CULBERSON ATTORNEYS TRY TO SHOW UNDUUE FRIENDSHIP OF LAMAR FOR DEFENDANT'S WIFE

Efforts by counsel for Major W. L. Culberson, on trial in the 50th district court on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of M. C. Lamar, on January 8, to clear the defendant of the charge, centered Monday in testimony tending to show undue friendship between the slain man and Mrs. Culberson, wife of the defendant.

These efforts, inaugurated promptly after the state had established physical facts of the killing and then rested, had been up to 2:30 Monday afternoon, successful only by implication. Witnesses told of physical facts of the killing and of telephone conversations, without identifying Lamar as the man in question, the defense having failed to connect these incidents with Lamar.

Lamar brought a pistol to the store, the defense proved by a state witness, and that he and Mrs. Culberson were defendants.

A recital of Mrs. Culberson's end of a telephone conversation, in which an appointment was made, was given by one witness, but the defense failed to connect Monday afternoon, that it was Lamar she was talking to.

A man arranged for renting the apartment on North street, to which Mrs. Culberson moved on January 3, but it was not shown that Lamar was the man.

An account of the same apartment house with Mrs. Culberson testified to hearing suggestive noises during one of the visits.

PRINCIPLES THAT MEAN ACHIEVEMENT PASTOR'S SUBJECT

At the Sunday night service at the First Methodist Episcopal church, south, Rev. C. M. Simpson, the pastor, spoke on the theme, "The Principles That Mean Achievement."

The relation we sustain to great forces whether they shall help or hinder us. Good things rightly used are great blessings, but if used wrongly they become powers of destruction. For illustration, if I properly relate myself to fire, it warms me, but if I disregard its nature and let it burn me, it destroys me.

RACE IN CONGRESS TO PASS SEVERAL IMPORTANT BILLS

TWO RURAL CREDIT MEASURES MAY CONSUME SOME TIME

WAR DEBT LEGISLATION COMES UP IN SENATE

Leaders Still Have Hope Of Putting Through The Ship Subsidy Bill.

By MARK SULLIVAN—Political Correspondent of the New York Tribune and Wichita Daily Times.

(Copyright 1923, N. Y. Tribune, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—On the 17th working day heralding the close of the principal interests of the race among congressmen, the principal items of legislation for an amount of time probably not more than sufficient to pass four or five of them.

The two bills for rural credit, the Capper bill and the Lenroot-Anderson bill, having both passed the house, are now in the lower house and are in such a position that they may assume a good deal of time.

At the moment, the subject of legislation is the subject of hearings before the house committee on banking and currency, and as this is a field in which many persons have strong ideas, the hearings are likely to consume a considerable number of days before the bills even reach the house.

Two bills overlap. Aside from this, there is coming to be a feeling that the two bills passed consume a rather marked whole, and do not admit of the kind of publicity or with as perfect certainty as might be expected. For one thing, the two bills overlap. The Capper bill aims to provide credit for the farmer as a part of the federal reserve system through cooperative banks with capital supplied by the farm. The Lenroot-Anderson bill aims to supply it through setting up a new system of banks for which the capital, at the beginning shall be supplied by the government. It is true that both systems can be set up side by side, but certainly there is no need for two, and two doing the work of one is essentially a waste of good deal of the impetus toward passing the two bills has come from the disposition to be on record in favor of everything and anything the farmer could want, and from the fact that many obstacles seem to stand in the way of a thing which everybody admits is as much needed as credit for the farmer is.

The discussion of past few weeks has focused much sympathetic thought on the question, and as a result, there is among those most competent to judge, a feeling that the real remedy for the farmer lies in taking into the federal reserve system the several thousand little local independent banks that already exist in the farming country, and giving them the backing and strength which would go with access to the country's resources of credit. These banks cannot be compelled to come in, but an energetic direction of the federal reserve system could probably persuade them to do so. It is a problem of administration rather than legislation.

British War Debts. In the House, the British war debts will surely be passed. The idea that this might be held back in order to give right of way to a consideration of the ship subsidy is and always has been nonsense. The war debt legislation will be introduced Tuesday or Wednesday. It will be given right-of-way and considered immediately to the exclusion of everything else, and will be passed overwhelmingly. There may be considerable delay, for there are many who like to point out objections to legislation. It is a complaint that which enables you to win favor with one group of voters by your speeches and with the other group by your votes. Such objections as will be made to the war debt legislation will deal chiefly with interest rate. There will be a certain amount of complaint that the government is giving lower rates to a foreign government than to its own citizens who are buying farms from the government.

Ship Subsidy Bill. So long as it takes to pass the war debt legislation, the ship subsidy bill will be suspended. Whether there will be, at the end, enough time to pass the subsidy bill is still the big speculation of the session. The greater probability still is and always has been that the subsidy bill will not come to a roll call. The bill about amending the constitution to make the bill more acceptable means nothing. It is true that many of the friends of the administration think that in many respects it is a useful device. It is a matter of gossip, not unlinked with some complaint, that in the writing of the bill, there was not enough consultation of the admiralty. It is said that the cabinet never had a chance to pass on the bill. It is pointed out that the measure might have been passed more persuasively by having the subsidy paid, not to the ship owners, but directly to the individuals laborers in quantities great enough to meet the difference between foreign wages and American wages.

But it is from the friends of the bill that this sort of complaint comes, and the friends of the bill will vote for it anyhow, although if Harding, or Hughes, or Hughes had taken these friends into counsel more generally in the making of the bill, there might have been less of the criticism. However, that amounts to "little" the opposition to the bill comes from those who would oppose it in any form. They are determined to prevent it from passing. They know the only way to prevent it is by filibustering, and they are quite ready to do it.

Foreign Affairs. Aside from pending legislation, the principal interest of Washington centers about the administrative management of foreign affairs. As to this, there are three clear points. Here in Washington and among the newspaper editors distant from Washington, as well as among the "high brows" and the sophisticated everywhere, there is general criticism of Harding and Hughes, and predictions of political results unhappy to them. The criticism of Hughes is particularly strong. That is the first point. The second is that this feeling is not shared by the voters throughout the country. The public generally is not well informed about foreign affairs. They have no minute knowledge of what Hughes has done or omitted to do. There is not among them any sort of feeling which would express itself in disapproval at the polls for this specific reason. The third point is that Harding and Hughes firmly believe that nothing better could have been done in the field of our foreign relations than has been done. They recognize the complaints from those who have a particular concern with this field, and are well aware of the criticism from newspapers and others. But they are reassured partly by their own convictions and partly by information from those who know the prevailing state of mind in various parts of the country, to the effect that the people generally do not share the criticism of the management of our foreign affairs. In any event, Harding and Hughes are going to stand on their record and by each other. For the future there is no intention of departure from the course of sure-footed caution, although if at any time the opportunity is presented for helpfulness in a large way it will be adopted.

Foreign Affairs. Aside from pending legislation, the principal interest of Washington centers about the administrative management of foreign affairs. As to this, there are three clear points. Here in Washington and among the newspaper editors distant from Washington, as well as among the "high brows" and the sophisticated everywhere, there is general criticism of Harding and Hughes, and predictions of political results unhappy to them. The criticism of Hughes is particularly strong. That is the first point. The second is that this feeling is not shared by the voters throughout the country. The public generally is not well informed about foreign affairs. They have no minute knowledge of what Hughes has done or omitted to do. There is not among them any sort of feeling which would express itself in disapproval at the polls for this specific reason. The third point is that Harding and Hughes firmly believe that nothing better could have been done in the field of our foreign relations than has been done. They recognize the complaints from those who have a particular concern with this field, and are well aware of the criticism from newspapers and others. But they are reassured partly by their own convictions and partly by information from those who know the prevailing state of mind in various parts of the country, to the effect that the people generally do not share the criticism of the management of our foreign affairs. GREEK PUBLISHER OF CHICAGO PAPER PRAISES LINCOLN

LINKED WITH PERICLES AS GREATEST CHAMPIONS OF DEMOCRACY.

PERICLES ORIGINATOR AND LINCOLN PERFECTOR

Funeral Oration and Gettysburg Address World's Most Notable Lamentations.

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Abraham Lincoln and Pericles were linked as the "greatest champions of democracy" the world has ever known by P. S. Lombro, publisher of the Greek Star of Chicago, in an address prepared for delivery today at the Hamilton club's observance of the anniversary of the birth of the emancipator. He took as his subject, "Pericles' funeral oration and Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the world's most notable lamentations."

Mr. Lombro believes he is the first in America to make a comprehensive study of Lincoln and Pericles.

"Pericles was the originator of democracy and Lincoln was the perfecter," he said. "In making further study and analysis of the events that occurred in 361 B. C. and the fact that occurred in 1863 A. D., we note that the event which took place between the two thousand years were really the same. The two great orations delivered by the two great men to pay tribute to dead heroes, were delivered for the same purpose. Both speeches were funeral orations delivered to inspire democracy. Pericles' funeral oration stands as the old testament of democracy, while Lincoln's Gettysburg address stands as the gospel of democracy."

Famous Funeral Oration. "Pericles delivered his famous funeral oration upon the graves of Greek heroes who fought and died in the civil war between north and south of Greece, between Athens and Sparta. In the south were the Helots, in Sparta, the Helots. The Helots were the property of their masters."

"It was the ambition of Pericles to abolish slavery and oligarchy. Lincoln, the great American, believed that all men were born equal. Pericles said 'as regards the laws of Athens, all enjoy equality.'"

"When Pericles was called upon to address the Athenians, he paid tribute to the dead heroes, he commenced his funeral oration by saying: 'I will begin then, with our ancestors; our fathers inherited a country with everything, so as to be the most self-sufficient, both for peace and for war.'"

"Quoting Lincoln, we note, 'Our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty.'"

"Aside from the addresses delivered by both great men, they have the same philosophical similarity in other speeches. Lincoln said, 'I'm not bound to win, but I am bound to be true.' Pericles said, 'When the greatest prices of virtue are given, there also the most virtuous men are to be found among the citizens.'"

"You cannot be a true American unless you believe in the ideals of Lincoln and unless you follow the ring and keep step to the music."

RETURNED SOLDIERS TURN ATTENTION TO PLANS FOR FUTURE

JUNK YARDS OF WASTE COMPARED WITH HUMANITY

MAJOR THORNE GIVEN MANOR IN GERMANY

JUDGE MORGAN ATTEMDS VERNON DISTRICT COURT

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Forty-five of the 152 doughboys who returned from Coblenz on the transport Balthic yesterday turned their attention toward the future.

For those 45 are married, most of them to German brides, and soon are to be discharged from the service of Uncle Sam. And their big problem is a return to normalcy, a sudden descent to the American dollar standard after months on the Rhine as "mark millionaires."

Awaiting their discharge at Fort Hamilton, the husbands—16 of them are fathers as well—are making plans for a radical change in their spending habits.

"Sure," said one of them, as he expressed the sentiments of his benighted buddies, "I'm glad to get back. We were getting paid in American dollars, but we got it in marks—$100 for a dollar. Sitting on top of the world, I'll tell you, I'm glad to get back. It's good to see the states again. But, of course, there'll be times when I'll think of that beer at half a cent a seal and a full meal for 10 cents."

He pointed to his wife, a robust frau, flaxen haired and smiling. "See that nifty dress?" he asked. "Cost six bucks. The hat? One buck. Fur coat a dollar. Yes, it's like that in Coblenz. And rent's the same. And grub. But I'm glad enough to get back. I was only saying, it's good to be back. But I might as well be honest about it. There's the point to be times—"

"Eyt don't get me wrong. It's good to see the states again."

Major Thorne of this city has received word that he has been left a manor in Germany by Herr Garner, whose grandson, Major Thorne, while a prisoner of war, saved from death under a train in Leipzig. A codicil to Herr Garner's will recites that the locate, "although an enemy of my country, under armed guard, jumped in front of an approaching train and saved little Karl."

Major Thorne at the time of the rescue was being transferred to Cuesin for solitary confinement following an attempt by him to escape from a prison camp.

Herr Garner's granddaughter has offered $10,000 for the manor. Floor was at Decorators Co.—Adv.

Making Them Really Like Good Music

By NEA Service. KANSAS CITY, MO., Feb. 12.—How many people really like "good music"—good in the sense that high-class musicians mean when they say it's good—"classical music"?

Not so very many! So the musicians themselves say. But they're going to—in Kansas City, at any rate.

Satin streamers tell softly from the chandelier to the four corners of the table and were held in place with yellow roses. At the places of the "bride and groom" were a tiny bride couple to remind them of the event of half a century ago.

Lighted candles added to the beauty of the table. The hostess served a five-course dinner, appropriately completed by an enormous wedding cake, which was set before Mrs. Cook to be cut.

Open House. At 8:00 o'clock the house was opened to friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Cook, and the ladies of the First M. E. church, Seventh and Lamar, held an informal reception until 8:00. During the afternoon hours, Mr. and Mrs. Cook were presented with numerous tokens of love and remembrance, among them being a shower of gold hidden in two satin hearts adorned with gold ribbon and for-get-me-nots. The young ladies of the Philathea class presented them with a five o'clock gold piece each, concealed in a hand-painted folder; the ladies and society presented a beautiful gold basket of yellow roses tied with golden ribbon; the Royal Neighbors lodge was represented by a beautiful bouquet of pure white cut flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Cook were quite overwhelmed with the gifts. Mrs. G. E. Friberg presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock, and dainty individual cakes in the shape of hearts were served with the tea. The room was filled with baskets and vases of flowers and potted plants while a garland of gold hearts was suspended between the center of the table. The dinner guests included: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Thornberry Sr. and Mrs. O. E. Friberg, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Byman, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Dallon, Mrs. L. C. Dorrance and son Carl, C. B. Jetter, Mrs. W. L. Dillard, Mrs. Hardesty-Barclay, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nix, A. E. Traeger and B. E. Wallace.

Music dealers can scarcely keep in stock the phonograph records which are to be played at the junior concert, Little newboys flock, Saturday night, into music stores and spend their earnings for opera records which they take home and explain to their families, just as they have been explained by their teachers to themselves.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS SCARECROW'S VALENTINE

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Mr. Stridealong Longstride saw it on his way to deliver a parcel post package.

This is the valentine that Jack Frost sent to Scarecrow.

Only he didn't write it and drop it into the hickory tree postoffice like other people.

No, sir, he wrote it in the snow with a big stick right under Scarecrow's very own straw nose.

Mr. Stridealong Longstride saw it on his way to deliver a parcel post package, and when he came back he told Nancy and Nick and Jack Stamps about it, so they all rushed out to see.

Sure enough! There were the mortifying words right in the snow. This is what they said:

"Is for straw with which you are stuffed."

"C is for coat that is ragged and scuffed."

"A is for arms that flap this way and that."

"R is for rags that would frighten the cat."

"E is for empty, the way that you look."

"C is for clothes from the farmer you look like."

"R is for ribs that were made from a broom."

"O is for off—in your head there is room."

"W is for witch which is just what you look like."

"Oh, the horrid old thing!" cried Nancy. "Don't you believe him, you poor old dear, you don't look like a witch at all!"

"Oh, don't!" said Scarecrow in a relieved voice. "I'm very glad, I'm afraid I'm sensitive, my feelings are so easily hurt. But I really must look a bit saddy, being here since last spring. But never mind, Spring will be here again soon and I'll get some new clothes and some new straw and a new 'n' everything. And—oh, look there! Look at what Nick's writing. He's writing something in the snow with a stick right beside my valentine."

Everybody looked and this is what Nick had written to Jack Frost:

"J is for jealous as well as for Jack. A is for Arctic—you soon must go back."

CAROLINA WOMAN REGAINS HEALTH

Nervous Run Down Condition Overcome by Tanlac—Mrs. McGowan Is Well Again.

"Tanlac has benefited me wonderfully and anything good I could say about the medicine would not be praising it too highly," said Mrs. C. C. McGowan, wife of a prominent business man of Greer, S. C., recently.

"I suffered from a nervous, run-down condition, and for a long time was in very poor health. I had little or no appetite, my energy had almost left me, and I often got extremely nervous and felt tired and worn-out. I suffered from indigestion, too, and many times it troubled me so that it interfered with my sleep at night."

"After taking Tanlac, I must say it is a splendid medicine. The nervousness has gradually gone away until I scarcely notice it now and I have a fine appetite, have gained weight, and I feel stronger and better in every way. If I ever get sick again, I will certainly go back to Tanlac."

Color, Movement, Life! They're My Art—Girl Poster Creator Says

By NEA Service. NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Vyvyan Donner is the latest artist to capture Broadway.

She's given us something new in the way of posters.

This enterprising and altogether lovely young person looked over her collection of art papers—blues and greens from Japan, goods and lacquer, reds from China, calico prints from her mother's day, and wall paper from our own, and created the "vitalized silhouette."

Lots of Color. "I give my figures lots of vitality, life, color and movement," Miss Donner explains, "and nobody notices that they lack features."

"People can apply this hint to themselves. Bad features won't count against you if you have an abundance of life and pep."

"I did my first color silhouette for a theatrical review. Then I was swamped with orders from theatrical sources."

Decorating Came Next. "Later came commissions to decorate some of Broadway's fashionable cafes."

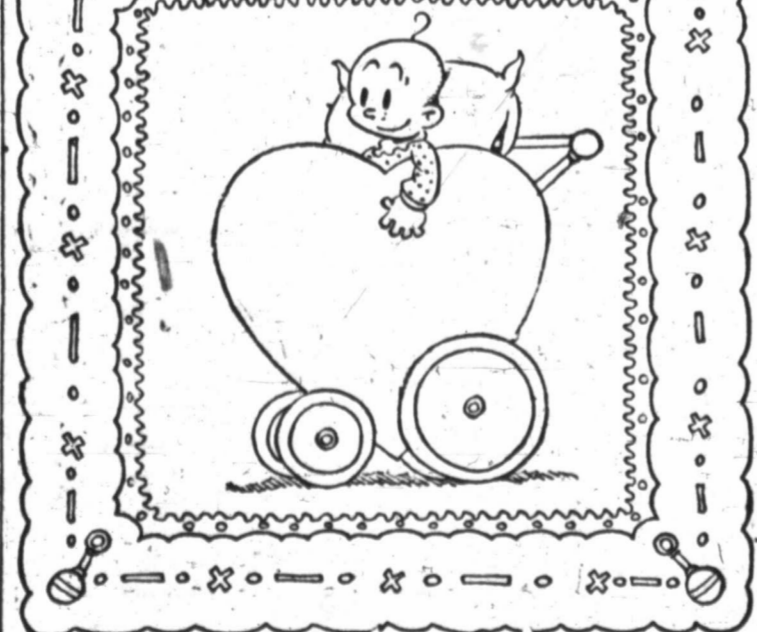

"With all this work on my hands I had to turn to history to find inspiration for my figures. That led me into costume designing. So, besides designing costumes for a number of theatrical productions, I have published more than 150 articles on the history of costumes and accessories."

"But my long distance record is in millinery. For six years I've designed one hat a day for a single large house."

Benefit at Golf Club. The benefit party at the Golf and Country club Tuesday is to be an afternoon game party, when non-progressive bridge, "42" and the new Oriental game, "Mahjong" will be played.

Members of the club and their friends are especially invited, and reservations may be made up to number of theatrical productions, I Monday night by phoning the golf club.

Oats for women who are rushed

Your grocery box has Quaker Oats, the quickest cooking oats in the world. It cooks in perfection in 3 to 5 minutes.

The same extra quality as the regular Quaker Oats. Both are made from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flabby oats. Both have that matchless flavor which makes Quaker Oats supreme.

But in Quaker Oats the outside is cut before flaking. They are pulled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

Get the style you want. The Quaker is marked "Quick" on the label.

NOW COMES THE SQUEEZE

"This man came on the porch just as she was arriving, and she did not go in. On another occasion, Mrs. Patton said she went with a carpenter to see about some repairs to a door and the man came while they were there, and went in. Mrs. Culberson told her 'never mind the door' and declined to let her in when she insisted.

"She said, 'Mrs. Patton you can't come in now,' said the witness.

Cross examined, Mrs. Patton said she did not know whether the Culberson children were at home on either of the occasions mentioned.

When Mrs. Culberson's week was up, Mrs. Patton said, she again asked about getting a phone in a closet, and Mrs. Patton told her it could not be had. Witness said she had never asked to Sam Beatty or Chief McCormick about the case.

Had Removed Mustache. Major Culberson was clean shaven when Mr. Shaw testified in the hotel room, he said.

"Did Culberson tell you that he wanted you to get some evidence to help him in his divorce case?" "No, sir," the witness said, and she did not know whether she had seen her daughters in school.

In testifying about the night visit, he said the lights were lit and that the daughters were present.

"Did you testify at the city court that you never told anyone as to the date of the night visit?" "I don't think so," he replied.

On redirect examination the witness said he did not know anyone else in the room that noon except one man and one woman.

Mrs. Shaw, wife of the witness, was the next witness called.

The court asked the mother of a crying baby in the court room to please make the little fellow quiet.

The witness was then asked to speak louder.

She told that none of the children in the house were present when she came to rent the apartment. The older daughter left on Saturday and returned on Tuesday.

Mrs. Shaw told that there was a lounge in the front room of the apartment, occupied by Mrs. Culberson, before Mrs. Culberson moved in.

"I saw a man who came quite frequently," she said, "but how many times, I don't know. I think he was there each day after she moved there. The man usually came between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evenings. He came once or twice in the afternoon."

The witness told of seeing ashes in a tray in Mrs. Culberson's kitchen one time when she visited Mrs. Culberson.

"The man never stayed later than 10:30 in the evenings," she said.

Mrs. Shaw told on cross examination that Mrs. Culberson usually moved in much heavy furniture when she came to occupy the apartment.

"I saw no officers around my place there until the morning Mrs. Culberson left," she said.

She further told that she was not positive that the man who was there the morning when Mrs. Culberson moved was an officer.

She said the children would greet the man visitor warmly and seemed glad to see him.

The witness said she couldn't be positive.

"I can only give my idea," she said.

"She spoke quite different when she talked to the grocer from what she did on other time," said witness, in answer to another question.

"She said, 'Mrs. Culberson talked as low as she could,' but that her words were plainly audible."

Heating of Apartment. Mrs. Ida Bolton, of 1510 Tenth, said Mrs. Culberson moved into an apartment owned by witness.

"Who rented the apartment for her?" "A man."

"Did you know him?" "No."

"Describe him."

The man was described as a blond, wearing nose glasses, and about five feet five inches in height.

The apartment was engaged January 2, Mrs. Bolton said.

The man came in a Ford roadster, witness said; she thought it to be 20 to 25 years old. The rent was paid by Mrs. Culberson, she said, and witness had not seen the man any more.

Other questions dealt with her recollection of the man's appearance without eliciting anything more definite.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION OF RIOTS IN FLORIDA

BRONSON, FLA., Feb. 12.—Investigation of the rioting at Rosewood, near here, last month in which eight persons—two white men and six negroes—lost their lives, was scheduled to begin here today by a special grand jury called by Judge A. V. Long, eighth judicial district, who was to preside over its deliberations.

The rioting grew out of an attempt by armed men to enter a negro dwelling near Rosewood in search of a negro charged with an attack upon a young white woman.

The Alachua county grand jury, recalled by Judge Long last week to investigate the lynching of Abe Wilson, negro, near Newberry, January 17, another outgrowth of the attack upon the woman, failed to find sufficient evidence upon which to base an indictment.

George Decotes, of Sanford, prosecuting attorney of the seventh judicial district, was ordered by Governor Hardie, to assist in the investigation of the case by the grand jury here today.

THOUSANDS VISIT NEW ORLEANS FOR 1923 MARDI GRAS

CROWD SAID TO BE LARGEST IN HISTORY OF BIG CARNIVAL.

GORGEOUS PAGEANT AND ANNUAL BALL FEATURE

Festivities Will Be Brought to a Close Tuesday Night—King to Choose Queen.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—With the city already crowded with visitors that ever attended New Orleans Mardi Gras carnival, regular special trains continued today to bring thousands of sightseers from all parts of the country to witness the final two days' festivities of the annual celebration.

Traversing the route of Momus, which opened the carnival season last Thursday night with a gorgeous pageant of 17 floats depicting "Alice in Wonderland," Proteus will parade tonight. The Proteus ball will be given following the parade.

The usual "arrival of Rex" on Monday preceding Mardi Gras day, which in former years had consisted of a naval pageant on the Mississippi river and a military parade at the head of which rode the king of the carnival, was abandoned this year.

On Tuesday thousands of maskers, in costumes of varied design, before the grotesque to the pictures, will have full away from sunrise to sunset. Rex will give his parade on that day as will the Braids and numerous carnival marching clubs.

Comus, one of the most prominent of the carnival organizations which before the world war paraded yearly on Tuesday night, will not appear this season.

The carnival will be brought to an end Tuesday night with the Rex ball at which the king will choose his queen.

Revelry will cease at midnight, after which Lent will begin. It will be Ash Wednesday, the day of "sack cloth and ashes," with solemn observance for 40 days.

PARADES FEATURE OF GALVESTON MARDI GRAS

GALVESTON, Feb. 12.—With the arrival of King Privolous VII, from the realm of Merrimont, Galveston's Mardi Gras period was formally opened this morning. The king, escorted by troops from Fort Crockett and sailors from the United States cruiser Galveston, paraded through the business section.

This evening an illuminated allegorical parade will be staged.

The Mardi Gras festivities culminate on Tuesday evening with the coronation ceremonies and ball.

Masque, Young ladies representing the leading cities of Texas will appear in the court of honor.

BANK EMPLOYEE IS ARRESTED AS HE STEPS OFF TRAIN

HELD IN CONNECTION WITH A LOSS OF $14,700 FROM DEPOSITS OF JANUARY.

NO CHARGES HAVE BEEN FILED AGAINST MAN HELD

Man Told Officers That He Had Returned to Straighten Up Some Business.

John F. McCain, formerly teller of the City National Bank of Commerce, signed a confession Monday morning in connection with the $14,000 shortage.

The disappearance of $14,000 deposit, the confession said, was to cover up an accumulation of lesser shortages, covering a considerable period of time.

McCain, told officers that he had intended to return February 1, but that he took sick, and that he was confined to bed for five months when apprehended.

The shortage is fully covered by a bond that protects the bank, officials of the bank stated Monday, and a settlement under the bond was being effected.

McCain arrived from Fort Worth late Sunday night, and was taken into custody at his room on Travis street at 2:30 Monday morning by city officers.

HURDLER TO MAKE EFFORT TO LOWER WORLD'S RECORD

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—Gus Desch, the great hurdler of Notre Dame university, is coming to the Pennsylvania relay carnival April 27 and 28, determined to lower the world's record of 23.45 seconds for the 440 yard hurdle held by himself.

Word to this effect has been received from Coach Rockne of Notre Dame, George W. Orton, manager of the carnival, announced today. A number of other fast hurdlers, including Frazier of Baylor university, Texas are entered Desch established the record in 1921. He did not compete last year because of a strained tendon.

Notre Dame also has entered Lieby, the shot put and may send either a mile or two mile relay team.

To date more than 200 schools and colleges are entered in the various track and field events.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right.—Prov. 16:3. Fortify yourself with moderation; for this is an impregnable fortress.—Epictetus.

FORD AND THE PRESIDENCY.

Henry Ford is being widely discussed as a possible candidate for the presidency in 1924. Political observers, one of them Mark Sullivan, who writes for The Times, believe that he would carry a number of the states having direct primaries for the nomination on either ticket.

But it may be pointed out that being president of the United States is an altogether different job from running the Ford industries, as great and important as they are, and requiring an order of genius which Ford has in a superlative way.

There is not a man employed in any of them whom Ford could not discharge without a moment's notice. There is not a department that he could not wipe out merely by giving the order to have it done.

In the trial of his suit for libel against the Chicago Tribune Ford, on the witness stand, showed an almost unbelievable ignorance and understanding of American history. As president he would have to learn a good many things about the American government only through actual experience.

THE CARVER OF THE WOODEN INDIAN IS DEAD.

Peter Campbell, who is said to have carved the silver wooden Indian used as a tobacco store sign, died at the age of ninety-three years at his home in Belleville, New Jersey, Sunday.

His death recalls the time when wooden Indians were generally used in this country as tobacco store signs. Twenty-five years ago there was scarcely a village or town in the country that did not have one or more wooden Indians standing in the street in front of a store or stores.

Second floor of one of Germany's leading papers fell to the basement. Perhaps a reporter tried to write something nice on France.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FAITH. If we would arise from the depths into which this mortal self of ours so often falls, let us look up—and then climb up—in faith.

I came across a beautiful sentence the other day in a little book by George Macaulay Trevelyan on the "Poetry and Philosophy of George Meredith."

Here it is—it fits this Talk so well: "Faith is acceptance as well as hope."

There is nothing blind about this acceptance, however. We do not have to understand fully everything that we accept. I accept God, I accept the world, I accept beauty and every wonder in Nature.

But I understand so little of them all. I wouldn't understand all if I could. In the very mystery of things there is a drawing power that fastens itself upon the working spirit of the brain—flashing its life force to the soul as well.

Faith is resignation—an honest halting before the throne of Spiritual Explanation.

The higher we lead this mind of ours, the higher it tiptoes for just a little more sight into something better than its present level of view.

That's the way faith works. It waters the brain, buoying it through many a dangerous storm and flooding it with an understanding sunshine as the clouds of doubt break up.

I am wondering what I would do with my faith all gone away. What would you do? Would you not feel as though all hope had gone?

As for myself, I do not intend that faith shall die! I shall look for it anew as I feel the breath of God in the gentle wind, and as I scent the life-blood of the flower in its fragrant perfume.

Let us have faith—no matter what! (Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams.)

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

ABE LINCOLN. Bill and Jim drove into town on a pleasant summer day.

Puffed their pipes and talked of things in a friendly sort of way.

Talked of crops and politics, neighbors and the price of nails.

Then, as they were jogging on, passed a fellow splitting rails.

"Who's that yonder, Bill?" says Jim. "I don't seem to know his face."

"That's Abe Lincoln," answered Bill, "—got a shabby sort of place."

Law suit going on one day, Bill and Jim had time to spare.

Dropped into the court awhile, found most all their neighbors there.

"Moonlight night," one witness said, prisoner's chances mighty small.

Till his lawyer rose and proved there wasn't any moon at all.

"Who's defending him?" says Jim. "Rather clever, I should say."

"That's Abe Lincoln," answered Bill, "homely as a bale of hay."

Politics were getting hot, meetings almost every night.

Orators from north and south talking loudly for the right.

Bill and Jim were always there cheering for their party's cause.

Then one time a chap got up talking morals more than laws.

"Who's that speaking now?" says Jim. "Think I've seen his face before."

"That's Abe Lincoln," answered Bill, "shall we go, or hear some more?"

Moral of it isn't much. Greatness may be round about, but when seen from day to day men are slow to find it out.

Those who saw him splitting rails, those who heard him plead a case,

Passed him by with little thought, laughing at his homely face;

Those who neighbored with the boy, those who saw his summer tan,

Those who lived in Lincoln's time, never really knew the man.

THE PAST

By BERTON BRALLET

"Girls ain't the same as the girls I knew," The dowager says, and sighs.

"Those old-time maidens would never do A thing that would cause surprise."

But she failed to recall, in a large degree, Some things which she saw occur— Girls ain't the same as they used to be, And they never were!

"Men ain't the same as the men of old," The old man said, with a scowl.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

SHAME. Uncle Sam reports that over a million children, 10 to 15 years old, were "gaily employed" in 1918.

If we had that situation in a year of record prosperity, think what conditions must be when the plunk of hard times even normal business drives the young into the ranks of child labor.

A nation's degree of civilization is measured by the child labor situation and by its treatment of woman. Progress by inventions is surface stuff, not basic, except as it helps eliminate human slavery.

DEMOGRAPHY. The skull of a dinosaur, giant beast said to have lived five million years ago, is dug up by scientists of American Museum of Natural History.

Some of these prehistoric monsters were as large as a small bungalow. They became extinct by wandering into swamps from which they could not escape.

Aesop could have written a good fable about this, applying it to human careers where the moral would be: Watch your step, every minute.

DEATHS. Only 88 Americans and Canadian deaths were reported in the world for the total population. It was the lowest death rate of any year on record except 1921.

The figures are furnished by Louis I. Dubois, statistics expert of Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Had it not been for an outbreak of the death rate in 1922 would have been that of 1921.

Rockefeller's scientists, fortunately, have made the first real step toward the conquest of flu, by isolating the virus.

Life is a revolving wheel, humanity travels in a circle, everything repeats.

Another item, from Lubbock, Texas, says that the state will arrest people who play dominoes on Sunday.

The west, once wild and woolly, now is tamer than the east.

Tobacco-makers report that American production of cigars last year was 445 million more than in 1921.

That looks big for the nation's nerves, for the cigarette is a nervous man's smoke.

THE FOUR LEADING CHAIN-STORES organizations announced that their sales in 1922 exceeded 350 million dollars, compared with less than 25 million in 1913, a pre-war normal year.

Even allowing for higher prices, which make a big difference in calculating the increase in sales of actual goods, it is evident that chain-store business has at least doubled since before the war.

We've barely entered the period of big organization.

On July 4 last, during the encampment of United States Marines and while President Harding was here, the guards estimated there were 50,000 persons on the field and the average Sunday during the summer brought 12,000 sightseers.

Automobiles from every state in the union were noted, among them many of the latest models.

The year 1923 brings the sixtieth anniversary of the battle and new records are looked for.

Pittsburg woman who wondered if the new servant would run away with the silver found she would.

In Quantico, Va., a marine was selling uniforms. Maybe he thought he was our merchant marine?

Yates got $600 from the Gasoline Coal company in Toledo. Perhaps the coal was in a secret drawer.

Everyone hates to get up in winter, but the same is true of spring, summer and autumn.

Krupp's profits dropped five million in three years. Wouldn't it be terrible if your did that?

Yesterday's Answer. If a man can cut three loads of hay in a day, and can load six loads in the same time, he can cut and load two loads in a day. It takes him twice as long to cut, as to load; so he cuts for two-thirds of the day, and loads for one-third.

OUT OUR WAY

By WILLIAMS

When they turned to him the priest saw two things instantly—the joy of Val, the dawning struggle of the man.

"Father," Valantrio, straightly, "I am in deep waters."

"Yes, my son."

"I merely turn my eyes to the fair shores for a fleeting comfort—ere I drift out to sea, beyond all hope."

There was a desperate longing in the words, a desperate restlessness, that gripped the old man's heart.

He turned from them without a word, pacing the far end of the garden with his hands behind his back and his rosary swinging at his knee.

Val Hannon listened to this mystic speech open-lipped, for she did not understand. Then Valantrio took her hand for a moment and smiled down at her—and it was if she had known him all ways.

He kept the speech to the commonplace, the pleasant badinage of friends, and talked of far places and distant adventures, but nothing on earth could have silenced his blue eyes, nor the tell-tale tightening of his lips from time to time when their smile became too radiant.

Valantrio was a man who mastered self, and he meant to do just as he had told the father—look for a short time, but nothing on earth could have silenced his blue eyes, nor the tell-tale tightening of his lips from time to time when their smile became too radiant.

PRIZE RIDER AT FIVE. Jackie Pratt, five, clears the hurdle in an exhibition jump at the Gympie (Australia) horse show. Jackie weighs only 85 pounds and he's taking the leap without saddle or bridle. Jackie's riding has been a feature of ring events in Australian horse shows since he was four.

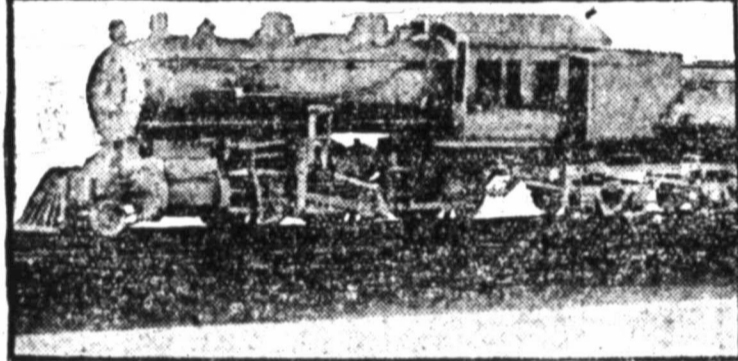

SPEAKING OF TWINS, look these over. They are all students at the Spring School in Toledo, O. Teachers are proud of the bunch of 'em, even if it does make life harder. The twins are so much alike that often Annie recites twice and sister Milly not at all, or Joe gets bawled out for something Henry did, while Henry escapes scot free. As for the twins, they have established a clannish little colony in the school where good fellowship is the rule.

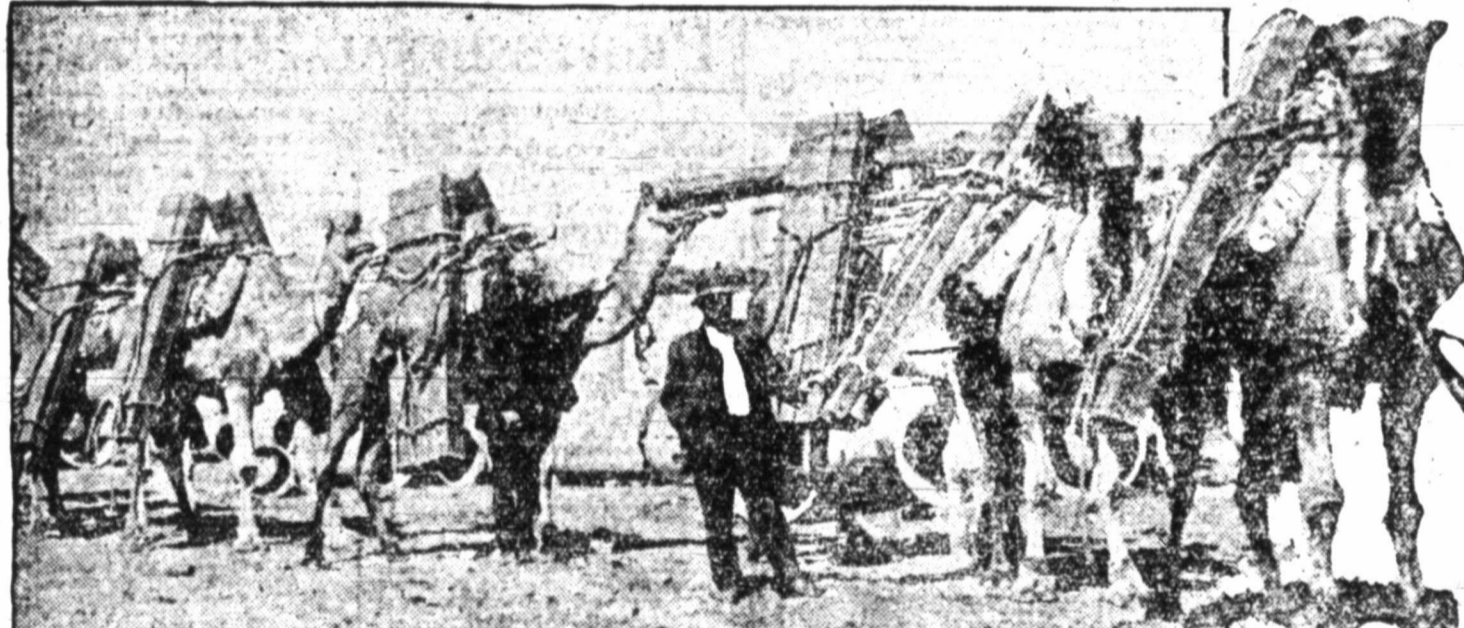

JUNIOR SENATE IN SESSION. Ship subsidy and international relations hold greater interest for these boys than marbles or baseball. They're pages of the United States Senate, who have organized their own Junior Senate. They hold sessions in the Senate chamber twice a week, after the regular Senate has adjourned. Ingham Mack of Vermont acts as presiding officer, while Richard Ruedel, as chaplain, invokes divine blessing. Regular rules of Senate procedure are followed.

SCARE BANDIT! Probably this old flintlock blunderbuss wouldn't frighten them today, but it did in 1673, when it was given to clerks in Hoare's bank, London. It was exhibited the other day when the bank celebrated the opening of its two hundred and fiftieth year. "Ye Olde Leather Bottle," above, was the trademark which, hung above the bank's door.

SIX YEARS' WORK IN THIS. It took C. A. Perkins, Fresno, Cal., that long to build this miniature engine model. It's only 2 1/2 inches long but it contains 948 different parts. It has enough power to pull a man at the rate of one-half mile an hour. Perkins values it at $4000.

AUSTRALIA GOING DRY? If Pussfoot Johnson saw this picture of a camel caravan in Australia, he'd present it as proof the world is going dry. But Pussfoot would be wrong. Three thousand of these beasts are being employed by the Australian government to transport equipment for the new transcontinental railway which soon will link Oodnadatta and Port Darwin, crossing the richest mineral and most productive pasturage region of the continent.

GENIUS PRISON PRODUCT. It took a jail sentence to bring to light the artistic talent of Frank King, shown here, convicted of petty thievery in his cell at Oakland, Cal. Frank spent his time sketching pretty girls like that shown above. Jailers noticed his work. Now, when Frank's released, he'll get a tryout as a commercial artist.

NOT A JULY 4 CELEBRATION. In fact, it's just as much the opposite as anything could be. It's the opening of the new six-chute toboggan slide at Montreal, Canada. Since tobogganing is Canada's greatest winter sport, this event drew 200,000 people, and Lord Byng, Canada's governor general, himself, was there to preside.

GREENWICH VILLAGE, famous as the heart of New York's Bohemia, and even Paris, had best watch their laurels. San Francisco artists appeared in many weird and daring costumes at the Quartet Arts Ball, recently held in the city by the Golden Gate. In the upper left is Bohemia's idea of a cavewoman—not the sleek variety, but straight from the jungles. Youth and Beauty is portrayed by the young lady in the center, while on the extreme right is a costume which speaks for itself.

ROUGE CENSOR. Mrs. Marie Baldwin Smith, shown here, is a member of the Hutchinson (Kaz) police department and her special assignment is to see to it girls in her city don't wear too much rouge. She patrols streets and visits movie theaters and when she finds an offender she admonishes her to wash her face.

TRY THIS IN ZERO WEATHER. They do have some real cold days even in Atlanta, Ga., but these girl dancers turn out every day for practice—and they always wear the garments you see them in, and no more. Welle Sullivan, their teacher, at left, says it's good for them.

LIGHT SHOWER HERE EARLY MONDAY AS WIND SHIFTS WEST

A shower of rain fell on this city early Monday morning which was just sufficient to moisten the surface ground. Agents west and south of the city also reported a light rain. The shower was brought in from the west by a cold front.

During the early part of the evening Sunday a wind arose from the west. The weather had been threatening in the latter part of the afternoon but the west wind drove away the clouds and the sun set on a clear western sky.

Woman Operates Trash Wagon to Provide For 6 Little Ones in Shack

In No Man's Land near the river, among her equally as unfortunate neighbors, there lives in a shack that barely deserves the name of home a woman, who is, or might as well be, a widow, with her six small children.

The mother for several months has operated a trash wagon in the city to draw the profit from the door and to make life bearable for her large family of small children.

Woman Operates Trash Wagon to Provide For 6 Little Ones in Shack

With the small income from the trash wagon and other such menial tasks as she could do, the mother had managed well to furnish fuel, food and pay the doctor bills that came from time to time.

No sooner than her story was related than the city physician had been called to the shack to attend to the needs of the sick and invalid members of the household.

CHARACTER LARGELY MOLDED BY READING SAYS PASTOR IN PLEA FOR USE OF GOOD LITERATURE

In line with the movement now on foot to stamp out evil literature from the homes of the city, Rev. F. C. Lalette preached on the subject of "Books" at the Central Presbyterian church on Sunday.

Dr. Lalette said: "An old veteran in the Mammoth jail. It is a dark and gloomy place. He shivers in the cold; a sense of loneliness creeps over him."

"There is pathos in his brief inventory of his possessions. Time was when he had abundance of the world's goods. He was the son of a wealthy merchant."

"We get from his text a lesson on books. In those days he had a few books, such as a copy of two of Greek philosophy, logic and rhetoric; rabbinical writings, the poems of Aratus from which Paul quotes, a famous sermon on Mars Hill and a few other books."

"Books are true travelers; it is no matter how poor I am if the sacred writers will enter my dwelling; if Milton crosses my threshold and I will divine your intellectual bias, introduce me to your libraries and I will undertake a more accurate diagnosis of your general character."

"Reading is my greatest delight, for when I read I am looking for someone to materialize. Biography furnishes me with illustrative incidents; history with stirring events, and poetry which is alive with color."

"Books furnish the fiber of individual and also national character. As a man reads so he is. Tell me your morning and evening paper and I will divine your intellectual bias."

"First, read books which are already classic and known to be good. Second, avoid books which you know to be immoral and anti-Christian. You would not read a book derogatory to the character of your wife or mother; neither would I read a book derogatory to Christ and Christianity, which I have tested and know to be true. Third, cases that come to the ears of the welfare workers and members of the United Charities each day since the severe weather has caused a slack in work. The calls come from all sources. Illness in families where the sole breadwinner is out of work and the family out of funds and food have been the cause of most of the cases that have been handled this winter.
