FAIRBANKS, ALASKA, July 15. (AP)—Having reached the northern end of steel rail transportation, President Harding proposed today to go further into the interior of Alaska by automobile. About the time people in New York and Washington are having dinner tonight and those in the middle west are quitting work for the day, President and Mrs. Harding and a portion of their party will start here on an automobile trip of 90 miles over Richardson trail to McArtney on the Nenana River. The trip will take five hours. It was originally planned that the presidential party should go over the trail 31 miles to Chitina and there take the Copper River and North Fork of the Copper River to the port of Gerdovik but the trip was abandoned as possibly too strenuous, much to the regret of Mrs. Harding who has been urging it.

As now planned the party on reaching McArtney will go aboard a river steamer and steam to Noman, where Tuesday evening they will board a train for a 24 hour trip back over the government railroad to Seward. Secretary Wallace and the rest of the party will make the entire trip.

POINCARÉ ADDRESS WAS NOT REPLY TO PREMIER BALDWIN

SPEECH WAS WRITTEN BY FRENCH BRITISH PREMIER SPOKE, OFFICIALS SAY

HERE REITERATION OF POLICY OF GOVERNMENT

Situation Between Great Britain and France Settled Since January

PARIS, July 15. (AP)—Premier Poincaré's address at Senlis yesterday was a mere reiteration of the French government's policy and was not intended as a reply to the recent separation speech of Prime Minister Baldwin of Great Britain.

The entire address, with the exception of a few paragraphs, was written by the French foreign minister, who said it was a reiteration of the policy of the government.

It is considered in official circles, it was added, that the situation between Great Britain and France up to the time the promised British note is received will be exactly the same as that existing since last January.

UNFAVORABLE RECEPTION IS GIVEN IN LONDON

LONDON, July 15. (AP)—A bad impression was made here by Premier Poincaré's address at Senlis yesterday, which is generally regarded as an indirect reply to the outline of Great Britain's reparations policy by Prime Minister Baldwin.

The only favorable comment in the morning newspapers is made by the Morning Post, which favors Poincaré's policy.

The Times thinks that M. Poincaré's speech was unfortunate in that it is no longer supported by the treaty of Versailles.

The Daily Express says there is little hope that France will receive the British proposals favorably but it is generally believed that the British note will be received with a friendly reception.

The Daily Chronicle thinks the speech at Senlis was a mere reiteration of the French government's policy and was not intended as a reply to the recent separation speech of Prime Minister Baldwin of Great Britain.

Greatest Heat Of Year Reached Here on Sunday

All-day records in this city for several years are believed to have been broken Sunday afternoon when the thermometer at Art's Jewelry Store registered the maximum of 116 degrees.

The sun continued to beat down upon the heads of the populace all afternoon, and only a few clouds brought relief from the scorching rays. This, however, did not aid to a great extent, as the night was sultry and very little breeze broke the heat.

During the day a hot wind, which assisted materially in raising the mercury up, blew continuously. In the afternoon the downpour motion of the city was recorded, and it was even felt the swimming pools until later in the evening. It was too late for a swim, even for swimmers.

Sunday, in spite of the intense heat in the afternoon, started off cool. The day dawned cloudy, and for some time it looked as though it would rain before the day was over. The same kind of daybreak occurred Sunday morning.

The clouds in the afternoon looked threatening for a time, but these were soon blown away.

While in places around Wichita Falls clouds have been reported, there has been very little rain, only a few scattered showers having fallen in southwestern Oklahoma Sunday night.

For the most part, however, the weather conditions have been the same over the entire district, warmer with no wind movement. At points where it is generally cloudy the atmosphere is sultry and the temperature ranges around 90 to 95 degrees.

HEARING ON APPLICATION FOR INJUNCTION AGAINST DR. EVANS IS POSTPONED

DALLAS, July 15. (AP)—Hearing on the application of Preston F. Reynolds, local attorney, for a temporary injunction restraining Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, from enforcing an alleged ouster decree against Reynolds, has been postponed until July 29. It was announced today when the hearing was to have started in federal court here.

The hearing was continued on application of attorney for Dr. Evans on the grounds that principal answer was engaged in a case elsewhere. Reynolds is seeking $10,000 for alleged damages caused by the decree oustering him from the Klan.

The petition of George E. Keating, former Kluge of the San Antonio Klan, asking to be a party to the injunction suit will be heard at the same time with Reynolds' application.

It was pointed out to the court that the suit was a half dozen years old and that the injunction should be granted to prevent the Klan from interfering with the public right of way and being so near the paved highway as to create a danger to the surrounding neighborhood and block traffic.

The suit was filed in federal court here by Reynolds.

CONFIDENCE VOTE GIVEN MUSSOLINI; MAJORITY IS 163

CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES APPROVES BILLS FOR REFORM BILL

HARRAGUES DEPUTIES IN ACCUSTOMED STYLE

Floxy Address Provokes Bursts of Applause From Benches and Galleries

ROME, July 15. (AP)—Amid scenes rarely witnessed in any chamber, Fascist deputies tonight won a vote of confidence from the chamber of deputies with a margin of 163 votes on his electoral reform bill.

Before the vote was taken, he harangued the deputies in his accustomed style. His floxy address brought out bursts of applause from the benches and the gallery.

The emotional vote swept his auditors into a state of excitement. He demonstrated the bill was his to serve on not voting.

The bill changes the system under which the government is chosen, abolishing the plan of proportional representation and giving the party receiving the most votes two-thirds of the seats in the chamber. While the proportional system would end as now used, it would still apply to the minority parties.

His advocacy Mussolini did not plan to be commended. He emphasized his points with loud bangs of his heavy fist on the rostrum.

Turning to the socialists and communists, he said the socialists always assert that there is liberty and clamor for liberty to work.

"Yet, these same socialists," he added, "do not hesitate to commit themselves to the assembly, of the press, or parliament, or their other liberties."

The chamber buried back the answer, "no."

JOHN MILLER ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF MURDER IN AUSTIN CASE FROM SEALY

AUSTIN, July 15. (AP)—The third charge in the case growing out of the murder of Sealy, Texas, street venter last September, closed last night when a jury in Travis County district court found John Miller, Austin County farmer, not guilty of a charge of assault to murder.

In deliberating 36 hours the jury reported to Judge James R. Hamilton its decision. During most of the time the jury was out, the court room was closed to the public, according to reports, and it was not until late yesterday that the two charges were voted for acquittal.

John Miller, who was charged with each of the juries as he reported their finding and was dismissed. The Miller case was in progress all last week.

Charges of murder growing out of the Sealy affair in which four men were killed and six girls seriously wounded, against Miller and Foster Bell will not be tried until November. Bell recently was sentenced to five years in a similar charge for which Miller was acquitted.

Sealy was acquitted.

AUSTIN, July 15. (AP)—John Miller of Sealy was acquitted of a charge of assault to murder in Travis County district court last night in connection with the stabbing of Ernest Sealy during the Sealy street encounter last September when four men were killed. The jury deliberated about 36 hours.

Wichita Home Makes Important Announcement

When we organized a class for children and a class for the older people we received many words of encouragement but the class was reached when we announced our plan to organize a class for the older people.

The many features of this policy have met with unanimous approval everywhere. So strong has been the sentiment for this co-operative plan of solving their problems that we have been overwhelmed with requests for copies of the policy.

Each policy we write is a saving of many dollars to the insured. Our original estimate to many friends throughout the county was that the membership in our Class A would not be in all probability reach the limit of 1000 before September, but our rapid growth has far surpassed our expectations.

The newspaper stories, advertisements and the work of our agents together with our selling workers' efforts have brought us scores of new applications for membership. Our class has already reached 1000. Only one more member is needed to reach the limit of 1000.

Life insurance policies are issued in:

Class AA Ages 20 to 25 $1000 to $5000

Class A Ages 25 to 35 $1000 to $5000

Class B Ages 35 to 45 $1000 to $5000

OKLAHOMA HAS SECURED COUNTY BRANCH LIBRARY

ESTABLISHED UNDER AUSPICES PARENTS-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

VERNON BOND ELECTION WILL BE HELD TUESDAY

No Opposition Voiced to Movement For $110,000 For High School Building.

VERNON, TEXAS, July 16.—A branch of the Wilbarger County Library here has recently been established at Oklahoma, eight miles east of Vernon, under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association of that little city.

The association at Oklahoma bought a lot, and built and equipped a community club room. Under their agreement with the library board, a representative of the association checks out seven number of books for two weeks time, during which period the books may be checked out at the community club room by Oklahoma citizens.

Miss Lillian Newton, librarian here, has arranged for the Oklahoma branch to secure books in lots of $5 from the state library, said books to be kept for three months. In addition, Miss Newton will place encyclopedias and reference books at Oklahoma. The new plan is working very favorably.

The library here has been functioning since January as a county library, the sixth institution of its kind in the state. Visitors here often comment on the fact that Vernon has an exceptionally fine library.

Since its beginning in 1917 the library here has grown until it has nearly 5,000 volumes, and receives 25 periodicals every month. The daily circulation of books is about 25. Mrs. W. W. Gilbert of this city recently gave the library 250 volumes, and in the immediate future the library is to be the recipient of 75 books as a gift from the American Library Association.

Miss Newton, the librarian, spent a month at the University of Texas this summer taking special work in library management.

A. M. Hiatt is election judge for the election to be held tomorrow, Tuesday, to determine whether or not the city will raise bonds to the amount of $110,000 for the erection of a new high school building. The polls will be maintained in the city hall.

No opposition to the bonds has been voiced. Mayor Harry Mason has pointed out the fact that voting the bonds will not raise the city tax a single cent. As the tax levy already made for this year is sufficiently large to take care of the school bonds, the bonds have already been tentatively sold at a premium of $100.

The school board has engaged Guy A. Carlander of Amarillo as architect for the proposed new building.

WICHITA FALLS HEALTH DEPARTMENT RECOMMENDS USE OF FLY-FLU

To whom it may concern: I have just witnessed a thorough demonstration of Fly-Flu by Mr. Mathery in various places of business in this city. Roaches were routed from cracks and crevices in restaurant kitchens by the thousands and flies in countless demonstrations were made.

I have never seen any kind of insect powder or destroyer which approaches Fly-Flu in merit and I just heartily endorse it used about every premises infested with any kind of insect life.

Respectfully,
(Signed) A. H. DOUGLASS,
(661.) Director of Health Dept.

LACK OF WATER TO FIGHT SPEEDWAY AVENUE FIRE AROUSES IRE OF CITIZENS

Fire caused by a leakage in a gas connection completely destroyed the home of R. W. Greene on Speedway avenue Sunday night and according to residents of that section will result in the Golf Club addition withdrawing from the city until they are furnished with fire protection.

Properly owners in that neighborhood claim that for the past four years they have sought to secure fire protection by repeatedly petitioning the council to install pipes and mains in that neighborhood. The fire department answered the call Sunday night, but on account of the lack of water was unable to check the flames of the burning building. Water in two shallow wells and a cistern nearby was used in preventing the fire from spreading to two adjoining residences.

Representatives of the property owners in the addition who have appeared before the council said Monday morning that the services of an attorney had been secured and that the taxpayers would take legal action at once to withdraw from the municipality until they are furnished with fire protection.

Y. W. Girl Reserves Will Camp At Beautiful Prescott Farm Place; Week's Camp to Open July 23rd

The Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. will hold their annual camp at the beautiful Prescott farm 11 miles out on the Northwestern road, according to announcement from the Y. W. Monday, camp to open Monday afternoon, July 23, and close the 25th.

The Prescott farm is one of the prettiest sites in this part of the country, and the big cement swimming pool maintained there by the Magnolia Oil Co. makes it ideal for the girls' camp, which is being conducted under a special dispensation from Mr. Prescott and Mr. Todd of the Magnolia Co. The pool is maintained for the private and exclusive use of the Magnolia girls, and its use by the Y. W. girls' group is a much appreciated concession and courtesy.

The farm has a big parked campus, with beautiful shade trees, electric lights, and everything, and the Y. W. camp will be maintained in style. These are being provided by D. M. Perkins and the Boy Scouts, and a couple of scouts will serve the camp escort and guard through the week.

Arrangements are being made at the Y. W. for the registration of girls for this camp, and Miss Durnell, girls' work secretary, states that all reservations must be by Thursday of this week. A special feature of camp for the girls, who will enjoy all of the usual accommodations of the indoor life, will be the one-day art class which Mrs. W. W. Hill will teach, showing the girls some special coloring work for natural decorations, and the decoration of flower pots, vases, etc.

What Funny Costumes Women Used to Wear

are a notorious flirt, particularly with pretty married women. He does not want his wife to share any of the gossip for which you are notorious.

"Whoever wore those queer old-fashioned frocks" is your first thought on looking at these pictures.

The answer is, the first ladies of our land. These are replicas of costumes worn by wives of the presidents, now displayed on marble figures in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., to trace the development of style in women's clothes.

Sarah Angelina Van Buren, second from left, shows the period before 1817 to 1841. Trains, bustles, fringes and miles of ribbon went into the composition of the smartest modes.

The fluffed hoop skirt occupied the attention of the belle in the period of 1841 to 1845 when Julia Gardiner Tyler, second from right, entertained at the White House. A dainty type of frock that is always beautiful and lives perennially in the costume play.

Features of these frocks are funny old dresses, but the chemise frock or the flapper uniform may look quite as well in a frivolous age of gorgeously 18 years from now!

CONGRESS, THE CONSTITUTION AND THE SUPREME COURT.

"Do we want to give to congress the power to amend the constitution of the United States?" asks Thomas R. Marshall, former vice-president of the United States in Sunday's Times.

Mr. Marshall has two gifts that make whatever he writes interesting to read. In the first place he has a big fund of common sense and sees plainly, and secondly he has the gift of concise expression.

In Sunday's Times Mr. Marshall discussed the movement to enact a law in congress providing that the supreme court could not void an act of congress by a five to four vote and to provide a way for congress to override the decisions of the court.

Mr. Marshall points out that such action would, in effect, change our form of government.

"When the supreme court holds an act 'unconstitutional,' it really holds, to my mind," says Mr. Marshall, "that the congress has attempted to amend the constitution, a thing it cannot do save in the way prescribed by the document itself and with the affirmative action of three-fourths of the states."

And when we permit congress to amend the constitution there won't be much use for a supreme court—and soon we won't have any constitution, either.

RECORD FREIGHT MOVEMENT IN MAY. The railroads of the United States moved more freight during the month of May than at any time in their history.

The notable thing about this record movement was that it was accomplished without blocking and jamming the transportation system of the country.

There were no embargoes, that is there were none of any consequence, and there were no considerable delays on account of the heavy movement.

The low price of wheat and other farm products is having the effect of holding down commerce, but another peak in freight movement is expected in October and the railroads are confident that they can handle it as successfully as they did the great movement in May.

The railroads of the country are proving their capacity under private ownership to handle the transportation of the country. The only objection is that their charges are so high.

TODAY'S TALK

THE DIFFICULT THING. It's our difficult problems that make us all that we are.

Even the easy things which we now do, were once difficult for us. Else it would be a very discouraging world in which to live.

It is hard for us to remain quiet and patient in the face of hurt—but that is the wisest way. For there is little intentional desire in the hearts of people to hurt. But why is it that we dwell so long upon them? And why is it that the good turn, the thoughtful act on the part of some one who loves us, passes so quickly?

When things run smoothly we laugh and are light in heart, but when the difficult thing comes to our door, we worry.

Yet there are those who have formed the habit of being happy when they are tackling the most difficult things.

I know of a contractor who advertises that he makes a specialty of "difficult foundations."

I see no reason why we shouldn't all make a specialty of difficult foundations. Surely no other foundation is worth the building.

I recently read in a newspaper of a famous American man whose story was summed up as follows: "Forty dollars (the amount he started with), forty failures, forty millions!"

If we do the difficult thing first, too, then we may be assured in advance that we can finish the rest. And this is assurance sufficient to start anything, isn't it?

JUST FOLKS

EDGAR A. GUEST

Life's a round of care and joy. Days of peace and days of noise. Tasks to do and games to play. Clouds that come and blow away. Sunshine, laughter, grief and rain. Like the links which make a chain. Follow one another here in the making of a year.

Each is born and each must die. Each shall smile and each shall sigh. Just as winter brings the snow, So shall sorrow bring us woe. But when winter passes on, June returns to everyone. And we learn throughout the years Very natural things are tears.

God has fashioned every eye With its glancing tear-suff. Proving, as this life we keep. All must some day grieve and weep. Should this be your hour for grief, Spurn the voice of unbelief—All about you, great or low, Share or shall share in your woe.

Not alone you suffer pain, Not alone for you the rain; Life has brought you grief to bear. This is now your time of care. Do not be sorrowful tomorrow, But the smiling face you see, May tomorrow trouble be. Aid the heart you fancy glad. Only yesterday was sad. (Copyright, 1933, by Edgar A. Guest)

Wash Magnus Johnson. Lightning is hot. Educating the blood. She prayed for death.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright, 1933, The Star Co.)

Gentlemen that gambled in wheat, knocking the price down, when farmers have it, and putting the price up, after farmers have sold it, made a mistake recently, and resorted to ill service to their always good friend, old fashioned Republican politics.

With Magnus Johnson running against the Republican machine in Minnesota, where farmers' votes still elects, what has happened down below it is a puzzle. That means to come what for the Kansas farmer, to come or pass for some other farmers. Watch the Minnesota election tomorrow. You'll hear from Magnus Johnson.

Refined reporters, sent from New York report that Magnus is a terrible person. He wears a cap, not even that of a railroad or oil company. He shamelessly admits that he has education, and he thinks it possible to be a good American without it. And he actually speaks with a Scandinavian accent. Light has my eyes, he is quoted thus: "Take you, I didn't say that I didn't give a damn about how much education you had, but I read it and some, a. I ain't got much time for 'em."

That shocks the editor of the New York Times. His eyes roll heavily upward. He doesn't even ask "what are you doing?" He knows—bohemianism.

But Magnus Johnson apologizes for reading little sayings: "I want to tell you my time, seeing that the farmer and laborer get a square deal."

When you say that and mean it, it makes up for lack of book learning. So watch Magnus Johnson. A little Scandinavian dialect of that kind might not be bad in the senate.

A simple subpoena may answer the case in Michigan. Woodrow Wilson seek the Democratic nomination next year.

Mr. Wilson has been supposed to be in Michigan. He is not. Whether or not he is able, physically, to obey the subpoena, if the answer is "no," would answer the point. If yes, the thing remains uncertain.

You have watched lightning and wondered about the power in it. A German scientist tells you how hot it is, more than 2,000 degrees centigrade. An element that melts at 2,000 degrees centigrade.

Two thousand centigrade is a good deal hotter than 4,000 Fahrenheit. Multiply "100 in the shade" by 1.8 and you have an idea of the lightning's heat.

Some of these days, scientists will use the heat and power now going to waste in lightning. Men have tried to do this. That would mean few power, unlimited wealth. Men are not yet fit for it. It would make our lives too easy.

The stock market fit of the blue sky is the business men's market. It is not the market for the farmer. They are all ruined in the long run anyhow. But the farmer's market is a different matter. It is a market for the farmer's market. It is a market for the farmer's market.

Education is a strange thing. Certain vines have been taught to turn to the right as they climb. They get on turning to the right for centuries. If you force them to the left, they turn back. The leucocytes, white corpuscles, in your blood can be taught to turn to the left. Theodor Sigmund, 13 years old, is dying of encephalitis, in correctly called "a sleeping sickness." His blood has been dropping germ enters the brain through the nose. Dr. Lintz, caring for the boy, says he might cure him if he could get a little of the blood of a man that has had encephalitis and recovered. The blood having once conquered a disease, knows how and can to it again. A little of the conquering blood introduced into the sick child would teach his blood to fight the deadly sickness. That's the meaning, especially to Christian scientists.

We are bombarded all the time by radio waves. They are always speaking made, bands roaring, wailing, stinging, preachers preaching—and as long as you do not put the instrument to your ears, you more or less escape it all. You will also escape the broadcasting hypnotist.

We know about radio bombardment on this earth, but what other worlds are there?

Who, what? Puds said. This there is that earlier window. I see and Puds looked and just then the kid made a even fiercer face, me saying, "O, he just made one at you, good like the nerve of that."

I want stand for any kind that side making a face at me, Puds said. "Dad if I will admit, I did and I yelled. Come on out here and do that if you want to get killed alive."

Come on out here and sit you with one hand on your back and one eye shut. Puds yelled.

The kid not saying anything, just came out here and he looked at me and Puds yelled. You do that once more and I'll come in there and get you without waiting for you to come out.

And I'll come in with him and you'll never have the ambition to do anything more.

And the kid kept on making more faces at me and me and Puds kept on yelling at him. He was making faces at me and Puds kept on yelling at him. He was making faces at me and Puds kept on yelling at him.

Will There Be Another Movement to Get the Boys Out of the Trenches Before Christmas?

The medium that used to make a poor overworked spirit rap on the door of a newspaper and write "page to page," has fierce competition in the radio that sings, scribbles, plays jazz music and lectures, all at the same time and without any talk.

Mrs. Kepner, of Maryland, who found dead, a bullet in her brain. Her husband said: "Kneeling beside me with her head on my arm she prayed that she might die."

That seemed satisfactory and they buried her. But a newspaper editor, that she couldn't possibly have shot herself.

Her husband even examined, in a newspaper, the "news" of a girl by chance, but no one could say he noted "in an ungentlemanly manner." He says:

"I'm a married man. I have a wife and a child. I was in Baltimore and bought her some presents. I often took her out riding. I gave her a lot of love and attention. That girl was not Mrs. Kepner."

Many wives wish they were dead, for a good deal less than that. What a jury will wish about Mrs. Kepner, widow you will learn later.

Only a few days ago, a woman knew how many women wish for death every day. And always on the same page he has to write the name of some other woman's girl.

The extraordinary thing is that women should consider their second husbands worthy of so much worrying and fretting.

It's like breaking your heart because your pet monkey likes peanuts.

answered. For a moment he failed to conceal his surprise and cast one look of evident horror and amazement at the apparition.

"What was wrong?" asked Peter. "Did you see him—right in the path of Robert Redmayne?"

But the other only stared at Giuseppe and passed forward.

"If you noticed," he said; "whereupon like lightning, the Italian's manner changed. His concern vanished and he laughed aloud.

"What a fool—what a fool am I! It was the shadow of the shrine!"

Ganna instantly dismissed the subject, and appeared to attach no importance whatever to it; but Doris's mood was altered. He became less expansive and more alert.

"What a fool—what a fool am I!" announced Peter half an hour afterward. "You're a smart lad and you've advised me a bright thought or two. We must lecture Mark."

CHAPTER XVI. The Last of the Redmaynes.

For the night immediately following Doris's experience at the old shrine, Albert Redmayne and his friend, Virgilio Poggi, had accepted Mark's invitation to dine at the Hotel Victoria, where he still stayed.

In order that he might enjoy private conversation with Brandon and at the same time, keep a close watch upon Albert, Ganna had proposed that she should accompany them to the dining room, and she had directed Brandon to issue the invitation as soon as Redmayne returned home.

Wfully unattractive, Signor Poggi and Albert appeared in the glory of soft white shirt fronts and rather ruddy cheeks. A special meal was prepared for their pleasure and the four partook of it in a private chamber at the hotel. Then they adjourned to the smoking room, and anon, when Poggi and his companion were alone, he said:

"I can't believe it," he replied as lengthily as possible, "but I indicated the extent of his mental amazement and less so exactly as you direct. The fellow will with my power and obviously my duty."

"Good boy. And now we'll have something to eat. You've got to keep your wits about you, and I'll be on my feet on the windowpane; and sleeping with my face to the floor I heard a tiny sound and lifted one eye. The door opened and Signor Poggi put his nose in. Over he came as quiet as a spider, and I let him get on his feet. Then, if you were satisfied. He was gone like a mosquito, and half an hour later I heard him again. But I got up and looked through the window outside. He wanted that book bad—you can guess how bad."

"For two days Mr. Ganna declared that he must rest; and then there came an evening when he privately invited Doris to take a walk."

"There's a few things I'd like to put to you," he said. "You needn't let on to anybody else about it and we won't start together. You know my favorite street up the hill. Meet me at the corner—say 7 o'clock."

Giuseppe gladly agreed. They ascended the hill side by side and the older invited Doris's aid.

"Between ourselves," he began, "I am not too well pleased with the way the inquiry is panning out. In plain words, there's some dope coming out of the shrine, and I should like to hear what you think of it, my being an independent witness and a pretty sharp-eyed fellow."

"You did the trick to a miracle," answered Giuseppe calmly. "That is what's the matter with him. And, I should like to hear what you think of it, my being an independent witness and a pretty sharp-eyed fellow."

"I should like to hear what you think of it, my being an independent witness and a pretty sharp-eyed fellow."

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR CONDUCT STRINGER FUNERAL SUNDAY

Full Knights Templar services were held Sunday afternoon at the First Christian Church for deceased member Sir Knight J. W. Stringer, who passed to the great beyond last Saturday morning. About fifty Sir Knights, composing the membership of Wichita Falls Commandery, escorted the remains to the church where the last rites of the order were impressively read with Sir Knight Nat Grafton as Acting Commander and Sir Knight Barnes as acting Precentor.

The casket was brought into the church and placed among a bower of beautiful floral tributes. The burial service, composed of Messrs. Bullington, Von Aliman, Mitchell, and Ray, sang a number of songs appropriate to the occasion, with Sir Knight Filmer at the piano. Dr. Grafton paid a glowing tribute of respect to the deceased, taking his text from the 11th chapter of John, 7th verse: "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter."
