

TORNADO'S TOLL 224 DEAD, OVER 1200 INJURED

Winds Leave Paths Of Death and Destruction In Eight States

Tabulation of figures from the storm swept areas at hand at noon today indicated that 224 persons were killed and 1207 injured in the series of tornadoes that swept sections of the middle west and south in the last three days. The count of dead and injured by states follows:

- Illinois, 91 dead, 650 injured. Indiana 12 dead, 220 injured. Kansas 26 dead, 60 injured. Kentucky 30 dead, 60 injured. Missouri 1 dead, 12 injured. Tennessee 20 dead, 53 injured. Alabama 31 dead, 100 injured. Arkansas 23 dead, 50 injured.

Professor Henry Cox, director at Chicago of the United States weather bureau said today that the storms were due to great humidity and low barometer which are common in this territory in May and June. Tornadoes during the last few days in seven states of the Middle west and south have killed nearly 250 people, injured more than 1,200, wrecked thousands of homes, killed hundreds of head of livestock and devastated many thousands of acres of growing crops, according to summaries today.

The latest in the series of tornadoes started late Sunday, apparently in the vicinity of Willisville in southwestern Illinois, swept southward across the Ohio river into Kentucky, down the Mississippi into Arkansas and Tennessee and finally veered eastward toward Alabama where the storm apparently spent itself. The dead in the four southern states was estimated at 100 and the injured at 700.

Wire service in the districts swept by the storm is demoralized and only meager reports of the loss of life and the property damage has been received.

The destruction began last Friday in Andale, Kansas, where 26 persons were killed and 69 injured. Late Saturday a twister probably the most severe of the series, struck the rich corn belt of central Illinois, killing 54 persons and injuring perhaps 500 in Mattoon. At Charleston, 10 miles east of Mattoon, 37 were killed and more than 150 injured. The property damage in the two cities is estimated at $2,000,000. Another storm late Saturday crossed 100 miles in northern Illinois, reached into Indiana and cost the loss of a dozen lives, the injury of more than 200 and heavy property damage.

In Mississippi, the storm swept through the path of the toll of lives and property taken by tornadoes which tore their way through half a dozen counties in northwestern Tennessee and southwestern Kentucky, Arkansas and mining towns in the vicinity of Birmingham, Alabama, yesterday and last night. Reports early today estimated the number of dead in the vicinity of Hickman, Ky., at 40. In Mississippi county, Arkansas, 15 were killed. Ten were reported dead at Sayre, Ala. Six were killed in the vicinity of Dyersburg, Tenn.; six at Cates Landing, near Tiptonville, Tenn; two at the village of Baker, near Antioch, Tenn.; two at Sharon, Tenn. and four at Trezevant, Tenn.

Within a radius of 12 miles of Hickman, where the storm apparently wrought its greatest havoc, more than two score of injured have been recovered from the wrecked farm dwellings and the more than two score of injured have been recovered from the more substantial buildings in the towns of Bondant, Bardwell, Clifton and Ledford. Near Cates Landing the number injured was reported as between 25 and 30; in the central part of Dyer county, near Dyersburg about 30 were injured and at Sharon 32 were injured. Later reports from Sayre estimate the number of injured at 50 or more.

No estimates of the damages to property or crops could be made with accuracy today. Hundreds of buildings were demolished however, or badly wrecked and large fields of cotton and food crops lowered by the wind and hail. Rescue parties began a systematic search of the storm swept area at daylight today and it was believed that by nightfall virtually all of the stricken reached.

GOVERNORS' SONS IN TRAINING AT FORT MCPHERSON, GA.

All classes seem to want to get into this war. All over the country the sons of prominent men have been among the first to join the colors. A striking example is shown in the accompanying illustration from a photo taken at Fort McPherson, Ga. They are all sons of governors of southern states. Left to right, they are: Chas. M. Brown, son of former Governor Joseph M. Brown of Georgia; Hugh M. Comer, son of former Governor Comer of Alabama; S. J. Catts, son of Governor Catts of Florida; and Dan Fowles, son of former Governor Fowles of North Carolina. All are members of the officers' training camp. Many other sons of prominent southern states are at this camp and look forward to the prospect of getting over to France some day in the not distant future.

JUDGES NAMED FOR ROUND-UP CONTEST

Tom Burnett, Lon Deaton and Bob Marlow Will Judge Bucking and Roping Events. Preparations for the Oil Celebration and Round-Up are going forward rapidly. Three judges have been chosen for the bucking horse riding and roping contests—Tom Burnett of Iowa Park, Lon Deaton of Seymour and Bob Marlow of Wichita Falls. About twenty-five contestants from the Fort Worth stock yards have signified their intention of coming up for the occasion. These men claim to ride anything that can be ridden, and they and others will have plenty of opportunity to substantiate their claim, as there are some tough specimens expected to be on hand. W. C. Scott of Merkel, has agreed to enter Blue Jay, the celebrated unbroken, and apparently unbreakable buckler. Blue Jay, according to the reports, has never yet been ridden. The contestants will have an opportunity to ride him, and, of course, the opportunity is the only certain thing they will get. Lindsey, who won the world's championship for the cowgirls bucking-horse riding contest at Cheyenne last year, will give an exhibition, and will possibly enter several. Souvenir steer-head stick-pins have been issued, and a limited number of them are on sale at the drug stores and cigar stands. The price of the pins is fifty cents, and they will be given for general admittance to the grounds on the first day of the celebration. Money prizes will be awarded to the first and second place winners. An invitation is extended to all farmers to send in any bucking horses or roping mules they have. The animals will be fed and cared for here during the celebration, and returned to the owners afterwards, or, if the owners wish to sell them, they may be bought. Farmers and others wishing to take advantage of this arrangement should communicate either with Howard Wilsey, in the manner of the round-up, or with the Oil Celebration Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

RUSSIAN ARMY IS ORDERED ADVANCE WILL IT OBEY?

Petersburg, May 28.—Virtually all the divergent political factions, all class organizations, councils, and even the Socialist leaders, with the exception of a few, today reached the appeal of the Minister of War, Warshenko, to the troops and appeal the new order of the day to advance. It remains to be seen how the army itself will receive the order and proceed to the defense of Russia's newly won freedom. Constant efforts have been made during the past two months by representatives of the government and soldiers to bring to the army the realization that the abandonment of active warfare would mean not only treachery to the allies, but the loss of all that has been gained in the revolution.

Plans for aid in securing subscriptions for the Liberty Loan will be taken up by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their meeting on Tuesday morning. C. W. Such a holiday would have a two-fold purpose: First, to give the men within the prescribed ages opportunity to register; second, call attention to the Liberty Loan and to give all others an opportunity to register.

GREATER MENACE THAN SUBMARINES

From the Pittsburg Leader. A new menace confronts the United States. It is ruthless economy. This economical scare is the submarine of industry, the poisonous gas of progress. This nation is prosperous and will continue to be prosperous if its people do not allow themselves to be frightened into putting on the brakes. The way to keep up prosperity is to keep up buying. The way to bring disaster is by senseless hoarding. The big patriots and the notoriety seekers have tried to create a panic among the people that is more perilous to the entire nation than a fleet of German undersea boats. It is right and proper that everybody should aid in food conservation, and use all means to stop waste in food products, but that is the only direction in which conditions demand economy. There is no occasion for denial of pleasure or luxuries. Women need not do without pretty hats or becoming gowns, or handsome shoes, or the thousand and one things that women delight in. Men need not wear shabby clothes or shocking hats or ragged shirts or frayed collars. Business should go on as usual. Pressure should not be curtailed. Any other course would be unpatriotic and disloyal. Congressman Porter has hit the nail squarely on the head when he said, "Keep business going and keep the country prosperous."

The Liberty Loan-- What And Why

By GELETT BURGESS and H. A. LAMM of the Vigilantes. England calls her latest loan of five billions the victory loan. France's latest appeal for money was christened the national defense loan.

Berlin laughed at its "failure." It has since recovered to 95. A similar loan, giving security for its payment, is now at 97. Doesn't that show the confidence shown in two great nations crippled by two years of war?

There are all kinds of sports and athletics. The favorite seems to be boxing. Mr. Brown says that they have a very fine ring, around which may be seated as many as five thousand people.

Do not need one worry that later, other loans will pay, as they often do, a higher rate of interest. The government will put no such premium on the laggard lender. Whatever the interest, it will be paid on later bonds.

With relief work well under way and large sums subscribed for the immediate aid of sufferers from the $3,500,000 fire, plans were made to begin rebuilding at once.

WHAT IS BEHIND THE SUBMARINES

BEFORE DEARATION OF WAR ADMIRAL SIMS DISCUSSED SUB WARFARE

NOW IN COMMAND

Assignment of Admiral to Destroyer Fleet in North Sea Week. News.

(New York Times)

The chief news that Admiral Sims is now operating with the destroyer fleet and Rear Admiral William B. Coker is in command of the destroyer force of the North Sea.

After bringing about that extraordinary revision in our naval tactics which changed the 3 per cent of fleet score at Santiago to the 3 per cent of the target ranges, this officer was placed in command of our destroyer fleet.

Upon the invitation of clubs I have spoken before many audiences on the characteristics of the submarine, and I have found that the apprehension of what a submarine is and what it can do.

A submarine cannot operate safely all in the surface because the enemy in less than a certain depth of water. The submarine itself practically independent of its size.

The consequence is that a naval force that commands the surface of the sea can counteract almost entirely the attack of submarines.

For example, a submarine is seen in a certain position at 6 o'clock in the morning, and that information is flashed out on the wireless, giving the latitude and longitude.

When she travels along under the water with periscope submerged, she disturbs the surface of the water, the regular form of the waves on the surface.

A method of cultivation and drainage combined which has been introduced on large farms in the West is described in the June Popular Mechanic Magazine.

ALLIES PREPARE FOR MOVEMENT ON BELGIAN FRONT

BELIEVED THAT THEY ARE GETTING READY FOR EFFORT TO WITACHIAN ADVANCE ALONG COAST CRUSHING BLOW.

FRENCH ARE ACTIVE

Along Front Their Renewal of Offensive Indicated—French Are in More Advantageous Position Now Than in April Offensive.

The Associated Press war summary today says: Reports from Berlin and London indicate the probability that an important military movement by the allies is under way on the Belgian front, possibly an attempt in force to hit the German flank on the coast a crushing blow.

A pitch of notable intensity such as usually precedes an attack has been reached by the artillery fire near the coast and in the Ypres district.

Dispatches from the French front in France today indicate a renewal of the offensive against the Germans there as soon as the moment is considered ripe. The French are in more advantageous positions now than when they began their offensive in April and are further improving their positions by local thrusts.

One of these minor but collectively important operations was carried out last night when a German post near Craonne was completely occupied.

The British to the north are again reporting gains after a period in which only raiding operations were attempted.

OFFICER AT OLNEY MEMBER F. AND L. P. A.

When Investigation Started at Graham Records Were Quickly Destroyed.

Special to The Times.—Olney, Texas, June 1.—When representatives of the U. S. Department of Justice arrived at Olney, Texas, to investigate the activities of the Farmers and Laborers' Protective Association, they found the membership roll and all records of the organization had been destroyed. They are said to have found that the records had been destroyed through the membership of a peace officer at this place in the association. When officers at Graham began to investigate the activities of the association in Young county they communicated with this officer for information; not knowing that he was a member of the association under suspicion. On learning what was the case this officer very promptly went to the secretary of the association and that officer immediately destroyed all the records. The government officers who came from Wichita Falls took statements from several alleged members of the association, but made no arrests and made no statements as to what they had learned.

A number of witnesses have been summoned from here before the court of inquiry, which is sitting at Graham. It is believed the association at this place has disbanded.

COURT OF INQUIRY OPENED AT GRAHAM

Graham, June 1.—A court of inquiry was formed at Graham yesterday morning, consisting of W. P. Stinson, county judge; B. W. King, county attorney; and M. M. Wallace, sheriff, together with four Texas rangers, for the purpose of investigating alleged disloyalty to the United States government perfected through an organization known as the Farmers and Laborers' Protective Association of America. All members of the association of the county were summoned before the court of inquiry and were there examined, and it was found that the association at Olney had been rather active in resisting conscription, but that since the arrests in the western counties the activities had stopped and the minutes of the association had been burned.

No arrests have been made up to the present time, but Sheriff Wallace has asked the governor to allow the Texas rangers to remain in this section until after registration day, during which time all disloyalties will be investigated.

By Associated Press.—Galveston, Texas, June 1.—W. G. Love of Houston, an attorney, and at one time district attorney for the original district composed of Galveston and Harris counties, appeared at the meeting of regents of the University of Texas this morning with a duly authenticated commission as a member of the board. He had been appointed by Governor Ferguson to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. J. S. McReynolds of Temple. He was immediately seated as a member of the board.

Just before adjournment this afternoon the board voted to receive and file all memorials, petitions, and so forth, relative to University affairs for reference on a later date, on the ground that members of the board were enjoined from taking action on any of the matters suggested. Injunction proceedings were filed yesterday.

Upon recommendation of Dr. K. E. Vinson, president of the university, the board authorized the building committee to award a contract for the construction of four buildings for the state school of mines at El Paso. Dr. J. P. Tucker, recently named to the board, but now restrained from serving in that capacity, was present for part of the session, but took no part in any of the discussions. Committees of the board were readjusted as a result of the number of new members. The committees as they now stand are:

To prevent the defendants from doing or performing any act or thing or take any vote or passing or attempting to pass any resolution for the purpose of removing the plaintiff and other members of the faculty of the University from the positions now held by them until further orders of the court. The petition prays for a permanent injunction upon final hearing of the case. Judge Graves directed the court to issue the writ forthwith upon the filing of a bond in the sum of $1,000 by plaintiff. The hearing of the case was set for June 11 at 10 o'clock.

COOKE COUNTY IS SWEEPED BY STORM

HEAVY DAMAGE REPORTED FROM GAINESVILLE, MYRA, LINDLEY AND OTHER CITIES.

CHURCH DEMOLISHED

No Loss of Life Reported on Texas Side But Four Killed at Pittman, Okla.

By Associated Press.—Gainesville, Texas, June 1.—A tornado which swept the country around Gainesville late last night did damage of several hundred thousand dollars here and at Lindley, a town six miles west of Gainesville, but there were no casualties. Myra and Munster also reported damage.

Lindley, a German settlement with about 150 inhabitants, was the worst sufferer. There the terrific wind leveled all but the steeple of the new brick Catholic church, completely demolished several residences and badly damaged the general store. A heavy rain accompanying the gale added to the damage. The whole countryside suffered, dozens of farmhouses being destroyed, chicken and livestock being killed and crops badly injured.

In Gainesville a cotton mill and several stores were damaged to the extent of $20,000. Several residences were wrecked. The windows of a school house and many business houses were broken.

Every telephone pole between Gainesville and Lindley is down. While there was no loss of life, there were many narrow escapes. Several Catholic sisters who had taken refuge in the new church of Lindley were emerging through the doorway just as the building on which several years' work had been spent went down. A rocking chair which wedged itself between two falling houses, saved the lives of a dozen persons, caught between the buildings.

A baby was found in a field near a farm house, unharmed, but divested of all its clothing by the wind. Several Myra, 12 miles west of here, suffered $100,000 damage, and Munster, 16 miles west, lost about as much. The storm covered an area of about ten to 20 miles. In some places hail fell to a depth of a foot and a half. The agricultural damage was heavy.

FIVE REPORTED KILLED ON OKLAHOMA SIDE

By Associated Press.—Ardmore, Okla., June 1.—Velma Higgins, nine years old, daughter of Joe Higgins, Mrs. Gentry and one other person, name unknown, were killed in a windstorm at Pittman, Okla., eight miles northwest of Marietta, near here, last night. Two others are probably fatally injured. The storm struck Marietta at eight o'clock last night and Pittman was struck shortly afterwards.

Messenger reports from Love county, of which Marietta is the county seat, indicated that the storm visited that section last night. One woman was killed and a man seriously injured west of Marietta.

First to Front With American Flag; Led By New Jersey Lad

CAPT. E. J. TINKMAN

The first American combatant corps in France went to the front under Captain E. J. Tinkman and Lieutenant Seully of Princeton. Captain Tinkman won the war cross at Verdun. His home is in Upper Montclair, N. J. It was a proud moment when the first detachment of the American field service, consisting mainly of Cornell undergraduates, departed from Paris for the Aisne battlefield. They were armed with carbines, attired in khaki uniforms and drove American five-ton motorcars. As they left the Stars and Stripes, floating over the cantonment in an historic French forest, spread out in the breeze, and other contingents cheered them on their way. Clarence Mackay presented to the camp the American flag, which now flies beside the tricolor.

STRIKES PLANNED IN PETROGRAD FACTORY

In 120 Plants Workmen Said to Be Planning Steps to Limit Production.

By Associated Press.—London, June 1.—Strikes or other measures to limit production have been decided upon in more than 120 of the largest factories in Petrograd, most of which are engaged in war work, Reuters Petrograd correspondent telegraphs. After failure of efforts of the conciliation board to reach an agreement on many points, the workers of factories resolved to strike or alternately to paralyze work by carrying out the regulations to the letter. In some factories the strike already had begun.

HEAVY RAIN AND HAIL STORM OVER THIS SECTION

HAILSTONES BIG OVER INCH RAIN AS TEACUPS FELL IS RECORDED HERE

WHEAT CROP RUINED SOME TANKS FILLED

Corn Broken Off and Young Cotton Beaten into the Ground—Buildings Damaged.

Wheat fields were laid waste, cotton, corn and other growing crops were beaten into the ground, poultry was killed and other damage done in a terrific hailstorm yesterday afternoon extending over the rich valley farms between the Wichita and the Red rivers northward from Wichita Falls almost to Hays. Over most of this territory wheat was beaten flat and scarcely a stalk was left standing. Corn was broken off close to the ground and cotton was obliterated. The damage begins within two miles of Wichita Falls and extends down the valley of the Big Wichita almost to Hays. It also extends over most of the territory northward to Burkburnett on the west. It is not confined to the north side of the Big Wichita, extending south of the river to several places. At Perry House's farm down the river a stable was demolished and two great holes were torn in the roof of the house. All crops on the farm were ruined and a number of hens and 400 young chickens were killed. C. C. Bunnenger returned at noon from his farm about ten or twelve miles down the river. He reports all crops between Wichita Falls and his farm ruined. He had 400 acres of wheat, some of which would have made 20 bushels an acre or more. This was all ruined as well as the other crops on his farm. M. R. Ayers, who lives on the south side of the river in the vicinity of the Noble and Henderson ranch, lost all of his crops and reports that everything in that vicinity was ruined. The damage, he said, did not extend to the truck farms just east of the city. He said that some of the best standing crops as large as teacups and broke holes in the roof of his house. There were three distinct hail storms in the vicinity of Thornberry and Charlie. Hailstones two and a half inches in diameter were picked up in that section after the storm. Window lights were broken out in many farm homes and general havoc wrought. P. C. Becker and S. E. Haysler returned from Olney yesterday afternoon and were caught in the storm as they approached Archer City. They report that the hail fell with terrific violence and there was at least three inches of rain. The hail was about five miles south of Archer City they came upon a woman who had been likewise overtaken by the storm, and as she was about to cross a bridge they took her into the car as far as Archer City. The grain crops in that vicinity were badly beaten down and many recovered. A plate glass window in King's Grocery store in The Times building was broken during yesterday's wind and hail storm.

At Megargel a number of houses were blown from their foundations and one man, William Tedrow, was seriously injured, when his home was completely demolished by the terrific wind. There were no other casualties. The damage from hail was not as great near Megargel as in other communities.

CROPS DESTROYED IN THE HUFF VICINITY

Special to The Times.—Huff, Texas, June 1.—A big rain accompanied by a heavy hail storm fell in this vicinity yesterday afternoon. Crops were entirely hulled out. E. A. McDonald, J. T. S. Gant and Will Gant lost their crops. All the window panes were broken in Glen Wilson's house. Hail coming through the window broke a mirror in a dresser in a bed room.

The rainfall of yesterday will be of great benefit to the farmer, as it is a hard water for his livestock and for domestic use for months. The rain put some water in the tanks and in some communities has almost filled them. Cotton and feed and garden crops have been greatly benefited. The rain has almost assured a big crop of beans, peas and other garden crops planted here within the last two weeks on vacant lots.

The traction company placed a big force of men at work this morning putting back the poles and lines blown down yesterday. Manager Lawton expected to have the lines up by tonight. Today street cars are running as far as the car barns. When the line went down three cars were caught on the line beyond the car barn. One was stuck three blocks beyond where the poles went down. Had a car been in the section where the line went down passengers might have been injured by the falling poles or live wires.

L. V. Lawler left Electra last night, about 5 o'clock, just as the storm broke. He says it took him until 8:30 to make Wichita Falls, and that he passed at least a dozen cars stalled in the ditches, unable to move. In several cases the owners had abandoned, and were seeking shelter at nearby farm houses.

The rainfall was sufficient to supply an abundance of water for oil operations around Holdiday and at Petroton, but at Electra and Burkburnett little water was put into the tanks.

COLD WEATHER HURT COTTON CROP BADLY

First Government Report of Season Shows a Condition of 69.5 Per Cent.

By Associated Press.—Washington, June 1.—Cold weather in April and May hurt the cotton crop severely through the entire South and the condition of the crop on May 25 was 69.5 per cent of normal, compared with 77.5 last year, and 69.5 is the department of agriculture announced today in its first report of the season. The acreage planted to cotton will not be announced until tonight. An official statement today by the department of agriculture says: "Temperatures for many days in early May were so low that frost was felt. Even in the southern part of the cotton belt. Much cotton was killed outright and the stand was depleted everywhere."

HOW UNCLE SAM TRAINS FLIERS

SOME OF THE THINGS AVIATION RECRUITS MUST LEARN AND HOW THEY ARE TAUGHT.

Men Given Six Hours of Instruction Daily Divided into Lessons of About 20 Minutes Each.

Chicago, May 31.—One of the busiest centers of activity just now in connection with the training of men for service in the United States army is the aviation field at Ashburn, a part of Chicago, about twelve miles south-west of the central part of the city. At this station fifty-five men are being taught how to manipulate army bi-planes. Nine instructors have been detailed on this work. Twenty-eight machines, each of 100 horse-power, are in use.

The aviation field is a plot one mile square, as smooth and level as a table-top and with no trees or other obstructions to handicap the fliers. At present no living quarters for the men in training have been erected, but they are being planned and will be built soon. For the time being the aviation students are finding homes at lodging houses and in private residences in the neighborhood.

Nearly all of those who are fitting themselves at Ashburn for commissions in the aviation section of the signal corps of the central department, U. S. army, are from Chicago. All are within the age limits of twenty-one to thirty years. Captain J. C. Morrow, who is a member of the aviation section of the signal corps, and is chief aeronautical officer of the central department, says that the men are of a uniformly fine type, that they relish their work and show a splendid patriotic spirit in applying for enlistment, as many of them have left positions with big business concerns or have foregone finishing college work.

The Chicago aviation school is for men seeking commissions in the reserve corps of the aviation section of signal officers. Beside the station at Chicago, one is operated at Mineola, Long Island. Six more stations are being equipped and will open in various sections of the country within a few weeks. These stations will train men only for the reserve corps. The training stations for regular army men is at San Diego, Cal.

In charge of the Chicago station are Captain Arthur Christis and two assistants, Captain Ralph Royce and Captain R. S. Brown. All are officers

PRINCETON MEN OFF FOR AMBULANCE AND HOSPITAL SERVICE IN FRANCE

Four ambulance units from Marietta (Ohio) college, Princeton, Yale and Harvard universities, numbering 320 all told, sailed recently for France to do service with the French army. The units took with them complete outfits for four ambulance hospitals, in addition to equipments for field hospitals, including medicines, instruments and bandages. The members expect to be away six months. "The only way to get liberty for Germany is by kicking her army," was the parting advice of Dr. Henry van Dyke in his talk to the Princeton students, shown in the picture as they were about to sail for ambulance and hospital service in France.

controls on each airplane and if the untrained man handles his levers wrongly the skilled hand of the instructor corrects the error at once by using the auxiliary controls. After the student has had his full six hours of experimental training, in the short periods, he is "turned loose," as the aviators say, to finish his aerial education unaccompanied by an instructor.

The men have shown great receptivity and have soon been able to take care of themselves, according to Captain Morrow. He explained that the daily flying periods were made brief because experience had taught that as much or more, could be learned in them by students as could be learned in longer periods and because it had been learned that in other ways the short period accomplished more.

The term necessary for study and practice before the student is ready for his commission averages about six months. The greater number of those now at the Chicago training station have already had about two months' schooling. The things in which they have to "make good" before they can be accepted in the reserve are:

Climb out of a field 2,000 feet square and attain an altitude of 500 feet keeping all parts of the machine inside the square during the climb.

Land over an imaginary obstacle ten feet high and come to rest within 1,500 feet of it.

Make cross-country triangular flight of thirty miles, passing two designated points, at a minimum altitude of 2,500 feet.

Make straightaway cross-country flight of thirty miles, landing at a specified spot both outward and return trips to be at heights of 2,500 feet.

—Fly forty-five minutes at a height of 6,000 feet.

—If the candidate for a commission can pass all these tests he will be accepted, provided all other qualifications, physical and mental, be met. All candidates must weigh not more than 150 pounds, must be of good moral character and must have a college education.

When a sufficient number of reserve aviators have been trained they will be organized in squadrons which will be offered by men from the reserve corps. The government will furnish airplanes, motor-trucks, tools and all other supplies so that, when called out, the reserve organizations will be distinct units with their own officers and men.

Here for seven days the Zouaves fought their way, inch by inch, with hand grenades under a constant barrage fire from the German big guns and all the time exposed to the sweeping showers of machine gun bullets. The Germans fought with determined vigor, sticking to every point until actually forced out.

The line was very uneven, some of the sections of Zouaves having advanced further than their comrades, and often led by the Germans held out and posted the French troops from the flanks. Progress had to be made from shell-hole to shell-hole until, eventually, the Zouaves, by capturing the German Dusseldorf trench, were able to command an advantageous position and straighten and solidify their line.

The Chalmers Proves Itself

Amid the multitude of claims of various kinds for motor-car superiority, it is refreshing to find one where buyers need take nothing for granted.

When the Chalmers makes a claim it comes out and proves it.

It holds many important records, and has won most important tests, in its class. Frequently the figures attained are better than cars of almost twice its size.

On Atlantic Beach, Jacksonville, Florida, May 4, 1917 the Chalmers light, small, six-cylinder motor, established the record in its class of a mile in 38.1 seconds. Almost 95 miles an hour.

This is 2.2 seconds faster than a National twice its size and only 3 seconds slower than the Hudson Super-Six motor, almost 25% larger.

Come in when passing and let us tell you many more proofs of Chalmers supremacy.

THE NEW DE LAVAL

THERE is no machine made in which proper lubrication is more vitally important than it is in a cream separator. A separator that is not properly oiled will turn hard and soon wear out.

The old-fashioned method of oiling through a number of little holes with a squirt-can was unsatisfactory for the reason that some users would oil too much and too often, while others would not oil often enough.

The NEW De Laval is automatically oiled

You don't have to fuss around a NEW De Laval with a squirt-can. Simply keep the sight-feed lubricator on top filled with oil and the automatic oiling system will see that every gear and bearing in the machine has just the right amount of fresh, clean oil at all times.

The automatic oiling system saves time and saves trouble, makes the machine run easier and adds years to its life.

The De Laval oiling system has been greatly improved by the addition in the NEW De Laval of an automatically oiled neck bearing and the consequent elimination of a tube that formerly carried oil to this most important part.

There has never been a cream separator that embodied so many improvements as the NEW De Laval.

The new self-centering bowl with its improved milk-distributing device, and the bell speed-indicator which increases operation at the proper speed, are two of the greatest improvements that have ever been made in cream separator construction.

Come in and see the NEW De Laval.

Many Heroic Acts of French Told by Associated Press Correspondent on Front.

Associated Press Mail Correspondence.

French Front.—Some of the most dazzling acts of heroism of the great war are related in connection with the capture and holding, in spite of desperate German resistance, by the French Colonial troops, of the farm of Hurlerbise. This place has been often mentioned in the official communications of the war office in the course of the recent battle for the possession of the Chemin des Dames, or Road of the Women, to the west of Craonne.

The Associated Press correspondent who watched the whole of the fighting in this vicinity, later came into touch with many officers and men who had distinguished themselves there, and heard from them stories of the series of actions, details of which were not obtainable in the thick of the engagements.

OUR BOYS.

Our boys, our little boys, are gone! They have sailed East into the dawn, Not to a smile and a caress, And not to love and tenderness, Not to the kindnesses they knew in days ago. The skies are blue, And clouds are white, and the wind's breath

Is sweet, but waiting them is death! Aye, waiting them is the swift storm Of shot and shell, and every form Of death; the boys who laughed and went, Upon their country's mission sent.

We know war tears the world apart; But yet, deep in our soul or heart, We can not seem to understand How anyone can lift their hand To hurt our boys, hurt any boy; Some father's pride, some mother's joy!

And it is hard to think our sons, Amid the cannons and the guns, Amid the shouting and the strife, Can aim to take a brother's life; But such things are and still must be, Until the world at last is free.

And so we give them—give our boys— We used to fret some at their noise, Ask them to cease their rowdy-dow, If we could have them with us now, If they will but come back again To us—our boys—our fighting men— And be as noisy as they were How our old hearts will leap and stir; How we will love them! Their's will be the world.

The strength which made the old world free, God bless them! Guard their every way, Our little boys just yesterday. —Judd Mortimer Lewis.

HORSES, MULES ARMY PROBLEMS

GOVERNMENT TO NEED MORE THAN 400,000 OF THEM WHEN FORCES MOBILIZE.

HAS 70,000 NOW

Head of American Percheron Society Believes Country Can Furnish Enough Animals.

(New York Times)

More than 300,000 horses and 100,000 mules will be needed by the War Department when the mobilization of the first two armies of 500,000 men each, under the draft act, that the animal problem is one of the most important facing the military authorities is admitted by all army officers.

The problem is receiving the careful attention of some of the leading authorities on draft animals in this country, among them Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Percheron society of America. Mr. Dinsmore's estimate of the animal needs of the army is based on data supplied to him by the War Department.

"Bitter experience has convinced army men," Mr. Dinsmore says, "that horses and mules are essential in modern warfare as men and guns. Trucks are invaluable as transporting supplies from terminal points to the field bases; tanks have their uses, but in transmitting supplies from the bases to the firing lines, horses and mules are indispensable, and under actual battle conditions—where men and guns must be taken into position across plowed fields, trenches, ditches, and shell holes—horses and mules alone can be relied upon to place men and guns where they are needed. So pressing has been the need, despite the desperate situation as to ship bottoms, exportations of horses have been made steadily and are still continuing."

"The shipment of more than a million horses and mules to foreign nations has reduced our surplus materially. The needs of the United States Army within the next three years will be an added drain upon our resources, and there is danger that unless emphasis is placed on the horse-breeding industries that we will, ere the war is over, face an actual shortage of horses for farm work, city work and for army work."

Vast Number of Animals Needed.

"The passage of the selective draft measure by Congress makes certain the immediate preparation and equipment of an army of at least 1,000,000 men in 1917. All preparations are being made for a war that will last three years, for regardless of what civilians may think, army officials do not expect an early ending of the war into which the United States has been drawn."

"The requirements of cavalry, infantry and artillery regiments in horses and mules are set forth in a letter just received by the writer from the War Department, Washington, to be as follows:

CAVALRY REGIMENT
1,541 horses, 152 draft mules, 29 pack mules, 6 riding mules.

INFANTRY REGIMENT
69 riding horses, 112 draft mules, 25 pack mules, 6 riding mules.

ARTILLERY REGIMENT

"These are minimum requirements and do not take into account transport supplies from terminal points to field bases. In other words, the number of animals specified above refer only to those actually needed with the troops."

"It seems probable that the first one million men placed under arms will be composed of 500 regiments of infantry, totaling 750,000 men, 125 regiments of artillery, totaling 145,000 men, and 100 regiments of cavalry, totaling 130,000 men, making a grand total of a little over 1,000,000 men. The proportion of artillery certainly will not be less, and may be more, as actual warfare on European battlefields has demonstrated that overwhelming superiority in the artillery branch of service is essential to the efficient operation by the infantry.

"It may be argued that there is no probability that the United States will prepare 100 regiments of cavalry, but in view of the danger from the Mexican situation, it appears to be the belief of well-versed army officers that at least that many cavalry regiments will be provided for in this year's mobilization.

"To equip 500 regiments of infantry will require 3,000 riding horses, 50,000 draft mules, 12,500 pack mules and 3,000 riding mules. The 125 regiments of artillery will require 137,025 horses, 10,000 draft mules, and 500 riding mules. The equipment of 100 regiments of cavalry will necessitate 154,100 horses, 15,200 draft mules, 2,900 pack mules and 600 riding mules. The total number therefore required for the equipment of the 500 regiments of infantry, 125 of artillery, and 100 of cavalry will amount to 325,575 horses and 100,700 mules. Has Only 70,000 Now.

"The army has at present only 70,000 head of horses and mules. This means that approximately 355,000 head of horses and mules must be bought within the next six months. No information has been received from the army authorities as to how the purchase of these horses and mules will be made. In the judgment of experienced horsemen, however, the purchase of so large a number of horses and mules within the limited time can best be accomplished by setting a definite price to be paid by the army for the different animals that will pass inspection for their respective classes, and by establishing ten or fifteen inspection points, where horses and mules may be brought for inspection. This will permit dealers, large or small, or even armers, to consign their horses directly to the inspection points through some intervening contractor. It is earnestly to be hoped that the army officials will decide on some definite plan.

"It must not be forgotten that the allied nations are still in the market and will continue to be. Their need for horses and mules is as great as for guns and ammunition; indeed, even more so, because they cannot manufacture the guns and ammunition in their own countries but their resources in horses and mules have already been exhausted and the United States is the only source from which they can obtain additional supplies. Eight hundred and fifty-three thousand one hundred and sixteen head of horses and 28,952 head of mules have been exported, practically all of them for war purposes, during the thirty months ended March 1, 1917. In spite of the short age of ships, 40,000 head of horses and mules were shipped in January, 1917 and more than 27,000 head in February, 1917.

"Recent accounts from the battlefront relating the loss of hundreds of pieces of artillery by the Germans in recent operations stated that the loss of these pieces was due to the lack of artillery horses.

"It is fortunate that the United States is well supplied with both horses and mules at the present time but it is incumbent upon us, if we are to maintain our resources so as to effectively back up our armies and maintain maximum production on our farms, to see that breeding continues."

ANCIENT PROPHECY SEES WAR'S END

Close of Great Conflict Will Come in September, According to Old Manuscript.

Kansas City Star.

Don Sante Monti, a learned priest of Como, Italy, who is president of the Como Historical Society and director of the civic museum, has a Seventeenth Century book containing a collection of letters, verses in Latin and Italian authors and other documents, belonging originally to the writer, Paolo Giuvo.

Among other things it contains a curious prophecy about the present war attributed to St. Malachy archbishop of Armagh, Ireland, who died in 1148.

The war prophecy in the Como book is written in Latin in the same handwriting as other documents and in all probability it was copied from some earlier manuscript in the Seventeenth Century. It was dated 1463, more than three centuries after St. Malachy's death. There is no doubt, however, that the prophecy was written down three hundred years ago, and its interest is, therefore, undiminished despite the fact that it may have been wrongly attributed to St. Malachy.

The following is a careful English translation of the prophecy, from the Latin original.

"Great wars will happen and many will perish. Prophecy of the Blessed Malachy, 1463.

"When the first number will find the ninth and both will join the first and sixth numbers (1916) in the sixth month (August, according to the old calendar), when twice four and twice ten days are passed (28th), then the terrible beast which for two years and a month has already filled the world with blood and slaughter, devastation and death, shall be crushed and the world will be at peace. Prophecy of the Blessed Malachy in the year 1463.

"When the first number finds the ninth and both are joined by the first and sixth numbers, in the sixth month when twice four and twice ten days have passed the new people called the Romulus (Roumangans) will rise and conclude an alliance with the powerful people.

"Then that ferocious beast that, since two years and a month had filled all the world with blood and slaughter, with devastation and death, surrounded on all sides and wounded, vainly roaring who seek a lamb to devour and find none. There will be great devastations during all the time, when new moons will rise and set three times; when a lamb will die on the day, when the sun comes out of the sign of the Lion, he will die of the worst death, and a Virgin whose name is composed of two Iotas (I), two alphas (A) with a tau (T) and a lambda (L) will crush his head, and his spoils will be divided among the Latin people.

"A single instant more than the allotted time will not pass before the events above written come to happen."

The interpretation.

The Roscommon, Ireland, Herald, which publishes the foregoing translation, proceeds to interpret it as follows:

"The prediction of Rumania's intervention for August 28, 1916, has come true, as this date corresponds to Germany's declaration of war against Rumania, and the period during which the war has been in progress, namely, two years and one month, is also substantially accurate, since from the outbreak of the war in the beginning of August, 1914, to the end of August, 1916, the date of Rumania's intervention, two years and a month passed.

"The virgin referred to in the prophecy is evidently meant to typify Italy, since the Greek letters composing her name correspond to two I's, two A's, a T and L which form the name Italia. Evidently, according to the prophecy, Italy is destined to play a decisive role in the war and bring about its end.

"The end of the war is clearly predicted, and as there was a new moon on August 28, 1916, counting thirteen lunar months from then and taking in to account the fact that the sun crosses the sign of the Lion in summer, it is comparatively easy to calculate approximately that, according to the prophecy, the war will end toward the middle of next September, until when great devastations over all the world will happen."

HOW CAN "BEAN" BALL BE DISTINGUISHED

Chicago.—Now that the National Baseball Commission has legislated against the "bean ball" and proposes to punish the pitcher convicted of using it, Fred Mitchell, manager of the Chicago Nationals, wants to know who is to distinguish between the "bean ball" and a wild pitch.

"That is going to cause more trouble to umpires than they ever had before," Mitchell said. "They cannot distinguish when a pitcher deliberately throws a ball at a batter's head or lets go a wild pitch.

"I say that because I do not think that a pitcher ever deliberately attempted to throw a ball at a batsman's head with any idea of hitting him. I have never seen it done as long as I have been associated with the game.

"It is true that I have seen pitchers throw in close to a batter for the purpose of driving him away from the plate. That is legitimate and I do not think it does the game any harm. The pitcher does not do that with the intention of 'beaning' the batter, but merely to scare him away."

Henry Ford's income tax will amount to about $1,500,000 a year. But Henry is putting up no howl. In fact, he seems to regret that it is not twice that much.

We have often heard of hail stones as large as hen eggs, but yesterday was the first time the actual evidence was presented to us. Just after the storm several hail stones were picked up that weighed a little over two ounces.

A good portion of the money realized by the sale of Liberty bonds will go towards feeding and clothing our soldiers who will have to do the fighting for this country. If you do not expect to do any of the fighting, then it is your plain duty to come to the aid of those who will. The idea that the Government must support the people has long since been exploded. If the people do not support the Government, then the Government, of necessity, must fail.

It's probably all right for the Chicago Tribune to rant at the South every time a negro is strung up by a mob for some heinous crime committed, but we notice when the colored brother gets too numerous in an Illinois town, riots are started to thin them out and force them back to the South where they came from. The East St. Louis disturbance along that line ought to be sufficient to furnish the Tribune editorial writer with some food for thought.

That there is more opposition to conscription in Texas than most people had ever thought is true. And that the opposition is holding secret meetings almost daily and nightly is known to the Government agents. There is some evidence that organizations of that nature exist in Wichita and adjoining counties, and while it is not believed that the members of these secret organizations are likely to openly defy the registration officials, steps should be taken now to spot the suspects and see that everyone of them within the age limit registers. They are enemies to their country, and while it may do no good to have that kind of cattle in an army, it is well the Government should know who they are in order that their every movement can be watched.

URGES PUPILS TO CONTINUE IN SCHOOL NEXT FALL

An urgent appeal to pupils to remain in high school next fall as a patriotic duty has been issued by Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education for this state, and that there are in the high schools of the United States this year more than one and one-half millions of boys and girls, and somewhat more than 200,000 of them will graduate this month and next. In an ordinary year 500,000 or more of these would next fall enter colleges, normal schools or technical schools to be prepared for such service to society, state and nation, as can be rendered only by those who have received education beyond that which the high schools can give. He says: "Many college presidents and others fear that on account of our entrance into the war few boys and girls will enter college next fall, and that the total college attendance will be very small. This is not true, however, to be much larger than usual.

"The more mature young men are the more serious about their duty in the army. The selective draft will take only those between twenty-one and thirty. In the total of 50,000,000 people in the United States, the 250,000 students in colleges and normal schools and technical and vocational schools of high grade constitute only about one-half of one percent. More than half of these live in cities and cannot be employed in agricultural production except as a few of them may find work on the farms during the summer. Their going to college will not lower the productive capacity of the country as a whole in any appreciable degree. The colleges, normal schools and technical schools will all be open with undiminished numbers from public funds and endowments, and the expense of their maintenance will continue. It is quite probable that many of the older students will be called to the front in the higher classes will be smaller than usual. The graduates from the high schools should see to it that the lower classes more than make up for this deficiency.

"This appeal is made on the basis of patriotic duty. If the war should be long the country will need all the trained men and women it can get. Many more than it now has. There will be men in abundance to fight the trenches, but there will be a dearth of officers, engineers and men of scientific knowledge and skill in all the industries, in transportation, and in many other places where skill and daring are just as necessary to success as in the trenches. The first call of the allies is for 12,000 engineers and skilled men to repair the railroads in France and England; and other thousands will be needed later. Russia will probably want thousands of men to repair and build her railroads. The increase in transportation and the tax on our own roads will call for large

PRESIDENT WILSON ON REGISTRATION DAY.

"The day here named, 'Registration Day, is the time upon which all shall present themselves for assignment to their tasks. It is for that reason destined to be remembered as one of the most conspicuous moments in our history. It is nothing less than the day upon which the manhood of the country shall step forward in one solid rank in defense of the ideals to which this nation is consecrated. It is important to those ideals no less than to the pride of this generation in manifesting its devotion to them that there be no gaps in the ranks.

"It is essential that the day be approached in thoughtful apprehension of its significance and that we accord to it the honor and the meaning that it deserves. Our industrial need prescribes that it be not made a technical holiday, but the stern sacrifice that it before us urges that it be carried in all our hearts as a great day of patriotic devotion and obligation when the duty shall lie upon every man, whether he is himself to be registered or not, to see to it that the name of every male person of the designated ages is written on these lists of honor."—Woodrow Wilson.

ENLISTMENT OF ENGINEERS PROGRESSING FAVORABLY

Washington, June 1.—American railroads for American troops and supplies in France are definitely assured of the war department as a result of the success of the movement to enlist twelve thousand railroad engineers and construction workers as an expeditionary force to the battle fields. When the American troops, soon to reach the firing line, begin to move forward against the German lines, the American engineers, technicians and mechanics will follow them with the same ease and promptness as was the case when they were in their camps in the United States.

The platformers were occupied by Social Democratic leaders, who heretofore had been conspicuous in their efforts to keep the masses of the people to preserve the public order. While they were speaking, a regiment of British troops, headed by their colonel, marched into the square. "We have come," said the colonel, "to put our services at your disposal. We are here to help you in the reconstruction of your country. We are here to help you in the reconstruction of your country. We are here to help you in the reconstruction of your country.

BELGIAN OFFICIALS REFUSE TO SERVE UNDER GERMAN

Associated Press Mail Correspondence. Havre, France.—A number of Belgian officials who remained in that country after the invasion have refused to continue their service under the administrative division of the country decreed by the German government. One of these patriots, M. Sauvère, general secretary to the Minister of the Interior, wrote a letter of protestation in which he resigned his office. The governor general then "fixed his residence in Germany." The "fixed residence" being constructed here as a prison.

FARMS MUST SUPPLY CHILDREN; CITIES WON'T

(San Francisco Bulletin.) Pasadena, Cal.—There are two ways of committing national suicide, presented by Mrs. Gertrude Spies Rider to the sixteenth annual convention of women's clubs in session of the hotel. First, let the city property owning class continue its low birth rate. Second, permit the rural classes to have a child in every square yard of economic pressure, bad health conditions, and giving up the best blood of the country to industry.

SEASONED COWMEN WONDER AT MISS MULHALL'S SKILL

Col. Zack Mulhall, and his celebrated daughter, Lucille, who will be here for the Oil Celebration and Round-up, has been in the city for several days, and has been widely acclaimed for their feats of daring and recklessness in every quarter. Seasoned cowboys and men of the most enthusiastic admiration wondered at Lucille Mulhall's exhibition of courage and skill, and the best of them have competed against her without success. She can ride anything but a cow horse, and is not afraid of anything whatever. In her horse-courting victory at San Antonio, last month, she created a perfect storm of silver lining, cupping against the best cowmen that could be gathered. In this contest, she rode her well-beloved "Bud," and both the horse and the lady were the subject of the most enthusiastic admiration. It is for such feats as these that Miss Mulhall is best known, and it is as the champion woman rider that she

In the multi-racial population of the part of Russia, there were wild mountain tribes, Leskians, Avars, Chechens, and Swabians in long black coats and gipsy-like caps. Their homes lie in the recesses of the Caucasus range. Sunk in patriarchal feudalism, many of them did not know until the Russian revolution that they were subjects of the emperor of Russia or the sultan of Turkey.

"The continued presence in Egypt of a large British force has at the same time exercised its influence as a second factor in the exceptional prosperity of the country. The resources of Egypt and the Sudan have been drawn upon in every conceivable manner for military requirements, and the productive activities of the population have been stimulated in all directions to meet the demand."

Among the "distinguished guests" who visited the various platforms were a number of foreign correspondents who had been in the dungeons of Tiflis since 1904, when they were implicated in a local attempt at revolution. They spoke in various languages, including Russian, Georgian, Armenian, Tartar, and six mountain districts.

HOW REVOLUTION CAME TO CAUCASUS

Associated Press Mail Correspondence. Tiflis, Caucasus.—The Russian revolution came to the Caucasus several days after it had won at Petrograd, and the new order was put into effect without a hitch and great enthusiasm. The new government was ratified by one of the most picturesque public gatherings that has been held anywhere in the Russian empire. "The peoples, not only of Tiflis, but of all neighboring districts, were invited to attend this huge assembly. For several hours before the hour set for the meeting, the bridge over the Kura and the streets leading to the assembly square were filled with incoming delegates, serious and silent, impressed with the importance of their mission."

The result is that, notwithstanding the relatively inferior yield of the present crop, it probably will realize more than 40,000,000 lbs. about double that of last year."

TO REDUCE TONNAGE TO SAVE OVERTIME

Railroads May Run Shorter Freight Train and May Reduce Engine District on This Account.

Following the adoption of the basic 8-hour day in train service January 1 the railroads now have the choice of paying overtime or reducing the tonnage of their trains so they can get them over the road in shorter time.

The Missouri Pacific management is of the opinion that by reducing the tonnage of trains the overtime can be saved. A shortening of the engine districts and also the shortening of divisions for train crews may be included.

There are a number of roads all over the country which have the same changes under consideration and while it will in a great measure change the location of terminals. It is claimed that an advantage will be gained for the railroad companies. Freight will have a tendency to move faster in the arrangement to get the train and engine crews to a terminal inside the 8-hour limit.

In recent years there has been a tendency to shorten engine districts. On railroads built years ago runs of 150 to 200 miles were frequent. Following the passage of a law limiting the hours of train service to sixteen, the frequency with which trains were run up on the lines led to shortening of the districts until 100 miles is now commonly considered a day's work.

In the old days when there were no labor organizations, twenty-four hours was a day's work if it was necessary, and there was no overtime. The wage was from $40 to $60 a month for firemen and brakemen and about $20 more for engineers and conductors, with no overtime for the clerks in the auditor's office to figure up. The terminals were shortened by the six-hour law and now it is predicted that they will get closer together because of the eight-hour law.—Parsons (Kan.) Sun.

Central Presbyterian. (Eleventh and Bluff). Have you not known a man or two who said "That's not my job," when it was time to do something a bit out of the ordinary? He reminds you that he is not paid to do that particular thing. As a matter of fact, he is not satisfactory at what he does; and of course he is the first man to go, when there is a slump in business. There are men who live their religious lives in the same fashion. They even go farther, really—but they always have a plausible argument to convince you that the things they do are not wrong.

The subject of the Sunday sermon is "Unnecessary Goodness." There is to be special music this morning service. In the evening, commencing at 8:15, evening worship. The subject is "Quietly Asking." MANY ABSENTEE AND SICK REGISTRATIONS

County Clerk Has Filled Out More Than Two Hundred Cards For Such Applicants.

County Clerk Kelley is beginning to believe that there won't be anybody left in the county to register on June 5th if the present rate of "absentee" and "sick" registrations continue. Up to last night about 225 had registered at his office, and they keep drifting in today.

If the men already registered are a fair sample of what can be expected on June 5, there will not be many claims for exemption. Most of the men take the registration good humorously and seem willing enough to go to war in case they should be called.

It is surprising, too, how many have at some time had military experience.

Self Idolatry Led Germans Into War

Psychologist Blames German ego for Catastrophe—England's Snobbery Made Easy Victim.

New York, June 1.—Psychological influence of the great wars of history on the thought and progress of the world was largely responsible for the present world conflict in the opinion of Dr. Charles K. Mills of Philadelphia, who spoke at the annual convention of the Psycho-Philosophical Association. The recent Russian revolution and the military caste of Germany, Doctor Mills said, can be traced directly back to the Napoleonic era. The Russian revolution probably will achieve its aims, the speaker declared, and in doing so will exert a strong psychological effect on Germany, which he described as "the victim of a war created by psychology and self-idolatry."

Aloofness Was Britain's Peril, England's psychology, he said, developed a self-complacency and snobishness which left it at the mercy of a more self-centered and aggressive power.

"As for America," Doctor Mills added, "literature, art and science have been sidetracked largely in the quest of the almighty dollar. High thinking has taken a back seat and has been supplanted by high finance and corrupt politics."

"From the time of the Franco-Prussian war down to the beginning of the present colossal conflict the German mind has been steadily absorbed in the mental nebula which could not have any other outcome than the development of a self-confidence approaching idolatry," Doctor Mills said in discussing Germany. "So it happened that when Germany declared war on Russia and France, and its legions marched through Belgium they were sure of speedy victory. Throughout the first half of the war down to the present time this spirit has been ruling."

Change in Mental Attitude.

"As the flood tide of German success begins to ebb we see a new psychological spirit—a new mental attitude. One significant evidence is the recent announcement of Maximilian Harden, who tells the German people that after all the enemies of Germany are unconquered and probably unconquerable. The contagion of the Russian revolution also soon may play its highly important psychological role."

City Raises Thousand Dollars More For Army Y. M. C. A. Than Asked to Give.

Wichita Falls, which was asked for $1500 for the Y. M. C. A. training camp fund, raised $2500 for this purpose. On Tuesday, State Secretary Coulter, and Secretary Brient of the Fort Worth branch of the Y. M. C. A. arrived here to ask the town to help in this work, naming $1500 as the sum agreed upon for its share. These gentlemen told Wichitans that a fund of $2,000,000 was being raised by the Y. M. C. A. all over the country for the purpose of providing the men at the concentration camps with reading, writing, and recreation rooms, moving pictures, and amusements of various kinds, and of surrounding them with as many good influences as possible. The cause made a wide and instantaneous appeal, with the result that the list of subscriptions totaled one thousand dollars more than the amount required here. COUNT KAROLYI (UPPER) AND COUNT APPONYI.

The Slay press bureau in the United States asserted that the resignation of Count Tisza as premier of Hungary was intended to deceive the allies into thinking that the central powers were desirous of peace. The statement went on to say that a Magyar successor would be appointed who would appear to be more favorable to the allies, but in reality would support Tisza's war policies. It was also asserted that the two Magyar factions, represented on one side by Tisza and on the other by Andrássy, Karolyi and Apponyi, were united in their purpose to maintain the Magyar hegemony in Hungary. The war was favored by both parties because of the opportunity it gave to subjugate the non-Magyar majority in Hungary. The upper man in the picture is Count Karolyi and the lower Count Apponyi. Both have visited the United States and are leading statesmen of Hungary.

At the Theaters

THE GEM. The attraction at the Gem includes Helen Holmes in her new serial, "The Red Riders," and the two-part comedy, "Pois and Poems," with Jane Gail and Matt Moore starred. Lucas is a fine poet, full of inspiration, but lacks a little of the spark of life in his work. Mrs. Spudd, his wife, is a woman who has a little drudge, called Jane, who adores him in secret. She even steals food for him which she takes up to his study when the landlady spies him the privilege of her table, because he cannot pay his rent. At last she turns the poet out of the house altogether, and in gratitude to the drudge, he gives her her masterpiece as he leaves for good. Jane is nearly broken hearted. Jane sees an ad for a prize poem for Bunkum's Ported Meat, for which $1000 is offered. She finds that with a slight alteration Lucas' masterpiece will just fit the case. She sends it in, with her address. At Bunkum's the poem is acclaimed as a prize winner, and Jane is sent for. They offer her the position of ad-writer at $100 per week. She is to sit down immediately and write another masterpiece for the ad. She writes her poems, but can think of nothing, and she tells them that she will return the next day. The next morning, she had not put in an appearance, and the editor is nearly crazy for he is holding the paper for the Bunkum ad. Bunkum's office are in an uproar, while Jane is furiously studying. How to write a poem. By A. Barber, For Ten Cent. She finds it impossible to repeat her success, and they are frantic. In the meantime, Lucas has written his masterpiece in the name as Bunkum's ad. He rushes to their office to complain of the theft of his poem. Jane sees him, and tells him that there is a hundred a week in it for him. She explains, and Lucas sits down and writes another masterpiece as wonderful as the first. Bunkum's entire force is delighted with it. Jane says "Write, Lucas, this is no place for me." Jane goes home to Mrs. Spudd, finds the door locked, and sits down on the steps. Lucas comes after her, gives her half the money, and they are both happy.

THE PLAZA. Four of the cleverest artists on the Plaza theatre tonight the newest and most interesting of Bluebird melodramas, "The Piper's Price." The original story was written by Mrs. Willson Woodruff and the May Park prepared the screen version from which Joseph De Grasse has directed the Bluebird players. There is an original approach to the divorce question in "The Piper's Price" and there is a happy ending after five acts of tribulation and heartaches for a wife who has realized that her husband's return to the woman he divorced might mean disgrace and misery for herself and her unborn child. Lon Chaney, who has played every kind of villain throughout his career, appears in "The Piper's Price," for once in his screen career, as a hero of the most glorified type. The unfolding of this intensely interesting story will prove a source of returning entertainment for devotees of Bluebird.

FIND EXPLOSIVE OF MIGHTY POWER

CHEMIST SAYS 5 GRAMS OF "TERRORALL" WOULD DESTROY LARGEST BUILDINGS.

HANDLING PROBLEM

Dr. D. E. Walloff Hopes to Find Way to Handle Explosive Safely and Make it Useful.

New York Times. The announcement of the discovery of an explosive many times stronger than dynamite, trinitrotoluene, or any other explosive was made last night by Dr. Dave B. De Walloff, vice president of the American Medicopharmaceutical League, a member of the League for the Enforcement of Peace, and a surgeon on the list of the Naval Reserve, who resides at 451 Forty-seventh street, Brooklyn. Dr. De Walloff made his announcement in the Hotel Astor at the annual convention of the Medicopharmaceutical League. He said that, unofficially, he and his son Morton, who was assisting him when they made the discovery, had called the new explosive "Terrorall." As illustrative of its strength, the doctor said that five grains of "Terrorall" would be sufficient to destroy the Woolworth Building, and a large charge of it would have force enough to blow up the Palisades. Dr. De Walloff was to speak on "Prevention and Treatment of Polymyositis," but he did not touch upon that subject because, he said, he wanted to impress upon chemists and members of the profession how much more important now is the question of assisting the United States to win the fight for democracy. He read a paper on "The Handling of this Explosive," and a pledge of support from the league to President Wilson and Congress. This was adopted. Dr. De Walloff then said: "In experimenting about a year ago with my son, who is a chemist, we discovered an explosive force so tremendous that one-millionth of a grain blew into bits a heavy Wedgwood mortar. We are now at work on the problem of the safe handling of this explosive, and I hope that by the time our boys reach the other side we shall have solved it. Until we bring calamity home to the German people, I am afraid they will still blow down to Kaiserism."

After the meeting Dr. De Walloff threw more light on his discovery of terrorall, but he refused to tell whether the explosive had been brought to the attention of the government. The discovery was entirely accidental, he said. He and his son were working to produce a more powerful gasoline. They held to a theory that a substitute could be produced from chemical combinations as well as from crude oil, and their experiments carried them far afield in many directions. "It was while working on an unusual combination of chemicals that an almost infinitesimal particle dropped into the mortar, came into combination with a particle of another chemical, and the resultant explosion shook the laboratory and shattered the mortar. Although the doctor would not discuss what elements entered into the combination of destruction he did say that it was entirely a domestic product and that large quantities could be obtained in the East. He said that it could be carried in a gelatine capsule, and would burn like a match.

Dr. De Walloff also told the league that firebrands should be scattered over German cities from aircraft, so the cities might be destroyed and the people still have opportunities for escape with their lives. He said it was apparently forgotten that long ago a solution had been announced that would ignite in the air and could not be extinguished. With these chemical firebrands Berlin and Vienna could be burned up. Capsules containing sufficient of this chemical would run down a pound, and one airplane could carry 50,000 of them and the aviator scatter them like softing seeds. "Germany is using every means and every device in the work of discovering means of destruction," he said. "We have got to compete with her in this direction, and now is the time when every scientist, chemist and inventor should be at work devising means that will bring victory to our cause. We have got to destroy German homes and bring home to the inhabitants what Germany has done to Poland and to Belgium."

Dr. Samuel Brothers presided at the meeting, and there were present delegates from the Texas County Medical Society, the Alumni Association of Columbia University College of Pharmacy, the Department of Dentistry of the College of Jersey City, the New York County Pharmaceutical Society, and the Department of Pharmacy of the College of Jersey City. Several medical papers were read, including one on "Polymyositis, a form of Summer Grip," by Dr. Benjamin M. Kings of 121 W. 42nd street, Brooklyn. He predicted a cold, wet summer, during which grip would be prevalent. It should, however, the summer be warm, moist, and moist he warned his hearers to look out for influenza, paralysis, and other ailments. "When the grip becomes more virulent," he said, "as in cold, moist days, it gives us grip pneumonia, but when with warmth, it becomes more abundant and extends even into the spinal canal, then we have poliomyelitis, and the Board of Health gets excited and gives everybody hysterics, stops business, stops traveling, stops recreations, and stops everything except grip, which goes on its same old way."

REFERENDUM PETITION CIRCULATED IN OKLAHOMA

Through a referendum petition being circulated in Oklahoma, the operation of the bone-dry law in that state designed to prevent shipments of intoxicants coming into the state, is expected to be suspended. Liquor men here who do a big mail order business with Oklahoma points, are much interested in the petition. An Oklahoma City dispatch says:

"C. E. Patton, attorney of this city who has charge of the referendum petition against the bone-dry law enacted by the recent session of the legislature, said that the petition is being signed very rapidly and will have sufficient signatures by the middle of June, when the bone-dry law will become effective, to suspend the operation of that law.

"It is the theory of Mr. Patton and other lawyers who have become interested in the case that the present liquor laws of Oklahoma are not such as to make effective the new act of Congress prohibiting the shipment of liquors into dry territory in contravention of state law and it follows that suspension of the state bone-dry law will operate to leave the liquor situation in Oklahoma as it is at this time. The theory of the law will no doubt be controverted in the courts however."

What Every Wife Knows
By HELEN ROWLAND

Give me a man who drinks good, hot, dark, strong coffee for breakfast!
—A man who smokes a good, dark, fat cigar after dinner!
You may marry your milk-faddist, or your anti-coffee crank, as you will!
But I know the magic of the coffee-pot!
Let me make my Husband's coffee—and I care not who makes eyes at him!
Give me two matches a day—
One to start the coffee with, at breakfast, and one for his cigar, after dinner!
And I defy all the hours in Christendom to light a new flame in his heart!
Oh, sweet, supernal coffee-pot!

Gentle penance of domestic troubles,
Faithful author of that sweet nepenthe which deadens all the ills that married folks are heir to,
Cheery, glittering, soul-soothing, warmed-hearted, inanimate friend!
What wife can fail to admit the peace and serenity she owes to you?
To you, who stand between her and all the early morning troubles—
Between her and the before-breakfast grouch—
Between her and the morning-after headache—
Between her and the cold-gray-day scrutiny?
To you, who supply the golden nectar that stimulates the jaded masculine soul,
Soothes the shaky masculine nerves, stirs the fagged masculine mind, inspires the slow masculine sentiment, —And starts the sluggish blood-flowing and the whole day right!
What is it, I ask you, when he comes down to breakfast dry of mouth, and touchy of temper—
That gives him pause, and silence that scintillating barb of sarcasm on the tip of his tongue,
With which he means to impale you?
It is the sweet aroma from the coffee-pot—the thrilling thought of the first delicious sip!

What is it, on the morning after the club dance,
That hides your weary, little, washed out face and straggling, uncurled coiffure from his critical eyes?
It is the generous coffee-pot, standing like a guardian angel between you and him!
And in those many vital psychological moments, during the honeymoon, which decide for or against the romance and happiness of all the rest of married life—
Those "critical" before-breakfast moments when temperament meets temperament, and will meets "won't"—
What is it that halts you on the brink of tragedy,
And distracts you from the temptation to answer back?
It is the absorbing anxiety of watching the coffee boil!
What is it that warms his veins and soothes your nerves,
And turns all the world suddenly from a dismal gray veil of disappointment to a bright rosy garden of hope—
And starts another day gliding smoothly along like a new motor-car?
What is it that will do more to transform a man from a fiend into an "ANGEL" than baptism in the River Jordan is the first cup of coffee in the morning!
WE ROAST COFFEE EVERY DAY.
