By Associated Press. WITTENBERG, MO., Nov. 3.—Jack Kennedy, "the qual hunter," veteran Missouri train robber, and three other men, were shot and killed early today by officers after they had robbed a mail car on the south-bound Frisco passenger train. The stolen mail, about 100 registered letters was recovered.

Six police inspectors, three Frisco special agents and two deputy sheriffs of Scott county were waiting near the scene of the robbery when the train, No. 105, running from St. Louis to Memphis, at Seventy-Six, a station seven and one-half miles north of here, Kennedy's pal, who was with him, ordered the train to stop. The engineer and fireman were ordered off the locomotive and Kennedy, who was in the mail car, ordered the train to stop. The locomotive then was detached from the two cars and Kennedy and his companion rode in the mail car. Kennedy and his companion rode in the mail car. Kennedy and his companion rode in the mail car.

2 BIG CONVENTIONS IN 1923 ASKED BY BUSINESS COUNCIL

WANT BAPTIST AND FEDERATED CLUB MEETINGS HELD HERE.

BYRON TELLS REASONS FOR GULF CO.'S MOVE

Produce Meeting to Be Entertained With Visit to Site of Storage Dam.

A decision to go after the 1923 State Baptist convention and the State Federation of Women's clubs was reached at the weekly session of the business council at the Kemp Friday, and efforts for later conventions such as the American Legion and Rotary meetings for 1924, were also discussed.

Plans for entertaining the state convention of wholesale produce men, which will be held here late in November, were taken up, and it was agreed that members of the council, most of whom have not visited the storage damsite, will take the produce men to the scene of operations as a feature of the entertainment.

A talk by Walter H. Byron, third vice-president of the Gulf company, was an interesting feature of the meeting. Mr. Byron said that his company was moving its north Texas offices solely for operating reasons, denying that the housing situation was a factor in the move.

The decision to invite the Baptist convention followed a recommendation to that effect by Horace H. Robinson, chairman of the convention committee. Mr. Robinson said that hotel accommodations here were not sufficient for a gathering like the Baptist convention, the plan of providing rooms for delegates in private homes could be successfully followed. Mr. Robinson pointed out that Waco had several times entertained the convention.

"I'd hate to admit that Wichita Falls couldn't tackle anything that Waco could put over," Mr. Robinson said.

A motion to get behind the movement prevailed. Mr. Harrison reported that local club women were planning to go to Houston next week to invite the 1923 meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs here, and the local committees wanted to know if the chamber of commerce would back their plans. A motion to pledge such backing prevailed.

Lee Sprinkle, who was the driver of the car which collided with the automobile in which J. W. Dossett was a passenger last Saturday night, was placed under arrest Thursday night on charges of negligent homicide. He perfected a $500 bond and was released.

Mr. Dossett died Sunday afternoon following the accident on Saturday night. The smashup occurred on Grant street near Avenue B and Mr. Dossett, who was riding in the rear of the Ford truck was seriously injured at that time.

It is charged in the complaint filed in the county court at law that Sprinkle was driving his automobile at a speed greater than that permitted under the state law.

ANOTHER SETBACK FOR LONG SKIRTS; SPRING SUITS '9 UP'

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Long skirts have received another setback if early orders for spring 1923 are any indication. A New York department store has placed orders for spring suits with the skirts nine inches from the ground.

OUT FOR STAGE RECORD

PEGGY LYTTON
Peggy Lytton is out to make a stage record to match her war record. She'll have to hustle too, for she has been decorated by a number of countries. Belgium gave her a war medal, and she is a member of the Royal Order of Queen Elizabeth and the Chevalier of Leopold II. France gave her a Red Cross "summary medal" and the Croix de Guerre. The Albanian government created a title for her and in that country she is a duchess. And she is starting her new career from a humble maid in a new show on Broadway. Her real name is Marguerite Mouton-Williams. She is just 22.

BUSINESS WOMEN GIVE OPEN HOUSE THURSDAY EVENING AT THE CLUB

The Business Women's club entertained Thursday evening with their first open house for the year at the Y. W. C. A. club rooms, when about sixty of their young men friends were guests at a Halloween masquerade party and dance. The Y-W was attractively decorated for the masquerade, with the lights shaded in Halloween lanterns, the walls of the living room, club room and dining room, where the dance was held, lavishly hung with black and gold crepe streamers, and the same festoons in the Halloween colors. Witches, black cats and thin little figures were in conspicuous places, and the living room harbored a witch and a black kettle over a fire. From this kettle delicious fruit punch was dispensed in tin cups. In the club room fortunes were fished out of a mystic pond by means of long threads, to one end of which were attached capsules containing the various prophecies. Miss Una Steele, in a very effective black witch's garb, stirred and dispensed the brew, and Miss Ethel McDowell presided at the fortune teller's booth. Tables were arranged for the game of Halloween Moon, and sixteen to twenty players kept the "moon" busy all evening. In the living room also Miss Josephine Piek and her quartet of girl friends played most attractive music and sang several songs. Later the same quartet played with the four-piece orchestra in the dining room for the dances. The guests were received at the door by Messrs. Stella Mason and Mildred Packer, president and social chairman of the club. About sixty couples danced during the evening.

HOWIE PARENT-TEACHERS WILL START A LIBRARY

A library for Howie school is the present principal objective of the Howie Parent-Teachers' council, and plans to get books were discussed at the Wednesday meeting of the council. There was a good attendance at the meeting, with talk by Supt. Lee Clark on the object of an association of the mothers and teachers. The members voted to have a box supper and social the evening of Friday, November 24, and a bazaar December 15-16, place to be announced later. At the Wednesday meeting Mrs. E. S. Goodner led the devotional with a specially interesting talk. If the official ballot next Tuesday has the name of Marie B. May, States senator while the injunction is in force, the ballot cannot legally be counted for him.—(Political Advertisement.)

BOTH STYLES POPULAR

The 1922 model fur coat may be long or short, but it must be smart. Black, camel and coltsky make the long one and moleskin and fox the short one pictured here. For early winter, the jacket with the hip band is most popular, but the longer model will have its inning later.

FLORAL HEIGHTS-WESLEY GIRLS HAVE ENJOYABLE SOCIAL MEET THURSDAY

The Floral Heights Wesley Girls met in a social and business session Thursday afternoon at the church, with Mesdames Loren Taylor, A. J. Lester, and Will Ellis hostesses. The social feature of the meeting was especially enjoyable, an unusually large attendance of the class members being attracted to the attractiveness of the occasion. During the business session with which the meeting opened, presided over by the vice president, Mrs. J. I. Hopkins, the class' charity work formed the principal discussion and subject for plans. The members voted to give $5 and a grocery shower to a needy family reported, and also voted to give up a regular course of study. A feature of the social session was the "pounding" for the new pastor and his wife, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Barnes, with a contest of the following: Mesdames J. B. Hopkins, R. L. HOMER COMMITTEES GIVE FINE REPORTS AT MUSICIANS' MEET

The Homer concert committees recently appointed by Mrs. Nicholas, president of the Musicians' association, gave splendid reports on the activities and interest in connection with the concert to be given here in November by Miss Homer, at the musicians' meeting Thursday afternoon. Following the business in connection with the concert and consideration of other matters, Mrs. C. A. Rogers was elected to active membership in the club. The resignation of Mrs. J. P. Goodner, second vice president of the organization, was accepted with regret. Mrs. Goodner is leaving for Fort Worth to make her home. The study for the day was "Schubert," conducted by Mrs. Louella Thompson, and Mrs. Goodner gave an interesting resume of "Papers" on the great composer. Miss Jessie Lee, Harriet played the "Ave Maria" with the violin obligato by Miss Ralley, and Misses Julia and Beulah Ross and Mrs. F. R. Collard gave the serenade for two violins and a piano. Miss Marguerite Kaye sang "Thou Art My Rest," and Mrs. A. J. McKee substituted a Chopin number for a Schubert number on the program.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS JACK HORNER NEXT

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Jack was standing at his front door. The next place the Twins came to was the house of Jack Horner. Jack was standing at his front door. "Hello!" said he, when he saw the Twins. "Hello!" said Nancy and Nick. "We are hunting for Mother Goose's magic broomstick. Do you know where it is?" "No," answer Jack. "I don't like brooms. I only like raisin pie and plum cake and fruit pudding. Would you like to have some?" "Yes, thank you," answered Nancy. "We'll have to hurry now."

and we can't stay. We thought you might have the broom to sweep up your crumbs." "Well, as to that," replied Jack. "I never make any, for I eat all mine. But you might ask Tom Tucker." The Twins thanked him and the Green Shoes whisked them off to Tom's house. As usual he was eating bread and butter. "Any brooms here?" asked Nancy, sticking in her head. "Mother Goose has lost hers and we're after it. The cobwebs are getting so thick in the sky the sun can scarcely shine through. "I'm not an old woman," growled Tommy, with his mouth full. "Whatta I want with brooms? Go and ask Dame Trot or old Mother Hubbard or the Old Woman Who Lives in a Shoe. Maybe they've got it." "I don't think so," said Nancy. "Dame Trot's cat would lick up her crumbs. Mother Hubbard has no crumbs to lick up, and the Old Woman in the Shoe has no time to sweep." Suddenly Tom had an idea. "You might ask on that star over there," he said. "It's called Mars, and lots of people live there." (To be continued.) (Copyright, 1922, N.E.A. Service.) JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

By ELTON

All day Jack had been planning on a means of escape. He finally decided that the only means would be to slip out of the window. He quickly pulled all the bed clothes from the bed and fled them out to end.

Jack waited until midnight. Then he tied one end of his sheet ladder to the bed post. He then climbed out quietly and started down. His faithful dog, Pip, was waiting below and barked a greeting. Jack slid down the rope hurriedly but quietly.

"Be still, Filo," said Jack as he peered the ground. "The you want to wake the guard up!" The boy then dropped off the end of the ladder. Filo didn't bark again but he jumped up and purred at Jack. He was glad to see him again. (Continued.)

BANDITS ARE KILLED ROBBING PASSENGER

here took and declared the reports that the amount ran as high as $100,000 to be unguarded rumor.

Kennedy was 53 years old and Logan 23.

ATTEMPT MADE TO ROB MAIL TRAIN ON FRISCO

MEMPHIS, TENN., Nov. 2.—Jack Kennedy, alias "the quail hunter," an escaped convict from the Missouri penitentiary, and an unidentified bandit, were shot and killed last night in what police officials declared was an unsuccessful attempt to rob the mail and express cars of the fast St. Louis-Memphis Frisco train No. 1 which left the Kansas city at 2 o'clock last night. Six or more masked bandits comprised the gang.

Reports regarding the holdup are conflicting, one reporting that a number of pouches of mail and some express matter were secured by the robbers, while another report says that the robbers were driven off before they could enter the mail car.

The holdup was planned in Memphis about 10 days ago, according to postoffice inspectors here, who were "tipped" off to the plans of the bandits and as a result, eight trains in both directions on the Frisco between Memphis and St. Louis have carried extra guards for the past week. According to the original plans, officers say, the holdup was to have taken place in north Arkansas, but the theft of an automobile which it was planned to use upset the plan of the bandits and caused a delay.

Information as to the method used to hold up the train was received by Frisco officials here, although they are of the opinion of committing the train near Marshall, Mo., earlier in the night may have been part of the plan.

When the train was brought to a stop at Mitter, Mo., after midnight, a fusillade of shots was fired by the bandits who seemed to be scattered along the track. This fire was returned by the train crew in a fight which ensued. Kennedy and another bandit were instantly killed. The remainder of the band who were members of the train crew could numbered at least six, made their escape in an automobile.

Arrangements have been provisionally made by postoffice inspectors to form posses in the neighborhood of Seventy-Six, and according to long distance telephone messages from there this morning, a number of posses are in pursuit of the bandits.

Oh, Well, a Deer Is a Deer, Even If It Is Kinder Tame

J. H. Gardner, who is one of a party of Wichitans hunting in Kerr county, was the first one of the bunch to kill a deer.

He was able to creep up close to the animal, and with a well-aimed shot brought it down.

When he drew near to gaze proudly at the body of his victim, he noticed something on its neck. It was a rope.

And now the children on a nearby ranch are mourning the loss of their pet; they had gotten it so tame it would come and eat out of their hands.

BAROMETER OF POLITICAL AND PUBLIC OPINION WILL BE READ IN RESULTS OF TUESDAY'S VOTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—America's barometer of political and public opinion will be read at the polls, Tuesday, November 7, when another national house of representatives, more than a third of the senate membership, and 32 governors of states, together with state legislatures and local officials, will be chosen.

Nationally, the general election Tuesday is the first of the Harding administration, thus it is regarded by many as a test, bearing upon the presidential campaign. The republicans "go before" the country largely on the record of President Harding and the present congress, an issue accepted by their democratic and other opponents.

Excepting in Maine, where the elections were held last September, the new sixty-eight congress of 435 members will be chosen Tuesday night in all states. Thirty-one senators in 24 states also will be elected. The states electing governors are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

The battle of ballots throughout the country largely is between the two dominant parties, republicans and democrats. The election is marked by virtual passing of the progressive, or bull moose party, socialist, prohibitionist, farmer-labor, single tax and other organizations, however, continue on the ballots here and there, with some independent and other miscellaneous designations. Also marking the campaigns, and often affecting the congressional contests, are liquor, Ku Klux Klan and other questions.

Congressional Candidates.
Congressional candidates mostly are for the sixty-eight congress which will not assemble until December, 1923, unless a special session next summer should be called. Of the 27 senatorial seats at issue, 22 are for regular terms of six years beginning in the next congress and five to fill vacancies by death and resignation. In addition to the 435 members of the next house to be chosen, there are three to fill vacancies in the coming winter session, two from Nebraska and one from Illinois.

Capture of control of the next house is the avowed objective of the democratic parties, or, falling this, material reduction of the present republican majority of 166. The house now has 296 republicans, 129 democrats and one socialist, with eight seats vacant. A turnover of more than 80 seats is required for loss of the next house by the republicans.

The senate now has 59 republicans, one republican-progressive and 16 democrats, with 17 republicans and 15 democratic seats in the next congress at issue Tuesday. Democratic leaders have said that only a miracle would change the political complexion of the next senate at this election.

Both Parties Hopeful.
Republican leaders expect to increase their senate majority by a few members, and they also say they expect defeat of a number of sitting house members, swept in two years ago in the Harding victory. Democratic managers on the other hand are predicting some senate as well as house successes.

Principal spots where republicans hope to cut democratic senators and elect republicans are: Ohio, President Harding's state, where Senator Pomeroy, democrat, is opposed by Representative Peas, republican, former congressional committee chairman; Missouri, where Senator Reed, democrat, is opposed by R. B. Weaver, Rhode Island, where Senator Gerry, democrat, is pitted against former Governor Speckman; Nebraska, where Senator Hitchcock, democrat, and his foreign relations committee chairman, is fighting R. B. Howell, republican national committeeman; Wyoming, where Representative Mondell, republican leader in the house, is running against Senator Kendrick, democrat; Utah, where Senator King, democrat, is seeking reelection against Ernest Rumberger, and New Mexico, where Senator Jones, democrat, is opposed by Stephen B. Davis Jr. Democratic hopes of senatorial gains largely are centered on New York, where Senator Calder, republican, is opposed by Dr. Royal C. Copeland, New York health commissioner; New Jersey, where Senator Frelinghuysen, republican, is opposed by Governor Edwards, democrat; North Dakota, where former Governor Lynn J. Fraser, republican, with non-partisan league backing is against J. P. T. O'Connor, democrat; Maryland, where Senator France, republican, is fighting William Cabell Bruce, Indiana, where former Senator Albert J. Beveridge is pitted against former Governor Samuel M. Ralston; Connecticut, where Senator McLean, republican, is against Thomas J. Spellacy; Washington, where Senator Poindexter, republican, is against C. C. Dill, former representative, and Michigan, where Senator Townsend, republican, is opposed by former Governor Ferris.

There are 26 senators who are candidates for continued service. Three, Senators McCumber, republican; N. D., New, republican; Indiana, and Culberson, democrat, Texas, were defeated for re-nomination in recent primaries, while three more whose terms expire March 3 next, Senators Page, republican; Vermont, Myers, democrat; Montana, and Williams, democrat, Mississippi, are retiring and did not stand for re-nomination.

Women Candidates.
There are two women candidates for the senate from Minnesota and Wisconsin and a score for the house, with many others for municipal and other local offices. The present and first woman senator, Mrs. W. H. Felton of Georgia, appointed to succeed the late Senator Watson, is not a candidate for election, while the lone woman-house member, Miss Alice Robertson, is fighting for reelection in a normally democratic district.

For the 425 house seats there are 1,616 candidates, including 270 present members—249 republicans, 129 democrats and the one socialist. Fifty-seven sitting members, 46 republicans and 11 democrats, are seeking reelection. Prominent among these are "Uncle Joe" Cannon and Representative Fordney of Michigan, chairman of the ways and means committee.

Fifty-seven house candidates are sure of winning Tuesday, being without opposition and some holding nominations of both republican and democratic parties. Of these 43 are democrats and 14 republicans. Breaks in several solid state delegations to congress are predicted. While the solid democratic contingents from southern states are expected to show no change, democratic leaders are predicting breaks in the solid republican ranks now coming from Ohio, Nebraska, Connecticut, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, and possible Oregon, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1922

NO BOLSHEVISM IN AGRICULTURAL WEST.

A good many of the things advocated by Brookhart in Iowa and Frasier in North Dakota go pretty far for republicans and there are a good many republicans in those states who are balking at these candidates and the things they advocate...

The New York Evening Post discussing the political outlook in the Middle Western states says:

"Suppose you were an Iowa farmer—many of our desk-worn readers like to suppose now and then—and the end of the fall ploughing left you a little time to ruminate. Suppose Tomkins, the elevator owner, told you that he'd give 31 cents for your oats if they tested well, and that when you cleared out your left-over corn you could get 51 cents for it; and suppose you saw in the village weekly that your neighbor Pierce had shipped two cars of hogs to Chicago, where they fetched $2.25. Suppose these prices gave you a sickening sense of failure and caused you to sit down with your old account books and do some figuring. You would find that you were offered about 80 per cent of the pre-war normal price for your oats, 90 per cent for your corn, 115 per cent for your hogs, and 99 per cent for your wheat.

"Suppose that, noticing the station agent's new car, you found that railway wages were averaging about 133 per cent of pre-war level and freight rates 150 per cent, while New York factory workers were getting 200 per cent. Suppose you learned, in looking over the mail order catalogues, that the general cost of living is 160 per cent of the pre-war cost. Suppose that your winter order of coal cost you 250 per cent as much as in 1913. Suppose, in short, that you concluded that you had tolled all year without making more than a bare living, while all other groups in the nation were growing more prosperous; that you saw yourself a sort of helot kept busy fourteen hours a day on a pittance to raise food for urban workers who keep busy eight hours a day and then go to the theater. If Smith W. Brookhart came along assuring you that something is radically wrong with the present order and that it is time to enlist with progressivism against reaction, would you smile incredulously and go vote for a stand-patter?"

"Mark Sullivan finds that the rural regions of the upper Mississippi Valley are a territory in which politics is less a matter of republican vs. democrat than of radical vs. conservative." Louis Seibold writes the Herald from Des Moines that "for the first time the paramount issue is conservatism vs. radicalism." Both fear that the farmers will enlist behind financial heresies and dangerous demagogues. Undoubtedly the farmer feels a tendency towards rebellion; he was "deflated" first, and the deflation is continuing altogether too long and too hard. But these are reassuring elements in the situation which should restrain men like Mr. Seibold from writing of "hysteria" and an "almost bolshevist movement." Nowhere this year has a third-party movement cropped out, the farmers being content to nominate the more radical republicans like Brookhart and La Follette. The farmer today is far better educated than a generation ago, and would be no easy prey to cheap money demagogues. Western agriculture has shown a realization that its chief dependence for relief must not be upon politics but upon the farmers' own organizing ability. If the farmer was the first to be deflated, he was also the first to benefit from rising prices, and he retains some of his war-time profits. Finally, there is every indication that the farmers' present plight will soon be ameliorated by better returns for his products.

"Republicans have tried to soften the blows dealt by economic conditions to the farmer. They have helped him by loans through the war finance corporation. The last congress passed a law to encourage farmers' cooperative associations; it enlarged the capital of the farm land banks; it brought the packers under government supervision; it gave the agriculture department power to check improper grain speculation, and it continued a generous road building program. Senator Capper has just outlined further legislation needed, the chief item being a bill to give the farmer full long-term credit facilities. So far as national politics go, the farmers are likely to concentrate upon this and upon electing congressmen who will ask why, when oats are 92 per cent of pre-war prices, freight rates are 149 per cent of pre-war rates. They are likely to demand more government in business. It is to be hoped that they will be spurred to enlarge their cooperative marketing organizations. But a big vote for Frasier or Brookhart is not 'bolshevist' nor even unhealthy."

GLAND FAKERS.

Beware of patent medicine fakers who, cashing in on the public's interest in monkey glands, are flooding the market with pills and liquid dopes herded as marvelous glandular "cures."

The arrival of these parasites was to be expected. Every new discovery is trailed by a mob of unscrupulous fakers who fatten on public credulity.

Thirty-three years ago the original gland doctor, Brown-Sequard, was ridiculed when he came forth with his theories about restoring lost youth and stimulating mentality through the use of endocrine glands.

Today legitimate scientists admit that Brown-Sequard was on the right trail. Wonderful possibilities are opened up.

But the public should remember that tinkering with the body's endocrine glands is in its infancy, and that the treatment is extremely dangerous unless administered by a medical man skilled in this line.

A great deal is already definitely known about the thyroid gland in the neck—its partial control of intellect and its effect on the general health, particularly heart, nerves and hair.

But thyroid treatment is dangerous except in the hands of a skilled physician. For instance, calmying down an over-active thyroid is apt to leave the heart weak.

Of the other glands, much less is known. Their general functions have been defined. But there are few—even among experienced doctors—who can stimulate or calm these other glands without definite perils to the patient.

In the hands of a quack, the endocrine glands are apt to become doors leading to physical breakdown, nervous collapse or downright insanity.

Texas Viewpoints

When the Gods Would Destroy. Denison Herald: The oil and gas department of the Texas railroad commission is enraged at one of its employees and has summarily dismissed him from the service.

The dismissal notice was dispatched without previous warning by the chief of the department advising him that on the following Tuesday his commission as deputy supervisor would cease and directing that he turn over to his successor all state property and files in his possession.

Since it is now of record that any complaint for dereliction of duty had been lodged against the employee it is presumed that up to a certain time he had been entirely satisfactory to his employer.

The Texas railroad commission, to identify something was done, some act committed by the employee that unfitted him for service, impaired his usefulness as deputy supervisor of the state of Texas, hence his dismissal by telegram—a letter through the ordinary channels of the postoffice would not have sufficed.

Either the official had grievously offended or was about to offend in some manner that would bring disrepute on the commission; therefore, in order to protect the rights of the public against an unworthy servant the telegram was employed to notify him, especially when, in a vamoose, to make himself scarce around and about the office he had so long occupied.

Of course, the railroad commission is not at all right to discharge McNamara. But the circumstances of his dismissal are of such a peculiar nature as to be worthy of special mention.

It is recalled that among witnesses for the railroad commission in the trial of McNamara were several of the names of the plaintiffs in the suit.

YOU AND I

BY ALBERT APPLE

CAUSE. Market price of grains has advanced to cents a bushel in Europe, but only 18 cents on American farms.

Julius Barnes says in a speech at Chicago. He blames it on "the breakdown of our transportation system."

Rather difficult, to follow this reasoning, since farm prices are advanced, and the railroads had more idle cars than they knew what to do with.

The real trouble is that some one else is getting what rightfully should go to the farmer. It's the modern gold-brick swindle.

Henry L. Doherty, president of Cities Service company, announces that he will lease 100 Denver homes with manufactured gas this winter "at a cost that will compete with coal."

That may be the solution of the coal problem—shipping it to central distribution points, converting it into coke, then sending the by-products through a network of pipe lines covering the country like a spider's web.

The final solution will be burning the coal at the mines, generating current to go over high tension wires to a country on an electrical basis.

Eight hundred thousand barrels of whiskey remain in government bonded warehouses, announces Prohibition Commissioner Hayes. This is 160,000,000 quarts, or a quart and a half for every person in our country.

It's only a normal three months' supply, for in the old saloon days the average American drank six quarts of distilled spirits a year. Prohibition came because some insisted on drinking the share of a half for every person in our country.

In Cincinnati a man is fined $5 for stealing a newspaper from a subscriber's front porch. This will "strike a responsive chord" in many a heart. There are few things more aggravating than to find one's paper missing. These little things are the really damning evidence in many a case.

If you doubt it, try to start a conversation about the politicians or tariff with the man who has just discovered his daily paper stolen.

King Alfonso of Spain watches reckless gambling in the hancarr rooms at Deauville. Urged to try his luck at the cards, he refuses, saying, "I am not rich enough to lose."

Neither is any one else, though usually they do not discover it until they are in the hole. They have been plucked. This Alfonso displays rare sense, for a king.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

By LEE PAPE

The Eskimos are northern fokes who live in caves of ice. And wats it our business how cold it is?

As long as they think its nice? They have snow and ice all summer long.

And also in spring and fall, and naturally in the winter time they have the most of all.

The ice and snow keep each other cold. And the days are 4 months long. So naturally if you miss one day it may feel as if something was wrong.

All Eskimos dress in bear skins in their efforts to keep warm. And altho they may feel comfortable it makes them thick around the form.

The air up there is too cold for fruit. Or even smaller things such as beans.

So one of their favorite foods is walrus.

The opposite of aardvarks.

The Twilight of Mike CHAPTER I

When Quintana turned like an enraged snake on Sard and drove him to his destruction, he would have killed and robbed the frightened diamond broker had he dared risk the shot. He had intended to do this anyway, sooner or later. But with the noise of the hunting dogs filling the forest, Quintana was afraid to fire.

About an hour later Quintana was seen, challenged, chased and shot at by State Trooper Lannis. Quintana ran. And what with the dense growth of seedling beech and oak and the heavily falling birch and poplar leaves, Lannis lost Quintana and then his trail.

The state trooper had left his horse at the cross-roads near the scene of Darragh's masked exploit, where he had stopped and robbed Sard—and now Lannis hastened back to find and mount his horse, and gallop straight into the first growth timber.

There was no sound of dogs when Lannis rode in on the narrow, spotted trail whence he had flushed Quintana into the dense growth of seedlings that bordered the brook.

Once very, very far away westward in the direction of Star Pond he fancied he heard a faint vibration in the air that might have been hounds baying.

Was he right. And at that very moment Sard was dying, horribly, among two trapped otters as big and fierce as the dogs that had driven them into the drain.

Somewhere among the birches, between him and Star Pond, was Harrod Place. And the idea occurred to him that Quintana might have vanished to seek food and shelter there. Yet, that was not likely because Trooper Stormont had called him that morning on the telephone from the Hatchery Lodge.

However, to reassure himself Lannis rode as far as Harrod Place, and found game wardens on duty along the line.

Then he turned west and trotted his mount down to the hatchery, where he saw Ralph, or, the superintendent answering outside the lodge talking to his assistant, George Fry.

When Lannis rode up on the opposite side of the brook, he called across to Wier:

"You haven't seen anything of any crooked outfit around here, have you, Ralph? I'm looking for that kind."

See here, said the superintendent. "I don't know but George Fry may have seen one of your guys. Come over and he'll tell you what happened an hour ago."

Fry's boyish face seemed agitated; he looked at the state trooper with the flush of tears in his eyes and pointed at the rifle Lannis carried:

"If I'd had that," he said excitedly, "I'd have brought in a crook, you bet."

"Where did you see him?" inquired Lannis.

"Just west of the Scur, about an hour and a half ago. I was stockin' the head of Scur Brook with fingerlings. . . You know how it is in the woods. . . I kinda felt somebody near. . . And, by cracky—there stood a man with a big black automatic pistol, and he had a bead on my belly."

"Well," said Fry, "what's troubling you and your gun, my friend?—I was that astonished."

"He told me his name was Quintana, and that he ought to shoot me for a rat, but wouldn't because of the stink. Then he said he was going to do a quick job that the police were too cowardly to do—that he was a-going to find Mike Clinch down to Ironwood Valley and kill him; and if he could catch Mike's daughter, too, he'd spoil her face for life—"

"What next?" demanded the trooper impatiently. "Tell your story and quit thinking how you were misused!"

"He told me to stay in the shanty for an hour or he'd do me good," cried Fry. . . "Once I got up and went to the door; and there he stood by the brook, wolfing my lunch with both hands. I tell you he cursed and drove me like a dog, inside with his big pistol—my God—like a dog."

"Then, the next time I took a chance he was gone. . . And I beat it here to get me a rifle." The boy broke down and sobbed: "He drove me around—like a dog—he did—"

"You leave that to me," interrupted Lannis sharply. And to Wier: "You and George had better get a gun apiece. That fellow might come back or go to Harrod Place if we starve him out."

Wier said to Fry: "Go up to Harrod Place and tell Jensen your story and bring back two 45-70s. . . There, quit sniveling. . . You may get a shot at him yet."

Behind the curtains of her open window Eve Strayer, lying on her bed, had heard every word.

Crouched there beside her pillow she peered out and saw Trooper Lannis ride away, saw the Fry boy start toward Harrod Place, and saw Ralph Wier watch them out of sight and then turn and re-enter the lodge.

Wrapped in Darragh's big blanket robe she got off the bed and opened her chamber door as Wier was passing through the living room.

"Please—I'd like to speak to you a moment," she called.

Wier turned instantly and came to the partly open door.

"I want to know," she said, "where I am."

"What is this place?" "It's a hatchery."

"Ma'am"

"Whose lodge is this? Does it belong to Harrod Place?"

"Was he north runner, Miss?" stammered Wier, mindful of instructions, but making a poor business of deception: "—I and Hal Smith, we run the place. . . We strip trout for blind and sell to Harrod Place—Hal and I—"

"Who is Hal Smith?" she asked, "where I am."

The girl's flower-blue eyes turned to Wier: "Who is the man who calls himself Hal Smith?" she repeated.

Wier looked at her red and dumb: "Is he a Trooper in plain clothes?" she demanded in a bitter voice. "Is he one of the Commissioner's spies? Are you one, too?"

Wier gazed miserably at her, unable to formulate a convincing lie. She flushed swiftly as a terrible suspicion seized her:

"Is this Harrod property? Is Hal Smith old Harrod's heir? Is he?"

"My God, Miss—"

"Listen, Miss—"

She flung open the door and came out into the living room.

"Hal Smith is that nephew of old Harrod," she said calmly. "His name is Darragh. And you are one of his wardens. . . And I can't stay here. Do you understand?"

Wier wiped his wet face and waited. The cat was out; there was a hole in the bag; and he knew there was no use in such lies as he could tell.

He said: "All I know, Miss, is that I was to look after you and get you whatever you want—"

"I want my clothes!"

"My clothes!" she repeated impatiently. "I've got to have them!"

"Where are they?" asked the bewildered man.

At the same moment the girl's eyes fell on a pile of men's sport-wear clothing in the wardrobe sent down from Harrod Place to the lodge—lying on a leather lounge near a sun-rack.

Without a glance at Wier, she went to the heap of clothing, tossed it about, selected coats, two pairs of woolen socks, gray shirt puffs and trousers, flung the garments through the door into her own room, followed them, and locked herself in.

When she was dressed—the two heavy pairs of socks helping to fit her feet to the shoes—she emptied her handful of diamonds, sapphires and emeralds, including the flaming jewel, into the pockets of her breeches.

New she was ready. She un-

President Harding Refuses to Wed One of 57 Varieties But Is Not Picked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Washington is chuckling over a joke on the president. Yesterday was his 57th birthday and he was receiving a delegation of Texans who had called to urge the appointment of Judge Nelson Phillips of Dallas to a place on the United States supreme bench. They felicitated the president upon his natal day and he replied:

"Yes, I am now one of the 57 varieties," referring to a nationally known advertising phrase, said one of his callers, with a twinkle in his eye. "It does not necessarily follow that you are picked," and President Harding joined in the laugh at his own expense.

SALTED MIXED NUTS

By HERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH of Columbia University.

One cup Jordan almonds, one-half cup meats, one-half cup English walnuts.

Blanch the almonds by pouring boiling water over the nuts, cooking for one minute and plunging them into cold water.

The skins then slip off easily. Do not allow nuts to stand in the water. Dry thoroughly. Do the same with the English walnuts, but the pecans do not require it.

Cook the nuts, a few at a time, in hot oil, either corn or olive, about two or three minutes, keeping them constantly stirred.

Drain on paper, remove to a second piece of paper and sprinkle with salt.

MISS SHAPLEIGH'S HINTS ON BAKING BREAD AND ROLLS

By HERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH of Columbia University.

To use a common, often heard expression, "bread is the staff of life." To make a loaf of bread which is sweet, well risen, well baked and of a good flavor is a great accomplishment and gives one a most satisfied feeling.

We hear much about the desirability of every housewife making her own bread. If she can supply her family with bread which is well baked, and cannot buy good bread, let her by all means make it.

But the large bakeries can bake bread much more satisfactorily than the individual. The ingredients are weighed, the mixing is done by machinery, and the large ovens bake the loaves uniformly well.

The housewife can relieve the monotony of plain raised bread by making biscuits, muffins, corn meal bread, popovers, etc.—like—by the use of eggs, baking powder or soda combined with sour milk or buttermilk.

Using Sour Milk.

Housewives who have a good deal of milk which becomes sour or who have buttermilk would like to use more in cooking but do not always have good results.

The best way is to use soda enough to sweeten the milk, say one-half teaspoon of soda to one cup of milk, and then use baking powder in the same amount as if sweet milk were being used.

Variety can be secured by adding to the plain yeast dough sugar, spice, butter, eggs, fruits or nuts, and shaping into rolls or loaves.

Some of the dough may be kept in the ice box, and used from day to day for several days, having, but, plain or sweet rolls often with little trouble.

Or when shaping the loaves knead into the dough for one loaf some "kneaded" mix or "raisin" or "bun" mix. This bread will be much appreciated especially by the children.

Use More Yeast.

If has been found by experienced bread makers that it is better to shorten the length of time for fermentation by using more yeast, this causing a better result in the quality of the bread.

But when a housewife is careful and gives bread a good deal of thought and attention, the result is good with a smaller quantity of yeast.

The old method of setting bread by night is sometimes not advisable as the temperature of the room is likely to change during the night.

BERWICK SPONGE CAKE! RECIPE THAT NEVER FAILS

By HERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH of Columbia University.

The following recipe is from a collection in the possession of an elderly woman who has lived her life in Berwick, Me. She says this recipe is reliable, or to quote her: "It never fails if directions are followed."

Beat three eggs, whites and yolks together, two minutes. Add one and one-half cups sugar. Beat five minutes.

Mix two level teaspoons cream tartar with one cup flour. Beat into cake two minutes.

Dissolve one level teaspoon soda in one-half cup cold water. Add to cake mixture and beat one minute.

Finally add another cup of flour mixed with one-half teaspoon salt and beat one minute.

Then add the juice and grated rind of half a lemon. Bake 20 minutes in moderately hot oven.

PORK CAKE WHICH KEEPS INDEFINITELY

By HERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH of Columbia University.

This is a cake which used to be very popular. It keeps indefinitely.

and is a good cake for housekeepers to make, if they have good pork.

This recipe makes three medium sized loaves:

Two cups finely chopped clear fat

One and a half cups boiling water
One cup seeded raisins
One cup currants
Half pound citron
Two cups sugar
One cup molasses
Six cups flour
One tablespoon soda
One tablespoon cinnamon
One tablespoon cloves
Four boiling water over the pork and let stand until cool. Then add sugar, molasses and fruit. Mix flour with soda and spices, and beat thoroughly into the other mixture. Bake two hours slowly.

WITH MUSICAL COMEDY "EVE"

Scene from the big musical comedy "Eve" at the Palace theater two days, Friday and Saturday, November 3 and 4, with a special matinee Saturday.

The Palace theater will present a comedy attraction, "Eve." The leading light will be Nyra Brown, a singing comedienne of brilliant fame. Miss Brown has made rapid strides in the last few seasons, and her position in the musical comedy world is due to her marvelous talent and charming personality.

Nyra Brown is a native Texan, with a host of personal followers who have watched her romantically rapid rise from a circus equestrienne, who are the aristocrats of the canopied tops, to the front ranks of musical comedy stars, and in her latest starring vehicle, "Eve" has been a sensational success for the entire season, now fast drawing to a close. Nyra Brown is known in theatrical circles as the "Motor Girl" and not satisfied with one car, owns a fleet of high class motors, and seated by Volokha, her Russian wolf hound, adds just the whiff of that je ne sais quel that denotes individuality and heightens the poise.

Miss Brown in this wonderful production, "Eve" is supported by Johnny Getz, America's funniest

Longhorns Leave For Houston for Annual Owl Tilt

AUSTIN, Nov. 2.—Half of the football squad of Texas university left here at noon today for Houston, where the Longhorns tomorrow will tangle with the rice owls in the second conference game of the season for the Austin team. The remaining members of the team will leave tonight. Stacy, regular quarterback, and Robertson, half back, probably will not be in the Texas lineup tomorrow because of injuries. Coach Berry Whitaker said:

Immediate and careful attention should be given to the first indication of eye trouble. You are fortunate if you have found it necessary to wear glasses, but indeed unfortunate if you have neglected to do so when it is really present. By correcting a slight error in your sight today you will save a multiple of trouble later in life. Faith Optical Co., 212 Scott avenue.—Adv.

How to Make Coffee

A coffee manufacturer who takes pride in turning out a perfect article is in a way unfortunate, inasmuch as he has no control over the final step in manufacture, the making of the coffee in the home. The very finest coffee, unless it is made correctly, will not produce a beverage that is worthy of the effort put forth by the manufacturer, and the money expended by the purchaser. It is, however, a matter of great satisfaction to a manufacturer priding himself on the quality of his product, that the public is today becoming aware of this fact and is devoting more care to coffee making.

It has been definitely determined that the best way to prepare coffee is by the French Drip Method. This is where boiling water is poured over the coffee and drips into another receptacle. All restaurant urns are made on this principle. A good French Drip Pot can usually be obtained in any store carrying kitchen utensils, but if your dealer cannot supply one, we will arrange to fill your order.

Although this is the best way, very good coffee can be prepared by the following method, using a heaping tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water.

Into an ordinary coffee pot or sauce pan, measure the desired amount of ground coffee and add water; bring to a boil, stir thoroughly, then take from the fire. It is most important to do this, for continued boiling causes the flavor or aroma to escape and leaves a drink that is bitter and unsatisfactory. A dash of cold water added at the time the water is removed from the fire will help to settle the grounds.

Bowden has done evangelistic work from the Rocky mountains back toward the Pacific coast, but he expresses satisfaction at being able to accept a regular appointment and particularly gratified to be because of opportunity to work with Rev. Rev. Bowden has been a resident of Fort Worth for six years.

GIVES REASONS FOR BELIEF IN BIBLE AND ITS DIVINITY

Thursday night before a large and enthusiastic audience Roy E. Wallace Jr. took for his subject, "The Bible and Why I Believe It." As a scripture upon which to base his remarks, he read: "I have written to him the great things of my law, but they were counted as a strange thing." Hosea 8:12. This scripture was followed with Tim. 3:16-17 which reads: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

The Bible furnishes the scheme of redemption for man. God drove Adam from the garden of Eden to keep him from partaking of the tree of life and living forever in sin. This was done so God could perfect the scheme of redemption which was fulfilled in Christ, the speaker said. "No man could have written such a book as the Bible in its simplicity as no man could have created a rose. God can be seen everywhere. The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork. The Bible contains every moral precept known. The indestructibility of the Bible proves its divine origin. In contrast to the prediction of Voltaire the infidel that within a hundred years the Bible would be unread, the printing presses today roll out 10,000,000 copies yearly and still the demand is unsupplied. The infidel closed his remarks with a beautiful eulogy upon the truth, greatness, help, comfort and everlasting influence of the Bible. Meeting each night at 7:30 and beginning next week there will be meetings in the daytime.

Professor W. W. Skeel, in the recently published fourth edition of his dictionary, containing approximately 26,000 English words, recognizes only 12 as untraceable in origin.

Parents of a number of Jewish children in the public schools have asked the school authorities to excuse their children from attendance upon the reading of the Bible in the schools. The excuses requested have been granted. In a number of the rooms passages from the Bible are being read daily, but no attempt is being made to discuss the passages read. "I am informed that a decision of the Texas supreme court permits the reading of the Bible in the public schools," said Superintendent Clark, "but to show how delicate a matter it is, I have just read of an action in California to stop the reading of the King James version of the Bible in the schools there on the grounds that it is a sectarian version of the Bible." A forest at maturity, contains scarcely 5 per cent of the trees that started life there, the death of the other 95 per cent having been necessary to the survivors' development.

MERCURY VARIES LITTLE IN PAST 24 HOURS LOCALLY

There was but twelve points difference between the maximum and minimum temperatures locally Thursday night and this city. During the afternoon Thursday the highest point reached was 88 degrees and during the night it fell down to the 63 degree point. South winds were reported from all points in the district Friday morning and although clouds passed over this city early in the morning, agents from other points southwest and north all reported dry skies. There was little wind movement although for an hour Friday morning locally it reached a higher velocity, but calmed down after some threatening clouds had passed.

Take Calotabs for the liver Beware of imitations. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages bearing above trade mark.

Calomel good but awful treacherous Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones You know what calomel is. It's mercury, quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headache, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money. Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loosens you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.
