42 Dead in Indiana Wreck—Authorities Start Investigation

PORTER, INDIANA, Feb. 28.—Forty-two bodies had been collected early this forenoon from the wreck last night when the Canadian and the Interstate Limited trains on the Michigan Central and the New York Central lines respectively, crashed at a crossing. It was a diamond-shaped crossing, permitting the New York Central train, which struck as the other sprawled, derailed, across the intersection, to rake two Michigan Central cars instead of cutting one at right angles.

The forward coaches of the New York Central train, which was west-bound, lay upon the splintered coaches of the Michigan Central train, which was eastbound, through which it plowed while traveling nearly 50 miles an hour. The darkness and the tangled mass of wreckage made rescue work slow, railroad officials waiting for daylight before attempting an accurate check of the injured.

LIST OF DEAD.

PORTER, IND., Feb. 28.—The death list of last night's wreck here was fixed today by H. O. Seipel, coroner of Porter, county, at forty-two. The morgue at Chesterton contained 24 bodies, some of them only fragments; four were still under the wreckage 15 hours after the accident, and two were at a hospital in Michigan City. Only 14 had been positively identified by relatives or friends, as follows:

At Chesterton morgue: HOWARD ARNEY, Cleveland, Ohio. MRS. EMMA BEYER, August, Mich. MRS. FLORENCE ZEE, Michigan City, Ind. PEARL MAY CAVANAGH, eight years old, adopted daughter of Mrs. Zee. MRS. LILLIAN DAHR, Michigan City, Ind. ARTHUR E. ECKMAN, two year old nephew of Mrs. Daehr. JUSTIN COLLINS, London, Ont. GORDON CAMPBELL, Revelstoke, B. C. CARL DELAND, fireman of New York Central train of Elkhart, Ind. W. G. ENGLER, traveling on a pass from Chicago to Detroit. CLAUDE JOHNSON of Elkhart, Ind., engineer of the New York Central train.

PETER CAIN, Regina, Sask. MRS. BARNHART KRAMER, Michigan City, Ind. A. M. GIDDINGS, identified from watch; had railroad ticket to Augusta, Mich. MRS. FREDERICK SCHWIR and the unidentified dead were: Woman at Michigan City hospital, supposed to be wife of E. M. Giddings. Four bodies under wreckage. Twenty-three bodies at Chesterton morgue. Partial identification of the dead which the coroner refused to accept as positive and other information from train records and persons on the train, gave the following list:

MISS JUNE CAMPBELL, stenographer to the Michigan Central division superintendent at Jackson, Mich. T. J. CAMPBELL, 18, supposed to be a brother of Miss Campbell. MR. AND MRS. J. L. MUELLER, Michigan City, Ind. FRED REGGOTT, Niles, Mich. MR. AND MRS. A. E. VAN RIPER, Michigan City, Ind. WOLTER, Detroit, Mich. MRS. JUSTIN COLLINS, London, Ont. Unidentified dead were: FRANK DOYLE, Michigan City, Ind. MR. AND MRS. C. H. GOLDSTEIN, Detroit, Mich. FRED REGGOTT, Niles, Mich. MRS. GEORGE BAKER, Michigan City, Ind. L. W. KEELER, Michigan City, Ind. A. MATTHEWS, Mascoda, Wis.

All except the two baggage and mail cars of the New York Central train remained upright, although bits of the wooden coaches of the Michigan Central train were scattered for fifty yards. Passengers in the four coaches of the Michigan Central train behind the death cars were unhurt except for a shakeup, and all of the passengers on the New York Central escaped, climbing to the ground from their cars through the wreckage.

Some Are Deceptively. For no reason that railroad officials could assign, almost all the dead taken to the little morgue at Chesterton, across the tracks from Porter, received their fatal wounds from the Michigan Central train, which was eastbound, and the failure to identify nine of the twenty-five had been taken there up to 5 o'clock.

The first group of those critically injured were rushed in an ambulance to Michigan City, Ind., and two of them died on the way. Railroad officials expressed the belief early today that all of the others injured would recover. Hospitals and private homes at Michigan City and Gary received the injured, according to the character of the injuries.

Records of the Michigan Central train disclosed a large number of railroad employes, traveling on passes, scheduled to go on the wrecked train, but they could not be located in the Chesterton morgue. Efforts of volunteer doctors and men from Michigan City and Gary to rush the injured to hospitals led to confusion in the check of railroad officials on the list of casualties, but it was believed the total would not exceed 25.

The speed of the New York Central train, while fatal to passengers in the two death coaches, saved the passengers in the rear coaches of both trains from worse than a severe jolting.

Bodies of Engineer Claud Johnson of Elkhart, Ind., and Fireman George Deland of Elkhart, engine crew on the New York Central train, were recovered early today from beneath the tangled mass of iron to which the engine was reduced by the impact.

President Harding has selected a former "Devil Dog" for his cabinet in the appointment of Edwin Denby, of Detroit, as secretary of the navy. Mr. Denby the United States will have at the head of its navy a former soldier and sailor. During the Spanish-American war, Mr. Denby served as a gunner's mate on the U. S. S. Yosemite. At the age of 47, Mr. Denby enlisted during the World War in the marines as a sergeant and won promotion to major. During his three terms in congress the new navy had served as a member of the house committee on naval affairs. He is a lawyer. The illustration shows Mr. Denby swearing in as a sergeant in the U. S. marine corps in 1918. The inset shows him in uniform while serving as a sergeant with the marines at Paris Island, S. C.

PISTOL TAX REPEAL PASSED OVER VETO BY SENATE MONDAY

GOVERNOR IS OVERRIDDEN, VOTE BEING 22 TO 4, WHEN MESSAGE IS RECEIVED. ECHOES OF CAMPAIGN IN DISCUSSION OF BILL

El Paso Senator Refers to Claim That Governor "Never Shot a Gun" When Bill Comes Up. AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—The senate shortly before noon passed over the governor's veto the bill by Senator Darwin of Lamar repealing the 50 per cent gross tax on sale of pistols in Texas. The vote was 22 to 4.

The governor's message as to why he vetoed the measure was read and Senator Darwin immediately moved the passage of the bill over the governor's veto. No debate was had and the motion quickly carried. The house has yet to act on this measure since vetoed.

The four senators who voted "no" on the motion were Senators Buchanan of Belt, Page of Baustrop, Coulins of Jefferson and Woods of Navarro. When Senator Darwin made his motion Senator Dudley of El Paso gained the floor and asked Senator Darwin "If he thought a man who had never batted a fish hook nor shot a gun was a competent judge as to the best weapon for protecting the home?"

The governor in his message said that a "shot gun loaded with buckshot was far better than a pistol for the protection of the home."

GREECE STANDS PAT ON SEVRES TREATY, BARS INVESTIGATION

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Greece has refused to accept the proposal that an investigation of conditions be made in Thrace and Smyrna preparatory to making alterations in the Sevres treaty. M. Kallergopoulos, head of the Greek delegation in this city, today received a telegram to this effect from the Athens government.

The telegram was not presented officially to allied premiers and they were simply allowed to know its contents indirectly. It is considered possible therefore that a subsequent telegram may annul the one received today. The Greek refusal was not taken seriously in allied circles.

Among questions taken up today was the appointment of a Turk to the Constantinople financial commission. It is probable that David Bey, a former minister of finance, will be selected.

The Greek legation in London received a message last night that mass meetings in Athens, Piraeus and Smyrna had passed resolutions declaring that Greece was "prepared for any sacrifice of blood in defense of her sacred rights, which were embodied in the Sevres treaty."

In the meantime Moslem members of the council and state legislative assembly of Delhi have asked the secretary of state for India to suggest to the Near East conference the restoration of Thrace and Smyrna to the Turks. Counter charges that crucifixes have been inflicted by the Greeks upon Turkish subjects in the Smyrna region have been filed by Turkey.

FARM LOAN ACT IS HELD TO BE VALID BY SUPREME COURT

DECISION WILL PERMIT MAKING OF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN LOANS. AUTHORITY OF CONGRESS TO CREATE BANK UPHOLD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The federal farm loan act was held constitutional today by the supreme court. This is the act under which land banks were established to extend loans to farmers. Millions of dollars in loans to farmers have been held up pending a decision of the court in this case, which was brought by Charles W. Smith, a stockholder in the Kansas City Title & Trust company, who sought an injunction to restrain that institution from investing its funds in bonds issued by the farm loan banks.

The act was attacked on the ground that congress was without constitutional authority to establish farm loan banks and to exempt their bonds from taxation. Justice Day, who rendered the opinion for the court, said the power of congress to establish banks had in a broad sense been upheld by the supreme court in the days of Chief Justice Marshall.

The court in sustaining federal court decrees dismissing injunction proceedings brought by Mr. Smith also held that congress had the authority to exempt the bonds of the bank from taxation.

The court divided six to two. Justices Holmes and McReynolds dissented. Justice Brandeis took no part in considering the case. Justices Holmes and McReynolds held that the "cause" should have been dismissed by the federal court as being solely within the scope of the Missouri clause.

BANK CLERK'S CASE BEFORE GRAND JURY

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—The case of William Dalton, 16-year-old bank clerk charged with the theft of $12,000 in Liberty bonds from the Northern Trust company here, was presented to the grand jury today.

The youth was held at the detention home, pending arraignment. He will be brought to trial immediately, probably will plead guilty and will start his sentence within a week, officials predicted today.

In the meantime a quarrel has started over the reward for his arrest in Heyworth, Ill. Part of the $25,000 given to Paul Draper, son of the constable who arrested the youth, is claimed by James Dennis, who said he informed the constable Dalton was in the village.

Dennis has retained an attorney and announced he would fight for his share.

COMMISSION GIVES BIG POWER PERMITS AT NIAGARA FALLS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The Niagara Falls Power company was granted a fifty year license today by the federal power commission to use 12,500 cubic feet a second of the 20,000 cubic feet of water permitted by a treaty with Canada to be diverted from the Niagara river above Niagara Falls.

A preliminary permit was granted today to the Hydraulic Race company to continue using the remaining 800 cubic feet allowed to be diverted under the treaty with Canada.

A preliminary permit for two years also was granted to the Lower Niagara River Power and Water Supply company to divert 20,000 cubic feet per second from the head of Whirlpool Rapids to be used as a power station.

The commission also approved an application by Henry Ford for a power development project at Troy on the Hudson river to cost $2,500,000 as the power source for a factory project involving $7,000,000.

FOOD MEASURE KNOCKED OUT BY SUPREME COURT

PORTIONS OF THE LAW AGAINST PROFITEERING ARE HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL. WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Sections of the Lever food control act under which the department of justice has brought many actions for alleged profiteering necessities were declared unconstitutional today by the supreme court. Chief Justice White read the court's opinion.

Conviction of the L. Cohen Grocery company of St. Louis, in having charged an unreasonable profit on a sale of sugar, was set aside by the court.

In taking this action the court sustained decrees of lower courts which had sustained a demurrer to the indictment of the grocery concern. The specific charge was that the defendant charged $100 for fifty pounds of sugar, or at the rate of more than 20 cents a pound.

The conviction of the firm of Weeds, incorporated, of Birmingham, N. Y., also was set aside. Chief Justice White said the statute was "as broad as human imagination."

Justice Brandeis and Pitney concurred in the opinion, but dissented from the reasoning by which it was reached.

Hundreds of cases growing out of the government campaign to reduce the cost of living are affected by the opinion. A number of these cases have reached the supreme court while many others are pending in lower courts.

HARDING'S PICK FOR LABOR PORTFOLIO IS OPPOSED BY UNIONS

LEADERS CONSIDER APPOINTMENT AS NOT IN LINE WITH WILSON'S PRECEDENT.

SELECTION LOOKED UPON AS SORT OF COMPROMISE

Is Not Far From Non-Union To Any Pronounced Extent in His Personal Feelings.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The apparent conclusion of Mr. Harding's consideration of the department of labor is the end of a process of pulling and hauling on the part of opposing interests which began immediately after the election.

During the past week one of the candidates, T. V. O'Connor, was at St. Angustine, Fla., where he received the endorsement of a number of other candidates.

These personal representations were only a fraction of the pressure that has been brought to bear in many other ways. The official representatives of union labor, while they will not formally endorse any candidate or formally oppose any other candidate, are determined to have it on record that the selection of J. J. Davis is not to be regarded as a union labor choice and is considered a break in the precedent made by President Wilson when the office was first created of filling it with a union labor man.

The complications of this situation and the difficulties Mr. Harding has had in his selection of Davis have been suggested.

The first interest that became active immediately after Mr. Harding's election was a group of manufacturers and employers who are actively and implacably opposed to union labor. Their wish was that Mr. Harding should fill the post with a representative of the employing interests, a captain of industry. Their thought can best be illustrated by the names of those who were proposed as that of Charles M. Schwab.

On the other hand, several other large employers, as well as thoughtful men in public life, among them Herbert Hoover, recommended strongly that the best solution of American labor problem lies in giving the recognition and moral support of a cabinet officer to the unions.

This conflict between union labor and the opposition to union labor was one of the first and most important of the issues that Mr. Harding faced at the outset, however, he made it clear that he would not be involved in this particular economic question and that he would not select any one who would be regarded as an enemy to the principle of union labor.

From a time Mr. Harding was believed to go to the other extreme, it is certain that at one time or another a confidential agent of Mr. Harding made personal investigations of the record and of the standing in their respective communities of several union labor leaders, notably Lee of the trainmen's union, Lusk of the coal miners' union and at least two others.

At this point a consideration arose which barred several union men. Railroad chiefs, Elkins, Eastman, Mr. Harding, by his vote in the senate and by several direct utterances in his campaign, was and is regarded as strongly against the Elkins Cummins act, under which the railroads are now conducted. It was and is obvious that he could not well select any one on record as opposed to the act. This barred Lee of the trainmen's union as well as Congressman Nolan of California.

The officials of the American Federation of Labor recognize this limitation and would have been entirely satisfied with any one of the several labor men who either supported the Elkins Cummins act or have not made violent opposition to it.

The two union men recently considered have been Duncan of the granite cutters' union and O'Connor of the longshoremen's union. Both these men were not only satisfactory to union labor, but were also regarded as satisfactory to the class of employers who favor the unions. As between the two, it might be said, roughly, that O'Connor would be the better choice, but he was also regarded as satisfactory to the class of employers who favor the unions. As between the two, it might be said, roughly, that O'Connor would be the better choice, but he was also regarded as satisfactory to the class of employers who favor the unions.

4 DAYS REMAIN FOR ALDERMAN PETITIONS, NEW ENTRY APPEARS

With four days left in which petitions may be filed by aspirants for a place at the city council table during the next two years, the ballot lists of the April election give promise of being more or less congested. Five candidates have already announced an intention of making the race for position No. 1, now that of police and fire commissioner, while two have been listed as intending to run for sanitary and health commissioner. Friday, February 4 is the last date on which these petitions may be made, according to City Clerk George Thoburn.

The latest petition is that of William L. Smith for the office of police and fire commissioner. The petition indicated that Mr. Smith would run for position No. 1, which is that of the police and fire official.

Signed petitions of George Hodgins, R. L. Yates, C. J. Arrington and Mr. Smith have now been presented, and it is known that the necessary signatures for the petition of W. G. Bralley, present incumbent, have been secured. Mr. Bralley has not filed his papers as yet.

For the office of sanitary and health commissioner, two candidates have been announced thus far. M. O. McDowell, present commissioner, has formally stated his intention of running for re-election, and the petition of Dr. J. F. Reed has also been filed with the city clerk.

Job Hunters Storm Washington Chiefs, Pro Jobs Popular

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The quadrennial inauguration of Washington is rapidly approaching, flood tide, a swirling current of job seekers is swirling and eddying around the capitol, the homes and hotels of cabinet members.

They are here to tell the world and the Harding administration that they were largely responsible for what happened November 2 and to claim fitting reward. They will continue to see to it that they are not disappointed.

A count by senate attaches indicated that no fewer than 1,500 of "the boys" dropped in to see senators about a little job during the week. At one time it was practically impossible to get through the marble room, a spacious place off the senate chamber where senators meet callers, for the number of "job seekers" assembled there.

Most of them want to be just one thing—prohibition enforcers.

BERKMAN TELLS OF MANY HARDSHIPS IN RUSSIA AT PRESENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Letters from Alexander Berkman, deported anarchist leader, to his friends in New York published today in a local German language newspaper, tell of the difficulty the Russian people are experiencing in obtaining sufficient food and fuel. One letter dated November 2, 1920, said that Russia, notwithstanding its being the richest country in the world in natural resources, is not in position to nourish its own population and to keep its people warm during these bad winter days. "Russia is compelled," Berkman wrote, "through the continued demands for armed defense against the allies to send its best workers to the front, the consequence being the depletion of the industrial and technical forces. Transportation suffers most, accompanied by the restriction of the complete stoppage of the sending of manufactured articles to the country population and the sending out of provisions and fuel to the cities." Berkman said the hardest toll is done by economic hardship in the interior and the Ukraine.

The two Sinn Feiners, Murphy and Kennedy, according to these reports, were taken to Dublin castle for examination, found not guilty and ordered released. Major King, commanding a detachment of black and tans, and Captain Hardy, intelligence officer, were said to have taken the two to the scene of the recent Drumcondra ambush, backed them up against a wall and ordered them shot. The same source announced 47 black and tans had been arrested charged with looting and other offenses including the seizure of quantities of champagne. The wine was said to have been intended by the police as a gift to Lord Lieutenant French, the men intended to deliver it at the vice regal lodge.

Democrats wanted to talk about it, though they promised not to delay the vote tonight after noon.

The Five Orange Pips

PART ONE.

When I glance over my notes and records of the Sherlock Holmes cases between the years '83 and '96, I am faced by so many which present strange and interesting features that it is no easy matter to know which to choose and which to leave. Some, however, have already gained publicity through the papers, and others have not offered a field for those peculiar qualities which my friend possessed in so high a degree, and which it is the object of these papers to illustrate. Some, too, have baffled his analytical skill, and would be, as narratives, beginnings without an ending, while others have been partially cleared up, and have their explanations founded rather upon conjecture and surmise than on that absolute logical proof which was so dear to him. There is, however, one of these last which was so remarkable in its details and so startling in its results that I am tempted to give some account of it, in spite of the fact that there are points in connection with it which never have been cleared up, and which will be entirely cleared up.

The year '87 furnished us with a long series of cases of greater or less interest, of which I retain the twelve months I find an account of the adventure of the "Paradise" Chamber, of the Amateur Medicinal Society, who held a luxurious dinner at the hotel, and the furniture warehouse, of the facts connected with the loss of the British bark Sophy Anderson, of the singular adventures of a deduction which was the island of Ufa, and finally of the Chamberwell poisoning case. In the latter, as may be remembered, Sherlock Holmes was called in to examine the dead man's watch, to prove that it had been wound up two hours before, and that therefore the deceased had gone to bed within that time—a deduction which was of the greatest importance in clearing up the case. All these I may stretch out at some future date, but none of them present such singular features as the strange train of circumstances which I have now taken up my pen to describe.

It was in the latter days of September, and the wind which had set in with exceptional violence. All day the wind had screamed and the rain had beaten against the windows, so that the interior of the house was a hand-holding London we were forced to raise our minds for the instant from the routine of life, and to recognize the presence of that great elemental force which shrieked at mankind through the bars of his civilization, like untamed beasts in a cage. As evening drew in, the storm grew higher and louder, and the wind whirled and sobbed like a child in the chimney. Sherlock Holmes sat moodily at one side of the fireplace, cross-indexing his records of crime, while I at the other was deep in one of Clark Russell's fine sea-stories, until the howl of the gale from without seemed to blend with the text, and the splash of the rain to lengthen out into the long swash of the sea waves. My wife was on a visit to her mother, and for a few days I was alone in the house, in my old quarters at Baker street.

"Why," said I, glancing up at my companion, "that was surely the bell. Who could come tonight? Some friend of yours, perhaps?" "Except yourself I have none," he answered. "I do not encourage visitors." "A client, then?" "If so, it is a serious one. Nothing less would bring a man out on such a day and at such an hour. But I take it that it is more likely to be some crony of the landlady's."

Sherlock Holmes was wrong in his conjecture, however, for there came a step in the passage and I at a tapping at the door. He stretched out his long arm to turn the lamp away from himself and towards the vacant chair upon which a new-comer must sit. "Come in!" The man who entered was young, some two-and-twenty at the outside, well groomed and trimly clad, with something of refinement and delicacy in his bearing. The streaming umbrella which he held in his hand, and his long shining water-proof top of the fierce weather through which he had come. He looked about him anxiously in the glare of the lamp, and I could see that his face was pale and his eyes moulted when he was angry, and of a most retiring disposition. During all the years that he lived at Morham I doubt if ever he would have been seen to leave his room. He drank a great deal of brandy, and smoked very heavily, but he would see no society, and did not want any friends, not even his own brother.

"He didn't mind me, in fact, he took a fancy to me, for at the time when he saw me first I was a younger fellow than I am now. This would be in the year 1878, after he had been eight or nine years in England. He begged my father to let me live with him, and he was very kind to me in his way. When he was sober he used to be fond of playing backgammon and draughts with me, and he would make me his representative both with the servants and with the tradespeople, so that by the time that I was sixteen I was quite master of the house. I kept all these things about me, and I was very particular about them. I had a revolver in my private, and he was never allowed to see more than such a collection of old trunks and bundles as would be expected in such a room. One day—it was in March, 1882—a letter with a foreign stamp lay upon the table in front of the colonel's envelope which he still held in his hand. It was not a common thing for a letter to come to him, and he had no friends of any sort. 'From India,' said he, as he took it up. 'Popularity postmarked with a red wax seal. Opening it hurriedly, out there jumped five little dried orange pips, which pattered down upon his plate. I began to laugh at this, but the laugh was struck from my face at the sight of his face. His lip had fallen, his eyes were protruding, his skin the color of putty, and he stared at the pips with a tremulous hand. 'K. K. K. K.' he shrieked, and then, 'My God, my God, my sins have overtaken me.'"

"What is it, uncle?" I cried. "Death," said he, and rising from the table he retired to his room, leaving me palpitating with horror. I took up the envelope, and saw scrawled in red ink upon the inner flap, just above the gum, the letter K three times repeated. There was nothing else save the five dried pips. What could be the reason of his overpowering terror? I left the breakfast table, and as I ascended the stair I met him coming down with an old rusty key, which must have belonged to the attic, like a cash box, in the other hand. "What is it, uncle?" I cried. "Death," said he, and rising from the table he retired to his room, leaving me palpitating with horror. "They may do what they like, but I'll excommunicate them still," said he, with an oath. "Tell Mary that I shall want a fire in my room to-day, and send down to Forham, the Horsham lawyer." "Did as he ordered, and when the lawyer arrived I was asked to step up to the room. The fire was burning brightly, and in the grate there was a mass of black, fluffy ashes, as of burned paper, while the brass box stood open and empty beside it. As I glanced at the box I noticed, with a start, that upon the lid were printed to meet it. The matter passed, however, and my father entered into possession of the estate, and of some 30,000 pounds, which lay to his credit at the bank. "One moment," Holmes interposed. "Your statement is, I foresee, one of the most remarkable to which I have ever listened. Let me have the date of the reception by your uncle of the letter, and the date of his supposed suicide."

"The letter arrived on March 10, 1882. His death was seven weeks later, upon the night of May 2. "Thank you, Pray proceed." "When my father took over the Horsham property, he, at my request, made a careful examination of the attic, which had been always locked up. We found the brass box there, although its contents had been destroyed. On the inside of the cover was a paper labor, with the initials of K. K. K. repeated upon it, and letters, memoranda, receipts, and a register written here and there. A presumer, indicated the nature of the papers which had been destroyed by Colonel Openshaw. For the rest, there was nothing of much importance in the attic, save a great many scattered papers and note books bearing upon my uncle's life in America. Some of them showed that he had done his duty well, and had borne the repute of a brave soldier. Others were of a date during the reconstruction of the southern states, and were mostly concerned with politics, for he had evidently taken a strong part in opposing the carpet-bag politicians, who had been sent down from the north."

PASSENGERS TELL WRECK EXPERIENCES

Priest Crawls Into Burning Debris To Comfort Dying Men Beyond Hope of Rescue.

By CARL V. LITTLE, Staff Correspondent.

PORTER, IND., Feb. 28.—According to information gathered by railroad and police authorities today, blame for the wreck here lay not until the engineer of the Michigan Central and the towerman at the Diamond Crossing where the wreck occurred.

The Michigan Central train at six p. m. Sunday coming down on the dangerous crossing at a speed of fifty-five miles an hour. It derailed and plunged along, lying half way across the Michigan Central tracks which intersect the New York Central rails.

After going through the train, the locomotive with parts of human bodies still hanging on the pilot, spun entirely around and rolled over on its side. The engineer and fireman were killed instantly.

Passengers aboard the Interstate Express described their scenes as the train plowed through the wreckage.

"We heard a terrible sound as bits of wreckage struck the windows, and the car began to jar," said John Gehart, Chicago.

"We heard ringing steel and wood, crashes of glass and the sound of the mounting shriek from the dying and injured."

The work of rescue began immediately although it was not until two hours after the crash occurred that a wrecking train arrived from Michigan City.

Three persons were pinned under the wreckage and dying from scalds," she said. "Their screaming and shrieking were terrible. I started to crawl in and try to help but some man pulled me back. We realized there was nothing we could do but pray for a quick ending of their agony."

"Father Deville crawled into the steaming and scalding debris and comforted them until finally their cries were stilled by death."

Fire broke early from the wreck. The volunteer fire department of Porter strung a hose several blocks and soon had the flames under control.

"The conductors of the women who assisted in the rescue work was praised highly by the men."

Most of the bodies were taken to Laporte, Michigan City, Gibson and other nearby points in automobiles. Six bodies were taken from under the engine of the New York Central train.

"One girl who told me she was a Red Cross nurse overseas, tore the silk finery which she was wearing into strips for bandages. There was no any screaming or fainting among the uninjured women."

"Inability to get physicians to the scene of the wreck until nearly two hours after it occurred, hindered the first aid work."

There are no physicians in Porter. The two who resided in Chesterton were away from home. Autos scattered the country around the scene for miles before physicians were finally located.

INDIANA WRECK DEATH LIST IS 42

Mich. and Fireman George Block of Michigan City, Ind., were able to save themselves, their engine being far beyond the point of collision.

The was not to blame. Towerman Cook told an Associated Press man at his home in Chesterton today. "I threw the distant block against the Michigan Central track. I threw the block two miles back from the crossing. I do not know why they failed to catch the signal."

Representatives of the Indiana railroad commission were expected on the scene early today to start the state's angle of the investigation. An official statement issued from the office of the chief dispatcher of the Michigan Central at Chicago also declared the Michigan Central engine crew apparently failed to observe the crossing signal was set against them.

With the coming of daylight, officials in charge of the wrecking crew expected to be able to clear away the wreckage sufficiently to enable trains to operate on both tracks and to remove the last of the bodies still held down by timbers. Portions of at least six persons were visible beneath the heavy New York Central cars, members of the wrecking crew declared.

Confusion in Darkness. Because of the darkness, the shock of the catastrophe and the frenzied efforts of volunteers, many names were at first given out by railroad officials. Some of the dead who later were said not have been aboard. Railroad officials had no definite estimate early today of the total number of persons sustaining serious injuries, as they were rushed to Michigan City and Gary by different groups of volunteers in automobiles and ambulances.

Within a short time lights in up-right coaches of both trains were turned on again from an emergency connection and any semblance of panic among the uninjured was allayed, while the unburied ministered to the injured.

"Several Like Ten Years." Edwin W. Fierke, who stood on the platform of the day coach, just a few feet from the point where the New York Central engine hit it, and who saw the passengers in this day coach trying to escape as the headlights bore down on them, told his story today. He is from Grand Rapids, Mich. His story begins at the point where the Michigan Central train derailed and came to a stop across the New York Central tracks.

"The car swayed suddenly and left the tracks," he said. "We bumped along the ties for a few feet at full speed. From one side I heard a blast of whistles. I looked out. There was another train bearing down on us at full speed. I couldn't move. I tried to open the door into the day coach to shout to the people inside. My hand refused to function."

"I perhaps wasn't more than 20 seconds before the time I saw that train and the moment it hit us. It was 10 years to me."

"The light from the headlight of the approaching train made everything as bright as day where I stood. I thought I was surely going to be killed."

"Like a Little Hell." "As I stood I could see into the day coach. On the side the New York Central train was approaching I could see that other passengers had seen the train. A woman jumped from her seat. She held a little girl in her arms, she was about eight or nine years old—to her breast. Men jumped up—one even started for the door where I was standing."

"The suddenly the side of the car buckled in. My last conscious impression was of everything dissolving in front of me. I remember seeing the nose of the engine. I remember the lights in the car going out. I remember hearing a scream that I'll never forget. And then came darkness."

"I was thrown from that platform nearly fifty feet. I lit on the ground—the breath knocked out of me. When I sat up—the whole middle of our train had gone. It was a little hell there for a few minutes."

"I wish I could accurately describe the sensations of that moment that I waited for death. I can't understand, even now, how I'm alive. When I could get to my knees I stayed there and gave up a prayer. And I'm glad of it."

"I'll never forget the expression of the faces of those poor people as they died. The staring eyes of one man looked directly into mine—that face is going to come to me for the rest of my life." Fierke, aside from many bruises, was not injured. The car platform on which he stood was smashed into fragments.

After Engineer Not Located. After saying that Engineer Long of the Michigan Central had left for his home in Jackson, Mich., members of the wrecking crew and Michigan Central railroad men admitted that he had not gone there, but they refused to disclose his whereabouts.

At 8 o'clock parts of what seemed to be at least three bodies were taken from the heart of the debris, gathered in a basket and taken into the Chesterton morgue. Railroad officials and Coroner Seipel of Valparaiso at that time had almost given up hope of identifying half a dozen of the bodies and had seen them up in shrouds to await the services of undertakers. Entrance to the little back room of the undertaker's chapel was barred to all except a few who were able to show they could help in identification.

LEAGUE RECOGNIZES AMERICA'S RIGHT TO PROTEST MANDATES

By HENRY WOOD, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—The right of the United States to a voice in fixing mandate returns is recognized by the League of Nations council in a note laid before the council yesterday by A. J. Balfour, British delegate.

The note was drafted in answer to Secretary of State Colby's protest on the Mesopotamian and Van mandates, awarded Great Britain and Japan. It was understood it was of a most friendly character.

The council was split, however, on the proper method of inviting the United States to participate in mandate discussions. There was a fear that if she were invited to take part in a conference she would refuse, as she has declined other invitations to act on various league commissions.

There was a possibility that the allied supreme council which assigned the island of Yap to Japan, would be invited to reconsider its action.

APPEAL IS FILED BY BIG BILL HAYWOOD AND HIS ASSOCIATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—"Big Bill" Haywood and 23 other leaders of the I. W. W., convicted of violating the espionage and selective service laws, today appealed to the supreme court to set aside the prison sentences and fines imposed on them.

The government immediately filed a brief with the court asking that the request of all the I. W. W. be denied and their convictions be allowed to stand.

Attorneys for the I. W. W. also asked the court to review the conviction of 29 members of the organization at Sacramento for violation of the espionage and selective service laws.

In case the request is granted this general appeal will be consolidated with the one of the I. W. W. convicted in Judge Landis' court at Chicago.

The I. W. W. were convicted in the general district court of Judge K. M. Landis at Chicago and their conviction upheld by a circuit court of appeal.

Attorneys for Haywood and others now ask the supreme court for a writ of certiorari so that the entire case may be reviewed and finally decided. If the request is not granted, the prison sentences and fines of the lower court will be made by the county Attorney Shotwell has of a would demand the death penalty.

ASK COURT TO ADVANCE FEDERAL RESERVE CASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Supreme court today was asked to advance the case which will determine the validity of federal reserve board orders to establish a system under which bank checks would be collected at par.

The regulation has been sharply attacked by many state banks and others not members of the federal reserve system, which have received large revenue from discounting checks as a charge for handling them. The suit in the court was brought by the American Bank and Trust company against the federal reserve bank of Atlanta.

One of the most distressing and common of complaints at this season of the year is "cold." "Cold" is usually due to temporary closure of the pores of the skin by chilling, cutting off the processes of elimination. "Cold" then being an auto-intoxication should be treated by a remedy that stimulates the secretions and renews the liver to action and produces a free and easy evacuation of the bowels, removing deleterious substances from the system. Go to any good drug store and get a 25c box of Wilford's "Red-Heads" and take one or two tonight; tomorrow you will feel different.—adv.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The mightier man, the mightier is the thing.

What makes him honour'd, or begets him hate;

For greatest scandals waits on greatest state.

The story that Abraham Lincoln was born out of wedlock has been borne on the wings of scandal for many, many years.

One seldom mentioned his greatness but there was another to bring up the ancient scandal that was allegedly based on facts.

Many, subscribing to the doctrine that Lincoln was one of the greatest Americans and yet believing what they had long heard, regretted the bar sinister, the spot on the "butcher and were unable to deny it.

These, then, will be gratified to know that it was false, on the authority of so distinguished and unbiased a personality of Henry Watterson, a Confederate veteran and always a Southerner.

Somebody has written a book, reviving the old story—that Lincoln was not the son of Thomas Lincoln, whose relationship was purely putative, but of Abraham Enloe and Nancy Hanks.

A symposium of comment on the book was sent to Colonel Watterson at Galveston by the editor of the Houston Post, and here is the great Kentuckian's reply:

"You send me a North Carolina newspaper containing a rebash of the exploded fiction that Abraham Lincoln was not the son of Thomas Lincoln, born in honest wedlock, but of a certain Abraham Enloe, whom it is alleged he closely resembled.

I read the Cathey book, "The Genesis of Abraham Lincoln," when it first appeared and found it so full of misstatements touching minor matters as to rob it of all claim to consideration touching the Houston Post, and in a far range of idle hearsay and neighborhood gossip—long after the event—and, if there were nothing to refute it, its very text would expose it to question.

But there is plenty to refute it. Abraham was the third child begotten of Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, more than three years after their marriage in 1804. First came a daughter, Sarah. Then a first-born son, Abraham, in 1809, the son Abraham. The documentary evidence on file in the archives of Washington county, Kentucky, is complete and conclusive, contradicting Herndon, who, because President Lincoln did not appoint him to office, became his enemy, and giving the lie to this Cathey story.

"What boots it? William the Conqueror was a bastard. So was Alexander Hamilton. That which originally appealed to me was not Abraham Lincoln, but his mother, the fair-haired Nancy Hanks. That, lying in a lonely, unmarked grave nearly a hundred years, her virtues should be assailed by irresponsible scribblers and a plotting partisans, did stir me to special exertion, and I found, as Miss TARBELL, who worked with me to the same end, unexpected and unusual evidence in support of what I am here writing. If I wage in reach of my own literary I could find no other data. But this should suffice, albeit the world dearly loves both a paradox and a scandal, so that a congenial calumny, relating to a world famous man, but in reality defaming an honest woman, is not likely to down as long as sensation mongers and newspapers are edited up a tree."

"HENRY WATTERSON. Galveston, Texas, February 19, 1921."

LICENSING THE BOOTLEGGER.

An exaggeration of the ease with which alcoholic liquors can be obtained and the openness with which the illicit traffic is carried on appeared in cartoon form in the Times the other day. The cartoon showed an ample waited man at his desk in his office before his employees and others noisily ordering over the telephone the delivery of a case of Four-Star Hennessy or some other favorite brand to his residence. Fortunately, or unfortunately as some may view it, liquor cannot be obtained with such ease or openness. The traffic of the bootlegger is carried on furtively and with much secrecy.

The "fella who sets out to buy liquor goes out to find a "gentleman" having found the "gentleman" he arranges for the delivery of a specified quantity of liquor at a high enough price. The purchaser does not call on the "gentleman" at the place where the latter has his good stored. Oh, no! He makes known his wants and the "gentleman" goes out to see if he can find it. Universally, it is said, he is successful and delivers to his customer at some designated point the amount of liquor called for and receives his reward.

Now this whole transaction is carried on in secret between the two men. In most cases the bootlegger is wary enough to see that only one other than himself is present. There is no noisily ordering over the telephone in the presence of others. Nothing like that. The present law of Texas provides that the man who has liquor in his possession in the light of a co-felon with the man from whom he has purchased it and therefore, under the general practice, a bootlegger cannot be convicted on the unsupported testimony of one of the man who has bought his goods. As a result of this situation it is very difficult to secure evidence for the conviction of bootleggers. The bootlegger and his customer carry on their transaction in secret and when no one else is around, therefore there are no other witnesses to testify. With the only other man who knows anything about the transaction incompetent to testify the bootlegger has simply to stand on his right not to testify against himself and the prosecution is almost powerless.

GO ON WITH NAVY.

President-Elect Harding has sent word to the senate republican leaders that he desires adequate appropriations for the navy and favors the continuing of the present building program without material reductions.

In this he is in accord with the urging of Secretary Daniels. Notwithstanding the fact that about 95 cents out of every dollar of federal revenue goes to the support of the army and navy and to the payment of obligations on account of past wars, it is believed the sentiment of the country is for the building of a strong navy, the strongest in the world. Not until the United States has joined a league of nations that includes all the great powers of until there is a general disarmament agreement among the nations ought there to be a let-up in naval expansion plans.

Yale governors broke, we think, two precedents when it elected Dr. James Rowland Angell to the presidency of the ancient university. One—it has been broken once before in the election of Dr. Arthur Twining Hadley—was in the selection of other than a Congressional minister for the place. The other which has not been broken in a hundred or more years, was the selection of a graduate of another university than Yale itself, for Dr. Angell is a graduate of Michigan University under his distinguished father's regime and did post-graduate work in Harvard. His fitness for the place in the estimation of the Yale governors is shown by their announcement that they considered eighty nationally known educators for the place and selected Dr. Angell as "the ablest educational administrator available in the United States, irrespective of the college of his graduation or the place of his residence."

WHY?—

Does Ammonia Clean Things? (Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

To understand the cleaning function of ammonia, we must remember that it is not really a liquid, as we are accustomed to think of it, but a gas, dissolved in water so that it may be more easily handled and controlled than volatile and impalpable substance.

Ammonia is one of the strongest of alkalis, and possesses the faculty of dissolving fats and oils which hold much of the dirt on soiled articles together, acting both as a foundation and as a binder for the particles of dirt.

Application of ammonia to any object will therefore result in the dissipation of the oil secretion and the consequent loosening of the dirt which is washed away by the action of the water in which the ammonia gas is dissolved.

Further proof of the charge, "nobody loves a fat man," comes to the announcement of an airplane company that it is going to charge passengers according to weight. "It would be unreasonable," says the company's announcement, "to expect us to carry a 250-pounder for the same fare as one of 125 pounds."

University regents are insistent that the legislature follow their recommendation with regard to the Brackendon tract. The regents took that position originally and evidently they are not going to render themselves liable to any charge of inconsistency.

E. L. FULTON NAMED SUCCESSOR TO JOHN DAVENPORT BY COURT

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS RELUCTANTLY ACCEPT RESIGNATION OF COUNTY ATTORNEY.

BALLOTING IS DONE BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Eight Attorneys Make Application To Fill Out The Unexpired Term Of Office.

Attorney E. L. Fulton of Wichita Falls was named by the court of county commissioners Monday morning to fill out the unexpired term of office of the county attorney, following the acceptance of the resignation of John Davenport.

The commissioners met behind closed doors to consider the resignation of Mr. Davenport and did not emerge until they had selected his successor. Mr. Davenport tendered his resignation last Monday but was not opened until the court met today. No reasons were given in the letter asking to be relieved of the position but it is understood that Mr. Davenport expects to devote all of his time to private practice.

There were eight applicants for the position, including Ed Yarbrough of Electra, Zeb Nixon, John M. Martin, Wayne Somerville, C. P. Engelking, Harry Bishop and B. D. Sartin. Ralph Mathis received several votes during the balloting. It was said. Nine ballots were taken before a selection was made by the court.

Mr. Fulton immediately prepared to qualify for the office and made bond for in the afternoon. A graduate of Texas University in the class of 1911, Mr. Fulton came to this city and took up the practice of law in 1912. He served as an assistant under Dan Boone when the latter was elected to the office of county attorney in 1919.

During the world war Mr. Fulton rose to the grade of major in the artillery and immediately after his discharge returned to this city and resumed his practice of law.

Mr. Davenport served two years as county attorney and was re-elected last fall and took up his second term December 1, 1920. He tendered his resignation once before, shortly after re-election but at the time his petition was turned down by the court.

Attorneys Wayne Somerville and John M. Martin have been assistants to Mr. Davenport for the past year.

W. S. SMITH ANNOUNCES PLATFORM ON WHICH HE SEEKS COUNCIL PLACE

The platform on which Wm. L. Smith, the latest announced candidate for police and fire commissioners in the April election, intends basing his campaign was outlined Monday morning in a signed statement given to The Times. His statement follows:

Am for economic expenditures of the people's money; for public improvements where most needed within the city.

The drainage system of the city is very inadequate and needs systematic adjusting so that the citizens of the town can move about the streets in some degree of comfort during bad weather.

A strict enforcing of the sanitary regulations. A building ordinance for the entire city and for the appointing of a building inspector in addition to the electrical and plumbing inspector.

Efficiency in all departments of the city in whatever capacity any one may be placed and so far as it is possible, the appointing of citizens of Wichita Falls to all places to be filled.

I take it that what is good for my neighbor and myself is good for Wichita Falls.

(Signed) LAWRENCE SMITH.

CHRISTMAS WILL KEEP OUT OF PANAMA ROW; "NEVER AGAIN," HE SAYS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23.—General Christmas, principal in several Central American revolutions and acknowledged authority on matter political, commercial and military in Latin America, apparently will not participate on either side in the present trouble between Panama and Costa Rica.

General Christmas for some time has been capitalizing his knowledge and experience gained through years of travel and warfare in Central America and has become a "business man." The peaceful marks of trade have claimed him and he has repeatedly said "never again" when questioned regarding revolutions and rumors of revolutions.

"You see I am a business man now," he said recently when conferring with Guy L. Maloney, chief of police here and his colonel in the Honduras revolution of ten years ago. "I am interested in business, not bullets."

But General Christmas, although his hair is frosty and he is around 60 years of age, looks almost the same old warrior and there is a touch of fire in his eyes when he warms up to his pet subject, revolutions.

He recently returned to New Orleans from Guatemala, where he is interested commercially, and today started for New York "on business."

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS, Feb. 23.—Four Mexicans were being sought early today in an effort to find the slayers of Marie Schroeder, 17, whose mutilated body was found in the brush near here yesterday.

GIRL WHO ADMITS SHE FORGED PAY VOUCHER OF NAVY OFFICER IS HELD

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23.—Miss Marjorie Heath, arrested in Chillicothe, Mo., is being held here by government agents on a charge of forging the name of a navy lieutenant to a government check two years ago in Chillicothe. She said the voucher for $172 was stolen and forged for her roommate, for whom she cashed it.

Miss Heath said when she learned the check was forged she went to Indiana to study. Fearing trouble, she then went to San Antonio, Texas, and became a student nurse. When she heard a number of federal agents were going there to enforce prohibition she again feared she was being sought and left for Chillicothe, where she obtained employment as a domestic science teacher.

ANNUAL WINTER FUR AUCTION STARTS TODAY

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23.—The winter auction of the international fur exchange was entering upon its second and last week here today with more than two million pelts scheduled to go on sale.

The largest offering was in Russian squirrel. The others included fox, wolf, thicket skins and robes, and Chinese dog mats and dog robes.

While the prices during the past week have been from 10 to 50 per cent lower than the peak reached here at the auction last May, they have averaged about 25 per cent higher than those prevailing at the January sales in Montreal and New York.

Fur men consider this indicative of a generally improved business outlook, explaining the fur trade was one of the first to be affected by the depression of the past year.

The latter robbery is said to have been made by force. The residence robbery was committed early last week and the cash robbery from the woman the next day.

46 PROHIBITION COPS ARRIVE IN NEW YORK, OPEN SALES STOPPED

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—There was gloom along Broadway today.

CAN NOT PRAISE TANLAC ENOUGH

Before Taking It Mrs. Cheatham Could Hardly Get About; In Fine Health Now

"I was so weak and run-down I had to get one of my neighbors to go after my first bottle of Tanlac, but the medicine has built me up to health and strength, and I just can't praise it enough," declared Mrs. Emma Cheatham, of 512 Shawnee Ave., Kansas City, Kans.

"I suffered terribly from indigestion and nervousness, and my appetite became so poor I ate very little of anything. What I did manage to eat caused a heavy feeling in my stomach and I had severe headaches and awful pains all through my body. I was so nervous I couldn't sleep at night and was so weak and worn out I wasn't even able to do my housework. I had an attack of influenza, which left me in such dreadful condition it was all I could do to drag around, and it looked as if I wasn't going to be able to find a thing to build me up.

"However, I began improving on my very first bottle of Tanlac, and I just kept taking the medicine until it has completely restored my health and strength and I can now do my household work with perfect ease. I have a splendid appetite, can eat and digest just anything I want and never have an ache or pain. In fact I feel fine in every way and certainly owe Tanlac a big debt of gratitude for all it's done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Co., in Electra by Tarleton Drug Store and by all leading druggists.

It is not too late to get the Old Reliable Favorite Incubator and the Wichita Hardware Company has a few left. 804-6 Ohio Ave.

Newspaper Advertising Starts the Wheels

In November, business had a bluish cast. The financial waters were troubled. Corn and wheat and cotton were tumbling—business was halting and hesitating. Everywhere you heard the croakers say, "People are not buying." Then the retailers took the cold plunge. They began to readjust prices and offer inducements. And they advertised the fact—advertised it in the newspapers of their home cities. They kept at it—and kept at it. After a bit, buying began to wake up—slowly at first, then in great volume. Progressive merchants who know newspaper advertising pulls progressively went at it harder. Business grew better and better, and by the last part of December, many merchants were reporting record-breaking sales, and taking the country as a whole, business was good. Newspaper advertising saved the day and made it possible for the merchants to clear their shelves and reorder from the manufacturers—thus loosening the clogged stream of commerce and setting the factory wheels in motion. Newspaper advertising is the greatest single business force on this continent today.

COURT OF INQUIRY ORDERED TO PROBE DESTROYER SINKING

LOSS OF NAVAL VESSEL NEAR PANAMA SUNDAY WILL BE INVESTIGATED AT ONCE.

I KNOW DEAD, 15 MISSING WHEN STEAMER STRIKES

Destroyer Almost Cut in Two When Other Boat Plows Into Her Side Near Canal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A court of inquiry into the sinking of the United States destroyer Woolsey by the steamer Steel Inventor off Panama has been ordered by Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet. The court will investigate every phase of the collision that resulted in the loss of the naval vessel, the death of one enlisted man and the injury of several others. About fifteen members of the crew of the Woolsey still were reported as missing.

The naval commandant at Panama has been instructed by the department to label the steamer Steel Inventor to protect the government against loss if the court of inquiry should develop that the collision was due to negligence on the part of the commanding officer of the merchant craft.

No further details of the collision had been received at the navy department today.

42 STATES APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT IN RAILROAD CASE

WANT IMPORTANT SECTIONS OF TRANSPORTATION ACT HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

INTRASTATE RATE ORDER IS ESPECIAL GRIEVANCE

Case To Be Argued Late This Week And Brief Is Filed On Behalf Of Appellants.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Forty-two states today appealed to the supreme court to declare unconstitutional some of the most important sections of the transportation act which they claim overrides their sovereignty. The fight is directed particularly against the section of the law giving interstate commerce commission power to fix intrastate and local interstate rates. The commission increased passenger, Pullman, express and freight rates last August and later ordered intrastate rates raised to the level of those prescribed for interstate traffic.

The power of the commission is now before the court in a case appealed by the Wisconsin public utilities commission and the other states are backing Wisconsin. The case will be argued the latter part of this week. A brief filed today was signed by the attorneys general of all the states.

WORLD WITHOUT END IS BEING ESTABLISHED

R. H. Barber of Brooklyn, N. Y., delivered a free lecture at the Wichita theater Sunday at 3 p. m. under the auspices of the International Bible Students association. Some of the Bible interpretations which he presented are as follows:

"The world has ended, and millions now living will never die. The speaker proceeded to show that the word 'world' really signified dispensation or order of things, and to prove that one 'world' (order) ended as the flood, and that another (order or dispensation) ended in 1914.

The angels controlled the world before the flood (2 Peter 2:4). Satan has controlled the world since the flood, which ended in 1914, and now another world without end is being established by Jesus Christ, was the speaker's contention.

The present trouble in the world, which is to end in 1925, is but the Lord's overthrowing Satan's 'world' or kingdom. By 1925 the new world (order) will be fully established and Satan's fully overthrown, and then will end the reign of sin and death, war and profaneering. At that time also the resurrection is to begin, and gradually during a thousand years all the dead are to arise—the earth will gradually become like the Garden of Eden, man's future glorious and eternal home—where joy and gladness will reign forever. The eyes of the blind shall be opened, the tongues of the dumb shall sing and the lame leap as the hare." Such was the entrancing picture drawn from the prophecies of the old and new Testament. And texts of Scripture were cited in abundance to prove the contention. If what the preacher said is about to take place on this earth, it affords a logical reason for the great trouble in the earth, and shows the outcome. Read the 24th chapter of Isaiah when you get home, and it will make you rejoice," said Mr. Barber. Perhaps the most appealing proposition presented to the eager audience was that since the new order (world) will be fully ushered in in 1925, doubtless there are millions now living who will never die, but surviving the trouble and coming fully into harmony with Christ's reign and laws will live on forever; and about a dozen texts were quoted to prove the point. He quoted Matt. 24: 23; Eccl. 1:2; Isa. 41: 2; Jer. 42: 11; John 8: 51; John 11: 26. The lecturer declared that clergymen and others have failed to note that the heavenly promises in the New Testament are only for a little flock of 144,000 who are to reign in heaven as spirit beings with Christ for 1,000 years (Rev. 14: 1-5; Rev. 17: 1-2), while the Old Testament contains no heavenly promises, but abounds in promises of an earthly nature. (Eccl. 1:4; Isa. 27:29; Jer. 41: 1, 2.) Bible students do not believe in universal salvation for the reason that the Bible explicitly declares, so they contend, that wifely sinners will go into the second death. (Rev. 21: 8.)

REVIVAL STARTS SUNDAY AT EVANGELICAL CHURCH

Rev. E. P. Brundage of Toledo, Ohio, opened a revival meeting Sunday evening at the Evangelical church with one of the most powerful sermons a local congregation has heard recently. The subject of the sermon was the "Power of the Holy Spirit," several scriptural references furnishing the text.

Mr. Brundage will be in Wichita Falls two weeks more, and will be assisted by the revival by the local Evangelical pastor, Rev. G. L. Traubert, especially in the song service. A general and cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the services, which will be held every evening at 7:30. The Evangelical church is located at 1301 Broad.

AD CLUB CONSIDERS MAKING ITSELF REAL WORK ORGANIZATION

Discussion of the advisability of making the Ad club less of a means of entertainment and more of a "work" organization featured Monday's luncheon of the club at the Kemp hotel.

Following a talk by H. J. Foerster on the benefits that could accrue to the membership through tackling advertising problems, several of the members took the view that more attention should be given to strictly advertising problems.

An interesting talk on "Bank Advertising" was given by Mrs. Mabel Kavanagh of the City National Bank of Commerce. T. A. Bradley reported on the progress of the effort to prevent abbreviation of the name Wichita Falls, and members were urged to do all in their power to see that the city's full name is used, to prevent confusion. A piano solo by Miss Florence Sammons was an enjoyable musical feature.

R. R. Rubottom urged full attendance at the meeting of the study division Wednesday night, when the members will discuss "How to Advertise Wichita Falls." Jack Baxford presided at the meeting in the absence of President Walter Daugherty.

DODSON SPARROW TRAPS USED IN CATCHING RATS

Iowa Park, Texas, Feb. 27, 1921. Gentlemen: As Texas is waging a war on rats, I have an experience to relate which may help. I have rat traps but seldom catch one, although I try to follow Times instructions. I also use poison with some success, but my one best bet I ran on to by accident. I have a Dodson sparrow trap. I frequently catch ten or twelve sparrows in one day. One night I fall to kill the two or three sparrows I had caught and the next morning the sparrows had been killed and eaten and in the trap were two large rats. I shot them and held the trap in a flame to kill the odor and set it again as before, with the same success.

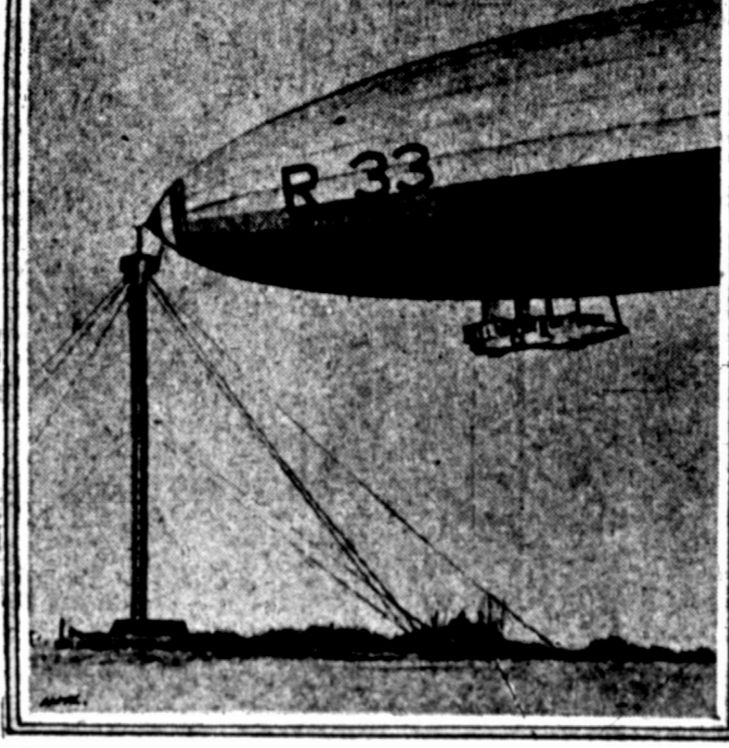

You are at liberty to publish this to have the war on rats. If you wish, I will give you or any one interested the Dodson address or any sparrow trap I should think would suffice. Very truly, HUBERT F. DAVIS.

FOUR PRISONERS TAKEN TO STATE PENITENTIARY

Fred Russell, an inmate of the state penitentiary at Huntsville, left Monday afternoon with four prisoners, all of whom were convicted and sentenced in the January term of the 30th district court to two-year penal service for burglary and theft. The four men were heavily chained and handcuffed by their guards.

Those turned over to Russell by county authorities were W. C. Barrett, sentenced for burglary; Chester West, convicted on a similar charge; Homer Coker, convicted of burglary; and Roy Savelle, convicted of theft of over $50.

A shaft runs up the tower and through this, by means of pipes, the R-33 can be refueled and re-gassed. It is believed by some aviation experts that if the R-34 had something like this to anchor to she might not have been wrecked by the gale.

OIL MEN ASK COUNTY TO PAY $4,000 DEBT FOR OILING OF ROADS

A delegation of oil men headed by W. M. Fridy appeared before the commissioners court Monday afternoon asking the county to assume a $4,000 obligation which the oil men had contracted last year in doing road work.

It was shown to the court that the oil men expended approximately $40,000 on the Burk Burnett road and that all of this had been paid by subscription with the exception of $4,000. They agreed that if the county would assume this debt that they would turn all of the machinery on hand over to the county.

The court moved to assume the debt and further moved that the obligation should be assumed by Precincts 1, 2, 3, 4 by paying 25 per cent, 40 per cent, 15 per cent and 20 per cent respectively.

The commissioners immediately after the morning session went to the county farm where they were guests of Mr. Jernigan for dinner.

When the battle opened Anderson grabbed the grip containing weapons, and with his brother and Higgins sought safety, the witness said. Higgins was killed as they ran. He said they took refuge in an adjoining house and later managed to reach an outgoing train.

CARPENTIER AND DEMPSEY TO CLASH JULY 2 SAYS RICKARD; SITE NOT YET DETERMINED

PRICES OF SPORTING PARAPHERNALIA STILL UP IN THE CLOUDS

Swimming Equipment Alone Will Be Cheaper Next Summer, Say Manufacturers.

By HENRY L. FARRELL, United Press Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—If you're a "water-dog" you can have fun next summer at bargain prices. Otherwise it will cost you just as much to play as it did at last year's high prices. Leading sporting goods manufacturers here say that swimming suits and paraphernalia will be from 25 to 40 per cent cheaper, but no cuts will be made in the price of tennis, golf or baseball equipment. Very few increases in prices will be made, however.

Tennis equipment remains about the same price. Balls will still be sold for sixty cents and a good racket can be bought for $15. Nets, posts, reels, tapes, etc., remain at the same price. The difficulty in securing season and ash and the high cost of material for strings is keeping the price of rackets up, they say. Ash has jumped thirty per cent in price and the price of "gut" has not only mounted in the same proportion, but the packers are unwilling to handle it.

In pointing out the difficulties encountered in manufacturing rackets, one big dealer called attention to something not generally known to the lay player, that only "gut" from grass fed lambs could be used. That sheep fed on alkaline fed animals is too rough, he said.

Golf equipment remains about the same price also. Some of the finest clubs made from hickory have jumped one dollar, but the ordinary "stick" remains the same as last year as also do balls at one dollar each.

Baseball equipment has not increased in price. The best balls will sell for $2.50, a good glove can be purchased for $4.00 and bats run from fifty cents up—most up.

Despite the pronounced drop in the wool market, uniforms will be no cheaper as the manufacturers were forced to buy their material late last summer and during the fall.

Sweaters, woolen caps, jerseys and stockings, however, are down forty per cent. Sweaters that sold last season for $15 are now available for $10 and cheaper in some cases.

Herzog Still Trying To Get Back Into National League

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Charley Herzog, released unconditionally from the Chicago Cubs, has sought an audience with John A. Heydler, president of the National league, to learn why he can not "get work" in the league.

"Practically every team in the league needs an infielder, especially Philadelphia and Cincinnati, and yet I'm facing the closed gate. I want to know the reason why," Herzog said.

"I put the proposition up to two managers to take me south with them at no expense to them and see what I can do," Herzog said. "All I asked was a contract if I convinced them that I could still play. But they ignored me. I think that after giving most of my major league baseball, I think I ought to be given the same chance an ordinary rookie gets."

Herzog has had two offers offered him in the American Association, two in the Pacific Coast league and a managerial position in the International league of Newark is able to buy the Akron franchise.

Herzog believes he has been black-balled by the club owners as a result of the tale Rube Benton told last summer that Herzog had offered him $500 to throw a game against the Cubs in Chicago.

Heydler denies it and claims that Benton did it out of revenge for some trouble they had on the Cincinnati club.

Heydler says the league holds nothing against Herzog, and that he was released from the Chicago Cubs because the management thought he could not play well enough for the $10,000 salary he had been getting. The club officials say the same thing. President Heydler admitted that Herzog had been to see him.

YANKEES WILL NOT SELL FRANK BAKER SAYS RUPPERT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The New York American league club has not accepted the Washington club's offer for Frank Baker and still hopes to secure his signature to a 1921 contract.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, part owner of the Yankees, declared in a long distance telephone conversation last night with Edward Eynon, secretary of the Washington club.

Heydler stated that even in the event of a failure by his club to induce Baker to play in New York this season, the management would not consider releasing him for a cash consideration of any amount, but would insist upon securing players in exchange for the third baseman.

SOUTH BEND WILL HAVE BASEBALL CLUB THIS YEAR

South Bend will be represented by one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the state this season if the present plans of the citizens of the new oil town are carried out. A meeting of the enthusiasts of that town was held last week and it was decided to place a club on the field.

Sol Glickman was chosen to lead the club and he claims to have many former professional and college stars under his wing who are ready and anxious to get back into their togs.

BOXING COMMISSION JOB NOT EASY ONE, MEMBER DECLARES

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—It's a soft life for the boxing commission. Yes—everyone thinks so but the commissioners.

"Good state money is paid out in large gobs to the men who see that tin-headed boxers and their sometimes tin-brained managers walk straight."

This is a twelve-hour day job, however, according to Commissioner Walter Hooke, who is the official chair warmer of the commission, being around the handsomely fitted quarters most of the time.

"We are supposed to know everything about boxing and do everything connected with boxing," Hooke said. "Someone called up a few minutes ago and wanted to know how many minutes the second round had gone when Bob Fitzsimmons knocked out Tom Sharkey at Coney Island. Another lady wanted to know why they used only three strands of rope around the ring."

Hundreds of calls come to the commissioners asking for assurance that it would be perfectly safe for a woman to attend the boxing shows. Some of them have heard such terrible things about "prize fights."

Hardly a minute in the day but what the mahogany benches in the waiting room are occupied with hatted-faced, tin-eared groups of high financiers. Some of them are looking for licenses opening the doors to prosperity, others are there to complain.

Wanted Six Dollars. One little bantam recently wanted the commission to collect six dollars that a former manager had owed him for four years.

"What was the six dollars?" he was asked. "My cut of six purses," he answered. "What do you get now for boxing?" "Oh, I was dragged down about a thousand for a while, but things is kinda slack since de blue-lawyers cut the ticket price. I ain't doin' nothin' right now and there ain't no union wages fur that."

Then there are the peevish fans. They buy tickets for a good seat.

The report that Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis champion, will soon visit America and will no doubt take part in tournaments in this country, has aroused great interest among followers of the game over here.

Miss Lenglen is without an equal in Europe. Playing her first tennis at 13 years of age, she has made a scientific study of the game. Her father, a great fancier of tennis, coached her from the outset. A selection of the best strokes—strokes worth imitating—was made and Suzanne set out to master them. Today her set out and style of play is as masterful as any played on the courts by man or woman.

Her favorite place is at the net and she gets there when the first opportunity allows—playing tennis like a man. She believes girls should play and learn the strokes most used by men players.

It will be mighty interesting to see how Miss Lenglen stacks up against Molla Bjurestedt, Mrs. Wrightman and some others of our leading tennis champions.

They get a bad one and they want the commission to get their money back or suspend the club. There are the fans who bet three dollars on a boy who lost a "bum" decision and they want the commission to have the referee and the judges shot at sunrise.

The arenas are too cold for some and stifling hot for others. The commission should attend to those things. The light is too poor for some to see; it is blinding in its glare for others.

Then there are the friends who have friends that have a relative who wants some kind of a job with the commission.

"He'd like to become a referee; that's a good job with little work and big pay, isn't it?" one of these pluggers plugged for a friend recently.

"Has she had any experience?" "Well, not exactly, but he's young and ambitious and picks up things awfully quick."

The commissioner might have told him that it wasn't the duty of referees to pick up things in the ring, but he didn't.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

AS FOR ROMANCES—A few days ago we ran across an old friend who used to be known as Joseph "Smokeball" Wood—or "Smoky" Joe. He is now merely Joseph Wood, of Cleveland. The "Smokeball" appellation has been canned, and in the canning thereof you have one of the greatest romances of the game.

WOOD'S DILEMMA. In the fall of 1912 Wood, then a star with the Boston Red Sox, stood upon the threshold of greatness. He was then only twenty-three years old. He had just won thirty-four games against five defeats for the average of .873, the highest ever known in the American League, before or since.

He stood eleven points higher than Bill Donovan's best record and nearly thirty points above the best that Walter Johnson had ever offered.

He had also just concluded a whirlwind series triumph against the New York Giants.

And he was just twenty-three years old, almost to the day.

There were two qualities that carried him through—brains and courage. In place of retiring Wood decided to make an outfielder of himself, and at this Speaker's request he was given his chance.

Wood is still a member of the Cleveland outfield and a valuable addition to the team.

THE NEW START. When the spring of 1917 arrived Wood was still a young man with but one defeat—a kink in his right shoulder. As a pitcher he might just as well have been a runner with a broken leg.

There were two qualities that carried him through—brains and courage. In place of retiring Wood decided to make an outfielder of himself, and at this Speaker's request he was given his chance.

Wood is still a member of the Cleveland outfield and a valuable addition to the team.

WOOD WENT THE PENNANT. "If it be Cleveland or New York this year?" we asked Wood. "I look for a great battle between Cleveland and New York. First, because of Tris Speaker. You can count on the bunch giving him 100 per cent of the best straight games, and this season with our batting strength back of him, he should be good for at least twenty-five victories. With a winner of Mollie's caliber, hooked up with Conviskie and Bagby, I don't believe even the Yankees can stop us, no matter how many home runs Babe Ruth hits. And in saying this I know just how strong New York will be, with Schang and Roth added to last season's punching strength."

"With Ruth, Menezel, Beck, Loh, Schang and one or two others to face, no pitcher is going to pick the Yanks for any afternoon's set-up. Not quite. But for all that, I don't believe the Yanks have the machine combination that Speaker has built up, including batting, fielding, pitching and organized team play."

Wood is now thirty-two. His pitching greatness is a legend now lost in the shadows. If that ancient kink had not attacked his business shoulder nine years ago—a big league sensation at twenty-three!

TWO A. L. BATTLES. The American League this season will carry forward two distinct conflicts, provided the bulbous dope isn't composed entirely of stale cheese.

One conflict will be between Cleveland and New York for the top. The other will be a six-club battle to collect third money.

At this front covered writing some of the residue looks to be within six furlongs of the two leaders.

The collapse of the White Sox removed the sole remaining contender. But the drive between the two should be a necktie full of juice.

In the meantime Tris Speaker is serving his fourteenth campaign in the Main Central Army while Tris would be thirty-three until April, he can't be expected to cover ten acres a day forever while turning in a batting façade around 350. He hasn't started to sag any at this particular date, but there is always a limit. When you figure Speaker's triple job in his thirteenth year of leading the attack, leading the defense and running the ball club, you can get some idea of his all-around greatness.

No set of pitchers will consistently hold the Yanks in check at bat. They will get their quota of failures and if then becomes a matter of their own pitching strength, which has always looked stronger on copy paper than upon the battlefield. But the punch minus sound pitching rarely arrives at the top. The pitcher still remains the controlling factor in the game.

200 LOCAL SHRINERS AT ELECTRA SUNDAY, CONCERT AND DRILL

Members of the Shrine band and the Shrine patrol from Mashek Temple, accompanied by a large number of non-musical and non-drillable nobles, journeyed to Electra Sunday afternoon for an entertainment in honor of the Shrine club of Electra.

About 200 made the trip on the special train, and quite a number went in automobiles. A crowd that taxed the capacity of the Grand theater at Electra heard the concert; afterward the Shrine patrol was put through a snappy drill by Captain Horace Robbins.

The Whittiana parook of a buffet luncheon, served by the Electra nobles, and were extended other courtesies that made the occasion a most enjoyable one.

The concert, given under the direction of L. V. Lawler, was as follows:

1. March, "Barnum & Bailey's Favorite"—King.
2. Overture, "Poet and Peasant"—Suppe.
3. Characteristic, "Bally Trombone"—Fillmore. (Trombone Agitation.)
4. Vocal Solo, "If Love Brought the World"—Ball. Mr. R. E. Shepherd.
5. Xylophone Solo, "La Secrete"—Gautier. Mr. L. V. Lawler.
6. March, "Gathered 'Round a Rose"—Messers. Vaughan Ray, A. E. Shepherd, L. Von Allman, G. Bullington.
7. Solo, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told"—Geo. Taylor.
8. Sacred Lullaby, "Joy to the World"—Barnhouse.
9. Vocal Solo, "Whispering"—Shenberg. Mr. Vaughan Ray and Band Accompaniment.
10. Grand Selection, "Superba"—Daley.

ALTERATIONS IN ROOMS OF FIRST NATIONAL BANK FINISHED AND IN USE

Improvements and alterations which have been in progress for some months at the First National bank have been completed, affording the institution considerable more room and a more attractive banking room.

The space formerly occupied by the elevator and news stand was made a part of the bank's quarters, part of it being used as offices for President W. M. McGregor and Vice President C. E. McCutchen, and the remainder used for other bank departments. A new room for directors' meetings was arranged on the mezzanine floor. The interior decoration scheme of the bank was gone over and retouched, and a new floor covering of cork installed back of the railings throughout.

The First National has been cramped for some time, pending the completion of the improvements, and its personnel are glad to get use of the improved quarters.

TO START POURING CONCRETE THURSDAY

Contractors Ask Through Traffic To Iowa Park and Electra To Take Detours.

Pouring of concrete on the Iowa Park road will begin Thursday morning, according to the plans of Fotts & Prentice, contractors. Through traffic to Iowa Park and Electra is asked to take detour routes and signs will be placed in a few days to direct the public.

Two routes to Iowa Park will be open and signs will be placed on the old Seymour road and also on the first road north of the Iowa Park road on the other side of the refineries. The Iowa Park road will be kept open, however, in order to accommodate local traffic.

It is believed that a sufficient supply of rock and sand will be on hand Thursday and both of the large mixers will be started. One of the mixers is stationed just north of the tracks outside the city limits and, the other at a point four miles west. A better type road than the one to the lake. Practically three-fourths of the road will be reinforced with wire mesh. One car load is on hand and will be sufficient to lay two miles of road.

When both mixers are in action, it will require eight carloads of stone, three cars of sand and two cars of cement daily.

COLLECTOR OFFERS AID FOR PUBLIC IN FILLING OUT BLANKS

Free aid to the public in filling out income tax returns is to be offered by the internal revenue department, according to announcements made Monday by Scott Reed, collector for the second district of Texas. Deputy collectors are to be stationed in the various communities throughout the country and will render any assistance required by taxpayers.

The assignments of these officers, together with the dates on which they will be available, have been set as follows:

March 1 to 15, Federal building, Wichita Falls; March 1, 2 and 3, Continental State Bank, Petrolia; March

2, 4 and 5, American State Bank, Burkburnett; March 7, 8 and 9, First National Bank, Iowa Park; March 7 to 15 inclusive, post office, Vernon; March 14 and 15, First National Bank, Electra.

Mr. Reed has requested that those who seek aid from the government officials first give careful attention to their blanks and fill in as much of the required data as is possible without assistance. Many of the questions involve only such items as last year's address, the amount of income tax paid last year, and others of a similar nature. Questions such as these should not await inquiry by the revenue officers assisting in making out the forms.

The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four equal installments due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15. Taxpayers are advised not to send checks in payment through the mail. Checks and money orders should be drawn to the order of "Collector of Internal Revenue," and the remittance and return should be mailed to Scott Reed, collector of internal revenue, Dallas, Texas.

WASHINGTON, AND THE OX-CART AND STAGE COACH DAYS

Our forefathers used the Ox-cart and rode in the Stage Coach and selected their glasses themselves, if they had any.

They did it because there was no other way and yet, there are some persons who hold that, because some of their ancestors did not use glasses, that such things are unnecessary, and yet some of these same people use automobiles and electric lights, and some of their have lightning rods.

Today the Ox-Cart and Stage Coach are antiquities, and the Science of Fitting Glasses has more than kept pace with modern advancement.

Persons who are best informed today have their eyes examined at least once a year, if not for the benefit of whatever change may have taken place in the eye, they have the benefit of whatever advancement may have taken place in the Science of Fitting Glasses.

Our Optical Parlor has the most modern Scientific equipment and skill, and is for your eye protection.

Why not be up-to-date in the care of your eyes?
