top

Look at the Crown Top, and see that it bears the Fox

Be sure the Bottle bears this Label

Have you tasted Bevo? Then you know that nothing can satisfactorily take its place.

Bevo is an all-year-round drink. You cannot enjoy Dutch lunches, Welsh rarebits, oysters, clams, lobsters, sausage, cheese, and many other such delicious edibles without partaking of a little Bevo.

Listen !

Bevo is a pure drink; is strictly non-intoxicating. This means more than that it contains pure and harmless ingredients—it means that though you might often well be afraid of possible germs in milk or water, Bevo, being a pasteurized product in sterilized bottles, is absolutely free from bacteria.

Bevo is a nutritive beverage—the fine cereals from which it is made give it this quality.

Bevo is a delightful and refreshing soft drink—unlike any you have ever tasted—indeed a Triumph in Soft Drinks.

You should hear the comments of people who have tasted and who know Bevo. They all—men, women and children—have a good word to say about Bevo's good qualities. We feel that we can say this with assurance, not only because of the wonderful sale we have had on Bevo but because of letters on letters received, congratulating us on the product.

You can't get these good qualities in anything but Bevo—demand the genuine.

You will find Bevo at inns, cafeterias, restaurants, groceries, department and drug stores, soda fountains, dining cars, steamships, canteens, soldiers' homes, navy, and other places where refreshing beverages are sold.

WILL AGAIN TRY TO GET TOURIST TRADE

Paris Already Planning to Regain Former Favor Among Visitors

Associated Press Mail Correspondent.

Paris.—France will make her first organized effort to attract tourist trade when peace is restored.

The war made French people appreciate fully for the first time how many persons of means had been in the habit of hurrying to Paris from all corners of the world. No effort was made to induce them to come, because the magnetic attraction of the town alone sufficed; but since they have awakened to see many other things, the French have looked into this question of touring and have found that some 300,000 Russians were in the habit of resting in Germany and Austria where they left each year the equivalent of more than a billion francs. Eight hundred thousand persons visited the 113 seaside resorts of the Baltic and the North Sea in 1913.

French business men, and particularly, hotel men, are inclined to think that French resorts and French artistic centers present far greater attractions than the Baltic or the North Sea, and have finally consented to open their minds to the question as to whether this great number of people did not find more modern comforts and better hygiene in German hotels.

No one knows how much money Americans spend in France each year, but the estimates, varying from 200 million dollars to 250 million dollars a year, are not considered to be excessive. Financiers appreciate how this annual expenditure, aided by a part of the billion francs that the Russians spent in Austria and Germany each year, will help the rate of exchange; they are providing French hotels, resort managers, and railroads, to prepare in a proper way for visitors, then do the necessary advertising. Railroads are called upon to provide more comfortable cars and give better train service, and hotel men are being told they must make it easier for visitors to take a comfortable bath.

The Touring Club of France is now taking up the question from the traveler's point of view, and is also occupying itself with the necessary renewal practically of the entire staffs of many of the principal houses now sheltering wounded soldiers, when they are restored to their original destination.
