

"TIGER" IN CHICAGO FOR THIRD SPEECH OF AMERICAN TOUR

MANIFESTS MUCH INTEREST IN REPORTS OF SENATE DEBATE.

DECLINES TO COMMENT ON NEGRO'S INTERRUPTION

Address Will Be Delivered in Big Auditorium and Large Crowd Is Expected.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—George Clemenceau Monday came back to the struggling little mid-western town he had visited as a young man more than half a century ago, and found that it, like himself, had grown to great stature and international fame.

He promptly dubbed America's second greatest city his twin. "I was born in the year that this place was changed from a fort to a city," he said. "So we are twins."

The Tiger of France, come to deliver the third of his series of American addresses in an effort to win American sentiment for his country, was accorded a demonstrative welcome to Chicago. It started when his private car pulled into union station and did not end until the doors of the Potter Palmer mansion had closed behind him.

After he had given his impression of the Chicago of today and compared its sky scrapers and rich dwellings with the "yellow brick from Milwaukee" which he remembered, he was informed that he had been made the subject of another senate debate at Washington.

"Again!" he exclaimed with an expression of astonishment. When he was told that Senator Highcock had challenged his Boston statement that all black troops were withdrawn from the Rhine, he replied curtly that the information he had given in Boston was "official."

The only comment he would make on the uproar that followed an attempt by a wounded negro soldier to inject himself into the senate debate was with a shrug: "That's no business of mine."

The Tiger evinced great interest in the dispatches, however, and seized the first opportunity to read a sheaf of Associated Press "copy" which was left for him. He sent the Associated Press correspondent word later that he had nothing more to add to his Boston interview.

The interviewers asked him to comment on the fact that Woodrow Wilson had once written a letter in which he, too, had charged that France was militaristic. "It is all forgotten," he declared. "That was centuries ago."

He said he was looking forward with great pleasure to visiting the former president at Washington next week.

Asked if he planned to talk in this country about the league of nations he replied: "I am ready."

But when one questioner asked:

Mrs. C. Holcomb Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"Eczema broke out in tiny pimples on my hands and arms and finally turned to large sore eruptions. The eruptions itched and burned dreadfully causing me to scratch. My clothing aggravated the breaking out, and I could not get my hands in water or do any kind of work that I would get warm at. My hands and arms were disfigured and I could not rest at night."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in four weeks was completely healed, after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. C. Holcomb, Asbury, West Virginia.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Tablets are ideal for every-day toilet and nursery purposes.

SAFE BLOWERS IN QUANAH TERRITORY; DENVER IS ROBBED

QUANAH, Nov. 28.—

Thugs operated at night and succeeded in making way with about $10 secured from the Port Worth and Denver depot at Tolbert, as a result of two attempts to blow two safes in this neighborhood. The safe in the Port Worth and Denver depot at Goodlet was also blown, but nothing taken there as far as could be ascertained.

The thugs who operated at Goodlet blew the knob from the safe, but it apparently had not been opened. A hole was made through the door in some manner, but the contents of the safe was intact. Sheriff Gohar visited Goodlet but no blow could be found. Two men, supposed to be tramps, were seen loitering about a half mile from the Goodlet depot Sunday evening, and it is thought they might have been the ones who blew the safe in Goodlet, made it in to Quanah and boarded a train to Tolbert, where they remained there. The door to the safe at Tolbert was blown from its hinges. It was said.

Officers and railway detectives are working on the case.

I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 19 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your medicine. # MYSTERIOUS DEATH IS TO BE INVESTIGATED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—

The mysterious death of V. E. Boge of Hillsboro, Oregon, in his hotel room here yesterday was under investigation today following announcement of chemists that a coffee cup from which the young man had sipped bore traces of poison.

Shortly after entering his room supposedly alone, Boge ordered luncheon for two sent to his quarters. Within an hour he staggered into the arms of a house man in the hallway crying "I believe I have been poisoned." He died in a short time.

The hotel register bears the entry "V. E. Boge and wife, Portland, Ore." Hotel employees declare they saw no companion with him and advised from Hillsboro indicate that he is unmarried.

There was no evidence another person had been in the room. Remnants of a luncheon were found in the apartment. One coffee cup was about half full. Another contained only dregs, in which poison was found.

Elks Big Thanksgiving Dance Is Wednesday's Attraction; Cypher Hop Will Be Thanksgiving Evening

The Elks big Thanksgiving dance will be the social attraction for the young people Wednesday evening, and the Cypher hop Thursday evening will follow on its heels—which is better than on its toes, terrestrially speaking.

Besides these two amusements for the young folks who are here and those who are coming for the holiday at home, there is a good comedy on at the Palace by a company which has distinguished itself already for clean, first class entertainment—the Edna Park Players. And the movies all have good shows billed for the last of the week—Tom Mix at the Strand, Mae Murray at the Olympic, Lon Chaney at the Empress, and a highly advertised feature at the Wichita, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight."

FOUR HUNDRED CHILDREN HELPING IN CLEAN UP

Four hundred children in the Highland Heights (Sam Houston) district are helping with the big Thanksgiving clean up which the Highland Heights Civic league is directing this week.

Trucks from the city and the Wichita Motors company are hauling the trash off free, and a cash donation to help with the work was received from the Wichita Window Glass company.

In order to spur the efforts of the children, who have been enthusiastic workers, the league offered a prize for the cleanest lot, and as a special reward, a big Christmas tree at the school house with candy, fruits and gifts for every child to be given the last day of school before the holidays.

LAMAR AVE. BAPTIST WOMEN MEET MONDAY

The members of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church met Monday afternoon in separate divisions. Circle one was at the church, with a dozen members present and a good meeting. Mrs. W. N. Rawls led the devotional, which was followed by a parliamentary drill, and an interesting lesson studied. Those present were Mesdames C. T. Walters, N. E. Rawls, A. L. Conn, C. F. Boone, L. C. Blakeley, Charles West, J. H. Gaviness, W. H. Conn, Riddle and W. N. Rawls.

GOOD SHEPHERD AUXILIARY HEARS INTERESTING TALK

The Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Good Shepherd were very much interested and entertained Monday afternoon by a talk by Mrs. W. H. Worthington, who spent last summer in Alaska, on the "Frozen country of America." Mrs. Worthington's talk was very much appreciated, bringing an intimate breath of a far country which many Americans are very much interested in.

Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. C. W. Reid were hostesses at the Monday meeting, and 25 members were present. Reports were heard from all officers, and at the close of the program, dainty refreshments were served.

And Now Take Stock of Your Personality!

By MARIAN HALE.

What are the boundaries of a woman's life? Well, according to Harriette Gunn Roberson, personality builder, a woman's interests are apt to be bounded on the north by the neighbors, on the south by clothes, on the west by shifting goals, and on the east by getting married.

These boundaries, Mrs. Roberson believes, are decidedly too limited. Woman's sphere should be enlarged.

"To extend these limits, women need only realize their opportunities for development," explains the personality builder. "Women, as a rule, lack vision. They are afraid to blaze trails.

"The greatest woman of this age is Helen Keller, because she has achieved the most in the face of the greatest difficulties. She is the real self-made woman. She has proved her ability to match the urge in her heart, just as every person can do.

"Often a person's greatest power comes along the line of the greatest handicap."

Outside Personalities.

Mrs. Roberson has a school in Washington, D. C. where she teaches the building of personality. To her come men and women of all classes and ages, from the man who wants to jump from a ten to a fifty-thousand-dollar-a-year man to the woman who wants to develop into the sort of a person who can charm a millionaire.

According to Mrs. Roberson, personality is what influences your bank account and determines your matrimonial value.

"And personality," she adds, "is merely the quality of being somebody. Life is merely the matching of personalities."

Mrs. Roberson says she teaches personality by personally conducting each person on a tour through himself. When he knows his own tendencies and shortcomings, as well as his innate possibilities, he can control his own thoughts and consequently his career.

"Our thoughts are the food of the mind," she points out. "We should be more careful what we feed our minds than what we take into the body. We go through our cabinets and refrigerators and sort over the food, disposing of that which has become tainted and might injure us. We should do the same with our mental storehouse.

"We can change the course of our lives by changing our thoughts. People who are disagreeable and scatter disagreeable suggestions should be quarantined just as quickly as those who might expose us to a contagious disease.

"Mentalists greet each other with a daily 'How do you feel?' We should ask, 'What are your thoughts?' for they determine how far we go.

At present Mrs. Roberson is at the Astor Hotel in New York conducting lectures on psychology and character building.

Very Beautiful Home Wedding for McCutchen-Avis Nuptials Monday

A beautiful home wedding, impressive in the dignity of its solemnization and the loveliness of the home decorations, celebrated the marriage Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Avis of their daughter, Gretchen, to Mr. W. H. McCutchen. The ceremony, said at 1:30 o'clock by Rev. Mr. Dooley of the First Presbyterian church, was witnessed by a hundred or more friends of both families.

The living room of the Avis home was beautifully decorated with southern amaranth, ferns and potted plants, with masses of lovely orchid chrysanthemums in floor vases, pots and baskets. A wedding bell for the marriage party was formed of white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Fred Weeks, sister of the bride, opened the musical program with the singing of the pre-nuptial solo, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by the piano by her daughter, Miss Kathryn Avis. After the wedding which Mrs. M. G. Gose Jr. and Miss Weeks played as a violin duet.

Adman's "At Dawning." Little Miss Weeks, who is among the most talented of the younger musicians, also played the Lohengrin wedding march for the entry of the bridal party.

Miss Avis wore for the ceremony and for traveling a handsome Russian blouse costume of black with trimmings of squirrel, with a tall, ornate hat and other accessories harmonious. She entered with her sister, Mrs. Weeks, and met the groom and his best man, Mr. C. E. McCutchen, under the wedding bell canopy. Here the ceremony was said and immediately afterward Mr. and Mrs. McCutchen left for New Orleans for a two-weeks visit in the historic city. On their return they will be at home in the Floral Apartments.

Mrs. McCutchen was the honoree before her wedding at a number of very lovely affairs given by her friends, and on her return will make another attractive addition to the young matrons' set.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS MIXED CAKES

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

So when the Twins left the soap at Mrs. Bunny's house it was really the corn cake she got.

"Here, my dear!" said the Green Wizard, "is some magical soap I wish to send to Mrs. Ben Bunny. It's such a good soap I couldn't refuse her request when she asked me for some magical soap to wash her son's ears. Ben Jr. won't let her touch them, it seems, so when she asked me to help her out."

"Does she still live in the same place she used to?" asked Nick.

"Yes, down under the ground by the old oak," answered the Green Wizard. "And by the way, it's Cobby's birthday and I've made him a nice little cake out of corn meal, the kind he's so fond of. You might knock at the Coon's front door as you go by and leave it, with my compliments."

Nick took the magical soap and Nancy took the nice little corn cake and they started off through Whispering Forest.

It was a usual Light Fingers was peeping.

He tiptoed lightly behind the Twins and very softly changed around the packages. Then he skedaddled away for dear life.

So, when the Twins left the soap at Mrs. Bunny's house, it was really the corn cake she got, and when they presented Cobbie Coon with the corn meal cake for his birthday, he received the pink soap intended for Ben Bunny's long ears.

Now I suppose you think there was all sorts of trouble when the mistake was discovered, but it never was. For this is the note Mrs. Ben Bunny wrote:

"Dear Mr. Green Wizard:

"Thank you for the soap. It smells so much like corn meal that Ben lets me wash his ears with it all I want. Gratefully,

"MRS. BUNNY."

This was Cobby's note:

"Dear Mr. green wizard the pink soap was fine I ate it all up please tell me it is strawberry or peppermint.

(Cinderella in Beautiful is Helen at Primrose House, Elise Waterbury Morris' famous "back to beauty" hints. This is the second in a series of articles by the wife of Governor Morris, probably the most practical expert in America. The other four articles will appear in the "Woman's Page.")

These two photographs show you what Helen was able to do for her appearance by learning to stand properly.

With her head bowed and her chest sunken she not only made an unbecomingly picture, but she was actually injuring her internal organs.

She could not breathe properly so her lungs were not getting sufficient oxygen to purify her blood. She could not walk gracefully because her muscles were not properly developed.

Lacked Pep

She couldn't look capable and stand that way because she really couldn't be capable. The girl couldn't take a position like that without actual discomfort, and a girl couldn't help being inefficient unless she allowed herself to fall into such unbecomingly habits.

So we put Helen on the following schedule: Every morning upon arising she was to drink two cups of water, hot or cold, according to her taste.

Then she did the following exercises:

Lying flat on her bed, without a pillow, she placed both hands on the abdomen, then distended the abdomen, raising it high as possible and contracting the chest. Then lowering the abdomen and expanding and raising the chest.

Then she reversed the action, raising the chest as high under the chin as possible and contracting the abdomen. She practiced these exercises alternately 10 times.

Other Exercises

Then she placed her hands on her sides and, without bending the knees, raised herself to sitting posture. Then slowly she lowered her body back to the bed.

Then lying flat on her back, she raised her right leg straight, then lowered it slowly. Then she did the same with the left. She repeated both these exercises 10 times.

Upon arising she did this exercise: She bent forward from the hips, permitting her head and arms to relax and hang loosely. Then straightened up to an almost exaggerated posture, raising the chest as high as possible. Then forward again. After repeating 10 times she took at least 10 deep breaths, sniffing the air vigorously so that her lungs were completely filled. Then she slowly exhaled.

This she followed by a cold shower of hair which keeps her skin active and started her blood circulating in earnest.

Another exercise we taught her was to stand erect with her chest high. Then bring the hands out shoulder level, palms facing, and swing the arms forward and at the same time bend forward from the waist, bringing the head back so it rests easily on the back of the neck.

Here is another which helped her wonderfully: Take the same position just explained with the hands clasped behind the back. Then place the right foot forward and bend the right knee. At the same time let the head rest on the back of the neck and clasp the hands tight and tense the muscles of the arms and across the back and shoulders.

We insisted that she hold her head back, chest high and carry the weight on the balls of her feet when lying in sitting posture. We let her push the thighs as far back against the back of the chair as possible. This helped her to avoid hunching the back.

It took Helen some time to make the physical change you see in these photographs, and she has worked hard. But aren't the results worth while?

Jimmie Williams, Joe Kell and E. F. Dunson left Tuesday morning in an auto for the panhandle country and New Mexico on a week's hunting trip.

Women of First Christian Have Paid Big Debt

Maybe you think $5,322.50 isn't a big amount, in a business deal, but it's a pretty big amount for a group of housekeepers and homemakers who have been working for the Women of the First Christian Aid, have done so, and the last of the debt on the "post-mortem" account—closed—last April, has been paid off this month from the free will offerings and earnings of the society.

Report of Officers.

The report was made by the treasurer in Monday's all day general meeting, when Mrs. J. T. Strong's division of the aid entertained the other divisions at dinner at the church. The meeting opened at 10 o'clock and continued until early afternoon. There was a splendid service report, the big report from the treasurer, and officers for the year were elected as follows: Mrs. A. O. Schartz, vice president; Mrs. J. C. Davis, second vice president; Mrs. J. M. Ibell, secretary; Mrs. G. D. Riggsby, treasurer; Mrs. Paul Barnett, press reporter.

The hostess division "did itself proud," as the very expressive saying goes, in the matter of the luncheon. The dining room was beautifully decorated as a whole, and each of the nine tables represented one of the nine months during which the aid holds its meetings. A group of two hostesses had charge of each table, and there was a complete miniature reproduction of the special holiday feature of the month suggested at each. For January, the table was a pretty picture of a "Snowbound" landscape; February honored Washington with patriotic colors and ideas; March remembered the patron saint of Ireland; for April's table there was a lovely Easter scene; May had its maypoles and flowers; June, July and August were skipped, as the aid does not meet in those months; September featured Labor day in a very effective way; October brought Hal-

"GIVE ONCE" DRIVE IS NEARING COMPLETION MAY FINISH TUESDAY

ORGANIZATION OF GYMNASIUM CLASS PLANNED BY LEGION

The united welfare's "give-once" drive was 67 per cent accomplished at noon Tuesday, after a day and a half of hard work by a number of citizens.

The total was well past the $25,000 mark, and workers were very hopeful that Tuesday night would bring the goal of $35,000 attained.

Experiences of the workers are in line with previous campaigns. Many men who are able to give liberally fail to do so, unexpectedly large subscriptions come from other men in moderate circumstances.

"One thing that many business men fail to realize," said one active worker Tuesday, "is that this campaign covers eight organizations. If each of these organizations were to put on a separate drive and a man gave $10 to each of them, he would be out $80. We feel that such a man ought to give $50, at least, in a united drive, but there are no workers who feel that they have done their duty when they give $10 to cover all. To save a business man the time and worry of seven other drives he ought to be given something."

The spirit of the workers has been an outstanding feature of the campaign. Very few have failed to report for duty and to go through with their share of the work energetically.

Reports of progress were made at luncheon at the Y. W. C. A., Monday night. Another luncheon will be held Tuesday night.

FARMER-LABOR IS BEING ORGANIZED IN SOUTH DAKOTA

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Nov. 28.—Initial steps toward formation of a farmer-labor party in South Dakota were taken at a meeting here today of delegates from all sections of the state.

The new party plans to draft heavily from the ranks of the older parties, according to the delegates, and will have its own candidate for governor in the field in 1924, rather than throw its support to the candidate of any of the older parties.

Among the delegates are R. F. Pettigrew, former republican United States senator, and Andrew B. Lee, former governor and a supporter of the democratic candidate for governor in the recent election.

ANGORA, Nov. 28.—Under a decree of the minister of education, all foreign schools, including American schools, must henceforth submit to Turkish supervision and inspection. Any found working contrary to the interests of Moslem will be immediately suppressed.

The measure also stipulated that the Turkish language shall be a compulsory subject in all schools, and that the bookkeeping and correspondence of all commercial houses shall be in Turkish; that the employees of foreign firms, excepting technical staffs, be Turkish and much of the corporate stocks of concerns to which concessions are granted shall be held by the government.

PROVISIONS HULL BILL ARE OPPOSED BY WEEKS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—When hearings were resumed today by the House sub-committee on the Hull bill regarding manufacture in navy yards and arsenals of articles required by the government, Brigadier General William S. Fisk of the army ordnance department read a letter from Secretary Weeks opposing provisions of the bill as too broad. War department arsenals were not now large enough for war requirements, the secretary wrote, adding that the practice of placing orders with private commercial organizations was necessary because it tended to preserve a nucleus over the country which could be used in war time.

A number of manufacturers were on hand to oppose the bill.

PLAN LEGISLATION TO BROADEN THE POWERS OF CLAIMS COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Legislation to broaden the powers of the German-American claims commission is under consideration by senate leaders who want to give a more definite legal status to the commission's findings. # Connie Talmadge Laugh Provoking Film at Olympic

If anyone is in need of a laugh that will leave their sides aching they can surely get it by seeing the Connie Talmadge in "The Primitive Lover," now playing at the Olympic theater. The picture comes just one surprise after another from the title to tall piece, opening with a story that leads one to believe he is in for a big dose of hilarity here. The romantic drama, which takes a sudden twist, gaining comedy strength by leaps and bounds, never letting a smile leave the audience's lips.

"The Primitive Lover," in addition to its comedy appeal, has a strong and something of a lesson for the romantically inclined girls beneath the veils of humor. Phyllis Tompkins, newly married, finds domestic life with a practical husband boring and dreams of romance that she inherits from trashy novels. Along comes Wade, a rejected suitor, to embody the ideal in real life.

Both Wade and the husband are old fakers. Wade was reported to have died during a South American exploration trip, but the report was greatly exaggerated, having been a publicity hoax to stimulate the sale of his novels. The husband knew it and used the knowledge of Wade's enforced absence to win his wife's hand. When the dual chicanery is exposed the wife seeks for a divorce and the problem of the debate drives again for both men are once more suitors for her hand. The difference is that while one adopts the conventional twentieth century form of wooing.

Connie Talmadge does some of the best mimicry of her career and her work in this production must be a long way towards establishing her as the screen's foremost comedienne. If, indeed, there has ever been any doubt upon the subject.

Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan are excellent foils for each other as the two rivals. In fact, the whole production stands superior to anything that has been presented in a long while.

SHRINERS READY TO CONFER DEGREES ON 75 CANDIDATES

CEREMONIAL STARTS TUESDAY AFTERNOON WITH STREET PARADE.

ASPIRANTS FOR RING URGING THEIR CLAIMS

One Uses Cow to Conduct His Campaign—Many Visiting Nobles in City.

Seventy-five candidates will be initiated into the mysteries of the Shrine at Maskat's fall ceremonial to be held Tuesday afternoon and evening. Preparations which have been going on for some time are expected to make this ceremonial one of the best ever.

Early in the afternoon two ring candidates were busy on the streets expounding their platforms. W. C. Wilson, superintendent of schools of Archer City, was passing campaign literature among the nobles, and determined to win the coveted ring against his opponent, Arthur Salmon, who is advertising his platform through the medium of a cow blanketed with banners reading "I want the ring."

The parade formed at 2:30 o'clock and marched through the business streets breaking up at the Palace theater where the first and third sections were conferred in full form. At 7:30 p. m. cars will be in waiting at the Kemp hotel to take all nobles and Shriners to Call field where the second section will be conferred.

Among the distinguished visitors are Noble Hawkins of Vernon one of the divan officers and past grand commander of Knights Templar of Texas and J. Harry Lewis editor of the Crescent magazine the official organ of the Shrine.

SHRINERS BUILDING TEN HOSPITALS AND MORE ARE PLANNED

Ten Shriners hospitals are now under construction—costing approximately $75,000 each, declared J. Harry Lewis, editor of the Crescent, the official organ of the Shrine, on the occasion of his visit to Maskat ceremonial to be held Tuesday, and it will cost $75,000 a year to maintain each of these hospitals.

This is but the beginning of one of the greatest charitable works in the country. Several years ago at a meeting of the imperial council, this work was undertaken with an initial pledge of $10,000 from the imperial council to start the work. An assessment of $2 per member per year creates the fund for the building of these hospitals and their upkeep, in addition to what is being raised from the public.

The Twin City hospital between St. Paul and Minneapolis will be the first to be opened, on Christmas day, when 25 children will be received from 25 different jurisdictions, children who have every kind of a physical deformity, where the skilled hand of the surgeon will restore them to normal.

Hospitals at Shreveport, Dallas and San Francisco will be opened up shortly. Contract has been let for one of the hospital units at Montreal, Canada. Philadelphia has purchased property in one of the most exclusive parts of the city and will soon let contracts for the hospitals there. Portland, Ore., has completed the foundation for the hospital at that point.

"Our plan is to build 20 hospitals of 50 beds each," said Mr. Lewis. "This will take care of 1,000 deformed children."

In addition to this we will send out units from the hospitals to adjacent territory, consisting of a surgeon, an assistant, an intern, a trained nurse and an appliance man. These units will go into the smaller cities and take care of the most exclusive parts of the city and will be done after the local committees have provided our units with rooms or hospitals to take care of the cases entrusted to us.

"We have undertaken a big job," declared Mr. Lewis, "but when accomplished we will have brought joy and happiness into the life of many crippled boys and girls."

S. M. BRIGHTWELL OPENS "BUYLOW STORE" HERE

S. M. Brightwell opened "The Buylow Store" in the Ellis building at Brook and Eighth last Thursday, and has a complete new stock and equipment for fruits, fresh meats and groceries.

Mr. Brightwell, who is from Henrietta, has been in the grocery business for some years, though for the past two he has been in the managerial department at Haven Park. Miss Lois Havener will be associated with him in the new store. It is stated that a new drug store is to be opened in the Ellis building soon.

Y. W. ORGANIZES NEW CLUB AMONG MEXICAN WOMEN

The Y. W. C. A. organized a new English and sewing club among the Mexican women of the city Friday afternoon of last week, and the club had a very successful first meeting.

Mrs. G. H. Abbott, who has had splendid experience with the Red Cross workers among the Mexican people in Laredo for several years, organized the new club under the direction of the educational department of the Y. W. C. A., of which Mrs. W. W. Cook is chairman. She was very materially assisted by Mrs. Samuels, who teaches the Mexican mission school, and Miss Josephine Pisk. The club will have a class in English and a class in sewing, and other practical housework, and will have its general meeting every two weeks with the class meetings at separate times.

Eighteen members enrolled Friday and the class lessons were begun at once.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

"PARLOR, BEDROOM AND BATH" GREAT COMEDY SUCCESS

The reputation established by the Edna Park Players on their first appearance in this city with "Fair and Warner," for good wholesome comedy, was more than maintained Monday night in the production of "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath."

In fact, the company rather outdid itself and the result was a well-pleased audience, if one may judge by the liberal amount of applause. The splendid characterizations by Edna Park and Jack Edwards in the leading roles was a feature of the production. Miss Park in her pleasing and perfectly "at ease" manner was a most delightful character in the very difficult role assumed as her work stood out in applauded as her work stood out in its brilliancy in creating a line of spontaneous and pleasing comedy. Mr. Edwards is an actor of unusual ability and as the innocent and "framed" husband, his work was a delight to the audience and his reception a pleasing testimonial of splendid appreciation of his work. Jack Doty was in his usual good form and contributed largely to the success of the play, as did also Ruby Runney, as the business man's wife, and Madge Haller as Angelica Irving, wife of the "innocent husband" and the victim of the advice of Rosalie Lee, a Wichita Falls girl, gave a creditable presentation of the sister, and Ara Gregg, also of this city, acted her part well.

A contributing feature of the performance is the very attractive special scenery constructed for the play, which reflects a great deal of credit on the company.

Altogether "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" is one of the most delightful comedies remembered to have been shown in this city and unless you are in the humor for a series of good, hearty laughs you had better stay away. If you enjoy good, wholesome comedy, then by all means go; you will not be disappointed.

Announcement is made that there will be a Turkey presentation at the matinee on Wednesday, also that a special matinee at eight prices will be given on Thanksgiving afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BEAUTY.
"I slept, and dreamed
That life was beauty;
I waked, to find
That life was duty.
Was, then, thy dream
A shadowy lie?
Toll on, and heart-courageously—
And thou shalt find
Thy dream to be
A noon-day light
And truth to thee."

This is a little poem that I learned when I was a boy. It has often inspired me on to better things. Whoever planted this love of beauty that I have in my life and heart (I know that my mother's life was saturated with it)—to them I acknowledge my hourly debt of gratitude.

I saw a boy today. The person who showed it to me told me that it had cost $2,000. A great price you say—and a useless expenditure of money. Well, I am quite sure that I could sleep fairly well in it at that. Such exquisite carvings and such magnificent coverings—beauty!

I went into a store today, and told the clerk that I was not going to buy anything—but would he mind if I looked for a little while at the wonderful semiprecious stones of which he had such a great display? He kindly consented.

There was the pink and crimson red, the green, the purple, the canary-gold, the green, the—well, the every color, or the black Australian opal. And every one of them came out of the earth, planted there by the Infinite God. Man had simply polished them that they might smile in their glorified glory!

A life isn't really sad and tragic until it gets to the point where it has no appreciation of beauty.

And there is this thing about a love for beauty—the more you love beauty, the more beautiful is beauty.

So that it comes in time to be a real religion to you, guiding you out of yourself and teaching you the loveliness of service itself. For beauty never takes away from anything. It does only one thing—gives and gives and gives!

But rarer than any stone or material work of art is the beautiful life with a beautiful spirit within. (Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams)

Looking 'Em Over

Denison Herald: After democracy had sobered down somewhat following its recent showings of November 7, party chieftains began to look around for a Moses to lead the flock. The difficulty of the task can be imagined when the new Richmonds appearing in the field are considered and these new comers, be it said of a truth, are showing a little unbusiness to old war horses who think they, or one of them, should be chosen democracy's standard bearer.

At French Lick Springs, up there in Indiana, the other day, Charley Murphy, the leader of the Tammany forces in New York, with some of his associates talked national politics with the democratic leaders of several states.

He agreed to arguments advanced by the New York delegation concerning the availability of Alfred E. Smith for the next democratic nomination at a certain point, and pointed to Samuel Ransom, recently elected, and remarked: "Observe how much he resembles Grover Cleveland!"

At the conference Mr. Murphy learned that William G. McAdoo is in the field for the nomination with certain forces and that James M. Cox is out for another nomination—and is getting ready to fight for it.

There is the pink and crimson red, the purple, the canary-gold, the green, the—well, the every color, or the black Australian opal. And every one of them came out of the earth, planted there by the Infinite God. Man had simply polished them that they might smile in their glorified glory!

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

DRUNK
An architect goes on a spree in Copenhagen, Denmark. He wakes up, hidden in the hold of a ship, on the deck, meets Captain Teronard, and learns that he is on the steamer Hellig Olav, two days out from port, bound for New York.

The stowaway has no recollection of what happened during his jag. No memory of how he got aboard. The liquor had temporarily paralyzed him mentally. Thousands of other men, on similar debauches, have wakened in prison cells to find themselves charged with murder, of which they had no remembrance, which is one reason why John Barleycorn "got the gate."

THIEF
Hard coal is being shipped west in sealed box cars, and frequently disappears these days before it reaches destination. Stolen by people with empty coal bins.

Big thefts are common in our country. Are they simply outcroppings of a wide-spread spirit of dishonesty, like bolts from bad blood?—National conditions usually reflect the majority of people. We tolerate millionaires because we all want to be millionaires ourselves.

ALCOHOL
Are you praying for the day when alcohol, as a fuel for autos, will be used to force down the price of gasoline?

The Wall Street Journal says: "Control of the United States Industrial Alcohol is believed to have passed to the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey."

STANDARD
The companies known as the Standard Oil group have distributed to stockholders nearly $125,000,000 in cash dividends and over $21,000,000 in stock dividends.

John D. Rockefeller never dreamed of anything like that, when he started out as a 25-cent kiosk-keeper. When you really start getting rich in this country, it seems that nothing can stop you.

Four years ago the Standard Oil would have been willing to accept them for yourself. If so, you're "kidding" yourself when you say a "million" too much for any one.

CHARMER

The charmer wore a long skirt, dragging on the ground. He had a long, thin, pointed beard. He was almost as old as the hills, and asserted itself in one century about the same as in another.

BABIES
A line, marine fish, is caught near Greenland. It weighs 45 pounds, and is not like the big, fat, round ones. F. M. Duncanson, a fisherman, says he has never seen a larger one.

Moody
John Moody, business expert, feels moody. He sees another period of deflation coming late next year. That is, unless farmers get better prices.

Present national prosperity, as Moody sees it, is not well balanced. The farmer's purchasing power is less than it was in 1914. Many people's income averages higher. Until the two become better balanced, Moody doesn't see how there can be a smooth and big-scale change of products between city and farm. Sounds sensible. Equilibrium will come.

ANTI-SWearing CLUB FOR STEPHENS COUNTY
BRECKENRIDGE, TEXAS, Nov. 25.—The only anti-swearing club in Stephens county has been formed by the local members of the fire department and the fire fighters are very "honest" but cover. Any member who descends to profanity gets the boot. Chief Smalley created the sentiment against vulgar language.

DALLAS—Thanksgiving will be celebrated by about 150 local Boy Scouts at Camp Wisdom, if possible, from Dallas, according to Jack R. Berry, acting scoutmaster. A barbecue will be given the boys at noon November 25 by John Wisdom, who gave the 300 acre tract on which the camp is located to the Boy Scouts. The next day tests for scout badges in cooking, camping and pioneering will be given.

Fill in the stars shown above with the correct letters and you will find four words which will be the same across and from top to bottom.

It was a strange introductory. But it was a mystery that had puzzled everybody, and I was willing to bet that he had to say about it. I took the chair behind him.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If a man say I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?—1 John 4:20.

Love rules the camp, the court, the grove, And men below and saints above; For love is heaven, and heaven is love. —Walter Scott.

ABOUT THE WAR DEBTS OWED THE UNITED STATES.

There has been considerable agitation in this country for the cancellation of the war debts owed the United States by Great Britain, France, Italy and other European countries to whom the United States made advances during the war and after the armistice.

As said, there has been considerable agitation and propaganda for the cancellation of these debts. There are bankers in the United States who would profit by such cancellation and as is generally the case where a special interest is concerned they are pushing their campaign for cancellation. The most effective contribution against their efforts is an article in last week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post by Garret Garrett on "Notes on the War Debts."

Mr. Garrett's article shows that the American government and the American people advanced the money only with the thought that it was to be repaid and that such was the intention, or the understanding at least, of the borrowers. He shows that some of the money loaned was used to pay interest on securities of the borrowing countries issued before the United States entered the war; that a very considerable part in the case of Great Britain was used to purchase materials for British industrial concerns to maintain British trade, some of it in competition with American trade which was being denied the use of these very materials; that a very considerable part was used by the borrowing governments to buy supplies for resale or distribution to their civilian populations and in the case of Great Britain a large sum was used to maintain the exchange value of the British pound sterling, largely for the benefit of British trade.

OUR INCREASING TAX BURDEN.

One-sixth of the income of the American people goes for the payment of taxes, local, state and national, according to a report issued by the national industrial conference board at Washington.

Our tax burden has been increasing at a very rapid rate. In 1913 they amounted to 6.3 per cent of our national income, increasing to 13 per cent in 1919, to 14.3 per cent in 1920, and 16.6 per cent in 1921.

The report said: "Before the war, state and local taxes had been growing faster than federal taxes, and federal taxation constituted but three-tenths of total taxation. In 1919, however, federal taxation constituted over three-fifths of total taxation; and in 1921 federal taxes amounted to slightly more than one-half of the national total."

"State and local burdens began to share equal independence with federal taxation. In sixteen states, Arizona, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wisconsin, state and local tax burdens per capita in 1919 exceeded federal taxation per capita."

"Per capita tax burdens in the United States in 1919 were highest in New York state, $148.36; followed by Massachusetts, $125.35; Delaware, $124.41; Rhode Island, $115.25, and Michigan, $105.71, the lowest per capita tax being in Alabama, $26.47."

After all, the measure of taxes is the value and benefits received. There are a number of things the government can do that individuals cannot and there are a number of services that the government can perform better and more economically than private enterprise. But the tendency of late has been to increase the activities of the government in lines that were once regarded as the field for private enterprise. That is one of the reasons for the increase in taxation. If we are going to have the government do this, taxation is going to take an increasing proportion of our income.

The jail is empty in Ardley, N. Y. But it should not be. Weeks wants to know how to make our airplanes safe. They might try carrying long rope ladders.

THE STORM.
Winter's hammering at the door, banging at the window pane Seeking to get in at us, but it howls and beats in vain;

Here the logs upon the hearth blaze and oblige gleefully, It's a stormy night outside, but we're safe as safe can be.

Out of doors the tree tops moan and a dirge the wires sing, Now and then a shutter bangs like a bruised and beaten thing.

But indoors the children play all unmindful of the storm, Here we have no care to dread, here are happy hearts and warm.

So before the fire I sit, thinking as the storm goes by Filled with bitterness the world, but contented here am I;

Now the North wind howls along, and the snow is drifting deep, But serene the house remains by the blazing fire I keep.

So our faith is like the fire glowing brightly in the grate, Keeping warm the heart inside when descend the storms of fate.

Bitterly the winds may blow 'round the place where we abide, But our faith shall keep us safe till the tempest shall subside. (Copyright, 1922, by Edgar A. Guest)

Advertising Uncle Sam With Palette and Brush

OF ALL the many workshops of one kind or another maintained by Uncle Sam, the most picturequely interesting is one at Washington, where exhibits are prepared by the Department of Agriculture.

These exhibits are displayed at State fairs and other exhibitions throughout the country; at special "shows," such as the Live Stock Show in Chicago and the National Dairy Show in St. Paul; and at international fairs.

They are designed to illustrate the work of the Department of Agriculture—particularly its experimental and research work in various lines—and to make people understand the usefulness thereof. Hence they cover an enormous field, having relation to every sort of thing that is directly or indirectly a product of the soil; even to the materials of which clothes are made, the food value of goat's milk and methods of dealing with a pestiferous crop-destroying bug.

The scale on which the making of such exhibits is conducted may be judged from the fact that the job gives continuous employment to about fifty people, many of whom are young women. To a large extent it consists in the painting of pictures on huge display boards, but much of it demands the labor of skilled mechanics, being constructional in character.

Thus, for instance, an item of a large exhibit recently sent to the International Brazilian Centennial Exposition, at Rio de Janeiro, was a gigantic picture meant to illustrate up-to-date road-building methods as practiced in the United States. Roads are not products of the soil exactly, but they are very necessary to farmers, and the Office of Roads, whose administrative activities cover the whole of this country, is a bureau of the Department of Agriculture.

It was not merely a picture; it was a relief map of the United States.

The background was a painted landscape, and in front of it was a road (in miniature) in process of building, with a toy road-roller and other toy-size road-making machinery, all exactly to scale. With artistic cleverness the painted background was made to merge into the constructional foreground of road, so that the spectator could hardly tell where the one ended and the other began.

Thus a painted gravel-pit (supposed to supply gravel for the road) merged into a small pile of real gravel; and a painted stream in the background appeared in the foreground as a stream of real water flowing beneath a little bridge over which the road passed. Old Brussels carpet, painted green, made very convincing grass. It was all exceedingly clever.

Another piece of work sent to the exposition at Rio de Janeiro was a relief map of the United States twenty feet long, made of paper mache and plaster of paris, showing the forested areas, the deserts and the locations of the schools of forestry scattered over the country. This was supplemented by big display-board paintings illustrating the work of the Forest Service and various forest industries, such as logging, collecting turpentine, etc.

The first stage in the preparation of the exhibits is represented by descriptive "copy" furnished by the office whose work is to be illustrated. This furnishes the directions requisite for the making of the painted display boards or whatnot. In the course of their preparation, necessarily, the exhibits are subjected to criticism by the scientific experts to whose special activities they relate.

The Department of Agriculture is a bunch of scientific bureaus held together by a small administrative organization. Their activities are extraordinarily varied, extending even to such matters as dressmaking and cooking. There was a time when "paternalism" on the part of the Government was vehemently decried; but nowadays Uncle Sam is dry-nurse, as well as father, to all the people. He even instructs the farmers' wives in the feeding of babies and the setting of hens. He teaches them how to make jelly "jell," how to mend broken dishes and how to remove grease-spots.

Thus it comes about that the work of the illustrators in the Office of Exhibits is anything but monotonous; they have something new to tackle every week or oftener. The "copy" must first be taken in hand by carpenters and other mechanics who attend to the constructional part of the work, which is supplemented by the men and women who do the painting. Pictures talk in all languages and appeal to the feeblest intelligence. They do more than that, for they present ideas far more vividly and strikingly than mere words, whether spoken or printed. Hence the usefulness of this novel means of publicity for the education of the public.

What do you know about wool? Very little, probably. Yet knowledge on the subject is worth having, if only for the reason that you wear clothing made of it. There are various grades and qualities of wool, down to the shoddy which is technically known as "twice on the sheep's back." It is worth while to know good wool, in a garment, from poor stuff that will not wear. A display-board now in preparation in the Office of Exhibits strikes the eye at once. It represents three life-size dummies in a clothing-store window—three men, that is to say, each wearing a suit of clothes. Close examination reveals the fact that the dummies are not painted on the board, but cut out of a cardboard surface in such wise as to show the cloth beneath. Thus it is real cloth that is shown, of three different grades. With the help of instructive legends, a useful object lesson is offered.

A road-building exhibit in the making

Alongside of each dummy (when the display-board is finished) will hang a sample of the kind of wool the pictured suit is made of. In a group with this picture will be other painted boards illustrating the production of wool, different varieties of sheep, the manufacture of wool and woolen garments, etc. The whole will be in effect a lecture without words. There will even be a picture showing how a sheep should be created for transportation.

It is only one small example of the work done in the shop of the Office of Exhibits. An amusing display-board is designed to illustrate our neglect of cheese as an article of diet in the United States. Cheese is one of the most nourishing of foods; in Europe it is a staple of diet, largely taking the place of meat among peoples who cannot afford to eat much of the latter.

The painting shows Uncle Sam sitting at one end of a long table with a small scrap of cheese in front of him. Nine other persons at the table, representing as many foreign countries, have big hunks of cheese on their plates. Uncle Sam looks peeved. The title of the picture is "The Slighted Guest," and a legend beneath it explains that if Uncle Sam ordered as much cheese as the Englishman, the Hollander, the German or the Frenchman, or one-half as much as the Swiss, a market would thereby be created for nine billion pounds (approximately four and a half billion quarts) more of our milk annually than at present.

Human Electricity

EVERYBODY is familiar with static electricity. One rubs the cat's fur the wrong way, and gets a little shock. The cat, however, must be a dry cat. Or one walks across a carpeted floor on a dry winter's day and then touches a radiator or some other metal object; whereupon there is a perceptible discharge from the body. It is said that some folks can light the gas in that way.

Anyhow, white sparks produced in this manner are ordinarily harmless, they are under some circumstances a source of serious danger. They cause a great many accidents in gasoline distilleries, explosive factories, flour mills, dry-cleaning establishments, cotton-gins and threshing machines.

The National Association of Dyers and Cleaners is now undertaking an active campaign to eliminate fires from this source. Inasmuch as appreciable charges of static electricity can be produced only when the surrounding air is very dry, the most effective prevention is to dampen the atmosphere of factory rooms by injecting steam. This is on the authority of the United States Bureau of Standards, which suggests, as another precaution, the connecting of all metal parts of machinery together by wires.

Automobile Mortalities

THERE is no use in denying the fact that a new cause of wholesale death has made its appearance. It is the automobile—but we could hardly get along without it.

The United States Census Bureau cites the interesting figure of 10,168 deaths from "automobilism" in 1921. But that reckoning is only for the "registration area," representing 82 per cent of the country's total population; and so it may be supposed that the actual total was in the neighborhood of 12,000—may 1000 a month.

During the great war, 44,774 American fighting men were killed in action—of that number, 10,000 were killed by automobiles in the United States in the last four years have numbered only about 4,000. But the death rate from motor accidents has increased 28 per cent during those four years, and the inference in regard to the next four years' total of fatal casualties is unpleasantly obvious.

The total losses on both sides in two days' murderous fighting at Shiloh, during the Civil War, were nearly 24,000. But only about one-fifth of that number were killed or died of wounds.

The victors in the Battle of Waterloo lost 23,185 men. At Gettysburg, which was the Waterloo of the Civil War, the Union loss was 23,190. But four out of five of the casualties in both cases were wounded, not killed.

There has been few battles in history in which the number of killed or fatally wounded approached our annual record of killing by automobiles.

The census statement does not take into view the maimings and other serious though non-fatal injuries caused by automobiles.

A New Cereal Grain

ALL of our so-called grains are, of course, grasses—not excepting the great American cereal, Indian corn. Apparently though there are in the world thousands of kinds of grasses no new one has been adopted for cultivation to supply human food for at least 20,000 years. That takes us very far back into pre-history; but it is probable that the cultivation of maize on this continent is older than that.

Now, however, attention is being given to a half-wild grain called "adlay," which grows in small quantities in parts of the Philippines, is believed to have great potential value. It is twice as productive as rice, equally palatable and more nutritious.

Adlay, by itself, will not make a raised loaf of bread. Neither will rice nor Indian corn for that matter. It has no gluten. But when mixed with one-third wheat flour it makes excellent bread and biscuits, the latter somewhat resembling graham biscuits. In the same mixture it is fine for griddle-cakes. Used "straight," it makes good crackers or hardtack. The cracked grain is a first-class breakfast food. The whole grain is a satisfactory substitute for rice.

This valuable cereal originated in the tropics of Asia, and in India it has been used for centuries by some of the native hill tribes. It contains as much "protein" as wheat, and more than three times as much fat. Experts say that it equals wheat as food for man, and is far better "balanced" than rice or corn as a food ration. It can be used like barley in soups.

The reason why it has not been more extensively cultivated is that it cannot be milled as easily as rice, the grain being very hard. But suitable machinery will overcome this difficulty. Production per acre being much larger than that of rice, its cost should be lower, and it may yet supplant rice to a great extent as the leading food staple not only in the Philippines but elsewhere in the Orient.

Fighting the Hazard of Floating Oil

FIGHTING the fire hazard of floating oil is a task which has been greatly magnified since ships began using oil for fuel.

Where surface oil is present a blazing match or a red-hot rivet dropped into a harbor may easily cause a fire loss of millions of dollars.

From New Orleans comes the statement that one of the most disastrous water-front fires of recent years in that city was due to a hot rivet dropped by a workman engaged in repairs on the hull of a vessel at anchor. The surface of the river was covered with floating oil, and the blaze started by the rivet spread quickly to adjacent piers, causing heavy loss.

In Baltimore fire department officials stated that in at least one notable instance the destruction was doubled because surface oil caused the flames to run under the pier.

Fire hazard is by no means the only menace resulting from oil floating on the surface of the water. Fish and game life are also imperiled. There are well-established instances of death among ducks because a coating of oil covered their wings and made it impossible for the birds to fly. Fishermen report that the heavier parts of the oil sink to the bottom and cause the death of fish and oysters.

Human beings also suffer from the presence of the oil, especially at bathing beaches and summer resorts. Some of the shore resorts—as notably Virginia Beach and Atlantic City—at times have found it necessary to carry gasoline or kerosene as a part of their bathing equipment, to enable bathers to wash off the oil when leaving the water.

These conditions have arisen throughout the world and port authorities have found the control of surface oil a problem of serious size.

To prevent the discharge of waste oil into the harbors and navigable water is almost impossible. Even the most rigid inspection does not suffice. Cases are on record in which ships' officers have been arrested on charges of violating harbor regulations by discharging oil. In such cases the oil appears overnight in ships where close inspection on the previous day has shown none was present. Conviction is difficult in spite of the fact that oil may be found standing in the water of a ship's bilge blown, that it may cover the surface of the water in the ship. If the ship's chief engineer takes the witness stand and swears that he has done no pumping the case falls and other ships are encouraged to make similar violations.

In one case oil was actually bubbling up around a steamship. It was realized by the port officials that this oil had to come from one of two sources. Either there was a newly developed oil well in the harbor or the ship itself was supplying the flow which made the bubbles. The evidence was against the ship. She was an oil-burner and her bilge pumps were in operation at the time the bubbles were detected. The officials were convinced as to the guilt, but in court the chief engineer testified that there was no oil discharge and the case fell ways work out 100 per cent effective. This particular shipyard hires a dredging company to transport the vast volume of waste oil to a marsh, to be burned, but it is of record that much of it finds its way into the harbor.

The city of Baltimore had one especially disastrous experience with oil disposed of by boiler scummers. Ten thousand gallons of waste fuel had been given to a junk dealer by the scummers, for the purpose of getting rid of it, after its removal from the tanks of a steamer which was going into drydock. For temporary storage, the oil was placed in an lack of a river current have made Baltimore's oil troubles especially emphatic. As expressed by Harbor Engineer Bancroft Hill, "anything that falls into our harbor stays in until it is lifted out by hand, derrick or dredge." This makes Baltimore's experience interesting elsewhere.

An apparatus devised by Engineer Hill is the Baltimore solution. This apparatus removes the surface oil by action akin to that of an inverted vacuum cleaner. It consists of a scow, carrying a pump and a settling tank, with pipes for sucking up the oil and water from the surface through a mouth-fat for the simple reason that the officials could not prove that they actually saw oil leaving the ship.

Device for skimming waste fuel oil from harbors

In the meantime, vessels continue to pump waste oil overboard in harbors everywhere. To their pumping must be added the very considerable contribution made by shipyards and boiler scummers. On going to a repair yard for work on a ship's tanks it becomes necessary to get rid of a large amount of oil which is not worth saving, because of being filled with scale and water, and because much of the life has been taken from it by the heat applied to make the oil flow in the pipes.

The disposal of this waste is a big problem. In one large shipyard the superintendent estimates that 20,000 barrels are removed annually. Efforts are made to destroy this by burning, but this does not allow hull. The hull sank as a result of the new burden and the entire volume of oil was freed in the Baltimore harbor. A dock fire soon afterward was made especially serious because of the way this floating oil contributed to the spread of the flames.

This experience finds echo in the troubles of many ports. It was found that local legislation providing a fine of $100 for the discharge of oil was no deterrent, for the simple reason that it was cheaper to pay the fine than to dispose of the oil.

Since it is hard to prevent the discharge of oil from vessels, port authorities have devoted much thought to measures for the removal of the waste after its discharge. Officials in several cities seem to think that Baltimore has achieved the best solution of this problem. The absence of a tidal current and the piece submerged an inch or so below the surface of the water. In the tank the oil rises to the surface, the water is drawn off through a drain pipe, and the oil is removed for storage or for burning.

The scow is maintained at a fixed station, and, like a freiboot responds to calls sent in by an oil inspector patrolling the harbor.

As a measure of prevention some authorities claim that waste oil must be collected from ships in barges, as scum and garbage are collected. For its ultimate disposal burning seems now the only feasible method. Experiments in mixing the oil with seawater for furnace fuel resulted in bubbling and steaming without combustion. Mixing it with sand for paving purposes resulted in its failure to become solid. The fact that it is thrown away proves the present lack of value.

Undefeated Ryan Team Will Oppose Coyotes in Thursday Game Here

The Coyotes kept scouting around for a Thanksgiving game until they landed a tough one. The team from Ryan, Okla., will oppose them on the local lot Thursday afternoon, starting promptly—that's a promise—at 1:30 p. m.

The Ryan bunch has been scored on just once this season, and that was by the Hastings aggregation that gave the Coyotes quite a taste several weeks ago. It has defeated Comanche, Healdton, Temple and Dundee this season, rolling up a total of 128 points against a measly six for all of its opposition. The game promises to be one of the hardest of the season, and it will probably take all the local boys to add another to the string of wins. The Oklahomaans have an average of 12 pounds advantage in weight.

Drummond Harris, center, sprained his ankle in practice Monday afternoon, and probably won't be able to play Thursday. Outside of him, most of the Coyotes will be able to get into the fray.

The game will be the last gridiron exhibition of the local season, no plans for post-Thanksgiving contests being under way, and a big Thanksgiving crowd is expected.

COACHING BIG ASSET IN FOOTBALL

By "BO" M'HEILIN
All-America Quarterback

For many years the general impression in the north and west has been that football in the south was far below that of the other sections. The far west was also left out in the rating of the different teams for a long time. This is hard to believe now, though, on account of the progress down in these sections in the past several years.

The slowness of the south to grasp the importance of football can be explained to some extent. For a long time the teams in the south would engage graduates of their own systems as coaches of their teams. The same method has been followed in the progress of the game for a long time. The south was the longest in getting away from this plan and they have not advanced in the progress of the game as rapidly as the teams of the east. But at the present time the south has come into its own along football lines and will be heard from in all ratings from now on.

The open style of play has advanced the game to a great extent and has allowed the smaller institutions a better chance to cope with the larger ones. It has developed many new methods and systems of play which have caused the teams to break away from the alumni system of coaching.

About the only ones using this entirely new one are the members of the big three, and they would probably be better off if they would break out just a little. This has been proven by the way Centre and some of the other smaller institutions have been able to score two or more touchdowns against these teams.

Must Mix 'Em Up

You will recall that the Centre line last year showed a big improvement over the year before. The secret of this was the coaching of "Ray" Thornhill from the University of Pittsburgh. Next year Glenn Warner is going out on the Pacific coast to try out his methods with the Los Angeles eleven. Then there is James of Iowa, who is a Yale man going great in the west. At Cornell you have a graduate of the Minnesota system in Dobbie. Then in the south there is Stegman at Georgia, who is a Chicago man. Kings of Illinois is at Florida and so on down the line.

I think there has been a realization that the old "home town system" can be improved upon if they

"BEAT PITTSBURG" PENN SLOGAN

By NEA Service.

STATE COLLEGE, PA., Nov. 28.—"Beat Pittsburgh" is now the slogan of the Penn State team and students. All the heartaches of the past season, which has held its share for Penn State, will be forgotten in a victory over Pittsburgh. Failure to beat Syracuse, the game ending in a scoreless tie, defeat at the hands of the Navy, followed by a 7 to 6 trimming by University of Pennsylvania, have all been unpleasant features on the Penn State schedule.

The Thanksgiving day game with Pittsburgh is the big game of the year. In view of the rather unsatisfactory season the Pittsburgh game becomes all the more important. If Penn State can defeat Pitt, West State will be satisfied.

Coach Benzenk is pointing his team for the Pitt game. Pitt's decisive defeat of Washington and Jefferson has convinced him that he has quite a task. From now until Turkey day it will be hard work for the Penn State squad.

While Benzenk is not inclined to disclose the outcome of the game, he has hopes of giving football fans another jolt.

ALL BEAR PLAYERS EXCEPT BRADSHAW READY FOR S. M. U.

WACO, TEXAS, Nov. 28.—"On to Dallas" and "Beat S. M. U." are the slogans seen around the Baylor campus. Every student is being supplied with some tag that bears the inscription to get those Mustangs. The big game at Dallas on Thanksgiving day is the general topic of Baylor students. Tickets for the special train to take the students to the game are already on sale.

The last hard scrimmage was held on Monday, while on Tuesday light dummy practice and signal drills were the order of the day. In the first two days of the week the workouts were strenuous and lasted until late hours. The Bears have much to do in order to put their team in good running shape for Thursday's big battle.

The last effects of the long Boston trip have left the squad, and with the exception of Bradshaw, the team will be in the best of physical shape. Bradshaw will without a doubt be ready to start the game at his usual position, but as to whether he will be at his old time form is a source of much worry to the Baylor coaches. If Bradshaw is taken out of the game either Moses or Connolly will be called upon to play the roll of a running back. Both of these have shown plenty of ability in the games that they have performed this season. Moses may show something in the way of broken field running that will be surprising to the Mustangs.

In the scrimmages held before the dawn of the big game, Williamson at tackle has been the star performer. The big tackle has been called upon to carry the ball a number of times and has responded with long gains. He possesses a very clever side step for a fellow of his size and is fast on his feet. Spectators do well to watch this speedy right tackle. Biallock can not be left sight of either as he is still the man of the Bear offense.

CORNELL BACKS WILL HUSTLE PENN

By NEA Service.

IITACA, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Cornell is banking on its great backfield, plus the help of the strong line is certain to give for victory over Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving day. Coach Dobbie, the original "Gloomy Gus," can't enthuse over his backfield.

ran the big Red team in perfect style in every game this year. In Cassidy and Ramsey, Kaw has two great running mates, who do things just about as well as the much talked about Texas. Coach Dobbie, the original "Gloomy Gus," can't enthuse over his backfield.

In Penn, Cornell has a brassy quarter, whose work is certain to stand out in the Penn clash. He has granted a clear, dry day the spectators will see this amphitheater decked out for the first time in history. There is no question that the game will be well worth the setting.

SPUDDERS SIGN UP "TEX" WESTERZILL, NEW THIRD SACKER

"Tex" Westerzill of Seattle, Wash., has been signed by the Spudders for the 1923 season. It was learned Tuesday.

Westerzill, a former Texas leaguer, in a third baseman, and made a splendid record in the Pacific coast last season. He is rated as a sure and speedy fielder and a .300 hitter.

With Westerzill at the hot corner, it is probable that Buddy Tanner will return to the short field and that Tex McQuinn will be kept for utility. Westerzill is said to have played with the San Antonio team some years ago, thereby gaining the nickname of "Tex."

will only go to the proper place to get it. They have found that the other teams have some good points in their systems and it is well worth while to mix things up a little and to learn something new.

As a result of this new era in football the south is coming to the front and from now on will be competing with the best teams in the north and the east for recognition. Centre, Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia have been making creditable showings with the big ones for the past few years.

This season the University of Alabama has jumped into prominence with her win over Pennsylvania. Several of the other southern teams have journeyed north and have made creditable showings. Much of this is due to the advancement of the game and the studying of the new methods developed by the various schools.

LEAGUE MAGNATES TO ELIMINATE BARNSTORMING

By NEA News Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Major league magnates are convinced that some drastic action must be taken relative to barnstorming trips after the close of the season among the players.

A year ago when Judge Landis took action in the Ruth-Meusel case in favor of a strong sentiment in favor of the players among the major league magnates.

It was felt that it was wrong to refuse the barnstorming to players who had taken part in the world series.

Things have changed greatly in 12 short months. Practically every magnate now feels that the players must be held in check. It is certain that definite action will be taken on this phase of the sport at the coming meeting of the two major leagues.

It is hinted that some of the barnstorming troupe in the west have not taken any too good care of themselves. Failure to keep in condition has naturally affected their play and caused a number of big league clubs to be badly beaten by small town teams.

A team made up entirely of major league players engaged in a series with a colored professional team at St. Louis and was badly worsted. The Kansas City club of the American association played a six-game series with the Monarchs of that city, a professional colored club, and won only one game.

If all barnstorming trips are eliminated after the close of the season the players will have only themselves to blame. They will have brought about such a condition.

President Johnson of the American league admits that barnstorming has become a serious menace. He also says that the club owners in his league have already given the matter much thought.

According to President Johnson a 12-month contract with the players, rather than one extending over only six months, is being advocated.

This contract would call for the exclusive rights to the services of the player as a diamond performer and would extend from January 1 of each year until the close, or over a period of years.

The players would receive their pay checks in the winter just as in the summer. Such a contract, it is believed, would make it possible for the owners to control the motion of the players in the winter as well as summer.

MUCH ADMITTED TO DEPEND ON BRADSHAW

DALLAS, Nov. 28.—On the form shown by West Bradshaw, whom Baylor and S. M. U. meet at Fair Park stadium Thursday afternoon depends one of the most interesting competitions on the field in conference football this year. Coach Bridges has announced that he expects to start Bradshaw in the three days of the game, although stadium commentators at Waco prefer to be pessimistic and say that the shoulder injury may keep this reclusive field general out of the game. But even with Bradshaw starting, a shoulder hurt is one that may be renewed by a fall after a hard tackle—and it is impossible to visualize Bradshaw playing without carrying the ball.

But if Bradshaw is able to play through the entire game, an excellent comparison will be offered of two of the best quarterbacks in the section opposed to each other: Will Bradshaw, who is about 50 per cent of their team's offense. Both are good change of pace runners, with shifty hip movements. Both are used as line plungers as well as end runners, and both pass. Stollenwerk does all of the punting for S. M. U., while Bradshaw is seldom utilized in this phase of play. But both are field goal threats.

Bradshaw, with veteran experience to build upon, is regarded by many as the real field general of the conference, but Stollenwerk, with only a year on the freshman eleven back of him, has shown exceptional adaptability in working out Ray Morrison's tactical scheme. The test of the two quarterbacks will prove of decided interest.

Decorations of Fair Park stadium for the Thanksgiving game will be completed Wednesday afternoon.

LEGION-TEXHOMA, BAPTISTS-GAINES, IN GAMES TONIGHT

Legionnaires vs. Texhoma, and Baptists vs. Gaines, will be the contestants in the two games scheduled for Tuesday night at the legion hall. The first game will start at 8:00 o'clock.

In each game the opposing teams are evenly matched, and some hard-fought contests are to be expected.

THREE PLAYERS ON W. & J.

By NEA Service.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 28.—Washington and Jefferson boasts a great aerial game. It was by the forward pass route that Neale's team beat Lafayette after finishing the first half on the wrong end of a 13 to 9 score.

In Kopf the W. & J. eleven has one of the best receivers at the forward pass in the country. Kopf is a brother of Larry Kopf, who starred on the Cincinnati team when it won the pennant and the world championship in 1919. Kopf plays a fine game of baseball and handles the forward pass in approved diamond style.

In Wederquist and Crook, Coach Neale has two great forwards who have more than held their own against the stern opposition that W. & J. has faced this year.

COACHES IN TURKEY DAY CLASH

Who will win the Thanksgiving day game between Cornell and Pennsylvania? It means much to the rival coaches.

Cornell has had a big year, although the schedule of the big Red team hasn't really tested the strength of the eleven. To lose the Thanksgiving day game with Penn would be an awful blow to Dobbie as his team will enter the contest a strong favorite.

Cornell, in its two big games of the year, has made a good showing. Colgate was beaten 14 to 4, while Dartmouth was soundly trounced 22 to 6. For Cornell to fall to beat Penn would be nothing short of a tragedy for the Ithacans.

Coach Heisman, on the other hand, has everything to gain and nothing to lose. His team, after a rather erratic season, can finish in a blaze of glory by defeating Cornell.

JACK DAW IN HOOPLAND

By ELTON

Jack Daw, the little adventurer, was among a crowd of people who were watching the sailing of an airplane. The man flew up in the clouds, 4000 feet high, looped loops and various other things. Jack thought all these sights were the most wonderful he had ever seen.

Suddenly the aviator came gliding down to earth and made a pretty landing right in the midst of the great gathering. Jack immediately edged his way close to the machine. The aviator got out of his plane and announced that he had finished his exhibition. Then he walked away.

"I'll sail away for the coast in an hour," he said. "The people started to drift away and finally Jack was the only one left. 'Gee, but I'd like to go with the aviator,' thought Jack. And a little voice seemed to say, 'Why don't you?' So Jack hid himself in the bow of the plane.

GROCERIES AND MARKETS ARE WONDERLANDS FOR THE THANKSGIVING SHOPPER THIS WEEK

The groceries and markets are wonderlands for the Thanksgiving shopper this week, and never were more delectable fruits, vegetables, fish, fowl, nuts and canned goods on display before in Wichita Falls.

The turkey is the main article, of course, though plump hens from the chicken breed (fowl variety), are running the king of the barnyard a close race. The young turkeys of a weight popularly in demand at the produce houses range from 18 to 20 pounds, while occasional calls come for the 35-pounder for the big family reunion dinner. Then there's only father, mother, and the two or three little folks, with the old Thanksgiving tradition to be preserved, mother can shop very cannily about a seven or eight pound bird.

One of the interesting changes in sales in the past decade has been that of canned pumpkin instead of the big, golden-yellow fruit itself, as it used to be passed over the counter. A pumpkin is a lot of trouble to fix, and the busy housekeeper has found the canned variety a first class substitute for the fresh, especially when, like the Irishman's rook soup, it has to be all dolled up with spices and butter and egg and sugar and so forth.

But there is no change in the sale of cranberries for jelly, and evidently no substitute has been found, or wanted, for that accompaniment to the Thanksgiving piece-de-resistance. There may be new ways of making it or serving it—as indeed there are—but the old saying that somebody is "as busy as a cranberry merchant" could apply just as well this year as last when it comes to the sale of the pretty red berries.

The market displays downtown here are truly gorgeous, speaking edily, and charm the eye as well as inspire the palate. And the grocers and produce men are doing a land-office business this week.

Speaking of Cranberries
Speaking of cranberries, there's a wonderfully delicious new Thanksgiving idea which ought not to be overlooked by the hostess who is looking for something new—and company Thrasher agrees. The custom of keeping open house Thanksgiving afternoon could find a splendid second in the pretty dessert, if served with the delicious new cranberry "Scotch." Anyway, here it is, and it's called cranberry "Strudel":

Roll plain pastry (fairly rich) in to an oblong sheet about one-fourth of an inch thick. Then mix two cups of chopped cranberries, one-half a cup of chopped seeded raisins, and one cup of good old-fashioned brown sugar, which the grocer has in sealed two-pound bags. Spread this on the pastry roll like a jelly, fasten the ends down good, put in a greased baking pan, and bake in a slow oven 45 minutes. (Three quarters of an hour). Let it cool. Remove stiff and fold into the batter; add cranberries, turn into a well-greased mold and steam two hours. Serve with plain cream or hard sauce. If steamed in cups it will take an hour to cook.

BERTILLON EXPERT IS IN DEMAND IN TEXAS
DALLAS.—Ed Stallworth, Bertillon expert of the Dallas police department, often is called upon by officials over Texas to assist in running down criminals by photographing finger prints on "exhibits" such as automobiles, doorknobs and the like. He develops and classifies the photographs and is said to be one of the best in this line in the south.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION TO UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION
DALLAS.—The John W. Low post of the American Legion is giving particular attention to the unemployment situation among former service men at this time. The happy holidays should see every former service man secure of a good meal ticket and not only to enjoy the holiday season but be able to go to work after the season of festivities, it is urged.

Buried Cable to Direct Aircraft Across the Desert
PARIS, Nov. 28.—By means of a buried cable it is now possible for aircraft to cross the Sahara desert safely, the Academy of Sciences was told today by Admiral Fournier. An electric current flowing through the cable influences delicate apparatus on the plane or airship so that the pilot is able to tell his exact position at a glance. The invention has been successfully tested by army and navy officials, Admiral Fournier said. It is the work of Engineer Loth.

RADIUM HAS DROPPED TO $70,000 A GRAM
DENVER, COLO., Nov. 28.—Radium has dropped to $70,000 a gram and the Standard Chemical company has been forced to close its operations in the Paradox valley in western Montrose county, Colo., throwing 250 men out of work, according to officials of the company. Discovery of vast deposits of pitch-blend in Belgian Congo is said to be responsible for the decrease in price from $120,000 a gram.

Find Vein Silver A Few Feet Under Tombstone Street
TOMBSTONE, ARIZ., Nov. 28.—Thirty-five years ago, the Vixen mine was one of the richest silver producers in the then famous Tombstone district. Since then several shafts have been sunk on adjoining properties in the hope that the Vixen vein would be encountered but none found the ore. Yesterday paints cover more surface to the gallon than any other. It's the best and cheapest. See the Decorators Co., 715 Ninth street.—adv.

CHARTER GRANTED FOR STATE ORGANIZATION
HOUSTON.—I. N. Greenberg, grand chief of the Texas organization of "La Societe des Hommes et Cheveux," the fun side of the American Legion, announces the granting of a charter for a state organization with national headquarters in Houston. Eleven local chapters have been formed at Harris, Jefferson, Galveston, Orange, Travis, Tarrant, Cameron, Randall, Taylor, Lubbock and Presidio counties. La Societe is based on the French hexacer which could hold "forty men or eight horses." Chief de Gare Greenberg is located at Houston. Customers say Supreme Quality

JOY FOR THE HARDINGS

President and Mrs. Harding are sure to have a real old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner. The members of the Harding Girls' Club of a Chicago packing firm are going to send them "Supreme III," the 41-pound Illinois bronze turkey, shown above in company with Miss Susan Crittendon, one of the members.

ORDER FOR RELEASE OF MARY MAC SWINEY IS SURPRISE TO PUBLIC

By Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—Miss Mary MacSwiney, who was released from Mount Joy prison yesterday, the 23rd day of her hunger strike, met her sister Annie in a private hospital in this city last evening. Annie, weakened by several days of fasting outside the prison gates, collapsed when she saw her sister, but quickly recovered and was taken to another hospital on a stretcher.

The order for Mary MacSwiney's release was issued by the provisional government to the military authorities who acted promptly and she was removed in a Red Cross ambulance. The release came as a surprise to the citizens generally, although it had been expected in well informed circles. Mary was very weak.

SECRETS OF CAKE BAKING

Everyone likes good cake, and many are the inquiries as to the method of making such cake. The method of putting together the ingredients is important but the baking is almost as much so, if the result is to be perfect.

The remark was made not long ago that cake at the present time costs much less than in the days of our grandmothers even though the price of food materials is greatly increased.

But when a really fine cake is made today the same good materials go into it—eggs, butter, sugar and flour. So many cooks make a cake which is quickly put together, and call for less material, but they frost it and leave it in layers with filling and the final cost is quite as much as a cake calling for more material in itself.

Much experimental work has been and is being done to prove the best method of putting together the ingredients in a cake. If it is to be eaten immediately a cake may be "stirred up" very quickly, but for keeping quality, fine texture and good flavor a more careful mixing is necessary.

A few rules to follow are important. Always have all the materials ready on the table before beginning work. Have the oven in good condition. Have pans carefully buttered or greased.

Butter should be melted over hot water and allowed to stand until the sediment is formed. Use oil for greasing pan. It is best applied to the pan with a soft piece of paper or brush.

If the cake is to be baked in a pan not over three inches deep it is well to flour it after greasing. Be careful every bit of flour which does not cling to the butter is shaken out. For a loaf, the best results are obtained when the pan is lined with paper.

New Mix Your Cake
Having pans ready and oven at your control, proceed to mix the cake. If it is a butter cake, cream or work the butter and sugar together until creamy. If eggs are not separated beat well and add to butter and sugar.

If the yolks and whites are beaten separately add the well-beaten yolks to the creamed butter and sugar—reserving the whites to be beaten stiffly and added at the last, after flour is in.

The cake gets a more thorough beating if the milk and flour are added alternately. After all the ingredients are in give the cake a good beating.

It is possible to make a satisfactory cake by putting all the materials together in a bowl and then beating five or more minutes, but the grain of the cakes is coarse.

In making a cake where only the yolks are used, or a sponge cake, the eggs need a very thorough beating.

Sponge Cake
A "genuine" sponge cake has no leavening material except the eggs, but some of the best sponge cakes have baking powder or soda and cream of tartar in them.

There are still cooks who think baking powder not as good for cake as soda and cream of tartar. The tendency is to use too much baking powder and the cake dries very quickly.

The time for baking cake depends of course on the size and depth of the cake and the heat should increase as the size of the cake decreases. Layer cakes and small individual cakes require a "quick" oven to send them up, then a lower heat to finish baking.

One-Baking Method
A very satisfactory way of baking a cake is to divide the time for baking into quarters. In the first quarter of the time the cake should rise but not brown; if it begins to brown in that time reduce the heat at once.

During the second quarter of the time the cake continues to rise and take on color.

During the third part of the time it bakes without any particular change. This is the critical time, as any sudden change of heat is likely to cause a slight falling in the center of the cake.

The last quarter of time is to finish the baking and the cake shrinks from the sides of the pan.

Don't Hurry
Do not hurry a cake in removing from pan. Allow it to cool and settle and usually it will come out without breaking. If it is to be eaten as soon as cool, and if it is to be frosted, do not remove at all from pan. The frosting will not run over the sides, and it can be cut and served from the pan.

One good reliable recipe for a butter cake, and one equally reliable for a sponge cake, are all a housewife needs. She can then vary the butter cake by frosting, adding fruit, nuts and spices and by baking in small tins or in layers. Sponge cake is best not frosted.
