INDICTED IN 1905

Three Cases to Come Up First, Government Has Forty Witnesses for Prosecution

KANSAS CITY, May 22.—The government today, in the United States district court here, announced that it was ready for trial in three of the rebate cases.

These cases called were those of Geo. L. Thomas, a freight broker of New York city, and Chief Clerk L. B. Taggart, under indictment for alleged conspiracy in securing rebates for shippers, and that against George H. Crossby, former assistant freight traffic manager of the Burlington railway, charged with conspiracy in giving rebates.

These men were indicted in December last by Chief railway and packing house officials, whose trials had been set for a later date.

H. B. Duncan, special agent of the department of justice, arrived here yesterday to assist in prosecuting the cases with Willard A. S. Van Valkenburg, United States district attorney, and Leslie Lyons, assistant district attorney.

The government has forty witnesses, among whom is J. A. Roberts, an expert on rates in the employ of the interstate commerce commission.

Demurrer Overruled

KANSAS CITY, May 22.—Federal Judge McPherson today overruled the demurrer of the Burlington railway in the rebate cases. It was based on contention that the interstate commerce commission had no jurisdiction over export rates. There are seven counts in the indictment against the railway and packers for making an export rate on packing house products to New York, the rebate amounting to 12c a hundred.

The rebate cases against George Thomas and L. B. Taggart, freight brokers, were called immediately after the decision was rendered.

Cordelia Botkin Goes to California Penitentiary

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—After two sensational trials and following eight years of the bitterest legal fight recorded in the criminal annals of California, Cordelia Botkin, convicted on the charge of murdering Mrs. J. P. Dunning, is today in San Quentin, where she has begun her life sentence. The noted prisoner made a personal request of Judge Cook that her sentence begin at once. It is said that she did this because of her dislike of the treatment accorded her in the Inglefield jail, where she has been confined, and that she places her dependence upon an appeal to the United States supreme court.

The crime for which Cordelia Botkin is now in prison was notorious. It was brought out in the testimony that, madly infatuated with Dunning, she sent his wife a box of poisoned candy, which was not only the cause of the wife's death, but also the death of one of the sisters of the wife in Delaware.

NO DANGER OF DISRUPTION.

There has been some talk of a fight in the next annual meeting of the Cattle Raisers' Association that is calculated to result in the disruption of that great body, and this talk is predicted upon the attitude being maintained by cattlemen in the San Angelo country. There was a meeting of cattlemen in San Angelo a few days ago which has occasioned considerable discussion. The report of that meeting as given out by the gentlemen who participated is as follows:

Some of San Angelo's prominent stockmen held a meeting Monday evening and discussed the question of the prosecution of the Fort Worth Live Stock Exchange and commission men as a trust. They endorsed the action taken by the attorney general as highly commendable in him as an honest, capable and efficient officer, in attempting to enforce the law, maintain the dignity of the state and protect the honest stock raiser, who has no interest in the commission business, against this iniquitous trust.

They also condemned some of the big dailies that persist in publishing articles stating that the stock raisers are not in favor of the prosecution of this trust, and insist that this prosecution, if condemned, meant the ruin of the cattle raiser. They condemned this as untrue, and inspired by the commission men or their emissaries.

They insist that the cattle raisers are perfectly able to take care of themselves, and that these articles are written and published with the intention of influencing public sentiment in favor of these violations of the law. They also condemn the executive committee of the Cattle Raisers' Association for not doing their duty, and betraying the trust reposed in them by the members of the association, in not having the attorneys of the association to assist in the prosecution of these cases by their attorney general having expressed this opinion, before the institution of these prosecutions, that the Fort Worth Exchange was a trust.

They decided that it was a most propitious time for the stimon pure cow man to wake up and make an effort to help protect his own interest, and it was decided that the stock raisers would provide counsel to assist the attorney general in this prosecution, provided the attorney general would permit them to do so, and the following telegram was sent to the attorney general:

"Assistant Attorney General,
Austin, Texas.
"Stock raisers endorse your action. Can we assist with counsel at our expense?"

R. H. HARRIS,
J. M. SLATOR,
GEO. B. HENDRICKS,
Committee."

The idea that this action taken by cattlemen of the San Angelo country will result in disruption of the great Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas is foolish. The San Angelo cattlemen have no such intention, and to impute such motives to them does them an injustice. These gentlemen are consistent at least to the extent that they are standing just where they did before the meeting of the Dallas convention. At the Dallas meeting of the cattlemen they expressed pretty much the same sentiments, and they sought to defeat the election of the man who was chosen as the head of the organization. The meeting just held in San Angelo simply serves to show that the cattlemen of that section are still of the opinion they were prior to the Dallas meeting and are determined to wage continued war on the commission element.

The Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas is too big a thing to be dominated by any faction. It was not organized for that purpose and those who are at its head will not suffer its great purposes to be prostituted for any purpose. There may be a fight over some of the existing differences at the next annual meeting which will be held in this city, but it will not result in disruption. There are enough level and cool heads in the organization to preserve and protect it from any such calamity.

If the cattlemen of the San Angelo country desire to engage counsel to assist the state in the prosecution of the anti-trust suits that is their privilege. They have a right to do this, just as they have a right to file and prosecute such suits on their own account. In fact, many wonder why the San Angelo cattlemen have not already done this. They could have had the suits much further advanced if they had been filed just after the Dallas convention.

The executive committee of the Cattle Raisers' Association is taking no stock in the prosecution of the anti-trust suits and have not been invited to do so. The state seemed content to act on its own initiative in the matter and did not consult with the executive committee with regard to the action taken. And now that the state has filed these suits, the committee is doubtless content to let the state have all the honor that accrues from their prosecution. The committee can find enough to engage its time and attention without making itself a party to the action at issue.

But there will be no disruption of the great association. That much can be set down as a fact.

A MATTER OF JUSTICE

The state of Texas is paying out monthly salaries to men who are candidates for public office and who are using the state's time in the furtherance of their own personal ends. The laborer is worthy of his hire, but the employer is also entitled to value for what goes out of his pocket—Fort Worth Telegram.

That is a fact, but you know these office seekers have to be fed at the public crib, and their expenses paid by the tax payers while seeing the "dear people" when they should be attending to their duties and putting in their time for which the state is paying them—Mount Pleasant Eagle.

One great trouble with the employees of the state is that they seem to think it is all right to do certain things just because they are working for the state. This fact was strikingly illustrated in the case of those members of the state legislature who agreed to attend a special session without cost to the state. And notwithstanding the fact that letters were in existence duly signed by them pledging themselves to that procedure, yet in the end they found a means to violate their sacred obligations and accept the people's money for the service they agreed to give free.

It is hardly probable that the members of the legislature would have done this had the obligation been incurred to an individual instead of the state. The individual would have held them unreservedly to the obligation and they would have been compelled to toe the mark. And so it is with the majority of people who have dealings with the state. The state is usually the sufferer from the fact that public sentiment does not guard it the same recognition as the individual.

It has been a common thing for men holding office to utilize the time the state is paying them for in the furtherance of their own personal business, but that fact is no warrant for a continuance of the custom. Continued practice of a custom that is wrong does not make it any more right, and the only thing to do under such circumstances is to put an end to an unfair and unjust precedent. Notice should be served on all future aspiring politicians that henceforth they will be required to serve out the terms of office with which they have been honored before they will be permitted to become candidates for another office. The individual demands of the state that she shall be the mark in every obligation, and the individual must be made to do the same thing with the state.

The men who are now holding office and making a campaign for another office may forget the duties they should render the state in the height of their respective campaigns, but they do not forget to call for the warrants that are issued them every month on salary account.

THE RACE FOR GOVERNOR

A report in the Fort Worth Telegram from Austin says it is now considered that the race for governor is between Bell and Campbell with the former slightly in the lead. The Telegram is a Bell paper and no doubt the correspondent made his report to tickle the ears of the publishers and influence votes for Bell; but putting Campbell a close second is a concession that means something. There are also Brooks, Coquilt and Moore supporters, all conceding Campbell second after their man. This would seem to be a recognition that each candidate believes that Campbell is the man he has to beat. This is straw that points.

Both Commissioner Coquilt and Judge Brooks are going to be surprised and gravely disappointed at the result when the different counties have been heard from. They are going to find the race for governor has been between Bell and Campbell from the beginning, and the other candidates have really had no show. Campbell is also going to be disappointed with the result, but that is a contingency that cannot be helped. Both Judge Bell and himself cannot be elected governor of Texas, and he ought to have known better than to venture out when the voice of the people has so clearly been for Bell.

There were only three votes against the rate bill in the United States senate, and two of these were cast by the senators from Alabama, both of whom are old enough to have known better. The bill has some objectionable features, but is stronger than it was believed at one time it was possible to make it.

Contracts for new business houses are being let in Fort Worth almost daily, and old buildings are being torn down and remodelled to such an extent that the city will soon hardly be recognizable. The spirit of progress is rampant in this city and the artisan and mechanic are kept constantly on the jump.

The Mineral Wells summer season is now opening up in great shape, but that promised interurban line has not yet been completed. There is good business in that proposition, and it is strange that capital has been so slow to take advantage of the opportunity.

The democratic state executive committee meets at Austin on June 11, and will then determine the place for holding the next state democratic convention. The time intervening is short, but friends of Fort Worth should make a determined effort to land it.

Candidate Wade is getting off a little slow in his race for governor, but when the votes are all in it will be found that he has made a gallant campaign with some of the others for the hindmost place in the contest.

It is rumored that some of the largest soap factories in the United States are about to locate in Washington, under the impression that it is a place where lye is superabundant.

Judge Bell's challenge to some of his critics was a blow straight from the shoulder. If there is anything wrong with his record as attorney general of Texas they are invited to bring it to the front.

A WISE GIRL

A Reading girl who has just inherited $30,000 has announced that no Mizners need apply. That young woman evidently reads the newspapers.—Scranton Tribune.

The TEXAS PRESS

We heard on the streets the other day of a man who claimed he was too poor to take his home paper but all the same he read a notice in one of the county papers telling how to keep a horse from sobbing and sent $1.50 for the receipt; when the $1.50 worth of information came it said, "learn your horse to spit"—Quannah Observer.

And that was a "horse on him." The man who pretends he is too poor to take his home paper is usually the same individual who is continually getting gold-bricked.

Candidate Bell's proposition to increase the school term to six months in the year is all O. K. if he will suggest some way by which the children can be spared out of the fields long enough to attend the schools for that time—Athens Review.

Candidate Bell cannot compel Texas parents to do their duty by their children, but the way by which the children can be kept in school six months in the year is plain. It lies in the raising of more hogs for the Fort Worth market and less cotton to make slaves of the wife and children. Many of the women and children of Texas are slaves of the cotton patch.

The reports from the fruit and truck regions south of us, in Texas, are of the most encouraging character, and great amounts of money are being brought into the state from this source. Smith county alone is supposed to receive from $200,000 to $300,000 for her strawberry crop. Discount this one-half for expenses, and see what a fine, snug sum it is to be scattered among the people.—Gilmer Mirror.

And all Texas would be more prosperous if her people would pay more attention to these matters. Where the people are practicing the art of diversification they are prosperous and happy, and fruit raising and truck farming are rapidly coming to the front as prosperity bringers in Texas.

Governor Landrum is of the opinion that in a few months the inmates of Texas now confined in county jails or running at large will be adequately housed and cared for. Meanwhile, however, according to statistics compiled by the Houston Post, 173 men and women of unsound mind are locked in jails and 134 others consisted of lunacy are running at large. No excuse can palliate the existence of such an outrageous state of affairs. San Antonio Express.

The matter of making suitable provision for the state's unfortunate insane was too long overlooked, and the result has been a very deplorable state of affairs. It is to be hoped the lessons learned from this experience will not be lost sight of in the future.

Many of the Stillwell party which passed through the city in special train recently were observed through the windows playing cards by Constable Reddell, and he says he knows the law now and the next time they come through violating the law he will arrest them. Stillwell is every once and a while bringing trains of cattlemen to see the country through which the Orient railroad traverses, and no doubt will be through again soon. Then watch for the fun. Abilene News.

It may be a long time before that same party of railway magnates passes through Abilene again, and the eagle-eyed constable has perhaps lost his greatest opportunity. The time to strike is always when the iron is hot.

The Indianoma, O. T., Farmers' Union, which has 6000 members in the two territories, has evolved a plan to locate a cotton mill in Oklahoma. For each bale sold by a member of the union, $1 of the selling price will be deposited for a manufacturing fund. In one season a sufficient sum can be secured to put the machinery on its feet, and the second season will give enough for operating expenses, until the mill becomes self-supporting.—Clarendon Chronicle.

And this is just exactly what the Farmers' Union of every Texas district should do. Instead of listening to talk of reduced average they should be busy with plans for the building of more cotton mills.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Senator Rayner, fresh from court room, and not yet used to the senate, has difficulty sometimes in remembering where he is, and frequently says "May it please the court." Instead of "Mr. President."

In the course of his vehement attack on executive interference he said "May it please the court," and the Republican senators laughed loud and long.

"I ought to explain that I was not addressing the senator from Rhode Island," said Rayner when he could be heard. Then the Democratic senators laughed loud and long, and Mr. Aldrich's laugh stopped short in the middle.

In the house "Marse Sydney" Mudd of Maryland was expounding, on behalf of the naval committee, the proposed appropriation of $1,250,000 for a floating dry dock. The sum seemed large to John Wesley Gaines. He broke furiously into Marse Sydney's speech, demanding to know under what construction a mere dry dock could be called part of the naval armament.

"Do you mean to say it's a ship because it floats?" demanded John Wesley.

Marse Sydney explained. At each comma, semicolon, and dash John Wesley broke furiously in, until Marse Sydney's blue eyes began to glitter.

"Would the gentleman from Maryland," finally shrieked John Wesley, "vote $1,250,000 for the building of a scaffold?"

"I would," said Marse Sydney frigidly. "If I could hang thereon certain persons whom I have at present in my mind's eye." And he fixed a long and steady gaze on Gaines. John Wesley sat down.

WHY COMPROMISE WAS MADE

It is said in Washington that the Allison compromise was made because it would unite the republican senators in support of the bill, get the opposition of the democrats, and give to the republicans the credit of the enactment. It is even said that the President shares this view. The "Allison compromise" merely puts into the bill in words what was unquestionably there in fact, a right to appeal from the orders of the commission. But it leaves the orders open to preliminary injunction suspending them until final judgment, and in so that extent, a victory for the railroads. As to the partisan triumph we doubt its value. It is far more apt to prove a boomerang, rebounding upon the party. For nothing is more certain, the railroads pursuing their usual tactics of contesting these restrictive laws, than that the law will prove disappointing, with responsibility for its inefficiency assumed by the republicans. The action of the house was more sagacious.—St. Paul Dispatch.

TALL TALES FROM THE TALL TIMBER

BOYS NARROW ESCAPE FROM A BULL

WILMINGTON, Idaho, May 22.—Roy Clisbee, the 19-year-old son of Merton Clisbee, a farmer living on the Shelby road in Durmont township, had the time of his life day before yesterday with a savage bull that is kept on his father's farm.

Roy was coming toward the house from the barn, carrying in his arms a large military saddle, when the bull, which had escaped from its paddock, came running up behind him, bent on desperate mischief. It was not until the dangerous animal was close to him that the boy observed what peril he was in and it was then too late for him to escape by running, but he instinctively dashed forward as fast as he could, and in a moment had tripped, probably over some of the trailing straps of the saddle, and fell to the ground, face downward, with the saddle beneath him.

On came the furious bull, and bending low his head he dashed both his wicked wide-sweeping horns at the prostrate boy's body, and then raising his horns again, with the lad pinned to them, he threw his head swiftly aloft, seeking to toss Roy high in the air.

But there was a hitch in his plans. The boy did not move any further than the bull's head, but remained firmly fastened to the horns, which had, provisionally, passed on each side of the body when the bull made his downward thrust, and had then penetrated and become firmly fastened in the stout leather saddle.

The puzzled bull tossed his head wildly again and again, seeking to throw the boy up on high, but to no avail. He could not move him from his place and the animal, appearing to become frightened at the situation, then rambly about the yard, bellowing savagely and continually blundering against the different objects he encountered on the way because of the fact that the boy and saddle were directly in front of his eyes and prevented him from seeing where he was going. There were none of the family home at the time except Roy and Gusta Mans, the hired girl, and she, attracted by Roy's screams and the bellowing of the bull, had run to the door about the time the animal had raised Roy into the air, and had been a horrified spectator of all that took place.

After the animal had blundered about the yard a short time, with the boy and saddle on his horns, Gusta recovered somewhat from her fright and running into the house took down from her hook a double-barrelled shotgun belonging to Mr. Clisbee, thrust a shell into each barrel and ran out into the yard. It was a severe strain on her courage to go anywhere near the bull, but the boy's terrible danger was her inspiration, and maneuvering about so as not to be thrown down and crushed by the animal as he blundered about, she seized an opportunity to run in on him suddenly and holding the muzzle of the gun against his side back of one of his forelegs, she discharged both barrels into his body.

He immediately fell dead and the boy was saved, but so firmly were the horns imbedded in the strong, hard leather of the saddle that Gusta had to saw one of them off close to the bull's head before Roy could be released.

"SAFE AND SANE" FRANCE

The results of the French elections thus far announced give the lie once more to the pessimistic forebodings of the prophets of evil. There was no building of barricades, the "forces of disorder" were apparently absent and not accounted for, and the government will be able to reconstruct its "blois" apparently stronger than before. France is bigger and stronger than any French party, however rabid.—New York World.

MISSING LINK

LE SEUR, Minn., May 22.—Science, especially as regards its relation to the doctrine of evolution of species, suffered an irreparable loss yesterday at Benton on account of carelessness and neglect on the part of W. W. Willetts.

Several months ago he received from a friend of his in Arizona the dried up mummy of what appeared to be some peculiar, antediluvian animal, or bird, or fish, or combination of all, and inasmuch as the specimen appeared to show on the surface of its terribly twisted shape both feathers and scales, he wondered if it might not be one of the missing links of evolution, the creature that was intermediate between fishes and birds.

Determined to discover as much about it as possible, and being able financially to indulge his fancy, he prepared a mild solution of radium, liquid radium, and in this he soaked the mummy for several weeks. Gradually the hard, leathery tissue of the creature softened and swelled, the twistings and contortions smoothed out, and there developed the most remarkable find of all paleontological discoveries since the dawn of science.

The animal which he had soaked out in the radium was both a fish and a bird. It had a curved, horny beak, much like that of the eagle, fitted out inside the jaws with teeth like those of a pickerel; its body was covered with scales like those of a fish, and on its shoulders it had long, strong, feathered wings, while its tail also was provided with strong feathers. It had two feet, also, with hooked claws.

Mr. Willetts was a happy man when the value of his find was fully disclosed, but the workings of his mind under the pressure of the great discovery showed with startling clearness how true it is that we are never fully satisfied however fortune may deign to bless us. His discovery was a marvelous thing, but it occurred to him how much more marvelous it would be, if perchance, by the application of a galvanic battery, he might be able to revive dormant life in the wonderful creature and show an amazed world how Darwinian links used to comport themselves in the days of old. And so he did this. He arranged a powerful galvanic battery, attached the poles thereof properly to the bird-fish, fish-bird, or whatever the animal should be called, and turned on the current.

Immediately there was a great commotion in the vat of liquid radium. The creature thrashed about and uttered strange, gurgling shrieks, the like of which Willetts had never heard before, swam violently to and fro for a few moments, and then, with a terrific splash of the fluid and whirling of wings, it mounted aloft, dashed through the nearest window and disappeared in the outer air.

It is supposed that it fell to the earth again after flying about a mile, for an old hunter living that distance from Willetts' place reports that about the time the creature escaped "a scan'rous lookin' animate cum a-flyin' along and flopped down in the yard, an' I give it to the dogs for supper."

Mr. Willetts is greatly shattered by the loss. LE S'EUR LYRE.

CITY GETS SPRINKLERS FROM OLD COMPANY

Purchase of Outfit Ordered by Aldermen

11 NEW POLICE

Fire Department Makes Heavy Requisition for Men, Buildings and Salaries

Fort Worth will do its own sprinkling.

The city council votes to purchase the entire outfit of the Fort Worth Sprinkling Company for $34,400.

Eleven men will be added to the present police force.

Chief Bideker of the fire department asks $12,500 improvements and an increase in salaries of the department employes.

Mayor's veto of market site again goes over for another meeting.

After a month's fight and delay the matter of sprinking the streets was settled Monday night at the city council meeting. A resolution was proposed and carried to purchase the entire sprinkling outfit of the Fort Worth Sprinkling Company for $34,400.

Alderman Maddox first brought the matter before the council in the form of a report, stating that the purchasing committee made an inventory of the outfit and estimated its cost at $4,122.

William Capps, head of the company, he said, valued the stock at $5,000, but would take $4,300 for it.

Alderman Lebane communicated with Mr. Capps by telephone and Mr. Capps agreed to knock off $100.

The council then voted to purchase the stock at the price mentioned, $4,400.

Alderman Maddox begged to be excused from casting a vote, stating that he was formerly connected with the firm.

Alderman Maddox struck the price of $4,122 and voted against the resolution.

There are ten sprinklers in the outfit. The special committee appointed to receive bids and investigate all matters relating to sprinking was discharged.

On motion of Alderman Lebane a special committee was appointed to receive bids and investigate all matters concerning city sprinkling. The committee, consisting of Aldermen Lydon, Cook and Harrold. Before the motion carried there was considerable discussion.

Alderman Cook declaring that as Alderman Lebane named the committee, a prerogative of the mayor was taken away.

Alderman Cook moved as a substitute that the mayor appoint a committee of three, but the substitute was lost.

The vote resulting: Ayes, Cook, Lydon, Maddox and Harrold; noes, Armstrong, Ward, Lebane, Waggoner and Zurn.

The committee will have the appointment of at least twelve sprinkler employes.

Mayor Harris addressed a communication to the council, suggesting that the different standing committees make out a report of all the supplies and their cost in the different departments of the city and at the same time submit recommendations to cut the expense or increase where it was absolutely necessary.

The mayor stated that the employees are given too much power in the matter of making purchases and that the committees should assume more responsibility in this regard.

Mayor Harris further stated that parties permitted to dig streets and alleys for the purpose of laying pipe should be compelled to convey the dirt to a common dumping ground, where the city could secure all dirt needed for filling and repairing streets.

Additional Police

The judiciary committee reported on the recommendation of Chief of Police J. H. Maddox made at the last meeting, asking for twenty additional patrolmen.

The committee recommended that eleven men be added to the police department, stating that twenty were badly needed, but on account of the present condition of the city's finances.

but eleven men could be added. The council voted for the adoption of the report, all of the aldermen voting in favor with the exception of Alderman Maddox, who wished to place the limit at six.

Alderman Cook spoke in favor of the report. It is expected that a number of police will be given beats in the outlying districts of the city, the judiciary committee reporting that the south side especially stood in need of more police protection and that the ratio observed in the majority of cities was one officer to every thousand of the population.

Fire Department

W. E. Bideker submitted his annual report, in which a large number of improvements were asked to the extent of $42,500. Increase in the salaries of men was also recommended. The report with its recommendations was referred to the fire committee. The improvements Chief Bideker asks are:

Service truck, $3,900; Seventh ward building, equipping and maintenance, $8,000; Ninth ward building, equipment and maintenance, $8,000; property for No. 3 station, $6,000; building for No. 3 company, $9,000; fifty fire alarm boxes, $6,250; fire alarm improvements, $2,250.

The following increase in wages was asked:

Engineers, from $75 to $80; captains, from $70 to $75; to create position of lieutenant, at $65; to create position of stoker, at $55; also an increase in pay for plenum and laymen, now receiving $45 for the first six months, $59 for the first three months and $55 for the second three months, $60 to be paid thereafter.

Thirteen additional men were also asked and request made that all stations be listed and repaired.

A communication was read from G. W. Greathouse in regard to the grading of Washington street, complaining of delay. He asked that the council take action looking toward improvement.

Charge that an alderman had placed the blame on another was denied and upon insisting upon this point Mr. Greathouse was declared out of order and the communication received and filed.

Sewer Extensions

H. L. Calhoun, superintendent of the city water works, recommended the following sewer extensions: South Lipscomb street, 334 feet; South Jennings avenue, 400 feet; South Missouri avenue, 450 feet; Grainger and Bois d'Arc streets, 875 feet.

The council adopted the recommendation with no changes.

Superintendent Calhoun also recommended that water hydrants for better fire protection be placed in Railroad avenue. The report states that an eight-inch water main on Railroad avenue, from Jennings avenue to Adams street, would cost $1,900 and a six-inch main, $500. There are a number of lumber yards and planing mills in this location. The matter was referred to the waterworks committee.

The recent high water, it was reported, in many places, had raised the floor was somewhat damaged. There was a leakage of 34,000 gallons on this account and the water about the city has been rendered quite muddy. The water works committee was empowered to make such repairs as deemed necessary.

Sewer Petition

The citizens of Eighth and Rosedale avenues again presented a petition that they be permitted to lay a pipe and tap the main sewer. This matter was brought before the council at a recent meeting, but was tabled because the petitioners resided beyond the city limits.

In the last communication the residents state that they agree to pay $5 each annually until taken into the city and will lay the pipe at their own expense. They urged the council to grant their request, as undrained cesspools would make the neighborhood unsanitary and unhealthy, in many instances.

It was voted to grant the petitioners their request.

School Petition

Professor Horg, superintendent of the Fort Worth public schools, petitioned the council October, 1932, for a building to be erected on the campus of the high school, part of which was to be devoted to manual training. He also asked for improvements for different ward schools. The matter held over from that time was referred to the school board.

The finance committee reported on the petition of city trustees, asking for an increase in wages from $3 to $3.50 per day. The committee declared it best to leave the matter of wages with the street and alley committee and the report was so adopted.

The citizens committee reported a total of $10,418.15 in claims, and the report was adopted.

Lee Taylor, city scavenger, petitioned for a salary of $50 per month, instead of $30, which he now receives. It was referred to the public grounds committee.

Street Paving

A petition was read signed by a number of citizens living on Hemphill street, asking that the council pave the cross streets from Magnolia avenue to the railroad tracks with rock asphalt. The petitioners state that they will pay for the paving in front of their residences, except on property owned by

City Hall Auditorium

The council voted to give Mayor Harris and City Secretary Montgomery power to rent the city hall auditorium at a rate of $5 a day and in no case was the hall to be let for more than three consecutive nights to the same persons without first securing permission of the city council.

A communication from John K. Reason was read, asking for the enforcement of the Jim Crow ordinance, stating that if the law was not observed more closely he would make an attempt to force its enforcement. It was voted to use separate compartments for white and colored citizens.

Acting Superintendent Calhoun of the waterworks department reported that the six new wells were tested recently and that the output for twenty-four hours was 1,205,144 gallons.

Alderman Lebane's report, recommending that Bois d'Arc street be opened, was adopted.

The mayor and secretary were authorized to pay a note amounting to $1,000 with 10 per cent interest in favor of the State National Bank, on account of the school funds.

Alderman Cook's resolution to the effect that in the future those marking street excavations be instructed to haul all dirt not used in refilling to a point designated by the city, was referred to the street and alley committee. Alderman Waggoner reported the plan had been tried formerly, but abandoned, as the stone is unsuitable.

Action on Mayor Harris' veto of the market house proposition was deferred until the next meeting of the council.

The petition of Mrs. Laura Mayers, requesting that 200 feet of sewer be laid in the vicinity of Dashwood and Hemphill streets, was granted.

Mrs. A. G. Broiles' petition for use of the city hall twenty days next month for revival purposes was granted.

The city retains the right to take possession of the hall at any time during the twenty days in the event that it is needed for other purposes. The usual rate of rent is to be collected.

The Episcopal church of the Holy Innocents requested that the city furnish water to the church free. Referred to the waterworks committee.

A petition from the citizens residing in Moody addition on the east side of Hemphill street, requesting an extension of sewers, was referred to the city engineer and sewer committee, with power to act.

Alderman Cook announced that the Arlington Heights Traction Company has left Jones street in a very bad condition and although notified to put the street in repair, has not done so. This was referred to the street and alley committee.

Alderman Lebane asked that, additional men being granted, the police department enforce the speed law against automobiles.

THE FORT WORTH TELEGRAM
OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

THE MARATHON MYSTERY
BY BURTON E. STEVENSON
COPYRIGHT 1906, BY HENRY HOLT & COMPANY

An unknown man is killed at the Marathon, an apartment house, Godfrey, a reporter, and Simmons, his detective friend, find Grace Crovdon, an acquaintance of the newspaper man, standing in the room with a smoking pistol in her hand. She protests her innocence of direct connection with the crime and is freed from suspicion.

Part II
Lester, an attorney who knows Godfrey, takes apartments at the Marathon, the two thinking that Tremaine, who lives there and who becomes acquainted with Lester, has some connection with the crime. Cecily, the woman companion to Tremaine, so Lester learns in the course of their acquaintance, keeps a small pet snake called Fele, whose species is such that a bite kills the person bitten in a very short time.

Part III
Tremaine visits the Delroy, Grace Crovdon is there. Tremaine makes love to her and Drysdale, also one of the house party, becomes enraged as he is engaged to Grace. Cecily, who is immersed in a pearl necklace belonging to Mrs. Delroy in sea water, to restore its brilliancy, two men being engaged to stand in for her. The man thus engaged is killed and investigation shows that Drysdale was the only person in the room at the time of the finding of the dead man. He is arrested, charged with murder and taken to jail in New York city.

Lester finds some clippings under a carpet in his room at the Marathon, the same room in which the first murder was committed. He thinks they have some connection with the first murder. He shows them to the newspaper reporter.

The two decide that Tremaine is the legal husband of Mrs. Delroy. Grace Crovdon's sister, that Tremaine killed the two men, and that the first was a former criminal partner, who sent the clippings to Tremaine, following traitorous actions by Tremaine. It is announced that Tremaine is to return to the island where she first met Tremaine.

When I returned an hour later Tremaine dismissed the waiter. Cecily appeared with eyelids a little red, but in much better spirits than I had expected. She was arrayed in all her fiery—she had put on every piece of jewelry, I think—and she paused in the doorway to throw me a courtesy. Tremaine took her hand and led her to a seat, with a grace worthy of the grand monarch.

"See the spoiled child!" he said, laughing at the table at her, a moment later.

She shot me a glance pregnant with meaning. I knew she meant that her prophetic bird had been right.

He brimmed her glass with wine.

"Drink that," he said. "To our meeting in two weeks."

"To our meeting in two weeks!" she repeated ironically, and drained the glass.

But in a few moments the mood passed and she became quite gay.

Tremaine had made no reference to the tragedy at Edgemere and I was not supposed to know he had been there.

"So you have been successful?" I asked finally.

"Yes, I believe so. I've succeeded in interesting some capitalists, Richard Delroy—perhaps you know him?"

"No, only by reputation and."

"He has helped me greatly."

"You got through, then, sooner than you expected?"

"Yes, I think it would take a week, at least. Mr. Delroy had arranged that the conference should take place at his country house near Babylon. We finished the treaty yesterday," he added, after the faintest hesitation, "an extremely unfortunate event occurred there last night, which made any further business impossible. I dare say you saw an account of it in the evening papers."

"Oh, yes; that murder and robbery. The evidence seems to point very strongly toward a young fellow named Drysdale."

Jones, strongly, he agreed, nodding with just the right degree of concern, "although I'm hoping that he may be able to prove himself not guilty. An amiable young fellow—some what impulsive and headstrong—but let us not talk about it. It's too unpleasant. This evening, we must be gay."

I was curious to see the details of this leave-taking. Cecily and Tremaine were there before me, the former leaning sadly against the rail while the latter directed the checking of some baggage.

I went directly to her.

"So here you are," I said, "ready to go back to that St. Pierre you love so much. Aren't you glad?"

"Oh, very glad," she answered, with a single listless glance at me. "I shall never come back to this horrible place."

"And Tremaine will join you in two weeks," I added.

This time she looked at me—a lightning flash.

"Will he?" she asked between her teeth.

"Why," I questioned, in affected surprise, "don't you think he will?"

She drew in her breath with a quick rasp.

"What does it matter? I'm only a fill-in-the-color. I shall laugh and forget, like all the others."

I saw her eyes devouring Tremaine

as he approached.

"Everything is arranged," he said cheerily, shaking hands with me. "Here are the checks, Cecily. Now take us down to your steamer and do the honors."

"As you please, doudoux," she answered quietly, and led the way.

It was a very pleasant cabin, one of the best on board, and I saw that some of her personal belongings were already scattered about it. Against the bow-water pipe in one corner was hanging Fe-Fe's cage. A curtain had been tied about it to protect its tender occupant from the cold.

"I see you're taking Fe-Fe with you," I remarked.

"She's sure she is!" said Tremaine. "She knows the snake would starve to death if he left it with me. But we must drink to a good voyage."

Cecily's eyes were gleaming like two coals of fire. Looking at her, I felt a vague uneasiness.

"The first toast is yours, Mr. Lester," said Tremaine, as he filled the glasses.

"To Cecily," I cried. "Her health, long life and happiness!"

"Thank you, Cecily," she said simply, and very gravely, and we drank it.

Just then the shore bell sounded loudly, and the boat came to anchor together. Tremaine and I made a rush for the gang plank while Cecily again took up her station against the rail.

"We waved to her and waved again, shouting good-byes, as the steamer began to move away from the dock. Cecily was alone on the pier, her hands, looking very beautiful."

Then suddenly her face changed; she swayed and caught at the rail for support.

"She's going to faint, pardieu!" said Tremaine.

But she did not faint; instead she motioned me to follow her, and shouted a last message back to us.

Tremaine nodded as though he understood, and hurried after her.

"Did you catch what she said?" he asked.

"No, not a word of it. That tug over there will lead her."

"I caught the word 'it'!" she protested, wanting to know how many she'll have to get ready—but no matter, and she turned in with an expressive little shrug.

"Why," isn't the committee really going to take in Cecily?"

"Oh, a couple of engineers are really to look over the ground and report."

"And you?"

"I'm going here," he waved his handkerchief again at the receding boat. That takes a big load off my mind. My only job is to get her safely off and be alive to tell the tale. I rather expected her to stick a knife into me last night. I made a great mistake, but not here, Cecily."

"But I thought you said—"

"Oh, they do laugh and forget in times, but just at first they naturally go badly. Now, before the voyage is over, I dare say Cecily will have another doudoux—some handsome Creole ranting his brains, perhaps. She's a magnificent woman, just the same," he added.

"That she is," I agreed, and threw a last look at her.

The boat was almost hidden by the morning mist; in a moment more it had quite disappeared, bearing Cecily to her island. I found the vessel in shadow of Pelee. And I doubt if I shall ever know another woman like her.

Country Club Dance-Dinners
Being Thursday night, May 24, the weekly table d'hote dinner and dances following will be resumed at the Country Club. With the present exception of one service, it is believed that the summer popularity of the Thursday night informals will be even more marked than in the past. The usual hours will be 7 to 10 o'clock. The Country Club was never in a more prosperous condition than at present and, essentially a summer club, the warm days that are on the way will soon see an exodus from the city that promise to make this summer's attendance an easy record breaker. Many people of the city are already making their plans and setting dates to take rooms at the club during the heated season.

Mrs. G. V. Morton will entertain the Social Book Club Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

A skating party will be given tonight at the Summit avenue rink.

STUDENTS TRAIN FOR STAGE WORK

Full Dress Rehearsal Next Thursday "LINES" NOW PERFECT High School Commencement Feature Rounding Into Shape Under the Direction of Coach Secured

Much interest has been aroused among the students of the high school and their friends over the new departure in commencement exercises now in process of preparation for the night of June 1. Instead of the usual farewells, proper and good wishes from other members of the faculty, in verse and prose, as well as the samples of more or less inspired oratory heard on such occasions, the senior class will present the four-act comedy-drama, "Esmeralda."

For several weeks the actors-to-be have been coming to the rehearsal when Mr. Bernard reached Fort Worth May 14 he found them almost letter-perfect and ready for instruction in the technique of the stage. Since then much progress has been made and Mr. Bernard is authority for the statement that a very creditable dramatic performance may be expected.

Keep Your Nerve

It is nerve energy that runs the organs of your body. The storage battery is the nerve cells in the brain and spinal cord, and from this battery nerve force is sent out through the system of nerves. To keep the body healthy you must have plenty of nerve force; if you have not, the organs work imperfectly, the circulation is sluggish, digestion bad, appetite poor, kidneys inactive, and aches, pains and misery are the penalty. You can keep the system strong with Dr. Miles' Nerve. It assists in generating nerve energy; it strengthens the nerves and makes the whole system strong and vigorous.

HIGH SCHOOL LOSSES

Closes Season With Games With Jarvis College The Fort Worth high school baseball team returned Sunday from a trip to Granbury and Thorp, Arkansas, where they played Friday and Saturday. This is the last game of the season for both high school teams. It having withdrawn from the amateur league. This has been a successful year for the high school team. The game was played at Granbury, the Jarvis College team winning by score of 7 to 5. The second game was played at Thorp Springs. Fort Worth had the game in hand until the last of the seventh inning, when a bad play, coupled with several errors, tied the score. Potts pitched a winning game, only four hits being gotten off him. With the bases loaded on Helver, Fort Worth scored a home run. Final score was 5 to 4. The high school boys secured seven hits, a home run and two two-baggers being among them.

HORSE AND BUGGY RECOVERED

Cleburne Marshal and Owner Do Effective Police Work Here A horse, buggy and set of harness, stolen from T. P. Turner of Cleburne, has been recovered in this city. The property was taken several days ago, and Saturday Marshal Charles McLean, accompanied by the owner, arrived in the city, where they believed the property could be recovered. The horse was found upon the streets Saturday afternoon, Sunday night the owner, T. P. Turner, recognized his buggy being driven on one of the streets by a dairyman, who says that he bought the buggy from a man who offered him for $25 cash on a note for $45. It is presumed that the horse was turned loose. The Fort Worth police are searching for the man who sold the property to the dairyman. The city of London's chief inspector of weights and measures reports that the weight of all loads of coal tested last year was satisfactory, and that "in most cases the weight exceeded the amount specified on the ticket."

A Change When Coffee Is Left Off

It is almost as hard for an old coffee lover to quit the use of coffee as it is for a whiskey or tobacco fiend to break off, except that the coffee user can quit coffee and take up Postum Food Coffee without any feeling of a loss of the morning beverage, for when Postum is well boiled and served with cream, it is really better in point of flavor than most of the coffee served nowadays, and to the taste of the connoisseur it is like the flavor of fine Java. A great transformation takes place in the body within ten days or two weeks after coffee use is left off and Postum Food Coffee used, for the reason that the poison to the nerves has been discontinued and in its place is taken a liquid that contains the most powerful elements of nourishment. It is easy to make this test and prove the statements by changing from coffee to Postum Food Coffee. "There's a reason."

IMMIGRATION HAS TURNED TO GULF

Large Parties Pass Through Fort Worth

Immigration is pouring into Texas from Europe, the steamship companies it appears having shifted from New York to Southern ports in debarking the immigrants. A few years back 30 per cent of the immigration to the United States came through the Garden and from there the newcomers were carried by the railroads to the West and Northwest, the Southern states getting but a small percentage of the newcomers. This has been changed as is evidenced by the large number of Italian and French immigrants passing through Fort Worth every week. Some of these are destined for places in Northwest Texas and other to places in Indian and Oklahoma Territories. During the last thirty days at least 1,000 passed through the Texas & Pacific union passenger station, nearly all of them having been brought in over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas and delivered to other roads at Fort Worth. These immigrants are not coming in small parties, there being in some instances 150 in one lot, with tickets all reading to the same point. As a result of this diversification of immigration from northern to southern ports the Southwest is rapidly settling up, and railroad men say that this new policy of the steamship companies is to be continued indefinitely, and that the same energy will now be employed to bring immigrants into the South and Southwest as has heretofore been employed in bringing them into the West and Northwest.

E. church by the music department. A large attendance was secured for the exercises, all numbers being well received. Among the performers were: Misses Madelon Campbell, Sallie Gillen, Margaret Bishop, Eva McNulty, Ada Penberton, Winnie Slavson, Grace Brides, Geneva Stout, Lillie Forster, Lois Warren, Katherine Walker, Hazel Fortner, Myrtle Statti, Gertrude Hall, Mamie Johnson and Bertha Horn. Mrs. Eaton and the University Glee Club were also heard.

COLLEGE PICNIC JUNE 2

Drachon Students to Have Annual Outing at Handley The students of the Draughton's Business College will hold their annual picnic this year at Handley Saturday, June 2. The college has no commencement exercises, as students are graduated as soon as they are proficient, but the picnic is held as a recreation from studies. The college at the present time is under the management of Professor W. T. Stinson, the former manager, Professor J. F. Brantley having been promoted to superintendent of the Texas division of the Draughton schools.

CITY OF TENTS TO BE ERECTED

First Canvas Houses on Camp Ground Plans for a tent city at Arlington Heights during the present summer have been completed and the first tents were moved to the site near Lake Como Monday. W. O. Allen of the Arlington Heights company has arranged to furnish the persons thus tenting, water at cost and announces that in all ways possible efforts will be made to assure success to the summer colony. "Camping out" alone describes the city planned, regular camp life being followed, yet in such a place that business in the city may be attended with little loss of time. The boating and fishing at Lake Como assure good sport in those lines, while a bathing beach is now being fixed at one side of the beach with sand bottom and guard lines. Bath houses are being erected. The idea has met with hearty response here and indications point to tenting becoming an annual event with many families.

PANTHER CLUB SESSION

Cards Issued For Special Entertainment Thursday W. M. Coleman, secretary of the Panther Club, has sent the following card to members: "The Panther Club will give a special entertainment on May 24, at 6:30 p. m., at Hermann Park. Each member is privileged to bring one lady, and to invite one couple besides. Please notify me, not later than Wednesday, May 23, whether you will attend and how many guests you will bring. Respectfully, "BILLY COLEMAN, Secretary."

Republicans to Meet

A meeting of all members of the Roosevelt Central Republican Club has been called for Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock, at the office of J. N. Winters, in the Delaware hotel building, corner Main and Fourth streets. Business of much importance will be transacted. Members Fort Worth Country Club Please be advised that beginning with Thursday, May 24, the regular weekly Thursday night dinner and dance will be resumed at the club. Kindly advise the manager in advance of your intention to be present so that satisfactory service may be arranged for. E. S. THORPE, Manager. An Inspector of London police, who had had an opportunity to note the behavior of the 600 Japanese sailors during the time they were being entertained in the metropolis, expressed their way to take over the two new Japanese cruisers, was asked his opinion of them. "Little gentlemen, every one," he replied. Referring to the recent attack in the house of commons upon Lord Milner, former high commissioner of South Africa, Punch has a cartoon of it. History saying to Milner, attired in armor and with a tarnished shield resting at his feet: "Leave your shield in my keeping, I shall make it bright again."

KENTUCKIANS TO START COLONY

Party of Thirty-two Here on Way to West Texas Eight families were at the Texas & Pacific passenger station Tuesday morning en route to the county northwest of Stamford, Jones county, from their former homes in Butler county, Kentucky.

In all there was thirty-two people in the party, all of them having been neighbors back in Kentucky. John C. Williams, spokesman for the party, says they will all be neighbors in Texas. "We have an agreement to buy ten sections of land," he said, "and to divide the land as to the place to which we will radiate from a central point, which the eight families will have their homes built, thus creating a social neighborhood, where we can all get together after the day's work is done without having to ride all day on the cars."
