SALT WATER SHOWS IN SWASTIKA WELL WHEN IT IS BAILED

DEVELOPMENT SOMETHING OF SETBACK TO OPERATORS IN NEW FIELD

RECORD WELL INCREASES PRODUCTION TO 1800

Staley No. 4 Freeman-Hampton Raises Its Own Mark by Continued Flow

The hope of making a big producer from the Swastika well on the Richardson tract, southeast of McKeegan, received a setback to some extent by the showing of salt water encountered while bailing the well late Tuesday.

The well, which is in absolute wildcat territory was the sensation of last week in oil circles due to the showing made in a sand at 1250 feet, which after penetrating, flowed several times while running the swab and at one time had in the neighborhood of 200 feet of fluid in the hole.

With the news of the strike acreage in the surrounding country and in the vicinity of the well began to soar and a number of tracts were offered for sale.

The Gulf Petroleum Company brought in No. 2 lease, well on the Ferguson tract in the Freeman-Hampton pool Thursday and it is yielding 1800 barrels from the 1700-foot pay. The same company started bailing No. 1 Ferguson in the 1700-foot pay and it has indications of making a fair show.

In the Electra district the Gulf Company started bailing No. 2 Wagoner from the 1800-foot sand, which is a fair show. It will complete during the week.

The record well for Archer county, No. 4 Freeman-Hampton, which came in Monday with a flush production of 1600 barrels, suddenly increased the output Tuesday and is flowing a steady stream at the rate of 1800 barrels.

All available storage was quickly filled and nearby leases in being struck to the well in an effort to take care of the enormous production until connections have been made with the Texas Pipeline Company.

MANY MESSAGES OF BONDOLLENCE TO HOME OF BISHOP

ALL DENOMINATIONS PAY TRIBUTE TO GREAT PATRIARCH

DECEASED CHURCHMAN FOUGHT GRIM BATTLE

Funeral Services Will Be Held Friday at Christ Church Cathedral

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—Messages of condolence from the clergy and laity in all parts of the world began pouring into the residence of the Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, president of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States, who died yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness, induced by the influenza epidemic.

One of the great patriarchs of modern times honored by all men, the deceased churchman fought a grim battle with the reaper, the end coming quietly and peacefully after weeks of anxious watching by members of his family and household attendants.

The funeral at 3 p. m. Friday, at Christ Church cathedral, the see of the diocese, will be simple in accordance with the bishop's request. Only such a funeral as might have been given the humblest of his flock was all the bishop desired for himself. His body will lie in state at the church for two hours before the service. No sermon will be preached and the simple but solemn ritual of the prayer book will be the only feature of the ceremonies.

Numerous prelates of the Episcopal hierarchy are expected to come here for the funeral. Many of them were consecrated by Bishop Tuttle and all of them looked up the saintly patriarch as father and friend, the first among them.

The fact that he considered himself the lowliest only served to increase their veneration for him.

Not only was he a famous figure in the civilization of the western part of the country, but a beloved churchman and a patriot of the highest degree as well. He was founder and president of the Missouri Society, Sons of the American Revolution for 29 years.

BISHOP GARRETT PAYS TRIBUTE TO DECEASED

DALLAS, April 18.—The church has lost a leader and I have lost a friend whose place can never be filled," declared the Right Rev. Alexander Charles Garrett of Dallas, successor to Bishop Tuttle who died at St. Louis yesterday.

The two bishops had been in constant communication, Bishop Garrett having received letters from Bishop Tuttle until recently when the latter became critically ill. Bishop Garrett, 81 years old, is now the oldest living bishop in the American Episcopate.

LITTLE PROGRESS IN SELECTING JURY IN RADICAL CASE

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., April 18.—Little prospect of completing the jury to try Charles Ruthenberg of Cleveland, charged with criminal syndicalism, during today's session of court was seen by either attorneys for the state or defense. Two full days have been spent on questioning the panel tendered to the defense without any apparent results.

When court adjourned yesterday Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Ruthenberg, again was questioning prospective jurors. Two men were dismissed during the day for cause. The defense has used considerable time in questioning the jurors. At the present speed observers predicted that the jury would not be completed before Thursday or possibly Friday.

RAILROADS MUST MAKE REPORT ON LABOR SITUATION

REPLIES MUST BE MADE UNDER OATH TO THE I. C. COMMISSION

ASKED FOR STATEMENT ON EFFECT OF STRIKE

Also Requested to Report Expenditures in Fight Against Shopmen

WASHINGTON, April 18.—As a part of its inquiry into efficiency and economy of railroad management the I. C. C. today ordered the 51 largest railroads to furnish under oath responses to a questionnaire covering labor conditions in their maintenance departments and the general situation in regard to fitness of their equipment. The companies were given until May 22 to reply.

Each railroad was asked for data as to how the strike of shopmen had affected it, and whether any settlement had been made with the employees as a body. Where no agreement had been formally reached the roads were required to state what the striking employees demanded before returning to work. They also were asked for information on the expenditures made in fighting the strike, such as in providing lodging for guards and strikebreakers, and to give by months from July 1, 1922, to March 31, 1923, the total number of train and engine employees in their service. Of 107 questions of the questionnaire were designed to cover the amount of traffic handled and the number of locomotives and railroad cars in use and the records of their service ability, including locomotive and car breakdowns.

In connection with the number of men employed, the questionnaire sought rates of pay and the record of work accomplished. Details of railroad practices in contracting out repair work on locomotives and cars also was requested.

In instituting its general inquiry into efficiency and economy of railroad management the commission some weeks ago addressed a general questionnaire to all railroads concerning some of the matters dealt with in a more detailed fashion in the document today.

Men May Wear Pink Pants And Lavender Coats

NEW YORK, April 18.—The day not far distant when a young man may stroll down Broadway in pink pants and a lavender coat without causing a riot, according to prognosticators in the latest issues of journals devoted to garment trade in New York.

The dye makers are almost dying with joy over the tendencies prevalent in the garment trade, dictating more and more vivid displays of colors in the outer habiliments of the human male.

The craving for color in the young man, especially those who "put the dapper hats and broadways" throughout the land, and not any arbitrary decision of dress designers is the real reason for all fashions, according to an expert, and this spring the young man craves colors in everything he wears, the expert explains.

The "Deadville" scarf, a popular thing now, looks like a slice from the grand canyon, and there are to be vests and shirts, and pants and coats with bright dashes, he said.

"These fashions just spring up," said the expert. "For example, who can explain why the high school boys of Boise, Idaho, are wearing car rings? Why knows why the 'cuckoo' wears a feather in his hat band? And why should a man wear pink rubber balls. These things are mysteries, just like women's furs on the fourth of July."

SERIOUS SPLIT IN REPUBLICAN PARTY OVER WORLD COURT

OVERSHADOWS EVERYTHING IN POLITICAL WAY AT WASHINGTON

DESIRE A CHANCE BUT MUST ACCEPT HARDING

Undercurrent Favorable to Johnson
or Some Other Progressive Leader

By MARK SULLIVAN
Political Correspondent of the New York Tribune and Wichita Daily Times.

(Copyright 1923 N. Y. Tribune, Inc.)
WASHINGTON, April 12.—It is true the international court has overshadowed everything else in Washington this week. It is also true that it has developed a clear and serious split in the Republican party. But there is far more to the split and the situation is much more complex than a mere division over the international court.

And inasmuch as a chronological statement is often the best way to make a complex situation clear,
we may try that method.

It was early in February that Senator Watson of Indiana made a speech in the senate announcing that the Republican party would renominate Harding. Immediately that sentiment was echoed and endorsed by most of the other Republican leaders.

But to the extent that the public accepted these endorsements as expressing a hundred per cent of good faith and enthusiastic satisfaction with the program, the public was mistaken. Many of those who were loudest in their proclamation to the public of Harding for 1924, added in a whisper to their friends, "but I wish we could have Johnson."

"Yes, we must renominate Harding,
but we might do better with a different candidate." In short the announcement that Harding should be renominated was the expression of a sincere wish only so far as it proceeded from Harding's real friends, men like Daugherty, Lan-ker and General Daves. It is perhaps misleading to pick out these names, for there were many other sincere Harding adherents, both among national and local Republican leaders.

But there was a considerable group, and a particularly vital and aggressive group of Republican leaders whose aim was the program of renominate Harding was mere lip service. They assented to it only because it is the rule to give the president his renomination, and because there is no practical way of depriving him of the nomination
if he demands it or his friends demand it for him. They intended that to make a fight against the president in office would probably be vain any how, and would certainly create such a party cleavage as would make the nomination valueless to whoever might be the winner. The very fact of the fight would almost insure the triumph of the Democrats in the ensuing election.

This was the picture during the closing days of congress, when Harding suggested the senate and the country by proposing the international court. Instantly, the group opposed to Harding said, "Here is our chance." Most of the observers here in Washington think these anti-Harding men went to Hiram Johnson and said, in effect:

"Here now is an issue on which you can fight Harding for the nomination." But Johnson refused that crown and no far has continued to refuse it. It is a sufficient reason for his refusal that he realizes what has already been said, and what every practical politician knows, namely, that to make a grueling fight against Harding for the nomination would have the almost certain result of electing a Democrat.
It would be like fighting for the possession of a horse and in the process killing the horse.

And so, the present hopes of the anti-Harding group are not to make an open fight against Harding, but to try to intimidate him, or cajole him, to maneuver him into a position where they can go to him and say, "It has been demonstrated that your international court proposal is received so badly by the bulk of the party and by the country you had better stop, and let some one else run who is not identified with that proposal."

It must be admitted that there is a considerable group of Republicans who are honestly opposed to the international court and sincerely deplore Harding's thrusting it into the situation. But there are others who don't care anything at all about the court, but for other reasons would like to maneuver Harding into abdicating. Some of them have a natural desire to have a friend of their own in the white house. Some believe that a candidate like Hiram Johnson, for example, would be a group of hard-spellbinders and a better vote-getter, and more effective agency to carry into office with him the largest possible number of local sheriffs, constables and what not. Not all this anti-Harding group are Johnson
men. Some have other favorites.

Finally there is a group of hard-boiled Republican leaders who sincerely believe that the invention of the anti-League of Nations issue is the best way to get rid of the Republican party since the Civil war. They think it offers better material for rabble rousing than any other issue since slavery. They think they can use it to win elections for years to come. They regionally have as much the brand of the Republican party as abolition of the high tariff, and they are outraged that Harding should take a step which tarnishes this party brand.

A secondary fear in the back of the heads of this anti-Harding group is that Harding might additionally, but might at the same time hand on his mantle to another, to some one whose intellectual strength and all round capacity he warily admires, such as Hughes or Hoover. This creates an additional motive for stirring up sentiment against the court and against men who are identified with it, as Hughes and Hoover are.

Everybody admits, even the most honest of the anti-Harding group, that Harding controls the situation if he wants to. He can get the renomination for himself, or he can pass it to another. That has always been recognized as the situation of any president in office. The rule may have been modified to some extent by the spread of the direct primary, but broadly speaking it still remains valid. No one of sufficient caliber to make much headway will throw his hat in the ring as long as Harding stands pat. Harding knows this and seems to be disposed to hold his position firmly and yet with a reserve of us think we can observe material for amusement in the care which the administration seems to take,
not to give Hiram Johnson for example, any excuse to make a fight.

Harding's friends realize it is only human nature for some Republican leaders to want another man in the white house, or some one else with the senate. Harding hasn't always been as considerate as his inherent nature almost universally is. With the press of work on the president, it isn't humanly possible. When Harding sent to the senate the nomination of a personal friend, Alexander P. Moore, to be ambassador to Spain, it was said he had neglected to notify any senator, not even those from Moore's state of Pennsylvania who are in advance. When he sent his international court proposal to the senate, it was said he had not notified a single senator in advance.

The unhappy aspect of all this is that the international court is not to be badly chewed up and to fall to have fair consideration on its merits. Finally, nothing more said should fall to make it clear that some of the opposition to the court is perfectly sincere, just as much of the opposition to the League of Nations was.

toise shell may be obtained from a

Noted Scout and Expert on Draw Credited With Killing Twenty Men Victim of Accident at Omaha, Neb.

OMAHA, NEB., April 18.—Gray-

Hans, former chief scout of General Phill Sheridan and perhaps the last of the two gun, "cross arm draw" experts, died here last night with his "boots on."

But not on a battlefield did death come to him, nor on the wings of a bullet. He was overhauled to death in an elevator shaft at the World-Herald plant where he was night watchman.

Hans, who had never been beaten
on draw, was credited with killing 20 men, among them 14 Indians. He was the official investigator of the partment.

Lone Star broke into fame first when single handed he shot and killed "Shacknasty" Jim and his

Teach Your Girl Something She Can Earn Her Living By Advises Employee, Once Guest, of Waldorf

By CORINNE RICH Universal Service Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, April 18.—Teach your daughter something by which she can earn her own living. She may have to some day. Mrs. Eleanor Foley, who now has a job in the Waldorf, where for many years she was a guest, offers this advice to mothers, rich and poor. She herself is witness to her statements. Mrs. Foley occupies the unique situation of serving where she once was served. Previous business training would have enabled her to secure employment elsewhere. It isn't unpleasant at all, being a floor clerk here, she told me today in her first interview. "But I'm just fortunate to have found so congenial a position. I didn't know how to turn my hand to a single thing when I was confronted with the necessity of making a living for myself and my daughter."

"What was worse, there wasn't time to go to school or get special training because money had to come in at once. We must live. "I knew the hotel people very well, and I went to them for advice. It happened that a floor clerk was needed and anybody with ordinary sense could fit into the job. It was given to me. "Mrs. Foley, located on various floors of the big hotel, meets all the guests and comes in contact with every employee. "I didn't know how it would be meeting my friends in my present capacity after having met them socially when we were all guests here," she continued, smiling at me. "But I found it all right after the first embarrassment had worn off. Everybody was so nice to me. "And what about the employees?" I asked. "They have taken me right in," she replied, answering a telephone call. "They didn't even mention my not having previous experience. In fact, we are all very friendly and I'm learning much about human nature. "But Tommie, that little eight-year-old, who goes to school every day and makes her mother's life a joy and a burden at night, must learn self support. "Yes, indeed she must," said Mrs. Foley emphatically. "I intend that she shall never, never have to trust to Jack for her living. Tommie wants to be an artist. I tell her that is splendid but that she must learn stenography or bookkeeping. Tommie falls back on, "She may not be so fortunate in locating a job as I was."

Talented Young Reader Presented In Recital Tuesday Eve At Kemp

The presentation by Mrs. E. L. Fulton of Miss Berniece Martin, talented young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Martin, in reading recital Tuesday evening at the Kemp was the occasion for the social gathering of several hundred people in the ballroom of the hotel.

Miss Martin was very delightfully assisted in her program by Miss Anabel Couper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Couper and another of the interesting younger musicians of the city, and the two young ladies furnished one of the most finished and artistic entertainments of the season, greeting their audience from a bower of roses in an improvised stage with a graciousness and charm of manner that was exceptionally attractive.

Before her first selections, short and humorous, were finished, it could be seen that Miss Martin had won the favor of her audience. But it took the pathos of the "Swan Song" to bring out the true sympathetic gift of the young reader to the fullest. The rousing was received with a tribute of continued applause.

The second part of the program was given to the interpretation of two one-act plays by Constance D'Arcy Mackay, for which Miss Martin appeared in Colonial costume. Taking the part of the various characters in the play required rapid changes in characterization, which the young reader accomplished with remarkable skill.

These plays were "Viviana Green" and "The Bath of Bath." The readings in the first part of the program included Foley's "How Henry Blake Knops," Guest's "A Boy and His Stomach," Riley's "Old Fashioned Roses," and "The Tin George," Lincoln's "Abandoned Elopement" and Gilbert Parker's "Legend of the White Swan."

During the intermission Miss Anabel Couper, a pupil of Miss Florence Sammons, played four numbers that were received with manifest appreciation, her touch and technique delighting the musically trained listeners in the audience. Her numbers included Chopin's "Valse Brillante," (Op. 24, No. 1), "Murmuring Zephyrus" by Niemann-Jensen, and the Chopin Valse Brillante, Op. 24, No. 2.

The guests were received at the door by Mrs. Martin, who presented them to Mesdames Fred Couper, W. H. Chancey, R. A. Thompson, E. H. Johnson, and Len G. O'Connell, patronesses for the evening. Misses Eleanor Thompson, Georgia Maxwell, Louise Scott and Gene Nelson acted as ushers, and after the entertainment with the assistance of several of the patronesses, served delicious fruit punch to about 200 guests.

MISS HALE HOSTESS TO B. O. P. TUESDAY NIGHT

Miss Vera Hale, assisted by Mrs. John Morrison and Mrs. J. T. Hebard, was hostess to the members of the Floral Heights B. O. P. class and their husbands Tuesday evening at a delightful party.

The home at 2115 Tenth street was beautifully decorated for the occasion with spring flowers, and the guests spent a very delightful evening at the game. At a late hour the hostesses served an ice course with opera sticks to the following: Messrs. and Mesdames Ben Gorder, Ernest Archambeau, Charles Reagan, Hal Yeager, Joe Stokes, Frank Shackelford, Tenyson of Dallas, Paul Cotter, D. S. Richardson, Ralph Pond, Houston Cowdin, C. Camp, Arthur Johnston, Franderson, Pat Jarrett, D. L. Fritz, S. M. Black, and Louis De Mont. Miss Annette Coffield, and Baldwin Montgomery and C. J. Norton.

MRS. CHARLES WATSON HOSTESS TO KILL KARE

Mrs. Charles Watson was hostess to the Kill Kare Club members at one of the loveliest and most enjoyable parties of the season Tuesday afternoon, when four tables of members and guests enjoyed a delightful dinner.

The house was decorated with spring blossoms and other cut flowers, and several hours were spent at the game. Mrs. Ira G. Craig won high score and Mrs. D. O. Johnson low. Mrs. Craig received a beautifully embroidered guest towel and Mrs. Johnson a set of hand-painted table numbers in a pretty case. The hostess served a delish sandwich and fruit salad course with cake, coffee, and favors of miniature baskets filled with fruit and wine balls.

Those present included Mesdames Ed Morgan, Ida Brown, Vivian Martin, Joe McElroy, Mrs. Craig, Earl Jameson, Dan Blackburn, Fred Lane, John Moore, Verne Harrell, R. H. Parker, D. W. Smith, O. G. Johnson, James O'Neil, and Julian Bobo, and Miss Ione Skeen.

HIGH SCHOOL SPEAKERS' CLUB HAS PROGRAM WEDNESDAY

A short program was enjoyed by the members of the Speakers' Club at the regular meeting Wednesday morning at the high school, when Miss Berniece Martin, senior, rendered a reading. Miss Martin was encored several times.

Other numbers of the program were a talk by Mercer Parks, "The Joy of Being Treasurer of a Club," and a debate "Resolved, that students should not be allowed to bring their automobiles to school." The affirmative was upheld by James Gilbert and Courtney Howell, while the Eschbara brothers, Joe and Sam, argued for the negative. A decision was not given.

The Ankle

Letter From Alice Hamilton to Her Friend, Betty Stokley The feet thicken, dear Betty, and I feel quite a conspirator. Yesterday I received a picture postal from Leslie, who had just come on her wedding trip, saying that Jack, her husband, insisted upon her wearing the "pearl beads" I gave her all the time. I wonder what he would think if he knew that those "pearl beads" were real and probably worth a hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. What would he think if he knew that some man had given 10 years of his life to matching them? And that it had been a labor of love? What would he think if he knew that he suddenly realized that Karl Whitney's heart was breaking because of her marriage with another man? Oh Betty, isn't life wonderful! I never thought that, when I read such stories as "The Jewels," I would be one of the actors in a story of that kind. You remember, Betty, how we agreed that each would go to my room and read it under lock and key because we knew that if mother knew we were reading it she would take it away from us. And now, Betty dear, we know it is real life—just as did our author.

Of course in "The Jewels" the woman was aware that a man not her husband was giving her real love. Although I did not think so at the time, now that I have grown older and more experienced, I think that the author intended us to believe there was an "affaire de coeur" between the wife of the government clerk and her husband's friend.

My sister, Leslie, is perfectly innocent in this matter, but I sometimes wonder if I did right in allowing Karl Whitney to make her this wonderful present. But, oh Betty dear, I did feel so sorry for him. I knew his love for my sister will be the one love of his life. He is who you might call a "one-woman man."

He was over here last night and he did speak so beautifully of love and what it meant. I felt all the while he was talking that it was a shame some good woman might not become his wife. I know he will never marry.

Betty dear, I am afraid that unless I find some man as splendid as Karl, a man who has the capacity of loving which he has, I shall go to my grave forever unwed.

Have you seen any men over there in France that strike you as

Visitors Add To The Pleasure Of Many Social Gatherings This Week

Visitors are adding to the pleasure of most of the club social gatherings this week, and there seems to be an unusual number of them in the city. Besides those already here, too, several hostesses are planning for "company" the last of this week and next week, and there will be rounds of informal hospitalities in several neighborhoods.

Wichita Falls folks are not staying home, either, with both duty and pleasure calling them away. In the latter group, Mrs. T. J. Waggoner and Mrs. P. S. Richardson were just returned from Fort Worth and Dallas where Mrs. Richardson spent the last week-end attending the reunion of the Tri-Delta Sorority at Southern Methodist University. Mr. Waggoner and T. J. Jr. drove down and brought them back in the car Monday, after a delightful stay.

Among the visitors, Mrs. Renna Wallace of Sylvaude (don't it be pretty Indian name, by the way?) Alabama, is here to spend several months with her niece, Mrs. W. E. Timblin of 1206 Tenth street, and Mrs. C. W. Wilson of 1105 Austin. Mrs. Wallace is just resting during the present part of her visit, but will later be honored at some pretty hospitalities planned by her niece.

Another visitor is Mrs. R. S. Meacham of Tampa, Fla., who is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Finley Weldon, and who is enjoying informal hospitalities among the Weldon's friends.

Mrs. W. H. Winn of Elk City is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Calmes. Mrs. Winn has made many friends here on previous visits and they are welcoming her back.

Mrs. Ed Bradshaw of Dallas, who will be here next week to spend two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John Knigh, and for whose pleasure some attractive plans have been made already.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cullum will have for week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cullum and little daughter, Barbara, of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Turner are here, too, in route home to Dallas from a visit with Mrs. Turner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hurson, in Silverton. Mr. and Mrs. Turner were married a few weeks ago in Dallas, and this is their second "stopover" at home with Mrs. W. F. Turner and daughters. They will only be here a day or two.

And there will be a newcomer among the younger people here in a few days. Mrs. E. S. Heyster of Elizabeth street is to start Antonio for a brief visit and will bring back her little niece for an indefinite stay with her.

Other local folks who are going and coming include Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Womack, who left today for Fort Worth and Dallas. Mrs. Womack will visit with Mrs. Turner's parents in the latter city. Mrs. Clyde Tittle has just returned from Fort Worth, where she was called some days ago by the death in an accident of her brother, Mrs. B. T. Burgess has just come home from a sad errand, too; her mother, Mrs. J. H. Carl, died some weeks ago in Bloomfield, Iowa, at the old family home, "Elmwood" and there is Mrs. Burgess' second trip there. She will be here only the briefest while, expecting to return to Iowa to take care of her father, who is ill.

Mrs. Stanley Hill has returned from a visit in Monday and Seymour with friends.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Every man according as he purpoeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver.—II Cor. 9:7.

DANCING CHAMPS.

What is your private opinion of these girls who wear out several orchestras and a half dozen male partners alike to get the title, "endurance dancing championship of the world"?

It's an interesting but futile pursuit that will take its toll later in the young dancers' lives. Over-exertion always presents its bill. And it always collects—in full.

Men run marathons, collapse at the end. The crowd cheers. No one thinks the runners are "cuckoo" for over-exerting.

Other men over-exert, contending to see which can lift the heaviest weights or bend the thickest iron bar over the chest. Crazy? It's never suggested.

But when the girls come forth to demonstrate endurance, you hear people on all sides grunting and sniffing. Envious, perhaps. But more striking is the demonstration that what's sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander.

This bit of psychology is evident all through life in its various ramifications. Man seems entitled to make almost any kind of a jackass of himself, without question. Woman, however, is quickly ridiculed.

There's just as much sense in endurance dancing as there is in long-distance running, weight lifting, auto racing or even baseball, for that matter.

Doctors, interested about the women dancers "wearing out" partner after partner, disagree as to whether it indicates that woman has more endurance than man. However, she has. When a man and his wife get into a run of bad luck, the wife nearly always is last to "throw the sponge." Often, of course, this is because she doesn't realize as thoroughly as her mate, the extent of the trouble they're facing.

Not one man in 10 could endure the anguish of childbirth without "giving up," killing himself or getting drunk.

The endurance dancing craze started in England several months ago. First only a few dancers took it up. Then whole crowds caught the spirit. We'll probably have a repetition—people going in a mob to a continuous dance, trying to trip the light fantastic all night or longer.

Proak dancing waves come periodically. Epidemic insanity—social hysteria, as the psychologists call it. Europe in 1274 had a dancing craze that wound up with people dancing in the streets until they fell screaming and foaming at the mouth.

An Italian doctor decided that the dancing disease was due to the bite of the tarantula, a large spider. On the theory of setting a fire to stop an advancing forest fire, he invented a dance which he prescribed for his patients—the tarantella dance. Confidently, we believe that 24 hours of endurance-dancing would cure us of dancing for all time.

THE CHEAPEST BUT THE WORST PRACTICE

Sick men have been brutally beaten and others have been brutally mistreated in Florida prison camps because they have been physically unable to do tasks which they have been ordered. Some have died from the effects of the beatings and mistreatment. Shocking conditions have been revealed in the investigation into the practices in Florida prison camps. These conditions, while shocking to the general public, have been no surprise to those familiar with prison camp practices. They exist in most places in which convict laborers are leased to contractors or farmed out. At one time this practice was followed in Texas.

A SIMPLER CODE NEEDED

Governor Neff is again advocating a law, providing that no case, civil or criminal, shall be reversed for technical reasons that do not in any way touch the merits of the case.

Judges, prosecuting attorneys, lawyers and laymen are quite generally agreed that our court practice is surrounded by too many technicalities and that in the multitude of such technicalities—justice some time loses its way. Laymen look upon some of the rules of justice with wonder and astonishment but most of them have good foundations and to attempt to attain justice without them would be to open the way to endless confusion and would so delay and retard justice as to make it almost impossible of administration.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINGS THAT TALK FOR YOU. The best salesman that he who talks much—but he who says most. At times there is nothing so tremendous as silence.

One deep, meaningful look from some men and women, simply wipes out words and argument—putting new dignity into character.

You are the biggest thing that talks for you—that great big you few may understand, though they may wonder and admire. Not your face, but your figure, your muscle or your carriage—but that invisible personality that hovers about you, as rare perfume does.

The straight-into-the-eye look that you give, the warm clasp of the hand, the word in sincerity spoken—these things talk for you.

Your bearing during disappointment, your smile in defeat, your freedom from boast when fortune walks beside you, what better evidence of worth is there than these?

The things you are, the thoughts you think, the life you actually live, are what represent you. It isn't what people say about you that establishes you. How character shows aside the puny talk of gossipers!

These are heroic things: A smile that plays to an empty house. A controlled tongue, when to use it would mean the hurt of someone else. A lonely heart, uncomplaining in a world of misplaced and in sincere affection. A starved soul in the midst of plenty!

The things you like to read, the plays you like to see, the folks you tie to, the love of beautiful things, all talk for you.

How much they have to say!

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

BROTHERS ALL. We're brothers all, whatever the place. Brothers whether in rags or lace. Brothers all, by the good Lord's grace.

Some may sit in a royal hall. Some may dwell where the rooms are small. But under the skin we are brothers all.

Some may toil 'neath a burning sun. Some may dream where the waters run. But we're brothers all when the day is done.

Dreams of splendor and dreams of rest. Warm the proud and the poor man's breast. What is best for God, for us all is best.

By the sun that shines and the rains that fall. By the shadows flung on the garden wall. By the good Lord's grace, we are brothers all.

By the hurt that comes and the falling tear. By the common grief at the silent bier. And the grave that awaits, we are brothers here.

TODAY YOU AND I

Why we play ball. Dangling saucery. Lanker, super-salesman. Work does not kill.

Baseball began yesterday in some "big league" cities. That means more to millions than any other news. Nine men hit a ball with a wooden club. Nine others try to catch it.

Angels that never played ball would be amazed at the interest in such a performance. That interest goes back a long way, back to days when nothing counted except physical exertion, when everybody's life depended on swiftness of foot and accuracy of aim.

The man who hawled yesterday as somebody said to first base is simply echoing the howling of his great-grandmother a thousand times removed, when 600,000 years ago a sharp knife cut a young woman's hair.

A young girl, suffering evident pain, held up by her dancing partners as she feebly moved her legs and feet in the effort to "break a record" is not a pleasant sight.

Pity poor private ship owners that say a cruel government with "super-salesmanship" would force them to buy government ships, whether they want to or not. Too bad, isn't it?

The plan of the private ship owners was to have government sell the ships, guarantee that they would carry a profit, make up the loss if any, and take pay out of the profit.

Lanker, who looks after shipping for the president, isn't that kind of a salesman. He is the sort that represents his own firm, which in this case is the United States government. He doesn't sell out to the firm that wants to do the buying.

Several men have dropped dead playing golf, and doctors say, truly, it wasn't golf that killed them. What they did between golf games made their hearts weak, so that any slight exertion, such as walking up stairs, might have caused death.

What doctors say about golf applies to other things. The getting-upon-yourself habit, the trying to do things over and over, the trying to do things other than his real work, work easily carried on does not kill anybody.

Foolishness kills millions. Mental work, at least, heavy mental forcing into the brain, by thinking, blood that the stomach needs for digestion, ends prematurely at least half of our business men.

The late E. H. Harriman, a great business genius, ate his luncheon at his desk, talking into the telephone, or reading railroad reports at the same time. Had he separated luncheon from the railroad work he might be alive now.

Any man past 40 that eats meat in the middle of the day or any hearty meal is inviting trouble.

One hearty meal a day is enough for ordinary workers. Take it in the evening, when you have all night to digest it.

Blake's "Illustration of the Book of Job" is sold for $2.125 in New York. His "Visions of the Daughters of Albion," sold for $1,450. Not long ago people called Blake a madman, but now they're trading about him as his pictures. It takes years to decide whether a man is really crazy or only deeply in earnest.

Blake took everything, including himself, very seriously, and that alone frivolous minds usually consider a mark of insanity.

Lord Beaverbrook, when here, talking about English trade with Russia, asked: "Why shouldn't we trade with Russia? We trade with Cuba and always have done so."

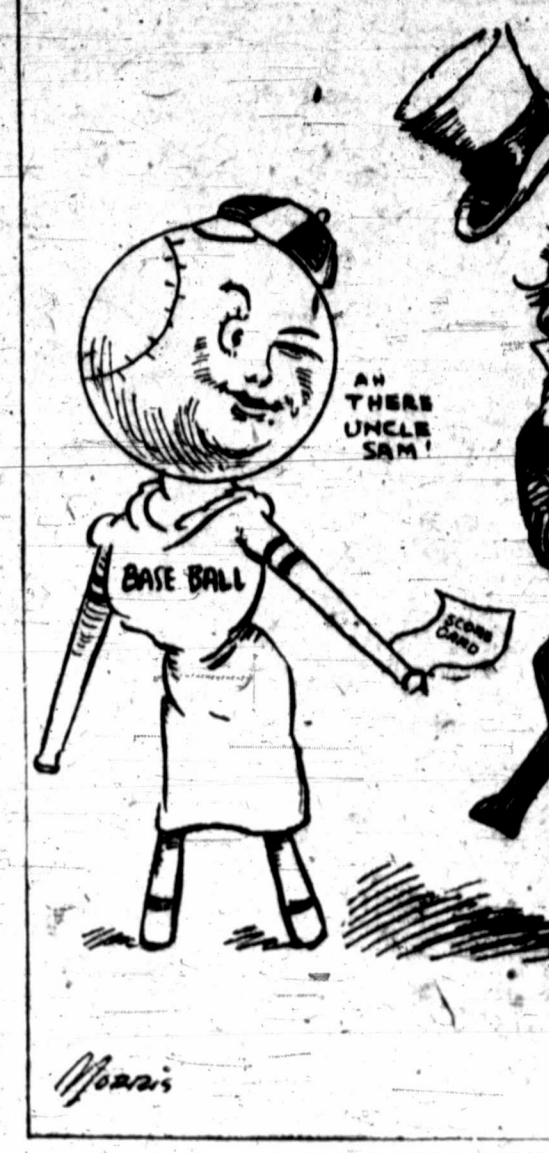

The English are business like. They announce that they will retaliate their mission in Moscow in spite of the execution of Vice General Butchkevitch and Russia's contempt for British protest. Business is one thing, sentiment another, and never the twin shall meet—or, if they do, sentiment goes into the gutter.

Paris says, "under no circumstances would France and Belgium consider the Hughes project of selecting business experts to determine German reparations." They don't want our views, suggestions or decisions, and have a right to reject them.

Why does President Harding want the country in a world court, compelling America to accept decisions of Europe on vital questions that should not be decided by any foreigner—especially when America is bitterly hated by the influential nations of Europe as at present?

Blaze found the saloon filled with a table six men played cards. They were the only ones present who seemed untouched by the general air of disaster.

The card game ended. Blaze caught the reflection of the players in the rip-speckled mirror over the back-bar.

"You boys are too dod-gasted lucky for me," the smallest of them cackled. "I'm being going for the case-card every time."

Blaze cut in. "I'll be glad to see you," he said, when the smallest of them cackled. "I'm being going for the case-card every time."

"Why, I been over this a ways some time. What you doin' here?" "Side me out of town a ways and I'll let you guide me to the little bridge north of town."

"You sure gave me a surprise," Blaze admitted. "You heard about the kid, I suppose?" "He closed the little bridge in 'em ever here, is it?"

"Now looks here, Blaze!" Joe exclaimed as he pulled up his horse. "You don't belong in this fuss. And you can't see if that ain't the kid's killin' before it's through. Akkin's over his head. As long as it don't mean anyin' to you, why not get out?"

"I'm playing a hunch; that's all! I've got to see it through. Anyway, Joe, I never was much of a hand at runnin' away."

"They rode on for a mile or more before Blaze spoke. "Why don't you take the thing to court? That is still the United States, isn't it? You've got the law."

"Law?" Joe mocked. "The country is smeared with it; but it's all made for the other fellow. But don't you fret. We'll get started. I'll have every man-jack in the valley down in the Rancho Elena Vista tomorrow night. I'll see to it, too, that they don't make any small-town affair of this. You're a county commissioner, ain't you? You got things tied up around here. Strong enough down in Carson, too. But I'll take a lot of beating before I'll see if that ain't the kid's killin' before it's through. Akkin's over his head. As long as it don't mean anyin' to you, why not get out?"

"I've got a letter for you," Blaze answered. "It's from Kildare." Blaze sat on the porch while Bodine went inside to read Akkin's letter. He fancied he saw some one staring at him from the blackness of the barn door.

"You tell Akkin my boys are in the Buttes now," Bodine stated when he came out. "I'll be over to the Bull's Head tomorrow."

Blaze made no effort to leave. "I guess you won't have any trouble finding your way back home," Bodine intimated to speed his guest.

NOTED MASON TO SPEAK THURSDAY AT MEETING HERE

Wichita Falls Commandery No. 49 will hold an especially attractive meeting in their hall Thursday evening. C. W. Conroy of Fort Worth, past commander of Worth Commandery No. 17, and a 33-degree Mason, who represented the Southern Jurisdiction of the Scottish Rite Masons of America and assisted Grand Master Newby in arranging to take care of 599 French orphan children in France, will deliver an address at 7:30 p. m. to which all master Masons are invited. He is going to give numerous reasons why the French never use the Bible in their Masonic lodge, and will also speak on the Masonic soup kitchens in Austria Hungary.

To such a prominence has Eminent Sir Conroy attained in Masonic work, that during the time he was on his mission in France he was decorated by the supreme council 33 degree in Italy, and his decoration consisted of the halberd and the sword. This he is to wear during his natural life.

Commandery will open at 7:30 p. m. with work in the Red Cross degree, followed by the Knights Templar at 8:30 p. m. after which the lecture open to all master Masons. After the talk, the 33-degree team of the commandery will extol the Malta degree in full form.

Eminent Commander Stehlik urges a large attendance of Sir Knights at this meeting and master Masons as well.

Parade Monday To Be Opening Feature of Shrine Circus And It Promises To Be Real One

By FRANK S. REID, Publicity Chairman

Hooray, one of the biggest stunts to be pulled off by Masani Temple during circus week at the Gem, the first day, says boy, there is going to be something clammy to it. Floats galore, and everyone is vying with one another to see who will get the prize of $15 for the best float. Bill Winston is in charge of the parade feature, which will take place Monday at 11 o'clock.

Leaving Scott street below Tenth, the parade will move east to Ohio north on Ohio to Seventh, west on Seventh to Indiana, south on Indiana to Eighth, west on Eighth to Scott, south on Scott to Ninth, then east to the circus grounds.

Boy, there will be everything in the parade characteristic of a real circus parade.

Hard work on the part of the contestants for popularity is making things exceedingly interesting. Jesse Mae Lawler leads the contestants thus far.

Presents still continue to come in for the bride and groom, and will be on display within the next day or two in the corner window of Perkins-Timberlake. They're going to get the biggest assortment of things you ever heard of. They are just now going to wait for anything.

Bob Martin's circus train stopped off Tuesday week, hence they will not get into Wichita Falls until this Sunday night, but Bob says he can get the big top up and everything in readiness in 12 hours.

The streets of Wichita Falls have added attractiveness in the display of flags and Shrine banners. In fact the air is full of circus and everyone is talking about it. Smile with the Shriners during the week of April 23 to 28.

"SUBTLETY OF SIN" THEME OF SERMON AT REVIVAL SERVICE

Rev. W. F. Crouch, conducting the revival at the First Christian Church took for his subject Tuesday night "The Subtlety of Sin," reading a Scripture lesson from the third chapter of John's gospel and said in part:

"The Bible describes sin as the transgression of the law. When God's law is transgressed, it brings discord, disease, death and eventually hell. Man was made to live in harmony with God's law and violation of these laws brings the results of sin into the world, violation of these laws may be found in the thoughts, purposes and plans of man. God did not create hell for man, he created it for the devil and his angels, but man by his violation of the laws of God may go as an invited guest to hell.

"Most of us who accept the Bible think of the Roman soldiers as murderers of the Christ, but the Roman soldiers who were present and participated in the crucifixion of Jesus really had no more a guilty conscience than the man who has violated the laws of God. He is invited to hell by his own thoughts, purposes and plans of man. God did not create hell for man, he created it for the devil and his angels, but man by his violation of the laws of God may go as an invited guest to hell.

Eight Texas League clubs begin the 1923 pennant march Wednesday afternoon that will carry through until the middle of September. Wichita Falls' interest will be centered on Shreveport, where Walter Salm and his Spudders gang will make their season's start.

The first road trip of the season carries the Spudders through nine games. A set of four is billed at Shreveport and then the club moves to Dallas for three games. Fort Worth is the final stop before returning home to engage the Gassers in the opening at Athletic Park on April 27.

Wednesday afternoon has been declared a half holiday in Shreveport and the entire city will turn out to greet Ira Thomas in his Texas debut. Shreveport will be a strong bidder for the attendance cup offered by League President Donk Roberts and the crowd that sees the Spudders and Gassers christen the new season can be figured as running well above 5,000 unless something unforeseen interferes.

Although Shreveport is one of the "little four" cities in the circuit, it will be the winner of the attendance cup in 1923. Wichita Falls will have to hustle this year to cop that cup, for Shreveport is sure to turn out in big figures.

Rip Wheeler or Hippo Hodges will work for the Spudders in the opener, according to announcement of Skipper Salm. It probably will be left with Wheeler whether he wants to start it or not. Thomas has declared his pitcher would be either Rose or Ketchum. Rose is a right-hander from Houston and Ketchum was with Ardmore last year and went to the Athletics at the end of the season.

In the Fort Worth opener, Fate and Wachtel are the most likely openers for the Cats and Conley or Ryan for the Steers. Knight or Goodwin would be the regular for Houston against San Antonio and Morrison, or Couchman for the Bears. Glaiser is almost a certainty for Galveston against Beaumont, with Ardmore or Jacobus for the Exporters.

TEX WESTERZIL GOES TO GALVESTON CRABS

Tex Westertil, third baseman purchased by the Spudders from the Seattle club, Tuesday and saw Houston against San Antonio and Morrison, or Couchman for the Bears. Glaiser is almost a certainty for Galveston against Beaumont, with Ardmore or Jacobus for the Exporters.

Westertil will fill a big gap for the Spudders as third base has been vacant since the spring training season. Don M. Brown, an outfielder from the Coast League has been holding down the third base corner. But he probably will be shifted to center field if Westertil is signed.

The Crabs also have obtained outfielder Robert Ostergaard from Chicago White Sox, Nashville having turned the player back to the Sox.

Another switch of Texas League players Sunday. The Bears' Scrappy Moore from Houston to Shreveport for Outfielder Johnny Laggan.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 17.—Young Leonard of New Orleans knocked out Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia after 55 seconds of fighting in the first round of a scheduled 15-round bout here tonight. The knockout followed an exchange of body blows in which Leonard rocked the Philadelphia fighter. At Barrett was coming out of a crouching position Leonard caught him with a terrific right cross on the jaw and floored him for the count.

The Lookout

By AL PARKER

Before the final Spudder-St. Paul game, Manager Walter Salm was approached by a man who appeared to be somewhere in the twenties and who desired a chance with the Spudders.

"I'm Nap Lajo's son," the stranger said, "and I want a try-out. I'm an old major leaguer and know I can do major ball."

"Can't see you," was all Walter had time to say, except several words directed at a supposed standing close by which were as follows: "He hasn't a ticket, put him out." That was the last seen of the one who claimed descent from the famous Nap.

See by the newspapers that Johnny Laggan has been by the Spudders to the office for Scrappy Moore. A grand ball player this Johnny Laggan would have been on a team like the Spudders last season to keep off the base, although hitting better than .300.

He is of the type that would prove invaluable on a club of .300 hitters. He is one of the best lead-off men and outfielders that the league has ever possessed. He is a five-man runner in one line, there is little punch left in his bat after all these many years—Johnny must be somewhere close to the 40 mark.

And the players the Gassers get. Scrappy Moore may be remembered by the Spudders for the part he played in that home run feat put on by the Sandcrabs on a stay here last year. In that game the Crabs came to keep off the base, although a world record that is likely to stand for many a day, three of them in succession and open for the entire game.

There was a funny twist to that episode, even though it may not have been at all funny to the Wichita fans. Dave Griffith was running the club at that time and Griffith had been riding the boys somewhat for not running out their hits. In fact, he had made it plain that the next man who loafed on a hit would catch a healthy fity.

As it will be recalled, Wirtz and Divney hit homeys and Distel popped out. Then Moore, Hendrick and Conley hit for the Crabs. Moore brought up Hank Elbel, whose hobby is home runs, but his best effort was a single to right. Hack took his time in waddling down to first.

"That'll cost you ten," Griff yelled from the dugout.

That night the players were gathered in the hotel lobby and as offering to the conversation, Hack mentioned the incident and saw that Griff had taken from him for not hustling down to first. There was a grin on the features of all the players, but a crack was made from any quarter.

About a week later, some one of the Crabs decided to enlighten the spirits of the big Dutchman and Hack was informed that the fine announced by Griff was only a part of a scheme to get Griff to infer that Hack had meant to not hitting a home run.

In drawing from the tee directly into the sun, the player loses sight of his ball entirely. Not having the slightest idea where his ball went he drives a second ball from the tee. The player has a mark of identification on his golf ball. The second ball went far into the air, the player discovers the first ball in a good lie on the fairway. What ball should he play?

Under the rules the player was within his rights in playing the second ball. Finding his first ball, he must abandon the second shot. There is no penalty attached, play merely being continued with the first ball as though nothing had happened.

A player's ball is on the green about three feet from the hole. A large snake worm is lying on the green on the line between the ball and the hole. The worm creates the old mental hazard. The player in order to remove the actual hazard as well as the mental one brushes the worm aside with his club head prior to making the putt. Has he got a right?

The player has a perfect right to remove the worm, under the rules it being considered an obstruction. However, to remove it and escape penalty he must pick it up.

Yard masters on the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad at Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and Amarillo have had their work day cut to eight hours. This ruling will take effect this week and as a result instead of having two shifts there are now three shifts in existence. Under the new agreement made by the company with the yardmasters the day was reduced from 11 hours over a 10-hour period to eight hours with overtime. Yardmasters these employes worked 11 hours a day on a salary scale of $225 to $250 a month.

Under the new working agreement the scale is cut to $225 to $230 with less work hours.

AMERICAN LEAGUE STARTS 1923 SEASON WEDNESDAY

NEW YORK, April 18.—With new opening day attendance records established yesterday in two National League cities, Cincinnati and Chicago, additional high marks were looked for today when the American League season gets under way.

opping the junior circuit's program is the dedication of the new Yankee stadium, seating 70,000. Here the league champions will inaugurate the season with the Boston Red Sox as their opponents. Other games on the schedule are: Washington at Philadelphia; Chicago at Cleveland; and Detroit at St. Louis.

The International League, Western and Texas League also will get under way for the 1923 campaign today. Syracuse plays the champion Orioles at Baltimore; Rochester at Toronto; Toronto at Jersey City; and Buffalo at Reading in the International.

Games in the Texas circuit were scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. at Dallas at Fort Worth, Wichita Falls at Shreveport; Galveston at Beaumont, and San Antonio at Houston.

The opening schedule for the Western Association follows: Ardmore at McAlester; Enid at Okmulgee; Henryetta at Springfield, Mo., and Fort Smith at Joplin.

Years ago cruel endurance tests were imposed upon animals, such as hundred mile races. Laws were gradually framed to protect the poor animals against these wicked abuses against dog fighting, chicken fighting, bull fighting, all of which was called sport.

The law makers decided, too, that some persons needed a protection against themselves. The six day bicycle race was originally a one man affair. The law abated this voluntary abuse of the human body to some extent by making it a two man, or team, race.

It is agreed by sensible persons that no human being has the right to do as he pleases with his body, with his health.

This is why we have laws against attempted suicide, against the use of drugs, of opium, the bare knuckle prize-fight and the "fish" ring contest were abolished as inhuman and cruel.

But the human mind contrives new strains upon the human body faster than the law makers can work. It is a strange world.

In New York recently, following the fatal fall from a tall hotel of a man called "human fly" a state death which flamed the sides of skyscrapers, this "stunt" was prohibited.

One might think that the horrible fall of the "human fly" would have made the prohibition unneeded, but the fact is that no one would attempt the feat again.

On the contrary, such is human nature, the man who witnesses the feat by gazing thousands, detailed under big headlines by the newspapers is the very thing that would have attracted many others to attempting the thing.

The most foolhardy exploit quickly finds another who will do it to do to one that the finish is death.

Looker, the first man to change from one air plane to another in midair was severely cold in his grave after disaster befell him aloft when others were elaborating on his most amazing "stunts."

The writer is greatly impressed by Jack Bentley, the big left-hander from the Baltimore club of the International League. Bentley is said to have cost the Giants $55,000.

Bentley seems to know how to pitch. He should. He had long appeared under Jack Dyer's tutored baseball, fox of Maryland. Dyer has sent some real ball players to the big leagues than any other in the minors.

Bentley has a "wind up" as the motion preliminary to delivering the ball is called, that presents his back to the batter just before he wheels and lets fly with a pitch. This is a peculiarly deceptive motion. It completely hides the ball from the view of the batsman. It is a motion that requires good control, which Bentley seems to have.

Control is a rare thing among left handers. That is why there are few good left handers.

POND LAUNDRY IS OFF IN LEAD IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The Pond Laundrys got off to a great start in their bid for the Twilight League pennant after the opening game Tuesday afternoon at Twilight Park, when "Snips" Conley let the Wichita Mill and Electricators down with a lone single.

The Pond team won by the easy margin of 11 to 0. Conley had his pitcher bringing in great style and the opposing hitters were able to do little with his delivery.

While Conley was holding the opposition, his teammates were pounding two pitchers to all corners of the lot, and with the aid of errors in the late innings, piled up a lopsided victory.

Major Frank Collier opened the league by pitching the first ball and the mayor showed his prowess in the box by striking out Conley on three pitched balls. A good crowd turned out to witness the opening encounter.

At Twilight Park, the Pond Laundrys met Wednesday afternoon at Twilight Park at 5:30 o'clock.

Temperatures, locally, are taking on a higher aspect day by day as the sun assumes more power. Wednesday morning the efforts of the "sun" were in no way restrained by the wind but in fact were assisted as a south breeze ruled things.

Essentially the same conditions existing here Wednesday morning were reported by railroad agents in all directions from the city. Clear skies were noted everywhere and they seemed nothing in existence of a threatening nature within the boundaries of the local railroad world.

Tuesday afternoon despite the north wind the mercury hit the 73 degree mark for the maximum and during the night suffered a relapse of 21 degrees.

Yanks, Despite Lack of Reserve Strength Are Johnny Ever's Pick To Repeat in the American Loop

By JOHN J. EYERS

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Yankees' having accident, should win the pennant in the American League, which gets under way today. Still, I must confess, they have no reserve strength, and a few accidents would ruin their chances.

The recent accident to Shortton Scott, for instance, is an example. The Yankees call it "snaps" but I think by their great strength in pitching and hitting, as they have in the past, for their fielding has never been of the best.

There are four clubs, I figure, that will give the Yankees a great battle, and if they should falter in the lead, any of them will be most likely to beat them, namely the White Sox, Detroit, Browns and Cleveland.

The White Sox have been strengthened the most, principally through the acquisition of Kamuk, the $100,000 cost star third baseman. Having secured him, it is my opinion he is worth every cent invested. A more finished ball player has not entered the big league in years. I am basing my judgment on seeing him in seven games in San Francisco against the Cubs in 1922.

The Sox have also three of the finest young pitchers in the big league today in Leverette Blinn, Kenneth and Robertson, and with good-time bats as Hooper, Collins and Bekish, and that grand old character Kid Gleason himself, to steady them I look for and hope they provide a pleasant surprise by winning.

I am polling hard and separately for the White Sox.

Detroit, with Cobb, will be always dangerous. It is hoped Harry Hellman does not show any bad results from his severe shoulder accident last fall. "Rip" Collins and Del Brix, secured from Boston, and Alvin Francis, obtained from the Senators, and Collins should win many games with the hitting ability of Sisler. There is a possibility that Francis and Collins should show improvement as last year was their first in the big show. This is also true of James Fugate and Hassler. So look out for the Tigers.

The Indians are certain to suffer from the loss of Sisler, even though it is only for part of the season, for there is a real air in all departments of the game. No substitute can come near filling his shoes outside of Sisler's loss. There is a possibility of an improvement, and if a pitcher or two is developed to replace him, I have heard they will be in the club for the next few years.

But give him time, and knowing "Chest" as well as I do, I will give him a chance to make good.
