WASHINGTON, May 3 .- Within the next few days two issues seriously af-fecting the republican party organization will come to a climax. The first has to do with regenerating the party in the south. A committee is now at work preparing recommendations to end the perennial scandal "of the of the highest, and southern delegate." This committee is not unanimous in its point of view. A man Hays' successor not unanimous in its point of view. A portion of it cousists of "old guard" republican leaders who have long had relations with the existing republican leaders in the south and who hesitate to take any action which would destroy the power of those leaders and the position they have in their com-munities—a position which depends almost wholly on their power in the republican party.

But that portion of the committee which will probably prevail is determined to end the "southern delegate" scandal. There is good evidence that this more modern thinking portion of the committee will have the support of President Harding when the matter

The point of view of Fresident Harding and the more thoughtful leaders of the party is that the succes which the republican party paid in the south during the recent election shall be preserved. They recognize that this ss was based not on the old methods of the southern republican leaders, but rather in spite of them. THE ADVENTURE OF THE GOLDEN PINCE-NEZ

By A. CONAN BOYLE

The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The story thus far:
One wild and stormy night in November Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson were surprised by a visit from Stanley Hopkins, a promising detective whom Holmes had helped on several occasions. He was puzzled by a case down in Kent, a country house down there. Yoxley Old Place was taken some years before by an old man, Professor Coram. He was an invalid keeping his bed half the time. He was writing a learned book, and a year before had found a secretary necessary. The first two he tried were not stills factory, but the third, Mr. Willoughby Smith, was just what his employer wanted. That morning, between eleven and twelve, Susan the house-maid heard a terrible cry and a heavy thud in the study. Rushing in, she found Mr. Willoughby Smith lying on the floor wounded in the neck by a small sealing wax knife from the desk. He gasped "The Professor—it was she," and died. The Professor—it was she," and died. The Professor, sitting in bed was terribly agitated when the house-keeper told him of the tragedy, but could not explain the strange words.

PART TWO. "I must ask you first, Mr. Holmes, to glance at this rough plan, which will give you a general idea of the position of the professor's study and the various points of the case. It will help you in following investigation."

He unfolded the rough chart and he laid it across Holmes' knee. I rose, and, standing behind Holmes, studied it over his shoulder.

"It is very rough, of course, and it only deals with the points which seem to me to be essential. All the rest you will see later for yourself. Now, first of all, presuming that the assassin entered the irouse, how did he or she come in? Undoubtedly by the garden path and the door, from which there is direct to the study. Any other way have been exceedingly complicate escape must have also been long that line, for of the two tits from the room one was by Susan as she ran downstairs and the other leads straight to the pro-

by Susan as she ran downstairs and the other leads straight to the professor's bedroom. I therefore directed my attention at once to the garden path, which was saturated with recent rain, and would certainly show any footmarks.

"My examination showed me that I was dealing with a cautious and expert criminal. No footmarks were to be found on the path. There could be no question, however, that someone had passed along the grass border which lines the path, and that he had done so in order to avoid leaving a track. I could not find anything in the nature of a distinct impression, but the grass was trodden down and someone had undoubtedly passed. It could only have been the murderer, since neither the gardener nor anyone else had been there that morning and the rain had only begun during the might.

"One momest," said Holmes. "Where goes this path lead to?"
"To the road."
"How long is it?"
"A hundred yards or so."
"At the point where the path passes through the gate, you could surely pick up the tracks?"
"It fortunately, the path was filed at infortunately, the path was

"Well, on the read itself?" "No, it was all trodden into mire."
"Tut-tut! Well, then, these tracks upon the grass, were they coming or

"It was impossible to say. There was never any outline."

"A large foot or a small?"
"You could not distinguish."
Holmes gave an ejaculation of impa-"It has been pouring rain and blowing hurricane ever since," said he. "It will be harder to read now than that palimpsest. Well, well, it can't be helped. What did you do, Hopkins, after you had made certain that you had made certain of pathing?"

certain of nothing?"

"I think I made certain of a good deal.
Mr. Holmes. I knew that someone had entered the house cautiously from without. I next examined the corridor. It is lined with cocoanut matting, and had taken no impression of any kind. This brought me into the study itself. It is a scantily furnished room. The main article is a large writing-table with a fixed bureau. This bureau consists of a double column of drawers, with a central small cupboard between them. The drawers open, the cupboard locked. The ways open, and nothing of value was kept in them. There were some papers of importance

There were some papers of importance in the cupboard, but there were no signs that this had been tampered with, and the professor assures me that nothing was missing. It is certain that no robbery has been committed.

"I come now to the body of the young the bursay and

"I come now to the body of the young man. It was found near the bureau, and just to the left of it, as marked upon that chart. The stab was on the right side of the neck and from behind forwards, so that it is almost impossible that it could have been self-inflicted."

"Unless he fell upon the knife," said

"Unless he fell upon the knife," said Holmes.

"Exactly. The idea crossed my mind. But we found the knife some feet away from the body, so that seems impossible. Then, of course, there are the man's own dying words. And, finally, there was this very important piece of evidence which was found clasped in the dead man's right hand."

From his pocket Stanley Hopkins drew a small paper packet. He unfolded it and disclosed a golden pince-nez, with two broken ends of black silk cord dangling from the end of it. "Willoughby Smith had excellent sight," he added. "There can be no question that this was snatched from the face or the person of the absassin."

He held them on his nose, endeavored to read through them, went to the window and stared up the street with them, looked at them, most minutely in the full light of the lamp, and finally, with a chuckle, esasted himself at the table and wrote a few lines upon a sheet of paper, which he tossed across to Stanley Hopkins.

"That's the best I can do for you." "That's the best I can do for you," said he. "It may prove to be of some

The astonished detective read the note aloud. It ran as follows: aloud. It ran as follows:

"Wanted, a woman of good address, attired like a lady. She has a remarkably thick nose, with eyes which are set close upon either side of it. She has a puckered forehead, a peering expression, and probably rounded shoulders. There are indications that she has had recourse to an optician at least twice during the last few months. As her glasses are of remarkable strength, and as opticians are not very numerous. as opticians are not very numerous, there should be no difficulty in tracing Holmes smiled at the astonishment of Hopkins, which must have been reflect-ed upon my features.

"Surely my deductions are simplicity itself," said he. "It would be difficult to name any articles which afford a finer to name any articles which afford a finer field for inference than a pair of glasses, especially so remarkable a pair as these. That they belong to a woman I infer from their delicacy, and also, of course, from their delicacy, and also, of the dericacy, and also, of the dericacy, and also, of the delicacy, and that the delicacy, and that the delicacy and that the delicacy and the delicacy, and that the delicacy, and that the delicacy, and that the delicacy, and that the delicacy and that the delicacy and that the delicacy and that the de field for inference than a pair of glasses,

"Yes," I said, "I can follow each of your arguments. I confess, however, that I am unable to understand how you arrive at the double visit to the optician."

Holmes took the glasses in his hand. "You will perceive," he said, "that the clips are lined with tiny bands of cork to soften the pressure upon the nose. One of these is discolored and worn to some slight extent, but the other is new. Evidently one has fallen off and been replaced. I should judge that the older of them has not been there more than a few months. They exactly correspond, so I gather that the lady went back to so I gather that the lady went back to the same establishment for the second." Consideration of the budget was re-sumed by the city council Monday night, after a number of lesser matters were disposed of. Discussed the park situation, with out reaching any decision as to which park should be turned over to the Ki-wanis club for improvement. No definite action on the salary question was taken, but it was indi cated that a reduction would be made in the salary of City Engineer Mont-gomery whose $625 per month is the highest amount paid locally; also that a misunderstanding that appears to have arisen over the salary of Water Superintendent Lawton will be adjusted. The park and fire budgets. which were approved, were published in The Times last Tuesday Want Improved Garbage Service.

Mrs. M. H. Glover and Mrs. T. B. Smith, representing the sanitation committee of the Civic league, presented a request for better service in garbage removal, declaring that some portions of the bity were not reached of flies and other hot weather nui-sances if the situation were not reme-died. Dr. J. F. Reed said that he had not gone into the matter thoroughly, but that some new plan seemed to be necessary. After considerable discus sion Dr. Reed was authorized to advertise for bids for garbage removal, and sentiment of the council seemed in favor of districting the city for this purpose.

The application of A. W. Cunning-ham for permit to establish a drug store in the 1500 block on Monroe resulted in a long discussion by the councilmen as to the advisability of permitting stores to go into residence sections. Mr. Cunningham had his petition signed by practically every prop-erty owner in the 300-foot radius, and even beyond, and said that he had already gone to considerable expense, not anticipating any objection; the uncil finally authorized him to go chead, with the understanding that the permit might be revoked at any time. Mayor Cline sought to make it clear that he thought it a good time to take steps against the springing up of groceries, drug stores, filling stations, etc.. in residence sections. The fact that neighboring property owners were willing, he said, did not make it incumbent on the council to grant such incumbent on the council to grant such permits, especially in view of the fact that plans for zoning the city and re-stricting shops to certain prescribed areas, were being considered.

Solon Downing, on behalf of the truck growers' temporary organization asked and received permission to use the west side of Ohio, between Tenth and Eleventh, for a public market. The advisability of making use of some of the vacant lots in that vicinity, so as not to interfere with traffic, was suggested to Mr. Downing.

Sewer Matters Discussed.

Dr. Reed was authorized to settle with the Pritz Motor company for payment of a sewer line privately constructed. Discussion of this matter caused a renewal of the question of sewer rent collections, members of the council expressing the opinion that considerable sums were owing the city from this source. A suggestion by Councilman Bonner, that the sewer rents be collected by the water de partment, seemed to meet with favor, but no action was taken. In this connection, some of the council favored a revision of sewer rent charges; it was pointed out that the owner of a small cottage, with only one connection, has to pay just as much as the occupant of the largest home in the city.

A petition from Fillmore street property owners between Tenth and Avenue F, asking for paving, was pre-sented, and the matter was started on its long routine by the adoption of a resolution declaring it a public neces-

GREAT INTEREST IN CO-OPERA

When Aaron Sapiro, the California marketing expert, spoke at Abilene this week in the Taylor county court house there were so many farmers gathered that the court room would not hold them all. This is an indica-tion of the intense interest among farmers in improving their marketing system. Farmers believe that they must have a better marketing system before they can have prosperity. Many of the country's best business men who have given the matter thought agree with this view. Co-op erative marketing has been developed in California with marked success within recent years. It has been the salvation of the fruit growers there, and has brought them prosperity. Texas farmers want to see the same plan tried out here.

Mr. Sapiro, as said, is an expert. He has organized a number of the co-operative associations in California. He is being brought to Texas to address the farmers at a score or more of places. The big crowd at Abilene will be duplicated at many points.

THE FRUITS OF VICTORY.

Troops furnished by the United States in the world war numbered 4,-764,071. American casualties numbered 302,612 and 34,248 Americans were killed in action. The war cost the United States $24,010,000,000. The American people went to war to end war. So far we have gotten a resolution through one house of congress declaring that a state of war no long-

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATION.

(Congressman Jones of Texas.) These speeches indicate that every body is getting blood soaked and belligerent and preparing to go into bat-tle right now. As a matter of fact, our nation is at peace and there are no war clouds dark and lurid swirling above our heads and threatening a de-luge of bloodshed and carnage. We are peace with every nation on the face the earth. Our external skies are clear. Our lives are secure. Our com-merce is safe. There are no smoke screens of battle or rivers of human blood, such as historians have pictured of the warriors of old who have stood at the cannon's mouth and faced a storm of lead and fire.

So why get all worked up and bring back the days of 1917, when the whole country and the world were aflame. Now, I believe my friend from Alabama Huddleston) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Knight) are a little extreme in their position, but I believe they are no more so than those who have talked on the other side of this question; and I, for one, am getting tired of the man who really is sincere-ly in favor of disarmament in thicountry being branded as a pacifist and a coward. (Applause.) I do not believe it requires any more courage. to plead for a big army and a big navy than it does to plead for a small army and a small navy. I do not believe it requires any less American courage for a man to walk down the street and into a realm of danger unarmed. armed than it does to buckle on a six-shooter and a sword and a carbine and parade like a braggart.

There is one way and one way only among nations, as among individuals to have peace and harmony, and that is for the man who is strong physical ly, who possesses a strong arm, and who possesses courage to say, "I will do my part toward seeing that individuals disarm;" and the same thin-applies to nations. I believe in a strong navy. I do not believe we ought to have the finest navy in the world, but I do believe that in order to get our products to market and to take care of our commerce and see that it is protected we need a good navy. I do not believe we need it in the form of battleships so much as in the form of modern equipment. Under the sea and in the air the effective the sea and in the air the effective weapons of the future will probably operate. However, just because we need a strong navy I do not see any uge of saying, "We are going to build the finest and the biggest and the most of everything on the face of the earth." Somebody must pay for all of this. The man who follows the plow. the merchant, the business man-all are called upon to help pay the bill. do not believe it is necessary for us to have a great army in this country. There must be some economy in our appropriations. There seem to be a few gentlemen in the house of representatives who think it is satisfactory to say, "I believe in international disarmment; I believe the nations ought to disarm, but I want us to remain armed." There is no nation on the face of the earth that is in such good position to say to the other nations of the world, "We will lead the way and let you follow." (Applause.) After we have cut down our army and held our many and held o not believe it is necessary for us have cut down our army and held our navy back in its development there will be plety of time for us to go ahead and make our preparations if the other nations do not follow our example. I want to see our beautiful theories that we hear expressed from bers put to the teat of actual facts. There is one way to do it. America has the strength. She has the power. She can do it.

I would like to see the position taken in this country that while we are going to maintain an army and a navy for national protection, and we are going to have the navy strong enough to take care of our rights on the high sees, we are not going to arm enough to try to bluff the whole world. (Applause.) We are not running a game of bluff. We want simply to take care of the interests and the rights of care of the interests and the eights of America. But you are not going to have disarmament in this country nor in the world by simply preaching it and practicing the other extreme. Somewhere, somehow, some great nation on this earth must take the first step, and I would like to see America take that first step. (Applause.) Are we going to carry on war forever? Is that to remain forever the principal to remain forever the principal of the poet's song? I want to see the coet and the historian select a new tag of hope, and with eyes fixed on that star let the world walk into the smallest of lasting peace.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.) For a number of years past, experts who make a practice of delving into the origin of popular words and phrases, have been hazarding explanations of the reason why an informal departure or absence without permission is referred to as "taking French leave." Some of the investigators advance the opinion that the phrase is self-explanatory, being based upon the naopinion that the phrase is self-ex-planatory, being based upon the na-tive politieness of the French who would prefer to alip away quietly, rather than to elbow their way through a throng and thus attract attention to their leave-taking. Others claim that the word "French" Others claim that the word "French" in this case should be translated in its literal sense—"frank" or "free"—and that "French leave" is nothing more than leave which has been assumed rather than granted.

But when we examine the French equivalent for the same idea, we find the phrase "prendre conge a la maniere Anglaise"—"to take leave in the English manner"—used with maniere Angiaise"—"to take leave in the English manner"—used with precisely the same meaning, while the Germans use the same form as the English and speak of "franzosis-chen Abschied." In other words, each nation blames the custom of surreptitious flight upon its hereditary enemy, implying that it is a custom of the country, while, as a matter of fact, sneaking away without giving notice of one's departure is not a matter of geography but one of personal inclination or habit.

POSTMASTERS CAN'T ACT AS AGENTS FOR SECRET SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Postmasters are forbidden under an order issued today, to act as agents for secret service organizations.
"It is not believed that service of this kind by a postmaster would be desirable from any standpoint," the order said, adding that postmasters who had accepted appointments as such agents "should resign as agents without delay."

At the postoffice department it was said that a secret service organization recently formed had enlisted the serv-ices of a number of postmasters over

BORROWING OF CARS BY JOY RIDERS GIVES CITY MUCH TROUBLE

Joyriders, whose only means of pro-curing a car is to help themselves to the machine of some one else, forsook their apparent favorites, the Bulcks, Monday night. The only theft re-ported was a Cole, and this was found early Tuesday morning, abandoned, as have been all the other missing machines, across the river in North Wichita.

The auto belonged to J. S. Morrison 1207 Marshall street, and was taken from in front of the Olympic theater about 9:30. Motorcycle Officers Eyerley and Peters found it several hours later and returned it to the city hall to await Mr. Marshail's claim Tuesday

The joyriding situation is becoming an alarming menace, according to Chief Detective Boyd, for many of the machines taken are in the hands of inexperienced drivers. Three cars have been badly amashed up during the past few months, but unfortunately none of the offending occupants have been

Watchfulness on the part of the city's four motorcycle officers, New-ton, Rohatsch, Eyerley and Peters drove the joyriders off the lake road drove the joyriders off the lake road, according to Boyd, and they are now turning their attention to the dark streets north of the river. When the lake road was first opened up every joyrider in town made a bee line for it, but the police soon got wise and after a half dozen arrests had been made

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

It you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one table-spoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrifs should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

REVENUE OFFICE WARNS DEALERS AGAINST DELAY IN PAYING SALES TAXES

Deputy collectors of the internal owing statement in regard to the paydealers are becoming lax about the time for payment of their sales and other revenue taxes which are returned monthly. This is a dangerous proced-ure, for if these taxes are not paid within the specified time a penalty of at least 25 per cent is added, which is loss that the dealer himself must bear. These taxes may be paid any time during the month following that ficiating. Burial will be in Riverside for which same are collected, but must reach the office of the collector at Dallas or the local revenue office on before the last day of the succeeding

"Local dealers may save themselves time by paying their taxes at the Wichita Falls office, and it is hoped that dealers will become more careful in this respect in the future, thus avoiding unnecessary and costly penal-ties. A good rule to observe is to pay these taxes during the first week of the month following that in which said taxes are collected." OFFERED ON TAX SALE

DALLAS, May 2.—Roy Mitchell pitched brilliantly today, backed by flawless fielding, and the Marines won from Wichita Falls 4 to 2. The decision may not count, however, if President Roberts sustains a protest filed by Walter Salm in the fourth ianing. In this round Galloway was at bat and insisted on Umpire Kane examining the ball served by Floyd Kroh. Kane looked it over, shook his head, and was about to return it to the pitcher, when the Marine skipper yanked it eut of his hand. Kane ordered him out of the park, and the skipper went out but took the ball with him in apite of efforts to get it out of his possession. Salm then played the game under protest.

THE NUMAN BODY IN SPORT. "Dear Sir: The 'off days' which you mention in your article are, as you say, the result of 'a sudden lack of co-ordination.' New did you ever stop to think that the nerve system in the human body is the felegraph system by and through which co-ordination is secured? And did it ever occur to you that inco-ordination might result from an interruption or interference with the transmission of nerve energy through the bodity machine?

"A cursory anatomical glance will show you that the chief artery of the nerve system is the spinal cord—a closely bound buddle of nerves beginning at the base of the brain, branching off at various points and going, by means of sub-branches, so to speak, to every part of the body.

"As each nerve leaves the company of its fellows in the spinal cord, it passes through and between the movable bones of the spinal column. The bones of the spinal column are separated from each other by discs of elastic cartilage, and the whole spinal column is held in place by muscles, ligaments and tendons. This allows for a certain amount of 'play' in the spinal column. "It should be readily seen that it is possible for one or more of the separate movable spinal bones to slip slightly out of alignment, thus pressing against, pinching or unduly tensing nerves and interrupting the normal flow of nerve energy. In the case of men engaged in any kind of sports there is an added susceptibility to displacements of vertebrae because of the strain thrown on muscles, ligaments and tendons.

GETTING BACK ON YOUR GAME.

The way to eliminate an off day, according to the doctor, "is to remove pressure on nerve tissue through adjusting the movable bones of the spinal column and bring them back into proper alignment. The nerve energy then flows freely and the body functions normally, bringing perfect co-ordination." Science has come far, but it is still in the mists. The above theory has a most plausible;ring, for there is certainly something unknown to the champion or the dub that Trequently brings on an off day, regardless of one's physical feeling.

Which is to say that one who plays often plays well when feeling badly, whatever the game, and plays badly when feeling well.

So the above is offered to those whose off days are entirely too frequent and who have failed to solve the annoying mystery through any other court. The study of the relationship between brain and nerve and muscle in sport is moving steadily forward. And it is as important as training or practice for upon an "off day" you have seen how eyen a Dempsey and a Ruth can look.

TRYING ON A SUIT

EACH year there are different pitfalls for the unreal buying of ready-made clothes. Here are some of the things to remember when you go this year to buy a ready-made suit. Be sure it is big enough around the armholes. Most of the suits are made with sleeves that are fitted into the armholes rather snugly. Just notice the feeling and be sure that it is comfortable. Look to the sleeves around the hands and wrists. One of the attractive things about many of the suits is that they are made with tight sleeves. These look well, Especially does the trim sleeve at the hand look well. But be sure it is not tight enough so that at the first really warm day you will have to tug and tug to get the coat over the Fort Worth Livestock.

FORT WORTH, May 3.—General market conditions were very satisfactory today, cattle selling to a broad demand at strong to higher rates, hogs finding an outlet at an advance of 10 cents and calves gaining 50 cents. Sheep and lambs were lower, the loss for the two days measuring around 25 cents. Steers are 15 to 25 cents higher. Receipts amounted to 1,500 head of cattle, 1,000 calves, 1,000 hogs and 4,500 sheep. Good native steers went at $7 to $7.25 and the best southwest Texas cattle cleared at $6 to $6.25. Desirable calves brought $7.75 to $3.00 on the early market and better calves, were held above $8.00. Hogs of good quality but not choice sold to packers at $7.55 to $7.70. Pigs sold at $6.00 to $6.75. One deck of choice wethers and yearlings went at $5.75, but packers purchased desirable wethers at $5.10 to $5.40. Quotations:
