GIRL ENDS LIFE BY PISTOL SHOT

Miss Martin, Formerly of Granbury, Kills Self Here

FOUND DYING IN ROOM

Adverse Decision of Recent Law Suit Blamed for Melancholia, Leading to Self-destruction

The recent decision of a lawsuit involving property, adversely to her claims, is blamed for melancholia leading to the suicide of Miss Bertie Martin, aged about 23 years, Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Martin roomed at 919 East Terrell avenue. She was found dying in her room with a pistol beside her by Mrs B. Sien, who lives at the same address. No letter or note of explanation has been found giving cause why she would send her life and friends and relatives suggest disappointment over the lawsuit decision as the only

Miss Martin came to Fort Worth on Jan. 1 from Granbury and had been rooming at 919 Terrell avenue since that time and was attending a business college in the city. Wednesday Afternoon on her return from her college Miss Martin entered the room of Mrs. B. Sien, Arnich is near the one she occupied, and requested that lady to sign as a witness a transfer of some mining stock made out in Miss Martin's name, which are transferred to a sister, Mrs. C. A. White of Granbury. Heard Pistol Shots

After Mrs. Sien had signed the transfer as a witness Miss Martin short time afterward two pistol shots were beard. Mrs. Sien ran out into the yard, but seeing no one she went to the room where Miss Martin was and discovered her lying on the floor dying. The pistol was lying on the floor by her side. Indentions on two of the cartridges in the cylinder showed that two of them had failed to explode when the pistol was snapped. The second and fourth cartridges snapped in exploding. The fifth cartridge was not tried. The body was viewed by Justice of the Peace Charles T. Rowland and afterward taken to the undertaking parlors of George L. Gause and prepared for burial. Mat S. Blanton of this city is a cousin of deceased.

TROOPS WITHDRAWN

Frisco Will Soon Be Under Police Protection Only

By Associated Press SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 7.-The military authorities are gradually withdrawing all of the government forces from the city and within a few weeks San Francisco will be entirely under the protection of the regular police force, assisted by the large number of specials who have been added to the list since the fire. It has been the plan of those who have had charge of the city's protection to have the troops withdrawn gradually and for the last few weeks the companies have been recalled, one at a time, and sent back to their proper stations, until now only a few regiments remain to do guard duty here which do not properly belong to posts about the bay.

WORLD'S LARGEST LINER LAUNCHED

Lusitania, Giant Cunarder, Enters Sea at Glasgow

By Associated Press. GLASGOW, June 7 .- The new Cunard Line steamer Lusitania, the world's largest liner, was successfully launched at the Clyde bank today. Hundreds of visitors from all parts of the country besides thousands of the local population witnessed the ceremony. The Lusitania is the first of the giant Cunarders to be launched and her sister ship Maritania will follow her into the sea a month hence.

The Lusitania Is 790 feet long and her greatest breadth is 88 feet, while her depth is moulded 601/2 feet. Her displacement is about 40,000 tons and powerful turbine engines drive her through the water at the sustained speed from 24 to 25 knots. The cabin accommodations are for 550 first class, 500 second class and 1,300 third class passengers and the crew numbers about 800.

DEMURERS HEARD

State Must Show Whether Law of 1899 Was Violated by Ft. Worth Exchange

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, June 7.- The antitrust suits against the members of the Fort Worth Live Stock Exchange were resumed this morning before District Judge Brooks, the Godair-Crowley Commission Company being on trial. The state's petition was read by Assistant Attorney General Lightfoot.

Judge Stedman for the defense stated that arguments on the demurrers would be divided among the attorneys. Mr. Cantey, the defendant's leading counsel, who was sick yesterday, was present. The jury was excluded during these preliminaries. Judge Stedman for the defense presented a plea in abatement, owing to a misjoinder of parties; also a plea that defendants excepted on the grounds of the statute of two years' limitation. He argued that during the present anti-trust crusade it was hard to determine what is lawful. That in the Northern Securities case eminent lawyers advised the combination, as it was not violative of the Federal anti-trust statute. The supreme court decided against it, however, with four dissenting opinions, showing the great diversity of opinion as to anti-trust laws. He took the position that the appellate courts of the state have never decided a case involving penalties, this branch being of a penal nature, though set out in the civil proceedings. He contended that the act of 1899 was not applicable in these suits. Attorney George Miller of Fort Worth followed, taking a position that personal service did not come within the provisions of the act of 1903, and that the act was contrary to the constitutional provision guaranteeing to every person equal protection of the Judge Robertson raised the point that under the act of 1899 the defendants were not charged with combining to control the price of merchandise or anything else and he challenged the state's attorneys to show in any way where the price of any commodity was affected by members of the Live Stock Exchange. He held that the act of 1903 is unconstitutional as it provides for two punishments for the same alleged violation; that the attorney general had authorized the doctors to regulate the prices of fees to charged in following the pursuit their business, yet held it was unlawful for stockmen to sell stock for an agreed fee. He said he could see no distinction, though there may be a dif-

When Judge Robertson concluded the court announced that he would like to hear from the state as to how the defendants had violated the act 1899; that he was convinced that the act of 1903 was clearly constitutional, as the supreme court in the anti-trust case of the state vs. the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company and the American Express Company had so held and it was not necessary to argue this question further. At noon court recessed until 2:30 p. m.

ROSEBUD, Texas, June 7.- An echq of the famous Bell speech at Moody and an echo loud enough to cause considerable discomfort when it reaches the ears of O. B. Colquitt, was heard here yesterday when Judge C. K. Bell of Fort Worth spoke at the barbecue here. Probably 5,000 persons were in attendance. Sam Sparks, candidates for state treasurer, also spoke in the big auditorium here, which was filled to overflowing.

Judge Bell, in addition to following the lines of his opening campaign address, referred to Mr. Colquitt and

Has Avoided Personalities

"I have tried to conduct the campaign which I am prosecuting for the nomination for the office of governor on a plane of dignity commensurate with the exalted office to which aspire. Until very recently I have not had occasion to refer to my opponents except to the extent that I deemed it proper to criticise their positions as set out in their opening speeches.

'I had supposed that my opponenta would accord to me the same courteous treatment which I was showing them. I had not seen proper, nor deemed it necessary, to refer in any way to the manner in which I had discharged the duties which devolved upon me in the various offices with which I had heretofore been honored, but some time ago in a speech delivered at Itasca, extracts of which were published in the daily papers, Mr. Colquitt and Mr. Moore, two person who were seeking the nomination which I desire, saw proper to criticise my record as attorney general in a way which in my judgment called or a reply.

"Mr. Colquitt stated among other things, that I as attorney general had filed suits against trusts and then disment is not true.

The Waco Speech

"I therefore in a speech which I delivered at Waco took occasion to say that Texas had always been, except during the short time I had served as attorney general, particularly fortunate in the men who had filled that position, and that while I did not wish to draw comparisons between myself and others, still it was a fact that in the four years during which I served as attorney general, there had been more suits instituted which resulted in the forfeiture of charters of domestic corporations and of permits of foreign corporations than in all the remainder of the time since Texas has been a state, and that more fines and penalties had been imposed on corporations through suits instituted while I was attorney general than during the tenure of office of other attorney gen-

"I was fully aware of the fact that this was a very immodest statement to make, but as it was literally true, it was thought by others, to whose judgment I deferred, that I should make it.

"Shortly afterward, Mr. Colquitt, in a speech delivered at Alvarado and published in the newspapers, charged that as a matter of fact the suits which had been brought against the breweries and which resulted in the forfeiture of the charters and permits of those concerns and in the imposition of fines for a very large amount, were instituted, worked up and prepared by Henry Faulk, county attorney of Travis county; that the papers in the case were drawn up by Hogg & Robertson, and that all I did was to sign my name to the petitions, and that no man in Texas knew this better than did I. The Debate at Moody

"This statement was also untrue, and when I heard that it had been made, I assumed that Mr. Colquitt had been misquoted. I could not believe it possible that any one would make such a palpably false statement, but subsequently at Moody, where we had a joint discussion, Mr. Colquitt repeated in substance what he had been quoted as having said on previous occasions. Of course I was unprepared to do more at that time than to merely assert, as I did, that the statements made by Mr. Colquitt were not true, which I did.

Henry Faulk, county attorney of Travis county, and James H. Robertson, the surviving member of the firm of Hogg & Robertson, and asked them to write me a letter setting forth the facts with reference to this matter as they remembered them. I have received a letter from each of these gentlemen under date of June, 1906, in which they verify the correctness of every statement that I made, and show clearly that there was not one partivle of truth in the charge made by Mr. Colquitt. I read these letters in full:

Robertson's Reply "'AUSTIN, Texas, June 2.-Hon. C. K. Bell, Fort Worth, Texas: Dear Sir-Replying to your letter of May 31st, in which you request that I give you a statement of the facts, as I remember them, with reference to the prosecutions instituted in the district court of Travis county in 1901, against the breweries for Alleged violations of the anti-trust laws of this state, I beg to say that according to my recollection the facts are:

"In June, 1901, Henry Faulk, who was then county attorney of Travis county, filed suit in the district court of Travis county against some four breweries-two being foreign corporations, and the others being domestic corporations-charging them with violations of the anti-trust laws of this state, and seeking to recover the statutory penalties and forfeitures.

October following the institution of the suit, Mr. Faulk requested that the firm of Hogg & Robinson join with him in the prosecution of the suit; and I, acting for the firm, consented to investigate the facts, and, if in my opinion, a right of action existe! in favor of the state, to join with him upon the conditions (1) that you, as attorney general, should also join in the suit, or direct its prosecution, and (2)

"'I investigated the facts, and made known to Mr. Faulk that my firm would join him uuon the conditions above stated, and in the early part of October, 1901, we went together to your office and had an interview with you, in which the facts upon which Mr. Faulk had instituted the suit were explained to you, and also his proposal engage my firm to assist in the prosecution of the suit and the conditions upon which we were willing to engage therein, as detailed above. You readily consented to join in the prosecution of the cases, and expressed your satisfaction at our employment to assist in the prosecution, as proposed by Mr. Faulk.

"'In considering the matter at that interview, we reached the conclusion that it was necessary to amend the state's pleading. We separated, and shortly thereafter I formulated the substance of what I thought would be proper amended petition, and some days thereafter we met in your office again, and you had also in the meantime prepared an amended petition, including, as I remember, all of the defendants named in the original petition. We adopted the amended petition drawn by you, and your name as attorney general, and Mr. Faulk's name as county attorney, and the firm of Hogg & Robertson were by you signed to this petition, and it was filed in "'The case was set down for trial for a day in the October term of the court, and you, Mr. Faulk and myself appeared in the court upon that day, but the case was reset for a future Thereafter we consulted about the matter, and you suggested that possibly it would be safer to file in lieu of the original suit a separate suit against each one of the defendants pared an amended petition and dropped from the case all of the defendants except one, and filed a separate suit against each of the other defendants, charging them separately with the same violations of the laws with which they were charged in the original suit. You prepared the petition in each of the cases, as agreed between us, signing the names of the attorneys representing the state thereto.

"In addition to the original defendants, we determined to bring suits against two or three other breweries not included in the original suit, and you prepared and filed like petitions against them, signing the names of the attorneys as in the other cases. "Some time after this I was advised that the defendants were negotiating with you and with the county attorney for a settlement of the litigation. Mr. Faulk stated to me the terms and details of the settlement proposed by the defendants, and I advised its acceptance. I understood that you made a trip to Houston or Galveston shortly after you came into the litigation, for the purpose of investigating the facts connected therewith. You and Mr. Faulk, as I understood, arranged the details of the settlement, and you appeared in court and caused the judgments to be entered in accordance with the agreements.

'According to my recollection, the foregoing shows the services performed y you and the other parties represent ing the state in said litigation. 'You are at liberty to make such

use of this letter as you see proper. Very truly yours, "'JAMES'H. ROBERTSON.'

Answer of Faulk

Austin, Texas, June 2, 1906. Hon. C. K. Bell, Fort Worth, Texas. "Dear Sir-In reply to your favor of May 31, concerning the 'anti-trust suits' against the brewing companies, I shall endeavor to state the facts and history of them as I remember them; and in this connection wish to say that statement, as he has requested the same from me. Of course time and space will not permit of a detailed statement and I shall give the substance as it occurred: "First. As county attorney of Travis county, I filed suit on June 11, 1901.

against four of the brewing companies, viz.: the Lone Star Brewing Company, the San Antonio Brewing Association, the Wm. J. Lemp Brewing Company and the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association for violations of our antitrust laws. The petition filed at this time was prepared by me and based upon facts then in my possession. At this time Messrs. Hogg and Robertson had no connection of any kind whatsoever with the case, and had not been consulted about it in any manner by myself or anyone else. All four of the brewing companies were joined by me in one suit, and one petition filed against all of them. When I filed this suit I had not consulted you about doing so and filed it in my capacity as county attorney upon the evidence I then had. I also at this time had good reasons to believe that other persons, who were in no way connected with the attorney general's office, were trying to 'beat' me to this suit, and I did not take time to consult you or any other person connected with the attorney general's office, but filed the suit because I felt that I had a good case and to prevent such other persons from doing likewise. "Second. Subsequently to June 11, 1901, I brought the matter to your attention and you then stated to me that you would be willing and glad to join in the suit as attorney general, and render all assistance in your power as such officer and as an individual; provided I would satisfy you that the brewing companies sued by me were violating the law, and sufficient evidence could be procured to convict Within a week or so after this time I laid the facts in my possession before you, and you then stated that you would join in the suit as attorney general. Up to this time, and in fact, not until some time afterward, Messrs. Hogg and Robertson had not been spoken to about the suit by me, and then had nothing to do with it in any way. In this connection I wish to say that Governor Hogg was never consulted about any of these suits by me and I know he never was by you, and he took no part in them of any kind and had nothing whatever to do with them. The only connection he ever had with any of them was that his firm's name was signed by yourself to the petitions subsequently prepared and filed, as hereinafter stated. As soon as you signified your willingness to join in the suit, you set about to aid me both in getting more evidence and shaping the pleadings for trial. "Third. On the appearance day of this suit, in the fall of 1901, in the district court of Travis county, the four brewing companies then sued, filed their answer and demanded a jury. In their answer they raised the question of misjoinder of parties, and made the contention that as the suit was a quasi criminal one it could not be brought and maintained against all of them, and that a separate and distinct suit would have to be brought against each of them separately. You and I then had a consultation on this point, and you said that while in your opinion the point of misjoinder was not well taken, yet you considered it best to free the case from all doubtful questions and technicalities insofar as it was possible to do so in order to eliminate them from the case on appeal, and you then suggested that we amend the pleadings, leave one of the companies in the original suit, disniss as to the other three and file new suits against them separately. This course was agreed upon, and in deference to your ability and the office held by you, it was agreed that you should take charge of this part of the case and prepare the pleadings. All of this was done before Judge Robertson had any connection with the case; that is, it was agreed that you should take charge of the pleadings. "Fourth. As the brewing companies had demanded a jury, and had some six of the best jury lawyers in the state representing them, I felt that I would like to have the assistance of some one of our local jury lawyers in the event the case was tried before a jury, and I spoke to Judge James H. Robertson about securing his assistance to help try the cases, without consulting you about it. He told me that he would like to assist if it was agreeable with you for him to do so. When you were consulted about this matter, you said it was perfectly agreeable with you for Judge Robertson to assist. At this time Governor Hogg was not in Austin, and I am informed that he was not even in the state, and as stated above, he r no time had anything to do with any of these cases. The cases were never as much as mentioned to him by any officer or person representing the state until after they were settled, and he did absolutely nothing in any of them. I spoke to you about taking in Judge Robertson, and you stated that anything I did along this line would be agreeable with you, as you had no interest in the fee allowed for prosecuting suits of this kind. I then engaged Judge Robertson to help try the cases against the four brewing companies named above, and against which suits had been filed on June 11, 1901. As he was only engaged to help try cases and was busy with some matters of his own, he rendered neither of us any assistance of any kind in getting up the evidence, was only consulted once or twice by myself as to the amended pleadings against the four companies first sued, and the result of these consultations was not used by you in drafting those petitions. He neither got up nor aided in getting up any of the evidence, did not even know what it was and had nothing to do with settling the cases.

"Fifth-The matter of preparing the amended pleadings and the new petitions against the three companies that were dismissed from the first suit was, as stated above, turned entirely over to you, and you prepared all of the petitions and signed my name as county attorney, Messrs. Hogg and Robertson's firm name as associate counsel and your own name as attorney gen-This was all your own work. The firm name of Hogg & Robertson was signed to these petitions by you instead of Judge Robertson's individual name, because it was understood that Judge Robertson wished this to be done, he and Governor Hogg being law partners. "Sixth-Six additional suits were also filed by us against six other brewing companies, upon evidence that we found in working on the suits against the four named above, the last six companies sued being the American Brewing Company, the Dallas Brewing Company, the Fort Worth Brewing Company, the Galveston Brewing Company, the Houston Ice and Brewing Company and the Pabst Brewing Company. You also prepared all six of the petitions against these companies and signed the attorneys' names to them, as you had done in the first four. You signed the firm name of Messrs. Hogg and Robertson to these petitions under the mistaken impression that Judge Robertson was engaged by me to take part in them ;also "Seventh—As to the evidence, I had secured a part of it at the time I filed suit against the four companies June 11, 1901. I secured some more between this time and the time you joined me in the case. As soon as you joined in the case, you took an active part with me in securing testimony. You and I first made a trip to Houston for the purpose of securing testimony. While there we obtained a clew to evidence in Galveston. I went to Galveston and you remained in Houston to work on what we had found there. This trip to Galveston "spotted" the evidence we wanted, but it was not secured at this time. On my return from Galveston to Houston you informed me that you had secured some valuable testimony against the American Brewing Company. We then came back to Austin. I also wish to say that the attorney general prepared the interrogatories that were propounded in these cases. "Eighth-The compromise of all these suits was made at the same time. The way it was made was about this: The attorneys for the brewing companies came to Austin in a body and indicated to us that they were willing to enter into negotiations for a compro They started out by making a lower offer, and we, by making a higher proposition than the compromise finally reached. About one day was spent in these negotiations and I cannot say that Judge Bell was willing to ompromise for less than was paid. "Ninth-Neither of these cases was appealed to the higher courts nor passed upon by any of our higher

"In conclusion, I wish to say that have tried to give you a general outline without going too much into detail of these cases, and have tried to make statement that is fair to both Judge Bell and myself. All that was ever done in these suits was certainly accomplished by our separate and joint efforts in the manner indicated above, and not from any assistance received from Messrs. Hogg and Robertson or either of them. This last statement is made without any intention of questioning the ability of either of these gentlemen and simply because neither the attorney general nor myself received any material assistance from either of them. Yours truly,

"HENRY FAULK." Considers Incident Closed

After reading the letters Judge Bell "I do not desire, nor do I deem it respectable to pursue this matter further. SANITARY LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Chief Maddox Will Welcome Complaints to Investigate

Regarding a report to the effect that certain alleys in the downtown districts are not in proper sanitary condition, J. H. Maddox, chief of police, says that he will personally invetigate this matter and see where lies any blame for such condition, if he finds that it exists as alleged. Chief Mad-

"When a street or an alley is reported to the police to be not in the proper sanitary condition, it is the duty of the police officer receiving the notice to notify the first sanitary officer possible. We have only two sanitary officers and they are under my control. Further than this, each policeman has orders to be on the lookout for sanitary needs in the district covered by himself.. If an officer is notified of a locality needing attention and does not make proper report of the matter at headquarters, I want that officer's name and he will suffer if guily of this negligence.

"Receiving notification that a place needs sanitary attention it is then he duty of the sanitary officer receivng the notice to take such action in the matter as directed by law. If the sanitary officer fails in this, it is negigence and should be reported immediately. Citizens should notify this department of the needs of any street r alley that comes to their knowledge, instead of jumping on the police department every time something is asserted to be going wrong."

TRACE MURDERERS

Clue to Men Who Killed Conditt Family Being Followed Special to The Telegram.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 7.-Captain McDonald, head of the Ranger forces, spent last evening in this city and in discussing the murder of the Conditt family at Edna, declared the two men would yet swing for that tragedy for which Monk Gibson has been under arrest and several months confined in jail at San Antonio.

McDonald says he was never engaged in trying to prove the negro boy innocent but to locate those connected with him in the crime.

He says a negro man is now in a Texas jail whose hand print exactly fits the bloody imprint made on the wall in the Conditt home, and that other circumstantial evidence surrounds the suspected man. He implies another supposedly not under suspicion will soon be arrested under a Jackson county grand jury indict-

Investigation of Coal Rates Reveals Startling Facts

BUYER DISMISSED

Commission Learns That Coal Barons Gave Money and Stock to Employes

By Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 7.-The

thoroughness in the character of the investigation of the interstate commission in its investigation of the railroads and their relations to the soft coal and oil industries was today's feature. Attorney Glasgow for the commission today stated that owing to a large number of witnesses still to be heard this session, the present hearing will continue all this week and probably a portion of next week.

A. W. Gibbs, general superintendent of the motive power of the Pennsylvania railroad, stationed at Altoona was recalled and was asked by Mr. Glasgow if it was not a fact that most of the fuel coal purchased by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company came from the Keystone Coal and Coke Company's operations and those of Colonel Alfred

Mr. Gibbs said that it was so. Mr. Glasgow wanted to know if it was merely a coincidence that the company's coal was furnished by concerns in which railroad officials were interested, or whether he has been instructed by any higher official as to what companies to purchase fuel coal from. Mr. Gibbs explained as he did when previously on the stand that it was the custom for the railroad to assist new operations by purchasing fuel coal from

Admits Cash Gifts

Testifying before the interstate commerce commission today, Joseph K. Aiken, who has been chief clerk in the superintendent's office of the Monongehela division of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, revealed as almos! startling evidence as that given by Jos. Moyer before the commission yesterday. On a salary which he said varied from $30 to $125 per month, Aiken had purchased stock in different coal companies amounting to nearly $75,000. He admitted having received gifts of cash from coal operators on the Pennsylvania lines, and had also received $50 a month for several months from the company store. Boyer Discharged

Joseph Boyer, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company employe who yesterday testified before the interstate ommerce commission to having re ceived large sums of money from producers of coal on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company lines, was dismissed from the service of the company today. When the matter was brought to the attention of President Cassatt, he directed the immediate discharge of

Companies Charged With Accepting Rebates

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 7.-The Armour, Swift, Morris and Cudahy packing companies were placed on trial in the Federal court today, charged with accepting rebates from railways. They shipped to New York at the rate of 23 cents per hundred when the open rate is 10 cents higher.

When the Federal grand jury indicted the packers last December the managers of the companies drew public attention to the fact that the concessions they had received were on export shipments, over which, they maintained, the United States courts had no jurisdiction.

Counsel Were Confident

Counsel for the indicted companies were confident their point of view was correct, and they surprised the government's attorneys by promptly announcing "ready for trial." counsel for the Burlington filed a demurrer, in which the form of the indictments was attacked. This brought up directly for the first time before any court the question of the right of the courts of the United States to inquire into and control export rates. Court Overruled Demurrer

Judge Smith McPherson of Iowa overruled the Burlington's demurrer two weeks ago. He held that the packers and the Burlington were answerable and must stand trial under the indictments.

Judge McPherson is not expected to pronounce sentence before next week in the cases of George L. Thomas and L. B. Taggart of New York, who were convicted a week ago of conspiracy.

Wilson Continues Statement Special to The Telegram.

WASHINGTON, June 7.-Thomas Wilson, manager of the Nelson Morris Company, representing all the Chicago packers, continued his statement today before the house committee on agriculture. He said most objections to the Beveridge amendment were of minor importance. The chief objection was the placing of the cost of inspection on the packers. Wilson said the agitation had resulted disastrously to the sales of fresh meats and manufactured products were cut in two.

Brakeman's Shouts of Warning Are Drowned by Noise of Train Passing Under Trestle

Two men about whose identity but little is known, were killed at 10:30 o'clock p. m. Wednesday while walking the railroad track on the Texas & Pacific trestle, where that line crosses the Rock Island. They were struck by a freight car that was being backed into the yards from the stock yards by a Texas & Pacific switch engine, and both of them badly mangled, the leg of one being crushed off below the knee, and the foot of the other being cut off and his head terribly crushed. Train Passing Beneath

At the time the accident happened a Rock Island train was passing under the trestle, the noise of which drowned that of the approaching engine and car on the overhead track and prevented the two men from hearing the warning shouts from the brakeman, who was on the car and who saw the two men on the track ahead of When the brakeman first saw the men he signalled the engineer to stop, but before that could be done the two track walkers were under the wheels, one of them being dragged 150 feet from where he was struck by the

Bodies Unidentified

The bodies of the two men were takn to L. P. Robertson's undertaking establishment, where an inquest was held by Justice Charles T. Rowland, and a verdict in accordance with the foregoing was rendered. They are still being held for complete identification. The only thing found on the two bodies was two receipts signed by B Bowen, an employment agent, for $1.50 each, paid him for securing jobs on the Cotton Belt at $1.50 per day. These receipts were made out to Yes R. Poliske and Marsini Prodisovick. Bowen could give no additional information about the men. He could not remember the particular men he gave the receipts to, and knows nothing of where they came from or if they have any people in this part of the country.

CITY LOSES IN SUIT FOR LAND

Agreed Judgment Reached in Case Against J. J. Langever

An agreed judgment adverse to the city of Fort Worth vs. J. J. Langever by Judge Mike E. Smith of the Seventeenth district court in the case of City of Fort Worth vs. J. J .Longiver et al., involving the ownership of a strip of land six feet wide and eightyfour feet deep just north of the Langever building.

The City of Fort Worth brought suit against J. J. Langever for the strip and J. H. Burney intervened claiming that he was owner of the land as a part of block 10, City of Fort Worth. The judgment in the case which was filed and entered Wednesday afternoon holds that the city has no title to the property, which is a part of block 10, but that I. H. Burney, intervenor, is the owner thereof and is entitled to possession of the same.

The strip of land is just north of the Langever building on Throckmorton street and was claimed by the city as a part of Hyde park, but the judgment holds that the boundary line between Hyde park and said lot 10 is just north of the six foot strip of land. The costs in the case were adjudged against the defendant Langever.

WOMAN TO HUNT FOR HIDDEN GOLD

Clairvoyant Directs Where Robbers Buried $63,000

Special to The Telegram.

DENVER, Colo., June 7 .- A Colorado woman, following the directions of a clairvoyant, has decided to finance an expedition to search for $63,-000 buried by stage robbers in 1864 in Park county, this state. The woman is to be accompanied by several friends who propose to put in the summer hunting for the hidden treasure. The gold was buried by James and John Reynolds and their gang of stage robbers in 1864 when hard pressed by a posse of officers from Arapahoe county. Several of the robbers were shot and killed during the encounter and later the last one of the bandits

In 1871 Albert Brown, who had learned of the buried treasure, made an effort to locate the booty, but was unsuccessful. According to a map left by the bandits it is now learned that the gold was buried in Geneva Gulch. near the head of Deer Creek. There was $40,000 in currency wrapped in a large piece of silk offcloth, and three cans of gold dust, containing about $23,000. The treasure was stolen by the Reynolds gang from a Mexican nack train near Creede, and added to as the gang of outlaws came toward Denver by the robbing of stage coaches along the old South Park

POULTRY BUSINESS GOOD Many Cars of Chickens Shipped From Texas to North

"Indeed," I replied, "I appreciate the distinction. We are quite alone. What appears to be the trouble." He leaned over to me and feverishly whispered: "The emperor is missing. A week ago I left him in his own apartments. Since then no one has seen him. Frantically we have searched for him everywhere. I fear that the secret societies have at last compassed his destruction."

the council.'

"This is certainly serious," I re-"Terribly so," Chung went on. "We must keep this disappearance secret. The time approaches when the Son of Heaven worships at the tomb of his ancestors. I have had it circulated that he is preparing for the sacred event in fasting and prayer. We shall not be much longer able to keep up the deception.

"We cannot appoint a successor, for he is not dead-at least not officially. Soon the people will be aroused." "What secret society do you suspect?" I asked.

"The Society of Illustrious Doubt. "Have you any clew at all?" "Not unless this be one," and Chung handed me a carpenter's rule of European make, which he said he had found near the eastern wall of the Forbidden city. He could attach no particular importance to it save that there seemed to be some kind of inscriptions scratched upon it. After Chung had gone I carefully inspected the rule. Under a magnifying glass I saw the rough outline of a heart with two lines running through it-the symbol of the Society of Illustrious Doubt.

Next day we went to where Chung had found the rule, near a big tree whose branches spread athwart the high wall. Obtaining a ladder I climbed onto the wall. Signs not to be misconstrued showed someone had been there with a rope.

"The emperor has been stolen," I said to the amazed Chung. "The Son of Heaven kidnaped!" he exclaimed. Dressed as a coolie next day I started on a tour of various carpenter shops. My method was to display the rule, but none seemed to take an interest in it, until I reached a wretched place in an alley. The owner was not in, but when I showed the rule to his boy he called out: "Rascal-you stole that—it belongs to my master."

"How do you know?" I asked.

"Because I saw him scratch that heart on there with a chisel." I left and engaged a room nearby, where I could watch the carpenter shop. Late at night when the shop lights were out and I had seen the boy accompanied by a man, leave the place stole down, and with a chisel pried

A feeble voice answered: "Help me, I am Kwang-Hsu, emperor of the middle kingdom I had found the stolen emperor! I tore the crazy ladder from the wall, owered it and descended. On a dirty oundle of straw was Kwang Hsu, Son special to The Leegram. AUSTIN, Texas, June 7 .- As stated briefly in yesterday's dispatches, W. C. Preston, general freight agent of the Frisco, with headquarters at Fort Worth, yesterday obtained the approval of the railroad commission of an application providing for the concentration of eggs, poultry and butter at Fort Worth, Denison, Dublin and Brownwood for shipment to interstate

In speaking of this application, Mr. Preston stated that his road is the first in the state to inaugurate a system of concentration of the above products for shipments to points outside of the state. The reason for this is that the egg and poultry business in Texas is fast becoming one of the leading industries in the state.

. Equals Cotton Business "I have gone into this industry thoroughly," said Mr. Preston, "and I find that there is as much money to be made in the egg and poultry business as there is in raising cotton and other staple products in the state of Texas. I find that carefully compiled statistics show that in the state of Massachusetts each hen in that state yields $1.40 and in the state of Missouri. the egg, poultry and butter industry exceeded the total wheat crop.' Mr. Preston believes that the thrifty housewife of the Texas farmer can reach these figures and not only have enough for her pin money, but also support the family on the money she makes by raising chickens and selling the product.

Q. T. Moreland is the member of the democratic executive committee for the Thirtieth senatorial district. He is in doubt if that also makes him the chairman of the district. GOD NEVER INTENDED SOLITUDE brought up for discussion his peculiarities. The Tribune louched briefly on some features of his way of life, including statements regarding his methodical ways and his avoidance of womankind and of ordinary pleasures. A gentleman, who was a stranger to Mr. Moyer, after reading an account of how he lived, remarked that the poor fellow had found life unbearable, and had drifted into false reasonings and morose imaginations. He said: "A man who will eat alone at the same place and at the same hour for twenty years and sleep alone in the same room for twenty years is bound to get wrong in his mind." It is so. Man cannot live alone. He cannot even live amidst people and fail to share in the pleasures, the emotions and the aspirations of those about him. He cannot withdraw from the converse and society of women and children and maintain a normal wind. He may find a pleasure of a kind in living by a method, yet ne misses a something, as the plant misses the showers, and the drouth is sure to come, when the dried-up channels of human nature lose their capacity to receive the invigorating streams of companionship. Then the man at last realizes his isolation and he becomes a burden to himself. He has ignered and lost all that makes life worth living, and the wealth of a Croesus would buy him nothing that his soul craves. Jesse Moyer was a good man, with unusual capacity to enjoy the better things of life. His fine-spun nature and sentimentalities were unfortunately diverted or represented by a sensitiveness and a philosophy which carried him well for awhile, but which finally overwhelmed him, in a realization of utter failure to be as God intended man to be, one of many. The few who knew him well appreciated his delicate and refined nature, and everybody liked him. All he needed was to get out into the companionship of the world. He missed it .- Temple Tribune.

If God had intended that man should live alone He would not have taken from him a portion of his anatomy while he slept and fashioned woman out of it. The good book says that God said it was not good for man to be alone, and for that reason He provided him with a companion and helpmeet, and as God originally planned, so is nature and human nature today. The man who undertakes to live to himself soon grows into a sour misanthrope, believing the world and all in it was created for his special undoing, that there is no sunshine or happiness in life and nothing but clouds of the most somber hue. These ideas grow and grow until they ultimately become a complete hallucination. There is nothing then left in life to look forward to, the future seems but a kaleidoscope of the rast, eternity itself becomes but a doubt, and the victim experiences no fear in leaping into the darkness that has been conjured up in his own erring brain.

And there is happiness here for all who will seek and find it. The sun shines just as brightly for one man as another. The songs of the birds are just as sweet about the poor man's hovel as the palace of the rich man. The strength of woman's love and the ennobling influence of her many virtues is as much the littage of one man as another. But we must learn to seek before we can expect to find. We must bask in the blessed sunshine instead of looking for the clouds. We must listen for the sweet cadence in the bird notes that float up from the nedges instead of altuning our ears for the discordant croak of the frogs. We must seek the affinity of our soul among the fair daughters of Eve instead of retiring into the fastness of the inner temple, locking the doors and declaring that all ideas of connubial bliss are but fallacies.

The man who deliberately isolates himself is but inviting the most horrible form of disaster. He deserves none of the happiness and enjoyment that comes from a proper mode of life, for he is false to the duties and responsibilities of true manhood and shirks a continently snuffs out. man's part in the general plan of the universe. And the end in such cases is invariably the same. A short time and it is all over. We deplore the lack of real manhood when the end has come and pity the miserably misspent life, that is all. The victim perhaps finds forgetfulness on the other side, and that is the common and of the story.

Man needs companionship and must have it. There is ample ground for the apprehension, is nothing else in the world that will answer this craving of the human soul. It may assume the proportions of a pet dog, cat, horse or some other kind of animal, but the nature of man is such that he craves a companion of some kind, and even in such extreme cases of isolation it usually finds expression in some form or other. And all men can have companionship of the proper kind who deserve it. Where there is a void that cannot possibly be filled there is also an insurmount-

BELL IS GAINING GROUND

It does not require a very close and elaborate study of the political situation in Texas to discover that Judge Bell is steadily gaining ground in the contest now being waged before the people of this state for the office of governor. From practically every section of the state comes the most flattering assurances relative to the strength being developed by the distinguished candidate for governor. Down in the thickly settled portion of Central Texas it is said that Bell stock has taken a wonderful growth since the splendid castigation given Colquitt at Moody, and numbers of men who were rather on the fence prior to that incident are now outspoken in support of Bell.

more than he can conveniently masticate and has | end of republican rule is in sight, sprung charges that are so easily refuted that it is surprising one of his alleged political sagacity could have been induced to make such a break. The people of Texas are declaring that they made Colquitt a railroad commissioner from the fact that they wanted his services on that tribunal. They are deeply disappointed that he is spending so much of his time and their time in chasing a bubble, and the general sentiment is that he must be rebuked by being compelled to serve his time as commissioner. The people are not pleased with Colquitt's course, and he is going to find out some very wholesome facts before the close of the campaign that will be of value to him in the future.

Judge Brooks is largely in the attitude of Candidate Colquitt, from the fact the people of Texas believe he is neglecting the duties of a high and responsible position and clogging the wheels of justice by the campaign he is making for the governorship. Brooks is laboring under the further disadvantage that a large per cent of his warmest friends say openly he can be of more service to local option on the bench than he could ever possibly hope to render as governor. Judge Brooks is up against a combination that he will never be able to get around. He has no more chance to be nominated than Wade or Colquitt.

Colonel Tom Campbell is the man with whom Judge Bell will have to finally measure lances, for Campbell is coming to the state convention with a very respectable element of strength. The race for governor, if it is really a contest, is between Bell and Campbell. While the East Texas candidate is a splendid man and an able and patriotic citizen, there is a street; Terry & Callison, 103 South Ervay; J. M. BURLEIGH, Minn., June 2.-Willie Heffeldon attended the R. A. C. dance and supper at Coster's hall in Burleign last night with Miss Mayme Dwight, and started for home at half-past three o'clock, a. m., driving his fast trotter and, being in pleasant company and with the remembrance of the happy hours of the ball in his mind, was at peace and in harmony with reached Brack's Mills, four miles away. the world, and had not a thought in his mind concern-

Three miles down the Sheffield turnpike and only two miles from the home of Miss Dwight, the couple were stattled on coming around the corner of the thick woods at the Trempeleau farm to see bright flames blazing out along the sides and from the roof of the one-story portion of the dwelling house of Henry Cassleton. No one appeared anywhere around the burning house and it was plain to see that the family were all asleep and unaware of the peril that threatened them. Willie whipped up his horse and drove on a gallop to the side gate, where he handed the reins to Miss Dwight, and then sprang to the ground and ran up the path to the house as fast as he could, shouting "Fire" at the top of his voice to arouse the sleep-

Being acquainted with the premises and knowing that Mr. Cassleton's bedroom was on the west side of the lower story, he started to run around the house in that direction, intending to break in the window, rouse the farmer and help him to rescue the others, Just as he was passing the corner of the house, however, and veering well away from it to avoid the heat of the flames which were here eating their way through the weatherboarding, Rover, the huge watch dog of the Cassletons , which had been roused from his slumbers in the barn by Heffeldon's shouting, met him face to face, and, evidently thinking that the excited man was the cause of all the trouble, sprang at him, fastened his teeth in his coat at the shoulder and threw him to the ground, where he stood over him, holding him down and growling fiercely. As the dog did this there was a shrill scream from the highway, where Miss Dwight had been a witness to the dog's assault upon her escort, and in another moment the horse, taking fright at her sudden scream, was rushing down the road at his best speed, giving the young lady all she could do to guide him safely and never stopping till he had In the meantime Heffeldon was having the time of his life with the dog and the fire. He shouted when he was able, which was not often, for Rover objected to it and shook and tousled him fiercely every time he lifted his voice, and, what was the worst of all, the fire had grown so hot that it was almost unbearable and was even causing an unpleasant odor to arise from the singeing of the dog's hair, who, faithful to his selfimposed duty, had no idea of either abandoning his prisoner or permitting him to crawl along the ground to a point further away from the fire, but evidently intended to rival the brave boy who "stood on the burning deck whence all but him had fled." But at the moment when Heffeldon thought he could bear the heat no longer rescue came in the form of several reignbors who had seen the fire from afar, and the family had also awakened and were pouring out of the house by many doors and windows, clad in ver light attire and in a frame of mind, from fright and rage, to fall in at once with the theory advanced by Constable Smith, one of the first arrivals, that Heffeldon had set the fire and been caught by Rover while trying to escape after committing the deed. This the ory of the matter was so spectacular and satisfactory to every one except Heffeldon that he was-under arrest and well on his way to temporary imprisonment when Miss Dwight, returning with the horse, made the necessary explanations and secured the release of unfortunate friend.

INDIANS FORM SECRET ORDER

"Night Hawks" of Keetoowahs Attain Fame

NAME MISLEADING

Object of Organization Is to Protect Their Lands From Invasion by Whites

Special to The Telegram.

TAHLEQUAH, I. T., June 7.-Much has been written of late concerning the now famous Night Hawks or Keetoowak Society of full-blood Indians, residing in the mountain district of the Cherokee Nation, and no true status of the people has ever been

The name "Night Hawk" of itself is misleading and savors of outlawry, dark deeds, etc. Such, however, is far from the truth concerning the people. The name originated from their meeting at night in the open woods, not having halls or lodges they resort to the primeval forests that nature provided them, and as their ancestors did

The true name of this society is Keetoowah, and it will be news to many to know that in an old Cherokee law book found in the Cherokee mountains last week, printed in 1830, in which is stated that when the present town of Fort Gibson was laid off its name was Keetoowah. Stories of these people meeting at night and holding orgies, ghost dances, etc., is all imagination. Their meetings are as quiet as that of Masons or other secret societies and would be a Sunday school as compared with an Elk lodge meeting. The object of the Keetoowah Society is somewhat similar to that of the Snakes of the Creek Nation, in so far as the protection of their lands from white invasion and the holding in common of the country given them by Andrew Jackson is concerned.

Indians Are Poor There does not exist on earth today a more honest, peaceable or hospitable people than the full-blood Indians of the Cherokee mountains. To all old residents of the territory it is well known that a quarter of a century ago the homes of these people were open to all. At that time everything was in plenty. The exodus of the whites from the states has driven these people (who are naturally shy by nature) into the barren mountain district, where existence is next to starvation. and how they live today is a mystery to the outside world. Many thousands of Cherokee have taken their allotment of lands in the rich prairie and oil lands in the western part of the Cherokee Nation, but the Keetoowahs or full-bloods refused to take any lands at all. This forced the government, through the Dawes commission, to allot them lands arbitrarily. This land is in the mountains and the Flint hills and is of no value whatever. There are only occasional spots of a few acres susceptible of cultivation, where a little corn can be raised. Their hogs range wild in the woods and subsist on acorns and roots. This today is all these people have to subsist on. The millions of dollars in the treasury vaults at Washington belonging to them are no value to them whatever. It is in fact far beyond their reach. The payments made by the government at intervals of many years is of very little value to these people, when it is remembered they only get a pro rata at these payments of from $40,000 to $200,000. If these payments were to come regularly, as among the Osages, it would be quite different, but these small amounts paid ten years apart are of practically no benefit to these people. This in a way will explain the illusion prevailing in the outside world that all Indians of the Indian Territory are among the richest individual people on earth, when as matter of fact there are thousands of them in the Cherokee and Choctaw mountains in the lowest stage of pov-

Not Hunting Wycliffs

The stories emanating from the country to the metropolitan press as to employment of members of the Night Hawks and full-bloods in hunting down the Wycliff boys for the killing of Deputy Marshal Gilstrap some three menths since are nothing but "scare fleads." No Night Hawk or Keetoowah full-blood would dare to hunt the Wycliffs from the fact that they know that it would be death for them to do so. They simply pocket the $5 per day allowed them and call it easy money The crime these boys committed should not be laid to the Night Hawks or Keetoowahs. Their father was a member of this society, but they were not. The belief prevails today in the Cherokee mountains that the Wycliff boys are not in the Cherokee mountains or the United States. It is said that they have gone to Old Mexico, where they have joined the Yaqui Indians. If they are still in the Cherokee Nation it will no doubt be a long time before they are captured. As people familiar with these mountains know, they are inaccessible in some places and the outlaws could pick places where they would be perfectly safe and could remain for years without detection. Such was the case of Mace Miller, a Cherokee, who killed Madden, a merchant at Brazgs, and eluded capture for eight years, and all this time he was in the Green Leaf mountains, only a few miles from the scene of his crime, and his capture then was only accomplished by betrayal by a Cherokee girl, whom he had jilted for another, and then only when he was dead drunk and asleep.

Money Comes Too Late The $5,000,000 suit gained by Colonel Robert L. Owen for the eastern Cherokees some weeks since will be divided among a great many of these people, but it will come too late to be of benefit to many who are now living, as even before the distribution of this money can be made many of them will have passed to the happy hunting ground by death from semi-starvation.

WACO FOR BELL

Brooks May Get Larger Vote Than First Thought

Special to The Telegram. WACO, Texas, June 7.—While it is conceded that the race for governor in this county is between Bell and Campbell, yet according to the verdict of some persons who have studied the situation, Judge Brooks will get a stronger vote than many think. It is pointed out by the prohibitionists here that while the two men mentioned will get most of the votes, yet it is claimed that Judge Brooks will get a very strong vote of the prohibitionists. A few persons even go so far as to say that he will not be such a bad third as most persons think. If the pros combine on Judge Brooks they will probably be able to give him a respectable vote in the county, but the contest is easily between Bell and Camp-

NEGRO MUST HANG

Bob Johnston Must Pay Penalty for Murder of Alfred Berry Special to The Telegram.

STEPHENVILLE, Texas, June 7 .-Judge W. J. Oxford read the death sentence for the negro, Bob Johnson, Tuesday, and placed the day of execution on July 20. Bob Johnson was convicted a year ago for murder, but took the case to the higher courts on the grounds that a negro was not on the grand jury or petit jury. The higher courts affirmed the case and he must hang. He was convicted for the murder of Alfred Berry in the seed house of the Dublin oil mill in February, 1905. The negro and Berry had taken quarters in the seed house for the night, and after Berry had gone to sleep, it is alleged, Johnson took a shovel handle and knocked him in the head and then covered him up in the

$61,000 SPENT IN IRRIGATING FARM

$1,852 Cleared on But Four Acres of Potatoes

Special to The Telegram. SAN MARCOS, Texas, June 7 .-Several months ago one of the daily papers of the state printed an editorial to the effect that William Green of this city was preparing for a gold mine. The editorial was based on a story from here in reference to Mr. Green's plans for irrigating Irish potatoes, onions, cotton, corn, berries and other fruits, and alfalfa. The prophecy of the editorial is now being made true, as Mr. Green is now gathering and shipping to market the products of his farm. His irrigating plant has cost him $61,000. He has this year 75 acres in Irish potatoes, 65 in onions, 250 in corn and 350 in cotton, The potato crop this year is only fair yet Mr. Green will clear about $48 per acre, which is about three times as much as the average yield of cotton will net a farmer where he uses hired labor. The yield of onions runs from 51,329 pounds per acre to 28,000. The largest yield is on four acres, nine acres will average 40,000 pounds, and the remainder will average 28,000. Mr. Green says he will net one cent per pound on the potatoes, less about $5 per acre for labor. Thus it will be seen that Mr. Green will clear on four acres (his best crop) $1,852, and on nine acres (his second best) $3,150, and on the remainder of his crop $230 per acre.

CLERICAL ERROR CAUSES DISPUTE

Judge Pollard Explains Terrell Election Law

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, June 7.-It appears that considerable confusion has arisen as to the construction of sections 111 and 115 of the Terrell election law, which has caused State Chairman Andrews and others considerable worry. Judge Claude Pollard, office assistant of the attorney general, who has the task of interpreting the Terrell election law, yesterday afternoon authorized the following statement on the matter:

How Statute Reads "Section 111 of the Terrell election law provides for a meeting of county executive committees on the third Monday in June for the purpose of deciding how the names of candidates shall be placed on the official ballot. Section 115 of this law refers to a meeting of the county executive committees on the second Monday in June. This is beyond doubt a clerical mistake and refers to the meeting provided for on the third Monday in June. There is no necessity for the meeting of county executive committees on the second Monday in June."

Miss Edna Hampton, East Belknap street, Fort Worth, and Gilbert Richardson of Brooklyn Heights, were united in marriage Wednesday night at the home of the bride's parents. Many friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony, after which appropriate refreshments were served. Miss Hampton is well known in Fort Worth and in Brooklyn Heights and is a popular young lady among her acquaintances. Mr. Richardson is an expert mechanic employed at the Enterprise Iron Works.

Mrs. E. E. Baldridge of Brooklyn Heights has returned from Wagoner, I r. where she has been visiting with friends for the past month. Revival services are being continued in the Brooklyn Heights Methodist church and a great deal of interest is being taken in the services of each night. This is the second series of revival meetings held in Brooklyn Heights this spring, the Christian church having held services two weeks The Texas and Pacific railroad is preparing to build another siding in their west yards at Brooklyn Heights. Already several car loads of new ties have been unloaded and it is announced that work will commence in the near future. ******

ROSEN HEIGHTS *****

Mrs. Belle Watkins of Tolla is visiting with her brother in Rosen Heights. J. H. Poulter of Rosen Heights is placing lumber and other material for a new house in Market street between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets. He will build a frame sixroom dwelling, commencing work of erection at once. This is only more evidence of the great building activity now on Rosen Heights. There are about eighteen houses now under construction on Rosen Heights, many of which are nearing completion. Miss Mabel Mayfield, in Chestnut avenue, Rosen Heights, entertained at an informal party on Wednesday night a few of her friends from Fort Worth and North Fort Worth. A social was spent which was enjoyed by all present, which were: Misses Minnie Cunningham, Delia Scott of Fort Worth and Miss Mary McClendon of North Fort Worth and Messrs. Laurence Malone, Ralph Wallace and Lester Malone of Fort Worth.

Carlton Maclin and Phillip Weaver of Mineral Wells visited on Rosen Heights last Sunday, leaving Monday for Dallas on business.

MISSING MAN FOUND

J. A. Anderson Reported at Mineral Wells

J. A. Anderson of North Fort Worth, partner in the firm of A. M. Anderson & Co., corner Central avenue and Grove street, who has been missing from his home since last Monday, was located late Wednesday night at Mineral Wells.

Monday morning Mr. Anderson appeared at the store as usual, but soon after was missed, though nothing was thought of absence until dinner time had come passed. The case was then reported to Chief of Police Montgomery, who made a search for the missing man, which up to Wednesday afternoon was of no avail.

Mineral Wells is a favorite resort of the family of Mr. Anderson, and it is thought that the old gentleman decided to make the trip and neglected to notify the family. A telegraph message to Mineral Wells Wednesday night brought the news that Mr. Anderson was there at the hotel, and was safe and unhurt He will return to North Fort Worth on Thursday.

Mr. Anderson is a man of about sixty years of age, and has been in good health, working regularly at the store of Anderson & Co.

feature thus far opened in White City has been kept busy ever since Tuesday afternoon. The figure eight or roller coaster has started for all summer. It has taken a large force of carpenters at work for over a month to build this skeleton frame of three tiers height, each tier a figure eight winding to the one below. The work on frame and coaster track was completed some few days ago, then the cars arrived which have been made to the order of the management and patterned after a two-seated touring car, leather upholstered. Last Monday the steel cable or rather a heavy steel chain, which hoists the cars to the top of the incline from which point you coast with increasing speed, arrived and at once was laid in place and on Tuesday one of the largest night crowds in the history of White City visited the park and kept the new attractions busy until a late hour. Much care has been taken with a view of

COWBOY LIFE ON THE RANGE

It is said that the industry of manufacturing steel has created more than 1,000 American millionaires. Probably this showing can be equaled by no other industry in this country, with the single exception of stock raising. How many men with bank accounts in seven figures owe their wealth to this source cannot even be estimated with any degree of certainty. It cannot be less than twice the number of the steel millionaires, and may be several times as many. Over more than one-half the area of the United States stock raising is the leading industry. In ten western commonwealths the cattle and sheep owners control of occupy 90 per cent of the land area. In seventeen states and territories they hold the balance of power. They occupy the public lands, consisting of about 600,000,000 acres. Governors John Sparks of Nevada, B. B. Brooks of Wyoming, F. R. Gooding of Idaho, Hagerman of New Mexico, John C. Cutler of Utah and Joseph K. Toole of Montana, are six occupants of gubernatorial chairs at the present moment | The number of cattle wintered on the who owe their political preferment to Three United States senators and twenty-one representatives officially give their business occupation as stock raising; but nearly ten times that many are known to owe a large share of their income and the whole of their political pull to the same source. The great King and Kennedy ranches of Texas, the Miller ranch of Oklahoma, the Carey, Hartzel, Duke, Sylvester and Mackenzie ranches of Colorado, the Haley ranch of Wyoming and the Parsons ranch of Utah are only a few out of hundreds of western principalities, each one of which is large enough in area and productive of sufficient revenue to give its own-ers rank with Russian grand dukes or German princelings. With the building of new railroads, the extension of irrigation systems and the influx of permanent settlers, great changes are taking place in the conduct of the cattle business, and the lives of the cowboys. In very many localities it has become necessary for the cattle herders to own their own lands and fence them in, in order to prevent their stock from straying and destroying the crops of the "homesteaders." However, in Wyoming, Montana, the Dakotas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Indian Territory, the open range is still a very important factor. In many districts of these states, the stockquarter section of land, on which are located the ranch house and the few buildings needed to shelter himself, his men and his horses through the most sever winter weather, while his cattle roam at will for many miles in all

In such regions the life of the cowboy still possesses a certain charm. It is a lonely life, but a free and wholesome one, with just enough of danger to give it spice. On the range the cowboy rarely has any human companionship, but starts off alone in charge of his "bunch." Day after day at sunrise he saddles his pony, which has been picketed through the night Then he gets his meagre breakfast of black coffee, bacon and beans and bread. After breakfast he mounts his horse, and by that time the cattle have started to move, browsing steadily on the stiff, dry wire grass, laden with its feathery tuft of seed vessels. They move steadily, and all travel together in the same general direction—a habit that does much to lessen the labors of the cowaround the herd, his body swaying easily with the motions of the wiry little animal, his legs encased in leather chaps, or overalls, and the long studded rowels of his spurs jingling cheerily. In his gloved left hand he carries the reins loosely but firmly, while his right hangs by his side, ready to cast loose the lariet that is coiled by his saddle bow or to reach the six-shooter in his belt. His wide felt hat furnishes protection from sun and rain, and the gayly colored handkerchief tied carelessly around his neck protects that portion of his anatomy from the burning rays of old Sol. Thus equipped and with his yellow slicker or oilskin tightly rolled and fied behind him with the gray army blanket beside it, he is ready for any kind of weather. In his apparel, however, there is not a single unnecessary article. Even the gloves, or gauntlets, that one might think are worn for show, are indispensable Without them the lariat, noosed around the horns on an angry steer, would cut his fingers to the bone. As he rides around the herd he must take care that his charges do not wander too far from å watering place and nust keep a sharp lookout for strange brands, weak cattle, cows mired in soft places, evidences of the activity "rustlers," or any one of a thousand things that may affect the condition of the herd. A "rustler," it may be well to explain, is the name given to an unscrupulous individual who, with a red hot wire, alters the brands on cattle for the purpose of aving claim to them at the round-up. Next to the horse thief, he is the most execrated creature on the plains. Nevertheless, it is popularly rumored that some of the largest herds on the open range had their modest beginning in these thieving tactics. Winter is dreaded by all range herders as well as by the cowboys, who are exposed to all sorts of weather. Most of these are driven in to the foothills of the mountains or to the shelter of bluffs and hills, where they are less exposed to the elements than on the wind-swept plains. If the season is mild but little trouble or loss is experienced. The seed vessels of the gramma and buffalo grasses are borne at the very extremities of the strong, wiry stems, and remain exadded very much to the enjoyment. posed unless the snow becomes so deep as to entirely cover all vegetation. On these the cattle depend for sustenance through the winter. If the snows are excessively deep, therefore, and accompanied by severe blizzards and intense cold, many thousands of cattle die of starvation or are frozen to death in their weakened condition. There are two round-ups each year -the "calf round-up" in the spring and the "beef round-up" in the fall What inventory taking is to the merchant and manufacturer the spring round-up is to the cattleman. It enables him to ascertain just where he stands-how much he has lost on acount of the elements, and how much of the herd. All the cattle owners in it, so that none of the cattle may suffer from thirst. The first day of the round-up is spent waiting for late arrivals, appointing a round-up boss and in a display of skillful riding, broncho ousting and shooting by the cowboys. Next morning at the first peep of day every one is awakened by the cook's stentorian cry: "Grub p-i-l-e! G-r-u-b p-i-l-e!" The cowboy springs to his eet, hurries out and saddles his pony Then he returns, rolls up his bed and stows it away in the wagon belong-ing to his "outfit." After this he takes his place in the line at the

Each pair goes in the direction ordered- and starts in all the cattle found, no matter to whom they may belong. The country thus covered may comprise a district twenty-five miles or more The cattle begin coming in across. within a few hours, but not until noon, or perhaps long after that, do the last stragglers get in. All colors, sizes and conditions are represented. The great steers, smaller cows, and calves of all ages transform the pain into a surging sea of animal life-cows lowing, bulls bellowing and cowboys yelling. Not until the herds have quieted down is it possible to begin the real business of the day. This consists in "cutting out" the different brands. A cowboy sees an animal marked with he brand of his "outfit," and starts into the herd to drive it out. Calves always follow their mothers, so that wnership of the calf that follows her Finally the process of "cutting out" results into the division of the great nerd into many smaller herds. The calves are then branded. A lariat is brown over the head or around the hoofs of the unsuspecting calf, and a quick turn of the pony puts it flat on the ground, where it is held while the red-hot branding iron is applied. A hissing of the burning hair and flesh -a puff of smoke-and all is over. The calf is released and springs to its feet, marked for life

When all the range herders represented at the round-up have taken out their cattle, a number will likely be found belonging to other herds. The calves among these are marked with the brands of their rightful owners. and all are credited on the books of | powerful invigorating tonic, imparting the Cattle Dealers' Association. Dur- | health and strength in particular to the ing the round-up, also, stock that is organs distinctly feminine. For weak to be sold is separated from the herd, and many cattle buyers from Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago and Denver are generally in attendance. Although the "beef round-up" does not take place until in the fall, yet many thousands of cattle change hands at the spring round-up as well. The life of the cowboy of 1906 is peaceful indeed in comparison with that of his predecessors of thirty or even twenty years ago, when the Indians roamed the plains and disputed ownership on equal terms with the white men, and when millions of buffalo furnished spore and diversion. The cowpunchers still know how to handle firearms, but through the '70s and well into the '80s this accomplishment, as it is now considered, was as much of a necessity in the business as ability to ride a broncho or swing a lariat. Even after the Comanches had been confined to the reservation at Fort Sill—where old Geronimo, the "Human -where old Geronimo, the "Human Tiger," still sulks in mock imprisonment when not touring with a wild west show-it was not unusual for a band of them to descend upon a cattle outfit, stampede the herd and scalp the cowpunchers. In those days the journey from Texas to the shipping points in Kansas was made on foot, anywhere from 5,000 to 25,000 head of cattle being driven in a herd. The Santa Fe Trail, forty miles wide and 700 miles long, was the most traveled highway of its kind the world has ever seen, and danger, excitement and adventure might be expected in every Although the domain over which the cowboy reigns undisputed monarch of all he surveys is every year becoming smaller, yet it will be many years before he is driven even from all of that portion of the public lands that is capable of being reclaimed by irrigation or by the industry of the "dry farmer." In Routt and Rio Blanco counties, northwestern Colorado, is a cow country greater in area than the whole state of Vermont; and Montana, Wyoming, Utah, the Dakotas, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada contain districts almost as large, utilized for no other purpose than grazing. Some of these regions are doubtless doomed to remain forever arid and unproductive, and probably never can be put to better uses than that of cattle ranges. On these narrow limits the range riders of the future will be confined—degenerate descendants of the western Centaurs, their calling deprived of the danger, excitement and romance that makes it attractive to the bold and enterprising—and reduced to a dull, prosaic, commonplace level in comparison with which the existence of a Pennsylvania farmer will be considered stirring and nerve-racking.

Heavy Rains Cause Much Loss to Farmers Over State

Special to The Telegram. ITALY, Texas, June 7.—Owing to the heavy rainfall of the past ten days a large number of farmers have been in Italy this week discussing the gloomy outlook for working and gathering crops. In many sections cotton will have to be replanted and grain crops which are now ready for harvesting will probably be lost. Much of it has been blown down already and farmers fear that there is little hope of saving it. Some fields will have to be abandoned. It will be several days before any farm work can be done in this section. The roads leading into Italy are almost impassa-

That the roots of many native plants, growing wild in our American forests, possess remarkable properties for the cure of human maladies is well proven. Even the untutored Indian had learned the curative value of some of these and taught the early settlers their uses. The Indian never liked work so he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible that she might do the work and let him hunt. Therefore, he dug "papoose root" for her, for that was their great remedy for female weaknesses. Dr. Pierce uses the Blue Cohosh-in his *Favorite Prescription," skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective than any other medicine in curing all the various weaknesses and painful derangements peculiar to women. Many afflicted women have been saved from the operating table and the sur-geon's knife by the timely use of Doctor l'ierce's Favorite Prescription. Tenderness over the lower pelvic region, with backache, spells of dizziness, faintness, bearing down pains or distress should not go unheeded. A course of "Favorite Pre scription" will work marvelous benefit in all such cases, and generally effect a permanent cure if persisted in for a reasonable length of time. The "Favorite Prescription" is a harmless agent, being olly prepared from native medicinal roots, without a drop of alcohol in its make up, whereas all other medicines. put up for sale through druggists for woman's peculiar ailments, contain large quantities of spirituous liquors, which are very harmful, especially to delicate women. Market Quiet-Short Covering Causes | Wheat Prices Up More Than 2c-Corn Further Small Advance in Prices

Special to The Telegram. NEW-YORK, June 7.-The cotton market seems to be rapidly relapsing into the lethargic state which prevailed before the issuance of the government report. Speculation is almost dead and dealings today were comparatively small. Both sides seemed to be afraid and did little, although it is probable that bears were the most timid of the two factors, especially those short of the summer months, for covering in the July option was about the only feature of the trading, it being intimated that the transactions were for the account of the big short interest. Brokers who usually act for the bull crowd also bought some and the market had a steady tone at all times. Liverpool advices were disappointing, prices there failing to show a full response to yesterday's advance here and the local opening was steady, with prices 2 to 4 points down, which was about as due. Weather reports were hardly as favorable as recently and short covering was a prominent feature of the initial trading. Prices for July did not linger around the opening figures, but started upward immediately and the next few fluctuations carried them back to a level with yesterday's finals. A subsequent upward movement netted a gain of 6 points for July. New crop options were in less demand, but after the middle of the session responded to the firmness in July and at the noon call were selling 8 points above the lowest.

The gains were maintained during the afternoon and the market closed steady with prices near the best, show ing net gains of 6 points for July and 3 to 4 points for fall months. Spot prices were unchanged at 11.20c

New Orleans Cotton Special to The Telegram NEW ORLEANS, June 7.-The feature of the cotton market today was the heavy demand for July contracts, which increased as the session progressed. They were very hard to obtain as those holding them would not turn loose and bears were afraid to go short, fearing a squeeze in that month. An excellent spot demand, with large orders from Europe, was a bullish factor, and caused short covering, as did also the inclination of the New York crowd to bull the new crop. Opening prices were 3 to 5 points lower as the result of a slump in the foreign market, but shorts were nervous and began covering immediately after the call, prices advanced gradually and although the prospect of a beaish visible statement tomorrow, checked the covering to some extent the best level was reached during the last hour, with July selling 17 points above the opening figures, while new crop months were up 11 points. The market closed steady with prices showing net gains of 4 to 9 points. Spot cotton firm, middling 10 13-16c.

Liverpool Cotton Calle Special to The Telegram. LIVERPOOL, June 7.—The cotton market was dull and featureless today. Opening prices were 1 point higher, against an advance of 1 to 2 points, as due. Only a light volume of business was transacted, the most of which was short selling. The market closed quiet with prices at a net loss of 1 to 2 points. Spot cotton was in slightly better demand, sales being 7,000 bales, including American, with prices 2 points higher at 5.99d for American middling. Receipts, 8,000 bales. Following are the opening and closing prices for futures:

Also Strong-Market Excited-Bulls Aggressive

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, June 7.-Trading in all of the local grain pits was active today and bulk dominated the proceedings from the start to the finish. Prices for the entire list advanced sensationally and the phenomenal strength of the corn market was the general topic of conversation.

There was nothing the foreign news to cause the upward movement, but nevertheless the opening here was firm, with prices 1/2 to 1/2 higher for wheat, 4c to %c higher for corn and unchanged to %c higher for oats. Wheat

Bulls were very aggressive at the start and soon forced out stop orders on the short side of the wheat market, sending prices to a net gain of 1c during the first hour. Reports of rains in the belt where not needed was the principal cause of the heavy buying. There was some selling at the higher level, but offerings were quickly absorbed and the upward movement continued, prices eventually touching a net gain of 2%c to 2%c. The market closed strong and excited, with prices near the best. Local receipts 6 cars, against the same this day last year. Corn

Corn and oats trading was similar to that the in the wheat pit, but the strength of the corn market was considered remarkable in view of the continuous upward movement which has characterized the past few sessions, carrying prices more than six cents above the level, where the campaign started. The net gain today was %c to 1%c. Final figures for oats showed a net gain of 1/2c to 3/4c. Local receipts of corn 280 cars, against 260 last year, of oats 137 cars, against 152 this day

Provisions Provisions were again in good demand, packers being the best buyers. Final figures showed gains of 18c to 28c for pork, 7c for lard and 5c for WASHINGTON, June 7 .- The minority members of the house, believing that the majority had taken undue advantage of them in limiting debate on the sundry civil bill on Wednes day started another filibuster and for two hours roll calls and points of order kept the house in a turmoil. Later, when the bill was taken up under the five-minute rule, but a few pages were completed when the house adjourned, most of the time being given over to a discussion of the old custom house in New York and the payment of rental to the National city bank. This is a daily occurrence and the same charges and denials were made.

In the Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7 .- The conference report on the railroad rate bill continued yesterday to be the leading subject before the senate, and Senator Spoonr of Washington was the principal speaker.

He devoted especial attention to the anti-pass provision as reported by the conferees and criticised it as unjust. Other features of the report were criticised by Senator Hale, Tillman, Bailey, McCumber, Teller, Lodge, Morgan, Piles, Pettus and Patterson, Senator Daniel made an ineffectual attempt to have reconsidered the vote by which the railroad employes' liability bill was passed, in order to permit him an opportunity to offer amend-

Steer Market Has Better Tone-Cows and Calves Steady-Hogs Advance Another Nickel

With 1,500 cattle on the market and one packer virtually out of the steer trade, beef cattle took on a more healthy tone and prices strengthened somewhat. Quotations continued irregular, but the outlook warrants the addition of a dime upon the price level of yesterday. The bulk of the day's run was grass cattle and these of a good killing class.

Few fed steers were on view, and they were not choice. The movement set in early and by noon nearly everything had crossed the scales. Sales of steers:

Butcher cows about filled the yards. There must have been twenty loads, and they were mostly of a good grass class. The trade just now calls for good butcher cows and the supply was quickly appropriated at fully steady prices. The "30" ranch had a fourteen-car shipment that made $2.50 on the bulk, with some choice cows from $2.55@ 2.75.

Rochester Pastor Says Church Isn't a Bathing Resort Special to The Telegram.

ROCHESTER, Pa., June 7 .- Social Rochester is in spasms. At St. Cecilia's Roman Catholic church the sermon of the pastor, the Rev. Father George M. A. Schoefter brought deep blushes to the faces of a few women present.

In the midst of a scathing arraignment of breezy feminine apparel, the pastor, among other things, said: "This church is no place for the display of fancy gowns and peek-a-boo shirt waists."

Looking squarely at two women of the congregation, the pastor said: "Go home and take them off. This is no bathing resort."

FORT WORTH. June 7 .- New Orleans cotton market was very dull today, but its undertone was good and prices showed strength in spite of the entire lack of buil support. This was entirely due to the good spot demand, for crop news could not be called unfavorable, although unfavorable reports were received from some few sections.

The spot demand keeps up remarkably today, not to re-open until Monday, and yet importers accepted offers freely today, much to the disgust of some exporters, who found themselves unable to cover satisfactorily what they had sold.

With all the good demand for the actual stuff the outside public holds aloof from the market and regards the July position with suspicion, which is probably a result of the scorching if got in the May deal, or whatever it may be called. The American markets are probably in for a couple of days of inactivity, because, in these dull times, the lack of a Liverpool market is felt more than usual.

A close watch is being kept on the crop, but departures from present conditions will have to be seen if anything like broad fluctuations are to be based on crop news.

Vivion Commission Company FORT WORTH. Texas, June 7.-Cotton operators on the bull side of the New York market are working hard for a reaction, and have the bears where they are afraid to move much. In the face of adverse news, prices were sent up a few points today and bulls were good buyers. The July option was the firmest of the list, and it was stated that a big speculative short account in that month had covered today. Brokers who usually act for the bull crowd also bought. According to all reports spot demand is increasing, which is a very favorable factor.

Liverpool news was disappointing as regards contracts prices being lower than due. Spot prices, however, advanced 2 points and there was a slight increase in the demand, 7,000 bales being taken, including 5,500 bales of American. That market will be closed tomorrow and Saturday, and their weekly statement was issued this afternoon, being unfavorable. The amount forwarded to the mills was 54,000 bales less than last year, which means in all probability a bearish visible statement toniorrow. But it must be remembered that the holidays are responsible for the slump in the demand, as many of the mills have been closed for a week. Next week will no doubt witness a revival of activity in the spot department. Weather news was not so favorable today, there being some complaint of drouth conditions along the gulf coast.

The New York market, after opening as due, in response to the cables firmed up and soon recovered the loss, prices ruling at an advance throughout the Spot prices were unchanged, middling being quoted at 11.20c. Sales, 5.200 bales. C. T. VIVION.

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, June 7.-An interesting feature of the closing exercises of Trinity University at Waxahachie was a ball game between the faculty and the graduating class in which the latter were defeated in a score of 11 to 5. The field day attire of some of the solons of the institution constituted the chief amusement of the afternoon.

Honors are being stolen from most of the great men of former days. Galileo was said to have discovered the law of isochronism of the pendulum while pursuing his studies at Pisa in 1581. Now we learn that the pendulum was used as a correct measure of time among the Arabs as far back as the year 1,000.

School Census Shows Enrollment of 2,113 Students

Special to The Telegram. TEMPLE, Texas, June 7 .- That the claims of Temple to a population of 11,000 people are well founded is borne out by the completion of the scholastic census of the city, which shows a total enrollment of 2,113 names of children within the school age. It is thought that fully one hundred others were not counted through no fault of the enumerators. Trouble was experienced in enrolling many negro children, whose parents viewed the interrogatories of the enumerators in many cases with open suspicion.

TO ELECT OFFICERS

American Medical Association Holds Busy Session in Boston By Associated Press.

BOSTON, Mass., June 7.—Election of officers by the house of delegates is scheduled for today's session of the American Medical Association. In the meantime the meetings of several sections of the association will be resumed. Speakers before the department of surgery and anatomy included Dr. Frederick Mueller and Dr. J. B. Murphy of Chicago, Dr. Charles A. Powers, Denver; Dr. Joseph Renschoff, Cincinnati; Dr. Harvey Cushing. Baltimore, and Dr. J. B. Binnie, Kansas City:

Pupils in the English national schools are being taught the American custom of saluting the flag. But they do so on national anniversaries only. April 23, St. George's day, the pupils in one of the schools sang patriotic songs, while fifty of their fellow pupils accompanied on the violin.

HOW WOODENCARS FARES IN A MASHUP

This shows part of the wreck of the Louisville and Nashville Knokville train that was derafled at a switch as it was entering the Louisville yards last Monday. The smoker and day coach were smashed against a string of freight cars on an adjoining track, eight people being instantly killed and twenty-two wounded. The awful force of the impact is indicated by the wreckage being in splinters, although the train was moving at a moderate rate of speed.

The heater shown in the center of the car, which was the day coach, is in the position it was found after hitting and killing Howard B. Coleman of Stanford, Ky.

PITCHER JARVIS WAS GOING SOME WEDNESDAY

Not a Navigator Got to First Until Seventh Inning

4-11-44 Jarvis, he of the midsummer sunset complexion, and sombre temperament, was nearly the whole show at Haines Park Wednesday afternoon, when the Waco Navigators were shut out to the tune of 3 to 0, with only three hits to their credit and two of them very close. Boles, Erwin and Cavender, who helped rull Jarvis out of his only hole in the eighth inning, deserved some of the credit for keeping Waco's score to the zero mark, while Slamemout Wilson, Salm and Carlin netted the runs for the Panthers. They had hard work at their netting, for if Pitcher Dunbar had been given the support accorded Jarvis, the score would have been near-

The game was quickly played. an abundance of snappy features, with one or two bordering on the sensational, and marred only by Bero's unfortunate accident, it was one of the best contests seen at Haines Park this season. The crowd was large and although it chaffed Jarvis and Umpire Collins good-naturedly, had plenty of enthusiasm for the grandstand plays. Waco again this afternoon.

Americans and Fred Tenney of the Boston Nationals are the only southpaw first basemen in the major leagues. It is known that Mr. Donohue has been left-handed since birth, all records previous to that occurrence having been dost in the Chicago fire. Mr. Donohue makes his home in Milwaukee, but not that he can be nearer the source of supply, because he is a total abstainer. His favorite beverage is buttermilk. Time was when Donohue was a catcher, but opinion was so unanimous against him that it looked as though he might have to retire from baseball and take up some of the minor and mercenary trades, such as banking or bricklaying. One day Manager Cantillon of Milwaukee placed Jiggs on first and told him to catch everything that came his way. He obeyed orders so literally that he has been at it ever since. Jiggs is not Mr. Donohue's real name, but as he imbibes nothing stronger than buttermilk, no one knows what it is except the assessor. There is a dark rumor on the lake front that it is Abadiah, but this has not been confirmed. Mr. Donohue is ambidexterous, using his pie knife with marked fervor with either hand.

ENGLISH WEALTH ENTERS COLORADO

Huge Industries to Be Put in Operation

Special to The Telegram. DENVER, Colo., June 7.-English capitalists have laid plans for a gigantic enterprise in Colorado looking to the development of a large section. of the state. The company is to be known as the Colorado and Southwest ern Railroad Company and will be financed by a number of prominen English capitalists. The results to be attained by the undertaking comprise the building of 125 miles of railroad; the opening of 230,000 acres of tillable land; the construction of beet suga: factories; the building of 126 miles o: irrigation works; the possible installation of smelting works, and the opening up of several now undeveloped mining properties. The railroad is to extend from Grand Junction to a terminus in the Paradox valley, where town is to be located, and where smelters for the entire district traversed by the railroad are to be constructed. D. C. Willoughby is here a: the representative of the English syndicate. The people of Grand Junction have already subscribed $500,00' to the enterprise which will be taken.

in stock of the company. Work Starts at Once A contract for the first twenty-five miles of road is to be let at once and construction of the same will be commenced soon thereafter. There is already a heavy tonnage waiting for the completion of the new road in the district to be traversed by the line. It is the intention of the company to also begin active work on the irrigation ditches simultaneously with the beginning of work on the railroad.

Passage of Denaturization Bill Promises New Industry

FACTORY CLUB IS BUSY

Negotiations With Several Manufacturing Concerns Seeking Location Now in Progress

The passage of the free alcohol bill by congress promises to result in the establishment in Fort Worth of a large distillery for the production of alcohol for industrial and domestic use. Secretary Evans of the Factory Club is in communication with capitalists who are ready to locate a plant here as soon as suitable trackage facilities and a tract of land of sufficient size can be secured. The establishment here of such an industry would mean much for the city and give employment to a large number of men. The denaturant to be used in preparing alcohol for industrial purposes is not prescribed in the bill, but is left to the discretion of the chemists of the internal revenue service. In all probability wood alcohol will be used and if this proves the case a plant for the production of wood alcohol would be a possibility here. Denatured alcohol is alcohol made poisonous to prevent its use in spirituous liquirs, but not affected as to its usefulness for fuel or in the arts

The directors of the Factory Club net at the office of the secretary, A. N. Evans, Wednesday afternoon, the collowing men being in attendance: Judge W. R. Booth, John H. Van Zandt, Dr. J. L. Cooper, J. O. Wright, L. C. Cole, Professor J. W. Draughon and B. H. Dunn. A number of good propositions were presented by Secretary Evans and he was instructed to continue his correspondence in the effort to land some of them for Fort Worth. Some of these matters have been before Secretary Evans for some time but have never been taken up by the club. The proposed industries which were presented to the club are a cotton factory for knitting cotton goods, a cotton mill, wholesale dry goods house, neckwear manufacturing company, a wholesale fruit and produce company, and a brick and tile company. It is probable that the headquarters for Texas of a large eastern indemnity and casualty company will be located in Fort Worth. Other industries for which Secretary Evans will take up an active campaign are a starch factory proposed by capitalists of New Hampshire, a brass foundry from Philadelphia, a furniture factory, to be established by a firm in South Carolina, and a machine works from Findley, Ohio.

At the meeting Wednesday afternoon the committee appointed to make arrangements for an automobile meet to be held in this city in the fall did not make a report. The committee on street signs reported five hundred signs put up and recommended that some plan be adopted whereby a few prominent streets in each ward and all intersections of these might be provided with signs. The committee said that business men were very anxious to have the streets in the residence section supplied with name signs in order that their delivery men might be able to find customers houses. Where work has been done members of the committee found people willing to subscribe sufficient funds to pay the small cost of the signs. A resolution was passed authorizing the sign committee to employ a reliable man to take charge of the work of securing point a committee to assist the Grocers' and Butchers' Association in landing the presidency of the state association for Fort Worth. This would bring the state headquarters here. The directors commended highly the work of Secretary A. N. Evans and gave him authority to proceed with the work of inducing capital to locate in the city. It was recommended that the secretary prepare a list of all property available for use in retail,

SEASON NEARING END

Local florists report that the sales of jasmines have fallen off greatly during the last few days and the present sales are limited to occasional calls at the stores. The small boy, who did a thriving business in the fragrant South Texas flowers, has abandoned the job for want of customers. Jasmines will continue to arrive at the local flower stores for a week or ten days.

CONVENTION SOUGHT

Denver Wants National Republican or Democratic Meeting

DENVER, Col., June 7.-The Denver Convention League is after either the national convention of the republican or democratic party for 1908. Committees have been named to take up the work and an extensive correspondence is to be carried on with the committeemen of the national parties and at the proper time each committee man is to be visited personally by the convention ed that either convention will be attended by at least 2,000 delegates and that such a convention would bring to Denver from 50,000 to 100,000 people.

BISHOP DUNNE TO BE PRESENT

Closing Program at St. Ignaaus Elaborate

The closing program of St. Ignatius Academy for the year will be given at the Majestic theater Thursday night, beginning promptly at ten minutes before 8 o'clock. The program is a very elaborate one and will no doubt prove entertaining to the large audience which is promised. The pupils are to be honored by the presence of Bishop Dunne of Dallas and a large number of priests from Texas churches. Work Nearing Completion

Work on the building is progressing nicely and it will be ready for occupancy at the opening of school in September. It will provide more class rooms and accommogations for an increased number of students. Friday the pupils will be promoted and the boarding students will leave for their homes.
