

W. D. WILLIAMS MAY WIN FAME AS EPIGRAMMATIC CANDIDATE

Campaign Document Spiciest Document Yet Out

COMMENTS SHARP

Free Passes, Professional Lobby and Political Machine Come in for Hard Raps

One of the spiciest, liveliest and in some respects the wittiest campaign documents yet issued by any of the candidates for state office, subject to nomination at the democratic primaries next July, is the "Statement of Beliefs" being sent out in circular form by W. Williams of Fort Worth, candidate for the office of railroad commissioner.

Other candidates for other offices have made more or less lengthy and formal discussions of "issues," but in practically none has there been any attempt to appeal to the voters' sense of humor by use of the familiar and effective form of argument known as the epigram.

Mr. Williams, who used to be city attorney of Fort Worth, is known among his friends as the possessor of a keen wit and legal opinions have frequently had occasion to be discomfited at his hands because of this gift.

Subject to such action as the party may take thereon and in order that all who participate in the coming democratic primaries may vote intelligently for the party nominee for state railroad commissioner, I make the following brief statement of my own views upon some of those issues which seem to me to relate both to my own candidacy and to the state as a whole.

"I do not believe the people need a political machine, or that, if they had one, it would operate in their interest. I am against the machine in Texas, not merely because the machine is against me, but because I believe in the government being run by the people, and not by any organization of the owners of special privileges.

"I believe the professional corporation lobby at Austin is as full of poison as the scorch of a rattlesnake. I do not believe you can directly avoid graft in government, while you have a lobby in the halls of your legislature and free passes and other corporate favors in the pockets of your officials.

"I believe in a prosperity which is shared by every worker in the state. I have no use for that sort of 'progress,' under which the poor progress toward the poor-house and the rich toward palaces and harems. A condition under which the benefits of production are not justly distributed among all producers is not prosperity, but is a growing despotism.

"I believe there is as much conservatism in going ahead and doing what needs to be done as there is in standing still and doing nothing. Some persons are more radical in refusing to move than others are in going forward at a run.

"I do not believe in the government ownership of railroads, but I do believe that ownership is better than a pretended regulation which fails to work.

"I do believe thoroughly in the government controlling the railroads and not at all in the public controlling the government, and I further believe that right now is the time for the voters to say by their ballots whether they want a government which cannot have both, and they cannot refuse both. They must have one or the other.

"I believe it impossible to have any freedom of commerce or to have prosperous factories in Texas, except they be the factories of trusts, so long as present excessive local freight rates shall continue in force. I believe the railroad trust has its fingers at the throat of every legitimate enterprise and industry in Texas, and is stifling our internal trade, and absolutely preventing the harmonious and beneficial development of our possibilities.

"I believe the cotton rate is the crowning iniquity in a system of rates which is full of inequalities, discriminations and abominations. A man ought not to lead his mule until he breaks its back.

"I am opposed to maintaining extortionate freight and passenger rates in order to compel the public to pay for needed railroad extensions and betterments. I believe that the people have paid for the railroads often enough, and that, if they buy any more such property, they should see to it that they get title this time.

"I believe the railroad commission was designed as a legislative agency for the protection of the people, but I fear it tends to become a literary bureau for the dissemination of apologies and excuses for the railroads.

"I believe in fixing freight rates with reference to the reasonable cost of the particular service for which each rate is intended as compensation, and I do not believe rates can be justly fixed in any other way.

"I believe freight rates on one product as much as fifteen times as great as it is on another. I believe it to be manifest that the rate is too high, or it is making a profit. The product bearing the greater rate is necessarily discriminated against, and either it is paying too great a profit, the carrier, or it is making a profit of the hauling done for the shipper of the other product.

"I believe in a regulation of Texas railroads, which is vital and means something. I believe it a regulation which will regulate.

"I believe in the existence of a class power, emanating from the financial centers, where so many have gone mad in the worship of money—a power which by mysterious means—secret methods attempts the political assassination of every man who lays

SOME WILLIAMS EPIGRAMS

"A man can be trampled to death by 'gun shoes' about as easily as he can be killed with a cannon. There will be less noise, but he will be just as dead in one case as in the other. I believe in the necessity of being constantly awake to the danger it creates. A man can be trampled to death by 'gun shoes' about as easily as he can be killed with a cannon. There will be less noise, but he will be just as dead in one case as in the other.

"I believe in smashing a political machine whenever you see it, just as you would smash the head of a snake, and for the same reason.

"I believe in doing full justice to the railroads, and in giving them a fair show, but I do not believe it ought to take all the time of the railroad commission to attend to that part of its job.

"I do not believe in the campaign liar. If I cannot win without profiting by slanders circulated against my opponent, I believe in Heaven's name, give him the office.

Others may tell you they believe in the very same things, and many others will tell you they believe in them, and hard while others believe in them soft and easy."

Methodists Discuss Faith Protest in Conference

By Associated Press. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 12.—The opening devotional exercises of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, were held by Rev. T. W. Lewis of Mississippi today. Bishop Duncan took the chair.

A resolution signed by a number of the lay delegates fixing the time of final adjournment at 11 o'clock Monday was tabled.

EAST TEXAS HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

Fine Peach and Tomato Crops Expected by Railroad

That damage to peaches and other crops in east Texas has been greatly exaggerated, is the report made by J. F. Lehane, general passenger and freight agent of the Cotton Belt, who returned to Fort Worth Saturday morning.

On the contrary he reports there will be fine peach and tomato crops from that portion of the state. That damage has been done by the weather, he reports, will not reduce the crop to any great extent, the increase in production from the coming in of new trees and greater acreage of vegetables offsetting this.

Loss suffered by the cultivators, he says, will be offset by the higher prices possible by preventing the crop than can be marketed. He predicts that all in all the season will be found a profitable one by the east Texas farmers.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Texas and Pacific Party Meets Officials of Denver Road

An important railway conference was held in Fort Worth Friday afternoon between officials of the Texas and Pacific and Denver Road. Though no official statement regarding the meeting has been issued, it is understood the new terminals of the Denver Road in this city were under discussion, this, with a possible enlargement of the "L" to the Texas and Pacific union station for greater baggage facilities, being of prime importance in railway circles at the present time.

With the entrance of the Trinity and Brazos valleys, whose terminals here are under the guardianship of the Denver, that road has already begun enlarging its yards, and will erect new buildings, as announced in "The Telegram." The Trinity and Brazos valley will also use the Texas and Pacific union passenger station, making complete enlargements in the building probable in a short time.

The "L" was undamaged at the time of the fire in the station about a year ago, and no changes were made at that time. It is probable improvement will consist of an extension of the "L" toward Front street.

Members of the Texas and Pacific party were: L. S. Thorne, vice president and general manager; J. W. Everman, assistant general manager, and Major B. S. Wathen, chief engineer.

RAILROAD TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

Velasco, Brazos and Northern Case Ended

DAMAGE SUIT IS BEGUN

Fort Worth Light and Power Company Sued for $20,000 Following Death in Front Street

The case of William E. Kaufman et al. vs. the Velasco, Brazos and Northern railroad for foreclosure of lien on said road, was sold to the benefit of the bondholders, was decided by Judge Ivey Dunlap in the Forty-eighth district court Saturday, a judgment being rendered for the plaintiffs.

The suit was one against the railroad company, which owns a short line in Brazos county, alleged to default in payment of interest on the bonds. The original petition prayed for foreclosure and the appointment of a receiver and a receiver was appointed by the court and has had possession of the properties ever since. The decree Saturday was final judgment for the amount of the bonds, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent from the date of such bonds, with foreclosure of lien as prayed for; the owners of said bonds a party to the suit, and the railroad company to surrender the road when they mark the same with the records of this court.

In view of the foregoing decree the plaintiffs take a nonsuit without prejudice to their rights as bondholders to participate in the benefit of said judgment to the extent of the bonds which they own and hold, and which they may hereafter surrender under the terms of the judgment, without prejudice to a future determination of the question whether the allowance, if any, be made by the court for pro rata payment to the trustee or to the trustee or to the trustee shall be allowed any fees for any service performed.

Other proceedings in the Forty-eighth court were as follows: L. P. Ladd vs. W. P. Majors, debt; judgment for $2,217.73, with interest from date of judgment at the rate of 6 per cent.

LEHANE FIRM IN HIS RESIGNATION

Will Insist on Being Relieved of Chairmanship

Alderman J. F. Lehane of the Fourth ward returned to Fort Worth Saturday morning and called upon Mayor Harris in response to a communication received from him regarding Mr. Lehane's declination of the chairmanship of the finance committee of the council Saturday morning. Mr. Lehane says the matter was not discussed. He will, however, insist upon the acceptance of his resignation at the meeting of the council Monday night.

Speaking of the matter this morning, Mr. Lehane said that the importance of the finance committee, and the frequent absence of himself from the city made his feeling that he should not accept the chairmanship and that he would insist upon the appointment of someone else upon this ground.

Following first notice to Mayor Harris Monday evening, Mr. Lehane, in his reconsideration, saying that from his management of the business affairs of a large corporation he was impressed with the fact that he was especially fitted for the chairmanship of this probably the most important committee of the council. At the council meeting of the council, he was reconsidered, in reply Mr. Lehane acknowledged the compliment, but insisted that he could not fill the position.

DECATUR, Ill., May 12.—Laughter and applause greeted a telegram received by the Cumberland Presbyterian assembly today from the colored Cumberland Presbyterian church, assembled in session at Waco, Texas. It quoted the text: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

The Southern Presbyterian assembly also telegraphed greetings. The moderator announced a long list of committees to whom business was referred. A Louisiana delegate created a mild sensation by announcing that he had been converted from the Loyalty to the Union side. Two additional Union commissioners arrived, thus increasing the Union majority.

Heart Weakness... The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats, and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering spells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arm and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourishment.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles. I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctors said it was incurable. BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child.

PUBLIC DUTY TO TEXAS SCHOOLS

Now that the season of the sweet girl graduate is again about due, it is but natural that public attention should again be directed toward Texas schools and colleges, which as a general thing have enjoyed a year of great prosperity.

There was a time when it was considered necessary to send Texas children outside the state in order to obtain the advantages of proper educational facilities. As the wealthy father of several promising daughters once expressed it, the idea was that they had to go outside the state in order to receive the proper finishing and polishing touches.

Gradually it began to dawn on the people of Texas that they were guilty of a mistaken policy. They began to realize they were literally starving the most important institutions in the state to death, and a few of them began to insist that the Texas patrons of schools and colleges owed a duty to Texas educational institutions, and they backed up the theory by indulging in the right kind of practice.

Three years ago this paper took up the fight in favor of the Texas schools and colleges, and was fortunate enough to awaken considerable interest among other leading papers of the state in the matter, and as a consequence a pretty warm campaign was inaugurated to have the people of this state generally do their duty.

There is no reason on earth why one single pupil should be sent out of Texas during the next collegiate term. We have just as thorough courses of instruction in this state as can be found in any of the older states, and the parents who patronize outside schools do so evidently through a misconception of duty.

The advantages of having your children in a Texas school are too manifest to require argument. In case of sickness or trouble they are right where they can be reached on short notice. The danger of sickness on part of the pupil is reduced to a minimum, as there is no process of acclimation to undergo.

There is but one thing to do under the circumstances, and that is for every loyal Texan to stand by these Texas educational institutions.

THE STATE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Fort Worth is bidding and working for the democratic state convention. There are good reasons why she should have it. The location is best suited to the entire state. The time has passed when the state meetings can be claimed for south Texas on account of being the center of population.

No sane or reasonable objection can be urged against the coming of the state democratic convention to Fort Worth this year. About the only reason so far advanced has been the allegation that Fort Worth has two candidates for state office, and just what figure this is expected to cut is not apparent at this time.

The idea advanced in this connection is that the convention being located here would afford opportunity for friends of Bell and Williams to take possession of and run it to suit themselves, but there is absolutely nothing in that contention. The people who run conventions are its duly accredited delegates, and only those are allowed to participate.

As the Jackboro paper so truly says, the Fort Worth location is the best suited to the entire state. That is a fact that cannot be controverted by the partisans of any other aspirant. If the choice was left to the democracy of Texas there would be no doubt as to the result.

Arrangements have been made to hold the convention out at beautiful Handley park. In the event it is given to this city. And there on the banks of Lake Ellis, in the midst of this great and model pleasure resort is a fitting place for the assemblage of the leaders of Texas democracy to ratify the choice of the people as to who shall serve them in the various state offices during the next two years.

The state democratic executive committee will meet June 11, for the purpose of calling the state convention, and Fort Worth should lose no time in pressing her claims for this just recognition.

THE SAY-WHEN SERMON

"Whenever you think I have preached long enough I want any of you to say so and I will immediately announce the last hymn. It is not always possible for a preacher to tell just when he should say off, and I for one would be grateful for suggestions. You will not offend me by calling time. Say when and I'll stop."

He is a wise person who knows when to hush. This preacher evidently wants to preach the gospel so that it will stick in his people's minds. He can't do much to tired minds. Therefore he must gauge his sermons to suit.

The Edward Everett style of oration belongs to the stage coach era. This is an electric age demanding electric speech. Brevity is the soul of eloquence nowadays. The direct, nervous utterance is the speech of the busy day. And Robert G. Ingersoll, if he may be mentioned in this connection, did as much as any public speaker to fix the condensed style, the short, simple words of modern oratory.

The same tendency is seen in the later newspaper editorials. It was a great shock to the literary folk when Arthur Brisbane began to write editorials on common every day things and cut out all long words. But that style of editorials has won out.

If the pulpit is to keep in touch with the times it must adapt itself. The modern audience is quick to catch on. The preacher need not spend unnecessary words to tell the old story of love and sacrifice. And only the speaker of unusual charm is able to hold an audience longer than thirty-five or forty minutes.

Before all else the future man of the pulpit must stay by the gospel themes—the themes that touch men's hearts and hopes. He must have something vital to say. And he must say it without unnecessary rhetoric. The man with a real message can say enough in thirty minutes to keep his audience thinking for a whole week.

This is the day for the Say-When sermons. Dallas, Waco, Austin and Mineral Wells are contesting with Fort Worth for the honor of entertaining the next state Democratic convention, and this city is going to have a hard fight to obtain it. The state Democratic executive committee will meet June 11 to determine the matter, and friends of Fort Worth should continue to get in their best bids.

The recent row that is alleged to have taken place among those who constitute the staff of McClure's magazine ought to afford something of an opportunity for the press bureau of the Standard Oil people. It might now be possible to obtain the distinguished services of Miss Ida M. Tarbell.

Bell campaign clubs are being organized all over Texas, and supporters of that gentleman are showing a very commendable activity. Perfect and thorough organization will always accomplish results in matters of this kind, and that fact should be borne in mind by the Bell people everywhere.

The paper trust has very considerably agreed to go out of business and reorganize in compliance with the terms of the law. The big corporations that are bent on combination can be depended upon to find some way of accomplishing their purpose.

When President Roosevelt undertook the job of practically wiping out one of the senators from Texas he evidently lost sight of the extreme hotness of the undertaking. Bailey has shown himself to be a full match for the Big Stick.

The determination finally to construct the Panama canal on the sea level should give general satisfaction. It will require more time and cash, but things that are worth doing at all are worth doing in the proper manner.

THE TELEGRAM AND THE TEXAS PRESS

The Fort Worth Telegram cheerfully informs the Remount Journal that the state convention hall will be filled with Bell voters no matter where it is located, from the fact that the gentleman referred to is going to be the democratic nominee. The state convention will be nothing more than a big ratification meeting, and it is proper it should be held in the home town of the choice of the people.

The only trouble with regard to cotton mills in Texas is the inadequacy of the supply. There is enough cotton produced in the state annually to keep mills busy from one end of the producing district to the other, but Texas is content to manufacture less than ten per cent of the production.—Fort Worth Telegram.

And yet the tendency of the time is to manufacture everything as near the raw material as possible, and each year sees more cotton mills established, if not in Texas, at least in the south.—Tyler Courier.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS

The greater illusion of all is to think you haven't any.

A woman's plans often miscarry when she trusts them to the males.

LOVE ME LITTLE LOVE ME LONG

Love me little, love me long! Is the burden of my song; Love that is too hot and strong Burneth soon to waste. Still I would not have thee cold— Not too backward, nor too bold; Love that lasteth till 'tis old! Fidelity not in haste, Love me little, love me long! Is the burden of my song.

If thou lovest me too much, 'Twill not prove as true a touch; Love me little more than such— For I fear the end. I'm with little well content, And a little from thee sent Is enough, with true intent To be steadfast, friend.

Say thou lovest me, while thou livest to thee my love will give, Never dreaming to deceive While that life endures; Nay, and after death, in sooth, I to thee will keep my truth, As now when in my May of youth, This my love assures.

Constant love is moderate ever, And it will through life persevere; Give me that with true endeavor I will it restore. A suit of durance let it be, For all weathers—that for me— For the land or for the sea; Lasting evermore.

Winter's cold or summer's heat, Autumn's tempests on it beat; It can never know defeat, Never can rebel. Such the love that I would gain, Such the love, I tell thee plain, Thou must give, or woo in vain; So to thee—farewell!

Standard Triples in Nine Years Per Cent Dividends Since 1898 Equals 348

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, May 19.—It, as has been reported, John D. Rockefeller owns 33 per cent of the capital stock of the Standard Oil Company, he has received in dividends since Jan. 1, 1898, approximately $112,500,000.

Statistics bearing upon the stupendous dividend disbursements of the great oil combine were made public in Wall street apropos of the Standard Oil dividend of $9 a share, just declared, for the past quarter. They figures show that since Jan. 1, 1898, the Standard Oil Company has disbursed to its stockholders $41,043,000 in dividends, or nearly three and one-half times its authorized capitalization of $100,000,000.

The company pays more in dividends to its stockholders than any other corporation in existence. The United States Steel Corporation, when it was declaring dividends on its common stock distributed more than the Standard Oil Company, but no dividends on steel common have been paid for two or three years. The dividend and interest payments combined on the United States Steel Corporation are, however, considerably in excess of the dividend disbursements of the Standard Oil.

Thus far this year the latter has declared about 24 per cent, or about $21,000,000 in dividends to its stockholders or the same amount as was disbursed in the corresponding period last year. The total dividends last year were nearly $40,000,000.

The following table gives the dividend record of the Standard Oil Company since Jan. 1, 1898:
