DETAILED FIGURES PERMANENT TARIFF ARE KEPT SECRET

GENERALLY THOUGHT RATES WILL BE HIGHER THAN PAYNE-ALDRICH BILL.

FIRST OFFICIAL PROPOSAL WAS FLATLY TURNED DOWN

Wanted Congress to Accept New Rates "Sight Unseen" for the Emergency Period.

By MARK SULLIVAN,
NATIONAL POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT of the New York Evening Post (Copyright 1932 by New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times).

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.—The detailed figures of the tariff bill which the ways and means committee is now writing are kept a committee secret, but enough is known about them to justify the widespread expectation on the part of members of the lower house that the new tariff bill will be higher than the Payne-Aldrich bill and higher than any tariff bill ever written in America. It is this suspicion that caused the turning down of the ways and means committee's proposal that the new rates should go into effect for an emergency period of five months, "sight unseen."

It was decided the suspensions for the republican leadership in congress that this, the ways and means committee's first official proposal, should be turned down by the republican caucus so flatly as it was. No vote was taken on the proposal, but it was evident that the sentiment among the "rank and file" antagonists to the ways and means committee's position was fully 4 to 1.

"Nothing short of sublime."
The reason given for rejecting the proposal was that it was unconstitutional. Unquestionably it was of most dubious constitutionality to propose that congress should put into effect as law rates made by the ways and means committee at a time before congress knew what those rates were going to be. As Congressman George E. Young of North Dakota, the member of congress who is willing at this time, twenty days before he can know anything about the rates of duty which the permanent tariff bill will contain, to agree to give such rates the force of law as soon as reported must have a faith in the ways and means committee nothing short of sublime.

Incidentally, it can be said that if the republican caucus had not turned down this proposal, and if it had been passed by the house, the senate and the democrats would have filibustered against it all summer if necessary. But while unconstitutionality and inappropriateness were given publicly as the reason for turning down the proposal, a more real reason was the widespread whispered suspicion that the ways and means committee is writing a tariff higher than ever before known.

As Congressman Young also said:
"Are you quite sure the rates, when you learn what they are, will be such as can readily your support upon final passage of the bill. Remember that such a tariff he could not vote for it."

The new bill is confidently expected to be higher than the Payne bill, and with equal confidence it can be predicted that the republican committee leadership will have extreme difficulty in getting so high a bill through the house. The republicans have in the house and senate are decidedly weak in the sort of leadership that can whip an unwilling party into line.

That in what accounts for the present bold republican position on the tariff measure and the tariff measure. The republicans have no Cannon and no Aldrich. The uncertain health and the absence from Washington of Senator Ferguson of Pennsylvania add to the lack of confidence. Ferguson is chairman of the finance committee and as such is supposed to be in charge of both the taxation measure and the tariff measure. With Ferguson absent, the next in command on the finance committee is Senator McCumber of North Dakota. Senator McCumber has no such Aldrich-like qualities of grill master as the republicans need.

TESTIMONY DISCLOSES HEAVY INCREASES IN NEW YORK OFFICE RENT

NEW YORK, June 10.—Testimony showing heavy increases in office and rent building, rents, varying from 100 per cent last year to 40 per cent since 1915, was given to the Lockwood legislative committee. Increases of 50 per cent were common. Samuel Un-termyer, committee counsel, said he would not trouble to read them into the record.

Mr. Untermyer also announced he would communicate with Attorney General Daugherty in reference to the federal prosecution of building material combinations. He said the federal authorities pressed co-operation, but it had not been given although evidence against twenty illegal groups had been turned over to them.

Mr. Untermyer had a warm argument with officials of the corporation which owns the Equitable building, the largest office structure in the world, because they had not answered the questionnaire on rent data fully or given the committee requested information on leases.

HASKELL COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICTS CONSOLIDATE

HASKELL, TEXAS, June 10.—The Pinkerton and Whitman school districts, adjoining the Haskell independent school district to the northwest, have recently consolidated and will build a new rural high school. The building is to be a four-room structure with big auditorium.
The Pinkerton school building has already been torn down and removed to the site of the new location, which is in the center of the two districts.
It is thought by the trustees that the foundation of a new building will be laid next week.
Haskell county is doing much in the way of improving her schools and the cause of education.

DR. GAMBRELL DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Was One of the Best Known Baptist Ministers in Entire Country.

DALLAS, June 10.—Dr. J. B. Gambrell, retired president of the Southern Baptist convention, died at the home of a daughter here today. He was 79 years old and had been ill since last February.

Dr. Gambrell was a noted southern educator, having served as professor at various southern Baptist theological institutions. For many years he was editor of the Baptist Standard of Dallas. He had lived in Dallas 22 years and is survived by two sons and three daughters. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

James Bruton Gambrell, son of Joel Bruton and Jane Elvira Gambrell, was born in Anderson, S. C., Aug. 21, 1843.
The following year his parents moved to Mississippi where he was reared on a farm, receiving his education in country schools.

In his 20th year young Gambrell entered the Confederate army, serving 24 months in the Army of Virginia. Most of his services were those of a scout under Gen. Robert E. Lee. On one of his scouting expeditions he met Miss Mary T. Corbell of Nansmond county, Virginia. A year later Gambrell picked his way through the Union lines and at midnight, Jan. 12, 1864, married Miss Corbell at her home. At the close of the war he returned to Mississippi and took up the ministry in 1857, having been ordained at Cherry Creek church, Porticoe county, Miss.

Among his early pastorates were those at West Point and Oxford, Miss.
While at Oxford Dr. Gambrell took a course in the University of Mississippi.
Later, he was editor of the Mississippi Baptist Record, a position he held for 18 years. He also served several terms as president of Mercer college, Macon, Ga.

In 1857, Dr. Gambrell was elected corresponding secretary of the Baptist general convention of Texas and in 1910 resigned that position to become editor of the Baptist Standard of Dallas.

In 1915, Dr. Gambrell accepted for the second time the secretaryship of the Texas Baptist convention and at the end of three years asked to be released from the exacting duties of this office. He then was elected to the chair of Christian ethics and ecclesiology at Southern Baptist Theological seminary at Fort Worth.

Dr. Gambrell was elected president of the Southern Baptist convention in 1917. At the convention in Washington, D. C., in May, 1920, a precedent many years was broken and Dr.
Gambrell elected for the fourth time as president. He retired after this term and was commissioned to visit afflicted Baptists in war-stricken Europe. He was accompanied on his European trip by Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Ky. They made an extensive survey of the needs of those countries.

Returning from Europe, Dr. Gambrell spent his time filling speaking engagements in Texas and other states until his illness last February.

ABANDON SCHEME FOR A NEUTRAL ZONE IN SILESIA

LONDON, June 10.—The scheme for a neutral zone in Upper Silesia has been abandoned on the ground that it cannot be put into operation, according to a source that is considered well informed. Such a decision would accord with British military operation in Silesia as quoted by the Oppell cerrespondent of the Daily Mail, to the effect that the scheme is a big mistake and that it would require three times the number of allied troops available, and also that it would be politically dangerous, inasmuch as it means recognition of both Polish and German insurgents.

jured last night when the northbound

MRS. KABER ADMITS KNOWLEDGE OF THE KILLING OF HUSBAND

CLEVELAND, June 10.—Mrs. Eva Katherine Kaber has confessed that her husband, Dan F. Kaber, was murdered with her knowledge in the Lakewood home two years ago and Marian McArdle, Mrs. Kaber's daughter, has confirmed much of her mother's story, the Cleveland News announces this morning on information telephoned from New York by Police Chief Christensen of Lakewood to County Prosecutor Stanton here early today.

The "man with the cap," now in custody here, is the man who drove the Ford sedan in which the Kabers were according to the News' information.
A woman whom Mrs. Kaber says planned the murder was arrested in her home here early today by Prosecutor Stanton and Chief of Police Smith.

According to Prosecutor Stanton's information from Chief Christensen, Mrs. Kaber said "two foreigners did the murder," and declared that a woman arrested by Cleveland officers in Sandusky, Ohio, Wednesday morning and now held in jail here procured the actual slayers.

The "man with the cap" was arrested here Wednesday and his companion, a cousin who according to Mrs. Ka-ber's confession, sat at Kaber's head to stifle his cries, is being sought by police.

Mrs. Kaber's confession declares, according to Prosecutor Stanton's information, that these two foreigners went to the Kabers home in Lakewood. Kabers instead, they stabbed him to death.
Mrs. Kaber and her daughter broke down and confessed, according to Stanton's advice from New York, after being questioned ceaselessly for several hours.

TWO FOREIGNERS ENGAGED TO FRIGHTEN HUSBAND

NEW YORK, June 10.—Dan F. Ka-ber, wealthy Lakewood Ohio, publisher, met death after attacking two foreigners engaged by Mrs. Kaber to pose as spirits to frighten him into a better attitude toward her, according to a statement which the New York Evening World today says Chief of Police Christensen obtained from Mrs. Kaber here.

The newspaper quotes Chief Christensen as saying that Mrs. Kaber had consulted a woman medium for advice as to how to change her husband's attitude toward her. The publisher's sudden manner after an illness was said to have occasioned the visit.

By advice of this medium, Mrs. Ka-ber was said to have employed two foreigners to appear at her husband's bedside in the night as ghosts and, as she expressed it, to try and shake a little civility into him.

Aroused from his slumber, Mr. Kaber was alleged to have attacked the two men and to have been stabbed to death by them in the struggle.

According to the newspaper, Chief Christensen said Mrs. Kaber had declared that she had refused to pay the two foreigners when they responded after the funeral, asserting they had not fulfilled the role of ghosts as she had intended and that she would not involve herself by paying for murder.

Mrs. Kaber was then said to have fled New York to escape the foreigners without involving the Cleveland police for fear of adjoining herself.

WOMAN AND DAUGHTER GIVE NAME STATEMENTS

NEW YORK, June 10.—Arthur Caney, head of the homicide bureau, was today that a Cleveland paper had announced that Mrs. Eva Katherine Kaber had confessed knowledge of the murder of her husband, admitted that both Mrs. Kaber and her daughter, Marian McArdle, had made statements, but that in the interests of justice he must withhold any further announcement as to the character of these statements.

The Adventure of the Missing Three-Quarter

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The story thus far: Cyril Overton, Trinity College, Cambridge, asks Holmes to help him find Godfrey Staunton, crack three-quarter on the University rugby team of which Overton is skipper. There is to be a big game with Oxford on the morrow. Staunton left the hotel where the team was staying the night before with a rough-bearded man. Overton wired to Lord Mount-James, Staunton's miserly guardian, the richest man in England to Cambridge.

Holmes questioned the hotel porter, who said Holmes had received a telegram the preceding day and had sent an answer. From the blotter on which he had blotted it Holmes read: "Stand by us for the missing three-quarter. We have seen some of the young man's papers to look into them, he was interrupted by a queer little old man standing in the doorway.

He announced himself as Lord Mount-James and said he would assume neither cost nor responsibility for the search for Staunton. After getting a glimpse of a copy of the telegram at the telegraph office Holmes announced to Watson that they must go together down to Cambridge.

When they reached there they went direct to the office of Dr. Leslie Armstrong, head of the medical school at the university. Holmes asked this disagreeable man to tell him of Mr. Godfrey Staunton had never been ill and flushed when Holmes confronted him with a recalled bill from him self to Staunton which Holmes had found in Staunton's desk. Dr. Armstrong denied receiving a telegram from Staunton when Holmes asked him about it, and ordered the men from the house, calling them agents of Lord Mount-James. They took a front room in an inn opposite the doctor's house and Holmes went forth to make some inquiries.

PART FIVE. These few inquiries proved to be a more lengthy proceeding than Holmes had imagined, for he did not return to the inn until nearly nine o'clock. He was pale and dejected, stained with dust and exhausted with hunger and fatigue. A cold supper was ready upon the table and when his needs were satisfied and his pipe alight he was ready to take that half calm and wholly philosophic view which was natural to him when his affairs were going awry. The sound of carriage wheels caused him to rise and glance out of the window. A brougham and pair of grays, under the glare of a gas-lamp, stood before the doctor's door.

"It's been out three hours," said Holmes, "started at half-past six and here it is back again. That gives a radius of ten or twelve miles, and he does it once, or sometimes twice a day." "No unusual thing for a doctor in practice."

"But Armstrong is not really a doctor in practice. He is a lecturer and a consultant, but he does not care for general practice, which distracts him from his literary work. Why, then, does he make three long journeys a day, and is he so exceedingly irritable to him, and who is it that he visits?"

"My dear Watson, can you doubt that it was to him that I first applied? I do not know whether it came from his own innate depravity or from the promptings of his master, but he was rude enough to set a dog at me. Neither doctor nor man liked the look of my stick, however, and the matter fell through. Relations were strained after that, and further inquiries out of the question, that I have learned I got from a friendly native in the yard of our own inn. It was he who told me of the doctor's habits and of his daily journey. At that instant to give point to his words, the carriage came round to the door."

"Could you not follow it?"

ating this evening. The idea did cross my mind. There is, as you may have observed, a bicycle shop next to our inn. Into this I rushed, engaged a bicycle, and was able to get started before the carriage was quite out of sight. I rapidly overtook it, and then, keeping at a discreet distance of a hundred yards or so I followed its lights until we were clear of the town. We had got well out on the country road, when a somewhat mortifying incident occurred. The carriage stopped, the doctor alighted, walked swiftly back to where I had also halted, and told me in an excellent sardonic fashion that he feared the road was narrow and that he hoped his carriage did not impede the passage of my bicycle. Nothing could have been more admirable than his way of putting it. I at once rode past the carriage and, keeping to the main road, went on for a few miles, and then halted in a convenient place to see if the carriage passed. There was no sign of it however, and so it became evident that it had turned down one of the several side roads which I had observed. I rode back, but again saw nothing of the carriage, and now, as you perceive, it has returned after me. Of course I had at the outset no particular reason to connect these journeys with the disappearance of Godfrey Staunton, and was only inclined to investigate them on the general grounds that everything which concerns Dr. Armstrong is at present of interest to us, but now that I find he keeps so keen a lookout upon anyone who may follow him on these excursions, the affair appears more important, and I shall not be satisfied until I have made the matter clear."

"We can follow him tomorrow."

"Can we? It is not so easy as you seem to think. You are not familiar with Cambridgeshire scenery, are you? It does not lend itself to concealment. All this country that I passed over tonight is as flat and clean as the palm of your hand, and the man we are following is no fool, as he very clearly showed tonight. I have wired to Overton to let us know any fresh London developments at this address, and in the meantime we can only concentrate our attention upon Dr. Armstrong, whose name the obliging lady at the office allowed me to read upon the counterfoil of Staunton's urgent message. He knows where the young man is—to that I'll swear and if he knows then it must be our own fault if we cannot manage to know also. At present it must be admitted that the odd trick is in his possession, and, as you are aware, Watson, it is not my habit to leave the game in that condition."

"And yet the next day brought us no nearer to the solution of the mystery. A note was handed in after breakfast, which Holmes passed across to me with a smile. "Sir," it ran, "I can assure you that you are wasting your time in dogging me momentously. I have, as you discovered last night, a window at the back of my brougham, and if you desire a twenty-mile ride which will lead you to the spot from which you started, you have only to follow me. Meanwhile, I can inform you that no spying upon me in any way help Mr. Godfrey Staunton, and I am convinced that the best service you can do that gentleman is to return at once to London and to report to your employer that you are unable to trace him. Your time in Cambridge will certainly be wasted."

"Yours faithfully, "Leslie Armstrong."

"An outspoken, honest antagonist is the doctor," said Holmes. "Well, well, he excites my curiosity, and I must really know before I leave him."

"His carriage is at his door now," said I. "There he is sleeping into it."

"I have had a blank day, Watson. Having got the doctor's general direction, I spent the day in visiting all the villages upon that side of Cambridge, and comparing notes with publishers and other local news agencies. I have covered some ground, Chesterton, Histon, Waterbeach and Oakington have each been explored, and have each proved disappointing. The daily appearance of a brougham and pair could hardly have been overlooked in such Sleepy Hollows. The doctor, as you noted, once more, 'Is there a telegram for me?'"

"Yes, I opened it. Here it is: 'Ask for Pompey from Jeremy Dixon, Trinity College. 'Oh, it is clear enough. It is from our friend Overton, and is in answer to a question from me. I'll just send around a note to Mr. Jeremy Dixon, and then I have no doubt that our luck will turn by the way, is there any news of the match?'"

"Yes, the local evening paper has an excellent account in its last edition. Oxford won by a goal and two tries. The best sentences of the description say: 'The defeat of the Light Blue may be entirely attributed to the unfortunate absence of the crack International, Godfrey Staunton, whose want was felt at every instant of the game. The lack of competition in their weakness both in attack and defense more than neutralized the efforts of a heavy and hardworking pack.'"

"Then our friend Overton's forebodings have been justified," said Holmes. "Per-sonally I am in agreement with Dr. Armstrong, and football does not come within my horizon. Early to bed tonight, Watson, for I foresee that tomorrow may be an eventful day."

Esteemed Little Rock Woman Says Tanlac Has Given Her New Lease on Life

Mrs. Margaret Reister, 2214 Chester street, Little Rock, Ark., a resident of the city for forty-four years and who has a wide circle of friends and admirers, is now an ardent champion of Tanlac. Following is her statement: "I never heard of this medicine until I had stomach trouble any worse than I did and for that reason my recovery is all the more remarkable, as my age was naturally against me. Still more marvelous to me is the fact I should gain fifteen pounds in weight. I never heard of this happening to a seventy-year-old woman before and shows what a wonderful medicine Tanlac is. I seem to have a new lease on life and I give Tanlac all the credit for it. When I began taking it I couldn't lift my head from the pillow. My family and friends had given up hope. I too, thought the end was not far off. I had awful nausea all the time and such a pain in my right side I could hardly stand it. I was told I had stomach trouble and also neuritis. I began taking Tanlac as the last hope, but to my joy, it proved to be just what I needed. By the time I finished the first bottle I was able to get up and walk around the room. I kept taking it and kept improving. All my pains have disappeared and I eat what I want and never have any trouble with indigestion. In fact, I feel stronger and better than I have in ten years. Tanlac is the talk of our neighborhood since my remarkable improvement and no wonder; for in all my life I have never known anything to equal it." Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store, in Electra by Tarleton Drug Store, in Burkburnett by West End Drug Co. and by all leading druggists.—adv.

Winnfield, representing the International and Great Northern railway, are now registering Mexicans of the city who are anxious to return to their native country, and it is considered probable that they will be sent out early next week at the expense of the Mexican government.

Several thousand destitute Mexicans in San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston have been taken back to Mexico within the past few weeks, it is said, and the visit of the special commission to this city is in the interests of a similar operation. A letter sent by Police Commissioner Bralley to the mayor of Fort Worth over a month ago called attention to the condition of the destitute Mexicans and it was through his influence that the men were brought here.

HOW INTELLIGENT ARE YOU?
 One of the favorite saws is to kid the high school or college graduate about knowing it all. All industries in this practice once in a while if each one of us lives in that glass house which should be protected from flying stones.
 Perhaps the high school or college graduate is more susceptible to the shafts because he has a smattering of many things and is not so sure of having yet secured control of that tended to show off, which lies in the heart of each of us, he proceeds to display his wares.
 But these late recruits are not the only ones who know it all—you can join almost any group and you can actly how the tariff should be handled, what the solution of the present business depression is, what the railroads can do to get out of their difficulties—in fact the absolute and final word on any national or international prob-leming problem. If these or any other questions bother you don't carry your worries around simply hunt up an idle group and start the discussion on the disturbing problems. You will be told the answer.
 And maybe they know what they are talking about; certainly we are not qualified to answer, for about the time, after some reading and study, we become inclined to the belief that we know a considerable amount along comes a body blow.
 The best previous score in the psychology test was 207 points, made in 17 minutes by a Yale professor, and the average for university graduates and army officers is said to be 133.
 As an indication of New York's wide and accurate information it was stated that he recently passed perfectly in one minute and ten seconds an information test of sixty questions. One of the questions asked was the meaning of such words as: Ageratum, archifrave, chamfer, cielogamum, alchim, gambit, gump, intaglio, metacarpal, mitosis, nada, pomology, roccoco, sim-ony.
 We knew what one of the words meant. How do you come out on them?
 Such ignorance and all these free schools.

ADMIRAL SIMS' SPEECH.
 Admiral Sims is reported to be "standing pat" on his speech delivered at a luncheon of the English Speaking union in London several days ago in which he characterized Irish sympathizers in America as "asses" and declared "they are making war on America today," and an investigation of his speech has been ordered by a senate committee.
 As an individual Admiral Sims would be entitled to hold whatever opinion he might have regarding Irish sympathizers in the United States but as the ranking officer of the United States navy he has overstepped the bounds of diplomatic courtesy by discussing a British problem before a London audience. On one occasion the result of a British ambassador to the United States was asked by an American president because the British representative was taking a hand in an American domestic problem. Ever since the early days of the American republic when representatives of France sought to embroil this country in warfare against England the interference of foreign representatives in our affairs has been resented and it has been a policy of this government to keep out of the domestic problems of a friendly government.
 Whether we are of Irish extraction or not most of us have opinions and even sympathies one way or another in reference to Great Britain's problem in Ireland and the greatest criticism that has been made against the Irish-American group has been their effort to enlist the American government in the settlement of the problem of a friendly government. While the full content of Admiral Sims' speech has not been received the exstrates that have been noted for the American press indicate that Admiral Sims was guilty of doing that for which we have been criticizing the Irish-Americans.
 All patriotic Americans will agree that there can be no divided allegiance between America and some foreign land by those who call themselves Americans and insofar as Admiral Sims' speech was meant to emphasize this fact it can hardly be criticized.

HIGH TYPE ROADS ECONOMICALLY BUILT.
 Federal and state road engineers who have inspected the roads being built by Wichita county have expressed the opinion that the county was getting a high type of road construction and that the work was being done most economically. Thus, strictly the opinion of citizens who have gone into the matter has been confirmed and the statements of these officials ought to overbalance some criticisms that have been made.
 Wichita county citizens can vote on the road bond issue which substitutes the old bond issue and places the bonds in the form in which they will be made saleable with the assurance that the money will be economically expended and that the roads will be of the best type that can be built. This is an important consideration.

WHY?
 Are Canary Birds So Called?
 (Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)
 The canary-bird itself appears to have been so named because, when it was first introduced as a singing cage-bird, it was brought from the Canary Islands—just as in the case of "canary" wine, a variety of sack upon whose excellent "two-fold" reputation it is felt that no feelingly dilates. But how did the Canary Islands get their name?
 There is good reason to suppose that these islands were known to the Phoenicians, but the name itself comes from the Romans, who,
 at the time of Augustus Caesar, received an account of them which has been preserved for us by the elder Pliny. It is here that we obtain a clue to the real reason for the name, for this traveler refers to "Canaria, so called from the multitude of dogs of great size which inhabit the islands; the word Canaria being derived from the Latin canis, a dog. A canary bird, therefore, might be literally translated as a "dog-bird," but one would have to explain the reason for the term before the change in title would be accepted as authentic.
 To-morrow—WHY do we fear snakes?

The History of Your Name NICKS
 Variations—Richard, Dickson, Dicson, Dickless, Dia.
 Social Origin—Anglo-Saxon.
 Source—A nickname.
 The old Anglo-Saxons, who comprised the English before the advent of William the Conqueror, were fond of nicknames, a fondness which we of modern times have not lost, though it is not so strong with us as was with those hairy old cousins of the Vikings. The writings which historians are full of nicknames.
 They abbreviated the name Richard, for instance, into Dick, just as we do and also into Dicks (pronounced about like Dickey). But they didn't stop there. They changed it into Hicke, Hikkon, Dickson and even other forms which we of today would not recognize as having any connection with Richard, as indeed, a native of Albania would hardly recognize the connection between Richard and Dick.
 The names Hicke, Hickey and Hic-kson are simply varying forms of these nicknames of Richard, which during that period of the middle ages in which family names began to be formed, were gradually adopted by various families in which the name of Richard often was given.
 But while bearers of names in this group cannot, therefore, by the name alone, establish connection with allers of the same name, they can at least be satisfied that their names trace straight back to a lineage more ancient than that of persons who boast that the blood of William the Conqueror flows through their veins.

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS
 Mr. Dodson Warns Against Use of Treacherous, Dangerous
 Calomel.

YOU NEVER CAN TAME A WILD-CAT Calomel salivated! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with your bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.
 If you feel bloated, headache, constipated and sit knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than fifty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.
 If you take calomel today you'll be sick and prostrated tomorrow! Besides, it may irritate you, which if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, it's good and safe to give to children; they like it—best.

HUMANISMS Inner Lights on Lives and Whims of Personages in the Public Eye By WILLIAM ATHERTON DU NIT John D. Rockefeller used to leave his home in Fifty-fourth street, near Fifth avenue, and walk across town into what is known as the San Juan district, bordering on the Hudson, and occupied largely by negroes. He liked to wander around unrecognized in this humble section.
 One day he came upon a group of small boys, some white and some negro, down on the pavement shooting craps.
 He stopped to remonstrate with them, to preach them a bit of a sermon on the vices of gambling. He ended by making a proposal that, if they would give up their game, he would bestow upon each of them a dime.
 "Huh," said one of them derisively,
 "we are shootin' for four bits a throw." Thomas J. Geraghty lives out in that filmland which fringes Los Angeles, but he writes so many scenarios that his name is known to many everywhere.
 He used to be a newspaper reporter in New York and he used to get shoved in the basement establishment of a little German barber who had a shop on Broadway.
 But a big, brassy barber shop with all the flashy trimmings opened up in the neighborhood and stole the trade from the little shop. Geraghty was confided to the reporter that things were going against him and that he saw no way out but suicide.
 Geraghty did not take the barber seriously. He joked with him about the idea of self-destruction.
 "But, if you are going to do it, he advised, do it fancy. Make a good story of it. If you would take that red parasol your manicurist has left, for instance, go out into Central Park, under a tree, and shoot yourself beneath it.
 There would be unusual features to the suicide that would get you on the front page."
 The next day Geraghty's paper sent him out on a story of a suicide in Central Park and it was the little German barber who had died just as his jocular customer had advised.

JUST FOLKS
 By EDGAR A. GUEST.
 The Business Man And The Boy.
 A very angry business man Said to a boy who came along "Because," said he, "it seems to be Too slow to do the work my way."
 "I've told him twice what I expect,
 Of office boys who work for me,
 And how to walk and how to talk,
 And how to greet men courteously."
 "I've told him just the way to stand And what to do and what to say,
 But he persists and he insists In blundering from day to day."
 "I cannot stand dull-witted brains That will not grasp what is explained;
 The man of boy that I employ Must very readily be trained."
 It was a golf professional Who tried to teach the business man Just how to turn his wrists and learn To hit the ball as golfers can.
 He told him forty times and more
 The way to hold and throw his club:
 In simple speech, the art he'd teach,
 But still the man remained a dub.
 Though he'd explained a thousand times
 The club must pass from left to right
 To swing the swing a graceful thing—
 The man would slug with all his might.
 Day after day he would return Unto the teacher, sad and sore,
 And ask of him in manner grim
 To tell him what he'd told before.
 And though he knew what he would say,
 And knew the way his wrists must turn,
 Once more in vain the pro'd explain, Once more the man would fall to learn.
 Oh, busy business men, when you Grow vexed with boys whose wits are slow,
 Tell them again, remembering this How dull you seem to the boy.

FINANCIERS LITTLE INTERESTED IN BIG GERMAN BOND ISSUE By CHARLES McCANN.
 UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT.
 LONDON, June 10.—"As soon as is practicable" after July 1, the first lot of Germany's $2,000,000,000 reparations bond issue will be offered to the world in the open market.
 So far, there is little to be learned as to when "as soon as practicable" means.
 The first installment of the bonds—$2,000,000,000—will be delivered to the reparations commission on July 1. A second installment is due November 1 of $300,000,000. At the same time Germany is to deliver a third series, totalling $20,000,000,000, to be held without coupons until the reparations commission decides Germany is able to pay interest and sinking fund from her stated annual payments of $200, 000,000 and a 2 1/2 per cent tax on her exports.
 That represents a total of $22,000, 000,000 to be delivered. Not all of these will be issued. The ultimatum to Germany provided for payment of this sum in bonds, plus $750,000,000 representing Belgium claims, and the allies. From the total must be deducted the amount Germany has already paid in reparations—so far, $2, 000,000,000. The balance to be issued will be roughly $21,500,000,000.
 The reparations commission will await a favorable opportunity to open the first of the bonds to the market, according to plans. Though procedure has not been definitely decided upon, it is thought they as the central governing special body will be formed, comprising delegates from bond-holding countries.
 The bonds represent Germany's total reparations debt, and they or their value will be apportioned by the commission among allied and associated countries to whom reparations are due.
 The apportionment contemplated is to permit the recipients of the bonds to do most of the marketing, or to hold the bonds as they choose. In this case precautions will be taken against possible "dumping" by some country willing to accept too low a price for them.
 It is believed the first lot marketed will total from $20,000,000 to $20,000, 000. There is no authoritative estimate as yet, though it is certain the marketing will be as soon and as far as great an amount as the commission thinks possible.
 Financiers so far have shown little interest in the issue. What little they have said about them has been pessimistic, and while they retain this attitude and the bond market remains bad, it is unlikely the new-born post-war baby will be sent out to earn money for its parents.

JAPANESE DO NOT BLAME THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA

Blame is Placed on Trouble Makers That Start Derogatory Stories.

By CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL, Special Correspondent of The Wichita Daily Times.

(Copyright, 1921, Wichita Daily Times)

TOKIO, June 16.—In general I am not very keen for the Japanese, but there is one respect about which we shall have to hand it to them. They keep their heads pretty well. Perhaps it is native stolidity or racial stolidity or something else; anyway, they don't blow up easily.

I don't know that we do as well. Take this matter about which we are now making faces over the fence at the brownish children of the sun gods, and put the case the other way, both to see how it looks and to compare behaviors.

Japan had passed a law that had excluded all other foreigners in Japan enjoyed. Let us say, a law forbidding Americans to engage in the sea business or to buy silk.

It is true, isn't it, that the outcry we should make would echo to the tingling stars and beyond? Wow! but we should be mad. Some of us in our most reasonable hours would demand that Yokohama should be shelled tomorrow. To give its passports to the Japanese ambassador would be the mildest thing others could consider.

Prudent Japanese would be advised to retire by way of Winnipeg. There are, of course, places in the country and many of them where Japanese lives and persons would be perfectly respected, but I shouldn't want to be a Japanese traveling on a railroad train in some regions I know of. He'd be lucky if he came out with a skinful of whole bones.

That kind of discriminatory law has been passed here against the Japanese and they don't want to chew up any scenery or beat up any person about it. They do not even talk about retaliation in case there is any more aggression, but I guess that will come without much talking.

The philosophical and the reflective among them do not now blame the Americans; they blame the trouble makers that start derogatory stories and the press that reprints them.

One of these seasoned political philosophers who is a joy to meet in any country is Mr. Hanihara, vice minister of foreign affairs and a good deal of an American himself, for he was of an American himself, for he was a long time resident of Washington.

"What is your favorite indoor sport?" was his way of greeting me when I came into his office a few days ago. We had met before and ceremony had done its stunt and departed. I said I thought it was reading about the pacification of Siberia and Sinn Fein.

"Mine," said he, "is contemplating the justly celebrated picture entitled 'Japan About to Eat Up the World' as drawn by some of the gifted artists that have undertaken this sort of thing."

I said that I thought myself there had been some choice grand prize work along that line. He said that if these word painters knew the actual facts about Japan he doubted if they would be able to get away with their hair-lifting and blood-curdling delusions. If they had no more than an idea of the troubles that Japan is now going through they would laugh at their own imaginations.

"They always draw us as going about like a footpad looking for land we can snatch like a purse from some unwary or unable nation. There was never anything so prophetic. To any one who may wish to know the truth, there is one sure key to the situation. Let such a one always remember that Japan has not a territorial ambition. No matter what may be the misrepresentations about this, Japan has not a territorial ambition. We have no desire to encroach upon the territory of any other nation whatsoever; no such desire, no such purpose. What we do want and all we want is to secure our economic existence. And this we can do without any way threatening the security of any other nation in this world. If that fact could be understood by western peoples what an immense amount of misconception about Japan would be swept away!

"Next, we know that we can secure our economic existence only by developing our home industry, but promoting our foreign trade and friendships, but never by antagonizing other peoples. That seems simple and obvious enough, but you must have noticed that it is entirely disregarded by the critics of Japan."

I said that if I knew anything about the slightest degree, in no other country are the utterances of a few extremists or alarmists taken to express the real attitude of the nation and I do think it should be so with Japan. The truth is we are most strangely and persistently misled. Did you ever see that list of scare stories that George Kennan collected and exposed a few years ago? Twenty-two of them, all most alarming, all widely circulated in the United States, all absolutely untrue. They range from the Magdalena bay scare to the story about Japanese spies on the Panama canal, waiting for a chance to blow it up. The imaginative ingenuity of these stories is amazing but not so amazing as the fact that they are believed without the least investigation."

"I referred to the belief universal among the Americans as the Philippines that Japan would seize the islands as soon as the Americans should withdraw."

"The 'Widow' stories," said Mr. Hanihara. "I can most positively and emphatically declare to you that Japan has no aggressive designs on the Philippines, latent, covert, open, deferred, up its sleeve or otherwise. This story is a piece with the rest. The Japanese policy is neighborliness, good will and peace. Do you think we are a nation of lunatics that we are to go about provoking the rows that would kill the foreign commerce by which we live?"

"Well," I said, "there is Korea. Many persons think you have been intolerably brutal to the Koreans."

"Korea," says he. "Well, anybody who goes there can see we have been of immense benefit to the Koreans. We have transformed their country for them and made it prosperous and inhabitable. There may have been errors of commission and omission, as in the colonies of other countries, but to err is human and through it all we have tried to do our best. If anyone can show us where we can do better we shall listen to the advice and be drawn by some of the gifted artists that have undertaken this sort of thing."

I suggested that I should like to hear something about the present relations between the United States and Japan and the chance of trouble there. He said: "If there is any cloud between these peoples it is due to false reports and misrepresentation and the greatest need of the moment is to bring about a better understanding between America, for which all good people on both sides should do their utmost. Statesmen, politicians, business men, army and navy men, the press—all thinking Japanese simply want to live on the best terms with America. I can categorically declare that all the charges on which Japan is held up as a menace to the world are absolutely groundless, imaginary and chimerical. I wish we could get that home as the real message of the real Japan to the real America."

WANT SOMEBODY TO PROVIDE FLAGS FOR POLES IN CITY PARKS

Flag poles are now being erected in four of the city's parks and it would seem to be in order for somebody to furnish the flags.

The poles are being put up in Floral Heights, Reed Plaza, Bellevue and Huff-McGregor parks. It was suggested that the American Legion furnish the flags, but as that organization isn't financially able to do so just now, there has come the counter-suggestion that somebody give the flags to the legion for use in the parks. Members of the legion will see that the flags are flown on all appropriate occasions.

Sterling Defense and Timely Clubbing Give Spudders 11 to 4 Win

By PAUL W. LARKIN

Once upon a time all Bill Bailey had to do to hang one on the Spudders was to fling his glove in the box. But those days have passed. Bill Bailey means no more to the Salmites now than any other hurler in the Texas league and as proof all one needs to do is glance at what the boys did to him yesterday afternoon at Athletic park. Sixteen base hits, 15 of which were solid whacks, and 11 runs were the sum total of the efforts of Salm's pennant chasers off the delivery of Beaumont's stellar southpaw. While the locals were rolling up that total the invaders were able to tally only four times and consequently the score at the end of the matinee stood: Spudders 11, Exporters 4.

Bill drew as his opponent a hurler who also checks em from the port side. Floyd Kroh has found the going rather rough this season and yesterday he was again found among the missing at the finish. But it was because he was removed for a pitcher in the sixth when the Exporters were beginning to look dangerous. Floyd had things his own way in most of the sessions, but he was obliged to get to him just often enough to grab off a run here and there. He was inclined to be a bit wild also, and Naim without a doubt it was too late. "Rube" Marshall worked the last three innings and kept the invaders from tallying.

Gross put up the best game of his young life at the local ball yard and kept the stands in a continual uproar applauding his work both in the field and with the stick. It is hard to believe it was too late. "Rube" Marshall worked the last three innings and kept the invaders from tallying.

First Inning. Beaumont—Demaggio went out, Clark to Griggs. Stansbury was safe on Gross' error. Danny redeemed himself a moment later by a brilliant stop at Johnston's hard drive, and as the play was completed Griggs to Clark to Griggs. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning. Beaumont—The Exporters had a short-lived lead in this inning. Smith singled to center. Whaling lined to Becher. Durrat was hit by a pitched ball. Smith advanced to second. Beaux walked, filling the bases with one down. Doyle stepped on Griggs. Bailey reached for a wide one and was rewarded with a lucky single to left, scoring Smith. Demaggio popped to McDonald. One run, two hits, no errors.

Third Inning. Beaumont—Stansbury filed to Becher. Johnston stepped on Griggs. Griggs hit to Becher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning. Beaumont—Whaling went out. Gross to Griggs. Durrat walked. Beaux hit into another fast double. Gross to Clark to Griggs. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning. Beaumont—A row of singles made things look dubious until another snappy double checked the Exporters. Doyle singled to right and took second on a wild pitch. Bailey singled to left. Doyle taking third. Demaggio singled to left. Doyle scoring. Bailey taking second. On another wild pitch, Bailey tried to reach third, but Kitchens was too fast for him. Stansbury hit into the Gross-Clark-Griggs double play combination. One run, three hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning. Beaumont—The Spudders made it back in their half. Clark leaped against a slow one for a two-bagger to right and went to third on McDonald's lung. Whaling walked. Smith did likewise, ably assisted by "Emp" Shaffer. Whaling struck out. Durrat rolled to Clark. Griggs Smith at second. Johnston going to third. Kroh's
