

WHOLESALE CUT IN WAGES TO BE MADE BY PACKING PLANTS

REDUCTION AVERAGING TWELVE AND A HALF PER CENT ON MARCH 14.

SEVERAL THOUSAND OF EMPLOYEES ARE AFFECTED

Companies Propose To Give The Employees Representation In Management Of Business.

By J. L. O'SULLIVAN
United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Wages of 296,000 employees of packing companies were cut approximately 12 1/2 per cent today.

The basic eight hour day, which was placed in effect during the war, was abolished.

The decision affects about 30,000 employees in Chicago and the remainder are in the other eleven principal market centers of the country.

Notice of the reduction was posted at all packing plants today. The men have not been informed of the move previously, and there was considerable anxiety among the packers as to what the reaction would be.

Union leaders in the packing industry are now meeting in Omaha to decide on their course of action. There was considerable apprehension among the employers that it might result in a strike.

Leading packing executives interviewed by the United Press differed in their belief on the outcome of the order. Some believed there would be a strike, while others said they did not believe the union leaders could engage in a successful strike because of the unemployment situation. The packers have prepared for the test and now believe they are ready.

Their forces are about one-half the size they were during the war. In a strike they believe that some of the men laid off would be anxious to come back.

Several Cities Affected.
Outside of Chicago the cities where large numbers will be affected include Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Indianapolis, St. Paul, St. Joseph, Sioux City and Fort Worth.

The minimum wage guarantee for employees will be kept at forty hours per week. The announcement said. Time and a half overtime will be paid only for work done after ten hours in any one day, or after 54 hours in any week with the exception of double time on Sundays and the six leading holidays.

In explaining the cut in hours of work, J. Ogden Armour, head of the packing company of that name, in a statement to the United Press, said:

"This does not mean the elimination of the eight hour day, the whistle will blow in the Armour plants at the end of eight hours, just as usual. The revision affects chiefly the killing gangs whose hours of labor are determined by livestock receipts over which packers have no control. These receipts vary from day to day, providing much less than eight hours work on some days and more than eight hours on other days."

"The guarantee of forty hours per week frequently results in employees being paid for many hours of work each week for which they actually perform no work. When on top of this is added the penalty resulting from a basic eight hour day, the business becomes greater than the industry can bear, and the public has shown plainly in the last two years that it will not carry it."

Desires Not at Issue.
Armour said that the "employers' desires under the circumstances are not at issue; the fact is simply that the business cannot exist if its expenses are greater than its margins."

In view of the fact that "packing house wages average three times as much today as they were before the war," the reduction of 12 1/2 per cent is "very small," Armour said.

Despite the lower rate of pay, Armour said that employees can probably earn as much or more than under existing conditions.

"The forty hour minimum wage with its basic eight hour day has demonstrated positively during the two years that it has been in effect that it results in decreased weekly earnings for employees," he said.

"The complaint of the employees is on the arbitrary and high-handed method in which the packers acted."

"Instead of proceeding in an orderly and regular manner, they have adopted this procedure, breaking the agreement made and defying the government."

Lane declared 90 per cent of the packers' employees were unionized and would lead a strike call, if the Omaha meeting decided to issue one. The packers say less than fifty per cent of the men are union members.

MARCH OF PROGRESS TO TAKE NOTED OLD HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 8.—For more than half a century an old brick house has towered down on passersby in "H" street. It has looked precisely as it looked on that dark day when Abraham Lincoln lay dead from an assassin's bullet and Mrs. Mary E. Surratt was hauled forth from the old structure to pass with her life for complicity in the assassination plot.

The house was a boarding place then, a plain faced, three-story, rambling structure said to have been branded by President Johnson in approving the death sentence on Mrs. Surratt as "the nest which hatched the egg" of the plot for Lincoln's murder. Through the years it has stood decaying amid its sinister memories, unmarked among historic buildings of the capital.

Now it is to give way to modern needs. Its walls whose bricks seem still to whisper with almost forgotten intrigues will come toppling down and hardly a sign of the old remain in the glass fronted store the remodelers will erect from the ruins.

By an odd chance, the old building has been occupied until recently by the daughter and grand daughter of a woman who was in girlhood a close friend of Mrs. Surratt. George A. Atsopit and Louis Payne also were arrested there in connection with the plot and in later years there was some talk that the structure might serve as a museum for Lincoln relics, but it never bore fruit. Now the march of progress is to trample over it and obliterate its dark associations forever.

HAGGARD'S BOND IS SET AT $2500 BY EXAMINING COURT

JUSTICE OF PEACE OF STEPHENS COUNTY TELEGRAPHS LOCAL OFFICIALS AMOUNT OF BAIL.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS DENIED DEFENDANT HERE

Judge P. A. Martin Remanded Prisoner To Custody Of Sheriff To Await Action.

Bail bond to the amount of $2,500 as fixed by the justice of the peace of Breckenridge was made by H. H. Haggard Tuesday morning after he was jailed to spend the night in the county jail here.

Upon final hearing of the writ of habeas corpus filed by the defendant Monday morning, Judge P. A. Martin denied the writ and held that he had no jurisdiction to set a bond in the case, as the felony with which the man was charged was committed in another county. The court remanded Haggard to the custody of the sheriff to await action from Stephens county.

Counsel for the defendant immediately got in touch with the officials at Breckenridge and Tuesday morning the amount of appearance bond was telegraphed here. Haggard is to appear before the examining court there at once.

At a late hour Tuesday morning no arrests had been made by operatives whom Haggard stated he had secured to bring to justice the perpetrators of the hoax he said they had played on him by placing a note with his clothes and leading every one to believe that he had been killed.

The interest created by the finding of Haggard's bullet riddled clothes and the mysterious note has not subsided as yet in official circles and it was rumored Tuesday that a thorough investigation will be made in order to clear up the mystery that apparently enshrouds the entire affair.

TEXAS GRAIN GROWERS WILL MEET MARCH 18

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, March 8.—Texas grain growers will meet here March 18 to consider the co-operative grain marketing plan recommended by the Farmers' Grains Marketing Committee that met in Kansas City in February. It was announced by C. O. Moser, executive secretary of the Texas farm bureau federation.

C. H. Hyde, Alva, Okla., prominent cattle and wheat raiser and C. H. Gustafson of Lincoln, Nebraska, nationally known worker in the farmers educational and co-operative secretary will address the meeting.

GOVERNOR NEFF MAY MAKE SPEAKING TOUR TO DEFEND POLICIES

AUSTIN, TEXAS, March 8.—Governor Neff may stump the state in advocacy of policies he urged before the legislature, it was persistently reported here today.

The governor has neither confirmed nor denied the reports, and it is believed he will announce his plans in a special message to the legislature before adjournment of the regular session.

Most of the measures advocated by the government were either killed or are being allowed to die by the legislature. The "stump" campaign, if made, would probably be between the regular and special legislative sessions.

COTTAGE ROOMING HOUSE GRANDFIELD, OKLA., BURNS TWO SLIGHTLY INJURED

Special to The Times.
GRANDFIELD, OKLA., March 8.—The Cottage rooming house at this place was destroyed by fire which started at 2:30 this morning. The loss is estimated at $6,000. Two persons rooming in the building were slightly injured in jumping from second story windows of the building. The house is conducted by Jack Henderson, who was absent from the city on a business trip to Fort Worth.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH NEAR TYLER

TYLER, TEXAS, March 8.—Two children of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Pruitt were burned to death yesterday at their home six miles north of Tyler, were buried here today. While playing with matches in a chicken house the children, a two-year-old boy and three-year-old girl, set fire to hay stored in the house and were dead before aid arrived.

STEEL CORPORATION IS PLANNING TO ELIMINATE THE TWELVE-HOUR DAY

NEW YORK, March 8.—Elimination of the 12 hour day in United States steel corporation mills is being considered by presidents of the subsidiary companies, Chairman E. H. Gary announced today.

While the presidents' committee has not reached a conclusion, Mr. Gary said that he believed that it would report within 30 days.

"The seven day week and the long turn in changing shifts," he added, "have been entirely eliminated by all our companies."

ACTNA WAREHOUSE AT DALLAS IS DESTROYED

DALLAS, TEXAS, March 8.—Fire last night destroyed the Actna bonded warehouse and storage company building, filled with army supplies purchased at the close of the war with a loss estimated at $175,000.

EARLY ADJUSTMENT OF RAILROAD STRIKE IN MEXICO EXPECTED

MEXICO CITY, March 8.—Final adjustment of the railroad strike which has been disorganizing traffic for the last two weeks, is expected before the end of the week, government officials asserted last night.

This announcement came after the receipt of a report that the railroad men's alliance, one of the groups engaged in the strike, had decided to give up the fight and join forces with the Brotherhood of Conductors, Engineers and Firemen, which supported the government.

"How would you like for somebody to ask you to take care of their baby a little while, since you've got one of your own and know how?" asked the Goop.

Every mother knows what a real thrill of pleasure it is to be able, even for an hour, to free herself of the care of even the dearest of three-year-olds. It is especially so when that three-year-old must be confined to the house except for the afternoon walk or play in the park...

"There you go again," he interrupted—"used to it! The things people have to do every day aren't the things they expect to do for recreation. WOULD you like to take care of a baby, just because you're used to it? It's the one thing of all others you'd rather NOT do. Yet here you are, charitably offering to take care of a baby for me?"

"You can rob Peter to give to Paul," he said, with downright disgust. "I'm honestly surprised at you. Cecile works hard and does her own charitable work, and helping folks. She tells stories at the day nursery Saturday afternoon—her only afternoon off. And she belongs to that home league of the Salvation Army, and pays twenty-five cents every time she can't respond to a call, to help the thing along."

JUBILEE'S PARTNER

The world is covered with slush and the ice on the pond is rotten, and when I let Jubilee down out of the window he got down in a mud puddle. A dog is not bris. When a dog is being led down by a rope in his teeth, he ought to let his legs hang down, but it does not do any good to tell Jubilee that. He pulls them up, and then when he sets in a mud puddle you can see by the way he looks up at me he blames me.

I hate to have him look at me that way, but I don't blame him for that. In the way I would look at him if he let me down in a mud puddle. I was playing cross-tag once and was cheating. Youniss, and Jubilee thought he was playing, too, and he ran between my legs and I got my whole face and the front of me in the mud, but I did not look at him that way. I knew that he could not help it.

When school had let out we thought we would go over to see Miss Farmer because we have not been there as often as we used to, and she said to come in and she would show us some-tings. I bet our teacher knows but I am not going to ask her. Maybe I will get a cocoon and put it under one of Hopper's mother's hens, and if it hatches out I bet the hen will be surprised when she gets off and looks in the nest to see what she has got and a little baboon grins right in her face. They are not talking any more about shaving off Hopper's leg. I bet it would work better to tie a string around it up tight and after awhile it

NEW THEATER WILL OPEN NEXT MONDAY

Strand to Present First Bill Then a Handsome And Well-Equipped Playhouse.

The Strand theatre, this city's newest playhouse, will be opened Monday, March 14, according to announcements made Tuesday by E. D. Stowe and H. M. Gilbert, managers. The Strand is on Scott avenue near Eighth.

When completed the new amusement center will be one of the most beautiful in the city and will also be one of the most commodious. No expense has been spared by the builders in equipping their place with the best material which the theatrical market afforded, and the results of this policy are already apparent in the imposing appearance of the Strand. Interior decorations and appointments are tasteful and pleasing, and when the final touches have been made, the tapestries hung and the lighting effects completed, the theatre will be second to none in the city.

The ventilating system, according to the managers, will make a complete change of the air every three minutes. The music is to be furnished by the largest organ in the city and two well known musicians, Howard Dunlap and Miss Camille Watson, have been secured as organists. Comfort for the patrons of the Strand is being arranged for in the complete fitting up of a rest room for ladies and a smoking room for gentlemen, both of which are located on the second floor. Easy chairs, lounges and writing desks are provided which will be accessible at all times to the Strand patrons and the rooms can also be utilized by line parties and other special groups.

Projection and mechanical features are all of the latest and most modern type and have been provided at great expense.

The picture attractions to be offered will include the best productions of the movie markets, among which are numbered all First National pictures, Hodkinson pictures, Associated Producers films, Pathe pictures and Robertson-Cole features. Further announcements of special pictures will be made later.

One feature of the Strand which Messrs. Stowe and Gilbert are stressing is the fact that it is strictly a local concern, erected by Wichita Falls men with Wichita Falls capital for the purpose of affording wholesome entertainment for the people of the city. Mr. Stowe and Mr. Gilbert are both residents of this city and all their associates in this enterprise are well known men.

CO-OPERATION OF THE MERCHANTS CONTRIBUTES LARGELY TO SPLENDID SUCCESS OF TIMES COOKING SCHOOL

The co-operation and assistance of Wichita Falls merchants contributed considerably to the big success of the opening sessions of the Times Cooking School being held this week in the basement of the First Baptist church.

Books and displays selected under the suggestions of Mrs. Chase, with attractively worked out backgrounds and color schemes for the clothing and interior furnishings lines, and artistically handled decorations, drove home with successful emphasis the points of economy, comfort, good taste, and careful judgment, made by the lecturer.

The Canned Pimento.
The church basement was crowded both Monday and Tuesday, and the audience was interested and responsive. There seemed to be particular appreciation of Mrs. Chase's practicality; her brief and pointed suggestions and directions throughout both lectures and demonstration work, and it was immediately apparent, from the beginning, that the audience was letting nothing "get by." An amusing incident Monday afternoon proved the careful attention with which the listeners were taking note, when Mrs. Chase said in giving a recipe, "use one canned pimento." There was an immediate, expressed buzz of questioning, and the demonstrator repeated, "one canned pimento." Noise in the back of the room for the moment was too strenuous competition, however, and it was evident something was not understood. The buzz began again, all over the room, and very much louder, "One can of pimento, or one canned pimento?" was heard above the small tumult. Mrs. Chase laughed, thought a minute, and replied, "open a can of pimentos and take one out!" The laugh was general.

Monday's Recipes.
It has been requested that some of Monday's recipes be given in print, as many housewives unable to attend the opening session wanted them. There were particular requests for the Thousand Island dressing receipt. As Mrs. Chase makes it, it is:

- One-half cupful mayonnaise (oil dressing).
- Three tablespoons chili powder. (All measurements level.)
- One canned pimento, chopped fine.
- One teaspoon Worcestershire (or other good) sauce.
- Mix thoroughly, and serve on lettuce hearts or shredded cabbage.
- The cheese biscuits were delicious. Mrs. Chase's recipe is as follows:
- Two cups of flour (All measurements level.)
- Two teaspoonfuls baking powder.
- One-half teaspoonful salt.
- Two tablespoonfuls of butter or other good shortening.

Wall Paper Demonstration.
Monday's wall paper demonstration seemed to be very much appreciated, from comment at the close of the first session. Mrs. Chase's general lecture included a discussion of wall papers and draperies, and the display of the latter from the platform, handled by a local dealer, was quite a material assistance in illustration of her general points.

Tuesday's Session.
Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Chase lectured and demonstrated before another crowded house. More chairs were added symmetrically spaced, so that a simple pattern is made by their rectangular shapes on the walls. It is more interesting to group small pictures than to scatter them.

To be framed correctly, each picture must be considered as an individual problem. Mosaic tints and all color prints may have gold frames. A narrow black frame will bring out the clear lines of Japanese prints. The size, color and patterns of a picture may mar or make beautiful the wall on which it hangs. It is much too important a detail of furnishing to be haphazardly treated.

Treating of rugs and curtains, Mrs. Chase offered this:

"The landscape painter says, 'Earth from dark, trees lighter, sky lightest.' In and very little aisle space was left. The women crowded close to the platform, and there was an interest and informality which added greatly to the profit of the session.

The opening talk was on rugs, draperies and pictures, and was suitably and interestingly illustrated by displays from local dealers. Time and labor saving electric sweepers were taken up and were also illustrated.

The domestic science lecture and demonstration took up menu-planning, proper combining of vegetables in the diet, meat preparation and cooking, and the cooking of fish. Mrs. Chase demonstrated breaded baked fish and an omelet.

In her talk on pictures and other interior furnishings, Mrs. Chase said, in part:

"The framing and hanging of pictures is an important detail in the general furnishings of a home," said Mrs. Chase. "It is assumed that the pictures in themselves are interesting, so they should be hung low enough to be examined at close range."

"They should be placed in a balanced arrangement," either irregularly or

"Being The Family"

Interior decorating this is translated to "floor darkest, walls lighter, and ceiling lightest." A dark oak floor, neutral tan walls and woodwork, and light ceilings offer an example of graduation from dark through medium to light color values.

Carpets and Rugs.

"Carpets which cover the entire floor harbor dust and are difficult to clean. Rugs are more sanitary as well as more beautiful. There is a wide variety of rugs on the market. With some searching, rugs may be found that are suitable for any color scheme and possible for the most limited income. They range from the beautiful Oriental to the modest rag rug. Of course, every one likes the Oriental, and since a good antique will outwear a dozen domestic rugs, Orientals are a good investment for those who can afford the initial cost. Many well illustrated books on Orientals show designs and color and give information from which the selection may be made. Plain color rugs of domestic manufacture, without pattern, lovely in color and texture and ranging from light shades to dull effective blacks, are to be found. The results in the selections of such rugs are often surprising. These plain colored rugs come in all widths, with prices according.

"Faded and ugly-colored rugs and carpets may be successfully dyed to soft, plain colors. The results often surpass even the most ardent desire. The old-fashioned rag rug has possibilities which are not realized by the average person. The rugs are dyed before weaving to suit any color scheme, and it is possible to make rugs of very beautiful colors. It is not at all difficult to dye at home, and as every town or community has at least one carpet weaver, it is possible by dyeing the rug one's self to have rugs of beautiful color at very little cost.

Curtains and Draperies.

"The outside appearance of curtains should be considered as well as the inside. All the shades should be of one color, suitable to the window casing and the outside of the house. This will give the outside the appearance of unity and orderliness. If it is desirable to have another color for the inside of the shades, double-faced shades are only slightly more expensive than those of one color.

"The construction of the window frames and the general style of furnishings determine the length of the curtains. In a simply furnished room and where the frames extend neither in or out but are fairly flush with the wall, the curtains should extend to the bottom of the window sill. Such curtains should be short enough to clear the window sills. The length of the curtains should always coincide with some structural line and emphasize either the length of the window enclosure or the length of the window frame.

"The simple nets, scrim, awnings and laws are suitable for the outside curtains. They may be edged with lace or braid and should be hung on a rod close to the window frames.

"For the inside curtains a heavier material should be used, of quality, design and color suitable to the furnishing of the room. Soft silks and the heavier damasks may be used, hung straight at either side of the window. The many Chinese, cretonnes and linens now on the market add design and color and give a cheerful effect to an interior room.

Economy in Arrangement.

"Where there is a group of two or three windows the net curtains should be hung at each end of the group. A valance of the heavier material may be hung across the entire group, connecting the two inside windows.

"Casement with small panels of leaded glass require but one curtain to each window. Casement windows with clear glass may have net curtains next to the glass fastened to rods at top and bottom and curtains of silk, cretonne or other inside material, either at each end or hung at each window. Valances may be used on all windows but they are especially good across groups of two or three windows and over very broad single windows.

"There are many inexpensive materials possible for curtains and one need not be restricted to the materials found in the curtain furnishing departments of shops. Often most effective patterns and colors may be found in dress materials. Even unbleached muslin has interesting texture and may be dyed to match any color scheme."

"The menu planning talk seemed especially practical and helpful. Mrs. Chase insisted on real system in the planning of meals.

"The systematic housewife plans her meals carefully," she said, "never leaving them to chance. To live well at the smallest possible cost, plan your meals in advance—a week, or at least three days. Take an account of stock on hand and utilize it in the menu.

"Where the housewife does her own work, simplicity should be the thing aimed at.

"How often we hear, 'I shouldn't mind the housekeeping if it were not for planning the meals.' To abolish this bugbear, plan your meals when there is plenty of time to think of food values, correct combinations and dietary needs of each member of your family. Careful planning of meals not only means better health, but also a material reduction in the food bills.

"Menus cannot be made wholesale and slavishly followed. Such menus are merely suggestive. Menus depend upon time, locality and pocketbooks, community customs and individual notions as well as the state of health and the size of families and the age of their members.

"The difficulty of menu-making is the tendency to put too many dishes into one meal. For instance, a green vegetable is a desirable addition to any dinner, but two offer no additional value, since they serve the same purpose, and one might just as well eat two servings of one as one serving of two kinds. Such duplication not only adds to the work of preparation, but also makes it more difficult to provide variety the next time. Potatoes (sweet and white), rice, macaroni—all carbohydrate foods, should be served one at a time and should be made to vary for three days—never all, nor even one of them, at the same meal. When the first part of the meal is got very high in fuel value this is very well, but when heavy desserts are not needed to bring up the fuel value of the meal, a salad or fruit will make the meal better balanced and at the same time relieve the cook of the work of making dessert.

For Sedentary Workers.

"If the adult members of the family are all sedentary, and have ample noon meals, the breakfast may be very light, consisting of fruit, toast (or bread of any kind) and a beverage; or it may be light, consisting of fruit, cereal, breadstuffs and a beverage. If a very light lunch is taken it may be increased in value by the addition of another hot dish as potatoes.

"As a rule, digestion is better when there is at least one hot dish at a meal. This may be a beverage.

"A simple dinner consists of two hot dishes (meat and a vegetable), which may be combined and served as one at times, a green vegetable—well cooked or served as a salad—bread and butter and a dessert, with or without a beverage except water.

For the Active Worker.

"For the active worker, for whom food must be provided more liberally, the dinner should consist of two or three hot dishes, bread and butter, a substantial dessert—a pie—and a hot beverage, all high in fuel value.

"The outline given above for the 'simplest dinner' provides for a well balanced meal, sufficiently nourishing for the adult members, and with the addition of milk, it is an ideal dinner for children of school age. It allows for wide variation, and therefore need never become monotonous."

Selecting Meat.

"It is in the proper selection of meat that the thrifty housewife is most keenly interested today, since it is in this way only can she provide her family with the proper amount of nutrition at the lowest cost.

"It is impossible to lay down any hard-and-fast rules for choice cuts, as so much depends upon culinary skill. The skillful housewife can do wonders with the poorest cut, while the unskilled one produces a very ordinary dish from the best of the market affords. But the housewife who desires to order intelligently and economically first becomes familiar with the different cuts and the proportions of waste in each. Her aim should always be to procure the largest amount of lean meat for the lowest cost.

"In selecting beef choose that of a fine grain, and that part exposed to the air a light red, showing a rather darker shade when the first slice is cut off. The lean should be mottled with fat; the fat should be solid and creamy white.

"The housewife who is trained in the art of cooking will select a different piece of meat for each method of cooking. For broiling, baking or roasting select tender pieces. For boiling, stewing, beef a la mode, or chopping, select the cheaper cuts. These cheaper cuts—often called inferior cuts—do not contain less nourishment, nor are they less palatable, but the method of cooking is more difficult for the untrained housewife, and the time and fuel required for cooking is greater. These pieces are consequently more plentiful and lower in price.

Ribs For Roasting.

"The sixth, seventh and eighth ribs are the choicest cuts for roasting, but these make too large a roast for a small-sized family. Two small ribs may be boned and rolled, but many prefer the standing rib roast. The chuck is tender, palatable, and makes a good roast where a large quantity of meat is needed, but are not economical in the small family.

"As choice for broiling select a steak from the loin, known in some places as sirloin, in others as porterhouse, in others as the loin steak. This cut frequently contains more of the coveted tenderness than the porterhouse, and the rest of the steak is more tender, as a rule, than the higher priced cut.

"For boiling, select the fleshy portion of the shoulder, or a portion of the round.

"For beef a la mode, the round is best. If your butcher separates the round into what is known as the upper and lower (as is done in some places), the upper portion is better for a large family and the lower for a small family.

"For boiling and stewing do not select pieces heavy in bone, as it adds to the price of the meat, and makes the inferior pieces quite as expensive as the better cuts.

"The flank or skirt steak is a choice piece for rolling or making mock French steak. When stuffed, rolled and baked and served with a tomato or brown sauce it makes a very palatable dish for six or eight persons.

The Round Steak.

"For chopping, to make such dishes as beef loaf, Hamburg steak, or smothered beef, use the round, or top of the sirloin. Pieces from the shoulder may also be used for chopped meat dishes. With a good meat chopper, using the fine knife, these pieces will be found to be equal to round for all chopped meat dishes.

Gas Economy.

"In our frantic endeavors to stretch our housekeeping allowance we must not forget gas economy. Too many housewives forget that the cost of fuel must be added to the cost of food to determine its final cost.

"Gas is an economical fuel when intelligently used. One of the first steps toward gas economy, I should say, is for the housewife to learn to read her gas meter. To do this will enable her to understand that every minute the gas is burning the meter registers the amount of gas passing through it, and

That the meter registers whether the gas is being used for cooking or whether it is burning before the food to be cooked is ready to go over the flame. In this connection, let me emphasize the statement that the thrifty housewife will not light a gas burner until the dish is ready to go over the flame. This may seem like a very small matter in itself, but many cooks who light the gas first, then hunt for the utensils to be used, the food put into it and placed over the flame, will the meter is registering the wasted gas.

The Giant Burner. I believe it is a common practice for many housewives to use the giant burner for just ordinary cooking. The giant burner is for quick cooking—for searing meats, pan broiling and the like, and a good one, but it is not to be used for long cooking. The gas should be turned down to the smallest possible flame, or the simmering burner should be used. See that your simmering burner is in good working order and then use it if you would practice gas economy.

Oven Meals Economical. Oven meals are delicious when well planned, and by using a small portable oven, one that will fit over one burner, they may be economical for even the small family. The large range oven is an expensive way of cooking unless all of the available space in it is used. Broiled meats and fish are deservedly popular, but these dishes should be planned for when the oven is in use for other foods, since both oven and broiling oven are heated by same gas burners.

The broiling oven may be used for additional baking when the upper oven is full. Potatoes, scalloped dishes, meat loaves and some puddings, all well covered, will cook properly here.

JUDGE ED NAPIER CALLS THE APPEARANCE DOCKET. Judge Ed Napier of the 7th district court, Tuesday morning called the appearance docket. There were approximately 200 cases on this docket and proper entries were made. The cases will now be classified by the district clerk and set for trial by the judge in the near future. The appearance docket included all cases that have been filed in this court up until about ten days ago.

LIGHTING SYSTEM IS ALL READY TO SHINE

Equipment is Of Most Modern Type—Completion Brings Long Effort To Success.

Tests of the larger part of the new street lighting circuits have been completed and everything has been found in first class shape for the switching on of the circuit at 7 o'clock Friday night. At that moment Mayor Cline will throw the switch that will flood the entire business district in light. Wichita Falls' new street lighting system is the most modern in the entire southwest. The lamps and standards are of the same pattern as are now being installed at Schenectady, New York, the home city of the Western Electric company, from whom the materials for the lighting system here were purchased. The standards are of pressed steel and are thirteen and a half feet in height from the surface of the sidewalk to the middle of the lamp. The light is furnished by a single lamp of 400 candle power. The single lamp feature is one that is being installed in practically all new lighting systems, displacing the cluster lamps. Many thousands of feet of marine cable were laid in concrete to carry the current.

In the Wichita Falls ornamental lighting system there are approximately five miles of lighting frontage with a total of 245 lamps, covering Ohio, Indiana, Scott, Lamar and Travis streets and Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets in the business district and blocks into which it is expected the business district will soon extend. Property owners in the district are paying for the installation of the system at a cost of approximately $3 per front foot, and the city will maintain it.

The movement for the ornamental street lighting system was inaugurated by the business council of the chamber of commerce last spring. A committee was named to investigate and recommend types of standards and lamps and to secure estimates of cost. After this committee were named to canvass the property owners and to obtain their signature to agreements to pay for the installation of the system. These matters were handled systematically and with dispatch and within about sixty days everything was in readiness for the award of the contract. The materials were bought from the Southwest General Electric company, and the contract for the installation was awarded to the Martin Wright Construction company of Dallas. There were some delays in shipment of materials, but as a whole the work has proceeded in a satisfactory manner and the system is now practically complete.

ALL MOVING PICTURE CASES DISPOSED OF ON PLEAS OF GUILTY

Eleven Sunday moving picture cases on the docket of the county court of law were disposed of Tuesday morning when each of the defendants entered a plea of guilty and were fined $25 and costs by Judge Guy Rogers. This removes all the Sunday moving picture violation cases from the docket. The cases were filed last October. Those who pleaded guilty to the charge were: E. D. Thompson, two cases; Curley Martin; S. S. Rogers, two cases; H. D. Hoard, three cases; R. A. Gibbins, two cases, and J. Featherstone.

BONDS BEING SOLD AT BIG DISCOUNT

Auditor W. W. Murphy Returns From New York; Seen Inauguration Of President.

The outlook for the sale of the $1,000,000 road bonds of Wichita county is not a rosy one, as is evidenced in the fact that the bond market has not shown any improvement, says County Auditor W. W. Murphy, who returned Tuesday from a trip to New York; he stated that bonds are heavily discounted before being purchased. Bonds that are drawing as high as 6 to 8 per cent interest are selling for 92 to 95, while bonds bearing smaller rates of interest are being purchased from 82 to 85.

Mr. Murphy, who went to the east on business, took in the inauguration of President Harding at Washington. He also visited the senate chamber immediately after the inaugural. The county auditor also saw ex-President Wilson. He states that Mr. Wilson's hair is absolutely snow white and that it appears that his left leg is paralyzed, it being necessary for an attendant to place the limb when mounting steps.

Quickshands are rarely of great extent and it is believed that their danger has been exaggerated in the popular mind.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of your favorite (double strength), and add to it a pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. —adv.

MEMBER OF UNITED PRESS MEMBER AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1921. BRYAN'S SUGGESTIONS.

In the February issue of his Commoner W. J. Bryan suggests a national legislative program which he urges democrats to support.

A league of nations or an association of nations providing for arbitration of all disputes that can be arbitrated and an investigation of all others as provided for in the plan of the thirty peace treaties.

The United States should immediately endeavor to assemble the representatives of the leading nations of the world in a sincere effort to bring about disarmament.

We favor a national referendum on war before a declaration of war can be made by congress, unless the country is invaded by a foreign foe.

The national prohibition amendment should be enforced by the national, state and municipal officers without fear or favor.

We are opposed to universal compulsory military training in time of peace.

The democratic party pledges the nation to rid it of the profiteer and to close the door against his return.

We favor a liberal policy in providing for soldiers and sailors who made sacrifices in the world war.

We favor a national bulletin, not a newspaper, but a bulletin, issued by the federal government, under the fair and equitable control of the two leading parties.

In the settlement of disputes between capital and labor we favor a board of conciliation patterned after the tribunal created by the thirty peace treaties.

We favor the reorganization of the administrative and executive departments of the federal government on an economy and efficiency basis.

We are opposed to the repeal of the excess profits tax law, and are opposed to the enactment of a sales tax law.

For the purpose of lightening the people's burdens we favor an immediate return to a peace footing basis to bring about a reduction in taxes, and that in reducing taxes consideration should be shown to those least able to pay.

We favor a legislative provision for voting by mail for voters away from home and for collecting ballots in order to accommodate women and men who are disabled or distant from the polls.

We favor a national primary election law.

supreme court, to practice, presumably as a counselor rather than an advocate, in cases arising from or related to international law. His acute intellect, his interest in and easy grasp of principles, his long experience in great affairs, should bring him laurels and fortune in his new career.

Jefferson, founder of the University of Virginia, and his labors for the common school system in that state after his retirement, naturally rise to the memory. The mere mention of Jefferson, however, ought to make Americans a little ashamed of themselves.

It may be right for our ex-presidents to work like other men, but the nation should make provision for them so that it can have the full advantage of their wisdom and experience brought to bear directly on public affairs.

It started before I left, pop, but what good did that do me, pop, because I couldn't find my umbrella, I see.

Yes, sir, my bran new dollar umbrella! I see, pop, because I didn't take it with me, I see, I took yours.

ELLIOT AND GRAY BREAK INTO LIMELIGHT TUESDAY MORNING; Salm Purchases Floyd Kroh

"The best looking young first baseman I ever saw." That's the way Walter Salm summed up his opinion of Elliott, the young first sacker from Windham, Texas, after watching him work Tuesday morning. "The boy is young, having recently turned 19, and has natural ability breaking out all over him. He may not startle the world this year, but he's a comer," the Spudder boss declared.

Elliott relieved Dick Nelson at first shortly after the morning session got under way and the way he scooped up the erratic throws of the infield and handled himself in general was easily the feature of the drill. Whether or not he can hit is a question that will have to be decided later. He has good form at the plate, however, and while not as husky or powerful as Nelson, he knows how to meet the ball.

Kroh Purchased From Galveston.

Salm announced the purchase of Floyd Kroh, the Galveston southpaw today. Kroh declared earlier in the season that he was through with the game. This statement was made following the announcement of his sale to Joplin, and the reason for it was that he did not want to go to Joplin. However, he said that he would like to play in Wichita Falls and Salm has been assured that he will report.

Kroh is an oldtimer and ex-big leaguer and is a hurler who pitches with his noodle as well as his arm. He did not turn in many victories for Galveston last season, nor did any other hurler, for that matter. The majority of his games were lost by one run and had his mates been able to push a brace of tallies across the plate he would have won the majority of his starts. Salm has the privilege of turning him back in 30 days if he does not think he can make the grade.

Walter also relinquished his claim to "Lefty" Russell, the first baseman who refused to report, in favor of the Baltimore club.

Axe Is Swung.

Following the morning session, three batters felt the force of Salm's axe. The field is rapidly becoming clogged with aspirants who haven't a chance in the world to stick and Walter started to cut. Beasley, Houghsby and Kemp were the unfortunate ones. Kemp, however, got value received before he drew his meal money. In batting practice he smashed three clubs on three successive trips to the plate. Had he broken the clubs by hitting the ball solidly, Salm might have figured him as a slugger, but they were all tape, showing that he didn't even know how to hold a bat.

"Red" Smith is rising in Salm's estimation after every workout and the latter spoke very highly of "Red's" work in the field Tuesday. Though a bit early for predictions, Salm is of the opinion that he has uncovered a find. He is easily the fastest man among the rookies who have showed thus far. A new outfielder named Moore also showed up Tuesday for the first time. He hails from Denison and has had a lot of semi-pro experience. He looked good after his initial workout and was one of the few others to have nice things said about him by his boss.

Hookie "Crows" Gray.

No other veterans had reported up to noon.

The comedy of the morning drill was furnished by Will Gray, the club's night secretary. It was "comedy" for the Yank, but could hardly be termed that for Will. He pulled a Keystone fall that assures him of a position in the movie should he ever decide to quit keeping ball players in a pleasant frame of mind. It happened thusly: Will was telling one of the painters what to do and was deeply absorbed in his conversation. So deeply in fact, that he failed to heed the warnings of a couple of dozen players and about 25 fans to "look up." Will kept his head down and a foul from a bat of one of the rooks caught him squarely on the top of his hat. He promptly sat down and gounded stars for a few seconds. He was more surprised than hurt, however, and was up bustling on the job in a few minutes. He was under the impression for a while that some high-jacker was on the job, but when he got his bearings he smiled and took it all as sport of the day's work.

FIND BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN NEAR BRISTOW, OKLA.

BRISTOW, OKLA., March 8.—The body of an unidentified man, about 40 years old, with gunshot wounds in the back of his head, was found in a creek bed eight miles east of here today. Authorities believe he was murdered. The weapon with which he was shot has not been found. "Physicians said he had been dead but a few hours."

CONTINUE TESTIMONY IN BURNELL LAWSON CASE

OMAHA, NEB., March 8.—Indications today were that the case of Burnell Lawson, Little Rock, Ark., charged with murdering his wife here last January, would not be given to the jury until late Thursday. The defense which is to close its case late tomorrow, continued today to introduce testimony in Lawson's behalf.

One of the most distressing and common of complaints at this season of the year is "cold." Cold is usually due to temporary closure of the pores of the skin by chilling, cutting off the processes of elimination. "Cold" may be treated by an auto-intoxication which produces a free and easy evacuation of the bowels, removing deleterious substances from the system. Go to any good drug store and get a 25c box of Wilford's "Red-Heads" and take one or two tonight; tomorrow you will feel different.—adv.

WOULD IMPOSE FINE ON ALL CAR OWNERS NOT RIDING IN PARADE

Desperately determined to force every automobile owner in Wichita Falls to participate in the big parade in connection with the street lighting celebration Friday, March 11, C. C. Randle today mailed letters to Mayor W. D. Cline, City Clerk George Thorsburn and all members of the city council asking that permission be granted to plaster a fine on every automobile owner found guilty of not entering his car in the grand procession.

"I asked the city fathers to give permission to the secretaries of the various charitable organizations to assess and, perhaps, collect a fine of $5 from every automobile owner who doesn't get his old gasoline joy boat in that parade," Randle said. "It may be out of order, but if I am not the first time, I'm chairman of this parade committee, and I'm sure going to have a parade as in a peep-hole."

Thus far, it appears that Randle will make good as a prophet. Interest in the parade is increasing daily, and scores of automobile owners are making plans to decorate their cars and put them in the line of march.

IS MAKING CANVASS OF EX-SERVICE MEN ON BONUS QUESTION

Views of local ex-service men are being ascertained this week on the question of a bonus from the government. A representative of "Stars and Stripes" the weekly publication that was started overseas and that is now being issued as an ex-soldier's magazine at Washington, is in the city and is canvassing Wichita Falls "buddies" on the matter.

Practically all who are willing to sign ballots on the matter are in favor of a bonus, the canvasser said; while he finds quite a few who oppose the bonus idea, these are usually unwilling to put their names down. However, some negative votes were recorded.

Those who vote express their preference for cash or land bonuses, and also vote on a new plan whereby a bonus, instead of being paid in cash, is applied to premiums on war risk insurance.

Similar canvasses are being taken throughout the country at present to determine sentiment among ex-service men.

COUNCIL TO ORDER REMOVAL OF POLES

Acts Favorably On Merchant's Request—Traction and Hospital Matters Are Postponed.

A favorable decision on the merchant's petition for removal of obstructive poles, awarding of a contract for a pavilion at Huff-McGregor park, and the purchase of a new street grader, constituted the work of the city council Monday night.

The council discussed letting the children ride bicycles on the sidewalks, the appointment of a city committee on the new hospital and, very briefly, the Eighth street traction franchise, but it took no final action on these matters.

Considerable sentiment in favor of permitting the children, particularly young children, to ride bicycles on sidewalks in the residence district has developed recently, and while a majority of the council favor it, it is doubtful whether anything can be done.

On the traction ordinance, which is now on third reading, members of the council voted off from any further action. They aren't ready for final passage, and it is still very doubtful whether Eighth street is the route finally approved.

Committee on Hospital.
The appointment by the county commissioners of a building committee for the hospital addition prompted discussion and appointment of a similar committee to represent the city, but the matter was passed to a later meeting.

Judge Scurry on behalf of property owners east of the railroad tracks brought up some questions in connection with the recent opening of a street there, and also made a plea for extending water lines into the Sayles addition. The council took favorable action on the water question, and put the matter of light service up to P. A. Rogers of the light company.

Thomas Sutton, through Attorney Kilgore, requested permission to install a gasoline station at his grocery at 1461 Folk. No petition signed by neighbors was presented. Mr. Kilgore pointing out that as there is already a store at that location, there could be no objection to adding a gasoline pump. The council granted the permit, conditioned upon securing consent from property owners within a radius of 100 yards. Mr. Curlee voted no, on the ground that the consent should be obtained in advance.

The Tashoma company was given permission for a station at Indiana and Front streets, and the Goodner Grocery company was allowed to put in a private station at its place on Scott.

C. C. Randle, for the city show committee, was given a permit to erect a temporary hand-stand and stage in the Wants to Fine Non-Paraders.

The council took informal favorable action upon Mr. Randle's request that all automobiles who fail to enter their cars in the parade be fined $5.

A. G. Fletcher asked for better water service for his place on Austin between Seventh and Eighth; it was shown that life present lines do not give adequate service, and the council promised better facilities when the new lines are laid.

The council authorized Tax Collector Anderson to make a number of tax refunds, where errors were definitely shown.

A resolution ordering paving on Collins from Brook east to Bridwell was passed, and the hearing set for March 28. This paving is to complete a partially finished job on that street.

The council ordered the installation of four outside lights at the city stables, for protection against theft.

Contract for Pavilions.
Contract for the bath house pavilion at the Huff-McGregor Park was awarded to Adrain & Rosser, whose bid of $1200 was the lowest of seven submitted. H. R. Voelcker said that the amount of the bid would cover the expense, as his firm would donate the architect's fees; he was thanked by council.

Councilman Curlee was authorized to Sound Insurance

Insurance to give protection must be backed by companies with large capital, surplus and reserves. It takes sound companies to stand the test.

The Constructive Side of Banking

It is a bank's duty and pleasure to serve you in the routine and everyday things. But it is when our service means constructive, creative things that add to the wealth and prestige of both you and the community that we take the greatest joy in it.

NEURO-OPHTHALMOLOGY

Some reasons why we are so enthusiastically in favor of the system of Ocular Therapy, known as Neuro Ophthalmology, as compared with other systems of Ophthalmology or eye care and fitting or applying glasses.

We are familiar with both the old or Orthodox system as well as the newer and more advanced system, and having had many years of experience in the application of both, we have no hesitancy in declaring that the standard of the system known as Neuro-Ophthalmology are the highest known to the science of fitting glasses, taking care of the vision, straightening crossed eyes, etc.
