CHICAGO, July 13.—B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, today sent a telegram to President Harding replying to the president's proclamation on the strike situation and opening a new phase of the grievances of striking railway shopmen.

Test of Message. It appears from our proclamation of July 11 that incomplete information had been furnished you concerning the present dispute between the railroad operators and employees.

No Violations by Employees. When the basic wage is unjust it follows that the employees are entitled to strike for a fair wage and to insure that the struggle for existence shall not crowd out things purely worth living for and should provide for amusement, recreation and saving. Employees have never violated any decision of the board, but the railroads have violated the transportation act to establish national boards of adjustment described by the labor board as the "unjust and arbitrary" procedure.

Such interruptions and interference will continue until agreement is obtained on just and reasonable wages by the representatives of the skilled employees and railroad executives, who up to date have refused even to meet with employed representatives. We stand ready to cooperate wholeheartedly with any effort to bring about such an agreement.

BORAH URGES THAT TAXPAYERS ORGANIZE THROUGHOUT NATION

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Organization of "tax payer associations" in every village, township, city and county, through which the average citizen can make effective his demand for relief from mounting governmental taxes suggested by Senator William E. Borah, republican of Idaho...

"It is only by pressure from the folks back home," Borah says, "that the federal government can be forced to reduce its taxes and to order to make the demands of constituents effective on congress, tax payers must be organized."

"Taxpayers' associations," Borah declares, "would be a distinct aid in two ways. They would enable the average citizen to get together and in a manner that would force attention of their representatives in Washington."

"Constant increase of governmental expenditure has reached the point where it breeds revolution. Everywhere men are denouncing and criticizing their government."

"It is proposed as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way to take the ship subsidy bill. This will provide a drain upon the treasury by a vicious system of tax exemption, in my judgment quite as much as if it voted bonds or obligations of the government."

"After that is to come the soldiers' bonus bill—which will mean an expenditure of from $1,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000."

"If these measures stood alone, we might look upon them with less concern. But they are the expressions of what seems to be a disapproved tendency."

"All the money were appropriated which by bills has been suggested, it would place a mortgage upon the brain and the nerves of the people."

There is already great discontent throughout the country, and this discontent is widespread it is never without justification.

"It is evident the burden government is placing upon the people is becoming unbearable. It is getting upon the nerves of the public."

SUN FLEET REMAINS ANCHORED IN PLACE SAFE FROM ATTACK

CANTON, July 11.—Desultory firing occurred last night on the island of Honam, midstream of Pearl river, opposite Shamen. Troops of Tip Kuo and Sun Yat Sen were engaged in minor skirmishes and neither suffered important losses.

Sun's fleet remains anchored in front of the foreign settlement of Shamen, where he believes he is safe from attack by Tip Kuo forces. Yip Kee declines to see correspondents. He apparently is making no move to attack Sun's fleet.

The laborer's strike is spreading and business is virtually at a standstill. Sun Yat Sen declines to open negotiations for settlement of the conflict in Canton until he is re-established in the presidency.

Mr. Osborn's announcement followed collapse of negotiations between railroad and brotherhood representatives and issuance of a statement by W. J. Haran, president of the company, declaring a strike by the clerks would violate their signed agreement.

to be able to handle his own finances so the allowance is increased to cover all expenses outside of keep, education and medical service. It includes clothes, fares, if traveling alone, entertainment, candy, sodas and the like.

"I believe," Mr. Rockefeller said, "that children should know what to spend, how to spend, what things cost, whether a thing is worth buying—in short, the value of money.

"This, and keeping accounts, is important because of the principle underlying. It is of value to my children—to any child—to hold to the rigid fundamental principle of economy."

Isn't An Inducement

Mr. Rockefeller smiled over an experiment he tried.

"I was brought up to do things that needed to be done, whether I liked them or not," he said. "At seven years of age I began playing the violin, and I used to get five cents an hour for practicing. But that sort of thing doesn't work these days—or at least the standards are higher! Even with children. Five cents an hour isn't an inducement any more!

"But I do pay wages for errands and chores. If a child honestly works, he earns such pay. It stimulates the desire to work. I used to get 14 cents an hour for sawing wood. But these days it's different. Down in the country we have wood hauled to the house. My boys and I load and unload it, and I pay them for the job. Yes, the scale is higher than 14 cents!

Schools Fail to Teach

Schools do not teach thrift and habits of work, Mr. Rockefeller finds.

"Education used to mean cramming the mind," he said. "Education really is learning how to use the mind. The tendency with many children today is to follow the easiest way, the line of least resistance. You see it reflected in studies, in social life, and in business.

"The modern theory of many people seems to be to let a child decide what he wants to do and then let him do it. Of course, we all do best the things we like to do. But life cannot be lived wholly that way. How can a child later learn how to avoid the things he should not do? A disorderly mind is an untrained one."

Mr. Rockefeller hasn't much sympathy with parents who, having acquired means, say they hope their boys will never have to work as hard as they did.

"It is a false idea to change standards like that and go with the tide," he said.

"A boy should do the wholesome things his father had to do in so far as is possible. It will teach him what qualities made his father successful. I am sorry I did not have that sort of a chance. I want my boys to start work at the bottom."

New South Wales has 61 women justices.

New York appropriates $300,000 annually for school health.

Every parent and every child will be interested in the intimate authorized interview with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., multimillionaire and heir to the world's greatest fortune, which The Times has obtained through NEA Service. Rockefeller tells frankly how he is training his children to master millions, instead of letting millions master them. Whatever heritages you may leave your children, whatever your plans for them may be, you will find food for thought and discussion in Rockefeller's theories and experiences.

BY EDWARD M. THIERRY (Copyright, 1922, by NEA Service. All Rights Reserved. Republication prohibited anywhere in World.)

NEW YORK, July 13.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., regards bringing up his children as one of his most engaging and important tasks.

"I regret the passing of the old-fashioned woodpile," he says. "I have failed to find a modern equivalent of the woodpile of my father's boyhood."

Thus began the first interview Mr. Rockefeller has ever given on this human subject. He discussed for NEA Service his ideas on family finance and the problem of children. He did not pretend to be telling what other people should do with their children; he simply agreed, at their request, to discuss some of the principles he felt he was duty-bound to put into effect in training his own children.

"Wealth," he said, "hurts children when they get too much of it. Just because a man can afford to hire people to wait on his children is no reason why he should do it. I don't think many modern children are not developing the will power and self mastery that are essential in the solution of life's problems.

"That's what I mean about the woodpile. My father had to chop wood and do the milking. He probably didn't like doing the chores any better than most boys but he acquired the habit of doing things he didn't like to do; his will was trained, and it helped him cope with other difficulties."

Mr. Rockefeller has six children, five of them boys. In age they are from 6 to 14. They are being taught thrift and the value of money.

"Everybody knows that one of the things which is wrong with the world is extravagance," he says. "Extravagance hurts character. It is a man's duty to civilization to be thrifty. Whether a man can afford lavish spending isn't the point; it is wrong not to spend wisely whatever is spent, whether a man can spare the money or not."

Families and individuals—children too—should keep accounts of the money they receive and spend, says Mr. Rockefeller. He told us his father himself kept account of his personal expenditures until he was past 50. And he himself did so until a few years ago. Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., is 44.

"At seven or eight my children each received an allowance of 50 cents a week," he explained. "The understanding was that out of it they were to save and to give, as well as to spend. Ten cents was to be saved, 10 was for church and Sunday school—for benevolence—and 10 for spending.

"I explained the importance of keeping accounts. At the end of the week I audited the accounts. A few years later they were getting a dollar a week, and to teach accuracy in keeping accounts rewards and penalties were given. If the account book was correct the child got $1.05

Getting Initials Right Over Phone Not Easy Matter

Getting initials right over the telephone for a news item is no picnic, though it can be done. But the doing takes cooperation at both ends of the line. The "Editor and Publisher," however, is misinformed, according to the experience of the Times news writers.

"Much time is wasted in newspaper office trying to get initials correctly over the telephone," the article reads. "One newspaper runs a guide for telephone names to the office in a small front page box. It points out the usual news service well-known proper names. It has proved a time-saver, and the contributors cooperate."

Maybe they do. But hot in the history of the Woman's Page Editor's try-out of the scheme. More than a year ago a notice was given on the page that well known names would be used by the paper in getting initials over the phone, in order to get the initials correctly. Followed a series something like this:

"C. F." as if it were "Charles Frank."

"W. W." as if it were "Walter White."

"J. W." as if it were "John Walter."

"No ma'am, his name's Jim something, I think. I'm not sure. Don't you just use the initials?"

"If you knew whether they were 'J. W.' or 'J. W.' you could tell us."

But luck was sometimes with the page editor.

"B. P." as if it were "Benjamin Franklin."

"Why, you; that's the name. How do you know?"

"It's getting a little better now, however. And no matter how hard it may be, the time used in getting folks initials right in the Times office is never considered wasted. If they aren't right, they might as well not be in, which may explain to some of the weary friends who have repeated and reiterated and well-nigh fainted in their effort to secure the W. W. initials when letters were being talked about, just why the matter is persisted in.

MARIAN HALE FORECASTS NEW STYLES THAT FALL AND WINTER WILL BRING

By MARIAN HALE

Begin now to get ready for your fall and winter personality. Since gowns no longer fit the body, they simply must fit the mind. There must be a secret agreement somewhere.

Your mental attitude will determine whether you are in harmony with your clothes or if you are striking discords.

Clothes for this winter are rich, elegant and regal. They wear them properly you must look as if you felt that way, no matter what sylph-like proportions the family wallet may have attained.

The best anti-flapper propaganda I know of is being sent over now from Paris in the form of exquisite fashion plates and the very latest word in beauty and luxury.

I saw some of the new Adair creations being unwrapped. Let me assure you that the talk about the longer skirt is not mere idle gossip. Afternoon and evening gowns are down very near the ankles.

The fashionable hemline, however, is broken by draperies and loose panels.

Materials are very rich. Velvet was once again splendid enough without trimming; now it is embroidered and beaded in the most gorgeous colors.

The silhouette remains practically the same. The waistline is low. While the general straight-line policy is followed, it allows all sorts of variations.

Fronts and backs are usually plain, save for embroidery or beading, but nearly every frock has a side trimming of some sort.

The sleeveless frock is still fashionable, but is no longer in an undisputed position. There are close-fitting elbow sleeves on some frocks, and gracefully draped effects on others.

Many frocks are carried out entirely in one tone. The color is most striking. Black gowns are apt to be relieved by touches of gorgeous color.

by any chance, you are dieting, keep up the good work. The fewer excess pounds you have now, the less work is ahead of you.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS MINK SWALLOWS FISH-BONE CALLS FOR DR. SNUFFLES

"Ting-a-ling-a-ling," went Dr. Snuffles' telephone in his little house by the hazel bush.

"Nick, answer that, please," called Dr. Snuffles. "I'm busy talking a splutter out of Scramble Squirrel's foot."

"Hello, is that Dr. Snuffles' office?" said a voice excitedly.

"Yes," answered Nick.

"Well, tell him please to hurry over to Ripple Creek. Marty Mink's got a fish-bone in his throat, and he's carrying on something awful."

"All right," said Nick, hanging up.

Just then Scramble Squirrel came limping out of the office, his foot all nicely bandaged, and he heard what had happened.

"Marty Mink!" he exclaimed. "A fish-bone in his throat! Goodness alive, me! Is that very dangerous, doctor?"

"Oh, not very," answered Dr. Snuffles. "Why are you thinking of starting on a fish-diet? Scramble, instead of nuts?"

"No," said Scramble. "I was just wondering what would happen if you couldn't get the fish bone out of Marty Mink's throat."

Dr. Snuffles called to Nancy to bring him his hat and medicine case before he answered.

"Well," said he, "it's this way—One is likely to lose his appetite as long as the fish bone sticks."

"Can't eat anything at all?" exclaimed Scramble.

Whom Shall Molly Marry? DON MAKES SPECTACULAR RE-ENTRY INTO PLOT

Quickly though she had left Ben Wheeler's office, Molly glimpsed the effect her words had upon him—"Some day someone will use force on you—and then heaven pity you!" She saw him stiffen and the fighting look come in his eyes, but a look of dismay too.

Along with the brute in the primitive male as a childlike side. It is the frightened child in such a man that appeals to the protective instinct of woman.

Molly knew in the last analysis she could both frighten and soothe Ben Wheeler. And that knowledge explained her fascination about it in the wilder of the club.

In her bewilderment Molly turned to Billy, the understanding. She went on to go to his room, and if in answer to her need, turned the corner at that very moment, his manner hurried, his face gray.

"Molly! just whom do you mean?" Before she could answer, Billy hailed a taxi. The address he gave the driver was one of the poorer of Midvale's hotels.

"Molly—Don Manning has come back. The affair Ben Wheeler broomed to you with Letta May—just about smashed. He opened in Pittsburgh half mad with sleeplessness and brooding. Made a hash of his part and the Pittsburgh people broke the contract. He came back here to get his old place, but the Lyceum people, furious at his leaving them, turned him down."

"How is a brainstorm—Dames Wheeler for his trouble—telephoned me, asking where he could be found. He sounded crazy. I'm hoping you can help me bring him to reason."

"Fingers of fear-clutched Molly's heart. It was not hard for her to imagine Donald Manning, mad and desperate, doing any rash and melodramatic thing."

"Yes—It's bad, Billy," she whispered huskily.

"Why," reached the stuffy hotel and Don came down to see them.

The change in him was shocking. His instinct for appearance seemed gone. His clothes were unpressed, his linen dingy.

His face was gray except for two spots of hard color in the cheeks. His beautiful eyes were steamed in now, restless and brilliant. His smile was forced.

"Ah, Molly—Billy—" He spoke with effort as if his mind were busy. "I was just going out on an urgent business with Wheeler—will you excuse me till I—"

"Oh, Don—Molly was terrified brought to her eyes, writhing at her side, he was out of the room before they could stop him! (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1922, NEA Service)

Double Wedding Is Solemnized Wednesday Evening in Presence Of Hundreds at First Christian

The marriage of Paul J. Pond, son of Mrs. and Mrs. W. Pond, to Miss Blanche Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Clark, and of Clifford Deaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Deaton, to Miss Letta Clark, was solemnly celebrated Wednesday evening at the First Christian church in a double wedding service.

Rev. Randolph Clark of Stephenville, venerable grandfather of the two brides, said the ring ceremony, and the church was crowded to overflowing with the hundreds of friends of the young people and their families, the elders of whom form a group of old and prominent citizens of Wichita Falls.

In the ceremony Rev. Mr. Clark, who has married each of his children and grandchildren with the exception of Mrs. Lee Clark, digressed from the conventional form to make an informal and very impressive charge to the young people making their marriage.

The celebration of the marriage was one of the most beautiful ever arranged in the church, with a setting of vine-entwined arches strewn with tiny flowers for the wedding party. The bridegroom was also especially lovely, with the gowns of the maids and matrons carrying out in their pretty ankle-length style and lace-outlined necklines a note of the gracious dignity of the ceremony and the occasion.

The bride wore a lovely gown of silk and lace, opening with the playing of the Spring Song, with Mrs. R. E. Strange at the organ. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Shepherd sang "My Dear" by Carl Gustav Kreiser's arrangement of the Rosary, and Ralph Pond sang the pre-nuptial, "Until" Mrs. Deaton played the "Prelude" by Beethoven for the entrance of the wedding party, and during the ceremony Mr. Gose played, very softly, the beautiful "Cello" of Ernest "Call Me Thine Own."

The maids, groomsmen, maids of honor, the little flower girls and the gaily lighted bridesmaids, all of the same length and left sides of the church and awaited the brides, who entered with their matrons of honor, and the groom, who entered from the study with the best men. The bridegroom was Payne-Hannan, dressed of taffeta in orchid, pale blue, amethyst green and pink. The bridesmaids wore gowns of white satin and lace in handsome models, designed on the same lines, with silver trimmings. They carried arm bouquets of lilacs and fern.

The little flower girls were mini-

REPUBLICANS PLAN TO GO AHEAD AND PASS TARIFF BILL

LEADERS SHOW NO SIGN OF INTENTION TO ABANDON MEASURE.

EXPECT TO CARRY OUT PROGRAM AS PLANNED

Talk of Deferring Action Comes Not From Within Congress, But From Country.

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The talk about republican senators throwing the tariff overboard is a deferring action until a later session of congress. It is not a sign of an intention to pass the bill according to program.

It is true that suggestions of postponement from the country come from powerful sources and from individuals whose judgment has much weight with republican leaders. Nevertheless, there is no sign that the republican leaders are fairly bored with the tariff situation as it stands.

There could hardly be a more vivid picture of futurity on the part of a congress than the present loss of "face" on the part of the republican senators and leaders.

It will be passed at this session, the best judgment is that it will not get on the statute books until very close to the November election. The lower house member election will not return to Washington until August 15. It is by no means probable that the senate will have finished with the bill by that date.

The lowest estimate of the time required for conference is four weeks. This would make September the earliest possible for the passage of the bill. But persons familiar with the probabilities of delay inherent in the situation will be inclined to add from four to six weeks to this date.

All that is meant to be said here is that there is no intention on the part of the republican leaders to postpone the tariff until the later session of congress. The delay inherent in the case might possibly throw it over, but the crystal ball intention of the republican leaders is to go ahead with it.

Albania Having Trouble Finding A Suitable King

TIRANA, ALBANIA, July 12.—Since Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, the American great nephew of Napoleon I, declined the Albanian throne last December, the Albanian government has been casting about for a suitable king or regent.

Offers have been made to Prince Cyrille of Bulgaria who is living at Coburg with his father, King Ferdinand, and to the Duke of Abruzzi, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, but they are reported to have shown no disposition to accept.

A small minority of the Albanians is now clamoring for the return of Prince Wilhelm of Wurttemberg to the throne for a brief period in 1914, but most of the inhabitants of the country would like to see the crown given to a wealthy American.

Many of Albania's leading men express the opinion that there can be no real stability in the country until a constitutional head is appointed who is able to compose the differences of the various racial and political elements.

IOWA PARK FARMERS PLAN FOR GINNING AND MARKETING THE CROP

IOWA PARK, July 13.—At an enthusiastic meeting of a large number of cotton farmers and directors of the chamber of commerce, it was definitely decided to erect a modern gin plant, establish a market, and amply take care of all cotton raised in this trade territory.

Eight voters have cast their vote for the democratic primaries with County Clerk W. T. Harris. Of this number one was a woman who also expects to be absent from the city on July 22. Wednesday afternoon two applicants for ballots were received from local voters who are out of the county and will not be able to return until after election day.

TEN SPEAKERS TO BE SENT OUT BY THE TEXAS FARM BUREAU

W. W. Cole Will Speak at Vernon Monday Morning and Quannah at Night

DALLAS, TEXAS, July 13.—Members of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association will hear reports of the year's work in 167 towns in Texas during the week of July 15 to 22 inclusive. Practically every cotton county in the state will be visited by one of 13 men who have been chosen to carry the message direct to the membership.

The Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association has closed its first year. It has made a record of which it is proud. It has not worked miracles but it has marketed its members' cotton in a businesslike and orderly way and sold it for more money than could have been secured through individual selling.

IOWA PARK WELL OPENS NEW POOL; LEASING IS ACTIVE

IOWA PARK, July 13.—A new oil well was drilled into the Mrs. F. F. Mitchell land, 3 miles southwest of Iowa Park, at 1300 feet. This well, being drilled by J. S. Owen and associates, has drilled into only 18 inches in the sand and casing is being set. This sand, which has a corresponding depth in the south Electro field, is the first well at this depth within several miles.

A large territory is opened up by this well, it being about five miles north from the Kemp, Mungler, Allen pool, and about a like distance from the south wells in the South Electro new field. Wells are now drilling on the Wagoner-Johnson land on the west, and derricks are being hauled into this territory daily.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

These are the things that ye shall do: Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbor; Execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates.—Zachariah 8:16.

BORROWING MONEY

Rich men play different systems. John D. Rockefeller has been quoted as attributing his wealth to his ability at borrowing money. Henry Ford doesn't believe in borrowing.

The Ford Motor company originally was capitalized at $100,000. Only about $28,000 of this was subscribed in cash.

That was the only money that ever went into Ford's business from the outside. Additions to the operating capital have been created by the Ford business—taken from profits.

Three years ago, Edsel Ford bought out the minority stockholders. They had 4 1/2 percent of the Ford stock, for which Edsel paid "about $75,000,000," according to Henry Ford, writing in McClure's Magazine.

In other words, an original investment of $1,620 sold for $75,000,000. Ford climbed to success without borrowing much.

Henry Ford, when he decided to make autos instead of watches, had wonderful vision and organizing genius, also an almost superhuman genius at mechanical production.

He also had, however, an easier opportunity than John D. Rockefeller.

Both men created industries. Rockefeller had, as his greatest handicap, this problem: In the early days of the oil industry, the price of crude oil was on a par with a gambling ball.

Rockefeller's big job was to "stabilize" the oil industry—regulate production and prices. He succeeded, through the organization he built up. But in those early days, there were not enough profits to supply the gigantic capital needed by Standard Oil.

Rockefeller borrowed heavily. He had to. And the ones from whom he borrowed made no mistake. You find this out when you buy Standard stocks.

How to make money. It is confusing, with Ford advising against going into debt, Rockefeller advising borrowing. Back of this is an important "hunch" for Mr. Average Man.

The hunch is this: There is no cut-and-dried rule for accumulating wealth. A method or system that will work in one industry or situation will fail financially in another.

No two problems are exactly the same. Nor have any two problems the same solution.

Most of us are imitators. We select a successful man as our ideal—and try to duplicate his system. Failure is inevitable when we back the wrong system. Don't hitch your wagon to the wrong star.

OPERATORS AND MINERS OUGHT NOT TO REFUSE ARBITRATION. Anthracite coal operators have announced their readiness to accept arbitration of their differences with the striking miners and it is believed the miners will also accept the offer of arbitration.

For a Vacation Without Mishap Avoid Usual Discomforts—Return Entirely Fit

The real enjoyment, the great benefit of vacation, comes from the all-day life in the open, from the outdoor sports—fishing—swimming—base-ball—tennis—golf.

But unaccustomed exercise is apt to make the muscles sore, stiff and painful. Other sports are sunburn, insect bites and poison oak or poison ivy.

Vicks can be applied to prevent these discomforts and is also a soothing relief. It helps, too, in case of summer colds, hay fever or headache.

ICE is only 74/10000 of cost of living

A small item but very important

THE cost of ice in the average family is a very small fraction of the cost of living. An investigation made by Dr. Wm. E. Marsh, of the Bureau of Municipal Research, New York City, showed that ice is only 74/10,000 of the cost of living in an average family.

Without ice, food bills would double in warm weather, the spoilage would be so great; and health would be endangered.

Many people waste both food and ice by using too little of the latter. Their refrigerator may be too small, or they may let the ice get too low. That is false economy. A full ice chamber in a good sized ice box will save you money.

Spudders Lose Series To Giants When Eight Counters Fail to Win

By PAUL W. LARKIN. The Dallas Giants had a most profitable day at Athletic park Wednesday at the expense of the Spudders and showed their hosts down a bit deeper into the cellar by winning the desirable end of a 3 to 2 count.

Also gave the two tallest right back covers in the month when he shot one down Lovelace's while with Donohue aboard. Lovelace swung from his heels and drove it several yards over the left field wall. It was by far the longest hit of the day.

The Salmites finally caught the visitors in the seventh and once again it was Bowman who delivered the timely wallop. Weiss landed after Summa had been retired and Beck had popped to Stow. The Salmites finally caught the visitors in the seventh and once again it was Bowman who delivered the timely wallop.

When it was announced that "Lefty" Russel would work for the invaders, Kipper Salm sent Jake Miller into center field. It was Jake's last appearance in a Spudder uniform and before the contest was over he was taken out in favor of Weiss.

After Segrist had opened the third with a crashing single, the third baseman was called for duty by Salm. Abe was a whirlwind on the offense, but was all on the defense.

They counted twice in the fourth, however, and although Miller walked and came home standing up when White whalloped a long triple to the center field boards.

WARNER SCORES GOVERNOR NEFF IN COLEMAN SPEECH

CRITICIZES VETO SCHOOL BILL AND WEST TEXAS COLLEGE.

SAYS GOVERNOR BLAMES WEATHER FOR FAILURE

Klan and Other Issues Discussed Before the Voters of West Texas.

COLEMAN, TEXAS, July 13.—Harry T. Warner, candidate for governor, spoke here today with the intent of making a campaign speech by invitation at the picnic given by the American Legion.

In opening Mr. Warner said: "I have nothing to say concerning Mr. Neff, the citizen. What I have to say is criticism of Governor Neff, candidate for a second term, who is now making a campaign speech in which he is supposed to give an account of his first term. Please get that distinction."

Mr. Warner opened by criticizing the governor's veto of the rural schools aid bill; and he warned that if Neff is re-elected there will be further aid for the rural schools in Texas despite the fact that the platform upon which Neff was elected specifically called for that very thing. He charged Neff with departing from that platform when he vetoed the rural school aid bill.

"The governor prates of his desire to give Texas a great school system—but the records show that he has reduced the amount of money for the schools in previous administrations, that he has cut every school in the state now faces a shortened term, a reduction in the salaries of its teachers and a lowering in efficiency. This is a matter of real concern to every citizen of Texas and especially to every child and parent in the state.
