PRESIDENT BESPEAKS THE CO-OPERATION OF BUSINESS AND LABOR

MUST STAND TOGETHER IN CONFIDENT PURPOSE OF RECONSTRUCTION.

GOVERNMENT INTERFERENCE REDUCED TO A MINIMUM

Emphasizes the Fundamental Importance of Agriculture in New York Address.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The co-operation of every factor of American business and industry to put the nation's house in order after the dislocation of war was bespeaken by President Harding tonight at a dinner here celebrating the 125th anniversary of the New York Commercial.

"Agriculture, labor and business management, the president declared, must stand together in the confident purpose of reconstruction. He asserted that, although the United States did not want to live in a state of selfishness, its duty to the rest of the world could best be performed by giving its attention first to the rehabilitation of its own resources.

On the part of the administration, Mr. Harding promised that government interference with business reduced to a minimum, while government co-operation with all properly conducted businesses would be expanded and broadened. He declared his purpose to reverse the tendency in some quarters to regard business as dishonest until it should prove itself honest, and to regard dishonesty in business as a crime.

Emphasizing the fundamental importance of agriculture, the president asserted that the farmer was entitled to "all the help the government can give him without injustice to others."

For the wage earner he asked sufficient compensation for comfort, education and a margin of savings, while for other elements in industry he urged a fair, automatic, do-it-yourself reconstruction task.

Mr. Harding also suggested that the nation's loans to the allies be put in a more tangible form, that facilities of exchange be bettered and that all financial policies of the reconstruction period be so formulated as to protect the gold standard.

Assuming that these things may be said down as fundamentals," he said, "it is for us all to get back to work. We must have confidence that things will come right. We have dealt with the greatest problem that humanity ever confronted in carrying on the war. We will have no problem hereafter that is more difficult than that was. Therefore we are entitled to every confidence that we will cope successfully with the problems that lie ahead of us."

Text of President's Address. The text of the president's address follows in part: The New York Commercial was founded in the time when the young republic was distracted by a division of opinion concerning our relations with Europe. The noble Washington and his being lampooned and traduced because his administration was committed to the Jay treaty with Great Britain. First of the nation's commercial governments it represented an effort to escape entanglement with the Old World system, and in the period when we were too weak to sustain a foreign conflict, it served to postpone that disaster. But only to postpone it, for, with every wish to preserve the peace, it was impossible. We fought wars with France, Spain, Mexico, and the English revolutionaries and Napoleon up to 1865.

"It has been too often assumed that the present financial troubles in the troubles of Europe marked a new development in our affairs. In fact, it was an old story. We never were and never will be able to make a foreign policy of our own part and our place in international affairs are strikingly changed. Our rise in power and influence has imposed upon us responsibilities today our strength in the industrial, financial and commercial world, our capacity to produce, our ability to extend credits which others cannot give, and our need—all these make it necessary that we shall adopt new commercial methods, whereby to insure the fullest possible service to civilization. I bespeak the help of every organ of intelligent, understanding business, to enable the nation to meet these demands.

"It has been said many times, but it cannot be too often repeated and emphasized, that in doing this we will be alike discharging a duty to others and availing an opportunity for our own advancement. There have seldom been more convincing proofs than we see all around us now, of the essential interdependence of all parts of the world. He who displays the broadest spirit of brotherhood, helpfulness and true charity, will most surely be casting his bread upon the waters.

Pressing Duty to World. "Out duty to the world at large is pressing, but we will equip ourselves best to perform our duty to ourselves, by waveringly loyal to ourselves. The most important thing to America is our constitutional system. Inseparable from the foundation of a more perfect union, the constitution sought to establish justice. True, we have not attained the perfection of our ideals in this regard, nor has any other human society done so. Justice, like charity, must begin at home. We must be just to ourselves and to our own, first of all. This is not selfish, for selfishness seeks more than a fair share; we seek only that which is rightfully our own, and then to preserve that to ourselves and our posterity.

"We will do well to keep in mind at this time the fundamental importance of agriculture and in any possible way insure justice to it. The farmer is entitled to all the help the government can give him without injustice to others, because it is of the utmost importance that the agricultural community be contented and prosperous. This must be accomplished not at the expense of any other section, but by process, which will insure real justice among all elements in the community.

"Turning to industry, we must be sure to give it every facility possible, but to keep government outside of participation in business on its own account. It is not necessary for the government to intrude itself in the business activities which are better conducted through private instrumentalities, merely in order to demonstrate that the government can do better than anything else in this country. The government's part in business should be no more than to insure adherence to the principles of common honesty, and to establish relations that will enable it to sail a safe course. There has been some tendency to regard business as dishonest until it should prove itself honest, and to regard dishonesty in business as a crime. But almost all business today is conducted on a scale which, though we have come to regard it as commonplace, would have made our forefathers gasp; and I prefer to assume it is honest until proven dishonest. So, I speak for the least possible measure of government interference with business, but for the largest co-operation and properly conducted business, and the most effective measures to insure that within the limits of business shall be honest and fair.

Provisions for Laborer. "In our effort at establishing industrial justice we must assure that the wage earner is placed in an economically sound position. His lowest wage must be enough for comfort, enough to make his home a home, enough to insure that the struggle for existence shall not crowd out the things truly worth existing for. There must be provision, education, for recreation and a margin for savings. There must be such freedom of action as will insure full play to the individual's abilities. On the other side, the wage earner must do justice to society, he must render services equal in value to the compensation he is paid. And finally, both employer and employee owe to the public such efficiency as will insure that cost of service or production shall not be higher than the public can fairly pay.

Assuming that these things may be said down as fundamentals, it is time for us all to get back to work. This is what made our country great, it is what will put the whole world back on the right track. We must have confidence that things will come out right. We have dealt with the greatest problem that humanity ever confronted, in carrying on the war. We will have no problem hereafter greater or more difficult than that was. Therefore, we are entitled to every confidence that we will cope successfully with the problems which yet lie ahead of us.

"Our position in the world has been greatly changed as a result of the war. We have become a creditor rather than a debtor. The obligations of war compelled the government to take, by taxation, much wealth from our people, to be loaned to our allies. This is the basis of their obligation to us, and it is not good form in which to hold the obligations of one people to another. It is altogether to be hoped that the noble Washington period we may change the form of these obligations and distribute them among all the people.

We hope also that there may be effective reduction of the cost of government. In the ways we hope to release a great volume of wealth and credit from the burden that the government has not imposing and make it available for the development of domestic industry and the expansion of foreign trade. We ask the cooperation of all our own country in assuring that within its proper limitations the government will meet them half way.

"We are coming to understand the elements of the problem we face and that is a long step toward solution. Give us the earnest support of such men as I see gathered here, of such organs of sound policy as we are gathered to sustain, we shall not be long in putting our country on the right course, ready for the signal, 'Full speed ahead.'"

ATWOOD OF KANSAS CITY IS ORATOR OF THE DAY

Re-Unveiling of Monument by Grand

Program.

ATLANTA, GA., May 24.—On the 71st anniversary of his birth, memorial services were held here today for Henry W. Grady, newspaper editor and orator, whose writings and speeches in reconstruction days in the north and south did much to clear away misunderstandings between the states. At the time of his death in 1893, Mr. Grady was managing editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

The program included the unveiling of the monument here to him by Betty Black, his granddaughter, and the singing of the national anthem. Full military honors were rendered by Confederate and Union veterans as well as veterans of the world war. The orator of the day was J. H. Atwood of Kansas City, and representatives were present from many states.

The University of Georgia at Athens announced in connection with the celebration the establishment of the Henry W. Grady school of journalism in his honor. He was a graduate of the university.

Voicing a plea for a more intensive Americanism, John H. Atwood, jurist of Kansas City, said it might yet come to pass that the south would show the north "the way back to sanity and safety" and "how to buttress the new foundations of the nation."

His declared strong dislikes were abroad in the land, which originated in Russia and find eager students in this and other countries. The doctrine, he said, was one of teaching that "we can have government without authority, production without supervision, and a state without morality and manhood without honor."

"Against this moral plague America is the shield, if shield there be," Mr. Atwood continued. "In America we must look to the most American principle—leadership in the matter and that part of America is in the south, where the language of the fathers of the republic is still spoken in its purity, and northern Europe or the multiple vowels of the Mediterranean; where the thoughts of the fathers still throbb in the hearts of men and where their ideals still hold the uplifted eyes of the rising generation."

"Hall to the south, the strongest of Americanism led by her, in every red flag of revolution we can see the stars of the union and the snow-white stripes that symbolize the purity of purpose like that which moved the men in whose honor we are assembled here today."

Mr. Atwood described at length the efforts made by Mr. Grady to restore fraternal relations between the north and south after the civil war.

"Let it be remembered," he said, "that it is twenty years ago since the trenchant pen of Atlanta's great editor fell from his death-touched hand; that he had never held official place; that neither stars nor orders had leaped upon his breast, nor had epaulets of authority ever glistened on his shoulders; that he was simply a plain citizen, one among the first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Dallas White Man
Is Given 25 Lashes
With Black Snake

DALLAS, May 24.—John T. Moore, 36, a stylishly dressed white man, who had been released on bond following arrest on a charge of snatching a 13-year-old white girl to a room, was taken to a public spot in Dallas county, last night by ten masked men, given 25 lashes with a black snake and early today dumped from an automobile in the heart of the downtown section, according to newspaper men taken along by the party.

All the men in the party that whipped Moore were masked and identify of them was unknown today. They wore no insignia of any kind. The affair followed a parade and posting of proclamations against the Ku Klux Klan here Saturday night.

Moore, who said his home was in Grenada, Miss., was picked up a short time after his bond had been allowed. The party then drove past the homes of newspaper men and asked the editor of the day was J. H. Atwood of Kansas City, and representatives were present from many states.

Several hundred little folks of Wichita Falls were entertained at the P. B. M. Co. store Monday afternoon, when Miss Ailsa Jane Knickerbocker told "Mary Jane" stories.

The entertainment was given upstairs, a very attractive background having been arranged for the story-telling hour, a stunt put on by the Corn Products Refining Co. of "Mary Jane Syrup" fame.

The announcement was made that Mary Jane would distribute bags of kisses every afternoon this week, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, to all children who came; also, that she would act as a model in a juvenile style show Thursday afternoon from 4:30 to 5:30, with the assistance of several little kiddies.

CITY'S HOSPITALITY EXTENDED TUESDAY, TO KANSAS CITYANS

SPECIAL TRAIN SCHEDULED TO REACH WICHITA FALLS AT 3:30 P. M.

AUTO RIDE, SMOKER AND DANCE TO BE FEATURES

Parade Through Business Section Starts Program—Will Stay Until Early Wednesday.

All Wichitans who have promised to help show Wichita Falls to the Kansas Cityans are requested to have their cars at the union station at 6:30 Tuesday evening, according to an announcement from the chamber of commerce.

The ride over the city will terminate at Lake Wichita, where there will be a smoker at 8 p. m., followed by a dance at 8:30. All members of the chamber of commerce are invited to both affairs.

The Kansas City special was scheduled to reach Wichita Falls at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon, and was running well on schedule, according to reports from the Northwestern.

A committee consisting of E. Stanley Field, George G. Buchanan, H. Z. Shepherd, C. E. McCutchen, Horace Robbins and Hulbert M. Harrison left at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon to greet the visitors at Burk Burnett and accompany them to Wichita Falls.

The program for the visit includes a parade through the business district, followed by informal visits to business men. At 6 o'clock the excursionists will take supper on their train, and at 6:30 the ride over the city will start.

There are 125 Kansas City business men on the trip, which started Sunday night, and which is to include visits to cities in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Missouri. From here the excursionists will travel eastward early Wednesday, spending the day at points between here and Denison, which is the scheduled Wednesday night stop.

Pendulum of Dance Is Toddling Back to Old Fashioned Steps

By CARL VICTOR LITTLE, United Press Staff Correspondent, CHICAGO, May 24.—They're dancing with their feet this summer.

The pendulum of dance is slowly toddling back to the old-fashioned steps, according to Chicago authorities. And, they said, as Chicago goes, so goes the nation.

"Let's be done with wiggles and wobble," is the slogan which the dancing masters borrowed from battle cry of the republicans during the last campaign.

Display of affection before the wide world on a dance floor isn't being done this season. The 1921 summer girl is a "touch me not"—on the pavilion at least.

One does not express one's love of bedding-clothes as the music grows louder. "Say it with a cottage bouquet or wait until you get home," is the edict that has gone forth.

It will take some time, however, to get back to the blitheness dances, professors of whirl said. A light dancer, just like a heavy dancer, has to taper off.

For instance, Miss Muriel Kelly, who has been teaching the "toddle fox trot," "It's a fairly conservative dance and is the missing link that glides the dancers back to the two-step and "altz," she explained.

All of which vindicates the campaign of Prof. Joseph L. Guyon, who runs the Paradise, one of the largest dancing halls in the country.

"The professor dared to allow nothing but the conservative dances when the whole world was craving more action. Flappers were not allowed to flap in Guyon's place.

With the passing of the wild dances, the pedlock will be placed upon the pink broche room of dancing academies, it was said.

It isn't necessary to check 'em when the waltz and two-step are popular.

EFFORT IS RENEWED FOR LOWER PULLMAN RATES FOR FORT WORTH TRIP

Another effort to secure lower Pullman rates between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth will be made, it was decided Thursday morning at a meeting of the traffic committee of the chamber of commerce. One reduction has already been obtained, but the present rate, $3.52, is higher than the charge to Dallas, and Secretary Chatham was instructed to make further efforts.

It is said that many Wichitans now prefer to take the afternoon train and pay $2 to $2.50 for a room in Fort Worth, effecting something of a saving thereby.

Announcement was made that the daily package car service to Duncan would be inaugurated shortly, and members of the committee expressed the hope that it would be liberally patronized.

What Would You Think?

of your husband or brother or dad as a business man, should he or they close a business deal without considering the true value of that which he had purchased, but paid the price simply because he was attracted by the appearance of the object, when with a little forethought and business judgment he could have done equally as well in obtaining that which was fully as attractive, but for much less money! POLICE USE CLUBS IN ARRESTING 3 IN CAFE DISTURBANCE

A $15 fine on charges of disturbing the peace was assessed against one defendant in the city police court Tuesday morning after testimony had been taken in regard to a fight staged in the Washington cafe about 9 o'clock Monday night. O'Neil, another man and his wife were all arrested and charged with fighting and disturbing the peace. All three were alleged to have become involved in the altercation on upper street—one of the men strenuously resisted arrest and succeeded in tearing half the uniform tunic off his back. The police used their clubs freely, according to stories of witnesses of the fight. The other defendant and his wife did not appear in court Tuesday, having been granted permission by Police Commissioner Bralley to stand trial Wednesday.

TRUSTEES TO VISIT OTHER HIGH SCHOOLS

Decide Monday Night to Look at New Buildings in Several Southwestern Cities.

Members of the school board will visit, in the near future, a number of Texas and Oklahoma cities that have recently completed new high school buildings to get ideas for use in construction of the new building which it is planned to erect here next year. It was decided at a meeting of the board Monday night.

Okahoma City, Tulsa, Dallas, Fort Arthur and probably some other points will be visited by members of the board.

The board ratified the recent action of one of its committees in acquiring additional property for the Bowie school district in the extreme southeastern part of the city.

It was reported that work was well under way on the Barwise school, and getting started on the negro school. The deal for the new high school site is nearly consummated, it was indicated, and will probably be finally closed in the near future.

Black and Yellow Wouldn't Mix, So Divorce Is Asked

Asserting that she said she didn't want her little yellow children to associate with his black niggers, Alfred Love states that his wife deserted him in October, 1920, and asks the court to set aside the bonds of matrimony. The plaintiff alleges that he was the father of two exceptionally smart negro children and that the defendant was the mother of four yellow negro kids. He asserts that shortly after their marriage an aversion arose between the defendant and his children which grew until she treated them and beat them shamefully.

The story thus far: Inspector Hopkins of the Kent, Ohio police, had been murdered by a woman named Lady Bracknell. The woman was a maid, and she was able to get away with the murder because she was a 'slacker' on the list of those mentioned in the war.

THE ADVENTURE OF THE ABBEY GRANGE

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1931, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The story thus far: Inspector Hopkins called on Holmes to help him at the Abbey Grange in Kent. There Holmes and Watson went to find that Sir Eustace Brackenstall had been murdered the night before. Hopkins apologized for calling on Holmes, and said that the face and the three handiwork, father and son, a notorious gang of burglars, as he was secured by Lady Brackenstall, now that she was able to talk. Holmes saw Lady Brackenstall, a beautiful woman with a wit that never failed her. Her maid, Theresa—her nurse since babyhood—was bathing. She said she had married a year before when she came to England from Australia. Her marriage had been unhappy, as Sir Eustace was a drunkard.

PART TWO
"I will tell you about last night," said Lady Brackenstall. "You are aware, perhaps, that in this house all the servants sleep in the modern wing. This central block is made up of the billiard-room, with the kitchen behind and our bedroom above. My maid, Theresa, sleeps above my room. There is no one else, and no one could sleep there who are in the farther wing. This must have been to know to the robbers, or they would not have acted as they did."

"Sir Eustace retired about half-past ten. The servants had already gone to their quarters. Only my maid was up and she remained in her room at the top of the house until I needed her services. I sat until after eleven in this room, absorbed in a book. Then I walked round to see that all was right before I went upstairs. It was my custom to do this myself, for, as I have explained, Sir Eustace was not always to be trusted."

"I went into the kitchen, the butler's pantry, the gun-room, the billiard-room, the drawing-room, and finally the dining-room. As I approached the window, which is covered with thick curtains, I suddenly felt the wind blow upon my face. I flung the curtain aside and found myself face to face with a broad-shouldered, elderly man, who had just stepped into the room. The window is a long French window which really forms a door leading to the lawn. I held my bedroom candle lit in my hand and, by its light, behind the first man I saw two others, who were in the act of entering. I stepped back, but the fellow was on me in an instant. He caught me first by the wrist, and then by the throat. I opened my mouth to cry out, but he struck me a savage blow with his flat over the eye and felled me to the ground. I must have been unconscious for a few minutes, when I came to myself, I found that they had torn down the bell-rope and had secured me tightly to the oaken chair which stands at the head of the dining-table. I was as firmly bound that I could not move, and a handkerchief round my mouth prevented me from uttering a sound. It was at this instant that my unfortunate husband entered the room. He had evidently heard some suspicious sounds, and he came prepared for such a scene as he found. He was dressed in his shirt and trousers, with his favor. He black-thorn cudgel in his hand, and he rushed at the burglars, but another—it was an elderly man, stooped, picked the pocket-out-of-the-positive-escape—a terrible blow as he passed. He fell with a groan, and never moved again. I fainted once more, but again it could only have been for a few minutes, when I came to myself, which was insensible. When I opened my eyes I found that they had collected the silver from the sideboard, and they had drawn a bottle of wine which stood there. Each of them had a glass in his hand. I have already told you, have I not, that one was elderly, with a beard and the others young, hairless lads. They might have been a father with his two sons. They talked together in whispers. Then they came over and made sure that I was securely bound. Finally they withdrew, closing the window after them. It was quite a quarter of an hour before I got my mouth free. When I did so, my screams brought the maid to my assistance. The other servants were asleep, and she was sent for the local police, who instantly communicated with London. That is really all that I can tell you, gentlemen, and all that that it was necessary for me to go over so painful a story again."

"Any questions, Mr. Holmes?" asked Lady Brackenstall. "I will not impose any further tax upon Lady Brackenstall's patience and time," said Holmes. "Before I go into the dining-room, I should like to hear your experience." He looked at the maid.

"I saw the men before they came into the house," said she. "As I sat by my bedroom window I saw three men in the moonlight down by the lodge gate. They were busily engaged at the time. It was more than an hour after that I heard my mistress scream, and down I ran, to find her, poor lamb, just as she says, and him on the floor, with his blood and brains over the room. It was enough to drive a woman out of her wits, and she, her very dress spotted with him, but she never wanted courage, did Miss Mary Fraser of Adelaide, and Lady Brackenstall of Abbey Grange hasn't learned any wits. You've questioned her long enough, you gentlemen, and now she is coming in her own room, just with her old Theresa, to get the rest that she badly needs."

With a motherly tenderness the giant woman put her arm round her mistress and led her from the room.

"She has been with her all her life," said Hopkins. "Nursed her as a baby, and came with her to England when they first left Australia, eighteen months ago. Theresa Wright is her name, and the kind of maid you don't pick up nowadays. This way, Mr. Holmes, if you please!"

The keen interest had passed out of Holmes' expressive face, and I knew that with the mystery all the charm of the case had departed. There still remained an arrest to be effected, but what were the circumstances—reasons, that he should soil his hands with them? An abstract and learned specialist—who finds that he has been called in for a case of measles would experience something of the annoyance which I read in my friend's eyes. Yet the scene in the dining room of the Abbey Grange was sufficiently strange to arrest his attention and to recall his waning interest.

It was a very large and high chamber with carved oak ceiling, oaken paneling, and fine array of deer's heads and ancient weapons around the walls. At the further end from the door was the high, French window of which we had heard. Three smaller windows, on the right-hand side filled the apartment with cold winter sunshine. On the left was a large deep fireplace, with a massive overhanging oak mantelpiece. Beside the fireplace was a heavy oaken chair with arms and cross-arms at the bottom. In and out through the open woodwork was woven a crimson cord, which was secured at each side to the crosspiece below. In releasing the lady, the cord had slipped off her, but the knots with which it had been secured still remained. These details only struck our attention afterwards, for our thoughts were entirely absorbed by the terrible object which lay upon the tiger-skin hearthrug.

It was the body of a tall, well-made man, about forty years of age. He lay upon his back, his face upturned, with his white teeth grinning through his short, black beard. His two clenched hands were raised above his head, and a heavy, black-thorn stick lay across them. His dark, handsome aquiline features were convulsed into a spasmodic, vindictive hatred, which had set his dead face in a terribly fiendish expression. He had evidently been in his bed when the alarm had broken out, for he wore a foppish, embroidered night-shirt, and his bare feet projected from his slippers. His head was horribly injured, which stood there. Each of them had struck him down. Beside him lay the heavy poker, bent into a curve by the concussion. Holmes examined the body and the indescribable wreck which it had wrought.

"He must be a powerful man, this elder Randall," he remarked.

"Yes," said Hopkins. "I have some record of the fellow, and he is a rough customer."

"You should have no difficulty in getting him," said Holmes.

"No, the situation we have been in the lookout for him, and there was some idea that he had got away to America. Now that we know that the gang are here, I don't see how they can escape. We have the news at every seaport already, and a reward will be offered, before evening, which will beat me in how they could have done so mad a thing, knowing that the lady could describe them and that we could not fail to ing-room. I should like to hear your experience." He looked at the maid.

"I saw the men before they came into the house," said she. "As I sat by my bedroom window I saw three men in the moonlight down by the lodge gate. They were busily engaged at the time. It was more than an hour after that I heard my mistress scream, and down I ran, to find her, poor lamb, just as she says, and him on the floor, with his blood and brains over the room. OFF ON 7,000-MILE CRUISE IN LAUNCH

Three adventurous sailors started from the New York Yacht Club, N. Y. C., on a 7,000-mile cruise in the 22-foot long power launch "Hippocampus." The little craft is 24 feet long on the water line, has a beam 9 feet 11 inches and a draft of 5 feet. The three are bound for San Francisco and will sail by way of the Panama Canal. They expect to be gone for five months. The photograph shows the adventurous three aboard the "Hippocampus" just before the start of their long cruise. Left to right—J. recognize the description."

"Exactly. One would have expected that they would have silenced Lady Brackenstall as well."

"They may not have realized," I suggested, "that she had recovered from her faint."

"That is likely enough. If she seemed to be senseless, they would not take her life. What about this poor fellow, Hopkins? I seem to have heard some queer stories about him."

"He was a good-hearted man when he was sober, but a perfect fiend when he was drunk, or rather when he was half-drunk, for he seldom really went the whole way. The devil seemed to be in boy Grange, continued."

him at such times, and he was capable of anything. From what I hear, in spite of all his wealth and his title, he very heavily came our way once or twice. There was a scandal about his drenching a dog with petroleum and setting it on fire—her ladyship's dog, to make the matter worse—and that was only hushed up with difficulty. Then he threw a scampier at that maid Theresa Wright; there was trouble about that. On the whole, and between ourselves, it will be a lighter house without him. What are you looking at now?"

"Yes, I have noticed that, and also that it does not come out when I brush it. The French people certainly know the Art of producing fine toilet requisites."

"Nothing equals the French products especially in the preparations sometimes called 'beautifiers'. French chemists possess the secret of making exquisite adjuncts to the toilette of women of culture."

"That is true. For instance, the very first time you try ED. PINAUD'S Eau de Quinine Hair Tonic its purity and quality are at once evident, and inspire your confidence in its merit—I like its fragrance too. ED. PINAUD'S is especially fine in hot weather. It keeps the scalp clean and cool and dries quickly."

"Drying quickly is a great advantage. I avoid the use of any sticky substance in my hair dressing work. I only use liquid preparations. The only thing I use which has oil in it is ED. PINAUD'S Brillantine, which is fine if the scalp is too dry or the hair brittle."

Lives to See the Prescription He Wrote in 1892 the Worlds Most Popular Laxative Remedy

Born Shelbyville, Mo., March 27, 1832
Began the manufacture of his famous prescription in 1892

Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, long past Biblical old age, but hale and hearty—Still occupations daily—Wonderful achievement of a "country doctor."

WHEN I started to practice medicine, back in 1875, there were no pills or tablets or salt waters for the relief of constipation, and no artificial remedies made from coal tar.

The prescription for constipation that I used early in my practice, and which I put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid remedy, and I have never had reason to change it. I intended it for women, children and elderly people, and these need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

I am gratified to say that under successful management my prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that over eight million bottles were sold by druggists last year proves that it has won the confidence of mothers whose chief interest is the health of their children.

It is particularly pleasing to me to know that the biggest half of those eight million bottles were bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for grownups. The price of a bottle holding 50 average treatments is sixty cents; such a bottle will last a family several months.

I have never made a secret of what is in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. These ingredients are endorsed in the U. S. Pharmacopoeia. I consider Syrup Pepsin today in the serious 52nd year of my age, as I did in 1892, the best remedy a family can have in the house for the safe relief of constipation and its accompanying ills, such as headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and I believe if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL IN PHILIPPINES TELLS PROGRESS OF ISLANDS

COMMANDS ATTENTION OF THE THOUGHTFUL EDUCATORS EVERYWHERE.

EIGHT HUNDRED STUDENTS FROM 25 OF PROVINCES

Only a Part of the Fast Growing Educational System of the Islands.

By CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL, Special Correspondent of the Wichita Daily Times.

(Copyright, 1921, by the Wichita Daily Times.) MANILA, May 24.—If you care to know what this Philippine problem really is, the length and breadth and seriousness of it, and the fact that it cannot be sidetracked much longer, there is a place out here, about 50 miles north of Manila, where a thing is going on a thousand times more illuminating than a boat load of arguments.

It is a school, the name of which is the Central Luzon Agricultural school, and the name of the place is Munao. The world does not know either at present, but I imagine it is likely to become better acquainted with both.

Munao is about 20 miles beyond the present end of the railroad line, in the midst of a region that a few years ago was forest and jungle, traversed chiefly by bands from the mountains. Today it is all cleared, occupied by home-steaders and booming with rice and things.

The school is part of the educational system of the Philippine islands, which has had the wondering attention and profitable regard of thoughtful educators everywhere.

Eight Hundred Students. From these are 100 students coming from 25 provinces in these Philippine islands.

I put that fact by itself with the hope to emphasize it. 500 students, 25 provinces and everything there is going in the way of natural time, no canons, no gorillas, no tigers, no monkeys, no snakes, no scorpions, no spiders, no insects, no diseases, no anything that you can think of that has a tight brown color and a thick black track.

But all these things are according to eminent authority, impossible and irreconcilable elements thrown together, please note that this school practically runs itself, and on the broadest lines of actual democracy. I know it ought not to do this, but it does. It is the most astonishing thing in the Philippines and outrageously subversive of all authority.

There are the representatives of 25 provinces and 44 varieties of tribes ought to be throwing the bolts into one another. The truth is, they live together, work together and achieve together in the utmost harmony. According to theory, they being Orientals and Malays, and all that, they are incapable of doing anything except under the whip and curses of the white man. The truth is they produce under a system of their own and work under their own feet. According to theory, they can draw the breath of life only under some form of autocracy. The truth is they govern themselves.

Also, the truth is, they show daily that they have initiative, the very thing that theory is surest they cannot possibly have.

The chief source of authority at this school is the general assembly, of which all the students are members. It meets once a week, in the school building at an time. The students from each province constitute a political unit in the little republic. Each unit elects by ballot a delegate to the council, which is the legislative and directing power. The general assembly elects from its own body the student president and student vice-president. These are the chief officers of the school. Order is maintained by a student police force headed by a student police chief. Offenders are brought before a student court, which is a tribunal of student judges and student associates. A trial is had and discipline is administered according to the judgment of the court. Punishments range from a reprimand to expulsion, and include suspension, fines and confinement in a guard house.

Disputes between the students may be settled before the same tribunal, but it is the business of the judges to bring the disputants to an understanding without a trial, if that may be possible.

The students till the soil, both for the communal profit and use of the school, and individually on separate tracts, each for his own account. They have a printing office, a plan, a general store, a printing office, a student newspaper, a photographing establishment, a saw mill, a blacksmith shop, a wood shop, a carpenter shop and telegraph office, all with student labor. They do business in these enterprises with the settlers and farmers in the region around about as well as with their fellow students.

TOOTS AND CASPER - Casper Plays Safe

a modest young American named Kilmor E. Moe. I think he could make a success of anything, but he chose to go into the woods and make a success of this. The school is only about 13 years old. It started in the wilderness with 20 students and the forest was so dense and the task so appalling the first boys ran away. So did the second 20. They don't run away now; they stay and demonstrate the character of their people and the eternal truth of democracy.

Particular attention might profitably be centered on these facts: Instruction is in the American language. The 500 students must not only speak American but understand it. They play baseball in it.

Intelligent and Ambitious. They are serious, intelligent, industrious and almost always ambitious. They are boys, but there is no fooling, sky-larking, horse-playing among them and not a trade of rowdiness. How about that?

On my arrival I found a delegation of the graduating class engaged in building a monument on the campus that the state will leave as a memorial to the school. Their own idea; their own design; a monument about 12 feet high, a figure on a pedestal. What kind of a figure? Why a figure typical of the first settlers who went into this region, a celebration of the early pioneer. Their own idea and exceedingly well done by one of their number who has a talent for sculpture. Their own idea, the sons of Datus, Moros, Igorrotes, so-called wild men; a farmer sculptor, 30 years old, putting up public monuments. Can you beat it?

Illness is fatal to Mrs. F. E. Wis Miller. Early Tuesday morning Mrs. F. E. Wis Miller, owner and general manager of the Midwest Printing company, died at a local hospital at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday morning after an illness of about two weeks. Her condition had not become alarming until early last week, at which time she was removed from the home of her parents.

PUBLIC ASKED NOT TO SPRINKLE LAWN BETWEEN 6 AND 8

Commissioner of Public Utilities Bonner and F. N. Lawton, manager of the water department, have joined in a request to residents not to use the city water for sprinkling between the hours of 6 and 8 in the morning and between the same hours in the evening. These are the periods of heaviest use of water for domestic purposes and in some sections of the city the pressure becomes very low at these periods of the day.

A new pump is being installed at the plant but this will probably not be in operation within the next sixty days; in the meanwhile residents are requested not to use the water for sprinkling between the hours named.

VERDICT AT SONORA EXONERATES BROTHER AND FATHER OF GIRL

SAN ANGELO, TEXAS, May 24.—A verdict of suicide in the case of Nelson McNeill and a verdict that Elizabeth Dorothy Harris, McNeill's fiancée, met death from gunshot wounds inflicted by persons unknown, will be returned by H. B. Balch, justice of the peace at Sonora, Sutton county, acting as coroner, Justice Balch said in a telephone message to San Angelo today.

Miss Harris was instantly killed Saturday when McNeill, with whom she was eloping from Valley Mills, fought a running gun fight with Dick Harris and H. S. Harris, father and brother, respectively, of the girl. After Miss Harris fell dead, McNeill escaped from the scene. His body was found early Sunday. Officers said to request not to use the water for sprinkling between the hours named.

County Justice James Cornell of Sonora intimated today that he would not call a special grand jury to investigate the affair, but that it would be taken up at the regular term of court next October. Relatives here of McNeill indicated they would not employ counsel to prosecute the two parties, but said the father of the dead man might take some action.

Harris and his son, who were placed under $1,000 bond each at Sonora, on the charge of assault on McNeill, left here today with the daughter's body. It will be buried at Valley Mills.

Enactment of a law making cohabitation between blacks and whites a felony punishable by death is urged by Phippen.

RELIEVE MAN ARRESTED IN AN ESCAPED CONVICT

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., May 24.—Warden A. F. Anderson of the federal prison here today expressed the belief that Frank J. O'Boyle, arrested at Carbondale, Pa., is Frank Grigware, the one remaining uncaptured member of the notorious band which escaped from the prison in May, 1919. All of the others were recaptured.

Five of the band held up a switch engine crew and compelled the engineer to drive through the prison gates and westward on the Union Pacific tracks. A bridge undergoing repairs halted the engine, and after exchanging clothes with the crew, the band scattered. The men were armed with wooden pistols made by Thomas Murdock, a counterfeiter.

Three months ago federal authorities located Grigware at Aberdeen, S. D., but he escaped.

ADVOCATES A REVISION OF LEVER COTTON FUTURES LAW

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Revision of the Lever cotton futures trading law in the interest of cotton producers was advocated today before the senate agriculture committee by Senator Dial, South Carolina, a cotton planter and mill owner. He declared the law did not work "honestly" and added: "I'm surprised that it has been allowed to remain on the books."

Senator Dial produced figures to show that through speculative futures trades in one year there had been sold on the cotton exchange eight times the total cotton actually produced. The senator said that he was not protesting the exchanges, but he said that future speculative trading should not be allowed to affect the prices of spot cotton. He expressed doubt whether the maintenance of exchanges was necessary to the cotton trade.

A specific bill a remedial measure was his bill to amend the law relating to performance of future contracts. It would give the seller as well as the buyer the right to deliver one-half of the contract in two or more grades. This, Senator Dial said, would tend to steady and regulate spot prices and place sellers on a closer plane with buyers. The committee deferred action on Senator Dial's bill.

PERCENTAGE AGAINST RECORD BEING BROKEN

Luck Will Figure Prominently in Ninth Annual 500 Mile International Auto Race.

By BARNEY OLDFIELD. INDIANAPOLIS, May 24.—Senior Chris Columbus, who took the biggest chance recorded in history, would have been an automobile racer, if he lived in the age of chugging engines instead of the age of flapping sails.

For automobile racing is chance, and nothing else but chance.

The winner of the ninth annual 500-mile international sweepstakes which will be held here Memorial day will have elusive Dame Chance, who changes her mind more than any other member of the sex to thank for success.

Every indication points to all existing records being broken, but indications have pointed this way several times before.

The percentage is against the record being broken. Wilcox won the race in 1915, he was stepping along at a mere 51 miles an hour average until he had to stop. Last year, Ralph de Palma was way beyond the record, as was Joe Boyer, who was most of the lap prices. But both had to stop at the pits and the record again withstood the onslaughts of speed demons.

Still everything is favorable to the 1921 classic establishing the record that each year has been the hope of the drivers and speedway officials.

As a betting proposition it is a flip of a coin. If I was wagering and any one bet me 2 to 1 the record would be broken, I would take the short end if I would also, take the short end if I bet me the record would not be broken.

GOLF PROFESSIONALS SAIL FOR ENGLAND

Second Contingent of America's Golf Army to Take Up Battle Where Amateurs Stop.

By HENRY J. BARNES. NEW YORK, May 24.—News from the front where the amateurs are on a big drive, put America's second golf expeditionary force in high spirits today.

The second party of invaders consisted of Captain Emmett French, Jim Barnes, Walter Hagen, Tommy Kerrigan, Freddie McLeod, Clarence Mackay, Wilfred Rath, George McLean, William Melhorn and Charles Hoffman.

Harry Hampton, Eddie Loo, Mike Brady and Leo Deigel found at the last minute they could not go.

Without the above quartet, the "program" will not be as strong but it is a likely looking outfit and should make a creditable showing.

Jim Barnes, while he decided to make the trip, may not be able to take part in the drive for the open title. He is in poor condition. Walter Hagen hasn't been doing much playing and he will need a lot of practice to get into form.

Between now and June 30 the selection committee will name another player to take the place of Harry Hampton.

DALLAS, May 24.—A $10 fine against the "masked unknown" was received in corporation court. A letter to Judge Robertson signed "Katie of the Ku Klux Klan" admitted posting proclamations on telephone poles in violation of the law. The $10 was enclosed.

SPORTS SHOTS by Paul & Larkin

Applicable to the Spudgers: "The truth is that the boys couldn't hit a curve ball with a fork yesterday at ordinary dining distance. They looked like a party million fan-ding herself!"

Too bad they didn't bar left-handers along with fresh pitching. Southpaws are more or less freaks any way.

The average left-handed batter is supposed to be weak against southpaw writing, yet in the first three innings yesterday the only men who fanned were Gross and Kitchens—both right-handed hitters.

Marshall pitched great ball, but he alone was responsible for the two runs scored by the Grabs. However, he was not responsible for all the hits the Spudgers didn't get.

Why, oh why, can't the Spudgers jump a ball down? No less than four games on the first road trip can be directly traced to the failure of a player to bust. We saw two games slicked away in that manner and do not have to accept anybody's word for those two.

The same fault was in evidence yesterday. Kitchens missed one on a squeeze, but was lucky enough to hit the ball foul. He later drew a pass, but it was no fault of his. Clark would have scored easily from third had he hit the ball to the infield as the Galveston scribe says that Danny had the plate stolen.

The same thing happened on the next run. Marshall missed the ball by several feet with the bags choked and Miller on third. The inevitable result followed. Jake was caught standing up between third and home.

The Spudgers would do well if they devoted their batting practice before a game to hunting instead of trying to knock the ball out of the lot. It is true that they have been batted thus far on the road, but nobody can deny that Sam is a bunch of sluggers. They'll hit well enough in the long run, but they'll never win ball games as long as they hunt straight into

Banker Accused Of Being Father Of Infant Killed

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Lying on a cot in the county hospital, pale and thin, a "grit" named Jimmie Mullicane, 26, today charged that the father of her nameless baby, for whose murder she is soon to stand trial, is a wealthy Springfield, Mo. He said he will not be made public until he is arrested on a federal warrant which has been issued charging violation of the Mann act.

Miss Mullicane, whose parents live in Lebanon, Mo., was arrested several months ago after her baby's body was found in a trunk in a storage warehouse. Her hands were bound tightly around its neck. She had steadfastly guarded the name of the man responsible for her trouble.

Miss Angela C. Kaufman, wife of a multimillionaire who has been active in Miss Mullicane's welfare, secured her statement.

She is a banker and insurance man of Springfield, Mo. She is quoted as saying: "My father is a doctor there whom everyone respects."

"In January, 1918, I went to work as maid in his home. He was wonderful to me. One day he told me he couldn't live without me and I threatened to run away. Somehow, I was afraid of him, but I loved him so much. He wouldn't hear of it and said that when his parents died he would marry me."

"In May, 1920, I told him we were going to have a little baby soon. He wouldn't hear of it. In October I begged him to do something for me, but he said: 'That child isn't mine.'"

"I was in despair and threatened to kill myself."

"On November 15 he took me to the railroad station and bought me a ticket to Los Angeles, giving the agent $100 and giving me the change from it to keep me when I got out here. The money didn't last long and—you know the rest."

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting tired of hearing and are suffering with deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmitin (double strength), and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing noise. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the ears. some fielder's waiting mitts or miss the ball completely.

We saw a portion of three games yesterday. Our first was at Athletic park. We thought we'd catch a few bats out of the Spudgers' new Navigators matinee, but we saw only a portion of the first. After the first seven batters to face the Spudger batsman sacked all the bats we decided that we'd had enough. It took almost a half an hour to play the first inning and it was ultimately called in the seventh with the visitors leading.

We then wandered to the Air dome with the hope of seeing the Spudgers start another winning streak. But, like all the other games of late, it was a fine battle up to the closing chapters. However, it was a good game to watch and one in which either club was liable to forge into the lead at any moment. The Air dome fans were satisfied with the game, as such, but not with the outcome.

We wound up the day back at Athletic park where Lloyd Weaver's "Super-Sizes" were mixing it up with the Motor Supply gang of the Twilight league. We took Lloyd's word for it that there was going to be a battle. The only thing about it that resembled a battle was the bombardment staged by the Motor Supply. Lloyd chucked 'em up at the leaguers, but didn't chuck many of them. The final result was 16 to 4 in favor of the Motors. However, "a good time was had by all."

Martin Gersh has signed to meet Denver Joe Smith in a 10 round tilt in Temple, Ill. 3. Though Martin has been out of the ring for some time, he is in the best of condition and promises to make it hot for Joe. The latter fought Jack Reeves here last summer and won on a foul. He is one of the fastest leather pushers in the middle west and has a long string of victories over some of the best in the country to his credit.

Gersh is working out in the future American legion hall (formerly the Little Deming Academy), but is having trouble locating sparring partners. There's a good opportunity for some of the local amateurs to pick up a bit of knowledge about the game. The faster they are, the better Martin likes 'em, and he'll take on anybody for a few rounds daily.

LONDON, May 24.—General Crozier, former commander of the black and tan police in Ireland, in an article printed today by the Daily News, charged that crown forces in Ireland were guilty of murder, arson, looting and terrorism.

Crozier resigned from his command when his sentences for black and tan looting were overruled by higher authorities.

Crozier said that during the months he was in Ireland the black and tan continually murdered the Irish, burned their dwellings and scores and practiced other forms of terrorism.

The general also charged that high officials in Dublin Castle had "framed" evidence against Irish prisoners and that they had hushed up three cases of murder which he mentioned specifically. Two of these were prisoners whose deaths were later reported as occurring when they attempted to escape, Crozier said.

Cause of the explosion was undetermined. Three witnesses have been found who saw a motor car containing three men drive into an alley way behind the building shortly before the explosion occurred.

DALLAS MAN TELLS WHAT CIVIC FORUM CAN MEAN TO CITY

"CANNOT BUILD UP A COMMUNITY ON IGNORANCE"

Wrote Well-Successful Plan Has Been at Dallas—P. A. Whaley Tells of Mexico Trip.

"Democracy will flourish only in an intelligent people and one of the best methods of reaching all classes and educating them in the vital problems of the world today is through the medium of the open forum," declared Elmer Scott of Dallas Tuesday in his address on the "Open Forum Feasibility" before the members of the University club and high school guests in the Kemp hotel.

"You cannot build up a sound community on ignorance. America is the land of the free, but the greatest freedom we want is the freedom to weigh things in the balance in our own minds. This can be best accomplished by the open forum. Our policy in Dallas is as follows:

"Turning the year we have 18 or 20 numbers which include the most prominent speakers of the country. All programs are held promptly at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, as that is the best time for all concerned. A five-minute address is allowed for the introductory speech and the main address runs fifty minutes. The next ten minutes is devoted to the announcement of the next week's program. A five-minute collection is taken up. It is principally through this collection that we defray our expenses, which amount to about $1,000 per year. After the collection the speaker is ready to answer any question on his topic that is put to him by the members of the audience.

"The result of such a forum is that all get at the real truth of the big problems that are confronting the public and the truth in such matters will never hurt the country.

EXPENSE MAY BAR TRAFFIC OFFICERS

Council Discusses Matter Monday Night—Unwillingly Grants Two Store Permits.

The question of whether Wichita Falls will have strict regulation of down town automobile traffic with "stop" and "go" semaphores, and well trained traffic officers was considered by the city council Monday night, decision in the matter being deferred.

The Automotive Dealers association has offered to install the necessary signs at its own expense, and wants to bring an experienced traffic officer here from Dallas to train local officers in handling traffic.

Previous traffic regulation measures here have not been successful, it was pointed out, because experienced men were not available for crossing duty.

Mayor Cline, who had discussed the matter with the association, said he was not sure that the city could stand the additional expense, as more policemen would have to be employed.

He also expressed doubt whether an elaborate traffic regulation system was proposed was really necessary in Wichita Falls. Final action on the proposal was deferred.

When the council convened, a petition was presented, signed by J. C. Hunt, Frank Collier and others living in the vicinity of Tenth and Lamar protesting against the use of that street for storage purposes.

The petition was referred to city attorney Mann.

Two petitions for new stores were presented, and after being carefully checked were found to have the required number of signatures. One was for a grocery on Thirteenth between Austin and Burnett, the other for a grocery and bakery on Harrison between Ninth and Tenth.

The petitions were granted, after the city attorney had been instructed to draw up a contract whereby the owners agreed to remove their stores at any time that the council requested them to do so. The contracts will be drawn by the city attorney and will become part of the abstract of title to the property, and bind future property owners as well.

The electric sign ordinance was taken up and passed to second reading. It was stated that it had successfully run the gauntlet of the several organizations that have been considering it for some time.

Dr. J. F. Reed announced that he would soon have some names to submit for the city health board, which will have supervision over health and sanitation activities of the city.

J. M. Bland, J. M. Baber and Linn Zoys were named as members of the equalization board, which will begin its labors at once.

Mr. Cline asked about the progress of installing street lights on the north side, saying a committee has visited him about the matter. Councilman Bonner reported that progress had been very slow, owing to lack of material. Mr. Cline reported that something had to be done about the money fund, which was sadly depleted.

Councilman Bonner took occasion to sound a warning about the city's using any interest and sinking fund money for any other purpose, and suggested that the council put itself beyond temptation by investing this fund in bonds.

"It's a penitentiary offense to spend it for anything else," he said, "and I'm not giving any pardons."

The mayor reported that some action on the memorial park matter would probably be taken before the next meeting.

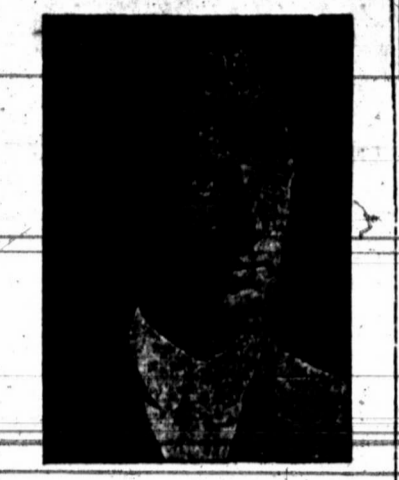

SPECIAL VENUE ORDERED FOR A. C. CARPENTER TRIAL

A special venue of 100 men was ordered by Judge P. A. Martin of the 53rd district court Tuesday morning to report at 8 o'clock on the morning of June 1, when the case against A. C. Carpenter charged with murder will be called for trial.

Attorney R. D. Sartin, counsel for the defendant, was in the court room Tuesday morning when the case was set and agreed as to the date.

Carpenter is charged with the murder of Jack Hollingsworth, which occurred in the suite of the Hotel Hotel last March. Carpenter is out under bond of $10,000.

ROTARIANS WILL MEET NEAR HIS OLD HOME TOWN, SO HE'S GOING

FRED T. COUPER.

A trip that any Rotarian or any enthusiastic golfer would give nothing he has for, will start Wednesday for Fred T. Couper, local Rotarian, who leaves to represent the Wichita Falls club at the International Rotary convention to be held in Edinburgh, Scotland, next month.

While in Scotland on his native heath, Mr. Couper will attend the open golf tournament of the world, one of the most notable events in sports annals. It is held on the famous St. Andrews course, not far from Edinburgh.

The Edinburgh convention will be attended by some thousands of American Rotarians, as well as by delegates from clubs in other parts of the world to which the Rotary idea has spread. It is the first convention to be held elsewhere than in the United States, and will be attended by notables from both continents.

Mr. Couper will be among home folks at Edinburgh. He was born at Montrose, on the east coast of Scotland, not very far from Edinburgh, as distances go in that part of the world. A number of his brothers and sisters still live in Scotland, and he will also see a brother who has been in Cape Town, South Africa, for many years.

Mr. Couper left Scotland when quite a wee lad, as they would say in Scotland, but has been back several times—first in 1884, and then in 1890, and their children visited the old home town. His daughter, Miss Anna, will be with him on his trip.

WICHITAN GETS CONTRACT FOR FIRST ROTARY RIG IN OIL FIELDS OF INDIA

The first rotary rig to be run in the oil fields of India was recently completed by a recent Wichitan, Pat Lee, who was with the checkerboard company here. Mr. Lee left not long ago for Pittsburg, with the expectation of landing a contract for the well, and in letter to James Patterson of this city writes that he has obtained it. Mr. Lee's letter says in part:

"I am ready to leave to night (May 24) for Erizo. I arrived here the 15th and they started my contract that day. There certainly is a fine bunch of fellows here, and they have left nothing undone to show me a good time. Mr. Whitteken is in New York, but he must have said something nice about me, for Mr. Keenan of the export department took it upon himself to see that I didn't get lonesome; went through the works today and then to the bureau of mines and into perfectly good old-fashioned saloon where they had a foot rail and real beer. Gosh! It sure was good."

"Well, Jimmie, I'm the goat, all right. It's the first rotary test in India, so please wish me good luck. Mr. Anderson thinks it's a wonderful opportunity, as he knows most of the 'high brow' and says they are a fine bunch with lots of money. Well, I'm going to try to make the best single-handed money spender you ever saw, so maybe we will get along. I am going to have an American derrick man and tool dresser, but some other outfit is sending them."

SCOUTS WILL KEEP IN TOUCH WITH HOME BY USING WIRELESS

Daily wire communication between Wichita Falls and the boy scout camp at Cratesville, Okla., will be established, if plans being considered by Scout Executive H. E. Taylor are worked out satisfactorily.

A number of the scouts enrolled for the camping are proficient amateur wireless enthusiasts and it is proposed to establish a station in Oklahoma which can afford communication with any of the stations already in operation in this city.

Plans are being completed for the trip, everything having been arranged with the exception of tents. Scout officials are working as to how they can supply these all important articles, for at least twenty will be required to shelter the scouts, and only two or three are now owned by the organization. New tents can be purchased for $20 each, but this is too much to be expended at one time and other methods must be found, Mr. Taylor says.

It was announced Monday that the main body of scouts, approximately 100 in all, would leave the city early in the morning of June 1, which is one week from Wednesday, and would return on the 14th.

China still has the custom of making criminals stand in public squares with great wooden yokes around their necks.

RECOVERS AUTOMOBILE STOLEN NINE MONTHS AGO

Deputy Constable Bean recovered a five-passenger Ford automobile that was stolen from Bowie, Texas, nine months ago. The automobile was found in the hands of an innocent purchaser at Bridgetown. The owner came to the city and identified the car. The engine number had been changed on the car and several alterations made but the owner proved conclusively to the constable's department that the car was his.
