Nothing can bring you peace but yourself. Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles.—Emerson.

THE LEGALITY OF BREECHES

About four years ago there appeared in Wichita falls a lady automobile tourist whose nether limbs ciad, not in skirts, but in a bifurcated gar-The eye of an over-zealous peace officer fell upon her and the "law" promptly decided that oman appearing in public in breeches was against peace and dignity of the state; perhaps the thought that he would get a fee out of it if she were prested and fined had something to do with it. At pay rate, he arrested the lady, and there was contrable of a row; the lady wasn't fined, however, at the right of women to wear breeches in Wichits Falls was thus legally upheld.

If that same officer were still on duty in Wichto Falls this summer, he would be kept pretty busy. There is not an hour of the day that you cannot sok up the street and see an automobile load of purists heading somewhere and its just about an wea break whether any of the female members of the touring party wear skirts. Some wear breeches of a military out, with leggings or rolled-down drings; some wear overalls, some wear plain

You can see elderly ladies, probably grandmothm, with specs and gray hair, scorning the drapery skirts, and wearing thing that would have caused hem to be put out of the church 10 years ago. There no age limit, either maximum or minimum, to resches for females.

A car that will run, even though it looks like very mile might be its last, a bale of bedding, a rack-full of pots and pans, a dusty suit case or two, hamper of canned goods, and a fishing pole or two, these constitute vacation equipment today. Such things as train schedules and hotel reservations are sevend both the need and the ken of the occupants. The children stowed into odd corners of the equipare exclaim excitedly at the sight of a prairie dog or a jackrabbit; in towns, they gase with childish commiseration on other children to whom the open road is denied.

THE TAX RATES FOR 1923

There is small prospect that the combined tax rate on Wichita Falls property will be reduced this Last year it was $4.85, and it will be close that figure this year, for the city's reduction of are cents is the only cut, and the other items on tax bill w" almost certainly be as high, and may be higher. their share, and the day is probably not far distant when one may ride from the eastern edge of Clay to the western edge of Wilbarger on concrete roads. To the southward, the outlook is less encouraging; perhaps the paving of the Seymour road will stimulate some action in that direction,

A SWISH OF DREAMS. We are led and inspired, even more than we ever attempt to believe, by that clusive something way back behind our curtain of dreams. Every once in a while, there is a flash of it that touches our sight or our senses, and immediately we are thrilled. Often this visitation comes wrapped in a cluster that buds right out of the darkness, like 160 the stars from a sky rocket, only to melt into that same nest of blackness again and disappear.

But the impression remains. Sometimes I have a feeling that we must travel into a very beautiful country to come back in such happiness, as when we awake from a dream that makes a smile of our entire consciousness.

I had such a brief dream recently. It seems so real. And yet when I awakened, I could recall no incident, no logical sequence of events-for it was fust a dream that streamed out as the sun streamed

I knew, however, that someone had talked to me A pleasant, happy face was all that I could remember. The matter of sex didn't enter at all, for I couldn't remember whether it was the face of a man or woman. It made me want to get right up, though, and go into the work of the day with heart and cour-

What would we do with these tired feet and wearied brains if at times we were not awakened by the swish of some beautiful dream passing before the front doors of our hearts?

Perhaps, after all, our dreams are the diamond of our desires, crystalizing for a moment—then flashing far ahead, beckening us to follow. I wonder. (Copyright, 1933. Oourge Matthew Adams.)

BE ABTRUE BRIGHAND (Copyright, 1918, The Star Co.)

How little news there is some times. And how dull it is, usually. If you leave out murders, burgiaries, divorces, it's as quiet as a dog show when the dogs are not barking or fighting.

News from the stock market is the same as usual, "firmness" and "duliness" are the suphamisms to describe a crewd afraid to pay fifty for properties engerly sought for with one hundred a little while ago.

Nothing much new from Europe, unless comething happens after this is written, on the road from New York to California, via the Twentieth Century and the Fanta Fe.

When it is four o'clock here, it's night in Europe and nothing official can happen. Dectarations of war are not made so late. Some hing or prime minister might be hilled in time to give you news for here highest.

But that wouldn't be very exciting. We are as our English brothers put it "fed up" on excitament. If Mussolini removed the king from the throne, is somebody removed Mussolini with a sword thrust in the belly, as his predecessor Elienzi was removed, if King George like the Lady of Sheltte. George like the Lady of Shalotte got sick of shadows and resigned his shadowy kingship; if the former his shadowy kingship; if the former knieer came back knieering and marched down. Unter den Linden with all of his sone except the one that hilled himself, all in full regains; if France evacuated the Ruhr and decided to try magnaninity in place of militarism; if Rockefeller freed all of his dollars, faithful slaves, giving the dollars away as opeasional slave owners used to free their black slaves: if Coolidge said "nothing would make me run in 1724" still you would say, as your wife read out the headings, "that's interesting, anything else?"

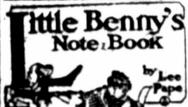

As a matter of fact all our news is dull, to write and talk about it every day, a man must have the mind of a microcephalic idiot play-ing jackstraws.

We live on a planet twenty-five thousand miles round, sailing through space more than five hundred million miles a year around the sun, dragged by that sun through the imponderable ether more hundreds of millions of miles; not knowing what set the earth and sun a rolling, or why the start, we salute 4ach other, congratulate a father and mother, when a new shild is born, weep with the sur-yivers when an old man dies; hurrying around our little planet, like microscopic life on the surface of a ripe pear—such as we of the human
