TRUST BUSTING IN THE ANTIPODES

Sir Joseph George Ward, the new premier of the New Zealand government, is in this country with his wife and daughter, and has been submitting to some newspaper interviews in New York which throw considerable light on the manner in which governmental affairs are conducted in that distant country.

Many methods have been suggested for the control of these large corporations, which in any country must become a danger to the purity of government if allowed to grow too big and powerful.

We have not adopted either of these methods. The government of New Zealand would not, and I do not think any government should assume the responsibility when a corporation has cornered a product and is charging an exorbitant price to enact a law fixing the rate at which the product must be sold.

We had in New Zealand several years ago a milling trust. The heads of the milling industry had combined for the purpose of paying as little as possible for the wheat and charging as much as possible for the flour.

A man asked me today what we would do in New Zealand if an ice trust attempted to put up the price of ice beyond the bounds of reason. I replied that the government would build ice factories and enter into competition with the trust, selling ice at a fair profit.

Sir Joseph mentioned as further instances of how well this plan worked that the New Zealand government, when coal prices were boosted, had bought coal lands and brought the price down by competition, which was fair to the private coal producers and gave the state a fair profit in the sale of coal.

I think it has been common human experience, said Sir Joseph at another point in his speech, that in the evolution from the primitive to the city it is not feasible to make the leopard change his spots.

It is true that with the government frequently steps close upon the heels of the individual. But even men in our midst who at one time were strongly opposed to our form of government have found that, as a result of these safeguards, they themselves are more prosperous and the country itself undoubtedly is more prosperous because of it.

We have now only about 1,000,000 people in New Zealand. But I am sure that even though we had 20,000,000 no power on earth would make them go back on this policy, which some people living out of New Zealand have called unwise and visionary.

Sir Joseph spoke of state control of railroads as one of the means which have enabled the New Zealand cattle raiser, though further distant from the great market emporiums of the world than any other set of purveyors of the same commodity to compete in the London market with the United States, Canada and the Argentine Republic.

our treasury, he said. We consider them as being to the life of the community and its industry what the spinal marrow is to the human organism.

And—more important than this—there is no private or public rebate. The small and the big shipper are treated exactly alike. The rates are publicly gazetted. All the books are examined from time to time by a public auditor and the results proclaimed to the people.

The drift of public sentiment in this country seems to be strongly in the direction of government ownership of all public utilities, as government regulation and control is but the first step in that direction.

The session of congress that recently adjourned passed a pure food law but failed to make any appropriation to put the law into working effect, an omission that will probably delay matters until next winter, when there can be proper additional legislation on the subject.

PURE FOOD LAW AND EXPERIMENTS

The session of congress that recently adjourned passed a pure food law but failed to make any appropriation to put the law into working effect, an omission that will probably delay matters until next winter, when there can be proper additional legislation on the subject.

It is said at Washington that the new pure food law is an exact copy of the measure passed by the senate eighteen years ago and rejected by the house at that time. It is also almost an exact copy of the English food and drug law now in effect in England, with some additions well calculated to strengthen weak places in the original document.

These cold storage experiments are also being resorted to in the matter of meats. The department has had various kinds of game in storage for as much as four months and meats up to twelve months. It is claimed at Washington that there is nothing the matter with the one year old meat, but none of the employees of the department making the experiment are willing to risk eating it.

It is understood at Washington that about one year is to be the limit for meats, and possibly a shorter time for fowl and game. There are experiments being made both with drawn and undrawn game and chickens, and the result will have a very decided effect on the ultimate market for such material.

It is said at Washington that the cold storage egg is among the things that will come in for investigation. It is claimed there are some eggs now in cold storage at the Capital City that have apparently been given a life sentence, and there are allegations that some of these "lifers" have already been in for a decade.

Those who have been paying close attention to Colonel Tom Campbell's recent campaign utterances are greatly impressed with the belief that he has been studying good Bell campaign literature. In fact, there is a growing suspicion that Colonel Tom is playing Teddy Roosevelt in appropriating to himself the enemy's platform that seems to find the most favor in the eyes of the masses.

Only a few years ago it was said Texas had no coal, and all the black diamonds used in this state were imported. Today the mines at Thurber alone are shipping out over 1,600 cars of fine coal monthly and are unable to supply the demand.

There is one satisfaction already in sight in the gubernatorial campaign, and that is the fact that Colquitt and Brooks will now soon resume the work they were elected by the people to perform.

Judge George W. Armstrong has handed Colonel Tom Campbell a few choice suggestions that nicely fit in the present development of the gubernatorial campaign.

THE TEXAS PRESS

District Chairman Q. T. Moreland of Fort Worth has officially notified Judge D. M. Alexander with both Mr. Hanger and Mr. Lattimore had filed with him their withdrawal from the race for state senator in this district, thus leaving the field open to the Parker county candidate.

Yes, the Parker county man certainly ought to now win the coveted honor, as he is absolutely without opposition. And the idea that Tarrant county desires to hog the political universe is pretty thoroughly put out of business.

It is very much to Judge Bell's advantage that he is second choice in the race for governor where he is not first choice. This means that as the lowest candidate before the convention is dropped from the balloting his support will go to Judge Bell until his nomination is made unanimous—San Antonio Express.

The prospects for Judge Bell's nomination grow brighter every day, and the indications are he will be our next governor. That is the fact that hurts the politicians.

Judge Bell was for a number of years a citizen of our neighbor county, Hamilton. He served as county attorney, as district attorney, as district judge, as state senator, as congressman. He moved to Fort Worth and was engaged in the practice of law when he was asked by the governor of Texas to fill out the unexpired term of Tom Smith as attorney general, and was continued in the office two years longer by Judge Brooks.

The Bell platform appeals with telling force to the people of Texas. They know he stands for the enforcement of all our state laws and believes we have enough laws now upon the statute books. Judge Bell is a statesman and not a political bushwhacker.

Quite a change has come over the local lumber market in the last few days. Some grades have gone down in price as much as $3 and $4 per thousand feet. Lumbermen state this is simply the reaction after a busy season. The lowered prices do not seem to have much effect on the building situation, as there is practically no more building now than there was before prices took a tumble.—San Angelo Standard.

There is a reason for all things, and usually many reasons can be adduced for such radical action as is involved in the big decline in lumber. Perhaps the assistant attorney general of Texas, who recently made a trip to St. Louis in connection with lumber matters, may feel disposed to claim some credit for the reduction.

The vehemency with which the Fort Worth papers are fighting Colonel Tom Campbell shows conclusively that they think he is the man Bell has to beat—Strawn Enterprise.

It is generally conceded that the race is between Bell and Campbell, but The Telegram is not fighting Campbell on account of his strength. There is enough in his record to justify opposition, and The Telegram in its opposition to Campbell confines itself strictly to facts.

THE TELEGRAM AND THE TEXAS PRESS

RESULT OF PERSONAL SPLEEN

Legislative incompetency and no fault of Governor Lanham is responsible for the hole in the state treasury at Austin. It appears to be very difficult for some of the Texas papers to get this fact firmly established in their minds, but it is a fact that cannot be successfully controverted. It would be just as appropriate to blame Lanham for the dry weather that ruined the corn crop in south Texas.—Fort Worth Telegram.

The News believes The Telegram is correct in the main, but suggests that incompetency is to be attributable to a play at politics by a few disgruntled politicians, who found they could not run Governor Lanham's administration, and sought to bring it into disrepute and all possible discredit to vent their personal spleen. Had the legislature listened to the governor, no such conditions as now confront the state treasury would be in existence.—Denton News.

UNION LABOR FAVORS BELL

As a matter of fact it is well known that the labor leaders of Texas feel very kindly toward Judge Bell and some of them at least are giving him a cordial and unstinted support. There is nothing in Judge Bell's record that could possibly influence any member of a labor organization to fight him, and there is much that should warrant support.—Fort Worth Telegram.

FUTURE CATTLEMEN OF TEXAS

Ten years ago Colorado City was one of the greatest cattle shipping points in Texas. This year Colorado City has shipped for the entire season about 18,000 bales of cotton, and a cotton compress and cotton seed oil mill are in process of construction. Verily, the day of the cowman in the Colorado City country seems to be drawing to a very abrupt close.—Fort Worth Telegram.

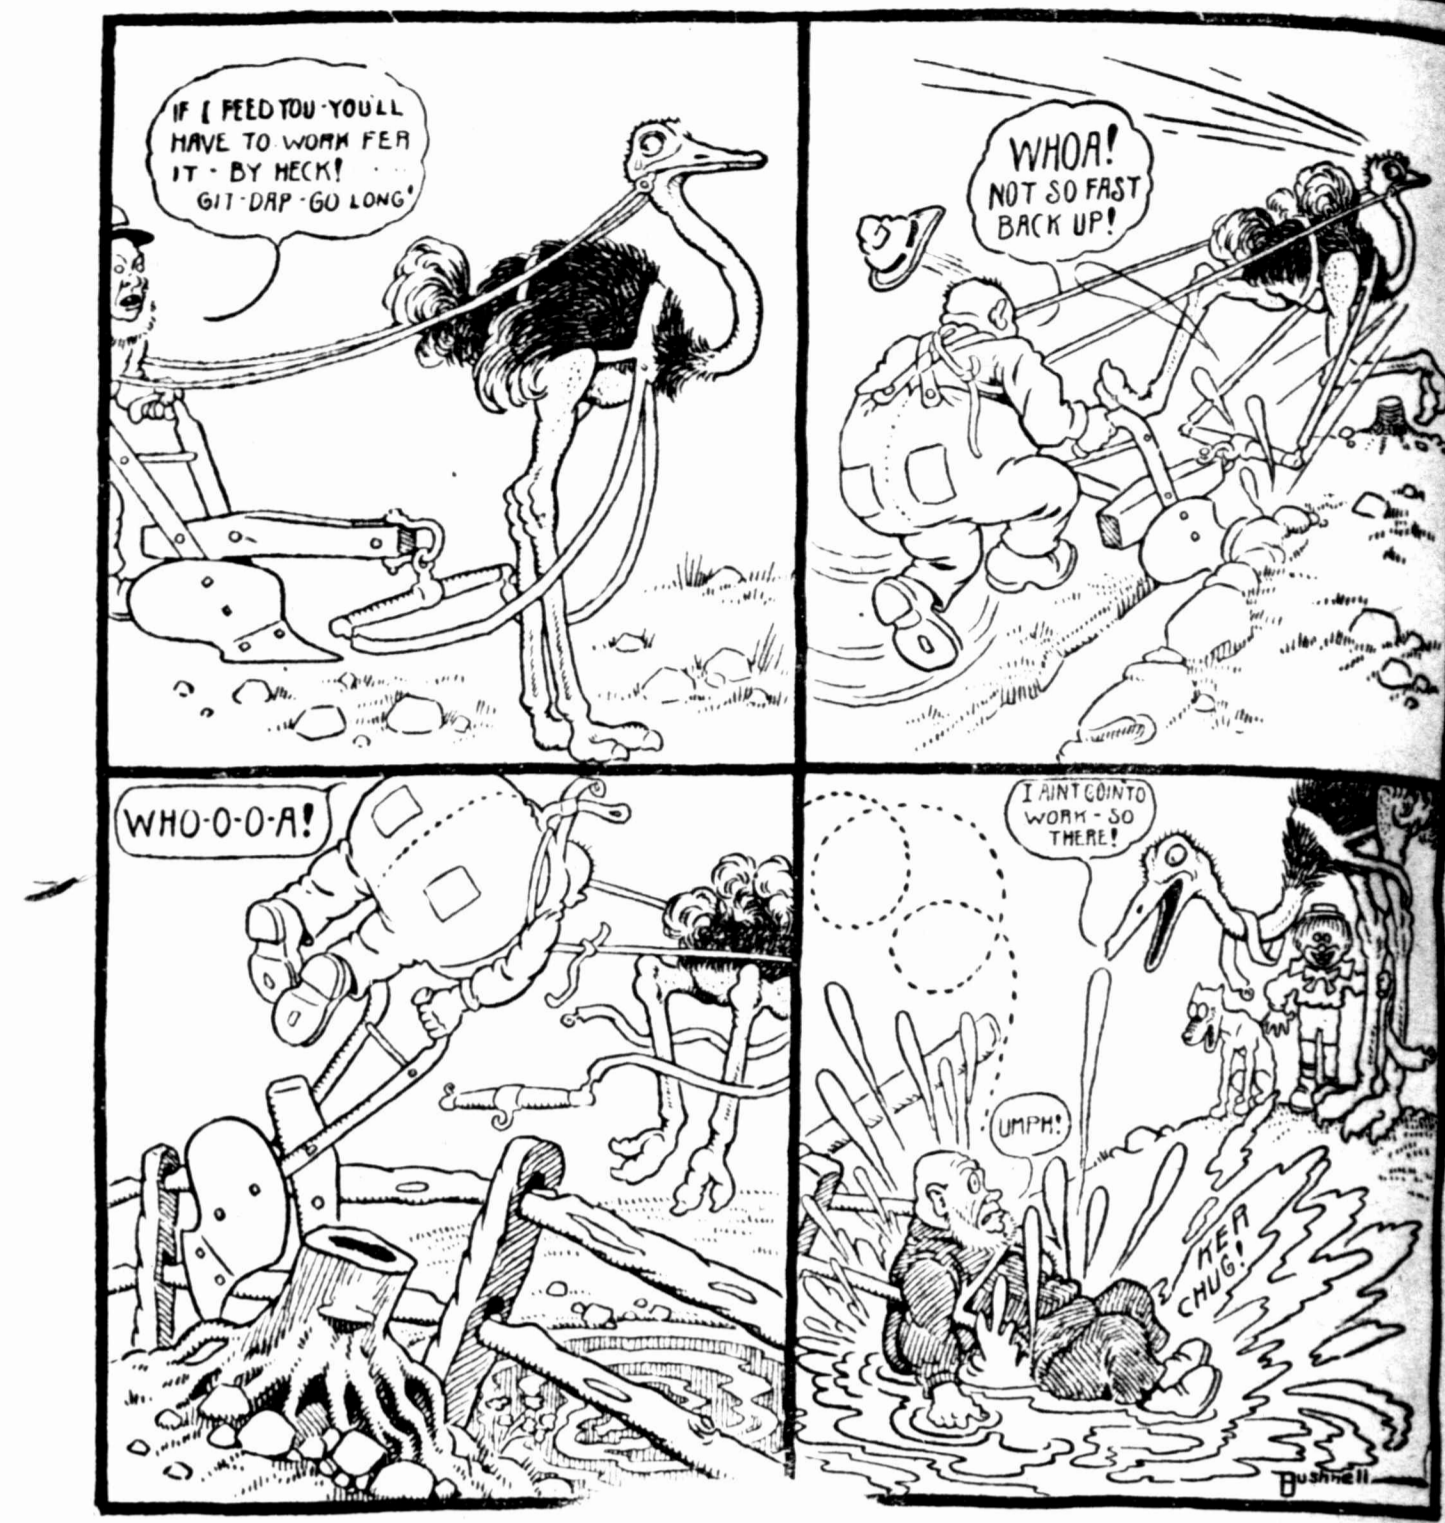

This shows that the man with the hoe is superseding the Texas longhorn. The small cattle raiser that not only raises some cattle but hogs, horses and all varieties of farm products are the future cattlemen of this great state. They will be better off and our great state will also.—Gainesville Messenger.

ALAS! NO; WE FORGOT

When Senator Bailey declared for William J. Bryan for President at Abilene the other day it settled the matter of that impending Texas indorsement. Texas democracy will speak at the Dallas convention in no uncertain tones.—Fort Worth Telegram.

Also the lack of money is the root of much evil. Ever see an officeholder who had a retiring disposition?

OOLOO, OLIVER'S OSTRICH

DRIFT OF POLITICS

Tom Campbell has never held an office and consequently has nothing to offer but his word, which is presumably good. If chosen governor he will be the first man to reach that exalted station without some previous training.—Waco Times-Herald.

COLQUITT ALONE RESPONSIBLE

If the people of Texas have lost confidence in its railroad commission Colonel Colquitt is alone responsible for the change in sentiment. Mayfield has endeavored to use his position for political advantage, but it remained for Colquitt to attempt to convert the commission into a political machine through which to promulgate his demagoguery.—Beaumont Journal.

BELL STANDS STAINLESS

There is one thing sure—if Judge Bell is elected governor, we will have a chief executive against whom there is not the least whisper of insinuation. The papers are condemning Brooks and Colquitt for taking money from the state when they are not earning it, some object to Campbell because he has long been identified with the railroads, but Bell alone stands stainless with a long record of valuable service as a judge, a congressman, a state senator and as attorney general.—Gainesville Messenger.

WILL LOSE KAUFMAN

Local option friends of Candidate Colquitt in Kaufman county are endeavoring to create the impression that the shifty politician is not so radical in his anti-prohibition views as he would have the German citizens of certain sections in the state believe. Kaufman is Colquitt's home county. A large majority of its citizens are sturdy Americans, the foreign element being very small. It is for prohibition and there are indications that Colquitt's home will repudiate him as a candidate for governor.—Beaumont Journal.

A GOVERNOR NEEDS HELP

The governor of Texas, be he Bell, Brooks, Campbell, Colquitt or any other, cannot make the laws for the people, and at best he has only the power of compelling the legislature to pass any law by a two-thirds vote. It is to the legislature that the people must look for their laws, and the legislators must be intelligent men or there cannot be an intelligent legislature. The conclusion is obvious. Elect intelligent men to serve in the Texas legislature.—San Antonio Light.

That is the whole situation in a nut shell. Without a legislature behind him that is in sympathy and working with him a governor is very badly handicapped. Texas has greater need of intelligent men of ability in the legislature now than she has ever had.—Denton Herald.

HE BACK-PEDALED

Hon. O. B. Colquitt has found a statement back-peddaling the report of his speech in this city on Saturday afternoon, in which he is made to say that he could do more work in an hour than his associates could in a week. The writer heard Mr. Colquitt's speech, and does not claim that he is seeking to evade the truth in his denial. He spoke extemporaneously, while the reporter who took down his speech gave his remarks as he uttered them. The expression was used in connection with his associates, and everyone who heard him understood that when he said he could do more work in an hour than "some people" could in a week he meant no other persons than his associates on the railroad commission, and especially so, since he had in the same connection complained of not having associates on the commission who would "back" him up. The point is immaterial, but newspaper reports of Mr. Colquitt's speech are much fairer to him than his speech as delivered was itself.—Beville Bee.

JUST THE SAME

Even if John D. Rockefeller has not been active in the affairs of the Standard Oil company for twelve years, he has the satisfaction of knowing they have been managed just exactly the same as if he had been in direct control.—Cleveland Leader.

HORSE-HAT HUMANITY

Provision is being made for the wearing of an unusually large number of hats by horses in Boston this summer. It isn't probable that a hat relieves a horse much on a hot day, but it shows a humane disposition on the part of the driver.—Hartford Times.

VERDICT THAT RING

WHERE IS HE? The man who thinks the bygone days were the best is with us yet, And, practicing old-fashioned ways, And still inclined to fret, He speaks of ills we have to bear As things unknown before; But where's the man who used to wear The bristly pompadour?

The man with whiskers on his chin, Cut a la William Goat, Is with us still, to lose or win, To sink or proudly float. His collar button nestles there, Well hidden, as of yore; But where's the man who used to wear The bristly pompadour?

The man who sits around and sighs, Referring to the past, And boasting of his mother's pies, To life is clinging fast. He never will disappear and ne'er Find out that he's a bore; But where's the man who used to wear The bristly pompadour?

The father who reminds his boys That in his boyhood days He had to seek his meager joys In hard and righteous ways Is here, as they are who declare That knighthood is no more; But where's the man who used to wear The bristly pompadour? —Chicago Record-Herald.

UNANSWERABLE

"Billy" Crane, the actor, tells of a player addicted to Shakespearean productions, who greatly prided himself on his accurate knowledge of the costumes and furnishings needed for "Hamlet." Indeed, on one occasion he brought out that play with many erudite variations from the usual customs. For one thing he dressed Hamlet in a red cloak.

"Why a red cloak?" he was asked. "Because red was the mourning color of the royal house of Denmark," explained the learned player. "Then," suggested the friend who had put the question, "how do you get over the passage in play reading: 'Tis not alone my inky cloak, good mother'?"

The Shakespearean was equal to the emergency. "Don't you suppose," he asked, with a sneer, "that they had red ink in Shakespeare's time?"

VAIN HOPES

The principal, in questioning the boys of the lower classes of a school, asked them many questions as to citizenship. At last she came to an all-important question: "Now," she said, slowly, "as every boy has ambition, I would like to know how many boys in the room would like to be President of the United States?"

Every boy, save one, raised his hand. The teacher looked in a surprised manner at the little fellow whose hand remained in his lap. "Why, Bob," she exclaimed, "haven't you any desire to become President of this great country?" "I'd like to, all right," replied Bob, mournfully, "but I ain't no use. I'm a democrat."

DOUBTS

There was a ducky in southern Tennessee named Eph Friday, who died a short time ago. Eph was neither a member of a church nor of a lodge, and thus had no one to deliver an address or a prayer at his burial. At last an old uncle consented to say a few remarks for the departed soul. As the coffin was being lowered into the grave the old uncle said to the assembled mourners: "Eph Friday, we trusts you hab gone to de place whar we specs you ain't!"

JUSTIFICATION

Good servants are becoming so difficult to obtain that we really cannot blame the American lady who disinherited her son because he married her Punch.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Market More Active, But Transactions Not Bore Active to Values—Bears Attack Granger Roads

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, July 12.—The selling movement which was in progress at the close of the stock market yesterday, was renewed at the opening today and continued with but little interruption throughout the early session.

Unfavorable news regarding the wheat crop and the strong tone of the market for that cereal caused some alarm among holders of granger stocks and furnished the impetus for the short selling.

Although all in issue participated in a reactionary movement around mid-day and a substantial recovery from the early low prices was effected, bears were not vanquished and soon diverted their energies toward a soon diversified their holdings.

NEW YORK COTTON

Bull Crowd Still Working Crop Scare. Shorts Are Timid and Help Upward Movement

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, July 12.—The cotton market again displayed a good undertone with a light volume of trade.

The foreign news was of a disappointing character, and first sales on the local market were made at prices 3 to 4 points below yesterday's final figures.

Spot cotton market ruled quiet, but prices advanced 10 points to 19.50 for middling. Sales, 900 bales.

Table with columns: Open, High, Low, Close and rows for various cotton grades.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Wheat Prices Higher—Reports of Crop Damage in Northwest Send Shorts to Cover

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., July 12.—More reports of black rust in the wheat fields of the northwest enabled bulls on the local market to increase their gains attained yesterday.

The market was only moderately active, but had a firm tone at all times.

Opening prices were practically unchanged and a good volume of short covering followed the call, starting prices upward.

Corn traders were rather apathetic today, but the near delivery held steady until late in the session, when prices eased off under selling pressure.

Provision traders realized their profits on the advance of the past few days and as the market was not well supported, prices slumped, closing figures showing a loss of 15c for pork and 5c for lard and ribs.

Table with columns: Open, High, Low, Close and rows for various grain types.

CATTLE AND HOGS

Cattle receipts, including calves, were moderate today, totaling 2,500 head.

Beef cattle were in good proportion to the whole run and among them were several loads of choice culls.

The demand for good to choice hogs was strong, and the market responded to the strength, giving an active movement at firm prices.

Butcher stock receipts were moderate today, totaling 2,500 head.

Not more than half a dozen straight loads of choice butchery stuff came to market, and very few mixed loads were noted.

The supply was eked out by several bunches of driven-in stuff. Demand for cows was strong and the market was fully steady on the small supply.

Table with columns: No. Ave. Price, No. Ave. Price and rows for various livestock types.

The North Fort Worth Catholic church women are meeting with success each night at the "Country Fair," held by them every night through this week in the church lawn.

A. L. Capps and wife and L. G.
Pritchard of North Fort Worth, accompanying to Mineral Wells Wednesday. Mrs. Pritchard has been at Mineral Wells for the last few days.

The "Miss" will meet Thursday afternoon with Miss Freda Hopkins, 400 West Fifteenth street, North Fort Worth. Miss Hopkins is the dean of the cooking department and a special program for this line of the club's study has been arranged for Thursday.

A very enthusiastic audience heard the county candidates debate their claims to the majority vote of North Fort Worth July 28. The large audience of the school building was packed with persons from all the surrounding country early in the evening, though the speaking was not started until 8 o'clock. Especial interest was displayed in the race for county attorney, though many other candidates received hearty applause.

J. H. Poulter has now nearly finished work on the house being built for Mr.
Galka of the Rosen Heights drug store in South Market avenue.

Rosen Heights was well represented at the speaking by the county candidate in the North Fort Worth school house Wednesday night. Many went out early in the evening and stayed until the last car to return.

Charles Jack, one of Rosen Heights' building contractors, will start work
Friday on a new residence for himself and family in Chestnut avenue, Rosen Heights. The house will be a seven-room frame, with all modern conveniences.

Official announcement was received Thursday to the effect that C. D.
Shaw has resigned as superintendent of the Fort Worth and Rosen Heights Street Railway Company. Though
Mr. Shaw's communication was received by the company last Friday, it was not made public at that time. Jeff Mitchell has also resigned as car inspector, being succeeded by L. W.
McGill of Rosen Heights. Mr. Mitchell returns to the service as a motorman.

WIDOWERS FORM
SECRET SOCIETY
Men of Temple Deserted by Wives Unite Sympathies
Special to The Telegram.
TEMPLE, Texas, July 12.—A unique organization has been perfected here composed of well known business men and styled the "Widowers' Club," those eligible being men whose wives are away to spend the summer. The club has thirty-five members, all sworn to secrecy. Nearly every business man in Temple whose wife is absent is a member. Nightly meetings are held which are attended by nearly every member. A principal article of faith that members must subscribe to is his assertion of the belief that a man should be free to enjoy himself in his own way during the absence of his wife.

TWO MEN SCALDED
Thrashing Machine Goes Through
Bridge and Completely Wrecked
Special to The Telegram.
WEATHERFORD, Texas, July 12.—
A message has been received here stating that a thrashing engine belonging to William Ardeman, had fallen through the bridge over Sanchez creek, fifteen miles south of Weatherford. It is reported that two men were scalded and otherwise injured, but no particulars can be learned. The engine is said to have been almost completely wrecked and the bridge is badly danged.

MEN'S CLOTHING AT A SACRIFICE

The popular Clothing Sale is still drawing the men who are inclined to save. There has never been a sale of Men's Suits who continued popular for so long a period. However, it's not strange, when we say, no odd lots of last season's styles, no shoddy nor ill-shaped garments, but all this season's stock.

At a Fourth Off

It's not strange—it's natural—it's common sense, that men should come here for their summer clothing. Two and three-piece Suits, double and single-breasted, half and quarter lined; also new autumn styles, medium weight, full lines. These have just arrived, and go in the sale. Gray plaid, checks and mixtures, all that's new. Also

Blue and Black Serge Suits

There isn't another store showing so many. There isn't another store offering Serge Suits at a cut price.

There is one "Store Ahead," one Fort Worth's best store, one really great summer sale—that's ours.
