COOPERATION OF CITY AND COUNTY OFFICERS PLANNED

JOINT SESSION OF PEACE OFFICERS IS HELD THURSDAY EVENING

JUDGMENT, NOT FORCE, URGED BY JUDGE MARTIN

Heads of Forces Indicate Harmony May Be Expedient Between Departments

The most practical advice which a peace officer can render to the community is to teach men the proper respect for the law. This can best be done by the use of one's best judgment rather than that of a policeman's bludgeon.

The above were the outstanding statements in the address of Judge P. A. Martin when he spoke at a meeting of the law enforcement departments at the city hall Thursday night.

Mr. E. H. Gipson, representative-elect, presided over the meeting and called on members of the law enforcement forces who have always signified a willingness to cooperate with the officials in enforcing the law.

Joe Hatchett, P. A. Martin, Luther Hoffmann, Louis Humphreys and George Smeot, attorneys who were called on by Mr. Gipson for suggestions and observations which they had made in connection with the local law enforcement departments.

William J. Lemp Former Brewer at St. Louis Suicides

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—William J. Lemp, 44 years old, president of the William J. Lemp Brewery company, committed suicide today by shooting himself twice through the heart in the office of the brewery in the southern section of the city.

Lemp has been eminent since last June, it was said, when the greater part of the brewery property was sold at a realization of only about one-half of its value.

Lemp appeared at his office at 2 p. m. today at 11 o'clock, it was stated, and shortly thereafter Henry Vohlkamp, vice president, arrived and greeted Lemp: "Well, how do you feel today?"

"Oh, I'm feeling worse," Vohlkamp said Lemp declared.

Vohlkamp stated Lemp had been extremely nervous for the past several months. Although his face was flushed, Vohlkamp said he tried to cheer him by saying, "You look better," but Lemp would not be consoled, replying only "I'm feeling worse."

Vohlkamp testified that he had seen Lemp in the office of Lemp's secretary, Miss Olivia Berescheck, arriving, believing the spell of melancholia would wear off.

Lemp was found lying on his back, a .25 caliber revolver near his right hand. A physician pronounced him dead. Lemp's father, also William J. Lemp, committed suicide by shooting March 26, 1920.

Following the sale of the major brewery buildings last June, Lemp stated he expected to get 25 or 30 cents on the dollar in liquidation.

Lemp was married in 1902 to Miss Lillian Handman, daughter of H. Handman, wealthy manufacturer of railroad supplies. They had one son, William J. Lemp, III.

Robert Ericson, who claims he is a member of the Irish army, occupied one room of the office for the republicans, and Mr. Crawford sat at a desk in another room representing the free state.

HARDING'S LETTER GIVEN PROMINENCE BY LONDON PAPERS

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Although the text of President Harding's letter to Senator Lodge was received in London too late for any considerable editorial comment, it is given great prominence today in the news columns of the morning newspapers, which is an indication of the interest and importance attached to it.

Nothing has developed here to indicate the extent or character of the negotiations the president may have started regarding European financial problems. There is no official knowledge of them in London and there seems up to the present time little inclination to speculate on the matter.

HASTY RETURN OF BRITISH FLEET TO CONSTANTINOPLE

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The hasty return of the British fleet to Constantinople from Malta attracts wide attention here. Nothing is forthcoming from official sources to explain the move, but the obvious question that it is connected with the uncompromising attitude of the Turks at Lausanne is everywhere asked.

There is still many foreigners in Constantinople and the dispatch of the warships is regarded as a necessary precaution in view of the possibility of a "Turk" in that city in the event there is a breakdown in the Lausanne negotiations.

Mary, who was wise for her years, replied, "Money."

The Height of Lousiana

A man traveling through the Ozarks of southern Missouri went into a small country store. The man in sight, presumably the proprietor, was enjoying his ease at the back of the store, chair tilted back and feet on the counter, and made no move to come forward.

The prospective customer waited a few minutes and then called: "Can't you come and see me? I am in a hurry to get started home."

The proprietor shifted his position slightly and growled: "Couldn't you come in some time when I'm standin' up?" — From Everybody's Magazine for January.

Don't Be An "Only Child"

CAUSE IF YOU ARE, YOU'RE BOUND TO BE IT! RESOLVE NEW YEAR THAT YOU'LL ESCHEW IT.

By MARGARET ROHE
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Alas, if you've an only child, it's bound to turn out bad. Now "quality not quantity" is an exploded fad. At least that's what our old friends Freud and Jung and Brill all say, for they don't think an only child is spoiled, and by its parents' love, nature's plans for it are foiled.

It gets so much attention it is spoiled quite with sense of its importance and it soon becomes a blight. All only-sons, they say, are worse than only daughters be, and this contention certainly seems plausible to me. For to be spoiled, supreme, the males need little urge, since even in the embryo they're trembling on the verge. But be that as it may, when up each little egg grows, it's bound to get some wallop as-out-in-the-world-it-goes-and finds the world does not regard its intellect with awe, nor think it quite the genius that 'twas thought by Paw and Maw. Antagonistic it becomes against society. Psychoneurosis then results—sometimes insanely. It really seems an awful thing an only child to be. Why, Doctor Brill, neurologist, says traveling cases he in instances four hundred found that really every one were either favorite children or an only girl or son.

Too much attention isn't all the evil parents do toward spoiling their sole offspring till he lives his days to rue. Discussing grow-up problems and confiding grow-up cares makes premature precocity the worst of bugsbear.

The lavishing of too much love by parents is a crime. Result—the much-loved child will seldom marry when it's time. If it's a boy his mother's love o'er shadows others so he'd rather stay a bachelor. If it's a girl, no beau can with her will-loved father ever favorably vie, and so she stays a spinster to the day that she's to die.

But this is not the worst of blows the only child will get, for Havelock Ellis hands him quite the most unpleasant yet. This English sociologist investigated well from the

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS PHIL'S WINTER REST

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Hello, Phil!" cried Nick, running up and dropping beside him.

Phil Frog, at the bank of Ripple Creek, coughing hoarsely, "Ker-chug! A hunk! Ker-chug! A hunk!" It sounded as though Phil should have some of his strings tightened like a fiddle that needs tuning up.

Nancy and Nick and Dusty Coat, the sandman fairy, appeared around a rock just then and came upon poor Phil, sitting there and looking yellow and wrinkled and faded, like a green apple that has fallen off the tree before it had a chance to get ripe, and began to wither up.

"Ker-chung!" began Phil, when suddenly he spied his visitors. He stopped and blinked his eyes sleepily, and grinned an empty sort of smile.

"Hello, Phil!" cried Nick, running up and dropping beside him. "Aren't you pretty cold?"

"Pretty!" nodded Phil. "Then why don't you go where it's warm?" "It's starting to snow and if North Wind keeps blowing, Ripple Creek will soon be frozen hard."

"I know," nodded Phillip. "I don't mind the cold much, but I can't get anything to eat. The flies and mosquitoes are all gone, and I haven't anything to do but cough."

Dusty Coat lifted his bag of magic dust from his shoulder and set it on the ground.

"Well, well, well!" he said, pulling open the string. "I think I came just in time. You need a tonic, Phillip, and I have the very thing! Can you take a powder?"

"I can if it's insect powder," said Phil, making a weak little joke.

"All right, then, lick this up," said Dusty Coat kindly. His powder was really "sleeping powder," you know.

Phil shot out his long tongue and did as he was told. "Ugh! It's not very good," he complained. "But I feel better already—Phil's head dropped and he gave a loud snore. He was sound asleep."

Dusty Coat and the Twins put him to bed in some nice soft mud where the cold wind couldn't hurt him. "He'll sleep till spring," said the fairy sandman with a wise wag of his head.

FLAMES DESTROY OLD RESIDENCE ON BURNETT STREET

Fire of unknown origin almost completely destroyed the two-story frame house at 804 Burnett early Friday morning. The residence, built about 20 years ago by R. C. Hardy, was owned by H. G. Karenbrock and leased to Mrs. M. A. Yarborough. A total loss on the building and household furnishings valued at $5,000 was covered by insurance.

The fire was well under way when the alarm was received at the station; upon their arrival at the scene the firemen found the entire inside of the building enveloped in flames; no indication as to the portion of the house where the fire originated could be had. The blaze had spread well into the second story of the building and only by efficient work and favorable weather conditions were the firemen able to save a portion of the building and confine the flames to the burning residence. TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LET GO!
Another year is almost over. And as we look into it, we recall vast experience. Many things came to pass.

These dead days of the year can never be recalled or lived over. They now form a part of the millions of other days that have long ago melted into the permanence of time.

So, let's take a cheerful, happy view of what is gone. Let's let go of them—forever!

And, also, let go of everything about them that means anything of unhappiness, discouragement or disappointment.

Maybe one of the great lessons of this new year for you is going to be that you must learn to let go of things—not letting them hold you back, laming and stunting your larger growth.

Let go—let go!
I know so many people who keep hanging to themselves until they appear all nerve-knotted and tense—full of fear and trembling.

There are those, for instance, who actually fight at sleep, thus experiencing restless nights and arising the next day, tired and unhappy.

If you are one of these, this very night as you enter your room let go of everything. Relax. Think only of pleasant, happy things. Let the very angels of beauty lift you from your sleeping place and carry you into their wondrous land of dreams—bringing you back in time for the unfolding day, and to happiness and usefulness.

Don't trouble so much. Let go!

JUST FOLKS
By Edgar A. Guest

WHEN THE BABY CRIES.
There are mysteries profound
Bothering the sages,
Problems that have gone around
Since the early ages,
But one mystery remains,
Baffling all the wise:
Is it teeth or stomach pains
When the baby cries?

Men have learned some curious things
Since the world was started,
Solved the mystery of wings,
Stars are weighed and charted,
But no man can truly say
Where the trouble lies.
What it is that's gone astray
When the baby cries.

Scientists may delve and probe
In their laboratories,
They may strip the ancient globe
Of its hidden glories,
But they cannot answer this,
When the calls arise:
What it is that's gone astray
When the baby cries.

Men may read the stars aright,
Science masters yearn,
Problems once as dark as night,
Wisdom's light shines clearer,
But the gravest, wisest brow
Ever this defies:
What it is she's wanting now
When the baby cries.

None has ever looked behind,
Skillful though he may be,
That deep mystery of the mind
Of a little baby;
None can say beyond a doubt
Why those fearful sighs,
What the racket's all about
When the baby cries.

Speaking of Atmosphere

The fresh air fiend, the fresh air fiend!
Oh, there's a guy that should be banished,
No matter where he may appear,
He always says, "It's close in here!"
And though it's chill
Outside, he will
Proceed to open windows, thus
Refrigerating all of us.

The fresh air fiend, the fresh air fiend!
When from the cold we're nicely accosted,
And when the room is good and hot,
Is he content? No, he is not.
He pants for air
And then there
He schemes and plots, with deadly craft,
To sweep us with an icy draught.

The fresh air fiend, the fresh air fiend!
So vigorous, so ruddy-nosed,
Within a barn he should be kept,
A barn by night breeze swept;
But there, I guess
He'd feel distress,
And for more air he'd loudly shout,
Until the horses kicked him out.

I dearly love the out-of-doors,
I love the wintry wind that roars,
But, though the fresh air fiends deride,
I do not like outdoors inside.
So I repeat,
Turn on the heat,
And let the fresh air bimbo go
And hob-nob with the Equino.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editorial in the Times of Dec. 29, extends invitation to readers of this paper to send in their comment on education, with special reference to the proposed minimum school district and a constitutional amendment for mill tax to provide more stable revenue and less subject to political control of course implied.

In next day's issue of the Times there will appear an editorial article, "Education No Longer Possible," treating of International relations.

In this connection, commenting first on the proposed minimum school district, it is of record from results of a Wichita county school survey by Mr. Davis possibly two years ago, that the "wealth" of the various school districts of Wichita county ranged from a minimum of $1.10 (Country Club district) to a maximum of $1.10 (Country Club district).

Treating of the county in the light of the editorial mentioned, it is national isolation any more important than the local district in any state without social justice, whatever joys they and their families may have in the national pride, so revised modern local, national and international conditions and relations, that the truth of the matter is, "Man liveth unto himself alone," is demonstrated without effort!

THE SKYLINE OF SPRUCE
By Edison Marshall

subdued light as she gave the wolf a parting caress.

He could not deny the call of his followers. He was a rider, a man of a chain, drawing him remorselessly to them. Whining, he had sped away in to the darkness.

The fire had been built up, Beatrice had rallied her spent strength by full feeding of the rich, dried meat, and had done what she could for Neilson's misery. The exhausted man had lain down in some of the blankets of his snappy's outfit. Neilson was not mortally hurt. The bullet had coursed through the region of his shoulder, missing his heart and lungs, and although he was all but unconscious, they had every reason to believe that a few weeks of rest would see him well again.

Beatrice bathed the wound, bandaged it best she could, then covered it with warm and let him go to sleep. And the time came at last, long past the midnight hour, that she crept once more to Neilson's side.

There was little indeed for them to say. The streets were upon them taken from them almost all desire to talk. But Ben took her hand in his feebly, and held it against his lips. "We've made something of a job of it, my dear, her eyes still bright with tears. "We've seen it through, and we're safe."

Presently she saw that he was trying to speak to her, whispering; trying to draw her ear down to his lips. She smiled, with an infinite tenderness. "Don't you think, Ben, she heard him every word.

"I love you," he told simply. He watched her face, as intently as the three Wolf Men watched for a sign. As he saw it, clear and ineffably wonderful, in the stars that came into her eyes.

"Oh, you," she answered, with equal simplicity. They lay a while in silence, blissful in this wonder each had for the other, wholly content just that their hands and lips should touch. The same miracle was upon them both; and the girl's thoughts, ranging far, settled upon a deep and moving discovery. "All this belongs to us," she told him, indicating with one movement of her arm the boundless "outlands about them. "This is our own country, isn't it, Ben? We can't ever leave it."

The fire burned down. The moon wheeled through the sky. The tall spruce saw the dawn and beckoned.

THE END.

Sunday afternoon pop was reading the Sunday paper and he said, "I think I'll take a little walk without a hat."

"Without a hat?" he said. "I was just reading an article by a doctor where it says there's only one cause of baldness, and that's hats. It says if you have the courage of your convictions you're going to take a little walk without a hat. If nobody starts these things how are they ever going to get started?" pop said. "Well, you should try it, ma. I've bin explaining why for the last 5 minutes, yee gods, pop said. And he went down stairs and put on his overcoat but not his hat, ma. My hair has bin getting thinner for years on top to going and just to pop. I have the courage of my convictions I'm going to take a little walk without a hat. # GROCEERY MARKET DEPARTMENT

COTTON MARKET

New York Cotton
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of three to 13 points in response to relatively steady cables and reports of continued firmness in southern spot markets and the domestic market for cotton goods. Liverpool was a buyer here and there was a moderate local demand. The movement over foreign affairs continued and the opening advance met considerable scattered selling. Prices eased off in consequence, with March selling down from 26.75 to 26.55 during the early trading or about 10 to 12 points net lower.

The early offerings were absorbed around 26.55 for March and the market was quiet but steady later on covering and fresh buying from cotton-bushers. Reports from the cotton goods market and steady late selling from Liverpool. March was the general market about three to five points net higher.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Heavy selling here, combined with lower quotations at Liverpool, had a bearish effect on the wheat market today during the early dealings. The selling was associated with a statement from a big trader taking a pronounced stand against higher prices. He figured 2,000,000 bushels more wheat available in the United States at present than a year ago, with the world's available supply now 42,000,000 bushels larger than the average of the last 20 years. The opening, which ranged from 1c to 1c lower, with May 21.45 and July 21.15, was followed by a moderate further setback.

Wheat—Chicago—Chicago wheat was quiet, with a few orders executed. The market was quiet, with a few orders executed. The market was quiet, with a few orders executed.

STOCKS AND FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Opening prices in today's stock market were irregular with the main tendency upward. Studebaker, selling 25 percent dividend in stock, opened at 111. Several cash sales to establish the low bid were noted in the early dealings. Moderate gains were made by St. Paul preferred, Lehigh Valley and Coca-Cola. Baldwin was reactionary. Cash sales in the first 15 minutes totalled approximately 12 million shares. Bond Creek Coal was pushed up 3 points to a new high record on overnight announcement of the purchase of its coal properties by Henry Ford. St. Paul common and preferred each extended their gains to more than a point while Baldwin cancelled its early loss and moved to higher ground. Woolworth was pushed up 2 points on announcement of record breaking Christmas sales. Other strong spots were Van Sickle, Consolidated Gas and Inspiration Copper, all up a point or more. Chamberlain and Northern preferred each dropped 18 points. Weakness in the market was confined to numerous State Steel and Baltimore and Ohio. Foreign exchange opened irregularly. American securities advanced in the afternoon despite an advance in call money rates to six per cent. Cash quotations contained numerous advances and included a large variety of low priced and dividend paying shares.

TWO GAMES ARE ON PROGRAM FOR FRIDAY EVENING

Everything is in readiness for the reception of the Knox City basketball squad at the American Legion ball Friday night when they meet the fast and furious Iowa Park team. Both teams have shown up well this season and local followers of the game are anticipating a hard fight. Iowa Park has displayed its ability at basket ball on several occasions on the Legion court here this season when they defeated city league teams. The visitors from Knox City are making their initial appearance on the Legion court this season and are coming here with a determination to carry off a victory.

A large following of basket ball enthusiasts are expected to accompany the two teams to this city to see the game. Iowa Park rosters never miss an opportunity to cheer their team on to victory.

In the second game for the night the American Legion five will play Electra to return game. Early in the season the Legion squad defeated the Electra team by a score of 43 to 25. There has been a marked come-out in the two teams since the first game and a closely contested game is expected in the second game of the twin bill.

Saturday night, Knox City is scheduled for a game with the local high school team. Predictions on the outcome can be made after the Iowa Park game Friday night; at any rate the high school crowd will have a battle for the victory.

8 CASES ARE TRIED IN CITY COURT FRIDAY; HEAVY FINES ASSESSED

Three charges of vagrancy and five of traffic violation were brought to the attention of Judge Britain in the city court Friday morning. Drunks, gamblers and other offenders were conspicuous by their absence. Fines ranged from the minimum for traffic violation of $5 to the maximum for vagrancy of $200. The minimum fine was allowed in four cases of traffic violation; the defendant in the fifth plead not guilty to reckless driving and was fined $10. The charge grew out of an accident on Scott street Thursday afternoon in which the car driven by the defendant collided with another vehicle. Neither car was damaged; poor brakes were said to have been the cause of the accident.

Fines of $10, $25 and $200 were assessed in three charges of vagrancy.

The trial of a negro woman charged with disturbing the peace was passed until the special session Friday night. The woman is accused of having threatened the life of one of her neighbors. She was told Friday morning that a more serious charge might develop when the evidence was heard.

Don't delay fighting constipation with BRAN that is ALL BRAN!

When constipation flashes its signs of sickness into your eyes and cheeks; into your breath, your brain and your appetite, it is absolutely necessary that you read it off! The poisoning stands close by; Bright's disease and other dangerous diseases await their turn!

The remedy that nature offers is the simplest and most effective—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbed, which is ALL BRAN! And it is ALL BRAN! It is ALL BRAN you need when you start to fight constipation. You can't afford to delay a minute and you can't afford to use half-way measures with foods that contain a percentage of bran! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran because it is not only effective, but because it is delicious. Why—you will like its nut-like flavor, which adds so much to any food with which it is served.

Be certain to eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases with each meal. Results will prove astounding. Remember that Kellogg's Bran is nature's own regulator, which operates in nature's way—which is the best way!

Eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal, sprinkled on other hot or cold cereals, or make it up into the best of muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, cookies, macaroni, Kellogg recipes are printed on each package. Let the children eat Kellogg's Bran. It is wonderfully beneficial. It will improve their health just as it will really and truly make over men and women. The value of Kellogg's Bran cannot be overestimated. Sold universally by grocers.
