

LIVERPOOL HOMES RAIDED AND BURNED OCCUPANTS BEATEN

SIX HOUSES OCCUPIED BY RELATIVES OF MEN SERVING IN IRELAND.

AGED MEN AND WOMEN ARE VICTIMS OF ATTACK

Raids Similar to Those Staged in Suburbs of London on Saturday Night.

LIVERPOOL, May 15.—Six houses in widely separated parts of this city were raided and set on fire by parties unknown last night. The occupants of every house thus visited have relatives serving in the royal Irish constabulary. The inmates were in most cases gagged and bound, the furniture was drenched with kerosene and set on fire and in some instances the helpless people were left to the mercy of the flames by the raiders who fled in automobiles.

The raids were in all ways similar to those made in suburban districts of London and in this city Saturday night. One house that was raided was occupied by Mrs. Anna, a widow, and her daughter. The latter opened the door when there was a knock, and she was seized by the throat by the intruder. She struggled and fled to her mother and then fainted. The women were too horrified to raise an alarm.

In another house three sisters were overawed by a dozen men, who displayed revolvers and threatened to shoot. The men then ignited the furniture and fled, leaving the women who tried to interfere with them.

Attack on Man. A man, 70, was attacked and beaten with a poker, bound and gagged and clothing and bedding was piled on the floor and ignited. The man, aged wife collapsed, but he, while bound, managed to struggle to a police station and give a description.

A retired sailor named Wilson, 77, grappled with a raider when his home was entered, and threw the intruder to the floor, but another raider placed a revolver at the old man's head and forced him to abandon the struggle. His ferrier then attacked the raiders and prevented them from setting fire to the house. When the raiders ran, the dog chased them, but was shot dead.

In a sailor named Brasford who lost a leg in the famous naval raid of Zeebrugge, refused to put up his hands when men broke into his house, but threw a small machine gun at the intruders, who fled firing several shots as they left the house. None of the raiders has been arrested.

MEETING PLACES OF THE SINN FEIN ARE RAIDED

LONDON, May 15.—Holding of Sinn Fein meeting places continued here today as a result of eleven attempts to fire buildings in London and surrounding towns yesterday.

Suspected Sinn Fein and documents were taken to police stations for careful examination. The discovery of pencilled notes on the addresses of relatives of members of the Royal Irish constabulary bore out the first belief that the incendiarism was meant as a reprisal for the constabulary's work in Ireland.

Extra police details were on watch today in the districts attacked by the incendiaries who were prepared with petrol and inflammable material. No serious damage was done any of the buildings, but five persons were wounded as a result of surprise attacks by the police.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN AN AMBUSH IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, May 15.—Three government officers and the wife of one of them were shot and killed in an ambush last night at Livers, four miles from Gort, county Galway.

The victims were District Inspector Blake and his wife, Captain Cornwallis and Lieutenant Moore. The captain and the lieutenant were attached to the Seventeenth Lancers.

The party was riding in a motor car when it was ambushed by forty men. Military and police reinforcements sent to the scene were fired on and one constable was seriously wounded.

DANIEL O'BRIEN IS TRIED AND EXECUTED IN CORK

CORK, May 15.—Daniel O'Brien of Knockandane, Lisacrolly county, Cork, was tried by drumhead court martial Saturday and executed in the Cork detention barracks at 8 o'clock this morning.

O'Brien met death bravely, maintaining the same attitude that he displayed at his trial, when in answering the request to plead he replied:

"I have no defense. I was caught as a soldier and you can try me. O'Brien was charged with having been in possession of a revolver and twelve rounds of ammunition, in one round of which the bullet was alleged to have been cut off and slit.

CHAS. EDW. RUSSELL DISCUSSES FILIPINO

general when he arrives will turn the Filipinos out and turn despoiling Americans in.

Blame Governor-General. For the present condition as to the office Governor-General Harrison is blamed. Therefore, he retires blessed by the natives and cursed by most Americans. Coming is easy; so is blessing, for that matter. But what puzzles the impartial and amuses the cynical is that in this case Governor-General Harrison couldn't have done anything else and that undeniably the new governor-general will have to do exactly the same.

Unless he is ready to violate the law and risk impeachment. Because the Jones law provides that departmental chiefs (cabinet officers) shall be appointed by the governor-general subject to confirmation by the senate of the Philippine legislature.

The senate of the Philippine legislature is composed exclusively of Filipinos. At present these departmental chiefs (cabinet officers) are likewise Filipinos.

You can imagine that a governor-general would not get far if he started to throw out the Filipinos and fill their places with Americans.

The law also provides that subordinate administrative officers, were not appointed by the department chiefs shall be nominated by the governor-general, subject to confirmation by the senate.

A campaign to rid the public of Filipinos, therefore, would have a far change. But that is what the Americans expect.

Furthermore, a law passed by the Philippine legislature provides that the persons filling these administrative and executive offices must be citizens of the Philippine Islands, which means in most cases, Filipinos. Have it in Their Hands.

The rude, hard fact then stares us in the face that under the new governor-general as the old Filipinos will continue to fill all these offices, whether they fill them well or ill, because the Filipinos have the whole shooting match right in their own hands and will continue to have it.

Nobody in the American colony seems to have reflected upon these homely little truths. Reflection, however, will come later, because there is no escape from them and about that time the new governor-general may be having quite a time. Looking the ground over impartially I don't think he will be the object of a general envy. He too, will go into office with great applause and go out with a load of curses. Not for anything he will do, but because, poor man, he can't do anything.

The governor-generalship of the Philippines is, in fact, an impossible job. The Jones law took all the power out of it and left it just a target for disgruntled persons to heave bricks at and the bricks are due to be coming along right soon.

Incidentally, the whole question whether the Filipinos are or are not fit for self-government may now be put on the shelf with other mummured relics of the past.

It doesn't make any difference whether they are or are not; they are doing it; they have been doing it for four years, and if any man thinks it can now be taken from them he had better come out of that trance.

Therefore, Congress, repeal the Jones law and send 200,000 troops with rifles over here to patrol this country and keep it down, or carry the law into effect and certify that we were not film-flaming when we passed it.

Either would be to harass and disheartened business a blessed relief.

REPORT 100 BARREL WELL NEAR MANGUM

Star Oil Syndicate Gets Producer in Section 25-7-21 in Greer County.

MANGUM, OKLA., May 15.—It is reported that the Star Oil syndicate, drilling in section 25-7-21, has brought in a 100-barrel oil well. This well was recently brought in with a production of 4,000,000 feet of gas; however, most of the gas has been shut off. The company reports a little water is showing up, but that not more than 40 feet of water is now standing in the hole with 400 feet of oil above it. This company has set aside $125,000 for drilling in this field and another rig has been shipped from Wichita Falls and will immediately start to drill. Leases are said to be selling quite well at about $25 per acre.

REQUEST TARIFF OF A DOLLAR ON CRUDE; 75C ON FUEL OIL

WASHINGTON, May 15.—A duty of $1 per barrel on crude oil and 75 cents per barrel on fuel oil will be included in the permanent tariff law now in course of preparation by the ways and means committee if the request of the Southern Tariff association to that body is carried out. Officials of that association, representing the independent producers of the south, held a conference with Representative Chandler of Oklahoma, members of the ways and means committee, and presented figures showing the necessity of this rate of duty for the industry. It is stated by those in position to speak authoritatively, the only difference between the oil men and the ways and means committee is in the amount of duty that the industry should carry. Against the rate requested by the oil men, members of the committee believe that a duty of 75 cents per barrel on crude, 50 cents per barrel on fuel and 10 per cent ad valorem on refined oil will be sufficient.

American Women Narrowly Escape Death by Drowning

LONDON, May 16.—Four American women engaged in relief work in Constantinople narrowly escaped from drowning in the Bosphorus yesterday, says the Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Mail. They were in a row-boat in mid-stream, when it sprang a leak and quickly sank. A Miss Cushman sank, but upon rising to the surface managed to seize her dog by the collar, and the animal dragged her to safety.

Miss Ailers and Mrs. Hils swam ashore and when safe the latter found she was clutching a bank note with which to pay the boatman, who later received the money. The fourth member of the party was a Miss Caldwell.

SECRETARY WALLACE IS OPPOSED TO AN ALASKA DEVELOPMENT BOARD

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Opposition to the bill to create an Alaskan development board was expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in a letter today to Representative Curry of California of the house committee on territories.

"The enactment of this measure," Secretary Wallace said, "would remove wholesome checks against the exploitation of our vast natural resources and would deprive Alaska of the technical help of the federal agencies which combine long experience and the best scientific knowledge in studying and developing specific natural resources."

In effect Mr. Wallace said, "the measure proposes to set up a branch of federal government having jurisdiction over certain properties and functions in the territory of Alaska."

Poultry Industry Wants Protection For American Hen

By HAROLD D. JACOBS
United Press Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, May 16.—The American hen wants protection from foreign competition.

According to H. W. Kerrigan, California chicken farmer, the poultry industry in this country, which does an annual business of $1,250,000,000, faces complete demoralization through this invasion.

Kerrigan, who is secretary of the chamber of commerce of Petaluma, Calif., the chicken center of the United States, is touring the country in an effort to crystallize sentiment for a protective tariff on eggs. He said that hundreds of poultrymen have already been forced out of business.

"That the hen is the real American bird is evident from the fact that poultry is raised on 87 per cent of our farms and that 3,000,000 persons are directly dependent on the industry," he said in an interview today.

"Importation of cheap foreign eggs, especially from China, Australia and Argentina, has reached the state, however, where American poultry raisers will be completely put out of business within two years unless some remedial action is taken.

"The poultry associations, chambers of commerce and similar organizations throughout the country under leadership of the American Poultry Association, will ask congress when hearings are opened on the permanent tariff bill, to place a high enough duty on foreign eggs to give American farmers an even break."

"There were 2,000,000,000 eggs produced in the United States in 1920, at an average price to the farmer of 49 cents a dozen," Kerrigan said. "The normal differential between the producer and consumer is eight cents a dozen.

"The present average cost to the farmer of producing a dozen eggs, including feed, labor, etc.—is 25 cents. He is now receiving only 22 cents, a loss of a cent and a half on each dozen. In China, our chief competitor, eggs are purchased from owners of inferior hens for from three to six cents a dozen and are brought into this country at an average cost of only 15 cents. This gives the importer an advantage of 10 cents a dozen over American farmers. We are asking that this difference be made up by a tariff."

"It was the most deliberate attempt to wreck a train that I have ever seen," said H. E. Wood, special counsel for the state public utilities commission. Wood was on the train.

The theory of railroad officials that the switch was thrown open by some demented person with a grudge against the railroad.

LLOYD GEORGE HAS OFFERED TO MEET EAMONN DE VALERA

DUBLIN, May 16.—Premier Lloyd George, says the Freeman's Journal today, has offered to meet Eamonn de Valera, or other Irish leaders, without conditions. Mr. de Valera, adds the newspaper, replied that if the premier made such a statement public he (de Valera) would give a public reply.

Early this month a conference occurred between Eamonn de Valera and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier-designate, at which these two leaders of their respective sections of opinion in Ireland talked over the situation. The meeting was said to have been without tangible results, but the fact that it was held was commented upon to Dublin Castle and other circles as a hopeful sign.

Expressions of willingness on the part of the British government leaders and Irish republican representatives to confer heretofore usually have been coupled with reservations, notably with regard to the cessation of hostilities in Ireland.

Time Enough for Some Folks This Side of Eternity

"There's hardly time enough to live, this side eternity," sings a songmaker in a current June magazine. But the songmaker had got all over the day's business, all morning the weavers of dreams are subject, and was looking at the gold and silver sunset. She wasn't down at the Union station listening to the weary rhymes and looking at the tired faces of the folks who have found almost too much time this side eternity.

"So-b stuff," you might say. "Professionals—a lot of them." Some of them are professionals. That sort drift into stations as naturally as a log drifts into a jutout of the bank. But there are folks who learn to differentiate between the looks on faces by constant practice. An old man sat in the Union station one day last week, nearly all morning a little distance away from the Y. W. C. A. Travelers' Aid desk. His clothes were clean and pretty well worn and patched. His face—to the workers who had learned a lot about faces—bore the worn wastefulness of one forced to ask quarter. He sat and thought and patched. His face—to the workers who had learned a lot about faces—bore the worn wastefulness of one forced to ask quarter.

The result of the talking over was that another day last week Wilson and Governor Neff have issued proclamations calling upon all Americans to "do their duty in this crisis." "China has done everything possible to aid herself, with fast days, tag days, loans, etc., but her calamity is so vast, so appalling, that she cannot bear the burden alone." "America, always China's greatest friend, according to Ambassador Crane, must feed 3,500,000 of the starving until next harvest."

W. F. WEEKS TO SPEAK AT UNIVERSITY CLUB LUNCHEON TO DISCUSS RENT QUESTION

W. F. Weeks, prominent local attorney, will deliver an address at the University club luncheon, Tuesday noon. Mr. Weeks will start the discussion on the high rent question, and will offer remedies in regard to same. It is expected that all members of the club will express their sentiments in regard to the serious and important topics that the University club has taken an interest in. It is now believed that the University club will propose a dinner law regarding glaring headlights on automobiles. According to C. A. Kleinman this is merely a local police regulation, and there is no state law to conflict with same. Judge Akin is chairman of the lawyers committee on this subject, and advises that this is a case of protecting life and property, and it is understood that he may offer, as a remedy, the enactment of a local ordinance that will give every protection.

APPEAL MADE FOR FAMINE SUFFERERS

Committee Sends Out Letter Calling Attention to Urgent Need for Assistance.

At a meeting of the Wichita Falls committee on the China famine fund Monday morning it was decided to proceed at once to do everything possible locally to help the starving Orientals. There will be no "drive" in the usual sense of that word, but the matter will be called to the attention of all who it is felt are able to give something.

"Wichita Falls, Texas, May 16, 1921. To the Citizens of Wichita Falls: Our ambassador to China cables: 'A crisis in the China famine has now been reached.' 'Fifteen million men, women and children, mothers and babes, are facing starvation in north China today. Thousands are living on leaves and grass. 'Terrible droughts and complete crop failures have driven many to sell their homes, their clothes, even their children, and wander forth to die. 'Bishop Lambuth of the M. E. church, South, just returned from the famine fields, declares: 'No language can describe the awful woe.' 'Hon. Charles R. Crane, United States ambassador to China, has just cabled to Washington, D. C., that 'in spite of the aid already given by churches and individuals, the situation has now become such that unless America rushes to the aid of the starving millions they will be forced to eat the growing grain and thus project into another year the fearful situation.' 'President Harding, former President Wilson and Governor Neff have issued proclamations calling upon all Americans to 'do their duty in this crisis.' 'China has done everything possible to aid herself, with fast days, tag days, loans, etc., but her calamity is so vast, so appalling, that she cannot bear the burden alone.' 'America, always China's greatest friend, according to Ambassador Crane, must feed 3,500,000 of the starving until next harvest.' 'Texas is asked to save 250,000 of the starving as her share.' 'Will you save your share?' 'W. D. CLINE, Mayor. 'Send contributions at once to Pat H. Simmons, treasurer, China famine fund, care Wichita State Bank and Trust company.'

New Skirts Will Truly be Longer, Ten Inches Short

CHICAGO, May 16.—The reason girls dress in narrow knee length skirts was revealed today.

The dressless sex—curious man-suits behind the lingerie counter and pulls the string that regulates the length of milady's skirt. Visits to Chicago's greatest style-setting stores today showed that men design the styles even to the most minute detail and that girls have very little to say as to what they wear.

For instance, Lucille, Ltd., one of the firms that has much to do in originating styles, was visited. "May we interview Lucille?" the girl behind the hat, sin counter was asked. Lucille was introduced. Lucille wore a salt and pepper suit. Lucille smoked a cigar. Lucille was a man.

T. J. Duggan, alias Lucille, Ltd., has much to do in setting the styles that shock the nation. "These are the latest styles, according to the man who helped create them: 'The ridiculously narrow' and atrociously short skirt is gone where the woodbine wineth and I sincerely hope it will not be reviewed until dear old Gabriel blows his trumpet. 'The sleeveless and extremely décolleté evening gown is unfortunately but unquestionably popular and one might venture to say that as evening gowns they are wonderful bathing suits. 'Nevertheless there are some women who remain within the bounds of the dignified and stiff wear beautiful, yet conservatively designed, evening gowns. 'Now evening gowns are eight inches from the street skirts are ten inches from the sidewalk. 'The trend is downward. All new styles show longer skirts. 'But there will always be daring women who will exploit wild styles and exaggerate even the original design. 'Girls—man has spoken—let the hems out of your skirts.'

BUDGET, PAVING BIDS AND TOURIST CAMP PURCHASE TO COME BEFORE COUNCIL

Further attention to budget matters will probably be given by the city council at Monday night's meeting when some additional figures will be considered.

EQUALIZATION BOARD QUALIFIES FOR WORK

The county commissioners Monday qualified as a board of equalization and adjourned to meet again on Monday June 13. At that time it is believed the tax assessor's rolls will be at hand so that work can be begun at once.

Judge J. P. Jones of the court was granted a leave of absence for ten days by the commissioners Monday morning. He expects to leave Tuesday morning.

TWO ADJUDGED INSANE

Thomas Dalton and Mrs. Summie Salbert were adjudged insane by a jury in the probate court Monday morning. Dalton is the man who was taken from the top of a rig in the oil fields some few weeks ago where he had climbed in order to give an oration on the "Just Cause of the Irish Republic."

The court decided Monday morning to have T. B. Noble return to Austin on May 27 to take active part in the contest for lower freight rates for county road material. Mr. Noble attended a meeting last week at the state capitol but the meeting was adjourned until later in the month. It was reported that the proposition thus far looked very favorable to the county in securing lower rates.

The Fort Worth and Denver City Railroad company submitted an estimate on the cost of a spur to be laid for the unloading of material. The estimate called for a check of $1,802, which the court ordered sent. A refund will be given on material salvaged when the track is torn up.

SILVER BLAZE

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

PART ONE.

"I am afraid, Watson, that I shall have to go," said Holmes, as we sat down together to our breakfast one morning.

"Go! Where to?"

"To Dartmoor; to King's Pyland."

I was not surprised. Indeed, my only wonder was that he had not already been mixed up in this extraordinary case, which was the one topic of conversation through the legs and breadth of England.

For a whole day my companion had rambled about the room with his chin upon his chest and his brows knitted, charging and recharging his pipe with the strongest black tobacco, and absolutely deaf to any of my questions or remarks.

Fresh editions of every paper had been sent up by our news agent, only to be glanced over and tossed down into a corner. Yet, silent as he was, I knew perfectly well what it was over which he was brooding.

There was but one problem before the public which could challenge his powers of analysis, and that was the singular disappearance of the favorite for the Wessex Cup, and the tragic murder of his trainer. When, therefore, he suddenly announced his intention of setting out for the scene of the drama it was only what I had both expected and hoped for.

"I should be most happy to go down with you if I should not be in the way," said I.

"My dear Watson, you would confer a great favor upon me by coming. And I think that your time will not be mispent, for there are points about the case which promise to make it an absolutely unique one. We have, I think, just time to catch our train at Paddington, and I will go further into the matter upon our journey. You would oblige me by bringing with you your very excellent field-glass."

And so it happened that an hour or so later I found myself in the corner of a first-class carriage flying along en route for Exeter, while Sherlock Holmes, with his sharp, eager face framed in his ear-flapped traveling cap, dipped rapidly into the bundle of fresh papers which he had procured at Paddington. We had left Reading far behind us before he thrust the last one of them under the seat, and offered me his cigar case.

"We are going well," said he, looking out of the window and glancing at his watch. "Our rate at present is fifty-three and a half miles an hour."

"I have not observed the quarter-mile posts," said I.

"Nor have I. But the telegraph posts upon this line are sixty yards apart, and the calculator is a simple one. I presume that you have looked into this matter of the murder of John Straker and the disappearance of Silver Blaze?"

"I have seen what the Telegraph and the Chronicle have to say."

"It is one of those cases where the art of the reasoner should be used rather than the sifting of details for the acquiring of fresh evidence. The tragedy has been so uncommon, so complete, and of such personal importance to so many people that we are suffering from a plethora of surmise, conjecture, and hypothesis. The difficulty is to detach the framework of fact—of absolute undeniable fact—from the embellishments of theorists and reporters. Then, having established ourselves upon this sound basis, it is our duty to see what inferences may be drawn from the facts, and the special points upon which the whole mystery turns. On Tuesday evening I received telegrams from both Colonel Ross, the owner of the horse, and from Inspector Gregory, who is looking after the case, inviting my co-operation."

"Tuesday evening?" I exclaimed. "And this is Thursday morning. Why didn't you go down yesterday?"

"Because I made a blunder, my dear Watson—which is, I am afraid, a more common occurrence than any one would think who only knew me through your memoirs. The fact is that I could not believe it possible that the most remarkable incident in a simple case would be concealed, especially in so sparsely inhabited a place as the north of Dartmoor. From hour to hour yesterday I expected to hear that he had been found, and that his abductor was the murderer of John Straker. When, however, another morning had come, and I found that beyond the arrest of young Fitzroy Simpson nothing had been done, I felt that it was time for me to take action."

"Yet in some ways I feel that yesterday has not been wasted, for you have formed a theory, then?"

"At least I have got a grip of the essential facts of the case. I shall enumerate them to you, for nothing clears up a case so much as stating it to another person, and I can hardly expect your co-operation if I do not show you the position from which we start."

I lay back against the cushions, puffing at my cigar, while Holmes, leaning forward, with his long, thin forefinger checking off the points upon the palm of his left hand, gave me a sketch of the events which had led to our journey.

"Silver Blaze," said he, "is from the Somerby stock, and holds as brilliant a record as his famous ancestor. He is now in his fifth year and has brought in turn each of the prizes of the turf to Colonel Ross, his fortunate owner. Up to the time of the catastrophe he was the first favorite for the Wessex cup, the betting being three to one on him. He has always, however, been a prime favorite with the racing public, and has never yet disappointed them, so that even at those odds enormous sums of money have been laid upon him. It is obvious, therefore, that there were many people who had the strongest interest in preventing Silver Blaze from being there at the fall of the flag next Tuesday.

The fact was, of course, appreciated at King's Pyland, where the Colonel's training stable is situated. Every precaution was taken to guard the favorite. The trainer, John Straker, is a retired jockey who rode in Colonel Ross's colors before he became too heavy for the weighing chair. He has served the Colonel for five years as jockey and for seven as trainer, and has always shown himself to be a zealous and honest servant. Under him were three lads; for the establishment was a small one, containing only four horses in all. One of these lads sat up each night in the stable, while the other slept in the loft. All three bore excellent characters. John Straker, who is a married man, lived in a small villa about two hundred yards from the stables. He has no children, keeps one maid servant, and is comfortably off. The country round is very lonely, but about half a mile to the north there is a small cluster of villas which have been built by a Tavistock contractor for the use of invalids and others who may wish to enjoy the pure Dartmoor air. Tavistock itself lies two miles to the west, while across the moor, also about two miles distant, is the large training establishment of Mapleton, which belongs to Lord Backwater, and is managed by Silas Brown. In every other direction the moor is a complete wilderness, inhabited only by a few roaming gypsies. Such was the general situation last Monday night when the catastrophe occurred."

"On that evening the horses had been exercised and watered as usual, and the stables were locked up at nine o'clock. Two of the lads walked up to the trainer's house, where they had supper in the kitchen, while the third, Ned Hunter, remained on guard. At a few minutes after nine the maid, Edith Baxter, carried down to the stables her supper, which consisted of a dish of curried mutton. She took no liquid as there was a water tap in the stables, and it was the rule that the lad on duty should drink nothing else. The maid carried a lantern with her, as it was very dark and the path ran across the open moor."

"Edith Baxter was within thirty yards of the stables, when a man appeared out of the darkness and called her to stop. As he stepped into the circle of yellow light thrown by the lantern she saw that he was a person of gentlemanly bearing, dressed in a gray suit of tweeds, with a cloth cap. He wore gaiters, and carried a heavy stick with a knob to it. She was most impressed, however, by the extreme pallor of his face and by the nervousness of his manner. His age, she thought, would be rather over thirty than under it."

"Can you tell me where I am?" he asked. "I had almost made up my mind to sleep on the moor, when I saw the light of your lantern."

"You are close to the King's Pyland training-stables," said she.

"Oh, indeed? What a stroke of luck!" he cried. "I understand that a stable-boy sleeps there alone every night. Perhaps that is his supper which you are carrying to him. Now I am sure that you would not be too proud to earn the price of a new dress, would you?" He took a piece of white paper folded up out of his waistcoat pocket. "See that the boy has this tonight, and you shall have the prettiest frock that money can buy."

"She was frightened by the earnestness of his manner, and ran past him to the window through which she was accustomed to hand the meals. It was already opened, and Hunter was seated at the small table inside. She had begun to tell him of what had happened, when the stranger came up again."

"Good evening," said he, looking through the window. "I wanted to have a word with you. The girl has sworn that as he spoke she noticed the corner of the little paper packet protruding from his closed hand."

"What business have you here?" asked the lad.

"It is business that may put something into your pocket," said the other. "You've two horses in for the Wessex Cup—Silver Blaze and Bayard. Let me have the straight tip and you won't be a loser. Is it a fact that at the weights Bayard could give the other a hundred yards in five furlongs, and that the stable have put their money on him?"

"So, you're one of those damned touts!" cried the lad. "I'll show you how we serve them in King's Pyland." He sprang up and rushed across the stable to unlock the door. The girl fled away to the house, but as she ran she looked back and saw that the stranger was leaning through the window. A minute later, however, when Hunter rushed out with the hound he was gone, and though he ran all round the building he failed to find any trace of him."

MOVIE "PROPAGANDA" SERMON SUBJECT OF H. D. KNICKERBOCKER

A discussion of what he termed the propaganda in favor of Sunday movies formed the principal part of the Sunday night sermon of Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First M. E. church south. The Times has been furnished with the following report of the sermon:

"There is a bitter curse in the Bible against all who call black, white, and bitter, sweet; there has been put on the world a curse which confuses the minds of the people as to right and wrong. Of course there are some people who will choose the wrong willingly, but there are many others who are misled by propagandists and who sincerely adopt the wrong attitude and the wrong standards because they are misled. Clever and sophistical propaganda long continued can break down any sentiment or conscience and put its own creation in its place. It is in regard to the question of Sabbath keeping and of Sunday laws, no more constant, shrewd and pernicious propagandists has ever been put on the world than by those selfish interests that in combination set out to break down public conscience on this question.

"A revolution of a man's conscience under the spell of propaganda is aptly illustrated in the case of Mr. H. E. Ford, who is the federal representative of a number of the picture shows of this city. I feel there is no propriety in calling his name, as he is a public man engaged in public propaganda which is utterly antagonistic to what the preachers and the churches think best for the interests of the community. At the close of the attempt of the moving picture shows some months ago, to open on Sunday, Mr. Ford said to me, 'I do not believe in opening picture shows on Sunday. I have never believed in it, and I have never done it before. I have run picture shows for seven years and have never opened on Sunday before. I opened this time under pressure from others and my conscience is against it and is against it yet.' I am exceedingly sorry that Mr. Ford's conscience seems to have undergone a revolution. He is evidently the victim of his own propaganda. The evolution, or revolution, of his sentiments may be illustrated by several reels of facts.

"Reel No. 1—We have already had the caption—his 'I do not believe in running picture shows on Sunday.'

"Reel No. 2—Shows Mr. Ford and other of his associates entering into an agreement with the county attorney to close up and remain closed on Sundays until the present law is changed.

"Reel No. 3—Illustrates the changing attitude on the part of Mr. Ford. I asked him for the use of the Palace theater to hold several Sunday night downtown gospel services. He refused it and gave various flimsy excuses for not letting me have it. Afterwards he let another pastor have it, though he told me it cost him at least $100 a week to let the other pastor run a picture on Sunday night in one of his theaters. I asked him why he discriminated against his own pastor and his own church and he said, 'The other man is playing my game.' That remark seems to me to mean that Mr. Ford recognized that pictures run on Sunday in any of his theaters by anybody would be helpful to him in breaking down public sentiment on that question. However, since the motives of others were, Mr. Ford acknowledged in this remark that he was playing a game and the object of that, of course, was to break down public sentiment against the Sunday law.

"The other reels are now being put on. Mr. Ford is opening his shows on Sunday contrary to his erstwhile conscience and the promises made by his associates. He is also spreading propagandist literature in defense of his position.

"I suppose that there are some folks who are deceived by the petition circulated to shut up everything on Sunday. This is a trick which was played in Fort Worth and is evidently not the sentiment of those who are sincerely desirous of a closed Sabbath. The sophistical plea of discrimination need not mislead anybody. The little subtlety about discrimination does not go far enough. The same law that closes the picture shows closes the factories and the stores and all industries. Why discriminate against the factories and the stores? If it is more right for essential industries to open on Sunday, I challenge anyone who has signed these anti-discrimination documents to sign one that expresses the whole matter, like this, for instance: 'I hereby register myself as opposed to discrimination in any form in regard to the Sunday laws. I am in favor of the opening of all the institutions that contribute to my pleasure or my profit. In order to write myself down as utterly selfish, however, and in order to be consistent in this anti-discrimination sentiment, I also register myself in favor of the opening of the business in which I am engaged. If I am an employer I intend to open on Sunday. If I am an employee, I petition my employer to open on Sunday. Let there be no discrimination anywhere.

"With malice toward none and with charity toward all, I earnestly ask that all sincere lovers of humanity and right examine their position on this Sunday question without selfishness and without prejudice and see if the moving picture propagandists are right, and the preachers and the churches are wrong. We are told that big cities in the state break the Sabbath law. Did you ever think why that is so? It is not that the people in the big cities are naturally worse than in small towns. The reason is that the people in the big cities are being used in order that the business interests in order that the business interests may run with impunity. The saloon interests are an archetype of this kind of propaganda and their methods are being used by any and all selfish interests to make possible their profitable business at the expense of God and humanity. Every man is entitled to his own opinion, but let him be sure that it is his own opinion and not one that has been foisted upon him by designing men and interests."

"AFTER 20 YEARS" SUBJECT OF SUNDAY MORNING SERMON BY REV. FRANK F. GRAFTON

BY FRANK F. REID

"And the angels of God met him," the first verse of the 32nd chapter of Genesis was the basis of Dr. Grafton's Sunday sermon, "After Twenty Years."

Dr. Grafton said:

"Twice in the life of Jacob was he visited by angelic hosts. The first time when he was leaving his home in Barshaba; the second time when he was returning to that same home. There is an interval of 20 years between these two angelic visits. At the first visit he was standing upon the threshold of young manhood; he was facing life. The second time he was a man of mature years and of large experience, and the eternal God does all things well timed these two visits. There was something decidedly angelic in these two visits. Take for instance the time when he was leaving home. The angel of God ascending and descending before Jacob. What was the significance?

"The Jewish religion was a family religion. The head of the family was the priest of that family. They worshipped as a family. Jacob is leaving home; his family left; he is going to do business for himself. He is going to become the head of a house. The time has come when Jacob must have a personal relationship with Jehovah. There is danger in his leaving home that when he goes out into this new life, he will forget the things he had learned at the knee of his father and mother. This is applicable to the youth of our land. There is danger when they get away from home, away from father and mother; away from old traditions; away from the family teachings; away from the altar. There is many a young man who has come out into the world to make for himself a place who has forgotten God; who has neglected to have that personal touch with Jehovah that will mean much in his future life, and to any young man or woman should come that personal relationship to the great Jehovah that will make him master in your life.

"The second angelic visit was a different thing. The angels visited Jacob on his return to Barshaba, ready for battle. Why? When Jacob left home he left it under a cloud. He was driven from his home and the presence of his brother, Esau, by his father, deceived by his mother. Twenty years have passed away and while this man Jacob is on his Journey home, messengers came and told him that his brother, Esau, is approaching with 400 armed men. In this time of great distress the angelic hosts of God come prepared for war; to help him fight his battles and to stand behind him, and so Jehovah (God) reveals to him in this hour his protecting power in spite of the fact that in his past life there had been a black spot; in spite of a wrong, God was not going to turn his back upon him, and so in this revelation of God's protecting care Jacob finds him standing by his side just at the time he needs him the most. I want to say to you this morning that God will come to you when you need him the most; in that hour of your extremity. When we need the ladder God gives to us the ladder. When we need the host God gives to us the armed host whether it be on the threshold of life or after ripened years.

"I want you to notice that the first angelic visit to Jacob was upon the mountain top. The second visit upon the high way. Jacob's home was upon the plains of Barshaba, a place of common level. He left home, and in his loneliness climbed into the mountains. Jehovah looked down upon him prepared for the message of the hour. It was in the romantic hour of his youth that God first visited him with angelic hosts. On his return home romance had given place to experience and actuality and yet Jacob needed the angelic hosts to come and see him and they did. He needed to be fortified at that level of his life, and so do you and I need it. We have passed along the way of life; the years have passed away; we have gained experience; we have come to the dusty roads of life and the romance of life has gone; our air castles have fallen down. It is then that the eternal God comes to us sometime and somewhere. God is just as near to us on the dusty highways as he is on the mountain tops and in the valleys.

"God came to Jacob when he was alone. There have been times in our lives when we were lonely and heartsore for the things of yesterday, and had we looked we would have seen the angelic hosts of God coming to us.

"God comes to us when we are alone, on the mountain top, on the dusty highway, in our affairs of life wherever they be. He touches every part of our life if we will have it so."
