BLACKWELL, OKLA., July 21.—Jackson Burns, 41 years old, Choctaw Indian, is in jail at Newkirk, Okla., having surrendered to officers there in connection with the killing of "Hooker" Miller and two gun boys at Three Sanda, Okla., this afternoon, according to word received here late today.

MIDDLETON NOTED CHARACTER IN TONKAWA OIL FIELDS
PONCA CITY, OKLA., July 21.—"Hook" Miller, deputy police chief at Three Sanda, Okla., was killed in the Tonkawa oil field, was killed and John Middleton, deputy sheriff, was seriously injured in a shooting affair shortly after noon today, according to reports received here. Middleton, known throughout Northern Oklahoma as "Two Gun Johnny" because of his activities as an officer in the oil fields on Tonkawa, received three bullet wounds, the most serious being in the chest. Middleton is reported to have arrested eighteen men unassisted, killing the entire group on one occasion. Middleton is reported to have a chain and forcing them to march to the police station. Only meagre reports of the shooting were available here due to poor telephone connections between Three Sanda and Ponca City.

An Indian known to officers only as "Chief" is said to have fired upon the officers when they entered a restaurant at Three Sanda. Miller was mortally wounded on the first shot. Another officer was able to draw his gun. Middleton walked about 15 feet before falling. The Indian made a dash for his car and although sheriff's officers and policemen from surrounding cities are patrolling the area, no trace of him has been found. He was arrested by Middleton last Saturday night and reported chained in a rooming house. On one occasion, Ravenna is believed to have been the motive for the shooting. Miller died in an ambulance while being taken to hospital. He was 55 years old and had been an officer in Oklahoma for several years. His father was killed about a month ago as deputy with Middleton. Little hope is entertained that Middleton will recover.

PASSIVE RESISTANCE PORTION OF NOTE OF INTEREST IN CAPITOL

By DR. W. W. HENNING, Jr., Detroit, Michigan.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The state department today announced that it has received a copy of the last German note on reparations.

The full text of the British memorandum was received during the night from the American ambassador in London, and the second message was turned to Secretary Hughes and his advisers on western European affairs.

Life in London, Washington, and particularly the state department, showed activity in the British interest that no information as to the contents of the proposed reply to the German note.

The reply was stated out, was intended generally for the national government and publicists of its contents prior to its receipt in Berlin would be an act of international disrespect.

Despite the attempt at absolute secrecy, there was much more or less "understanding" information as to the contents of the note available in official and diplomatic circles.

There was also considerable speculation as to whether Europe would be successful in a reparations effort to bring about active and formal participation by the United States in the struggle to unravel the German reparations tangle.

The fact that the American and British governments have maintained the most intimate relations in the informal exchange of views on the reparations controversy, it is pointed out, gives special significance to the action of England in communicating the proposed reply to Washington "for remark" as well as to Paris, Rome and Brussels.

This significance is further emphasized by the knowledge that the League of Nations in principle of the League for an international fact-finding commission to determine Germany's capacity to pay on reparations account.

Washington diplomats are particularly interested in the part of the British reply which suggests Germany's passive resistance to the reparations program in the Ruhr basin. Both Paris and Berlin, it is felt, would be glad to find a general way out of the present impossible situation in the Ruhr but the problem is to find an acceptable goal which both can use.

The British reply apparently is merely to point out the position for a spirit of amicable settlement. If the League of Nations receives the approval from the British and the American governments and his advisers in Paris, it is pointed out, Premier Baldwin may be able to give the entering wedge which will open the door to a German-French accord and break the Ruhr impasse.

The old adage, "Let a man make a mouse trap better than his neighbor and the people will make a beaten path to his door" is a very good one, but, we have found that it is necessary to let the public know you have made the mouse trap. The writer has been connected with the advertising department of the Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., since the beginning and, in the past few years, has used papers in larger cities in the United States that are more widely known, but, never has he found an evening paper that covered its local field more thoroughly or had a greater wallop than the Wichita Daily Times.

I have never seen any kind of insect powder or destroyer which approaches Fly-Flu in merit and I most heartily endorse its use about every premises infested with any kind of insect life.

NEW BUILDING CODE READY FOR ACTION OF CITY COUNCIL

Redrafting of the building code for this city which has been in the making for the past several months is about complete and it is probable that the matter will be brought up at the Monday night meeting of the city council. A committee for such a code was begun in this city by Fire Chief J. L. McClure some time ago and resulted in the appointment of a committee to draw up a suitable code. The committee has finished its work and the document is now being typewritten and placed in legal form for action by the city council.

According to officials who are familiar with the proposed ordinance, it provides for building restrictions in the fire limits which it is believed will lessen fire hazards and consequently reduce losses to a minimum.

The ordinance also makes it compulsory for individuals who are contemplating building to take out a permit before the building is started. Hereafter the permits have been issued free of charge and the clause providing a penalty for failure to make application for a permit has not been rigidly enforced. The new ordinance provides for a heavier penalty for failure to take out a permit and authorizes the charging of a small fee on each permit that is granted.

A regular building inspector will be employed to see that every new building is constructed according to the requirements of the ordinance. Fees and fines collected from permits will be used to defray the salary of the inspector.

Contract For Paving. ABILENE—Contracts have been let by the city commission for paving 20 blocks of streets. The contracts approximate $108,000.

ELECTRA, July 21.—Clyde Orr of the Tulsa-Oklahoma Oil Refining Company is chairman of the executive committee which will have charge of the community fair in Tulsa, Oklahoma, September 28-31.

The fair has been planned so as to permit the taking of exhibits from here to the Tulsa-Oklahoma Fair in Wichita Falls, last year.

In comparison with the weather in Tulsa, which has been sending the thermometer above the century mark with wonderful regularity during the past two weeks, it is a matter of fact that the Tulsa-Oklahoma Fair in Wichita Falls, last year, was held in the month of August.

The local chamber of commerce and agricultural societies have been holding a series of meetings at the Tulsa-Oklahoma Fair in Wichita Falls, last year, was held in the month of August.

Refineries here will operate on a minimum schedule as a result of the request sent out from headquarters of the Western Petroleum Refiners Association in Tulsa, Okla., asking for a shut down of some two to three weeks.

With all damage repaired following the Tulsa fire of the week ago, the Electra Ice Company is producing its full tonnage of 25 tons of ice a day now.

Shelby, the 12 Hour Day, and Roman Candles

By WILK SCOTT

Well, I see by this morning's papers that our old friend, Mr. Gary of the Steel Trust, after much letter writing and persuasion from President Harding, has sent a letter to the President, which he received the day before he started, mashing his way over the Dawson Trail to that Gold cursed land near the Pole.

Now, he promised the President to do this, but you know, so many Republicans have promised him things since he has been in and then didn't make good that it is getting so that a Republican promise is not much more to be depended on than a Democratic one.

Now Mr. Gary says it will take time. You see, a man who has been working for 12 or 14 hours a day, and you cut him down to 8, and you have a Physical wreck on your hands.

Well, the 4th of July just passed and 62 people passed with it, besides 252 wounded. Many of the deaths were due to gunshot wounds, some accidental, but most of them were from Roman Candles shooting from the wrong end.

After reading the casualty list every 15th of July morning, one learns that we have killed more people celebrating our independence than we lost fighting for it.

Of course, the worst case of a Roman Candle going off at the wrong end, is a letter from Mrs. J. A. Wilson, a letter from Mrs. J. A. Wilson, a letter from Mrs. J. A. Wilson.

And I have heard lots of kidding about Shelby's failure to raise so much money. Now, I generally try to see the funny side of most of our National calamities, including Politics, but to save my soul I can't think of a funny thing about Shelby, Missouri.

They wanted to do something to put their little town on the map. They believed in it; they believed, contrary to New York and all the rest, that Shelby would make a creditable showing.

Years ago, I remember a similar incident of a never-heard-of little town that was hardly known as far as the County line.

It took just about all the town could raise but every business man dug up his pocket, they loaded the baggage car with things their Country would raise. The reason I remember this case so well—was because I had the good fortune to be invited to go along, and it was one of the first cases of me and my little rope making a Public appearance.

Well, it was a joke—a hundred men getting off a train, marching with a band, and boasting a place nobody had ever heard of. But business men in the places we paraded commenced to realize that there must be something in our town or we couldn't do this.

Now, if you are anxious to know what ever became of this little town, it's Tulsa, Oklahoma, which would have been a real town, even if its people weren't greedy rich with Oil, for it is founded on the spirit of its people.

They plunged and they won. Shelby had the same spirit and lost. I can't remember the name of it, myself.

It's the towns, big and small, that don't do or try to do anything at all that are funny to me. Personally, I think they made a bad selection of a mode of publicity. People a prize fight would attract wouldn't settle in any town. They won't even stay in New York. So how was Shelby going to hold them?

The most pathetic part of this for this little town is to come yet. Through the fruits of their idea and financial failure, some so-called wise leaders from other will reap a fortune by rematching these two men again. All reaped at the expense of Shelby's idea. More power to all the other Shelys in the west who are trying.

Well, all I read in the papers now is about some fellow named Edward Bok offering 100 thousand dollars for someone to suggest a plan where they stop wars. Now he is receiving serious editorial mention for his idea and philanthropy. People that praise his idea laughed at Henry Ford's for trying to just stop one war, while this fellow offers just 100 thousand dollars to stop all of them.

I claim that both men were equally sincere, but, on the other hand, if there is to be ridicule, I claim they should share equally in that, too. The very terms of this make it ridiculous. He is to give half the money when the Trustees accept the plan, and the other half when the Senate accepts and passes it.

Now, I am so Philanthropic. I am hard to separate from money; if I killed two birds with one stone I would want the stone back. But I will still raise Mr. Bok's offer of 100 thousand dollars. I will hereby make a bona fide offer of 200 thousand dollars to any man in the world who will suggest a plan where they stop wars.

Now Mr. Gary says it will take time. You see, a man who has been working for 12 or 14 hours a day, and you cut him down to 8, and you have a Physical wreck on your hands.

Well, the 4th of July just passed and 62 people passed with it, besides 252 wounded. Many of the deaths were due to gunshot wounds, some accidental, but most of them were from Roman Candles shooting from the wrong end.

"They loaded the baggage car with things raised in our town."

who can draw up any kind of a Bill or Suggestion, I don't care on what subject, no matter how meritorious, and send it to the Senate of the United States and send this paper a copy of the Bill submitted, and, if the United States Senate passes the bill as you sent in it, you get the 200 thousand.

Talk about stopping War, I will bet any man in the United States 5 thousand dollars that there ain't a man in this Country that can draw up a bill that the Senate themselves won't go to war over while they are arguing it.

Can you imagine the bunch of Multi Millionaires made by the last war agreeing to stop all chances of a future war for 100 thousand dollars? I am only an ignorant Cowpuncher but there ain't nobody on earth, I don't care how smart they are, ever going to make me believe they will ever stop wars.

We ain't as smart as the Generations ahead of us, and they tried to stop them and haven't been able to. In fact, every war has been preceded by a Peace Conference. That's what always starts the next war.

Ever since, I think it was Noah's two Boys, there has been conflict. Cain, I think it was, picked up an Or and slaw his Brother Abel so hard with it that he knocked out the side of the Zoo. I suppose a hundred thousand dollars would have stopped that. Why, a hundred thousand dollars couldn't even stop the Dempsey fight.

The only way to do is just stay out of them as long as you can, and the best way to stay out of them for quite a while, instead of teaching a Boy to run an Automobile, teach him to fly, because the Nation in the next war that ain't up in the Air, is just going to get something dropped on its head.

As I told you in an article a few weeks ago, Mr. Harding has the plan, and by the way, I see on this trip he has suggested it several times again. He is better, than any that will come in through this offer and he should get the 100 thousand. And it is only a few words—that is, "Draft Capital as well as men." Any time you take every thing that every man has got the same as you conscript Boys, there ain't no war.

Now, I think you will agree that would be great, but you see if Congress passes it, if it does, I will give Mr. Harding the dough for getting his idea through. I say, if Congress passes it. (Copyright, 1922, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

START EXCAVATION FOR NEW CITY HALL BUILDING AT QUAMAN

LARGE FORCE AT WORK ON MUNICIPAL BUILDING; TO BE MODERN AFFAIR.

COTTON GROWERS PLAN MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Sentiment to Be Sounded Out On Advantages of Good Roads Bond Election.

QUAMAN, TEXAS, July 21.—Excavation work on the new city hall to be erected here is under way in full force now. The building when completed is to be a strictly modern one-story with a basement structure.

Included in the accommodations are rest rooms for men and women, fire department with quarters for the fireman, city court room, chamber of commerce room, city secretary's office, jail and everything needed for the running of a modern city government.

Charles Stetzel, general contractor of Chickasha, Okla., has the contract for the work. Twenty-five or more men are at work with a number of teams now and are going down in the ground rapidly.

To Present College Class. A committee of six has been appointed by President F. W. Kennedy of the chamber of commerce to meet the leading committees of the West Texas Tech. College and show them Quaman's claim for the school. The board is due here on August 6.

Preliminary work to opening the campaign in earnest for the Cotton Growers' Association membership drive is being carried out here with the assistance of O. R. Thomas of Dallas. The campaign is being conducted in this district at the same time, taking each county in order.

Wichita County reports successful work in that county, and the same methods used there will be started in Hardeman county Monday morning. Knox, Foard and Baylor counties will be worked in order named before the drive is completed.

The Quaman Times is starting a campaign for a road building campaign in this county and is meeting with hearty support from local business men. The purpose, as stated in the paper is to feel the sentiment for action this fall. It is pointed out that Hardeman county is not bonded now for anything and this is the most needed project for the county at the present time.

Visitors coming through here state, however, this county has the best dirt roads to be found this side of Colorado.

NEW ORGANIZATION HEREFORD RAISERS OF KNOX AND KING

WILL HANDLE ALL MATTERS OF MUTUAL INTEREST TO MEMBERS.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO SALE OF YOUNG CALVES

Annual Shipment From Counties Run From Twenty to Twenty-Five Thousand.

GOREE, TEXAS, July 21.—The Wichita Falls Hereford Association is a new organization of the ranchmen of Knox and King counties just organized with Dr. O. H.
Deavers of Benjamin as first president, C. H. Burnett and E. M. Patton, both of Benjamin, vice-presidents, and H. M. Cantrell, farm demonstration agent of Knox county, secretary-treasurer.

The association will handle all matters of mutual interest but will give special attention to the selling of the calf crop each year. The annual shipment of calves from the above named counties will run from twenty to twenty-five thousand and a large per cent of these are sold to the feeders in the upper Mississippi valley. The association is planning to send Mr. Cantrell north next month to show on the movie screen pictures made on the ranches of this county. The pictures are now being made by the U. S. bureau of the research division of the University of animal industry of the University of Missouri department of agriculture.

H. V. Straghan has gone to Little Rock, Arkansas, to enter a school of pharmacy.

Joe McKinney of Cisco, formerly a merchant of Goree, has been visiting relatives here this week.

Mrs. J. L. Marsh, of Crosbyton, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. Joe Tidwell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Rawlins have gone to Dubuque, Oklahoma to attend a reunion of the Rawlins family. There are five of the sisters all with grown families and none of the five weighs less than 200 pounds.

E. and Orb Coffman, accompanied by their wives spent the week visiting at Slaton and Lubbock.

E. O. Hammon and family are visiting relatives at Slaton.

Mrs. H. A. Baker of Wichita Falls, spent the week-end here visiting Mrs. Marsh Coffman.

J. C. Newson of Wichita Falls, spent the week here in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clyde Warren, Graves Cayton, who returned from an extended trip to Amarillo.

Baseball Games.
Goree and Olney baseball clubs played two games here the past week. Olney taking the first and Goree the second game of the series.

The first game closed with a score of 1 to 5. In the last game Olney led the game by a good lead when the last inning rally by Goree tied the score. In the tenth Olney failed to score advancing a runner to the second when the fourth batter made the third out. Goree spurred and encouraged by an even score went to the bat to win and scored with only one man down, closing the most interesting games that has been played here this season. This was the first game Olney has lost this year.

DOWNTOWN SECTION LED LAST WEEK IN BUILDING PERMITS

Permits issued from the office of the city clerk during the week ending Saturday indicate that building activities held their own and showed a slight increase over the past week. Eleven permits were granted for a total expenditure of $26,550.

An unusual feature of the building during the week is that over $25,000 of the total amount is to be spent on business building in the downtown district. A permit of $18,000 for remodeling the M. J. St. Charles was the largest in amount of the 11 permits granted.

Permits were granted to the following:

Sibley Taylor, 3-room residence, $500.

tion to residence, $200.

Estimated Service Cars Handle 400 Passengers Each Day Between Burburnett and Wichita Falls

BURBURNETT, TEXAS, July 21.—
With hundreds of private cars using the highway between Bur-burnett and Wichita Falls, it was stated that in addition to this traffic the service cars were handling some 400 passengers daily between the two towns. Investigation shows that about 12 jitneys are in constant operation between Burburnett and Wichita Falls and that they are well patronized as the fare has been cut to 50 cents since the concrete pavement became available, thus cutting the time formerly required to make the trip, gasoline and oil operating expense and wear and tear on the cars being taken into consideration.

Revival Meeting.
Rev. R. R. Robinson, pastor of the Baptist church here, is conducting a protracted meeting near the new school building in the southeastern part of the city. A tent has been raised, seats provided and a comfortable site secured where the meeting is being held which is in part of the city far removed from any objects to the churches. It is reported that a large attendance is on hand at each of the services.

Arrested and Released.
Alleging the issuance of a worthless check to the Caro Motor Company for payment of automobile accessories and removing a Ford car to Oklahoma on which a mortgage had been given, a complaint was filed in the justice court here Wednesday against a man who was arrested by officers in Tulsa, Okla., and held pending instructions from Texas authorities. The man was released in Tulsa after a brother had taken up the check and a promise obtained that the car would immediately be returned to Texas. Constable H. L. White had made preparations for the return of the prisoner to Texas but the trip was made unnecessary when he voluntarily offered to return under escort.

Burburnett Personal.
C. O. Walling and family left for Medicine Park, Okla., Wednesday for several days outing. They are expected to return home not later than Sunday.

James Hodgen, business man of Weatherford, Texas, was in Bur-burnett Tuesday and Wednesday.
Mrs. J. E. Mr. has been visiting relatives in Duncan, Okla., the past week.

Prof. Joe E. Moore of Urbana, Ill., spent several days this week at the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J.
Sides. Prof. Moore is a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois.

Eugene Spear, manager for the Continental Supply Company, this city, has returned from a visit to his parents, who reside in Nacogdoches, Texas.

J. Lohofener, of Sedalia, Mo., is a guest in the home of his uncle, Gus Lohofener, this city.

SYSTEMATIC THEFT OF CAR FARES IS CHARGED THREE ARE ARRESTED

KANSAS CITY, July 21.—
Charging a motorman, a street car conductor and another employe with systematic theft of fares aggregating $10,000, the Kansas City Street Railways Company caused their arrest yesterday.

The men arrested are: Edward Butts, 26, who was in charge of fare boxes at a car barn; Clarence
C. Copley, 25, a motorman, and Paul Brown, 22, a conductor.

Butts, the police say, devised a method last October of manipulating the locks on fare boxes in his keeping. Fare tokens taken from the boxes, police alleged, were turned over by Butts to Copley and Brown to be sold to the public.

RUSSIA TO SIGN TURKISH STRAITS CONVENTION ON EARLY DATE IN AUGUST

MOSCOW, July 21.—(AP)— Russia will sign the Turkish straits convention at Constantinople early in August, it was announced here today.

In his note to the Lausanne conference replying to the invitation for Russia to become a party to the convention, Foreign Minister Tchitcherin says:

"Although the soviet government considers the order of affairs provided for by the Lausanne convention regarding the straits as unsatisfactory and not a solid guarantee of peace, the soviet federation therefore being compelled to expend funds for fortifications on the Russian shores of the Black Sea, it will, however, sign the convention in the interests of general peace and make the experiment of collaboration with the entente.

Dr. W. M. Martin of Glasgow,
Scotland, and formerly an instructor day and Tuesday evenings. On Mon-his lecture on "Your Position in Life." Tuesday evening at the same hour he will speak on "The Equilibrium of Youth—How to Keep Young."

Dr. Martin is said to be an international authority on the subjects on which he speaks and has taught in some of the leading universities of the United States and Europe. He will be remembered by many who had the opportunity of hearing him here in the spring when he spoke to cal program with a Spanish feature number of Senorita Dolores and Don

Lack of Proper Facilities Makes It Necessary To Place Five-Year Old Girl In the County Bastile

Lack of proper facilities, as viewed by County Juvenile Officer
W. G. Bralley, made it necessary during the past week to place a little innocent five-year-old girl in the county jail.

The situation came about following the arrest of the little girl's mother on a felony charge. No relatives or friends were on hand to take care of the "dependent child and in order to take care of it the best way possible, the child was placed in jail with her mother.

In lamenting the situation Mr.
Bralley pointed out the fact that if there were a detention home in the county this need not have occurred.
The little girl could have been sent to this home, where she could have been kept until final disposition could have been made.

"This is just one instance," Mr.
Bralley stated, "where a detention home could solve a matter of this kind. It is deplorable that a five-year-old girl, unacquainted with the ways of the world and innocent and pure in her youthfulness, should have the stigma cast over her that she has been in a county jail."

The matter of a detention home is under consideration and with a large number of civic societies back of the movement it is hoped that a home of this nature will be realized for Wichita county.

DIXON S. ELLIOTT DIES AT HOME IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 21.—Dixon

American Railway Express Company and former president of the here last night.

NEW MANAGER OF PIGGY-WIGGLY STORES ARRIVES

T. H. Parker, formerly manager of the Fort Wayne, Indiana, Piggy Wiggly stores, has arrived in Wichita Falls to be connected with the local Piggy Wiggly branch, as manager.

Mr. Parker is a man of wide business experience, it was stated, and will actively assist C. K. Wyatt in the management of the stores in this territory. He expects to bring his family here and buy a home in this city, as a number of other men connected with this concern have done.

A location has recently been leased in Burburnett and other stores are planned for this territory as well as Wichita Falls, according to a statement made Saturday by Mr.
Wyatt who claims that the best chain store talent in the country is being brought to this section.

Because of the extensive business handled it is necessary to have a highly competent and experienced man in charge of the local stores, whose business ran more than $25-000 from May 21 to June 30, which is an increase of 28 1-3 per cent over the same length of time preceding the purchase by the present management, it was stated.

RECEIVER SOUGHT TO TAKE CHARGE OF DIAMOND RING

Maud C. Bachman, who brought suit in the 20th district court early in the week seeking recovery of a diamond ring and asking $500 damages, seeks to have a receiver appointed to take charge of the ring, which she values at $1500.

A hearing was had Saturday before Judge E. H. Wilson but the case was continued until some time next week, at which time the court will hear more evidence and make a decision.

The plaintiff brought suit against John Graber and wife, alleging that they now have the ring and that she posted several years ago to secure a loan made by her husband and his partner.

DENVER AGRICULTURAL AGENT LOOKS OVER FIELD

Found That Grapes Grow Successfully in the County on a Small Scale.

VERNON, July 21.—The raising of grapes on a large scale for commercial purposes may be started in Wilbarger County at a future date as the result of an inspection of vineyards around Vernon this week by M. E. Oster, agricultural agent of the Fort Worth & Denver Railway.

Mr. Oster is establishing several counties in this section at the request of a large Arkansas grape grower which is considering moving to Texas.

In company with J. W. Lutz, Mr. Oster visited the vineyards of J. H. Carson, Alvin T. Brown, Herman Truitt, C. Scheppe, Fred Streit and C. E. Rehnke.

He found that grapes grow readily in this country, that they seem to grow with considerable vigor and that a large number of varieties are to be found here.

Community Week Dates. September 2 dates were definitely agreed upon as the date for the opening of community week here.

Under the auspices of the Wilbarger Federation of Women, a series of pageants and lectures will be presented for six nights of the new stage recently constructed in Allingham Park.

Okmulgee School Faculty. The complete faculty for the city school of Okmulgee, eight miles east of Vernon, has been announced for next year by Superintendent H. R. Hester of Okmulgee, 4th and 5th grades; Miss Alice M. Mink of Okmulgee, 4th and 5th grades; Miss Ota Ferguson of Okmulgee, 2nd and 3rd grades; Miss F. E. Hughes of Okmulgee, primary; Supt. Glasen teaches vocational, agriculture and science in the high school. A. A. W. Andrews returned Thursday from a visit at Okmulgee.

Miss Mary Hughes of the Hinds community will leave Sunday as a delegate from the Wilbarger girls to the short course at College Station next week.

"We, the undersigned banking and business institutions of Vernon believe in and heartily endorse the plans and principles of the Farm Bureau Cotton Association. The Vernon leaders will leave the city at 7 p. m. Tuesday, and with the Vernon band will give a program in the Farmers Valley church at 11 a. m.

Many Tourists Pass Through. It is estimated that an average of 300 automobiles of tourists on the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway pass through Vernon each day. The estimated number of tourists is based on a study made by J. C. Wells, field manager of the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway, who was here this week conferring with Chamber of Commerce officials on business of the highway. Mr. Wells estimates that the 1,000 tourists daily spend a total of at least $1,000 in Vernon as they pass through.

Mr. Wells was accompanied by Curtis Vineson, state correspondent of the Dallas News. Their wives were with them, and the party is en route to Colorado Springs.

Honor D. Wade of Fort Worth, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by Mrs. Van Blinn, state editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was here this week on business. Mr. Wade stated that he anticipated one of the most important events of the year, that this section has ever experienced.

Give Back Equipment. The Home Economics Club of Vernon has donated six sets of the six sets as part of the play ground equipment for Allingham Park. The new equipment will be installed next week. The club has expended $25 for the project, raising the money by serving the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet and by compiling and selling book books.

Hold Story News. At Allingham Park Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock children of the city enjoyed a supervised story and play day under the direction of Miss Fay Roggett and assistants. All the women's clubs of the city have observed the story-hour movement. The story and play hours are to be on every Tuesday and Friday afternoon.

Fatal Food Riots In Breslau Are Looked Upon As Presaging Serious Civil Outbreaks Later

BERLIN, July 21.—Seven dead and a score wounded was the total of casualties reported tonight following the uprising against the high cost of living in Breslau.

Hotel stores and shops were plundered by mobs all during the afternoon. Rioting broke out in the streets and the police were unable to prevent the looting of the stores. The rioters used clubs and stones to break through the police lines.

The outbreak is looked upon by all parties as the harbinger of civil war to sweep Germany in the autumn. The communists, socialists and nationalists each are organizing with an intensity that forebodes grave times.

The socialist, the numerically strongest party in Germany, have issued instructions to all district branches to give up their arms and to organize "defense formations" of working men throughout the length and breadth of the country. Socialists spokesmen claim to have information that the nationalists will attempt to overthrow the present form of government this fall and to set up a dictatorship.

The organization of these defense formations is being done with the knowledge and consent of the social Prussian minister of the interior, Herr Severing.

name after marriage and her contribution to the upkeep of the family would be recognized and respected. She would be as much the head of her household as her husband and her services would not be considered the possession of her spouse.

Property Equality. Her property would be her own and she would have a fifty-fifty share in the control of that owned jointly with her husband. The matter of citizenship would be within her choice and the right of divorce on the same grounds as the husband would be hers. Mother and father would control the children together. And what is called very important, the woman would be received into the home as an equal partner with many rights and privileges and duties as her husband now enjoys.

After the movement was launched everybody had had her say about the beauties of those eighteen words. The first condition was within her grasp, where a stone church is mirrored in the clear water, and saw a pageantry which they are working for.

City Is Rushing Work For New Water Supply

No efforts are being spared or time wasted by the city administration and water department in finishing the preliminary work necessary for bringing water from the diversion dam by the date when the electric high line shall become available for furnishing power for the pumps.

F. N. Lawton, manager of the city water department, has been in the dam site continuously since Wednesday seeing after the construction of the concrete foundations for the two pumps which will be installed and other details of the project. The 10,000-gallon booster pumps from the local plant was taken to the dam site Tuesday and as soon as the foundations are finished the installation will be rushed to completion. Another larger pump with the same capacity will be used in bringing the water over the 22 foot rise at the diversion dam. This pump will be moved sometime during the week, according to city officials.

It is expected that everything will be complete and ready for the connections when the Pugh Sound Company releases the electric high line. F. A. Rogers, manager of Electric Company, has assured those in charge of the work that the high line can be moved from its present location to the dam site at the diversion dam in one week.

Thus far the undertaking has met with rapid progress and city officials are confident that it can be rushed to completion before the Lake Wichita supply is exhausted.

BORIS WAS A GRAND DUKE in the policy days before the war when kings were kings. His cousin, Nicholas, held down the Russian throne during the open season for royalty. But now Boris, who quit during by necessity, is boss of the hired help in a Paris cabaret. It's operated for American "bourgeois" by aristocrats of the old czarist regime.

MEET THE GOVERNOR, folks. He's George's chief executive, Thomas W. Hardwick. Here he is on the White House steps just after learning of his appointment to the legal advisory council of the Department of Justice, war frauds division.

HIAWATHA, OLD NOKOMIS AND MINNEHAHA WILL HOAM AGAIN THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS AND CANYONS IN THE ALGONQUIN WILDERNESS. Algonquins and Ojibways will portray them in the Discovery Week pageant beginning in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 4. It will commemorate the arrival of Etienne Brule and his companion, Grenelle, in the Canadian Soo, the setting of Longfellow's immortal poem. Here are some of the sights those attending will see: Grandma Nokomis and the Infant, Hiawatha, are in the upper left. Minnehaha and Paier, making for shore in their canoe, are in the upper center. Then you behold Hiawatha and the bear. In the lower left is the old Hudson Bay blackhouse whose walls were built in 1819. Next is a steamer entering the Sault Ste. Marie locks, which make river navigation possible despite the rapids. In the bottom panel is the Bridge of Many Waters, connecting the United States and Canada.

WANT TO KNOW SOMETHING ABOUT THE FRENCH REVOLUTION? Well, just get in touch with Alice Terry. She can give you all the details. You see Alice has been studying up on her history. She's playing the leading role of Marie Antoinette in the filming of Raoul Sabatini's "Sarramouche." And, ladies, she can give authoritative advice on some of the garbs popular in old France.

OLD CHINA, STILL 2000 YEARS BEHIND TIMES, CAN'T SEE THIS TWENTIETH CENTURY PROGRESS. SHE STILL IS FIGHTING IT OFF. The foreigners, though, by succumbing with the deity that meet his cry. Take for instance these "Honey Cakes" shown in the photograph at the top. They're transporting $100,000 through Shanghai's streets unguarded and without guards. Each weighs 10 cents per 1000 lbs. Every wheatharrow carries 13 silver bars weighing 100 pounds each. The "Honey Cakes" grand best is that not an ounce of the precious metal entrusted to its members has been lost in 25 years. In the left picture is the recent Shanghai Dragon Boat Religious Festival. Next you see one of the entries in the recent Shanghai Dragon Boat Religious Festival. On the lower left is a street merchant peddling his wares. A Chinese street scene is seen at the right.

AND THE OLD BUS RAMBLES RIGHT ALONG. This car is going up the snow-capped mountain highway leading to the summit of Pike's Peak in Colorado. People from the sweltering states in the east and middle west find surcease from the intense heat on this climb. They even have to put on the old "benettes." It's 14,109 feet above sea level at the top.

WE CAN'T SWEAR that this young lady caught this fish—but we can imagine even a fish jumping at the chance of being caught by her. Anyhow, this is the size of the salmon fishermen catch in the waters of Puget Sound to help furnish America's Friday dinner.

GOT A JOB FOR HIM. Mr. Business Man? Of course he wants to go to school a while longer, but some day he'll be on the market for something worth while. He's a regular speed demon on a typewriter. Daniel Schlegel is his name, and New York his home. Despite one missing hand, he pounds out 43 words a minute. And his copy's clean.

THEY MAY ALL BE SCHUMANN-HEINKS AND GALLI-CURCIS some day. These six little St. Louis girls are "The Six Little Geese" in Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts." It was one of the successes in the municipal opera there last season. Three hundred girls and boys were trained during the year. Scholarship winners were awarded the six most talented. Besides from the well-known left to right the "little geese" are Myrtle Yoss, Grace Drinkley, Louise Helmueller, Winifred Corrigan, Clara Schiller and Marie Lenhardt.

HE'S LAUGHING AT THE BRIGANDS But Thomas H. Day didn't laugh so much when the bandits of Tientsin-Pukow captured him and other foreigners in the train raid of May 6. The outlaw gang hit him with two of their number to deliver a note to pursuing government troops informing them the prisoners would be killed if the chase continued. He fulfilled his mission, then slipped away. Day's home is in Hedgesville, N. J.

Over twenty tennis players are expected to enter the Fourth Annual City Tennis tournament which will begin here today. Both singles and doubles. Other last minute entries are also expected to register Monday morning when the period for entrance in the tournament ends.

It was reported Saturday that the champion of the previous year, the city singles title, was called out of the city and would therefore probably be unable to participate in the tournament. Gallenamp was to play in the singles for the third time as winner of the championship in 1931. He could win the 1933 contest the evening cup presented by Landon-Hill sporting goods company, which he has held for the past two years, would become his personal property.

In case he can play, Gallenamp will face some stiff opposition to the title. Powers, winner of the state singles title in interscholastic tennis and unofficially the champion of Eastern Texas, will be in the city. Clifton Hayes, local high school tennis star who is well known in interscholastic circles; Charles E. Baker, winner of a central states tournament at Waco a short time ago; Paul Hines, the singles champion of the Texas Military Academy for the past year, and runner up in the Texas state interscholastic tennis tournament in 1932 and in other local stars who will go after the cup, are some of his opponents.

The Fort Hill tennis team composed of Major Gaudin, leader Paton, and Lieutenant Gant, who gave the local tennis artists so much trouble, will also compete.

MAYBE THEY'LL SETTLE IT THIS TIME

LEW TENDLER
is Benny Leonard, king of lightweight, to be treated to a surprise party when he steps into the ring with Lew Tindler at New York on July 23? Wise ones are shaking their heads dubiously. They think Benny has slumped up considerably. His scrap with Pinky Mitchell a few weeks ago proves it, they say. Others, claiming to be equally endowed with wisdom teeth, contend Leonard is at least as good as when he met Tindler the last time. And Lew didn't take the title so anyone could get up over the coming drama and expect a fast fight. Leonard often has expressed himself as being particularly anxious to eliminate Tindler once and for all. He regards Lew as his most dangerous challenger, and knows he cannot rest secure with his laurels as long as the Philadelphia is not decisively beaten.

Jamieson Threatens Heilmann of Tigers in American While Rogers Hornsby Increases National Lead

CHICAGO, July 21.—Charley Jamieson, of the Cleveland Indians, spurred on the hitting of his teammates in the rush of the speaker tribe toward the top of the list, is again threatening Harry Heilmann, star slugger of the Detroit Tigers for the leadership among the hitters of the American League, according to averages released today and which include Wednesday's games.

The Yankees star had participated in 40 or more games, while Heilmann, suffering a four-point loss during the past week, is leading the race with .338. The averages are of players who have participated in 40 or more games.

Babe Ruth of the Yankees, who is rapidly overtaking O. Williams, of the Philadelphia Nationals for the home run honors, is tied in hitting with an average of .378, and Eddie Collins, of the White Sox, who is out of the game with an injured knee, has swung back into his stride and is camped in fourth place with a mark of .354.

Ruth, in his marathon with the National League home run crater, cracking out three circuit blows while Williams begged one, Williams is leading with 12 while Ruth has had one.

The Yankees star had increased his total base record to 298 and as a run-getter, boosted his total to 84.

Eddie Collins added another base to his string, and is showing the way to the major league base leaders with 28 hits. He also is leading in the league in sacrifice hits with 25.

Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals is making rapid strides to clinch his hold at the head of the batters of the National League. He has now passed out in front with an average of .409, compared with .381 a week ago. Zach Wheat continues to be the fastest runner with 12.1, and Ed Roush of the rushing Cincinnati Reds, is making a strong bid with the leaders and is fourth with .316.

George Grantham of the Chicago Cubs is giving the base stealers a hot run for the honors in that department. The speedy Cub bottled his total hits to 24. Cliff Heathcote, a teammate, has entered the race with 20, while Max Carey is in between the pair with 12.

Other leading batters: Fournier, Brooklyn, .345; Young, New York, .341; Traylor, Pittsburgh, .338; Hollander, Chicago, .335; Bottomley, St. Louis, .349; Grimm, Pittsburgh, .348; Johnson, Brooklyn, .348; Prichard, New York, .343; O'Farrell, Chicago, .342.

Southern Association. Bernson, of Nashville, is making things interesting for Huhn, of the lead among the batters of the American Association with an average of .404.

Carl East, of Minneapolis, is leading with .387. Terry has played in 52 games. Lamar, another Toledo slugger, is safely anchored in third place with an average of .330.

Munny Brief of Kansas City annexed three circuit drives during the past week, and is leading in home run hitters with 24 four-ply blows. In addition to his circuit drives, Brief has 26 doubles and 8 triples and his string of 111 hits, which gives him the lead in total bases with 110. He also is the best run getter, having scored 26 times.

Cooney, of Milwaukee, with 24 stolen bases and Eddie Murphy, of Columbus, with 23 are putting up a close race for the honors of this department.

Other leading batters: Combs, Louisville, .343; Brief, Kansas City, .341; Smith, Toledo, .339; E. Murray, Columbus, .338; Wright, Kansas City, .332; Brown, Indianapolis, .330; Jarvin, Indianapolis, .328; Haas, St. Paul, .348; Christenbury, Indianapolis, .316.

Western League. Batters in the Western League continue to travel at a steady pace. The Bear club has a percentage of 337 compared with the Spudgers' 225.

Eddie Dyer, who pulled one of the most sensational catches of the season at Athletic park two weeks ago, while wearing a Houston uniform, reported to the Spudger hopeful Saturday afternoon. The message stated that he had been acquired from the Buffs. At the same time the Buff management announced the release of Third Baseman Handley to the Fort Smith Western League in exchange for Infielder Forger from the same club.

Working under the handicap of a rip that was torn loose from its moorings several days ago, George Steudler pitched a game that should have won for him. But the fate ruled otherwise.

George Bischoff has been giving his all to the club and has been forced to get behind the bat every day since the road trip started. Jonnard however stated Saturday that his injury was healed and that he would be ready to do some receiving Monday, if called on to do so.

A large number of infield hits were scored in Saturday's game between the Spudgers and the Crabs. This was accounted for by a dispatch which stated that the grounds were heavy and in bad condition. The scribes reported that the pitcher's box was so heavy that it was impossible for the pitcher to get into the box without being hit by a pitched ball and the second time by a clean single. Coombs who followed lined out in each instance and Bob was doubled off first. The hit and run was on but a sacrifice might have told a different story when the adding machines were put to work to count up total.

With the three leading clubs of the league falling before the onward march of the southern clubs Saturday, San Antonio moved into one point of third place and with three and a half games from the top the Bears now have a percentage of 327 compared with the Spudgers' 225.

THERE SUCCESSFUL WILDCATS IN ARCHER AND WICHITA

Chenault and Lea and Texhoma Co. Complete Wildcats in Archer County; Gulf Gets 250 Barreler on Ferguson

The effort to curtail production in the Archer field by the cutting down all unnecessary drilling operations to the minimum, has not been altogether successful, as a review of the week's activities shows the bringing in of several good producers in the proven areas and the opening up of many acres between the Verahoye and Peterson wells in the Wilson tract.

Young County Operators Are Resting on Oars

Special to the Times. GRAHAM, TEXAS, July 21.—In keeping with the general feeling of rest among operators in Young County, there is very little activity in Young County outside of the necessary work in taking care of production and maintenance in the matter of drilling offsets, agreements are being reached in many instances which will postpone until conditions adjust themselves.

Gulf Completes 150 Barreler East of Electra

The Gulf Production Company made its second completion for the week on the I. P. Douglas tract, east of Electra, by drilling No. 19 well in the 1900-foot pay, with a daily production estimated at 150 barrels.

Wichita Pipe Line Runs Gain 1100 for Week

The pipe line runs for the Wichita Falls district for the week ending Saturday, July 21, show an average of 11,700 barrels daily, a gain of approximately 1,100 barrels over the daily runs of the previous week.

250-BARREL WELL FOR TEXAS COMPANY IN SOUTH ELECTRA

The Texas Company Friday completed its No. 28 well in the south Electra pool, located in the H. T. C. survey, abstract 194. The well is averaging between 150 and 200 barrels daily from the 1400-foot pay. It is an offset to the east of the Rio Bravo producers on lease 2.

BURKBURNETT AND ELECTRA RUNS ARE OVER 25,000 EACH

Special to the Times. BURKBURNETT, TEXAS, July 21.—The pipe line runs for the week ending July 14, from the Burk Burnett district were 25,900 barrels daily. Both Electra and Burk Burnett sections fell off production on account of the failure of a number of wells to make connections with the pipe line for transportation of their product and also because of a fall-off of oil production.

DELINQUENT TAX COMPILATION IS GOING FORWARD

Compilation of the delinquent tax records for 1923 to the present date by County Tax Collector Guy Roney and his office forces is progressing nicely, although all have decided that it is a stupendous and tedious task.

TEXHOMA TEST ON PARKEY ENTERS SALT WATER, WILL BE DRILLED TO 1800 FEET

The Texhoma Company's No. 1 test on the Parkey tract, one mile south of the Cetti producers, which gave promise of a big oil field, is making a producer in a sand at 1784 feet, that after coring two feet showed plenty of oil, was banded dry later. Drilling was resumed when the bit entered a strong flow of salt water. Casing will be put and the well drilled to 1800 feet.

WILDCATTING NEAR ARCHER CITY IS STILL UNABATED

Special to the Times. ARCHER CITY, July 21.—Wildcatting in the vicinity of Archer City continues unabated. Agents of major and independent companies are still looking for tracts upon which to drill. Several tests are scheduled to start actual operations in the near future.

ADAMS, BROWN & McALISTER Well Makes 300 Barrels and Opens Up A New Pay Sand North of Clara

The announcement by the Texas Company from their offices in this city to the effect that the company would line future purchases of crude oil to 70 per cent of the production from the various patrons of the pipe lines has failed so far to have any appreciable effect on the operations now under way in the different pools throughout Wichita County.

DRILLING ACTIVE NEAR GRANDFIELD IN RED RIVER BED

Special to the Times. GRANDFIELD, OKLA., July 21.—The Oklahoma-Texas Company's No. 1 well in the Red River bed, near Grandfield, has reached a depth of 1840 feet and is producing 150 barrels daily.

EASTLAND, TEXAS, July 21.—The Massie well at the Stubbfield tract, two and one-half miles south of town, is making between 150 and 175 barrels after a shot in the sand at 3292 to 3212 feet. The well, which has been partially cleaned out, is expected to make 300 barrels when completed.

STEDHAM-TRASHER, ET AL, TEST ON KEMP-KEMPER SHOWS CONSIDERABLE OIL

STATE HAS UNTIL NOVEMBER, 1925, TO MEET FEDERAL AID PROVISIONS

The 28th legislature provided additional funds for this purpose. The increased funds will be used to good advantage by increasing the allotments to those progressive counties that have provided the facilities for the purpose of constructing more durable roads. This will be a distinct advantage to the counties. A connected state system is only delayed. In this connection we would like to state that the legislature in submitting the proposed amendment, and the Texas Highway Association, and the Texas highway commission in advocating it, had not the remotest idea of proceeding at this time an increase to the tax burdens of our state.

Beautiful Wedding Solemnized Wednesday; Mr. and Mrs. Graham Leave for Tour of Pacific Coast

Surely more than one person among those who witnessed the Graham-Lynch wedding Wednesday noon could think of nothing else, as Kathleen came slowly down the aisle on her father's arm, then Tennyson's description of the lovely Lily Maid of Astolat.

Her white tulle and lace wedding gown, with its shrouding veil of tulle caught with valley lilies, and the exquisitely showered bouquet of tiny bride's roses and lilies, together with a pure and fair as that of the fabled heroine of English poetry. She made a winsome and lovely bride, and no doubt there were nuptial prayers in the hearts of her friends as she joined her fiancé at the altar to seal an eternal vow.

The wedding was solemnized at the church of the Good Shepherd, with Rev. Dr. F. T. Dutton saying the single ring ceremony. Friends of the bride and groom gathered in the church, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, shortly before noon, and the pre-nuptial program began immediately on the stroke of the hour.

Early in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Graham left for the Pacific coast for an extended tour of its principal cities and pleasure resorts, expecting to make Seattle at the time President Harding's party will be there to review the Pacific fleet.

In the game, Miss Ruth Barnard won high score at bridge, and Mrs. J. I. Staley low, while Mrs. Ota G. Hamlin, won high score at "42".

Money May Increase Happiness, But Happiness Must Be There First

New Type of Millionaire Works And Is Happy; But the Acquisition Of Wealth Doesn't Alter Natures

By KATHLEEN MORRIS
America's Greatest Woman Writer for Women
There is a certain very unusual theory that many of us discover as we go on in life—the theory of compensation. This means that when I hear that Mary Smith is marrying the man of her dreams, I can say cheerfully, "All right, I wouldn't marry him if he had five hundred millions!" and when I hear that the great Russian movie actress is being paid a thousand dollars a day I merely comment, with a glance at a freckled little boy with the sun shining right through the coral of his fan-like ears, and a grinning little girl who has just lost her baby teeth:

"She hasn't any children, has she? Isn't that hard for any woman who has anything else?"
It is the instinct of self-protection that leads us to say these things, or do we really believe them?
I am inclined to believe in the law of compensation, and yet it takes a pretty strong philosophy alike to perceive it. For under every one of our natures, strong as life itself, lies acquiescence, ambition, greed, envy, egotism.

Which of us would not like to be the most beautiful woman in the world, the richest, the most powerful, the most successful? With five fine sons and five exquisite daughters, with either a God-given voice or a trained one, with a villa on the Riviera, a camp in the Rockies, and a completely equipped yacht always lying at anchor with steam up?

Unless you have things to give this minute, you might inherit the Ford and Rockefeller fortunes, and they would not seem to you one penny too large for your own use.

Money may enormously increase happiness, but happiness must be there first. Are you happy now?

Money may enormously increase happiness, but happiness must be there first. Are you happy now?

"DOWN EIGHTH STREET"—By Jane Trapp

"We almost collected that guy," said the seamed field man at the wheel. He was a careful driver; we'd been down Eighth with him before, but the pedestrian had changed his mind about crossing the street from the doubtful vantage point of his center.

The field man had glanced at his eyes, perceiving, "Wouldn't be much loss," he added, "if we'd gotten him and all his lot. My last set of tools wouldn't have dropped him the way it has been further away from it."

The man was a bootlegger, it developed, "them" boys being his specialty. On an all night run he had met an engagement with the driver and his crew for several dozen bottles, and most of them had been stowed away before the field man went out. Of course, they all drank; the field man drank a bottle, too, but about thirty minutes after his arrival when the whole string of taxis dropped, it developed without any doubt on the part of the driver that while he had taken the precaution to make several breaks when the bit was served to allow a job bit had been put on, he had neglected to lighten the car after the last one. It had simply slipped his mind.

Did you ever stop to figure out (getting away from the immediate subject) that the potato sound, some thimble of history, has contained a wholesome respect for law? If there had been Trapp, such as the denial of religious freedom, the imposition of taxation without representation, or some such fundamental grievances, men arise in a body to protest. But the great thinkers of the world have seemed to yea-say out early in life that if more than two or three want to band themselves together for the protection of the best interests of the whole, some little concessions have got to be made to leave the lamp to a common interest.

Call to mind some illustrious or honored national character who rebelled against constituted authority on some grounds other than religious or political liberty; some noted leader who lost his life of generalship to a grievance as few as defeated appetite, and I'll bet you'd an epitaph.

And her smallest child grieved herself ill.
And this, I give you my word, is an absolutely true story. "Oh," you say, "but I'd never do that! Half of what he had—no one tenth of what he had—would make me utterly happy!"
The answer is: Are you happy now?

Are you giving yourself and your energy generously now?
If not, you never would and you never will.
Money may enormously increase happiness, but the happiness has to be there first!

And money, especially when coupled with family, makes for other things—it inevitably brings envy, criticism, worry, and often blackmail and morose interest. The rich and the poor, these are the natural prey of all the thieves, swindlers, beggars, harp-players and cheats. Those are unpleasant words, but ask any millionaire you know if he is unfamiliar with them?

The answer is: Are you happy now?
Are you giving yourself and your energy generously now?
If not, you never would and you never will.

Great thinkers don't abhor to rebel against the laws generally conceded to be for the common interest, even though they may be personally adverse to them. They don't break them because it is against their personal dignity.

We make an awful fuss over a pretty law matter when we fall against the curfew of our license to drink poison, even in the most modified form. Especially when there are a hundred thousand things of better report that we might interest ourselves in. There are the child labor laws (or lack of them); the widow's pension provisions, the orphan and founding asylums, the homes for crippled children, the lack of homes for crippled children, the forest conservation needs, the bird conservation needs, the need for better roads, education, the need for better education of every kind—needs of infinitude.

Imagine Benjamin Franklin concentrating his statesmanship and attention on the matter of the sale of alcoholic beverages. Imagine that Washington (from another angle of genius) doing it. Imagine Abraham Lincoln doing it. Whatever may have been the ideas of those and the other great men in American politics and literature, they would have played square with the law.

The trouble with most of us is that we believe that the "consent of the governed" means the consent of the individual, and that the individual is necessarily us. The consent of the governed, according to the American constitution, means the consent of the majority of the governed; the approbation of most of the people.

And it probably wouldn't be a serious loss to the nation, according to the doctrine of the survival of the fittest and in recognition of the fact that the unit multiply two or three times as fast as the fit, if we could "collect" every bootlegger within the confines of the commonwealth and put him where he (or she) would have more time to build up a little thought. America has absolutely no use for people who continually and dangerously set themselves against the fairly constituted authority of the government. We have got to be law abiding first.

And this, I give you my word, is an absolutely true story. "Oh," you say, "but I'd never do that! Half of what he had—no one tenth of what he had—would make me utterly happy!"
The answer is: Are you happy now?

Are you giving yourself and your energy generously now?
If not, you never would and you never will.

Woman's Party at Seneca Signs "Declaration of Independence" Anew; Ask Federal Amendment

By CORINNE RICH
Universal Staff Correspondent
SENeca FALLS, N. Y., July 21.—"Aye," said each of the members of the National Council of the National Woman's Party in meeting here today to sign a declaration of independence anew, and to ask for a new federal amendment to give women equal rights with men.

The women's party in conference here to celebrate the anniversary of the first equal rights meeting, held in Seneca Falls in 1848, will adopt the proposal of the council and begin work right away.

Alice Paul, who has probably been in jail more times for her feminist convictions than any other American woman, proposed the new legislation.

The amendment, named for Jeannette Rankin, one of three most noted pioneer suffragettes, reads this way: "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

Our efforts are nothing at all like the efforts of the past. There is no longer the old-fashioned antagonism which Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, the originators of this little town, every one of them, are put up with pride over having the meeting here.

SENeca FALLS, N. Y., July 21.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS ago a little group of women, headed by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, met in this town and proclaimed to the world a declaration of independence for women.

It is not only the right to vote that the women want. Here are the things that they want: equal pay for equal work, equal work for equal pay, equal opportunity in schools, universities, government, professions, and industries, equal pay for equal work, authority in the church, equal marriage to their own kind, and a single moral standard.

The "Declaration of Independence" of the 19th type is not far different from the one of 1848. This time it was reiterated to the world in Japanese and Chinese, and in English, and in many other languages.

Three quarters of a century ago the women came in peace to Seneca Falls to demand equal rights with men. They have now come in peace to demand equal rights with men.

Take Care of Your Baby This Summer—Household Helps—Good Cooking

Regularity In Everything Keeps Baby Healthy and Happy; Last of Series From U. S. Health Service

Editor's Note—This is the last of a series of articles on summer care of babies, prepared especially for Wichita Daily Times readers by the U. S. Public Health Service.

A baby must keep regular hours. His bath, feeding, outing, play time, nap, going to stool, everything, in fact, should be carried on with as much care, precision and regularity as is necessary with any fine machine.

The following every-day program, of course, be modified to suit special conditions:

Six a. m.—Baby's first nursing. Family breakfast. Children off to school.

Nine a. m.—Baby's bath and second nursing. Sleep till noon.

Twelve m.—Baby's noon meal. Out-of-door airing. Nap.

Three p. m.—Afternoon nursing. Period of waking. Every two to three p. m.—Baby's supper and bed. Sleep till six a. m.

The child develops fastest during the first year of his life. Medical authorities agree that he needs 10 to 12 hours sleep during his first month; 14 hours during the next 11 months; and 13 hours during the next year.

Early to bed—

He should have his longest sleep at night. If he has been properly nursed he will sleep after his night nursing till the next morning.

A baby's increase in weight is a reliable index to his health. After the first week the loss of a pound or two means much to a baby. When he fails to gain or loses, even for one week, it usually means that something is wrong with him or with his food. Whatever it is, it should be remedied at once. Delay may be dangerous. The young mother should weigh her baby every week for nine months, every two weeks for the next three months, and once or twice a month till he enters school. There are tables that show the average rate of normal increase, but regular increase is more important than conforming to a table, and of course, perfectly normal tables may differ.

Has to cry—

All crying is not bad; baby needs a certain amount of it in order to develop his lungs. But remember that he cannot talk and that it is up to his mother to learn his language and know what is troubling him. All babies have certain ways of telling. For instance:

A low, whimpering cry, sometimes accompanied by sucking the fingers or lips, indicates hunger—or indigestion, caused by over-feeding. Probably you will know which.

Fretful crying means that baby is sleepy or uncomfortable. A loud, hoarse, harsh cry, or a cry with a change of clothing, or even a mere change of position may probably make him comfortable. If it does not, consult the doctor. The child may be ill.

A lusty cry, sometimes rising to a shriek and tears in the eyes, usually means colic or pain. In colic the knees are drawn up, in both colic and other pains the fists are likely to be clenched.

Understand Tones—

A low moaning or wailing, sometimes with a turning of the head from side to side, means a sick baby. Understand Tones.

usual flushing or pallor, sleeplessness, listlessness, loss of appetite, profuse sweating, peevishness, vomiting, or diarrhea signal that something is wrong. Do not handle baby too much; his bones bend easily and his muscles get sore and painful handling after eating. He should be held in one position. When he is taken up for any reason, his position should be changed. But always keep his head straight and his arms and legs free. Never throw him over your shoulder.

REV. THOMPSON CLOSES REVIVAL SERVICES HELD IN SCOTLAND ADDITION

The Rev. Theron D. Thompson, of Quana, who has been conducting a revival meeting under tent in the Scotland Addition, has closed out his services to go to other fields.

Mr. Thompson did some splendid preaching and those who were in attendance were both instructed and edified, according to several reports.

The crowds were large and attentive.

The evangelist had nothing to say in favor of "modernism" as that term is applied to the Bible and revealed religion. On the other hand he emphasized the virgin birth of Christ, pardon and cleansing of sins and an "endowment of power for service, showing how it is needed in this material age.

HERE'S A PERFECT BABY; SHE HAS NEVER TASTED MEDICINE

Edith Eugene Wilson, the fine little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wilson of 1408 Lamar avenue, isn't old enough to be a Sunshine Garden pony, but she has one record which probably none of the Sunshine Gardeners have.

For Edith is eight months old today, and she has never tasted a drop of medicine in her whole life. Also, her measurements and weight are in perfect accord with the 100 per cent requirements. Edith's mother weighs and measures her every week, and she has been reared according to the country's best child health advisors. When she was at Nosselt studio for this picture, the photographer tried half a dozen times to get one, "wee, wee" little serious pose, but Edith wasn't with him. When ever the camera winked its eye at her, and even when it didn't, she opened her mouth and squinted up her eyes and chuckled.

Did you ever see such a baby?

CIVIC LEAGUE WOMEN ESPECIALLY COMMEND THE FILLING STATIONS

The filling stations as civic beauty spots came in for a special commendation by the Civic League inspection committee last week.

Many other beautiful places were found and the committee report to the chairman was most encouraging, despite the exceedingly hot and dry weather which has been so hard on many of the lawns and flower gardens.

It was stated for one thing, that every home in the Barwise district had made some improvement during the past few weeks.

Chillicothe News

CHILICOTHE, TEXAS, July 21.—Chillicothe now has one of the best sewer and water systems of any town its size in the state. The water system is equipped with two new engines of the Fairbanks-Morse type of 37 1/2 horse power each, capable of furnishing 1200 gallons of water per minute. The well has a capacity of 50 gallons per minute thus assuring 150 gallons of water per minute, which would be ample supply in case of fire or other emergency. W. I. Rose, superintendent, states that only one-half of the engine will be used four hours each day to supply the city's needs. Pumping at 150 gallons per minute will cost only 144,000 gallons per minute total the city's consumption for one day of 144,000 gallons. Many of the homes are connecting with the city water, and the business houses are rapidly connecting up. The sewer and water extension systems were made possible by the voting of a bond issue of $100,000 maturing in forty years, which will be refunded annually.

New Tourist Park

With the steady stream of tourist passing through the city each day, Chillicothe has a new and beautiful realization of the need of a new tourist park where the stranger can enjoy accommodations that will leave lasting impressions of the city's hospitality. With Chillicothe to think to act, therefore when the need of a new city and tourist park, the community chamber of commerce immediately pledged its support, and work started Monday morning on the new park, in the east part of the city, located at the new city well. A building 40x60 feet with 2 shower baths, lavatories, and toilets will be erected immediately. A table running through the entire center of the building will offer much needed convenience to the tourist. The building will be so arranged as to hold public meetings when necessary. Two brick furnaces for cooking purposes will be another of the convenient features of the park. These modern and comfortable conveniences, with plenty of pure water will be furnished free to the tourist. Shade trees, flowers and Bermuda grass will be set out and when finished Chillicothe will have one of the most modern and beautiful parks in the state. The park is located just one block south of the Colorado-Gulf highway, and a large sign will be displayed on top of the city well, another at the railroad turn of the highway and others in various places, making it easy for the tourist to locate. Much credit is due the city officials and the community chamber of commerce for this long felt need. It is expected to have the park ready for occupancy about July 25. Every tourist passing through Chillicothe has a very cordial invitation to make this park their headquarters while in the city.

Hale-Benson

The marriage of Miss Maude Lee Hale, of Medicine Mound and Thomas Clifton Bacon of this city occurred at the Presbyterian Manse Monday evening, Rev. D. J. Murray officiating. The young people have many friends who wish them happiness and prosperity.

Rev. C. E. Lancaster Leaves

Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Lancaster left this week for Lampasas, where the former will conduct a meeting for the Lampasas church. He will also hold other meetings in Lampasas county before returning. They expect to be absent about a month. During the pastor's absence the pulpit at the Baptist church will be filled July 22 and 23, by Rev. J. B. McCroly, of Margaret. There will be no service the first Sunday in August, and the pastor expects to be in his accustomed place the second Sunday in August. The Men's Organized Class, during Rev. Lancaster's absence will be in charge of Judge Stokes of Vernon and Judge Sartin of Wichita Falls. Rev. Lancaster has received sufficient calls to conduct meetings that would have taken him from the local church for six months, but he has declined all offers except this one, and the Kirkland church, where he held a meeting, in the early spring. He is a fervent speaker, presenting the gospel without fear of favor, and his congregation wishes him every success at Lampasas.

Bob Ellis Promoted

Bob Ellis who has been manager of the Western Union in this city for the past year, has been promoted to the Dallas office and left Tuesday to assume duties of his advanced position. # AMUSEMENT CALENDAR FOR WEEK AT LOCAL THEATERS

Man Made Flood More Sensational Than Is Disaster

A man-made flood that will at least rival and probably surpass the greatest deluges in history will be seen in the William Fox special production, "The Town That Forgot God."

A whole town, built especially for the purpose of being destroyed by the forces of nature, is washed away. Everything is swept before it, houses, barns, trees, inhabitants of the village and livestock of all kinds, not to mention a half dozen cameramen who were swept from their positions while the scenes were being made.

No city in history was as completely demolished as "The Town That Forgot God." Even Johnstown, Pa., which was virtually destroyed by water on May 31, 1889, when a dam gave way, permitting the mass of water more than twenty feet in height to rush through the town, was not wrecked in as spectacular a fashion as this typical American village.

Even if motion pictures were available of all the great floods of history, including the Johnstown deluge, the more recent Dayton, O., catastrophe of the Galveston, Tex., disaster, it is doubtful if it would be any more thrilling or realistic than the one staged by Harry Millard for the William Fox photostage.

When this picture played its opening engagement at the Astor theatre in New York City the audience actually stood and applauded the thrilling climax formed by the terrific storm and flood scenes.

In addition to the torrents of water there is a terrific storm raging throughout the time the rushing waters are tearing the village to bits. This adds greatly to the realism and forms a scene that few people will believe is not the actual thing of the elements.

The village, which is destroyed by the storm and flood, was built in a valley across the Hudson River from New York City. Underneath the ground throughout the town a concrete base was laid to prevent the water from seeping into the ground before the scenes could be completed.

Nearly a score of cameramen were used in the making of the scenes, but six of these were thrown into the torrent when the platforms upon which they were standing toppled over by the rushing waters. A few minutes after the dam was destroyed the temporary town was under water.

Even the most biased motion picture producer attending the spectacle admitted that it was the most realistic and thrilling sight he had ever seen staged for a photostage.

"The Town That Forgot God" will be shown at the Empress theatre for nine days starting Monday.

"The Queen of Sin" is attraction at Strand Wednesday.

The Queen of Sin, a picture which is noted for its stupendous spectacular scenes, will begin its four days engagement at the Strand theatre Wednesday.

Thousands of obstacles had to be overcome in producing this film. The Temple of Astarte in the Roman glades, measuring five hundred feet in height and built of solid stone and long, was destroyed by a hurricane after the picture was finished, and had to be rebuilt during the production six weeks and necessitating an additional outlay of eighty thousand dollars.

Of the one thousand medieval buildings which were especially constructed, eight hundred were demolished in the scenes depicting the downfall of Sodom and Gomorrah and ninety aircraft were employed in these destruction scenes.

Beautifully mingled with the story of the past is an enthralling later modern times, which adds greatly to the interest of the production.

Use Electric Power. COORICANA.—Use of electrical power in the oil fields here is being extended to many operations through the construction of transmission lines of the Texas Power & Light Company in the Eastland and Stephens county fields. Electrical power has been demonstrated to be economical. It is stated.

'White Shoulders' Olympic Feature Starting Monday

Big a mother the right to rear her daughter with the sole object of fitting her to win a rich husband in the matrimonial market.

Or is it the positive duty of a mother to make sure that her daughter never will have to endure the bitter sting of poverty which has made the mother miserable for life?

And will a daughter, thus reared and educated, become a comparative nonentity, a mere jettison for the display of gorgeous gowns, or may her own fitness of soul make her a thoroughly admirable woman?

All these questions of enormous interest to the student of human nature in general and of womanhood in particular are asked and satisfactorily answered in "White Shoulders," the first National attraction in which Katherine MacDonald will be starred on Monday and Tuesday at the Olympic theatre.

Miss MacDonald will be seen as Virginia Pittman, a girl of exceptional charm and beauty, daughter of a mother who has suffered the bitterest privations and the most humiliating experiences because of lack of money. With her mother, the daughter has seen their old friends gradually shun them.

The daughter has seen her own brother on trial for his life because he struck a man who bragged that he had been a financial prop to the poverty stricken aristocrats.

The daughter has felt the terrific driving power of debt and the terrible need of raising money to aid her brother's fight for his life. Under such circumstances and in such a predicament, it is no wonder that she feels kindly toward Clayborne Gordon, a rich and handsome young sailor. But when Gordon turns out to be a cad, the femininity of the girl is aroused and she spurns him.

The solution of the situation, just when all hope seemed to have fled, is accomplished by the force of character of the daughter which belies about a surprising denouement.

Tom Mix at the Empress Theater Starts Thursday

Pity poor Tom Mix, the popular western star whose weekly pay check has three ciphers upon it. His pay days come around so fast that he hasn't time either to spend or enjoy the money received for his efforts to thrill movie fans. It is a case of being all dressed up with no place to go but to the studio and play at making pictures. Well, here is what Tom says:

"I got a hundred suits of clothes. I don't ever get a chance to wear 'em. Sure, around the house. One half of the time I have to be in the studio at eight in the morning, get home around six in the evening, too tired to go anywhere. The other half, I'm out on the desert or up in the mountains on location, living in a tent.

"I got a flock of automobiles—two Locomobiles, a Buick, that I use for location, and a Hudson and a new Straight-Flight Duesenberg roadster. Do I get to drive 'em? Sure, between my home and the Fox studios—six blocks.

"I got a new yacht—ninety feet long, the 'Miss Flirt.' 'Dusty' Farnum, whose shipyard she was built, tells me she can do 25 knots—whatever that is—an hour. Some day I hope to see her do it. In the picture, I'm now making, 'A Modern Monte Cristo' we are to have some water scenes at San Pedro. I think that's where 'Dusty' told me the yacht's coral was. If I get time while I'm down there, I'll look 'Miss Flirt' up—maybe take a ride on her.

"I'd love to visit my neighbors. I like to take Mrs. Mix and see a good show now and then—but do go? Half the time I'm away on location, and the other half I'm too tired when I get home to do anything but go to bed. Mrs. Mix might just as well be a widow, so far as I'm concerned. I don't know if I've ever done it, but I'd like to see her do it. In the picture, I'm now making, 'A Modern Monte Cristo' we are to have some water scenes at San Pedro. I think that's where 'Dusty' told me the yacht's coral was. If I get time while I'm down there, I'll look 'Miss Flirt' up—maybe take a ride on her.

And thus ends the soliloquy and lament of poor, unhappy, overworked Tom Mix, whose latest William Fox picture, 'Three Jumps Ahead,' comes to the Empress Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

'Forget-Me-Not' Comes to Strand Starting Monday

"Forget-Me-Not," the Metro picture which comes to the Strand theatre Monday and Tuesday respectively with great fidelity the life story of two founders.

In the orphanage where her mother had left her as a baby, Ann Gordon had found one congenial soul, another orphan named Jimmy. His one day there comes a rich woman who chooses Jimmy for a nephew and Ann is left alone. The other children eventually find homes but she wants the little girl with a crippled leg. A street musician takes pity on her and she goes to share the paths of the two childhood sweethearts, diverging but through the long years Ann carries the memory of Jimmy and from it draws inspiration and courage in her struggle to become a successful violinist. It is a story of faith and love and yearning for happiness that is thoroughly human from beginning to end.

The orphans are played by Gareth Hughes and Bessie Love who make the characters so lovable and so pitiful that there is a constant tug at the heart strings.

"Forget-Me-Not" is a Louis Burston production, written by Henry R. Szymanski and adapted by John R. Clymer. It was directed by W. R. Van Dyke.

'Rent Free' Will Be Attraction at Gem on Monday

The rooftops of New York: When you see them in "Rent Free," Wallace Reid's Paramount picture which is to be seen at the Gem theatre Monday, you'll swear they are the real thing.

But they are not. The company might have been taken to New York; they could have built a tremendous platform to stage the scenes—a hundred or more—but they did neither. Director Howard Higgin and the art directors and others evolved the plan of locating the set on the roofs of the big studio buildings in Hollywood.

They built up some plaster brick walls, used the regular skylights chimney pots, etc., hoisted up sun arcs and other lights, erected diffusers and took the company to the roofs. The effect was perfect and nobody knows how many thousand dollars were saved by this judicious move.

And you, Mr. and Mrs. Playgoer, will never believe it when you see the picture on the screen. That is

DIFFERENT SURVEY PUTS COUNTY TO AN ADDED EXPENSE

A difference in surveys has put the county to an added expense. It all came about as the result of a survey made of the drainage level of Sixth street years ago when the court house was erected and the runways on the west side of the court house were constructed.

At that time it was determined just where the street level would be and accordingly the runway to Sixth street was placed at such a slant as to meet flush with the concrete about Sixth street over paved.

When the contractors began work on paving Sixth street it was found that the street level would be at least ten inches lower than had been anticipated and for that reason the concrete runway had to be torn out and reconstructed.

Inasmuch as this work had to be done the commissioners also decided to pave the entire driveway.

DETENTION HOME MATTER WILL BE DISCUSSED MONDAY

County commissioners will discuss the proposition of a detention home for delinquent and dependent juveniles at their regular meeting Monday. The question was opened last week in executive session, at which time advice was solicited as to the possibility of the county expending money for this purpose.

This advice will be given to them at the meeting Monday. The commissioners, it is believed, are in favor of establishing such an institution, but to what extent they can proceed is not known as yet.

Various missionary societies in the city are backing the movement and will in all probability give great assistance should it be found that the county can expend some money in this direction.

The need of such an institution is keenly felt, especially by Juvenile Officer W. G. Bradley, who is confronted with situations each week that could be solved by a detention home.

Retail Review Reproduces Ad Of Local Store

The Retail Review furnishes to thousands of retail stores the best money making advertising and merchandising ideas, selected from over the country, compiled and analyzed each week and it is a decided compliment for any store to have an idea or an advertisement reproduced in their publication.

REUNION IN KENTUCKY IN HONOR OF FAMILY FROM SEYMOUR, TEXAS

HENDERSON, KY., July 21.—A picnic reunion was given in Atkinson Park, Henderson, Kentucky, Sunday, July 15, by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barron, honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Williams and daughter, Roseline, of Seymour, Texas. All those present were old friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Williams, and after an hour of getting acquainted and talking over old times, the barbecue, which was furnished by each family and were well filled with every kind of good things to eat, were unpacked and spread on the tables in the largest dining shed. Each one ate his fill, keeping in mind that there was to be enough for supper, then the afternoon was spent in taking a walk through the beautiful park, and a continuation of old times. Supper was served early, so those living in other towns could return home.

In addition to the guests of honor, the other guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Armstrong, P. C. Stevens, Chas. Busby and family, Roberts, K. W. B. Allgood, Roberts, Ky.; W. B. Bennett and family, E. A. Broadley, Claude Brown and family, Jno. Travis, Carl Tanner, Richard Keesh and family, Louisville, Ky.; Dr. and Mrs. Hardin and family, Evansville, Ind.; Dr. and Mrs. Tanner and family, Misses Blanche Tanner, Victoria French, Waverly, Ky.; Martha Biggs, Evansville, Ind.; Messrs. J. W. Stull, Jno. Thomason, Roberts, Ky.; Raymond Allgood, Roberts, Ky.; J. J. Barron, Evansville, Ind.; Dean Frieby, Evansville, Ind.; and Hardin Armstrong, Cincinnati, Ohio; Mesdames Hattie Lightfoot, S. E. Lightfoot, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barron and daughter, Marthella.

More than 60 guests enjoyed this most delightful picnic and reunion.

ENJOYABLE PICNIC HELD LAST WEEK FOR EMPLOYEES EVANGELINE PETROLEUM

J. J. Jenkins, vice-president and general manager of the Evangeline Petroleum Company, and Mrs. Jenkins, were hosts at a very enjoyable evening picnic at Haven Park last week. The guests were the company's full office and clerical forces and as many members of the field force as could be spared from their respective duties.

After doing ample justice to a splendid picnic supper, the guests bestowed themselves to the swimming pool, where an hour was devoted to frolic and fun. All present voted the occasion a success and assured Mr. Jenkins that as "one good turn deserves another," they would expect him to repeat in July, 1929. Mr. Jenkins stated that it was his purpose to make the Evangeline employees' picnic an annual affair.

Homer McCoskey of Kansas, formerly of Wichita Falls, left for home Friday, following a visit with his college chum, William Statton, 1419 Twelfth street.

Main Embankment of Storage Dam Will Be Completed in Very Few Days Rushing Work on City Water Supply

Less than ten days' work remains to complete the main embankment of the storage dam; the dredging company, now engaged in putting the final layer of silt and sand on the top of the big structure, has fixed July 23 as the day on which the laborers shall be finished, but may not be entirely through by that time.

With the completion of the embankment itself, all that remains to be done is the rip-rap work, more than two-thirds finished; Capt. John King of Fort Worth, contractor on this phase of the contract, believes he will be through in not over 40 days, at the outside. The task of "dressing up" the gate-house, which is being provided with brick walls, will require but a short time, and a week or two will suffice. It is thought, to construct the bridge which will connect the house with the bluff at the south end of the dam.

The dredging company is preparing to pull up stakes and move back to the Puget Sound country. The lumber used for the temporary abutments on the dam is being sold as rapidly as it can be discarded, buyers from the oil fields and from Wichita Falls being available for apparently the entire supply. Probably within the next week, the company will begin dismantling such of the frame work as will require, as will not be required permanently.

The putting on of the last few feet, at the top of the dam, is proving a troublesome task, owing to the difficulty of keeping the dredge discharge from breaking through the gate-house walls. However, steady progress is being made, as earthen levees are erected along each side of the top of the dam, to confine the discharge, and these levees are in place about 40 feet at the dam, and waits only on further rains to be filled up. Contractors will probably

$90,000 Appropriation Allowed By State Highway Department for Seymour Road Improvement Plans

The state highway department Friday announced that $90,000 had been appropriated and allowed for Seymour county on state highway No. 19. Highway No. 19 is the Seymour road, which leads out west of the city.

Just what this appropriation means cannot be ascertained at this time, as County Engineer J. M. Ibsell is out of the city enjoying a summer vacation and the appropriations of the state highway department are always made on requests and recommendations by him.

None of the county officials who are in the city are able to solve the situation. No bonds have been voted for the paving of this road, which is eleven and one-half miles in length.

It is suggested that the appropriation be made at this time, as the representation that sufficient money would be available at the end of this year in precinct No. 1 is a strong argument in favor of the $90,000, which was offset by the state appropriation. This amount would pave practically half of the road.

WICHITA COUNTY A. & M. EX-GRADUATES SUBSCRIBE $1500 TO STUDENT'S FUND

Wichita county ex-graduates of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas have subscribed $1,500 so far to the students' loan fund to be used in assisting worthy young men in completing their studies at College Station. It was announced Saturday by J. L. Lochridge, president of the Wichita Falls A. & M. Ex-Students Association and chairman of the loan fund campaign for the third congressional district, comprising Wichita and several adjoining counties.

The campaign will shortly be extended to the other counties of the district and it is anticipated that a large total will be raised in this section to add to the general fund for the state. Chairman Lochridge said.

SULLIVAN SAYS OCCUPATION ARMY AS COLLECTOR IS JOKE

Calls Attention to Expense And Consequent Small Total Amount Paid As Reparations

By MARK SULLIVAN

Political Correspondent of the New York Tribune and Wichita Daily Times

Copyright 1923, by the New York Tribune

They say the German "bank" or "loan" or "won't" You hear that everywhere, especially in France, from all those who support the theory of stony measures toward Germany.

Then you come to Germany, and perfectly sincere Germans, speaking in complete good faith, tell you what immense sums Germany has paid, and ask you, with highly emotional indignation, to look on this, which Germany has given up, and on that, and on the other.

And both sides are right. The confusion lies in the fact that what the allies, especially France, has got is not equal to what Germany has paid. The Germans think they have done their best, that they have strained themselves to the point of ruin. But the allies, on their part, say they haven't received any considerable amount of reparations; and France points to her ruins, which she is restoring from her own pocket, and toward which the Germans have contributed comparatively nothing.

The explanation is that when the Germans talk about it they think in terms of what they have given up. But when the French talk about it they think in terms of what they have got.

One figure that illustrates the difference is the cost of the armies of occupation. All that expense is charged up against Germany. It is a prior charge and must be paid before reparations. No part of it, naturally, is credited to Germany on account of reparations. And this expense on account of the armies of occupation is enormous. Already it has run into billions of gold marks, and the end is not yet. Germany is expected to pay the costs of the enlarged occupation of the Ruhr.

And it is not the only cost of the armies of occupation. Germany has to pay the expenses of all these commissions that are going up and down her soil. There have been, or are, literally hundreds of high-salaried men going through Germany looking for concealed military supplies and jewelry—that the German army took away from France and Belgium. It is right that the Allies should seek them out. But from the point of view of actual cash paid by Germany, it means that from month to month more of the cash Germany has paid has gone to meet the expense of making her pay it. Germany sees so much cash paid; but at the end of the payment sets the amount demanded from her for reparations not appreciably diminished.

All this illustrates one fundamental fact: as a business matter, an occupying army, to collect a cash indemnity, or a debt, is a joke. It costs about a dollar for every dollar you collect.

But this is a small item in the immense list of what Germany has given up. These things she has given up have been not only a subtraction from Germany's wealth, without adding anything like an equivalent sum to the Allies' wealth, but, furthermore, these things that Germany has given up have actually impaired her capacity to pay more. They have been torn from the heart of her industrial mechanism and have reduced her capacity to produce and pay.

For example, Germany gave up all her merchant shipping. Most of it was taken by the Allies in reparation for the British ships that Germany sunk during the war. These German ships haven't meant much to Britain, because Britain has more ships than she needs. But, obviously, Germany was left without any mercantile shipping, is deprived of an integral part of her trade organization, and is to that extent less able to make the money with which to pay reparations.

If you start out from the point of view of what Germany has paid, or given up, or been deprived of, the list is pretty formidable and the consequent depreciation of her capacity to make the money necessary to pay reparations is apparent. A list of some of the more important assets Germany has given up would run somewhat as follows:

The German colonies, which are now distributed, on one status or another, among the Allies.

The German mercantile shipping, already mentioned.

The German navy, to the Allies this was no asset at all, except what they have been able to sell for scrap. But to Germany it represented a cash expenditure of billions.

Alsace-Lorraine, as well as portions of Poland, and the commercial assets Germany had in those territories.

The Saar coal mines, which Germany reckons as worth a quarter of a billion dollars, but which the Allies reckon at only about seven or five million dollars. (Both are right.)

The one figure represents what Germany lost, the other what the Allies got. The difference in actual value between the mines as they stood in Germany's economic system and what the Allies took out of them is obvious. It illustrates this whole story of the difference between what Germany thinks she has paid and what the Allies think they have got.

The military, naval and aeronautic supplies and material and the disrupting and converting of the plants for making them. This has meant hundreds of millions to Germany, but little or nothing to the Allies.

Germany has to pay the reparations not only for herself but for all the other countries that were associated with her in the war. The reparations were assessed against all these countries jointly, but obviously Austria, Hungary and Turkey can't be looked to for payment, Germany being the one solvent country among them, all the burden falls on her.

German property sequestered in the Allied countries. The value of this runs in the neighborhood of a billion and a half dollars.

The German submarine cables and the German government's interest in various public utilities.

The deliveries in kind—coal, lumber and the like. Here, again, the whole story is illustrated. These deliveries in kind are credited to Germany by the Allies at one figure—very low figures—but charged up to Germany at her high market value. Their value to the Allies is less than their cost to Germany.

Of all these and other things the Germans have given up and transferred to the Allies, the Germans say the value is about six and a half billion dollars. That is what the German government tells the German people they have given up.

The Allies, on the other hand, estimate it at relatively little or nothing. France tells her people this. Germany has paid her nothing on account of reparations.

able to collect taxes more efficiently and in larger amounts. Most important of all, Germany will be able to borrow money in immense sums. It might well be that a stabilized Germany could float loans internally and in America and elsewhere running upward of a billion dollars. This money will provide working capital for Germany's business. The great and especially improved industrial plant that Germany is will become a going concern. The psychological factor will become favorable. Germany will start off with an immense impetus and within a short time there will be a wholly new and different Germany "as is." It will be apparent that Germany could have paid much larger reparations, and the world will rebuke itself for having fixed the reparations so low.

If it be asked, then, why not fix the reparations higher? The answer is that if the reparations are fixed too high in the beginning the other things will not follow. If the reparations are fixed too high, the mark will not become stable, the German budget cannot be balanced, the bankers will not make loans, the psychological factor within Germany will not make large production possible. It is an unfortunate dilemma, but there is no way out of it.

One question belongs here: Has Germany, in good faith, made an earnest effort to pay as much as she could? I have ascertained that question of disinterested Americans in a position to know. Their answer cannot be given in a single word. There were and are some German leaders who favored a policy of staking every penny to pay. Rathenau was one of them, and Rathenau was assassinated by those who didn't favor that policy.

It is well known, of course, that many wealthy Germans have sent their capital out of Germany into neutral countries. That certainly represented an effort, so far as individual Germans were concerned, to avoid letting the government lean them and to avoid paying reparations. But could the German government have prevented that? Certainly not. The government was new and weak. In any other country, under the same circumstances, individual citizens would have tried to hide their money from the indemnity collector.

So far as the German government and the German people have failed to show good will, have failed to show the intention to pay as much as they could, there is no valid excuse made for them by every disinterested observer. That excuse is the failure of the Paris Peace Conference to make the reparations a fixed, known, determined sum. This was the fundamental error of the Peace Conference, the one great fact that the reader earnest for understanding should get his teeth into. The Paris Conference left the total amount of the reparations "up in the air." In effect, they said to Germany, "Go to work, produce as much as you can, and each year the reparations commission will come around and take what you have around." There was no limit, either of amount or of time.

Under such a condition no nation can be expected to have the will to pay. Imagine a business man worth $50,000. If you say to him, "You must pay $100,000 and you are free, he will go to work and try to make it and pay it. But if you put the amount beyond any reasonable limit of his capacity, if you say to him, "You must pay $1,000,000," he will lie down and quit. (That is why the reparations must be fixed not on the basis of Germany's capacity to pay.)

And if you say to the business man, "Go to work, make as much as you can, and we will take it all away from you for a series of years to which we refuse to set any present limit"—in that case, most assuredly, the debtor will lie down and quit. And that, in effect, is what the Paris Conference said to Germany.

Those Americans over here who are in touch with the facts estimate a fair appraisal of what Germany has already turned over to the Allies somewhere about four billion dollars.

One other fact needs to be mentioned at this point. Partly as a general result of the war and partly as a result of the Versailles treaty and mistakes made by the Allies since the war, Germany has been prevented from paying as much as otherwise she might have paid. Germany as a democracy, a new and a weaker democracy, was as inefficient industrially as before the war. To pass from a most compact autocracy to an extremely loose democracy is a strong wine under all circumstances. German workmen are less docile than they were. Industry is disorganizing, which has had in hand with the military discipline, has been loosened. The restlessness of the people, starting with this change in the government, has been increased by the successive crises that arose every few months, engendered by the mistakes of the Allies and the disagreements among them as to their policy toward Germany. The invasion of the Ruhr, of course, almost put a stop to production in that territory.

Of course, all that Germany has lost she deserved to lose. Measured in terms of justice, Germany should lose twenty times more—and even then would only have made a start toward recompensing the world for the loss of blood and treasure she brought upon it.

But the unhappy fact is—and this is a thing most unpalatable for any of us to swallow—that it is not possible to fix Germany's debt in terms of justice. It is an utter impossibility to make Germany pay as much as justice would demand that she pay. Justice must be eliminated from the problem of reparations.

Since Germany cannot be made to pay enough to satisfy justice, the next step is she must be made to pay every cent that she can. And what Germany can pay is an economic problem. This has been, ever since the Armistice, the widest variation in the estimates of economists, business men, bankers and politicians as to Germany's capacity to pay. Just now there is a general approximation toward some twelve billion dollars.

The present writer, after going over the figures with many well-informed authorities, believes that Germany's capacity is much greater than that, but believes also that this is probably the maximum that will ever actually be gotten out of Germany.

The reason for this paradox is psychological. The amount of the reparations when it is fixed will be based on Germany "as is." And just as soon as the reparations figure is fixed—or a few months afterward—the "as is" will be a wholly different Germany "as is."

So soon as the reparations figure is fixed (assuming it is fixed at all in time to save Germany from a wholly different course in the direction of economic chaos) several things will happen at the same moment that the reparations are fixed and will be a part of the process of fixing the reparations.

The mark will be stabilized, the government budget will be equalized, the government will become more secure in its seat and will be able to collect taxes more efficiently and in larger amounts.

Germany will be able to borrow money in immense sums. It might well be that a stabilized Germany could float loans internally and in America and elsewhere running upward of a billion dollars. This money will provide working capital for Germany's business. The great and especially improved industrial plant that Germany is will become a going concern. In any other country, under the same circumstances, individual citizens would have tried to hide their money from the indemnity collector.

So far as the German government and the German people have failed to show good will, have failed to show the intention to pay as much as they could, there is no valid excuse made for them by every disinterested observer. That excuse is the failure of the Paris Peace Conference to make the reparations a fixed, known, determined sum. This was the fundamental error of the Peace Conference, the one great fact that the reader earnest for understanding should get his teeth into. The Paris Conference left the total amount of the reparations "up in the air." In effect, they said to Germany, "Go to work, produce as much as you can, and each year the reparations commission will come around and take what you have around." There was no limit, either of amount or of time.

Under such a condition no nation can be expected to have the will to pay. Imagine a business man worth $50,000. If you say to him, "You must pay $100,000 and you are free, he will go to work and try to make it and pay it. But if you put the amount beyond any reasonable limit of his capacity, if you say to him, "You must pay $1,000,000," he will lie down and quit. (That is why the reparations must be fixed not on the basis of Germany's capacity to pay.)

And if you say to the business man, "Go to work, make as much as you can, and we will take it all away from you for a series of years to which we refuse to set any present limit"—in that case, most assuredly, the debtor will lie down and quit. And that, in effect, is what the Paris Conference said to Germany.

Those Americans over here who are in touch with the facts estimate a fair appraisal of what Germany has already turned over to the Allies somewhere about four billion dollars.

One other fact needs to be mentioned at this point. Partly as a general result of the war and partly as a result of the Versailles treaty and mistakes made by the Allies since the war, Germany has been prevented from paying as much as otherwise she might have paid. Germany as a democracy, a new and a weaker democracy, was as inefficient industrially as before the war. To pass from a most compact autocracy to an extremely loose democracy is a strong wine under all circumstances. German workmen are less docile than they were. Industry is disorganizing, which has had in hand with the military discipline, has been loosened. The restlessness of the people, starting with this change in the government, has been increased by the successive crises that arose every few months, engendered by the mistakes of the Allies and the disagreements among them as to their policy toward Germany. The invasion of the Ruhr, of course, almost put a stop to production in that territory.

Of course, all that Germany has lost she deserved to lose. Measured in terms of justice, Germany should lose twenty times more—and even then would only have made a start toward recompensing the world for the loss of blood and treasure she brought upon it.

But the unhappy fact is—and this is a thing most unpalatable for any of us to swallow—that it is not possible to fix Germany's debt in terms of justice. It is an utter impossibility to make Germany pay as much as justice would demand that she pay. Justice must be eliminated from the problem of reparations.

Since Germany cannot be made to pay enough to satisfy justice, the next step is she must be made to pay every cent that she can. And what Germany can pay is an economic problem. This has been, ever since the Armistice, the widest variation in the estimates of economists, business men, bankers and politicians as to Germany's capacity to pay. Just now there is a general approximation toward some twelve billion dollars.

The present writer, after going over the figures with many well-informed authorities, believes that Germany's capacity is much greater than that, but believes also that this is probably the maximum that will ever actually be gotten out of Germany.

The reason for this paradox is psychological. The amount of the reparations when it is fixed will be based on Germany "as is." And just as soon as the reparations figure is fixed—or a few months afterward—the "as is" will be a wholly different Germany "as is."

So soon as the reparations figure is fixed (assuming it is fixed at all in time to save Germany from a wholly different course in the direction of economic chaos) several things will happen at the same moment that the reparations are fixed and will be a part of the process of fixing the reparations.

The mark will be stabilized, the government budget will be equalized, the government will become more secure in its seat and will be able to collect taxes more efficiently and in larger amounts.

Germany will be able to borrow money in immense sums. It might well be that a stabilized Germany could float loans internally and in America and elsewhere running upward of a billion dollars. This money will provide working capital for Germany's business. The great and especially improved industrial plant that Germany is will become a going concern. The psychological factor will become favorable. Germany will start off with an immense impetus and within a short time there will be a wholly new and different Germany "as is."

It is well known, of course, that many wealthy Germans have sent their capital out of Germany into neutral countries. That certainly represented an effort, so far as individual Germans were concerned, to avoid letting the government lean them and to avoid paying reparations. But could the German government have prevented that? Certainly not. The government was new and weak. In any other country, under the same circumstances, individual citizens would have tried to hide their money from the indemnity collector.

able to collect taxes more efficiently and in larger amounts. Most important of all, Germany will be able to borrow money in immense sums. It might well be that a stabilized Germany could float loans internally and in America and elsewhere running upward of a billion dollars. This money will provide working capital for Germany's business. The great and especially improved industrial plant that Germany is will become a going concern. The psychological factor will become favorable. Germany will start off with an immense impetus and within a short time there will be a wholly new and different Germany "as is." It will be apparent that Germany could have paid much larger reparations, and the world will rebuke itself for having fixed the reparations so low.

If it be asked, then, why not fix the reparations higher? The answer is that if the reparations are fixed too high in the beginning the other things will not follow. If the reparations are fixed too high, the mark will not become stable, the German budget cannot be balanced, the bankers will not make loans, the psychological factor within Germany will not make large production possible. It is an unfortunate dilemma, but there is no way out of it.

One question belongs here: Has Germany, in good faith, made an earnest effort to pay as much as she could? I have ascertained that question of disinterested Americans in a position to know. Their answer cannot be given in a single word. There were and are some German leaders who favored a policy of staking every penny to pay. Rathenau was one of them, and Rathenau was assassinated by those who didn't favor that policy.

It is well known, of course, that many wealthy Germans have sent their capital out of Germany into neutral countries. That certainly represented an effort, so far as individual Germans were concerned, to avoid letting the government lean them and to avoid paying reparations. ## Every Man Must Sign a Receipt For a Drink and None Gets Over Gallon of Liquor During Month

The Mot-Book and Its Effect Upon Alcoholism—How Sweden Went Broke—Sound Money as Bad an Inflation—Why the Swedes Favored the Germans—A Royal Romance Whose Disastrous Results Gave an American Minister a Palace.

(Copyright, 1922, by Carpenter's World Travels)
STOCKHOLM.—I have studied my toe on the temperance movement in every country I have visited since I crossed over to Europe. I found it in France, though the progress there is not great and the peasants are still more or less under the influence of liquor by their continuous drinking of wine and brandy. It exists also in Belgium but has not yet developed to any extent with the Dutch. Holland sticks to its gin, and in Amsterdam I found a curious moment of our bibulous past in a book of 400 recipes for American drinks published in Dutch. I was in Amsterdam the night of the queen's birthday and the streets were crowded with men gloriously drunk. Denmark, that country of the helpful hen and the cooperative egg, has now 300,000 members in its temperance societies, but it still keeps on drinking high per cent liquor, singing the white songs like the chicken ditty of our anti-prohibition days:

"I had a little hen and it had a wooden leg,
And nearly every morning it used to lay an egg.
It was the best little chicken we had on the farm—
And another little drink won't do us any harm."

Norway is suffering from lack of tourists on account of its law prohibiting the use of any liquors which contain more than fourteen per cent of alcohol, and her trade with Portugal and Spain suffers because the latter countries have retaliated by putting a big import duty on the spirit codfish the Norwegians make. Portugal has raised these duties five hundred per cent. There is now a big fight in Norway between the wets and the dries, and the Antiposton, one of the chief dailies of Kristiania, blames the prohibition law for increasing the drinking among the young. On the other hand, the Aftenblad says: "We know that prohibition has decreased misdemeanors caused by drunkenness over fifty per cent. The result does honor to the power of resistance of the Norwegian people."

Liquor Selling in Sweden.
Here in Sweden they have a new method of controlling the liquor traffic. They investigate each person and provide how much liquor he or she may have every month. The country has had different kinds of temperance legislation in the past, and on a straight vote for or against prohibition last year fifty-one per cent of the voters cast their vote and forty-nine per cent say. That vote has necessitated the system which has been in operation here for several years and which is highly conservative Sweden consider preferable to our own. This is to give no drinks except to those who have Mot-books, by which it means little books about the size of a savings bankbook. These are given out by local liquor societies, appointed by law which decide just who may have the right to buy liquor, and how much he may buy. The most any one can have is four litres, or less than a gallon per drunkenness declined sixty-seven per cent, the hospital cases an equal amount and chronic alcoholism was reduced by thirty per cent. The first figures were taken from the police records and the last two from hospital records.

Beats the Bootleggers.

A curious condition was produced here by the almost absolute prohibition caused by the blockade during part of the war. Through 1917 and 1918 almost no liquor could be brought in and legally sold. This, the authorities claim, acted in much the same way as total prohibition in the United States. They say also it had the same condition as to drunkenness which they assert, but which I doubt, now exists in the United States. As soon as the people here found they could not buy all the liquor they wanted at a reasonable price, private illegal stills were instituted, and the private manufacturer and bootlegger flooded the market so that drunkenness went up like a shot and kept going up until liquor was supplied after the old methods, when the drunkenness began to decline. It is now far below what it was in 1918. The people can get liquor legally and the bootleggers have vanished. Dr. Ivan Bratt, the originator of this Mot-book system, and at the head of the movement for the regulation of liquor legislation in Sweden, tells me that he believes a strongly controlled legal trade in liquor is better than prohibition, on account of the illegal actions that always arise out of prohibition.

Drunkenness Decreasing.
I am told that the drunkenness has greatly decreased since the inauguration of the Mot-book system and that the amount of alcoholic liquors sold off the premises has dwindled to half. I have before me a chart showing a diagram of the decline in drunkenness, hospital cases, and the use of alcohol and chronic alcoholism in the city of Stockholm from 1912 to 1921. The estimate was made for each ten thousand inhabitants. The street

1918 more than fifteen hundred flooded the market with new stocks. During the four years of the war the bank earnings increased five hundred per cent and the deposits were doubled and the savings account, run by hundreds of millions of dollars. The people were shut off from investing abroad and they bought local stocks and kept on buying, thinking they were making more money the higher the stocks rose. Then the war neared its close, Sweden was shut off from the rest of the world and its business dwindled to nothing. Everything fell, the companies stopped paying dividends and those who owned shares were forced to sell to be able to live. There was no demand for the stocks outside Sweden. They dropped lower and lower and thousands were ruined. I understand that things are growing better today, but the business in Sweden is on a gold basis, and for this reason the lands of inflated paper currencies can not trade with her. And so the government has been causing ruin while just across the Baltic, cheap paper is bringing a surplus of money. Truly the economic situation of Europe "passeth all understanding."

Founded on Gold.
And still I cannot believe that the financial status of Sweden is desperate. Most of the business of Europe is founded on the sands of inflated Swedish business is based upon gold, and the national debt is only one-tenth that amount. The government has a surplus of more than five hundred million gold dollars.

And then look at the resources of Sweden. Wood is not only used in the temporary money depression. It has farm products which bring in a billion dollars per annum. Sweden has ten thousand factories which are annually making goods approximating three-quarters of a billion dollars. The Swedes were selling steel tools long before Tapal-stein, the grandson of Methusalem and brother of Noah, worked at the forge. The forest industries of Sweden alone produce something like one hundred million dollars per annum and from the waterfalls, it is now getting about a million and a quarter horsepower with upward of five million more horsepower yet to develop. The government, itself, has properties, which are valued at more than eight hundred million dollars, and before the World War, these properties were annually yielding about a half billion dollars. The income from them was then equal to two and one-half times the interest on the national debt. At that time the national wealth was increasing and increasing as it has lately in natural resources and national thrift. It is bound to continue to grow.

Our New Minister to Sweden.
The new minister to Sweden, Robert Woods Bliss, is a professional diplomat. He was appointed last spring to this post in accordance with the policy of Secretary of State Hughes who believes that our diplomatic officers should be trained in the business and practically from secretaries to ambassadors. Mr. Bliss entered the service shortly after he graduated from Harvard in 1906. He began as private secretary to the governor of Porto Rico. At that time went on as our consul at Venice, and the year after that was connected with the embassy at St. Petersburg. He has been stationed at Brussels, Buenos Aires and Paris, where he was counselor to the embassy during the war and the peace conference. Later still he was charge d'affaires of our legation at The Hague. He is now only forty-eight years old but his long experience ought to make him a valuable minister.

A Royal Romance.
Our last minister was Ira Nelson Morris, a millionaire pork packer but a successful diplomat withal. Morris was a Democrat and he came from Chicago, but he lived in a palace. He slept in the bed of a prince, and entertained gorgeously. Moreover there is an interesting romance concerning his palace. It was built with money furnished by the czar as a wedding gift to the Princess Marie, one of the royal family of Russia. Her full title is the Grand Duchess Maria Pavlovna and she was a daughter of the grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch and the second son of the reigning king of Sweden, Prince Wilhelm, Duke of Sudermanland. After the wedding the duke came to live in the palace, which afterwards became the American legation. The prince was then twenty-four and the princess eighteen. They spent their honeymoon in the palace and had a son there, but the time went on as our consul at Venice, and the somehow accord with the Russian, and the Princess Marie decided to leave. She crossed the Baltic to Berlin and there in a railway station was met by her brother the Grand Duke Dmitri who took her back to Russia in time to avoid the terrible fate of others of the royal family, and ran off to Paris where she got a divorce. When she left Russia she had only her jewels and these kept her alive for some time. They were all finally sold, and now she is earning her living by keeping an embroidery and dressmaking shop at the French capital where she sells goods over the counter. The son, in the meantime, has been adopted by the Queen of Sweden and he is being brought up in the royal palace.

Prince Wilhelm, who was always fond of the Princess Marie and devoted to her, has since wandered far and wide in his grief. He has diluted his sorrow with science having equipped several large exploring expeditions and traveled in the wildest Africa and parts of South America, where it is claimed no white man had been seen before he came there. He had in his parties as many as twenty or thirty scientists and his researches are said to be of value. Some of his articles have been published in American magazines. He has given a lecture on Africa during my stay in Stockholm.
American War Work in Sweden.
It was due to this palace and his entertainment therein, that Mr. Morris accomplished much for the United States during the World War. The house has many parlors each as big as a schoolroom and a library the size of a church. It has scores of rooms adapted for entertainment and Morris kept things lively from one year's end to the other. He had had some diplomatic experience before he was one of the few prominent diplomats who had over for half the term of President Harding. He had a delicate position here during the war. About half of the Swedes sympathized with Germany and the other half with the allies. The masses were in favor of France, England and Italy, but the nobility and soldiers, who had been trained after German methods, favored the Kaiser. The queen of Sweden is a German. She was Princess Victoria, the daughter of Friedrich, Grand Duke of Baden.

Before the Russians went into Sweden, in a question of involving Norway and Sweden in the war hung by a hair. The Swedes have long hated the Russians and they feared the cause which the Russians were acting with the allies. Russia was building military roads across Finland, and in case the Germans were to invade the coast and annex all northern Scandinavia.

A warning to this effect had already been issued in 1913 by Sven Hedin, the Asiatic explorer who published a pamphlet of seventy pages, entitled "A Warning Word," in which Hedin pointed out Russia's ambition and advised that the Swedes make themselves ready for war. The book created a sensation and with it as propaganda, about four million dollars was raised by subscription for the purchase of a 1914 Hedin published a second warning and the excitement became so great that thirty thousand farmers elected by the country population, came to Stockholm and in a address to the king told him that they were willing to stand any new taxes he might wish to impose for the defense of the nation. The king came out on the balcony of the royal palace and told the peasants that he would not fail them, and would not compromise in any vital question regarding the fatherland. He told them that this meant a longer military service for the citizens, hard winter training and a considerable increase in the army and navy. After that all party lines were forgotten, and parliament voted a big extra fund to maintain Swedish neutrality, and make it ready should she have to fight.

Sweden Almost Joined Germany.
How much this situation meant was hardly appreciated in America. The Swedish army on a peace footing has less than thirty-two thousand men, but every Swede from the age of twenty to forty-two is liable to service and the total number on the rolls amounts to 681,000. There were times during the war when the Swedes were on the edge of joining the Germans. They were angry at the allies and our minister had much to do in persuading them to maintain their neutrality.

THE CUSTOMER CHARGE

Suppose that the average housewife were forced to send her small boy to the woodshed with a container similar to a coal scuttle for the ten cents worth of gas which she uses daily during the summer months. Her boy would have to carry in 150 cubic feet of gas or the equivalent in volume of 300 good-sized coal scuttles.

To meet his mother's needs the small boy would have to make from five to six times as many trips during the winter months and to equal the service of the gas company he would have to measure each scuttleful carefully, keep an accurate record of the number carried, and work all through the night during the most terrific storms of the winter.

This company, from the nature of its business as a public utility, is forced to install and maintain equipment operated by trained and efficient employes which will deliver your maximum demand at any hour during summer or winter, without notice. The cost of installation, operation and maintenance is equal for each customer served, regardless of whether he uses 3c or 50c worth of gas per day, and the fair share of this cost should be borne by each customer. ### Studebaker Sales For First Half of Year 81,880 Cars

Word has just been received by Frank Keim, local Studebaker dealer, of the new record established by the Studebaker Corporation of America for the first six months of 1923, when a total of 81,880 Studebaker cars were sold.

All Studebaker plants continue at capacity operations and the present output of 15,000 cars per month is insufficient to meet the persistent demand for more Studebakers from every section of the country, which is as great—or greater—than at any time this year.

It is well known that right from the start of the year Studebaker has experienced a demand that has consistently been far in excess of production, although the plant capacity was substantially increased during the spring when a number of new factory units at South Bend and Detroit, on which construction was started late last year, were completed and equipped for production.

While Studebaker sales for the past six years have increased progressively each year, the newest record can be better appreciated by comparison. The sale of 81,880 cars in the first six months of 1923 shows an increase of 36 per cent over the full year 1922 by 59 per cent and is 23 per cent greater than the sales for the complete year of 1921.

Studebaker's accomplishment becomes even more significant, according to Mr. Keim, "when it is realized that being a large producer, Studebaker is strictly a builder of high quality cars which range in price from $2750 to $2750, and in capacity from two to seven passengers, and that Studebaker manufactures steel exclusively. To us it means that the public wants quality and wants it in ever-increasing numbers. And by providing us with three distinct models, Studebaker has enabled us to fit the super with the car he needs just as the shoe salesman fits the shoe to the foot, instead of trying to adapt the car to the buyer. There are a number of other reasons why Studebaker has been able to achieve new records year after year. These include:

1. Seventy-one years' experience in the manufacture of high grade vehicles.
2. Continuation of the founder's policies of honest value and integrity.
3. Manufacture of vital parts in own plants, saving the mileman's profits and insuring the quality.
4. Quantity production methods in which the first and final consideration is quality.
5. The name "Studebaker" which is a household word throughout the world.
6. Organization of able, experienced workers.
7. $90,000,000 of actual net plant facilities including 443,000 sq. ft. of building.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21.—The segregation of traffic in our heavily populated centers is a crying need in today's great automotive field, according to Raymond Mack, manager of the National Motorists Association. "This should be an important feature for consideration and promotion by all automobile clubs throughout the country," continued Manager Mack.

Relief to the driver of the passenger car and safer roads for truck drivers by the development of the industrial intercity type of highway is proposed in the signing by the governor of Pennsylvania of an act authorizing the State Highway Commissioner to survey and construct an industrial highway for heavy traffic between Philadelphia and Chester.

The measure—known as the MacClade bill—is largely the result of the efforts of J. Horton Weska, vice-president of the National Motorists Association, to provide a means of separating passenger car from truck traffic, and the development of the idea is both new and not familiar enough to the public as a growing necessity.

In Pennsylvania Mr. Weska, who is also president of the Keystone Automobile Club, a prominent N. M. A. affiliate, was able to send a large delegation of prominent Pennsylvania industrial leaders to the joint hearing of the Senate and House Committee on Roads and Highways.

From the time R. M. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, H. T. Herr, vice-president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., and Mr. Weska conferred with the governor regarding the bill it has been looked upon as means of economizing on highway and car wear and safeguarding traffic by segregating the two classes of motor vehicles.

The judgment of the important organizations and men supporting the MacClade bill is thought to be greatly responsible for its speedy approval by the governor, June 14. The bill, as finally revised and approved, appears to merely authorize the State Highway Commissioner to survey the situation and consider the possibilities, but close inspection of a copy of the act, which is filed for reference at the Washington headquarters of the N. M. A., shows that it practically authorizes the commissioner to build the industrial highway, since he possesses all the power now by law vested in him with relation to construction of new roads.

State Highway Commissioner Wright was himself impressed with the project, and it is expected that this new type of highway will become a reality in Pennsylvania as quickly as the surveys can be made.

Second Quarter Hupp Production Smashes Records

Sales records set by the Hupp Motor Car Corporation do not stand long. Sales for the first quarter of 1923, which materially exceeded all previous automobile records by a substantial margin, were smashed by those for April, May and June—the second quarter—it was announced in Detroit yesterday by Charles D. Hastings, president and general manager of the corporation.

As a result of these two new quarterly records made so far this year, Hupp continues far ahead of its 1922 schedule of 40,000 cars. Sales for the first six months were in excess of 24,000 cars, according to incomplete reports, compared with 17,487 for the similar period a year ago, which up to that time was by far the greatest half year business the corporation had ever had. Export sales for the first six months were nearly equal to those for the entire year of 1922.

Hupp's great expansion program started nearly three years ago and now practically completed, is well illustrated in its striking sales growth. Cars sold during the first half of 1923 were materially in excess of sales for the entire year of 1922, approximately 75 per cent of those for the entire years of 1920 and 1921, and more than 70 per cent of those for all of 1922.

In commenting on these Hupp records, Mr. Hastings declares that all officials of the corporation anticipate an excellent Hupp summer and fall business both in the industrial centers and in big agricultural districts of the south and middle west. Sales in the rural sections throughout the entire country have been better for several weeks than at any previous time in the corporation's history, he pointed out, with distributors in the larger centers as well as some in the rural sections still being on the verge of expansion.

"Information gathered by our own executive officials, our district representatives and that sent in both by distributors and dealers makes it appear almost certain that the last six months of this year will exceed the same period in 1922, the year for the same period in 1922," he said. "Latest crop reports and prices indicate that the farmer is in a position to enter the market for more motor cars than during any previous year."

Better and Cheaper Tires Result Development of New Processes Most Notable Since Vulcanizing

Many cities have already reached a point where accidents are resulting in both loss of property and life through nothing but actual congestion. Cities have already begun to feel this and are making studies to offset it. Some have added to the motorist's burden by passing laws; some good and some bad; others have simply set about studying conditions.

"The automobile manufacturer, with his corps of engineers, traffic experts and representatives in all sections can do much to furnish valuable information. They can tell to an inch just how short a car should be able to stop at all speeds; they can give their own observation of what constitutes a safe speed, a much mooted question, and they can assist the authorities in all states by furnishing information about laws and ordinances in other sections so that equitable traffic laws can be brought about, which will make driving uniform in every section of the country.

"Safety has always been a paramount interest of the Olds Motor Works and our officials stand ready at all times to cooperate in every way possible with the officials of any town, city or state in relieving any congestion or menace which may exist. It is for our interests, the interests of our thousands of owners, the town and state to do this—for without safety the automobile cannot exist."

Some Ford operators prefer to hold down three vibrators at a time, leaving one cylinder firing. If the engine runs that cylinder is firing. If it stops the corresponding cylinder is dead.

Announcement has been made by one of the leading rubber companies of the development of two remarkable new processes of rubber manufacture—one of which will give us cheaper tires, we hope—the other of which will give us better tires. The discoveries are regarded as the most important developments in the rubber industry since the discovery of vulcanizing nearly a century ago.

One process covers a method of extracting rubber from the latex (milk) of the rubber tree. The method is so effective that a crude rubber of a quality never before known is made available to the world.

The other process covers the method of treating fabrics and cords with latex, making it possible to manufacture tires and other articles with a degree of strength hitherto impossible.

The American manufacturer has been accustomed to receiving his crude rubber in the form of slabs and sheets, which are about as tough and dry as shoe leather.

The first step in the process of manufacture has been to make this rubber into a soft and pliable dough through a chain of machines, huge

Lincoln Products Company Reports Added Business

The Lincoln Products Company of Chicago, manufacturers of Lincoln shock absorbers, have announced that their sales have shown a material increase since the first of the year.

"We are getting the same reports from all over the country," said E. C. Guthard, president. "The strength and simplicity of Lincoln construction appeals both to the car-owner and to the man in the garage. Who puts these absorbers on the car."

"Quick action is an important feature of Lincoln shock absorbers that has been a big factor in their rapid increasing success. Not only do rebounds from the heavy joints are snubbed, but the minor vibrations are nullified because the recoil is carried directly to the powerful spring in the Lincoln.

"The big business we did last year—selling 50,000 sets of Lincoln in nine months' time, is bound to look insignificant by comparison with 1923 sales, at the end of the year, to judge by the flying start we have taken. We now have greatly enlarged our manufacturing facilities and we are able to meet this steadily mounting demand."

Construction of Rubber Article. In almost all so-called rubber articles of commerce, some sort of fabric—usually of cotton—is used to give body and strength to the article, and in a large measure the wearing qualities of the article depend upon the construction of this fabric part.

In many articles, especially tires, it has been learned by experience that the more completely each strand of cotton can be covered or permeated by rubber, the better the wearing qualities.

The chief fault of the former methods of uniting the rubber with the cotton fabric have been due to the fact that it has been very difficult to force the rubber dough into the cotton of the rubber goods with sufficient success to do more than furnish a very superficial covering to the different strands, and, on the other hand to the fact that when rubber has been used in the form of a solution the effects of the chemicals are harmful to the cotton.

Advantages of New Method. It is now found that if the thread of the fabric is immersed in rubber latex the rubber penetrates to the very center of the strand. The whole object of rubberizing fabric is to cause a real union of the rubber and the fabric in the vulcanizing process. When an article is in use it begins to deteriorate rapidly when the union is broken. In the case of tires the breaking of the union is usually the initial stage of destruction. Tests have shown that threads treated with rubber latex last much longer than the threads treated by the processes heretofore in use.

Olds Motor Works Aids Officers in Traffic Situation

The entire facilities and the personnel of the Olds Motor Works of Lansing, Mich., are at the disposal of city and state officials who wish to seek their cooperation in arriving at a solution of the traffic situation prevailing in many sections of the United States, according to an announcement recently by G. H. Peasley, general sales manager of the company.

In his announcement of this policy, Mr. Peasley said that the Olds Motor Works stands ready to give whatever advice and benefits their huge organization may have to all towns, cities and states in the country to solve this all important problem.

"It is a time that the automobile manufacturer and the public official go together," Mr. Peasley said. "Our interests are the same and there is no doubt but what the automobile manufacturer must cooperate if a solution is to be reached to enter the market for more motor cars and the relief of traffic congestion and the relief of traffic congestion."

WOOD ALCOHOL CLAIMS VICTIMS BOOTLEGGING IS UNKNOWN.

BERLIN, July 20. (AP)—Wood alcohol has claimed the lives of at least 18 German drinkers within the past few months, although neither prohibition nor bootlegging prevail here. This type of spirits is used widely in industry and science, and the victims have been laborers who believed they were getting cheap drinks by consuming small quantities of the liquid that remained in tank cars after unloading.

At Hamburg some time ago a large number of harbor truckers became seriously ill from drinking wood alcohol and ten of them died. A few days ago five more victims were reported from Prussian Silesia, and three from Berlin-Urussland.

THE REASONS WHY

With $90,000,000 of actual net assets and $45,000,000 invested in plants, Studebaker has ample physical facilities to manufacture most economically.

Studebaker's organization of manufacturing executives, engineers, metallurgists, chemists, inspectors, and skilled mechanics is second to none in the industry. The design of Studebaker cars and the workmanship upon them conform to the highest principles of engineering standards and mechanical practice known to the industry.

Best of Materials Used

Studebaker cars contain the finest known grades of iron, steel, aluminum, tires, electrical equipment, glass, bearings, etc. No better materials for automobile manufacture exist. Sheet aluminum has but one-third the tensile strength of sheet steel, and consequently, Studebaker uses sheet steel for its bodies.

By the manufacture of drop forgings, castings, stampings and the machining, assembling and finishing of motors, axles, frames, transmissions, bodies, tops, etc., and the consequent elimination of middlemen's profits, coupled with lower overhead factory costs per car arising from quantity production and low commercial expenses, Studebaker's costs are kept at an economically low point possible of attainment only by manufacturers with vast physical and financial resources.

Bodies Unexcelled

The bodies of Studebaker cars are not excelled in quality of materials and craftsmanship, by any cars on the market. The Coupe and Sedan closed bodies are magnificent examples of the coach builder's art.

Merit Wins

The sales of Studebaker cars for the past six years have shown each and every year a progressive increase. 81,880 cars were sold in the first six months of 1923 as against 60,053 for the same period last year. Only products of merit can make such growth.

This Year's Finest Moderately-Priced Sport Cars

The first moderately-priced sport cars ever built were Oakland's. So are this year's finest! The four passenger Sport Touring and the two passenger Sport Roadster are still unmatched—at anywhere near their prices—in beauty of line, quality of performance and completeness of equipment. Any of the thousands of owners will wax enthusiastic over their six-cylinder power and smoothness, their speed, their quick pick-up and their wonderful responsiveness. Like all Oakland's—these Sport Cars are sold with a 15,000 mile engine performance guarantee, and their quality is conclusively proved on Oakland's "Known Mileage" Basis. ### Ford Plant Saves 90 Million Feet Of Lumber a Year

DETROIT, MICH., July 21.—The saving of approximately 90,000,000 feet of lumber annually at its Highland Park plant is the result of the Ford Motor Company's contribution to national forestry conservation.

Aside from the wood used in manufacturing automobiles, the company's requirements for packing and shipping run into enormous figures and to provide lumber for this purpose every bit of scrap utilized through the salvage department even to the smallest pieces. The little that cannot be salvaged is used for fuel.

The department, formed principally as a means of reducing waste, is conducted purely as a conservation agency. While it was not the intention of the company to make a profit producing, yet by putting it on an efficient basis, it has progressed to the point where it is self-sustaining.

An average of 500 men are employed, working twenty-four hours a day in three eight-hour shifts and the work includes the operation of the lumber yard, saw mill and the handling of all new and old lumber for shipping.

While every day the Highland Park plant uses more than 25,000 feet of new lumber, the salvage department claims nearly 300,000 feet of old lumber and converts it into boxes, crates, cleats, braces and other pieces. Every factory unit in the Ford organization constantly strives for 100 per cent utilization.

At the River Rouge plant the Lincoln plant and at all branch plants throughout the country, every bit of lumber possible is used for shipping and what remains is sent by the carload and the truckload to Highland Park where factories permit the utilization of smaller pieces than at any other place and the waste is carried to the extreme limit.

Employees engaged in unpacking incoming shipments are instructed to carefully remove all boards with as little damage as possible, thus permitting the salvage department to utilize them to the utmost.

Lumber from more than 1500 worn-out box cars from the D. T. & C. has found a new way to the salvage hill to be converted into boxes and crates and other pieces needed for shipping. Only the other day a Ford forestry visitor saw some company work at Flat Rock, Mich., found a great pile of old logs which had been used as piling for a temporary bridge. These were immediately shipped to the salvage department and used in the construction work there.

Standardization of shipping packages has done much to increase the efficiency in the lumber conservation program. Three years ago the company was using 600 different sized boxes for shipping. Today 95 per cent of the same shipments are being made in boxes of 14 different sizes, some filling many as 100 different needs, and 45 boxes and crates of different sizes meet all the other shipping requirements.

At present the salvage department is turning out an average of 15,000 boxes and crates a day and it is not uncommon for a box or crate to have three or four kinds of wood in its make-up. Recent introduction of curlap bases for making certain shipments cut the box requirements down about 5,000 per day.

Salvaging proceeds in a building 80 feet wide by 700 feet long, on the well-known Ford continuous production system. As the old lumber salvaged from boxes, barrels, boards and scrap wood of every imaginable kind comes in, it is sorted and placed on a continuous conveyor which carries it past various sawing stations. Workmen on the line pick out boards of most desirable size for their needs, the aim being to always save the longest piece from the available boards.

Scraps move on up to the end and into great shredders where they are cut into small pieces, these caught up in a suction tube and blown over to the furnace room to be used as fuel. Completed boxes move on to the departments requiring them. Crates, pieces, cleats and braces are sawed down to proper sizes and are sent to the several departments, each assembling its own crates.

Two departments may be used to illustrate the kind of lumber. The radiator assembly department utilizes twenty-two pieces of wood in every shipping crate and an average of 2,200 of these crates is sent out every day. In the carload shipment of 100 pieces, 58 feet of heavy lumber is needed for proper bracing and packing. With more than 44 of these cars going out daily, a total of over 50,000 feet of lumber is required every day for the shipment of motors alone.

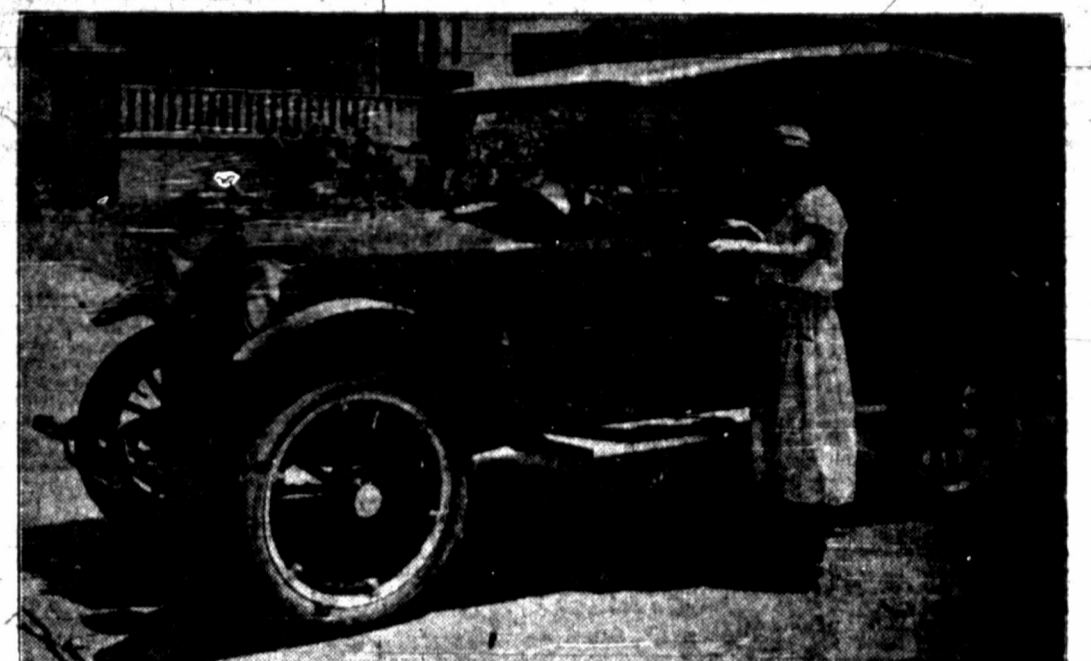

Lumber conservation, as practiced by the Ford Motor Company, has proven a practical business investment, but of far greater significance is the saving in forestry. It makes possible, and the example it sets for private and public enterprises throughout the country.

The Red Bird just introduced by the Willys-Overland Company of Toledo, Ohio, is a model constructed along similar lines to its cousin, the English car. The body room of the Red Bird is expansive, with three inches more leg room in the front seat and five inches more in the rear, than prevails in the regular Overland touring car.

The seats are wider and deeper. The wheel base of the Red Bird has been lengthened to 106 inches and the spring to 114. This feature alone combined with the patented triplex springs warrants useful riding qualities under any conditions.

The engine is larger and more powerful, without losing the economical performing traits of the Overland motor, which has surrounded itself with an admirable and reliable reputation for long mileage on a gallon of gasoline. Included in the standard equipment of this car are bumpers front and rear, scuff plates, windshield wiper, door trips, spare rim and tire carrier, and straight wall, 30 x 3 1/2 Plik-cord tires. A khaki top of racy contour, made of strong weatherproof material, with nickel-plated frame in rear curtain window

MRS. C. E. YOUNG PURCHASES FIRST HUPMOBILE SOLD TO WOMAN BY REDMAND MOTOR CO., LOCAL AGENTS

Mrs. C. E. Young of 2303 Ninth street has the distinction of having purchased the first Hupmobile sold to a woman by the Redmand Motor Company who have recently opened an agency here for this splendid

A 1923 model touring was Mrs. Young's choice and the handsome appearance of the car coupled with the high-class of service which this car has the reputation for giving, insures her of a long period of pleasure and service.

Henry Redmond and his sister, Miss Effie Redmond, came to Wichita Falls from Fort Worth, where they were prominent in automobile circles and are considered a decided addition to the automobile row of this city.

Light is an attractive equipage on the Red Bird. The interior of the car is done in red Spanish grained upholstery, which mingles harmoniously with the color scheme of the body, and a soft Mandalay Maroon, this tone is a work of art in adding and gives the Red Bird a distinctly aristocratic appearance, especially when revealed in contrast with the nickel-plated radiator with bar, nickel-plated drum head-lamp rings, buff plates, bumpers, wind shield anchors and outside door handles.

Shipping more cars per working day in June than in May, Nash motors finished the first six months of 1923 with a total of 32,212 passenger automobiles.

4-Wheel Brake Rickenbacker Is Appreciated

DETROIT, MICH., July 21.—"One never can anticipate the full result from a big advertising campaign, and we have just had a forceful reminder of that fact," says Captain E. V. Rickenbacker, vice president and director of sales of the Rickenbacker Motor Company.

"When we projected our big announcement of the new 4-wheel Brake Rickenbacker model, which by the way, went into 550 leading newspapers of the country and times, we naturally anticipated a flood of telegrams and correspondence.

The flood came alright, but to our surprise nearly half of them were from an unexpected source: Heads of police departments, judges, sheriffs, fire chiefs, and private citizens, all interested in anything that would help to solve the traffic problem and reduce the appalling number of traffic accidents, seemed to see in the 4-wheel brake the most logical answer to that problem.

"Congratulations came from these by wire and by mail in such volume that we are more than ever convinced that we have achieved something worth while to the public as well as consulting our own business interests by pioneering in this important improvement.

"Of course, we realized that the solution of the traffic problem called for a more rapid degree of deceleration as well as acceleration in a car.

"Our own tests have proven that traffic can be speeded up without increasing the maximum speed allowable on city streets. This can be done with a car that will get away quickly from a standstill, and will also stop in less time and distance, thereby conserving the extra time.

"The application of 4-wheel brakes has brought back into the vocabulary of the average man the word 'deceleration.' You have seldom, if ever, heard the word before but you will hear it frequently in the future because it will be the quality for which every automobile designer must strive.

"As a direct result of that announcement of the 4-wheel brake we receive orders for more than 1500 cars in one day. As they are still pouring in, and as much of our territory is yet to be heard from, we now know that our capacity is more than overful. This is most gratifying.

"But the by-products are almost as pleasing to us, for when police chiefs, traffic officers, and others who have been at their wits' end to find a solution of the problem which the motor car itself created, wire us their enthusiastic endorsement, and when newspapers and traffic chiefs in many cities have already planned tests and demonstrations of the efficacy of 4-wheel brakes over the two, it convinces us that we have performed a genuine public service and possibly added to the sum of human happiness."

What's in a Name?

An English motorist was stopped by a policeman on account of poor lights.

"I'll have to take your name, sir."

"John Smith," was the reply.

"Don't try that on me, sir," warned the man in blue. "I want your proper name and address."

"Then if you must have it, it's William Shakespeare, Stratford-on-Avon."

"Thank you, sir," said the policeman, jotting it down. "Sorry to have troubled you."

"Don't mention it," said the motorist, driving on.—Boston Transcript.

A faulty set of piston rings in one cylinder will cause an engine to run irregularly. All the cylinders should have equal compression. One weak cylinder will cause a disagreeable pound which is not only annoying to the driver, but injurious to the whole mechanism.

Predicted Summer Slump Failed To Appear; Factories Plan More Output Last Six Months of Year Than First

BY ROY C. HAYES
Universal Service Special Correspondent
DETROIT, Mich., July 21.—The summer slump in the industry which had been forecasted in certain circles as the inevitable sequel to the unprecedented business of the first half of the year has failed to show any signs of setting in.

TRUCKS EXPORTED FROM U. S. IN MAY INCREASE 14 PER CENT

An increase of 14 per cent in the number of motor trucks exported from the United States in May is the interesting feature of automobile foreign trade figures compiled by the department of commerce. Exports of passenger cars declined six per cent in number. Despite the increase of 335 in the number of trucks shipped overseas in May, as compared with April, total values of truck shipments declined on smaller unit values. The value of passenger cars exported in May, on the other hand, was practically the same as in April, although the actual number of cars exported was 832 less. Aggregate exports of all automotive products, except electric, were valued at $17,992,000, a decrease of three per cent from the April values.

Keep enthusiasm over the prospects for the second half of the year emanates from the executive offices in motordom. But perhaps more pertinent and indicative of what is going to happen, at least as far as production is concerned, is Henry Ford's plan to make more cars in the last half of the year than he did in the first. And Ford keeps his promises.

Canada continued in May to be the largest single recipient of American passenger cars, with Australia second and Sweden third. Canada took 1455 passenger cars; Australia 1361; and Sweden's imports of such cars rose from 814 to 1025.

William Jennings Bryan's Weekly Bible Talk MATTHEW, THE PUBLICAN

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

In preparing these Bible talks I am continually impressed with the advantage that one derives from the study of the Bible.

The Word of God is not like other books. Few volumes are read more than once; when the ordinary book is read a second time it is usually after a lapse of time and for the purpose of refreshing the memory on some point of interest or upon some particular phrasing.

Not so with the Bible; new truths are constantly springing out from its pages, or old truths become more impressive. If all church members knew the value of rereading and study of the Bible, there would be a waiting list of those desiring to be teachers in the Sunday school.

Matthew grows on you as you study him. Christ picked out a publican for a disciple and He knew when He did so that He was selecting a man who belonged to a class that was held in disrepute.

The publicans (or tax gatherers) of that day did not have an enviable reputation; the office offered great opportunities for the corrupt and the greedy and those who accepted the office were under suspicion by the populace. But Christ was able to search the heart and weigh the character. He was willing to trust Matthew and His confidence was justified.

Matthew's Courage. Matthew left all and followed Christ and he had more to leave than some of the others. Commentators emphasize the fact that

Matthew gave up a lucrative position when he cast in his lot with the Saviour. It required courage and consecration and Matthew was equal to the requirements. Matthew carried the accuracy of an accounting into the chronicle of the words and deeds of Christ. As some one has said, "He left everything but his pen and ink," and of these he made most excellent use.

Jewett, the great English divine who preached for a while in the United States, has wisely pointed out that Christ consecrates to higher use the powers of those who become the servants of God. As swords are not destroyed but beaten into plowshares—thus being changed from instruments of destruction into useful tools—so men who hear the call to service take the powers that they have and turn them to the Master's service.

Matthew's name is mentioned only five times in the New Testament.

Matthew himself relates his call in a few words, but a great deal is said in these few words; Christ invited him and he accepted the invitation. In the next chapter, Matthew refers to himself in giving the names of the disciples. Mark mentions him in the same way, as does also Luke, both in his Gospel and in Acts. Mark and Luke, in telling of his call by Jesus, refer to him as Leoi.

The Most Quoted Gospel. Not a word spoken by Matthew is recorded in the New Testament and yet his gospel is as often quoted as any other of the gospels, probably more frequently.

The only Gospel besides Luke's that mentions the birth of the Saviour. Matthew also describes the flight into Egypt and the return, an incident in the life of Christ nowhere else recorded. He reproduces the Lord's prayer in the form most used.

Matthew gives more fully than any of the other Bible writers the sermon on the Mount—undoubtedly the greatest of all religious discourses. This sermon presents more completely than it is to be found elsewhere the moral code of the Great Teacher.

Each one of the Beatitudes is a sermon in itself; each has been the basis of many sermons. They are so full of meaning and so suggestive of illustrations and present-day applications that one could preach upon them Sunday after Sunday, month after month, and even year after year, without becoming monotonous.

It was in reading three passages in Matthew that I was impressed, as I have not been before, with the use that Christ made of the word "all"—one of the smallest words in our language and yet the most comprehensive.

One Little Word. In the twenty-second chapter Christ announces the first great commandment. It was brought out by a question propounded by a lawyer for the purpose of entrapping the Saviour. When the Pharisees found that other questioners had been discomfited by the replies made by the Master, one of them—a lawyer, asked him saying: "Master, which is the great commandment in the law?"

"Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind."

"This is the first and great commandment."

Here we have the word "all" used three times—all the heart, all the

MATTHEW THE PUBLICAN—TEXT OF TODAY'S BIBLE TALK BY MR. BRYAN (Matt. 9:9-13)

And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom; and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.

And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples.

And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why teach ye your Master with publicans and sinners? Whence cometh this? When Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick.

But go ye and learn what that meaneth; I will have mercy and not sacrifice; for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

to classify the publicans and sinners by their appearance—especially the sinners. It would be rather risky today for one to go into a social gathering and attempt to classify men according to the number and magnitude of their sins without intimate acquaintance with the individuals. Sometimes it takes more than acquaintances—sometimes we have to wait for the courts to act before we are sure.

Christ was not afraid to mingle with sinners. He gave a ready answer to his critics—his answer, in fact, which have passed into common use—"They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick" and "I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."

In the parable of the Lost Sheep Christ laid emphasis upon the fact that He came to seek and to save those who had wandered away.

The Christian's Duty. And is not that also the duty of those who follow in His footsteps? While Christ declared it to be man's first duty to seek the kingdom of God, He distinctly pointed out the after-work of His disciples. They were not to sit down and rest; they were to go about doing good. Those who would imitate the Master must find pleasure in rescuing sinners—in carrying Christ's gospel to those who know it not.

Christ did not fear contamination—no one need fear contamination who has a message to deliver. To illustrate: It is safe to put the nozzle of a hose in a muddy pool because the hose is connected with a reservoir of clean water. In the same way, the Christian who is filled with love of God and a trying to hasten the coming of God's kingdom by the bringing of souls to Christ, he can go anywhere without danger.

On this every subject, as such as anywhere else, a change can be noticed in the manner of both the minister and the layman. It is necessary to be in the world, in order to be in the world. On the contrary, it is only by being in the world that Christians can help by example. The Christian is commanded to let his light shine, and a shining light is of no value except to illuminate the darkness.

The clubs that are being organized in all the cities are emphasizing the thought of cooperation. Each of these clubs has a member who represents the ministry and the clubs are showing the value of the presence of the minister, what the minister is getting a better understanding of his problem by this intimate contact with the everyday world. This lesson will be applied in

But it is impossible to exhaust the riches of the Gospel of Matthew; we must pass on to the second thought presented by the lesson, namely, Christ's communion with publicans and sinners. It is not necessary to make any excuse for the Saviour's action. The text says that "many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples in Matthew's house." It would not have been courteous for the guest to quarrel with his host about the character of those whom he permitted to enter.

And it might have been difficult

PEACH CROP GOOD IN COUNTY, BUT MARKET IS POOR

County Agent Guy R. Jones, in a survey of the county, has found that the peach crop this year is exceedingly good. The trees are loaded, and in many instances "rippes" were necessary to keep the trees from breaking under their heavy load.

However, the hot winds and the high temperature of the past two weeks did not permit the fruit to ripen in its natural way and as a result the exposed fruit shriveled. Although the crop was good Mr. Jones stated that there was practically no market for peaches. Farmers, however, are canning and preserving them for use next winter and spring.
