ROAD TO BE PUSHED ON TO ANOTHER COMMUNITY WITH-OUT DELAY.

SOUTH BEND HAS GOOD START AS OIL CENTER

Established on More Substantial Basis Than Many Towns in Oil Districts.

Eliasville is the next station to be reached on the Wichita Falls and Southern's extension, and rails are expected to enter that city within the next 30 days.

Wichitans who visited South Bend Friday found a very busy community with a population estimated at 1,500.

South Bend has come into being within the past six months, there was a rooming house, a general store and some other enterprises there half a year ago.

The community has a bank, a newspaper, a number of up-to-date business houses and hotels of a somewhat better grade than are usually found in oil field communities.

Three miles west of the community is a body of water known as Graham lake, which affords boating, fishing and bathing.

South Bend is a well ordered community, its better citizens having determined in the beginning to keep as free as possible of the troubles that afflict so many such towns.

The Southern bridge over the Brazos will not be completed for about six weeks, but the temporary trestle will serve traffic in the meantime.

The independent party, in announcing its formation, expressed deep disgust with the practices, general habits and policies of the "Lily Whites," the slogan of "for the tariff" is their last and all the time "which was officially adopted by the latter party, coming in for an exceptionally heavy condemnation.

FURTHER LIGHT ON FREIGHT THEFTS IS EXPECTED SHORTLY

When they begin talking about each other, it won't take long to get at the bottom of the matter," commented Chief of Police Huff Saturday morning after he had conducted a rigid investigation into the case of a man brought into his office on suspicion of having been connected with a series of freight car robberies perpetrated along the Denver and Katy lines during the last three or four months.

The suspect was picked up on the strength of testimony given by one of three other men arrested some time ago for the same offenses, but after a questioning, which lasted through most of the morning, he was released.

Huff repeated his assertions, made on the occasion of the first arrests, that an organized ring of interstate commerce shipment thieves had been broken up and that wholesale arrests would follow after more evidence was obtained.

Three local men were taken into custody early in June and charged with robbery, but they were merely the local representatives of an organization which extends over practically the entire south and which carries out a systematic program of plundering railway warehouses and cars.

Several arrests have been made in other southern cities, it is stated, and those now behind the bars have started talking, all of which means that the entire band can be dragged into a net.

Eventually all the thieves will be apprehended, according to local officials, with the result that thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise will be saved to the railways and the public.

That the robberies in Wichita Falls have been effectively broken up is regarded as certain as only two small losses have been reported since the arrests last June, and evidence obtained in these cases indicated that they were carried through by negroes or boys.

TOUSSAINT MURDER CASE WILL BE SET

Will be One of First Criminal Cases to be Tried After July Twenty.

The Henry J. Toussaint murder case will be one of the first criminal cases to be tried in the 10th district court after July 20, when Judge Walden returns from his 30-day vacation.

The district attorney's office is arranging the setting of the case.

Although the case will be set by the state, it will merely mean an appearance date, but it is understood that the defense will be ready for trial when the case is set down.

Several depositions have been taken by the defense and the state has cross-examined them and sent them back so that it is believed everything will be in readiness when the case is set for trial.

It is generally understood that the plea of the defense will be insanity.

Toussaint is charged with the murder of his father, who was killed early this spring. It is understood that the defendant made a complete confession before the state's attorney the day of his arrest in which he detailed all the events leading up to the killing of his father, O. H. Toussaint.

Toussaint and his father were engaged in the contracting business in this city.

BUSY SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL IS PROMISED TUESDAY

There will be no session of the city council Monday night, but on Tuesday night there promises to be considerable session.

Public hearings on the new street car franchise and on several street paving projects are set for Tuesday night, and will probably bring a number of citizens to the meeting.

The natural gas situation is also expected to receive the attention of the councilmen, and a plan of action will be mapped out along whatever lines are deemed necessary to safeguard this city's interests.

CLOAK ROOM GOSSIP

WASHINGTON, July 2.—If it wasn't for the cloak-room, how many there would be very little to keep congress functioning these hot summer days.

In this connection a story has been going the rounds among southern senators at the expense of three members from that section.

Senator Shields, democrat, of Tennessee and author of the bill to prohibit the shipment of fire arms in interstate commerce, was pounding away the other afternoon in the senate in an effort to convince that body that his bill would not be unconstitutional.

Senator Shields is out there trying to take his pistol away from me. Congress has already taken your liquor away from you, and looking to me like the whole country is going to the bow-wow."

"Well, you can do without your pistol without my liquor," curtly replied the Mississippi senator.

Then Senator Williams told a story of his own experience in carrying a pistol.

"I was down near Greenwood, in my state, making a speech, where the feeling was pretty high on account of politics. One of my opponents had passed the word around that he was going to cause me trouble and my friends advised me to put a pistol in my pocket. It was so large and heavy that I put it in a school house desk, where the meeting was being held, and intended to get it if trouble arose.

A few minutes after the meeting had opened the lights went out and a general row started and in the excitement I forgot my pistol. I haven't seen it to this good day and that's about all the good a pistol does me."

Senator Caraway then confessed that he had never carried a pistol, saying the people of Arkansas are peaceful and law-abiding.

Representative William A. Oldfield of Arkansas has this week been telling a story of the district attorney's experience in the Ozark country.

"A friend of mine, who was entrusted with enforcement of the law, was riding through the mountains one afternoon looking for evidence of moonshining, and noticed a suspicious looking path leading up a ravine. As he sat on his horse, a ragged and barefooted boy came toward him, down the path.

"What they doing up there?" inquired my friend.

"Makin' liquor," was the astonishing response.

"Think I better investigate," said the officer. "Will you hold my horse until I get back?"

The boy assented and my friend started up the path. He had only gotten about 50 feet when the boy called him, saying:

"Say, mister, what you-all want me to do with this hoss, if you don't come back?"

While Representative Alice M. Robertson, the congresswoman from Oklahoma, hasn't the support of the militant suffragist faction, who have not hesitated to claim credit for enactment of the 19th amendment, she is steadily gaining in popularity among the members of the house.

Unlike the former congresswoman who hailed from Montana, Miss Robertson has not wasted any time on uplift legislation, but devoted her attention to the every-day business of the house, and the routine of the legislative process.

There is no attempt on the part of the Oklahoma congresswoman to starve the house with creation in dress. Her skirts brush the floor, her hair is combed back severely and her cheeks at all times are innocent of rouge, but the "Lady from Oklahoma" has won a place for herself in the house and is gaining the name of "the best congressman from Oklahoma."

Miss Robertson has not sought to attract attention to herself by speaking on every subject in which she may have interest, but her colleagues are learning that she is studying each of these measures in good judgment.

On a recent occasion, when Representative T. L. Blanton, democrat of Texas had been declaiming forcefully and at great length on some measure under debate, Congresswoman Robertson took the floor against him and pointedly called attention to the waste of government money in lengthy speeches reminding the Texas that "speech is silver, but silence golden."

Although there was no sting in her remarks, they had the effect of silencing the Texas congressman, temporarily at least.

BILL RECLASSIFIES THE SALARIES PAID POSTAL EMPLOYES

REPORTED FAVORABLY BY COMMITTEE OF POSTOFFICES AND POST ROADS.

FOURTH CLASS POSTMASTERS ARE INCREASED IN SALARY

Plan to Place Pay of Employees of Department on More Equitable Basis.

By CHAS. N. HAYDEN, Washington Correspondent Wichita Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The senate committee on postoffices and post-roads has just reported favorably on a bill which further reclassifies the salaries of postmasters and employees of the postal service so that their pay may be upon a more equitable basis.

Fourth class postmasters are increased in salary, their compensation to be equal to the salaries and temporary increases which were granted them from the time they were appointed in the executive offices and pay incidental expenses.

Under the terms of the bill they are to receive the same compensation as now provided, except that they shall receive 145 per cent of the first $75 or less per quarter, 70 per cent of the next $100 or less per quarter and on the balance 60 per cent.

Another important feature of the bill is that "as a reward for faithful and meritorious service" special clerks may be appointed in the executive, finance, money-order and other divisions of first class postoffices and shall not be demoted except for cause.

The salaries of the foreman in a first class office shall be $1,500 and $2,000 per annum. This will enable postmasters to assign special clerks or stenographers in his office to other sections of the postoffice where they may be needed.

It is also provided that, effective with the fiscal year, 1921, the minimum salary of the foreman in a first class office shall be $2,000 per annum, which in effect creates a differential of $100 per year between the compensation of the foreman and that of the highest grade special clerk ($1,900) in such postoffices.

The minimum salary of assistant superintendents of mails in first class offices is fixed at $2,000 but where the receipts are $1,000,000 per annum such employe may be paid $2,500 per year.

The salaries of assistant postmasters of the second class, where the gross postal receipts are $5,000, but less than $12,000, shall be paid $1,850 per annum (under the postal regulations the highest grade clerks or carriers in these offices receive $1,500, and they receive pay for overtime, which the assistant postmasters do not with the result that the latter are likely to receive less compensation than the employees supervised.

The bill also authorizes the postmaster general to pay clerks in first and second class offices and letter carriers in the city delivery services the amount due them as overtime in lieu of compensatory time for work performed on Sundays in June 1920, such having been disallowed by the comptroller of the treasury.

The bill has passed the house and it is expected that the request of the postoffice department, that the senate pass the measure during the present month, will be complied with.

AVENUE F PAVING NEW CITY PROJECT

Favored as Giving New Route From Westernmost Part of City—To Finish Program.

With approximately $130,000 remaining in the paving fund, after existing contracts have been settled up, Street Commissioner Curlee expects to turn attention to Eleventh, Burnett and Avenue F. The southern portion of Scott and Indiana will probably also be among the projects undertaken soon.

The Avenue F project is planned by Mr. Curlee as a new feature of the paving program in order to give a new route from the Seymour road and the westernmost part of the city, via Avenue F, Pearl, Elizabeth and Fifteenth streets. On another page in today's Times the proposed connection between Avenue F and Pearl is depicted. In addition to giving a new trans-city highway, the paving of Avenue F would serve the new high school and would bring the Buchanan street fire station much nearer, in point of time, to the portion of the city that it serves.

Mr. Curlee expressed the hope that some means could be found for including Seventh street, to the ball park, in the paving program.

The "Lily White" schism is not regarded as being serious, but with the Rebels but in the race and the avowed intention of "the other party" to open up Monday and flood the city with campaign propaganda gives promise of a lively season when the ballots begin to roll in.

The independent party, in announcing its formation, expressed deep disgust with the practices and habits and policies of the "Lily Whites," the slogan of "for the tariff on oil, first, last and all the time," which was officially adopted by the latter party, coming in for an exceptionally heavy condemnation.

The 14th anniversary of American Independence will be adequately and appropriately observed Monday by Wichitans.

A number of baseball fans will journey to Fort Worth to see the double-header between the Panthers and Spudgers, and those staying at home will doubtless be found somewhere in the vicinity of the airside Monday afternoon.

Banks and nearly all stores will be closed all day and the holiday will be participated in by practically everybody—except newspaper men.

BILL RECLASSIFIES THE SALARIES PAID POSTAL EMPLOYEES

REPORTED FAVORABLY BY COMMITTEE OF POSTOFFICES AND POST ROADS.

FOURTH CLASS POSTMASTERS ARE INCREASED IN SALARY

Plan to Place Pay of Employees of Department on More Equitable Basis.

By CHAS. N. HAYDEN, Washington Correspondent Wichita Daily Times

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The senate committee on postoffices and post-roads has just reported favorably on a bill which further reclassifies the salaries of postmasters and employees of the postal service so that their pay may be on a more equitable basis.

Fourth class postmasters are increased in salary, their compensation to be equal to the salaries and temporary increases which were granted them during the war with Germany.

Since the pay of fourth class postmasters reverted to the pre-war scale there has been a general complaint from them that they are unable to maintain the upkeep of the small offices and pay incidental expenses. Under the terms of the bill they are to receive the same compensation as now provided, except that they shall receive 145 per cent of the first $75 or less per quarter, 75 per cent of the next $100 or less per quarter and on the balance, 60 per cent.

Another important feature of the bill is that "as a reward for faithful and meritorious service" special clerks may be appointed in the executive, finance, money-order and other divisions of first class postoffices, and shall not be demoted except for cause.

The salaries of these clerks will be $1,900 and $2,000 per annum. This will enable postmasters to assign special clerks or stenographers in their office to other sections of the postoffice where they may be needed.

It is also provided that, effective with the fiscal year 1921, the minimum salary of the foreman in a first class office shall be $2,100 per annum. Such effect creates a differential of $100 per year between the compensation of foreman and that of the highest grade special clerk ($2,000) in such postoffices.

The minimum salary of assistant superintendents of mails in first class offices is fixed at $2,100 but where the receipts are $1,000,000 per annum such employes may be paid $2,300 per year. The salaries of assistant postmasters at offices of the second class, where the gross postal receipts are $250,000 but less than $1,000,000, shall be paid $1,850 per annum under the postal regulations the highest grade clerks or carriers in these offices receive $1,800, and they receive pay for overtime, which the assistant postmasters do not, with the result that the latter are likely to receive less compensation than the employees supervised. The bill also authorizes the postmaster general to pay clerks in first and second class offices and letter carriers in the city delivery service the amount due them for overtime in lieu of compensatory time for work performed on Sundays in June 1920, such having been disallowed by the comptroller of the treasury.

The bill has passed the house and it is expected that the request of the postoffice department, that the senate pass the measure during the present month, will be complied with.

On another page in today's Times the proposed connection between Avenue F and Pearl is depicted. In addition to giving a new trans-city highway, the paving of Avenue F would serve the new high school and would bring the Buchanan street fire station much nearer, in point of time, to the portion of the city that it serves.

Mr. Curlee expressed the hope that some means could be found for including Seventh street, to the ball park, in the paving program.

SALT WATER TROUBLE CONTINUES TO DISCOURAGE OPERATORS IN THAT SECTION.

MANY SMALL PRODUCERS COMPLETED AT ELECTRA

Continues As One of Most Active Fields in District—Shooting Old Wells in Waggoner Field.

In the Archer pool there have been very few completions that will tend to widen the field, and the only hope for an extension of any scope hinges on the result of the well of Bartlett and associates on the G. T. Netherton ranch.

The Link Oil corporation well on the Coffman tract, one-half mile southwest of the Texoma wells, in block 7, was a disappointment to the owners after testing out a sand that showed an abundance of salt water.

The problem in this field at the present time is to get salt water out where the salt water is coming from. Various methods and devices are being tried in an effort to overcome this menace to what looks like a very promising oil field.

The wells producing oil in this district, with their daily production are: J. I. Staley, No. 1 Coffman, 200 barrels; Texoma Oil Refining company, No. 1 Goss, 150 barrels; same, No. 2 Goss, 140; same, No. 3 Goss, 175; same, No. 1 Taylor, 40; Riner-Bailey, No. 1 Goss, 145; Lee-Bass, No. 1 Henderson, 250. The above does not include the Texoma Oil Refining company's No. 4 Goss, which was drilled in this week with a flush production of around 350 barrels.

The total production of this field at present is over 1,000 barrels per day, but of this, however, a large quantity of oil is being used for drilling purposes on the various wells throughout the district.

On the Taylor land the Texas-Illinois company is on the sand at 1600 feet, and will drill in early this week. Harper-Jones, No. 1 Taylor, is underreaming down to meet the casing and their well has all the earmarks of making a good producer.

The Sun company's test on the Henderson is re-running casing with a packer, they also are experiencing water trouble. The Griswold Oil company, on the land after the casing and fracturing a rich sand unfortunately lost their casing seat, which will necessitate re-setting of same.

After casing the 1600 foot sand in an effort to find a deeper one around 1700 feet, the Griswold Oil company on the Taylor land, has abandoned the test at the 1600 feet. The W. C. D. Oil syndicate on the Beaver Bend, is having a little casing trouble at 1600.

In the old Texoma field, the Scott-Swearing Oil company on the Beach tract is swabbing and cleaning out around 35 barrels but will drill deeper. On the Cropper, the Stumpf Oil and Gas company has placed their No. 1 well on the pump and it is producing around 50 barrels. On the Beach, the J. I. Staley company is swabbing 35 barrels from the 1,000 foot sand, but the owners are getting ready to go deeper.

The Jones Oil and Gas company has completed their No. 2 well on the Rexford at 1275 foot sand, for about 150 barrels. The same company has the gas sand in their No. 4 well also on the Rexford, but will continue drilling down to the 1400 feet.

On the Cropper tract the Sinclair Oil and Gas company is cleaning out to drill deeper at 1275, and on the M. K. & T. right-of-way the Weena Oil company is setting their 45-5 casing at 1,000 feet.

In the Burk Burnett townsite and Northwest, extension nothing of importance has occurred but a great many wells are being cleaned out and shot, adding several hundred more barrels to the production from this area.

The Pope-Erwin well on the Cooper tract, which has been testing out a good junking sand, is cleaning out, and trying to find a seat for the casing which slipped in the sand earlier in the week. If the owners are unable

PRESIDENT LOOKS LIKE REGULAR COWPUNCHER

The invitation to President and Mrs. Harding to attend the famous 'Frontier Days' Exposition at Cheyenne, Wyo., July 26-29 was evidenced in substantial form by a specially designed cowboy hat—a real cowpuncher's 'four-gallon-hat'—clinched around it with a knot of deer skin in a solid silver hatband, on which is engraved: 'Wyoming extends greeting to President and Mrs. Harding, with the cordial invitation to be its guests at Cheyenne frontier days, July 26-29, when the days and the cowboy sports of the old west are revived.'

To find a suitable seat they will probably abandon their hole and start a new test.

Electra still leads in bringing in producers, and not a week passes but the old reliable 'mother pool' helps out the balance of the county's production. Last week found the Gloria Oil company, on the Douglas land, completed and on the pump for a producer of 50 barrels daily, and several on the sand ready to complete. Below with a flush production of around 350 barrels.

SHRINERS ALL READY FOR JULY 4 CELEBRATION AT CALL FIELD; NUMEROUS FEATURES ARRANGED

The final recital of Maskat Temple's Shrine band will be held Sunday prior to the concert to be given at the Shrine celebration—very magnificent to be held at Call Field on Monday, July 4. The celebration will start at 9:30 a. m. with a concert by the Shrine band. At 10 a. m. Potentate Walter D. Clinic, who will return from Louisiana for this celebration, will deliver the address of welcome. After the address of welcome, the address of the day will be delivered by Hon. Luther Hoffman. His address will be limited to twenty minutes, and it is understood that he has spent considerable time, weaving into this address patriotic sentiment.

At 10:45 a. m. a battle royal will be staged instead of the polo game, as previously advertised. The contestants in the battle royal will all be members of the Maskat Temple Divan. They will be easily recognized, because their names will be printed in large letters on their backs. It was impossible to have the polo games on account of all the 'cow pasture players' being out of the city, including Captain Robbins, who was recently summoned to appear at Austin. The referees for the battle royal are Rt. Hon. E. M. Mann, Left Hon. George Keith and Dr. Hon. C. C. Randall.

Promptly following the battle royal, a five-minute Ford race will be given on the polo grounds. There will be no limit to the entries for this race, and everyone is requested to bring their Ford to this celebration, even if they have to wear them as watch charms. There will be no danger in bringing your Ford, because the fire works on the grounds will be very limited. The referees for the Ford race will be the only original snake charmer in Wichita county. No names will be mentioned in reference to being the snake charmer. Within the past few weeks he has changed his appearance to a considerable extent, and you may not know him. There are about 20 good ball players in these two organizations, and it is very evident that a good game will be played.

The second band concert will be given at 1:30 p. m. and at 2 p. m. the races and athletic contests will be held. The following program has been arranged for the races, under the direction of Syd A. Gaines, by far the smallest man in Wichita county. The first race will be the potterate and divan race of 100 yards. The prize for this race will be a full keg of 20 penny nails to be donated by the Boone Hardware company.

The next race will be the fat man's race. The entries for this race must weigh over 200 pounds, and the race will be 100 yards. A case of budweiser, donated by the People's Ice company will be the prize for this contest.

The third will be a potato race, for ladies only; 25 yards. The first prize will be a white Maskat fez, donated by Maskat Temple, and the second prize will be a package of groceries donated by Griggs Grocery company.

The next contest will be a tug of war between married and single men. The prize will be a box of cigars, donated by the Wolfson Cigar company.

Fifth will be a sack race for boys under 16; 25 yards, and the prize will be a flash light donated by F. A. Hardy & Co.

Sixth, there will be a free for all 250-yard race; first two in each heat for finals, and the prize for this event will be a shirt donated by W. B. McClurken & Co.

The seventh will be a shoe race for girls under 16; 35 yards. The prize will be a knife given by the Art Jewelry Co.

The eighth will be a 100-yard race for girls under 18. First prize will be a bathing cap, donated by Winston Drug Co., and the second will be a bottle of toilet water donated by Samsbury Drug Co.

The ninth will be a 100-yard race, free for all. First two in each heat for finals, and the prize will be a straw hat given by Anderson's.

Tenth, there will be a 400-yard relay; boys over 18, single men and married men. The prize will be a case of red soda water donated by the Coca Cola Co.

The starters for the races will be Tom Wynn, with Moon and Husky for clerks of course.

The judges for the races will be N. O. Monroe, Guy Rogers and Martin Rowe.

After the races, at 4:30 p. m. a ball game will be played between the Scottish Rite Masons and Knights Templar, under the direction of Frank Collier. The manager of the Scottish Rite team is J. A. Gardner, and for the Knights Templar team, Uriel H. Griggs. There are about 20 good ball players in these two organizations, and it is very evident that a good game will be played.

Dr. N. F. Grafton of the First Presbyterian church will umpire the game. After supper at 6 p. m. promptly at 8 p. m. dancing in the Shrine auditorium will begin. The music for the dance will be furnished by Joe Ward's 50-piece Shrine band.

In addition to the regular program there will be horseback throwing, pro-wrestling, and other interesting features. The manager of the horseback throwing will be the late Mr. J. A. Gardner, and the manager of the pro-wrestling will be the late Mr. J. A. Gardner.

Are Photographic Films Developed to a Red Light? (Copyright, 1921, by The Wheelwright Syndicate, Inc.)

While we are accustomed to think of white as being a single color, it is really a combination of the seven primary colors which go to make up the spectrum—just as black is the total absence of all colors.

On the other hand, the violet rays play a leading part in making up the light which usually surrounds us and they have an instant effect upon the delicate chemicals used in making up the photographic film.

IN OUR TOWN

By HUBERT M. HARRISON

The Athenian Oath. A new spirit of local patriotism has been developed within the last few years through the modern chamber of commerce.

The chamber of commerce here in your community offers the best opportunity for concerted team work along the line of improving living conditions right here at home.

Wichita Falls, Texas, encourages its people to hold neighborhood social gatherings, or block parties.

Trenton, N. J. chamber of commerce recently gave a dinner to the board of agriculture for the purpose of stimulating interest between the farmers and the business men.

When Francis M. Goodwin, now assistant secretary of the state, was a boy he lived in the coal mine regions of Maryland. He worked as a youth and the second "o" slurred over, assisting as Ludovic.

But through the English, the name traces back often in the middle ages to Levi, many of the Jews coming to that country during the crusades.

HUMNAISMS Inner Lights on Lives and Whims of Personages in the Public Eye

By WILLIAM ATHERTON DU PUY. There is no more gala occasion staged in the United States than when the President and Mrs. Harding give a garden party at the White House.

The distinguished of the land gather. They filter through that classic old colonial mansion which is the first home of the nation.

The stand bearing the flag stood on the rostrum and just as the speakers were taking their places it tipped over, but was neatly caught and kept from falling by the vice president.

Senator Willis contended that his property had worked out.

Pay Up, Keep Your Credit Good!

Responsibility Cannot Be Shifted

Whether You Are Employer or Employee, the Success of Your Business or the Holding of Your Job Depends upon the financial Condition of Those With Whom You Do Business

THE CLOSELY WOVEN FABRIC OF OUR COMMERCIAL LIFE MAKES EACH OF US DEPENDENT UPON THE OTHER—FAILURES HURT EVERY ONE OF US

What Are You Going to Do About It?

Three Hundred Members of Retail Merchants' Association Ask You to Get Right—

PAY ALL MONTHLY ACCOUNTS PROMPTLY

Credit is a much abused element in business. The majority use it conscientiously as a convenience, while others use it to obtain merchandise or service as a pretext to delay payment over a long period of time.

Permit Us to Extend Our Thanks to Mr. Prompt Pay. Without Him Many Firms in Wichita Falls Could Not Continue Business

This advertisement is not directed to those who understandingly and intelligently use their credit, but rather to those who have habitually and flagrantly abused it.

Present business conditions have forced upon us the necessity of demanding prompt payment of ALL MONTHLY ACCOUNTS due on the first and payable not later than the tenth of the month. This is vitally important. Keep the faith and maintain the confidence of the Retail Merchant's Association of Wichita Falls in you and your ability to pay. If it becomes necessary for you to violate the terms upon which credit was granted to you, by delaying payment beyond the tenth of the month, notify the member of this association to whom you owe money so that he can make his arrangements accordingly.

Pay up. Keep your credit good. It will make better business for the grocer, butcher, doctor, dry goods merchant, druggist, shoe merchant, clothier—in fact, all businesses and professions. A good paying clientele makes for lower prices, because it enables the merchant to buy on better terms and lowers the cost of doing business.

Don't Force Your Merchants to Operate on a Cash Basis

If You Work For Pay You Are a Merchant

AND YOU MUST BE PAID TO CONTINUE GIVING SERVICE

If you work for pay, you are "in business for yourself." Your stock in trade is "Service." This you sell to your employer. As long as he continues to pay you on a certain date, his CREDIT with you is good. But, should he FAIL TO PAY, you would be justified in severing relations with him at once.

The merchant to whom you owe last month's bill is your employe. If you have thoughtlessly neglected his PAY-DAY, isn't he justified in declining to deliver to your home more merchandise?

How is the merchant to continue to give YOU service or merchandise if he hasn't the money to KEEP UP? You couldn't continue to give service to your employer if he neglected YOUR PAY-DAY, could you?

And then there is another very important point you must REMEMBER: If the entire community is prosperous, there are more jobs, more places for you to sell your services. In times of stress EVERY BUSINESS MAN is affected by POOR BUSINESS. Think it over—there is considerable food for thought—and this is the time for SERIOUS THINKING.

Charge Accounts Are Due the First —Payable in Full Before the Tenth

Pay Up if You Want to Keep Your Credit Good!

IMPORTANT

Charge Accounts Are Due on the First and Payable IN FULL BEFORE THE TENTH!

This is not a new rule, merely the enforcement of the understanding the merchant had with you when your account was opened.

This, of course, does not apply to written contracts, installment accounts for which special arrangements are made at the time of purchase, except in the event that they should become delinquent.

YOUR JULY 1ST BILLS

Purchases made during June are due July 1st and payable in full by the 10th. Bills owing for purchases made previous to June 1 are now delinquent.

If the total amount is more than you are able to pay at one time, you should see your creditor and make arrangements for settlement.

THE CREDIT MAN WILL MEET YOU MORE THAN HALF WAY!

You Are Abusing the Courtesy of a Charge Account

PAY UP! KEEP YOUR CREDIT GOOD AND BE ASSURED OF A CHARGE ACCOUNT

Unfortunately, there are many folks who have a wrong idea about a "Charge Account." Some seem to think it a SPECIAL DISPENSATION TO PAY WHEN THEY PLEASE. More often people allow the first and tenth of the month to pass by thoughtlessly, forgetting their responsibilities to those merchants who have been waiting for PAY-DAY.

Credit means confidence. It is the basis for the bulk of the world's business. But for you to think lightly of the confidence YOUR MERCHANT places in YOU is a breach of FAITH. If it were not for a fairly large percentage of buyers who PAY THEIR BILLS PROMPTLY on the first or not later than the tenth of the month, selling costs would be higher, consequently increased retail prices.

When a merchant extends to you the courtesy of a charge account, it is understood that all bills are due and payable between the first and tenth of the month following. Not partly paid—but PAID IN FULL. FORM THE HABIT OF PAYING YOUR BILLS PROMPTLY. You owe it to yourself and to the merchant who has "trusted" you with his merchandise. Demonstrate to the merchant that you have THE RIGHT to a charge account.

Terms of Charge Accounts Will Be Strictly Enforced in the Future

Pay All Monthly Bills in Full Before the 10th of Month

CREDIT RATING BOOK GOES TO PRESS JULY 15

HORNBY RUNS INTO SOME STIFF HURLING

St. Louis Star Suffers Slump But is Still Blazing Trail in National; Heilman Tops American.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis star slugger, who is topping the batters of the National league, went up against some stiff pitching today when the Cardinals battled with eastern invaders, and dropped twelve points off his batting average, according to figures published today which include games of last Wednesday. He was then hitting .467.

Hornsby has passed the century mark for hits, the first member of the Hoyle circuit to do this for this season. He has cracked out 103 for a total of 162 bases, which puts him far in front of his rivals. His hits include sixteen doubles, ten triples and seven homers.

Pep Young of New York, who is in sixth position among the batters who have participated in 40 or more games, has advanced to second place with an average of .367, while Melchior, the Cardinal outfielder, though dropping 11 points, remains third with .351.

When George Kelly of New York banged out a homer during the week, he raised his total to ten, just one behind Muesel of Philadelphia, who led off to him in his string of eleven.

Max Carey, the fleet-footed Pittsburgh outfielder, and Frank Frisch of New York are having a neck and neck race for stolen base honors. Each added four to his string and again they are tied with 17 each.

Other leading batters: Roush, Cincinnati, .359; Grinnam, Philadelphia, .354; Grinnam, Chicago, .354; Mann, St. Louis, .354; Fournier, St. Louis, .353; Maravalle, Pittsburgh, .351; Cuthaw, Pittsburgh, .347.

Babe Ruth, the home run king, has recovered from his setback last week at the hands of Dick Kerr of the White Sox. He drove out five circuit hits the past week and brought his total up to 25. However, Ruth did not fare so well as regards averages, his batting figures showing a drop of 6 points to .345.

Ruth has made 29 hits for a total of 97 bases, and also leads in runs scored, having registered 78 times for the New York club. He has cracked out twenty-doubles and seven triples.

Harry Heilman, the Detroit slugger, who is leading the men who have played in 40 or more games, has been hitting the ball with some regularity. Heilman has boosted his average to .418; Tris Speaker, pilot of the Cleveland Indians, also made up some of the ground he lost a couple of weeks ago and is the runner-up to Heilman with an average of .408.

Other leading batters: Veach, Detroit, .343; Severid, St. Louis, .338; Williams, St. Louis, .335; Collins, Chicago, .333; Tobin, St. Louis, .332; Ellis, Detroit, .329; Chaffery, Washington, .314.

Russell, the former White Sox pitcher who is working in the outfield for Mississippi in the American association, is making a strong bid for batting honors in President Hickey's circuit, with an average of .378. Russell has scored into a tie with Kirke of Louisville for second place among batters who have participated in 40 or more games.

Butler of Kansas City continues at the head of the regulars with an average of .481, while Gaiser who was the runner-up a week ago, now stands five points behind Russell and Kirke with .376.

Russell also leads in runs and home runs in the Western league the past week and broke the tie he shared a week ago with Bicknell, teammate, who failed to keep up the pace. Beck's total-circuit drives stand at 15.

Harper of Oklahoma City strengthened his hold on first place honors among the batters by adding twelve points to his average. He is hitting .482, according to the figures released today, which include games of last Tuesday; these averages are for players who have participated in 40 or more games. Jack Levitt of Omaha also got back into his stride again.

John's Lead Threatened. Although outstruck in the matter of runs on percentage by both Lefty Johns and Bugs Tate of Fort Worth, the lead is threatened by Hollingsworth, a spudder rookie, who has won his nine consecutive games and is still going strong. Johns is the only Texas Leaguer with thirteen wins to his credit.

Oddly enough, the record for the most hits in a nine-inning game was set on the opening day of the present season, when Dallas and Wichita Falls, between them, compiled 21. Twice this season Texas League teams have made 21 hits in nine innings.

Table with columns: Player, Club, G, AB, R, H, A, E, BA. Lists statistics for various players like Babe Ruth, etc.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Babe Ruth checked out two homers today, bringing his total up to 26 for the season. The first was clouted in the seventh inning of the first game with Boston, the other was made in the first inning of the second game.

boosting his mark to .469 for runners-up honors, with East of Wichita third with .464.

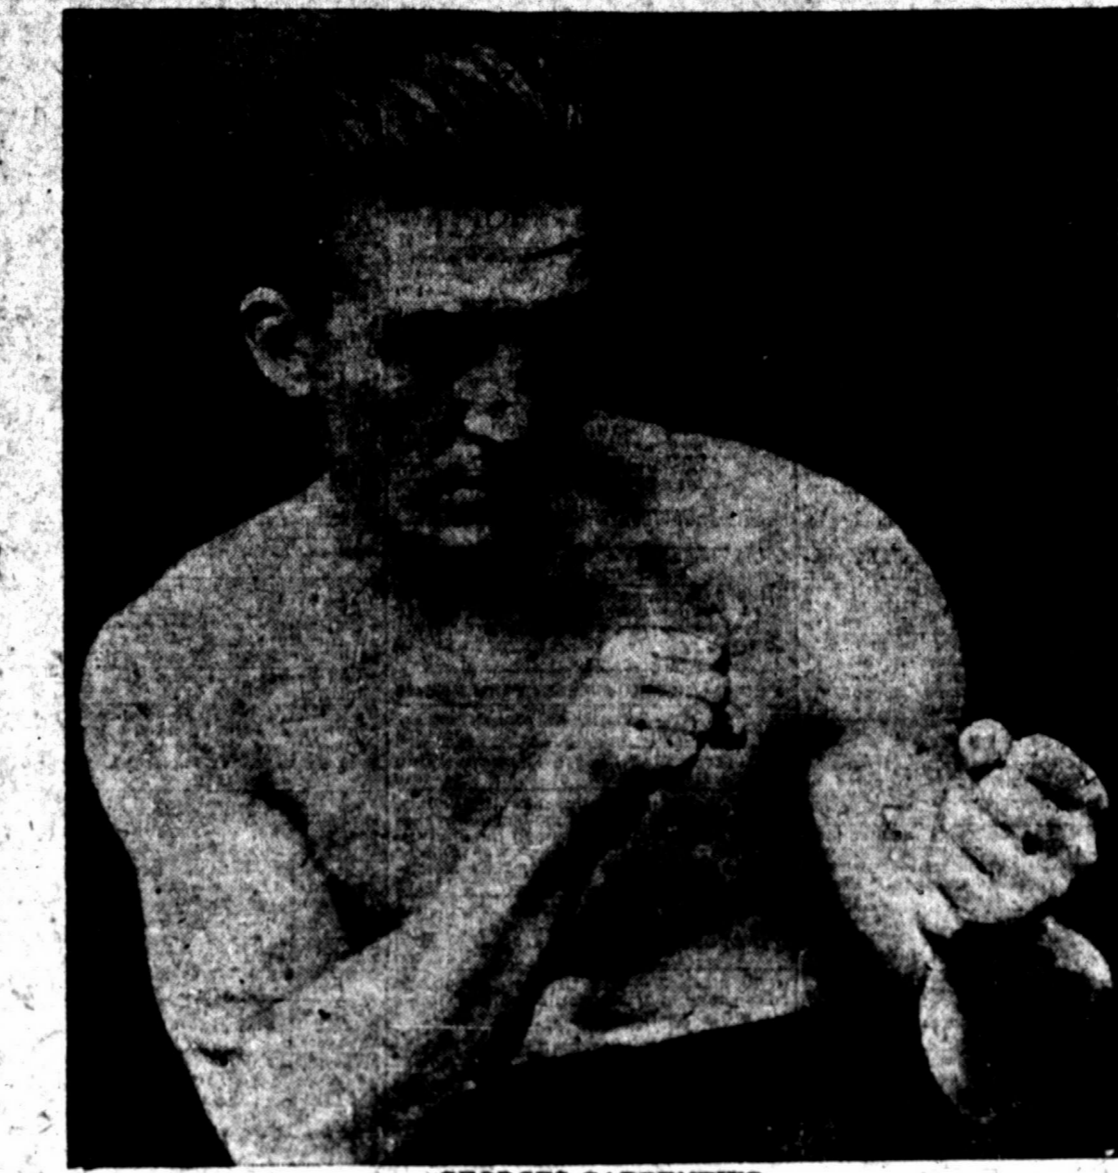

Other leading batters: Beck, Wichita, .464; Massey, Omaha, .453; Todd, Tulsa, .357; Paddock, Sioux City, .353; O'Connor, Des Moines, .353; Fisher, St. Joseph, .350; Glasgow, Omaha, .341.

McMillan of Memphis went on a batting rampage in the Southern association during the past week and moved up among the leaders in President Martin's circuit. I. M. Boone of New Orleans continued to top the batters who have participated in 40 or more games, according to the averages released today, which include last Tuesday's game with Orleans slugger Birmingham the runner-up with .464 and Don Brown of Little Rock one point behind with .463.

Traylor added another stolen base to his record and is settling the pace with 21 thefts. Denison of Birmingham and Tutwiler of Mobile failed to stretch out their home run totals, and remained tied with nine each.

Other leading batters: McLary, Memphis, .459; Harper, Little Rock, .458; Hollibaugh, Nashville, .457; McMillan, Memphis, .449; Griffith, New Orleans, .349; Burke, Nashville, .348; Huntington, Memphis, .337; Gilbert, New Orleans, .335; Bernsch, Birmingham, .333.

The Vanquished

GEORGES CARPENTIER

Description of Fight By Rounds

By HENRY L. PARRELL, United Press Staff Correspondent.

Round One. Carpentier walked straight into the champion and sent a left to the body and a right to the head. The Frenchman then shot a light right to the head. There was a flurry of close fighting in which neither landed and they went into another clinch. Carpentier uppercut to the chin with left and then jabbed a straight to the chin. The Frenchman was doing the leading and Dempsy stepped back until the other clinch. With his right hand free, Dempsy pounded the back of Carpentier's head with short snappy rights; the crowd yelling "Stop that rabbit!"

Round Two. Carpentier stepped back and missed with his right and slipped through the ropes. Dempsy stepped back until the Frenchman was free from the ropes and in a fighting position, Carpentier landed a right to the face that staggered and shouted Dempsy's name. The bell, it was Dempsy's round.

Round Three. Carpentier came out of his corner, apparently advised by his seconds to continue with his left and went into a clinch. On the break, Carpentier danced away and then landed a hard right to the head. They clinched and he first jumped up and down in his excitement. The crowd went up a tremendous roar. Many of the spectators thought they were witnessing the return of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. Every available neck and corner within hearing of the Times building was occupied and traffic was suspended in order that the crowd might hear the news.

Round Four. Carpentier's tactics were different in this round. Apparently he had been told to discard the plan of slugging and try to wear the champion down by cutting him down with his hands. He came more confident when Carpentier danced away. The champion landed a hard right to the head, but it was not the effect he hoped for. Dempsy split his cheek with a short right. The peril had passed. Carpentier, evidently losing heart when Dempsy weathered the best he could send, retreated. They were in a clinch when the song sounded.

Round Five. Carpentier's tactics were different in this round. Apparently he had been told to discard the plan of slugging and try to wear the champion down by cutting him down with his hands. He came more confident when Carpentier danced away. The champion landed a hard right to the head, but it was not the effect he hoped for. Dempsy split his cheek with a short right. The peril had passed. Carpentier, evidently losing heart when Dempsy weathered the best he could send, retreated. They were in a clinch when the song sounded.

Round Six. Carpentier stepped back and missed with his right and slipped through the ropes. Dempsy stepped back until the Frenchman was free from the ropes and in a fighting position, Carpentier landed a right to the face that staggered and shouted Dempsy's name. The bell, it was Dempsy's round.

Round Seven. Carpentier came out of his corner, apparently advised by his seconds to continue with his left and went into a clinch. Round Eight. Carpentier's tactics were different in this round. Apparently he had been told to discard the plan of slugging and try to wear the champion down by cutting him down with his hands. He came more confident when Carpentier danced away. The champion landed a hard right to the head, but it was not the effect he hoped for. Dempsy split his cheek with a short right. The peril had passed. Carpentier, evidently losing heart when Dempsy weathered the best he could send, retreated. They were in a clinch when the song sounded.

Round Nine. Carpentier's tactics were different in this round. Apparently he had been told to discard the plan of slugging and try to wear the champion down by cutting him down with his hands. He came more confident when Carpentier danced away. The champion landed a hard right to the head, but it was not the effect he hoped for. Dempsy split his cheek with a short right. Round Ten. Carpentier's tactics were different in this round. Apparently he had been told to discard the plan of slugging and try to wear the champion down by cutting him down with his hands. He came more confident when Carpentier danced away. The champion landed a hard right to the head, but it was not the effect he hoped for. Dempsy split his cheek with a short right. The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

THE DAY AFTER. The tumult and the clatter, the top of the moon, the light of the stars, the glow of the dawn, the glow of the dawn, the glow of the dawn.

WILLARD AND GIBSON. All this sultry while Jess Willard is supposed to be quietly getting ready for a return engagement with Jack Dempsey on Labor Day.

NEW YORK AND THE PENNANT. New York has an entry pursuing each pennant in the two leagues, but neither has been able to establish any clear claim to the top with Cleveland and Pittsburgh having been successful in the past.

NOT QUITE THROUGH. There seemed to be a general opinion last fall that George Sisler was definitely established at the top with Cobb and Speaker fading into the twilight under the weight of passing years.

RECAPTURE A CUP. The British open championship cup is on its way to these neighboring shores. But the open championship cup of the United States is still held by a British subject, and while Ray will not return to defend his prize, he will be ably represented by the American team.

When Misses Leitch and Lengler reach the United States we may have to go in for female conscription if the invasion is to be repelled without a fight. The opposition sex than the pair, but no woman eye has ever seen them take to the field and court.

Victor and Vanquished Express Sentiments. Carpentier and wrote her the following telegram: "Mrs. M. C. Dempsey, 3172 South High Street, Salt Lake City, Utah. Dear mother, you are in the fourth round. Received your letter and was home soon as possible. Love and kisses."

JERSEY CITY, July 7.—Carpentier is a good game fellow, but I think I've got it on him," Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, remarked as he entered his dressing room after the fight.

CREAM OF BRITISH COLLEGE ATHLETES COMING TO AMERICA. The teams and the events in which they will compete are: Oxford, half-mile; W. R. Milligan, half and mile; L. St. Ingram, long jump; A. B. Reese, weight; M. G. Nokes, hammer; F. Partridge, hurdles; M. Waterhouse, three miles, and J. N. C. Ford, general reserve.

Football Training at Texas Univ. to Start September 10. Austin, Texas, July 7.—Practically all Texas football players, who showed promise of ability on the team for next season, are eligible to play this fall because of satisfactory scholastic averages.

By EDWARD HULLINGER. United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS, July 2.—Mrs. Georges Carpentier, chin quavering, and tears starting from her eyes, heard from the United Press tonight that her husband had been defeated by Jack Dempsey.

BILL TILDEN STILL CHAMPION OF WORLD

WIMBLETON, July 2.—William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, world's singles tennis champion, after a hard battle today in the championship of the British turf court tournament retained his title by defeating the youthful South African, B. J. C. Norton, by a score of 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5.

BLACK SPIDERS MEET BLACK MARINES TODAY

The Dallas Black Marines and the Wichita Black Spiders will lock horns at Athletic Park today, Monday and Tuesday. The local team, which has displayed some great baseball thus far this season, has been strengthened by the addition of two new pitchers and a catcher and the present series with the Dallas outfit promises to be the greatest of the season. Today's game will start at 3:30.

TODAY'S GAME AT FORT WORTH WILL START AT 3 P. M.

Today's game at the Airdome between the Spiders and Marines will be called at 3 o'clock and according to a wire received by Stoecker Bros. last night, more interest has been shown by local fans in this series than any series in which the Wichita team has participated, despite the fact that many of the "regular" Airdome fans have gone to Fort Worth.

RAID NETS OFFICERS A LARGE QUANTITY BOOZE

EL PASO, July 2.—One hundred ounces of morphine, valued on the illicit market at nearly $30,000, according to officials, 42 gallons of alcohol and 185 quarts of whiskey were seized and three men arrested in separate raids by federal agents here today. The morphine seizure was said to be the largest ever made on the Texas-Mexican border.

WHEN DEMPSEY SLIPPED BETWEEN SHEETS LAST NIGHT HE FINISHED THE GREATEST DAY OF HIS LIFE

By United Press. JERSEY CITY, July 2.—When Jack Dempsey slipped between the sheets tonight and finished the greatest day of his life. It wasn't the victory over Carpentier, it wasn't the three hundred thousand smackera, He expected those. It was the swirling torrent of cheers that rose from the throats of thousands who wanted him—the well-meaning Dempsey boy who didn't go to war because he couldn't throw down a pal—they wanted him to win.

BAYLOR UNIVERSITY MAN BREAKS RECORDS

FADDOCK FIELD, PASADENA, CAL., July 2.—New junior championship records were no novelty in the first day of the national A. A. U. meet here, in which the contestants were athletes who had never taken first prize in any senior A. A. U. meet. The first record to fall went to Frazier of Baylor university, who set a mark of 15-1/2 seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles, clipping off one-fifth of a second from the former record. Frazier also won the 220-yard hurdles, making a new record of 24-2/5 seconds, four-fifths of a second less than the former junior record five years ago.

JACK DEMPSEY GUEST OF NEW YORK FRIENDS

NEW YORK, July 2.—Jack Dempsey tonight was the guest of friends who helped him celebrate the successful defense of his title. The champion went from the arena to the home of Wm. C. Heppelheimer in Jersey City, where he spent Friday night. There he was entertained at an informal dinner which was attended by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Mayor Eider of Atlantic City and a few intimate friends of the boxer.

THREE GOOD NET MATCHES SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY

Three of the best matches in the local tennis championship tournament are to be staged on the Spencer courts Monday afternoon between Bill Poynter and Henry senior A. A. U. meet here, in which the contestants were athletes who had never taken first prize in any senior A. A. U. meet. The first record to fall went to Frazier of Baylor university, who set a mark of 15-1/2 seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles, clipping off one-fifth of a second from the former record. Frazier also won the 220-yard hurdles, making a new record of 24-2/5 seconds, four-fifths of a second less than the former junior record five years ago.

OFFICER THREATENS COURT ACTION FOR NON-WEED CUTTING

Weed cutting on private property is not progressing rapidly enough to suit Tom Taylor, city sanitary inspector, and drastic measures are to be taken if the unweeded vegetation is not removed in short order. Tom has exhausted his patience and the English vocabulary in explaining to offending real estate holders the necessity of cutting the weeds, and he now proposes to foot away no more time with them, even if he has to put them in court.

Wichita Falls can't keep up its looks so let's get busy and cut all the weeds we can find.

Poor Man Is Out Of Place In New Arctic Oil District

EDMONTON, ALTA, July 2.—If you are thinking of adventuring to the Fort Norman oil fields, think a long time before you start. That's the warning of Theodore A. Link, a geologist and pioneer explorer of the Mackenzie river basin.

The country is a frozen wilderness a thousand miles from nowhere, according to Link. It is dotted with infrequent posts of the Hudson's Bay company, now closing out its rich lands in the prairie province to farm settlers, and has always been regarded as worthless except as for its wealth in furs.

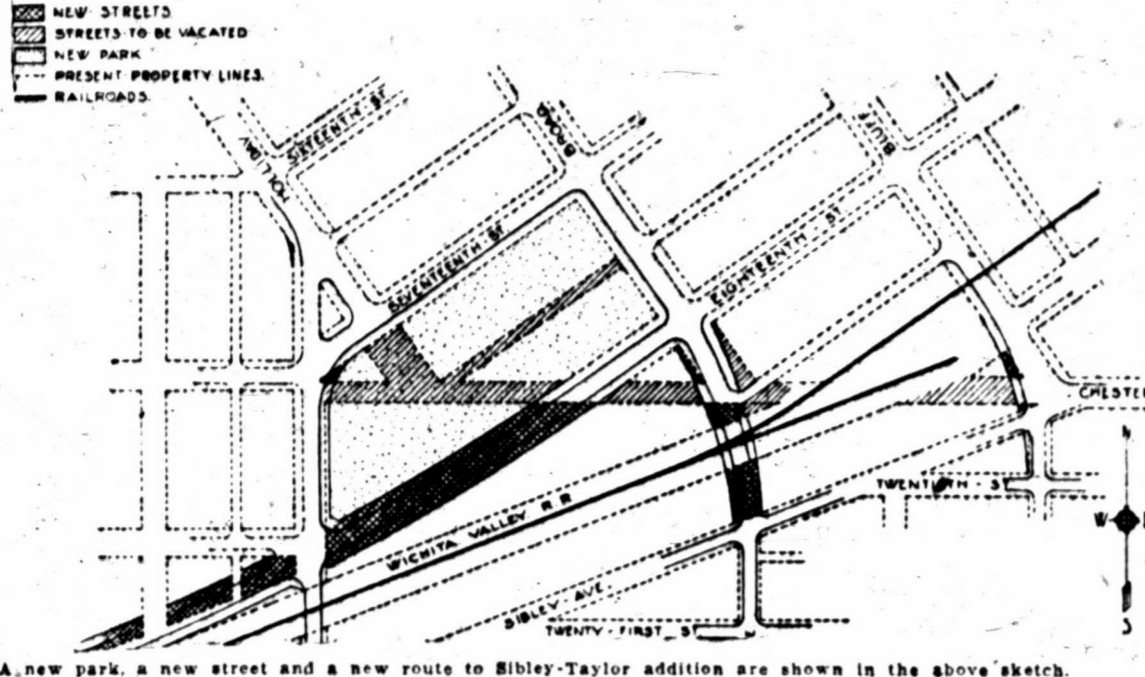

"Before a railroad or pipe line is built into the region," said Link, "an output of 30,000 barrels a day must be assured. There is only one well there now. Its output is 1,500 barrels a day. To drill it cost $150,000 and it took seven months to get the machinery in. To sink enough wells to insure 30,000 barrels a day would cost several million dollars, to say nothing of the time it will take to ship in the machinery. The building of a pipe line will cost $50,000,000. A railroad will cost $20,000 a mile.

"There may be a bonanza field on the Mackenzie or there may not. One well does not prove it. The Imperial Oil company is preparing to sink three more wells to test out the field. But even if there is plenty of oil there, hundreds of thousands of dollars must be expended before the field can be put on a paying basis. A few investors may get rich, but a little army of men will be broke. Hunting for oil in that country is not a job for a poor man."

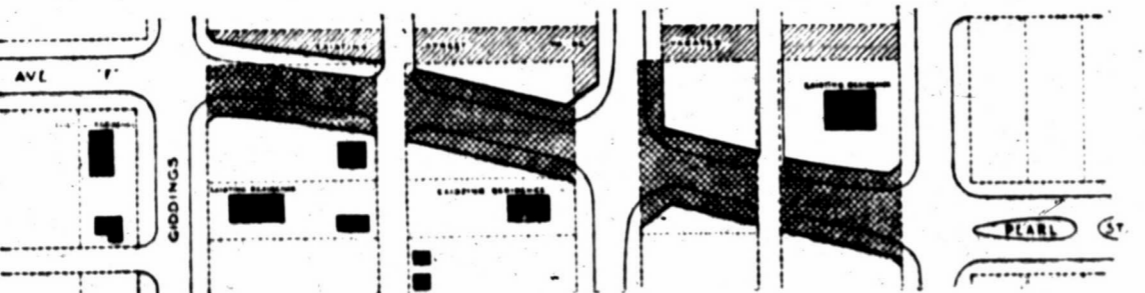

Link and John Ziemann started their geological explorations 30 miles from Fort Norman. They went into country never before seen by a white man. They flourished through windfall and muskox swarms. They climbed mountains 3,000 feet high. Black flies and mosquitoes enveloped them in clouds. Within the Arctic Circle the blazing heat of the sun almost prostrated them. They almost swamped in crossing Great Slave lake. Again they nearly lost their lives in shooting Smith's rapids.

"If you've got plenty of money," advised Link, "you can take a chance up there. But if you haven't, you'd better get out."

How Kessler Plan Provides New Streets and Eliminates Dangerous Corner

A new park, a new street and a new route to Bibley-Taylor addition are shown in the above sketch.

The extension of Pearl, as shown here, would open a new route to the new high school.

Some of the minor features of the J. E. Kessler city plan for Wichita Falls are shown in the accompanying sketches. These are by no means all of the suggestions offered by Mr. Kessler for street changes, but they are some of the more interesting.

The top sketch shows Mr. Kessler's plan for the rearrangement of the section in the vicinity of Seventeenth and Holliday. The large tract, now vacant, just south of Seventeenth, would be enlarged by the closing up of the streets bordering it, while Eighteenth street would be extended through it, to join with the Wichita Valley right of way along which Mr. Kessler thinks there ought to be a new road to the factory district.

Adoption of this plan would provide a park or playground in a section of the city where there is not anything of the sort at present, and it would not close up any useful streets. This plan also calls for the opening of Broad street so as to connect with Bibley Taylor addition, a project which the city council already has in hand, and in the consummation of which it is preparing to condemn some intervening property.

The second sketch shows the Kessler plan for extending Pearl street so as to connect with Floral Heights. Mr. Kessler did not know when he prepared this plan, that the new high school site was to be in that vicinity, but the selection of that site, of course, enhances the importance of cutting the new street as suggested. The black portions of the sketch indicate the tract between Huff and Elizabeth, as a playground site. The same sketch also shows the proposed extension of Tyler street southward to a connection with Giddings avenue. As the new high school will probably be reached by a car line down Tyler and Giddings, the proposed change in the streets is a timely one.

Mr. Kessler's proposal for the intersection of Ninth and Brook making a wider crossing and eliminating sharp corners, was adopted by the city when Brook was paved, though not all features of the plan were utilized. Mr. Kessler believes that this intersection will eventually be one of the most important in the city, and he urged provision for double track carline, with ample roadway on each side.

Mr. Kessler's plans provide, among other things, for widening the intersection of Eleventh and Brook, where there is now an awkward turn.

THREE BIG REALTY DEALS REPORTED AT CLARENDON

CLARENDON, TEXAS, July 1.—Three real estate deals of good size were made here the past week. The first was the sale of his home by E. W. Grogan when that passed to the hands of Mark Kelly. The consideration was $12,750. The second deal was between Joe Williams and E. W. Grogan; this was the sale of a section of land, the consideration was almost $2,000. The third deal between J. W. McQueen and Mrs. D. L. McClelland was an exchange of homes, the value exchanged being $4,500.

I THANK YOU!

Through your patronage and confidence I have just closed the most successful sale I have ever conducted.

I hope no one has been disappointed. I have tried to please everybody. If I have failed to do so, I stand ready to adjust anything that you may be displeased with. I have built my business on the right principles. I want to continue doing business the same way until "some day" "Saul's Store" will be the pride of Wichita Falls, the "John Wannamaker" of New York, the Marshall Field" of Chicago or "Sanger Bros.," of Dallas. (I hope so, anyway.)

"Merchandising" is an art to me! A kind of "sport" like fishing, hunting and baseball is to other sportsmen!

I like merchandising on a big scale, that's my sport and fun! Putting over a big sale and watching the folks run after Saul's bargains, that's the excitement and sport I like. Folks, just wait till I get over to my new place, I'll be better prepared then to show you what I mean by "Merchandising the Saul's Way."

Very gratefully yours,

SAUL LEBENSON.

Prop. of "Saul's Store."

SEYMOUR PLANS TO BREAK ALL RECORDS

Stage is Set For Most Extensive Celebration in History of That City.

SEYMOUR, TEXAS, July 2.—The stage is being set for perhaps one of the greatest celebrations held in this city for many years on July 4 and 5. Already decorations of public and business houses are in progress and the national colors are in evidence in every direction.

The big celebration will be set in motion at 8:30 on the morning of the 4th by a gigantic parade over the city of decorated floats and automobiles, prizes being offered for those making the most artistic showing.

Seymour has a magnificent park comprising more than 100 acres in which is located ball park and grand stand, race course, swimming pool, shady and cozy resting places for those who desire to take their ease and rest and many contrivances with which the children may play and interest themselves. In this park promptly at 2:30 p. m. of the Fourth Hon. J. A. Wheat will deliver an address of welcome from the grandstand while Donnell Dickson will afterwards entertain the visitors with a patriotic address.

Then will follow beginning at 10 o'clock, the big and busy events of the immense rodeo which has been staged its program being interspersed through both days of the celebration. There will be bull riding, goat bucking, broncho and calf riding, horse races and boys' pony races with prizes in all of the contests. A swimming contest will also feature the first day and the best and fastest swimmers and highest divers will be rewarded and receive their pay at the proper time.

The second day of the celebration will feature a real feed. Many fat heifers and young steers will be slaughtered here, the barbecue which will be held in fair park and there is not a peradventure of a doubt but that all will be fed to their stomach's content.

Preparations have been made on a big scale and real big Western hospitality for the entertainment of the many visitors who are coming on this occasion. At this time work will cease, the glad throngs will be put on and Seymour will entertain as she has never entertained before.

MANGUM MAKING SOME VALUABLE IMPROVEMENTS

MANGUM, OKLA., July 2.—Mangum is making some improvements in the way of several new roads. Work is progressing on the $200,000 paving contract for paving the business section. Some of the business streets will be paved as soon as the funds for the business district. The new high school and city auditorium building is rapidly nearing completion and will be a valuable addition to the town. A concrete mainline has been completed at Powers park a beautiful supply of water being obtained from the old ice plant.

GREATER EFFICIENCY IS KEYNOTE OF FOUR PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION ON JULY 23

Five important amendments to the state constitution will be voted upon at a state election called for July 23. Fixing a pay for state officials, legislators and Confederate pensioners, abolition of the board of prison commissioners, and simplification of poll tax procedure are the questions to be submitted.

Each of the amendments has passed both houses of the legislature by a two-thirds majority, and none has any organized opposition. There is the usual danger, however, that obtains in all constitutional elections, that indifference of the voters will permit them to be defeated, as a certain percentage of Texas voters oppose all amendments to the constitution, regardless of merit.

The first amendment on the ballot is that abolishing the board of prison commissioners. At present there are three of these commissioners, and it was the belief of the legislators that a more efficient and economical system of management can be obtained than is possible under the present arrangement. The amendment leaves the legislature free to devise a system suited to its needs.

Pay of Officials. The second amendment provides for higher pay for the governor, attorney general, treasurer, comptroller and land commissioner. The amendment does not fix the amounts to be paid these officials, but provides the following maximum amounts: Governor, $8,000; attorney general, $7,500; treasurer, comptroller, land commissioner and secretary of state, $5,000. The legislature is empowered to fix the salaries of these officials at less than the amounts indicated, if it deems best.

At present, the governor receives $4,000 a year, the attorney general $4,000, the secretary of state $2,000 and other state officials $2,500. These amounts were fixed by the constitution adopted about 50 years ago, and considering the duties and responsibilities of the officials, are entirely out of line. Living expenses have about tripled since 1870, and the governor of Texas is now the poorest paid executive in the United States, with one or two exceptions. Men of the ability that the state ought to have in these responsible positions could be employed in private life, for even the amounts set by the amendment.

The third amendment provides for a seven cent tax for pensions, instead of the present five cent tax. The present tax is not sufficient to provide in comfort for Confederate veterans and their widows, and the nominal increase which the amendment carries will enable the state to pay a debt of which the state ought to have in these responsible positions could be employed in private life, for even the amounts set by the amendment.

Pay of Legislators. The fourth amendment is one that is subject to misunderstanding if not read carefully. It provides that the regular session of the legislature shall continue for 120 days, with one to exceed $10 per day per legislator. After 125 days the pay would be $5 a day. At present the legislators draw $5 per day for 60 days, and $2 a day thereafter. In special sessions they draw $5 a day. It has been found impossible to complete the necessary work of the legislature within the 60-day period, and the legislators, being human, have made it a rule to adjourn at the end of that time instead of continuing to work at $2 per day, a rate which is ridiculously low.

With a 120-day regular session, the legislature could obviate the necessity for the numerous and expensive called sessions which are now a feature of every administration. The present rate of $5 a day is so low, considering living expenses, that a man of moderate means can hardly afford to serve his community as a legislator. There would seem to be every argument in favor of this amendment, and there is little reason to believe that it would increase the cost of legislative sessions. Certainly it would tend to make for more efficient service.

The last amendment on the ballot makes some very desirable election law changes.

In the first place, it requires that foreign born residents shall be fully naturalized before they can vote. At present a newly arrived foreigner can declare his intention of becoming naturalized, that is, take out his "first papers" and can then vote, hold office and otherwise exercise the rights of citizenship. It required a world war to wake Texans up to the menace of such a situation, but aside from any question of disloyalty, the amendment provides an incentive for a foreigner to become fully naturalized. Where a foreigner could vote without becoming fully naturalized, there was no reason why he should hasten to take out his second papers, and he usually put it off from year to year and quite often died without completing the naturalization process.

New Voting Provisions. When the legislature passed the law permitting women to vote in democratic primaries, it provided a rather strict naturalization rule for them. The result was that women who were natives of Texas, but who had married foreigners not fully naturalized, could not vote. The writer knows of one or two instances where the husband took out his final papers in a hurry when this feature of the law was discovered.

A second feature of the fifth amendment simply applies a little common sense to the election law. At present in a city of 10,000 population or over, each individual wishing to vote must pay his or her poll tax in person. The amendment provides that the husband or wife can get a poll tax receipt for the other, regardless of the size of the community.

A third feature of the fifth amendment permits "absentee voting." This is now allowed in the primary, the law providing that a voter who will be absent from his home precinct on primary election day can, under certain restrictions, cast his vote before he leaves home. The amendment would extend this privilege to general elections. The chances of fraud are reduced to a minimum by the safeguards provided by law, and traveling men and others would no longer be practically disfranchised.

COLLECTORS PLAN SPECIAL DRIVE ON DELINQUENT TAXES

A special drive against all delinquent taxpayers, with the exception of income tax, is to be started Tuesday, July 6, by internal revenue collectors stationed over the entire country, according to announcements from the local office Saturday. The income tax list has been cared for during the last three months, and the checking up campaign, now to be launched is against all forms of special taxes.

Luxury, excise, amusements, motion picture films, service car licenses, documentary stamp taxes and some half-dozen others are included in the list to be investigated.

Six deputies are now stationed at the local office, Henry Wampler, head of the department, stated Saturday morning.

A similar campaign is to be launched over the whole nation, it is said, all starting next Tuesday.

ROAD MACHINERY ON ELECTRA ROAD HAS BEEN MOVED AND SET

All the road machinery of Potts & Frenchie has been moved and reset on the Electra road. The moving was done during the past week and everything is in readiness to begin the work of laying concrete from Iowa Park through Electra to the Wilbarger county line.

A portion of the track used in hauling the concrete from the mixers has not been laid as yet, but will be placed during the coming week so that operations can be begun on Monday morning, July 11.

A large amount of material is on hand and Saturday morning 30 cars of stone were in transit and the sand pit has been loading and sending out cars every day for the past week. The cement is on hand.

Some Views of a Park System That Is Rapidly Becoming a Great Civic Asset

The upper left-hand picture shows the tennis courts in Bellevue park, where local net and racket fans are to be found at almost every hour of the day.

The middle left-hand picture shows the triangular park in Floral Heights on Tenth between Buchanan and Girard. Not long ago this was a rather unsightly vacant tract, but it has been converted into one of the city's most attractive breathing spots.

The lower left-hand picture and the picture adjoining it on the right were taken in Huff-McGregor park, which has been transformed into as pretty and pleasant spot as the city affords.

The upper-middle picture shows in Scotland park, the ample shade and room that an ideal park requires. Swings, camp cooking ranges, benches and a pavilion afford nearly every convenience to picnickers.

The upper right-hand picture shows one of the small triangles on Tenth street. A little road house has been constructed and other improvements installed, to make it a diminutive, but pleasing beauty spot.

The two lower right-hand pictures show additional features of Bellevue park, which has become the most popular of the city's breathing spaces. The lower picture shows how the children are taking to the simple but fun-producing playground equipment installed by the park board.

A systematic program of park improvement was inaugurated early this year by the city park board and has resulted in making real parks out of the several tracts that were available for that purpose. A large force of men has been kept at work and a considerable sum expended to make the parks all that they should be and those who visit the parks know what success has been attained.

Bellevue park, the oldest park in the city, and for many years the despair of civic organizations that tried to beautify it, has now come into its own.

Plenty of playground equipment has been installed for the children and tennis courts for grown-ups, and it is every action that the park board are not aware of what this park affords as it is rather off the traveled routes, but it is well worth a visit.

Huff-McGregor park, situated in a section where there is real need of a park, has been a recreation center for hundreds of children. The park has all been improved along lines designed to make them both attractive and useful.

Bellevue park, neglected for many years, is now a mighty attractive picnic spot. For one thing it has plenty of shade, big cottonwood trees giving steel commanded a high price at that time. The state's injunction, however, blocked the tearing up of the road until now, when the steel cannot be handled nearly so profitably.

TAKING UP OF SOUTHWESTERN RAILWAY TO BE LAST CHAPTER IN HISTORY OF UNIQUE LINE

The recent decision of Judge Wilson of the federal court, dissolving the injunction that prevented the junking of the Southwestern railway from Henrietta to Archer City, will result in the probable early removal of one of the southwest's most unusual railroad projects.

The road was started in 1907 and was first constructed from Henrietta to Scotland, in Archer county. In 1910 it was extended to Archer City.

Henry J. Scott, a wealthy Canadian, was the builder of the road. He owned considerable land in the territory traversed by the railroad, and in inducing farmers to settle on it, he promised that railroad facilities would be provided.

Several wealthy Henrietta citizens joined with him in constructing the road, but later these sold their interests to Scott. When the road was first projected, construction of the Wichita Falls & Southern to Archer City was getting under way, and the Southwestern's promoters made some overtures to Frank Kell and associates, as a railroad from Wichita Falls would fulfill their obligation to the land buyers as well as one from Henrietta.

Mr. Kell was unwilling to change his plans, as a road to the Scotland neighborhood would have necessitated abandonment of the plan to build to Archer City. Scott and associates dickered with Archer City business men at the same time that the latter were lending encouragement to the Southern and the Archerites finally decided to pin their faith to Wichita Falls.

The Southern was built through Archer City to Newcastle and the Southwestern was constructed to Scotland, which remained its terminus until 1919, when the road was extended to Archer City.

Service on the road was rather primitive. There were no cattle guards, and the conductor got off and opened the gate at points where the right of way entered a fenced enclosure. The road confined its equipment purchases in such rolling stock as was absolutely necessary, and its needs were not great.

Independence Day Celebration Has Early Start Here

With Independence day only 24 hours away, fireworks have made their appearance on the streets and in store display windows, to the great delight of the small boy and the equal discomfiture of the adult. Although not officially scheduled to arrive until midnight Sunday, the Fourth is being celebrated prematurely in practically every section of the city.

Several complaints have been received about the racket caused by groups of youngsters who hang around popular street corners and near groceries and drug stores in the residential districts, but the police have not seen fit to interfere, and the celebrations have gone on. According to officials, there are no ordinances which prohibit the firing of salutes and other noise-making contraptions before the Fourth, and because of this they are powerless to act.

FIRE DEPARTMENT MAKES RUN TO NON-RESIDENT ADDRESS

The central station fire department went on parade again Saturday noon when an alarm from the "2000 block" on Pluff street was turned in. After traveling half a mile into the country south of town they concluded there was no such location so turned around and parked themselves back in the city hall.

"PECK'S BAD BOY" FEATURES STRONG BILL AT STRAND THEATER THIS WEEK

A cast that can well be termed "A star" will be seen when "Peck's Bad Boy" starring Jackie Coogan, arrives at the Strand on Thursday for a three-day run. Jackie needs little introduction to the film lovers of the world, for he was Charlie Chaplin's inspiration for the now famous "The Kid" in which he played the little boy. Needless to say, Jackie portrays the title role in "Peck's Bad Boy," and those who have seen the picture state that in it he displays all the artistic ability that was found in the first of his famous productions.

Besides Jackie there are a large number of other talented stars appearing in the production. Doris May, who appeared as leading lady for Charles Ray and Douglas McLean, Wheeler Oakman, leading man for Priscilla Dean and a prominent screen figure the nation over, Raymond and Charles Hatton, Lillian Leighton and Gloria Wood, all having important parts.

"Peck's Bad Boy" was directed by Sam Wood and was adapted for the screen from the famous novel of the same name. Irvin S. Cobb wrote the titles and has injected much of the humor for which he is justly famous. The picture is released by Associated First National Pictures company.

The first three days of the week at the Strand will also offer a new and absorbing cinema tale, "Keeping Up With Lizzie," which is End Bennett's latest release. The picture presents the star in a role that is entirely different from any she has essayed in the past, and it is also said to be especially fitted for her talents. An absorbing story, excellent direction, a strong cast and expert photography have all been combined to make this one of the most interesting productions of the year.

On Wednesday morning the Parent-Teacher's association will present "Betsy Ross" and "Sinbad" for the children of the city.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD FOR MAJESTIC THEATER; KEENAN HART AND FARNUM STAR

A busy week seems to be in store for the Majestic theater, for one of the strongest picture lineups which it has obtained for some time has been secured for the benefit of local movie bugs.

Frank Keenan, the veteran and ever popular star, who has been one of the screen's outstanding figures for years, will open the week with "Mother of Mine," appearing in one of his later productions, "Honor Thy Name." This star has always appeared to greatest advantage in productions which require physical stamina, as well as a high degree of dramatic ability, and all these factors are included in "Honor Thy Name." A strong supporting cast appears with him.

Tuesday brings William S. Hart in "The Poppy Girl's Husband," which is another of his more or less well known westerns, which is a very popular and profitable picture. Wednesday and Thursday show presentation honors of Zane Grey's famous story, "Riders of the Purple Sage." This latter picture has been shown here before and made a distinct hit with local admirers of the movie art. It has all the action necessary to satisfy the most exciting, while at the same time has the romance which is an essential to all present day pictures.

William Duncan in "Fighting Pat" will also make his regular appearance on these two days.

The week will closed Friday and Saturday with Franklin Farnum in "Straight From the Shoulder," and a Harold Lloyd comedy, "Number Please." Both of these stars are too well known to require any comment.

ANNIVERSARY MIDNIGHT MATINEE AT THE OLYMPIC

Anniversary week, which the Olympic theater is to start celebrating tomorrow, will be started off with a whoop at 12:01 tonight, when one of the popular midnight matinees gets into action. These nocturnal periods of fun and frolic have proven exceedingly popular with the moving picture public of the city, and as such an one has not been held for several months it is expected that a record crowd will be on hand when the doors are opened.

A program of more than ordinary interest will be provided, as an old fashioned show with an old fashioned picture, old fashioned music and a good old fashioned time will be held at first, followed by a modern up-to-date presentation of a modern up-to-date picture.

Mary Pickford in a 10-year-old two-reel comedy drama, "Mr. Burglar, M.D." will be the initial showing, while Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayers and Theodore Roberts in "Too Much Speed" will be presented as the main attraction.

A special added feature will be a vocal solo by Miss Virginia Hotchkiss, Cadman's "At Dawning" being her selection.

Sir John Oldcastle was the first author among the British nobility. Iron forms the chief coloring matter of clay and sand.

PRISCILLA DEAN IN "REPUTATION" AT THE EMPRESS 3 DAYS THIS WEEK

OLYMPIC OFFERS UNIQUE PROGRAMS AND BIG PRODUCTIONS FOR COMING WEEK

Following out his policy of always giving Olympic patrons something different, Manager Robert Sparks has arranged for two unusual features for the theater's first anniversary week. The Olympic matinee, which was first held a year ago, and in celebration of that event some special features are to be offered its patrons.

The first is a midnight matinee, starting at 12:01 Monday morning and continuing into the small hours, with plenty of fun and frolic for everyone, while the second is to be an old-time movie show featuring one of the first pictures ever made by Mary Pickford, a two-reel comedy drama entitled "Mr. Burglar, M.D." with a cast including Owen Moore, George Loan Tucker and King Baggott. The picture will be presented exactly as it was at the opening of H. S. Ford's first Olympic theater in Plainview, Texas, late in 1911, while the music and other "features" of that time will also be reproduced as nearly as possible.

This is expected to prove an attraction of the first order, for in addition to its comedy value it will afford an excellent opportunity of judging to what extent the photography has advanced in the past 19 years.

Following the old time movie show a modern presentation of a present day picture will be given. Virginia Hotchkiss will appear in a prelude to the picture, singing Cadman's "At Dawning."

Wallace Reid and Agnes Ayers in their latest production, "Too Much Speed" will be shown at the Olympic Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in addition to the midnight matinee performance.

Wallace Reid's picture is the newest venture of Byron Morgan's stories of the adventures of Rusty Rhodes, veteran auto race driver.

For the last half of the week the second of the Olympic's contracted specials, "The Ten Dollar Raise," will be the main attraction. "Mother of Mine" was the first of these and when shown here recently scored one of the biggest triumphs of the year. "The Ten Dollar Raise" has been given a private screening by the management, and while an entirely different type of story, is equal in action, direction and entertainment to "Mother of Mine." It is based on a story by Peter B. Kline.

Monday to Wednesday: Wallace Reid in "Too Much Speed"; Thursday to Saturday: Associated Producers' special, "The Ten Dollar Raise"; Strand: Monday to Wednesday: Epid Bennett in "Keeping Up With Lizzie"; Thursday to Saturday: Jackie Coogan in "Peck's Bad Boy"; Empress: Monday to Wednesday: All star cast in "Madonnas and Men"; Thursday to Saturday: Priscilla Dean in "Reputation"; Majestic: Monday: Frank Keenan in "Honor Thy Name"; Tuesday: William S. Hart in "The Poppy Girl's Husband"; Wednesday and Thursday: Zane Grey story—"Riders of the Purple Sage"; Friday and Saturday: Franklin Farnum in "Straight From the Shoulder"; Olympic: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in

Reel Chatter

By JEAN DARNELL

Charles Kenyon, well-known playwright and continuity writer, has about finished the screen version of Hall Caine's "The Christian" which will go into production soon at the Goldwyn Culver City, Calif., studio.

Word was received at the Goldwyn studios from Frank Lloyd and company, who are making scenes for "The Man From Lost River" on location at Huntington Lake, Calif. that trout fishing is so good that practically every meal consists largely of fish.

Will Rogers, Goldwyn's cowboy star, has a method which he says will cut the number of murders in half. It is very simple. Instead of running the murder picture on the front page with double column stories, why not just give them an agate notice in the second section of the paper?

Jackie Saunders, recognized as one of the most attractive and talented screen blondes has attached her signature to a Metro contract and will enact one of the leading roles in "The Infamous Miss Bevel," Alice Lake's new starring picture.

De Witt C. Jennings, who is now working with Tom Moore in his new picture, "From the Top of the World," by Rupert Hughes, is suffering from the results of poison ivy. Mr. Jennings says he wishes his part in the picture would allow him to do a St. Vitus dance.

It might be interesting to know that D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East" has just finished its forty-second week in New York, with an additional nine weeks in Brooklyn making a total of fifty-one weeks for greater New York.

Los Angeles homes, stores, curio shops and even junk heaps have been raided in the quest for antiques and curious bits of almost forgotten things that will be seen in Bert Lytell's newest Metro picture, "Junk." The wealth of discarded human belongings that has found its way into this unique film will prove one of the surprises of the picture.

Cullen Landis, popular Goldwyn juvenile, is spending his time between pictures, fishing and looking over oil properties in which he is interested. When Cullen isn't working he frequently takes his pipe and his dog and his fishing rod and goes off for three or four days. On his return the family usually eats fish for a week.

Bert Lytell wishes to deny the statement that he is enacting the role of

LACK COOGAN IN "PECK'S BAD BOY" AT THE STRAND 3 DAYS THIS WEEK

"Jugman" just because his latest Metro starring picture happens to have the title "Junk." He asserts that the very clothes he wears in the production will dispel any such notion. "Why when he puts on that checkered frock coat, I don't know whether it's my move or jump," says Maxwell Karger, who is directing the production of this Kenneth Harris story.

John Bowers, Goldwyn leading man, now appearing in "The Poverty of Riches" is an accomplished musician, his favorite instrument being the guitar. He keeps his guitar near by while he is working and between scenes he entertains his fellow players with a wicked barrage of harmony.

Douglas McLean, Thomas H. Ince star, has returned to the Ince studios, Culver City, after an extensive vacation in the Big Bear region of California. The popular comedian is preparing to commence a new Ince feature within the coming few weeks. The story is based on one of several he carefully read while on his vacation.

Bessie Love and her mother are now on a vacation trip to Miss Love's father's ranch near Bakersfield, Calif. As a birthday gift the star purchased a prize-winning cow.

Viola Dana is temporarily quitting her work to be queen of a rodeo in Reno, Nevada. She is the guest there of the chamber of commerce.

WHEN TEX RICKARD LIVED AT HENRIETTA, HE DIDN'T GIVE ANY PROMISE OF FUTURE GREATNESS

As this is written, the result of Saturday's encounter on "Boyle's forty acres" in Jersey City is not known, but it seems certain that, whoever is winner, "Tex" Rickard is not a loser.

The impressario of the squared circle gained the sobriquet of "Tex" not because he is a native of this state, but because Texas is where he hailed from when he went to the Klondike. He was born in Kansas, near Leavenworth, his parents moving to Henrietta, Texas, when he was an infant. The Times tried to get some reminiscences of "Tex" from Henrietta's old-timers who remember him, but could find nobody that wanted to talk about him much. Biographical sketches of him say he was once town marshal of Henrietta, but this is disputed by some Henrietta folks, who say that he might have been a deputy constable, or something of the kind, but doubt whether he was ever town marshal.

Certainly there was little in Rickard's behavior when he lived in Henrietta about 30 years ago, to indicate that he would ever become a national figure, even in so precarious a sphere as that of pugilism. He was a cowboy and lived a cowboy's life. Probably he visited Wichita Falls now and then, although in those days Wichita Falls could offer little to attract the residents of Henrietta.

The thing they are most apt to tell you, when you ask Henrietta folks about Tex, is that there is still a complaint pending against him in one of the courts there. The complaint charges Tex with purveying liquor.

"Around the man," says a writer in the New York Times, "is an atmosphere of adventure, romance, humor and above all, success, not approached in the most exaggerated movie thriller. Rickard has an active career. He has tasted everything the world has to offer. He has no regrets. He still welcomes and at times seeks out adventures."

Continuing, the New York Times sketch says:

Tex has been a cowboy, a preserver of law and order under trying circumstances, a prospector, a miner, a gambler—in a locality where gambling was a legalized pursuit—a saloon keeper, hotel proprietor, showman and promoter. All these he has left behind him, with two exceptions. He still is a gambler, in the sense of speculating on the public's wants, and he still is a promoter. From the far reaches of the Texas Panhandle Rickard has traveled all over the country, to Continental Europe, South Africa, South America, to bring up at last in the greatest city of the world, New York. In his worldwide travels Rickard has added steadily to an enviable reputation for daring, honesty and success until now he enjoys the distinction of being the world's greatest sport promoter. He is lord over Madison Square Garden, the most famous sport arena in the world, and he lives around the corner from his center of operations. He has been through several fortunes and has tasted of adversity and trial. Now he is content, for, as he said only yesterday, "I've had a lot of fun, a lot of excitement, and I've enjoyed myself. Through it all I've tried to keep a little ahead of the game. I never wanted a lot of money, I just wanted enough to play safe. That is how I'm fixed now and I am ready to settle down."

Mexican Band to Provide Musical Treat on Tuesday

Musical instruments never before heard in the United States will be brought to Wichita Falls by the Presidential orchestra of the Republic of Mexico, appearing at the Palace theater next Tuesday afternoon and evening. The concert, which will be of an high class, artistically, as any other heard here, will afford an opportunity for local music lovers to study the type of music evolved by Mexico's foremost artists.

With the exception of the harp, all the orchestral instruments will be typically Mexican. Many of them are reported to be of an exceedingly new and unique character, while the harmony which they produce in the hands of their owners is as beautiful as it is new.

General Alvarez Obregon, president of Mexico, spent more than $200,000 incidental to the tour of this country of the orchestra, the large part of the expenditure coming during the months that the organization was being rehearsed in Mexico City, and while its leader, Professor Torreblanco, was cleaning his players from the 20,000 musicians of the country.

These men were placed in the band through a rigid process of elimination. After that they were trained for three months like Senor Torreblanco desired it to be played, and then came the question of uniforms. Twice the national president had his men measured, and twice he sent the complete costumes back to his tailors with the information that they were not satisfactory, and the third time the cloth cutters succeeded in pleasing him—at a cost of $500 for each uniform. Each of the 45 musicians who appear here will be clad in these uniforms, which were designed by Obregon himself.

The tour of this famous organization through the United States and Canada is not merely to furnish music for the public, although that is, of course, its primary object. A fostering of more friendly relations between this country and his own was an all important factor which prompted the national executive to undertake the big financial expenditure, and to this end he has sent Secretario Particular E. C. Loustannau, a member of the presidential staff, on a commercial mission with the orchestra.

While in the city the Senor will visit local merchants to ascertain prices of commodities needed in Mexico and also to familiarize himself with stocks carried by the wholesale and retail merchants of Wichita Falls. Such a procedure will be carried out, more or less extensively, in each city which the orchestra visits, and on its return the findings will be laid before the Mexican chambers for study and consideration. What action will be taken is not known, but the investigations indicate that Mexican merchants of means are attempting to become familiar with American products.

In addition to the orchestra and the commercial embassy, a troupe of operatic singers, reputed to be the best which Mexico has ever produced, and several classic dancers, well versed in the folk dances of their native land, will be present and display their talents.

ard's behavior when he lived in Henrietta about 30 years ago, to indicate that he would ever become a national figure, even in so precarious a sphere as that of pugilism. He was a cowboy and lived a cowboy's life. Probably he visited Wichita Falls now and then, although in those days Wichita Falls could offer little to attract the residents of Henrietta.

The thing they are most apt to tell you, when you ask Henrietta folks about Tex, is that there is still a complaint pending against him in one of the courts there. The complaint charges Tex with purveying liquor.

"Around the man," says a writer in the New York Times, "is an atmosphere of adventure, romance, humor and above all, success, not approached in the most exaggerated movie thriller. Rickard has an active career. He has tasted everything the world has to offer. He has no regrets. He still welcomes and at times seeks out adventures."

Continuing, the New York Times sketch says:

Tex has been a cowboy, a preserver of law and order under trying circumstances, a prospector, a miner, a gambler—in a locality where gambling was a legalized pursuit—a saloon keeper, hotel proprietor, showman and promoter. All these he has left behind him, with two exceptions. He still is a gambler, in the sense of speculating on the public's wants, and he still is a promoter. From the far reaches of the Texas Panhandle Rickard has traveled all over the country, to Continental Europe, South Africa, South America, to bring up at last in the greatest city of the world, New York. In his worldwide travels Rickard has added steadily to an enviable reputation for daring, honesty and success until now he enjoys the distinction of being the world's greatest sport promoter. He is lord over Madison Square Garden, the most famous sport arena in the world, and he lives around the corner from his center of operations. He has been through several fortunes and has tasted of adversity and trial. Now he is content, for, as he said only yesterday, "I've had a lot of fun, a lot of excitement, and I've enjoyed myself. Through it all I've tried to keep a little ahead of the game. I never wanted a lot of money, I just wanted enough to play safe. That is how I'm fixed now and I am ready to settle down."

The BOGIE of FEAR by Arthur Somers Roche

FEAR is a bogie which pursues its victims relentlessly. When they struggle to escape it hems them in. As they yield to its demands for their life blood it demands more and more, until they are driven to destruction. Only by facing fear can they best it and reveal its emptiness.

This new Blue Ribbon serial is the story of Allayne Guernsey's fear—the fear of scandal—and how a venturesome crook played upon it, seeking a "big killing." It is a stirring tale of love, adventure and romance, with a thrill in every chapter. Start reading it today. If you have read "Plunder," "The Sport of Kings," or "The Eyes of the Blind," by the same author, you know that you have a treat in store.

WHEN Harley B. Guernsey slipped from grace by way of the cocktail-chorus girl route he did not, being a gentleman, intend to punish for his sins any one but himself. He had led for fifty-five years a life of simple decency. Then, without warning, he had chanced from a home-loving husband to a rouser. Had Mrs. Guernsey been a trifle less staid and more of a social butterfly, she would have been a social success. But she had been born in the mid-Victorian age. She had a simple creed: sin was sin and goodness was good. Her husband committed sin, wherefore she put him from her.

Philosophers and physicians understand that there is a dangerous age in man, precisely as there is in woman. Between forty and fifty-five the mildest man may turn over night into the wildest roarer. But Mrs. Guernsey was neither a philosopher nor a shrew. She was a woman whose pride had been affronted. To do her justice, she never realized this. She thought that her virtue had been insulted when her husband was discovered to have been maintaining another ménage for the last half year.

Harley B. recovered from his madness when his lawyer informed him that the courts had granted his wife a decree of divorce. He said to his lawyer:

"I seem to have made a lovely mess of life, don't I?"

His lawyer lightened his thin lips, he made no reply. None was necessary. Harley B. puffed contentedly at his cigar.

"Mrs. Guernsey won't take a nickel, eh? She sticks to that?"

The lawyer nodded. Harley B. shrugged. Shortly the lawyer departed. His client picked up an evening paper and scanned from black headlines of the shame of Harley B. Guernsey. He thought back, perhaps, to the days when his recent wife had shared with him the trials, the defeats of early business struggle. He had five million dollars, she, at fifty, wouldn't take a cent of the money which she had helped—he was just—to earn.

He was a simple-minded man. A certain boredom of late years had led him away from home. He had sinned. He realized that. And he had never intended that Mrs. Guernsey should know. That, the excuse of every sinner, he clung to. He had hurt her in her pride, in her faith in him, in her right to expect from him that unswerving loyalty and devotion that she had given. But he had not meant to.

And now, at fifty, scorning his money—another woman's money—can never right a previous wrong. But Harley B. frantic with regret, remorse, horror at what he had done, suddenly clenched his teeth. She had lived on nothing because of her outraged pride. She'd refuse to take a cent of the money that they had jointly earned. O, well, he'd make her take it.

The window in a pleasant spring day was opened wide. Had his wife seen the dreadful smile upon his tired, grief-stricken face she would have forgiven him. But she did not see it. No one saw it save God, and he understood and doubtless forgave the rash, unhappy man. For Harley B. Guernsey stepped through the window, twelve stories above the ground.

Mrs. Guernsey had never ceased to love her husband. Pride, the source of more evil than money, had moved her. And when the news of Harley B.'s demise was brought to her she realized what had been her motivating impulse. Three weeks later they laid her beside the man to whom she had been married and whom she had loved. And Allayne Guernsey, twenty-one years old, became the mistress of five millions of dollars, a palace on a side street on the correct side of the Avenue, and herself.

Twenty-one is an immature age at which to become mistress of millions, twenty-one is an immature age at which to become mistress of one's self. But life is laid on certain laws, the most important of which is that we must break all the rest of them in order that by experience we may learn.

Allayne Guernsey, at twenty-four, was somewhat different from the girl of three years before who, by a double tragedy, had become an orphan. At twenty-one she had been a light-hearted, gay thing with a beauty of soul that rivaled her beauty of features. For she was, even in New York, where all the pretty girls come, something for which, to gain a longer look, one gladly risked one's life in traffic.

Olive-skinned, with a touch of red over the cheekbones, black hair demurely coiled over her ears, its demureness veiled by the glint of mirth in her gray eyes, and with a light, some manner that attracted and held, she had been something of a belle in the decent circles of Manhattan to which her mother's lineage had admitted and Harley B.'s money sustained them. This at twenty-one.

At twenty-four she was outwardly—save that mirth never gleamed in her eyes and that demureness had given way, ever so slightly, to severity—the same girl. But inwardly she was another person. She had been a carefree, untroubled, with those heavy morasses which belong to a repentance; now always at her elbow, shadowing her countenance, was the wrath of scandal.

Scandal! It had broken up the Guernsey home, had driven her father to a self-inflicted death, had caused her mother, broken of body and mind, to join him.

Wherefore this afternoon in her boudoir her olive skin was white, her gray eyes were stern, and her lips were a thin, straight line. Once again she read the afternoon edition of the Star; rather, read that column which was headed:

SOME ONE ALWAYS TAKES THE JOY OUT OF LIFE.

"Summertime," wrote the reporter, "was in the winter of its discontent last night. Out at Dan Grady's roadhouse on the Post Road, known poetically as 'Summertime,' a few brave spirits gathered for the purpose of showing each other how contemptible they considered the Eighteenth Amendment. Dan Grady, bless his innocent heart, of course knew nothing of the nature of the party being held in one of his private dining rooms. Those cases which had been carried—by dry-drippet, parched-throat chauffeurs—into 'Summertime's' isolated precincts had, Mr. Grady naturally thought, contained books.

"Books stimulate. Therefore, when sounds of revelry by night assailed the ears of passing Post Roaders, Mr. Grady, if he thought of the matter at all, assumed that mental exhilaration caused the sounds. But Officer Reilly of the Pelham precinct, being a practical man, betthought him to investigate. Reilly has his points, but he will never be popular on Broadway.

"He ventured near to the door where was being held the private party. A modest man, the cries—so certainly feminine—that reached his ears made him decide to send for help. He did so. The police station responded with a patrol wagon, and, to use a vulgarism, the house was pinned.

"It is true, concedes Officer Reilly, that no liquor was found upon the premises. He hazards the observation, offered for what it may be worth, that the liquor had been consumed before his arrival. That, however, is the judgment of one man. Officer Reilly doesn't care a hoot, he says, about the liquor end of the affair. What bothered him, as a family man, was that a Post Road restaurant was being turned into a Tenderloin dive.

Lieutenant Struthers on duty at the station house, is more of a cosmopolitan than Officer Reilly. Little matters of innocent amusement, such as ladies dancing upon tables, annoy the broad-minded lieutenant at all. Whereupon he advised Officer Reilly to stuff his ears with cotton wadding when braving the night air hereafter. A man of gallantry and savoir faire, the lieutenant apologized to the ladies and gentlemen of the arrested party, bade them Godspeed and happy days and they left, bestowing upon Officer Reilly glances that contained more of pity than censure.

The Star's representative, happily changing the subject to the members of the interrupted party, he never met so many persons named Smith and Jones in his life. It was a real pleasure to him to meet one who belonged to neither of those distinguished families, one Spenser Bourke, well known in fashionable New York circles.

Mr. Bourke condemned the outrage of the arrest in warm terms, which will not be repeated in this family newspaper. So rarely as the Star's representative could gather from Mr. Bourke, a pleasant time had not been had by all.

Allayne heard the words—"No right to marry—belongs to me."

He was not much older than she. His pride was as great as hers. Greater. For when Allayne Guernsey had discovered, in ways that women know, that Bourke loved her and withheld a proposal because of his own comparative poverty, she had made advances to him that brought the avowal to which she had yielded.

Memories of this hardened her pride now. She knew him, knew that he would not return. Yet she did not call out the word that would have brought him back. When it trembled upon her lips she was conscious of the ghost that stood always at her elbow, the ghost of scandal. She had seen what had happened in the domestic life of her parents. It would never happen to her. How could she, a girl of twenty-four, know what only the wisest have learned, that that which most we fear pursues us always to catch us in the end?

The Star, the following morning, contained a brief item to the effect that the engagement that had existed between Allayne Guernsey and Spenser Bourke had been, by mutual consent, broken. Fear of the libel laws prevented the newspaper from making open connection between the raid on "Summertime" and the dismissal of Spenser. But that portion of the social world in which the young couple moved read the connection. Some condemned Bourke, a young chap beloved by so charming a girl as Allayne Guernsey should be more decorous in his behavior. Or, at least, more cautious, added the cynical. Some condemned Allayne. Boys will be boys, and girls should realize the condition.

Only one person laughed. His name was Bennett Halsey, at least, under that name he had entered, by means of letters of introduction that bore some of the best names in English commercial and social life, a circle of New York society which gradingly yields place to any American.

There is magic in a foreign name, however. Americans, because they are hospitable, are gullible. Halsey had presented his letters to a firm of bankers. He had deposited a comfortable sum to his account, and spoken vaguely of future huge deposits. Because his manner was good he had been given cards to various clubs, his banker's wife had, at dinner, approved of him; in less than a fortnight of his arrival in New York he secured an entrée that, he estimated, would be worth millions. Exactly how, he had not planned in advance. He was no ordinary crook who makes the minutest calculations and then, because there is a hitch in one detail, sees his whole edifice tumble to the ground. Rather, he was a good general, who can advance or retreat at the moment and the event seem to demand.

He asked merely an advantageous position. Grant him that and he would take care of the rest.

Now he had the advantageous position. This morning's paper strengthened that position. His laugh became a guffaw. And the rather pretty—in a sullen way—woman who sat across the breakfast table from him looked up inquiringly.

"Why the ha-ha stuff?" she asked. Halsey smiled into his complete confidence upon her. It worked, he announced.

"What worked?" she demanded. He yawned. He did not take this woman, who called herself, and was called by certain of his acquaintances, Rosa Halsey, always into his complete confidence.

"You've heard me speak of the Guernsey girl, haven't you?" he asked. "Uh-huh!" Her utterance was somewhat impeded by omelet.

"You know—the one whose father bumped himself off, and whose mother kicked in a month later, leaving her pretty nearly all the money in the world. Halsey's speech was most un-English when he and Rosa were alone.

"Uh-huh," said Rosa again. "Well, you know I've been laying myself out to land a slice of that cake. I like it legal when I can get it that way, Rosa."

She nodded again. Halsey lit a cigarette. He leaned comfortably back in his chair. He had eaten a good breakfast, success was smiling his way.

"I got some perfectly good stock in a perfectly rotten mine. It would be a fine investment for her—and for us." He chuckled. "I've been around a bit. I know things, Rosa. Young girls find me—interesting."

The woman's smoldering eyes leaped into flame. "You take damn good care, Benny Halsey, that they don't find you too interesting."

"Lay off," he snapped. "You know I'm strictly business with 'em all, Rosa. Well, anyway, the minute I meet this girl I see I can frame her. Then I run into the fact that she's engaged to young Spenser Bourke. He's a nice young boob, dead from the neck up, but a regular wacko dog. This Allayne girl ain't going to part with any jack without hearing young Bourke's say-so. Well, I do a lot of thinking."

"You didn't tell me any of it," she snapped. "I'm telling you now," he said good-humoredly. "Well, I inquire about this Allayne Guernsey girl. I learn all there is. She's hipped on scandal. Father raised Cain, mother dies of broken heart. She hates anything off-color. As near as I can figure it, the way that marries her must have St. Anthony lashed to the mast. If he's ever been tempted he's out of the picture with her."

"So right before last I give a little party. And I tip off a newspaper man I know to hang around the police station up Pelham way. Then I reach a cop. I give him a century note to raid us. Then I go to young Bourke. I tell him that I'm giving a little dinner to some American friends, you've been kind to me. Stag affair, you know. He's a nice kid, and agrees to come. When he gets there it ain't stag. Dear me, no. I have a flock of girls from the Jollities—easy, Rosa! His voice was suddenly stern.

"This was business." The woman's mouth closed, and the fingers that had tightened over the handle of her coffee cup relaxed. "All right, if you say so," she said surlily.

"I do say so," said Halsey. "Well, Bourke wants to quit the party. Nice little stammering boy he is. But we kid him out of it. He's young. He didn't want to seem too much of a hick. And we were all his friends. He didn't want to be rude. So he stayed, the unhappy youth I ever saw. And Reilly the cop pulled the pinch and we all took a ride in the hurry up to the station, eh?"

"You took a chance," she interrupted. "He shrugged. "These eastern flaties wouldn't know me. And a million or so is worth a chance. Well, the newspaper boy, all set by me—and a crooked guy in that profession is hard to find, I'll tell the world—recognizes Bourke, has a little talk with him, and—you saw yesterday's paper? The raid on 'Summertime'?"

"I glanced at it," she told him. "Well," he assured her complacently, "that was my little party. The girl—this Guernsey girl—read it, and—it's 'out' for Mr. Bourke."

"She's through with him?" asked Rosa. "You said it, kid," laughed Halsey. The woman eyed him. She shook her head. "I didn't know," she said slowly, "that any one could be as low as you are."

"He was not offended. He beamed upon her. "I told you, old dear, that sooner or later you'd wear diamonds if you came with me." "H'm." She eyed him thoughtfully. "Don't you ever forget, though, Benny Halsey, that any time I find you mixing it with a dame in anything but a business way something will happen."

"Why do you talk that way?" he demanded, aggrievedly. "Have I ever double-crossed you?" "Not yet," she said. He smiled at her, reassuringly. He would show her how much trouble Rosa would stir up if he pursued certain vague plans to their conclusion. Allayne Guernsey was a handsome girl. He could handle Rosa. He always had handled her.

Outraged pride had caused Allayne's mother to send from her side and to his death Harley B. Had Mrs. Guernsey realized whether she was sending her husband she would never have given the command for his departure. Had Allayne Guernsey known, definitely, beyond a peradventure, that Spenser Bourke would not return, to plead again his cause, there is the slight possibility that he might not have been sent away.

We rarely, any of us, have definite and permanent opinions that are full-blown within us. We make a weak decision, even a bolshie one, and we back it blantly out of our strength of character. When Allayne Guernsey, a few days after her dismissal of her fiancé, learned that Bourke had accepted the superintendency of a factory in Hillstown, in Northern New York State, and had taken up a permanent residence there, her mind seemed suddenly to go blank, her eyes to envisage a cheerless and empty future. Then pride, the mother of self-deception, came to her rescue.

For Bennett Halsey, who had intended to get hold of a portion of the Guernsey estate through chicanery, began to wonder if marriage might not encompass the same ends more fully.

Complications had arisen in the Halsey life. Halsey was well known in such cities as San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Denver. He had also a wide acquaintance in London and Continental Europe. But to New York he was, in his propria persona—that of a crook—unknown. At least he thought so.

As a little boy eats around his layer cake, saving the juicy chocolate icing for the final tidbit, so Benny Halsey had saved New York. One week after the breaking of her engagement to Bourke a hand had been slipped heavily upon Halsey's shoulder. He had wheeled, his right hand dropping to a side pocket. Long he had anticipated the clutch of the law, and always he was prepared. Then his fingers relaxed upon the automatic pistol. He essayed a grin as he looked into the leering countenance of one Abe Geistein, who, at the moment, he had thought to be safe in far-off California.

"Toose! a scare into you, Benny, ah?" chuckled Abe. Halsey breathed heavily. His face, that had gone dead white, resumed a bit of its normal color.

"Got a bad heart, Abe," he said truthfully. It was that heart that had brought forth the medical advice.

"And a bad conscience," said Abe. "And a gun." He shook his head pityingly. "You're gettin' old, Benny. Time was when you'd a' drawn before you turned, I could have bumped you off easy."

Halsey's grin became less forced. "Thought it was a copper, Abe. But an old pal—let's go some place where we can have a little drink."

Geistein's smile was crafty. "Last time I did that with you, Benny, was a matter of five years ago. You were going to pay me a little percentage matter. Remember? It ran up to ten thousand or so. And I took the drink, and when I wake up, two days later, I don't have the money. I have nothing but a headache. Well, well! I been lookin' for you a long, long time, Benny. Now I got you—I suppose you been takin' care of that money for me all this time, eh?"

If Halsey had dared, he would have put to test Geistein's boast that he was quicker with a weapon. But this was crowded New York. Murder was cheap in Manhattan, but only to one who knew the ropes. Halsey had purposely refrained from learning the ropes. He wished no intercourse with the criminal element of New York. He was playing a lone hand, and did not wish to be forced to divide. And here, leaning at him, was Abe Geistein, one of the foremost receivers of stolen property that San Francisco had ever produced. Geistein! Who could, by a word, put Benny Halsey in jail; not merely for the ten thousand dollars that Halsey had borrowed, but for half a dozen other offenses. For the first time in his life Halsey felt regret for his career. He did not regret that he was a crook; he regretted that he had been crooked with crooks.

And he didn't have ten thousand dollars with which to placate Abe Geistein. That was the terrible weakness of his position!

He knew the man. He was a man who never forgot an enemy. Without the slightest hesitation he would expose Benny Halsey, send him to jail. . . . That weak heart began to throb and pound in his breast. All life would kill him out of hand. . . . This very afternoon he had had tea with Allayne Guernsey, had exercised upon her all that charm that wide experience and travel had given to him. More definitely than when, a few days ago, he had smiled reassuringly at Rosa, he began to see certain tremendous possibilities. The girl had been tremendously interested in him today. This evening she was to be one of the occupants of a box at the opera to which he had also been invited. She was distrustful of men; the very time when she should be most easily captured. The shrewd animal! She was the most curious, therefore the crafty hunter nets him most easily.

Big visions had flitted before him. Not to be a fugitive from justice—even though a wealthy one—but to be the lord and master of a woman who was mistress of five millions. . . . To surrender these visions for lack of a paltry ten thousand. . . . He took Abe Geistein into his confidence.

"I haven't your ten thousand," he finished. "I've been spending up to the limit, trying to set myself right. Well, I am right. If you'll let me alone—"

Geistein looked at him with keen admiration, tinged with the faintest incredulity. "And you honestly think you can marry her?" he demanded.

"That's what I've been telling you," said Halsey. "And I get a hundred thousand if you do."

"That's my word," said Halsey. "Let's put it in writing," suggested Geistein.

There was nothing for Halsey to do but acquiesce. In Geistein's room in a Broadway hotel the agreement was drawn up and signed by both parties.

"Of course," said Geistein, his voice holding an iron hint. "We both know that this document ain't legal. But if you should try to waltz on me—"

"I won't," Halsey promptly vowed. "You let me alone, don't enter my game, and you'll sleep under a blanket of century notes."

Geistein nodded, unconvinced. But he was taking a long chance of recovery of what was due him. To cause Halsey's arrest meant surrender of hope of that recovery. But he was a curious, prying person.

"How about Rosa?" he asked. Halsey lied hastily. "Oh, Rosa? Oh, Rosa, she's married years ago for a Frenchman. Living in Paris, I understand. He did not wish Geistein to meet Rosa, to drop some incalculable word that would arouse her suspicion, her wrath.

"That so? Nice gal!" commented Geistein. "Funny. I'd have thought she was the kind to stick. Oh, well, they're all alike. You're lucky not having her around on a deal like this. She might raise trouble."

Had Geistein drawn a card, he pocketed Halsey's agreement, the latter would have borne the blow with cheerful stoicism. He was a crook who liked to play his cards in his own way. Having his hand forced was most distasteful to him.

Still gazing away from Geistein's hotel, his philosophy came to his rescue. Geistein might have had him jailed at once, or, at least, have forced him to flee the city. As it was, he had a limited time. . . .

He played his game very carefully. Provided that he came home some time during the night, and squandered a few careens on her, and gave her a reasonable amount of money, Rosa had no quarrel with him. His time was practically his own. She understood that she could not understand his various schemes, therefore she asked no enlightenment.

Halsey had planned to go slow. But Geistein would not wait forever, and so he hurried his courting. Circumstances conspired in his favor, not merely the circumstances, which he had arranged, and that had resulted in Bourke's receiving his congeal. But Halsey's lawyer, the thin-lipped man who had drawn the Guernsey will, who had been with Harley B. in the last hour of his life, was ill. He who was in the habit of dropping around frequently to drink a cup of tea with Allayne, did not do so nowadays.

She was heartbreakingly disappointed just out of love. . . . It took Halsey exactly six weeks to win her consent to marry him. It took him four days to persuade her that a quiet wedding, unknown to their friends, was advisable. He showed her a cablegram announcing the death of an English cousin. "Lord knows, dear girl, I would like to pretend to you, Allayne, no matter how much I wanted to—amazing the influence a girl like you can have upon a man like myself—inspires—I'm chummy with that Balchergaff and I were chummy with that Balchergaff and I were chummy. But he sees my cousin, dear girl, and that sort of thing—family—tradition—it means a great deal to us English, you know. Well, it wouldn't be quite the thing for me, under the circumstances, to have anything but a private wedding. Oh, extremely private."

"Of course," he could postpone it, but—I simply must run over to England, within a fortnight. Have to attend the settlement of old Balchergaff's affairs, you know. May be kept there a year—will, chancery, all that sort of nuisance. Have to do it, though. So I was thinking, dear girl, that if we were quietly married, slipped away for a honeymoon of a week or so, and then called for the dear old England—a pleasure it will be to show you the Old World, London, the Cathedral towns, Paris, the Riviera—"

BUICK PLANT NOW GOING FULL BLAST, PRODUCTION INCREASES, 11,000 AT WORK

PLINT, MICH., July 2.—With orders pouring in from all sections of the country, the Buick Motor company is planning on a steadily increasing production during the balance of this year, officials of the concern declared today.

With the exception of a period of three weeks at the first of the year, when a complete inventory of stock and material was taken, the immense Buick factory has been producing cars at a rate per week that would have been considered phenomenal at any time before the war.

As a result of the consistent demand for Buick cars, the Buick Motor company has kept employed more than 11,000 persons, most of whom are old Flint citizens, owners of homes and the backbone of community life.

Following the business outlook last winter, the Buick production is considered little short of marvelous. The sale of Buick cars, recognized as business necessities, did not cease.

The manufacture of quality cars has always been the aim of the Buick Motor company," said H. H. Bassett, president of the company, today. "That success has been met in evidence by the highly favorable production reports the company has made for each week of the last year.

"The outlook for the 1922 season is very promising. Since the announcement of the continuance of the line and the revision of prices, demand for the new cars has taken a decided leap.

"The increased demand will be met by a decided increase in the production of Buick cars and by increasing the working hours of the men already employed at the Buick factory. No new men will be employed at the present time."

WITH THE LOCAL AUTOMOBILE MEN

Paul Von Allmen reports that they have been experiencing the best business in weeks. Four Hupmobiles were delivered, and we say that is a mighty fine week's business this day and time.

Dan Rubsam returned from Dallas Monday. Just a little business with the Jordan and Oakland distributors.

Frank Quaiser is back from Dallas. From all indications he got results. A carload of Fords was on the tracks Thursday and another on the way. No matter how fast they come, Motor supply never seems to keep them long.

Leslie Stringer is back from Seymour, where he has been assisting in putting the work on Knight Templar candidates from that place.

L. L. Dixon has placed a future delivery order for 20 Buicks. He says he wants to avoid making people wait for their cars, and present indications point to an oversold production if sales keep up as they have been all over the country.

Reese & Wilson at the Apperson Motor Sales are optimistic these days. Brunswick tires have been shipped on many a car lately.

Carl Waelder certainly has a beautiful Franklin sedan on his floor. It's a special job and worth anyone's while to stop in and see.

J. D. Moulder says the new shipment of Chandlers just did get in on time. He delivered his last one Monday and a carload arrived Tuesday—pretty good connections.

LAMP WHAT THE DALLAS DEALERS ARE GOING TO DO DURING THE NEXT YEAR

DALLAS, TEXAS, July 2.—The automobile business, including automobiles, trucks, tractors, tires, accessories and related lines in Dallas this year should amount to $250,000,000, wholesalers and retailers believe.

"We give 'em service," says Karl Thompson, Thursday J. I. Staley's Packard broke an axle 150 miles from Wichita Falls. This didn't worry Karl; he chartered an airplane and rushed a part to the disabled car. If that's not service, what is it.

Hugh Weaver is more than satisfied with the way sales have responded to the price reduction. He is back from a swing around the territory and seems well pleased with conditions.

ANOTHER DEALER WARNS AGAINST "WAR-TIME" TIRES MANY OF THEM ON MARKET

The automobile tire market has been flooded in recent months with great quantities of tires, many of them hoary with age. Manufacturers who guessed that the great sales of the war period were going to keep up indefinitely found themselves, when the big slump came, with millions of tires on their hands.

"There is a big satisfaction," says J. A. McFall, dealer in United States tires, "in knowing the tires you offer the public are fresh live goods. Every one knows how rubber deteriorates with age—a rubber band that has been

Find Out Before You Buy

You want to know what to expect of your car when it is a year old and has had thousands of miles of service.

Will it become loose and noisy? Grow wasteful of oil and fuel? Lose efficiency? Require replacements, frequent repairs and adjustments? Or will it remain free of these disabilities?

Owners Will Gladly Help You

New car demonstrations are nearly all satisfactory. It is the constancy of such performance that is more desirable. And nothing reveals that except experience. So we urge you to ask Essex owners. Have them tell you about the service—the cost to operate—the little attention required to keep the Essex in highest efficiency.

You can easily judge Essex looks. The character of its finish, the fine upholstery and comfortable seating arrangement are apparent. Learn from them how Essex minimizes squeaking bodies by a frame that does not weave. Ask about the clutch. It is so efficient, hardly any driver is even conscious the car has such a unit. The items which account for long Essex life are for the most part inconspicuous. Unless you are mechanically inclined their details would hardly interest you. But what they give in greater performance, smoothness, and safety are of the highest importance.

You will like its easy riding, its simple control and the comfort of its driving position. Another Quality More Desirable. Its flexibility that permits you to spurt ahead when to do so obtains an open way in traffic can be demonstrated anywhere. So can its speed and power. These qualities, sufficiently rare in themselves, give Essex an advantage whenever comparison is made.

THE MOTORISTS' PROBLEMS'

By WILLIAM H. STEWART, JR.

Motor Department: I have a Ford touring, and I have skidded twice. I am usually very careful on wet roads. Is it due to faulty rear axle, and what can be done to forestall skidding? What action is the driver to take while skidding to prevent serious accident? —K. R.

This trouble is always present with a light car. If non-skid tires do not protect you sufficiently, use chains. EXTRA weight on rear end is of use, so that extra passengers always should occupy the rear seats. Turn steering wheel in the same direction the car is going when it skids; also be sure that brakes are properly equalized.

Motor Department: What is the cause of knocking in the engine when driving up grade on high gear, or when car is suddenly speeded up? It runs good on level ground after gaining headway. —W. C.

There are several causes: (a) carbonized cylinders, (b) spark too far advanced, (c) gas knock due to wrong mixture, if the cylinders are carbonized pre-ignition occurs, producing the same effect as a much advanced spark. If the spark is too far advanced the explosive force of the gas acts on the piston before it reaches top center. The fly-wheel momentum is sufficient to continue the stroke, but not without loss of power. The pre-ignition charge is manifested by the knock.

Motor Department: When does the spark have more time to burn, when the spark is retarded or advanced? —C. R.

Gas has more time to burn with advanced spark. If spark is retarded too far there is very little left of the power stroke. The exhaust valve opens so soon that all of the power of the explosion is exerted on the piston during the entire stroke. This gives more power and so makes the engine speed up. If advanced too far under load, however, it will cause a knock. The rule for setting the spark lever is to move it as far in the advanced position as possible, just short of the point where it will cause knocking.

Motor Department: What is the reason the No. 1 spark plug on my Ford gets dirty and pumps oil? I can't run it more than about an hour before it gets dirty. Then it misses and gets full flow tube. Have made all adjustments possible, but keeps right on. I also cleaned float and put one coat of varnish and one coat of shellac on it. Perhaps the carburetor float does not seat properly. Sometimes this can be overcome by tapping the needle in order to obtain a better seat. If the parts are worn it will be difficult matter to stop the leak. The installation of new parts would be inexpensive and under the circumstances would seem advisable.

Motor Department: My engine has weak power and it looks as if the cause was a weak spark. The hydro-meter test shows 1,200, but the spark at the plug does not seem as strong as formerly. When I remove the top of distributor and crank the engine with the interrupter points, I cleaned them with fine sandpaper until they were bright and smooth, but got the same heavy spark as before. What do you think is the cause of this trouble? —L. P.

Undoubtedly a punctured condenser, as you have tried everything else. This is expensive to replace, but there is nothing else to be done. Heavy sparking at circuit-breaker points is usually due to dirt, but if points are clean and still give heavy sparking a burned out condenser is indicated.

Motor Department: When a motor has good compression and bearings do not set up undue friction I understand it will not stop on dead center. I do not quite see how this comes about. —A. M.

When the piston is moving on the compression stroke the gas is being compressed to a pressure of say, 65 pounds to the square inch. When switch is thrown off the momentum or energy stored in fly-wheel will keep crankshaft turning over until the energy dies; then the pressure in cylinder will force piston down from top dead center, providing the compression is good and there is no frictional resistance in bearings.

Motor Department: I have a Buick and have a new distributor head and new spark plugs, also new wiring. Cannot get any spark through No. 4 cylinder lead. Can you help me? —M. C.

Run engine and reset as follows: Remove wire from No. 4 spark plug and see if spark jumps from wire to plug. If it shows a good spark, the plug is at fault. If no spark jumps, the trouble is further back—a short circuit in dis-

KNOWLEDGE FOR CAR OWNERS

Interesting and Important Facts That Every Motorist Should Know.

A slipping clutch wastes an enormous amount of power as does dragging brakes.

After old piston rings have been removed, if any are scarred or cut, they should be discarded.

Spring clips should be inspected at least once a month to see that all nuts are tight.

Don't fix the rear lamp too low or it will become covered with mud on a wet day.

Keep your tires pumped hard. It is risky to ride on a greasy road with soft tires.

Tires last twice as long on cars driven fifteen miles an hour than upon cars driven thirty miles an hour.

A loose tread is caused by water soaking into the fabric through tread cuts. To prevent this condition, keep up water by sealing up the cuts.

A source of great power waste is in inside examined to make sure that there is no leak into the cylinders. If there is that must be repaired also. If not, the leak in the water jacket can be welded and the casting made serviceable again.

The common cause for fenders rusting at the fastenings is neglect in not washing the under side of the fenders which are sure to accumulate a certain amount of dirt and mud. A rust preventative, or an application of oil will aid in preventing this condition, but the most reliable precaution is to prevent the accumulation of mud.

The universal joints are generally covered with leather casings or "boots" which are packed with grease. These boots, when in good condition insure the proper lubrication of the moving parts of the joints. Keep out the dirt and grit and aid in making the joints noiseless. It is advisable to inspect these casings about once a month.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW AIRSHIP IS BIGGEST EVER BUILT ALTHOUGH LARGER ONES ARE NOW PLANNED

By CLYDE A. BEALS.
 LONDON, July 2.—The stiff trial flights of the airship R33, built by England for the United States navy, must complete before she is officially handed over, test not only the ability of the ship to perform her requirements, but also many new designs and inventions which the R33 is the first to employ. She is not only the largest ever built, but she also represents the utmost in improvement and discoveries at the time her keel was laid.

Being the first ship of a purely British design, her builders were an impatient young father to see her start cutting her maiden capers. Major John Pritchard, the official representative of the British admiralty, showed a United Press correspondent about the ship, explaining the improvements. He has won several medals for his airplane work in the war and was one of the admiralty observers on the R34 when she crossed to America.

The R33 is built so as to utilize more efficiently than previous ships the eddies of air caused by the ship's own forward motion. The idea, when dirigibles first came to be built, was that the nose should be sharp for cutting the air. Now they build very blunt noses and long narrowing tails. It has been found that a blunt nose is more efficient. It bunches up the air, breaks through the bunch and leaves it whirling, and leaves that whirling, and so on. Then instead of having a sawed-off tail which is constructed so that the eddies of the whirling pools of air just hit it, tending to push the ship along. Thus the energy it takes to bunch up the air and send it whirling is partly regained from the whirl.

The effect of this is so great on the R33 that the amount of force required to push the great bag through the air is only one per cent of the total required to move the ship. The other sixty per cent is lost on the six little engine cars and rudders and elevators. And, strangely enough, the wires and struts supporting the engine cars, because they do not get any of it back, lose more energy than the cars themselves.

Experimentation is constantly proceeding to determine just how these air whirls can best be utilized, and at the same time how to increase the gas capacity with the least possible increase in outer surface. Every increase in gas capacity means an increase in lifting power; every increase in outer surface, an increase in friction or wasted energy.

This explains why the R33 has a little fuller tail than her predecessors. She has also a new design for her aluminum frame which has made it considerably lighter, leaving that much more lifting power available.

The biggest departure, probably, is in the design of the rudders and elevator planes. There are at the tail, as in previous ships, four fins, at the ends of which are the elevating planes or rudders. Formerly these were just rectangular, and so constructed that when they were in use to change the direction or elevation there was a large gap between the fins and the planes, through which a considerable amount of air passed without spending its force in turning the ship. A strong force was also required to pull this air into the air rushing past.

In the R33 the rudders are rectangles with a little more cut out of one corner. This air is then cut into that corner and the plane is limited in such a way that when the plane is pulled into the wind, the remaining strip protrudes on the other side of the fin like a plow cutting into the ground. The strip thus balances the remainder of the plane so that, regardless of the force of the air rushing past, it can be turned readily. And, by being hinged to the fin, the plane uses all the air force instead of as in the old style lifting some of it straight through the gap.

One of the most interesting devices with which the R33 is fitted is that for landing. Each station in the future will have a landing tower about 150 feet high, fitted with a long rope or cable coming out of the top. The ship comes slowly up toward the mast, a little above it, and lowers through a hole in her mast a rope which is fastened on the ground to that of the mast. Then engines in the mast pull a section of it nose, about like a shark yawning, and the section serves as a gangplank on which the passengers

NEW BRIDGE RESPONSIBLE FOR NORTHERN "AUTO ROW"
 MINNEAPOLIS, July 2.—Opening of a new bridge across the Minnesota river on Lyndale avenue has caused a new automobile row to be opened on that avenue in this city. This is due directly to the fact that this bridge is expected to divert trade of $7,000,000 a year from contiguous territory into the city. The North Star Motor company has bought a corner at Lincoln and Lyndale. Three other motor firms have taken options on the avenue to build in the next seven months. The Johnson Automotive company started a $50,000 building June 15.

FIRESTONE TIRES NOW DOWN TO ROCK BOTTOM PRICES—DODSON
 At least one leading make of automobile tires is now selling at the lowest price in its entire history, according to H. A. Dodson, local distributor of the Firestone products. The prices of these rubber commodities went up during the war, along with other auto necessities, but they are now down on a level as low as they have ever been.

This highly desirable situation has been brought about, it is said, by the decreasing cost of production and the steadily increasing output of the Firestone factory. A 30x3½ Firestone non-skid tire now sells for $12.95, according to Dodson's figures.

NEW MAXWELL PRESIDENT ASSUMES DUTY RECENTLY

William Robert Wilson, the new president of the Maxwell Motor corporation, assumed his duties on June 15 and is now at the Detroit plant of the company in active direction of Maxwell affairs.

In taking up his new work, Mr. Wilson declares that he welcomes the great opportunity presented by his position as president of the Maxwell Motor corporation.

"During the period I have been out of direct contact with the automotive industry, I have watched its development very carefully," says Mr. Wilson. "I have had a vantage point for observation that is in a measure denied to those who have been active in it, as I have had the benefit of distance, in looking at its present problems and its promising future."

"I feel that the Maxwell offers a wonderful opportunity. It is too early to make an announcement of detail policies, but the public can be assured that the new goodness of the good Maxwell will continue to be developed in a way that will be highly satisfactory to the buyers of our product."

HOT?

You know how much easier it is for you to overheat after you have overeaten.

Batteries are almost human.

The battery that overheats and puts you to a lot of trouble, due to warped or buckled plates, is the battery that has been allowed to overcharge.

There is a mighty simple remedy for overheating of batteries. If you haven't tried it you'll be surprised to find how well it works. Here it is:

BACK to 1914 Price Basis

The White 5-ton truck is now sold at its 1914 price of $4,500. Other models are proportionately adjusted.

During the period of abnormal increases, White Truck prices were held down. Their average advance was the smallest in the industry.

Now White Trucks take the lead in establishing a rock-bottom price level upon which truck purchasers can rely.

In price as well as performance, White Trucks are the standard for comparative values.

LOWER RENT MOVE MAY RESULT FROM MEETING SATURDAY

HEARING ON PHYSICIANS' FEES
EXPECTED TO LEAD TO SES-SION WITH LANDLORDS.

DOCTORS VIGOROUSLY
DEFEND PRESENT SCALE

Question is Discussed With Considerable Feeling at C. of C. Director's Meeting.

Although no formal action was taken at the meeting of chamber of commerce directors Saturday morning on the question of a campaign for lower rents it was indicated Saturday that this matter might be actively taken up by the directors in the near future.

The question arose at a meeting of the directors on the matter of reduced rates for medical attention, and both physicians and directors agreed in the belief that abnormally high rents were the cause of other excessive charges in this city.

When President Noble of the chamber of commerce announced the purpose of the meeting Saturday morning,
Dr. M. M. Walker arose and inquired where the agitation for reduced charges had originated. Mr. Noble replied that a number of individuals, nearly all members of the chamber of commerce, had broached the matter to him.

Dr. A. D. Patton, president of the Wichita Medical Society, announced that, in response to Mr. Noble's request, he had asked several members of the society to be present, and he called on Dr. J. E. Daniel to speak first.

Dr. Daniel began by saying that the matter had come as a surprise to him as he had felt that the service rendered by the medical profession was of an unselfish nature, to a large extent, and certainly not highly remunerative with present charges.

Extra Increased Expenses.
"Up to January, 1918, when the charge for day calls was increased to $4," Dr. Daniel said, "the charges had not been changed in the years that I have been practicing medicine. When I started practicing, I paid $3 a month for room and board and $2 office rent."

Dr. Daniel cited quite an array of figures to show how physicians' house-rent, office rent, office help, office equipment, supplies had increased enormously since 1918, when the $4 rate went into effect.

Continuing, Dr. Daniel said that while some banks were reducing employee salaries and cutting expenses they were asking a higher rate of interest on loans, that while hotels were also reducing expenses, their rates were not being lowered, and that office rent was in most cases as high, if not higher, than a year ago.

If there were a real sincere desire to remedy the situation, Dr. Daniel said, it could be done by going after the rent situation.

Inability to Collect.
Dr. M. M. Walker pointed out that poor collections greatly increased the physicians' expense, citing the fact that he was unable to get pay for about 25 per cent of the services he had rendered in the past 18 months. He also furnished some figures showing the heavy expense of conducting a practice.

Dr. L. Mackelney said that in his boyhood home he remembered seeing retired physicians who were dependent upon relatives in their old age, and declared he had promised himself that he would not come to a similar end.

He told of one patient who he said had been owing him a large bill for nine months, and whom he considered good for the money.

"That man hasn't asked his grocer to wait nine months, though," he said.

All three of the physicians spoke with considerable feeling, and each brought out that a minimum of nine years' schooling is required before a physician can practice in Texas.

Discussing the question of nurses' pay, which is $7 to $10 a day here, the physicians said they were not called upon to speak for the nurses, but that they thought $10 a day not excessive, for a woman who has to have several years' training as compared with the pay given workmen who, in many cases, barely know how to handle their tools.

The opinion was also expressed that a definite movement for lower rents should be inaugurated, and this idea seemed to meet with the favor of the directors. Several of the directors told of reductions in rents on buildings they owned.

C. W. Reid replied to Dr. Daniel's reference to the banks, pointing out that conditions were such that no profit was made on loans in many cases; the interest rate had not been increased by his bank, he said, save in cases where the borrower did not maintain a balance in it.

Suggests Meeting of Landlords.
W. F. Weeks stressed what had been brought out on the rent question.
"Every agitation of this kind comes right back to the rent question every time," he said; "that is where the remedy ought to be supplied. In my opinion, we should invite the landlords of Wichita Falls to come before us to see what can be done."

The physicians present, at several points in their remarks, charged that the question of reducing rates for calls had originated with one firm which, they said, would not be materially affected by any reduction.

Ream the Oil Sand by Rotary-Centrifugal Process

HERE IS WHAT I ACCOMPLISHED WITH A RENTED TOOL ON THE LEASE OF

THE BRINKLEY PRO. & REF. CO., BL. 74, F. C. VOGEL FARM, NORTHWEST POOL

Reamed well No. 2 March 4th. It was making about 30 bbls. Increased in 20 days to about 55 bbls, now making about 55 bbls.
Reamed well No. 3 May 20th. It was making 4 to 5 bbls. Increased in 20 days to about 35 bbls, now making about 35 bbls.
Reamed well No. 4 June 4th. It was making about 25 bbls. Increased in 20 days to about 40 bbls, now making about 40 bbls.
Reamed well No. 5 Dec. 5th. It was making about 25 bbls. Increased in 45 days to about 40 bbls, now making about 28 bbls.
Well No. 5 is going down, and will have to be REAMED. No. 2 is remaining stationary. Nos. 3 and 4 are increasing.

It required nearly six weeks to overcome floating sand troubles in No. 5 while wells Nos. 3 and 4 were shut down, cleaned out, reamed and loose sand removed and back pumping the evening of third day and no cup troubles followed. REAMING done by PATENTED tools which I have performed QUICKER and CHEAPER than shooting. NO RISK. NO FLOATING SAND. LARGER and EXPOSURE for VACUUM to work on, and big STORAGE space in bottom of wells to accumulate oil while pulling rods and tubing and working on surface equipment.

TOOLS RENTED, SOLD OR REAMING CONTRACTED FOR CASH OR PRODUCTION, OR WILL WORK OVER

JULY 4TH— INDEPENDENCE DAY

July 4th, fittingly celebrated each year as the date of the official signing of the Declaration of Independence, is symbolic of the true spirit of Americanism.

One hundred forty-five years of industry, initiative and honest achievement have won for America a preeminent po-
