GEORGE AND BRIAND HOLD THE CENTER OF STAGE

MEETING AT CANNES HAS BEEN FULL OF DRAMATIC INCIDENTS.

GUARANTEE FOR FRANCE ALMOST CREATES PANIC

Names of Briand Found in Proposal an Advantage for Great Britain.

By COL. EDWARD M. HOUSE, Copyright Public Ledger Co. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—There are many stirring events in progress throughout the world that are difficult to keep in intelligent touch with them all.

The Washington conference still has many important matters to be settled before it properly can adjourn. The settlement of these matters is in progress, and when adjournment is made the still will remain the legislative bodies of the respective governments to reckon with.

Meanwhile, world interest again has shifted to Europe, and Lloyd George and Aristide Briand are holding the center of the stage. The meeting of the supreme council at Cannes has been full of dramatic incidents. The long-discussed guarantee for France came to an unexpected end when it was proposed that it be guaranteed by the British public recently has cooled toward France, and a single proposal to guarantee her against Germany would meet British opinion; but coupled with France's agreement to help bring compromise of industrial revival through Central Europe and Russia it probably will be approved heartily.

It is probable that Briand resigned not so much because he feared the lack of a sustaining vote in the chamber as in anger at his treatment by it when in the midst of industrial revival negotiations with other governments. To criticize the executive of the government at such a time and without knowing the facts by which he was being guided, was an unusual and unwarranted proceeding. His successor will assume a great responsibility, and an anxious world should reserve its opinion until it is learned how he purposes to meet it.

DECLARES IMPROVED HIGHWAYS GREATEST OF ACHIEVEMENTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—No single public improvement has done more for the general good of the country than the development of our highway system.

President Harding told the delegates attending the National Good Roads congress, which opened here today, in a personal message brought to Chicago by Colonel H. L. Bowley, president of the American Road Builders' association. The president's message said: "There is now pretty nearly universal agreement that no single public improvement has done in recent years or will do in coming years more for the general good of the country than the development of our highway system. The task is an enormous one, but better methods both in physical construction and in the relations of the community to highway development have been taking form in a most encouraging way."

Letters were also read upon the opening of the convention from Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer and United States Senator Lawrence C. Phelps of Colorado. The congress opened in the coliseum with more than 10,000 delegates in attendance. Among them were governors of 45 states and mayors of 4,500 cities and towns, either in person or represented by an official delegate. All Canadian provinces were represented and builders from all of the island possessions of the United States also were on hand.

Sealdsweet Grapefruit and Oranges

In buying grapefruit and oranges, remember that beauty is more than skin deep. The real merit of these citrus fruits is in the juice and good looks do not signify juiciness.

Grapefruit or oranges that are russet or golden will be found just as juicy and sweet as fruits which are bright on the outside. Whatever the color, tree-ripened Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges are good to eat.

For Inner Goodness That Will Satisfy

Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges may be depended upon. This inner goodness is the first aim of the co-operating growers who market their fruit through the Florida Citrus Exchange.

The same trees produce grapefruit and oranges that vary in outer appearance from bright and golden to russet, but are equally good inside. Buy for juiciness and sweetness rather than by color, using the Sealdsweet trade-mark as your guide.

Handsome Book As a Gift

"Florida's Food-Fruits", beautifully illustrated, contains directions for the use of Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges in a multitude of ways. Send your name and address for gift copy.

Why not to yours?

Rich in Food and Health Values

The value of grapefruit and oranges, in calories or fuel units of food, has been amply demonstrated by medical and scientific research. Now science has found these fruits equally rich in vitamins, the fruit elements essential to the perpetuation of life; vitamins making other food constituents available to the system. It is the juice of grapefruit and oranges that contains the calories and the vitamins. Sealdsweet Florida fruits are heavy with juice, indicated by weight, hence their usefulness as food and for maintaining health.

BROWN MONGREL PUP SAVES LIFE OF A MAN

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Nero, a brown mongrel pup, last night saved the life of one man and probably prevented the destruction of the hotel Halestead by fire.

The dog awakened its master, John Curtin, owner of the hotel, and led him to the rear of the building where Curtin saw flames and smoke coming from the first floor which is occupied by a clothing company.

After the fire department had been called the dog refused to leave the building, continuing to bark until George Decker, a guest, had been found on the third floor overcome by smoke. Decker was revived. The dog remained in the hotel until it was overcome by smoke after which it was rescued by a fireman.

NOT IN THE BUSINESS OF SEPARATING MOTHERS FROM LITTLE BABIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Secretary Davis of the labor department declared that his department was "not in the business of separating mothers from the babies" in commenting upon a New York dispatch last night which said that Mrs. Dionisia Halewaska, a resident of Chicago for 11 years, had been admitted at Ellis island with three of her children, but her three months infant born in Poland had been excluded by the immigration authorities because the immigration quota for Poland had been exhausted.

Orders have gone forward from the department, the secretary said, to admit babies in all such cases, regardless of the condition of the quota. He added that no official report on the case had reached him and he did not believe the dispatch was correct.

DECLARES PUBLIC MEN SHOULD STUDY AFFAIRS RATHER THAN POLITICS

MANCHESTER, ENG., Jan. 17.—"Public men should be thinking of the appalling industrial conditions now prevailing rather than about politics," declared John Robert Clynes, labor leader in the house of commons, in an address last night.

Local authorities and relief agencies, he said, were distracted by the demands made upon them. The unemployed were reduced to such slender resources that they could not live for long upon the allowances received from relief bodies.

"Their dire necessity," he added, "will exhaust their patience and privation may drive them to excesses. We must cease maneuvering for political advantage and concentrate on trade revival."

Notice of Dissolution.

The law partnership heretofore existing between E. W. Nicholson and C. B. Feider, with offices on the seventh floor of the American National bank building, has been mutually dissolved. Each member of the firm will continue in the practice of law, and will occupy his present offices. E. W. Nicholson, C. B. Feider. 247-67c

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS LAND OF EVERYTHING By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nothing remained but the boots themselves.

Nancy and Nick went home after the visit to Soap-Bubble Land with Huskins, because Huskins said that he had an important engagement and would have to leave them. "But if you come out to the orchard tomorrow," he promised them, "I shall meet you under the apple-tree and will take a ride up into the sky in our little elevator and see more wonders. Although, dear knows, you may see nothing at all, because the place I wish to take you to next is sometimes called 'Emptyland.' But sometimes it is also called the Land of Everything, depending entirely upon Whizzy Torpedo. If Whizzy has been at his tricks blowing things sky high off the earth, you may see everything from milk bottles to barn doors.

"That's where I am going now, to see if there is plenty of room for the poor things to come to when Whizzy gets after them. We fairness keep it cleaned out the very best we can."

Huskins had been shrinking into his high boots all the time he was talking and now nothing remained but the boots themselves, and with a little shake they were gone. The twins didn't forget what the little fairyman had said, "Whizzy and early next morning they were out under the apple-tree. The Magical Mushroom appeared with Huskins and bringing the Green Shoes. "And I think that I'd better give you another language charm, kids."

"My skin became rough and red pimples broke out all over my face. The pimples were hard and scaly, and when I rubbed and burned so that I could not sleep at night. My face was badly disfigured. I tried many remedies but could not get relief. Seeing an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment I sent for a free sample which helped me so I purchased more, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Nellie Mae Johnson, R. F. D. 2, Easley, S. C., July 18, 1921.

a long time before, he gave the children another piece of pink lining of his round hat.

When he was gone, the Twins wished themselves up into the little elevator-house at once, followed instantly by Huskins. As before, the little car rose smoothly up between clouds of pink and white blossoms, right into the sky.

MILLER COTTON MILLS, WACO, TEXAS.

THEO. H. PRICE SAYS:

"Texas People Spend $60,000,000 a Year Outside the State for Having the Cotton They Produce and Consume Converted Into Manufactured Cotton Goods"

An Editorial by Theo. H. Price:

Among the year's developments that are of particular interest to the cotton trade there is to be especially noticed the construction of several new cotton mills in the State of Texas and plans which contemplate a further extension of the cotton manufacturing industry in that State. According to the latest figures there were 147,922,000 active cotton spindles in the world, 35,380,000 of which are in the United States, 20,000,000 being in the North and 15,380,000 in the South.

The distribution of the 15,380,000 spindles in the Southern, or cotton-producing, States is indicated in the subjoined table:

Alabama	1,291,000
Arkansas	13,000
Georgia	2,644,000
Kentucky	97,000
Louisiana	106,000
Mississippi	109,000
Missouri	31,000
North Carolina	4,881,000
Oklahoma	5,000
South Carolina	4,955,000
Tennessee	428,000
Texas	180,000
Virginia	595,000
Total	15,380,000

It will be noticed that Texas has but little more than 1 per cent of the Southern spindleage. During the three cotton seasons ending the 31st of July, 1918, there was consumed in the United States and Canada an average of more than 7,000,000 bales of cotton, or 3,500,000,000 pounds annually. This is equal to about 35 pounds per capita.

Texas has a population of 4,661,000. If the per capita consumption in that State is up to the national average, as is probably the case, Texans are consuming cotton goods for the manufacture of which over 300,000 bales of cotton are required and on 99 per cent of this consumption they are paying the cost of shipping the cotton to mills outside the State, manufacturing it there and shipping it back to the very people who produced it.

This is manifestly uneconomic, and as the cost per pound of manufacturing and distributing cotton goods is roughly equal to twice the cost of the raw material these figures mean, if cotton is worth 20 cents a pound, that the citizens of Texas are spending outside of that State an average of 40 cents a pound, or nearly $60,000,000, for having the cotton that they produce and consume converted into the cloth and other manufactured cotton goods that they require.

It is therefore plain that the wealth of the State could be greatly increased by the construction of cotton mills in which its most important product could be converted into the manufactured goods that are made out of it.

This is, however, a comparatively narrow view, for it is quite possible that the cotton goods consumed throughout the United States, and especially in a very large section of the South and Southwest, to say nothing of Mexico and South America, could be manufactured in Texas. The raw material is there, the labor is there and the capital is there, and I am sure that the enterprise necessary to combine these three essential elements is not lacking.

The history of cotton manufacturing in the States of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, now the leaders in the Southern textile industry, would indicate that the manufacture of coarse or heavy cotton goods should be at first undertaken and that as the operatives become familiar with the industry and develop the necessary skill the production of finer and lighter goods will follow naturally.

This would seem to suggest the technical lines along which the development of the cotton manufacturing industry in Texas should be attempted, and with the highly intelligent white labor that is now available in the more populous communities of Texas I have little doubt that if the movement acquires sufficient impetus the mills of Texas will shortly be able to produce a very large portion of the cotton goods that are consumed in that and the neighboring States, as well as in Central America and Mexico.

The following articles can and should be made in Texas cotton mills out of Texas-produced cotton:

Counterpanes, table cloths, denims, chambrays, gingham, percales, batiste, dimity, pajama checks, gaberdine, India linen, linene, lawn cloth, middy twill, madras, jeans, nainsook, organdies, pique, pongee, poplin, repp, voiles, satine, beach cloth, plisse, limon crepe, galates, serges, shepherd checks, diaper cloth, towels, napkins, draperies, damask, crash, domestics, mosquito nets, etc.

Texas, the greatest cotton-producing area on earth, manufactures only 1 per cent of the cotton goods it consumes.

Texas cotton can be converted into finished goods in Texas to supply home requirements and to ship to other parts of the United States and to Mexico and Central and South America.

The Miller Cotton Mills, starting operations a little over a year ago, have made a remarkable record during a period when conditions were extremely unfavorable for any business.

The border of this advertisement shows pen pictures of various scenes in the Miller Cotton Mills.

At the present time the demand for the products of the Miller Cotton Mills is so great it is impossible to take care of the orders even by operating two shifts, day and night.

The directors of the Miller Cotton Mills decided to increase the capacity of the mill by 60 per cent, which should increase profits about 100 per cent.

To provide funds for this expansion an issue of $350,000, 10 years eight per cent sinking fund first mortgage gold bonds was authorized.

These bonds are being offered to Texas investors. There remains about half of the total issue unsold.

The financial condition of the Miller Cotton Mills shown in condensed statement below, prepared by Messrs. Marwick, Mitchell & Co., as of November 12, 1921, after applying the proceeds from this bond issue:

Net profits from Nov. 12, 1921, to Dec. 31, 1921, were $28,001.53.

The company's earnings are approximately four times the amount required to pay the interest on the bonds and provide a sinking fund.

The bonds are a first mortgage on all the company's real property and fixed assets, and is the only bonded indebtedness of the company.

The company obligates itself to retire, through operation of a sinking fund, by purchase in the open market or call at 105 and accrued interest, 10 per cent of the bonds each year.

The bonds are issued in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. Dated December 1, 1921, and due December 1, 1931. Interest payable January 15 and July 15, beginning January 15, 1922.
