Texas Girls Study Linotype at C.I.A.

Waiting List, 30

Sixteen girls are enrolled and thirty are on the waiting list of the linotype classes at the College of Industrial Arts at Denton, Texas. The state college is very keen in favoring the girls. And a linotype career will have its share of thrills for the young women who go out from C. I. A. within the next few years with their certificates of proficiency in the interesting art of setting type by machinery. It will take them into the sanctuaries of heat and most adventure-promoting calling in the world—that of journalism, and into one of the best paid vocations of the present day. The girls at C. I. A. who are taking one, two, three or four year courses in linotype will not only be expert operators of the expensive machines which they will be expert linotypists; qualified to have full charge of the expensive machines which they will be expert linotypists; qualified to have full charge of the expensive machines which they will be expert linotypists...

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS A QUEER FOREST

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"I want you to see the balloon nursery. It's here in the woods."

Buskins pulled on the rein of the green paper elephant he had been riding and came to a stop.

Nancy and Nick, coming up behind him, stopped, too, and slid off. Reddy Bounce and Blue Jumper, the fat jolly rubber balloons, arriving just then, took charge of Nancy's pink pig and Nick's blue pig.

"Now," said Buskins, straightening his head-kerchief and pulling up his high boots, which had become unsettled in riding, "I want you to see the balloon nursery. It's here in these woods."

The twins were all curiosity for this time, for the Land of Lost Balloons was about the queerest place they had ever been in, and wonders were not to cease, to judge from the noise that was coming from the woods where Buskins was leading them. In the forest, great rubber-trees like the pictures in the geography books.

But these rubber-trees were different because they bore such queer fruit—balloons, if you please, of all colors and sizes, yes, and shapes, exactly like a large watermelon or a squash, or a string of sausages, and one I know of, my dears, had ears like a rabbit. Every kind of balloon was growing here.

But the noise! All babies were crying.

"It makes them grow," said Buskins. "All the balloon people grow here." He went on, waving a hand. "And the babies are the squawkers."

"They make such a noise folks can't stand 'em in the city. Sometimes they cry so hard they fall off the trees, then they can't grow any more and they are sent to mortal children to play with. But I understand that mortal parents aren't fond of their noise either!"

Polly and Paul—and Paris

By ZOE BECKLEY

Chapter I—A Girl on Main Street

Polly lived in a nice town in Indiana, where there were large department stores, three movies, a "select section" and the proper complement of banks, factories and office buildings.

The Newlands, Polly's folks, had a cream colored clapboard house on the fringe of the select section. There wasn't much money. Mamma Newland had a little income from the life insurance but Polly and her sister Bert had gone—and gladly—straight from high school into a bustling world of workaday.

Bert had always been called "the pretty one." Polly, they usually hastened to add, "had the brains" and a "certain charm of her own" that drew you to her more slowly than the shining beauty of Bert, but held you more surely in the end.

Bert had married, of course—a good-looking chap who worked in the same bank and was as surely going to be paying teller, cashier and ultimately president, as was the starting white-marble building itself to become mellowed into gray and form the center of the town's big business.

Polly's love affairs had not been what Aunt Sus (who lived with the Newlands) called brilliant. There had been the slim, shy high school sweetheart, but Polly and her sister Bert had gone—and gladly—straight from high school into a bustling world of workaday.

Bert had always been called "the pretty one." Polly, they usually hastened to add, "had the brains" and a "certain charm of her own" that drew you to her more slowly than the shining beauty of Bert, but held you more surely in the end.

Bert had married, of course—a good-looking chap who worked in the same bank and was as surely going to be paying teller, cashier and ultimately president, as was the starting white-marble building itself to become mellowed into gray and form the center of the town's big business.

She had known he would sometime summon courage to propose. And there were days when she persuaded herself that, if Alan Conger would be a good husband.

But they were mostly days when she was tired of the office, tired of her "dead-end" work, tired of the dictation, tired of the eternal grind of walking home at night through the same old streets, greeting the same old people, doing the same old things evening after evening that Lester Falls offered as amusements.

Always Aunt Sus's eternal remark that it was "just as easy to make a brilliant marriage as a stupid one" came echoing. Always she could hear Aunt Sus's sniff whenever she thought of going to marry Alan. For Aunt Sus had a special sniff for Alan.

"He's a spoozy," was her somewhat original term for him. "He'll stay with you through the whole life, isn't the kind that'll ever be president. And he'll always have colds in the head."

Then there was Charlie Briggs, in the wholesale grocery business. Charlie was awfully decent and what she did need in a "come" and sure to be successful. But it was no use. Polly couldn't marry a chap who said, "I hadn't ought to have done it, and put pomade on his hair and wore yellow shoes that squeaked."

Polly was beginning to have that sickening fear at her heart that the more thoughtful, less showy type of girl sometimes feels at 22 when what Aunt Sus called "Mr. Right" seemed not to be coming along.

Life dulled. Things that formerly amused her, gradually failed. Polly began to criticize the architecture of the library and to wonder if the First National bank building was so marvelous a civic ornament after all. "The Golden Days" movie palace palled. Holland and

MUSICIANS' OPEN MEETING IS POSTPONED INDEFINITELY

The open meeting which was to have been given by the musicians' club under the direction of Miss Florence Sammons has been postponed indefinitely, according to announcement by Mrs. Sammons.

Master Norman O'Neill of Ferrysburg, Ohio, is the guest of his father, John O'Neill. He will visit his grandparents in Houston before returning home.

C. H. Maxwell, who spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Maxwell at 1264 Austin, has returned to State university.

salad, olives, wafers, coffee, ice cream frozen in a red carnation design and macaroons were served. The hostess was assisted in dispensing hospitalities by Mrs. Cecil Friedlander of Greenville, Mrs. Brad Stags and Miss Dorothy Bear. High score for the afternoon was made by Mrs. Cedric O. Taylor and Mrs. Frank O. Moore. Mrs. Moore was awarded a set of fancy sandwich cutters and Mrs. Taylor was given a novelty kitchen slate. The consolation prize, a set of painted bridge pencils, went to Mrs. James Moody of Garvin, Okla. The prizes given to the honorees were novelty bridge pencils to Mrs. Obert Burkett and Mrs. Theodore Ellis and a hand-painted sandwich tray and pearl-handled cutter to Mrs. Cliff Easley Jr. Dainty lavender lingerie sashet bags were given to the following out-of-town guests: Mrs. Frank Weaver of Abilene, Mrs. James Wyatt of Fort Worth, Mrs. Howard F. Nichols of Ardmore, Mrs. Wilson of Trinity, Mrs. Louis Campbell of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Clark Walker of Weatherford, Miss Cora Allen of Gainesville, Miss Josephine Mayfield of Wichita Falls, Miss Ruth Nelson of Dallas, Mrs. Catherine Hall of Sanderson. The guests included Messdames Percy H. Neville, Philo Boddy, J. Otto Gilliland, Mrs. State of Arkansas, Mrs. Allen, Cedric O. Taylor, S. M. Brightwell, Brad Stags, E. Lewis Ikard, Frank O. Moore, Zoe Beckley, for where in the old days rubber balloons were all of a shape and round as moons, nowadays it's nothing at all for a balloon to look exactly like a large watermelon or a squash, or a string of sausages, and one I know of, my dears, had ears like a rabbit. Every kind of balloon was growing here.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Graner

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barker honored Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graner of Dallas Thursday evening with an informal bridge party. The hour decorations were very pretty and appropriate for the holiday season. There were three tables set players and Mrs. Brad Stags and Mr. Alvin Fuller received high score prizes and attractive prizes were given to the honor guests, Dainty refreshments were served. The party closed at a late hour by Mrs. W. H. Myers, Messrs. and Messdames Alvin Fuller, E. Lewis Ikard, Brad Stags, Fred Donley, Carl Barker and the guests of honor.

Bachelor-Breadfoot Nuptials

A wedding which will be of much interest to Henrietta friends occurred in Dallas when A. S. Broadfoot and Miss Jessie Butler were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Butler, of Sulphur Springs. Miss Butler was a member of the faculty of Wesley college at Greenville for five years and Cooks' School of Expression for two years. She has visited in Henrietta where she made many friends. Mr. Broadfoot was formerly connected with the law firm of Broadfoot and Taylor, and is now practicing law in Dallas.

Guest Honored

Honoring her sister, Mrs. Louis Campbell of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Percy H. Neville entertained the Thursday Bridge club and four tables of out-of-town guests Thursday night at home in their street. The house was beautifully decorated in Christmas colors, holly and mistletoe being used lavishly throughout the house. Right tables were arranged for bridge. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. Otto Gilliland for high score, Mrs. A. B. Ed-

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL
Medical Examinations
By DR. R. H. BISHOP

Recently, prevention rather than cure has become the keynote of modern medical science. It is so much easier to prevent than cure and it means saving in health, money and time.
People are recognizing gradually the value of a periodic medical examination as one of the best little preventives there are.

OUT OF THE DARK.
Human nature is on the verge of a tremendous change, says Professor Edward Cary Hayes, president of the American Sociological Society.

The impending change will move us into the third stage of the social evolution of man. The first stage was the period of instinct. This was in prehistoric days, when man was not far superior to the animal—governed by his impulses, passions and desires. He moved mechanically.
The second stage was the period of custom. This is the period in which we live.

Her entire national wealth is estimated at 400,000,000 francs. She is mortgaged 92 per cent of her face value.

The Dark Day
By DR. WM. E. BARTON.

Notice was given recently to the fall of stars on November 13, 1833, and of the significance attached to the event by many who witnessed it. An even more notable celestial phenomenon which no one can remember was remembered with awe for a full generation after it occurred, has found its permanent place in literature.

PLANS FOR ANNUAL C. OF C. MEETING FORMING RAPIDLY

ADOLPH BOLDT OF ST. LOUIS ACCEPTS INVITATION TO SPEAK HERE.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN WILL PRECEDE BANQUET

Budget of $40,000 Adopted For Year. Speakers to Visit Luncheon Clubs.

Adolph Boldt of St. Louis will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting and banquet of the chamber of commerce on January 16, and will speak on the subject "Civic and Industrial Development." His acceptance of the invitation to speak has just been received by the chamber of commerce.

Plans for the meeting are going forward rapidly, and it is expected to be one of the biggest affairs of the kind yet staged here. The general committee will meet at the Wichita club Wednesday after dinner to perfect arrangements. G. C. Wood, R. O. Harvey, C. E. McCutchen, George D. Keith, Burton Stanton, R. E. Shepherd and T. P. Duncan constitute the general committee. Arrangements for the membership campaign, which will follow the annual meeting, are also being completed. On Saturday, January 14, a meeting and luncheon of workers will be held. W. D. Clide, W. F. Pryn, W. M. Priddy, C. E. McCutchen, B. A. Statton and G. C. Wood constitute the committee on the budget for 1922, which is expected to total $40,000.

Details of the campaign will be outlined by speakers at the Kiwanis University, Wichita, Rotary and Lions clubs during the week of January 9.

Mr. Boldt, who is to be the principal speaker at the annual meeting, is secretary of the southern district of the chamber of commerce of the United States. He was a speaker at the 1920 meeting here.

Another "warning" about hiring negroes and Mexicans was given by Mr. Boldt at the annual meeting. A letter addressed "To the foreman of this works" was found in the door of The Times office Monday. It reads as follows:

"We have warned you once and we are warning you personally this time to discharge your Mexican and negroes and if you do not we are going to punish you and run the Mexicans out of town. We have our bunch organized and are ready for business. We won't work by the first day of the year."

Similar communications were received at other places here Monday. It was reported that the Times has negroes or Mexicans in its employ.

FEDERAL BUREAU EXPLAINS REMARK ABOUT GRAVEL ROADS

The Times has received the following letter:

"Dear Sir: On or about December 27 Mr. L. Messigman, a highway engineer of this bureau, advised with the commissioners court of Wichita county along the lines of proper maintenance of earth and gravel roads, but in some way his statements were misconstrued or misunderstood and an article in your paper of December 21 seemed to imply that Mr. Messigman advocated more gravel roads and the heading in your paper reads, 'Advocates More Gravel and Less Paved Road' and also 'Federal Engineer Believes County Getting Little for Money.'"

"I wish to state that the bureau of public roads has always taken much interest in the road building program of Wichita county and we believe that the county is acting very wisely in building its main roads of a high type. We would like to see more of the richer counties of Texas follow the example of Wichita county.

"Our creed is first on all roads selected for improvement, whether of high types or of low types, to see that the road is properly graded, second, to carefully grade your road bed to suitable width and to satisfactory grades, third, to provide substantial drainage structures, fourth, to provide a wearing surface that will be durable enough and wide enough to adequately carry the traffic using the roads, or likely to use it, after it is completed.

"We realize that in many counties in Texas we cannot expect high types of pavement, for the reasons that local funds are not sufficient to stand the cost, and also in many such counties the present traffic does not require a high type of road surface.

"We also firmly believe that in these counties where the traffic is heavy and there are local funds available for the building of high types of roads that it is extremely advisable that roads be built with surfaces of high types, as our experience convinces us that where the traffic is heavy the maintenance of roads of low types is unsatisfactory and very costly.

"We believe that the main roads of Wichita county carrying as they do a very heavy automobile and motor truck traffic should be provided with surfaces of high types and we think the county has acted wisely in laying out its building program as it has. We are also familiar with practically all of high types of highway construction being carried on in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana and we wish to say that in our opinion the concrete pavement so far laid in Wichita county is very satisfactory.

"Mr. Messigman upon returning to the district office today was much surprised and chagrined to read the article above referred to and at his request I am forwarding to you herewith a letter of explanation from him. Very truly yours, J. D. FAUNTLEROY, District Engineer."

GENERALLY WARM WEATHER EXISTS THROUGH DISTRICT

Generally warm temperatures were reported from all points in the local railroad area Monday morning, the minimum temperatures for the night ranging from 34 to 45. The lowest temperature was reported from Texline.

Light south winds were reported from all points and the extreme northern part of the area and the southern part reported generally clouded skies.

The barometer reading at 9:00 o'clock Monday morning in Wichita Falls was 29.74.

CHIEF CALLS UPON FIREMEN TO GIVE THEIR BEST IN 1922

Better and more efficient service during all of 1922 was the promise made by more than a score of local firemen to their chief at a brief meeting held Monday morning.

Fire Chief J. L. McClure called the four station crews together and a short address told his men that while he was well satisfied and indeed proud of the work they had done during the past twelve months, he expected even better results during the coming year.

A round table discussion of various matters relating to the care of fire fighting equipment was held at the conclusion of the chief's address.

NEGRO BOY ALLEGED TO HAVE STOLEN BANK WITH $25 FROM WHITE YOUTH

M. T. Williams, a twelve year old negro boy, was held at the city hall Monday morning on charges made by Abe Moraniz, a white youth, that he had stolen a small bank containing over $25. The theft was alleged to have been made Sunday afternoon.

According to police reports of the affair, Williams was playing with Moraniz near the latter's home, Tenth and Tyler streets, Sunday. The negro is reported to have offered a ride on his bicycle as an inducement to "see the bank," and when it was placed in his hand he leaped on his wheel and rode away. When arrested by Motorcycle Officer Eyerly Monday morning the boy had over $12 in his possession. Police declared that he had been identified by Moraniz and other children as the thief. Williams denied any knowledge of the affair.

TWO FINES ARE ASSESSED ON CHARGES OF FIGHTING

Fines of $10 each were assessed by Police Judge Ogle Monday morning against S. M. Gee and G. S. Albright when they were arraigned on charges of fighting. The two men were arrested early Sunday night following a lively scrap in front of the Home Tailoring shop on Seventh street.

Both battlers were considerably scratched up and one window broken in the melee. Gee was locked up for the night and Albright released on his own recognizance.

'T' WAS HIS STOMACH INSTEAD OF HEART

McLester Overcomes Trouble And Now Feels Like a Twenty Year Old Boy.

"I'm as full of life and energy as any twenty year old boy since Tanlac put me on my feet," said John E. McLester, well-to-do farmer, route No. 4, Dallas, Texas.

"I had stomach trouble so bad day and night for two years I didn't know what it was to get any sound, restful sleep. I had indigestion so bad I thought I had heart trouble, but Tanlac has shown me that everything that was the matter with me came from my stomach being out of order.

"My little boy needed a tonic so I gave him Tanlac and he has simply been wonderfully benefited. When it comes to a medicine for both old and young, Tanlac is in a class by itself."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store, in Electra by Tarleton Drug Co., West End Drug Co., Burk Burnett, and by all leading druggists.

Correct His Vision

Every time we see a school boy straining his eyes at his work, we wonder if his teachers and parents realize under what a handicap he labors. If you are responsible for a child, it is your duty to see that his eyes are in proper condition. If there is any doubt, bring him to us and we'll see that they are properly tested and fitted with glasses.
