MILITIA CONTINUES TO GATHER AT OHIO MINES

Soldiers Mobilize for Outing at Scene of Conflict

SITUATION QUIET

Men Awed by Troops Cause No Further Disturbance.

Mines Shut Down

By Associated Press. HILLTOP, Ohio, June 6.—The militia at all points in the mining district No. 5 is quiet today. No attempt was made to start the M. A. Hanna mines, and it is now said they will probably not be opened before next week. No trouble is apprehended at Hilltop.

At Plum Run fifty additional non-combatant miners went to work.

One company of militia attached to the Fourth Ohio regiment arrived from Dayton today, and the Seventh regiment is scheduled to reach here some time this afternoon. While more troops are not needed, it is the intention, it is said, to mobilize the soldiers at this point and order them in camp for a day's outing.

Missouri Miners Hold Out

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 6.—The prohibition of the southwestern miners resumed conference today. George Colville, president of the Missouri district, says that John Mitchell, the national president, who is expected here tomorrow from Indianapolis, will be asked to try to settle the differences of the Missouri miners.

District mine president from Kansas, Indian Territory and Arkansas accepted the proposition of the Southwestern Coal Operators' Association last week and stood ready to return to work. The Missouri miners, however, held out, and as there is no way of separating the different districts at Kansas, Indian Territory and Arkansas districts, representing 50 per cent of the southwestern miners, were forced to continue the conference.

The Missouri men contend for a re-organization of the engineers and other outcasts of mine property.

FIRE RATES PROTESTED

Boston Citizens Object to Advance in Insurance Now Under Consideration

BOSTON, Mass., June 6.—An advance in fire insurance rates on account of the San Francisco disaster is considered unnecessary, according to resolutions adopted at a special meeting of the Boston Board of Commissioners yesterday, protesting against the new rates now being considered by the Boston board of fire underwriters.

The resolutions call upon the committee to the board to order the increased rates, that premiums paid have been employed for the protection of property and not improperly dissipated in the expense and dividend account.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The court martial of Captain Robert F. Wynne, of the United States marine corps under charges of insubordination made by the executive officer of the Alabama, Lieutenant Commander Henry F. Hall, began on board the Pennsylvania yesterday. Captain Wynne is a lieutenant and now consul general to London.

The main charge is that he resisted the order of arrest. It is also charged that on the morning of May 31, last, Wynne refused to obey the orders of the commanding officer to call "to quarters," he maintained that he had been assigned to duty to assist at a court martial held that morning on board the Pennsylvania, and that he did not have time to attend to both

Countless Telegrams Decried Proposed Amendment

DITCH RATE BILL

Tillman Fails to Cause Measure to Be Sent Back to Conference

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 6.—An avalanche of protests fell upon the senate yesterday against the anti-pass amendment which the rate bill conferees devised. On the desk of every senator there was a stack of telegrams varying in thickness from six to twelve inches. It took almost an hour for all the senators to rise one after another and send these up to the clerks. When the proceedings, amusing at first and monotonous later, was over, the telegrams were tied up in bunches, a pair of pages were called and two armfuls of public sentiment were carried down to a dark room in the basement where "petitions" stored. All these were from railroad employes who were indignant that congress should think of depriving them of their "petitions." These telegrams came from all corners of the United States, and as proof of the earnestness and spontaneity of these protests it was remarked by several senators that none of the telegrams they had received was franked.

Rate Bill Hits Snag

WASHINGTON, June 6.—When the morning business had been cleared in the senate, Senator Tillman made an appeal for the consideration of the conference report on the railroad rate bill. "We expect that the bill will be sent back to conference," he said, "and it should not take long to do that."

Senator Hale said he would give way to the conference report if it could be disposed of without further delay. He could be assured that all the new material would be eliminated from the bill.

Mr. Tillman objected to having the conferees instructed and at last the South Carolina senator moved to proceed to the disposition of the report on the rate bill.

There was objection to the presentation of the motion and it prevailed, but when Mr. Tillman undertook to make an explanation the Maine senator objected. Mr. Tillman said he desired to spend only three minutes, but Senator Foraker and Senator Lodge said they would desire to reply whereupon Mr. Hale sought to cut Mr. Tillman off with a motion to take up an appropriation bill.

Mr. Tillman, however, insisted upon holding the floor and proceeded by calling attention to the changes made by the conferees. He said he would not only for the purpose of making the bill clearer.

He closed by moving to disagree to the report and sending the bill back to conference.

Mr. Hale met this motion with a motion to take up the naval bill. Senators Foraker and Nelson insisted on making only three minutes, but Mr. Hale's motion, but the chair overruled them.

Trial of State Against Godair-Crowley Company On

COMPROMISE OFFER

Reported Here State Agreed to Accept $7,500 and Drop All Cases Pending

By Associated Press. AUSTIN, Texas, June 6.—The anti-trust suits of the state against the Fort Worth Live Stock Exchange and its members were taken up this morning in the Twenty-sixth district court. The first case taken up was the one against the Godair-Crowley Commission Company and both sides announced ready for trial. The selection of a jury was begun and the court recessed to 2 o'clock this afternoon on account of the sickness of Mr. Cante, one of the attorneys for the defendants. The state invoked the rules as to witnesses.

The following cases were dismissed for lack of service: State against E. E. Gibson, W. H. and G. B. Cowden, William D. Reynolds and A. G. and W. H. Godair. The case of A. F. Crowley was discontinued. Cases against the following defendants remain on the docket: Godair-Crowley Commission Company, G. T. Reynolds, A. S. Speers, W. T. Way, John P. Grant and Allen Thomas.

From present indications trial of these cases will last about ten days.

Jury Selected

The jury was selected at noon and is composed of the following gentlemen: J. A. Dittman, farmer. N. H. Hessey, merchant. Jim Byrne, capitalist. F. Keylich, merchant. E. K. Black, merchant. Pat McGuire, retired business man. John Gattman, laborer. John Barber. John Ross, farmer. Ben Lee, teacher. R. W. Riley, farmer. G. W. Norman, farmer. W. T. Clarence, E. Stewart.

OFFER TO COMPROMISE

Reported That State Agreed to Accept $7,500

A telegram was received in Fort Worth Tuesday night from a prominent cattleman who is now in Austin and who is included in the list of defendants in the anti-trust suits, saying that a proposition had been made by the state to compromise all the cases now pending upon the basis of $7,500 additional to be paid by the defendants. That the entire action would be wiped out if this amount in addition to the $7,500 already paid would be paid to the state.

The telegram stated further that the proposition had been declined and that it was the determination to fight all the cases to the bitter end and in the court of last resort rather than give up in the way of penalties to the state.

ELECTION LAW BEYOND KEN

District Officials Now Wrestling With Puzzle

CANDIDATES FILE

Senatorial Race Is Now Most Complicated in District, But There Are Others

When is a candidate? How is a legal filing? Why is the Terrell election law? These and a number of other inquiries more or less colored with virile epithets of every-day language are now being heard daily in the offices of those officials who are supposed by law to know when a candidate for office has complied with the requisitions of the Terrell election statute.

Q. T. Morland, member of the democratic state committee and supposedly ex-officio district chairman for the Tarrant senatorial district in which he resides, frankly admits that he gives it up.

On Mr. Morland's status as district chairman, ex-officio or otherwise, depends the candidacy for state senator of George Alexander.

Mr. Alexander is Parker county's long-delayed candidate for state senator.

Mr. Alexander has filed his application for a place on the ticket with Mr. Morland but he has not done so with William Capps, county chairman for Tarrant county, and the law provides that when there is no district chairman applicants for state office in a district must file with the county chairman in each county of his district. Mr. Alexander neglected to take the precaution of filing before June 4 with Mr. Capps, and the result is if Mr. Morland should be found not to be district chairman, Mr. Alexander's application is too late.

On the other hand, if Mr. Alexander's application is valid, the offer of O. E. Lattimore to withdraw provided Senator W. A. Hanger also withdraws on the appearance of a candidate from Parker county, is recalled.

Mr. Hanger is in Austin in connection with the anti-trust suits now pending, and could not be reached Wednesday.

Both Mr. Lattimore and Mr. Hanger took the precaution to file their applications with County Chairman Capps.

The counties in the Thirtieth senatorial district are Tarrant, Hood and Parker.

For Representative

The following have filed as candidates for representatives (two in Tarrant county. Seventy-eighth and Eightieth district—A. J. Baskin, W. P. E. Lattimore, E. Stewart, W. B. Fitzhugh, Tarrant county; J. B. Doyle, Wise county, and W. H. O'Brien, Cooke county. The counties composing this district are Denton, Wise, Cooke and Tarrant.

For district clerk the following have filed: O. B. Jordan, John A. Martin, Eugene Brock and John A. Kaiser. Besides these they have filed with Chairman Capps and he has taken away with him at Austin, or has put them away where his office people, or partner, Mr. Short, cannot find them, or they have filed with the chairman of the Second supreme judicial district, the applications of Colonel A. M. Carter and Justice I. W. Stephens for the vacancy in judgeship on the bench of the county civil appeals for that district to occur by reason of the expiration of the term of office for which Justice Stephens was elected, have not been filed.

The candidates for county and precinct officers have until the 14th of June, it is said, in which to file their applications.

REPUBLICS DISPLEASED OVER DRAGO DOCTRINE

TENNIS TOURNAMENT ON American Players Fool Safe to Win in Coming Contest

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 6.—A cable dispatch to the Herald from London says: Captain Raymond D. Little yesterday selected the American lawn tennis team, which is to oppose Australia at Newport, Monmouthshire, Thursday, in the first round of the tournament for the Davis cup.

It was decided to name Holcombe Ward and Kreigh Collins in the singles and Collins and Little in the doubles. The Australians will be represented by A. F. Williams and L. O. Holdwin.

It is thought that the Americans will secure a comfortable triumph. All chances of Beals C. Wright being sufficiently recovered to appear in the championship against Great Britain have now disappeared.

BRYAN BOOM FOR 1908 IS LAUNCHED

Democrats Name Nebraskan to Run for Presidency

Special to The Telegram. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 6.—David R. Francis will give a speech which set the democratic state convention wild with delight and enthusiasm, nominated William J. Bryan for the presidency and for once and all closed up the clamor which has yawned in Missouri democracy since 1896.

The distinguished former governor of Missouri, cabinet minister of Grover Cleveland and prime figure in the councils of the conservative element of the party made an address which goes into political annals as the most important political deliverance in a decade.

Not less enthusiastic than the demonstration which swept over the convention when Governor Francis declared that he would support Bryan as the next President was the reception accorded to Governor Francis himself. His appearance in the convention hall was the signal for an outburst of cheering and applause.

The perfect candor of the address, the clear-cut, manly stand which Governor Francis took when he spoke of his allegiance to President Cleveland and the heartfelt and sincere declaration that he and the great mass of conservative democrats throughout the nation would be found fighting shoulder to shoulder with their fellow democrats for Bryan in 1908 brought the convention off to a whirlwind of temperate cheering followed by Governor Francis for ten minutes and until he had disappeared among the delegates at the rear of the convention hall.

EMPERORS KISS WHEN THEY MEET

German and Austrian Monarchs to Hold Conference

By Associated Press. VIENNA, June 6.—Emperor William arrived here this morning and was greeted at the Northern railroad station by Emperor Francis Joseph, in person. The meeting was marked by extreme heartiness and cordiality. The monarchs kissed each other three times. After introducing their suites, the emperors proceeded to Schenbrunn castle.

On their arrival at the station near the castle, the imperial party was met by arch dukes, members of the German embassy, the Austrian ambassador to Germany and the principal military and civil authorities. A regimental band on the platform played the Prussian national anthem.

Cheers Were Hearty

Emperor William inspected the guard of honor, after which the monarchs drove to the castle. They were heartily cheered along the route. A number of archdukes awaited their majesties at the castle where the German emperor subsequently received in audience Count Goluchowski, Austria-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs; Dr. Weyerle, Hungarian premier, and Baron Von Heick, Austrian premier.

Later Emperor William drove through the town and called on the members of the Austrian imperial family.

Several Countries May Withdraw From Congress

Drago Doctrines Cause Disagreements and Root is Trying to Prevent Trouble

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 6.—Argentina is not pleased with the program agreed upon for the third Pan-American congress to be held in Rio Janeiro in July and it will require all the skill which Secretary Root possesses to prevent the withdrawal of several Latin-American republics from the congress.

The Drago doctrine, the cause of Argentina's grievance. It is the desire of Mr. Portela, Argentina minister, the Drago doctrine should be one of the subjects considered at the Rio Janeiro congress.

This doctrine was promulgated by the celebrated Argentine jurist, L. F. Drago, at the time of the Venezuelan blockade by Germany. Great Britain and Italy holds forces cannot be used by one power to collect money owed to its citizens by another power.

After much discussion the committee on the number of countries which are prepared the following section relating to the general subject covered by the Drago doctrine:

A resolution recommending a second peace conference at The Hague to be requested to consider whether, and if at all, to what extent use of force for collection of public debts is admissible.

Force Not Allowed

This statement does not grant the use of force if justified, but is not a clear statement of the subject covered by the Drago doctrine in the opinion of a number of countries which are to participate in the congress. Mr. Drago was appointed by Argentina as one of its delegates to the Rio Janeiro congress and is reported to have announced that he does not care to attend and participate in the discussion of the program as agreed upon.

Under the rules agreed upon a change in the program can be effected at Rio Janeiro by a vote of two-thirds of the countries represented, and consequently there will doubtless be a strong effort to make changes in the program which are dissatisfied participate.

Drago Doctrine Not Popular

Many South American diplomatists believe the Drago doctrine should not be submitted to The Hague for consideration, but should be adopted by the powers on this continent without regard to what European countries may have to say about it. Several powers in the western part of South America are said to be in sympathy with the Argentina position on the Drago doctrine and interesting developments are expected.

LIGHT THROWN ON CANANEA TROUBLE

Mexican Leaders Explain the Cause of Recent Riots

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—Governor Ysabel of Sonora and Luis Torres, commander of the north zone, have issued in a signed statement to the Associated Press regarding the riots at Cananea.

The statement says order has been established since Sunday and public tranquility is increasing more and more every moment in the mining district.

The statement then reviews the causes leading up to the trouble. The Mexicans struck and went to the office of Superintendent Metcalf, who refused them admittance. This incensed the strikers. The Americans threw a stream of water on them and in the riot Metcalf was killed.

On the second day hostilities were renewed and two Americans and six Mexicans were killed. Governor Ysabel did all possible to repress the disorder and when the troops arrived under Torres order was restored.

RAILROAD NEWS

ELECTRIC LINES LOSE

Reduction of Rates Has Unusual Result in Ohio

A curious result of the reduction of fares on the Ohio railways is noted. The powers that be cut the maximum passenger rate to 2 cents per mile, and the outcome of the matter is the threatened bankruptcy of some of the electric lines. It is claimed all else being equal, many prefer to ride on the steam railroads rather than the electric lines.

It is asserted as a fact that the electric lines, since the reduction of fares, have lost much business and, in competition, they have also been forced to reduce their rates of fare, which also helps to cut off the revenue.

As of which goes to show that there is more in an arbitrary cutting of the railroad passenger rates than the mere order of a state railroad commission to that effect.

TRAINMEN PROTEST

Pass Feature of Hepburn Bill is Resented

The trainmen's organizations of Texas are opposed to one feature of the Hepburn rate bill, as the following statements attest:

The transportation committee of the trainmen employed on the Texas and Pacific Tuesday sent telegrams to Morris Sheppard, Joseph W. Bailey and C. A. Culberson, asking that they use their influence against the conference report on the rate bill, which prohibits passage for railway employees. The telegrams were signed by James G. Holloway, chairman.

A similar message went W. R. Smith from Big Spring, Lodge, B. R. T., signed by P. C. Caylor, secretary.

PREPARING FOR YARDS

Much Work Being Done by Fort Worth and Denver

There is considerable activity where the new Fort Worth and Denver yards and freight house are to be built. Houses are being moved from property recently acquired by the Terminal Company and as soon as the space has all been cleared the work of grading for the new yards will begin.

These yards, when completed, will be, with the exception of the Texas and Pacific yards, the largest in Fort Worth, and of such dimensions as will greatly facilitate the handling of traffic.

Running Time Changed

A new time card will go into effect on the Texas and Pacific Sunday. It will make no changes in the arrival and departure of trains at Fort Worth, and is simply a readjustment of the running time of trains between certain stations. The new schedule is simply the summer arrangement.

Railroad Notes and Personals

Joe Rankin of the Big 4 was over from Dallas Tuesday afternoon. The Texas Traveling Passenger Agents' Association will meet in Galveston June 7.

A. B. Spencer, the Rock Island division freight and passenger agent at Amarillo, was in the city Tuesday afternoon, and makes a most favorable report on crop conditions up that way. The weather will stay dry long enough for the farmers to get the stuff out of the fields.

The trainmen will have their postponed excursion to Burdette June 17. The train will leave here at 8 a. m. and the returning train will arrive in Fort Worth at 9:30 p. m. The run is about an hour and a half and the grounds, right on the banks of the Paluxy, are said to be beautiful.

R. W. Tipton, city passenger agent for the Denver, has resigned, effective June 15, to engage in other business, and W. Y. Snake Indian in Tulsa Waxen Rich and Famous

Special to The Telegram. TULSA, I. T., June 6.—A man with a history lives in Tulsa. Of course, every man has a history, but there are few whose experiences have been so many and varied, and whose successes, under difficulties have been so decided, as those of Sam Checotah, who now lives in North Tulsa.

Sam Checotah is a Snake Indian, whose history deserves a place in some first-class magazine, and not in a daily newspaper, where space is limited and the writer's time is taken up by the rush of daily events.

Sam was born 79 years ago and is hale and active today, possessed of much of the suppleness which distinguished the aborigine. For forty years he lived near Muskogee and tells wonderful stories of the days when they used to get flour and provisions from St. Louis, and afterwards from Fort Smith, by high play at the roulette. On one occasion it won him $10,000.

When he first arrived he lost heavily by playing on 32 continually.

THE POST DISCOVERY A Revelation in Human Food.

Previous to the discovery of the Post process of changing the starchy part of Wheat and Barley into a form of sugar, many people suffered from what is known as starch indigestion.

That was shown by gas and all sorts of stomach and bowel trouble (sometimes ending in appendicitis) brought on by the undigested starch in bread, oats, white bread, cake, puddings, etc.

Nature ultimately punishes anyone who continually takes some medicine or drug to smooth over or nullify bad conditions of the body. The only safe way to cure such is to correct or remove the cause. Therefore it was plain to Mr. Post, in working out his discovery, that people who show signs of weakness in digesting the starchy part of food (two, the largest part of all we eat) must be helped by having the starch digested or transformed before being eaten. And of course the safest and easiest way to do this would be to imitate nature and avoid all chemicals or outside and unnatural things. The body digests the starchy food by the following process: First the moisture or juices of the mouth and stomach, then warmth or mild heat, which grows or develops diastase from the grain. Time is also an important element and when all work together properly the starch is slowly turned into a form of sugar, as it must be before the blood will absorb it and carry the needed energy to different parts of the body.

Of course if the body fails to do its work perfectly trouble sets in. So in the making of the famous food—Grape-Nuts—moisture, warmth and time are the only things used to turn starch into sugar, thus imitating nature and keeping the human food in original purity, free from outside things and just as Mother Nature intends it shall be kept for advantage to use by the child.

The food is fully cooked at the factories, and is crisp and delicious with a little thick cream poured over.

It can be softened for people with weak teeth, but is most valuable to them when it must be energetically chewed, thus bringing down the saliva from the gums to go to the stomach and help digest the entire meal, besides the use of the teeth strengthens and preserves them. Nature blesses the parts of the body that are used and not abused. Grape-Nuts food brings peace, health and comfort when people are in despair over any one of the ailments resulting from undigested food.

STOCK IS GIVEN ROAD OFFICIALS

Investigation of Coal Rates Is Continued by Commission

By Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—The interstate commerce commission today continued the investigation of the relations of the Pennsylvania railroad officials and the employees to various mining companies in the bituminous coal districts. The first witness was Joseph Boyer, of Altoona, Pa., chief clerk in the office of A. W. Gibbs, superintendent of motive power. Mr. Boyer said he had 200 shares of stock in the Jameson Coal Company, given him for his one-third interest in the McLaren Coal Company. The McLaren stock was given to him by Mr. Jamison. He also had ten shares in the Valley Coal Company and fifteen shares in the Edrie Coal Company, which were presented to him by Captain Alfred Hicks. Ten shares of the Poston Coal Company stock were sent to him in an envelope. He was not certain who sent it but thought it might have come from Joseph Aiken, railroad man, or H. A. Kuhn, the operator. All these stocks paid dividends. Mr. Boyer said also that he holds interests amounting to $8,000 in undeveloped coal lands on the West Pennsylvania division. He paid for this stock.

Testimony Startling

In its entirety Mr. Boyer's testimony was of startling character. His stock holdings were only small portions of gifts he admitted receiving from coal companies. In his capacity as purchaser of fuel he testified that he had received from five companies an allowance of from 3 to 5 cents a ton on coal used by railroads for fuel purposes. During part of 1903 to date he had received a total of more than $46,000. The money was first sent him in cash, but later cashier's checks were sent to Cashier Hastings of the Second National bank of Altoona and placed on deposit for Boyer. Boyer said he believed that the money had been paid in the same manner to his predecessors in office and believed that he was only following a custom of the department.

STOCK SHOW NEEDED

Oklahoma Director Favorable to Fort Worth Movement

C. C. Frenon, traveling representative of the Fort Worth stock yards, who also holds the position of secretary of the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, is in receipt of the following letter from John Field, director of the Oklahoma agricultural and experiment station at Stillwater, Ok., concerning the making of the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show one of the attractions for the live stock industry of the southwest:

"Referring to our conversation some days ago, there is no question about there being a great need for a permanent general live stock show somewhere in the southwest. Chicago and Kansas City are too far away for many of our breeders and they miss the opportunity of gaining the knowledge and experience which well managed stock shows provide. Fort Worth shows commendable enterprise in undertaking the logical development of the shows already held there, and I hope to see the work pushed until we have in the southwest a show equal in all respects to any held elsewhere in the country."

LOCK FIRE ESCAPES

Chicago Packing Houses Ordered to Put in More Stair Cases

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 6.—Building Commissioner Harten went to the stock yards to make an inspection of every building on the place. The commissioner declared before leaving the city hall he would compel the packers to correct every violation of building ordinances that might be found. One place visited was one of the largest packing houses, and he found stair cases and fire escapes not sufficiently ample. The owners were instructed to put from one to two stairways in all buildings. They promised to do so at once.

Once, mad and overtired, he spoke to her. "I hate money, but I must have it. That's all they value a man for now."

Maclaren argued it out with a little green idol on the table. For further justification, behind him stretched the long troop of Men Who Had Done the Same.

"I'm not a baby, nor she, we're both grown people. I married her, I broke her down nearly into hell. She's dead. I can't be sorry. It's only back to elemental things after all—when I die, I'll be a man, and she'll be a woman in his arms."

"I'll write to you, then. At Harwich, the night boat—there are big lights that show the steamer there. They'll light us across the sea."

He left her in the Strand, and she turned and came back. Before she spoke his careful justifying weakened, and a queer memory of the idol's grin was in his mind.

"Please don't have anything more to do with me," she said. "Don't write that letter. Please, please, don't!"

WHY STOREY SHOULD BE RETIRED

Some of the papers of the state are urging that Judge L. J. Storey should be retired from the railroad commission on account of the sympathy for railways that he has developed, and this idea does the venerable commissioner a great injustice. Judge Storey is a man of honor and integrity and his long public life has been absolutely above reproach. In his work as railroad commissioner he has tried to faithfully live up to his oath of office and the duties of his position, and he belongs to the old school of Texas statesmen who were always actuated by very high ideals. Judge Storey has no more sympathy for the railroads than those institutions legitimately have coming. He simply tries to be fair and just in the discharge of his duties, and no doubt feels the railways are just as much entitled to a square deal as any other Texas institutions. And he is entirely right in the assumption. The people of Texas who have honored Judge Storey with his present important position believe the railways are entitled to justice and want nothing but the principles of justice applied to them. Judge Storey has understood this, and while he has often differed with his colleagues, it was not on account of sympathy with the railways, but a lack of sympathy with a lot of the horse play political moves that have emanated from the commission. And it would not be surprising if Judge Storey did feel a little sympathy for the railways. He is in a position to see and understand every move made by his colleagues having for its object the making of political hay at the expense of the railways. When he sees the railways eternally ridden to death on this hobby, it would not be surprising if the honest heart of the old statesman should throbb in sympathy to a certain extent with the interests that he is as much sworn to protect as he is those of the people. It is not on this account, however, that the people of Texas are finding fault with Judge Storey and figuring on his retirement. He is a man our people have ever delighted to honor, and they honor him today for the important work he has done during a long and busy life for the promotion of the public weal. The opposition to Judge Storey comes from two ideas, one of which is that his age now justifies retirement from public life, and the other is that he has been in office long enough to be willing to give place to another. The people believe that a younger and more vigorous intellect is essential in dealing with the problems that continually arise before the railroad commission, and in Judge William D. Williams, of this city, they believe they have found the ideal man for the place. Judge Williams became a candidate for this position in deference to popular demand. His work while a member of the state legislature was sufficient to attract the attention of the entire state, and forthwith there arose a demand that he should become a candidate for the position. He has yielded to this popular demand, and in him Judge Storey will have a most worthy successor. If Williams is the choice of the people the commission will have at least one member who will give the duties of the position the attention its importance demands.

PUBLICITY IN CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

The house committee on election of President, vice president and members of congress has authorized a favorable report on the bill of Representative Gaines of Virginia for publicity regarding campaign expenses. It is an elaborate measure and provides to whom gifts shall be made and defines the limitations of political committees. It is made to apply to "any committee, association or organization which shall aid or promote the success or defeat of any person who shall be a candidate for the office of representative or delegate in congress, or for President or vice president of the United States at any election, or who shall be voted for at any such election." The term is also extended to include any committee or organization to aid or defeat the nomination of any person for these offices.

The bill stipulates that all contributions to aid the election or defeat of such candidates must be made only to a chairman or a treasurer of "such political committee," as defined, and the same regulation is applicable to contributions for nominations, that is, the contribution must be to an officer or member of the "political committee."

Candidates for other offices than those named but which are to be voted for at the same election with members of congress or electors are permitted personally to pay their own traveling expenses and such other costs necessary properly to get before the public their views and position. No committee is permitted to receive contributions until it has a treasurer and other officers, and such fact certified to the clerk of the United States district court.

Every payment toward election expenses under the provisions of the measure must be vouchers for, unless less than $1, by receipted bill, stating the particulars of the expenditure, and such receipts must not be destroyed until twelve months after the election to which they relate. Every expenditure must be certified to the clerk of a United States district court within three days after it is made, with the provision that any within six days preceding the election shall be certified on the day it is made.

Likewise, all receipts of contributions which amount to more than $50 are to be certified to the clerk of the court by the officer of the committee receiving them, and are to constitute a public record in such clerk's office. Contributions must be made in the name of the person making them. Jurisdiction is given district or circuit courts to compel the filing of the expenses and contributions as stipulated, and such proceedings are permitted precedence on the court dockets. The court procedure is fully outlined in details.

Nothing in the measure limits the expenses of contesting an election. The violation of its provisions is made a misdemeanor, punishable by a maximum fine of $5,000, or imprisonment for one year, or both. The people of the entire country are demanding the passage of some such measure, in consequence of the great scandals that have grown out of former national elections, but the politicians do not court publicity. The passage of the bill is extremely problematical.

WHAT IT WILL COME TO

The trouble at Colonel Greene's mines down in Mexico last week, in which several Americans were killed together with a big lot of Mexicans, and a company of 450 American fighting men rushed across the border for the protection of American life and property, is but a taste of what is in store for the United States with the passing of the Diaz administration in the sister republic.

The riot at the Greene mines was precipitated by the Mexican element, which is too often treacherous and resentful of American enterprise and development. Our Mexican friends are not altogether pleased with the manner in which Americans are getting hold of big enterprises in that country. They believe the hated Gringos have designs on the very country itself, and they have not yet forgotten the loss of Texas and that other big slice of territory that now constitutes an integral portion of these United States. They remember that history has a wonderful faculty of repeating itself.

And it will be remembered that in this row at the Greene mines prompt appeals were made to the United States government for protection. That within itself shows how matters stand. The Americans who have large business enterprises in Mexico look to the United States government for protection in the enjoyment of their rights. They know that the government of Porfirio Diaz must come to an end in the very near future. They know, too, that when the iron grip of Diaz is relaxed there is going to be some strenuous times in the republic of Mexico. The existing resentment that is felt against American encroachment is going to blaze forth in a volume of desperation that will be little short of anarchy.

Then must come American occupation for the protection of American interests. And as American interests are firmly established in that country that occupation must continue until a stable government is assured. It may be that this matter of stable government for Mexico in the hour of her impending travail can only be established by the United States in the same manner that England established such a government in the Transvaal.

It does not require a very keen eye to discover the drift of things as regards the republic of Mexico. We may assume a holy and pious attitude and deny any intention of interfering with the people of that country in the future, and some of us may be perfectly sincere in the declaration. But there are agencies at work sniping a different destiny. Mexico is just as certain to become a part and parcel of the United States as the wheel of time is to continue its revolution. Destiny has already marked that republic as our own.

With the federal government continually poking its nose into the affairs of the citizen, where is this thing of government regulation and control going to finally end? We are drifting rapidly toward the strongest form of centralized government the world has ever seen, and one of these days we will awaken to the fact that we have no more rights than a serf in bloody Russia. Less government regulation and control and less government interference with the rights of the individual will soon be the popular cry from one end of the country to the other.

Candidate Colquitt challenges Judge Bell to a joint discussion throughout the state, and Candidate Colquitt served as a newspaper man long enough to fully appreciate the benefit of advertising. Judge Bell has nothing to gain from a joint discussion with Candidate Colquitt and the people of the state have no interest in personalities. Judge Bell is but human and can be depended upon to defend himself from all aspersions, but there is no occasion for reiterating continually the falsity of the Colquitt allegations.

Upton Sinclair's book, "The Jungle," may be a mass of misrepresentations, but it is being read by many people and very effectively advertised. The engagement of Rabbi Joseph Jasin, of this city, to translate the work into the Yiddish language by the author, is a splendid tribute to this young man's scholarly attainments. The work will be done well.

The amount of political strength delivered to Col. Tom Campbell by Mont J. Moore is too small to be intelligently and accurately computed. It is believed, however, to not greatly exceed the personal vote of the gentleman from Milam county.

The Texas Press

The Texas acreage in cotton this year is estimated to be 7,888,645, with excellent prospects of a large yield. Some of the land will produce a bale of cotton to the acre. Some other lands will not produce more than a third of a bale to the acre. Perhaps the acreage will be between one-third and one-half bale to the acre, or a total crop somewhat in excess of three million bales.—San Antonio Express.

We cannot tell much about the Texas cotton crop until the close of the ginning season. We do know, however, that there has been a small increase in acreage, and if conditions continue favorable Texas will probably produce more cotton this year than was marketed by our farmers last season.

The Fort Worth Telegram announces that the next census will show that the Panther City leads all the cities of the state in population. There is nothing like being optimistic.—Denison Herald.

And Fort Worth will be there with the goods. While other Texas cities are squabbling over which is now the greatest, Fort Worth is rapidly moving in the direction of the first place.

The annual Texas cyclone season finds considerably more property in the road of destruction each recurring year. It is not that the cyclones are worse or more frequent, but that there are more people and houses.

—El Paso Herald.
The Herald is correct. We are not having more cyclones, but we are getting so many people in the big state that the waste places are all settling up, and this only serves to bring the twisters into more prominence.

Of Judge Bell it is aptly said: "He never appeared as the counsel of a railroad in his life, yet he is willing to accord justice to every legitimate enterprise. A man who has served the railroads for years and then parted with them in bitter animosity is likely to let his prejudice sway him into acts of injustice to the railroads which would be injurious to the development of the state and the best interests of its citizens."—San Antonio Express.

Judge Bell comes before the people of Texas with clean hands and a clean record. He is a candidate upon whom all interests can safely unite with the assurance that they will get nothing but a square deal.

The Telegram and the Texas Press

That big meeting of cattlemen down in the San Angelo country, which passed resolutions and offered financial assistance to the attorney general of Texas in the prosecution of penalty suits, seems to have been after the same order of another big meeting once held by the famous tabor of Threadneedle street. "We the people," many sometimes repeat, but a very few of the people in convention or public meeting assembled.

Very much like some political conventions, you think where a handful of stalwarts think they represent all the people but often only a small minority. As the democrat has said before the packing house will stay in Texas.—Sherman Democrat.

EVERYTHING IS NOT ROTTEN

Mr. Charles E. Hughes is right; the ideals of the present time are high and clean, and never before have public men been so quick to respond to the call of duty or had so great capacity to legislate wisely. On the other hand, censure has never been more extravagant and heedless. But it must be distinguished from the criticism that is responsible and helpful. Much chaff is mixed with the grain of sound opinion, and the dust raised has an effect that confuses standards and clouds reputations. The man in the street who does not think for himself, and takes his views from others in good faith, is hardly to be blamed if he believes that the heart of things is rotten and the republic degenerate. Well, he should read history a bit, dig in the "muck" of Credit Mobilier and Star Route times, open the dust covered volumes of the civil war period, or go back to the halcyon days of the revolution.

He hasn't played baseball in five years, but he has seen other players, and he knows he can do as well and better. He has often said so. The man is going to wear a baseball suit and a red undershirt, and he will look the part. But will he play the part? Tomorrow the man will smell of arnica and other soothing lotions. He will have no ginger. The man will be nursing three swollen fingers and 400 sore muscles. He will walk with care and deliberation. He will also hurry over the sporting page for fear he will see something there about the way he played. He will be full of remorse.—Detroit Free Press.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, June 6.—"I hold in my hand," said Senator Stone, in the course of an eloquent address to the senate.

"Know he'd say that sooner or later," commented one of the experienced students of legislation in the press gallery. "Now, in a minute he'll say, 'Within the range of my voice.' Watch him."

"Within the range of my voice," Senator Stone began his next sentence.

"Fine!" said the student in the press gallery. "Next comes, 'I desire to state.'"

"I desire to state," said Senator Stone a minute later. "Watch for 'In the last analysis,' whispered some. "Watch for 'In the last analysis,'" whispered one of them.

A minute later "In the last analysis" came. Bits were offered and taken as to whether Mr. Stone's next paragraph would contain "but on the other hand" or "if it were not for the fact." The man who bet on the latter won, but two sentences further on came "but on the other hand."

Bourke Cochran was congratulated on his speech on the immigration law. One of those who congratulated him said: "What do you think of the senate's attitude on this educational test?"

"The senate," said Mr. Cochran, "is so fond of constitutional lawyers that it has naturally favored this clause, which prohibits all but constitutional lawyers from entering the United States."

VERSE THAT RING

THE SWEET JUNE BRIDE

Sweet perfume is on the zephyrs,
Flowers blooming everywhere;
Palms are nodding on the vestry
And love is in the air;
Trees are bending with their verdure,
Scented vines are creeping round;
Grasses in their varied colors
Lie like carpets on the ground;
Music-throated birds are chirping
To their mates so blithely,
And the babbling streams are merry
On their way toward the sea.

With the breath of summer touching
Gently on our cheek at morn,
With all nature robed in glory
While the sun is growing warm,
Come a sweeter, dearer creature
Than we find on all the earth—
Love is beaming on her visage
And her heart's attuned to mirth;
She is fairer than the flowers,
And we love her more beside—
She's a bud from heaven's garden,
She's the sweet June bride.

THE ANGLO-SPANISH MARRIAGE

From a historical point of view considerable interest attaches to the marriage of the Princess Ena of Battenberg, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, to Alfonso XIII, king of Spain, in whom the blood of the Bourbons and the Hapsburgs is commingled. It is not, of course, the first time that members of the Spanish and English royal families have been united in wedlock, and it is to be wished that the present experiment may prove more fortunate than have some of its predecessors.—New York Sun.

WHAT CONGRESS ESCAPED

TALL TALES FROM THE TALL TIMBER

Le SUEUR, Minn., June 6.—There was a strange accident out in Bethune township yesterday.

The main shaft in the Doppelgaenger sawmill broke short off on both sides of the immense fourteen foot flywheel, many tons in weight, and this wheel, dropping down till the swiftly flying rim touched the solid floor of the engine room, instantly raced away like an express train in the direction in which it was turning.

In a cloud of dust and a litter of flying bricks and mortar, boards and splinters, it broke through the north side of the engine house, mowed down thirty feet of flimsy lumber shed and then, crashing through the fence onto the Haskell farm pasture, ran across its mile of yard, level surface in record breaking time, tearing down three fences and coming out into the road near the house, after running in one of the open doors of the barn and out the other and killing seven sheep during the passage.

Here it crossed the Germantown road and rolled straight away down the level highway to Bingen.

George Shepler was driving down to Bingen and, hearing shouting behind him, turned to see what the matter was. He saw the wheel coming and, though he could not fathom the mystery of its appearance, he tried to get out of the road, but grew excited, handled the team unskillfully and turned them right across the track of the approaching wheel.

There was a glitter of bright metal in the brilliant sunshine, a crash of rending wood and iron, a clatter

WORK OF WOMEN TOLD IN SERMON Rev. Luther Little Preaches at Switzer College QUEEN ESTHER IS CITED Christian Work Should Be Added to Club Work—Heart as Big as the World Needed

Special to The Telegram. ITASCA, Texas, June 6.—Woman's work in the world was outlined in a sermon delivered here Sunday to the graduating class of Switzer Female College by Rev. Luther Little, pastor of the First Baptist church at Galveston, Texas.

Text from Esther "The theme of the sermon was 'Woman and World Ideas,' and the text was as follows: Esther iv, 14-16: 'For if thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall calamity come upon us; and deliverance will arise to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy Father's house shall be destroyed; and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this.'"

"The other is a statement from Esther in which she sums up her final decision: 'If I perish, I perish.' This is a broad service which she was about to render. She was in the kingdom of Persia with one hand upon the throne and with the other endeavoring to save a nation. Her act was as wide as an empire upon one hand and as broad as needs of the human heart upon the other. Such an act could not be less than the salvation of two races, yea of two worlds."

"When Esther said, 'If I perish, I perish,' she was about to perform a deed which was as nearly unselfish as any act of which I have any knowledge. I do not mean to say, nor do I think that women are entirely unselfish, in fact, I do not believe they possess any more of this beautiful grace than men do."

"Still, it is fair and just to say that even if women are selfish, they are not to be blamed. Modern woman's chivalry have spoiled them. We begin to teach our baby girls very early in life how much better they are than boys. I very often hear my own little girl repeating a very strange couplet, which runs like this: 'What are boys made of—made of? Sugar and spice and puppy dog tails. And that's what boys are made of—made of.'"

"I am sure I did not teach her this little poetry. I do not believe its sentiment is true. This same idea is carried on with them until they are big girls, even till they are old girls. If there be such a thing; hence I cannot see how girls can grow into womanhood without being more or less selfish. I do not believe that there is such a thing as superior human goodness. All flesh has inherited alike the evils of the fallen Eden. Notwithstanding all this, we see the evidence of woman's beautiful work from sea to sea and from pole to pole."

"We see the evidence of Esther's service everywhere we see one of God's creatures, and we only wish that every woman of today was her worthy successor. Palace walls were not strong enough to hold within their gilded confines the great life of her who was queen by nature as well as by position. 'If the kingdom were given to me, this world would be as anxious for their lives to better their fellows as was Esther, it would be but a few years until all this globe would be at the feet of Jesus and they themselves free from the thralldom of sin.'"

ing of this sermon and woman's part in world-wide service. 'It is a heart as big as a world. This is essentially what is meant by world ideas. A heart that loves the world of the past, of the present and of the future.'"

"Esther may have been beautiful of face and of form, but her chief beauty consisted of grace of heart. Too often palaces of gold make hearts of steel. Too often limitless possessions makes loveless lives. Dear is the price paid for honors if it costs us the affections of our souls. It is woman's privilege and highest grace to pass beyond palaces, powers, possessions and preferences and spend her life in that more fertile field of suffering nations."

"It is not sufficient for the intellect alone to be as high as the world. A woman may know all the history of all the nations and yet have sympathy for none. You may be in possession of all learning and yet your heart go no further than your front gate. 'Service at any cost is another characteristic of the world idea. What cared the queen for her own life when the helpless were in danger? It will cost us something to have a world idea. Esther did not hold the palace and the position to be worth much in comparison to that world-wide sympathy to make other people free. Right is always better than riches and service better than selfishness. Right living is better than long life and heaven is better than hoarding.'"

"The sweetest incentive that goes up from the world is the sacrifice of a woman's heart, and it is even sweeter if it rises from the golden censor. 'Who cares for the cost of world-wide service when he remembers that it will enrich his own heart? 'Come disaster, scorn and pain! In thy service pain is pleasure; With thy favor, loss is gain.'"

"Man may trouble and distress me. 'Twill but drive me to Thy breast; Life with trials hard may press me; Heaven will bring me sweeter rest.'"

"This universal idea will come when we remember that the world is the purchase of God. God did not give His son for the few—the classes—but for all. Christ did not die for the royalty alone, but for the masses, as well. Who can be less than the aims of God? Great was the temptation of Esther to close her eyes to the cries of her dying sisters, but humble and lowly as they may have been, they were God's purchase, and how could she dare to forget them?"

"Look yonder at the staggering millions, whose burdens are greater than they can bear, and whose hearts even How can I close my hand and heart to them?"

"Notice some examples of women who have set about to make this world better. 'No better example could be found than Esther herself. She looked beyond the gates of the court to God's suffering people without, and what they meant to the world. The inspiration which she gave to world-wide service will never be less all the angels shall announce that time shall be no more.'"

"Florence Nightingale's sympathies were bounded by the horizon. Her soul was as harmonious as her voice, and it harmonized with the condition of the very lowly. There are but few places on this globe where her name is not mentioned in reverence and her memory produces a magic spell."

"Frances Willard has taken the cup of fire out of the hands of many of the drunkards of the world and turned them to Christ. It will be a century yet before we shall really understand just how much this world-wide character has done for the uplifting of the rum-enraptured people of the earth. Who would dare to say that her work was limited to conditions or continents? Though American in birth, she was universal in work. Of all the characters that blessed our modern civilization, there are none whom the world prefers to honor more than Frances Willard."

"How unworthy we are to lay our lips to the name of the Virgin Mary; I grant you that she was only human. Only divinity can be ascribed to her which has been the privilege of the women of this world stand first, because she has rendered the widest service. While she was keeping her story close in her own heart, there was a silent song wider in its range than even the song of the angels as she looked into the child's face she turned her eyes toward the world, the sinful world, and knows that she is the mother of Him who is to save it from its sin. How can any woman who loves the world of Mary be narrow in her sympathies and limited in her service? 'How can woman help in the world-wide work? This is the question that now arises. Where can she bestow her labor where it will count for most? How is she qualified to be wider in her sympathies than any other creature? 'By her position. Woman is the highest office holder in the world. Take her position as wife, Esther was literally the queen of the world. When she became wife she was in a position to change a world's history. This same power is held by the wives of Christendom today.'"

"I wonder how many wives are as wide in their religious tactics as they are in the matters of the world. The Christian wife can change the home for good if she will. 'This is the reason God has vested the highest power in wifehood. Behold an influential Christian wife is one of the fine arts. It is not the inconsistency of being a good woman who influences her own household, but enlarges the religious ideas of the world. It may be gratifying, but it is not always wise for a wife to possess the dominion of her own household. Her husband came home late at night, and his wife awoke and saw him in the middle of the room holding an open umbrella. When she asked him why he was doing so she replied: 'The rain was only waiting for the storm to pass over.'"

"The faithful Christian wife who brightens her household to hope and heaven. 'As mothers also, women are in a position to influence the world. Great mothers make great nations. Christian mothers are the world's best blessing. Our mothers be pious, earnest and exemplary and you will see a new day in the kingdom of our God.'"

"The nature of a woman can give the world-wide influence God needs upon this earth. Woman possesses many of those qualities naturally which man has to obtain by grace. She is loving, she is patient, she is merciful, she makes her great in the kingdom of God. Shakespeare said: 'Woman, thy name is frailty.' Another has more truthfully said: 'Woman, thy name is love.' But love and duty. When Esther stood in the palace to plead for her nation Xerxes well knew that he was in the presence of his superior. 'A life devoted to Christ will make a woman wiser in her work. The world and nature are not equal. The traveling Christ must be seen in a woman's face and heard in her voice. It is not going to be the outward display of the pomp and pageantry of the shining world to our Savior even though this display be made by our women.'"

"You may have beautiful churches and beautiful services, but a woman's work will not be done until she is a woman's face and heard in her voice. It is not going to be the outward display of the pomp and pageantry of the shining world to our Savior even though this display be made by our women.'"

"Work upon world-wide fields. If women spend their time upon narrow fields you need not expect world-wide results. There are many things that engage our women, but in the nature of the case they have limited possibilities. Suppose a woman goes into society, she can only touch a few people. She cannot make many people happy there. The field is too narrow. There are a thousand places on the outside where there is one on the inside of high society. 'Women's clubs are good things, but if a woman's life work stops there her arena must be narrow. Those who make up clubs are few. Add Christian work to club work. It matters not how good the effect upon these, the limitations are evident. Religion is the only thing that can appeal to all the people of all the ages and of all classes. It seems to me that a universal field is the only thing upon which the large talent of our women could find an opportunity to operate.'"

Why Should Woman Desire to Be World-Wide in Her Mission? '1. Because of what has been done for her. Of all people who have had the blessings of the universal Savior, it is the women who would dare deny that her blessings have been peculiar? What is the difference between women there and here, then and now? The only difference is that which has been made by the gospel of the son of God. Oh women! Today you would have been hatched to the plow, or you would have been leaping upon the funeral pyre, and you would have been ground under the heel of man's cruelty and insolence, were it not for the fact that in this land and in this age the Lord Jesus Christ appeared, who led in the van of the world's redemption. His arms and stood above this grave of woman and said: 'Come forth,' and she has come forth in the dignity of a Christian hope. 'This religion of Jesus Christ is the only thing that makes a way of escape for woman when she has once 'sinned.' Behold Christ in His defense of the friendless woman. A wicked, money-grubbing, heartless, and wounded soul said: 'Master, she is guilty; she ought to be stoned.' Jesus, looking into the face of the broken-looking woman, said: 'What sin may cast the first stone?'

"The wicked wretches hang their heads and skulk, like demons, away. If I were an artist I paint that picture. I would paint her with colorless cheek, with luster of hope and beauty faded, a sunken breast beneath which you could almost hear the throbs of her broken heart. The sympathy of his nature flooded her benighted soul with light, liberty and hope when he says: 'Go and sin no more.' To me this is a greater picture of my Christ than His ascension."

"The only gateway of deliverance from the depths of awful misfortune into which a woman has occasionally fallen has been through Him, the savior of the world. Yes, dear sister, God has done much for you in whatever station of life you may be. How can you be other than a woman of God in your plan and work, which wish is as wide as the world. 'Your sisters all over the world are under an awful doom. One of the poor wretched women of today, who not only sacrifices her babies to the idols, but her own soul to destruction. You cannot be more limited in your work and sympathy than they. I can hear their cries this moment calling for the sympathy of your great soul and the service of your trained hand. 'If you do not enter upon this world-wide mission you will be set aside and deliverance will arise from another quarter. That is what Mordecai said to Esther. It is not a question as to whether deliverance will come to those who are fettered in the chains of death, but what will become of you. You will become a noisemaker in the kingdom of God, and it will be better to be dead. It is sad to see any one set aside, but it is worse when that one is a woman of grace and beauty of character. 'Oh, sister, keep yourself where you cannot only be used today, but where you shall be God's messenger of peace throughout the years that lie before you.'"

The Reward of World Ideas 'It seems to me that the rewards of women who have been faithful in the world-wide mission will be peculiar. 'Consciousness of duty done. Sad will be the life of her who is conscious of an empty hand. I think I would hate myself if at the close of my own conscience I found myself guilty of not having done my best to bless the people of the world. 'You will be rewarded by being in line with the great movements of the earth. If woman is ambitious for great companionship she can find it here. 'If she desires influence, this is the field in which she can touch lives without number. If she desires fame, she can be in touch with the courtiers of the king of glory. 'Your desire for service in the world will be the reward of the world. All the royal music and songs of the Persian world could not have been as sweet to Esther as the soft sly sentences that came from the downed Jewish woman when Esther set her face like flint. What gratitude will come from lips and souls of the world's down trodden when you lay your hand to the great and universal task of deliverance. 'From the world's continents and the Isles of the sea will come the songs of gratitude when your life has made them to hope. Oh, sister, how can you be other than great as the world in your desire for service in the world? 'World-wide service makes you forget your own care. Esther herself was undertaken no task for her more unfortunate people. Her own sorrow would have consumed her life. We will never be happy until we undertake the task of helping the world. When you fill that task, you will forget our own cares. Lighten your burden in your interest for others. Is there care about your own doors knob? Think of those homes in which there is something worse than death. Is your own heart hungry? Feed it by taking the bread of life to the starving. Have you lost hope? Gain it by bringing heaven to the homeless lives about you. 'Remember that your rewards are not all in this world. You may not get all the gains while you live. The better prizes will be awarded by and by. Now for the work hereafter for the wages; earth for the cross, heaven for the crown. Go forth on the world's mission assured that there is not a prayer unheeded, not a word spoken, not a tear shed, not a hand you hold out to the perishing, not a warning you give to the careless, nor a visit paid to the widow or fatherless, nor a loan lent on the poor man's table but is faithfully registered in the chronicles of the kingdom and shall be publicly read that day when Jesus, calling you up from a post as low as Mordecai's, shall crown your brow before an assembled world, saying: 'Thus it shall be done to the man whom the king delighted to honor.' 'Oh, woman, your very sufferings will be your glory.' You have had to carry the heavier load. God's cause has rested upon you. Many times you have thought that failure would blight your hopes. It has cost you something to be faithful to God during those dreadful hours when no fruit appeared. But your soul will be a brighter jewel for having passed through the fire. 'One morning at the hour of sunrise in the old historic town, Natchez, Miss., an old Scotch woman came to me with tears upon her face and more tears in her heart, and she said: 'Young man, I have long wanted to know why God wanted me to work and suffer longer. When I was a girl I loved Him, and I love Him yet. For forty years I have tried to be a Christian and mother. I have five sons who are not Christians. My husbands is a drunkard. My own lot in life is lowly and hard. Why have I not been more rewarded?' I was dumb and could not answer. After some moments she broke the silence by saying: 'I will work and suffer on, and when I'm up there, He will tell me all about it.'"

'Not now, but in the coming years. It may be in the better land. We'll read the meaning of our tear. And there, some time we'll understand.'"

DUNCAN WILL RUN Petitioners Prevail Upon Tyler Man to Be Candidate For Representative Special to The Telegram. TYLER, Texas, June 6.—In accordance with the prayer of petition signed by about one hundred prominent citizens of Tyler, presented to the chairman of the district democratic executive committee, Judge John M. Duncan, late Monday afternoon consented to have his name placed on the official ballot as a candidate for representative of the Thirteenth district, composed of Smith and Gregg counties. Judge Duncan was a life long friend of right handed man Governor Hogg, and has served both in the house and senate. The "elder statesman" idea took hold of Tyler people spontaneously. Two others are in race, H. L. Reed, a republican, and J. T. Ward, for re-election at Longview.

AGENTS FOR GUARDIANS Effort Made to Transfer Guardianship of Indian Minors Special to The Telegram. LAWTON, O. T., June 6.—The United States department of Justice has instructed the United States attorney of Oklahoma and his assistants to visit the probate judges of the various counties to confer with them relative to a proposition to transfer the guardianship of minor Indians from individual guardians to the United States agents of the territory. The agents are under $75,000 bond each and the same bond can be made for the guardianship responsibilities. The reason the department desires to make this change is because of numerous troubles and suits that have been filed in the eastern part of the territory with individual guardians. Assistant Attorney L. E. McKnight of Anadarko was here today in obedience to the department's order.

STOCKMAN LIKES BERMUDA GRASS
D. F. Sansom Says Alfalfa Is Not the Only Kind

"I want to talk some relative to stock farming and grass that will be just the thing to aid the farmer in his efforts to meet the developments in the cattle and agriculture that is in process at this time in the state," said D. F. Sansom of Johnson county to The Telegram.

"I have been in Texas all my life and have seen all kinds of changes in cattle and in farming. I have noticed one thing that is peculiar, and that is the inclination of our people to go away from home to get something when they have probably a better, right at their feet, so to speak. To make a success of stock farming, two things are very essential, one plenty of feed, especially green stuff, and a good breed of stock, whether cattle, hogs, sheep, horses, or anything in the animal line. It has always been the habit of our people to go away from the state to get their breeds of animals, and probably heretofore this was a necessity, but now there is no reason why we have just as good animals in Texas for breeding purposes as we can find in any part of the United States, and acclimated at that. Then why go outside after them? Encourage those men with your patronage who have made the business a study here in our midst and can sell you just as good breeding stock as any man.

Alfalfa Not Only Grass
"Alfalfa is all right, and when it can be made to live it cannot be beat, but it will not grow on all lands or in all places. Do not give up on account of this. You have right with you all the time as good a grass as any, and that is the Bermuda. I know it, and have tried it and it will make you a pasture winter and summer if you will just give it some of the attention that you pay to things that are not worth near as much. Every one of us down south knows that Bermuda will carry more stock to the acre than any other grass and not get feezed, but not many know that it will make as fine a winter pasture, not probably carrying as many head through the winter as in summer, but will make a fine hay on the ground and with green stuff at the bottom. If any one who wishes to have a good pasture for his stock on the farm in the winter, just let him take his stock off the Bermuda patch a month or two before the first killing frost, and thus give it a chance to cover the ground some six inches or more. When the cold comes and you think that it has destroyed the grass because it looks so like a dead, just go to it and pull up a bunch and you will be surprised when you find that the grass down near the roots is perfectly green and nutritious. The best and strongest hay feed you can find and will keep your stock all winter with a smaller amount of feed than anything else. It will grow anywhere on any sort of ground, rough or smooth, rich or poor, and is easily set out. There is no danger of its spreading on your cultivated land provided you keep it divided from it by a tract of uncultivated land, for it will not grow from the seed in this climate. With this grass and the usual feed products of the farm in this country and a good breed of stock, a farmer can make a great success and will make a man comfortably off in this world's goods. Try it. You will find that you can buy and keep Bermuda regularly, whereas on ordinary grass on the same land you would do well to keep more than 40 head part of the time."

FARMERS TO MEET
Plan May Be Pushed to Combine in Purchase of Binding Twine
Special to The Telegram.
DENVER, Colo., June 6.—The executive committee of the Colorado State Grange has under consideration issues which will be presented to the national body when it meets in Denver December 14 to 24. At a meeting of the committee several important matters were discussed which will have a bearing on the farming interests of the entire state. Some twenty-six states of the union are to be represented at the coming Denver meeting which will bring together thousands of influential farmers. One of the questions taken up by the committee is a co-operative plan to purchase the binding twine for the farming industry of the state. This scheme, however, pertains only to the Colorado State Grange. It is estimated that millions of dollars are spent annually for the purchase of twine by the combined interests. The belief is general that exorbitant prices are being charged for the material, and it is the object to formulate a plan whereby the farmer can economize on the purchase of it. The present idea is to appoint a purchasing committee which will make wholesale purchase of twine and distribute it, at a stipulated price, to all state members of the grange.

Denver people are making elaborate preparations for the visit of the nation and expect to be able to entertain royally at least 3,500 visiting farmers.

HUNGRY PANTHERS EAT PITCHER WHITE ALIVE
Five Errors Helped Stretch 13 Hits Into 10 Runs

In the second inning of the game Tuesday between Temple and Fort Worth here, Wallace came up to bat, landed safe with a hit into right field. Arbogast followed with a high fly, going out into the hands of Wilson. In the meantime Wallace had stolen second. Sullinger came up to bat, landed a short ground ball down toward Carlin, who fielded the ball quickly. Sullinger going out at first. Here Wallace attempted to get down to third. Salm threw that overhand working ball of his and Wallace went out at third. That was a double play, or else there are no double plays. Salm and Carlin are entitled to credit for the stunt.

The final score was 10 to 2 in favor of Fort Worth.

Notes of the Game
In the very first inning Moore lined out a hot one to Boles, who threw somewhat wild and endangered J. H. Maddox, chief of police.

The Navigators will now play for a series of three games and the whoops of the faithful will ascend—if we win.

In the now, dim, distant, but not distant past, it used to be the custom to place a record of the double plays in the official score card—why not yet?

Thirteen times landed the Panthers on Brother White's best directed efforts.

In the eighth Sheffield took Butler's place at first, following a hit with no one at the initial bag—but Salm had the ball; it was a pretty trick, the runner coyly "played off" the base and was surprised—as was everybody else.

In the first Boles was at third, bases full, White gave Clayton a pass and Boles was compelled to walk across the home plate, scoring.

In the first Wilson appropriated a score, following two earned runs, and a pretty error which scored Salm. It was the first time this season that a runner succeeded in "stealing home."

Past the pitcher in the seventh McCully's hot grounder was finally picked up by Boles, like this:

If you suffer from any kind of female troubles, don't hesitate to take Wine of Cardui. It is a medicine which, for over half a century, has proved of remarkable efficacy in just such diseases.
"For the last nine years," writes Sam'l L. Davidson, the well known real estate operator of 1655 Elliot St., Denver, Colo., "my wife suffered from female troubles, and if it had not been for she would be suffering yet. I broke up my business East to bring her here, but it did not improve her general health. Our physician could not help her, and all his skill came to naught. She asked him if there was no known cure for female trouble. He said there was a patent medicine, but would not tell her its name. So she asked her druggist, and he recommended Wine of Cardui. After trying it, my wife says that Cardui, with plenty of fresh air, will do more than all the doctors combined, and we recommend it to all female sufferers, where no surgical operation is necessary." Try it for periodical pains.

NEW WELLS MAKE CITY HEALTHFUL

Even a Wet Spring Has Not Increased Illness

One of the prominent physicians of Fort Worth, who always gets his share of practice, when there is any, said Wednesday morning that there was but little sickness in Fort Worth that has come to the attention of the doctor. During part of the spring, and it is a characteristic of the wet springs such as has been the spring of 1906, there was more or less trouble with stomach affections, but none of the cases so far as the Telegram's informant knew, were serious, and certainly that was the case in his own practice.

He added, because of the deep wells and the artesian water supply in such general use there was almost no development of typhoid fever in Fort Worth of late. The doctor said that in all of his practice last fall he had but two cases, neither of which had one mild case this spring and that viewed in the light of past experience he regarded as remarkable.

KNIFED

Coffee Knifed an Old Soldier.

An old soldier, released from coffee at 72, recovered his health and tells today that he was "knifed" by coffee.

"I stuck to coffee for years although it knifed me again and again. 'About eight years ago (as a result of coffee drinking which I thought I never) I was taken with a very severe attack of malarial fever.

"The doctor said he had carefully studied my case and it was either 'quit coffee or die,' advising me to take Postum in its place. I had always thought coffee one of my dearest friends, and especially when sick, and I was very much taken back by the doctor's advice. I had no other recourse, so I drank coffee possibly cause my troubles.

"I thought it over for a few minutes and finally told the doctor I would make the change. Postum was procured for me the same day and made according to the directions well. I liked it and stuck to it and since then I have been a new man. The change in health began in a few days and surprised me and now although I am seventy-two years of age, I do lots of hard work and for the past month have been driving a delivery truck, besides loading and unloading the wagon. That's what Postum in the place of coffee has done for me. I now like the Postum as well as I did coffee.

"I have known people who did not care for Postum at first, but after having learned to make it properly according to directions they have come to like it as well as coffee. I never miss a chance to advise it. I have given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
