CHAMBER BACKS TRADE TRIP

MAKES CONTRIBUTION TOWARD HIRING TRAIN FOR OKLA. HOMA TRIP

BONUS FUND SHORT

Committee Reports $800 Still Lacking For Windmill Site Fund—Other Proceedings

With $800 still lacking of the promised $2,500 bonus for the location of the Adams Windmill factory here, and approaching the time that the factory may lose the factory, the necessity for extraordinary efforts toward raising the total was emphasized at the Chamber of Commerce meeting held this morning. The committee will make a last effort to raise the amount this afternoon and tomorrow.

An appropriation of $200 toward a trade trip to the Northwestern part of the month, an effort to secure equipment for the Girls National Honor guard encampment here in June, and a decision to try for the designation of Lake Wichita as a site for one of the civilian military training camps next year were among the other actions of the mercantile interests through Marvin Smith reported the raising of $250 toward the improvement of the Archer City road between that point and the Wichita county line.

The importance of making an earnest effort toward raising the promised windmill factory bonus, J. A. Kemp pointed out that failure not only meant the loss of the factory, but that the fact would go out to the world of Wichita Falls having flatly fallen down on an undertaking.

The trade trip which is planned for March 28 or 29 will be of the Detroit baseball game here April 1. Incidentally the trade trippers hope to attract a large number of people to Wichita Falls on that day. The train will cost something over $500 according to the report of the mercantile committee. The donation of the Chamber of Commerce will enable those in charge of the expedition to offer a very reasonable rate in those making the trip. This trip will be the first in years from Wichita Falls.

With the encampment of the Girls National Honor Guard only little less than three months off it was brought out this morning that Chamber of Commerce officials had not yet gotten a definite promise of loan of equipment from either the war department, the state authorities or the Woodmen of the World. The equipment of the state is at present being with troops in the field and it is not possible to make it unless they return prior to the date of the encampment.

The secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has authority to loan the equipment without authorization of an act of congress, and Chamber of Commerce officials hope to persuade him to carry out a former promise to Judge Seery that he would lend the equipment without assets.

It was the consensus of opinion among the directors that it was too late at this time to secure the designation of Lake Wichita as a civilian training camp for this year, when

REPRESENTATIVE OF LABOR DEPARTMENT SPEAKS

An address on labor legislation, recently enacted and proposed, delivered by T. C. Jennings of Austin, field representative of the state department of labor, featured the regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night. Among the other things he touched on, Mr. Jennings explained the eight hour law and the proposed workmen's compensation act. Mr. Jennings has just returned from New Orleans where he succeeded in bringing about an amicable settlement of the strike of the New Orleans shiners. The work of the state labor department and the handicaps under which they carry on this work were also briefly outlined by the speaker. Among other things he showed how the work of the department was hampered by lack of help. In the department in which he worked the speaker says, that more than 300 are employed in New York state, over 90 in California, over 60 in Michigan while in Texas, much larger than the last

INAUGURATION PLANS CARRIED OUT DESPITE THE BREAK WITH GERMANY

Washington felt itself greatly aggrieved if not actually defrauded when the break with Germany caused the announcement that there would be no public inauguration this year on March 5, March 4 falling on Sunday. The capital had looked forward to its quadrennial celebration as it always does, inauguration day being a legal holiday in the District of Columbia and the Washingtonians dearly loving a big show. Also, incidentally the inauguration crowds bring much money to capital hotel keepers and other tradesmen. Therefore the latter announcement that the inauguration would take place, with all due pomp and ceremony, and that congress had appropriated $30,000 for it rejoiced all Washingtonians and other Americans who had planned a visit to the capital for the great occasion. In the picture may be seen three scenes at President Wilson's first inaugural—the capitol with the throngs on the wings and central portion, the president taking the oath and reading his inaugural address.

MY HEART SAID HASTEN.

When I come back in the gloom
To my lighted house once more
My heart says, "Haste tonight!
There is something you do not know,
Something to give you joy,
On the other side of the door
There in the twilight's glow,
There in the lighted room."

My quick heart whispers me,
"The lover you have not known
Is waiting you there tonight,
Do you wonder that I rejoice?"

The sun they have always said
Would surely come back some day
Wait for you, brown, wind-blown
Or the dearest one of the dead
Waits in the ring of light,
With the old glad face and voice
As if he were never away . . .
Has he?—my heart has said.

But when I open the door
There are only the old lights
And the old accustomed faces
And the bright light on the floor.

—Margaret Widdemer.

GUILD HEARS LECTURE MONDAY AFTERNOON

The third lecture on the prayer book with the early history of the church and the first bishops as the subject was given by Rev. E. T. ## ASK LEGISLATION ON HEADLIGHTS

COMMITTEE FROM MOTOR CLUB WILL PRESENT MATTER BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

NAME DELEGATES

Party of Wichitans Will Attend Road Meeting at Vernon Next Friday

The legislative committee of the Wichita County Motor Club was instructed at the regular bi-weekly luncheon of the organization at the St. James hotel today, to take up with the city council legislation for the regulation of headlights. Until such legislation is enacted members of the club are expected to abide by a resolution which was adopted by viva voce vote, urging automobile owners to throw on their dimmers when riding within the city, where the stronger lights are not necessary. The matter was brought to the attention of the club by G. Culberson who pointed out the dangers from glaring headlights. He also mentioned the practice of some automobile owners of facing their cars on the wrong side of the street with the headlights turned on.

Fifty-five members attended the luncheon. A feature was a letter from D. P. Taylor, who was called out of town before the meeting, urging the importance of keeping up the national highways which are routed through the city and county. He told of efforts to divert these routes and urged every effort to keep them in good repair.

In a discussion following Mr. Culberson's suggestion about the headlights, Secretary Johnson of the Chamber of Commerce, suggested a "grand jury" of six members of the club to report violations of the traffic laws to the traffic officers, but no action was taken on the suggestion. A number of delegates were named to attend the Colorado to the Gulf meeting at Vernon next Friday. The Wichita Falls delegation was instructed to support either Decatur or Bowie for the next meeting, as their communities were reported to be in need of some enthusiasm for the work.

Among the delegates named to attend the Vernon meeting were: M. E. Meador, Dr. W. E. Walker, R. T. Orlin, H. E. Backman, B. Adams, Jerome Stone, Will Gardner, C. W. Beavers, A. B. Huff, W. M. Fridley, J. P. Jackson, W. N. Maer, R. W. Beck and John W. Thomas. By unanimous vote the members of the county commissioners court were invited to make the trip. The start will be made from the city hall at 7:30 Friday morning. Any citizen who can make the trip is invited to do so as a delegate.

SERVIAN WAIF, SAVED FROM DEATH, BROUGHT TO AMERICA FOR REARING

MISS ELIZABETH SHELLEY AND BOGOL CHAPTCHAMINE

Among the passengers on the Finland, arriving in America, was Miss Elizabeth Shelly of Selma, Ala., who was met at quarantine by her brother, Captain James E. Shelly of the Sixteenth cavalry. He is on duty at the border and obtained leave to go to New York. Miss Shelly was accompanied by a Servian boy four years old, whom she adopted after his parents were killed in their home at Nish, conform with the immigration laws. Miss Shelly had to go to Ellis Island with her protégé and produce the legal papers given to her at Corfu. Miss Shelly said that she left New York two years ago for Servia with the Mabel Grouitch relief unit and was in Nish when the town was captured by the Bulgarian troops. After the fighting the soldiers went around the streets burning up debris. In one partly demolished house they found a boy two years old clasped in his dead mother's arms. "Bogol" was his only answer to the soldiers when they asked his name. "Bogol" later was saved wandering about the streets by a surgeon in the Bulgarian army, who took him to the Servian relief unit.

HINTS IN SPRING STYLES ARE ALREADY BECOMING PLENTIFUL

Special to The Times. — The temptation to rush the seasons is very strong at this time of the year when every window is covered with displays of straw hats and spring frocks and suits. One must be very strong minded to refrain from blossoming forth into a spring hat with a mass of feathers, rather rich crowned little hat and those of us who are endowed with a sense of the fitness of things will abstain yet a while, guided by our better judgment.

Some of the hats combining straw and fine felt, or straw and satin, others are entirely of straw trimmed with flowers or ribbon, and a great many are of crepe. An almost brilliant, rather rich crowned little hat was fashioned of narrow ribbon interlaced, giving the impression of straw, at a distance. It was of narrow blue ribbon with a tiny red border on either side. The trimming was a bunch of red cherries placed on the left side of the crown. Another hat with a small upturned-brim of white silk covered entirely with machine stitching worked in a close allover design. Machine stitching is also very popular just now as a decoration for suits and dresses. It is not surprising to find it on hats.

Some New Suits. — Very snappy are the new suits with their big length coats. The box coat in the sketch is one of the new models. The pleated pockets and cuffs tell at once that this is a 1917 design, for box coats have never before had such frivolous pockets. Coats of bright colors such as green, rose, marigold, citron or purple accompany white skirts which are either plain or else spotted or striped with the color of the coat. Some of the skirts are made from bordered material with the border at the lower edge and the top laid in pleats. In some of these, the designs are embroidered instead of printed. The designs are generally large dots or squares worked in two or three striking colors or in a solid color with black or a contrasting shade used to outline the motif.

Jersey and Still More Jersey. — Jersey keeps at the height of popularity and is now combined with other materials. A suit of citron colored wool jersey was made with a white pique collar. The collar was of course detachable so that it could be removed and laundered with ease. In another instance, wool jersey was combined with gabardine very pleasingly. The suit was of purple jersey and tan gabardine fashioned in large collar and revers that went the length of the coat. The cuffs and pocket laps were also of the tan gabardine.

Irish crochet as a dress trimming has been revived again. The idea was brought from Paris very recently.

Fort Worth's Hell's Half Acre is to be closed after March 19th, according to an announcement in the Fort Worth papers. The announcement did not state how long the "Acre" would be closed.

"The Fatherland" has changed its name twice within the past few weeks but after looking over the most recent issue we will not dispute the editor's declaration that the change in name has meant no change at heart. Vericks "American" weekly, the Fatherland in its newest name, still stands for Germany first.

CHANGE IN SENTIMENT The Washington correspondent of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, one of the most able editors of papers of the country, writes his paper that the sentiment of Washington toward Mr. Wilson and his cabinet associates has changed and that Washington is weary and ashamed of the idle gossip of one sort and another so long in circulation about the administration. Speaking of the present crisis the correspondent writes:

"It would be a strange trick of fate if this man should be a war president. It is apparent that he has set his soul to prevent, if in honor it can be prevented, the participation by the United States in openly declared war and the further impoverishment of the whole Caucasian race by the waste on European battlefields of our blood and energy. But beyond the patriotic response to the call to support the president, it is evident that the view and decision of his recent acts he has won, regardless of party, a confidence in his leadership beyond anything he has had before. It is highly significant that among those in Congress whose talk has at times been very warlike, there is a disposition to feel that the commission of an overt act by the president may be met adequately to our honor, with a defensive warfare such as is evidently the president's program on the historical model of 1792. But whether the crisis, if it comes can be held within that phase all the war ends, no one can predict.

"It is significant, too, that Washington, which has been a hotbed of 'leak' when it was laughed off the boards in the published burlesque of the Gridiron club dinner—should apparently have been a hotbed of a bit more of an abatement of the idle gossip of one sort and another so long in circulation about this administration, as in some degree about every other administration. The fact is that the sentiment of Washington toward Mr. Wilson and his cabinet associates has changed notably. Opposition to the president, but whether in words or in manner, it is accompanied by an increased measure of respect, a sort of late and reluctant admission that these men, although they do not belong to what is called the 'ruling class' can after all run the government without landing it and themselves in the scrap heap, at least without doing so immediately. The Wilson administration, in short, although it can never cease to be a source of regret to the 'beam-keepers' of Washington with the re-emphasized social ideal of republican administrations of the past, is no longer a mere impertinence or whoddy, a thing of impotence, content from that point of view it does things that are really wrong, but after all it does them and sometimes even does them right, as when Bernstorff was sent about his business.

FAMOUS SOLDIERS

When a large part of the world is at war and the threatening clouds of strife are spreading over the remainder of the earth, there is much discussion of the military leaders of the day. We know of Napoleon, Washington, Grant, Wellington, Jackson and a great host of them all. Robert E. Lee—but how many can tell anything of the fighters of today?

What will be the story of the men who today are fighting the battles of Europe? What will it say of the leaders of these men?

Military heroes are recruited from all the ranks of life. Marshall Joffre is the son of a cooper and was initiated into that trade before he went to Paris to study the science of warfare. General Nivelle, who succeeded Joffre as field commander of the French armies, has been a soldier since boyhood, and is half English, his mother having been an Englishwoman. He gained his first fame as an artillery expert.

General Duke Nicholas Nikolovitch received his baptism of fire as a young man on the battlefields of the Russo-Turkish war of 1877. General Louatze, the French war minister, fought in the Franco-Prussian war as a lad of seventeen, and won wide fame by bringing Madagascar and Morocco under French rule. General Cadorna, the Italian commander, is the son of the conqueror of Rome, and from his boyhood was educated for a soldier's career. General von Kluck started at the very bottom of the military ladder as a private, was a sub-lieutenant in Prussia's war with Austria, and a lieutenant in the Franco-Prussian war. Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, United States chief of staff, was a clergyman's son and gained his first experience of war in fighting the blood-thirsty Sioux in 1876. Gen. Louis Botha, prime minister and commander-in-chief of the union of South Africa, is the son of a Dutch father and a French Huguenot mother and was a lawyer and politician before he took up arms in behalf of the Boers.

Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing, leader of the expedition into Mexico and Funston's successor, graduated from a normal school in his native Missouri and planned to win fame as an educator, but changed his mind and went to West Point to learn the fighting game. Von Hindenburg received his baptism of blood in the war with Austria in 1806, and won three Iron Crosses before the present war, when he was recalled from his farm to take command of the army. Sir Douglas Haig was educated at Oxford and joined the Seventh Hussars in 1885, first winning military fame in the Sudan campaign of 1898. General Brusiloff, the Russian military hero, was born in the Caucasus and comes of a long line of warriors trained in the conflicts of the Caucasus where as a youth he had the reputation of being the best horseman in a section celebrated for its daring riders. General von Mackensen is the son of a rural Teuton squire and was educated at the University of Halle, with the idea of becoming a college professor.

Gen. Sir William Robertson, who has the right of chief of the British imperial general staff, is said to have been a porter before he entered the army as a private, and won his commission as a lieutenant on sheer merit in 1888. Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, former commander of Uncle Sam's army took his M. D. degree at Harvard medical college in 1884 and two years later entered the army as assistant surgeon, winning his spurs with the "Rough Riders" in Cuba.—Beaumont Enterprise.

THE STORM IN AUSTIN

The stormy scene enacted in the house Saturday night has been averted, if the proper action had been taken earlier upon the charges which have been preferred against Governor Perry. It is thought that they are as it thinks now, there is but one way to dispose of matters on this character of justice to all concerned, and that a complete and exhaustive investigation of the O'Hanlon resolutions was a very poor way to serve the governor, since that action denied nothing and refuted nothing.

Admittedly, it is embarrassing to the governor to have these accusations reiterated, not only in Austin, but throughout the state, and his irritation is not to be wondered at. But the governor himself and his overzealous friends are largely to blame for the course matters have taken. It had been denied and insisted upon the investigation, the vindication of which he is so confident might have been forthcoming long ago.

What has happened is anything but pleasant to contemplate. The governor's fiery speech in the house was a sacrifice of dignity that ill became him from one to three inches deep when over it rains.

If the city should look after this, I, as a citizen, think it time that the proper officials took notice of some of the walks after each rain, while it is up to the property owner to have the walks kept in proper condition. I believe a great deal of good would result to the people of this town, especially school children, if an ordinance were passed compelling each and every property owner to drain the sidewalk in front of his property. Common sense and interest for the welfare of the public in general should be sufficient to cause property owners to take the sidewalks as they are peopled, and I believe I believe they should be forced by law to do so.

At least it should be someone's duty to look after such things. If the Mothers' Club and the school board will get in behind it, and see that school children are enabled to get to and from school without feet unquestionably the children will be benefited more than by having some doctor look at their teeth or examine their tongue. When it comes to bad colds and other diseases occasioned by children having to sit in the school rooms all day with wet feet, I believe an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Let us hear from more parents on the subject. Mrs. Alice Brown, you are next. I hope the day is not far distant when we shall have dry sidewalks after rain falls. A CITIZEN.

he announced a list of prohibited imports which sweep out of the daily living of the light little island virtually every luxury. This pinches the rich trading class of England as well as the aristocracy. The whole thing has been done with a courageous thoroughness that delights the soul. Money in England, an elsewhere, has always meant a certain immunity from the material deprivations of war. Rich and poor have suffered alike, but not in the same degree. To get along with half a saddle of mutton is not the same thing as getting along with half a loaf of bread. The poor man who scrapes the crumbs from a meager cupboard experiences a quality of misery that the rich man, who has to forego butter for biscuit, never knows. Lloyd-George has swept the chessmen from the board and dumped them all, bishop, rook and pawn into a single bag. The class lines in England have been desperately obstinate. Among an inherently democratic people they have held against time, tide and the onslaught of men. The rich and the aristocratic of England have made courageous sacrifice on the fields of battle. None has been braver. So have the poor made sacrifice. The rich and aristocratic have stood the heaviest exercise with out grumbling. The poor would have done so with equal cheer if they had ought to tax. But now the rich and aristocratic are to surrender their luxuries, the creature comforts which the poor never had or long ago surrendered. And that is real equality."

THE COLOMBIA TREATY

As the question of whether their opposition to the treaty with Colombia, the republican senators block one of the best measures of preparedness that has been proposed in Congress in the past three years. The senatorial cannot be regarded as a serious obstacle from the side of Colombia in the case of the United States, as it is with the great power, so far as the treaty with the Colombian terms of compensation for the loss of the territory remains unaltered. The treaty has been a mere formality. The payment stipulated is now $10,000,000, instead of $25,000,000, and the expression of regret over the disturbance to friendly relations between the two countries is made mutual. But the opposition continues to be implacable. This attitude on the part of the party of the majority in the Senate is the more regrettable because Colombia has always charged, not without reason, that our government viewed the treaty of 1846 as nothing but a "scrap of paper" when it helped so powerfully to establish the republic of Panama at the cost of dismembering Colombia. The treaty has been the country the bitterest criticism of Germany for her cynical and brutal disregard of the treaty neutralizing Belgium, but the principle of treaty violation is fully as binding in the new world as in the old. In view of the refusal of our government to submit the question of treaty violation to arbitration, as Colombia has repeatedly proposed, the least that can be done to effect a settlement consistent with American honor is to ratify the treaty pending in the Senate.

"That little troway-haired Welshman over in London did a thing yesterday that is rattling more dry bones in this world than have been shaken before in centuries," says the Wichita Eagle. "He began to screw the clamps down on earth's most privileged class, the rich tradespeople and the landed aristocracy of England. He notified the landed aristocracy that the government would compel them to farm their deer preserves and fox courses. He outlined to them that they would be forced by law to increase the wages of farm laborers and maintain the new high rates. He also notified them that their timbered playgrounds, simultaneously

ORCHESTRA PLANS PUBLIC CONCERT

Wichita Falls Symphony Orchestra Will Make Public Appearance About April 1

After several months of private rehearsals the Wichita Falls Symphony Orchestra is proposing to make their public debut with a concert at the Wichita Theatre sometime near April 1, according to Joe Colonna, president of the organization. The exact date has not been decided on, but will probably be selected within the next few days. The organization has planned to make its debut before this time, but an accident in which L. V. Lawler, solo clarinetist, sustained a broken arm delayed their first public appearance. Rehearsals are being held weekly and the directors of the organization are more than pleased at the degree of perfection the orchestra has reached as a concert organization. The program to be given at their first appearance will consist of six numbers, but the numbers to be rendered on this occasion have not yet been decided on. While their appearance in their first concert will be their formal public appearance, the orchestra will make an appearance in connection with the society vaudeville to be given at the theatre, March 14 and 15. One number will be rendered by the organization on this occasion. The present organization of the orchestra is as follows: C. C. Cries, Mike Benson, and Henry Courcier, drums; J. Uly Woodside, trombone; C. J. Templeton, concert master; Miss Julia Davis, Miss Frances Urian, Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, Mrs. Lee Clark, Ramon F. Adams and Joe Colonna, first violins; B. F. Talbot, Charles Cook, Paul Rutledge, Fernand Malcord, Casper Zimmer, Paul Pond, second violins; A. S. Cowan, A. H. Crites, R. P. Boyer and J. A. Lloyd, cellos; L. V. Lawler, Eddy, clarinet; T. L. Krebs, cello; A. S. Foville, W. S. Robertson, saxophones; C. D. Willard, bass; E. J. Harrison, flute; M. M. Exerton, violator; Miss Ila Cook, organist; Mrs. C. J. Templeton, singer.

REPOPULATION ONE GERMAN PROBLEM

This Will Be One of Important Problems Before Reichstag This Month

Associated Press Mail Correspondence. Berlin—How to solve the problem of repopulating Germany after the war, probably will be one of the big issues under discussion by the Reichstag this month. During its final regular session in 1916 it appointed a large committee of 28 members to look into the matter during the recess, and a small committee of this large committee has been industriously going over the field, with the assistance and cooperation of the Reichstag, to be able to submit a report to the Reichstag in the next few days. The large and powerful unofficial "Association for Repopulation Policy" and other similar organizations, which released physicians from their professional secrecy if they, in the public interest, make known to the authorities the names of patients suffering from dangerous diseases, and which provide better training along certain lines for all physicians. Still another resolution which may become a law creates a public health department for the exclusive care and treatment of sexual diseases, and there are in addition numerous resolutions pending for the creation of insurance bureaus for the sick, the enrollment of the interest of life insurance companies, and the maintenance of exact statistics.

INTERESTING SCENES IN AN OLIVE GROVE

(From the London Times) The smooth, round stones of the mule path make but rough walking through the long transverse rows of olive trees, which are planted in regular, secure foothold for descending animals. It is an ancient and rude pathway passing through olive groves and low terraces descending from the ridge top to the valley. In each, some six yards apart, are olive trees bent or twisted into these odd, weird forms which characterize the most individual and the most long-lived of trees—not becoming, as the oak, big and brawny with age, but weary with its many years—painfully and persistently struggling against time.

Good Demand For Insular Product at High Prices is Chief Factor

Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Manila, P. I.—Through the Philippines have no war munitions factories and no vast plantations for the supply of intelligent Europe with its needs, the year 1916 saw an era of remarkable prosperity in the islands. There were several causes but chief of them was agricultural prosperity coupled with a demand for insular products at high prices. A subordinate cause was the fact that the threatened exodus of Americans due to greater Philippine control, did not materialize, or at least materialized to a very slight degree. Many Americans, taking advantage of the provisions of the retirement law, have given way in the government to Filipinos, but some proportion of them have elected to remain in the islands and the places of many of those who have said good-bye to the islands, have been filled by new arrivals establishing themselves in business here.

In agriculture, bumper crops are reported. Rice, the staple food of the Philippines, is abundant. All the rice-growing sections, favored by good weather have produced almost record crops. The dearth of work animals produced by the ravages of epidemics and the government quarantine, has been a handicap but has only made the harvest slightly less abundant. There will be used this year of rice imported from Siam and Japan as there always is, but there will be a big decrease in the usual amount of rice imports and the money thus saved will add to the prosperity of the islands. The hemp producers who, in 1915, suffered under the combined cloud of decreased demand because of the war, and decreased crop, because of heavy stocks the year before, have been dipping into their stocks to meet the increased demand at high prices. The output has not been the best on record, but it has been excellent and has secured record prices. In the hemp provinces, it is no uncommon sight to see a lowly peasant hemp-grower walk into a store, make his pick of good he wants and give twenty-two cents for a pound of such a man in previous years was more a matter of hearsay than a tangible reality.

Short crops for two years in the tobacco regions were followed the past year by a crop little below normal. Foreign and local demand for Philippine tobacco has never been so insistent and prices broke all records. A quasi-corn in Philippine leaf tobacco helped the upward trend of prices but the growers shared in the prosperity. The high prices bestowed upon 1916 saw an era of remarkable prosperity in the islands. ### TRIAL SECOND CASE AGAINST J. WOOL

Man Convicted Last Week Being Tried On Charge of Receiving Stolen Property

Trial of the second case against J. Wool, this one a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property in connection with the robbery of the Calbraith store at Kirkland, was in progress today in the 28th district court. Mike Levine, Wool's former partner in the second hand business here, who yesterday pleaded guilty in two of the cases against him, and was given two years in each, was the feature witness in the case, as in the former case against Wool in connection with the Burk Burnett robbery, in which he was sentenced to two years.

Bruce Greenwood, county attorney and John Davenport, assistant county attorney appeared for the state, and Martin & O'Neal for the defense. The third charge against Levine, that of burglary in connection with the robbery of W. W. Niles store at Burk Burnett, will not be pressed against Levine, according to Attorney Davenport. "I don't believe in keeping on fighting a man who won't fight back. Mike has pleaded guilty to two charges, and gotten four years and I guess that is enough."

In agriculture, bumper crops are reported. Rice, the staple food of the Philippines, is abundant. All the rice-growing sections, favored by good weather have produced almost record crops. The dearth of work animals produced by the ravages of epidemics and the government quarantine, has been a handicap but has only made the harvest slightly less abundant. There will be used this year of rice imported from Siam and Japan as there always is, but there will be a big decrease in the usual amount of rice imports and the money thus saved will add to the prosperity of the islands. The hemp producers who, in 1915, suffered under the combined cloud of decreased demand because of the war, and decreased crop, because of heavy stocks the year before, have been dipping into their stocks to meet the increased demand at high prices. The output has not been the best on record, but it has been excellent and has secured record prices. In the hemp provinces, it is no uncommon sight to see a lowly peasant hemp-grower walk into a store, make his pick of good he wants and give twenty-two cents for a pound of such a man in previous years was more a matter of hearsay than a tangible reality.

Short crops for two years in the tobacco regions were followed the past year by a crop little below normal. Foreign and local demand for Philippine tobacco has never been so insistent and prices broke all records. A quasi-corn in Philippine leaf tobacco helped the upward trend of prices but the growers shared in the prosperity. The high prices bestowed upon 1916 saw an era of remarkable prosperity in the islands. There were several causes but chief of them was agricultural prosperity coupled with a demand for insular products at high prices. A subordinate cause was the fact that the threatened exodus of Americans due to greater Philippine control, did not materialize, or at least materialized to a very slight degree. Many Americans, taking advantage of the provisions of the retirement law, have given way in the government to Filipinos, but some proportion of them have elected to remain in the islands and the places of many of those who have said good-bye to the islands, have been filled by new arrivals establishing themselves in business here.

Warning to Stock Owners

TRIAL SECOND CASE AGAINST J. WOOL

Man Convicted Last Week Being Tried On Charge of Receiving Stolen Property

Trial of the second case against J. Wool, this one a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property in connection with the robbery of the Calbraith store at Kirkland, was in progress today in the 28th district court. Mike Levine, Wool's former partner in the second hand business here, who yesterday pleaded guilty in two of the cases against him, and was given two years in each, was the feature witness in the case, as in the former case against Wool in connection with the Burk Burnett robbery, in which he was sentenced to two years.

Bruce Greenwood, county attorney and John Davenport, assistant county attorney appeared for the state, and Martin & O'Neal for the defense. The third charge against Levine, that of burglary in connection with the robbery of W. W. Niles store at Burk Burnett, will not be pressed against Levine, according to Attorney Davenport. "I don't believe in keeping on fighting a man who won't fight back. Mike has pleaded guilty to two charges, and gotten four years and I guess that is enough."

The High Value of the Peanut as a Muscle-Building Food. Legumes have a high nutritive value and contain a large per cent of protein or muscle-building substance.

Peanuts are thought by many to be indigestible. They have gained their reputation because usually they have been improperly prepared and eaten in large quantities after a hearty meal or between meals.

Rules for Preparing Peanuts. The peanut, in order to be properly digested, should be regarded as a rich leguminous food, should be properly prepared, and used only in its proper place as any other member of the legume family.

Peanuts are high in fats and can be used in place of other fats. For example, peanut sandwiches may be prepared without the addition of butter, and peanut bread does not need shortening.

Peanuts are a highly concentrated food and should be thoroughly broken up before reaching the stomach. This may be accomplished by thorough mastication or by churning or grinding.

alliance with Mexico and Japan to make war on the United States if this country should not remain neutral.

They are: 1. Baron von Schoen, formerly secretary of the German embassy in Washington transferred to Mexico without explanation; 2. Alfred Zimmermann, German minister for foreign affairs who sent the note to the German minister in Mexico; 3. Alvaro Sato, Japanese ambassador to the United States, whose office declared the proposal absolutely impossible; 4. Luis Cabrera, Carranza's minister of finance, known to be anti-American and said to have knowledge of the proposed arrangement.

Instead of using such a solution a small receptacle containing one half ounce of potassium permanganate of potash on which one half ounce of formalin has been poured may be shut up in the incubator.

The resulting eggs, thoroughly disinfected the incubator should be run empty for several days to get it into good operating condition. After the eggs are in place the temperature should be held at from 101 1/2 to 102 F. the first week, 102 to 103 F. the second week, and at 103 the third week.

The eggs usually are turned for the first time at the end of the second day and twice daily through the 18th or 19th day. The eggs are cooled outside the hatching chamber once daily after the seventh and up to the 19th day.

Moisture should be furnished in artificial incubation in the South, in high altitudes, and when the incubator room is dry. This may be done by sprinkling the eggs with warm water or by placing a wet sponge or pan of water under the egg tray.

During the hatching period carefully fill the lamp and trim the wick each day. It is best to trim the wick by scraping off the burnt portion rather than by cutting the wick. The lamp should not be filled entirely. After the lamp is filled it should be closely observed at all times to make sure that the flame does not get too high.

The poultry raiser on farm or in city who wishes to produce fall and winter eggs, should follow the plan for the early setting of eggs, say poultry specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture.

One difficulty in setting eggs in spring, a selected date if the natural system of incubation is followed is in finding broody hens at the proper times.

PABLO NON-ALCOHOLIC

When you want something to refresh you, a drink full of zest and snap—just say PABLO. PABLO, the non-alcoholic thirst quencher, is wholesome and healthful.

Served ice cold at soda fountains, cafes, restaurants, or any place that sells drinks. Just taste it—you'll want more. By the case from your grocer. Made by Pabst at Milwaukee.

EMPERESS THEATER

ALICE BRADY IN "A Woman Alone"

Even in our big cities a woman's life is often a very lonely one. An honest housewife is a beautiful thing to see and yet there are few other than these wives who realize the barrenness there can be in a perfectly comfortable and happy home.

This Paramount picture was advertised for Monday but was interrupted with Wednesday's program. The story is a romance and lore of Orient with its mystery and fascinations irresistibly woven into the play.

BRITISH CLAIMANTS WIN SUIT IN SUPREME COURT

By Associated Press. Washington, March 6.—British claimants of the German prize ship Appam at Newport News, Virginia, today won their suit in the supreme court to regain possession of the vessel and cargo.

In settling the British libel attachment suit against the Appam, the court held that the British owners are entitled to restitution because the holding of the Appam violated American neutrality.

VARDEMAN AND KENYON DENY ANY CONSPIRACY. Washington, March 6.—Senators Vardeman, democrat, of Mississippi and Kenyon, republican of Iowa who were of the twelve senators who did not sign the senate manifesto in favor of the armed neutrality bill and who were included in the group referred to by President Wilson as "a little group of willful men" who had rendered the country "helpless and contemptible before the world" explained to the senate today that they had not been in complicity to prevent action on the bill.

ROOSEVELT'S DESCRIPTION OF A TROPICAL FOREST

(Roosevelt in Scribner's Magazine.) In the heat and moisture of the tropics the struggle for life among the forest trees and plants is far more intense than in the North. The trees stand close together, tall and straight, and most of them without branches, until a great height has been reached; for they are striving toward the sun, and to reach it they must devote all their energies to producing a stem which will thrust its crown leaves out of the gloom below into the riotous sunlight which bathes the billowy green upper plant of the forest.

A huge buttressed giant keeps all the neighboring trees dwarfed, until it falls and yields its place in the sunlight to the most instantly vigorous of tree types it formerly suppressed. Near the streams the forests are almost impassable, so thick is the tangle below; but away from the streams the walking is easier, because only a few bushes and small trees grow in the perpetual shade. To the newcomer one unending wonder is the mass of vines, the lianas or bush ropes, everywhere they hang from the summits of the trees or twist around the trunks, or lace them together. A few kill the trees; most seem to do them no damage. Some are huge, twisted, knotted cables dragging down the branches around which they are wrapped, and themselves serving as supports for lesser vines that twine around them. Others stretch up, up, as straight and slender as the shrouds of a ship, until they are lost overhead in the green ceiling of interlocked leaf and branch.

NUMBER OF MOTIONS FOR NEW TRIALS OVERRULED. An extra day was added to the term of the 30th district court yesterday in order to allow the preparation and arguing of a number of motions. Motions for a new trial were argued yesterday afternoon in the cases of J. Wool, given three years for receiving and concealing stolen property; in the case of J. G. Foster, a negro, given nine months in jail for assault with a prohibited weapon, and in the case of M. L. Moore, given three years for disposing of mortgaged property. These cases were all among the cases disposed of during the last week of court. All were overruled and all will be appealed. Judge Boney and District Attorney Humphrey led this morning for Graham, where the opened court at noon.

A REAL STOCK OF REAL TEAS We have now in our house what we firmly believe to be the finest selection of new crop Teas ever brought to Texas, if not the entire South. We have Young Hysons, Gun Powder, Basket Fired Japans, Ceylons, Orange Pekoe, Indias, Congos, Foochoos, Koo Loos, English Breakfast, Monning and Foor-mosa Oolongs. Among them are some of the very finest Teas that reached the shores of America this season. We sell them straight or blend them to meet all local tastes and conditions. At the present time good Teas are very scarce and it is questionable if there will be any relief until after the war. Many of the Teas we have in stock we could not replace at any price. Last week the British government made the largest purchase of Tea ever made in the world's history—as Tea is a necessity in the British army. It might pay you to anticipate your season's requirements. WE ROAST COFFEE EVERY DAY. BERT BEAN COFFEE HOUSE 824 Indiana Ave Telephone 35
