Announce New Dance Step for Hesitating Man

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—The bashful young man in quest of the fair maiden's hand requires something special in dancing, and the exact need is satisfied in a new step announced today by the Society of Teachers of Dancing, according to members of the body attending the annual convention here. The new step is a sort of a hesitating movement called "say-it-while-dancing" and is very appropriate for the purpose it is intended to serve, its sponsors say.

'MOTHER' MARY JONES NOTED LABOR LEADER, SICK AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—"Mother" Mary Jones, unofficial labor leader, especially in times of industrial strife, is critically ill at the home of friends here. The fallities of her 82 years, many of which were spent in strenuous activities in behalf of men and women engaged in strikes, recently were augmented as a result of labor work in Colorado, according to attending physicians. Inquiries instituted by those who missed the mention in reports of the railroad shopmen's strike of "Mother" Jones' activities in her usual capacity, brought the information of her condition and the statement that she was not aware of the transportation situation. It will be the first strike, her friends declare, in which she has not had an active part since she began taking interest in labor troubles as a school teacher in Chicago many years ago.

COOPER CHURCH IS DEDICATED SUNDAY IS FREE FROM DEBT

On Sunday morning, September 3, in the Cooper neighborhood ten miles north of this city, the new house of worship was formally dedicated in the presence of a large congregation practically filling the beautiful building. The committee having charge of the construction reported it free of debt, and after appropriate hymns and prayer by Judge E. A. Martin and an able sermon by the presiding elder, Rev. H. B. Black, D. D., the officials standing in front of the church presented the same "to be set apart, from all unhallowed uses, for the worship of Almighty God."

The ministers then pronounced the sentence of dedication as follows: "For as much as God has put it into the hearts of His people to build this house for His worship, and has blessed them in their undertaking, we solemnly dedicate it to His service, for the reading and expounding of His holy word, the administration of His ordinances, and for all other acts of religious worship. That He may graciously accept this token of our hands let us devoutly pray."

An elegant and bountiful luncheon was served on a long table erected on the shady side of the church which was greatly enjoyed by the congregation and visiting friends. The afternoon services were in charge of the pastor, after several stirring songs and prayer, Judge P. A. Martin and Judge C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls brought deeply interesting and helpful messages. The audience was also favored with an impressively rendered "Gust by the Misses Crowe, entitled "The Old Rugged Cross."

FORWARD COPIES DECREE TO PROTECT MEXICAN WORKERS

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4.—Copies of a decree designed to protect Mexicans working as laborers in the United States and signed on August 21 by President Obregon, have been forwarded to all Mexican emigration officers. The decree is admittedly strict for the purpose of discouraging emigration of laborers. It provides that laborers leaving Mexico for the United States must be given a formal contract by their employers who are to deposit sufficient funds with the emigration officers to pay for their transportation back to Mexico, plus fifty per cent for sustenance. No salary may be fixed in the contract to compel them to have the same wage and working conditions as laborers of other nationalities. No contract may be signed for more than 180 days and contractors will deposit with the emigration officials one peso per man per day for the term of the contract to cover all emergencies incident to their repatriation. Specific provision is made that children of laborers accompanying their parents receive regular school instruction. The decree is the result of numerous complaints received during the past year from Mexicans who migrated to the United States and who because of the business depression were left destitute.

GRAND COUNCIL FIRE BEAUTIFUL CEREMONIAL

The first grand council fire held by the local camp fire organization Sunday night on the lawn, tenth and Lamar, was a beautiful ceremonial, teaching by symbolism of the outdoor world the high ideals which inspire every girl to be and do her best. The girls, about 70 in number, sat in a circle about the fire with their guardians. Special features were the candle lighting by Mrs. R. M. Boyles, Miss Ruth Downing and Miss Mary Mathilde Akin; the candle extinguishing by Misses J. Hovey and Helen Thompson and Mrs. Clyde Foster; the reception of about 20 new members; the singing of camp songs with appropriate gestures; the gown ceremony; the awarding of honor beads and the conferring of the three ranks. Those wearing camp dresses for the first time in a ceremonial were Mrs. Ralph Boyles, Miss Helen Thompson and Miss Mabel Griffin. About 40 girls from the camp fire organization were present, and the greatest number received by any camp fire. Thirteen others were admitted to membership. The girls were not available, so these will receive their honors at a later ceremonial.

Two received the rank of archbearer, the highest rank conferred by the organization. These were Misses Josephine Fisk and Martha Akin. Miss Fisk received the rank both as leader of girls and as craftsman, music being the craft in which they excel.

The rank of fire master was conferred on Mrs. Clyde Foster and Miss Lona Brown. Those receiving the rank of wood gatherer were Misses Thelma Kistner, Margaret Coss, Edna Skages, Nell Wagon, Juanita Bachman, Helen Thompson, Jewel Rose Akin, Muriel Jones, Nellie Lewis, Bertha Selanney, Hazel Dell Herring, Mrs. A. H. Drake, Thelma Owens, Ruth Moore, Elsie Marie Cotton, Maxine Pope, Mildred Childress, Thelma Cain, Ruth Frank.

The next grand council fire will take place at Christmas; there will be another in March and the next will be at the summer camp at Ottaville, Okla., in June, 1933.

LOCAL GIRL TO BE CAMP FIRE INSTRUCTOR S. W. U.

Miss Florence Fisk, president of the local Camp Fire organization, has recently been appointed instructor of the Camp Fire organization of Southern Methodist university, and will leave for Dallas September 14 to take up her new duties.

This announcement, which was made at the close of the grand council fire Sunday night, is very gratifying to her friends who feel that this appointment is an honor both to her and to Wichita Falls. Miss Fisk has been actively identified with Camp Fire work since her early girlhood. Her first work as a guardian was with the Mexican girls in El Paso and she later served the American girls of the First St. M. church in that city. Since coming to Wichita Falls, she has at- tended the camp fire training schools, one in Dallas under the direction of Miss Edith Kempter, national field secretary, and she also has been actively identified with this work anywhere in the United States.

So far Miss Fisk has done pioneer work in the camp fire organization. She has been active in the work of the organization since she was a girl. She has been a member of the organization since she was a girl. She has been a member of the organization since she was a girl. She has been a member of the organization since she was a girl.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS TWINS TURNED INTO RABBITS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"What goes up must come down." Sometimes.

When a skyrocket goes up in the sky it doesn't come down, but the stick it drops on.

When Nancy and Nick saw a stick lying on the ground they thought it was the Fairy Queen's wand she had lost and they grabbed it, but it was only the skyrocket stick.

But Flap-Doodle, the mischievous fairy, who was following them, knew better.

"Oh, oh! What's wrong? I feel so queer! And Nickie, you look so funny. Your ears are a mile long."

Flap-Doodle had changed Nancy and Nick into two white rabbits with just one wave of the magic wand!

Jap Kiddies Take to American "Romper"; First Shop Opened In Tokio Swamped With Orders

The American romper has made its appearance in Tokio and scored an immense hit. Miss Florence Wells who left New York last winter to open the first shop selling American clothes to Japanese youngsters, has been swamped by her unexpected clientele. An American visitor recently found her anteroom filled with Japanese mothers of every class, eagerly asking to be booked for future deliveries several months in advance.

"The romper is much more comfortable and less work to keep clean than the kimono and Japanese mothers have been quick to see it," Miss Wells told her visitor. "Even juvenile kimono in Japan have layers and layers of undergarments, difficult to keep clean and cumbersome to wear. Our strictly American models are made in soft Japanese materials, an easy transition from the native costume." At a recent exhibition in Tokio, Miss Wells and her designer, Miss Cross, won the medal for children's apparel.

Miss Wells, accompanied by two dressmakers and Miss Cross, sailed early in the year. Prior to her departure to undertake this work, Miss Wells was for years with the National Board of the Young Women's Christian association. Due to her long residence in Japan she is an authority on Japanese life and customs. Miss Wells is the author of "Tama" and "Which Way Out," stories of the Orient. Both are published by the Woman's Press.

MINERS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT WACO LABOR CELEBRATION

WACO, Sept. 4.—Organized labor today is putting its forces against monopoly and organized greed. Joseph R. Mayers, state commissioner of labor, declared in an address at labor day exercises here today. The present industrial struggle will deliver the nation from a foe greater than British rule was to the American colonies, or than slavery was to the nation.

"Union labor is young in its modern, vigorous, practical form and has made some mistakes. So has education and government. The opposition to trade unions has been from ignorance and prejudice, all inspired by a spirit of greed."

"To the employers' trade union means high class men, educated workers and safe investment of capital and a stronger industrial commonwealth. To the wage-earner, it means the lack of normal conditions of health and hope. The trade union has undertaken and accomplished various reforms. It has assisted in making possible the passage of laws for the protection of labor, increase of wages, the curtailing of toil and improved conditions of health and hope. JOHNSON IS AGAIN IN POSITION TO NOMINATE OLD GUARD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Hiram W. Johnson, having got his republican nomination for the United States senate in California, is now in a position to nominate the old guard.

The feeling was that the only democrat who provided any reasonable chance of beating Johnson in the November election was the late Senator James D. Phelan. When Phelan refused to make the race the nomination was given rather perfunctorily to Los Angeles man, quite unknown in politics, rice planter and business man, William J. Pearson. Pearson is a man of character and ability in his private undertaking. But he is without political experience, is not an orator and has only meager acquaintance among the people of the state. Nevertheless in the light of the surprising opposition to Johnson that developed spontaneously in the primary campaign the possibility of Pearson beating Johnson in November, California, is a political possibility for doing surprising things in an overwhelming way. The people are less bound by party lines than probably the people of any other state. The fact that in the recent primaries three out of every four who registered did so as republicans has a ready-made majority of that party in the 1916 election could give a 60,000 majority to the republican candidate.

DOUBTFUL, HOWEVER, IF HE GOES SO FAR AS TO LEAD THIRD PARTY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Hiram W. Johnson, having got his republican nomination for the United States senate in California, is now in a position to nominate the old guard.

The feeling was that the only democrat who provided any reasonable chance of beating Johnson in the November election was the late Senator James D. Phelan. When Phelan refused to make the race the nomination was given rather perfunctorily to Los Angeles man, quite unknown in politics, rice planter and business man, William J. Pearson. Pearson is a man of character and ability in his private undertaking. But he is without political experience, is not an orator and has only meager acquaintance among the people of the state. Nevertheless in the light of the surprising opposition to Johnson that developed spontaneously in the primary campaign the possibility of Pearson beating Johnson in November, California, is a political possibility for doing surprising things in an overwhelming way. The people are less bound by party lines than probably the people of any other state. The fact that in the recent primaries three out of every four who registered did so as republicans has a ready-made majority of that party in the 1916 election could give a 60,000 majority to the republican candidate.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS A SHOOTING AFFRAY IN A ROAD HOUSE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—A man giving the name of Thomas McDowell of St. Louis is held by the police here today pending investigation into a shooting affray in a road house here late Sunday night in which Earl McDowell, a prominent politician, was wounded in the temple.

McDowell is in a critical condition at police hospital this morning. Little hope is held for his recovery and the police are mystified at the victim's refusal to name his assailant. McDowell, held with two other witnesses of the affray, is believed by police to have heard the altercation between McDowell and Michael Sexton, owner of the saloon, though the latter denies having seen a shot fired.

DECLARES INDUSTRIAL STRUGGLE WILL DELIVER NATION FROM FOE.

WACO, Sept. 4.—Organized labor today is putting its forces against monopoly and organized greed. Joseph R. Mayers, state commissioner of labor, declared in an address at labor day exercises here today. The present industrial struggle will deliver the nation from a foe greater than British rule was to the American colonies, or than slavery was to the nation.

"Union labor is young in its modern, vigorous, practical form and has made some mistakes. So has education and government. The opposition to trade unions has been from ignorance and prejudice, all inspired by a spirit of greed."

"To the employers' trade union means high class men, educated workers and safe investment of capital and a stronger industrial commonwealth. To the wage-earner, it means the lack of normal conditions of health and hope. The trade union has undertaken and accomplished various reforms. It has assisted in making possible the passage of laws for the protection of labor, increase of wages, the curtailing of toil and improved conditions of health and hope. The trade union has undertaken and accomplished various reforms. It has assisted in making possible the passage of laws for the protection of labor, increase of wages, the curtailing of toil and improved conditions of health and hope."

BUN OFF PRIMARY IN MISSISSIPPI TUESDAY

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 4.—The democratic primary to elect the senatorial contest between former Congressman Hubert Stephens and former Senator James K. Vardaman for the seat now held by John Sharp Williams, will be held tomorrow.

Confident claims of victory are being made by leaders of both factions. A whirlwind campaign is taking place today, dozens of speakers being on the stump in behalf of the two candidates.

PROFESSOR OF LAW CHARGES SALESMAN FATHER OF CHILD

SOUTH BEND, IND., Sept. 4.—Harry Poulin, campus representative of the University of Notre Dame, planned today his defense against the charge of John T. Tiernan, professor of law at the University of Notre Dame, that Poulin is the father of a child born to a student of the university last November. Poulin is at liberty on bond pending a hearing tomorrow on a warrant obtained Saturday in a justice of the peace court.

Poulin's arrest did not interfere with the celebration of his fifteenth wedding anniversary yesterday. At his home Mrs. Poulin expressed absolute faith in her husband and declared that he is the victim of a false charge. The Poulins have two children.

Prof. Tiernan in a statement declared that his action was a "blow at an ancient prejudice against the sanctity of the home." Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of the professor, was prostrated and could make no statement. There are also two children in the Tiernan home.

Following Poulin's arrest, Prof. Tiernan issued a dramatic statement denouncing Poulin, declaring that he was making the fight as an issue of a moral principle. He said that the two families had been the closest friends that Poulin had destroyed his home and had imposed upon their friendship in order to accomplish the degradation of his wife.

Poulin, in his own behalf, insisted Prof. Tiernan attempted to force a money settlement and intimated that the charges came from a mind twisted by jealousy and a study of criminal law. He suggested that his arrest was due to the "disordered state of the legal instructor's mind," and pointed out that Tiernan had continued to live with his wife after she was alleged pregnant.

Prof. Tiernan, who is 22 years old, is the author of a number of text books.

YOU AND I

BREAKFAST
All medicine is not bitter. Sometimes health advice is pleasant, requiring no work, no self-denial. Interesting example is offered in the Medical Review of Reviews. It quoted doctors in 44 states. Three out of four of the physicians advise eating a hearty breakfast.

BROKERS
Among the most delicious events scheduled for September are the trials of 54 brokers in New York City where 55 brokerage firms have failed in the last six months.

SPENDING
Lloyd George tells of a friend of his, traveling in Russia, asked by a porter because the tip for moving a trunk was only $200,000 rubles. Infusion of currency may be both foolish and dangerous. But the Russians must be having great thrills tooting away millions and billions like the hearty, wonderful, abundant, and perfect. Happy happen to overlook the two cents?

SAFER
Aviator Perry stops his airplane within 50 feet of where it first touched the ground in landing. This feat is a national honor. It is a stunt. But it is nationally important for it demonstrates that the day is not far off when an airplane can be landed safely in a small backyard instead of needing a landing ground as big as a football field. Step by step, flying is being perfected, made safer. Future roads will be in the air.

WHATEVER
Peter Whelan, shot by an assassin, runs a block with a bullet through his heart before falling dead. This in New York. It makes you marvel at the hearty, wonderful, abundant, and perfect.

TODAY'S TALK
BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MEANINGS
The meanings of words have always had a fascination for me. And although I try to stick to the small, easily understood words in all that I write, still I get great fun out of stumbling into a big, strange word in my readings and then going to the dictionary to get its meaning.

I like to look at a fish swimming in the water and to ask myself what it all means. I like to look at the heavens at night and meditate upon all the hidden meanings there that have remained so hidden for centuries.

I like to study mountains. Trees rivet my attention. I love every variety. What meanings in their leaves, their huge trunks, the bark that holds their life, their roots!

Every rock that I see seems to have some meaning. I saw some great ones the other day at the edge of a great lake. There were mysterious marks and gouges that ran in all directions across them. Perhaps they were pined there thousands of years ago while in a mountain state. But what do they mean? Even my geology doesn't make it plain.

These gorgeous colorings in our flowers, what do they mean? The floating clouds, the rain that falls in drops, the night, the day—the sun, the moon, the grass, rivers, birds, hills, mountains, the wind—what do they mean? Something quite different to each of us, I am sure.

God, Eternity, Birth, Death—each and all, full of meanings.

We, as great human beings, are the interpreters of these favored things. And we are not restricted as to the meanings we may place upon any or all. We are agents of freedom. We may think and act as we desire. There is only one exception—we may not interfere with the rights of others. For when we do, we kill the purpose of freedom.

Meanings come to us from every source. Out of them springs our philosophy of life itself.

I have a set of books called "Interpretation of Literature." They bring me great happiness, for the writer opens up new meanings to me in the writings of those whom I love and admire. He gives me new insight into the works of their minds and helps to make them more intimate to me.

It is good to form the habit of trying to interpret the meaning back of everything you see or hear.

For the more you understand—or think you understand—the sounder becomes your judgment in all ways and at all times.

RHEUMATISM
By DR. R. M. BISHOP
The verdict of a person with an such rheumatism may be due to a joint is almost sure to be "rheumatism."

This, however, is not necessarily the case. It may be due to a strained position of the body, causing the gristle of the knee to become unstable. This occurs frequently among athletes or during violent exercises at tennis, swimming, baseball, football, or the like.

Real rheumatism is a pus infection, so to get at the root of the trouble, one must rise out of the offending bacteria. This is aided by leading a hygienic life, and adapting a correct posture. Too much acid-containing food should be avoided.

Acute rheumatism sometimes involves the membrane over the heart, at its most serious, it is not only very painful but serious as well.

Rheumatism is associated also with kidney disease, in which Dr. Wright's disease and complaints of the breathing apparatus.

The first symptoms are a few days of general sore feeling; then come chills, fever, and rapid pulse, often perspiration, blisters on the skin, and finally the joints grow red, hot, swollen, and are very painful.

Sometimes this lasts a few days and sometimes several weeks, recovery usually being very gradual. It is more prevalent in men, especially those working in cold, damp places.

The best cure for rheumatism is to get rid of the microbes, keeping the resistance of the body as high as possible. Avoid sudden changes in temperature, and keep the bowels open by proper diet.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The kingdom of God cometh not with observation; neither shall they say, We have it here! For behind the kingdom of God is within you.—Luke 17:20-21

All is marvelous for the poet; all is divine for the saint; all is great for the hero; all is wretched, miserable, ugly and bad for the base and sordid soul. The bad man creates around him a pandemonium, the artist an Olympus, the elect soul a Paradise, which each of them sees for himself alone. We are all visionaries and what we see is our soul in things.—Amiel

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA FAIR, SEPTEMBER 30 TO OCTOBER 4, WICHITA FALLS

THE REMEDY.

Swift and certain punishment, by the gallows route, is the only way to breed a respect for the law that will prevent such crimes as the Herria massacre, and Chicago's murder-per-day average, suggests the Chicago Tribune.

"Why should we wonder at the persistence of violence in labor disputes when our administration of law is slack throughout the country?" asks The Tribune.

"In Chicago there is a killing a day—by average—and of these one out of three is a murder. But there are few hangings. Most killers evade justice either wholly or in part. A woman kills her husband through jealousy and a sloppy minded jury sets her free. An allegation of seduction generally constitutes a license to kill. Taking the law into her own hands, constituting herself judge, jury and executioner, is a safe practice for any good looking female. As for gunmen and camorists, they live according to their own code and the laws which run against the rest of us leave them untrammelled and unafraid."

"In the labor world this lawlessness is given a special sanction by radical propaganda which saturates a considerable element of the workers. Revolutionary radicalism is founded on the class war dogma and murder in minds so controlled is not murder but war. We have seen how hundreds of thousands of lives—some estimates are 1,500,000—were taken by the soviet government without trial and solely on the callous theory that in a class war the proletariat the bourgeois class must be exterminated. Men who think like that are not going to bother over destroying a trainload of human beings to terrorize the rest."

"Now there are various ways of meeting this unpleasant fact in American life. We have faith enough in our institutions and in our social and political intelligence to believe that this poison will be absorbed without serious danger in due time. We believe labor conditions are improving and that we can solve the problems of industrial relations in spite of imported radicalism. But there is something for us to do at once and that is to compel respect for the law of the land by enforcing it. Violence should be punished with swift certainty. Men or women who murder should pay the penalty for murder. Our indifference to law enforcement, our perverted sentimentality and misplaced humanitarianism encourage the ignorant and the fanatic to destroy wherever their bigotry or passion dictates. There is no healthy, vigorous discipline in this country to restrain the perverse, the baited, or the inflamed egotist from following his impulse to destroy, and the want of that discipline is a reproach to us and a peril.

"The man who conspired to kill in the Gary derailment should hang for murder, and throughout the nation responsible American citizenship should sternly resolve that violence shall be put down wherever and under whatever excuse it breaks forth. We, the people, make our laws, and if we respect ourselves and have regard for the future of our social order we shall see that those laws are feared where they are not honored. The prevalence of violence in labor disputes and in ordinary crime is our own fault. We can abolish it by enforcing the law."

SHANTY DAYS

Have you noticed that city boys no longer build shanties? Of course, a few shanties tremble here and there in the metropolitan winds. But shanty-building, an ancient institution of byword, is on the wane, headed for extinction.

It is part of the fall existence in which the city lad is being walled.

If the boys knew what they were missing, restoring peace in the family would be a harder job than settling the periodical crisis in Europe.

Many a grown-up man would not trade his delectable memories of shanty days for a large bag of gold.

Probably you remember one, and the thrill of creation that preceded through you and the bang when you contemplated the finished masterpiece. The roofing was old insulation, tin paper or flat strips from tin cans united, apart in a hood. The lumber came from everywhere and in all sizes, torn from a back fence in emergency.

There was all kinds of lumber lying around loose in those days. And the kind-hearted, understanding

JUST FOLKS

PUTTING UP THE STOVE.
When I was but a little lad, An old base-burner stove we had, A stove which wore a nickel front And many a shily door; Upon its top there stood a king, A cold and glittering metal thing, I'll swear that sturdy monarch weighed Full fifty pounds or more.

All summer long that stove reposed Within a closet snugly closed, With miles of stove pipe tucked away, The monarch off his throne; Then came that autumn night when Dad Would say: "I guess it's time, my lad, To put the coal stove up once more, The autumn days will flow.

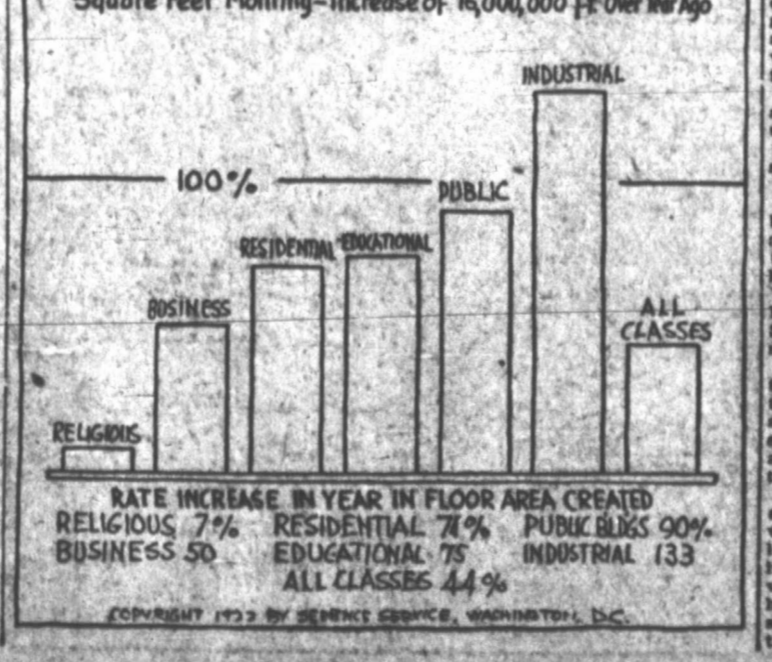

"Now everyone of you must do Exactly as I tell you this day, We'll roll it in without a mis And stand it over there; Then while you give the doors a swipe, I'll very quickly joint the pipe And you can hand it up to me When I am on the chair."

And then we'd drag and haul and tug, And rumple up the perfor rug, With last year's soil in Father's eyes And ears and nose and hair; But then the stove wouldn't fit, So Dad would stop and rest a bit, And then the whole shebang collapsed And knocked him from his chair.

He dropped his knuckles and his nose, And skinned the king upon his toes; He grunted, sweated, tugged and swore, And went to work anew, And when at last the job was done He'd say to me: "Well, that my son, Shows just how precious patience is, And just what it will do."

But everything in time must pass, That heavy king of hammered brass Has toppled from his winter throne, No more to rule and reign; But with the first chill autumn day, I think of Dad, who used to say: "My boy, it's time when we must put The old stove up again."

FOURTH ANNUAL NATIONAL CLIMB UP PIKE'S PEAK

COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept. 4.—The start of the fourth annual national climb up Pike's Peak scheduled for 10 a. m. was delayed more than an hour because of special officers cleared spectators' cars from the 12 miles of winding mountain highway. Snow fell on the peak summit last night, but weather and course conditions are excellent.

EUROPE FROM BAD TO WORSE AND AMERICA IS LARGELY TO BLAME IS VERDICT OF COLONEL HOUSE

What's wrong with Europe? What's the prescription to cure her? These questions were put by Milton Bronner, London correspondent of NEA Service, to Colonel E. M. House.

Colonel House is an American who ought to know a great deal about foreign affairs; an confidential advisor of President Wilson he made repeated trips through Europe during the war, talking with men who were making history; he was Wilson's right hand man at the peace conference; and he has renewed his acquaintance with Europe several times since the war.

Now Colonel House is on his way home after a summer spent in studying world problems over there. In this interview with Bronner he gives the judgment of his studies.

By MILTON BRONNER. LONDON, Sept. 4.—"Europe is in a worse condition now than it was last year."

"That is the judgment of Colonel E. M. House, one-time unofficial ambassador to Europe. He has made an all-summer study of what he terms 'a very sick patient.'"

"And there is no sure cure, no panacea, no patent cure-all," he said. "The blame, he says, rests largely on America's policy of aloofness."

"It is not very difficult to be optimistic about sick Europe's condition," said Colonel House, in an interview with NEA Service, "when one considers the chaos of Russia, the hopeless despair of Austria, the collapse of the German mark, and the apparent drifting apart of France and England over German reparation payments."

"France's position is understandable. More than any other nation she needs two things—cash and safety. Vast sums are needed to repair war damage to territory, which she alone has had to endure."

"And France alone looks across an imaginary boundary line, face to face with Germany, she fears: with her ever-growing population, her industrious workmen, her factories and farms intact, France fears a Germany bent on a war of revenge."

"Things would have been different for France, for Germany and for the world at large if the United States and Britain had honored the signatures of their representatives. France would have been free from fears if these two nations had signed the pact guaranteeing her from German aggression. She would have been in a different frame of mind about German reparations. As it is, she feels that she cannot reduce the size of her army, expensive as it is."

Colonel House declared that Germany's most statesmanlike and most far-sighted men of affairs told him last year how much they regretted that America and England did not sign the pact to protect France.

"These Germans felt that such a pact would have eased the situation between Germany and France," he said, "that it would have led to a quicker restoration of Europe."

Germany, in Colonel House's opinion, lost her strongest man in the assassination of Walter Rathenau.

In discussing the proposed cancellation of inter-allied debts he said: "That all goes back to the Versailles peace conference. If we had given France the guarantee she wanted, it is possible that some plan could have been worked out at Versailles which would have helped to stabilize finances and yet would not have crippled any country. Among other things it would have been possible to work out a sum that Germany could pay and that in all justice she should pay."

Colonel House would make no prediction about the league of nations. America's ultimate course, he said, will be a problem of the next few years.

"But there is one sure thing," he added. "We can't have it both ways. If we turn our back upon Europe and the league we then have no right to complain if, as a result of the unsettled conditions in Europe, we find our trade crippled and many of our people out of work."

"In some fashion America sooner or later will have to help to restore the world. The war made it inevitable that there is no end there would be only two great powers, as against eight before the war. These two are America and Britain. Britain cannot bring about order in the world single-handed. America and Britain, working together, can do so."

CHILMAN, PRESIDENT OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS. GENEVA, Sept. 4.—Austin Edwards of Chile was elected president of the third assembly of the league of nations which was called to order today by Dominiaco da Gama of Brazil, the temporary chairman.

Senor da Gama, in his opening speech, dwelt upon the permanence and greatness of the league, declaring its mission would be to bring about order in the world without fear of its becoming a superstate and usurping the nation's sovereignty. He prefaced his address with the statement that he was purposely making a short one as the world was too full of long speeches.

"You will soon hear in this assembly," he said, "so many speeches necessarily long that you will pardon the brevity of my words in opening the third assembly. Within three days Brazil will celebrate the first centennial anniversary of her political independence and you will permit me to express my regret that I cannot be with my own people and collaborating with you in this international work which is one of the noblest of political conceptions."

"Three years existence is short in the life of such an institution but the enthusiasm of those serving the league is a recognition such that we may declare it will become a definite part of the world's political system and a necessity to the world's normal life. It is true that certain of the diversities state that the league is dead, to which assertion we have only to point out the results of the league's work, saying with the classic poet: 'The dead you have killed have wonderful health.'"

COL. E. M. HOUSE.

HIGH SPOTS FROM HOUSE

Europe is worse off today than it was a year ago. There is no sure cure for its illness.

America's policy of aloofness is largely to blame. America must sooner or later help to restore the world.

If she doesn't, we may find our trade crippled and many of our people out of work as a result of the breakdown overseas.

Only two great powers out of eight before the war are left—Britain and America. And Britain cannot bring order in the world single-handed.

LEUT. DOOLITTLE PLANS TO HOP OFF TO SAN DIEGO, CAL.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 4.—Lieut. James H. Doolittle, army aviator, expects to hop off tonight from the beach at Neptune, near here, confident that he will have dinner tomorrow night on the shore of the Pacific at San Diego, California, more than 2,000 miles away.

The airplane in which he flew Saturday from Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, to Jacksonville, 1,000 miles, without a stop or a miss by the motor, was ready for the start today and reports were that the storm last night over Tampa Bay would have no bearing on the flight.

Lieutenant Doolittle plans to start some time after ten o'clock tonight, departure depending upon the tide. At low tide the beach for miles is between 600 and 800 feet in width, as hard as concrete and as smooth as a table. When he attempted to start early last month it was only a short time after the tide began to ebb, and in running the comparatively narrow beach the machine struck and was swerved and was wrecked in the surf.

Lieut. Doolittle is making the flight alone and at his own expense to demonstrate the feasibility of moving air craft long distances quickly in emergency. He plans only one stop en route, at San Antonio, for fuel.

Spudgers Lose The First Game of The Series With Dallas

By PAUL W. LARKIN
DALLAS, TEXAS, Sept. 3.—It was a nerve stretching, heart crackling, old time pitcher's battle as Gardner's drive this afternoon from which Roy Mitchell and "Slim" Love of the Giants emerged victorious over "Jumbo" Ramsey, of the Spudgers, by a score of 5 to 2.

After Tanner had grounded out in the ninth inning, the Spudgers broke the spell in the seventh, however. They walked off all two were out before starting. Miller then coaxed four wide ones out of Mitchell and promptly stole second. Beck came through with the much desired and needed blow when he cracked one on a line to right for two cushions, sending Jack over.

BIGGEST LABOR DAY PARADE IN YEARS IS STAGED

RAILROAD SHOPMEN MARCH A HUNDRED PER CENT STRONG.

NEARLY 700 UNION MEN IN PROCESSION

Many Local Business Firms Place Banners in Parade; Docks Also March.

The main strength of union labor in Wichita Falls was demonstrated to several thousand people Monday morning when one of the biggest Labor day parades in years was staged on the streets at 10:00 o'clock. The procession contained fully 700 members of local unions, led by the ship crafts who turned out 300 per cent strong. A large number of banners were displayed by the various unions and a number of local business men also entered banners in the procession expressing their stand on the labor question. A number of floats representing various businesses brought up the rear of the procession. The D. O. K. team of Fort Worth and drum corps and 150 Docks led in line and marched with the laboring men.

One of the largest banners in the parade was the one exhibited by the ship crafts. In large black letters appeared the statement, "We want your support." Immediately after the parade which disbanded at the Labor temple practically all of the members and their families drove out to Red river park where an all day picnic was planned. The city fire department and the city band led the parade through the streets of the city.

Judge Napier of the 18th may also set aside several weeks in order to try criminal matters. No indications have been given that whether the 7th or the 18th will impact a grand jury.
