

ELEVEN DROWNED AT FORT WORTH

ABOUT 1,500 ARE MADE HOMELESS MUCH PROPERTY DAMAGE DONE BASEBALL PARK IS SUBMERGED

FORT WORTH, April 25—Eleven persons were drowned, at least 1500 made homeless, the city water plant put out of commission, other public utilities endangered, property damage of $500,000 inflicted, all interurban traffic was suspended and street car service crippled as a result of a storm, the most terrific that ever visited Fort Worth and vicinity Monday night and Tuesday morning.

Ten inches of rain fell here between 10 o'clock Monday night and 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, breaking all previous records. All ambulances in the city and scores of automobiles were pressed into service to rescue stricken families, citizens volunteering their services and carrying ten flood victims were taken to hospitals but most of them were rushed to the headquarters of the Fort Worth Welfare association, where coffee and restoratives were restored them. The spillway at Lake Worth has suffered no damage, despite reports to the contrary and water commissioners said that only 24 inches of water was pouring over the dam at 2 o'clock this morning, which is far below the 72 inches once having been recorded.

Residents of Arlington Heights and the north side are completely inundated. Showing the depth of the water north of the Lindbergh viaduct, the right field grandstand at Panther baseball park is half submerged and the fence of the ball park cannot be seen. The flood broke through the levee protecting the park and went through the grounds in a raging torrent. The river stage Monday showed 37 feet, a rise of 2 1/2 feet in 12 hours. In the flood of 1908 the gauge was 38 feet, but it was not so serious as this.

Danger of fire was added to the horror of the flood. The west side yards of the Cameron Lumber company were destroyed by flames this morning. The fire started when a fireman from reaching the yards Monday night many alarms were rung in as a result of houses having been struck by lightning bolts. At noon today reports from the north side and at other localities indicated that the worst was over. The water was declared to be receding. At that time a fall of six inches was reported at Eleventh and North Main streets in a half hour. Reports from the north side indicated that the water was receding. Although the water at noon was receding, Weather Observer Landis would promise no relief from the water until the water recedes to the level of the street.

Two other women were swept from a tree at the foot of Florence street and two more drowned in the West side of the city. About 5 o'clock this morning a white man imprisoned in a house that was swept down the river near the old West Seventh street bridge, when a rescue boat was overturned. The body of a white man was seen floating under this bridge a short time after.

STREETS OF DALLAS ARE FLOODED BY HEAVY RAIN. DALLAS, April 25—Dallas early today reaped the benefit of the water of floodwaters thoroughfare. Following yesterday's precipitation which culminated in a rain and thunder storm, the streets were impassable as a result of flood and floating debris. Indications were that the rain which had been falling during a twenty-four hour period was broken this morning.

REPORTS FROM OTHER SECTIONS OF THE STATE indicate that the effect of the rain was general and a rebound of the flood condition of the country for the month is expected by residents of river lowlands. While making preparations to flee to safety, Fort Worth reported an exceptionally heavy downpour and this combined with the rainfall here expected to put the Trinity on a rampage.

High winds and much lightning accompanied the rain and later reports indicated considerable damage from other sections.

CANDIDATES DISCUSS THE ISSUES INVOLVED IN PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

MORGAN ATTACKS RECORD OF WILLIAMS IN SENATE

Differ On Soldier Bonus and On the Tariff Question—Speak at Odell.

VERNON, TEXAS, April 25.—Guinn Williams of Decatur and S. A. L. Morgan of Wichita Falls, candidates for the unexpired term of Lucian W. Parrish in the special election May 13 and for the nomination to congress next July, held a joint debate here Monday afternoon before a crowd which completely filled the district court room. Dr. J. E. Dodson, local physician, presided and introduced the speakers.

Mr. Williams spoke first, orienting himself with merely stating the platform on which he was running. This consisted in the main of the principles advocated by Morgan with a slight variance on matters of immigration and compensation for soldiers. Concerning the latter, Mr. Williams stated that he is in favor of a bonus provided the people are not taxed to provide it. He explained further that he favors the erection of hospitals for the sick and disabled and the educating of those who have been incapacitated and lost earning power.

Concerning immigration, the Decatur candidate advocated closing our doors to all foreigners until such time that a plan can be devised for eliminating the thousands of undesirable who yearly come to our shores. Only those should be admitted, he claimed, who would contribute to the educational purposes of this nation.

Mr. Morgan, who spoke at the close of his opponent's address, immediately opened a flood gate of contention toward statements made in the preceding speech, and toward statements he anticipated as yet to come from Mr. Williams. He charged Williams with taking a dual stand on the soldier bonus. In what other way, said the Wichita Falls aspirant, can a cash bonus be raised other than by taxing the people? Friends of his opponent, said Mr. Morgan, have been telling the people that Mr. Williams is in favor of such remuneration when in truth he is not.

Concerning immigration, Mr. Morgan asserted we have no room for the foreigner who will not make this country his first love, but to set up an arbitrary discrimination would be to provide the nation with a Chinese wall. We must consider our markets before we take any rash steps to prevent outsiders from entering our country, said the speaker.

Mr. Morgan bitterly assailed his opponent over his record as former chairman of the state penitentiary committee. He charged that the action of Williams in blocking a bill for more than $500,000 in appropriations caused the state to recently borrow money with which to support the institution. This has caused huge expenditures of interest, he said, while public funds have been lying idle.

Taking up Mr. Williams' charge that anyone putting a bill for which he voted detrimental to the people's interests, Mr. Morgan cited the well-known truck law of last year, later repealed. He charged that his opponent voted in favor of the measure without having read the bill. He stated further that the Decatur candidate voted against the bill requiring six years of higher education for those practicing medicine in the state.

Mr. Morgan flew to the defense of lawyers in our law making bodies, and offered refutation to the charge of Mr. Williams that more business men are essential. He charged his opponent with inconsistency on the tariff question, and with having made the statement that women show more judgment at the polls than do the men.

Williams was also roundly scored for having made a statement that he formerly had traded mules, but that more mule sense is needed in congress.

NET INCOME FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS FIFTY PER CENT BELOW 1920

NEW YORK, April 25.—Net income of the federal reserve bank of New York in 1921 was more than 50 per cent less than that of the preceding year. The annual report of the bank, made public today, shows net income of $28,093,832 in 1921, compared with $55,128,136 in 1920.

JUDGE JONES WILL ADVOCATE FIFTEEN PER CENT REDUCTION

COUNTY TAX RATE WILL BE RAISED BUT WILL SAVE TAXPAYERS $75,000.

RENTITION REDUCTION WILL SAVE ON STATE TAX

County Judge Presents Figures to Verify His Contentions of Saving Effect.

Judge J. P. Jones, county judge and head of the county equalization board, is advocating a reduction in tax rentals and a raise in the county rate. He stated Tuesday that he would attempt to put this measure through when the board meets in August in order that the taxpayers of the county might be benefited.

According to the figures which the judge prepared in support of his contention, the reduction of 15 per cent in rentals and raising the county rate from 75 cents as it was last year to a figure between 85 and 90 cents, it will effect a saving to the taxpayers of Wichita county of over $75,000.

The state rate last year was 62 cents and it is believed that it will be the same for 1922. At this rate the difference or a saving to the taxpayers of this county would be $62,500,000.

RAILROAD TO FIGHT CROSSING ON LAMAR FOR NEW HIGHWAY

CITY COUNCIL HEARS BOTH SIDES OF CONTROVERSY MONDAY NIGHT. ALDERMEN DISAGREE, DECISION POSTPONED. Ohio and Lamar Contingents Present Their Arguments at Lively Session.

In spite of the fact that the county commissioners and some members of the city council favor the Lamar street route for the paved highway to Clay county, adoption of that street is still very much in doubt, it developed at a hearing on the matter at the city council session Monday night. The Wichita Valley will fight any effort to establish a new crossing at that point, it was stated, and the fact that a condemnation contest would delay the paving may be a factor in the situation. The plans for the road at that point would cut the crossing squarely in the middle of a switch, and the road opposes it for that reason. The county commissioners are said to be agitating using the present crossing, which involves either a hairpin turn or the use of another street before turning into Jalonick. The council heard some rather raspiratory arguments of the question Monday night, went into executive session, got the matter before council, and then announced that it was not in agreement on the subject and that further time would be asked. A petition signed by about 150 citizens, including, it was said, a number of Ohio avenue property owners, was presented by J. C. Hunt on behalf of the Lamar street route. Mr. Hunt presented the claims of the Lamar avenue folks and said among other things that the proposed Ohio-Mississippi route was too close to the flats. For this, his assertion he was more or less bitterly assailed during the evening, and later said that he did not have any intention of reflecting on anyone who lived on lower Ohio or Mississippi streets, but that he stuck to his statement that the alteration of the route would go too close to the flats. Ralph Hines, S. Y. McQuigg and I. H. Roberts spoke for the Lamar route. R. E. Huff, J. L. Jackson and Miss O'Reilly contended for the Ohio-Mississippi passage. The Lamar folks contended that their route was the most attractive, that it entailed only one crossing, that it was the most direct, the most convenient, the most generally desired and the most logical. Supporters of the Ohio-Mississippi route replied that it had been understood, when the bonds were voted, that the old Meridian highway should be followed, that street cars on Lamar made it undesirable for a highway and that the fact that the part of town was not as attractive was reason why the city should encourage the improvement and upbuilding. I. H. Roberts, who spoke for the Lamar route, said that he owned property on both Ohio and Lamar. The inability to get the new crossing at the junction of Lamar and Jalonick without a fight with the railroad was pointed to by the Ohio-Mississippi faction as an argument in favor of their route. And there the matter stands until next council meeting.

The White Desert

"Ah!" Then came the sound of heavy steps, and Barry glanced towards the door, to see framed there the gigantic form of a grinning, bearded man, his long arms hanging with the looseness of tremendous strength, his gray eyes gleaming with twinkling interest, his whole humored, eccentric giant. Then the voice came, rumbling, yet pleasant: "He no remember, eh?" "No, I know him all right. It's Barry Houston—I've been expecting him to drop in most any day. "Eet is the—" Ba'tiste was waving one hand vaguely, then placing a finger to his forehead—"Eet is the—" "Amnesia!" The answer had come from the girl now standing in the doorway. "Ah, oui! Eet is the amnesia." "Then there's nothing for me to do, except to drop in every few days. You'll take good care of him?" asked Thayer. "Ah, oui!" "Good. Want to walk a piece down the road with me, Medaine?" Then they faded through the doorway, and Barry could hear no more. But he found himself wondering about the girl and her interest in Fred Thayer, and whether she, too, might be a victim of the machinery which he felt had been set up against him; about the big, grinning Ba'tiste, who now was fumbling about with the "redclothes" at the foot of the bed and—"Ouch! Don't—don't do that!" Barry suddenly had ceased his thoughts, to jerk his feet far up under the covers, laughing and choking and striking to talk at the same time. At the foot of the bed, Ba'tiste, his eyes twinkling more than ever, had calmly rolled back the covering and tickled the injured man's feet. "Ho, ho!" and Ba'tiste turned to talk to the shaggy dog at his side. "L'enfant feels it! L'enfant feels it!" "Feel it!" grunted Houston. "Of course I feel it! I'm ticklish." "Ho!" Ba'tiste grinned and wagged a finger. "You no tell the truth. I know. I tickle your feet." "You're crazy!" "So, mebbe. Ba'tiste have his trouble." The face suddenly aged. The twinkling light left the eyes. Then, "But Ba'tiste, he knows—see? When set is the—what-you-say, amnesia—the nerve set no work in the foot. I could tickle, tickle, tickle, and you would not know. So you are—shamming. But you are Ba'teste guess." You sleep in Ba'teste bed, Ba'teste—" he looked with quiet, fatherly eyes toward the young man who had calmly asked no question—and tell no tales!"

CHAPTER III The simple statement of the gigantic trapper swept the confidence from Houston and left him at a disadvantage. His decision had been a hasty one, a scheme to take Thayer off his guard. "When's the doctor coming again?" asked Barry. "The big man snapped his fingers. "Pouff! Like that, Ba'teste call him, and he is here. Ba'teste—he is here. Ba'teste, he is only a trapper now. Ba'teste, he had sworn, he never again strike a bed, and he turned swiftly, a broken smile playing about his lips—"you, mon ami, you—you look like my Pierre. With a sudden impulse, he swerved about the bed and sat down beside the sick man. "Ba'tiste—" he smiled plaintively. "Like to talk about Pierre—and Julienne, my wife. Even though set hurt." Barry could think only in terms of triteness. "He's been gone long." "The big man counted on his fingers. "One—two—tree year. Before that—before he was come. My Pierre, he kiss me, he kiss me. Ba'teste want him to go, Julienne, she say nothing—she cry at night. Ba'teste was big. And Julienne say, him, 'you, you—you go. You may save a life. And Ba'teste went.' " "To France?" "Ba'tiste bowed his head. "Long time Ba'teste look for his Pierre. Then—one night—in the cathedral at St. Meneshould, I find him. But Pierre not know his pere. He not answer Ba'teste when he call 'Pierre! Pierre!' Here, and here, and here—" the big man pointed to his breast and face and arms—"was the shrapnel. He sigh in my arms—then he is gone. And by'm'by Ba'teste come home—and find that." He pointed out into the shadows beneath the pines. "Died!" The man's face had gone suddenly purple. His eyes were glaring, his hands upraised and he clutched. "Murder! Murder! mon ami! Murder! Last Wing—he Medaine's Indian—he find her—so! In a heap on the floor and a bullet through her brain. And the money we save, the ten thousand dollar—set is gone! Murder!" A shudder went over the young man, on the bed, his face blanched. His lips lost their color. For a moment, he stared with dazed, unseeing eyes, at last to turn dully at the sharp, questioning voice of the trapper. "Murder—you know murder?" "There was a long moment of silence. Houston shook himself, as if to throw some hateful, vicious thing from him, and turned, with a parrying question: "Did you ever find out who did it?" "No. But Ba'teste always look for things—that were in the dead-box. Then he switched, again. "Why you look so funny? Huh? Why you get pale?" "Why you like that when I talk about murder?" The gaze of Ba'tiste Renaud was strained as he asked the question, his manner tense, excited. "Maybe you know the reason already—through Thayer. But if you don't—Ba'tiste, how much of it do you mean when you say you are a man's friend?" "Ba'teste may joke," came quietly, "but Ba'teste no lie. You look like my Pierre—you help where it be his. You are my friend." "Then I know you are not going to ask me for something that hurts in telling. And at least, I can give you some word of honor that it isn't because of my conscience!"

sell it all off. The mill is rented to me. The land is mine, and I can do everything but actually dispose of it. But on top of that comes another twist: if I haven't developed the business within five years into double what it was at the peak of its best, development, back goes everything into a trust fund, out of which I am to have a hundred dollars a month, nothing out here, Ba'tiste, to find out why, in spite of the fact that I've worked day and night now for a year and a half, I can't get it! Something or someone is blocking me, and I'm going to find out what and who it is! I think I know one man—Thayer. I don't care what happens to me personally, I'm going to make good my father's memory." "Bon—good!" Old Ba'tiste leaned over the foot of the bed. "My Pierre—he would talk like that. Bon! Now—what is it you look for?" "I don't know, I've got one lead—as soon as I'm able to get into town. How big a telegraph office is there at Tabernacle?" "How big?" Ba'tiste laughed. Eet is about the size of the—peanut!" (Continued in Our Next Issue)

Get Nerve Force From Nuxated Iron

It will strengthen your nerves and increase your vigor and endurance, often in two weeks' time. It contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most nearly resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. It also contains organic iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Organic iron enriches the blood and plenty of rich red blood means more nerve force, so that Nuxated Iron not only feeds what might be termed artificial nerve force to the nerve cells, but it stimulates the blood to manufacture a greatly increased supply of new nerve force. Get a bottle of Nuxated Iron today, and if within two weeks' time you do not feel that it has increased your nerve force, and made you feel better and stronger in every way, your money will be refunded. Nemo Corsets

ESPECIALLY RECOMMENDED FOR Stout Women

NEMO Corsets Are Indorsed by Dr. Adolf Lorenz

Professor of Orthopedics, University of Vienna, Austria

Dr. Lorenz is now licensed to practise in New York, Illinois and Texas. A letter from Dr. Lorenz to Kops Bros., manufacturers of NEMO Corsets, is herewith reproduced:

PROFESSOR DR. ADOLF LORENZ
Reichsratstrasse 21
Vienna, I.
Austria

New York, N. Y., Dec. 30, 1921.

My Dear Mr. Kops:

I have carefully examined the Nemo Corsets you submitted to me and find that the appliances which are attached to them are in various ways most ingeniously constructed for the purpose of giving relief, support and protection to the contained abdominal and pelvic organs.

These corsets are of great importance to women, due to their prophylactic, curative and corrective properties, providing the lesions have not become chronic.

I consider that the most valuable qualities in these corsets are the combined services of producing symmetrical properties, at the same time giving effective physical relief and comfort to women suffering with organic diseases to which the modern woman is prone.

It is the experience of the medical profession in general that mechanical devices which have to be prescribed for alleviative or curative purposes will not be used by women if they conflict with or destroy the natural symmetry of their figures.

My study of the construction of Nemo Corsets has convinced me that their hygienic features blend harmoniously with a woman's natural form.

I specially recommend some of these ingeniously constructed corsets for those women who have relaxed, stretched and weak abdominal muscles or walls, nephroptosis (floating kidney), ptosed stomach and ptosis, or prolapse of any abdominal or pelvic organ, while other devices in Nemo Corsets are of immeasurable value to the stout woman with the abnormally large abdomen, which is heavy with adipose tissue.

It seems to me that these corsets are particularly beneficial to that large class of women who are actively engaged in work which requires much physical exertion.

PROF. ADOLF LORENZ.

SPUDDERS HAVE THIRTEEN HARD GAMES TO PLAY ON FIRST 1922 ROAD TRIP

By PAUL W. LARKIN.

"If we can win seven of our thirteen games on the road this trip, I'll be perfectly satisfied," declared Skipper Walter in the clubhouse leading Spudders before hopping the rattle to Fort Worth last night. "In a way, I feel that the rest of the boys will slug their way to victory in enough games to give us the edge on the trip. Since we have had so many hot days, I am confident the pitchers will come through, but unless we do the best we can, we may be in a tight spot. Give us an even break on the road and I know we'll take two-thirds of our games at home." That will be a record.

Both the Spudders and Panthers heaved sighs of relief yesterday when the final game was postponed. Salm waited until the last minute before reaching a decision, but on his last trip to the ball yard found the playing field in worse condition than ever before. Though it didn't rain enough after 2 o'clock to prevent play, it would have been suicide to send the players out to such a slippery field and many sore arms would have resulted from the cold weather.

The Spudders will meet only the northern clubs on this trip, but these three are as tough as any in the circuit. The Cats are a hard club to beat any time. They haven't as formidable an aggregation as last season, but they've got the spirit which can't be downed. Their offensive strength is just as good as it was last season. Judging from the two games played here, but their defense has been greatly weakened. They have practically the same hurling staff as in 1921 with the exception of Johns, but Wiley Moore seems to have replaced him in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired. The Cahuliers didn't show much against the Spudders, however. The Salmittes saw five of them in two days, each was belted freely. The Joe Dale won his game, it was not due to any great hurling on his part. Though runs were scored off him to win the game, he was not.

Sluggers Keep Word.

The local sluggers declared at the beginning of the season that they would get a half dozen runs for the pitchers every day, and while that is improbable seven days a week, they have done it in the last few times. The runs will not be enough to win unless their own hurlers can keep the opposition from scoring more.

After their game in Fort Worth, the Spudders jump to Sheepsport for four games. They will open the 1922 season Wednesday at Louisiana. Wednesday the Spudders cleaned up the Gasers series here, but were exceedingly fortunate in a couple of games. Billy Smith has gotten away to a terrific start but he has collected too good a bunch of ball players to lose many more games. Every day will turn out to be a gaser game for the Spudders. They have their work cut out for them in the Gasers series.

From Sheepsport the locals come back to Dallas for four contests. Wichitaans already know that Jim Galloway and his Giants are one of the hottest teams in the league. Stop. Dallas is breaking out with great pitchers and the Salmittes will have another batch of left-handers to overcome this time.

Fort Worth will be the next stop and then the far is bound to fit again. Unless the unforeseen happens, these teams will turn out to be battling for the top rung again and battle they will.

By the time the Spudders get back to Fort Worth Saturday night a couple more hurriers to shoot at the Cats. He expects to receive something worth while any day after May 1 from the Salmittes. He has not given up all hopes of getting Hollingsworth back and he is banking heavily on "Sherriff" Blake who was with Summa in the Gasers last year. Homer Summa declares that Blake ran who easily in the league as he was one of the best in the International last year. Pittsburgh holds him in present.

Salm plans to use Al White regularly at second base now. It took Al some time to get into the groove, but he is now in the satisfaction of all that has nearly won. Salm will probably be kept as he has proved a real find. He has been in the squad has been in the line.

McDonald and Miller Star

Probably the outstanding feature of the club's week trip for the reason has been the all-around work of the McDonald and Miller. The club possessed by these two athletes has proved to be one of the best in the league. While their other fielding has not been so good, both have been out of several hits. Both have been faster than ever and Texas managers on the path have been looking for more than one of them. Those who saw Tex play several seasons ago knew that he was capable of playing a great game. He has done it, but although he has been in the .300 he has not been making much of it. When Fred Beck at first had been playing a great game, but although he has been in the .300 he has not been making much of it. When Fred Beck at first had been playing a great game, but although he has been in the .300 he has not been making much of it.

OBSTACLE GOLF IS THE VERY LATEST IN SPORT

Just seems as if the golf enthusiasts never get enough of the game.

At Pasadena, Cal., is a novel and tricky course that affords plenty of amusement for golfers.

It is a compact nine-hole course that covers only 100-square yards. However, in that short stretch of turf may be found an assortment of obstacles that would make the most hardened golfer cuss.

In the upper left the golfer is shown trying to lift the ball from a brick tee through the barrel bunker.

In the upper right the golfer must drive off a brick tee and get through the wire hoop with the small sphere.

In the center it is necessary to direct the ball over the miniature treble and on to the next obstacle.

The new game is known as obstacle golf, and is to perfect the golfer in his short game, a weak feature of most golfers' play.

HOME RUNS PLAY PROMINENT PART IN MONDAY GAMES

NEW YORK, April 25.—Kenneth Williams, slugging left fielder of the St. Louis Browns, added the main factor in giving St. Louis a 4 to 1 victory over Cincinnati today. Williams collected his fifth home run in the eighth inning, and maintained a tie with Cleveland for second place.

Wally Pipp's sock in the eleventh, with Devermore on base, gave the Yankees a decision over the Philadelphia Athletics, and incidentally their sixth straight victory. Carl Mays was hit hard, but fast support saved him when the Mackmen threatened.

One big inning, in which Shinnier's timely hit brought home the winning tallies, enabled the Giants to nose out the Philadelphia Nationals, while Cincinnati, although out-hitting St. Louis 12 to 7, fielded poorly and dropped its seventh straight victory. Pittsburgh fared the best going Pittsburgh Pirates and drove in the Cubs' winning runs with a triple. The Boston Braves, meanwhile, gave Brooklyn another setback in a free hitting contest 3 to 2.

Cleveland and Washington broke their losing streaks, the Indians tying the White Sox in the ninth and getting to Red Faber for three hits and victory in the tenth, while the Senators pounded four Boston batters for a 11 to 3 verdict.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANNED ON AN EXTENSIVE SCALE

HEREFORD, TEXAS, April 25.—The Hereford Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the movement for the organization and perfection of plans for the Sulphur Park Country Club being organized here. This wonderful club is to be located on the waters of the Frio and Terra Blanco creeks, four miles east of the city of Hereford. One thousand two hundred acres of land have been secured as a site. Two miles of everlasting running water flow through the creek. Excellent fishing is at hand. There are now a number of trees along the banks and there are more than 300 acres of sub-irrigated land where trees and shrubbery may be grown in abundance.

Members will be accepted from all parts of the plains country. More than 400 members will be included when all of the stock has been sold. Already 250 shares are in the hands of the purchasers. The organization of this splendid country club is, says the West Texas chamber of commerce, but another evidence of the great cultural advancement of west Texas. Country clubs, golf clubs, playground movements and other kindred cultural projects have been constructed in many of these different projects.

Phillies Have Two Bank Presidents On Club Roster

Most of the experts have figured the Philadelphia Nationals as certain to finish in last place. Possibly the Phillies will fall to the lowly position and make the experts look good. Even if such is the case the Phillies have a claim to distinction.

On the club this year are two small-town bank presidents, Fred Williams and Arthur P. Fletcher. Fletcher has been out of the game for a year looking after his business interests. This season he was prevailed upon to return and help out the Phillies.

Cy Williams is a Notre Dame graduate and a mighty fine ball player. He is certain to be equally successful in business.

Williams is president of a bank at Tulsa, Okla., and also is heavily interested in Florida real estate.

Playing ball this summer is more or less of a vacation for both.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

HERE'S YOUR DECISION

If the pitcher, with one or more runners on the bases, in the act of delivering the ball to the batter or in throwing it first drops the ball either intentionally or accidentally, it shall be regarded as a balk. All runners shall be entitled to advance one base. If with no one on the bases the pitcher accidentally drops the ball in delivering it to the batsman, no penalty shall be inflicted.

BEFORE BIG CROWD BLANTON DEFENDS ACTS IN CONGRESS

SAYS SOME WHO FOUGHT HIM THERE WERE BEATEN FOR RE-ELECTION.

SHOWS WHISKEY FLASK AND OTHER 'STATIONERY'

Declares It Is No Trouble For Congressmen to Get Flasks Filled.

"They've called me a liar. They've said I was false as hell. They term me a liability to the democratic party. They've given me the Dewalt side degree in the house and tried to take away from me what my constituents gave me. The newspapers misrepresented me and condemned me," said Thomas L. Blanton of the 13th congressional district of Texas in speaking to an audience of over 600 people that crowded the 39th district court room of the court house Monday evening.

"He stated that all this had been done because he termed it 'graft' when—"

Representative Clifford of Illinois brought in a resolution proposing to pay all losses of the house of representatives' restaurant out of the United States treasury and he opposed it.

Each congressman is entitled to a free trip to Panama once a year and he fought it.

The widow of each congressman who dies is paid $7,000.

Every representative can have bound in leather every periodical published in Washington, free of charge.

Each congressman from Texas gets $2,121.44 in mileage for each congress when the fare from Dallas to Washington and return is $102, and each congressman makes three return trips a year.

The negro barbers and the negro manicurist and the negro body rubbers in the bath house are drawing their salary from the government.

Stationery Allowances. Congressmen are allowed $275 per congress for stationery from the stationery room and for the money is used in purchasing such things as ladies' stationery, carving sets, copper electric chafing dishes, ladies' purses, pocket knives, manicuring sets, ladies' toilet sets, poker chips and playing cards, and leather covered whiskey flasks.

Members of the house are placed on special committees submit exorbitant expense accounts.

They wanted to pay Hutton Sumner's brother-in-law $1,500 for a little extra work that he had done during the 65th congress.

And because—

He introduced resolutions in an effort to clean house in various governmental departments.

He blocked the passage of 47 bills submitted on private claim days.

He opposed giving the widow of President Theodore Roosevelt $3,000 a year as long as she lived when the time that time had as many as 50 servants in her mansion.

He pushed his resolution of cleaning out the department of labor, and freed it from such individuals who were harboring anarchy.

He blocked the passage of the bill which proposed to raise a congressman's salary from $7,500 to either $10,000 or $12,000 during the reconstruction period.

He stopped the giving of Christmas presents to congressmen which consisted annually of one cedar chest, one oak chest and one pine chest.

Introduced by Judge Martin. Representative Blanton to the audience which not only filled the seating capacity of the main auditorium and the gallery, but lined the three walls of the building. Judge Martin stated that he knew the speaker when he, Blanton, was a young attorney and then later when he occupied the bench at Abilene for eight years.

In his preliminary remarks, Representative Blanton said that he had always known that Judge Martin was a courageous man, but didn't know that he was courageous enough to introduce a man in such commendable terms, who had been maligned from one side of the country to another.

A few minutes later he turned to the Times representative and said: "Mr. Reporter, I want you to get this straight. I haven't said anything nor will I say anything that I haven't told them face to face on the floor of the house."

"I took them from January 12 when I addressed the house until April 5 to get mad," the speaker said. "In the afternoon Washington papers of April 4 carried the dispatch that my sister had announced she would be a candidate for congress.

"The next morning on April 6 I was called a liar. Not to my face but on the floor of the house where they were protected by the constitution and the rules of the house. They called me a liar where I couldn't say anything.

His Sister's Campaign. "In this connection I want to say that I have nothing to do with my sister and her campaign. I wish I was as capable in representing my district, as she will be if elected. She won't let me have anything to say about her campaign.

"I want to say, however, that when my father and mother left us a family of orphan children my sister took us to the country. She washed for us, she cooked for us, she sewed for us and she nourished us as a mother and then when we had all grown up point where we were able to care for ourselves she taught school and then went through the state university."

It took them until April 10 to digest what I had said on January 12. The smooth politicians in Washington wanted to beat my sister with the body of her brother."

In commenting on the position that he took to the payment of $7,500 to the widow of congressman who died, Representative Blanton stated that when Senator Penrose died he left $212,000 in cash in his safety deposit vault and $250,000 worth of liquor in the cellar of his home.

"When you die, does any one pay your widow $7,500?" the speaker queried his audience.

Exhibiting all the articles as mentioned which he said were roomed, chased, with stationery money out of the stationery room of the house, Representative Blanton spoke at length on this subject.

"He explained that each member is allowed $275 a congress for stationery and that this money is absolutely individual's to do with it as he pleases.

"Many," he said, "take it out in cash because they don't have to spend it for stationery because the committee of which the representative is a member can supply him with all the stationery that he needs free of charge."

Whiskey Flask. "The man who denounced me from the floor for opposing this practice, and which I termed petty graft," the speaker said, "was in the habit of drawing all of this $275 out in cash."

Following this he exhibited the various articles that were being handled by the stationery room.

When he exhibited the leather bound whiskey flask he stated that the stationery room had such a run on them during Christmas week that the supply was exhausted and in order for him to get the one which he was showing at that time and which he exhibited in the house when opposing this practice, the man in charge was forced to order one for him.

Some one in audience asked the speaker whether they were being sold "loaded" and he replied that they were sold empty but that they had the wherewithal to load them with.

To prove this assertion he read from the St. Louis papers where a congressman's house was raided and 48 gallons of liquor were taken from his cellar.

"Because I showed them these things," the speaker-shouted, "they got mad three months later and said I was a liability to the democratic party."

In speaking of the "padded" expense accounts of congressmen who were placed on special committees he said that one item that he remembered was $71 for "cigars and taxis."

"It's all right for a man to buy cigars," he said, "I haven't got anything against that. But what right has a congressman to buy cigars and pay for them out of the public treasury?"

"Cleaning Up" Departments. "As one of the accomplishments of the introduction of his 19 resolutions in an effort to clean up various departments and for which he said he had been maligned, the speaker told of the chief chemist of the United States Charles L. Parsons, who was drawing a salary of $4,800 from the government. He told that upon investigation it was revealed that the biggest chemical corporation in the country was being housed in a government building.

"He is not chief chemist any more," the speaker added.

When he blocked the passage of 47 bills presented on private claim days, the speaker told of how he was ridiculed by the press throughout the country and cited one Texas newspaper and another Texas newspaper editor as ridiculing him because he was paying attention to "little things."

Representative Blanton told his audience that for five years he had blocked the passage of one item that carried with it $56,000,000.

After he had spoken an hour and a half and intimated that he would stop because the time was getting late there were cries of "Go ahead" from the audience.

Refers to Papers. "I ought to have this Times editor to whom I have referred last afternoon paper with me in this fight," he said. "I would rather give my children the back page of your afternoon paper here to read than the entire page of Dallas."

He spoke of the effort that was made to throw him out of congress and said that the resolution to throw him out was introduced on October 25, his 49th birthday, while he had been sent to Wheeling, W. Va., to address a committee of business men in an effort to avert the nation-wide railroad strike that was pending at that time. "They censured me," he said.

He cited four instances where he had been ridiculed by representatives in the house for the stand that he had taken on these various "petty graft" items. In each case he sent copies of the congressional record to the constituents of these men. He added by saying, "All these men since the last elections in their districts have decided to become private citizens."

He had the Times representative verify some of his statements with reference to the savings that he had effected by the blocking of certain resolutions and measures, as printed in various newspapers and in a book edited by Samuel Gompers, head of the department of labor.

Questioner Is Hooted. "Near the conclusion of his address, he gave people an opportunity to ask questions. Attorney F. G. Swanson inquired why it was that he was paying so much attention to the small things when in fact 97 per cent of the money was being spent for the army and navy.

There were several cries of "sit down" and "throw him out" and in a few minutes he was hooted out of the room.

Representative Blanton, however, waved them to silence and said that was one of the best questions that had ever been asked him.

"Take for example the shipping board," he said, "$300,000,000 of money is being spent there that is being spent where that is being spent? When you go to them and ask them to cut this out, they'll tell you to go back and clean house at home. You can't stop the big ones when you are up to your eyes in petty graft yourself. Clean house at home first and then start on the bigger ones."

In closing he told of one of his experiences in west Texas where he was sent to market with 25 carload of cattle. He said he delivered the cattle to the market without a loss and as a token of appreciation for his services the shipper had given him a prod pole upon his return.

"I take this prod pole to Washington with me," he said, "and use it. All I am trying to do is to stop this petty graft, and put the democratic party back on the footing where it will again enjoy the confidences of the people. Are you with me?"

QUANAH PURE FOOD SHOW ATTRACTS RECORD CROWD. QUANAH, April 25.—The second annual pure food show held in the American Legion hall by the ladies of the Methodist church Friday and Saturday was attended by a record crowd and was considered a great success. Wholesale and retail firms displayed their wares, held demonstrations and gave away premiums and prizes.

Various contests were held, the most interesting of which was the baby show in which 25 babies were entered.

FORMER BANK CASHIER SURRENDERS AT DECATUR. DECATUR, TEXAS, April 25.—Former Cashier J. A. Giles of the Park Springs First State bank, missing since February 21, arrived in Decatur Monday and went to the county jail and surrendered.

Mr. Giles is charged with having taken funds from the bank. He waived examining trial and bond was placed at $1,000.

ANOTHER ONE HALF INCH OF RAIN IS RECORDED LOCALLY

The showers of Monday and Monday night netted nearly another half-inch of rain locally according to measurements made by George Simmons. The showers Monday morning netted two-tenths of an inch and the same amount was recorded during the night.

Railroad dispatchers received reports that the same amounts were reported at points from Fort Worth to Amarillo and from Dallas to Altus. North of Altus no rain fell Monday night but agents Tuesday morning reported good showers.

Cooler temperatures and clouded skies were reported from all points Tuesday morning. There was but little wind movement.

Only one small whistout was recorded by the railroads on account of the heavy rains. In this instance 12 feet of bridge was washed away but this was repaired in time without causing any delay in traffic.

Home People Endorse Guinn Williams FOR CONGRESS

Thirteenth District SPECIAL ELECTION MAY 13 FOR CONGRESS

Thirteenth District DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY JULY 22

To the People of the Thirteenth Congressional District:

A congressman to be elected in this district for the next two years. We present for your consideration the name of Senator Guinn Williams of Decatur, Texas. We are his neighbors, living in the same county with him; most of us have known him intimately for several years. He is a life-long Democrat, always found in the ranks battling for the good of his country and party. He is an upright Christian gentleman—one of the very best neighbors, and the truest friend one ever had. When his country called he was ever ready to answer the call; when his party called the Democrat host to arms to battle for its principles, its tenets, he asked no further questions, but with the Democrats' declaration of war in hand, his only inquiry was: "Where is the enemy that dares tread upon the peoples' rights?" and the battle was on.

From his earliest boyhood the cry of the distressed found a sympathetic hearer and a ready helper in him. From his early youth to his present status, he has headed the admonition, "Remember thy father and thy mother." As a business man he adopted as his slogan, "Honesty is the best policy," and on this principle, adding to it economy and industry, he has succeeded. His neighbors have always found him ready to help them to bear their burdens. As an officer in this country, he applied the same principles as he used in his own business and succeeded in honoring the office, as well as the office honoring him. As a thinker and statesman we point you to his record from his earliest manhood, culminating in his record as a Senator.

Having a splendid personality and a happy way of meeting people, armed with a great fund of business and political information, and a diplomatic mind, no wonder on entering upon his duties as a Senator he at once took front rank. His great work and service in the Senate will appeal to all men and women who believe in great Democratic principles; you will not be disappointed if he is elected. He has never disappointed anyone who put his trust in him.

We, the undersigned Democratic citizens of Wise County, Texas, hereby endorse Guinn Williams of Decatur, Texas, as a candidate for Congress from the Thirteenth Congressional District of Texas and will do all in our power to fairly and honestly secure his nomination at the Democratic Primary Election to be held July 22, 1922, and we pledge ourselves at all proper times and places to work, talk and vote for his election.
