ENRICO CARUSO DIES AT NAPLES FOLLOWING OPERATION ON SUNDAY

NEWS COMES UNEXPECTEDLY TO ADMIRERS WHO THOUGHT HIM IMPROVING.

SUFFERED SEVERE ATTACK BEFORE LEAVING AMERICA

For Some Time His Life Hung by a Thread But He Rallied Sufficient For Voyage.

By Associated Press. NAPLES, Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso, world's famous tenor, died here today. The condition of the singer which had been considered satisfactory until recently became grave, peritonitis developing and another operation being considered necessary.

From the beginning of his illness, however, there was serious concern over the outcome, and last night his life was despaired of. During the night the condition of the patient grew steadily and the center of the great effort came to an end with his death at an early hour this morning.

It was at 4:30 p. m. that the hope for the singer was virtually abandoned. A sinking spell set in at that hour and Caruso died shortly afterward.

Caruso, who was more than 25 years a celebrity in the world of song, the tenor, with the "golden voice," idolized by millions in America and abroad, had an art career as well known as that of any famous statesman or military leader.

He was born in Naples, Italy, February 25, 1873, the son of Marcello Caruso, a mechanic, and his wife, Lucia. He was brought to America by his parents to sing in the churches of his native city.

An unassuming pupil, for three years he studied under the direction of a professional teacher when ready for a professional career he should pay him one-quarter of his earnings for the following five years.

He made his debut in "L'Amico Francesco" at the Nuovo teatro, Naples, in 1894, later toured Italy and Sicily and then went to London and Warsaw, Rome, Lissbon, Paris, London and other cities of Europe.

A second telegram, signed like the first, by J. Humphrey and T. C. Clausen, informed county authorities here that the man thought to be Spurgin was being kept under surveillance, although the Marfa men were not sure of his identity.

At the same time it was discovered that the man had ordered an automobile shipped from Duray, Colo., where he has mining interests, to Grand Junction, Colo.

Bank examiners expected to make a statement of the bank's condition today.

CONFIRM REPORT THAT SPURGIN WAS IN MARFA

EL PASO, Aug. 2.—Federal officers announced today that they had confirmed a report made by Rose Harp, service car driver, to the effect that he had met a man who answered the description of Warren C. Spurgin, Chicago robber, here yesterday.

The driver said he met a man he is sure was Spurgin as he stepped from the car and that at his urgent request hurried him across country to Presidio. He could not say whether the man crossed the line there, but declared that his passenger said he was enroute to Chihuahua City.

An announcement was made at headquarters of city detectives today that they had heard W. C. Spurgin had been apprehended on the American side at Marfa, Texas. They said, however, that they had been unable to verify the report through the officers at Marfa or other border towns which are in close touch with their office.

There was also a report that county officers at Marfa had telegraphed to the city that if there was any reward for the arrest of Spurgin, and if so, how much, and it was indicated here they knew Spurgin's whereabouts, but were waiting to hear from Chicago before issuing papers for his arrest.

IDENTIFICATION OF NEGRO HELD IS NOT COMPLETE AND OFFICERS ARE WORKING ON ANOTHER CLUE

AMERICA IS READY TO FEED A MILLION NEEDEY IN RUSSIA

LARGE QUANTITY OF FOOD IS CONDEMNED BY CITY OFFICIALS

Circumstances surrounding the attack on Mrs. W. D. Bennett as she lay asleep in her home at 1309 Sixteenth street late Monday afternoon will probably be cleared up by Tuesday night, according to information given out at the police station Tuesday morning.

Chief of Police Morgan, city detective Jack Miller, John Boone, Leney, Humphrey and Bob Embury and Constable Frank Morgan were following up clues which they believe will lead to a solution of the entire affair.

It was learned Tuesday that the negro known as John Washington, who was spirited away by Constable Morgan Monday night when feeling an itch, is not the one wanted as Mrs. Bennett's assailant. Washington and his cohorts were overtaken by city motorcycle officers Johnson and Embury and city detective Embury late Monday evening and was declared to be innocent of the affair.

A conference at noon between city detective Jack Miller and Mrs. W. D. Bennett resulted in no new developments in the case. Miller went all of Tuesday morning in questioning the neighbors and friends of Mrs. Bennett who might have given him information with which to work, but it could not be learned whether he had gained anything of value from those sources.

A railway conductor reported at the police station early Tuesday afternoon that information given by a negro answering descriptions given out by Mrs. Bennett was now held in jail at Seymour and might be the one wanted here. The Seymour police are now conducting a long distance conversation with the Seymour sheriff instructed that the suspect be held for further orders.

Morgan was of the opinion that the case should be cleared late Tuesday afternoon.

Texas Rangers McCormick and Gonzalez in their investigation of the alleged case of Mrs. Bennett Tuesday afternoon discovered a piece of cloth which is of absolutely the same material as that found in the room Monday night.

The piece of material found by the state officer was discovered 350 yards east of the house along the sidewalk in the grass.

The cloth is identified as being a part of the leg of a pair of trousers. It was also stated that the material does not match in any way the trousers which the negro wore at the time of his arrest.

Mrs. Bennett was reported Tuesday morning to be resting easily at the Wichita County hospital. She had several serious injuries consisting of a gash in the head, inflicted, it is said, by a smoothing iron in the hands of her assailant, and a deep laceration of the throat where she was choked. Aside from these she was in no way harmed, physicians stated.

The angry crowd, which assembled on the strength of the partial identification made by Mrs. W. D. Bennett of Hamie Washington as the negro who assaulted her at her home, 1309 Sixteenth street, fell victim to a run of Constable Frank Morgan and his deputies and as a result the negro is safely lodged in another county jail.

Mr. Morgan, who had all night with the negro, delivered his prisoner early Tuesday morning and was back in the city at 6:30 o'clock. He reported to the police station and immediately went home for the night.

After Mr. Morgan had taken the negro before Mr. Bennett the second time and admonished her as to the effect of her statement that the negro was the person who attacked her if she was not certain, repeated, "Well, it looks like him but I am not real positive."

The report that Mrs. Bennett had positively identified Washington as the negro who assaulted her spread rapidly and at 8 o'clock a crowd gathered at 450 assembled in the court house yard around the county jail.

Mr. Morgan made a hurried departure from the jail and sped towards the river in his automobile. The crowd believing that the negro was in the car made a hurried chase but Mr. Morgan circled and upon returning within a block of the jail the prisoner was handed over to him and he made his way out of the city.

Mr. Morgan had at least a half hour stay before it became known that the prisoner was absolutely gone. A portion of the crowd started in pursuit while the remainder lingered about the county jail asking that the man be turned out.

Communist Searches Jail. Sheriff Fred Smith and County Attorney E. L. Fulton assured the men that the negro was not in the jail and in order to convince a committee of three was taken through the entire building. The crowd, satisfied that it had been outwitted, scattered.

It was reported that armed men visited several of the county seats of adjoining counties but no trouble was experienced at any of the places. Mr. Morgan was reported to be in the country all night long and did not deliver the prisoner to another county jail until early Tuesday morning.

Approximately 1,000 men remained up all night long, guarding all highways leading out of the city in order not to permit any one of suspicious character to leave the city. Police Commissioner Fitz Adolphson said the men that he did not want any violence but that he did want the guilty party arrested, but that justice should be accorded him.

A gray cloth found near the scene of the attack on the woman will undoubtedly prove valuable in the finding of the guilty party. A negro youth stated to officers that he knew the owner of the gray cloth. He was (Continued on Page 3, Column 5.)

AMERICA IS READY TO FEED A MILLION NEEDEY IN RUSSIA

By Associated Press. LONDON, Aug. 2.—W. L. Brown, European director of the American relief administration, will start for Riga next Friday for the purpose of negotiating a written agreement with representatives of the Russian famine committee whereby the relief organization can start feeding a million Russian children and invalids. It was announced here today.

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American relief administration, suggested that Mr. Brown go to Riga for the agreement, it is said.

The release of American prisoners is considered paramount and the American relief administration has been ordered to make no move toward giving relief until those prisoners are actually out of Russia.

Upon the conclusion of the agreement at Riga 15 relief workers will be sent to Petrograd and Moscow, where first relief will be rendered. The necessary supplies of the relief organization at Hamburg and Danzig, which have accumulated for months with a view to the possibility of assistance to Russia, are being readied for shipment to carry on the work until shipments arrive from America.

LARGE QUANTITY OF FOOD IS CONDEMNED BY CITY OFFICIALS

The report of the city health department for the month of July shows that during that period 70 packages of olives, 109 pounds of canned fruit, 174 pounds of dried fruit, 25 pounds of dates, 75 gallons of pickles, 114 pounds of meat were condemned by the food inspectors as being unfit for human consumption. In addition to this work, 23 cases of contagious food were quarantined and fumigated during the month, this latter total being far less than that of the earlier months of the year.

Two hundred and forty-two chemical and 59 bacteriological tests were made at the health department laboratory, while total money receipts from all sources under the department's jurisdiction were $492.24.

The city incinerator, which received its first real work this morning, disposed of approximately 1,000 pounds of garbage, trash, refuse and dead animals, with a labor cost of $346. Garbage wagons made 1,000 visits in the city during July.

TWO ARE DEAD AND ANOTHER IS WOUNDED

Tragedy at Palestine Results From Dispute Over Possession of an Axe. PALESTINE, TEXAS, Aug. 2.—Execution over the killing yesterday of Fayette Cornwell and Charles R. Bronson and the wounding of Luther Cornwell, had some what clouded here today. J. Morrison is held in county jail, Luther Cornwell, a son of the dead man of the same name, probably will recover, physicians said.

The trouble, according to young Cornwell, started over possession of an axe claimed by the Cornwells. He declares Norman began shooting shortly after the three men stopped, because of a flat tire on their automobile. In front of the Norman home at Wild Cat crossing, 25 miles north of Palestine, the elder Cornwell and Bronson were shot in the back, the young man asserts. He admits he fired at Norman after the two men had been shot. After his pistol was emptied he told officers he begged for his life and that Morrison quit down after young Cornwell had told him, in reply to a question that he was not a "kai klax."

Norman claims Bronson fired the first shot, officers say.

Stewart of Edwards, making radical changes in the original bill. Motor vehicles are divided into two classes, commercial and agricultural. The latter class would be taxed only one-fourth the amount levied on commercial trucks. The substitute also eliminates the mileage tax as is done in the Johnson bill. Revenue from the taxes on trucks would go into the county road and bridge funds by provision of the substitute. It further provides that automobiles which have been registered four consecutive years are subject to only one-half the tax on others.

J. W. Hall of Harris insisted on immediate action on the bill. He declared that even with the mileage tax eliminated Texas would demand 60 percent more tax from its trucks than any other state. He also opposed elimination of the one-ton truck, because he said it would eliminate more tax on commercial vehicles than on farm trucks.

EVIDENCE COMPLETE IN TOUSSAINT CASE

If he had the money he would come to the trial. Mrs. Toussaint identified, as being in her father-in-law's handwriting, a piece of poetry, which was offered in evidence. It was the nature of a facetious letter to a niece, Elizabeth, detailing the writer's experience as a doctor and "heart specialist." Witness said the elder Toussaint was a doctor. She identified her husband's picture album, containing clippings of a high dive made by him on August 5, 1912, from a bridge over the Potomac. Other clippings of a similar purport were also shown, and the album was offered in evidence. Toussaint made the 7-foot dive with his hands and feet tied, the clipping showed. A picture of the defendant taken when he was a baby in 1855 was introduced over an objection by the state that it was irrelevant. Another picture of the defendant in bathing amid winter scenes was introduced. Mrs. Toussaint testified that her father-in-law would place the can, containing his wife's ashes on his mantle and talk to it about business matters. He would do this for two or three times a day, she said, and whatever decision he reached in that time he would abide by. The state did not cross examine Mrs. Toussaint. Raymond J. Sauter, Henricks attorney, former secretary to Congressman Parrish, testified that the hotel in which the Toussaint family was a place of immoral fame as recently as 1907, there was a bar in the building, he said. The cross examination Mr. Sauter said he was a Catholic, but that he had not known previously that Mrs. Toussaint was also. He insisted that the hotel in question had a bad reputation. Dr. Chas. W. Stevenson of this city, formerly connected with the asylum at Terrell for two years, and later in the neuropsychiatric service of the army medical corps, was the next witness. He visited Toussaint in the county jail and examined him there. "Is he a man of sound or unsound mind?" "Unsound." Dr. Stevenson said the case was one of paranoia or delusions. There are three stages, he testified, the hypochondriac stage of shyness and aloofness, usually manifested in childhood. The second stage, that of systematized delusions of persecution, is that in which the defendant now is, said the witness. It was hereditary and unsound, he said. Dr. Stevenson declared his belief that the defendant did not know right from wrong. On cross examination, Dr. Stevenson said that as a rule, paranoiacs proclaimed their acts and did not try to lay their acts on others, but this was not an infallible rule. Mr. Wilson asked on the fact that the defendant broke down and cried about his act, as not being typical of paranoiacs. "From a medical standpoint very few people are not crazy, isn't that right?" "Well, abnormal." He said there was a difference between the medical test and the legal one of distinguishing between right and wrong. Mr. Wilson asked if concealing evidence of a crime were typical of paranoiacs. "No," said the witness. "Then if a man does not, he's not a paranoiac." "He might be. He's not a typical one." "Most paranoiacs commit crime in an open, dramatic manner, don't they?" "According to the books they do. They may display cunning, instead of being dramatic." He said he had considered the defendant's successful business career in arriving at his opinion of insanity. "If a person killed another for money that wouldn't be paranoia, would it?" "No." "If he killed him because of family disagreements, it wouldn't be paranoia?" "No." On redirect examination, witness said he did not know that the defendant had tried to lay the crime on others. He said it would not change his diagnosis of the case. "Is there anything that would change your diagnosis of the case?" asked Mr. Wilson. "No, sir." The defense vigorously took a bill of exceptions to "the laughing and snoring of a jury" at Davenport. Dr. J. E. Danley of this city testified he had treated a good many cases of mental disease. A long hypothetical question requiring ten minutes to ask, covering most of the testimony adduced in the case, was then propounded to the witness, who answered that in his opinion the description and circumstances as stated indicated the defendant was insane. He did not believe that the defendant knew right from wrong at the time of the crime, and that he was incurable. "That the Catholics persecuted the Huguenots is a historical fact, and not a delusion, isn't it?" asked Mr. Wilson on cross examination. "That's right." "It might be considered a delusion, dealing with something so long ago?" "Not every man who utters off a high bridge is insane is he?" "I think he's got some form of insanity." Something of a colloquy over "book insanity" followed. Mr. Wilson again attacked along the line of a paranoiac's propensity to admit and proclaim his deed as affecting this case. Dr. Daniel said that a paranoiac might have a definite motive, without necessarily knowing the difference between right and wrong. "They've got things exactly reversed," said the witness, "Paranoiacs think wrong is right and right is wrong." He said that paranoiacs might show grief, not from remorse, but from disappointment over their plans going awry. "Aren't there exceptions to all brands of insanity?" "Yes." "Is a man crazy because he's a spiritualist?" "He certainly is, in my opinion." "Did you know that Sir William Crooke, the world's greatest astronomer, was a spiritualist?" Defense objected that there was no proof that Crooke was the greatest astronomer. Witness declared his unfamiliarity with the matter, but persisted in his belief that all spiritualists are insane. Dr. Daniel said that he had not examined the defendant. On redirect examination Dr. Daniel said he thought a man who acted as did the elder Toussaint with references to the ashes of his wife was insane. A state objection to some "book cases" about which some questions were asked was sustained by the court. The witness said that paranoiacs brooded over their supposed wrongs until they became wrong. The next witness was Dr. L. MacKechney, who was formerly connected with the North Texas insane asylum, and testified that he had examined and approved the defense's hypothetical

HORSE GENERATES ELECTRIC POWER

ELECTRIC LIGHT & POWER WITHOUT COST IF YOU OWN A HORSE.

Our old friend, Dobbin, is to go into the electric light producing business, through an invention by Robert D. McCreary. "A horse can give power to a dynamo," in other words, a horse figured McCreary, could be used as a one-horse power plant. The inventor has harnessed a horse to a dynamo, which in turn are attached to a generator, and the horse steps into the harness and starts to walk around a circle, a few feet in diameter, making electricity all the while. If the horse should stop an electrically controlled bell rings, as much as to say, "Dobbin, Dobbin," and an electrically controlled whip taps him. This makes good sense, for by working three hours during two days of each week, Dobbin can make enough electricity to light up a farm for the whole week, and running a dynamo a few hours a day for two days a week is one of the easiest things a horse can do. That such attitudes as that of Toussaint toward the persecutors of his Huguenot ancestors were to be found among other people, and this led into an examination of the defendant's attitude of mind of a few Irishmen. Architect Testifies. H. R. Voelcker, architect, testified that he knew Toussaint about five months before the killing, particularly in connection with the fire station contract for which the witness was the architect. Witness said that in response to witness' expression of sympathy, he said he did not go to see Toussaint at his father's death, until the undertaker suggested. Defendant at all times, in connection with the contract, showed excellent memory and entire intelligence, witness said. Mr. Voelcker gave it as his opinion that the defendant was not other than sane, and had no reason to believe he did not know right from wrong. Defense sought to bring out, on cross examination, that the defendant was "abnormally accurate and economical." Defendant told the witness that his wife was extravagant and that his marital happiness was threatened on that account. Mr. Voelcker said he had a high regard for the defendant's ability as a contractor. The witness said he was not familiar with the defendant's supposed delusions, save that he had heard that Toussaint thought his father responsible for his mother's death. Witness did not regard the high diving stunt as evidencing an abnormality. "Lots of men do that every day and get paid for it, Houdini, for instance." Counsel for the defense questioned vigorously as to the defendant's personal knowledge of Houdini; the defense attacked the witness' statement that such acts were common; and tried vainly to break down the witness' views on such matters. City Engineer a Witness. City Engineer Julian Montgomery testified that he knew Toussaint and had dealt with him on city matters. Toussaint had wanted the position of building inspector at one time, said the witness. Montgomery very thought the defendant of sound mind. On cross examination, the witness said he was not in possession of sufficient information to answer the question of the defendant's sanity. J. G. Dixon of the firm of Voelcker & Dixon, architects, testified of his acquaintance with the defendant in a business way. Witness thought Toussaint of sound mind and very careful and intelligent in his work, though showing some evidence of lack of experience. Mr. Dixon told of informing Toussaint, the morning after the killing, that his father had been killed. "What did he say?" "I think his remark was 'I'll declare, or something like that.'" Defendant, witness said, exited in any way, witness said, and asked where his father was found. On cross examination, Mr. Dixon said the defendant manifested no nervousness or remorse when he came to the architect's office the morning after the killing. Witness was asked if he thought a normal man, less than twelve hours after he had committed patricide. "Well, he might be abnormal." "I think he was sane, after killing his father, had become sub-blooded after his excitement had subsided." Court then recessed for dinner. The first witness after dinner was C. O. Wilson, reporter for the Record-News, who testified that in his reportorial capacity, he saw Toussaint at the police station a day after the killing and that the defendant said he knew of no enemies that his father had, and made a remark indicating that he was a patriot and had killed his father. The defendant appeared nervous, witness said, and changed his seat and position several times. Mr. Wilson was not cross examined. Dr. M. M. Walker called. Dr. M. M. Walker testified that he had known the defendant since the latter had been a prisoner and had conversed with him at one time. Mr. Wilson then started to propound a hypothetical question covering Toussaint's actions the night of the killing, and asking whether defendant was sane and knew right from wrong. "Having my opinion on the fact that he tried to fasten the crime on others and that he showed remorse, I would say he was sane and knew right from wrong." He said paranoiacs exited in their crimes and proclaimed them dramatically. "Paranoiacs founded on fact is not a delusion," said the witness in answer to further questions. "They usually deny it, but there is no fixed rule." Cross Examination. Cross examined, he said paranoia was possibly hereditary in all cases and was known to be in 70 per cent. He said that in this case the hereditary elements would not affect his diagnosis, which was made on the facts of the killing. The fact that the elder Toussaint was insane would be a circumstance but not a conclusive one. Dr. Walker's description of three stages of paranoia did not agree with that of other physicians as to the first stage, but did as to the second. "Don't some men who are paranoiacs achieve success and distinction in arts and sciences?" "The books so state." Further questioning along this line brought from Dr. Walker the statement that "lots of people think you can't be a paranoiac." Questions along this line brought laughter from taken to see Washington during the night. Mrs. Bennett, discussing the incident, stated that she was lying on a couch at her home when she was awakened certain that Washington, the negro, struck over the head with a smoothing iron which had been used in prepping out a dog. According to physical evidence the only injuries suffered by Mrs. Bennett is a gash on her head, scratches on her face and neck. Mrs. Bennett declared later Monday night that perhaps her assailant was not a negro but that it might have been a horrible dream which led her to believe that the man was colored. A thorough investigation will be made by city and county officials in order to bring out the truth of the entire affair. One officer stated Tuesday morning that he was ready to search for two other men in connection with an attempted flogging near here yesterday of M. B. Figley, a farmer. He was lured from his home by Walker, and later three other men joined the party and attempted to whip Figley, who escaped unharmed after a struggle. Officers said the four men charged Figley with mistreating his wife. The parties under arrest disclaim connection with any secret society.

LATEST STYLE By LENORE

Her name is Mimi, and she is the mannequin in a little French shop off Fifth avenue, and she looked so enchanting in her green and silver dance frock that there was but one thing to do—to sketch her along with it. So here she is. A tiny bit frightened, to be sure (for she's never been published before), but looking very cute and very chic.

At any shop you will find the materials which make up the smartness of her costume—five yards of georgette, and quantities of silver metal ribbon. You may economize, if you must, by spacing the rows a little farther apart. The ribbon is folded over and stitched at the double edge, the folded edge standing upward and away from the frock. The same treatment is applied to the neck and slashed sleeves. Blue, rose and primrose georgette will also be charming, and if preferred, clear ribbon in black, or contrasting color, may be substituted.

Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks time.—The Editor.

I will bet that if my uncle had known that a fella that is going to be a prout and his dog was dogging his footsteps last night when he went home with Yonnie, he would of been scarier than he was. But I guess he was kinda scared anyhow, because he walked in the middle of the road on the way home, and when I clunked a piece of dirt so that it hit in the road near his foot, he jumped and hollered "Who's that?" but no one can scare me when I am big and have got long pants. If anyone tickles me I will say to them, "I guess that you did not notice that I am wearing long pants did you?" and then I bet they will skin out.

My mother said when we was eating breakfast that she does not mind keeping the old cat, but we have got to get rid of the kittens, and my grandfather said that he would take them away and drown them, so when I went out to take the cow and her dottle to the pasture I put the kittens inside my shirt and took them to Miss Farmer and told her I had something for her, and when she seen what it was she said she could not be bothered with them, and I had better take them and drown them. Even the nicest people there is mean to kittens.

I did not dat to take them home because my grandfather might drown them while I was playing ball or something, so I went to a lot of houses and asked the people that come to the door if they wanted three perfectly good kittens. One woman said she did not want them, and all the rest of them said I had better drown them, so then I took them to Hopper's mother and told her she might have them, and she set out on the stove with me and Hopper and the kittens in her lap and said to me that the best thing to do for them would be to drown them.

She said if people did not drown kittens every summer the world would be over run with cats, and she said if we would fill a bucket with water and go away she would do it and we would not need to know anything about it, but I put them back inside by shirt and me and Hopper went away. Banty went to his house and got a big lard can and we put them in that while we went for a game of ball, and for a swim out back of the poor house. We pritty near had a fight with the

it up with my father and my uncle that they should all three go and drown themselves, but they only laughed at him. My mother said she did not believe it. She said the fella did not see what he most liked to think about. The mother cat was glad to get her kittens back. I do not blame her.

Music. Recovered from this mishap, Caruso was stricken with pleurisy. During his indisposition Caruso was the object of devoted attention by his wife, formerly Miss Dorothy Benjamin of New York, whom he married in 1915. One child was born to them. Caruso had a son by a former wife, a singer named Ada Ciachetti, with whom he had been associated in operat Treviso and Bologna.

Caruso's repertoire in America included the following: (Italian) "Aida," "Rigoletto," "La Boheme," "Africaine," "La Favorita," "La Sonnambula," "La Traviata," "Les Huguenots," "Fedora," "Adrienne Lecouvreur," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "L'Amore del Re," "Un Ballo in Maschera," "Lodoletta," "Marta," "L'Elisir d'Amore," "Manon Lescaut," "Madame Butterfly," "La Fanciulla del West," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "La Gioconda," "Il Trovatore," "Don Giovanni," "Germania," "Iris," "Lucrezia Borgia," "Tosca," "La Forza del Destino," (French) "Les Fecheurs de Perles," "Armide," "Faust," "Julien," "La Prophete," "Carmen," "Samson et Delila," and "Manon."

The famous singer was the guest of honor at a silver jubilee celebration on the 25th anniversary of his operatic debut, in November, 1919, at the Metropolitan at which prominent New Yorkers, including the mayor and other officials, spoke of his great artistic achievements. He received an illuminated parchment from 25 families holding boxes in the $7,000,000 "Golden Showcase," a flag from the city of New York, several medals and numerous gifts from his fellow artists.

Mr. and Mrs. Caruso resided in New York City during the operatic season. They had a summer home on Long Island and another residence, Villa alle Lanche, at Florence, Italy.

UNDERGOES OPERATION LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso, world famous tenor, underwent an operation Sunday, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Naples.

Caruso was said to be extremely weak yesterday afternoon, the weakness of his heart necessitating injection of camphor every two hours.

The operation, in dispatch says, was for an abscess between the liver and the diaphragm, which caused acute peritonitis. Caruso's wife and his brother were at his bedside.

The tenor was until a week ago on the way to recovery from the long illness which began in New York last winter early in the operatic season, when suddenly he had an unexpected relapse and was removed from Sorrento to Naples.

He arrived at Naples Sunday night.

Wife and Daughter of Fugitive Banker

Mrs. Myrtle Spurgin and Daughter Vivian.

Mrs. Myrtle Spurgin (on right) and her daughter, Vivian, wife and daughter of Warren C. Spurgin, alleged wrecker of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company bank of Chicago. It is alleged that statements of experts, after looking over the books, declare there is a shortage of more than $1,500,000. Spurgin is said to have had more than $200,000 in cash and bonds in his possession when he left Chicago.

adds the message, and the specialists who were called in decided to operate immediately.

LAST WORD RECEIVED AT NEW YORK ENCOURAGING

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The last word received here from Naples was that Enrico Caruso was improving nicely and that his voice would not be permanently impaired by his illness.

When the tenor sailed from New York on May 24, he appeared to still be very ill and weak although his physicians insisted that he was on the road to rapid recovery and would soon regain his health abroad.

Caruso's illness first began during last Christmas week when he suffered an attack of pleurisy and was confined to his suite in the hotel Vanderbilt. His condition growing worse, the singer a few days later underwent an operation to relieve him of an accumulation of pus in the pleural cavity, exudate having collected between the pleura and the lungs themselves. It was deemed advisable to operate again for a second abscess. After these operations Caruso continued in a serious condition for more than a week and was hovering between life and death.

Early in February there was another sudden turn for the worse and he suffered an attack of heart failure. His friends were called to his bedside and two priests visited him and one administered extreme unction, the belief being the singer was near death.

A group of specialists were constantly at the bedside of Caruso fighting to save his life. They were aided in their work by the use of oxygen which was administered to the patient in an effort to carry him through the crisis.

During the latter part of February the condition of the famous singer improved slowly, but steadily, although it was necessary for him to undergo a third operation for another abscess a few weeks later. He was removed to Atlantic City, where he rested preparatory to his return to Italy.

Word of the first illness of Caruso at the time he was stricken with pleurisy came as a shock to his many friends in this country and abroad as he had been singing with the Metropolitan Opera company during the present season here and in Philadelphia, and was enjoying one of the best seasons of his life.

Messages from all parts of the world inquiring as to his illness were received at the Caruso apartment. They were sent not only by persons known in the world of music, but from many admirers who had sat in his audiences at some time in the 25 years of his career as an opera star.

Up to the time of his sailing for Italy, reports were current that Caruso's voice had not withstood the strain of his many weeks of illness. These were stoutly denied by his friends.

Police reserves and dock guards had great difficulty in holding in check a great crowd of admirers as they greeted Caruso when he went aboard the steamship, where his most intimate friends bade him and Mrs. Caruso farewell.

He appeared confident that he would return to America next fall to take up his place with the Metropolitan Opera company.

Shortly after the tenor had arrived in Italy, however, reports began to drift back to this country that he would not sing again before the American public in his old voice. Caruso, however, immediately called a denial of these reports, declaring that "when I want to show I have not lost my voice I shall do so at the proper time and place."

Early this morning word came from Italy that Caruso was not recovering as rapidly as had been expected and seemed depressed, but friends declared his voice was returning and that he sang a short time each day.

Reports reaching Rome at this time stated that Caruso would be able to sing in New York by next winter, though friends reluctantly admitted "it will never be quite the same again."

Caruso was also reported to be living a secluded life in a hotel near Naples, never mixing with the other hotel guests, and taking his meals in his private suite.

News of Caruso's death on the heels of continued reassuring reports from Italy came as a stunning shock to the music-loving world. Only last Sunday photographs of the singer were published here and they showed him cheerful and apparently in robust health.

"Elisir d'Amore" at the Academy of Music.

His performance on that occasion was gallant. He struggled through the whole first act although time and again blood choked his voice, and every now and then he was forced to change a reddened handkerchief for another deftly slipped to him by a member of the chorus.

Those in the front rows soon became aware of the singer's danger and applauded the daring fight in which time after time the golden voice rose superior to the obstacle that threatened to muffle it. It was not until the combined demands of his wife, almost frantic in the wings, and the pleas of his physicians had been joined, that Caruso finally consented to abandon the stage.

A few days before the mishap in Brooklyn Caruso slightly strained a muscle when he stumpled and plunged into part of the stage settings at the Metropolitan opera house during a performance of "Il Pagliacci." There was a long delay between the first and second scenes during which Caruso rested and regained composure.

After his accident in Brooklyn every effort was made to minimize the mishap and to assure the public that Caruso would soon sing again. He did sing again, in last public appearance being at the Metropolitan on Christmas eve last, in the role of Elcisor in "La Juive."

He was welcomed back with an ovation such as only an enthusiastic Metropolitan audience could muster.

Opera goes that night fell that all was well with the glorious voice of their favorite, but on the day after Christmas came the announcement that Caruso had been stricken with pleurisy.

SORROW ON EVERY HIGHWAY AND BYWAY OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The death of Enrico Caruso beneath the skies of his own Italy today caused sorrow on every highway and byway of New York.

He was loved by all the poor of East Side tenements, the wealthy of Fifth Avenue's stately mansions, the countless numbers who filled the seats of the Metropolitan opera house between the sparkling pit and the sombre galleries whenever the incomparable tenor sang a role.

Street sweepers stopped their work to mumble a prayer for the departed tenor, the cultured lamented the loss to art of one of its most cherished possessions. They felt the loss was not only America's but the world's.

The homage paid him was never better realized than when his voice was silenced during his long illness last winter.

When he lay stricken, gallantly fighting against a death that seemed only hours away, ever expressing the hope that he might be spared until he could return to the soil that gave him birth, the meek and mighty of every land prayed that the great tenor would be spared.

Princesses sent messages of hope, his bedside from every country that knew a cable station or a wireless plant.

To his hotel suite with the exquisite bouquets of the rich came simple garlands that expressed the love and admiration of the poor.

On the stage Caruso always was cheerful. His gaiety in responding to certain calls, his gracious bows and unexpected tricks, his inexhaustible energy, aroused an admiration that knew no boundaries, creeds or birth.

His joy was in singing.

"I promise you that when I go to heaven, I shall sing forever," he told an audience at the Friar's club five years ago.

Sometimes the possession of a voice that thousands considered most perfect ever given to a man, palled upon the great tenor, and he would express a regret that he could not be just an ordinary tenor.

"The burdens of my gift are greater than the rewards," he would say.

Personal friends knew Caruso to be as cheerful in private life as on the stage.

stage. Trouble seemed ever to follow him, yet he kept cheerful and undismayed.

In June, 1920, his country home was robbed of thousands of dollars in jewelry and in the same week a bomb was set in the National theatre at Havana just before his entrance in the second half of "Aida."

Last December a disheartening series of mishaps preceded the illness which led to his death. On the night he strayed in his sleep when making an energetic exit after the aria "Vesti la Giubba" in "Pagliacci."

Three days later he burst a blood vessel in his throat during a performance of "L'Elisir d'Amore" in Brooklyn. His bravely carried on.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Drafting of the tax revision bill was taken up today by republicans of the house, and a means committee, following the presentation yesterday to the full committee of the views of Secretary Mellon and other treasury experts. JUDGE WARD URGES OPTIMISM IN TALK AT CLUB LUNCHEON

An interesting address on "Optimism" by Judge R. H. Ward was the feature of the regular weekly meeting and luncheon of the University club in the Kemp hotel Tuesday. Owing to the hot weather the attendance was low, but those who attended were amply repaid.

Before the luncheon vocal solos were rendered by Miss Tilla Mae Schaeffer, accompanied by Miss Lorimer.

The entire speaker team had been invited as guests, but the only members who turned up were Jim Sewell and Pierce Works.

Judge Ward pointed out various reasons why the American public should be optimistic, and said in part: "Is there a fair minded man in this community who can truthfully say that there has not been a marked improvement in conditions existing today as compared to conditions of three or four months ago? Rent has materially fallen, not as much as it ought to, but the reduction is marked; the price of all the necessities of life have fallen and are still falling; the railroads have improved their road beds and their equipment, and the fact is that now that it is an exception when a train is late. The goal, it is true, has not been reached, but the tide has turned that way."

There is marked activity in the resumption of building in all the cities of Texas. All the great heads of big business—the captains of industry—are daily developing plans for the resumption of business to the fullest extent. You see in the daily paper, upon almost every page, and from every locality, the glad tidings that business is improving and that the good times are coming. In fact, in a quarter of an hour optimism is abroad in our land, spreading its inspiration and encouragement that the business sun is shining more brightly, and that the silver lining to the cloud is growing broader and deeper.

The United States emerged from the world war with its credit unimpaired, and it has become the great creditor nation of the earth; its resources are still inexhaustible; the products of the factory exceed in quantity, quality and value those of any country upon the globe. The farms can still feed the inhabitants of the United States and her possessions, and with the surplus products can stay the pangs of hunger of the balance of the hungry world. Our ranches can answer every demand made upon them, whether the demand comes from home or from abroad, for meat, and all the uses that hides can be put to. Our sheep produce wool enough to clothe the naked in every quarter where the warmth of wool is desired. Our mineral resources exceed those of any country upon the globe; our production of oil is so vast as to command the attention of the world; our forests and timber and production of lumber is so great as to almost battle description.

Our government is doing all that is humanly possible within the limits of constitutional authority to bring back a universal prosperity and a general revival of our business industries and activities. Shall we balk and obstruct the efforts of our government by preaching the hateful doctrine of pessimism, thus insuring bankruptcy and woe and misery for our country, or shall we and each of us, singly and collectively, smile in the arms of optimism and go forth into every city, town and valley, and even upon the mountain tops, and preach, practice and proclaim the doctrine of optimism? Tell it to the world in strong tones that you have hope, faith and courage, and an unshakable belief that the tide of prosperity has turned, and is once more flowing back to America, act in concert, in unity with each other, looking not back upon the gloomy past, but alone to the bright and alluring future, with faith, hope and confidence and courage, and the time is not far distant when once more we will be a prosperous, industrious and happy people.

SERVANTS HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE MONDAY EVENING

A lighted cigarette stub is blamed by firemen as the cause of the blaze which early Monday evening consumed a quantity of clothing and damaged the walls of a small servant's house in the rear of 104 Indiana avenue. The place was occupied by two young men, according to reports made to the firemen, and the careless throwing of a burning "snipe" while they were attending to other duties about the place is considered as the most likely cause.

Suits of clothing and other articles of wearing apparel, comprising the entire wardrobe of the pair, were a total loss, while the walls of the house were badly scorched.

The blaze was extinguished without further loss by the Central station trucks.

MEMBERS SCHOOL BOARD TO INSPECT BUILDINGS IN DALLAS AND FORT WORTH

Part of the building committee of the local school board, composed of W. W. Brown, W. M. Pridy and W. R. Ferguson, left Monday for Dallas and Fort Worth to inspect the high school and other public buildings of those cities. The trip was planned in order to give the men who will largely determine the type and style of the new Wichita Falls institution an idea as to school structures.

They will return some time Wednesday.

DIRECT LAND IS FOR... WOULD EXCEED LESS... DESIGNED... TRA... Proposition is By Repp... WASHINGTON direct taxation...

—BY J. E. MURPHY.

DIRECT TAXATION OF LAND IS SUGGESTED FOR TAX SOLUTION

WOULD EXEMPT HOLDINGS VALUED LESS THAN TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.
DESIGNED TO RELIEVE TRADE AND INDUSTRY

Proposition is Submitted to Congress By Representative Keller of Minnesota.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—The direct taxation of individual land holdings in excess of $10,000, after exempting improvements, in the amount of one percent of such values has been suggested to the ways and means committee of the house, now wrestling with the taxing problem, as a means of relieving trade and industry of onerous burdens it is called upon to bear.

This proposition, submitted to congress in a bill introduced by Representative Oscar E. Keller (rep.) of the fourth Minnesota district, has been endorsed by a number of manufacturers and is part of the program they urge should be adopted. Representatives of these manufacturers, appearing before the ways and means committee, have contended that the burden of taxation, now borne by trade and industry, is stifling and responsible for business depression. They fully recognize that it will be necessary for the federal government to raise between four and six billions of dollars and are not overly hopeful that the plan they suggest will be adopted at this session but are prepared to carry on a campaign, believing that ultimately the bulk of the taxes must be shifted both from producers and consumers so as to encourage trade.

It is pointed out that when a tax is levied on land, it tends to stifle business that, when applied to land values, has a different result, compelling its use and thereby creating wealth. This idea is based on the assumption that when land is non-income producing and yet subject to tax the owner will be compelled either to erect improvements, thus providing work for labor and factories, or surrender it to some one who will.

A feature of the bill proposed is that it will exempt practically all but the largest of farms since it includes as improvements the clearing of the land, draining, cultivating and so on. Great holdings, however, such as vacant city lots, vast tracts underlaid with coal or bearing timber, unused suburban property would be reached by this bill, whereas it is claimed 88 per cent of the actual farmers, producing crops and live stock, would be exempt. Moreover, it is pointed out no individual holdings of land would be taxed unless they exceeded $10,000 in value. In defense of the exemption it is urged that actual farmers are producers, that farming is an industry from which the returns are relatively small. It is asserted that if land values were taxed so that the burdens would fall on the farmers the result would be as disastrous as it is claimed general taxation is on manufacturing.

REGISTRATION IS TO PROTECT THE ALIENS

Not Designed as a Police System, Explains Secretary Davis of Department of Labor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Registration of aliens, provided for in legislation urged by Secretary Davis, is for the purpose of protecting and guiding the aliens themselves and is not designed as a police system, said a statement issued today by the department of labor. Expenditures of the money taken in as fees for registration, for instructors for such foreigners as need schooling, is planned.

Under the proposed law, the bureau of naturalization would become the bureau of citizenship and "take a vastly broadened scope of activity." It would see that the aliens were properly distributed over the country, avoiding congestion in the cities. Among its other duties, the new bureau of citizenship would spread knowledge of our American institutions," the statement said. "It would begin a national campaign for bettering the physical and moral well-being of our foreign born population. To this and the new bureau would undertake to protect the foreigner from fraud and imposition. It will provide centers of information, where persons of patriotism and character would offer guidance and advice. Where possible these advisers would be themselves of foreign extraction, in order to offer real sympathy and understanding.

In addition to the regular school classes, meetings would be arranged to bring newly arrived aliens into the care of local school representatives and so quicken their acquaintance with American customs, life, institutions and form of government. The public school systems themselves would be urged to co-operate and organize special classes for adults.

"The act before congress gives the new bureau authority to appoint officers who shall have semi-judicial power in preliminary naturalization hearings. This will cut much red tape and save time on the part of the judges. Under the new plan the alien will not have to lose time from work to await his turn in court but may apply at any time to a federal naturalization officer for the purpose."

CHARLOTTE, S. C., Aug. 2.—Express company officials are trying to solve the mystery of the disappearance of $57,000 in cash, said to have been shipped by express on June 22 last from Concord, N. C., to Chicago, by Gaston B. Means, according to statements by attorneys and express company representatives today. Means had entered claim for the money which he says he counted in the presence of witnesses, and immediately wrapped and shipped by express to Roy E. Kohn, Chicago lawyer, who is attorney for Mrs. Mary Melvin, administratrix of the estate of her sister, the late Mrs. Maudie A. King, who was shot and killed near Concord in 1917. Means attorney explained that the money was a payment in connection with the settlement of the King estate and represented earnings from deals from raw rubber in which Mrs. King and Means, as her business manager, engaged prior to her death.

When the package arrived at Chicago, according to Mr. Kohn's report to Means, it contained only a block of wood in a wooden box. The express agent at Concord said today that on June 22 Means shipped a package through the office there, of the Southwestern Express company, valued at $27,000, but said he knew nothing of the contents of the package. Means was acquitted in the fall of 1917, on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Mrs. King.

PRESIDENT IS TENDERED AN INFORMAL RECEPTION

PORTLAND, ME., Aug. 2.—President Harding left here for Lancaster, N. H., shortly before 11 a. m. today, making the trip by automobile. An informal reception was tendered him when his party landed from an Eagle boat at custom house wharf after an overnight trip from Plymouth on the presidential yacht Mayflower.

Later he made a brief address from the steps of the municipal building. President Harding believes in an America concerned with every section of the republic and wants an America in absolute truth as well as in name, he said in his short talk to the thousands of people gathered in front of City Hall.

The chief executive was welcomed informally to the state and city by Governor Percival B. Baxter and Mayor Charles B. Clarke. President Harding was given the presidential salute of 21 guns when the Mayflower was abreast of Fort Williams after the passing in by Cape Elizabeth. Whistles on harbor craft and in the city took up the salute and continued it as the Mayflower anchored.

An O. HENRY Story

The Merry Month of May

By O. HENRY

OLD Mr. Coulson groaned a little, and then sat up straight in his invalid's chair. He had the gout very bad in one foot, a house near Gramercy Park, half a million dollars and a daughter, and he had a housekeeper, Mrs. Widdup. The fact and the name deserve a sentence each. They have it.

When May poked Mr. Coulson he became elder brother to the turtle dove. In the window near which he sat were boxes of jonquils, of hyacinths, geraniums and pansies. The breeze brought their odor into the room. Immediately there was a well-contested round between the breath of the flowers and the able and active effluvium from good liniment. The liniment won easily; but before the flowers got an uppercut to old Mr. Coulson's nose. The deadly work of the impalpable, false enchantment May was done.

Across the park to the offices of Mr. Coulson came other unmistakable, characteristic, copyrighted smells of spring that belong to the big-city—above—the Subway, underground caverns, gasoline, paraffin, orange peel, sewer gas, Albany grubs, Egyptian cigarettes, mortar and the undried ink on newspapers. The inflowing air was sweet and mild. Sparrows wrangled happily everywhere outdoors. Never trust May.

Mr. Coulson twisted the ends of his white mustache cursed his foot, and pounded a bell on the table by his right hand. In came Mrs. Widdup. She was comely to the eye, fair, flustered, forty and foxy. "Higgins is out, sir," she said, with a smile suggestive of vibratory massage. "He went to post a letter. Can I do anything for you, sir?"

"It's time for my acetonite," said old Mr. Coulson. "Drop it for me. The bottle's there. Three drops. In water. Do that, and confound Higgins! There's nobody in this house cares if I die here in this chair for want of attention."

Mrs. Widdup sighed deeply. "Don't be saying that, sir," she said. "There's them that would care more than any one knows. Thirteen drops, you said, sir?"

"Three," said old man Coulson. He took his dose and then Mrs. Widdup's hand. She blushed. Oh, yes, it can be done. Just hold your breath and compress the diaphragm. "Mrs. Widdup," said Mr. Coulson, "the springtime's full upon us."

"Ain't that right?" said Mrs. Widdup. "The air's real warm. And there's book bear signs on every corner. And the park's all yaller and pink and blue with flowers; and I have such a hot foot on my leg and body."

"In the spring," quoth Mr. Coulson, curling his mustache, "a young man—fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."

"That's right," said Mrs. Widdup. "Ain't that right? Seems like it's in the air."

"In the spring," continued old Mr. Coulson, "a livelier iris shines upon the burnished dove."

"They do be lively, the Irish," sighed Mrs. Widdup pensively. "Did you ring, sir?" she asked, dipping in many places. "I asked Higgins to go to the drug store, and I thought I heard your bell."

"I did not," said Mr. Coulson. "I'm afraid," said Mrs. Widdup, "I interrupted you, sir, yesterday when you were about to say something."

"How comes it, Mrs. Widdup," said old man Coulson sternly, "that I find it so cold in this house?"

COTTON MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—There was heavy realizing by yesterday's buyers at the opening of the cotton market here today. Failure of Liverpool to advance more sharply on the bullish crop figures was evidently a disappointment and the movement to take profits was also promoted by early closings of foreign exchange. First prices were 9 to 15 points lower, in consequence, but offerings were well covered, and the market closed at a steady undere and after selling at 13.25 December soon rallied to 13.46, a back tick about last night's closing. Reports that the official crop report had stimulated business in the goods market, today and the advance, which was due to renewed covering, trade and commission house buying.

There were numerous crop complaints from Liverpool and late cables from Liverpool were steady, but trading here failed to broaden and the market was quiet. The advance of 1.25 for October and 1.25 for December, or about 3 to 6 points more than the market, was not fully recovered early losses, and prices were a few points off from the previous day's closing. The failure of demand to broaden on the late forenoon advance led to a narrow market with a decline in a noon market was easier with December selling around 13.29, or 16 points off from the previous day's closing. The downward movement continued until the net decline amounted to 20 points, or 13.09, and the market closed at that level. The market was supported in an apparently on expectations of unfavorable weekly crop reports from the government, but toward the close the trading months were at declines of but 15 to 10 points.

Cotton closed steady, October 13.27; December 13.27; January 13.15; March 13.14. The cotton market closed steady: October 13.27; December 13.27; January 13.15; March 13.14.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Fresh strength developed in the wheat market today. Scattered reports of rural offerings appeared to be largely rural. Opening prices, which started from unchanged figures to 1c higher, with September 1.24 1/2 to 1.25 and December 1.24 1/2 to 1.25, were followed by a material upturn all around.

Subsequently, cash shortage complaints were handicaps to the bears and opinion was prevalent that the great of the after-harvest movement would be in many places. It was closed unsettled, at the same as yesterday's (high to 1c higher, with September 1.24 1/2 to 1.25 and December 1.24 1/2 to 1.25).

Rains sent corn down grade. After opening 4c to 5c lower, including September at 58 1/2 to 59c, prices showed but little power to rally. Later the market was influenced by wheat strength. Prices closed steady, 59 1/2 to 60c net lower, with September 59 1/2 to 60c.

Oats, depressed by the big visible supply, started unchanged to 1c down. March 23 1/2 to 24c, and then under went a general sag. Higher hogs helped provisions.

LAST NIGHTS DREAMS; WHAT THEY MEAN

Did You Dream of Bankruptcy?

IT IS well never to be disturbed over one's dreams. If one of the mystic oracles gives forth a doleful interpretation there are sure to be five others standing ready with an interpretation equally confident and most cheering and optimistic in every way. And if these are not satisfactory one has only to turn to the eminent and learned psychologists of the Freudian school to get an interpretation which, while it may cast aspersions upon the morals of the dreamer's "unconscious psyche" will, nevertheless, relieve him from all apprehension that his dream is a prognostic of evil.

Take, for instance, a dream of bankruptcy. One of the mystic interpreters says: "A dream of bankruptcy is a bad omen. Your business is in a bad way and if you are not careful you will be obliged to stop." But turning to another oracle of equal repute in the world of mysticism, we read that "Anyone dreaming of bankruptcy will find his business growing enormously and prospering, apace." Several of the oracles see in a dream of bankruptcy an omen that the dreamer will soon go on a long and unexpected journey and will be recipient of good advice which it behooves him to heed.

Still others assert that the significance of the dream is that the dreamer will meet with prosperity in his future enterprises, whatever may have been the fate of the enterprises in which he has heretofore engaged or may be engaged in at present. In fact, with very few exceptions, the mystics would seem to regard a dream of bankruptcy as a prognostic of future success.

PRINTERS DELAY FIRST ALLOTMENT OF COUNTY BONDS

The county road bonds have met with another delay.

It was hoped that the bonds would have arrived last week in order to give the county officials, whose signatures and seals must be affixed, time to have the bonds by the latter part of this week. Although no definite information was received from Galveston, it is believed that the bonds will not arrive before the close of this week.

Visiting Oil Man Gives A DEMONSTRATION OF HIS SPLENDID MARKSMANSHIP

Dr. Netherton of St. Joseph, Mo., one of the greatest wing shots in the west, who has been looking for a large game animal in north Texas for some time, was fortunate enough to kill a pinto coyote one day last week, according to a report brought to the city by his friends. This species of wolf is almost if not now extinct in this part of the country, and it takes a man of exceptional nerve and unerring aim to kill these wary animals.

After killing this beast it was discovered that it wore a fine leather collar and it is presumed that it had recently been in captivity. The wolf was a light sable in color with white legs and ruff, and to a tenderfoot would very much resemble a collie dog. Dr. Netherton is being congratulated by his many friends on his good luck and skill.

SUGGESTS PLAN FOR AIDING UNEMPLOYED DURING DULL PERIOD

PLAN IS OUTLINED TO THE CITY COUNCIL BY MILES O'REILLY.

WOULD CREATE FUND OF $20,000 TO BE LOANED

Number of Routine Matters Are Discussed at Meeting Held on Monday Night.

An elaborate plan whereby the laboring men of the city would be given financial aid to tide them over the present critical depression was presented to the city council in its regular meeting Monday night by Miles O'Reilly, retired local contractor, who stated that he had been considering the idea for several months and was now collecting more data so that he could make a complete report to the city within a short time.

O'Reilly pointed out the situation of the squatters and other residents in the north and east sides of the city as being beyond all comprehension. The squatter and distribution in which they resided is pitiful, he declared, and then went on to give a few examples of the manner in which certain families which had come under his observation were compelled to live.

The plan of relief, as outlined by Mr. O'Reilly, provides for the raising of a fund of $20,000 to be loaned out at a reasonable rate of interest to the city's deserving poor, the money to be paid back when financial conditions improve and the men are able to find work. The wealthy and well-to-do men of the city would be glad to contribute to such a fund, the speaker declared, and he was certain that such an amount could be obtained with no difficulty.

The offering of the loan would preclude the possibility of the recipients being made objects of charity, which, he said, would not be tolerated. The working class as a whole includes many of the city's finest citizens, the council learned, and in spite of their straightened circumstances they would not receive assistance in the form of alms.

O'Reilly stated that when the new irrigation project was actually begun these would be ample work for all the "pick and shovel" men, as he termed them, in the city and that the situation would then be entirely alleviated.

Plan Is Approved. Members of the council, as individuals, gave their unqualified endorsement of the project and subscribed to the belief that such a plan, if carried into execution, would meet with entire success. No action was taken in regular session.

gard to it, however, beyond the statement of Mayor Pro Tem Bonner that it should be taken up with the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations.

O'Reilly's talk came at the end of the council session, which was largely devoted to the disposition of routine matters. A. L. Ruolo, who has applied before the council on several previous occasions, was present with the information that the residents of block 88, that territory bounded by Lee, Front, Adams and Main streets, had installed water pipe themselves in order to obtain a sufficient water supply for their private use. Ruolo succeeded in obtaining the pipe some time ago and under his supervision the entire neighborhood, including women and children, turned out to dig ditches for the installation of the mains.

Ruolo also championed the cause of taxpayers in the Front street district in their fight against the squatters, who, it is alleged, are now occupying a considerable portion of territory designated by the city engineer as a public park. According to City Engineer Julian Montgomery, some 15 or 20 families are living in shack residences along Front street and the majority of these are located in the street proper. Ruolo supported these claims and is working for the removal of the squatters.

Four women appeared in defense of the intruders, however, and declared that they had purchased the land on which they were living and that the city had no right to evict them. One woman said she had lived at her present location for the past 20 years. She was informed that no immediate action was to be taken.

A committee composed of City Attorney E. M. Mann, City Engineer Julian Montgomery and Police Commissioner J. H. Pitts visited the section early last week and in an informal report submitted to the council gave it their opinion that the best thing to do would be to move Front street 30 feet to the south, thereby giving the squatters a clear claim. The committee was instructed to continue its investigations for another week and try and patch up the differences between the Ruolo faction and the squatter element.

Consider Delinquent Taxes. Consideration of the delinquent tax-payers came in for attention and Tax Collector H. J. Anderson, together with City Attorney Mann, was instructed to send out first notices to delinquents at once. The council postponed further discussion of the matter until its next meeting.

City Engineer Julian Montgomery requested a ten-day vacation, beginning next week. It was granted by the council without delay.

A petition from the local carpenter union asking that as much city improvement work as possible be carried on in order to alleviate the unemployment situation was read by Mayor Pro Tem Bonner and referred to Street Commissioner Curlee with instructions that the union be informed of the work now being undertaken and that the city was doing its best in the matter.

The paving of Ohio avenue from Sixth to the south proposed line of Front street was authorized, the Kansas paving company having been awarded the work. A suit now pending in the city and the Fort Worth and Denver railroad, in which the latter is protesting against the

COUNTY AUDITOR TO OBEY GARNISHMENT WRIT IN ENTANGLE

County Auditor W. W. Murphy stated Tuesday morning that, after consultation with attorneys, he would obey the writ of garnishment served upon him in reference to the suit filed by J. E. Robinson against Sheriff Fred K. Smith.

The conflict arose when a writ of mandamus was also served upon the county auditor asking him to pay the sheriff $763.30, alleged to be due the sheriff as the July board bill for prisoners at the county jail.

J. E. Robinson filed suit against the sheriff for wages alleged to be due him and garnished the July bill account, which was still in the hands of the county auditor. The amount prayed for in the suit is $252.90.

Mr. Murphy stated that he would pay the sheriff the difference between the two amounts if acceptable to the sheriff, but that inasmuch as the writ of garnishment was served upon him first by a deputy constable, he would obey that writ and not the mandamus which was served upon him later in the evening. The mandamus writ was issued by Special Judge Akin of the 52d district court.

CALOMEL LOSING OUT IN SOUTH

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it," Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much but it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day—adv.

WHAT IS YOUR BANK BALANCE?

On it may depend far more than you think possible. It may mean enough to tide you over any depression or loss of income by illness or other means; it may mean ability to grasp opportunity; it does govern largely the amount of credit you may obtain to enable you to carry through a business transaction that may prove of great profit to you.
