REPORTER CALLED TO TESTIFY TO ALLEGED TALK WITH BURCH

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—Chandler Sprague, a Los Angeles Examiner reporter, the newspaper announced today, is under subpoena to appear before the county grand jury to testify regarding the alleged conversation between the reporter and the late Mrs. Burch, who was charged with the alleged murder of J. Belmont Knapp.

Sprague said he expected to be questioned regarding a conversation he said he had had with Burch in the jail August 14.

Sprague declared Burch made statements to him regarding the case which he said were to be kept in confidence until Burch gave him permission to make them public or until Sprague was recalled to make them under oath. Sprague said he regarded his subpoena to appear before the jury as releasing him from his pledge of secrecy.

Burch when questioned at the jail today about Sprague's statement about the alleged conversation said: "It's a lie, Obenchain said: 'There is not a word of truth in it.'"

AMERICAN QUALITY IS OVERCOMING DIFFERENCE IF ANY IN THE PRICES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Despite low prices quoted by German firms, American exporters are on equal terms with their European competitors in Argentine markets, according to a report received today by the commerce department from Commercial Attaché Verly at Buenos Aires.

"Too much emphasis," the report said, "should not be placed on the price element as that is not always the factor or deciding element in the purchase of goods. American quality and credit arrangements carry great weight with the importers."

Plans for Auction Of Unemployed at New York Library

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Urban LeDoux, also known as "Mr. Zero," who auctioned off jobless men on Boston common, said today he would hold a similar auction next Monday near the New York public library, after a parade of the unemployed up Broadway.

LeDoux said that he would hold a similar auction on the block, strip them of the waist and sell their services to the highest bidder, but that he also would auction off the services of any unemployed women who might apply.

Asked if his methods with women would be the same as with men, he said "Why, certainly, if necessary," and called attention to the modern dress of women in Broadway musical comedies and on Fifth avenue.

"Mr. Zero" will lead the parade under an old umbrella, which he has decorated with red hearts and emblazoned with his motto, "Lift up your hearts." He will provide the hungry with coffee and doughnuts before putting them on the auction block.

He said the officials of an old time New York Episcopalian church—St. Mark's-in-the-Bowery—had turned over its chapel on the east side to him and that he would provide shelter and food there for the hungry and homeless until they could get jobs.

"The management of the textile industry," Gompers said, "will have a fight on their hands unless they treat with the representatives of this organization, recognizing the right of the men and women who labor to speak through representatives of their own choosing—collective bargaining."

Mr. Gompers declared that since textile workers had accepted a 25 per cent wage cut a year ago, "employers had tried it again and again, until they have driven the manhood and womanhood of the textile industry to desperation."

CLAY COUNTY GETS READY FOR FIGHT TO CARRY ROAD BONDS

MEETING AT HENRIETTA MONDAY NIGHT PREPARES CAMPAIGN FOR $2,000,000 ISSUE

MUST SETTLE MANY POINTS IF PROPOSAL IS TO WIN

Question of Exact Routing to Be Answered—Press and Speaking Campaign to Be Waged.

Staff Special to the Times.

HENRIETTA, TEXAS, Sept. 12.—Launching of a county-wide campaign to create favorable sentiment in favor of the proposition and the organization of committees to direct the campaign through the next four weeks featured the open meeting of Clay county business men held Monday night in the interests of the proposed $2,000,000 road bond issue.

The meeting, called by a committee which has fostered the movement from the first, was held in the court room of the Clay county court house and was attended by approximately 50 representatives from all parts of the county.

Petitions regarding the Clay county commission's position on the proposition to float such an issue were to be presented Tuesday, it having been explained that the legal technicalities had prevented the presentation Monday as had originally been intended.

The session opened with the election of J. E. Dickey as permanent chairman of the campaign committee, A. V. Magel as secretary and W. S. Caldwell as treasurer. All three of these men have been active sponsors of the good roads program and have been responsible for much of the headway that has been accomplished thus far.

Mr. Dickey, in explaining the steps that have already been taken, gave a brief review of the present status and outlined what is yet to be done before the Clay county is assured of a network of hard roads. Petitions to the commissioners court asking that the election be called have already been circulated.

Mr. Dickey indicated that the money to be extended in providing Clay county with a fairly distributed system of good roads.

While the general tone of the meeting was optimistic, it was not without discordant features and no secret was made of the fact that a hard fight is ahead before the election is successfully carried. Representatives from the outlying sections of the county, while admitting the necessity of such roads, were frank to declare that certain issues must be settled and certain assurances made before the proposition would be given support by certain taxpayers.

The main issue at stake was naturally the question as to where the roads would run. A number of speakers declared that unless definite routes were mapped out by the commissioners court indicating where the money was to be expended, the floating of the bonds would be a difficult proposition. The matter of state and federal aid in connection with construction work also came up and was argued from all angles.

In attempting to settle the question as to who should carry the roads were to be built, Chairman Dickey called the attention of the commissioners court to the fact that their main work would be confined to providing publicity that the hard roads would benefit all sections of the county. Expressions given by representatives from different localities made this point perfectly clear. It was also found that definite figures would have to be prepared showing the approximate individual cost to the taxpayers if the election is carried and the bonds issued. Heavy taxes at the present time and a desire to know how much more the new bonds would add will be large factors in the final action of the taxpayers, speakers said.

With this in view, the officers of the campaign committee intend to compile such data for submission to the Clay county people, together with such other advertising matter as is deemed necessary to effectually place the issue before the public. An advertising committee composed of Edley Cox, W. E. Edwards, A. V. Sigel, L. C. Kelly and A. B. Stage, all but the first from Henrietta, was named to prepare newspaper and other forms of advertising while M. Dickey was elected chairman of the speakers' bureau, which is to undertake the task of directing oratorical persuasion.

Mr. Dickey stated that a meeting with the state highway commissioners would probably be held in the near future and that the results of this would be used by the commissionmen. The matter of state aid for the roads would be taken up at this time, he believed.

In summing up the results of the session Mr. Dickey was of the opinion that Clay county faced the biggest task it yet has been called on to undertake. A brisk fight is ahead of the good-roads backers, he said, but at the same time he was confident that the election would be successfully carried and the county covered with a complete system of modern hard roads. His views were shared by other leaders in the movement, who predicted that a satisfactory routing of the paved highways could be made the chief stumbling block thus removed.

No one was prepared to say how many miles of roadway could be paved with the $2,000,000, but confidence was expressed by Dickey, Sigel and others that the proposed amount would be sufficient for present needs.

The Clay county good roads movement was first agitated several months ago by the Henrietta chamber of commerce and was promptly taken up by citizens from Bellevue, Patrolis, Byers and the other centers of the county.

Takes the Place Of Sister Refused Admission to U. S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Stefania Wastrobaka of Westport, Conn., came here eight years ago from Poland, worked hard and saved her money against the day when she could send for the rest of the family. War and famine swept over her native land and this spring Stefania learned that the only one left was her younger sister, Karolina.

She sent the passage money and waited anxiously for Karolina's arrival. When she went to Ellis Island, she learned that Karolina had arrived too late; that Poland's quota of immigrants for September had been filled and she would have to return to Poland. Karolina was heartbroken and desperate. She would never go back to the misery she had left. She would kill herself first, she said.

Stefania made a sudden resolve. She would return in her sister's place. She put her American-made hat and coat on Karolina. Then she gave her her pass to New York and bade her go to friends who were waiting for her. Stefania's ruse was discovered after several days when she refused to eat. She was brought before the federal commissioner yesterday charged with her first offense—that of aiding an alien unlawfully to enter the country, but was so weak that her case was postponed. The immigration men say she will have to go back to Poland if her sister is not found. But Stefania refuses to tell where Karolina is.

CONGRESSMAN TAYLOR OF ARKANSAS IS DEAD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Representative Samuel M. Taylor of Arkansas died at his home here early today after an illness of several weeks with pleurisy and pneumonia.

Prior to contracting pneumonia, Representative Taylor, who was 59 years of age, had been in declining health for several months and had not attended sessions of the house since about July 1. Elected to the sixty-second congress in 1912 to fill the unexpired term of Joseph T. Robinson, now senator, following his election to the governorship, Representative Taylor represented the sixth Arkansas district in congress continuously up to the time of his death. He was ranking democratic member of the river and harbors committee and devoted much of his attention to legislation coming before that committee.

Sharp confessed to the murder of Konesick, a merchant at Hottentot. George was convicted on circumstantial evidence and sentenced to hang. Five hours before the time of the hanging, and while he could hear carpenters preparing the gallows in the prison yard, the sentence was commuted.

It was on October 1, 1884, when George was sent to the penitentiary for life on conviction of murder. Six years later, the real murderer made a deathbed confession exonerating George. During the last session of the legislature George came to Austin and made an effort to get permission of the legislature to sue the state for false imprisonment. In this he was unsuccessful. It was while here that he became ill and died.

SCOTLAND ADDITION LIGHT CONTROVERSY IS FINALLY SETTLED

PART OF ADDITION TO GET SERVICE, COUNCIL ORDERS AT MONDAY SESSION

ACRIMONIOUS DEBATE ON EMPLOYMENT OF ATTORNEY

Present Assistant's Services Are Terminated Owing to Technicality in Charter

What appears to be a solution of the electric service controversy in Scotland addition was arrived at by the city council Monday night when an order was passed requiring installation of service in certain parts of the addition; the order is understood to have been agreed to by the electric company, which will make the installations "under protest," however, because of the fact that litigation over the same matter is still pending in the courts.

The council also tackled another of its old problems, that of the situation in "No Man's Land," but took no final action, pending the outcome of a suit brought by R. E. Montgomery, original townsite owner, for some of the property.

Monday night's session was featured by a rather acrimonious argument over the employment of an assistant city attorney. Several weeks ago the council employed John M. Martin to assist in prosecution of municipal cases, in an effort to clear up the edict. It developed later that there is only one way in which an assistant attorney can be appointed, under the charter, and that is by the city attorney with the consent of the council.

In the meantime, Mr. Martin had gone to work, his services being very satisfactory to Commissioner Pitts. Monday night the council sought to make the appointment regular, but as City Attorney Mann would not recommend Mr. Martin, it was found impossible to appoint the latter, and the council terminated the arrangement with him, paying him for his 15 days' service and thanking him for the excellent work done. Members of the council had apparently thought that the Martin appointment was agreeable to Mr. Mann.

The council asked Mr. Mann to submit another name for assistant city attorney. Mr. Mann replied that he would first like to consult Mr. Pitts. "Nothing doing," replied the police commissioner, with some asperity.

During the discussion of the matter, Mr. Pitts was on his feet twice, once to insist that something be done to prosecute city offenders if his department was to be expected to show results, and again to point out that a special prosecutor was needed for the city court.

Mr. Pitts moved to make the appointment of J. M. Martin regular, but could get no second to his motion, and when Judge Bonner elicited the information that Mr. Martin was not Mr. Mann's choice for the place, it was decided to terminate the arrangement.

The council decided Monday night to go vigorously after delinquent taxpayers who owe about $6,000 just now. No valid curfew law can be enacted by the city council, City Attorney Mann said in a written opinion, similar measures in other cities having been knocked out in the courts, as conflicting with the provisions of the juvenile law. A curfew law for this city had been urged by Juvenile Officer Yates.

Mr. Mann also presented an opinion on the right of property owners to pave streets independently of the city's contracts, holding that no such right existed. This ruling was submitted in connection with the reported intention of some property owners to pave garages in front of their places without sharing in the expense of the intersections.

Still another opinion by the city attorney held invalid an ordinance proposed by some hotel proprietors who are opposing the pending ordinance which prohibits them from keeping solicitors at the union station. The ordinance would have established a system of licensing solicitors. Action on the original ordinance was delayed.

The council passed finally the new traffic ordinance, putting into formal effect the new rules promulgated by Commissioner Pitts. An important feature of this ordinance prohibits operation of cars by children under 16 years of age.

A permit for a grocery store on Avenue F was issued, subject to the usual conditions to L. B. Gray.

Panthers Mow Down Spudders and Cinch Texas League Pennant

When Frank Haley snared Frank Kitchens' grass cutter yesterday afternoon at Athletic Park and nailed him long he reached first, the Spudders' last hope of winning a pennant was glimmering for "Kitch" made the third out in the ninth inning and the 1921 championship Panthers were leading, 5 to 1. The victory put the Atzen six and one-half games to the merry and with the schedule calling for only six more contests not even by the wildest stretch of the imagination can the Salinites now cop. There's not even a mathematical chance, said to relate.

The Spudders didn't resemble in any one respect the same club that left home a month ago for a disastrous road trip. But they're more to be pitied than censured. They couldn't do anything right. They couldn't hit at the proper time; they failed to field properly in the pinches and they showed absolutely no pep. In fact, the paprika was badly lacking on both sides. Both clubs simply went through the motions of ball playing, but the winners had a confident air about them that could not be denied. Though charged with three errors, they put up a steady exhibition, especially in the pinches, and proved to be the most effective of all that they are by far the best money players in the circuit. They were rather lucky to win so decisively as a fluke double played a prominent part in the victory, but they would have won without it.

Plach Hitting Lacking.
According to the viewpoint, the Spudders were pitiful with the stick. Bill Whittaker led the batting in the game. Though the home boys had several opportunities to break into the run club with timely blows, only two were forthcoming all afternoon. Kitchens delivered one in the second that chased the only Spudder tally in, though all the good was taken out of it when a bit of dumb coaching spoiled the hit. The only other timely blow came in the eighth when "Lobby" Tanner, hitting for Danny Gross, bounced a double off the left field barrier with a man on. He it was wasted effort, as Tex McDonald and Danny Clark were unable to hit the sphere out of the infield.

Costly Errors by Both.
Errors were plentiful on both sides. The first runs scored by both clubs. Topper Rigney started the trouble for Whittaker in the second when he made Clarence work stretch out so far for his peg on Clark's boulder that he was unable to hold the apple. Danny was soon forced to second by Miller, who hunted actively into the pitcher's hands on an attempted sacrifice. Allen made it two away when he lined to Coomb. It was a terrific blump, but unfortunately, Coomb's line to Coall Works investigated Puzzer Bill into serving him four wide ones and then Kitchens slammed his safety to right that scored Jack. Works bounded second, while Coomb's error to the coacher's urging kept on to the plate. He didn't have a chance in the field to tally, however. Sears' sagged to the ball but he gripped it in plenty of time to nail him at the plate. He had so much time that he was able to throw poorly to off-center to left, but the runner was nailed to left.

More Inability to Hit.
Another matter was lost in the fifth through their recently cultivated habit of failing to hit in the pinches. Kitchens opened with a scratch hit, but he could not make a hit in the circuit. He did hit in the fifth by sacrificing him to second, but neither Jefferson nor Gross could send him in.

It Was Not Until the Eighth, however, that the game and pennant were decided. "Holly" started out O. K. by leading Whittaker on strikes, but he got right after and passed Coomb a crash to right by Sears on second, but third and Steinhauer's line double to center scored him. Sears went to third on this drive and both runners crossed the dirt when Kraft caught the ball on the handle of his pole and dropped it just over Works' head about a foot inside the foul line for two bases. It was his best throw, which hit just where Hofman then socked to center with no fluke though and sent Bill home with the fifth run.

Some more weak hitting by the Salinites in their portion of the ninth killed their chances. Johnston was sent in to pinch hit for Hollingsworth, but his best was a roller to Rigney. Jefferson followed with one of his famous "gras" to Hoffman, which he beat a mile. Tanner then delivered his two-pitcher, which missed clearing the left field fence by a couple of feet, but the once terrified Tex and doublet Danny hit weakly to the infield and it was off.

Bischoff was sent into take a blow in the final chapter after Jim Sewell had retired the Cats in order and he got one when he let one of Whittaker's hooks glance off his skull, but neither Works nor Kitchens, who came up next, could advance him. The detailed score:

Final Inning
FORT WORTH—Coomb singled to center. Sears fanned. Coomb went out balling. Gross taking the lead. Gross threw out Steinhauer. No runs, one hit, no errors.

WICHITA FALLS—Josephson got suite a hand when he came to the plate; he fanned. Gross popped to Rigney. McDonald struck to Haley. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning
FORT WORTH—Kraft walked, but Atzen hit into a double play. McDonald to Gross to Works. Haley flew out to Allen. No runs, no hits, no errors.

WICHITA FALLS—Rigney made a poor throw of Clark's grounder, and Danny was safe at first, but was forced in second. Kraft to Hoffman, on Miller's attempted sacrifice. Allen lined into Coomb's glove. Works walked. Kitchens singled to right and when Sears juggled the ball, Miller scored. Works reached third easily, and was sent in from there by the coacher without a chance to score; he was out.

ARDMORE, OKLA., Sept. 12.—Paris won its first game of the play-off series with Ardmore to determine the championship of the Texas-Oklahoma league yesterday, 6 to 2. The series now stands two games to one in favor of Ardmore.

WHY DO SWATTERS SLUMP?

When great swatters get together, what do they talk about? "Babe Ruth" batting slumps—And how to cure them? "Princeton, Harry Heimann and Ty Cobb. "I just listened, only stepping on the gas when the conversation slowed up. "There are a hundred homers hit in the big leagues," quipped Heimann, "if—if they had Babe Ruth's eyes. It's the eyes that do it; they control everything else, muscles, movement, swing, and make a man connect just right." "That's it; eyes, not instinct," agreed Cobb. "My eyes—" started Heimann. "Now don't get personal," the Detroit manager kiddingly warned his star right fielder and the league's leading slapper for three months stirring up interest in the event. "More power to him! Hold-and-Breaks.
The Big Ten, comprising eleven of the central states' universities, is watching with uneasiness the formation of a semi-pro football association with teams in all large cities between Buffalo and Chicago.

Such raids might sound the death knell for college football in the middle west.
Last Words
Every time an umpire talks, during a baseball game, he says a mouthful of law.

Baseball managers who have felt the occasion to protest a ruling have found this out. When his honor the Umpire speaks—that is all there is to it. It's all over but the protesting. And that's not even the whole story.

Recently the Cleveland Indians protested a ball game because, so Tris Speaker claimed, a Yankee player interfered with an Indian who was trying to make a catch. The protest carried after the umpire ruled that there was no interference.

Sam Johnson was miles away from the play, but the ump's word was plenty good enough for him. Rules and regulations are national law in baseball. Other things that happen, outside of the run of rules, are up to the arbiter's judgment.

Truly an umpire always has his say!

About 25 candidates have been doing a bit of preliminary work on the junior high grounds the past few days. No scrimmaging has been indulged in yet, but is carried for the latter part of the week. "Lively Ball" Stuff Merely a Comeback Assert Old Timers

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Sept. 12.—When the newer generation starts talking of the "lively ball" the old-timers laugh. "Big Bill" Dahlquist talks about a game played in 1895 between Webster and Bryant. At the end of the fifth inning the score was 27 to 7 in favor of Webster.

The game was called in the fifth, Webster scored 22 runs in that inning and none were out. The other team just quit.

Then comes a J. Mahoney, of Alexandria. He tells of a game in 1897, when Parker defeated Huron 6 to 15. The game was called in the seventh when the players refused to play any longer. The players of those days assert that the lively ball stuff is merely a "comeback."

INGENIOUSLY MADE ROPE IS DISCOVERED IN TOUSSANT CELL

LETTER FROM PRISONER TELLS OF HIS PLAN TO END LIFE BY HANGING

MISSIVE IS INTERCEPTED AND SUICIDE PREVENTED

Rope is Cleverly Improvised of Blanket Strands Braided Together in Expert Manner

Henry John Toussaint, sentenced to hang for the murder of his father, Otto H. Toussaint, wrote a farewell note to his wife Monday evening, stating that he intended to end it all by hanging himself in his private cell. Jailor Cass Taylor intercepted the letter. He made a search of the condemned man's cell and found a number of blanket ropes hidden under the pillow of the bunk.

Toussaint had taken three strips of his blanket, cutting them approximately four inches wide and then folded them through the center. The rope with its three strands was absolutely uniformly braided and gave evidence of the exactness that has featured everything the prisoner has done since his incarceration in the county jail.

According to the officers, the letter to his wife also gave the information that he had planned to take his own life before his removal from the main jail Saturday, as the officers stated he told his wife that by moving him they had ruined his plans as he had not quite completed the ropes.

Toussaint was transferred to the large private cell on the third floor of the courthouse early Saturday morning after he had created a disturbance in the main jail at 2:30 o'clock in the morning by sitting on his bunk and taking to destroying the fixtures in his cell in general.

Sunday all day he was under the influence of an apparent deep sleep. All efforts on the part of officers to awaken him were futile.

Sunday he spent the greater portion of the day sitting in the window sill of his cell and watching the people as they passed to and fro on the street below.

The original execution date for Toussaint is Sept. 30, but this is automatically stayed as counsel are appealing the case.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH SEYMOUR PAVING WORK

SEYMOUR, TEXAS, Sept. 12.—The rain came Monday morning about 5 o'clock and shut down the paving of the public square of this city, which was just getting under good headway.

Up to Saturday at noon when the crews stopped work for the week, the brick had been laid on the block north of the court house and the intersection was finished on the northwest corner and they had begun to lay the brick down Washington street on which the concrete base had already been completed for another block.

It is not known when the work will be resumed as the weather is still cloudy and a slow rain was falling Monday evening. It was hoped that the paving could have been finished by the opening date of the Baylor County fair, which is next Thursday.

EVANGELIST IRELAND TALKS ESPECIALLY TO CHILDREN AT MONDAY NIGHT SERVICE

The sermon at the First M. E. church revival services Monday night was a sermon to young people of the Sunday school and the teen age and was upon the subject of "Remember thy Creator in the days of Thy Youth," the text being from Ecclesiastes, 12:1.

The evangelist reminded his audience that acrobats and athletes begin training for their work in very early youth, and that this is necessary in order to reach the highest efficiency, and that likewise, the devil and Christ begin to make impression upon lives while still in their infancy and that these impressions hold through life.

"A prominent judge has stated that out of 2700 cases in his court, not one of them was a church member and professing Christian. If we live our lives right from our youth up we shall have no remorse in our old age because of the sins of our youth. The best time to begin serving Christ is in our youth and there is no patience to be had with the man that refuses to let his child begin serving Christ in its youth. Think of what the world would have missed had not Moody, Stud, Mott, Wesley, Gypsy Smith and W. W. Phelps begun the Christian life in their youth. The leadership of the world is in Christian hands, yet the world and the church has paid too little attention to training the youth in the ways in which they should be trained.

"If we fail to save the children, we cannot save the world and we would not wait for a child to get so deep in sin before trying to save him from it but should see that he never has to wallow in sin. A child saved early in life may grow to be a giant for Christ, but a man saved in middle life is just a life saved from destruction. It is better to prevent disease than it is to cure it and when Jesus Christ comes into the life of a child the problems of youth and of life and spiritual development are easily solved. Bishop McCall and Moore were converted in a meeting which was voted a complete failure because it was not considered worth while then to save the boys, yet we can now see the tremendous results of that revival meeting. There can be no failure where a single soul is saved; the wages of sin is death and it behooves us to get saved and to remember our Creator in the days of our youth."

At the prayer service which followed the sermon, many were asked for prayers and some went forward to accept Christ. Everyone is invited to attend the services and help in this work.
