RENEWAL OF FIGHT ON FRENCH FRONT

GENERAL PETAIN STRUCK BLOW IN CHAMPAGNE SECTOR—GERMAN TRENCHES TAKEN.

BRITISH RELAXED

Fighting Much Less Severe On British Front In France Than For Some Time.

Severity of the fighting on the British front in France and Belgium has relaxed. Along the lines occupied by the French, however, renewal of activities is noted.

General Petain struck the German lines in the Champagne yesterday, a blow which netted the French system nearly a third of a mile in an important sector.

The French line was thereby straightened out along the hill between Mount Carnelle and Mount Thion. Last night a violent attempt was made by the Germans to recapture their lost position, but the French gunners broke it up with heavy German losses.

General Haig reports successful raids in which his troops cut off the enemy lines on the Somme end of the British front.

DECLARES BELGIUM MUST BE RESTORED

President Wilson Says America Sol- emnly Determined That This Shall Be Done.

Washington, June 19.—In a greeting Belgium's war mission, President Wilson expressed America's "solemn determination that on the inevitable day of victory Belgium shall be restored to the place she has so richly won among the self-respecting and respected nations."

Secretary Lansing accompanied the commissioners to the White House where Baron Moncheur, head of the mission, handed to President Wilson a personal letter from King Albert expressing in a short address Belgium's gratitude for America's aid.

The Baron said the Belgians had contracted an immediate debt of gratitude to the generous outpour of sympathy for the little country which has chosen to delay a powerful and less enemy rather than its honor or forsake its pledged word to the initiative of American citizens gave to the unfortunate victims of German cruelty in Belgium the most splendid evidence of generosity.

"Yes, Belgium again will take her place among the nations. The enemy brought us massacre and devastation, but their soul remains in Belgium people, their soil made fertile by the toil of their ancestors, there still remains to Belgium an industrious population of unconquerable energy."

President Wilson, thinking King Albert, said in reply:

"Your excellency is good enough to express the thanks of the Belgian people for the participation of America in feeding the people of your stricken country.

"America engaged in this work as being the only way to give a measure of expressing our deep and sincere admiration for the valiant Nation that had gone forth unhesitatingly to meet the onslaught of a ruthless and my rather than sacrifice her honor.

"The American people have been able to understand glory in the unflinching heroism of the Belgian people and their sovereignty and there is not one among us who does not today welcome the opportunity of expressing to you our hearty sympathy and friendship and our solemn determination that on the inevitable day of victory Belgium shall be restored to the place she has so richly won among the self-respecting and respected nations of the earth."

Tonight the visitors were entertained at a formal White House dinner. The dinner included Vice President Marshall, the Belgian Minister, Chief Justice White, Speaker Clark, members of the Cabinet, a number of congressional leaders and high officers of the army and navy.

GERMAN MAN'S AIR ATTACKS HAVE FAILED

British Front in France, June 19, via London. The Associated Press says that the German air attacks have failed during the battle of Messines.

The German air forces have been attempting to recapture themselves during the past week by adopting the familiar old Teutonic tactics of mass formation. The British pilots report that they seldom meet Germans now in squadrons of less than fifteen machines, while occasionally they encounter an enemy aerial "army" consisting of from forty to sixty aeroplanes.

Some of these great formations have yet been able to cross the British lines for the new tactics have found the loyal flying corps prepared and equipped to meet them with numbers.

Two Ford cars were today identified by the grand jury investigating the matter. They are J. T. Brown of this city, George Jenkins, formerly a waiter in a local restaurant, and a youth who gives his name as Walton. Walton is being held more as a witness than as a party to the thefts.

The evidence leading to the arrest of the three was worked up by Frank Burns of the city police in conjunction with the sheriff's office.

The price at which the crop so far sold has been disposed may average more than $100 a ton.

OUT OF THE HELL OF ARTILLERY FIRE GERMAN PRISONERS MARCH TO THE REAR

GERMAN PRISONERS CAPTURED BY CANADIANS MARCHING THROUGH A FRENCH VILLAGE.

Recent dispatches from the battle front in France assert that many German prisoners were captured unharmed, but rendered insane by the terrific shock of the French and British bombardment and the thousands of others were taken to the rear to swell the ever growing total of German prisoners in the hands of the allies. A group of German prisoners, some of those captured by the Canadian troops in a recent battle in France, are shown here as they were being taken through a French village. This high place, whose name was not given out by the censors who passed the picture, was not occupied by the Germans. Other scenes of the horrors of war are shown in the picture.

GERMANY BURNED BY LONG DROUGHT

VALUABLE GRAIN CROPS BURNING UP IN HEAT WAVE AS THEY DID IN 1915.

By Associated Press. Copenhaugen, June 19.—Throughout Germany according to reports received here, all valuable grain crops are burning up as they did in 1915, in a great heat wave. The prolonged drought has not been broken since early May. Berlin on Sunday reported the hottest June on record in the 77 years experience of the weather bureau. Tropical temperatures were reported everywhere west of the Rhine.

Reports of horse races and other sporting events feature terrifically abnormal heat. Many horses were scratched from the racing track at Hamburg Derby Week because the track, built on a marshy corner moor was baked too hard for safety.

The weather bureau states that prospects for rain or lower temperatures are very slight. The effect of the drought on grain crops around Berlin is especially ominous. The rain here will be long since May 1 is described by a neutral who arrived here on Friday as almost catastrophic.

ROAD BONDS WILL BE GIVEN APPROVAL

This puts the bonds up to the buyers now, and bids will be opened on July 19th for their sale. Many inquiries have already been made for the issue from bond buyers from the north and east, and a good price is anticipated for them.

PITIFUL PLIGHT OF RESCUED CHILDREN

Most of Those in Areas Occupied by Germans are Wounded—Nearly All Orphans.

CHILDREN CAPTURED BY GERMANS AND RESCUED BY THE RED CROSS.

By Associated Press. London, June 19.—The pitiful plight of the children rescued from the villages of Northern France, even when by the German under pressure of English and French offensives, according to a picture of the poverty of modern warfare as characterized as the Somme forest, denuded and broken by months of shell fire.

Many of these children are orphans without a home, a relative. Many have been severely wounded. Most of them suffer from a peculiar shell disease, which is very fatal. They will never be quite normal again. All are underfed and frail from confinement in cellars.

The condition of their parents, men and women who have been living under the shadow of the invader for these long months and years has been bad enough, but the condition of the half starved, wounded and virtually deranged mental children has been far worse.

The children were collected and transported by first allied troops into the fully occupied areas. Everything that can be done to cure and care for them is being done. The first step was to remove them well behind the lines where many of them were placed in hospitals. As these hospitals were filled with the children, all under twelve years of age. Most of them are wounded. Some have lost legs or arms, others their sight, others their hearing, others their brains.

These are victims of the ruthless hand of modern warfare," said the head of the hospital, a French woman, according to the uniform of the French Red Cross. "There is no better argument against war than to see these mutilated little victims who will never play or enjoy life as other children do. They are mere shadows of children. It is difficult to make them think and they tremble at any noise or sudden movement. We are always gentle with these children, they need a subtle gentleness as if we were handling something more fragile than the most delicate of children."

One of the patients, a five-year-old boy who had been rescued from shell shrapnel, had been in the hospital for several weeks. Then one day he opened his eyes after a long sleep and said: "It is very quiet here. I like it."

Patients like that encourage the nurses, but there are many sadder cases, child patients whose wounds are so deep that they will never be able to do anything but lie in bed, and who, despite every effort, grow steadily weaker, patients who are gradually losing their reason and whom nothing can save.

GOOD START IS MADE ON RED CROSS FUND

2 CITIZENS GIVE $2,500 TO FUND

MAYOR KLINE PLEDGES $2500 AS BURKBUENNETT'S SHARE IN COUNTY'S TOTAL.

CANVASSING IS BEGUN

Big Drive to Raise $25,000 in Wichita County by Red Cross Committee Committed to Success.

Ten per cent of the quota for Wichita county for the Red Cross fund has already been subscribed by J. A. Kemp and Frank Kell, each of whom gave $2500 towards the $25,000 for which this county is asked. Mr. Kline, the mayor of Burk Burnett, was in town yesterday and promised $2500 for that point. C. W. Reid and W. W. Gardner visited Iowa Park and Burk Burnett this morning to get into co-operation with the local committees there, and Messrs. Clint Wood, R. O. Harvey and G. B. Straus went to Electra this morning for the same purpose. Electra can be depended upon for at least $3,500, in the opinion of those gentlemen.

At the meeting last night the captains of teams were allotted some six hundred names of merchants, factory men, auto dealers and every class of commerce. These men will be canvassed this week and they are expected to come across. Every one with any kind of a business, and some with no business, are on this list, so that all may hold themselves in readiness to produce when called upon.

The general opinion of the meeting last night was that the quota could be raised without difficulty; that it would prove easier than the Liberty Loan, because people were now to some extent awake to the fact that they should be called upon to help in many ways in the war. Although there was a longer campaign for the Liberty Loan, there is much more difficulty in wringing out of giving to the Red Cross and although people in general are not educated to the needs of the Red Cross as they were to the Liberty Bonds, the arguments are much more quickly stated, and there is no class of citizen who can refuse to give and still save his face. The professional parrot—real or feigned—could say that it hurt his sensitive conscience to think that he would do anything to prolong the war, and so could not buy a bond. But he must for that very reason give to the Red Cross—just because of his tender conscience; just because the Red Cross does what can be done to take the sting out of war, and to make it less horrible. Even the war enthusiasts, who believe that war should be made as horrible as possible, invariably mean for the other side, and they must give to save their own skins. All parents who can give, even a dollar, will certainly do so, because even though their children may not be old enough to fight, parents are prominently the ones who will understand why one of the chief things we are fighting for is that no frightful legacy may be handed down to the children, as it certainly will be unless the democracies are decisively victorious. And for that, there must be Red Cross work and lots of it, and an ever increasing amount of it. The government cannot do this work as effectively as the Red Cross; first, because it cannot make the pace, and second, because the government ambulance on the field and not immune from attack as are those of the Red Cross. Even in this war, which has seen more of disregard of the principles that govern gentlemen even when they disagree, than any other, the Red Cross ambulances have not been subjected to attack, according to their own report. That fact in itself should be sufficient to guarantee the fund.

Each night the captains of teams are to report results of collection to F. N. Lawton, the campaign manager, and he is to write J. W. Gardner, director of the Gulf division of the American Red Cross, at his headquarters at New Orleans. More than ten per cent was promised before the canvassing started. By tonight the percentage should have swollen to considerable proportions. If the teams can do every day of the week what has already been done, the quota will be raised.

GENERAL CADORNA KNOWS THE MOUNTAINS WELL

Rome.—General Cadorna, chief of the general staff of the Italian army, has known the mountains in which the Italians are now fighting the Austrians since he was a little boy. In an elementary school book on the war the story is related that when a lad of six he became lost while roaming in the mountains. At the end of a whole day he was found and led home to his distressed mother. "Don't cry, mama, please," he said. "I'm not afraid of the mountains."

EVANGELIST SPEAKS ON CONFESSION

Declares No Way to Remedy Evil Influence of Sin Except Through Confession.

At the Methodist revival last night Evangelist McIntosh opened his part of the service with a new kind of prayer meeting, when he invited anyone who had heard anything good about the revival to get up and tell it.

Several responded with good things they had heard. The evangelist then invited anyone who had heard anything bad to tell what it was, but nothing bad was told.

The evangelist did not preach on "The Danger of Crossing the Dead Line" as announced, but changed his subject at the last minute, and addressing himself primarily to the large number of church members present spoke on "Confession." He spoke at length with some famous confessions of the Bible.

Only one sin is placed against David in the Bible, he said, and David, when he had realized the enormity of his crime against Uriah, threw himself on the mercy of God, and asked for forgiveness. His plea for mercy is one of the most touching confessions in all scripture. He did not blame God, the church or anyone except himself.

The evangelist said that what the church needs is an old-time Baptist confession meeting. Many church members, by their sinful conduct, stand in the way of some who might otherwise be saved. If a Christian sins openly, then his confession should be open in the sight of men. "Confess your faults one to another," Solomon, he stated, are good in confessing faults—the other fellow's faults, however.

The preacher then spoke of the confession of Christ. He quoted the passage: "If ye confess me before men, then will I confess you before the angels which are in heaven." He spoke of the joy of this confession, of what it will mean to a redeemed soul in heaven. "If we are ashamed to confess Christ here, then will Christ be ashamed to confess us, to call us his children."

When a sin is committed, there is no way to remedy its evil influence, no way to nullify its poison, except by confession. At the close of the sermon three or four came down and gave their lives to Christ.

A special feature of the meeting was a solo by Mr. Hiskakee. The singing was excellent throughout. There will be a children's service again at 7 o'clock, and a young people's meeting at 7:30. The night service will open promptly at 8:15.

FORT SILL GETS READY FOR GUARDS

Historic Army Post is Preparing to Train 20,000 National Guardsmen for New Army.

Fort Sill, Okla., June 19.—After nearly fifty years' existence as a frontier camp for troops engaged in suppression of Indian uprisings, and more recently as an artillery range and small army post this historic spot—the largest military reservation in the United States—is preparing to train 20,000 national guardsmen for the post they will play in the European war drama.

Within a few weeks the 1,400 Oklahoma National Guardsmen, now mobilized here, will be joined by the militia from many of the central states and by immense "tent cities" will spring up practically overnight. Oklahoma's warm, dry climate will obviate the necessity of erecting wooden barracks, at least until the early part of December.

Contracts have been let for thirty-eight buildings and army wagons are being ordered. The railroads are putting in extra sidetracks to ease for the increased traffic incident to the arrival of troops and material for buildings. In Lawton, ten miles distant, a campaign already has been started to entertain the guardsmen with substantial clean-up campaign.

Army engineers are working on plans to enlarge the water supply and a pipe line probably will be laid to Lake Lawton in the Wichita mountains. The permanent deep well water supply will be inadequate to care for the increased number of men.

In the military reservation are included 2,000 acres of land and in the national forest adjoining are 48,000 acres, a total of 50,000 acres available for mobilization and training of a large body of troops. Military officers declare that the reservation is large enough to care for a number of men. The Wichita mountains are almost wholly within the forest reservation but the military reserve is primarily grassland. Within the military reserve it is estimated there are 15,000 acres of prairie hay which the government could use.

Permanent camps at both the old and new posts will accommodate about 2,000 men. The Oklahoma National Guard now is quartered in tents. About 200 artillery men are now in barracks at the new post.

Fort Sill, by reason of its size and variety of terrain, for many years has been used by the government chiefly as an artillery range.

Post Located in 1858. The post was located in 1858, under Camp Johnston, which was then General Benjamin H. Grierson and was first occupied by four companies of the Tenth Cavalry in January of the same year. On the same site, sixteen years before, in 1842, Captain R. B. Marcy, in command of the "Red River" expedition, which brought the first white man into that territory, and Captain George B. McClellan, later commander in chief of the federal troops in the civil war, then associated with the expedition as engineer, pitched camp here, and in his diary related the story of the expedition.

General Marcy gives an accurate description of the camp location, the present site of Fort Sill, and writes: "From its commanding position, it is well secured against surprise and is, by nature, one of the most defensible places I have seen."

General Philip Sheridan selected "Camp Wichita" as the base of operations against the Cheyennes and Kiowas during his campaign of 1868, in which in the decisive battle of the Washita, he put an end to Indian depredations in western Oklahoma. Since then it has been the military center for the reservations of the Comanches, Kiowas, and the affiliated bands of Wichitas, Keechies, Wacos and Cad-wos. Partially covered alone and firm embankments erected by General Sheridan, in that campaign, are still visible to the north of the post. Shortly afterward, the post was named "Fort Sill," in honor of General Joshua Woodrow Sill, a military leader of the civil war and a West Point classmate of General Sherman.

For twenty-five years following his capture in Sycamore canyon, Arizona, the famous Apache war chief Geronimo was held prisoner here, where he and his band were buried in a little Indian cemetery, a mile north.

General Miles Favored Site. Another station at Fort Sill, the captain for whom the city of Lawton was named. The country surrounding the old post was the favorite hunting ground for General Nelson A. Miles, and so strong an attachment was formed that when in 1887, there was talk of abandoning the site, he was in favor of the preservation of Fort Sill.

Former President Taft on his visit as secretary of war declared it to be the "most favorable spot in America" for the construction of a great army post.

The old post represents the general appearance of low steppes and ruggedly constructed buildings, and aside from the growth of trees, presents an unchanged appearance from its establishment.

ARMY NEEDS 45,000 MEN IMMEDIATELY

This Number Needed to Bring Infantry and Artillery to Full Strength.

The local army recruiting office has received from the War Department at Washington, the following "statement by the secretary of War":

"The Cavalry, Engineers, Coast Artillery, Signal Corps and Quartermaster Corps of the Regular Army have already been brought to War strength. Forty-five thousand recruits are needed at once to complete the new regiments of Infantry and Field Artillery."

Twenty-five thousand additional recruits are desired at the earliest practicable date, to 70,000 vacancies, in order that the war strength of 300,000 may be maintained.

Facilities are in readiness for placing fifteen 70,000 men under proper training.

Any delay in obtaining this number will necessarily cause the loss of invaluable time.

It is the earnest desire of the War Department that 70,000 single men between the ages of 18 and 40, who have no dependents, and who are not engaged in professions, businesses, or trades vitally necessary to the prosecution of the war, be enlisted in the regular army before the 30th of June, 1917.

NEW YORK, L. I. (AP)—"Secretary of War."

The navy has sent out a large quantity of literature, circulars, and posters to all the local stations. Some of the posters are very good. One shows a huge figure of Columbia, holding a drawn sword aloft in her right hand, while her left clutches tightly a scroll, partly unrolled, on which are seen the words: "We could do no other." Underneath is written: "The sword is drawn; the Navy upholds it. Another is an appeal from the people. It is the figure of a girl, saying: "Women Awake! Your country needs you." Below is printed: "League of National Service." John L. "Navy League." There is also one showing a sailor on a blue field, surmounted by a gold border. The poster reads: "The Navy League has the honor to announce that this house has furnished a man for the Nation's defense." These posters may be obtained by any house which can subscribe to the statement, and will doubtless be in great demand.

There is still another Navy League poster, showing the head and shoulders of a sailor boy. Beneath the picture is written: "America's First Line of Action, and ground for sides." "Be one of the leaders in your community by enlisting TODAY." "If you have passed the age limit, there is special work for you to do at home. Join the Navy League."

The local recruiting office for the navy secured three men yesterday: John Jones, Goodlett; Robert K. Gault; Elmer and Virgil L. Taylor, Sargent, Ia. The army accepted William B. Hopkins, Wichita Falls.

General Sir Robert Whigham's army name is "Wigwag."

ishment years ago. The stockade, however, is now being used to store army hay. At the time it was built, the nearest railway station was Fort Hacker, Kan., 324 miles away. No appropriations for buildings were made until 1890, when the army quarries found near the site and timbers for clapboard roofs were sawed from trees on the creek bank. Practically all the construction work was done by soldiers.

In one of the old barrack buildings there still remain an old army order prohibiting soldiers from "showing" buffaloes from the barrack windows.

Within the last four years $2,000,000 have been spent on improvements at the new post, and with the coming of the national guard for training the reservation will come into a period of the most active usefulness in its history.

PRESERVING VEGETABLES BY FERMENTATION PROCESS

Washington, D. C., June 17.—The fermentation method widely used abroad in preserving string beans, beets, cabbage, cucumbers and other succulent garden crops, is described in a notice just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Sauerkraut and pickles put up in this way are fairly well known in this country but comparatively few persons have thought of trying it as a household measure for preserving these and other vegetables. Those who like acid foods and who have too few canning containers to hold their surplus products may find this method useful. The following description of this method of fermenting vegetables is prepared by one of the bacteriologists in the Bureau of Chemistry who has been experimenting with this process. The vegetables are not cooked and are put down in a salt brine in any non-metal water-tight container and are sealed up with paraffin and are otherwise made air-tight. Under this treatment lactic acid will develop and this acid, the value of which as a preservative has been recognized, acts as a preservative. Whether Americans will develop a taste for such fermented foods highly prized in Europe is open to question, but the investigator believes that many will find the process well worth trying. To Preserve Cucumbers. Wash the fruit if necessary and pack into a clean, water-tight barrel, keg, or crock. On the bottom of the barrel place a layer of dill and a handful of mixed spice. Add another layer of dill and another handful of spice when the barrel is half full and when almost full add a third layer. If a keg or crock is used, the amount of dill and spice can be reduced in proportion to the size of the receptacle. When the container has been filled within a few inches of the top, add a layer of covering material—beet tops or grape leaves—about an inch thick. If possible, the covering should cover the surface. This layer will protect the vegetables beneath. Press down with a clean hand-weighted with bricks or stones. Do not use lime stone or sandstone. Make a brine by adding one pound of salt to 10 quarts of water. To each 10 quarts of water, add one quart of vinegar. The vinegar is used primarily to keep down the growth of injurious bacteria until the lactic acid ferment starts, but it also adds to the flavor. Add sufficient brine to cover the material and allow to stand 24 hours. Then make air-tight, as described below. This time necessary for complete fermentation to occur depends upon the temperature. In a warm place only five days to a week may be necessary; in a cool cellar 3 to 4 weeks. Beets and String Beans. The strings should be removed from string beans before they are put into barrels of course, require careful washing to remove all dirt before filling. If it is desired, when finally the beets or string beans are to be eaten to wash out the brine and cover them as fresh vegetables. The addition of spices when they are put in is not necessary. Proceed as with cucumbers. Make the Covering Air-Tight. There always will be more or less bubbling and foaming of the brining liquid during the first stages of fermentation. After this ceases a thin film will appear which will spread rapidly over the whole surface and develop quickly into a heavy, frothy membrane. This is a growth of yeast-like organisms which feed upon the acid formed by fermentation. If allowed to grow undisturbed it will eventually destroy all the acid and the fermented material will spoil. To prevent this scum from forming it is necessary to exclude the air from the surface of the brine. This should be done by either of two methods: 24 hours after the vegetables have been packed. Perhaps the best method is to cover the surface—over the board and around the weight—with very hot melted paraffin. If the paraffin is sufficiently hot to make the brine boil when poured upon it, the paraffin will

"PHILE" DIVISIONS IN THE SWISS PRESS

Switzerland Has Problem in Newspapers Which are Strongly Pro-German or Pro-Entente. Associated Press Mail Correspondence. Berne, Switzerland.—It is doubtful whether any country in or out of the war, whether under the iron hand of the censor or not, and whether wholly or pro-German in its sympathies, has as peculiar and conglomerate a problem as Switzerland with its newspapers in three languages. A strong undercurrent of patriotism, a thorough-going conviction that, whatever the rights and wrongs of the war may be or where they may lie, the duty of the Swiss newspapers is first and foremost to Switzerland has, therefore, tended to restrain them from dividing themselves into two camps. This has been especially true of the French and more conservative papers, both those printed in German and those in French. But the opening of the Germanophile and Francophile journals, many of them war-mushrooms, has been a strain not only on Swiss neutrality, but on the inner peace and good temper of the country. The Swiss press can be divided roughly into four groups. The first consists of the old-time, conservative papers, both French and German, which have striven desperately to be neutral. The second class embraces a group of the Francophile papers published in western Switzerland. They are frankly pro-German and campaign against the enemies of France. The third includes the Germanophile papers, many in number, though small in influence, which do not even the Francophile papers of Germany in their bitterness, especially in America, and which operate along the well-known German psychological lines when trying to influence public opinion. That is to say, they metaphorically produce the effect of a bill in a china shop when attempting to plead the German cause, chiefly because they try to pass German arguments and the justice of the German cause down their readers' throats. The fourth class comprises the Socialist papers of Switzerland, which are violently anti-German, anti-Swiss, and anti-Entente in general, anti-anything. The Francophile papers are much smaller in number than the anti-Entente papers. All the papers are normally at least bound to print the news reports of both sides, but the French language papers conduct their anti-German work by cleverly written headlines that tend to cast doubt on the truth of the German reports, and by generally using terms with sarcasms, often good natured. The Germanophile papers, on the contrary, most of them are German owned or subsidized—except a hearty handful of neutral papers, which are generally bitter, and as often as not are full of misinformation. For the credit of the majority of the Swiss, be it said that they—and this includes a majority of the German-speaking Swiss—have a hearty contempt for both "white" types, especially the Germanophile. Neutrality is almost a holy word in Switzerland; certainly a word to conjure with in other phases of the life of the country. Does it come more nearly being violated than through a portion of the press. An officer, unfortunately smaller portion of the press, especially neutrality as scrupulously as the Swiss army or government. SLACKERS ARRESTED AT FORT WORTH. The Associated Press. Fort Worth, Texas, June 19.—The department of justice officials today report the discovery of six slackers through marriage license records, poll tax records and census lists. Several arrests have been made.

BUSINESS STRONGER SAYS DUNN'S REPORT

Returning Activity in Branches Where Business Has Been Slow—Prices Still Upward. With indications of returning activity in branches which have experienced a more or less protracted lull, the general position of business is strengthening and sentiment has noticeably improved, says R. C. Dunn's report for last week. The report says the revival in distributive trade has continued with the most reasonable temperatures, and though not all reports are favorable, results at the retail counters are now more uniformly encouraging. Further progress in agriculture has also accompanied the better weather and the consequent free movement of farm products in the market has helped to bring down prices. Yet the retail trade of wholesale commodity quotations is still decisively upward, and textiles and steel and iron are well as other lines. In fact, prices are not only generally high, but are likely to rise to even more extraordinary levels. It is again evident that in the near future the most serious question of cost is actually disappearing and weekly advances of 2 to 3 per cent in price are not new occurrences. The movements of the government in assuming more definite shape in the steel industry and other calculations as to their magnitude are proving very satisfactory while in textiles, in leather and footwear, and in other lines the war need are extensive and diversified. Readjustments in production occasioned by the new economic conditions, have continued, and while every effort is made not to disorganize regular trade, it is recognized that in certain instances it will be experienced in obtaining supplies when they are wanted, and many interests endeavor to place longer contracts than usual. That is to say, the new business is not inconsiderable and is being stimulated by the recent decline in the steel corporation's untitled tonnage, and it is expected that a recession where mills and factories are shut in many instances. From the standpoint of volume, orders and profits, most manufacturers are in a remarkable prosperous condition, but the backward condition has broadened the backward condition, and the practice of economy has left larger stocks and inventories than expected and more is heard of barman offerings. Twenty-five Cent Cotton a Reality. Producers of this cotton have been realizing some of their hopes, and the possibilities of still higher prices are considered in many quarters. The recent remarkable advance, which has been followed by other market leaders is found mainly in legitimate demand and supply. The influence of speculation has been extreme, and the big domestic consumption is emphasized by latest reports from the South. It has been rather more than the belief persists that the crop may prove inadequate for a sharp recovery, what might be called a "rebound" in the cotton market, and the recent favorable news from the fields prompted some recession in prices. The important winter wheat has made further gains, and the market suggests that the recent estimate of the government, which was both disappointing and surprising, may be subject to later revision. Record Domestic Cotton Consumption. That domestic cotton consumption has attained a new high record during the May figures—exporting 1,000,000 bales, excluding lint. This is an amount total for any month, and compares favorably with the maximum of 1,000,000 bales in May of the same year. The monthly average since August 1916 has been nearly 520,000 bales, and for the period ending May 1917 is about 5,655,000 bales, or almost 25,000 bales more than in the previous year. The consumption has surpassed that of all other years. Imports from cotton mill centers of the difficulty of obtaining an adequate supply of labor have not been uncommon, yet orders are spinning steadily in increase in number and, at 22,423,150 in May, set another new precedent and contrasted to 22,209,374 in the corresponding month last year. The while material, man, cotton goods, mills and their selling agents have both promised to withdraw quotations and check sales. Values in all prime markets are advancing to abnormal levels, and there is a growing realization that current retail prices, decidedly favor the consumer, directly be cause of this, and also owing to the higher temperatures. Trade has improved, but retailers are said to be having comparatively little success in securing factory conditions, continue the reverse of satisfactory, yet considerable betterment is expected with the warmer weather and these in no relation to prices. Instances are noted in leather of increased operations in regular trade channels and enormous quantities of this commodity are being taken for government requirements. General sentiment throughout the leather and leather markets is conspicuously improved, and there is more firmness in quotations.

NEW ARMY TO NEED IMMENSE SUPPLIES

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., June 18.—The vast quantity of rifles, revolvers, machine guns, wagons, horses, and mules required to complete the army of approximately 2,500,000, contemplated as America's part in the war, is shown in the following table of figures. The new armies are to be organized in divisions and the 2,500 men will make up approximately 80 divisions. The following equipment will be required:

Wagons	81,000
Motor trucks	26,000
Trucks	3,350
Machine Guns	7,350
Rifles	1,750,000
Pistols	500,000
Motorcycles	1,600
Riding horses	18,000
Mules	35,000

Besides the divisional organization, there will be 40 brigades of heavy artillery, attached to army corps, which will require the following:

Trucks	25
Horses	36,000
Rifles	500
Pistols	100,000
Motor trucks	6,500
Motorcycles	6,000

For immediate emergency use there must always be on hand from 10 to 50 per cent of the number of each article, and it is estimated that under present conditions of warfare, the supply departments must contemplate the replacement of the entire equipment for each year of service. At least three uniforms, and four pairs of shoes must be provided for each soldier, and his pack must be renewed at least once.

J. W. Bantz, superintendent of the Katy-Northwestern Lines, left yesterday for St. Louis, to attend a meeting of operating officials of the M. & T. railway, which will be held there today.

FRENCH SENATOR'S EXPERIENCES IN A GERMAN PRISON

Associated Press Mail Correspondence. Paris—Auguste Potie, an important brick manufacturer, senator from the department of the Nord and Mayor of Haubourdin, has just made his first appearance in the senate since the spring of 1914 and announced to his colleagues that he had in the meantime learned the trade of tailor in a German prison.

Senator Potie was sent to prison in July, 1915, for having reminded the commanding officer of the occupying forces, who happened to be a Greek of Greece in the service of Germany, that article 22 of the Hague convention was contrary to the forced employment of the inhabitants in occupied districts on work of military nature for the benefit of the invaders.

Haubourdin is only three miles from the battle front and the inhabitants were called upon for all sorts of service, burdened with lines and vexations and loaded with fines and vexations of all sorts.

Ten young girls in the Saint Augustin orphan asylum at Haubourdin had been ordered by the Germans to make burlap sacks. When they learned that the sacks were to be filled with sand and used as ramparts against the French they refused to work. M. Cordonnier, director of the flax mill from which was requisitioned the material to make the sacks, was held responsible for the strike, and on his refusal to undertake the manufacture of the sacks was fined 1,000 francs and held as hostage until the work should be resumed.

Captain Argyropoulos, the Greek officer in command, then summoned Monsieur Potie to furnish the sacks. He refused. The German commander fined him 1,000 francs while most severe measures were taken against the entire population. Subsequently M. Potie and M. Cordonnier were both fined 500 francs by General Krug von Nida, commanding the 24th division at Launshardt. A few days later, after he had posted a letter invoking the Hague treaty, Senator Potie was arrested. Both he and M. Cordonnier were condemned without having appeared before any tribunal to pay fines of 1,000 francs and to serve one year in prison, the terms of prison to be increased eleven months in default of payment of the fines. Confined at Loos, then at Aix-la-Chapelle and Cologne, they were finally taken to the prison of Sieburg. There their heads were shaved, they were clothed in prison garb, and were obliged to set to learning the tailoring trade.

Both were released in September, 1915, informed that their penalties had been reduced to six weeks. Last year Senator Potie was sent back to Haubourdin without explanation. Senator Potie refused to resume his functions as mayor, reasoning that the Germans that after having been imprisoned with convicts his dignity as a Frenchman prevented him from resuming the functions of Mayor so long as the town was occupied by the Germans.

M. Cordonnier, who is nearly seventy, is still a prisoner of the Germans.

CALM PREVAILS THROUGHOUT SPAIN

By Associated Press. Madrid, June 19—Premier Dato, addressing a number of press representatives, said that calm prevailed in Spain but that he considered that grave problems faced the government. He did not believe hatred was the solution. Dissolution of the Cortez was possible, he said, as urgent questions might arise which it would be necessary for parliament to discuss.

FRANCHISE WILL BE EXTENDED TO WOMEN AND OTHER CLASSES UNDER PROVISIONS.

MUCH STUDY GIVEN

Bill is Result of Investigations That Have Been in Progress for Ten Years.

Associated Press Mail correspondence.

London—Sweeping changes in the election system in this country are provided for in a bill now before Parliament. Proportional representation which aims to give all citizens a large or voice in the government, the granting of the vote to women more than thirty years old and giving the franchise to all soldiers and sailors are the outstanding features of the measure.

This new franchise reform bill, officially known as the Representation of the People's Bill, is to a large extent the result of a continuous concerted effort over a period of nearly ten years by a royal commission appointed to examine the various schemes which have been adopted in other countries in order to secure a fully representative character for popular elections, legislative bodies, etc.

Men of 21 years and over to have a vote on the basis of six months' residence or of 12 months' business premises. An elector may have five votes and no more—one for residence in one constituency and one for business premises, of the value of 10 pounds a year, in another.

Any woman of thirty years old who is entitled to a vote at the municipal elections, or who is the wife of an elector, is to be entitled to vote at the national elections for members of parliament.

Soldiers and sailors of legal age to be qualified to vote in the areas in which they ordinarily reside.

Half yearly revision of the national voting list and all elections for parliament to be held on the same day.

Proportional representation in extended urban areas, and redistribution of seats on a basis of population.

One member of parliament for every 70,000 of population. No member for a constituency of more than 100,000.

The provisions of the women's suffrage and proportional representation clauses left for final decision by the House of Commons, they may be modified as suits the judgment of the majority of the members.

The proportional representation feature of the bill has attracted most attention here, as the candidates for many changes in the system of representation in the government. The system had been in force in Belgium for 20 years before the war and has just been adopted in Holland.

Here is an example of the system which the reform contemplates. In a district having 2,000 registered voters, there are three candidates for one vacant seat. Suppose that candidate A gets 2,000 votes, candidate B gets 1,500 votes and candidate C gets 1,200 votes. The result of putting A in is returned at the head of the poll with 2,000 votes; while 2,000 voters have shown their unwillingness to have him as their representative.

To prevent the return of similarly candidates it is proposed to introduce the alternative vote into the national electoral system. Instead of putting a cross (X) on the ballot against the name of the candidate he prefers, the voter, under the system of the alternative vote, would place the number 1 against the candidate's name and the number 2 against the name of the candidate who came next in his choice.

When the votes are counted, those marked 1 would be added for each candidate in the first place, and if the addition showed an absolute majority of the votes, that candidate would be declared elected.

But if the addition of the first choice votes did not give an absolute majority for any candidate, then the following procedure would be adopted: The candidate at the bottom of the poll would be dropped, and his name eliminated, but his ballot papers would be re-examined, and the votes transferred to the second choice of those who had marked 1 against the name of the candidate who had been declared elected. If not, the candidate left at the bottom of the poll by the first elimination would be declared defeated and his votes transferred to the second choice. This procedure would continue until one of the candidates had an absolute majority. In this way the alternative vote would secure the advantage not only of a second ballot, but of successive ballots should they be required.

Miss Maurine Whorton left this morning for a three weeks' visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Whorton, at Hubbard, Texas.

ABRAHAM'S FAITH THEME FOR SERMON

At Central Presbyterian Church Rev. Sheffer Preacher on "Faith's Answer to God's Call."

On Monday evening at the Central Presbyterian church in continuing the series of sermons on "Faith's Answer to God's Call," Rev. George W. Sheffer spoke on "Faith's Answer to God's Call." His text was Gen. 22:11, "Here am I." The minister, in his sermon, traced the faith of Abraham, showing how the promise made to him of a blessing upon all the nations of the earth through his seed, secured about in the call of fulfillment; because God had called on Abraham to offer up his only son, but the superb faith of this old man did not fail him in this hour of trial, and Mr. Sheffer's hearers were made to realize something of the triumph of the faith of Abraham.

The minister then continued, "Showing that the answer of Abraham here saying, 'Here am I,' was always the answer of faith to the call of God. Abraham was in tune with the Infinite that day, and he heard it. And furthermore, God must call nations into his service; but to do so, he must call by individual persons, for he can not call by a mass. This was very clearly illustrated by the lives of Abraham, Moses, Samuel, Ishak, Luther and others. When the call of God is heard, whether the heart of one's influence, and power be great, or apparently small, it is only a matter of surrendering of answering faith's answer, 'Here am I.'"

In the case of the working success of the church, the call even here comes to the church as one's duty, as to the members individually. The church as an organization will never answer "Here am I," until the members have personally made that answer when the call comes, and be ready to serve. Without that, the church can not succeed.

How About Comfort this Summer

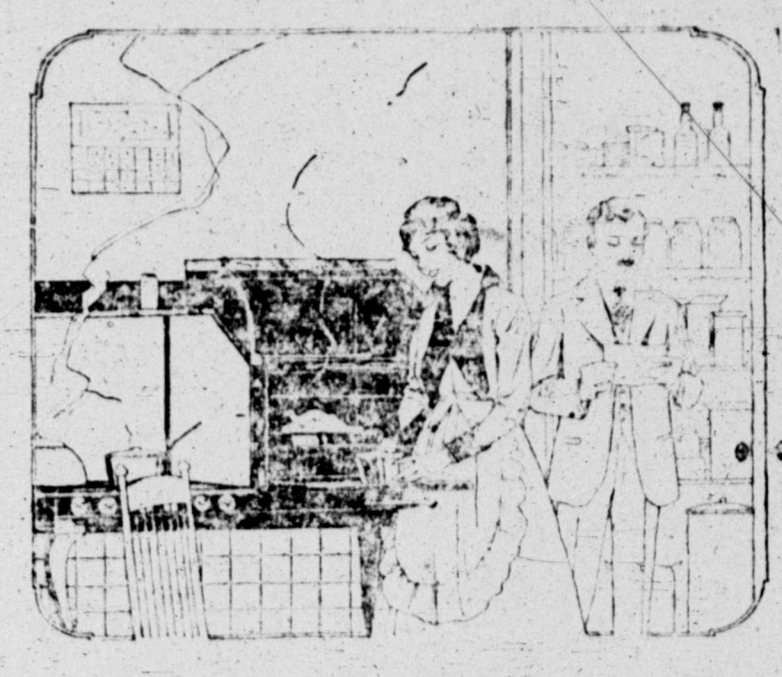

So far we have had very pleasant weather, but it can't continue much longer.

On Hot Days the remedy is

An "All-Green Fan"

All-Green fans can be used on wall or desk and the breeze can be diverted in any direction. The bases are "Anti-Creep". The fans have speed controls for three speeds. All parts are enameled a dark olive green; hence will not spot, tarnish or show dirt.

- $3.50 Cash and $3.00 per month for 3 mos. for straight type 12-inch "All-Green" Fans. Total price, $12.50. $4.50 Cash and $3.50 per month for 3 months for 12-inch "All-Green" Oscillators. Total price, $15.00.

SEVEN DEADLY SINS and what they did to ONE LITTLE GIRL

EACH STORY COMPLETE—NOT A SERIAL "PRIDE"

The second sin—and the second play of the McClure's series, featuring Holbrook Blinn.

Beautiful Shirley Mason, youngest and loveliest star of the films, appears in each picture.

The action and melodramatic interest of the picture is far above the first of the series called "Sins" in all particulars. The players headed by Holbrook Blinn are excellent.

The author has given to the story a fine human character contrast and the material with which he worked has resulted in a moving picture of the highest quality.
