FORECAST TREATY WILL LOSE IN DAIL BY TWO MAJORITY

STATEMENT IS MADE BY J. J. WALSH IN DISPATCH TO LONDON.

OTHER DEPUTIES DO NOT CONTRADICT FORECAST OF DAIL MEMBER.

By Associated Press. LONDON, Jan. 5.—J. J. Walsh, member of the dail executive, is quoted in a Central News dispatch from Dublin today as saying in a statement...

"I take full responsibility for making that statement," continued Walsh. "The decision will likely be late tonight and I feel that it is of the greatest importance and of vital interest for every constituency to realize the exact position."

The Central News correspondent says other deputies who were queried in regard to the Walsh statement said they would not attempt to contradict it...

Prof. John McNeill, the speaker, faces the making of a vital role in the allowance of Eamon de Valera's proposals to be presented to the dail as an amendment to Arthur Griffith's original motion for ratification of the Anglo-Irish treaty...

Some dail members believed that if the speaker's ruling was against him, de Valera would appeal from the chair to the dail itself...

Supporters of ratification express themselves as deeply chagrined at the turn affairs have taken.

Strong condemnatory comment appears in the Dublin newspapers. An editorial in the Freeman's Journal today reads:

"Those who hoped De Valera would spare Ireland the ordeal of a factional fight over his absurd document No. 2 are to be disappointed. The Irish people will find no justification in his publication...

The newspaper, seeking an explanation of Mr. De Valera's action, says it is apparently due to "vanity," and adds:

"He cannot forgive the Irishmen who made the treaty for their success and for this he is ready to sacrifice the country. He has not the instinct of the Irishman in his blood. It is in the course of Ireland that its unity should be broken by such a man acting under the advice of an Englishman who achieved fame in the British intelligence service (an apparent reference to Brakins Childers)."

The political correspondent of the Freeman's Journal writes: "De Valera depending on the loyalty and devotion which centers around the position of eminence in which the people have placed him, seems to be arrogating to himself the right of an autocrat. His mantle is slipping from his shoulders."

DALLAS, Jan. 5.—A motion for continuance was overruled in criminal court here today and selection of a jury ordered to try the case of Jess Hassell, for several years connected with the Dallas baseball club, on charges of assault with a motor vehicle.

This accident was one of a number in which Hassell figured in the past few months and as a result District Attorney Maury Hughes several weeks ago obtained a district court injunction restraining the baseball man from driving a motor car in Dallas county on the ground that he was a public nuisance and a menace to the public.

New U. S. Dirigible to Make 600-Mile Trial Flight

PEOPLE along the line of crowd-flight from Langley flying field (in Virginia) to the Wingfoot Lake Air Station at Akron, O., a distance of about 600 miles, have an opportunity to see what a first-class dirigible balloon looks like as it passes over their heads. It is the Roma—an airship built by the Italian Government and sold to Uncle Sam after the armistice—that is to make the trip, which, at the contemplated speed of sixty miles an hour, ought to be accomplished in ten hours of daylight. The Roma, to the casual eye, looks a good deal like a Zeppelin. It is, in fact, about the size of the Zeppelins which during the war made repeated raids, sometimes disastrous to themselves, over England, dropping bombs and compelling the lights of London to be darkened, but for the long pencils from searchlights which searched the heavens. This great balloon with a skeleton of steel holds 1,200,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas, and, with a crew of twenty men to manage her and run her machinery, carries in addition 100 passengers. On her trial flight in Italy a five-course dinner with wine was served for fifty-three people. She has a maximum speed of seventy-five miles an hour, is equipped with six 450-horsepower motors, and has a total lifting power of seventeen tons. Her "cruising radius" is 3000 miles.

The Typhoon's Island Home

THE United States Weather Bureau newly tells the story of Galveston in terms of hurricanes, those terrifying tropical storms, which, bred in the region of the West Indies, sweep along the Texas coast, doing at frequent intervals appalling damage.

Galveston stands on an island in the Gulf of Mexico, which was uninhabited up to 1817, its only visitors being Carankawa Indians, reputed cannibals, who crossed from the mainland over a series of shoals and reefs called today by their name.

At that period the island was known to the Mexicans and Indians as Isle de Culebras, or Snake Island, because of the great numbers of rattlesnakes infesting its sandhills and driftwood along its shores. Most of it was salt marsh covered with luxuriant grass.

In 1817 possession was taken of the island by the famous pirate, Lafitte, who had been driven out of Barataria. He was engaged in the buccannery business on a wholesale scale, with a small fleet of ships. The first hurricane in that region of which there is authentic record struck the island in the following year, when four of Lafitte's vessels were sunk or blown ashore.

The pirate did not stay there very long, and after his departure the island remained for quite a while uninhabited, though visited occasionally by fishing and hunting parties and by treasure seekers. Settlement began in 1837. Fourteen years later a hurricane struck Galveston in the midst of a severe epidemic of yellow fever, and when it blew out the fever went with it. Presumably the infected mosquitoes were all killed.

Hurricanes are constantly changing the contour and topography of the island. In the big storm of 1900 Galveston lost two blocks facing the Gulf. Another hurricane, in August, 1915, caused such an encroachment of the sea upon the island and the nearby mainland that the Gulf and Interstate Railroad was obliged to secure twenty miles of new right of way.

Stadium Bowl Hewn Out of Rock

A SHORT distance from Oakland, and marking the terminus of a popular driveway along the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay, is a miniature mountain covering an area of about five acres and 135 feet in height. It has furnished a large amount of material for building purposes, its bowels being quarried out in such fashion as to leave only a shell of the original hill.

About a million and a half cubic yards of stone have been removed by quarrying from the inside of the hill, which has been thereby converted into a sort of roofless amphitheatre, with a flat, smooth floor and an entrance through one side, represented by a straight and narrow tunnel, this passage of entrance and exit being used for carrying out the blasted rock in small cars on rails.

To some ingenious person the idea occurred that the hollow hill might be utilized for a stadium, and the scheme is soon to be carried out, title having been obtained by purchase from the quarry company. It has cost the company $1,500,000 to create the amphitheatre as it stands (which is so much to the good from the buyers' point of view), and the expense of putting it in shape for the contemplated purpose will be relatively small.

The above-mentioned tunnel is to be converted into an ornamental entrance, with concrete columns. Directly opposite it is a vertical cliff more than 100 feet high and 200 feet wide, against which a concrete stage will be built. The floor (providing for a great arena) will be encircled by a concrete wall, from which concrete seats will rise in tiers, with six concrete stairways.

Everything about the Stone Bowl, as it is to be called, will be extremely Greek. It will have seating capacity of 125,000 persons, and the arena will be large enough for football and baseball games, with a running track around it.

Cancer, the Medical Mystery

THE newest Government census figures appear to show that during the last half-dozen years there has been no increase in the death rate from cancer in this country.

This, in a way, is good news; for hitherto the cancer death rate has advanced steadily and alarmingly. At the present time it is 25 per cent higher than it was thirty years ago—the disease, in other words, killing four people for every three who succumbed to it in 1860.

Particularly striking is the fact that in San Francisco twenty times as many persons will die of cancer in 1922, proportionately to the population, as were destroyed by that malady in 1882.

The medical profession is now conducting a propaganda which seeks to persuade sufferers to have prompt recourse to the surgeon when the first symptom of cancer appears. It may be a mere wart that shows signs of growing; it may be nothing more than a little swelling, or a hard lump beneath the skin with redness surrounding it. A person in such a case should lose no time in seeking medical advice. The trouble may be of no importance; but, if it is a commencing cancer, the only hope lies in its immediate removal with the knife.

Unfortunately, persons suffering from cancer commonly conceal the fact, as if the affliction were shameful. Too often the victims have resort to nostrums advertised by unscrupulous fakery who offer a "cure without the knife." Thus postponing an operation until it is too late.

A cancer is usually local and external to start with. Later on (if it be not removed),

Marcelling Your Hair at Home

IT IS cheaper and more convenient to marcel one's own hair at home, if one can manage it. Unfortunately the instrument bought for the purpose is rather cumbersome and difficult for a non-expert to use.

A new invention by Thomas C. Russell, of Chicago, claims to overcome this trouble by making the heating tool and the clamping tool (which holds the hair) separate, the two being brought together to perform the operation.

The clamping tool is held in one hand, and with the other hand the heater is applied. Inasmuch as the former is cool and embraces the latter, there is no danger of burning.

The clamping tool has a pair of handles by which two jaws hinged together are operated. One jaw has the simple form of a trough, while the other has teeth along each of its two edges. Clamped together, they make a hollow cylinder of small diameter, the teeth providing closed spaces between which the tress of hair is evenly distributed as a preliminary to using the heater.

The heater is a hollow metal tube (with a handle) containing a little steel rod. Around the tube is wound a spiral band of metal, which affords a series of hair-engaging fins. The handle carries a wire and plug, so as to be attachable to the household electric circuit.

When desired for use the clamping tool is opened and its toothless lower jaw inserted beneath the tress that is to be marcelled. Then the jaws are closed together and the heating tube is inserted between them. Shifting of the instrument in the direction in which it is wished to wave the hair does the rest. The jaws are then opened, the tress is released, another is laid between them (with the same care for even distribution of the hair) and the operation is repeated as often as may be necessary to complete the effect sought. The result is said to equal that of a hairdresser.

Novel Plan for Film Theatres

AN INGENUOUS citizen of Seattle, Berat E. Torgersen, has hit upon a wholly novel idea for the construction of moving-picture theatres. Its most notable advantage is a greatly increased seating capacity.

His scheme is to make the floor of the orchestra or parquet slope upward toward the stage, so that all the occupants thereof will look up to the picture on the screen. This arrangement makes it practicable to extend a gallery on a downward slant from the back of the theatre four-fifths of the distance to the stage without interfering with the view from the orchestra stalls.

Entering the theatre at the street level and passing into the lobby, the buyers of seats on the lower floor would go down a flight of steps to reach it. Those bound for the gallery, on the other hand, would ascend a staircase.

The stage would be on the same horizontal level as the lobby floor, and the projecting machine would be on the same level, in a room adjoining the lobby, so placed, that is to say, as to throw the pictures beneath the gallery and over the heads of the people in the orchestra. The plan, its writers claim, will nearly double the seating capacity of any film theatre.

A building of cheap construction, one story and basement, would provide a theatre built on this novel plan, and its seating capacity would be remarkably large in proportion to its size.

Helping the Caterpillar Crawl

WE HAVE all seen how the caterpillar tractor or the war tank operating on the same principle gets over obstacles. It bumps over them, with much incidental strain on the machine.

A Frenchman, Jocelyn Emile Ollivier, has patented in this country a contrivance that will enable the caterpillar to crawl smoothly and easily over anything it comes across, accommodating its track (laid down before it as it travels) to every irregularity.

The secret lies in a sort of worm, eighteen inches or more in diameter, which runs through the middle of the machine, almost from one end to the other. The outer coat of the worm is of rubberized fabric, made double so as to be inflated with air. The tube formed by the inner layer of this outer coat is filled with water.

Pivoted to the edge of each of the cater-pillar's wheels is a bar, the other end of which terminates in a stirrup that is always held fast to the above-mentioned worm. Thus the worm, being elastic, controls the elevation or depression of the wheels as the latter pass over irregularities of ground, and at all times keeps the caterpillar's feet in contact with the ground with an equal pressure.

The movement of the machine becomes, thanks to this elastic arrangement, an easy and smooth glide, like that of a real caterpillar. Watch the insect travel and you will get the idea. It could not move in that way if it had a rigid skeleton.

Thus improved, the machine (so the inventor claims) affords easy riding, and not being subjected to violent strains and shocks, its length of life is greatly extended.

A Steam Heated Bed the Latest

A WARMING-PAN is all very well in its way, or even a hot brick at a pinch. But for real luxury on a cold night, one should have a mattress heated by steam or a flow of hot water.

This is made practicable by a novel invention credited to a Chicago man, Mark S. Maruda.

Take an ordinary arrangement of bed-springs, fasten the lower ends of the springs to a metal plate the size of the bed, and attach their upper ends to a similar plate of the same dimensions. You have then a large sandwich, so to speak, consisting of two metal plates with the springs between them.

The mattress of the bed rests upon the upper plate. Beneath the lower plate runs a pipe, zigzagging back and forth so as to find accommodation for as great a length of it as possible. The pipe connects up with the hot-water or steam heating plant of the house.

You wake up in the night feeling chilly. B-r-r-r! There is evidently a drop in the temperature outdoors. But that need not bother you for long. Sleepily you pass a hand out to the side of the bed, give a turn to a little wheel that opens a valve and immediately the heat begins to pour into the pipe beneath your couch. If presently you find yourself too warm you turn it off.

If you can manage an arrangement for supplying cold air or cold water to the pipe under the bed you can utilize the same apparatus for keeping yourself cool at night in the summer time.

Fur Bearers Vanish

THE muskrat, formerly held in small esteem, is today recognized as the most important of American fur-bearing animals. Its pelt, having become fashionable, commands an ever-increasing price.

Thereby the pursuit of the little beast has been stimulated, with the result that its numbers nearly everywhere are rapidly diminishing.

Trappers in the State of Wisconsin took more than 800,000 muskrats in 1917. In 1918 they took fewer than 300,000, and in 1919 only about 150,000.

Getting Fat an Easy Job

ANY fat woman will tell you that she is a very small eater. To this rule there are few if any exceptions.

Nevertheless, at meal times she seems to be a very hearty consumer, especially of foods that fatten. She has a weakness for bread and butter, and is fond of pastry and sweets. The temptation of candy, between meals, she finds it hard to resist.

Of "reducing" diets for fat people there is no end—most of them based upon wholly mistaken ideas; for the quack and the everyday medical practitioner are almost equally ignorant, as a rule, of the fundamental principles involved. But nobody pays any attention to the skinny folks who are anxious to gain flesh.

It should be said parenthetically that the notion that drinking water at meals helps to fatten people is a silly delusion. This widely accepted idea has been utterly exploded by the systematic experiments of scientific experts in nutrition. Water, and plenty of it, at meals importantly helps digestion, thereby encouraging the normal functions of the body. Thus it is rather an anti-fatter than otherwise.

An anti-fatter for fat people, that is to say. For the same reason, plenty of water should be drunk at meals by persons who are underweight.

There is nothing like milk to build up weight. Unless it disagrees (as it does with some people), three to five glasses a day will often do wonders. But the milk should be "certified," from a reliable dairy. Ordinary milk is apt to leave a slightly disagreeable taste in the mouth. That is because a preservative (commonly formalin) has been put into it. Such chemicals retard digestion.

The milk should be rich in cream. Cream is butter-fat, and butter-fat, if properly digested, is tremendously fattening.

Sugar, as every one knows, is a fat-making food. In cakes, pastry, etc., it enters importantly into our every-day diet. A person who is under weight may eat candy to advantage in considerable quantities if he will drink plenty of water with it. Otherwise it might disagree. Milk chocolate is wholesome, and one of the most fattening of foods, being rich in fat as well as in sugar.

Nothing fattens like fats. Bread, potatoes and other starchy foods are fattening; but butter, olive oil and meat fats are at least four times as fattening, weight for weight, as starch or sugar. Milk fattens largely because of the butter-fat it contains in a readily assimilated form.

The facts here stated come from a source no less authoritative than the nutrition section of the Government Bureau of Home Economics. They may be accepted as gospel; and no additional data are needed for the intelligent framing of dietary rules for fat people who want to get thinner, or for thin people who want to get fatter.

The fat people have one notable advantage over the thin people. They can, in every instance, if they will stick to it, get rid of their superfluous adipose, while eating as much as they want, by restricting their diet to lean meats (including poultry), fish, soups, eggs and non-starchy vegetables, with a little thinly buttered bread or toast for consolation. Some thin folks, on the other hand, are constitutionally skinny, and, no matter what or how much they eat, they can never gain the plumpness they desire.

Teaching Geography in Nursery

CHILDREN are always interested in games and puzzles that involve building operations. In them is sprouting the impulse for architecture which governs so many of the activities of grown-ups.

All of us have played with building blocks when we were little. Why not extend and elaborate the idea by the construction of miniature cities in the nursery?

Too large scale an affair? Warren M. Ransley, of Worcester, Mass., does not think so. His idea is to furnish a good-sized toy box filled with blocks, each one of which represents a building, the problem offered to the child being to put them together in such wise as to compose a miniature city.

Each such box would contain blocks for a particular city—let us say, Boston. They would be that case represent the principal buildings of the modern Athens; the State House, Old South Church, Faneuil Hall, Quincy Market, the Public Library and other well-known structures. If it were a Philadelphia box the great municipal building and Independence Hall would of course be in it.

In any case the box would also contain a sort of ground plan of the city—not attempting to represent it as a whole, but in part sufficiently well to enable the child to arrange the miniature buildings in a way that would somewhat approach the actual topographic relation of the originals.

Much effort is devoted to teaching children about the large civic centers of the country, yet no adequate means has been furnished for presenting to their minds a definite understanding of the appearance and architectural characteristics of these cities—unless perchance they have an opportunity to visit them.

It is this want that is sought to be supplied by the building blocks here described. They are meant to be educational. Assembled properly, they give a notion of what the city looks like—particularly as regards its principal features, which, after all, are what a visitor notes and remembers. He sees little or nothing of the minor streets and shabby neighborhoods.

A suggestion offered by the inventor is that the larger buildings represented by the blocks might be made in sections so as to be put together or taken apart. Thus, for instance, a church steeple or the roof of a market house might be removable.

FORGOTTEN PRACTICES.

"The time when passing automobilists were glad to give a lift to pedestrians is no more," notes the Denton Record-Chronicle.

"Also into the limbo of forgotten things has gone the time when nearly every courteous automobilist stopped to offer help to cars in trouble. Nowadays the wise automobilist refuses to pick up anybody he doesn't know; he is especially suspicious of cars alongside the road apparently in trouble, for he has learned his sad lesson, either from personal experience or that of others. The kindness of giving a lift has frequently been repaid by another kind of 'lifting' at the point of a gun by the befriended; in more than one case the driver has been foully murdered as recompense for his kindnesses. The 'broken down car' too often is but a pretext to get passersby to stop long enough for the holdup men to 'get the drop' on them for nefarious purposes. Only the other day a Denton county man was the victim of a new scheme in which the robbers hid themselves behind the skirts, as it were, of women. Passing near Fort Worth a car in front of which two women were apparently making ineffectual efforts to get it to go, he stopped to help them. As he stepped out of his car, two men, who had kept in the background, shoved pistols into his stomach and told him to 'hands up.' He did, because there wasn't anything else for him to do; and he counted himself fortunate that they took only the $15 he had with him, leaving his car. He was just that much more fortunate than another man who befriended two strangers in Wichita Falls, buying their supper and then taking them in his car for the ride to Fort Worth. They repaid his kindness by slugging him as they approached their destination, bidding and gagging him and throwing him out of the car and stealing his car in addition to $117 he had with him. The safe thing to do now is to pass up all requests for a lift on the road unless you know whom you are 'lifting'; to hurry by all persons apparently in trouble, especially at night, and to forget the kindly instincts that used to be of such assistance to pedestrians and unfortunate drivers unable to make their cars run."

PLANT A TREE.

The season is here for the planting of trees. Despite the large numbers of trees that have been planted in Wichita Falls in recent years we need more trees and more shade badly.

Not every variety of trees will grow in this climate. In fact, there are few varieties that thrive. These are our native trees. Plant them, if you wish a tree that will live.

No tree will live under city conditions without cultivation, watering and spraying against insect pests. If you want trees you must be prepared to give them some attention. The money cost will be small but attention they must have and they're worth it.

The time is soon coming when Wichita Falls will be insured of an abundant water supply for all time. Be ahead of that time with the planting of trees.

The devil finds work for idle hands; don't let our idle go to the devil.

Women agree that the man who said women never agree, was wrong.

Current Comment

HELPING RUSSIA. (Denton Herald.) From all over the world comes a loud-voiced cry for the relief of Russia. Most of the appeals are for immediate material assistance—money, loans, gifts, cancellation of debts, food, clothing. The appeals have the merit attaching to any call of suffering or of impending destruction. And for humanitarian reasons the cry should doubtless be answered with emergency necessities.

But in the popular mind and in the judgment of many men of state, the queer opinion prevails that loans and gifts and charities will not permanently remedy the dreadful condition of the masses. No other country on the globe enters the new year wrestling with such stupendous problems as those which confront the Russian people. These problems cannot be solved with bank notes or with any other form of satisfaction. If they could, the fiat currency issued by the soviet government would have made a paradise out of the present purgatory. Deeper than the purchasing power of money are the sorrows of the people. Stronger than the lure of gold is the grip of ignorance and the clutch of serfdom. We must go beyond money and gifts and moratoriums to benefit Russia permanently.

Tolstoy foresaw the present chaos. But all the resourcefulness of his powerful genius could not forecast the remedy. In his philosophy, for the benefit of his countrymen, he preached the idealistic gospel of the Master: "Resist not evil." They were not prepared for this transcendent doctrine. They were no more ready to appropriate it than the apostles were to accept the sublime message which Jesus uttered but only hinted at when He said: "I have many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now." Only subsequent centuries of intellectual and spiritual gifts could prepare humanity for that unspoken deliverance which the Christ carried with Him to the tomb. And only ages of mental and moral discipline can prepare the Russian people for Tolstoy's gospel—for that "Resurrection" of which he so fondly dreamed.

The need of Russia is education—not necessarily that fine degree of culture that distinguished the ancient Greeks in sculpture, or the Romans in painting, or the French in literature, or the Germans in science—but such a measure of popular enlightenment as will enable the common people to put away the passions that burn above the embers of age-long inhumanities—an enlightenment that will reveal the peasant to himself as a unit-personality in a great civilization. No temporary material aid can convert universal mental habits of discontent into peaceful, progressive, constructive thinking. No benefactions can give clearness of perception and outreach of vision to a people whose ideas of organic human society have been warped by ages of serfdom and whose moral constitution has been embittered by brooding over centuries of oppression. Only popular education in a liberal sense and covering many generations can bring to fulfillment the dream of the great Tolstoy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR HUNGRY SOULS: It is a strange fact that those who seem to have most in material possessions, are the hungriest in soul.

Jesus—that great Physician to the soul—seemed to understand this as we have. One day a very wealthy man came to Him to talk things over. The man had become much interested in this Teacher who had attracted wide attention. This is what Jesus told him: "You will have to sell all you have before you will be in the right spirit to become a partner of mine in the work that I am doing."

On several occasions others came to Him for advice as to what to do with their lives, and His reply was always to get rid of the things which made the spiritual life a secondary affair.

When the woman at the well told this man about her life and how she came regularly to draw from that well, He told her that it was possible to have a well of water in her heart that would continually flow and quench her spiritual thirst forever.

And that is what we all must learn very early—that what we have, whether much or little, is merely loaned to us for a short time, and that the important task in life is to increase the health and wealth of our spiritual selves.

I always like Christmases, and birthdays, and anniversaries—because they make you think of somebody else—and that's the greatest way to feed your soul.

Two hungry men, talking over their condition between themselves, get nowhere. But it is possible for two hungry souls to talk together and each leave the other's presence filled to overflowing. For the soul longs and yearns for a place to go—and the simpler and humbler that place, the greater the feast.

In the same manner as bread is the "staff of life" to the body, so is love the great food of the soul.

So if you would be filled in soul—love much. Try not to question worth too far—just love and love and love. It will all come back! (Copyright, 1921, by George Matthew Adams.)

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE LECTURER. I met a sad and gloomy man upon the train one day. His face was long and solemn and his hair was turning gray.

His eyes were dim and sunken and a pallor lined his cheek. He was the sorriest spectacle I'd seen in many a week.

"Good sir," said I, "what weight of woe is preying on your mind?"

"I'm merely thinking," he replied, "of the home I left behind."

"I have a fine and happy home, a lovely place to be. Now look at what the tempter's voice has up and done to me.

He promised me a pullman car and rooms in fine hotels. He said I should be feted by the leading city belles. He said the jumps were easy ones and pleasant trips to make—

At five a. m. I quit my bed this blooming train to take!

"They routed me from Spouters Vale to dear old Oskaloose. From Squedunk Point to Hokenm Lake I rode in the caboose;

I walked the station platform until 2 a. m. to meet The only train to get me to the next place on the sheet. And when at last I hit the town and wished to go to bed,

'Ain't got no room,' the yawning, red-haired surly room clerk said."

"You say you have a happy home, and yet you wander far. I take it, then," I answered him, "a traveling man you are?"

He sadly shook his weary head: "Oh, no," he answered made.

"The glorious, happy, much-applauded lecture game's my trade. But hear me now, if I survive the hazards of this trip And get back home alive and sound, I'll throw away my grip."

That's how Post Toasties gained universal recognition as the superior corn flakes.

Post Toasties are more substantial than their imitations. There's something to Post Toasties to eat. And there's such a distinctive crispness and rich corn flavor! Post Toasties stay crisp longer after cream or milk is added—no mushing down into a pulp.

C. T. WILLIAMS AUTO TOP WORKS

C. T. Williams, the owner and manager of this modern enterprise, has been in Wichita about two and a half years. He came here from Dallas where he had been engaged in the carriage painting and trimming business for years. This long period of training especially fitted him for this work, so he opened the Auto Top Works, 1194-6 Seventh street, shortly after he came to the city. Six men are employed in this establishment. The foreman of the paint department is especially experienced in his line, and is turning out some of the finest auto paint jobs, equal to any work anywhere. Autos that have been retrimmed and repainted in this place are as good as far as finish is concerned, as good and as attractive as when it first came from the factory, in fact much better than the trimming and painting that some factories turn out.

This establishment has ample room and everything modern in the way of equipment for this kind of work. The building is a brick structure, 50x100 feet, with special drying and finishing room for the paint department, and a complete stock of the very best trimming materials for the manufacture of auto tops, seat covers, for plate glass windows for back curtains, and everything that is necessary to make new auto tops or to repair old ones.

Just now this establishment is giving special attention to Badger Deluxe closed tops, which are made for all styles and kinds of cars, and makes open cars like sedans or coupes.

FUNERAL OF LATE SENATOR PENROSE HELD IN SECRECY

BODY WAS CONSIGNED TO THE GRAVE BY IMMEDIATE MEMBERS OF FAMILY.

REPORTERS WERE BARRED FROM THE BURIAL GROUND

Warned If They Entered the Cemetery It Would Be at Their Own Peril.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—The funeral of Senator Boies Penrose was held this morning. The same great secrecy that surrounded the making of arrangements for the funeral was maintained until the body of the political leader was lowered into the brick-lined grave in South Laurel Hill cemetery. No information was forthcoming whether there were any religious services. Newspaper reporters were not admitted to the burial ground.

The fact that the senator would be buried today became known late yesterday when the city issued a permit for interment for January 5 or thereafter. The immediate family of Senator Penrose consists of three brothers.

Newspapers that regarded the burial of a United States senator who had figured so largely in the political history of the country as an important piece of news, set a watch on practically the same name as death watches are set on prominent persons who are believed to be dying. A report that Senator Penrose's father was buried years ago at midnight in order to avoid undue publicity made the vigil of reporters almost an all-night affair.

About 7:30 a. m. today the three Penrose brothers, Charles B. Richard and Spencer, arrived at the Spruce street home where the senator's body lay and where he was born. Four automobiles parked a short distance from the house about the same time. A little later Charles Penrose, who is a physician and had attended his brother, came out on the front steps and waved his arm and seemingly from no where a hearse approached the house.

Reporters were barred. A few minutes later the body of the senator was brought out by an undertaker's assistant, and the hearse, followed by the four automobiles, supposedly containing the families of the three brothers, started for the cemetery. Reporters who were on watch at the cemetery yesterday were not admitted today and the newspaper men who followed the funeral party through a steady rain to the last resting place of the dead senator were warned that if they entered the cemetery it would be at their own peril. Guards were stationed all around the place. The funeral party was in the cemetery about 15 minutes and left before 9 a. m.

Thus was enacted the final scene in the career of a man who could have had one of the largest funerals in the history of the city. Political leaders from every county in the state came to Philadelphia within the last few days and not one was invited to the bachelor home of the senator where many political conferences have been held.

Questions had been asked why the family desired secrecy in the burial of the senator and the answer of close political friends was that Penrose hated pomp and ceremony and that it probably was his wish that he be buried as simple and with as little commotion as possible.

Report Condition Destitute and Families Without a Meal Ahead.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—West Virginia coal miners who say their families are starving have appealed directly to President Harding for government aid. Letters the miners have sent to the president are contradictory of the statement issued by Governor Morgan of West Virginia that there is no starvation among the miners' families. The letter to the president from the local United Mine Workers at Marlinton, W. Va., says: "At the meeting of our local union located at Marlinton, W. Va., the miners insisted upon to support you for financial aid to support their wives and babies. The men have worked about three months in a destitute condition, some not even having a meal ahead of the means of obtaining such. The only hope we have to ward off intense suffering is by appealing to our national government for aid through you."

CABINET COUNCIL OF CHILE NOT TO ANSWER LATEST PERUVIAN NOTE

By Associated Press. SANTIAGO, CHILE, Jan. 5.—A cabinet council has decided that no answer will be sent to the latest Peruvian note in regard to the dispute over the provinces of Tacna and Arica.

The latest Peruvian note to Chile, received in Santiago January 3, renewed demands that the Tacna-Arica controversy be submitted to arbitration. It insisted that an arbitrator should decide whether the treaty of Ancon signed in 1883, under which Chile took jurisdiction over the two provinces, had been violated and how such violations might be repaired.

Chile had previously declared a further exchange of views useless, stating that she had gone the limit in seeking an agreement.

ARREST MAN WANTED FOR THEFT OF MAIL FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Jan. 5.—William Kerfoot, wanted in Kansas City for the alleged theft of two sacks of registered mail containing currency amounting to $18,000, was arrested here by local detectives and is being held today pending advice from postal authorities. Kerfoot is said to have stolen the sacks while acting as mail clerk in Kansas City 15 years ago. Under many aliases he eluded capture until traced to Portland, Ore., several weeks ago.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE SINCE NOVEMBER 2, 1911

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5.—Will Kerfoot, arrested yesterday at Sacramento, Cal., on a charge of stealing registered mail, has been a fugitive from justice since November 2, 1911, according to J. F. Johnson, in charge of the local postoffice inspector's department. Prior to that time, Mr. Johnson said, Kerfoot was employed as a substitute railway mail clerk working between Leavenworth and Miltonville, Kansas. He was indicted in federal court at Topeka, Kan., in April, 1912, for the theft of $1,500 in money from registered mail.

CALOMEL SALIVATES EVEN WHEN CAREFUL

Treacherous Drug can not be Trusted and Next Dose may Start Trouble

Calomel is dangerous. It may salivate you and make you suffer fearfully from soreness of gums, tenderness of jaws and teeth, swollen tongue, and excessive saliva dribbling from the mouth. Don't trust calomel. It is mercury; quicksilver. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you will take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Adv.

NOW WORKING IN WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS

At The People's Store Located at 602 7th St. Near Ohio

HERE IS THE STORY—It is indeed pitiful. My fellow citizens of Wichita county, this concern turned over their stock of goods to me, with their inventory showing in plain figures amounting to $60,000.00 and asked me to sell it. They told me their lease expires the first of next month and they cannot pay the high rent that the landlord wants. They asked me if I could sell out the entire stock and fixtures this month. I told them I could if they were willing to take half of what the stock cost them. They accepted my offer. It is a bitter pill to swallow but that's the way the world turns nowadays. Their loss will be your gain. Fellow citizens, in all the years of my experience I never made such a contract to sell goods at the following prices.

GIANTS WILL START TRAINING MARCH 1ST

Players Due to Start Prepping at San Antonio in Less Than Two Months. NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Members of the New York Giants will start for their winter training camp in San Antonio, Texas, on February 25, manager McGraw announced today.

As Nick Altrock, Baseball's Jester, Would Say It

This line of dope sounds as if it was concocted by Nick Altrock, the official jester of baseball. The recent deals made by the two New York clubs, as well as the now famous scolding in the Landis case, inspired the effusion which runs thusly:

"Attention is called to the fact that the roster of the New York Giants has already begun to grow. The Yankees have become Ruthless over the decision of Judge Landis.

Billy Evans says

College football has entered the big business stage. No longer is the gridiron game merely a form of competition to settle an athletic rivalry, that has existed for years between certain institutions of learning.

SUZANNE TRIES HAND AT GOLF

It may or may not be true that Suzanne Lenglen, European tennis champion, has quit the court game, as reported, but it is true that she has taken up golf. Here she is learning to drive at Nice, France.

THREE FORMER TEXAS LEAGUERS FIGURE IN MAJOR LEAGUE DEAL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—The Philadelphia National League baseball club has completed a deal for First Baseman Leslie of the New Orleans club of the Southern League. Two players were given in exchange—John Monroe, second baseman, and P. Henry, who was purchased from San Antonio of the Texas League.

GRON SIGNS TWO YEAR CONTRACT WITH GIANTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Heinie Groh yesterday became a full-fledged member of the New York National League baseball club, which gave the Cincinnati Reds George Burns and Gonzales and a cash bonus of between $20,000 and $30,000 for him. Gron signed a two-year contract at the Giants' office this afternoon. Manager McGraw refused to state the salary.

SPORTS STORIES by Paul W. Barkin

The Boxing Situation. Several boxing titles seem doomed to change hands during 1932, but unless some unknown heavyweight looms on the horizon the heavyweight crown is doomed to rest on Dempsey's head for another year.

MORE SPEED IN FOOTBALL THAN ANY OTHER SPORT

Football is speedier than any other sport, says Alfonso Stagg, coach of the University of Chicago football team and director of athletics at that institution. He declares that under the right kind of coaching a man can be made speedier in football than he can in any other branch of team athletics.

Must Get Some Opponent. A mixup between Dempsey and Martin would be nothing but a light workout for the champion. The E. F. champion wouldn't stand a ghost of a show, though he has a good record among the second tierers.

"If Killinger doesn't prove as big a sensation in major league baseball as he was in college football, I'll miss my guess sadly." That is the opinion of Coach Besdek of Penn State, the man who developed Killinger, generally ranked as one of the greatest backs of all time.

ASK W. R. FERGUSON TO BE A CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR IN APRIL

The possibility of W. R. Ferguson, president of the Wichita State Bank and Trust company, entering the race for city mayor, was carried in a statement issued by Mr. Ferguson Thursday morning to the effect that he had been urged by a number of local business men to become a candidate in the April election.

A committee of business men, including members of the present administration as well as those considered as elements of the "opposition," called on Mr. Ferguson Thursday morning and offered the combined support of administration and anti-administration backers should he consent to the use of his name as a candidate.
