REAR ADMIRAL SIMS ARRIVES AT NEW YORK LEAVES FOR CAPITAL

EVERYTHING PEACEFUL WHEN HE LANDS FROM THE OLYMPIC

THOUSAND BLUE COATS ON DUTY AT THE DOCK

Admiral Refuses to Make a Statement Before Reporting to Secretary Denby

NEW YORK, June 22.—Rear Admiral Sims returned home today to explain to Secretary Denby remarks attributed to him in his recent London speech on Irish-Americanism.

Refusing to be taken ashore by a letter, he came up the bay aboard the liner Olympic to meet friends or foes who might be awaiting him near the pier.

Everything was peaceful when the veteran seadog landed. A thousand bluecoats were massed on the dock to preserve order. Indeed, they were so numerous that, with wharf workers and passengers, it would have been difficult for maintenance personnel to have found foothold on the pier.

Police lines were drawn several blocks north and south of the pier. The admiral was escorted to the pier by a detachment of the peace conference. There were more thorough preparations made.

The admiral was the first person to step ashore. He entered an elevator a few feet from the end of the gangplank and descended to the main floor of the pier, where he stopped to greet the admiral.

There were scarcely any on the pier. From the handful of persons who had gathered there came neither cheer nor shout. Among those who met the admiral was his brother.

On the trip from quarantine, the admiral maintained strict silence, declining to make a statement before reporting to the secretary of the navy.

The admiral was dressed in uniform. During the voyage he wore his uniform only at dinner. Mrs. Sims accompanied him home.

He chatted with newspaper men on the way up from quarantine and seemed in the best of humor. On her way to the pier the Olympic passed a bound steamer, whose passengers lined the rail. Across the stretch came the sound of cheers for Sims.

The admiral's trip to Europe was the cause of much speculation. He was ordered to return to Newport, Rhode Island, to await further orders.

At the station, however, there were a few boys and a woman who were seen parading with a banner bearing the picture of a jackass—apropos of the reference to jackasses reported to have been made by the admiral in his London speech.

The admiral just missed on train for Washington and will leave for the next Washington express, scheduled to leave at 11:02.

CHAIRMAN INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

NOISY WELCOME FOR THE KING AND QUEEN

Open Ulster Parliament on Occasion of Tenth Anniversary of Coronation

By Associated Press. BELFAST, June 22.—King George and Queen Mary departed from Belfast for London in perfect safety at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The king and queen, who were accompanied by the duke of York, arrived at the Ulster parliament here today. It was the first time in nearly twenty years that Ulster has had an opportunity of receiving the sovereigns of the British empire.

The ceremony was similar to that attending the inauguration of the British parliament at Westminster and was a brilliant spectacle.

Members of the parliament did not participate in the visit of the king and queen who was looked upon as a fitting observance of their coronation anniversary.

LABOR FEDERATION

IRISH RESOLUTION IS MILD IN FORM

TRIMMED OF ITS MOST DRASTIC BOYCOTT PROVISIONS BEFORE ADOPTION

DENVER, June 22.—After a stormy debate the American Federation of Labor convention today disposed of the Irish question by adopting a resolution—trimmed of its most drastic boycott provisions—expressing sympathy for the Irish cause.

The action of the convention completed the defeat of the supporters of the boycott declaration, which they claimed had been drafted by "high officials of the Irish republic."

The boycott supporters contrasted every effort to bring the sympathetic resolution to a vote, without its boycott provisions, by raising points of order and attempting to have the entire matter referred to a committee for reconsideration.

The convention adopted a resolution urging modification of the "Volstead act" to permit manufacture and sale of beer. Officers and the executive council were instructed to work for change in the law and if this should not be successful, all unions would be called on to petition congress.

IRISH SYMPATHIZERS ARE OVERWHELMINGLY DEFEATED

DENVER, June 22.—Irish sympathizers supporting a resolution calling for a boycott against British goods were overwhelmingly defeated today in an attempt to have the convention overthrow a ruling made by President Gompers.

The appeal of the boycott supporters from the ruling of President Gompers was defeated by a vote of 1,000 to 500.

CONSIDERS IT UNWISE TO MAKE RACE THREE-CORNERED ONE, HE SAYS

EDITOR TAYLOR OF BOSTON GLOBE DIES

ALTHOUGH 75 YEARS OLD HE HAD BEEN PAINTING UNTIL FEW WEEKS

BOSTON, June 22.—General Charles H. Taylor, editor and publisher of the Boston Globe, died at his home today. He had been fairly active until recently, but two strokes within a week of each other preceded the end. He was 75 years old.

Charles H. Taylor had been editor of the Boston Globe since 1872. The paper, which had only a morning edition when he assumed its management, was then but a year old and struggling for existence.

After the death of Mr. Jordan in 1895, Mr. Taylor, though stock held by himself and as a trustee of the Jordan estate, came into full control of the newspaper property.

Born July 14, 1846, and educated in Boston public schools, Mr. Taylor's introduction to newspaper work came through learning the printer's trade. He was a compositor on the Boston Traveler when the civil war broke out.

Enlisting as a private, he served until 1862, when he was wounded. Returning to Boston, he studied shorthand and became a reporter on the Traveler. His work as a special correspondent in connection with the Fenian raid brought him to the attention of the Boston representative of the New York Tribune and other papers. He became secretary to Governor Claflin and a member of his staff.

He was a ready speaker and in numerous addresses defended modern methods of journalism.

"As much interest is needed to disseminate a journal as to govern Harvard or Yale," he said on one occasion.

In approving the large size of present papers he said today is like a billiard table in a hotel. You do not go into a hotel, pick up the bill of fare, begin with the first item and eat right down through and then die of apoplexy. On the contrary, you select what you wish, and you should do just the same with a newspaper.

General Taylor was first vice-president of the Associated Press in 1902, and served as a director of that organization from 1907 to 1912, when he was again made vice-president.

BALL TEAM HAS LEFT GALVESTON NOW IN HOUSTON

On account of storm conditions on the coast and the fact that the team had no game at Galveston or Houston, and possibly Beaumont and San Antonio, the Times will issue no sport edition this afternoon.

A storm of serious proportions strikes Galveston. The Spudgers will not be in danger. They left Galveston Wednesday morning and are now at Houston. The weather at Galveston was such that it was seen there was no chance to play the games scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday. So Manager Raim decided to take no chances and pulled out for mainland. From Houston he will take the team to San Antonio.

INDICATED THAT DISTURBANCE IS NOW MOVING INLAND BETWEEN GALVESTON AND CORPUS CHRISTI

HOUSTON, June 22.—The Houston weather bureau reported a barometer reading of 29.50 at 2:30 this afternoon, which was a drop of 25 points since 7 a. m. The wind was blowing in gusts of 45 to 50 miles an hour from the southeast. It is believed that the storm center will pass inland to the west of this city.

Freeport—High tide, high surf, moderately high winds, but no rain. San Luis Pass, west end of Galveston Island—High tide and surf high and moderately high winds, but no rain.

Point Isabel, at mouth of Rio Grande—Point Isabel inland clear of everything. Strong northeast gale; tide extra high, very big surf; barometer 29.25.

At 9:30 a. m. barometer at Galveston 29.72; wind southeast and 45 miles. Indications are that storm moving inland between here and Corpus Christi.

DALLAS, June 22.—Little damage and no loss of life had been reported up to shortly before noon today as the result of a hurricane which swept the Texas coast from Galveston to Point Isabel last night and continued today. The center of the disturbance apparently had not struck the coast up to 10 o'clock however, latest advice indicating the storm was moving inland between here and Corpus Christi. It was moving northward with increased intensity.

Renewed warnings to small craft were issued along the coast today and isolated communities were cautioned to be on the alert for possible dangerous developments. The velocity of the wind, according to unofficial reports, ranged from 25 to 40 miles an hour.

The United States weather bureau at Galveston reported the disturbance probably moving inland between Galveston and Corpus Christi and expressed the belief that its great wind would pass by night. The barometer continued to drop along the coast generally, having fallen from 29.74 at 8 a. m. to 29.72 at 9:30 o'clock at Galveston, where the wind was blowing southeast at 45 miles an hour.

At Corpus Christi the barometer was reported rising, however, indicating it was said that the storm had passed eastward of that point.

Residents at Point Isabel and Padre and Brazos islands were reported to have left their homes for safety at Brownsville.

The only reported damage to shipping came in a wireless call from the oil tanker William S. Doherty, which was reported having lost its propeller at Galveston.

Captain Wallace Reed of the United States coast guard station on Brazos Island reported at Brownsville today that the station had been abandoned at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the tide began to submerge the island. A few summer campers on Padre Island, just across the bay from Brazos, were removed safely to the mainland, he said. Neither island is inhabited except for coast guardsmen and a campers.

Tramway cars on Padre Island, Brazos station registered 2:27 when he vacated the island, the captain said. Tremendous seas were raging off the mouth of the Rio Grande at noon today but the hurricane center passed northeast into the gulf, reports at Brownsville said. Point Isabel reported no damage there.

Fowl of Sonora is at liberty under $5,000 bond as a result of a shooting affray on the principal street of Del Rio Monday night, according to a related message to this city. Judge Cornell was to respond to the address of welcome at the convention of the sheep and goat breeders' association this morning.

The cause of the trouble is unknown. Holman for years had been prominently identified with the livestock industry and formerly resided at Sonora. Judge Cornell also has occupied a prominent place in the public eye of this section. Before moving to Sonora he was assistant district attorney of Bexar county and when the eighth judicial district was created five years ago he was made its first judge.

WAR-EXPOSED COMMITTEES ALONG THE GULF COAST

HOUSTON, June 22.—R. Bunnemeyer, United States weather officer here, today particularly warned exposed communities on the nearby gulf coast of the danger of the storm.

At 8:30 the barometer had risen at Corpus Christi from 29.66 to 29.65 and Bunnemeyer declared the storm apparently had passed east of that longitude in the gulf.

At 10 a. m. the barometer at Houston registered 29.72. The lowest here was 29.71 at 8:15, but the rise of only one point was not considered significant by the weather bureau.

The wind at Houston shifted about 9 a. m. from the northeast to east. Weather experts stated that the south wind indicated the storm to be south of Houston.

STORM RAGING ON THE GULF COAST

er bureau here today. Early this morning the wind was blowing in gusts of 25 to 30 miles per hour with dashes of rain. The tide was about two feet above normal and heavy seas were rolling in from the gulf. There was nothing in the situation, however, to cause alarm. A maximum tide of six feet with maximum wind velocity of 40 to 50 miles an hour were all that was expected to develop. Small craft have been warned, but no effect on larger shipping is anticipated.

News from Point Isabel was anxiously awaited early today. The latest report at midnight said the wind was blowing between 65 and 75 miles an hour in that section. The tide had almost covered Padre and Brazos islands, the report said, and forced life saving crews and residents to go to the mainland.

Both interurban and steam railroad people state very slight increase in travel out of Galveston this morning.

FORTY-FIVE MILE WIND REPORTED AT CORPUS CHRISTI

SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—A forty-five mile wind was blowing at Corpus Christi at 8:30 o'clock, according to reports received by the local offices of the Western Union Telegraph company. The tide had risen three feet above normal, according to the report, and all power had been cut off. This was due, Western Union officials said, because the power house was located on the lowlands and whenever a surge of high water threatened, such action is always taken.

At Brownsville, it is stated, practically normal conditions prevail. The Western Union reported wire connections with the coast up to 8:30 o'clock. Reports received, Western Union officials said, indicated that the storm

It Took All the Grit Mason Had To Stick It Out

"Every time I go out on a sun now, I feel thankful to Taniac for I'm convinced it kept me on the job," said William W. Mason, 1924 McClellan street, Philadelphia, for the past nine years a motorman for the Rapid Transit company.

"I had stomach trouble in a bad form for three years and was going down hill fast. Nothing I ate agreed with me and after every meal I was sure to have heartburn, dizziness and sometimes awful cramps. I got in such a nervous condition my hand shook like a man with the palsy and at nights I sleep was broken and restless. In the mornings I felt so miserable I used to dread the time to come for me to take out my car, and it took every ounce of grit I could muster to stick until quitting time. Finally I got so weak and was so discouraged I was ready to give up."

"This was my condition when I started taking Taniac and I owe all my present good health to this wonderful medicine and to nothing else. The first thing it did for me was to whet my appetite and I soon found I could eat anything without fear of bad after-effects. It's a fact, four bottles made a new man out of me. My nerves are quiet, I sleep like a log and wake up in the morning feeling fine. Then I eat a big breakfast and go to work whistling like I used to long ago. If people knew Taniac like I do the clerks in the drug stores couldn't wrap it up fast enough to supply the demand. It's great."

Taniac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller drug store, in Electra by Tarleton drug store, West End Drug company, Burkburnett, and by all leading druggists. (adv.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—Dr. Morris Jastrow Jr., of the University of Pennsylvania, internationally known as an authority on Semitic languages and literature, died suddenly today at the home of his mother in Philadelphia. He was 60 years old.

TACOMA, WASH., June 22.—Following a search of several weeks postal inspectors caused the arrest here of a man describing himself as Henry Baker, 49, printing pressman, in connection with threatening letters said to have been received by Charles Chaplin, motion picture actor, demanding $10,000 under penalty of death.

GREENVILLE, TEXAS, June 22.—Fort Worth was selected as the meeting place for its winter session by the North Texas Medical association which concluded a two-day meeting here today.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Chicago Pneumatic Tool company today reduced its quarterly dividend from 2 to 1 per cent.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Lucy Rosati, 18, who yesterday shot and killed Guy

Depeso, aged 45, on the street in front of her home, was exonerated by a coroner's jury today and freed by the police. The girl claimed Depeso had attacked her two weeks ago.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Confidence that American capital invested in the Philippines will not oppose Philippine independence, is expressed by Jaime C. Deyroza, Philippine resident commissioner, in remarks printed today in the Congressional Record. Since the passage of the autonomy act in 1916, he said, "we no longer are aroused to suspect that every American dollar invested in the Philippines might be a nail driven into the coffin of our independence."

A meeting of the Eastern Star is called by the worthy matron, Miss Emma Feiberg, for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, and all members are asked to be present. Mrs. Margaret Hovey of Fort Worth, grand matron of the O. E. S., will be here.

The benefit social given by the North Side Civic League Tuesday evening at the Pannin school grounds proved very successful. About $20 was netted, which will be used to pay for the lights on the school ground.

COMMERCIAL SLAUGHTER HOUSE BEGINS OPERATIONS, EAST OF WICHITA FALLS

The first steer to be killed in a commercial slaughter house in Wichita Falls was converted into meat Tuesday afternoon when four steers were killed up in the new R. M. Estes abattoir on the Doyle farm just north of the brick yards on Holiday creek. The new concern is housed in a thoroughly sanitary building, equipped with ample facilities for the handling of stock and built in a manner which will permit of ready expansion to meet increased needs. Three men are being used at present in the work of turning out meat.

At present there are no cold storage facilities at the abattoir but arrangements have been made whereby the meat is to be cooled in a local plant refrigerator before being turned out to retail butchers. Mr. Estes intimated Tuesday afternoon that an ice house would be constructed on the farm in the near future.

Local trade will take care of the output, Mr. Estes states, and he believes that there will be a widespread demand for fresh products among the city markets. All meat consumed in Wichita Falls is shipped in from Fort Worth or Amarillo, where the nearest commercial packing plants are located.

A load of baby beavers has been shipped out of Fort Worth en route for the local plant and it is planned to kill these early next week. The Estes abattoir has received the hearty endorsement of Dr. L. I. Lucey, city food inspector, who states that it is entirely hygienic and that the work is being done in the most improved manner. All meat is inspected by the health officials before being placed on the market.

THE BOSCOMBE VALLEY MYSTERY

By A. CONAN DOYLE
Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The story thus far: Holmes and Watson started by train to investigate the Boscombe Valley mystery. Holmes told Watson that Mr. Charles McCarthy was a tenant of Mr. John Turner, the largest landlord proprietor of the region. The men were social equals, both ex-Australians. McCarthy had an eighteen-year-old son, Turner a daughter of the same age. McCarthy had two servants, a man and a girl, and Turner had a large establishment. A day or so before McCarthy and his serving man were out together in the morning and McCarthy said he must hurry as he had an engagement at three. In the afternoon he started out. A little later his son returned from a three-day visit to Bristol, took his gun, and also started out. William Crowder, Turner's gamekeeper, saw McCarthy going toward a pond, Boscombe Pond, and his son apparently following him. Turner's lodgekeeper's child a little later came running some crying that she had seen McCarthy and his son quarrelling by the pond. She was interrupted by young McCarthy, who rushed up headless, bloodstained to say he had found his father dead by the pond. The man was found leaning to the ground, his gun was nearby. He was arrested for the murder.

He protested his innocence, but said arrest was no more than his desert. He said he had been out to shoot rabbits and had heard the call "Coo-coo," which his father used to him. Following it, he had come upon his father, who seemed much surprised to see him and quarrelled with him. He would not tell about what— he started away, but heard a dreadful cry and returned to find his father dying. He expired in his son's arms, after murmuring something about a rat. The young man said he thought as he ran to his father that he saw something gray like a cloth lying on the ground a dozen yards away, but when he looked later it was gone.

PART THREE

It was nearly four o'clock when we at last, after passing through the beautiful Stroud Valley, and over the broad gleaming Severn, found ourselves at the pretty little country-town of Ross. A lean, ferret-like man, furtive and sly-looking, was waiting for us upon the platform. In spite of the light brown dustcoat and leather leggings which he wore in deference to his rustic surroundings, I had no difficulty in recognizing Lestrade, of Scotland Yard. With him we drove to the Mereford Arms, where a room had already been engaged for us. "I have ordered a carriage," said Lestrade, as we sat over a cup of tea. "It is a very nice and complimentary of you," Holmes answered. "It is entirely a question of barometric pressure." Lestrade looked startled. "I do not quite follow," he said. "How is the glass? Twenty-nine, I see. No wind, and not a cloud in the sky. I that yet. So there were quarrels, and this, I am sure, was one of them." "And your father?" asked Holmes. "Was he in favor of such a union?" "No, he was averse to it also. No one but Mr. McCarthy was in favor of it." A quick blush passed over her fresh young face as Holmes shot one of his keen, questioning glances at her. "Thank you for this information," said he. "May I see your father if I call tomorrow?" "I am afraid the doctor won't allow it."

"The doctor?" "Yes, have you not heard? Poor father has never been strong for years back, but this has broken him down completely. He has taken to his bed, and Dr. Willows says that he is a wreck and that his nervous system is shattered. Mr. McCarthy was the only man alive who had known dad in the old days in Victoria." "Ha! In Victoria! That is important."

"Quite so; at the gold-mines, where as I understand, Mr. Turner made his money." "Thank you, Miss Turner. You have been of material assistance to me." "You will tell me if you have any news tomorrow. No doubt you will go to the prison to see James. Oh, if you do, Mr. Holmes, do tell him that I know him to be innocent."

"I will, Miss Turner." "I must go home now, for dad is very ill, and he misses me so if I leave him. Good bye, and God help you in your undertaking." She hurried from the room as impulsively as she had entered, and we heard the wheels of her carriage rattle off down the street. "I am ashamed of you, Holmes," said Lestrade, with dignity, after a few minutes' silence. "Why should you raise up hopes which you are bound to disappoint? I am not over-tender of heart, but I call it cruel."

the moment when drawn back by his screams, he rushed into the glade? It was something terrible and deadly. What could it be? Might not the nature of the injuries reveal something to my medical instincts? I rang the bell and called for the weekly county paper, which contained a verbatim account of the inquest. In the surgeon's deposition it was stated that the posterior third of the left parietal bone and the left half of the occipital bone had been shattered by a heavy blow from a blunt weapon. I marked the spot upon my own head. Clearly such a blow must have been struck from behind. That was to some extent in favor of the accused, as when seen quarrelling he was face to face with his father. Still, it did not go for very much, for the older man might have turned his back before the blow fell. Still, it might be worth while to call Holmes' attention to it. Then there was the peculiar dying reference to a rat. What could that mean? It could not be delirium. A man dying from a sudden blow does not commonly become delirious. No, it was more likely to be an attempt to explain how he met his fate. But what could it indicate? I cudgelled my brains to find some possible explanation. And then the incident of the gray cloth, seen by young McCarthy. If that were true, the murderer must have dropped the garment in his dress, presumably his overcoat, in his flight, and must have had the hardihood to return and to carry it away at the instant when the son was kneeling with his back turned not a dozen paces off. What a tissue of mysteries and improbabilities the whole thing was! I did not wonder at Lestrade's opinion, and yet I had so much faith in Sherlock Holmes' insight that I could not lose hope as long as every fresh fact seemed to strengthen his conviction of young McCarthy's innocence.

THE U. S. USCO TREAD
Here is the U. S. USCO Tread, with a long-established standard of service among motorists who have an eye to value, as well as to price. While selling for less than the other tires in the U. S. Fabric line, the USCO has earned a reputation for quality and dependability which is not exceeded by any tire in its class.

Which one of your neighbors gets the best mileage out of his tires?

EVERY once in a while you hear a motorist say as he kicks a rear tire with an admiring foot, "there's a lucky tire!" Give him a chance and he'll tell you all about it. And then you'll find that what he calls "luck" is simply his first experience with a quality standard tire.

It all comes to this—buy a U. S. Tire anywhere in this country and you get definite, predictable value for your money no matter what weight car you drive.

The man who has been guessing his way through "overstocks," "discontinued lines," "job lots" and the like, will find it refreshing to talk with the local U. S. Tire dealer who is concentrating on a full, completely sized line of U. S. Tires.

For the first time he will hear some straight quality tire facts—and get the difference between chance and certainty in tire buying.

The U. S. Tires he sees in stock are fresh, live tires. They come direct to the dealer from his neighboring Factory Branch.

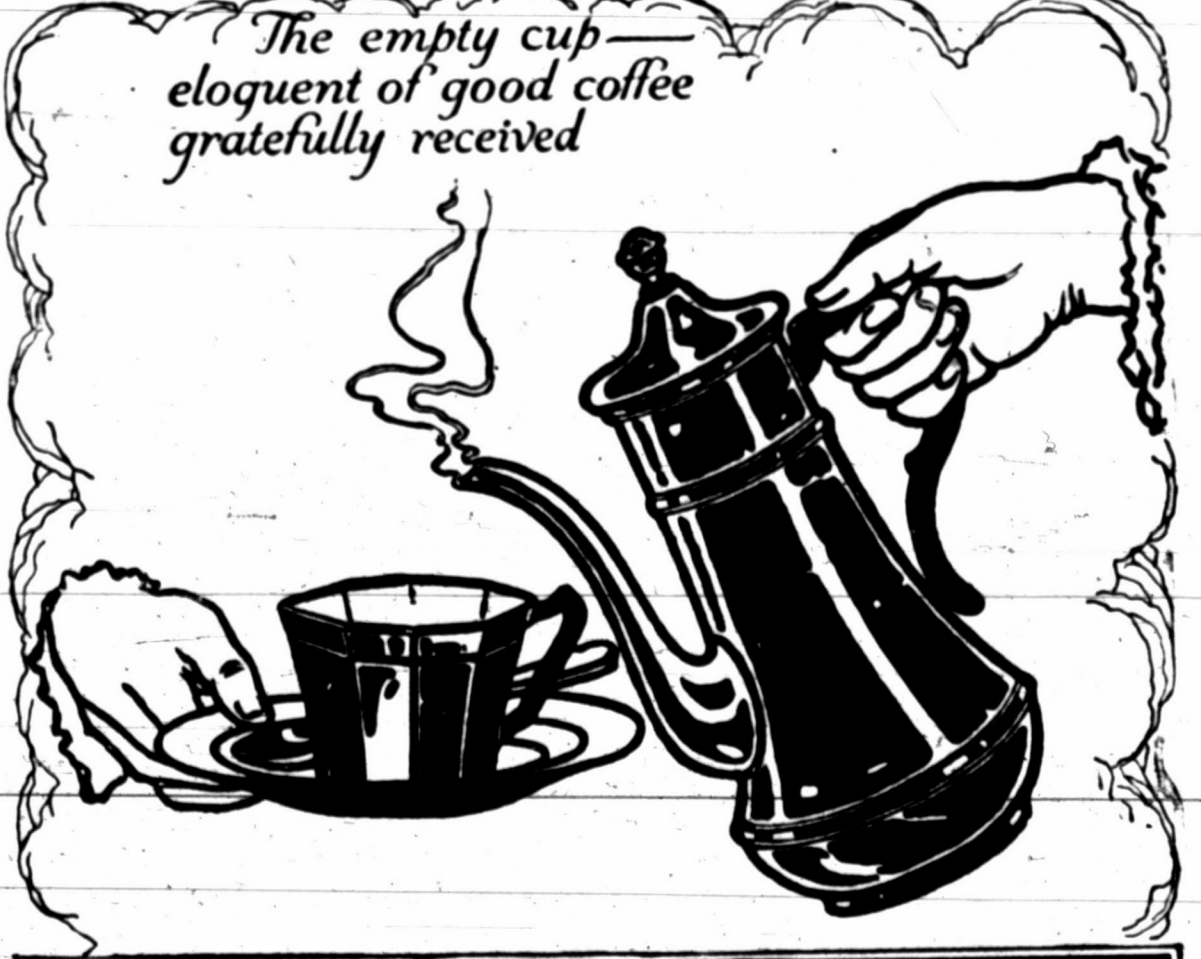

There are 92 of these Branches established and maintained by the U. S. Tire makers.

Giving your dealer a continuous moving stock of new, fresh tires built on the certainty of quality first every time

HEALTH CENTER CROWDED AGAIN WEDNESDAY; WANT CAR OWNER VOLUNTEERS

The Child Health centre was crowded again Wednesday morning, every available chair being occupied by a mother, either with a baby or a preschool age child.

The chief trouble with the babies seemed to be with dieting, and most of the children were underweight. Each mother of a baby was furnished a chart giving the baby's weight and the weight it should be for its age.

To Bring Mothers. On account of the heat in the middle of the day during the health clinic hours (11 to 12:30) and the inconvenience of bringing babies and small children out at that hour, the Health Centre has arranged, through Mrs. Wilford Harrison, to bring all of the mothers possible to the centre in cars.

1000 MEXICANS WILL ENTRAIN FRIDAY FOR JOURNEY TO HOMES

MUCH LARGER NUMBER THAN AT FIRST THOUGHT TO LEAVE THIS CITY

THEIR GOVERNMENT IS PAYING TRANSPORTATION

Mexicans Doubt Good Faith of Move But Nearly All Will Join in Exodus

Approximately 1,000 Mexicans, a total far in excess of that estimated at first, will leave Wichita Falls some time Friday on the first leg of their return to homes in old Mexico. Announcements to this effect were contained in a telegram received Wednesday morning by Jimmy Gonzalez, Mexican attaché of the police department, from J. Trinidad Mancilla who, with Señor Cantu, Mexican consul of Dallas, will arrive in this city Wednesday afternoon to supervise the work of repatriating a throng of their destitute countrymen.

Original figures compiled by the Mexican officials indicated that possibly three or four hundred would accept the offer of the Mexican government to transport them free of charge to their old homes in Mexico, but the latest reports reveal that between 900 and 1,000 men, women and children will be taken care of when the special train pulls out Friday.

Six hundred full fares and 500 half fares are certain of going, Gonzalez declared Wednesday morning, "and this does not include any children under five years of age, so there will be no doubt be at least a thousand."

The Mexican special will be handled by the Fort Worth and Denver railway from this city to Fort Worth and will then be turned over to the International and Great Northern, which will transport it to Laredo, Texas. From this point on the border the natives will disperse and be taken to wherever their homes happen to be. All transportation will still be at government expense.

Gonzalez is welcoming the approach of "sailing date" more than any one else for the expectant Mexicans have begged him constantly since it was learned that they might be taken home. Many of them are still incredulous, he says, and want all kinds of information and proof that a general exodus is to be made in the meantime they are giving him no rest.

Included in the trainload to be dispatched from here will be 100 or more from Newcastle, Olney and Archer City.

GRAY WILL SPEAK HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Prominent Tulsa Oil Operator to Attend Tariff Meeting of Petroleum Division

C. A. Kleinman, recently appointed head of the local committee to look after the interests of the Southern Tariff association, is in receipt of a wire which states that Will Gray, prominent Oklahoma oil operator, will speak in Wichita Falls next Tuesday. According to present plans, Mr. Gray will speak at the University club Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Kleinman also received a letter from John H. Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff association, which stated in part:

"At a recent meeting of the Southern Tariff association held by the Southern Tariff association at Fort Worth, a resolution was passed pledging our support to the oil industry in its efforts to get a reasonable rate of duty on petroleum in the permanent tariff bill now being prepared by congress."

The Southern Tariff association represents 27 affiliated industries from Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia, embracing virtually every line of industrial activity in the south. These industries represent two-thirds of the wealth of the south and two-thirds of all the inhabitants are directly dependent upon them.

"In presenting a solid front in our demand to congress for a just and equal tariff on the products of southern industry, we hope for more effective results than by the individual efforts of different industries."

"While the ways and means committee has failed to include a tariff on oil, we have every reason to believe that the senate finance committee will deal fairly with the subject when it comes before that body for consideration in August."

"Senator Frazier, chairman of the committee, has invited our organization to appear before them and present the tariff requirements of the south and has allotted us as much time as may be needed for an intelligent presentation of the subject. We have indicated our interest in our program and you may be assured that we will swing the full force of our organization behind your industry in its demand for a tariff that will protect you from unfair competition with foreign oil."

HEARS DR. TRUETT TUESDAY EVENING

The big auditorium of the First Baptist church was too small Tuesday night for the throng that gathered to hear Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas. Every available seat was taken, and there were many who stood throughout the service, which was the first of a series to continue through next Sunday.

"How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation?" was the text of the sermon, which was followed by 12 additions to the church. Dr. Truett spoke of the responsibility of being one's church affiliations and of setting proper example to children. Nothing is more tragic, he said, than postponing the initial step of uniting with the church.

"No life can be complete in which God is ignored," said the speaker.

Another service was held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

AUTO ACCIDENT IS FOLLOWED BY THREE ARRESTS FOR THEFT

A Dodge touring car occupied by three young men came to grief within the shadow of the Buchanan street fire station late Tuesday afternoon when it crashed into the curbing and was stripped of both wheels on the left-hand side. Excessive speed in rounding a corner was ascribed as the cause.

The mere accident might not have attracted much attention, but as a result of this and subsequent events, all three boys are now in the city jail and one of them at least is facing a charge of automobile theft.

Following the spill they are alleged to have proceeded to the home of A. K. Thompson, 1407 Travis, and to have started removing two wheels from his Dodge machine to replace the ones on their own car.

They were seen by a passerby, who notified the police of the suspicious actions, and Motorcycle Officer Morgan was sent out to investigate. The three men, but Morgan corralled them and locked them up for the night. Charges of auto theft will be lodged against the leader, Chief Boyd said Wednesday morning.

LEGION MEMBERS MAKE PLANS FOR HOUSE WARMING NEW QUARTERS JULY 4

At a meeting of the American Legion post Tuesday night plans were considered for a house-warming on July 4, by which time it is expected that the remodeling of the new quarters will be completed.

AAA entertainment of a novel sort is being planned for July 2, but details are not being made public pending completion of arrangements.

OPERATE SUBMARINE SERVICE BENEFIT OF THE IRISH REPUBLIC

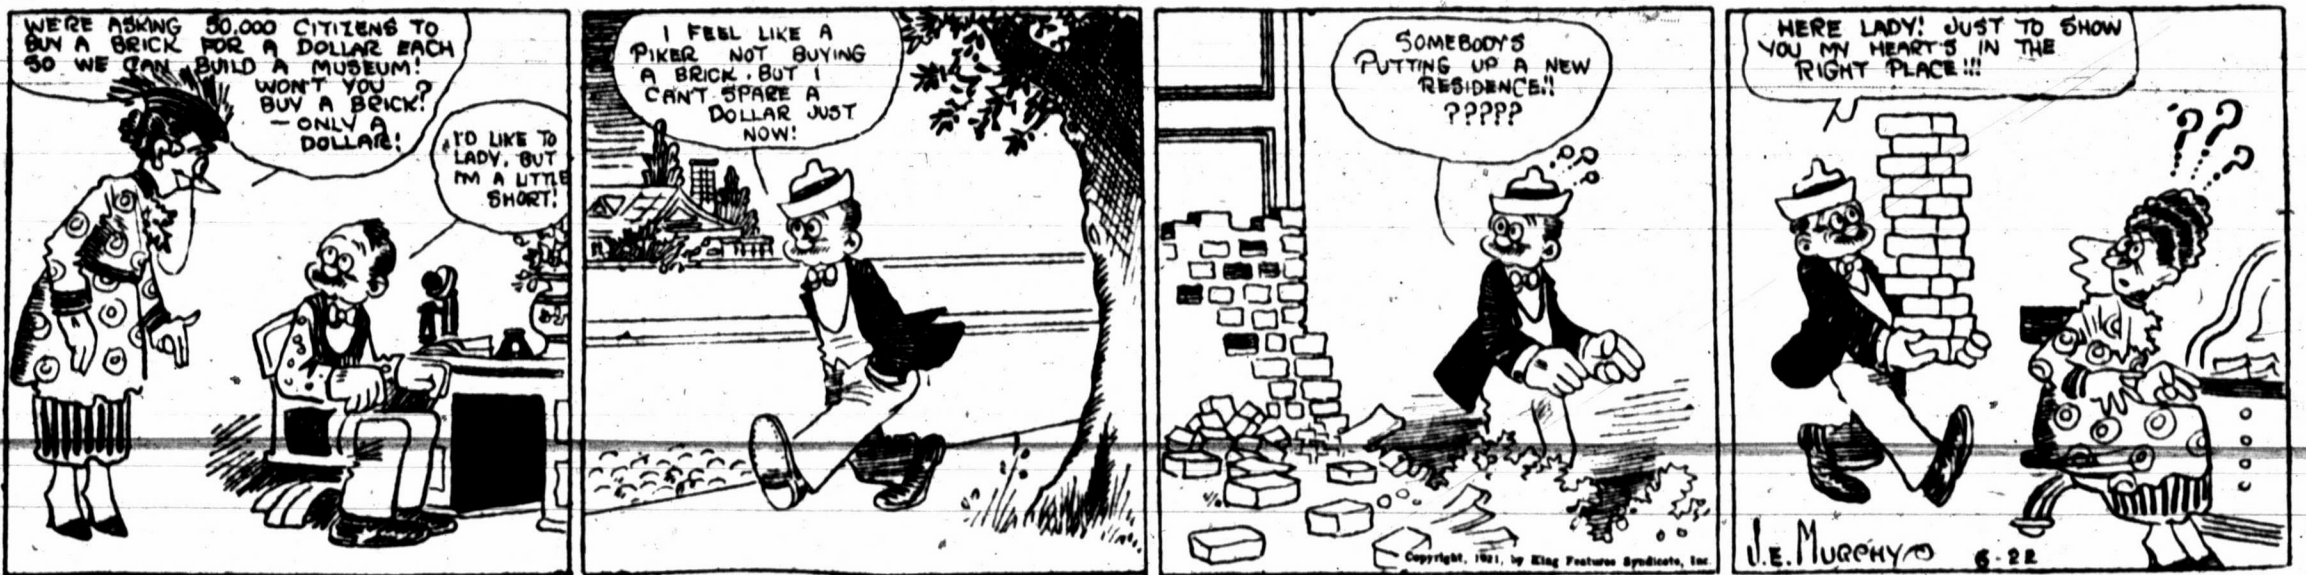

NEW YORK, June 22.—The submarines flying the Irish republican flag maintain a regular undersea passenger service between this country and Ireland for officials of the Irish republic, according to Capt. J. B. Shanley, wounded veteran of the 69th regiment. He is also secretary of the New York council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

The Valera, "president of the Irish republic" arrived in this country in 1919 in an Irish submarine, Shanley declares, and left secretly for Ireland several months ago in the same fashion. Several other Irish diplomats have patronized the same line, he said. The line is still in commission and "functions regularly," although he refused to give any details about the whereabouts of the vessels. There are others available for the same traffic in case of any rush in business. Donal O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who disappeared from the United States after he had been given until June 6 to reappear for Ireland as a seaman by the department of labor is said to have returned to Ireland by the submarine route.

CASE OF ALLIDO DIAZ DISMISSED BY STATE'S MOTION

The murder case against Allido Diaz, young Mexican who is alleged to have killed his foreman on the job in the construction of the insane asylum at the lake, was dismissed from the docket of the 30th district court Wednesday morning upon motion by the state's attorneys.

Diaz was indicted on the charge of murder, but it was shown to the court that he was a juvenile and he was sentenced to the reformatory school by the probate judge. He spent nearly a year and a half there when his case was reversed by the higher courts.

He was immediately brought back to this county and has been a trusty since that time.

Arrangements were being made to have transportation sent by his relative, who resides in south Texas.

PRESIDENT HARDING PLANS TO STUDY RACE QUESTION

NEW YORK, June 22.—President Harding in a letter to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, made public today, said he planned to proceed as early as possible to study the race question, with a view to ameliorating the treatment accorded to negroes, as outlined in his message to congress.

"I feel strongly," he added, "that there is opportunity for accomplishment of great and lasting good and that whatever measures will enlist the co-operation of intelligent and broad leaders of both races will serve the most useful purpose."

"An evidence of the increasing and gratifying interest throughout the country in this entire set of problems, since the delivery of the address to congress on April 12, a great number of commendatory communications have come to me, indicating that in all sections and among all classes there is a deep desire for achievement along these lines."

The president expressed his good wishes for the success of the twelfth annual convention of the association which opens in Detroit June 26.

CALL FOR HARVEST HANDS PERSISTENT, RESPONSE IS LIGHT

Woodward is still in dire need of harvest hands, as is an immense section of northwestern Oklahoma.

This statement was made Wednesday morning by James Hughes, the Oklahoma state labor commissioner, who is in the city securing men for work in the fields.

Although several hundred men have been sent out of Wichita Falls many of them have not reached Woodward, having been induced by farmers along the route to disembark and start work with them. Another large bunch which was beating its way north on a freight were kicked off by the railway crew and stranded miles from the territory which so badly needed help.

"The wheat in the Woodward territory is the best since 1914," according to Hughes, who is anxious to secure 1,000 men from Wichita Falls and surrounding places. He was in Burk Burnett Tuesday, but out of many die men only secured 15 who were anxious to find employment.

Hughes is still at the city hall, signing up all applicants.

VOTES CAST IN BOND ELECTION WILL BE CANVASSED THURSDAY

The commissioners court will meet Thursday morning to canvass the votes cast in the bond election last Saturday and will declare the results.

Wednesday noon there were still four boxes missing, but it was stated that the absent ones would be on hand by Thursday morning.

In the meantime, the commissioners, sitting as an equalization board, are busily engaged in a effort to complete their work by the first of next week in order that notices may be sent to those taxpayers whose conditions have been altered.

CITY INCINERATOR PUT IN OPERATION EARLY WEDNESDAY

The new city incinerator which has been under construction for the last two months was placed in operation Wednesday morning and is now disposing of all trash, garbage, carcasses and other attractive refuse picked up around the city. Three dogs which were rescued by the dog catcher Tuesday were the first to be obliterated in the roaring furnaces.

Operations were scheduled to start about two weeks ago, but a defective floor had to be replaced and this held up the opening. Dr. A. H. Douglas, head of the health department and several other city officials were on hand Wednesday morning.

THE ADMINISTRATION'S ALLIED DEBT PLAN

Reports from Washington state that the administration decided upon a plan for handling the allied debts of the United States at last Friday's cabinet meeting. The first step will be to ask congress for specific authority to carry out the plan agreed upon. Then will come the program of refunding the allied debts into definite obligations and the sale of these securities to the American people.

The plan as reported provides for converting the allied debts to us, which are now in the form of five per cent acknowledgments of indebtedness, into bonds maturing 20 or 40 years hence at a higher rate of interest. The increase in the interest rate above five per cent would be sufficient to yield the additional amount due the United States in defaulted interest.

These allied bonds would then be placed upon the market by the United States government from time to time and sold to investors. The proceeds from the sale of the bonds would be employed by the government to retire Liberty bonds.

Whether or not the allied bonds will be guaranteed by our government will be thrashed out in congress although the plans of the administration are said not to provide for this guarantee.

The plan for the handling of the defaulted interest is likely to meet with opposition in congress because many of the members of that body have planned to use the back interest in paying the bonus to ex-convicts.

The allied debt to the United States stands approximately as follows: Great Britain $4,200,000,000 France $2,750,000,000 Italy $1,625,000,000 Belgium $400,000,000 Jugo Slavia $100,000,000 To all other allies $175,000,000 Total $9,450,000,000

In addition to the above there is nearly one billion in interest due from the allies on these loans which has not been paid for two years and which will not be paid for another year at least.

No one can envy the Harding administration the duty of handling this situation. It is both delicate and highly complicated. To try to collect from those nations which do not have the money is an impossible task. To cancel their debts would be a grave injustice to our citizens. There is nothing to do but to sweat it out and apparently that is exactly what the administration faces.

To one at distance from investing centers it would seem that the biggest difficulty of all would be to find a market for the bonds of some of the less stable of our associates in the late conflict.

The task of getting congress to agree upon any plan proposed would seem simple alongside of that.

For the good of the town's reputation it is to be hoped sincerely that the rowdism which featured last year's contest between the Rotary and Wichita club will be held well in check this year. If necessary the entire police force of this city, supported by members of the American legion, should be called out for duty at the ball park. It would seem to be flying in the face of Providence to have Mayor Cline "empiric" again after his horrible mis-carriage performances of last year. A repetition of last year's careless decisions could bring on a riot. Jail sentences alone will not curb criminal tendencies. Those in charge of the game should appreciate this fact.

The hearings on the Texas-Oklahoma boundary question are now under way. Who knows what it will be to the people of this town when they actually know where the south bank of the Red river is located. The possibility of its being south of the limits of Wichita Falls is still a real one. To be assured that we are still in Texas will ease the minds of the entire community.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE OIL FRATERNITY

Unquestionably, conditions are bad all over the world at the present time, but conditions in the oil business are absolutely panic insofar as the independent producers are concerned. It is a fight for their very existence right now. There is no sugar-coating the pill, minimizing the danger or sitting still and waiting for chance or the goddess of Fortune to pull us through this disaster. For this will not happen. The time has come to fight—fight with concerted action and according to intelligent plans for it will take all of that to win. Labor in the United States and northern and western manufacturers have always been protected against cheap European labor and working conditions by placing a heavy tariff on competitive articles. The independent oil producers and refiners, and the American public generally, have an even greater right to protection, because, unlike the manufacturers, where the competition came from hundreds of varied industries, our competition comes from virtually one source, and when the independent producers are forced out this centralization of the industry will unquestionably prove a menace to the country. The cry of conservatism is simply a hindrance to progress. Why make Mexico rich, leaving our industries to suffer and ruin? American producers in Mexico do not have to pay any taxes to our government, while producers in the United States have every conceivable tax to pay. In addition the cost of uplift is greatly in favor of the Mexican producers. They have approximately 300 wells, with an average production of 2,500 barrels, whereas we have approximately 250,000 wells, with an average daily production of approximately four barrels each. From this it will be noted that the cost of production in Mexico is perhaps less than one-tenth of the cost of uplift in the United States. The bureau of mines estimates that there are approximately 16,500,000 barrels of oil yet to be recovered in Mexico. With the low cost of producing, and the billions of barrels of unrecovered oil yet to come, unless we have a reasonable tariff on oil does not have to be far-sighted to see the end of the independent producer in this country. Again, the cry of over-production in the United States is erroneous. Figures published in February, 1921, compiled by the United States bureau of mines, we find that the United States produced 4,000,000 barrels of oil and consumed 3,000,000 barrels, and imported over 11,000,000 barrels from Mexico. From this it will be seen that we have sufficient production to meet our demands, and any surplus is approximately that amount imported. As is the case with wheat, corn, cotton or any other of our products, the amount of surplus is what controls the market. We do not need this surplus of imported oil, but we do need the necessary protection from an unlimited supply of cheaply produced crude from Mexico and South American countries. The northern and eastern manufacturers combined and fought for a tariff on oil, and got it. California fruit growers have a tariff on lemons, etc., but they had to fight for it. We should start now preparing for the battle in the senate next August when it is understood a tariff bill will again be introduced. Let the independent producers and refiners get together, let them put their shoulders to the wheel, let them fight with intelligence, with concerted action, with an object to win and a plan of operation and victory will be theirs. C. A. KLEINMAN.

The History of Your Name

CAMPBELL Variations—Beauchamp, Beorcham, Racial Origin—Norman French. Source—A locality.

Campbell is one of those names which we are accustomed to think of as essentially Scottish, and so it is if we restrict our consideration of it to the history of that particular spelling. It is not a native Scottish name, however, notwithstanding the fact that it is approximately 800 or 900 years old. It was transplanted there, and that it is clearly traceable through the prominent part played by the clan in the history of that land so far back as the thirteenth century. But in another form it was a family name even before that time. It was the descriptive name borne by one of the lieutenants of William the Conqueror, when he invaded England from Normandy, and simply was the name of that warrior's estate in northern France, "campus bellus" or "beautiful field." Being the name of a nobleman it rapidly became crystallized into a family name. The Campbello. When the Norman invasion reached up into Scotland, a member of this family received large grants of land. This was in the thirteenth century, since which time the family and the following it acquired has from the very start become as Scottish as any of the clans which trace back to prehistoric days. In the development of the French language since the time of William the Conqueror, "campus" has become "champs" and "bellus" has become "champs" which was brought over to England later, and which also developed with the progress in the French language from the original name of the Campbello in England. But the English pronunciation has corrupted it from Beauchamp into "Beorcham," which is the reason that it is sometimes found in that spelling. Tomorrow—Haskawa.

WHY?

Is "influenza" so called? (Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Originally a term of astronomy or of astrology, the word "influenza" appears first in medieval Latin under the form of "influentia" and was used to denote the manner in which the stars and planets were supposed to exert a guiding direction over the affairs of men. As Archbishop Trench points out in one of his dissertations on the history of the English language: "There is more or less allusion in the English poets as well as in the poets of all countries to the invisible effect supposed to be exercised by the heavenly bodies upon the dispositions and lives of men and in Shakespeare particularly, 'Influence' is never used save in the sense of the astrologer's language." Little by little the original meaning of this word was lost in a more general application of the term until it reached its final significance of any power exerted from the outside—a power ranging all the way from "influence at court" to the "influence of liquor." It is from the astronomical application, however, that we secure the word "influenza"—the Italian name for a malarial disease either by malign planetary influence or atmospheric conditions which were none too well understood even by the men of medicine who gave the disease its title.

HUMANISMS Inner Lights on Lives and Whims of Personages in the Public Eye

By WILLIAM A. THERTON DU PUY. The story is told in chuckle circles in Washington where old cronies get together at night when E. W. Pettus, the venerable senator from Alabama, then eighty-two, stayed out too late.

The day after the escapade the senator was dropping alone and Mr. McCumber was making a speech that was well studded with statistics and entirely devoid of thrills. The senators drifted into the cloakrooms. Only Senator Pettus remained. Suddenly his shoulders were seen to begin to shake with mirth, and some observer went over to learn what, in so dry a speech, could have made him laugh.

He said he had played poker with the Joe Cannon crowd the night before and when the hour of 12 arrived, the time at which Mrs. Pettus required his presence at home, he had all the blue chips and could not gracefully get away. So he played till 3 o'clock. When he got home he pulled off his shoes at the front door, slipped into his room, undressed in the dark and sought to go to bed. Mrs. Pettus, unfortunately, had cast anchor in the exact middle of the bed. So he bested himself most uncomfortably on the edge and courted Morpheus in vain. Just at dawn Mrs. Pettus awoke. The senator pretended that he was sleeping. She got up on her elbow and looked at her partner for fifty years in the increasing light. Instantly she detected his discomfort.

"Mr. Pettus," she said, "you would rest at greater ease if you would take off your hat."

It was at memory of this that the patriarch laughed.

The plan of the postmaster general of putting his desk in the corner of a big room and admitting all interviewers to that room calls to mind the method of another government official who had novel ideas of expediting business.

Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, chief of the bureau of supplies and accounts of the navy during the war, was a very busy man, but he saw everybody.

He had a big office, but the only chair in it was that in which he sat. When his visitor entered he rose and remained standing. He could not see the caller to sit for there was no chair.

Under the circumstances the visitor stated his business very briefly and departed. "The presence of a chair," said Admiral McGowan, "would have decreased the number of people I could see by more than half."

Mrs. Haviland H. Lund, head of the Forward-to-the-Land league and student of rural reconstruction, says that Americans are too busy to be gracious. They haven't time to stop to observe the amenities. Many of them feel that they can't even take time for friendships. Two or three hours of an evening for visiting cannot be spared. They are, for the most part, people at heart, but the speed madness interferes.

to of that of that, O well, I suppose I can do without it, sed ma. Me thinking, Herry, and ma sed, of course the Herry, sed cream, but sed a comma to a question between giving the Herry ice cream and having you a crumble for life. I gess the Herry can do without the cream. Me thinking, Heck, O wizz, and I sed, Ill go ma, I didnt know it was ice cream, I mean I didnt know you only wanted me to go such a short distance. Ill run careful, ma, Ill run so careful Ill jest wawk fast, I dont mind going, ma. No, I cant have you sacrificing yourself like that, the danger is too great, sed ma, and I sed, No it aint, ma, gosh, ma, Ill wawk out in the street, ma, wares there nothing to trip over. A Place. Young man, eager to rise in the world, Hark to the tale I tell; Never put hand to the least command Unless you do it well.

You must strive for speed, but speed is vain; If poorly the work be done, And the time you take for a good job's sake Is time well spent, my son.

I have known the world and the ways of men; And the things I tell are true; You must build your fame on an honest name; And the work that you can do.

Whatever you promise you must perform; Never utter a pledge absurd; By the faith you keep you shall sow Good seed, and reap the reward.

You must stand to your given word; The signs of the road are posted clear; But the wrong ways thick with deceit; And day or night, if you keep to the right, You never need face about.

If you gladly toil and you give your heat; To the tasks you find to do; If your records clear, you need have no fear; The world has a place for you.

DEMONSTRATION OF FORDSON TRACTORS IS STAGED TUESDAY

A demonstration of Fordson tractors and other improved farm equipment was staged Tuesday on the Talbot place east of the city and was attended by a large number of farmers and city folk. The tractor was used to pull several kinds of plows, harrows, cultivators and ditchers and its usefulness in furnishing motive power for grinding demonstrated.

The program was a general "power farming demonstration" and was a revelation to all who attended. W. E. Langford, Fordson agent here, was host for the occasion.

PLANS FOR COLISEUM TAKE DEFINITE FORM

Livestock Men Elect Tom Burnett President and Perfect Organization Tuesday

A coliseum suitable for big public events of nearly every nature, and so located that a district fair could be built up around it, will be one of this city's next big undertakings, according to plans set on foot late Tuesday at a meeting at the chamber of commerce rooms.

The meeting was attended by a number of livestock breeders of this section and resulted in organization of the Pure Bred Livestock association. Tom Burnett of Iowa Park was elected president; W. F. Weeks, vice-president, and George O. Keith, secretary-treasurer. A committee to select a site for the stadium and to undertake the financing of it was named, consisting of T. R. Noble, W. E. Norton, Robert Elliott, George Keith and Tom L. Burnett.

The association endorsed plans of Tom Burnett for holding the fourth annual rodeo here next May and the earnest hope was expressed that the coliseum could be constructed in time for the event.

A number of suggestions for the site were offered, this point being left to the committee for recommendation. The coliseum, as planned, would be available for public use, and the rodeo, county fair features, athletic contests and other events.

VERNON MAKES DEFINITE PLANS FOR CHAUTAQUA

VERNON, TEXAS, June 22.—Definite plans for bringing the Redpath-Horner Chautauqua company to Vernon next season were made this morning at a meeting of a group of business men in the rooms of the chamber of commerce. A petition will be taken around today for the signatures of at least thirty responsible guarantors. J. E. Nye, manager of the local chautauqua, offered the entertainment for next year at $100 less than was the cost this season. Guarantors here pledged $1,700, including war tax, for the program this summer. Prospects last week-end indicated that this amount would not be raised, but strenuous efforts on the part of the committee resulted in a successful campaign for the funds and nearly 500 signatures.

Vernon has been highly commended by both management and talent; this year for the ready response of the audience.

PUBLIC MUST BE EDUCATED IN MATTERS OF HYGIENE, DR. CARRICK TELLS MUNICIPAL DELEGATES

Education of the people and proper preventive measures are necessary in the crusade for health, Dr. Manton M. Carrick, state health officer, told mayors and other city officials of Texas at the ninth annual convention of the League of Texas Municipalities here Tuesday afternoon.

"Modern methods of disease control are the product of evolution, the survival of the fittest in the constant struggle between superstition and fact and the logical application of the self-evident laws of nature," Dr. Carrick said. He continued, in part, as follows:

"The course pursued has been marked with hindrances and obstructions, not only through ignorance, but because of the mistaken zeal of its well-wishers. Of the latter, there are two classes which retard the rapid progress of the work that is set to be accomplished. The one timidly hesitates to delve into the unknown, or to undertake the seemingly impossible, while the other, over-confident and to a remarkable degree careless, ignores the difficulties and complexities which should be met and mastered at the very beginning. The first group does not retard the work to any great extent, as it revolves about itself, whereas the second, and its ranks are constantly depleted by the convincing argument of work accomplished. The second group constitutes a grave menace, inasmuch as it draws to itself a host of unthinking persons ready to accept all things as true without first proving all things and holding fast to that which is sound, casting aside that which is trash. This large group combine fact and fancy in a heterogeneous mass whose element of weakness renders null its elements of good.

"The pseudo-scientist with his 'cure-all' serum, or the faddist with his theory of exercise, feeding, breathing or bathing—beneficial in perhaps one case—must be prevented from leading the ignorant astray through a doctrine of universal cure. Disease and its cure is as diverse as life and its endeavors. Modern surgery and modern medicine, through the series of evolutions that have produced them, today limits sickness and death more through preventing disease than through cure. The modern physician in the work of disease prevention is a self-appointed health officer fighting constantly for cleaner homes, cleaner schools, cleaner churches, cleaner cities, cleaner air, safer water and more sunlight, but above all he is a moralist constantly working for cleaner morals, for he well knows that insidious influences go hand in hand with morality.

"The most important topic on disease control and the one on which the public in general should be fully informed is that which shows the vehicles by which disease can be transmitted. Flies, ticks, mosquitoes, fleas, lice and other vermin are a constant and ever-present menace.

"Contaminated soil is known to be a prolific source of disease.

"The physician fighting the disease propensities of the individual is accused by the sociologist, economist, commercialist and politician of 'pottering with trifles, instead of treating the problem in the mass. Disease prevention is an individual work, for it is the individual that is affected, no matter how wide-spread an epidemic may be, it is simply a number of individual cases and each separate case must be treated by itself.

"It will thus be seen that the health of a man is a matter of public concern and not merely a question of family or individual interest. Education along sanitary lines is as essential as along any other line.

"Education today, from the kindergarten up, is teaching our future men and women the value of obedience to the laws of nature governing health and happiness.

"We are now in a period where great strides are being made in the care of those hitherto pronounced incurable and the dawn of the era is breaking when we shall have advanced so that children born will be normal and the defective child will be a thing of the past, as we now almost consider the leper.

"A far-reaching campaign of education is necessary before this step will be fully realized. This plan cannot be successfully carried out, however, until a large corps of trained teachers and workers is provided. "Our greatest need at present is for proper training and equipped public health workers. Our health departments must be elevated to their proper position in the body politic. They must be removed from the realm of politics. Efficiency more than in any other department must be demanded and obtained.

"Physical culture as a means of dis-

"Money, that great fulcrum which moves all things, is badly needed. Re-compense sufficient to attract specialists must be provided if the work is to be carried on successfully.

"Health officers, to accomplish the best results, must be assured of a long enough tenure of office to enable them to map out campaigns and carry them on unimpeded and without danger of having their work cut off or undone by a new official.

"No attempt should be made to create sanitary experts out of physicians who have only had ordinary medical college training. The sanitarian must have a special training in general or special lines and to co-operate with health agencies. Further than that it is unreasonable to ask him to go.

"Every branch of public institutions should co-operate with the health department. The teachers should be trained to teach sanitation in the schools. The legislative bodies should frame both permanent and temporary measures for the betterment of the public—the judiciary to correct violation and the executive branches to see that all ordinances are carried out. Municipalities that neglect to carry out proper health regulations should be punishable by fine, the same as individuals.

"Everything depends upon the education of the individual to demand those things to be done that should be done and to observe the laws of individual cleanliness and sanitation. When the individual is educated the mass is protected."

Negro Champion Knocked Out by Willard in Havana

Some people think Jack Johnson was the better fighter. Others feel sure that Johnson was beaten by his own methods of living and by the inevitable slowing-up process that time imposes on every man after he passes the crest of physical perfection. And there are those who believe "L'Hi Arriba" was not so anxious to beat Willard, anyhow.

Whatever the cause, the star of Jack Johnson's long career, flickered out on August 1, 1915. That day, for the second time in his life, Johnson was knocked out. The first enforced nap had mattered not. It was taken at Galveston in 1907 at the hands of Joe Cboyski and Johnson was almost unknown beyond the island where he lived. But when the big negro arose from this second slumber, he was a has-been.

Willard was 27 years old, 10 years the junior of the champion and both his height and reach exceeded those of Johnson. The tusk-titled holder apparently put forth his best effort in the early rounds, but he could not topple the giant to the canvas. Willard showed in his movement, fighting on the defense and with great care, manifestly biding his time.

His time kept him waiting quite a while. Johnson, who was a little faster, a little slower and some of the old wall-p was gone from his arms, but his ring generalship, his mastery of tactics and not least, his don't-lose-the-lead, still the most clever boxer of them all. The early rounds showed him to be the same teasing scrapper he had always been. He frequently bruffed at the cautious Willard.

Later, the signs of leg weariness were apparent in the champion's movements. In the 15th round he suddenly seemed to become exhausted, while the Kansas was still fresh and glowing. Plainly tired and worn out, Johnson kept up the fight for seven more rounds. Leaving his corner at the going for the 25th round, he glanced at his wife with a look of distress and despair in his eyes, near the ring of his impending fall.

As soon as he met Willard, almost the cowboy's right arm shot out and struck Johnson's head. The champion sank down and a new champion was proclaimed.

Famous Old Players To Meet Selection Of Younger Stars

CLEVELAND, June 22.—Cy Young, Chief Zimmer, Charlie Hickman, Larry Lajoris, Jim McAleer and other famous old ball players better known to the fans of this city than to those of today, are coming back into baseball. Not to the major leagues, or even to the minors, for these veterans have no idea that they can replace the stars of today, but plans are being made for all of them to appear in an exhibition game when the 15th anniversary of the founding of Cleveland is celebrated.

The team of old timers will meet a selection of Cleveland youngsters and efforts are being made to get some of the greatest ball players in baseball history in the old-timers' lineup.

Cy Young, who stayed in the big leagues until he was well past the 40-year mark, will pitch for the old-timers. Chief Zimmer, his old battery mate, will catch. Bill Bradley, whose wonderful fielding and batting feats still are related by the gray-haired fans, will be at third base. Terry Turner, the fielding flash of years ago, at shortstop, and Charlie Hickman at first. Larry Lajoris, still spoken of as the greatest all-time second baseman, will captain the team and play second.

In the outfield will be Elmer Flick, Jim McAleer and Harry May, all stars in their day. Neal who gained fame years ago through an unassisted triple play while with Cleveland; Jess Burkett, Bunk Congalton and George Cupples will be the substitutes. Lajoris thinks his team will hold its own against any other despite the age of the players.

"Give us a few days to get into practice and develop our wits and we won't make any alibis," he said.

ROTARY AND WICHITA CLUB TEAMS TO MEET THURSDAY AFTERNOON, STILL TRYING TO FIND UMPIRE

The Rotary and Wichita club baseball teams were all set Wednesday for Thursday's annual interclub game. Although the difficulty in obtaining an umpire has not yet been circumvented, there was promise that a decision would be reached by Thursday noon. The game will be called for 4 p. m. Presidents of both clubs denied emphatically that a compromise had been effected by agreeing on Dr. Knickerbocker as umpire. Dr. Knickerbocker himself also denied the report. "I am a baseball fan," he said, "but have never played. The only sport in which I ever participated is football; they used to use me as a goal post." Mystery still surrounds the management of the Wichita club team, the management of which is refusing to make the personnel public. A report that Buck Weaver, former Chicago White Sox player, was to appear in the lineup was denied by President Brittain of the club.

MANY VARIED REASONS ARE ADVANCED FOR DECREASE IN STOLEN BASES IN BIG SHOW

CHICAGO, June 22.—The stolen base has been discarded only temporarily and will return soon. Cobb declares that the game moves in cycles and that following the cycles of great pitching and great base running, we now have the cycle of great hitting. A Back Number Today. "With the sluggers of today, base stealing is a back number," said the Detroit manager, whose stolen base mark formerly was close to the 100 figure for the season. "But, the hitting will pass. Then we will again return to the cycles of pitching and base running. Five years from now my base running marks may be eclipsed by some youngster now in the grammar school." Trip Speaker, manager of the world champion Cleveland Indians, combines ineffectiveness of pitching with heavy hitting as the reason for the lack of stolen bases. "The base runner of today is the man who can go from first to third or

WICHITA CLUB HEARS 2 NOTED SPEAKERS

Dr. George Truett and John Temple Graves Address Members at Luncheon

Two distinguished speakers were heard at the Wichita club luncheon Wednesday. After Dr. George Truett had fairly swept his hearers off their feet with one of his characteristic talks, John Temple Graves, Chattanooga lecturer, in a brief but very eloquent speech, also charmed the members.

Dr. Truett took the little book "What Men Live By" as the theme of his talk. Work, play, love and worship, he said, are the four things that sustain mankind, and he briefly discussed each in its turn.

"Work is an ordinance of God," he declared. "God said 'In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread.' You can't get away from that. There is too much to be done in this world for any man to be an idler."

Discussing play, Dr. Truett said that one of the main court justices plays a lonely game, cooking his own meals and going barefoot for three months in the year. No man can get by without a liberal share of recreation, the speaker said.

Love as one of the things that men live by, Dr. Truett said, meant not only love in its relation to marriage and the family, but love of one's fellowmen of whatever station in life.

Dr. Truett spoke of the importance of a institution like the Wichita club in promoting fellowship and understanding between men. The spirit of brotherhood, he declared, is something sorely needed in the world today.

Man's worship, Dr. Truett concluded, should be with mind and eye upon the world to come.

"As we build, let us build for two worlds," he said.

Mr. Graves, who had just arrived in Wichita Falls, expressed a feeling of embarrassment at the fact that he had not been invited to speak at a distinguished speaker. He paid wonderful tribute to Wichita Falls, saying this city far outstripped all the cities he had heard of, but he took occasion to call attention to Dr. Truett's words, that other than material things must be kept in mind.

Delegates to the convention of the League of Texas Municipalities were guests at the luncheon. E. Stanley Field presided.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 22.—There was further covering in the cotton market today. Reports of a better tone in the Liverpool market were supposed to reflect a more cheerful view of the British labor situation and renewed talk of summer spot offerings in the south.

Advances of 4 to 23 points. This met more southern scatter selling. Covering was promoted by reports that a gulf storm was approaching the Texas coast, but the market closed about 20 to 25 points higher before the end of the first hour with July touching 11.10 and October 12.00. Except for the gulf storm threat, weather conditions in the belt were considered generally favorable.

Apprehensions that the gulf storm would cause harmful rains in the south, which was not entirely unexpected, and covering became more active after the publication of the weekly report of the weather bureau. This was evidently a disappointment to recent sellers, referring to a general condition of the crop as remaining unsatisfactory in many localities, and prices made new highs for the day during the early afternoon, but fell to 11.10 and 12.00 on October 12.10, or 38 to 43 points net higher.

The market was quieter during the middle of the afternoon with prices some 10 or 15 points off from the best steady at 12.00 for October.

Cotton closed very steady.

Table with columns for Cotton prices: July, August, September, October, November, December, January, February, March. Includes sub-sections for New Orleans Spot Cotton and New Orleans Seed Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, June 22.—The cotton market had a strong tone in the early trading, and closed 23 to 27 points in the first hour of the session, July rising to 10.70. The opening was called at 10.70 and 10.80. After Liverpool had advanced and the advance was continued on the warnings regarding the weather, the market moved inland and swept a portion of the belt. Many points in Texas reported sales and torrential rains, pointing to more or less crop damage.

The reports from the government were not as favorable as expected and the market moved inland and swept a portion of the belt. Many points in Texas reported sales and torrential rains, pointing to more or less crop damage.

DROPS DEAD WHILE AT UNION STATION

Man Believed to Be O. B. Harrington of Greenville Drowns in Heart Failure

A man believed to be O. B. Harrington of Greenville, Texas, dropped dead at the Union station early Wednesday afternoon, apparently a victim of heart failure. He had been waiting slowly along on the brick passage ways between tracks and was seen to fall face downward after slightly stumbling.

The man was carrying a bag of piano tuner's tools and in a pocket was found a small and greatly worn book which contained the names of many prominent Wichita Falls citizens, the names and addresses of scores of people in northern Texas and southern Oklahoma and entries which indicated that he had but recently tuned pianos in these towns.

On the front of the book was an inscription, "Return to O. B. Harrington, care of the Union Station, Wichita Falls, Tex." The initials, O. B. H. Aside from this there were no marks of identification to be found about the man.

Two Greenville newspaper publishers and a local doctor, who were called to the scene, found a hypodermic needle were found in his trousers pockets. He had no coat or tie.

The man was about 20 years of age, medium height, rather dark complexion, had dark brown eyes and weighed about 125 pounds.

The body was removed to the O. W. Hines undertaking parlors and prepared for burial, while a telegram was dispatched by the station to the police at Greenville asking information as to Mr. Harrington. No reply had been received at a late hour Wednesday afternoon.

SAYS WORLDLINESS IS ROTTING HOMES

Evangelist Cuipepper Takes "The Soul" as His Subject at Tuesday Night Service

"If I could, I would put every man, woman and child in Wichita Falls in some church," said Rev. Burke Cuipepper Tuesday night before a very large audience at the open-air tabernacle.

In a stirring and eloquent sermon that teemed with a host of illustrations, the evangelist said he wanted to talk about the most important subject yet discussed—the soul—that part of man that will never die. He used for his text these words, "For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

"The soul of man is his own breath. That keeps two worlds at strife. Hell moves beneath to work its death. Heaven stoops to give it life."

Mr. Cuipepper again scored card playing and dancing by church members, and said he would be afraid not to warn the people against the evils of the day. The Jews were required to bring in the same amount of silver, but they were not given any straw. Dr. Cuipepper said he had often heard some one say that we were not producing as great men now as formerly. He said the reason was that they were taking the straw—the Sabbath day—and dragging it down to the mire of Sunday baseball, Sunday picture shows, golf and a number of other things, and that the "American home was rotting down."

He addressed the men of the audience, if they endorsed his stand on worldliness in the churches, to come forward and give him their hands, and hundreds barged in the front in response to his invitation. He asked the ladies if they endorsed it to stand on the benches, and practically every woman in the great audience pointed the benches.

Several gave their names for church membership at the close of the service. Wednesday night will be delegation night for the department stores, a feature that will be used during the entire campaign.

Notice to Attorneys. Under the arrangement made by the 75th district judge, Judge E. W. Napier of the 75th district court will vacate on the last day of June and the first day of July, 1921, the tenth day of August. Attorneys are therefore notified to present all orders which they may desire before June 30, 1921.

The 75th district court will be in session from the tenth day of August to the first Monday in September, when a new term begins. The court will try cases during August, beginning the tenth, by agreement only.

This court has completed the non-jury docket, upon which approximately four hundred cases appeared, and has given the litigants in each of those cases ample opportunity to have them tried. This docket will not be called again, but all of the cases remaining on it will be placed in what will hereafter be known as "the retired docket."

These cases will only be called for trial upon application of some interested party. It is the intention of the court to dismiss all cases which may have remained on the retired docket as long as one year.
