NAVY DEPARTMENT CELEBRATES BIRTH OF COL. ROOSEVELT

SPIRIT OF FORMER PRESIDENT WALKS ABROAD IN CAPITAL CITY.

NAME FEATURES EVERY CASUAL CONVERSATION

Many Have Personal Stories to Recall Fearless Career of Former Official.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The spirit of Theodore Roosevelt walked abroad in Washington today.

Formal celebration of his birthday was claimed by the navy for its own, and there is none who would challenge the navy's right to revel in memories of Roosevelt, to glory in the debt of gratitude it owes to him.

But aside from all this, from the prepared addresses on navy day that dealt largely with his sayings and his works for the navy, ran a curious unrecurrent talk among men whose names have been witness to the place the dead president had made for himself in American history that around the navy department Roosevelt's name should find its way into every casual conversation among officers.

It was natural that around the navy department Roosevelt's name should find its way into every casual conversation among officers.

But it was striking that the talk of Roosevelt was not confined to the navy or the army or to government circles, but ran everywhere about the nation's capital.

Perhaps this was more true in Washington than elsewhere in the nation, for it was hard for these men who knew him in life to realize that the sturdy figure with slouch hat jerked down over alert eyes might not come trudging down Pennsylvania avenue even as they talked.

That he has left a lasting impression on the hearts of his countrymen for all time none who heard the tones of Roosevelt's voice today could doubt.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB IS BEING ORGANIZED IN YOUNG COUNTY

ELIASVILLE, TEXAS, Oct. 27.—Numerous petitions are being circulated here by the Young County Democratic Club in connection with the injunction against Earl B. Mayfield at Corsicana.

This move is on foot in South Bend, Oil City, Hanger and Graham and is reported extended to Olney and Newcastle in northern part of the county.

MERRON CITY, TEXAS, Oct. 27.—It is reported here that endorsements of Earl B. Mayfield for U. S. senator are being signed throughout the oil fields in Young County by the "rotting" boys.

Similar support of Mayfield's candidacy is manifested in Graham as shown by the following "rotting" news item in the Graham Leader:

"For the first time in the history of Young county it has become necessary to organize a democratic club. Heretofore democracy has prevailed unhampered—but since some former democratic have become disgruntled and joined with the republicans in supporting other than the democratic nominee it therefore becomes necessary to reaffirm our adherence to democratic principles and our solemn pledge in the democratic primaries."

ELECTION IN OHIO WILL SHOW VOTERS PROHIBITION VIEWS

WETS WOULD FIX LIMIT OF ALCOHOLIC CONTENT AT 2 1/2 PER CENT.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE FIGHTING THE PROPOSAL

Also Stage War On Any Suggestion to Modify the Volstead Law.

By MARK SULLIVAN National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, Oct. 27.—The form in which Ohio will vote on the prohibition question at the coming election is such that it will probably result in a test of public sentiment more dependable in its results and more widespread in its interest than any of the many straw votes that have been widely discussed.

"No beverage containing 2 1/2 or less per cent of alcohol by weight shall be deemed an intoxicating liquor, and the manufacture and sale of such beverages for consumption in homes and places of abode shall be lawful. No beverage containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume may be sold to be drunk on the premises where sold."

"I became so weakened it was an effort for me to get around. I knew what was the matter, but I felt like I couldn't give up."

REV. W. A. BETTS GOES TO LAMPASAS DISTRICT

On the 26th of June, 1921, I was placed in charge of the Wichita Methodist mission, consisting of two urban and two rural congregations. For good and sufficient reasons some weeks ago I signified my purpose of seeking work elsewhere.

exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish. We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact?

My little girl had a very bad case of eczema. She looked terrible. I tried everything, but nothing helped. I saw an advertisement for S.S. and bought a bottle. I used it as directed and in a few days the itching stopped and the skin cleared up. I am so glad to have my little girl so happy and healthy again.

S.S. makes you feel like yourself again quors in the home or residence of any person for his or her personal use or the use of his or her family, or his or her guests when not intended for sale or other illegal purposes shall not be unlawful. No search or attempt to search the person or property of any such person without previously securing a search warrant shall be authorized in the enforcement of laws pertaining to the prohibition of intoxicating liquors.

It will be observed that this proposal as framed by the "wets" goes some distance towards placating the "drys." It probably represents an effort on the part of the "wets" to state their demand for a change in such a way as to have as little offense as possible to persons who are opposed to the return of the saloon. It will be observed that so far as saloons or public drinking places are concerned, this proposal is identical with the Volstead act itself. In other words, the present limit of the Volstead act—namely, one-half of one per cent of alcohol; but in shops which are not restaurants, and not public drinking places, beverages containing as high as 2 1/2 per cent of alcohol can be sold in bottles to be carried home or to be consumed outside the premises.

Proposed Strongly Supported. Of course, the reply of the "drys" to this is that the distinction is impracticable, that there would be nothing to prevent the customer from opening the bottle on the spot and drinking it, or carrying it out to the sidewalk and drinking it there. "Drys" claim that this provision would result in the sale of beer in pool rooms and the like, nevertheless, it remains clear that this Ohio proposal contemplates that no liquor shall be sold, or manufactured for sale anywhere which contains more than 2 1/2 per cent of alcohol. Inasmuch as many persons believe that 2 1/2 per cent of alcohol is a reasonable limitation anyhow, and is not essentially intoxicating, it can be understood that this change will have a considerable appeal.

But the next provision of the proposed change refers to all intoxicating liquors with any percentage of alcohol whatever. As to these latter, the proposed Ohio statute makes the possession of them in homes or residences for the use of family and guests, when not intended for sale or other illegal purposes, entirely legal. The final provision is to the effect that prohibition enforcement officers shall not have the right to search the property of persons of suspected liquor sellers without first securing a search warrant. This latter provision is objected to by the prohibition enforcement officers on the ground that it would make the prevention and punishment of bootlegging very difficult.

The anti-saloon league is opposed to these proposals in their entirety and a square fight on this point constitutes one of the issues of the coming election. To a certain extent the result of this test of wet vs. dry sentiment will be affected by the general issue of republicanism vs. democracy on the same day. Also, it is possible that many dries will not fight the proposal as hard as they otherwise would because they know that even if passed it will have no effect whatever. The federal Volstead act will continue to be superior to it. Nevertheless, the Ohio election will provide as clear a test of popular sentiment on the beverage question as it is possible to have anywhere.

REV. W. A. BETTS GOES TO LAMPASAS DISTRICT

On the 26th of June, 1921, I was placed in charge of the Wichita Methodist mission, consisting of two urban and two rural congregations. For good and sufficient reasons some weeks ago I signified my purpose of seeking work elsewhere. Accordingly, the authorities at the recent conference in Sherman appointed Rev. O. Alexander as my successor, who expects to arrive next week. Somewhere in the Lampasas district I have been promised another pastorate and shall leave for same on Thursday, November 2, at 3:30 p. m.

Through the medium of the courtship and betrothal, I wish to say goodbye to our many friends and commend the new shepherd to the cordial consideration of all the members and friends of each congregation. Rally to his leadership with the sincerity of the loyal Methodists I have found most of you to be, and the blessing of heaven abundantly shall be bestowed upon preacher and people. Next Sabbath being a fifth Sunday, I preach at North Side church morning and evening, and shall be glad to have a full attendance of the members and friends at both services. The Sunday school under the management of the new superintendent, Mrs. Mae Mitchell, meets at 10 a. m. The adult Bible class should be formed to keep company with the fine bunch of young people and children, who usually assemble there. Come and "turn over a new leaf" in the book of your life by searching the Holy Scriptures together every Lord's day. Judge Cowart will have charge of such a class of men and women as may agree to attend.

The preaching appointments for the present will be as formerly and also include a 3 p. m. preaching service on the first and third Sundays in the month. Teachings shall be held on second and fourth Sundays at Lakeview school house. For the many kindnesses shown the retiring pastor and his family we are truly grateful, and shall forever rejoice that our lot has been cast among such people. The postal and street railway men have been uniformly attentive and deserve high praise for courteous public service. The daily papers have freely granted publicity to our church work and we are deeply appreciative. Fraternally, W. A. BETTS.

NEW STREET SWEEPER VALUABLE IMPROVEMENT

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Oct. 27.—The new street sweeper is making a decided difference in the appearance of business streets here. It works every Wednesday and Saturday night. Mayor Wm. Calvert complains that many of the merchants are nullifying to a great extent, the work of the sweeper by sweeping their rubbish into the streets each morning. Mayor Calvert will take steps, if necessary, to require everyone to place their sweeping in a receptacle so that it may be carried off by the city garbage wagons and thereby kept off the streets.

BURKBURNETT

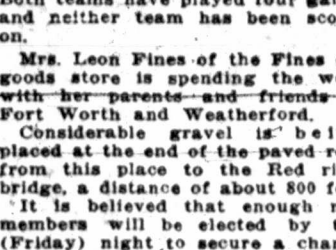

BURKBURNETT, TEXAS, Oct. 27.—A reception has been planned by the friends of the Central Christian church for Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms in honor of their pastor, Rev. John D. White, who was called here recently. The choral club will render several musical selections and several addresses will be given, after which a light luncheon will be served. Then an opportunity will be given for all to get acquainted with the pastor and with one another. The public is invited to come out. Grain and Cotton From Oklahoma.

Some idea can be gleaned as to the amount of farm produce marketed here that is raised in Oklahoma when it is shown that $647,444 has been paid out through the chamber of commerce for toll over the bridge on the Red river for just wheat and cotton alone. Since June 15 of this year, 1,335 loads have been paid for and some think there will not be much difference in the number of loads of wheat and the loads of cotton. The average value of a load of wheat will run around $80 and cotton $112.50, which shows paid out for wheat in round numbers $37,920, and for cotton $149,437.50, and a grand total for both commodities, $187,357.50. The business firms that are paying the toll bridge fees are: Hunt-Rugby Co., Burk Burnett Bridge Co., Miller Bros., Fisher grocery, Johnson Bros., R. H. Henry & Co., Manhattan Clothing, First National bank, Majors' grocery, American National bank, Burk Burnett Dry Goods Co., Farmers' State bank, Anderson's Store, Caprice Rev. John D. White, new pastor at the Central Christian church, and the reception for Rev. C. B. Montgomery, recently returned pastor for the Methodist church. The interest and attendance seems to be getting better each night as the revival meetings at the Immanuel Baptist church, on Avenue D, near the High school building, as they progress under the leadership of Evangelist Bugg and Singer McMahan. The public is invited each evening to come out and enjoy these meetings.

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question. 98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it. This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it. Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100. Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing. It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions. You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it. Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98 THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., Lynn, Mass.

White-Corlett Wedding Solemnized Thursday Afternoon in Beautiful Ceremony at First Presbyterian

Mattie Ruth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Corlett, an old and prominent family of this section, was given in marriage Thursday afternoon during a very beautiful ceremony—solemnized in the First Presbyterian church by Dr. H. P. Grafton, officiating. The bride, Miss Ruth, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White, of Durant, Okla. The ceremony was performed at the First Presbyterian church by Dr. H. P. Grafton, and witnessed by hundreds of relatives and friends of both of the young people.

The musical and floral settings for the wedding service were very lovely. The bride's colors of rose lavender and white for the church decorations were carried out in great baskets of rose lavender chrysanthemums and asters against a background of palms, fern and softly trailing southern clematis. Against these, banded about the altar, the beautiful afternoon costumes of the members of the bride's party made an exceptionally attractive picture. The bridesmaids and matrons having selected soft blue from the bride's personal color scheme of blue, cream and silver for their gowns.

Proceeding the ceremony Mrs. S. M. Gose Jr. played Cadman's "At Dawning" on a violin, and R. Vaughn Ray sang "I Love You Truly" with Mrs. Maer at the organ. Mrs. Maer played the Lohengrin procession for the entrance of the bride and music from Tannhauser during the ceremony, followed by the recessional. The bride was preceded by Miss Sybil Nell, her maid of honor, Mrs. Alfred Miller, matron of honor, and Misses Christelle Waggoner, Lois Wagoner and Vera Hale as bridesmaids, and Little Misses Frances White, niece of the groom and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Moss of Dallas, as flower girls. The matron and maids wore handsome afternoon gowns of soft blue satin canton and carried arm bouquets of rose lavender chrysanthemums. The little girls wore fluffy organdie. Miss White in white, and Miss Moss in pink, carried baskets of flower petals for the bride's pathway.

Miss Corlett, who was very lovely in her bridal gown of cream Valenciennes chiffon lace over flash tinted satin washed in silver, with a veil of tulle falling to the hem of her skirt and a beautiful shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies, entered with her father and joined the groom and the wedding party at the altar. Mr. White entered with his best man, William Cook, preceded by Henry Robertson, Jack Hale and Alfred Miller as groomsmen, and Gowan Putty and Robert Nolan as ushers.

After the wedding members of the wedding party were at the bride's home, where they inspected the many beautiful gifts which had conveyed the good wishes of friends for the new household. Mr. and Mrs. White left in the evening for a wedding trip to St. Louis, New York City and Washington, D. C., returning to be away about two weeks. On their return they will make their home at 1513 Ninth street, the groom's residence, which has been redecorated and furnished for their occupancy.

FASHIONS

By LENORE

Evening styles this season go in for all manner of impertinence. In a most agreeable way, however, they may be caught up into a dressy in front and display a coquettish bit of silver lace petticoat. Or they may disdain the use of any trimming, as does a dress of coral georgette, which is shirred on both sides of the bodice, the shirrs arranged in diagonal folds, with loose ends forming ruffles at the sides.

If the sketch a chic frock for the young girl illustrates another way in which an evening dress may be developed. Here, too, georgette is

Costume Blouse of Wide and Narrow Ribbon Permits Many Beautiful Color Combinations to Harmonize With Skirt

By MARIAN HALE.

The costume blouse is the link that connects the tailored suit to the present style.

It enables one to have that trim, smart appearance on the street that only a suit can give and to have the effect of a costume when the coat is removed.

There are many variations of this interesting accessory, but the most interesting one is offered by Ethel Terry, the musical comedy star.

In a creative moment she invented a new design which proved to be so popular with her friends that she has been giving directions for it ever since.

Here's the secret.

Take any popular make of pattern for a plain blouse that is cut for your bust measure. Use one that fits smoothly about the shoulders and has a good neckline.

Cut a duplicate pattern in brown paper of medium weight and quite smooth.

Cut the front and back separately and join the under arm seams and the shoulders.

For a 32 bust measure you will need a full bolt of six-inch ribbon and a bolt of one-inch ribbon of a contrasting color.

On each side of the center front, baste the wide ribbon. Stitch together with the narrower ribbon and tear away the paper foundation.

Making the Sleeves.

For sleeves, cut first the paper pattern, then join the ribbon together as for the front and cut the paper from beneath.

The ribbon should be cut in strips to reach the wrist, but should be joined only to the elbow.

The ribbons which form the blouse should be joined together to give the long waist, then allowed to hang loose.

Wherever the joining steps finish with a rosette of the narrower ribbon. The wide ribbon may be pic-

Federated Mission Workers Look For City's "Next Worst Need" Now That Nursery Home Is Established

With the Day Nursery permanent home bought and paid for, and a $10,000 unincumbered property representing what, three years ago, was the month-to-month possession of a small rent house, the women of the Federated Missions began work yesterday on the city's "next worst need."

The summary of the afternoon's work, with the exception of reports on past accomplishments, was the appointment of Madame E. C. Goodale as the secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. J. C. A. Goodale as the president. A balance sheet of the nursery's work for the past year was reported by the treasurer, Mrs. J. C. A. Goodale, and the secretary, Mrs. J. C. A. Goodale, and the president, Mrs. J. C. A. Goodale.

has on hand $200 of the maintenance fund to run the home for three months. Mrs. Carrington reported an average of 27 children a day cared for at the nursery, most of whom are regular charges of the home. The treasurer's report showed that the Mission Federation has handled $11,750 during the last quarter-year, including the purchase money donated by the citizenship for the permanent home.

Talks were made by Mrs. J. A. Kemp, who gave the history of the organization since its first meeting three years ago in April to the present; Mrs. Guast, the president, and Mrs. Goldstein sang two beautiful numbers and Miss Vivian Bailey played two beautiful violin selections, all of which were very much appreciated. Mrs. S. M. Black led the devotional service. At the close of the meeting the hostesses invited the members to the basement, where a delightful luncheon of tea, sandwiches and olives was served.

It was announced, following the invitation of the Baptist ladies that the next meeting will be held at the First Baptist church in January.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS TWINS RIDE BACKWARD

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

And the next thing they knew they were going backward at about a dozen miles a minute.

Nancy and Nick were riding along in the magic automobile as nice as pie.

They never suspected that Light Fingers, the bad little fairy, was flying right over their heads.

And they never knew a thing about the magic pill that Light Fingers had in her bottle.

This magic pill made everything it touched go backward, and at this very minute Light Fingers was trying to drop it into the gasoline tank.

At last the bad little fairy got the cap of the tank unscrewed. And in another second he had dropped in the magic pill.

The first thing Nancy and Nick knew, the little car stopped with a sudden jerk and they fell right out of the seat onto the floor.

And the next thing they knew they were going backward at about a dozen miles a minute.

"Oh, my!" cried Nancy. "What's happened?"

"I don't know," answered Nick, "but we'll have to think of a charm as fast as we can. I've got one." So he said.

"Magic auto, what's the matter? You act as crazy as a hatter."

"I don't know what's wrong with me," answered a voice. "But something's queer inside of me. Try another charm." So Nick made up this one:

"Magic auto, don't go back. You'll bump our heads, like Jill and Jack."

But that charm didn't work either. The magic automobile kept on whizzing backward right toward the cave of Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer.

Light Fingers was pleased to pieces.

PEANUT BUTTER BREAD

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH of Columbia University

Three cups flour.
Half cup peanut butter.
One teaspoon salt.
Two teaspoons sugar.
Five teaspoons baking powder.
One and a half cups milk.
Two eggs.
Half cup finely chopped peanuts.

Sift flour once before measuring; then sift twice with the salt, sugar and baking powder.

Lightly work peanut butter into the flour just as one would any butter. Beat eggs until light and add to the flour with the milk. Thoroughly mix to a soft dough, add peanuts, and turn the mixture to a well greased bread pan. Let stand for half an hour, then bake in a moderate oven one hour.

This is a very good tasting and nourishing bread and is especially good for the children's lunch box.

It makes excellent sandwiches, spread with jelly or marmalade.

Wishes Done Suddenly

CLEVELAND, (By the G. E. Press) — Bishop G. E. Brennan of the Evangelical church died suddenly at his home here last night shortly after he had returned from Detroit where he had been instrumental in effecting reunion between two factions of the Evangelical church after 30 years separation.

Card of Thanks.

We take this method of thanking our friends and neighbors for their help and sympathy during our time of sorrow in the loss of our dear brother and uncle, and the beautiful floral offerings and especially thank the ladies who sang—W. D. Clapp, Mrs. W. R. Cochran, W. A. Soule and family.

BY ELTON

Jack knew that if he would be useless to argue with the curly fellow, and tried to think of a plan to cut off his head. Flip then came running up and Jack thought of a trick.

Jack and Flip had often worked this trick back home. Flip, remembered and at once took his place in back of the man.

Quick as a flash, Jack was on his horse and the trio went up the road before the man could sit up again. "Sorry," said Jack, "but we're in a hurry."

NEW INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE IN U. S. SUGGESTED BY GARY

WOULD CONSIDER FINANCIAL, COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL PROBLEMS.

OPPOSES CANCELLATION EUROPEAN WAR DEBTS

Speaks at Semi-Annual Meeting American Iron and Steel Institute.

NEW, Oct. 25.—Another international conference in Washington for the full and frank discussion of all unsettled financial, commercial and industrial questions in which the United States is interested, was suggested by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation in a speech today at the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute of which he is president.

"Such a conference, he said, should be participated in by able, open-minded, well disposed representatives from the different nations, such as those who are engaged in the recent limitation of armament conference.

"If there shall be such a meeting," he declared, "and the delegates see all of the type referred to, there will result incalculable good to all who are parties. They would not decide or discuss how to abolish or overcome the old established law of supply and demand, how to avoid or repudiate existing obligations, but rather how and when to fulfill them without irreparable injury to any one or the sacrifice of any principle."

Local Masons feel that Wichita Falls is especially honored by his visit and that although he is a whole team in himself, his shining attribute is modesty and, in order that he might not feel lonesome in the work he is going to do in conferring the "third degree" for Wichita Falls lodge No. 627 at the Masonic temple.

NOTABLE MASONIC OCCASION SATURDAY EVENING AWAITED

Master Masons of this city are looking forward eagerly to the meeting scheduled for Saturday night at the Masonic temple, when the third degree will be conferred by a team of 33rd degree Masons headed by E. P. Cochran of Dallas.

In speaking of Sam P. Cochran, a visiting Mason remarked that, while the Masons of Texas were all familiar with the remarkable Masonic career of Mr. Cochran, they were not aware of the fact that his reputation as a Masonic ritualist is known in every lodge room in every state in the union, and in all Shrine temples in North America and the islands of the Pacific.

By way of illustration, the visitor remarked that in many states of the union a native of a particular state, if asked, "Who is the grand master of this state?" would frequently be stumped for the answer, and when the question was asked of him he would invariably reply that the Mason addressed would immediately finish the announcement of the first speaker by adding, "of Texas."

"I have never met Sam P. Cochran of Texas," he said, "and I am sure that you never have. I have heard of him as a man who has been devoted at various times to his Masonic activities."

Local Masons feel that Wichita Falls is especially honored by his visit and that although he is a whole team in himself, his shining attribute is modesty and, in order that he might not feel lonesome in the work he is going to do in conferring the "third degree" for Wichita Falls lodge No. 627 at the Masonic temple.

RUSH RESULTS FOR QUARTERS OCCUPIED BY GULF OFFICIALS

The announcement Thursday of the prospective removal of the North Texas office of the Gulf Production company from this city was followed by a general rush to obtain houses and offices to be vacated by employees of that company.

Real estate and rental agents who have been reporting "nothing doing today" to house hunters for some time, were besieged late Thursday and Friday with the request, "Can't you get me one of those Gulf houses?" Very few of the Gulf employees had purchased houses here, practically all being renters.

Applications for office space in the Waggoner building are sufficient to take up nearly all of the rooms to be vacated. It was learned Friday, and it is thought that by the time the move is effected, the supply of space will be exhausted.

RETURN WITHOUT MAN WANTED HERE IN FELONY CASE

Deputy Sheriff Bill Bryan and County Attorney E. L. Fulton returned from Tulsa, Oklahoma, Friday morning without the man who is wanted here in a felony case. Much difficulty was encountered in an effort to bring the man across the state line.

Mr. Bryan secured requisition papers from the governor of Oklahoma and required to Tulsa, to bring his man back with him. It was discovered that the state laws there provide that a man for whom requisition papers have been issued must be served with the papers and then given 24 hours to sue out a writ of habeas corpus.

OIL FIELD SAYS DEP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Oil fields will soon be abandoned in the future that are not reworked, according to a report of the oil industry. The report, which is based on a survey of the oil fields in the United States, shows that the majority of the oil fields are now being abandoned. The report states that the oil fields in the United States are being abandoned at a rate of one every three months. The reason for this is that the oil fields are being abandoned because they are no longer profitable. The oil fields are being abandoned because the cost of producing oil from these fields is too high.

This success of the oil field workers is not so unexpected as it might seem. It is the result of the fact that the oil field workers have been able to obtain a higher price for their product. This has allowed them to pay for their own expenses and to have a profit. The oil field workers have been able to do this because they have been able to control the market for their product. They have done this by forming a union and by negotiating with the oil companies. The oil field workers have been able to do this because they have been able to work together and to have a voice in their own lives.

OIL FIELDS STAGE COME BACK SAYS GEOLOGICAL BULLETIN OF DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Some oil fields whose dwindling output seems to show that they must soon be abandoned, may yield more oil in the future than in the past, and others that seem dead are likely to be resurrected, according to K. C. Head of the United States geological survey, department of the interior, who finds abundant evidence to support the statements in recent discoveries and developments, as well as in work done by the survey.

Resuscitating Tidbits Field. Only a short time ago most oil operators looked upon the old Tidbits field, in Warren county, Pa., as a field with little present and less future importance. Such wells as were being pumped yielded insignificant amounts of oil, and the general opinion was that the field had been so thoroughly drilled that further exploration would be fruitless. One man, however, refused to share the general opinion, clung obstinately to the idea that the early drilling had not conclusively proved that the deep sands below the beds from which the wells were producing were barren of oil.

Waiting his opportunity he drilled a deep well, disregarding both skepticism and ridicule, and on August 5, 1922, when his drill bit hit the Queen sand, 770 feet below the sand which had up to that time yielded most of the oil in the district, he obtained a flow of oil which silenced his critics and restored to importance one of the oldest producing fields in Pennsylvania. This new well in an old field yielded 500 barrels a day and was not only the best well drilled in the district, but one of the most in some directions where the dry holes that bordered the area that was originally productive were due to some local condition or to a lack of porosity or some other condition in the oil sand and did not mark the true edge of the field. The surprising thing is not that these discoveries are made, but that they have led to so little drilling in search of oil.

New Wells in Old Fields. Productive wells in old fields are not so uncommon as the publicity given the examples cited above might seem to indicate. In many a field two or three "bombs" have followed the discovery either of new oil-bearing beds below the ones first developed or of an extension of the field in some direction where the dry holes that bordered the area that was originally productive were due to some local condition or to a lack of porosity or some other condition in the oil sand and did not mark the true edge of the field. The surprising thing is not that these discoveries are made, but that they have led to so little drilling in search of oil.

Wells in Western Fields. New discoveries in old fields are by no means limited to the Appalachian oil fields. The mid-continent fields more than one pool that was apparently nearing extinction has been brought back to its original productivity by some operator who refused to join in the belief that it had been exhausted or by some newcomer who did not share the pessimism regarding the future of the pool that the failure of test wells had led some of the older operators. A striking example is the Electra pool of northern Texas, which during the last year has gained a production of 100,000 barrels a day. The most productive fields of Texas after years of insignificant production. Pools in eastern Oklahoma have been rejuvenated as one deep sand after another has been discovered. The old fields of eastern Kansas have been repeatedly extended during the last few years, largely through the efforts of optimistic geologists and operators whose study of the region had convinced them that it had not been thoroughly explored.

Geologist Is Essential. A good rule for those who look for new productive areas in old fields is that the older the field the better chance there is that some oil has been overlooked. Twenty years ago operators were not so skillful as they are today, and they were also much quicker to believe that a pool had been completely drilled up or an area condemned than they are today. Also, and perhaps most important of all, they did not have the advantage of the intensive application of geology to the discovery and development of oil that has contributed so much to the discovery of new pools, particularly in the Mid-Continent, Rocky Mountain and California fields, during the past five years. It may be confidently predicted that as new pools become scarcer and harder and more expensive to find, oil operators will call upon geologists more and more to study intensively the old pools, and those that have been abandoned or those that produce only small quantities of oil, and that the studies will result in the discovery of oil in territory that is now looked upon by most oil men as almost worthless.

First Requisite of Success. A belief that many old fields are underdeveloped does not mean that random drilling in them is justifiable. Any more than random drilling without geologic advice in wildcat areas is justifiable. The man who makes a drilling location merely because it is near old producing wells and depends on his luck to guide him to the right spot to discover an extension of the been produced for a number of years a few scattered wells have been drilled deep. The records of these wells, combined with a study of the regional geology, and particularly of the geologic history, will tell whether or not there are formations below the producing beds which may be a source of oil and whether they include sands or other porous beds. Study of the geologic structure with the aid of well records will show the location of anticlines that may have formed traps for oil in the deeplying beds.

Use of Diamond Drill. The diamond drill, which is being used more and more in the search for oil, should be particularly helpful in extending old pools, for the core that it yields will reveal the exact character of the beds it penetrates. If the sand in a dry edge well is "light," containing lime or other cementing material, it is reasonable to hope that the dry well no more indicates the edge of the pool than a knot hole indicates where the edge of a plank may be, so that drilling beyond it, outside the supposed limits of the pool, is justifiable.

AVERAGE MONTHLY FARM LABOR WAGE $28.97 AND BOARD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The average rate of wages of male farm labor for the entire United States October 1, was $28.97 a month with board, according to the first of a regular series of quarterly reports from 1,360 county crop reporters to the department of agriculture. The average rate for the year 1921 was $28.14. By the month without board the average October 1 was $17.88, compared with $17.22 for 1921. Day wages with board October 1 were $1.57, compared with $1.45, and day wages without board was $2.08, compared with $2.18 in 1921.

Of the 1,360 reports, 34 per cent stated that the labor supply exceeded the demand at current wages; 33 per cent stated that the demand exceeded the supply, and 31 per cent reported an even balance. Excess of supply was stated in most districts where oil has been produced for a number of years a few scattered wells have been drilled deep. The records of these wells, combined with a study of the regional geology, and particularly of the geologic history, will tell whether or not there are formations below the producing beds which may be a source of oil and whether they include sands or other porous beds. Study of the geologic structure with the aid of well records will show the location of anticlines that may have formed traps for oil in the deeplying beds.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Take fast hold of instruction, let her not go, keep her for she is thy light.—Proverbs 4:13.

GIVING A MONOPOLY TO AMERICAN MANUFACTURERS

Just at a time when the American people were beginning to get a little relief from the high cost of living the republicans put through the highest tariff bill in history, imposing heavy taxes upon many of the necessities of life, and already the effect of this tariff is beginning to be felt in the cost of living.
The American Fair Tariff League, an organization that advocates a tariff equaling the difference to the cost of production at home and abroad, has contributed some interesting information about the new tariff law. It has taken a large number of articles of the necessities of life and has shown how the new tariff will effectively bar competition for American manufacturers.

The Denton Herald takes up one of the items, gingham, on which information was furnished by the League and says:
"Apron gingham, the cheapest cloth suitable for women's and children's dresses and workmen's shirts, were taxed at 15 per cent under the old law. By a system of compounding four separate rates, the Fordney-McCumber law make the tariff tax 21 1/2 per cent upon these cheap gingham. There was no foreign competition in gingham under the old tariff of 15 per cent as none were imported, due to the fact that we make gingham cheaper than any other country in the world. Behind the new tariff wall the New England manufacturers will be able to raise prices to suit themselves with no fear of competition. Their monopoly of the domestic market will be complete.

POLITICAL CHICKENS ON THE HOME ROOST

The Dallas News a few days ago contained a cartoon by Knott that pictured the political situation in Texas very aptly. The cartoon was a drawing representing a number of court houses, district, appeal, supreme and federal with a lot of men running to and fro from one to the other. Among the spots that came from them was one, "Our candidate's two court houses ahead today."

That was a very good picture of the political situation in Texas. But since the cartoon was printed the situation has changed somewhat. Now the candidates each have a court house and are running neck and neck for the Texas supreme court.

The trouble started when the democratic state committee, evidently under the influence of the faction which was conspiring to bring about the nomination of Mayfield and acting upon the advice of its political attorney, permitted the name of James E. Ferguson to go on the ballot. There was little action to conceal the satisfaction which this action of the state committee brought this faction. It served their purpose well and made it possible for them to carry out their secret and undemocratic elimination by which they were able to put their candidate across. Their purpose, of course, in permitting the name of Ferguson to go on the ballot was to take votes from other of the candidates and make more sure getting Mayfield into the second primary, and they knew that if Ferguson got into the second primary there would be no easier beaten.

And having won with their candidate they found it expedient to attempt to prevent the name of any other candidate from going on the ballot. But that was a game at which two could play, with the result that it appears there will be no name of a candidate for the senate on the official ballot and that Paddy and Mayfield will go into the election upon the same footing, if, indeed, Mayfield's candidacy is not withdrawn.

Developments have all gone to show that when the bag of political tricks is opened sometimes more come out than are looked for, and that even political chickens come home to roost.

Steinmetz says four hours is a day's work. The boss says it is hard to get a man to work that long.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TONGUES.
Wise old Aesop once said this about the tongue: "It is at the same time the best and the worst thing in the world."

There is none who will not agree to this, for who has not learned its fact, one way or the other? How the tongue can cut its sharpened edge into the soul—and how it can lift up whole multitudes and get them to doing useful work in the world! How like a two-edged sword at times, and at others like oil poured upon troubled waters, according to the way in which it is used.

Looks often deceive—but tongues have a way all their own of opening up the inner workings of a mind and plotting character.

Get a man to talk and you won't need to inquire as to his pedigree.

He will either be your friend or your enemy. You will trust him or avoid him thereafter.

What a member is this tongue! In song, how it has immortalized such names as Jenny Lind, Caruso, McCormack. And in speech such names as Gladstone, Wendell Phillips, Luther and Lincoln.

The things you say are expressive, largely, of what you are.

Tongue control is all-important, for where would anger get its weapon were it not for the tongue? And how would we get into the innermost chambers of our friend's mind if it not that we can exchange thoughts and expressions by means of this useful member, the tongue?

The intimacy of this tongue of ours! Words lie so cold and silent, but when warmed by the tongue and given life, what a thrill of reality do we experience!

The only record we have of the teachings of Jesus are the words He uttered to those who came to hear. Just fragments. But from them for nearly two thousand years billions of people have drawn comfort and inspiration.

So pleasant, kindly, happy things—or else keep the doors of your mouth closed and your tongue inside.

HOMESICKNESS.
The thoughtless say that trees are trees wherever they may grow

And men are men wherever they meet, but this is never so.

For every homesick heart will sigh until his journey's o'er

To see the gentle maple tree which stands before his door.

I've stood upon the crowded streets and watched the men go by.

But in the multitudes of smile a lonely man was I, A lonely and a weary man who watched them come and go.

And hunched for the little street where walk the men I know.

I've seen the sun come up by day and seen the moon arise.

I've watched as shepherds, long ago, the constellated skies.

But sun and moon and stars, I swear, do not so brightly shine

As when I see them high above that little house of mine.

The homesick boy upon the curb would turn away from klieg-

To meet the man who comes from home and hear the news he brings.

Though countless robins sang to him he still would hunger for

The robins nesting in the tree which stands before his door.

HUSBANDS
A woman in East St. Louis, Ill., is married for the seventh time. She gives her age as 40. Her latest husband has been married to her twice before.

With items like this cropping out in the daily grip of news, not much attention is apt to be paid to the announcement that the cost of running the national government in the last three months was $129,000,000 less than in July, August and September of 1921.

The far north is beginning to take back some of its earlier predictions of a very severe winter.

All this winter it has been having the mildest autumn for many years, though river steamers have stopped and the overland stage is making its first winter trip from Dawson to White Horse.

Submission to an uncomfortable fashion is a reflection of a strain of barbarism, whether in Africa, or here at home. That our women are insisting on comfortable garments is proof positive that they are progressing mentally.

WEALTH
The national debt now is about $1215 for every man, woman and child in America.

However, it is nearly twice as big as all the money invested in the country's telephone, telegraph, electric railway and electric power and lighting systems combined.

The national debt is more than six times as much as all the money invested in the iron and steel works, rolling mills and blast furnaces.

"Economy," instead of "wet or dry" should be the slogan to determine who gets to congress.

MILIONS
Sober second thought suggests that some of these stock dividends are cumberstones or lemons, rather than melons.

A share of stock is really a mortgage on part of the actual physical value of a business. Divide—the total number of outstanding shares of stock into the dollars of physical value that the shares represent, and you have the true value of one share.

When the number of shares is doubled, the original real value of one share is cut in two. Tripled, divide by three. And so on. That's simple arithmetic. A gallon remains a gallon, whether you keep it in a jug or divide it into quarts or pints.

In Russia only soldiers and peasants or other people who actually work with hand or brain are allowed to vote.

New orders, issued to soviet election officials, rule that the following shall not be permitted to vote: "Persons who employ hired labor for the purpose of profit, persons who live on unearned increment, private dealers, traders and commercial agents, clergymen, monks and all employees of religious orders."

This is class government, "pure and simple." Among others, it bars from the polls a farmer employing one farm hand. Still, what happens in Russia is the Russians' business, not ours.

Many a bob white rounds out its full period of existence without ever going ten miles from the nest where it was hatched.

VETERANS TALK TO YOUNG VETS

Among the veterans attending the American Legion national convention in New Orleans was Samuel M. Gompers, veteran president of the American Federation of Labor, and Judge K. M. Landis, veteran jurist now guiding baseball. Both spoke at the convention.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

By LEB FAPS

My sister Gladis had a box of candy in her room yesterday. Me finding it after I hunted about 20 minutes, thinking, "I'll just see what kind it is and taste it."

And I took the lid off and it was about 9 different kinds of mixtures, being a hard box of candy to taste without tasting some of every kind. Wich I did, putting some in half so as not to look as if I was taking too much, and then eating the other half to make the box look neater. Looking pretty neat but kind of empty, and I put it back where I found it behind the bowro and went Gladis came home I took my bed in her room saying, "Hello Gladis, will you give me some candy?"

How do you know I have candy? Gladis said.

How many pieces will you give me if I find it? I said, and she said, "Never mind, and don't worry. I'll make a proposition with you if I only ask for one piece at a time will you give me a piece every day for 4 days?" Making a piece and being just how many I took and Gladis said, "yes, if the candy holds out that long."

And I quick started to go down stairs and I kept Gladis smiling to get her candy box and talking mad to herself when she saw how much was left in it, and I quick put my cap on and went out and something squally hit me right behind one ear and bounced off, and was what it but a chochly mungumeloo. Being a little out of shape from this shock but still good to eat.

Wich I did.

JURY IS DISCHARGED IN LOVELACE-THOMAS CASE IN VERNON COURT

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 27.—Judge Robert Cole of Crowell, acting as special district judge, discharged the jury in the case of W. B. Lovelace, guardian, vs. Mrs. Florence Thomas and O. B. McClain. The jury stated that they had hopelessly hung, and that there was no chance for them to agree on a verdict.

The case involved the title to 149 acres of valuable land eight miles north of Vernon in Wibarger county, which had been deeded to Mrs. Florence Thomas by O. B. McClain. The county judge some time ago appointed W. B. Lovelace guardian for Mr. McClain and his two minor children, Nettie and O. B. McClain Jr., and the guardian brought the suit to cancel the deed.

In his petition that Mr. McClain's health and age would not permit him to make disposition of the land, Mr. McClain is about 90 years of age and did not appear at the trial on account of his age and health. Mr. McClain and his two small children, ages 8 and 6, have made their home with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and husband O. B. McClain for several years. Mr. McClain has several hundred acres of valuable land besides the tract in controversy. The case will be tried again in November at a special term of the district court.

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

CHAPTER I
Two miles beyond Stornest's Dump, Hal Smith pulled Stornest's horse to a walk. He was tremendously excited.

With naive sincerity he believed that what he had done on the spur of the moment had been the only thing to do.

By snatching the flaming jewel from Quintana's very fingers he had diverted that vindictive bandit's fury from Eve, from Clinch, from Stornest, and had centered it upon himself.

More than that, he had sown the seeds of suspicion among Quintana's own people. They never could discover Salazar's body. Always they must believe that it was Nicolas Salazar and his accomplices who had been shot in a rain of bullets, shaking the em-bossed morocco case above his masked head in triumph, derision and defiance.

At the recollection of what had happened, Hal Smith drew breath, and sitting his saddle there in the false dawn, threw back his head and laughed and laughed until the fading stars overhead swam in his eyes through tears of sheerest mirth.

Smith sat his saddle, thinking bigging to be sobered now by the in-fernal reaction which follows excitement and mirth as relentlessly as care dogs the horseman.

He thought of Riga, and of the Red Terror; of murder at noon-day, and of the earlier start of a tiny bell ringing. He remembered how he had met his only encounter with a lovely child—once Grand Duchess of Ruth.—then a destitute refugee in siltken rags.

What day that had been. . . . Only one day, he said, he remembered his only encounter with a lovely child—once Grand Duchess of Ruth.—then a destitute refugee in siltken rags.

As the false dawn began to fade, he loosened hunting coat and cart-ridge, drew from his shirt-bosom the morocco case.

It bore the arms and crest of the Grand Duchess Theodorica of Ethenia. His fingers trembled slightly as he pressed the leveled spring. It opened on an empty casket.

In the sudden shock of horror and astonishment, the convulsive clutch on the spur started a tiny bell ringing. Flung, under his very nose, the empty tray laid aside revealing another tray underneath, set solidly with brilliantia. A rainbow glitter of diamonds, emeralds and rubies.

Gingerly he unlocked the embossed case, fascinated. Then he replaced the empty tray, closed the box, thrust it into the bosom of his tan shirt and buttoned it.

Now there was little more, for this excited young man to do. He was through with Clinch. Hal Smith, hold-up man and dish-washer at Clinch's Dump, had ended his career.

Adversity still concealed the house across the lake, but the trail was already coming out into the starlight.

Suddenly his horse stopped short, trembling, its ears pricked forward. Darragh sat listening intently for a moment. Then with infinite caution, he leaned over the cantle and gently patted the gelder.

THE FORGER

By WILLIAMS

"I'll tell you the whole business some day. But where I'm going to take you now is into a brand new camp which I ordered built last spring. It's within a mile of the State Forest border. Eve won't know that it's Harrod property. I've a hatchery there and the state lets me have a man in exchange for free fry. When I get there, I'll post my man. It will be a roof for tonight, anyway, and breakfast in the morning, whenever you're ready."

"That's the thing to do, then," said Stornest.

He dropped one sopping-wet sleeve over his horse's neck, taking care not to touch the saddle. He was thinking of the handful of gems in his pocket, and he wondered why Darragh had said nothing about the empty case for which he had so recklessly risked his life.

What this whole business was about, Stornest had no notion. But he knew Darragh. That was sufficient to leave him tranquil, and perfectly certain that whatever Darragh was doing must be the right thing to do.

Yet—Eve had swum Star Pond with her mouth filled with jewels. When she had handed the morocco box to Quintana, Stornest now realized that she must have played her last card on the utterly desperate chance that Quintana might go away without examining the case.

Identically she had emptied the case before she left her room. He recollected that, during all that followed, Eve had not uttered a single word. He knew why now. How could she speak with her mouth full of diamonds!

A slight sound from the shore caused him to turn. Eve was coming toward him in the dusk, moving painfully on her wounded feet. Darragh's flannel shirt and his hunting coat buttoned around her slender waist clothed her.

The next instant he was beside her, lifting her in both arms.

As he placed her in the saddle and adjusted one stirrup to her bandaged foot, she turned and quietly thanked Darragh for the clothing.

"And that was a brave thing you did," she added, "to risk your life for my father's property. Because the morocco case which you saved provided to be empty does not make what you did any the less loyal and gallant."

Darragh gazed at her, astounded; took the hand she stretched out to him, laid it with a silly expression on his features.

Charles M. Schwab, the steel-maker, says he doesn't take much stock in great geniuses, but "the hardest struggle in the world is to be more than an average man. Think and do differently from the average, if you want to find success. Learn to do some one thing better than anyone else."

That's all right, provided "the one thing" is a profitable pursuit. World championship at making five-pokers out of wax wouldn't get anyone anywhere.

"I don't know any place nearer than Ghost Lake Inn," he said. . . . "That's where we're going, Jack," said Darragh, "for the better or worse."

"That's your place, isn't it?" "It is. But I don't want 'Eve' to know it. I think it better she should not know me except as Hal Smith—for the present anyway. You'll see to that, won't you?"

"I don't understand, but—it's all right—whatever you say, Jim."

ALL THE NEWS OF ALL THE SPORTS ALL THE TIME

Longhorns Expect Hard Game From Alabama's Plunging Crimson Eleven

AUSTIN, Oct. 27.—The University of Alabama Crimson team, which is one of the best Longhorn on Clark field here Saturday afternoon, are causing the Longhorn coaches lots of worry, for the Alabama eleven has proved wonderfully strong in its games to date. Although defeated by Georgia Tech, the Crimson team has an excellent showing, and a defeat by Tech, it is pointed out, is a disgrace to no team. The Crimson, it will be remembered, showed its power in holding Tech scoresless all during the first half.

"Country" Oliver in the Alabama backfield is one of the best players in the south, because of his brilliant running with the ball. In the Georgia Tech game he ran 34 yards from the kickoff for the Mustangs, bettering his feat of two weeks previous when he made a run of 35 yards against Marion Institute.

"Stumpy" Bartlett, a Texas product, hailing from Marlin, is another Crimson back who is making the mark in southern football this year. He scored five touchdowns against Oglethorpe. Perhaps his greatest feat ever was his work in the Alabama game of last year, which sport writers credit him with winning "practically single-handed."

W. C. Batty is making a good name for himself for the brilliant Bartlett. "Shorty" Probst, six feet three inches tall, weighs 285 pounds, is one of the mighty links in the Alabama line, declared to average 100 pounds from end to end. He is rated the strongest link in the Crimson line forward wall.

"Shorty" was forced out of the game after five minutes of play, weakness from a sickness which had lingered up to the day of the game robbing Alabama of her star lineman.

Two Captains Playing
There are two captains on the Alabama eleven this year. "Shorty" Cooper, 195-pound right tackle, is the captain of this season's eleven, and Clyde Ross, 175-pound left end, is an ex-Crimson captain on this year's Alabama team.

"Big Ben" Compton, six feet four inches tall, weighs 215 pounds, is a star man of last year, is a player on the Alabama team who has seemingly attained stardom overnight. He has become a consistent lineman, and he is the Crimson's regular kick-off man, his efforts rarely failing to reach his opponent's goal line.

Line Is Heavy
Jack Frost, aggressive left guard, Bill Thomas, 181-pounder, Eoley Hubert, 185-pound guard, are other Crimson linemen who are expected to appear against the Orange Saturday.

The Texas punters will probably have a lot of trouble in outlasting McClintock, whose punting was a big feature of the Alabama-Tech game.

Taken all in all, there is little difficulty in trying to win the game, but the most difficult contests on the Texas schedule are the ones that the inexperienced but fighting aggression that makes up this year's Texas varsity.

MANY CHAMPS LOSE TITLES IN '22

By BILLY EVANS
The year 1922 will go down in the annals of sport as a jinx season for champions.

Wrong. In every other start during 1922 Morvich was badly beaten. Favored to win every race he started, he failed miserably each time out.

TEXAS FARM BUREAU CASE ON SATURDAY

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 27.—The case of Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association vs. J. M. Kerese will be heard before Judge J. A. Nabers at Vernon on Saturday the 28th. The farm bureau has asked for an injunction to restrain Mr. Kerese from selling his cotton, alleging that he had contracted to deliver same to the farm bureau for them to sell for him. The case has attracted wide attention in Vernon and a large crowd will be in attendance at the hearing. The suit is brought for $104.55, and for $500 attorney's fees.

Bonner, Storey and Storey are local representatives of the farm bureau, and Berry, Stokes and Kilgough, local attorneys, are representing J. M. Kerese.

MAKE CONTRIBUTIONS FOR PARK ASSOCIATION

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 27.—Mrs. L. G. Hawkins and Mrs. W. H. Huggins have presented the Vernon Park association with $50 and $10 to be used by the association in paying for additional park grounds. The association recently purchased $2,500 worth of land from Dr. Tom King to extend the Allingham park.

Mrs. W. H. Huggins is acting park commissioner, having been appointed by the city commission. The park association is planning another community week next summer at which time the various clubs of the city will put on a program each night, the funds to be used by the park association.
