

PLAN TO ARBITRATE COAL STRIKE LIKELY TO PROVE SOLUTION

EVEN IF PROPOSAL FAILS FEDERAL SEIZURE OF MINES IS REMOTE.

SEVERAL SOURCES ARE OPEN TO GOVERNMENT

Not Expected That Administration Will Undertake to Force the Issue.

By MARK SULLIVAN, National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times. (Copyright, 1922, by the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The better guess is that President Harding's proposal for arbitration of the coal strike will be accepted although one might not think so if he were moving about in contact with the various parties to the controversy. All these parties are too close to the controversy to see the president's proposal for what it is, namely, a provision for an impartial tribunal to consider the differences of two parties who are unable to agree upon their own initiative. All the parties to the controversy, instead upon spending their time with their eyes glued to the telescope looking for distant future possibilities of the working out of the plan. And each of them finds possibilities which from the point of view of their distant future policies, are a menace.

But the thing which all parties will be compelled to realize is that President Harding's proposal is in line with civilization, in that it provides an unbiased tribunal for the consideration of a quarrel for which the alternative remedy is the use of force on both sides. Before the final moment comes, however, the controversy will have to make up his mind whether he is willing to bear the odium of having refused to submit his cause to an impartial tribunal.

Question is, "What Next?" If there should be failure of the attempt at arbitration, the question arises, "What next?" That is a difficult question because the answer depends to some extent on which party is responsible for the failure to arbitrate. Whichever party is responsible for the failure, that party will be likely to line up with the government and with the public to help beat the recalcitrant one.

Contrary to widespread predictions, it is the judgment of our correspondent that the commanding of the mines by the government is not among the probable immediate outcome of the present situation. This particular remedy necessarily would be so repugnant to the mine owners that they would yield almost anything for the winter. Some to the point of government seizure, with its inherent menace of leading on to something approaching permanent nationalization of the mines. Moreover from the point of view of the government, this remedy would be so drastic, so distinct a departure from the constitution and so full of difficulties in carrying it out, that it must be the last of the remedies that the government is likely to consider.

About the only place where the probability of a coal famine is so likely as to cause commanding to be thought of is in the Lake States. Those states are affected not only by the coal strike, but also by the fact that they depend for their coal on lake transportation. It is hard to see how lake transportation, even if it should be hurried vigorously from now on, could give these states a sufficient coal supply for the winter.

Due to the closing of the mines from which those states get their coal, it is said that in some of them there is not now more than 10 per cent of the quantity of coal commonly on hand at this season. The situation is such that in Minnesota measures have been taken looking toward mobilizing wood fuel for the winter.

But even if commanding of the mines should be considered for a locality in which the conditions are so severe as this, the process would hardly stop there. Other communities, even though they were so badly prepared for the winter, would nevertheless demand commanding of their sources of supply also, and the government would be deluged with a quantity of demands such as would get it into the coal business to a degree very impracticable and disturbing to contemplate. For an administration which came to power with a pledge of "less government in business," commanding of the coal mines would be a most unlikely step.

Might Call On Hoover. If the attempt to arbitrate should not succeed, seizure of the coal mines would be the last of the possible remedies to be adopted rather than the first. The first step following failure of the attempt at arbitration might be any one of several. Doubtless the management of the situation would be turned over to Secretary Hoover, who is resourceful in such a field as this and has had successful experience in managing various similar situations involving such a commodity on a nationwide scale.

Some things could be done without the direct or formal use by the government of the authority and force at its command through mere energy and skill in organization. The situation might be handled in some such way as the unemployment crisis was handled last fall, or as the detail of the price of coal has been handled recently. There are districts where both the miners and the mine owners are so eager to get back to work that they would undoubtedly take any refusal of the side of their organizations to arbitrate as an excuse for breaking away and going to work.

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

closed in two ways other than the seizure of the mines. One is through asking the courts to enjoin whoever is responsible for continuing the strike. This remedy is in favor among some sections of Washington opinion, but some other sections prefer a different remedy. It goes almost without saying that the government would offer the use of troops for the protection of workers in all cases where the ordinary local authorities are either unable to keep order or too timid to make the attempt.

Wichita Falls Newlyweds Are Held in Vernon

VERNON, TEXAS, July 14.—They were both from Wichita Falls and had been married the evening previous. As they rounded the corner Thursday afternoon in Vernon a grizzled personage stepped out into the street and held up his hands. The roadster, piled high with camping equipment, stopped with a jerk. "I'll have to ask you to come over to the court house," said the grizzled one significantly, "they're looking for you in Wichita Falls."

A look of dismay appeared simultaneously on the faces of the car's occupants. "There was a feeble attempt at jocularity on the part of the young man," he explained, and then, leaning over confidentially, "we've just been married. And—" He started to turn the key.

"Another instant and the key was in the sheriff's pocket," the grizzled one said. "The grizzled one was the rejoinder, and it was two hours before the Wichita Falls officers informed him it was "all a joke." The bridegroom declared himself a son of a Wichita Falls laundryman named Pond.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pond and Mr. and Mrs. Deaton, who were married Wednesday evening, were en route to Colorado and passed through Vernon. Local friends are wondering how the Deatons escaped the Vernon sheriff.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS WOOD-FOLK PLOT TO KEEP MINK ILL

—means to hurt you maybe— Ben chuckled in derision. "What's this, a comic scene? I'd look funny, weight 190, telling my watchman to keep out a lady-like young gentleman for fear he'll hurt me!"

"Weight won't stop a bullet, Wheeler," Billy snapped. "Do as she tells you, you vain fool!"

Wheeler whirled toward Billy. "I suppose you were let in because you were with Molly. Well, you can go now—get out before—"

"Oh, Ben, stop!" Molly's voice rose to a shriek of desperation. "I hear—"

"It's only I!"

And Molly strangled a cry as Don Manning appeared in the doorway, and closed the door behind him. One hand, the right, was in his coat pocket, almost faintly. With the other he motioned Molly and Billy aside.

He stepped toward him, jerking his head doggedly. "Stop where you are!" cried Don. "Unless you want me to shoot."

Whom Shall Molly Marry?

"STOP OR I'LL SHOOT!"

BY ZOE BECKLEY

CHAPTER XX

The world seemed to crumble as Molly heard Billy order the driver to stop in their race to save—perhaps—Ben Wheeler's life.

"Oh, Billy, Billy—don't fail me!" Billy dropped back into his seat and waved the chauffeur to go on—and hurry.

"Well, what do you expect of me, Molly? Don't it more than human for me to break my neck trying to save a man who's breaking me?"

"Yes, Billy, it certainly is." Weariness of soul was in her voice.

"I suppose I expected a bit of big-ness from someone. I'm so tired of everybody hating everybody."

"And I, being the aggrieved one, must be a better Christian than the man who smites me?"

"Not because you're the aggrieved one, but because you're the more civilized, Billy—the finer and bigger."

Reports received at the local offices Friday morning were to the effect that Mr. Murphy wanted to go back to work but the company physician would not consent. Mr. Murphy lost his arm last fall.

The Denver railroad company through F. E. Clarity, vice-president and general manager, has offered a reward of $2500 for the arrest and conviction of any or all of the men who it is alleged attacked the trainmaster.

Four people have also sent in their applications for an official ballot; they are now out of the county and will not return until after election day. These were the totals at noon Friday.

IOWA PARK HEARS CLAIMS OF SIXTEEN LOCAL CANDIDATES

OFFICE SEEKERS OUTLINE THEIR QUALIFICATIONS AND PROGRAMS.

OVER 200 VOTERS CHEER EACH AND EVERY ONE

F. G. Swanson States That He Is Candidate Of No Group Or Faction.

Staff Special to Times
IOWA PARK, TEXAS, July 14.—Over 200 voters of this precinct Thursday night listened with interest to 16 candidates for office. They heard each tell the qualifications, sixteen times they heard "Ladies and Gentlemen and candidates," and sixteen times they heard "If you see fit, I certainly will appreciate your vote on July 22. I thank you."

Every county candidate was called but there were several who were absent. Each one of those present, however, mounted the steps to the truck body that was parked at the corner of the intersection of the two main business streets.

Besides this, there was music. It was a real political meeting but the music never stopped and some of the candidates were unable to reach the outskirts of the crowd while talking. The music came from a "merry-go-round" that was taking in the nickels and dimes from the children while the parents attended the speaking.

F. G. Swanson and E. H. Gipson, candidates for state representative, and E. D. Martin, candidate for county judge elaborated at length on their respective qualifications and the programs on which they stood.

Mr. Swanson in fervent and oratorical manner announced that he was not a member of any organization that covered up its whys and wherefores and undertook to bind all members by any unit rule of action contrary to obligations of citizens as individual members of society or as voting members of any part of Wichita county.

Arnold Presides.
Ex-Mayor W. R. Arnold introduced the speakers and helped keep interest in the crowd by touches of wit and humor.

H. H. Love was the first speaker announced. Mr. Love, who is candidate for commissioner of the Iowa Park precinct was not present when his name was called. L. L. Kuntz, incumbent, solicited the votes of the precinct by relating briefly some of his accomplishments in office during the past two years.

The next group included those who seek the nomination of county judge. Attorney E. D. Martin of Wichita Falls, and a candidate for the same office two years ago, pledged himself to make the office of county judge. It elected, an office of help to each and every resident of the county. "I will reduce your taxes," Mr. Martin said in outlining his program on finance and taxation.

Judge J. P. Jones was not present. A. L. Brubaker, a resident of Iowa Park for many years, stated that he did not "boast" that it was necessary for a man to be a lawyer to hold the office of county judge but that the man who had had business experience and a little common "house sense" was able to fill the office as well as one who was versed in legal issues and questions.

All four candidates for county clerk were present and addressed the audience. John Thomason, L. A. Fox, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Hall and Mrs. R. L. Miller each spoke briefly.

M. L. Tittle, candidate for re-election to the office of county tax collector in a few well chosen words solicited the votes of Iowa Park citizens. Guy C. Raley, his opponent, promised if elected to make several changes in the method of conducting the county tax collector's office and said that he did not make these recommendations in the way of criticizing his opponent.

J. F. Maxwell and Fred K. Smith, candidates for sheriff, did not answer "roll call." J. E. Glenn and W. W. Murphy related their experiences as being qualified to fill the office of county sheriff, and solicited the aid and support of voters, each promising that they would show their appreciation by giving their all to the taxpayers of the county if nominated to the office.

J. W. Meadors, candidate for district clerk, said that he believed it was a democratic principle to pass the office of the county around and expressed his opinion that six terms was long enough for any one man to hold office. A. F. Kerr, incumbent, said that he had passed over the third term notch and believed that inasmuch as the office had been efficiently operated that he was entitled to the voters' consideration and support.

E. H. Gipson, candidate for state representative from place number 1 in Wichita county, said that he and his opponent were good friends and that they did not differ on any of the material points in the race and that it had simply simmered down as to which of the two was the better qualified. He spoke of

Next Does May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Senses.
You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and safe for all.

Cured By a Native Herb.
On board a vessel bound for India recently a man was bitten by a poisonous reptile; both the ship doctor and a famous surgeon failed to control the poison, fast spreading through his system.

In a day the vessel reached port. An Indian medicine man was sent for, who quickly allayed the poison and the man's life was saved.

Roots and herbs are nature's assistants in combating disease. This well-known medicine for ailments peculiar to women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is prepared from roots and herbs, possessing medicinal properties of great value in the treatment of such ailments.

his intended efforts to have placed in the A. and M. college a course for irrigation farming in order that local farmers might be benefited and understand more clearly the modes of farming as done by irrigation. He said he had no pet measure, that he wanted to introduce and admitted that at the present time there were already too many laws on the statute books.

F. G. Swanson followed and he said that he did not appeal to sympathy, did not appeal for any aid nor to any sacrifice. He said he was sponsored by no organization, but that he solicited the support from the individual citizen. He criticized the action of the commissioners' court on the vendor lien note taxation problem.

J. D. Avis and J. D. Farnell were not present and John Simmons, candidate for representative, placed a verified copy of the measure which he favored. Among those enumerated he said that he favored the reorganizing of the state constitution, placing county officials on a salary basis and more legislation and more support to the country schools of the state.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT AWFUL TREACHEROUS

Next Does May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Senses.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and safe for all.

Cured By a Native Herb.
On board a vessel bound for India recently a man was bitten by a poisonous reptile; both the ship doctor and a famous surgeon failed to control the poison, fast spreading through his system.

In a day the vessel reached port. An Indian medicine man was sent for, who quickly allayed the poison and the man's life was saved.

Roots and herbs are nature's assistants in combating disease. This well-known medicine for ailments peculiar to women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is prepared from roots and herbs, possessing medicinal properties of great value in the treatment of such ailments.
