Large Number of Culprits Escape Authorities-Plan Defense of Homes

Special to The Telegram. ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 25.—The people in and around Atlanta are becomthe last few days. The climax was reached this week when a negro attacked two white women a few miles from Atlanta, tearing one's eve completely out, injuring her so that she will likely die. Her companion, a visitor from London, England, also was so seriously injured that there are grave fears for her condition.

Since then those negrose who act suspiciously have been arrested and jailed, several of them answering in a general way the description given of the black brute who committed the horror mentioned above. Up to this ime the fiend has not been identified.

May Organize Klu Klux Klan The white people are becoming greatly chagrined at the failure to apprehend the culprits and through the country and suburb districts are arming themselves in what they declare is a necessary defense of their homes. Even the renewal of the old "Ku Klux Klan" has been talked of and it is entirely probable that if the assaults continue this organizaton will again come into active existence.

Mayfield Says Commission Is Powerless to Act

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Aug. 25.—Commissioner Mayfield this afternoon addressed a letter to O. C. Pfluger & Bro. of Pflugerville, Travis county, in reply to a complaint by that firm of the failure and refusal of the International & Great Northern railroal to furnish cars at Rockdale for transportation of lignite from that station to Pflugerville, a station on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway.

Mr. Mayfield calls attention to the severe penalties imposed against the railroads for such failure, but deprecates the fact that by recent decision of the court of civil appeals of the Third district it cannot compel a railroad to furnish cars to go to points beyond the rails of the road on which the shipment originated,

Must Abide By Decision

Continuing Mr. Mayfield says: "It is useless, perhaps, to say that the railroad commission does not for one moment believe such a decision is a correct interpretation of the law, but until it is set aside of course we must yield to it. Anyone acquainted with the practice of the handling of commercem ust see at a glance that such a practice, if carried out by the railroads, would stifle almost every line of

Mr. Mayfield also declared: "The railroad commission will take steps to ascertain in the proper way from the supreme court of this state whether or not the statutes are invalid and our shippers left in this helpless condition, Meanwhile it will take some time before that can be determined."

Special to The Telcoram. AUSTIN, Aug. 25 .- Reports from government experts on the cotton districts of the South today confirm the reports that the yield this season will be close to 13,000,000 bales, that which the experts do not report on however, but which is a fact, nevertheless, and a most serious problem confronting the cotton growers of Texas and the South is the matter of labor. There is not today enough hands in the cotton districts of the South to handle the crop. This fact has been made apparent only in the past week in consequence of the opening of the cotton crop for picking. Saw Mills Seek Laborers

It is now an issue however and one that is apt to prove serious before then end. There is no questioning the fact but what nature will do her part this year, but it is a serious proposition as to whether or not the growers will be able to harvest their product. The sawmills of Texas and Louisiana are today running twenty-four hours a day, using every negro they can lay their hands on, and still they are short of

Wages at Top Notch

The railroads are building new trackage in every section and are loudly clamoring for negroes. Both industries are paying top notches in the matter of wages. Towns are now depleted by the exodus of the negro element to the cotton patch, and still the demand forr pickers evidence no let up. Labor will be largely responsible for crop conditions in the summing up of harvest time in the South this year,

Remembers Assistance Given California by Other Nations Last Spring

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Aug. 25 .- President Roosevelt today in Oyster Bay issued a proclamation appealing for aid for earthquake stricken Chili. The proclamation was issued after a consultation with Acting Secretary of State Bacon and read as follows: Proclamation.

A dreadful calamity has befallen our sister republic of Chili in the destruction by earthquake of Valparaiso and other localities. We of this nation at this moment see the city of San Francisco struggling upward from the ruins in which a like catastrophe overwhelmed her last spring. We keep keenly in mind the thankfui appreciation we felt for the way the people of Europe and both Americas came forward with generous offers of assistance. In this time of woe of our sister republic I ask that our people, out of their abundance, now strive to do to another as others last spring did to us. The National Red Cross Association has already taken measures to collect any subscriptions that may be offered for this purpose and I trust that there will be a generous response. (Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

FIFTY KILLED OR WOUNDED BOMB HURLED AT PREMIER

Anarchists Attempt to Take Stolypin's Life, Causing Death and Destruction

DAUGHTER'S FEET BLOWN OFF

Home Is Wrecked, Looking as if Struck by an Earthquake. Women Mutilated by Force of Explosion-Czar Is Greatly Affected by the News

Special to The Telegram.

T. PETERSPURG, Aug. 25 .- A bomb which was exploded this afternoon by revolutionists in the great reception rooms of the Vella, occupied by C. Stolypin, the Russian premier, killed or wounded fifty persons and threw the czar's capital into a state of panic. Premier Stolypin was injured, but his son was killed and his daughter had both feet blown off. It is probable that she will die. The boy was only 3

Among the persons who were killed were General Zamatin, director of communications during the Japanese war, and Colonel Stein, chief of police at the Tauride palace, where the houses of parliament held their sessions. Three Assassins Killed

A number of persons prominent in the political and social life of St. Petersburg were also among the victims. Three of the men implicated inthe plot are believed to be dead, being killed at the time of the explosion, while two of their number escaped.

At the time of the explosion the reception rooms were crowded. Five men had driven up in a two-horse carriage and the police who were on guard seemed to have paid but little attention to them. They scrutinized them casually, as they did the other guests and asked them the usual questions and were answered satisfactorily and the men passed in through the front door of the Vella, near which the reception rooms are situated.

Almost immediately afterward the explosion occurred. It has been tearned by the police after a hurried investigation that the bomb had been carwhether it was thrown or dropped acto tell. The authorities incline to the latter theory, as it is believed that the explosion was premature.

Premier Injured. Stolypin had just come into the room from his private apartments and walk. ing to a window in the rear, was engaged in conversation with a friend. The window by which he stood was blown out entirely, and the glass was shattered into a million fragments, but neither the premier nor his companion were injured. The premier was knocked down and when he struggled to his feet a horrifying spectacle met

Rumors Conflicting Immediately after the explosion this afternoon a rumor was circulated that it was due to the setting of of a mine in the basement of the villa, but investigation proved this to be untrue. Another story was circulated to the effect that the bomb was hurled by a man who stood in the main stairway. opposite to the door of the big reception room, but this, too, is now known to be untrue. The probability is that the conspirators carried the bomb into the room, as already indicated, and had intended to throw it so as to make sure of the death of the premier, but in their hurry it slipped from their hands and falling, went off unexpectedly. No Clue Discovered None of the guests could give the slightest clue as to the nature of the affair. The rooms were crowded at the time and no one seems to have paid any particular attention to the strangers. It all happened so suddenly and the shock was so great that no one realized the real state of affairs until several minutes after the destruction had been wrought. *May Depose Police It is probable that some of the St. Petersburg police office officials will be deposed for their laxity in not observing greater precautions, in view of the unsettled state of affairs in the empire. In this event is shown the thorough organization of the revolutionists, who are working day and night almost within the shadow of the palace in Peterhoff. Looked for Attempt on Life M. Stolypin has believed for some time that he was marked for slaughter by the reds, but he has gone about his work without any thought for his own peril. He told a friend recently that he had no doubt that an attempt would be made upon his life, but that he trusted to his usual good fortune to carry him through the danger un-Women Mutilated

The furniture had been ripped and torn as if by a cyclone, and burning fragments of carpets and draperies were strewn about the room. The ceiling and floor had been wrenched from their places and scattered through the apartments. The chandeliers were wrenched and twisted as if by an earthquake shock. Everywhere there was death and destruction. Exquisitely dressed women, their features muilated and their garments torn to atoms, were scattered here and there dead or dying, while others ran shrieking about the villa calling for assistance. One woman had been blown through the door into the hallway and lay near the great front door, her features distorted, and her life torn out by the shock of the explosion

Premier Summons Help As soon as he could recover his selfpossession, the premier gave orders to the police to send for aid to do whatever possible for the injured. were hastily summoned and immediately upon their arrival the house was surrounded.

Hunt for Perpetrators

A hunt was instituted for the perpetrators of the outrage, but no trace of them could be found. Among the dead were three strangers who were not recognized by any of those in authority and who are believed to have nad a hand in the plot. Two men who hurriedly left immediately after the explosion are supposed to have been their accomplices. No clue to their identity has been unearthed.

M. Stolypin refuses to make any * statement for publication concerning die.

the outrage, but late this afternoon he sent the following message to the czar: "I am intact."

It is said that the czar is terribly affected by the attempt on the life of his chief officer and it is expected that he will redouble the severity of the policy of repression which was inaugue rated after the mutinies in Cronstade and other places.

Light on Tragedy

A police offiical was found tonight who gave the first real clue to the possible identity of the bomb throwers. He says that he was standing a short distance from the main entrance to the villa when he saw a carriage drive up in which were seated three men. They were chatting and laughing in a way to attract attention. He noticed when they stepped from the carriage that one of them was dressed in the uniform of an officer of the gendarmes, while the other two were clad as civil-They were frock coats and silk hats and there was nothing about them to extract special attention except that one of them carried an object in his hand, which, as he remembered it, resembled an ordinary sized vase. They stopped at the top of the steps leading to the door and spoke to the policeman on guard without any apparent show of nervousness. A moment later they disappeared through doorway and the explosion followed alnost immediately afterward. Mile, Restypin Dies Mile, Stotypin died of her infusies this evening. It has also been learned that Davidoff, the court chamberfalls and Ehovosoff, former governor of Penza, are among the dead. Twenty others were killed. The list of injured will probably total fifty. Villa Badly Damaged An exemination of the villa tonight shows that it was more greatly damaged by the explosion than at first reported. Two of the walls collapsed and the front of the building was partially blown out. The carriage in which the revolutionists are supposed to have driven to the reception lies in the roadway in front of the house, twisted and torn out of shape. Near it were found dead the driver, two policemen

SAME OLD STORY

Man's Perfidy and Woman's Weakness Have Natural Results.

The girl stated that she had been induced to leave her home in New Orleans by a man who, so she said, was at one time a gambler in Fort Worth, and who, after winning her devotion, left her in Dallas without a wedding ring. terday, slept but little and had spent her last penny. The unfortunate woman asked that her deserter and lifewrecker be not arrested; she had not a word of censure for him. The fault. she said, had been all her own. All she wanted was protection and if possible money enough to return to the city from whence she came.

Money was provided the poor girl in order that she might be made comfortable until Monday, when she will be given transportation back to New Orleans.

A Pleasure Party Broken Up by Refractory Machine.

A heavy automobile carrying three men and three women cut high finks in lower Main street shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday evening and furnished much amusement for pedestrians. The big machine was trundling along the street at a fairly good rate of speed when all of a sudden it came to a dead stop. BABY SAID "GOO GOO" Buggy Was Overturned But Infant

A baby buggy containing an 18months-old infant was overturned last evening in Main street between Seventh and Eighth streets in the rush of the Saturday night crowds, and it was only by a miracle that the little one escaped death.

The father and mother of the infant stepped into a drug store and left the buggy and the baby on the sidewalk. Hardly had they entered the store before there was a congestion of pedestrians and the buggy was turned completely over, the baby striking the pavement with great force. On being picked up the baby said "goo, goo," and the father and mother were relieved beyond expression.

OPENING OF THE CITY SCHOOLS

One More Week Holiday Then to Books

INCREASED ATTENDANCE

All Institutions, Public and Private, Are Ready for Work of the Coming Term-Changes

One more week of trouble and worry for the busy housewife, then she may have nine months in which to recuperate from the strain of three months of vexations with the ever-present and mischievous small boy.

The public and private schools of the city open a week from Tuesday and from that time on all the mothers will have to do will be to scrub his face and hands, smooth his hair and give his clothes a twitch here and there and send him off to the school house where the teacher, who has only about fifty others just like him to look after, can take care of him for the remainder of the day.

There will be rejoicing in many places when the bells call the children into the buildings on that first morning. No doubt the fishes in the ponds and streams about Fort Worth are already planning a jollification in honor of the approaching end of their trials. Even the turtles and frogs will greet the day with sighs of relief. The birds that have been the targets for numberless nigger-shooters, will once more breathe the breath of freedom and warble a song of praise to the school board that orders the opening of the schools. Motormen, who have been vexed to the point of distraction by small boys who have had nothing etter to do these summer days than steal rides on the street cars, will hail the opening day with joy. How the children will accept their fate is another matter. Some will be glad to see the doors swing open again. Others, and probably the majority, will wish there were no schools and in order to show their disapproval of the educational system, many will proceed to make life miserable for the teachers. But after the first week or two all will have quieted down and the days will come and go with the regular routine of school life as if there had been no

The date of opening was changed from September 3 to September 4 on account of the Labor day celebration on September 3. It will be necessary schools because the buildings are not in shape and the teaching positions are not all filled.

Heavy Enrollment Expected

According to present indications and the plans of the school authorities of Fort Worth the enrollment of children in the city's schools this year will be greater than ever before. Last year there was a total enrollment of approximately 6,200 pupils in all grades vtih an average daily attendance of about 5,500. It is estimated that the total enrollment for the year about to open will teach 7,000 and the schools have been enlarged accordingly. The school census shows over 7,200 children of school age in the city, but there are always some who do ont attend and, on the other hand, there are some above the age limit who do attend the city schools.

Changes in Teachers.

Several changes have been made in he teaching force for the city schools. In the high school, Professor A. E. Burnett succeeds to the principalship left vacant by the election of Professor Williams, superintendent. Morgan Jones, who taught in the schools of Fort Worth several years ago, will take the place left vacant by Professor Bennett at the head of the First ward school. Professor Daffron is the new princial for the Sixth ward. Professor Archibald Belcher comes from the Houston high school to take charge of the science work in the high school. Professor Webb having gone to Polytechnic college to teach biology Professor J. J. Hill succeeds Professor Plummer as assistant in mathematics and history at the high school Some of the vacancies in the grades have been filled by the election of young women who graduated from the high school in June, 1906. Misses Virginia Frost, Eda Belle Strawn, Sibyll Jordan and Melissa Smith of this year's class will take position in the grades. Miss Dolly Gilmore, '01, has also been elected to a grade position, and Miss Mamie Welch, Polytechnic College Coincident with, or closely following, with the opening of the public schools, will be the opening of the denominational and private schools of city and suburbs. These schools will this, year bring to the city more pupils than ever before, as all of them are planning on a large attendance. Of these schools Polytechnic college will draw the largest number of students. The growth of this institution has been remarkable indeed and it now is better prepared to take care of a large number of students than any other school in the city. By the date of opening four large buildings will be completed and ready for use on the campus and the fifth one is in process of erection. The four-story conservatory which is nearly completed is a splendid addition to the equipment of the school, and in it there will be maintained an excellent school of music. The new science hall will not be ready for use until the winter term and until that time the science work will be carried on in the Main building.

Already 100 young women have engaged rooms at the girls' dormitory and practically all rooms are taken in the boys' dormitory. President Boaz and his assistants have been working tirelessly for students all summer and if present signs do not fail the enrollment this fall should be 600 or over, and the total enrollment for the year is expected to exceed 800.

Fort Worth University

Fort Worth university is in better condition to are for its students than it has ever been before. The extensive improvements which are being made on the campus will be completed in time for the opening on September 11 and the buildings will be in the best possible shape. There will be few changes in the faculty from that of last year. The outlook for a large enrollment is unusually bright. Most of the students of last year will return and many of them will bring new students along with them. New students are coming from West Texas and the territories in large numbers and there will be a number of high school graduates among them.

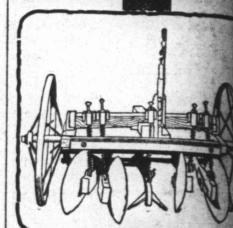

The music department will be made stronger this year than it has been for years and this department will be fool people by occasionally made a strong feature of the school, I truth,

YOUNG MAN ARRESTED Charged With Offensive Attentions to

Stenographer. E. A. Beeman was placed under arrest by Officer Lane shortly after noon

Saturday and on the police blotter there is a charge of aggravated assault entered against him. The statement told by the officer making the arrest is that Beeman was an admirer of a young woman of Fort Worth employed in a Main street office, well up toward the courthouse, as a stenographer. Saturday morning, according to the police, Beeman came to the city and waited about the entrance to the office building in which the young lady works and when she appeared on the street followed her, accosted her, and persisting in talking to her against her protests. The young woman took advantage of a pretended errand in a store, telephoned to the city hall and made complaint to the officer, who responded. Beeman, it is said, came here from Alvarado, though he had on his person the unused part of a return ticket for Temple, and $45 in money.

OLDEST PREACHER IN U.S. LIVES AT AVALON, TEXAS Knight Dry Goods Company

Rev. Angus Johnson Delivers Sermon at 97 Years

MINISTER 70 YEARS

Ordained in 1836, Has Been Active in Presbyterian Church Ever Since

ITALY, Texas, Aug. 25 .- There resides at Avalon, a small country village, six miles east of Italy, a Presbyterian minister, who is regarded as one of the most remarkable men of this day. Beneath the shelter of a typical vineclad cottage, overhung by a bower of honeysuckles, roses and other sweet-scented flowers, there lives happy, contented, a couple of old people, Rev. Angus Johnson and wife. The words "happiness and contentment" are here used in their broadest meaning, for they are enjoying the richest as a beneficiary for the ministry, and Angus Johnson, accompanies him to all of his apointments and visitations and is usually found by his side using every effort to assist him in his work. Rev. Johnson possesses such a steady nerve that he never goes to a barber shop, but shaves himself, which he does regularly every other day. He is not now addicted to the use of obacco, but used it to some extent a good many years ago. This is probably one reason that is accounted for his longevity, for he is the only member of his family who has attained to his present age. He has taken great care of himself and has never met with any accidents and but very little sickness. It seems that God had a great mission for Mr. Johnson in this life and he has spared him to do the work

Historical Sketch

Rev. Angus Johnson was born in Robinson county, North Carolina, Aug. 26, 1809. At the age of 15 years he preach His ministry and Young Johnson was received under the care of Harmony Presbytery, South Carolina,

REV. ANGUS JOHNSON.

Rev. Mr. Johnson is a remarkable character. He is almost a centenarian, 97 years old, but is still active in the ministerial work. He is well preserved, physically, and is quite active and enrgetic for a man of his age and may yet reach the century mark. Today Rev. Angus Johnson celebrates his 97th anniversary, having accepted an invitation to preach on the occasion of his birthday in one of the Presbyterian churches in Dallas. He preached his 96th anniversary sermon in the Ennis Presbyterian church last year and when he reaches the century mark his services will be greatly in demand all over the United States. At that age he has been urgently invited to fill the pulpits at two of the Presbyterian courches in Dallas and one in Fort Worth, all three of the sermons to be delivered on the same day, and has been offered $100 for each of the three

Character Well Molded On the event of his last birthday anniversary he not only preached a good sermon, but united two couples in marriage. Rev. Johnson is not a man of unusual power in the pulpit, but his greatest character lies in his deep consecration to the service of his Master. He has a well-rounded, Christian character, as pure and spotless as an innocent babe. In telling about the mercles of God, he often becomes, in private conversation, so overcome with emotion that he cannot withhold the inmost feeling of his soul-an outward praise to the Almignty.

He is a close student of the Word of God and believes in a strict observance of its teachings. His daily life is embodied in that favorite verse of Scripture which he so often quotes: "On, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness to the children of

During these 97 years Rev. Mr. Johnson has spent 71 years in active, continuous service in the Lord's vineyard, a record that has no parallel in the annals of history. He is as active now as most men are at 50 or 60 years and is actually, he says, doing more work in his ministerial labors right now than he has ever done before.

The only thing that hinders him in his work is that his eyesight has failed him, although he is able to go about, to some extent, without a guide. His blessings of both the spiritual and phy- in connection with his other duties he began his educational work.

> Enters Ministry in 1836 He went to school at Cheraw and Camden and also the military school at Rice Creek Springs at the age of 23. A year later he went to Columbia Theological Seminary and graduated in 1836. In the same year he entered actively into ministerial work, serving four appointments, Keith, Hopewell, Mt. Williams and Rockfish churches in Duplin county, North Carolina.

He organized his first church of seventeen members in the year 1844, when the city of Water Valley, Miss., which contains about 6,000 people, now stands. He had no nouse in which to worship before he organized the church and first began preaching under an oak tree in Hugh McMorrison's yard.

Afterward he organized and served ther churches in the immediate neighporhood. He has traveled overland forty to fifty miles in meeting appointments in his early days, and though ne has traveled a great deal on railroads, he prefers the dirt roads, which he now travels every Sunday in his horse and buggy. He has acted during his ministry as domestic missionary for a number of churches. He has been preaching for a period of fifty years before he came to Ellis county in 1886, where he remained with Albert Thomas near Waxahachie for nearly three years, moving to his present home at Avalon, where he has remained ever since.

Texas Connections

He soon became identified with Texas people and seeing the great need of evangelization he began at once organizing Presbyterian churches in this county. He founded Woods Chapel at Italy, Johnson and Slay. The Italy church was organized in 1890. He does not serve Italy now, but is still serving the other three, together with Mission Point at Rankin. Rev. Johnson has been pastor of about twenty-five churches, covering a period of over seventy years.

The length of time devoted to pastoral duty ranges from one month to twenty years and the territory embraced are the state of North Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Tennessee and Texas. He has been the means of persuading ten young men to enter the ministry, eight of whom were in Mississippi and two in Texas. Rev. Mr. Johnson has kept no accurate account of the number of baptisms, professions, marriages, funerals and protracted meetings in which he has officiated. If | prominent men of the early days, such he had kept a record of all these items it would certainly make a bit of interesting history.

Marries at Twenty At the age of 20 years he was happily married to Miss Mary Ann Means, by whom were born eight children. three sons and five daughters. Two of the boys died in early life and the other became a minister. Only two children survive now, Mrs. Cathrine and Mrs. Seabrook, both of whom reside in Grand Junction, Tenn. His first wife and oldest child were buried in Tennessee, three children were buried in Mississippi, one in Florida and one in North Carolina. Rev. Relative of President Johnson

Rev. Angus Johnson is a third cousin of President Andrew Johnson. Owing to the pressing needs of the spread of the Gospel and his supreme devotion to the ministry, Rev. Johnson devoted very little of his time to the study of politics and consequently he did not keep in close touch with the ex-President, but Andrew Johnson's speech in accepting the nomination for the vice presidency is vividly recalled by him. Rev. Angus Johnson in a letter to Abe Lincoln, advised him not to accept the nomination which Lincoln refused to do. Andrew Johnson performed one act while he was President that Angus Johnson recalls readily, and that was the pardoning of Jeff Davis, the president of the Southern Confederacy, from prison. Angus Johnson was personally acquainted with most of the as Walter Van Buren, U. S. Grant, Abe Lincoln, James K. Polk, and William Henry Harrison. Rev. Angus Johnson cast his first vote for Harrison for President against Van Buren. Rev. Angus has a remarkable memory and can readily recall all the principal happenings of his past life. At the age of three years he remembers distinctly the war of 1812 with Great Britain and many incidents connected therewith. Attends General Assembly

In April, 1906, Rev. Angus Johnson left here for Greenville, N. C., to attend the general assembly of the Presbody he was the oldest living member. and when he arose on the floor of the assembly to speak he was given an attentive hearing. His nephew, Dr. Josephus Johnson of Austin, was also in attendance and took a leading part in the deliberations of that body.

Rev. Angus Johnson, upon invitation, preached in the Cheraw church April 22, the identical building and place where he was duly licensed to preach April 10, 1836, seventy years having intervened between the time when he was first licensed and his second coming. As would naturally be supposed, he was a stranger, recognizing only one person, an elder woman of 73 years, who was the only surviving member of Rev. Angus Johnson's church. The town and country had changed so much that he failed to recognize his native land. Cheraw church in 1836 had only seventeen members, while today it has grown to a congregation of 175 members. While he was the first pastor of that church he is also the oldest, and while attending the assembly recognized just one preacher who was at that time and is today a member of the general body. John C. Coit. The general assembly | are completed and that fact is reported of the northern church was in session ate the same time at Ashville, N. C., and sent greetings to the southern assembly, at the same time urging Rev. Angus Johnson and wife to be their honored guests, but having accepted the invitation to deliver his 70th anniversary serman at Cheraw, he was forced to decline the honor of becoming the guest of the northern assembly. Rev. Mr. Jonnson had four sisters and seven brothers, all of whom are dead. His father and mother were naing to be 76 years old, but Rev. Johnson's grandparents came from Scotland. He sings the Scottish songs and recites Robert Burns' poems with enthusiasm. He is a great admirer of "Tam O'Shanter" and other well known verses of the Scottish poet. Rev. Mr. Johnson has been quite successful in conducting protracted meetings at his four appointments this summer and promises to be active for many years

The score was only an even one for one inning, and after that the home team took and kept the lead to the end, which resulted in a 5 to 1 score Two pitchers essayed to stem the side of Fort Worth's victory, but in Morris, who was as erratic as they make them, worked first and six hits

About the only feature to the game was the double made by Doyle in the third. Doyle was playing center, He made a long run for one from Merkel's bat, scooped it in on the dead run and without checking his pace, tossed the ball to Welch, doubling up Wilson, who was caught off second, thinking Merkel's hit would drop safe. Fisher, one-half of the Rube battery Waco has picked up, did good work behind the bat for the Navigators. In the fifth inning Waco had general swap of players' positions. Doyle went from center to first, Browning from right to center. Westervelt was sent to right. Jackson went from first to pitcher's slab. Morris went out of the game. There was a funny performance in the eighth, when Clayton and Merkel were run out. They were caught between the bags and before they were finally out everybody in the Waco infield had a hand in the outs or the

No one did any very brilliant playing for Fort Worth, though Carlin leads in that respect, even if he did make a high throw of a ball he had to handle quickly.

With the willow, Cavender for Fort Worth and Jackson for Waco were the stars, though the only long hit of the game was Jackson's two-bagger. Several of the hits were those clean hits that it is impossible for the fielders to get, the Texas leaguers. The same clubs will play a double header Sunday afternoon and the first game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp. The

and narrow path to please his friends. Nearly every fighter in the annals of the ring-and history has repeated itself continuously-has dropped by the wayside because of a fast life. In hardly any sport or game does the rapid pace do so much to tear down and undermine one's life as in the fighting game. With one or two exceptions, the men who have reached the top in pugilism have been boys who knew only hard work and hard knocks in their early life. Consequent. ly when they climb up to the top rung deviate very much from the straight | of the ladder known as worldly success their position is so dazzling and find fighters who have been whipped by "booze" or fast living. Young Corbett, Terry McGovern, Martin Duffy, John L. Sullivan and many others are included in the list.

Battling Nelson says himself that his father and his friends have preached continuously the rule of moderation in everything. Right here let me say that the Dane has been wise enough to listen to older heads. Some sporting writers claim that Nelson can't write his own name. That is a mistake and an injustice to Nelson. He writes one of the best letters I have ever seen come from a fighter. He talks on current subjects as much as the fighting game ,and were it not for his nose and his cauliflower ear the ordinary observer would not recognize in him the characteristics so evident in most fighters. I look for Nelson to remain at the top as long as any of his predecessors have ever done, and I haven't forgot that Joe Gans is living, and that Herman, Herrera, Britt and all the others claim that they can whip the Dane.

Honors Even in Double-header Game at Cleburne

Special to The Telegram. CLEBURNE, Texas, Aug. 25 .- Honors were evenly divided between the Giants and the Railroaders here this afternoon, Cleburne taking the first game and Dallas the second.

Both games were closely fought and afforded plenty of excitement. A feature of the first game was the work of Williams, Dallas' center fielder, who was credited with eight put outs. A couple of double plays enlivened the first game.

Demund Recovers Lost Fortune for Owner

Special to The Telegram. RACE TRACK, Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 25 .- Heavily backed by his young millionaire owner in an effort to back the small fortune he had cost, Paul Rainey's $45,000 "Lemon" Demund won the $12,000 United States stakes here this afternoon. Rainey took fully $25,000 out of the ring on his colt's victory, getting a price ranging from 5 to 2 to 11 to 5. Yankee Dun, which was a heavily played second choice, was never a contender, finishing in the ruck. Right at the outset the John W. Gates-John A. Drake-Charles G. Gates crowd in the clubhouse came up on a financial bloomer when they scratched Penrhyn, owned by Drake, and went to Jack Phillips, three-year-old Jack Dolan, who has been saved up these past two months for a "killing." Phillips got the millionaire plungers to put down a chunk of money on Dolan.

Huon at 6 to 5 and Go Between at 1 to 5. Suddenly the rumor went around that Sir Huon had gone lame and then his price soared around 4 to 1. He ran a remarkable race for a lame horse. DALLAS WINS AT GOLD (Boland), 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:40.

Ed K. Collett Only Winning Fort Worth Player The golf enthusiasts of the Fort Worth Golf Club met their Waterloo Saturday afternoon in the match with the players of the Dallas Golf Club at the links of the local club at Arlington Heights. Eight of the best players of each club took part in the match, which was for eighteen holes. The best the local players could do was to win one match and tie two others. Ed K. Collett was the fortunate one of the Fort Worth men. He defeated H. B. Mc-

Connell of Dallas, one up. I. H. Burney

and W. G. Newby each tied their con-estants.

The Dallas players arrived on the 2 clock car in the afternoon and were met at Ninth street by members of the Fort Worth Club and taken at once to the links. They were accompanied by ladies and after the matches were completed all were the guests of the local club at a dinner at the Country Club. This is the third time the Dallas golfers have defeated the Fort Worth men. Last year they won both contests. Another contest will be played at Dallas this fall and the Fort Worth players will no doubt spend all their extra hours in practicing for this event in hope of retrieving lost honors. Saturday's match resulted as follows: Ed K. Collett, Fort Worth, defeated H. B. McDonnell, Dallas, one up; J. L. Puterbaugh, Dallas, tied with I. H. Burney, Fort Worth; F. F. Sliney, Dallas, defeated J. D. Collett, Fort Worth, three up; F. J. Baker, Dallas, defeated Morris Berney, Fort Worth, ten up; Cory Munger, Dallas, defeated Harry Wynne, Fort Worth, four up; A. G. SCHOOLS IN LEAD

Despite Fact Buildings Were Closed, Their Supply Ran Into the Millions

Superintendent H. L. Calhoun of the city water works department has submitted to Mayor Harris a report of the water pumped by the Fort Worth plant and that registered by the meters during the month of July just past, and in this statement may be found many interesting facts. The indicators on the pumps show that the water pumped for the month was 59,-639,950 gallons and of this amount 39 -279 385 gallons were registered as passing through the meters to customers. It would be interesting to know where all the remaining millions of gallons of water went. Some striking contrasts in the amounts of water used are shown in Mr. Calhoun's report. For instance, but 75 gallons of water are charged against the Seventh ward school building, while the meter the Fourth ward building registered 6,169,270 gallons. There has been no school in session during July at any of the buildings, yet nearly all of them show a large amount of water consumed. The Third ward colored school is charged with 345,450 and the Ninth ward colored with 375,000 gallons respectively. This seems an anomalous condition, as the Third ward buildings are being moved from their old site to a site several blocks east to make room for the improvements of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad, and the building was in the hands of carpenters during part of the Since the city water free to its school buildings, it can be easily seen that there was a source of considerable loss at these buildings. The fire halls, where teams are kept and water is used freely in washing the wagons, floors, etc., the meters show that the consumption was but a mere fraction of that of the schools. Hall No. 2 used the most water, its two meters recording 86,-

850 gallons. Of the other halls No. 1 used 19,950, while the remaining ones used much At the city hall there are two Parker Co. meters and these measured during July 471,175 gallons of water. This Tarrant Co... 8,344 does not include the water used to wash out the city prison, as that is taken direct from the hydrants on Throckmorton street. The caretaker of Hyde park, opposite the library, used 19,575 gallons to sprinkle the grass on the little plot under his supervision, while the extensive flower beds at the city park and the lawns there received but 47,100 gallons during the same period. Schools Heavy Users It is noteworthy that the Third, Sixth and Ninth ward, schools are charged with more water for July than was used in all the drinking fountains in the city, the Carnegie library, benevolent home, Cumberland Presbyterian home and the Woman's home. Of the churches the Tabernacle Christian used 26,925 gallons of water. while the First Baptist used but 4,425 gallons, and St. Paul's Methodist but 375 gallons. One church, the South Side Christian church, used but 75 gallons according to the report. At the Mt. Gilead Baptist church the meter showed 15,750 gallons consumed, which would have been sufficient to fill a baptismal tank several times. The railway companies are heavy consumers of the city's water, those which use it for their locomotives being the largest purchasers. The Rock Island used 1,599,149 gallons at the round house, 24,010 at the freight depot and 35,006 at the city offices. This company is the best customer among the railroads. The Santa Fe used 288,-900 gallons at the Union depot and almost as much for its coaches. At the round house of this company 984,742 gallons were recorded. The Missouri. Kansas & Texas used 1,376,993 gallons at its round house. The Texas & Pacific company has its own water supply for most purposes, using the city water only at the city office, stock pens and interlocking plant.

At Federal Building

Uncle Sam's employes believe in using plenty of water. During July the government building is charged with having used 232,254 gallons while the country court house and county jail combined used but 171,750 gal-

The list of consumers along Main and other business streets show that in nearly all cases the consumers used much more than the 3,000 gallons allowed each customer without extra charge. Some of the records appear hard to understand, as for example, the consumption by the three large downtown hotels. The Delaware is charged with 283,800 gallons, while the Metropolitan is shown by the report to have used but 182,850 gallons, and the Worth hotel is charged with 179,475 callons. The restaurants are large users of the city water also, the larger ones using 50,000 or more gallons as a

Congressional Delegates Finish Work Quickly

The Twelfth congressional convention met here Saturday afternoon and officially declared O. W. Gillespie of Tarrant county the Democratic nominee for congress.

The session lasted only about twenty minutes. Four delegates were present in person, the others being represented by proxies. The convention organized in the county courtroom at 1 o'clock with R. B. Hood of Weatherford, Johnson county, as chairman, and J. R. Eanes of Comanche. The other delegates present were Robert Carlock of Tarrant county and H. C. Shropshire, representing Weatherford.

Candidates before the convention were O. M. Gillespie, J. W. Swayne and T. J. Powell, all of Tarrant county. Chairman Hood ann cial returns of the primary from Hood, Somerville, Johnson, Erath, Parker, Comanche and Tarrant, comprising the Twelfth district. The primaries gave Gillespie a total of 12,184; Swayne, 5,203, and Powell, 4,785. The convenvote stood: Gillespie, 22,344; Swayne, 9,942; Powell, 8,714. Somerville, Johnson and Erath counties were not represented in the convention: B. Estes, representing Hood, came in just after the last ballot had be taken and the result declared. Congressman Gillespie was present His opponents were absent, but J. W. Swayne arrived just after the convention had adjourned sine die. After the result of the primary had been announced Chairman Hood took the floor and made a motion that Gillespie be declared the nominee. H. C. Shropshire of Weatherford said he was not thoroughly familiar with the requirements of the Terrell election law, but he deemed it best to proceed to a ballot, that the election might fulfill all possible requirements

The convention therefore proceeded to take the first ballot, which result-proceeded with. All the Powell votes went to Gillespie on the second roll call, which gave Gillespie 19,421 and Swayne 5,579. Gillespie was declared the nominee The convention heard no speeches and adopted no resolutions. At 1:20 it adjourned sine die, after having been in session exactly twenty minutes. For the rapid transaction of business and for the dispatch with which its proceedings were conducted, it probably stands as a record breaker. VETERANS' CAMP TO BREAK RECORD

Biggest Attendance in History Is Expected

Everything is now ready for the annual encampment of Confederate veterans at Confederate Park, eleven miles northwest from the city, and the indications are that the gathering of old soldiers and theirf riends this year will be the largest since the camp grounds were established.

There is going to be a big time at the ten days' reunion and already there is on the grounds the merry-go-round man, the man with red balloons, the wienerwurst man and the man with a monkey and organ, and all the other attachments necessary to a good time, including red lemonade, a pop corn vendor is ready for the crowd. There will be good speakers every day, good music all the time and something good to eat between each act. Congressman Gillespie, Major J. J. Jarvis, without whom no camp could be a success; A. J. Basken and W. P. Lane will deliver addresses on different days; and it is whispered around that there will be dancing and that a full set will be made of old men who faced the cannon forty years ago, and old ladies whose hair is as white as the cotton in Texas fields will dance the "Old Virginia Reel."

Edward Starts Craze to Wear Blue Coat with Brass Buttons BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.

Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News & ervice.) PARIS, Aug. 25.—Under the patronage of King Edward VII of England, the blue evening coat for men, known in France as the Barbot coat, with gold buttons, is once more the fashion. say once more the fashion, for it is not so many years ago that any gentleman with the slightest pretention of style would have scorned to appear in evening dress arrayed in the black swallow-tail which is worn in the present day alike by butlers, hotel waiters, undertakers, dukes and princes. I still possess, not as a relic, but as a souvenir, the blue Barbot coat which had on in 1866 at the occasion of my marriage. This kind of coat was then the height of fashion. In those days men were better looking than they are now, their style of dressing was less slapdash and some attempt at individual distinction was made, Today all men look alike whatever their station in life. It is more than likely that King Ed-

HOUSE SERVANT FAMINE IN CITY

Girls to Fit Places Are Difficult to find A wail long and loud is going up from Fort Worth housekeepers for house servants. Never before in the history of the city were they so hard to obtain. Reliable help was never so scarce, and many women are forced to do their own housework on not being able to employ the right kind Labor agents declare that the call for house help is greater now than it has ever been and that to supply the present demand-it would take several hundred workers. The homes that have white help are in luck, and have none of the worry now being experienced by the neighbor who is forced to depend upon negro help. Of course there are many hard working negro women who are only too anxious to do all they can to hold a position when once secured, but the majority show a disposition not to work and several have been known to turn down excellent places. It appears that the average negro woman will work for a short periodjust long enough to secure necessary

It is declared by many that the only possible solution of the servant question now is to import white girls into this section for that purpose. Atlanta, Ga., experienced the same trouble that Fort Worth is undergoing now regarding house help and a club was formed of several hundred members for the purpose of encouraging white girls and women to come to that city as servants. The efforts of the organization proved most successful, over three hundred German girls beto this city at an early date. Last spring Captain Paddock communicated with the company concerning the location of a plant at this place and the officers of the company were favorable to the move. But one holder of $500 worth of stock refused to consent to the change and threatened to enjoin the officers if they attempted to move the plant. Now it appears that all this difficulty has been settled and Fort Worth is in a good way to profit once more through the efforts of her Board of Trade, and undertakers of Texas will be able to purchase coffins at lower prices be-

Marriage in French Nobility Sets Society on Tension

BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE. Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) PARIS, Aug. 25.-The Marquis Joseph de Montesquiou is about to marry the youngest daughter of the Duke de Rivoli. The two great names will be united, one belonging to the ancient royalist nobility, the other to the titled aristocracy of the first empire. Heretofore the royalist and imperialist nobility have fought shy of each other. The former accused the latter of being too new to be worthy of serious consideration, such, for instance, as an alliance. However, the nobility created by Emperor Napoleon is now more than a hundred years old, so that it cannot justly be accused of too great freshness. Another piece of society news which has created an impression as painful as the first is pleasant is the announcement of the separation of the Prince and Princess Storzzi. This rupture is looked upon as a social mis-Prince and Princess Strozzi. WHEAT MARKET OPENS TAME

Grain in Minnesota Is Badly Soaked by Rains

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Aug. *25 .- With everything favorable for spring wheat harvesting and nothing in the foreign news to suggest a probability of greater activity in the export demand, the wheat market opened very tame at a shade under the closing figures of the day before. In Northern Minnesota there were heavy rains reported in the midst of the harvest and muchh cut grain still in shock was reported badly soaked, but as that state of affairs could not be general, according to the official weather reports it did not affect the market appreciably.

Market Closes Firm It was reported near the close that the cargo of No. 2 red offered at 4c under September price in store, was accepted, and there was another cargo sold for shipment, the latter being No. hard, the price of which was reported. This, with large export clearances and a good cash business, gave the market a firmer tone, and at the close, September was 71%-1/2 against 711/4 c the day before. Little Change in Corn

Business in the corn pit was on a small scale after a few minutes of moderate activity at the start. During that time there were free offerings of September corn which could not be marketed except at about 1/2c under the closing figures of the day before. That did not affect May delivery to any marked extent, the price of which ept within a small fraction of its evious day's value. Near the close, owever, the market firmed up and losed unchanged for September and %c higher for May. Without features f any kind in the day's information oncerning oats, the inducements to do business were at a minimum. Firmness of corn near the close affected the traders and the demand becameb risker than it was early with. prices at the close about the same as resterday. Trade in the hog products id nothing to enliven an extremely dull session. Considering the somewhat sensaional rise in price of lard as the prevous chy's session was ending, the firmness of that commodity today was matter of general remark. There was scarcely any for sale. Large packers own the near deliveries. Other commodities were affected to a slight extent by the strong attitude of lard. Local run of hogs was 11,000.

BOOKINGS AT GREENWALL'S

Greenwall's opera house opens its season this year with the musical comedy, "The Rajah of Bhong," which will be followed by the "Dixie Minstrels," with John Rucker at the head. Alabama Blossom Rucker has been traveling with Black Patti several seasons Here are some of the season's new and is easily the most popular negro fun-maker who covers the southern theatrical offerings and some gossip circuit. Sept. 3, John Drew in "His House

Following are some of the rest of the season's bookings: "The Sweetest Girl in Dixie," "His Highness the Bey," a big eastern success; "Ikey and Abey," "Hoosier Girl," Billy Kersand, Cole and Johnson, two of the clevernest darky comedians on the road; Haverly's Minstrels, Murray and Mack, "A Pair of Country Kids," "A Hot Old Time," "McFadden's Flats," Black Patti," Si Holler, a new rural play, are varied enough to suit all

Tim Murphy will be with us in September in a new play. Neil Burgess himself in the ever-welcome "County Fair," "Wonderland," a massive musical spectacle, with Mary Marble, Little Chip and fifty others. The Texas boy, Macklyn Arbuckle, in "The County Chairman;" Joseph and William Jefferson in their own play; the famous New York Herald cartoon plays, "Foxy Grandpa and Happy Hooligan, and the ever-popular comedians, Murray and Mack. Corinne Francis, who created such a good impression in "When We Were Twenty-One" last season, will appear in "Violette," a Al'H, Wilson, the silver-tongued tenor, will be heard in a new play. "The Sultan of Sulu" will again charm with its tuneful music. Blanche Walsh in "The Woman in the Case" will be another welcome attraction. "Under Southern Skies," a comedy of southern life that has proven one of the best paying and most pleasing attractions for the last five years throughout the country. Nixon & Zimmreman will send us the big musical old-time but none the less welcome "In Old Kentucky," with its pickaninny band. Two recent Chicago successes. "The Umpire" and "A Royal Chef." Lew Field's comedy company in "It Happened in Nordland," which ran for over a year in New York City, "Sergeant Kitty," with charming Helen Byron in the leading role, the loveliest, most tuneful and funniest of all comic operas. "The Girl Patsy," successfully pro-been off the stage for a considerable time when he was engaged by A. M. Palmer for the part of Count de Carojac in the original production of "The Banker's Daughter." He remained in this role but a few weeks, hts voice failing again. Then he went to Australia. His wife. Julia Majeroni, starred in this country in "The Child of the State" and "The Galley Slave," under the managemnet of Bartley Campbell. She went to Australia with her husband, where they played for many years with success. The elder Majeroni died in 1891 in Sydney, Australia, and Mrs. Majeroni passed beyond in 1902 in Melbourne. Mario Majeroni made his first appearance on the stage in Adelaide, Australia, in 1893, in support of Walter Bentley, the well-known Scotch tragedian. He afterward played with Myra Kemble, the famous comedienne. and was for several years a prominent member of the stock companies of Williamson & Musgrove. He made a notable success with Brough & Boucicault in tours of the principal cities in Australia and New Zealand and in India and China. In 1900, Mr. Majeroni played in support of Wilson Barrett during his last tour of Australia, making a success as the Spider in "The Silver King" 'and Cassio in 'Othello." While Nance O'Neill was making her last tour of Australia under the management of McKee Rankin, Mr. Majeroni was engaged by this actor-manager to support his star in her tour of the United States. They opened in San Francisco in December of last year and he continued with Miss O'Neill until the close of her season in Boston in May last, when he was engaged by Klaw & Erlanger for the production of "The Prince of India The part of Princess Irene, the leading female role of "The Prince of India," will be played by Miss Adelaide Keim, who made her first appearance on the stage under the management of Daniel Frohman at the Lyceum theater. When E. H. Sothern produced "Hamlet" at the Garden theater, Miss Keim was engaged to understudy the role of Ophelia, and, later, succeeded Virginia Harned in this part. She then attracted the attention of F. F. Proctor, who engaged her as leading woman for his Fifth Avenue theater stock company, where she played fully fifty different roles, such as "Peg Woffington," the Baroness in "The Last Word," Camille, etc. She there originated the role of Mrs. Temple in the play now known as "Mrs. Temple's Telegram." Miss Keim also headed the DeWitt company of players in Baltimore and while there first essayed the male role of Hamlet, in which she made a great success. She also appeared as Carmen, Lady Gay Spanker, Lady Teazle, Rosalind in "As You Like It" and in other principal roles in a very extensive repertoire. Under the management of her father, Henry G. Keim, she played a season at the Harlem opera house in New York, and subsequently, for a year, was leading lady at the Bush Temple theater in Chicago, where again she acquired a wide experience in a large number of parts, repeating her success as Ham-

A. Tre mayne, author of "Lost, Twenty-Four Hours;" and E. H. Peple, author of The Prince Chap." Mr. Hilliard has been very successful in his association with children on the stage; and in "The Turn of the Tide" there are two childrens' parts, which, it is expected, will prove unusually effective. Mr. Hilliard's season under Braden management would begin earlier only from the fact that he could not get released from his present vandevile engagement in the play-

Some of the feature acts which will be seen in "A Society Circus," when the Hippodrome opens or Sept. 1, include the Patty-Frank troupe of acrobats, champions of the world, who will appear for a limited engagement only; Mile. Blanche Allarty and her trained camels, the only act of its kind ever produced; the four Markel sisters, contortionists; the Althoffs, equestrians extraordinary; Colonel Gaston Bordverry, the world's greatest marksman, and several other acts of a startling character. "A Society Circus" with its wealth of features will continue as the Hippodrome attraction until the holidays, when it will be succeeded by a new production, surpassing in magnificence and magnitude all previous Hippodrome attractions. Backers of Theatrical Ventures Take Long Chances

BY GEO, M. HODGE.

With the near approach of the theatrical season every actor, actress, manager, dramatic critic and dramtist in the United States is being asked by ambitious aspirants, "How shall I get into the theatrical business?" It is not on record that any of them have ever given the best advice that

An angel has less trouble breaking into the show business than the poorest actor or actress on earth could ever have, and there are some cynical players who say that their experience has taught them that it is easier for a bad actor to get on the stage than have few shows and fewer theaters, seldom enjoys the warm comfortable feeling that comes from the rays of the spot light. It is his office to provide the money. Often nobody except the manager of the show knows who the particular angel of the show is. The actors get their names on the program. The people who make the wigs and the clothes and the shoes for the stage folk get their meed of printing. The author sees his name in type, and the manager always arranges that his cognomen is known. But the man for whose money the whole thing would not exist, emulates the violet. He usually shrinks from the publicity even as some angels have been known from paying bills after the show has been where the woodbine made their money in pursuits far removed from the stage. A man who has made his money in the show business is seldom found as angel for capacity it is usually for himself. Even when he has enough money to he is often found at the head of a

The angel has to spend his money before he has any kind of chance of getting it back. The process of the separation proceedings is like this: A is a manager who has in his possession the manuscript of a play. In order to get that play into moneymaking order a company of actors and actresses must be engaged, a place for rehearsals leased, a press agent hired to tell the public of the attraction, and lithographs (called "paper") bought. The original cost of the production varies in ratio to the number of people that are engaged the amount of scenery necessary, and the quantity of litho work and press work that is needed. Before and during rehearsals the angel's check book is kept

If the show (in the theatrical world everything from a farce to a spectacle is called a "show") is produced with success and develops into a moneymaker the angel often realizes handtomely on his investment. In the show business fortunes are made and lost at a single turn of the wheel of fortune, and some angels have waxed exceedingly rich. There is, however, another side to the picture. If the piece does not catch on right off the reel it is often forced into a run in the hope that the public will undergo a revulsion of sentiment in its favor. In the meantime heavy expenses keep piling up and the angel's wings are getting more and more singed. Sometimes he drops out before his loss has been great. In many cases he hangs on until the show has made upon his bank account inroads that he never dreamed about. If he has backed a failure his case is almost hopeless. It is all but impossible to dress a failure up so that it will become a success under another name. The trick has been done, of course, but most failures, no matter how much money is spent on them, remain failures as if they liked them. An angel of this sort may be interested in the personal fortunes of some member of the company. He may have great confidence in the manager and may be determined to make a go of tha show business even though he is losing lots of money with his eyes wide open. Empty houses daunt him not. As long as the ushers remain at their posts of duty he hopes that public will begin to come in. The heavy expenses he is under seem to show him that simply that his luck is about to turn. Some of these persistent angels win out. Most of them do not. Angels build theaters, too, and assist in the making of stars. To make a star costs money. They come high and many a poor chap has been carried from a champagne existence to a measly beer life with a rush that almost takes away breath in the effort to make a shining light out of some particular person. A few of the prominent stage women have been forced into stardom by their angel husbands. Some of them have succeeded. Others have dropped back in supporting positions or have taken to vaudeville. There are instances in which actors and actresses have won out, but in the theatrical business the angel that is most highly regarded and most eagerly welcomed to the fold is the man who has made his money outside of -the theatrical business and who has set aside a part of it as the chips with which he is to win fortune in that most uncertain of games-the show business.

The stocks of corporations have all he time been worth much more than they were selling for. This has esecially been true throughout the last three years. They are buying now. The only cause for alarm in regard to the big dividends is that the boards of directors, after having posed as honorable trustees for a few years, may take it into their heads to return to the old system of working for their own pockets instead of for the stockholders. In that event wholesale reductions in dividends must be expected but so long as public sentiment regarding management of corporations remains as it is there is little danger that any directors will dare conceal earnings for the purpose of raiding

OKLAHOMA - CONDITIONS A Broom Corn Farmer Talks of Crop, Potatoes and Prohibition

There are some good men in Oklahoma and among the number can be counted J. S. Green of Apache, who came PUBLIC KEPT OUT ed J. S. Green of Apache, who cam into Fort Worth with a load of hogs. "I am a kind of a farmer, stock raiser and speculator generally," said he, "which would make of me what is called a stock farmer, wouldnt' it? I plant all kinds of truck from corn up, and among the lot I have 200 acres of broom corn which I consider about as good crop as one can plant; $75 to $100 per acre is not bad, and when you consider the ease and short time in which the crop is prepared for market it beats most any other. It grows all right and NEW YORK, August 25 .- Were not ; is not much trouble to cultivate. When it is ready and ripe enough the harthe stalk and throwing it down into twenty-four hours, and unless it has gotten wet during that time, is then I taken up and further cured in the shade. Rain or dew does not hurt the straw when it is green so that if a hard rain should fall upon it it would be all right. It is when dry that damage is done to the straw. "A seeder is a machine that will seed fifteen tons a day, and is a big aid to a farmer in getting his stray ready for market. Usually it only requires ten days from the time the straw is gathered until it is ready for market It is sold, delivered at the cars, and there usually ends the farmer's end of the business. It would justify most any farmer to plant a few acres, for there is money in it. One trouble is that the seed of which there is a large quantity, is not of much use as feed for any stock, and as there has been up to now no use found for it it is simply allowed to rot. I think that maybe if it was ground up and mixed with other stuff it might help out, but no one has tried that yet. I don't even save enough for next year's seed, but have

"We have just the finest crop going, and cotton is good, too. We are all stock farmers and this year we will have fat cattle ourselves, and plenty of feed to sell others.

"We are deep in statehood now and ou never saw such people for watching what is going to be put in it. The people are not allowing the lawyers and politicians to have their lone way about it, I can tell you, but they are determined to have what they want put in the constitution. A large element want a prohibition section in it, but I believe this had better be left to the state and to local option. I am an independent and vote just as I please and don't have any party collar around my neck; and it would be an excellent thing if more of my kind of people did the same. Of course, what cattle we have are in fine condition, but there is no grazing land now; all is cut up into quarter sec-

A COTTON FARMER TALKS

He Expects a Bale to the Acre and Is Happy as a Lark

Clarence J. Pearie was cheerfully telling his friends in Fort Worth how much better his part of Texas was than all others and was enjoying himself. "We are all right down our way," said he, "and my white-faced cattle, horses and mules are good for sure. Yes, I am something of a farmer, too, but I do not diversify and am a cotton farmer. I have 1,200 acres in cotton and don't plant even sorghum, maize er alfalfa. I have cotton that I think will make me a bale to the acre. have 16,000 acres of good land that is in the southern part of Taylor, west of Guion, out where that fine prairie used to be. We had just as well have had 50,000 acres as not for it was there to be had cheap, but like all old Texans we did not see the necessity of having so much of the state on our hands. There is nothing to say about conditions with us except that they were never better and that we will go into the winter in as fine shape as I ever knew the country to be in at the winter season.

THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

The Panhandle and Roswell Country Bursting with Prosperity

H. M. Holden of San Antonio passed through the city on his way home after a trip through the Panhandle and to Roswell, N. M. "I passed through the Panhandle," he said, "to Amarillo and then across country as far as Roswell. There was never anything like it. Grass is something that makes a man feel that the Garden of Eden was not clothed in as fine a green mantle as this country is. Cattle are fat and getting more so and there is every prospect that the range will go into winter a perfect hay field of cured grass. The Panhandle is no longer one vast lonely plain with only a wire fence now and then to break the monotony of the view, but is dotted on every side with the homes of the people who are at last finding that the crops are simply immense of all classes-cotton, corn, wheat, oats, Kaffir corn and milo maize, together with sorghum, millet and other truck of that kind. There will be no lack of feedstuffs this coming feeding season and there will be no doubt a big demand for feeders, and in consequence there should be a corresponding increase in the price over the present market

Roswell, New Mexico, is certainly a lovely place and it is now a moss of vegetation of all kinds. What has been said of crops in Texas can be duplicated there, and the fruit is something astonishing and a long way ahead of anything I ever saw or expected to see. The fruit trees are simply loaded with fruit. The apple trees are so full that it looks like sticking a stick in a barrel of apples when you prod the tree with your walking stick. The trees are all propped up with strong timbers aid cropped close or they could not carry the load of fruit. Alfalfa is a great crop out there and is cultivated by every one who can command water."

THE ABILENE COUNTRY

Crop Conditions Excellent and Prospects Better Than Ever Known

J. M. Radford, who has lived in the Abilene country for many years, said the country was in more general good shape than he had ever known it to be in. "The crops are so big and fine that! It seems to me," said he, "that it will be hardly possible for them to get to harvest time without some hurt to them. I am in a position to know what am talking about and can say truthfully that never before has the country been in such good whape as it is now. Cattle, grass, crops and land are all in a good way."

HOGS IN THE TERRITORY

There Will Be a Big Crop This Year for Fort Worth Market

A. C. Denmark used to be a Texan but is now living in Kay county, I. T. "I am a Texas product all right," he said, "and was born down near Wrightshore in Gonzales county. It is a good country, too, but drouth hits It sometimes and then it hurts. I am now living near Ponca and raisi. corn and hogs and nothing else. I am just above the cotton belt, which is about eighteen miles below Perry, O. T. We are doing well this year and our crop of corn will take precedence of any we have had for years, although we have had some good ones.

"There will be a big lot of hogs raised this year for the feed will be so plentiful that it will give better returns to put it into hogs than to sell it as corn. There will be surplus anyway that can be sold to meet the export demand. Texas seems to have a pretty good corn crop as far as I can see so "I am on the lookout for hogs to buy and shall go on south to look for them. I can't buy any from the yards know, but this is a first-class place locate any wandering bunchesnone better. Yes, the feeders and breeders' auditorium building will be a big addition to the attractions of Fort Worth and will be a big thing for Texas and Oklahoma, too.'

HE IS THANKFUL

I am glad to say that a cure for Eczema has really been found, and this cure is Imperial Remedy. It is exactly what it is recommended to be. When my trouble broke out upon me I went to Marlin, Texas, and spent three months there under treatment of three of the best physicians, but became worse under their treatment. I then returned to Houston and consulted my family physician, and it is to him indeed I should be thankful. He saw he could not cure me and recommended Imperial Remedy. I had always been skeptical in regard to patent medicines, but when this prominent Houston doctor recommended the remedy, I began to think there must surely be something in it and decided to use it thoroughly, carefully and conscientiously.

The result is that I am now cured, not a blemish or a scar of any kind left from the eczema. I am thankful for what Imperial Remedy has done for me. I feel that I would be doing other sufferers with eczema an injustice if I did

I hope that many a person that is looking for a cure for eczema will see this letter, and if they have any doubts about it they can write me. I solemnly swear that the above testimonial is genuine and was yen by my own free will.

We Offer 7 Preferred Stock

Shoe Company Is and Does

The Beacon Shoe Company owns and operates retail stores in Philadelphia, Pa.; Jersey City, N. J.; Kansas City, Mo.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Dallas, Tex.; Los Angeles, Cal.; Memphis, Tenn.; Fort Worth, Tex.: Des Moines, la.; Erie, Pa.; Houston, Tex.; Savannah, Ga., and other stores are being located as fast as good locations can be secured. Besides these stores Beacon Shoes are sold through more than one thousand exclusive agencies throughout the country.

Beacon Shoes are being extensively advertised in the newspapers and principal magazines of the country, such as Everybody's, McClure's. Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, and many others.

Up to the present time we have sold only men's shoes in our stores, but beginning September 1st we shall add our BEACON SHOE FOR

We are the largest makers of $3.00 shoes in the world, and our enormous production gives up the opportunity to sell Beacon Shoes. direct to the consumer through our own stores at nearer the actual cost of production than any shoe made.

In offering the stock for sale, we do so with only one plan in mind: namely, co-operation.

The Beacon Shoe Company is a reality. No myth. A business already established and in successful operation, but in order to make it more so we desire to co-operate with the consumer, making a plan in advance of all other manufacturers in bringing our goods to you direct from maker to wearer, and giving you a share in the profits, not alone in one store, but our entire chain of stores.

Capitalization

In order to extend our business we have decided to incorporate the Beacon Shoe Company with a capital of $200,000 (more than half of which has already been subscribed), divided into 200,000 shares, 100,000 of which will be 7 Per Cent Preferred and 100,000 shares Com-

The Preferred Stock which we offer for subscription will be paid 7 per cent annually from the net profits of the business before any dividends can be paid on the Common, which makes the investment a safe one, as the Beacon shoe stores have done a successful business from the beginning, and by the addition of our BEACON SHOE FOR OMEN, the business is sure to double without additional expense which will make the stock one of the best investments ever offered

Mr. J. A. Farris, manager of the Beacon Shoe Store in Fort Worth, will give all information desired and explain our plan in the fullest detail to anyone desiring to interview him at our store, 612 Main street.

Mr. J. & Farris, 612 Main St., Fort Worth, Texas:

7 per cent Preferred Stock of the Beacon Shoe Company.

Dear Sir-I would like further particulars regarding the

What the Beacon Beacon Shoe Company One Dollar Per Share The par value of shares is One Bollar ($1.00), no subscription to

We offer for subscription until sold the 7 Per Cent Preferred Stock of the Beacon Shoe Company, which is to be incorporated this month. Of the 200,000 shares over 150,000 shares have already been sold. We have allotted to our Fort Worth store only 5,000 shares, par value one dollar a share. An opportunity is thus presented to secure an investment, the equal of which is seldom offered. Mr. J. A. Farris, the local manager of the Beacon Shoe Co., in Fort Worth, may been seen at the Beacon Shoe Store, 612 Main street, to give any information and receive subscriptions.

The par value of shares is One Dollar ($1.00), no subscription received for less than ten shares. We offer with every ten shares of Preferred Stock to give free four shares of Common, which we estimate will soon be worth double the par value, and pay more than 20 per cent. There is no limit to the amount this stock will earn. We can show to you figures and convince you of profits that this Common Stock will earn that would look beyond reason to print in this announce-

Value of Shares

We make the number of shares greater, and the par value smaller to give ever wearer of shoes an opportunity to be interested in a business, the profits of which he helps create. Our plan is a mutual one, and in order to extend it to all oities where we operate stores we offer only 5,000 shares, or $5,000 worth of the stock for sale in Fort Worth, and much prefer to have it held by five hundred different people, although we place no limit on the amount you may subscribe for up to the amount alloted to our Fort Worth store.

Price of Shares

$10 buys 10 shares 7 Per Cent Preferred and 4 shares Common. $20 buys 15 shares 7 Per Cent Preferred and 8 sharse Common. 25 shares 7 Per Cent Preferred and 10 shares Common. 50 shares 7 Per Cent Preferred and 20 shares Common. $100 buys 100 shares 7 Per Cent Preferred and 40 shares Common. $500 buys 500 shares 7 Per Cent Preferred and 200 shares Common. $1000 buys 1000 shares 7 Per Cent Preferred and 400 shares Common.

For Your Protection

Every dollar received from subscriptions will be deposited in the bank and held in trust for thirty days to give you an opportunity to investigate the standing of the F. M. Hoyt Shoe Company, of Manchester, N. H., and if at any time within the thirty days you desire to cancel your subscription, we will refund the amount you have paid and release you from your subscription most cheerfully.. We make this unusual offer to show you we have a reputation and standing in the business world beyond reproach, and the things we say in offering you this investment will bear the most critical examination.

Dividends on Stock Dividends on the Preferred Stock will be declared and paid from the profits of the company at the rate of 7 per cent per annum before any dividend is declared on the Common Stock. It will be the policy of the Beacon Shoe Company percent to the recent the control of the company at the rate of 7 per cent per annum before any dividend is declared on the Common Stock. New stores will be opened and the business extended in the takes for the paying the dividends on the Preferred Stock, thereby enhancing the par value of every share you own, both Preferred and Common. The opportunity to extend the business is very, and with the addition of our LADIES' BEACON SHOE AT $3.00, we reach the great masses of the people as, it is the most popular priced shoe sold today. We estimate within five years that we will own and be operating over fifty stores throughout the country, and they will be owned and the profits of the business derived by the holders

How to Subscribe for Stock For all those who cannot find it convenient to call at our Beacon Shoe Store, 612 Main street, to interview Mr. Farris, who may desire to have some of the stock allotted to them, you may fill in the subscription blank and mail, together with a check, postoffice money order or express money order, made payable to Beacon Shoe Company, for one-quarter the amount of your subscription (or 25 cents for each share of Preferred Stock subscribed for), and allotments will be made in the order received and receipt mailed to you for same. We reserve the right to reject any subscriptions when the five thousand shares have been subscribed for.

FOUR ARE KILLED

Special to The Telegram. LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 25.-Three white men, one white woman, all dead and three negro men fatally wounded, is the result of a race war between whites and negroes in a mining camp near this city, says a dispatch from between Sheriff William Barker and a negro who had obtained goods from the commissary under false pretenses. When Barker attempted to arrest the negro, Ehtian Powers, walking boss the sheriff. Warrants Procured Warrants were procured for the arrest of Powers and Sheriff Barker summoned a posse of seventy-five deputies to go with him to the mines to arrest Powers and the negro. As the members of the posse, led by Barker, attempted to enter the mines to arrest them, Powers and the negro opened fire, killing Barker and putting the posse to flight. A pitched battle ensued, as the posse retreated through the camp, in which Charles Smith, a deputy sheriff, and Powers were killed and a white woman, cook in the camp, was also killed by a stray

Three Negroes Will Die Three negro miners were fatally wounded. The negro who caused the trouble has escaped with the negro miners who took part in the fight. Other negro miners in the camp have been notified to leave or submit to the consequences. Harlan county is one of the few counties in the state not inhabited by negroes. The first negroes ever seen by any citizens in Harlan county are those recently imported as miners by mine owners.

SPORTING COLUMN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.-Billy Nolan has again shown himself to be the shrewdest manager in the fighting game, but in forcing Joe Gans, the real lightweight champion, to take the small end of the $30,000 purse hung up by the sports of Goldfield for the long-hoped-for fight between the Baltimore whirlwind and Battling Nelson, he has done something that will give the Dane's popularity a hard jolt. When Nolan held out for $20,000 for Nelson, win or lose, and got away with it, he did something that will not meet with the approval of true sportsmen, who like to see a winner get his just reward. And it's dollars to doughnuts that when the two fighters step into the ring Gans, despite his color, will get the biggest "hand." Lovers of boxing are always with the under dog, just as they were with Nelson, when he was moving heaven and earth to secure a second match with Britt, and Nolan's stick-up is bound to leave a bad taste.

Nolan, in taking his stand, advanced the argument, and it was a good one, that Nelson is the better drawing card and therefore is entitled to greater remuneration, but it isn't good from the standpoint of a square deal. In fact, Nolan pulled off a job worthy of a highwayman who would rob a blind Goldfield's offer and the cinching of the match in the face of the efforts of the San Francisco promoters are two of the most amazing things in the history of the ring. That a town of less than 10,000 should get the biggest guarantee the fighters a purse of $30,000 is hardly believable, but the Goldfield sports did it. The gamblers and miners down in the Neset of men as one could find anywhere on earth just now, and a purse of $30,-000 is a mere bagatelle to them. As Promoter Rickard stated, they would have given $50,000 if necessary to secure the match, and he told the truth.

When the gong is sounded for the battle on the afternoon of Sept. 3 one year will have elapsed since Gans started his campaign for a fight with Nelson. Joe has been dogging the Battler's footsteps ever since the latand, although he refused at first to make less than 135 pounds, he finally came down to 133, which was the figure that Nelson insisted upon. Even when Gans made this concession Nelson and Nolan were reluctant to hook up with the negro, not because Nelson was afraid of him, but because ne conscientiously believed that his reputation for honesty would suffer were he to engage in a contest with Gans. It has taken months to wean him away from that belief, and now that he is actually matched with Gans, his friends will think the better of him for taking the step that meant yielding to the demands of the public. The dopesters are already hauling out the books and going over the records of Nelson and Gans and will continue to do so until the men get into the ring, and for the next four weeks "reasons why" will be handed out from every conceivable angle. Everybody knows what Nelson can and will do but there are mighty few followers of the ring who know what Gans will do.

That he is a grand fighter no one denies, but then he's a confessed faker. True, he admits that he has reformed, but that isn't proving it. If he fights on the level this time, and there is every reason to believe that he will, because they have a peculiar way of looking at things not on the level in mining camps, then it will be a great battle, and one hard to "dope." As a boxer Gans has few equals and not many superiors. He is one of the greatest generals that ever stepped into a ring, and if there is anything he doesn't know about the game, it doesn't amount to much. There are many who affect to believe that the negro has lost some of his strength and point to the fact that he had to beat Mike "Twin" Sullivan to a pulp before he could land the sleep punch. Gans' recent fight in Seattle with Dave Holly, which went the full twenty rounds, Gans get ing the decision, is also advanced in support of the contention that Joe's once great punch has vanished. So, from the standpoint of the Nelson men, everything depends on Gans' punch. If it hasn't fight that could be dug up at this the steam it had behind it five years ago, then, they say, it will be all day with Joseph, for, if he doesn't finish the Battler within ten rounds, the Dane will wear him down and pull vada desert are about as prosperous a | and maul and punch him into such a state of exhaustion until it will be an easy matter to hang the right punch somewhere about Gans' anatomy. Another fact that buoys up the hopes of the Nelson admirers is that Gans' admitted ability to make 133 pounds easily must mean that he is on a decline and is losing the spring and strength of youth, which Nelson possesses in superabundance. There may or may not be anything in this, but it must be remembered that Gans has been fighting sixteen years, and in two punches to land one. The Dane has only one way of fighting, and that is the way he fought Britt-plug, plug, plug, hang on like a bulldog, never give an inch and in the end take the heart out of his opponent. It remains to be seen how well this game will work with Master Joseph. If Joe isn't there with the punch and a heart that will remain stout to the end, then Battling Nelson will not only be the champion of Hegeswich, as he calls himself, but champion of the world as well.

THINGS are beginning to "hum" in the Panther City and if you have any idea of getting you a home or vacant lot on which to build, "get in the band wagon" as she moves along and do so. Think how many people in Texas there are who have had so many opportunities at investment in this great state and have sit idly by and let the other fellow come along and make himself rich while they remain poor. There is no excuse for this, either, as you can buy you a home on payments that you can pay it out on and should you decide you do not want it, there is always a good profit within a few months to those who want to sell. Women, wake your husbands up and make them join this band of home seekers in our city and get one for yourself. We have all kinds of places and can suit you in most any kind you want and on terms that you can pay for it easy out of your salary. Why not come and let us show you around. It would be very dittle trouble to you and none to us. CLARK & McGOWN,

LOVE ACROSS THE SEA

An ocean liner drew up majestically at the wharf. Hundreds of bright-eyed passengers lined the rails, eagerly searching for friends in the great crowd ashore. One among them, tall, symmetical, raven-haired, flushed and drew back instinctively as her glance fell upon a good-looking young man, the object of her search.

As she left the gangplank and walked straight toward him a puzzled look came into his eyes. He accepted her outstretched hand and confusedly lifted his hat.

with Miss Smith." "For three years you have corresponded with me." "But you did not write these?" draw-thought of the end. Then-then I began to love you and could not bear the thought of losing you. I, too, was a member of the choral society and had been introduced to you, but it was my pretty cousin that attracted you. She laughed to me over her new conquest. She was engaged already and had not thought of writing to you. Your first letter miscarried and was delivered to me. Thoughtlessly I answered. Your letters won my love. I could not confess the deception when it would bring me so much misery and shame. She has been married two years and has forgotten even your name. Forgive me if you can, send me back to England if you will. I will do as you bid." "It is not for me," he said, gently, to condemn the woman I love. The woman I have learned to love is the woman who wrote those letters. I have nothing to forgive. I cannot love any over."

I take pleasure in sending under parate cover a copy of the prelimireports of the test made on this ite. In this connection I beg to call attention to certain features of eport, which you will find on page The most important features of work conducted at the testing ant was a demonstration that almost grades of bituminous coals and lles can be satisfactorily used in a cer gas plant and explosive gas mgine. It has long been known that athracite fuel could be so used and everal plants are using it successfuly at the present time, but up to the Work of 1904 it had been found impossible to separate the tarry matters from gas made from bituminous coals and lignites. This was successfully done at St. Louis and opens up an entirely new field for the production of power from lignites. A comparison of the figures in the various tables will show that it took only 2:58 pounds of your lignite in its normal condition to produce one electrical horsepower, whereas of the best West Virginia coal it required 3.39 pounds or more to produce the same result. The conclusions to be drawn from these figures are that Texas brown lignite, when properly used in the producer gas plant, will develop more power than the best West Virginia coals in the ordinary steam plant.

Startling and Revolutionary "These results are of course startling and undoubtedly revolutionary in character, but the present condition of the gas engine is not such as to warrant an immediate change to that mode of power production. It is probable, however, that in the very near future the gas engine will be perfected so that it will yield as good results as the steam engine and when that time arrives a saving of 100 to 30 per cent in efficiency over the present type of steam equipment may be expected."

The first volumes of the government's report of the experiments in the manufacture of producer's gas are now ready and they serve to confirm in detail the general statements made in the foregoing. Many of the lignite mines in Texas have sales agencies in Dallas and the men in charge of these agencies declare that since the facts regarding the experiments have become generally known special efforts have been made to perfect the producer gas engine. The results, it is stated, have been quite satisfactory, and the people of Texas, particularly those of West Texas, as well as those of New Mexico, where fuel is very high, have been quick to take advantage of it. Many such gas plants have been established in those sections and the results, according to reports received here, have been unusually satisfactory. While the adoption of this system of manufacturing power has not been so rapid in the other parts of Texas, those who are in touch with the situation declare that the time is not far off when there will be more here than in any other part of the United States; and that when that time arrives there will be no great obstacle to the manufacture into finished products of all the raw materials of the Southwest.

Under ordinary conditions it is figured by some that it will require two and a half tons of lignite to equal one ton of mine run coal, but others declare that 2,000 pounds of lignite will equal 1,700 pounds of good slack coal. Because of these facts, and because of other advantages, it is believed that the consumption will steadily increase.

ment on the port of the O'Beirne delegation to throw its vote to Doyle on the second ballot and defeat Fitzhugh after O'Beirne should be dropped on the first, according to the rulings of the Terrell election law, the Tarrant county delegation determined to delay the ultimate balloting and secured the passage of a resolution to have each of the three candidates address the convention at the afternoon session.

After dinner when the convention met, Delegate Turner of Wise county, moved to have the motion rescinded, and, despite strong opposition from the Tarrant delegates, headed by Mayor Davis of North Fort Worth, who addressed the convention, the Turner motion carried and no speeches were

CAR CF STOLEN HORSES FOUND

Animals Taken From Howard County Recovered Here

Rapid detective work by Officers Tom Snow and McLaughlin and Detective Jim Allen, together with Sheriff Ed Mobeley of Howard county, succeeded in finding near Arlington Heights Saturday afternoon a carload of brood mares, mules and colts, which were stolen from the Phillips Morgan ranch twenty miles west of Big Springs, two weeks ago.

Twenty-seven animals were stolen and shipped from Big Springs Aug. 15 in the name of T. C. Crane. The horses arrived in Fort Worth Aug. 17 and are said to have changed hands several times since then. Twenty-three head were recovered Saturday. The local police accompanied by the Howard county sheriff and W. F. Twyffort, manager of the Morgan ranch, spent the forenoon here hunting traces of the horses and were finally successful at noon. At midnight last night officers Snow and McLaughlin arrested a man giving the name of J. S. Franks. He was

Mrs. Bellfield walked into the anteoom, meekly followed by her husband. Sounds of "whacks" were heard and a moment later the door opened and the pair reappeared. Bellfield's face plainshowed the marks left by his wife's "I hope this will be the lesson to you that you need, Bellfield," said the

Food Supply Runs Very Short Among Sufferers

Cable Special to The Telegram.

(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) VALPARAISO, Aug. 25 .- The shooting of looters still goes on in the ruins of the city. More than 200 persons have been killed by the police and soldiers, but even this seems to have but little effect in stopping the work of the outlaws. The rain which began yesterday fell all during the night and up to late his afternoon, drenching the refugees n their camps and causing much misery among the unfortunates. It is estimated that fully one hundred people are being cared for and the food supplies are still short.

Red Cross Busy

This is being remedied rapidly, howver, and it is expected that by the early part of the week there will be plentiful supply for everybody. The Red Cross is doing splendid work. The government has put most of the relief work in their charge. The fact that President Roosevelt had appealed to the American people for aid was cabled here today and made an excellent impression.

Thomas' balloon "Niervana," after many delays, rose grac fully from the gas works at the foot of East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and apparently did all that was hoped for it. The only companion that the doctor had with him in his flight was make up the beds its a sign she compared to the handlest enterior of the contract of the contract of the same sections of the tractions of Augusta, Ga., who had never made an ascent before. The steering gear gave the balloon different appearance from all others. It is the form of a steel propeller that jutts out some five feet from one side of the basket.

This is connected with a bicycle frame, the pedals of which are worked with the feet. As the balloon swung around until the propeller faced the wind and its course was appreciably altered from that which the balloon took when sent up. At 8:30 the flash of the balloon's searchlight could be discerned at Faterson about 100 feet in the air. It was then proceeding in a southwesterly direction.

Chicago Sees Little Relief From Torrid Rays

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Aug. 25.-A very gentle wind has reached a maximum velocity of 15 miles per hour and the tail end of an Iowa rain storm both failed to keep the temperature down. Fortunately it was a Saturday so that in the afternoon the majority of the people got to go to the parks or the lake front for a breath of clean air. If it had been a work afternoon there would doubtless have been a score or more deaths. As it was there are six names on the death roll and three additional prostrations were reported.

Japanese Vessel Made Raid on St. Paul Rookeries Special to The Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.-Ambassador Wright, at Tokio, Japan, today advised the department of state that the Japanese sealing vessel Dainia Taysi Maru had arrived at Akaishi from Alaska short a number of her crew and with three boats missing." This vessel is one of the Japanese poachers which made a raid on the seal rookeries at St. Paul Island in which several of her crew were killed and captured and three of her boats taken by the Alaskan police. There is conclusive evidence in the judgment of the officials of the department of state that the Japanese have been guilty of poaching.

Smoke of Explosion Is Seen Twenty Miles Distant

Special to The Telegram.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 25.-The attempt to assassinate Premier Stolypin is the biggest coup yet attempted by the terrorists. Although M. Stolypin escaped serious injury, a number of persons were killed or wounded. The sensation here is tremendous. Thousands of people are still flocking to the scene in the vain hope of seeing the ruined villa and of verifying the hideous tales which are being circulated, The details which have passed about the city are so hideous that they make even the revolutionists shudder.

Smoke Seen in Cronstadt The outrage was planned with more than customary daring and the bomb used was perhaps the most powerfui ever used in Russia. But for the fact that it was exploded prematurely M. Stolypin and all his guests in the villa would have perished instantly. So tremendous was the explosion that the pillar of smoke and flame which followed it was visible in Cronstadt twenty miles away. The windows were broken in the house of Count Witte which is four miles from the scene. For hundreds of yards in all directions trees were scorched and a shower of debris and ashes were carried across the Neva.

Sees Pieces of Bodies Late this evening I visited the ruin of the villa. The front portion was still smoking. A thousand square yards of ground about it were strewn with minute fragments of the bodies of the victims as well as their clothing and jewelry. In a tree some distance removed from the rear of the villa hung the hand of a human which had been torn off and hurled high in the air. Near the river the blood of the victims had literally descended in a shower. Projecting from the plaster on the walls of what remained of the vestibule were pieces of the bodies of men and women who had been hurled to death by the awful explosion. HEAD OF SHOE COMPANY IN CITY

A. B. Jenks Tells of Big Profits in Manufacture

B. Jenks, president of the Beacon Shoe Company, is in the city, and in statement today spoke very interestingly of his early experiences with William L. Douglas, manufacturer of he famous W. L. Douglas shoe, and recently announced Democratic candidate for the second time for the governorship of Massachusetts. It will be emembered that Mr. Douglas was elected governor of that state term before last, declined the office last term, but has been persuaded by the Democrats to make the race again. His popularity is shown by the fact that he was elected governor as a Democrat of a state that had always gone Republican, and it was due in a great measure to the public's familiarity with his business ability and their belief that as chief executive of their state that he would administer its affairs as carefully and successfully as were administered the affairs of the great shoe company.

That there is a profit in the manufacture of shoes is shown by the incorporation of the Douglas Shoe Company for $2,000,000 capital; $1,000,-000 of 7 per cent stock preferred, which was sold by Mr. Douglas to outsiders and $1,000,000 of common which he retained. He showed his faith in the earning capacity of his company by taking his chances on the common stock, while that he sold had an earning guaranteed the holders. The Douglas Shoe Company recently increased its capital one-half million dollars to cover the cost of putting in women's shoes, and this half million of stock was sold in popular subscriptions in

Mr. Jenks was the right hand man of Mr. Douglas for over fourteen years, and opened all of the Douglas retail shoe stores throughout the United States up to the time he left them. The F. M. Hoyt Shoe Company, manufacturer of the famous Beacon shoe, has organized its retail stores into a company, known as the Beacon Shoe Company. A certain portion of Beacon Shoe Company stock is sold in every city in which there is a Beacon shoe store, in order to create local interest. The F. M. Hoyt Shoe Company has contracted to furnish the Beacon Shoe Company with all shoes at actual cost of manufacture. They figure their profit from the shoes sold the Beacon Shoe Company at cost will accrue from the earnings of their Beacon Shoe Company stock.

The Beacon Shoe Company is really. the incorporation of the retail end of the F. M. Hoyt Shoe Company. The ice of the Beacon shoe is $3 and the Beacon Shoe Company expects to keep it at that. Mr. Jenks is a recognized authority on the shoe business and points to the success and big dividends paid by the old line shoe companies, which have sold stock to outsiders. There have only been 5,000 shares of the Beacon Shoe Company allotted to Fort Worth; and since the stock 's preferred and pays 7 per cent it should gobbled up pretty quick, especially when so few preferred interest bearing stock nowadays pay as much as 7 per cent. Mr. Jenks states that the mmon stock will eventually be worth more than the preferred, and in order to interest as many people as possible locally as the 5,000 shares will permit, his company is offering 40 per cent worth of common for each share of preferred purchased.

DENVER RAILROAD BUSY REBUILDING

Laying New Steel and Enlarging Water Supply

The Denver has done a great deal of rebuilding work in the last year, or to be act, since General Superintendent Cotter came into that phase of the One of the most important parts of the work was to bring un the track to good condition and next a well settled and firm roadbed plenty of good ties are required for that. Since August of 1905 the Denver has put under the rails 217,000 ties, against 127,000 for the year before. The road had been for some time past using pine ties, but Mr. Cotter prefers the oak ties and now all of the ties used are

Laying Heavy Steel

The Denver has relaid $50 miles of the road with new 75-pound steel; the road has been reballasted and where it was possible, gravel or rock ballast was used. There is not as much of that available as the company would like to have, but some of the divisions are in the best of shape with plenty of ties, heavy steel and good ballast. It can be said the Denver is using all the men it can get, to work efficiently, in improving the tracks and the limit is simply the limit to the number of men it can get. The company is building a new reservoir at Childress. The one now in use by the Denver a short distance north of Childress has a capacity of 500,000,000 gallons and is about two-thirds or more full. That is, allowing for evaporation and legitimate use, the road has a full two years' supply stored in that tank or lake or pond, for it is called by all of those names. Building New Lake

The company is building a new dam for a lake in the next adjoining canyon, which will store over a million gallons of water, and if the rains keep up as they have this season the company really has hopes that the lake will fill with water and if it does then the company is independent of any more rain for about four years or so. This latter reservoir is merely auxiliary to the one now in use.

Shops at Childress The shops and car building facilities are to be enlarged at Childress. Certain rumors of the intention to move the shops of the company back to Fort Wort are baseless. It is true that the company is building shops at the new roundhouse here, but they are merely for road repairs or the light repairs which might become necessary to enable the engines to go back up the road. There is no intention to move from Childress.

Will Inspect Denver Track One of the civil engineers of the Texas railroad commission, Mr. Thompone is to make a trip ever the line of the Denver Road, the trip being because of the complaint of some one, up on the line, who has told the most direful tales of the general bad condition of the road. It is understood that Mr. Thompson will be here Monday or Tuesday and then go over the line from Fort Worth to Texline, making a careful examination on the trip up and back again.

Will You Read This Request? With September days will come a resumption of social activities. Church societies will again take up their labor of love and usefulness and parties for day and evening will make joyful recreation for young and old. In preparing for a happy season attention is again called to the different church "circles" and aid societies, that notices of their meetings, teas, socials, etc., intended for this depart-ment of The Telegram should be sent to the office in writing. In asking this of the church workers they need only be reminded that there are nearly a hundred of these organizations in the territory served by The Telegram, and that those to whom is en. trusted the duty of publicity usually wait until Saturday morning to discharge this duty. Saturday morning taken up with receiving advertising notices means a neglect of preparation of copy that the printers insist shall be with them early in the even-

Space in The Telegram is willingly given to the ladies' aids and their innumerable "circles," but time Saturday morning and all other mornings for that matter is of value. The consideration of the church workers is asked on this point. Another matter that contributors to this department may be interested in is the taking of names of social events over the telephone. With the best intentions in the world a society reporter cannot know personally every one in a city of fifty thousand people. When strangers use the telephone to give long lists of names it means that some of these names will appear in the published list incorrectly spelled. Telephones have a way of getting out of order, voices are not distinct, the reporter does not know the names being transmitted, the wonder is that the lists ever approach accuracy. To obviate an irritation to all con cerned, it is suggested that accounts and lists of names and personals be sent so written that names will be given a chance to appear in print cor-

You see, Mrs. Fletcher mentioned the perfume cure, and when I got over to the city I headed for a Fifth avenue colony of bachelor girl friends, among whom is a physician, a specialist on parvoys diseases.

nervous diseases.

"Yes," she said, "there is a pronounced tendency among noted specialists to use perfume medicinally in some of nervous trouble. Cases with a lack of tone respond to perfume stimulant. Moreover, certain perfeume es-sences, we find, will kill so virile a germ as the typhoid microbe in a short time. Essence of cinnamon will do chemicals like solutions of antiseptic chemicals like carbolic, of the strength in common use, take days to accomplish what the agreeable essence does in less than a quarter of an hour. So we find perfumes are germicides, besides being nerve tonics. "Perfumes, essences and aromatic herbs were much employed by the ancients, and our scientists are now learning they were not merely aesthetic or sensual whims that led to the practice. It was an empirical medicinal knowledge that was as right as to-day's dependence on them, evolved by exact chemical and germ knowledge and experimental psychology."

Delving more and more into perfume Delving more and more into perfume lore I was pleased to learn that moth and camphor balls may now be considered things of the past, the modern moth protectors being borax and perfume (sachet bags), though with the odorless borax scattered through the cedar clothes and fur-chest the perfume is not a necessity. But we might as cedar clothes and fur-chest the perfume is not a necessity. But we might as well have it, and have pleasing furs as well as comfortable ones next fall.

Then there are the perfumed bath saits and vinegars that are delightful and beneficial. If you want to experiment with one try this:

Partly fill a quart milk bottle with rock or sea sait, add about three ounces of crystal borax, shake to mix these, then add half an ounce of essence of violet, a drop of oll of wintergreen and the smallest part of a grain of musk. Now finish filling the bottle with sait. Close it and lay it on its side and shake it occasionally for three days.

A handful of this in a tub will make a most modern and improved bath, for the prescription of which a beauty specialist would charge you a "beautiful" fee. It is sweeter and more cleansing than the ordinary tub, and a decidedly fine skin stimulant that will cheer you and make you optimistic. Try it and see if I am not right. see if I am not right.

Synopsis of Previous Instalments John Glenarm, a roving young engineer, is willed an estate near Annandale. Ind., by his grandfather, on condition that he live there a year, else it will revert to Marian Devereux of New York, niece of the elder Glenarm's friend. Young Glenarm, returning to New York from Africa, is informed of the terms of his grandfather's will by Pickering, a lawyer, his former schoolmate, whom he greatly

He accepts the term of his grandfather's will and, starting for Indiana, accidentally meets his chum Laurance Donovan. The two dine at Sherry's, and see there Pickering, accompanied by a young woman whose face impresses Glenarm.

CHAPTER II.

The House of a Thousand Candles Annandale derives its chief importance from the fact that two railway lines intersect there. The Chicago Express paused only for a moment while the porter deposited my things beside me on the platform. Light streamed from the open door of the station; a few idlers paced the platform, staring nto the windows of the cars; the village hackman languidly solicited my business. Suddenly out of the shadows came a tall, curious figure of a man elad in a long ulster. As I write, it is with a quickening of the sensation I received on the occasion of my first meeting with Bates. His lank gloomy figure rises before me now, and I hear his deep melanchely voice, as, touching his hat respectfully, he said: "Beg pardon, sir; is this Mr. Glenrm? I am Bates from Glenarm neet you, sir. "Yes: to be sure," I said. The hackman was already gathering up my traps, and I gave him my trunk checks.

"How far is it?" I asked, my eyes resting, a little regretfullly, I must confess, on the rear lights of the vanishing train. "Two miles, sir," Bates replied.

There's no way over but the hack in winter. In summer the steamer comes right into our dock.' "My legs need stretching; I'll walk," suggested, drawing the cool air into my lungs. It was a still, starry Octoer night, and its freshness was grateful after the hot sleeper. Bates accepted the suggestion without comlatform, where the hackman was alnondescript wagon, I followed Bates down through the broad quiet street of the village. There was more of Annandale than I had imagined, and several tall smoke stacks loomed here and there in the thin starlight.

"Brick yards, sir," said Bates, wayng his hand at the stacks. "It's a considerable center for that kind of busi-

"Bricks without straw?" I asked, as we passed a radiant saloon that blazed pon the board walk. "Beg pardon, sir, but such places are the ruin of men"-on which remar's wished to impress me with his own

He swung along beside me, answering questions with dogged brevity, ing enchantment. Youth alone, of Clearly, here was a man who had reduced human intercourse to a basis of necessity. I was to be shut up with him for a year, and he was not likely to prove a cheerful jailer. My feet struck upon a graveled highway at the end of the village street, and I heard suddenly the lapping of water. "It's the lake, sir. This road leads right out to the house," Bates ex-I was doomed to meditate pretty steadily, I imagined, on the beauty of the landscape in these parts, and I was rejoiced to know that it was not all cheerless prairie or gloomy woodland. The wind freshened and blew sharply upon us off the 'water.

"The fishing's quite good in season. Mr. Glenarm used to take great pleasure in it. Bass-yes, sir. Mr. Glecarm held there was nothing quite equal to a black bass." I liked the way the fellow spoke of my grandfather. He was evidently a loyal retainer. No doubt he could summon from the past many pictures

L could do was to accept the penalty he had laid upon me in a sane and amiable spirit. This train of thought ccupied me as we tramped along the highway. The road now led away from the lake and through a heavy wood. Presently, on the right loomed a dark barrier, and I put out my hand and touched a wall of rough stone that rose to a height of about eight feet.

"What is this, Bates?" I asked. "This is Glenarm land, sir. The wall was one of your grandfather's ideas. It's a quarter of a mile long and cost him a pretty penny, I warrant you. The road turns off from the lake now, but the Glenarm property is all lake front." So there was a wall about my prison ouse! I grinned cheerfully to myself. When, a few moments later, my guide paused at an arched gateway in the long wall, drew from his overcoat a bunch of keys and fumbled at the lock of an iron gate, I felt the spirit adventure quicken within me. The gate clicked behind us and Bates found a lantern and lighted it with the ease of custom. "I use this gate because it's nearer.

The regular entrance is farther down

he road. Keep close, sir, as the timber isn't much cleared.' The undergrowth was indeed heavy. nd I followed the lantern of my guide with difficulty. In the darkness the place seemed as wild and rough as a tropical wilderness.

"Only a little farther," rose Bates' roice ahead of me; and then: "There's the light, sir"—and, lifting my eyes, as I stumbled over the roots of a great tree, I saw for the first time the dark outlines of Glenarm House. "Here we are, sir!" exclaimed Bates, stamping his feet upon a walk. I followed him to what I assumed to be the front door of the house, where : lamp shone brightly at either side of House. Mr. Pickering wired me to a massive entrance. Bates flung it open without ado, and I stepped quickinto a great hall that was lighted dimly by candles fastened into brackets on the walls. "I hope you've not expected too much, Mr. Glenarm," said Bates, with a tone of mild apology. "It's very incomplete for living purposes." "Well, we've got to make the best of it," I answered, though without much cheer. The sound of our steps reverberated and echoed in the well of great staircase. There was not, as far as I could see, a single article of furniture in the place. "Here's something you'll like better, str"-and Bates paused far down the hall and opened a door. A single candle made a little pool ready tumbling my trunks about, and of barren ugliness, and waited, in after we had seen them piled upon his heartsick foreboding, for the silent guide to reveal a dready prison. "Please sit here, sir." said Bates, while I make a better light." He moved through the dark room with perfect ease, struck a match, lighted a taper and went swiftly and softly about. He touched the taper to one candle after another-they seemed to be everywhere—and won from the dark a faint twitight, that yielded slowly to a growing niellow of splendor of light. I have often watched the acolytes in dim cathedrals of the Old World set countless candles ablaze on magnificent -tars-always with based a mental note that Bates awe for the beauty of the spectacle; but in this unknown house the austere serving man summoned from the shadows a lovelier and more bewilder-

beautiful things is lovelier than light. The lines of the walls receded as the light increased, and the raftered ceiling drew away, luring the eyes upward. I rose with a smothered exclamation on my lips and started about, snatching off my hat in reverence as the spirit of the place wove its spell about Everywhere there were books; they covered the walls to the ceiling, with only long French windows and an normous fireplace breaking the line, Above the fireplace a massive dark oak chimney breast further emphasized the grand scale of the room. From every conceivable place-from shelves built for the purpose, from brackets that thrust out long arms among the books, from a great crystal chandelier suspended from the ceiling, and from the breast of the chimneyinnumerable candles blazed with dazzling brilliancy. I exclaimed in wonder and pleasure as Bates paused, his sorcerer's wand in hand. "Mr. Glenarm was very fond of candle light; he liked to gather up canof my grandfather, and I determined | dlesticks, and his collection is very fine. "Oil lamps might be more suited to your taste, sir. But your grandfather would not have them. Old brass and copper were specialties with him, and had a particular taste, Mr. Glenarm had, in glass candlesticks. He held that the crystal was most effective of all. I'll go and let in the baggaeman and then serve you some supper."

He went somberly out and I examned the room with amazed and delighted eyes. It was fifty feet long and half as wide. The hard-wood floor was covered with handsome rugs; very piece of furniture was quaint or nteresting. Carved in the heavy oak aneling above the fireplace, in large old English letters, was the inscrip-

"The Spirit of Man is the Candle of and on either side great candelabra sent long arms across the hearth. All the books seemed related to architecture; German and French works stood side by side among those by English and American authorities. I found archaeology represented in a division where all the titles were Latin or Italian. I opened several cabinet that contained sketches and drawings, all in careful order; and in another I found an elaborate card catalogue, evidently the work of a practiced hand. The minute examination was too much for me; I threw myself into a great chair that might have been spoil from a cathedral, satisfied to enjoy the general effect. To find an apartment so handsome and so marked by good taste in the midst of an Indiana wood, staggered me. To be sure, in approaching the house I had seen only a dark bulk that conveyed no sense of its character or proportions; and certainly the entrance hall had not prepared me for the beauty of this room. was so lost in contemplation that I did not hear a door open behind me.

"There's bite ready for you, sir." I followed him through the hall to small high-wainscoted room where

The library was the main thing with him. He never lived to finish the house-more's the pity, sir. He would ment. We walked to the end of the of light in what I felt to be a large have made something very handsome of it if he'd had a few years more But he hoped, sir, that you'd see it completed. It was his wish, sir."

"Yes, to be sure." I replied, He brought cold fowl and a salad, and produced a bit of Stilton of unnistakable authenticity. "I trust the ale is cooled to your liking. It's your grandfather's fa-vorita, if I may say it, sir." I liked the fellow's humility. He served me with a grave deference and in accustomed hand. Candles in crysal holders shed an agreeable light apon the table; the room was snug and comfortable, and hickory logs in a small fireplace crackled cheerily. If my grandfather had designed to punsh me, with loneliness as his weapon, his shade, if it lurked near, must have been grievously disappointed. I had ong been inured to my own society. had often eaten my bread alone, and found a pleasure in the quiet of the strange unknown house. There stole over me, too the satisfaction that I was at last obeying a wish of my grandfather's, that I was doing something he would have me do. I was touched by the traces everywhere of his interest in what was to him the art of arts: there was something quite fine in his devotion to it. The little refectory had its air of distinction, though it was without decoration. There had been, we always said in the family, something whimsical or even morbid in my grandsire's devotion to architecture: but I felt that it had really appealed to something dignified and noble in his own mind and character, and a gentler mood than I had known in years possessed my heart. He had asked little of me, and I determined that in that little I would not

Bates gave me my coffee, put matches within reach and left the room. I drew out my cigarette case and was holding it half-opened, when the glass in the window back of me cracked sharply, a bullet whistled over my head, struck the opposite wall and fell, flattened and marred, on the ta-

JOLO, Sulu Islands, Aug. 17 .- "The reason that I am able to have forty wives at the same time and keep them from squabbling," said the Sultan of Sulu, "is because I do not permit more than one of them to be in the same room at the same time.

"The sultan says," said Mr. Schuck, "that he has many brothers and many cousins, and many uncles and several friends, and with these he keeps most of his wives, and he would be very glad if, some day, you would stop at his palace, because he thinks that the Americans are his very good friends." Thereupon Schuck, the sultan and General Tasker L. "That is all right," said General Bliss, "we do not wish to resort to force either; but tell him we've got to material than the Sultan of Sulu. He superb, magnificent, ignorant and haughty. You recall, perhaps, that he was reputed to have proposed to Alice Roosevelt when she visited his palace. He gave her various costly presents. Though he dwells in territory beonging to the United States, the sultan s the nominal ruler. He receives from the government a small pension which he puts into cock fighting and other exciting amusements.

The sultan is the Beau Brummel of his kingdom. He wears high-heeled, patent leather slippers, red silk stockngs which inclose black trousers, the stockings being worn on the outside of the trousers so as to exhibit his silk rubber. It has an immense bow garters, which are adorned with magof which the sultan is very proud. Then, his majesty wears some giddy blouses that would make a bargain counter look pale.

The sultan's immediate followers are devoted to him. Among the Moros personal allegiance is very strong. His religion, the Koran, tells the Moro that he must implicitly obey the orders of his chief and will fight with him in wars, while his brother will fight against him, provided he is in uniform of the Philippine constabulary, which are troops of native Moro soldiers officered by men from the American that pink envelope. Was she writing to Jim Douglas, big, handsome, broadshouldered Jim Douglas, with whom I had fallen desperately in love the first day I saw him, although he had no eyes for anyone but Belinda? I tried to lead her into conversation, but it was useless. She was deep in thought and only answered in monosyllables.

Suddenly footsteps sounded on the gravel walk outside and there was a ring at the door bell "Leslie Lawrence, I think," I said in reply to her look of inquiry. She glanced at the mirror and retired hastily upstairs. Leslie Lawrence is a dark little man with a clean shaven face, who comes nearly every evening to practice duets with Belinda, and who is very much in love with her. It was not a visitor, after all, and I took advantage of Belinda's absence to look at the address on the pink envelope. It was "'Our Household Help,' Confidential Chat Department." My curiosity was intensified. "Household Help" is a high class magazine for women, with a page devoted to answering the questions of lovesick maidens. You can have replies by mail by inclosing stamped and addressed envelopes. The click of Belinda's high heels on the stairs warned me of her coming, and when she entered I was again in my chair, absorbed in thought. It was clear from her manner that she didn't want me, but I stayed on, ignoring her manner. Neither Jack nor Leslie appeared, and finally at sunset I was forced to start for the village alone.

At the end of the drive I was overtaken by Briggs, the housemaid. "Oh, Miss Amy," she said, "Miss Belinda wants me to go to the village and post this letter, but it's so late I never can get back in time for dinner. Would you mind posting it for me?" I took the pink envelope, but I didn't post it. I took it to my room and opened it. It was as I expected. Belinda wrote a much underlined missive, asking advice. Two men, easily identified as Jack and Leslie, had proposed to her. Which should she accept? PREPARATION

E must not force events, but rather make

Or, with the strengthening tonic of frost,

Prepares for winter. Should a July noon

Small joy would follow, even tho' that world

Of sharp December pierce the heart of June,

What death and devastation would ensue!

By supreme law, as is the blade of grass

Were longing for the summer. Should the sting

All things are planned. The most majestic sphere

Which, through the burning bosom of the earth,

Creeps up to kiss the light. Poor puny man

Which rules all lives and worlds, and he alone

And watch the ground with anxious, brooding eyes,

Alone doth strive and battle with the Force

Demands effect before producing cause.

How vain the hope! We cannot harvest

Until we sow the seed, and God alone

Oft we stand

Complaining of the slow, unfruitful yield,

Not knowing that the shadow of ourselves

Sometimes our fierce impatience of desire

Doth like a sultry May, force tender shoots

But disappointment; or we rot the germs

To ripen prematurely, and we reap

The Universe keeps its eternal calm.

Of half-formed pleasures and unshaped events

With briny tears ere they have time to grow.

While stars are born and mighty planets die

Through patient preparation, year on year.

The earth endures the travail of the spring

Should move serene through all the ills of life,

And winter's desolation. So our souls

In grand submission to a higher law

Believing them masked joys.

Keeps off the sunlight and delays result.

Knows when that seed has ripened.

That whirls through space is governed and controlled

Burst suddenly upon a frozen world

The heart soil ready for their coming, as

The earth spreads carpets for the feet of spring,

THE WAY OF THE GODS

Long. New York: The Macmillan even the disagreeably sarcastic prefeccentricities of style with which he cruelty itself, but there is the comencumbers himself all the way alongmark of genius or originality-can pathos and tragedy of the story of Shajira Arisuga and the Lady Hoshi. Surely Mr. Long, with all his cleverness, has yet to learn that fine simplicity and economy in words that prove so amazingly effective in just such work as his; and, though it is perhaps ungrateful to complain very bitterly of mere mannerisms, when the matter beneath is altogether admirable; still one is moved to put in a small word of advice if it were only for the sake of other stories, as yet to be marred by avoidable faults. The theme of "The Way of the Gods" is easily appreciable even by western

It would seem to a mere human sense of justice that her expiatory act only added another good reason for keeping him in Meido, or the place of the unredeemed for another aeon or two.

Much in Mr. Long's story is doubtless far more true of old Japan than of today, but it is not the less artistic and beautiful on that account. Still one wishes the more that it might find record in enduring form. Arisuga is a most imperfect hero in himself, but he makes one realize that madness of unwritten, and sure to prove too good | patriotism and loyalty to the emperor that has made Japan the wonder of other nations in her powers of accomplishment. As for Hoshi, she is one of those whose fate, real or imaginary, minds, because it is but a version grips the heart and cannot be readily of what is common knowledge the forgotten. No one who has read Arthur Zapp's novel in this issue of Tales will have failed to note that here is a German author who writes of American scenes and manners from first-hand knowledge. It might even be guessed that "Comrades Three" is in part autobiographical, and the guess would be close to the truth. A portion of Zapp's life is indeed closely paralleled by those of the heroes whose adventures he describes with so much sympathy. Like Hans von Zeck and his comrades, Zapp was at one time an officer in the German army. He was compelled by financial reverses of his family to resign ships in his efforts to gain a livelihood. He came to America, and it is set down in his official biography that he was compelled to become a teacher in a school of languages, like one of the characters in his novel. There is good reason, indeed, for believing that he himself went through most of the experiences of the ex-army officers in his "Comrades Three." It is gratifying to know that like them he conquered his adverse circumstances and fairly won his way to success. Before Zapp left New York he had become assectated with the Staats-Zeitung, the leading Garman newspaper of America, and when he returned to Berlin, he became one of its special correspondents.

Since that time-the period of his American adventures was more than twenty years ago-Arthur Zapp has devoted himself to authorship to such good purpose that he has become one of the most popular of living German novelists. He is an extremely prolific writer, and it is no uncommon thing for him to publish two or three books within a year. Before his resignation from the army he had taken part in the Franco-Prussian war, and his trip to America was preceded by extensive travels in Europe.-"Tales" for August.

Amslee's for August contains an array of seasonable stories which, taken together, embodies about the best that can be found in any of the magazines in the line of midsummer fiction. As a feature, of course, the serial, "Audrey Craven," by May Sinclair, stands at the head of the fist. It is developing into a very powerful story. But the rest of the table of contents suffers nothing by comparison with this. W. A. Fraser contributes the fourth in his series of racing stories under the title of "A Victim of Circumstances," a strong, dramatic tale, and full of action. Robert E. Mac-Alarney has a stirring automobile story called "Exit the Man-Killer," calculated to quicken the most sluggish blood. A delightful story, with tennis as the theme, is "The Inevitable Thing," by Frances Wilson. Joseph C. Lincoln, a perennial favorite with magazine readers, has one of his best humorous stories in "Ward and Reward." Mr. Lincoln, by the way, has just published his third book, "Mr.

What "Central' Does When You Call Today instead of working a crank o get "Central's" attention, you simpy put the receiver to your ear. Lifting the receiver off the hook lights a tiny electric lamp in the exchange. The light goes out when the switchboard operator thrusts into your line's answering jack a metal plug, the trp of the answering cord, one of a pair of thread-covered wire cords associated with your line. The calling cord's tip, plugged into the multiple jack of the number you give to "Central," lights another small lamp, termed a supervisory lamp. Pressing his commission, and for a number of | a key rings the bell of the given numwhom you desire to talk. When he takes up his receiver his supervisory lamp goes out. Hence there is no lamp alight while the conversation is n progress. The return of your reeiver to its hook lights your supervisory lamp. When the other subscriber hangs up his receiver, his supervisory lamp lights again. Both the conversation is closed. She pulls the cords out of the jacks, thus exinguishing the lamps and disconnectng the lines. Not a word of your onversation has been overheard, not second of time has been wasted. What a change from the telephoning f pioneer days-the days of Edison's attery crank ringing, helloting for bad language, and the wenty-mile limit!

> American hurry and nervousuesshave influenced the telephone's line of dvance. In the old days people would rget to ring off, and then "Cenrtral" had no means of determining when onversation was closed and the line vas released, except by sending quesions along the wires of the telephone users. Now, if, after you have put down your receiver, the other subscriber still holds his own wire, his little supervisory lamp tells that fact to "Central." Comparison of the complicated and expensive apparatus in use now with the apparatus of twenty years ago would prove that telephone engineers have spared no pains to minimize the work required of the subscriber. Today he does absolutely nothing, unless lifting the receiver to his ear is accounted something .- From "The Thirtieth Anniversary of a Great Invention," by John Vaughn, in the September Scribner.

Square Deal.

The best men the world has ever known have been the worst abused the most slandered and maligned. Public and private honor have never failed of pessimistic or envious detraction. Many honest and patriotic people were induced to believe that George Washington was an execrable character. Abraham Lincoln was the object of the most malignant misrepresentations during his lifetime. But, in time, that weakness in human nature which made seem fairly eager to think evil was impelled to yield to the nobler sense of justice and judgment, which is also fortunately, an inherent endowment of man, and the objects of the malevolence of the hour are seen, as the years wheel slowly on, more clearly in their noble proportions.—The Square Deal for August.

In meeting the assertions that the ates charged by the private car lines e excessive and that the "excessive ract" is unjust and oppressive to the shipper, Mr. Armour remarks:

It should be explained for the bene-It of the general public, that the servto for which the shipper pays the vate car line is that of refrigeration nd not hauling. The private car lines te care of the fruit from the moent it enters the car door until it res at its destination; it has nothwhatever to do with freight

Only the commonest kind of selfish mon sense is required to arrive at policy of keeping these refrigera. rates down to a point that will ster the fruit and berry industry and wate it to the broadest possible ansion. Any line of action less lib al than this would be short-sighted suicidal. This is the policy that steadily been pursued by the Arour Car Lines, and no doubt by their petitors. They do not own or control he transportation avenues over which the raw material comes to market, They do not, or could not if they would, control the means of distribution to the consumer, because this product goes, not to comparatively a few large users, but to each family individually that helps to make up the total of milions on millions of eaters of American meat on this continent and throughout

"Without control of some, or at least of one, of the commercial instrumentaltties mentioned no industry can be monopolized."

"The packer uses a material that Is quite perishabe, and a large part of his finished product-fresh meats-is highly perishable; so he is taking risks at both ends of his business. He cannot 'scalp the market' or 'discount the future,' take advantage of a temporary market condition and load up with raw material to be manufactured at his leisure and at a great profit; nor can he, when the demand slumps, continue to run his plant and store up finished product against the day of higher prices."-(380 pages. That "Black Note"

"I have to report," said the girl whose hair looked as if the sunshine had been caught in the mesnes, "that my week-end at Southampton has convinced me that we ought to be up and doing in regard to the black note that is creeping into the fashions. At the Casino dance I specially noticed it, and it was used in the smartest of ways. Therefore, my frill, which I respectfully submit to the club this morning, is a little ribbon velvet bolero all in black. I am making one for myself of black ribbon velvet bands, alternating with narrower bands of black lace insertion. It has full elbow sleeves and I know when I wear it with my light-colored summery clothes it is going to look too smart for anything." "There is no denying that every thing is the little wrap just now. From the very start I have felt as though I were contributing more than my share to the fine-box, and some weeks ago I just determined that I would not pay for all the lunch in town, and so I wrote a beseeching letter to a girl I know who's in Paris this summer," said the secremy good money was being wrung from me, and told me a lot of new little things about the fashions. She, too, spoke of the black tendency, and said that big black-and-white checked silk skirts were being worn by the really, truly Parisienne. She said that all the French women were wearing a natural flower or two somewhere on their costume, and the rarer the flower the better they liked it. "She also added, they often wear natural flowers as a hat trimming, chang- | ger. For all that, he looked as happy ing them two and three times a day. anything like the hatpins, that it was a manuscripts, to provide himself with toss-up whether they reminded her pate de foie gras and peanuts before more of a hen's egg or a stocking darn- | marching on to New York." About Books and Authors The late Sir Henry Irving was an author as well as an actor, several books being to his credit, and his son, Henry B. Irving, is following in his father's footsteps in both lines. Whether he will achieve equal fame in both directions remains for the future to show, but he is at least gaining something of a reputation as a writer. He has lately published a volume of essays dealing chiefly with dramatic themes One essay touches upon the art and status of the actor, and another, which was read as a paper before the Royal Institution, is a consideration of the stage in the eighteenth century. Several of the papers are studies in criminology, into which Mr. Irving plunged deeply some years ago with his biography of Judge Jeffreys. People who are not in the book publishing business wonder sometimes at the frequency with which new editions of standard books are issued and ask themselves if theer is need for such publication and why the old editions do not supply the demand. They do not reflect or do not know that there are fashions in books as in other things; that it does not take long for typography, binding and illustrations to acquire a look of being a little out of date. Also, plates wear out and later printings do not show as clear as the first. If one owns an old and originally satisfactory edition of any work, say of Scott's novels, he cherishes it and would not change it for any other; but if his library lacks these books and he wishes to supply the want, he looks, of course, for the most recent edition. The Harpers have just issued what they call the "Heather" edition of Scott in thirty volumes illustrated. The volumes contain valuable supplementary matter in addition to the romances. Actual reading of Scott's novels is confined, so far as most adults are concerned, to not more than half a dozen, usually two or three of the books, but commonly there is a feeling that they must be purchased in complete sets. To be able thoroughly to enjoy Scott one must read him in youth. As a rule in these days, those who in their later years take up his books for the first time, do not become his enthusiastic admirers. Scott should be provided for the boys and girls. It is in the 'teens that he is best enjoyed.

The following account comes from a Pittsburg newspaper office of one of O, Henry's earliest appearances in his lescent upon the east: "The Sunday editor was repeating his rosary of profanity before buckling down to work. At this critical moment the door opened. Every novelist who knows the A B C of his trade, when his story is getting slow, knows enough to write, There was a rap at the door,' and straightway, if he has any faith in himself at all ,he will be as deeply interested as his most impressionable reader could be, to see who is going to entary of the club. "She wrote me an | ter. But the man who blew into that awfully funny letter, deproring the way newspaper office that afternoon did the rounded muscle as it swelled her not take time to rap. He was in a hurry because he was hungry. He had an inside coat pecket bulging with manuscript, and a vacuum in the compartment consecrated to small change, the thrifty housewife can still negotiate them for pots and pans. He looked as if he had seen much of the world, and a good deal of it had stuck to him. He evidently had no safety razor, and wasn't going to court unnecessary danas a philosopher, and all he wanted "She said she had never dreamed of | was a dollar or two for some of those

OUR LAY SERMON

Bid Dubbs sat on a fence rail for three hours Twoday whittling."-Leesburg (Mo.) Light.

To sit on a fence rail requires little energy. something of course, if the sitting be graceful, and of It were so to speak nevertheless and so on. But grace is not the whooptoroora of life. It doesn't buy peanuts at a circus. So, with all his beauty of movement and the artistic detail with which he draped his legs about the fence Bid stands convicted, unless, perchance, our hero be the victim of some envious slan-But still the incident may be of some value as a warning to the fouth of America. The spirit of modern America may be summed up in the little word hustle. The man who sits on a fence rail for three hours and whittles belongs to another age and another land. He is wasting golden opportunities. He is allowing his life to go by and the world to turn around without his accomplishing what he ought to accomplish. In the three hours that Bid sat on the fence rail he could have gone to the village store and postoffice and with a few other sages of Leesburg solved all the problems of the government. He could have read a book. He could have made up his mind, packed his clothes in a bandanna, caught the train and headed for the city to become a millionaire. Instead, he sat on a rail and

Are you a Bid Dubbs? Do you figuratively sit on the fence rail and whittle? Are you allowing opportunities to slip past? Are you letting the "other fellow" get ahead of you in the contest for modest, lithesome, bewitching Nancy? If so, change your ways. Don't be a Bid Dubbs. The Bid Dubbses never amount to anything.-Louisville Courier-Journal.

Young man just starting out in life, you cannot afford to be a whittler. You cannot permit yourself to degenerate into a Bid Dubbs and spend golden moments that should be employed making your way in a busy world in whittling a piece of inanimate wood down to a fine point. The man who whittles never accumulates anything but shavings, and shavings do not pass at par in exchange for even the common necessaries of life

Whittling is a pleasant occupation, we grant you. With a roll of good navy tobacco in your mouth, a sharp knife and a good piece of soft wood you can soon establish evidences of your whereabouts, but when you have spent the day in this manner you find yourself at the identical point at which you started. The world is none the better for the fact that you have spent another day in it and the family larder has not been replenished through your exertions. Better saw wood literally.

The man who literally saws wood usually does so not from sheer love of the exercise, but through the pe of promised reward in the form of a stipend that will pass as circulating medium with the butcher and the grocer. As an occupation it is a little more enervating than that of whittling, but the reward is much more tangible and substantial. Saw wood and let the other fellow whittle.

One of the greatest troubles this world has to contend with today is that there are too many men who are trying to whittle their way through life. They have lost all their energy-have no hope and no ambition above the mere act of whittling. They congregate at some favorite loafing place, tell smutty yarns, deplore the universal bard times and whittle from early morn until dewy eve. Then they go nome and eat the supper the good wife has earned at the wash tub or borrowed from some indulgent neighbor. This procedure is repeated from day to day until the man finally whittles himself into eternity, leaving the world none the better for his stay here, and nothing behind him to keep his memory green except a house full of untidy and miserable children. Young man, don't be a Bid Dubbs. You cannot afford it. Be a man. Do something in the world if it s nothing more than saw wood. You cannot afford | January the lobbyists will be in evidence as usual and its domicile.

to whittle, for there is no market for the shavings, Get a hump on yourself. Get a hustle on you that will cause all the moss to drop off your back and do something to earn an honest living. Labor is repugnant to contemplate, but it is the only avenue that leads to independence.

INCREASE IN TEXAS MANUFACTURING

The latest census bulletin issued gives figures on the growth of manufacturing in Texas that are peculiarly gratifying to every citizen who is interested in the matter of industrial development in this great state. In five years, from 1900 to 1905, the capital engaged in manufacturing in Texas increased 82 per cent, from $64,000,000 to $116,000,000. The total number of salaries were doubled and the salaries paid were a trifle more than that.

The number of wage earners increased 27 per cent, from 38,000 to 49,000, and wages paid increased 45 per cent, from $17,000,000 to $24,500,000. The average wage thus increased from $447 to $500 or nearly 12 per cent. The value of products went up during the five years from $93,000,000 to $150,000,000, or 62 per cent.

Conspicuous among the industries showing increased capital are flour and grist mills, increased from $4,-000,000 to nearly $8,000,000; foundries and machine shops increased from $2,800,000 to $4,800,000; ice works, from $2.500,000 to $5.100,000; lumber companies, increased from $12,000,000 to $18,500,000; cottonseed oil mills, from $8,000,000 to $14,000,000; printing and publishing, from $3,000,000 to $6,000,000; meat packeries, from $1,000,000 to $6,000,000 In 1900 the rank of the various industries as to value of products was as follows: (1) Lumber and timber, (2) cottonseed products, (3) flour and grist mill products, (4) railway shops, (5) printing and publishing, (6) meat packing, (7) breweries. In 1905 the rank had changed materially, and was as follows: (1) Flour and grist mill products, (2) cottonseed products, (3) lumber and timber, (4) meat packing, (5)

dries and machine shops. In no branch is the growth of the state better illustrated than in the publication of newspapers and periodicals. In 1905 there were 75 more newspapers and periodicals than there were in 1900, the total number in 1905 being 800. In 1905, 154 typesetting machines were reported, as against 15 such machines in 1900.

railway shops, (6) printing and publishing, (7) foun-

In the matter of wage earners, Fort Worth shows up fourth in the list, but with the unprecedented development now taking place here in that direction, the next census is going to show some very surprising developments in the matter of the standing of the Texas cities in this respect. There is more factory development and building in Fort Worth today than in any other Texas city, and the next census will show this city well up to the front in the matter of both increased manufacturing and number of wage earners, who, after all, are the real city builders.

LANHAM'S CONFEDERATE SPEECH

If Governor Lanham was making that same old Confederate speech that he has been accused of carrying in stock since the surrender, when he was hooted down at Dallas, then the blame was not altogether on the one side. The governor has delivered that speech until it has become a trifle wearisome, and Dallas was too hot a town for the indulgence of many platitudes .-Fort Worth Telegram.

This is "the most unkindest cut of all." Such a cut, coming from an enemy even, would have been illtimed and ungenerous, but when it comes from one who had heretofe claimed to be Governor Lanham's friend, it is mean, cruel and contemptible. In point of eloquesce and beauty, Governor Lanham's Confederate speach is a masterpiece and it finds a responsive echo wherever whe ever delivered in the south. And no matter what his subject may have been, he should have been given a respectful hearing by a democratic convention he was invited to address, and State Topics can but believe that the convention was laboring under him that respect to which a governor of Texas is entitled. State Topics has not been at all backward in criticising Governor Lanham's official acts, but State Topics would be the last to endorse the action of the democratic convention at Dallas which, if intentional, was disgraceful and altogether uncalled for.—Austin

The Telegram means no disrespect or unkindness to Governor Lanham in its reference to that celebrated Confederate speech, for that speech is a genuine stem winder, all wool and several yards wide and long. It is a speech that has captivated thousands and brought forth the old Confederate yell with a whoop that made the welkin ring upon hundreds of occasions. It is chock full of pathos, overflowing with rhetorical expressions and bring full of old-time patriotism that pertains to the Old South. It has never failed to touch the hearts of the governor's hearers and put better and nobler thoughts under their shirt bosoms. But the trouble with that Confederate speech is the fact it has whiskers, and when the gentle breezes blow through those whiskers displaying the hoary side that lies underneath the effect is wearisome.

The small boy who obtains access to a sugar barrel can so gorge his stomach with saccharine matter that the last hand full he gulps down loses all its sweetness and he looks askance at the balance of the barrel's contents and wonders why it is so. The same condition attaches to Governor Lanham's Confederate speech. It was a gem of purest ray serene when it was first placed in commission, but the public has been gorged until it has lost its sweetness. The Telegram is just as much the friend of Governor Lanham today as it ever was, and just as ready to defend his democratic state administration. But when it comes to that Confederate speech The Telegram is compelled to draw the line and incontinently take to the brush. There are some things entirely beyond our province. But The Telegram does not indorse the discourtesy shown Governor Lanham at Dallas. It has denounced that exhibition of hoodlumism in unmeasured terms.

LOBBYING CONTRARY TO LAW

The state democratic platform adopted at Dallas declares in unmistakable terms against the practice of lobbying and demands the enactment of a law that will prohibit the practice by the next state legislature. It is interesting to note in this connection that the courts have already declared lobbying unlawful, from the fact it is against public policy.

In Le Tourneaux vs. Gillis, 82 Pacific Reporter 627. it is declared that "lobbying," which has a well defined meaning, and signifies the addressing or soliciting of members of a legislative body for the purpose of influencing their votes, is contrary to public policy, irrespective of the question whether it is carried on in such manner as to constitute a crime, and hence a note given for money advanced for the expenses of a person to enable him to engage in the business of lobbying cannot be enforced.

According to the terms of this decision, no contract entered into in the process of lobbying before a state legislature can be enforced by law. The lobbyist on either side of the question is without the pale of the law, so far as the enforcement of any contract that may have been entered into is concerned.

When the state legislature convenes at Austin next will be active until the passage of the contemplated law prohibiting their operations. It is interesting to note that under the general law their operations are already classed as unlawful.

Farmers say the cotton plants are now all running to weed, in many instances being higher than a man's head, and dry hot weather is badly needed to cause the proper fruitage. With proper weather there is still much cotton in Texas that will average a bale to the Colonel Ned Green has accepted the nomination for governor tendered him by the reorganized republicans of the state, and the fight against Colonel Cecil Lyon will now merrily proceed. And it will be a fight to Common point territory has been restored to west Texas points, and the people of that section are greatly pleased with the result. The railways could not withstand the heavy pressure brought to bear for the restoration of former conditions.

Commission figures from Austin show the Texas railroads to be still enjoying an era of great prosperity, Involving an increase in earnings amounting to 11.71 per cent. And this will doubtless be but a signal for another assault on rates.

The state authorities at Austin are looking into the matter of defiance of the separate coach law by the negro Ellis a few days ago, and the indications are that it means trouble for Ellis and the Pullman com-

It is reported from Washington that this government will soon intervene in the matter of the Cuban revolution, and that is about the only manner in which the fracas can be stopped.

It is alleged that Senator Bailey is in a combination to bring Editor R. T. Milner of Henderson out as a candidate for railroad commissioner. Is this another jab at the sensitive Colonel Colquitt?

The Campbells have come, and now the office seekers and place hunters are out after the Campbells. And they are going to make Campbell get another hump

That Illinois indorsement of Bryan has a Sullivan string to it that robs it of much of its flavor so far as Texas democrats should turn out in full force this year and give Tom Campbell one of the old-time Texas democratic majorities.

Texas will probably have a bigger cotton crop this year than she has produced in five years, and that should make conditions better all over the state than they have been for a year. Eastern Texas is said to be especially blest with good cotton, and when east Texas prospers, all the state prospers.—Sherman Register.

Texas will make a big cotton crop this year if there is a let up in the work of Jupiter Pluvius. Too much rain has been falling now for several weeks, and there is already complaint of boll worms in many localities.

Mr. Bryan is still in the Old Country, but his Presidential boom is still growing and progressing each day. Probably there never has been a man who was so strong with the democrats of this country as Mr. Bryan. -Gainesville Messenger.

It is wonderful how the Bryan sentiment has grown among the people without any apparent fostering influence. It seems to be a procedure that is wholly spontaneous among the masses, who are turning to the great Commoner with rare unanimity from one end of the country to the other. It is a great tribute to William J. Bryan, but he deserves it.

. . . . The Fort Worth papers were noticeable this morning by the absence of the Bell headlines. They made a great fight for their man.—Sherman Register.

And the Fort Worth papers had a man worth fighting for. There is no excuse or apology due from the papers of Fort Worth for the fight they put up in the recent gubernatorial campaign.

* * * * The newspapers do most of the work in the campaigns, but the smooth politicians rush in just before the curtain falls and hog the act.—Denison Herald. The politicians would hog the universe if the opportunity was extended them. They never fall to score when they can make a landing.

* * * * Ella Wheeler Wilcox says there ought to be children in every home, but neglects to tell the world how many there are in her own .- Austin Statesman.

Some one who knows Ella has vouchsafed the information that she is a boarder. Under the circumstances it is plain she refers to other homes.

. . . . If Governor Campbell is going to hold the legislative session until he gets the legislation the democratic platform demands, perhaps it would be just as well to adopt that constitutional amendment fixing the salary of legislators at $1,000 a year, instead of so much per diem.—San Antonio Express. Members of the legislature are already resenting Campbell's public assertion that he will keep that body in session until all platform demands are engrafted into state laws. There is a gay time in prospect at Austin.

. . . . Colonel Garrison of Timpson declares the sheriffs' association defeated him for treasurer. That may be true, but there was an impression out that Sam Sparks had something to do with it. Two hundred and ten thousand democrats swatted the colonel .- Dallas

It was whispered that Garrison was the candidate of the present state treasurer, and that rumor had a great deal to do with the swatting he received.

The contract labor law is being enforced against Mexico, but that does not prevent the gentle Juan from slipping over the Rio Grande and helping gather Texas' immense cotton crop.—Austin Tribune. And south Texas needs the Mexicans badly in the gathering of the big cotton crop. Planters in that section are up against a very hard proposition in the matter of obtaining the help they are now needing.

The Fort Worth Telegram, like the dead westerner, "did its d-dest (for Bell) and the best could do no more, stranger." Poor confrere, you have an awful dose of crow to tackle. How we do pity thee .- Tex-

The Telegram had rather have a ragged one dollar bill than all the sympathy the Courier can possibly muster. As that paper was a Colquitt supporter, it would seem there is a dish of crow also lurking about

CHARACTERISTIC

Governor Pennypacker recently summoned a placeholder in one of the departments into his private office. When the man entered the governor was unusually affable and in a rare good humor.

"Smith," said the governor, after five minutes had elapsed, "you are not kept very busy with your work,

"Not very, governor," confided the man.

"In fact," said Mr. Pennypacker, "you seldom get to Harrisburg except on warrant day, do you?"

The placeholder was encouraged to be frank by the governor's good humor, and he admitted that one day a month was the extent of his time in the state

"Well, Mis-ter Smith," drawled the governor, in his peculiar fashion, "I'm going to make your burden still lighter. You needn't come to Harrisburg on warrant day. I have another man who will draw the salary."

. . . . OTHER REASONS

When Charles Dudley Warner was a newspaper editor in the early sixties, he was accustomed to write his editorial upon the war with fervid haste, regardless of all consideration of handwriting.

One day a compositor left the composing room and appeared at the editor's desk.

"Mr. Warner." he said. "I have decided to enlist in the army." With mingled emotions of pride and responsibility,

"Oh, it isn't that," said the truthful compositor, "but I'd rather be shot than set your copy."

Mr. Warren replied: "I am pleased that you feel the

. . . . WHERE HOLMES WAS WEAK

Oliver Wendall Holmes was invited to deliver a free lecture in the central part of Massachusetts. He was not feeling very well, and he wrote the following reply to the committee in declining to accept the invitation:

"I am far from being in good physical health, and I am satisfied that if I were offered a fifty-dollar bill after my lecture I should not have strength enough to refuse it."

* * * * DANGEROUS PASTIME

In a Georgia town there lives an old negro couple. Uncle Mose, the husband, is famed for several counties around for his banjo playing. Not long ago, however, a lady, wishing to give some northern visitors a sample of what a genuine old negro can do with a banjo, called at the cabin and stated her wishes to Aunt Sal.

"'Deed chile, dat ole nigger ain't playin' dat banjo no mo'," Aunt Sal said, pointing to where the instrument hung, covered with cobwebs, upon the wall. "He des put in all his time fishin' now."

"Why, what caused him to give it up-has he been converted?" the visitor asked.

"'Deed, dat wufless nigger neber will git conberted, loney. No, he des' got skeered." "Scared? Of what?"

"Dat minstrel show done done it, Miss Mary," Aunt Sal explained. "De boss o' dat show he hearn mah ole man playin', an' he offered him a steady job doin' hit. Yassum, an' hit skeered him so bad he quit playin' dat banjo right dar!'

MUTTERINGS OF A MISANTHROPE

THE SUMMER BOY

At this time of year it is usually necessary to hand Little Bright Eyes the gypsy's warning, not that it does any good, but a duty is fulfiled. Look out for the Summer Boy, the male belle at the resort, the calculating cuss who gumshoes to where there are nothing but women, so that he can be the IT.

He will have it that he is a Good Samaritan, to whom the fair sex owes gratitude. But nix. He is a tightwad. That's why he's not off having a real vacation

Being the center of a bevy is the height of dissipation for the Summer Boy. A bevy is a cluster of spen-work, talcum powder and giggles. Its masculine prototype is a bunch of men round a crap table. The Summer Girl must be amused, and at the Summer Boy she justly is. He never tips the waiter, and he always presses his trousers himself, yet he puts on crust as if he were the Big Wheeze in the City National Bank.

However, by the end of the first week she gets so blame used to him that she doesn't hesitate to use the powder rag in front of him, because she realizes he doesn't count. All the same, he will go home and brag about it to the boys in the billiard hall.

By the way, the Summer Boy is the jovial cuss whom you see kodaked wearing a girl's hat in the most kittenish manner. Being taken with a glass of beer in the hand may be forgiven when you allow for the condition of the sitter, but there is no such excuse for the Cut-up decked out in millinery. There is nothing to do but let the Fool Killer do his worst. He would get life anyhow for carrying a fan in his coat pocket where he sports a red silk handkerchief in winter. You've seen him flip it out with the remark, "Is it hot enough for you?"

The Summer Boy is in his zenith if he can have the use of an auto and take all the girls out. He never fails to the axiom that no one can sling a more fluent line of bunk than the gell who wants an "ottamobeel"

Yes, Mabel, when you meet him in town you are "puffecly" justified in snubbing a fourflush acquaintance of the summer. He was a butterfly then, but you can hand him a moth ball now.

OLD TIMES, OLD FRIENDS, OLD LOVE There are no days like the good old days. The days when we were youthful! When humankind were poor of mind, And speech and deeds were truthful-

Before a love for sordid gold Became man's ruling passion, And before each dame and maid became Siave to the tyrant Fashion!

There are no girls like the good old girls-Against the world I'd stake 'em! As buxom and smart, and clean of heart As the Lord knew how to make 'em! They were rich in spirit and common sense. And piety all supportin'; They could bake and brew, and had taught school to

And they made such likely courtin'! There are no boys like the good old boys-When we were boys together! When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet that dimpled the laughing heather;

When the pewee sang to the summer dawn, Of the bee in the billowy clover, Or down by the mill the whip-poor-will Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love-The love that mother gave us! We are old, old men, yet we pine again For that precious grace-God gave us! So we dream and dream of the good old times. And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder, As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams Of heaven away off yonder. -Eugene Field

OUR GROWING FOREIGN COMMERCE

The story of American foreign commerce neve grows old. Every study of it serves but to impres one more and more with a sense of the command and still growing importance of the United States in the field of international trade. Some weak spots there are-South America and the want of American ocean going steamships, for instance, but the record as a whole is one of startling success, particular during the years since 1896. Furthermore, the completed figures of the bureau of statistics of the depart. ment of commerce and labor for the fiscal year closed June 30 last show that, while our population has increased by 20 per cent in the last decade, our enports have increased by 109 per cent, and our imports

On the export side, agricultural products and manufactures made the largest gains in the ten year namely 70 per cent, and 163 per cent, respectively, These are not imaginary figures. This increase has occurred with all the grand divisions of the world but notably with Asia and Oceania. To Africa exports increased 41 per cent, to Europe 78 per cent, to South America 107 per cent, to North America 164 per cent, while to Asia and Oceania the increase was 282 per

Total increase 1906 over 1896$862,000,000 On the import side the ten years work is also emnently satisfactory. While manufactures imported show an increase of 42 per cent, yet materials for manufac-'ure increased 95 per cent. The items in which these ucreases mainly come are:

MORGAN TO AID MUSIC PALACE

American Millionaire Contributes Liberally

(BY PAUL VILLIERS.) (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)

PARIS, Aug. 25 .- Thanks to the generosity of J. Pierpont Morgan, it is said, this city is to have in the very near future the largest and most beautiful palace of music in the world. In spite of much opposition the fanous music publisher, Gabriel Astruc, has succeeded in getting the permission of the municipal authorities to build in the park on the northern side of the Champs Elysees what he calls a "Pal-als Philharmonique," on the site of the former Cirque d'ete. As soon as he had obtained this permission he began to look about for the necessary means to build the structure, but although he put himself down for a large amount, and though his plan was indorsed by every French composer and musician of note, and counted among its patronesses such prominent women as Countess Greffulhe and Countess Baron, the money came in very slowly, and there seemed little respect of realizing the project until a cablegram was received from J. Piervery large amount, which far surpassed what M. Astruc had dared to hope for. With the check of the American financier, the success of the undertaking was assured and within a very few months architects in all parts of the world will be asked to compete for the unique building, which is to be put up in the very heart of the metropolis. No time will be wasted; the architects will be given only six weeks to prepare their plans and by the middle of November actual work on the foundation is expected to begin. M. Astruc has just left for Bayreuth and Munich, where he will make a special study of the great opera houses, but he is expected back by the first of September, when the competition

At the present time this city has no concert hall which begins to compare in size with the Philharmonic in Berlin or even with the Carnegie Hall in New York, and many attempts have been made to build a proper one, but hitherto all without success. M. Alstruc expects to have three concert halls in his palace of music; one big enough to contain 5,200 people, one 2,200 and one

As if to disprove the statement repeatedly made in the newspapers that he had become nothing but a tool in the hands of the Jesuits, Pope Piux X. has astonished all Rome by opening a veritable press bureau inside the walls of the Vatican. Newspaper correspondents will by applying to this bureau be given reliable information as to what is really going on within the immense building which now for years has been the jail of the successor to

This is only one of the objects of the bureau, however. A special staff of young men will have the task of readng newspapers from all the large cities of the world and prepare clippings for the use of his holiness who finds it impossible to keep himself informed on what is going on in the world. The clippings relating to his own person and to anybody connected with the papal household will be kept separate, and if any erroneous statements are found they will be denied by the bu-

The kaiser has a similar bureau in his palace at Potsdam. It seems that the bland and childike Pope Pius is far more up to date than generally thought or should it be possible, as some say, that the bureau was started for the purpose of preventing the pope from seeing what the cardinals do not want him to see and to give out such information from the Vatican as will best suit the purposes and aims of Cardinal Merry del Val

Italian Duel the Reaf Thing

If the "French duel" has made a laughing stock of Frenchmen the world over, because of its lack of danger, the Italian duel is of an entirely different kind as was plainly shown the other day when a rich manufacturer of Vanconna hurt the feelings of a cavalry officer of the same city. A duel, or rather a series of duels, dent that either of them was too weak to wound the other. Pistols were again resorted to, and already at the first snots, both were wounded, the manufacturer in the calf and the officer in the right hip. By this time both of them were in a state of collapse and it was resolved to cease hostilities until a later day. It is the intention of both to keep up fight-followed. First the two men tried to kill each other with swords, none of them, however, succeeding in drawing blood. Tired then of the swords they went for each other with pistols with a result that the officer was wounded in the region of the collar bone, while the manufacturer received a bullet through the right arm. As soon as their wounds had been bandaged and they had recovered from the loss of blood, the two combatants again faced each other with foils until it was evi-

Last year what was thought to be sub-basements were found under the famous buildings but further inrestigation brought out the fact that they were actually the ground floors of the palace, and in a year or two, Americans who visit this city will find the buildings which contain the most costly art treasures in the world, separated from Rue de Rivoli, Place St. Germbain-'Auxerrois and from Quai du Louvre by moats filled with water.

Just as Guerrero, the beautiful young Spanish dancer, was about to leave Paris the other day to fulfill an engagement at Aix-Ies-Bains, she was threatened with the possibility of having to appear upon the stage in a sheet by way of a costume. One of her creditors here placed an embargo on her clothing and jewelry. The matter was brought into court and Guerrero was permitted to take possession of her costumes, but her jewelry she was obliged to leave in the hands of her creditors

Several months ago Guerrero was being cared for in a nursing house suffering from nervous disorders brought recovered her health, but is obliged still she goes off the stage after a dance a maid awaits her in the dressing room with a bath robe dripping with ice water. The dancer immediately discards all clothing and is wrapped in the ice cold robe. After ten minutes of this treatment she dons a loose warm garment and hurries home in an auto to sleep for a couple of hours.

Thought They Had a Murderer The Vicomte de Louvois has just had narrow escape from lynching under y received from Egypt a case containing a mummy with numerous trinkets, vases, pieces of cloth, etc., which had been found in its tomb. As the Vicomte cares only about the historical objects which are found in the Egyptian tombs, and not at all about the personages, he put the mummy back in the box and gave it to the ragpicker who daily overhauled his garbage box, with the injunction to "take it out and the ragpicker was curious and opened the box before carrying it away. When he spied the body of a human being he was convinced that the Vicomte had committed a crime. He called the police and a crowd gathered about the door of the nobleman's home and would have lynched him could they have got inside. The mysterious box was taken to the commissioner and the police had the greatest difficulty in persuading the crowd that the corpse was over a thousand years old and the Vicomte

LOSES CROSS, HONORED

Sarah Bernhardt Will Not Receive Decoration, but Is Made Idol BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.

Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) PARIS, Aug. 25 .- Never in her life has our great actress, Sarah Bernhardt, been more praised, feted, glorified, than since the Council of the Legion of Honor refused to decorate her. The truth about this incident has only so far been whispered. The fact is that it is because our great artiste was once, though for a few days only, and in her quality of theatrical manager, declared bankrupt, that the red ribbon which is the insigna of the order has been refused

The public does not ignore that the statutes of the order are formal on this subject, no bankrupt may be admitted among the legionairies; however, public opinion would be glad for once to see them disregarded. It is not a great injustice to make the weight of a momentary and amply redeemed misfortune overbalance a lifelong career of splendid achievement such as has been that of Madame Sarah Bernhardt. It is probable when the council of finisters render a decision of the subject, they will use this statute as an excuse for not offending the council of the Legion by imposing Madame Bernhardt upon it.

In this case it is made of white mull and is trimmed with bandings of Valenciennes lace, but it would be charming in chiffon, in crepe de chine and similar silk materials as well as in the many lovely muslins of the season. As it can be made either in round or walking length, it suits a variety of occasions. Again, if the corselet effect is not desired, the belt can be omitted and the yoke only used, the skirt so terminating at the waist In either case there is perfec smooth fit over the hips while the skirt and the flounce are abundantly full. The skirt portion is cut in five gores and both it and the flounce are gathered at their upper edges and joined one to the other and to the corselet. This last consists of belt and yoke portions that are joined at the waist ine. The closing is made invisibly at

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Margaret's Claim

Eric Edworth, the wild and veneast one conscientious thing the day he gave to Polly Friendship the ring that sealed their engagement. He was to be gone nobody knew how long. "Only keep the secret till I'm home again," he said. "Wear it anywhere except on your finger. If my mother knew she'd go mad; but it will be all right in a year or two. "For my little wife-E. E." was engraved on the inner side of the golden

Polly returned to Sunbank cottage where she lived with her brother. Margaret Christmas had been there again ostensibly to visit Polly, but the latter well knew that it was Margaret's admiration for Roger Friendship that drew her so often to the house. He was free enough in his talks with Polly in expressing his opinion. He didn't think much of her, apart from "If she had some money, she'd do better, but not else. Tell her not to waste her eyes on me," said Roger. Polly couldn't do that. In a sense she was sorry for Margaret, in spite of much in her that she disliked.

One night Polly was going to bed when she made the terrible discovery that Eric Edworth's ring was lost. It had cut through the silk cord from which it was suspended around her She was heartbroken. Search of the house was in vain. She had spent the evening on the cliff with Margaret, and thither she went before breakfast. Margaret had not seen any ring and, besides, she did not seem to be in the least sympathetic. Two bitter, anxious days followed and then Roger brought home some news. Margaret had received a legacy of £1,000 from an uncle, he said, and had made it quite clear that he could have both her and the money. He was doubtful though, because Margaret had cautioned him to say nothing to her father about the legacy. A week later Roger told Polly it was settled. He had seen the money and next day he was to take Margaret as his wife. They would go to London and expand the thousand into a million.

In the morning a letter from Eric came to Polly. He had returned because he had found it impossible to leave Europe without her. Then was asked the question, how in the world had Margaret obtained possession of the ring and used it to play such eyes. Then returning home she told Roger, who raged as Margaret's de-

BY MALCOLM CLARKE. BERLIN, Aug. 25 .- There is every prospect now that the kaiser will eventually visit the United States, as ald his younger brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, a couple of years ago. During an audience granted the editor or a large German newspaper in New York, the kaiser said that he had no greater wish than to visit America and learn to know personally the great American people and President Roose. velt for whom he expressed the greatest admiration. "I think that I should enjoy a trip throughout the United States imnensely, if I could travel incognito, the kaiser said, "but that is, of course, of the question. If I come, for ere is still an if, I shall have to go

The kaiser jokingly added that when I was announced that he was to visit United States, the Brooklyn Art and Science Society, which has put his portrait, which he himself presented to institution, in a hallway, would probably hurry to move it to a more spicuous place.

It was also evident from the kaiser's words that he felt slighted because his gifts of plaster casts of German works of art had not been properly appreciated by the Harvard University. which is said to have been put in a part of the college building never seen

Herr August Schmidt, now a private in the Royal Russian army, but otherwise a doctor of laws, is exceedingly bitter against the military authorities. Only a few days ago, he once more saw daylight after having spent ter days in a prison cell, where he had served a term of imprisonment to which he had been sentenced by the court martial for the grave offence of blowing his nose.

Fears Kaffir Uprising great uprising is due in South frica, according to the belief of Dr. Karl Peters, the famous German explorer and traveler. At a recent speech in the city of over, the doctor said that during is trip through Africa, from which ne had just returned, he saw many evilences of the Kaffir danger which threatens the European colonies. He expressed the firm conviction that a negro uprising against the white peo. ple in Africa is unavoidable, and must come within a couple of years. Everywhere, he said, he noticed agitators at work among the native population, and he was surprised at the strength of the Ethiopian movement which has grown so immensely during the present year, that its advocates already control and publish six daily newspapers which do nothing but publish hatred and war against the whites. Braving the anger of the kaiser who distinctly has made her understand that her presence in Berlin was not wanted at any time, Grand Duchess Anastasia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, the mother of Crown Princess Cecilie, the other day suddenly arrived from Cannes and took rooms in a hotel in the Unter den Linden like any ordinary traveler.

Although she has been here for more than a week and her presence is known to all Berlin, she has not received any communication from the Imperial parace or a visit from her daughter who is at Potsdam with her baby, only a few miles awas.

The grand duchess, however, has declared that she will not go away until she has seen her grandson, and it is safe to bet that she will force her will through, even if she has to use threats to do so. The kaiser is too much afraid of the scandals she might make to oppose her beyond a certain make for the better time when war will cease, and will be in herself the prophetess of peace, but if women are to be enlisted in rifle clubs, and are to share the sentiments of so many of their husbands and brothers, who honestly feel that in times of peace, with no one to kill, life is barely worth living, the day when war will cease will be indefinitel retarded.

I am perfectly in accord with the sentiment that it is necessary that men should learn how to protect their country, but why should woman be enlisted in the process while she is not allowed to take her share in the upbuilding of the country when it is in a peaceful condition? It is surely illogical that she be required to be among its defenders in times of war It is strange that while we see every conceivazle condemnation hurled at the "suffragists," as they are now called, I have read nothing about the unwomanly woman who practices with men at the rifle range. I presume their exemption is due once more to the idea that woman's service may possibly be demanded to defend man and his property, and this protects her from the censure which she incurs when she

Those who claim the vote are for the most part among the intellectual workers who have shaken themselves | in the primitive place of worship under loose from the bonds of conventionality. The vote, however, is a minor matter with many of the feminist school. What they care for most is that all avenues of work should be opened up to them, and legal disabilities removed.

CONAN DOYLE A RELIGION CRITIC

Says Public Worship Constitutes No Test

Special Cable to The Telegram.

(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) LONDON, Aug. 25.-Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has entered the lists and has declared that public worphip is no test at all of whether a nation is or is not religious, any more than it is a test as to whether the individual is religious. "Never have I known a person who was good because he went to church," he says, "or evil because he did not," and then he goes on to put some practical tests as to whether religion is really a force in the national life, and he says he is bound to come to the conclusion that it is not. "The question lies, I think, rather in what people really call religion, in what people really get when they go to church. The fact that they assemble together within a large handsome building and hear a man preach, or listen to more or less expensive music and to a more or less expensive organ, that they sing hymns the truth of which finds very little echo in their hearts and still less in their lives, does not go to make religion. "If we believe in the Real Presence of in a Person, and in a set of facts formulated in a creed, handed down from earliest Christian times. If those facts are honestly true to us, then there is no question of what follows As in the early church, the Christians met together to celebrate the great mysteries and to worship the Christ who bade them believe that He would be in their midst, so Christians today will act in precisely the same manner. If we believe in the Real Presence of Christ it is very unlikely that we should not want to worship where He is best to be found. The trouble is we have got away from primitive teaching, simple thought and a real grasp of Divine mysteries, and all the newspaper talk in the world and all the articles that ever can be printed will never be as eloquent as one glimpse of the sandy caves and the rude tombs, and the spirit of devotion which lingers the Roman roads.

New Hotel Popular

The new Ritz hotel in Piccadilly has certainly "caught on" with Americans who are enthusiastic about the restau. rant, which opens on the Green Park and also about its ball room, which has already been booked for several winter balls.

Although London is supposed to be absolutely deserted, there are still plenty of people staying at the hotels and giving little dinner parties. Mrs. Ben Ali Haggin, of New York, who has been taking a cure near Paris, is making the Ritz her headquarters, and here, too, were to be seen Mr. an Mrs. Thomas Hastings and Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard Ronalds.

The Savoy Hotel and the Carlton are still fairly full of Americans who cannot secure the accommodation they require on steamers. There has been an immense demand of late for hired motor cars which are let out for country trips at $25 and $35 a day.

Rosslyns Reconciled The erratic Earl of Rosslyn is once more reconciled to his wife, formerly Miss Anna Robinson, the American actress, and the couple have been yachting together, Lady Rosslyn paying all expenses.

It was the rather serious illness of Lady Rosslyn which brought her husband to her side, and a friend who saw the two at Copenhagen recently, described them as being like a very newly married couple. For many months Lord Rosslyn never went near his wife. and at one time last winter was frequently seen at Monte Carlo in the company of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jarrott (his first wife).

Lord Rosslyn's friends are now anxously awaiting fresh developments. Everything appears to depend on the extravagances of the earl, whose wife holds the purse strings.

American Peeress a Widow Much sympathy has been felt for Lady Waterlow (nee Margaret Hamilton of San Francisco), whose husband, Sir Sydney Waterlow, died recently. Sir Sydney was old enough to be the father of the charming young girl he met when he was making a tour of the United States and whom he made his second wife.

The second Lady Waterlow brought her bother and her sister, Miss Alice Hamilton, to London and soon established herself as one of the most popular hostesses in London. Lady Waterlow has always been a great favorite with royalty, and more especially with the Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyl, who is her most intimate friend. Some curtosity has been aroused as to the late Sir Sydney's will. His old friends however know that Sir Sydney, in order to escape the heavy death duties, long ago settled his large country seat in Kent on his eldest son by his first marriage, who is now Sir Phillip Waterlow.

On Lady Waterlow Sir Sydney has settled his beautiful town house in Chesham Place, Belgravia, and also the Villa Monterey, Cannes, one of the most attractive places on the Riviera.

American Shopkeepers To the long list of lady shopkeepers already established in London must be now added the Misses Eno of New York, who are friends of the Whitelaw Reids and of most of the members of the American colony in London. After spending a season in town the Misses Bessie and Natalie Eno decided to go into partnership with an American who has run a millinery establishment in Davies street, Berkeley square, for the past two years. It is no ordinary partnership, however.

The Misses Eno, who are particularly clever and have wonderful taste, are going to do the actual selling in the shop. Miss Bessie is sailing at once for New York to buy American novelties and to spend some time at Newport, and Miss Natalie is already busy buying in Paris. The idea is to sell not only Parisian millinery, but little odds and ends of purely American origin. With so many friends in London and New York it is considered that they will have a great success. Lowell Letters to Be Sold

It has been definitely decided to put the James Russell Lowell letters, the property of the late Mr. Hodson, the 'Ambassador's Ambassador" at the United States embassy offices, up to auction some time in October.

These letters have been very carefully preserved. They are good examples of the poetic feeling and gentie humor of Lowell. With the exception of one from Bret Harte to Lowell, all of the letters are addressed to Mr. Hodson, who signs himself in nearly all of them "your devoted friend." One of the letters is in the form of a really brilliant poem, in which the writer threatens to haunt Mr. Hodson with his ghost if two cakes of tobacco for which Lowell was pining were not sent immediately. There is certain to be keen competition for the letters which Mr. Hodson's sons devoutly hope will be purchased. as they should be, by Americans for America.

Brother William Plans $500,000 Mansion

BY CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER. (Copyright, 1996, by Hearst News Service.) Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.-William Rockefeller is to erect a half million dollar mansion for his son, Percy, and family to occupy in Greenwich, on the borders of his deer park and almost on the site of the old hovel where David S. Husted, a miser, spent his last days. It is to be the finest house in town, no expense being spared. It will take two years to build. Percy Rockefeller's brother, William G. Rockefeller, lives almost across the street, his home being a remodeled farm house, resembling three separate boxes of different sizes, but very com-

LONDON, Aug. 25.-Lord Roberts has said many wise things, but I suppose it is the fate of everyone now and then to give utterance to sentiments that are neither wise nor worthy. Heavy Dealings in Group of Specialties-London Strength Causes Several New High Levels

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Aug. 25.-Dealings on the stock exchange today were largely centered in a small group of specialties, but these by their activity made up for any lack of animation in the general list. Lively trading in Harriman Pacifics, Atchison and St. Paul was the feature of the session, and all, with the exception of the last named, established new high records, while St. Paul reached its highest point of the year.

A strong London market with sharp advances in prices for the above-mentioned group was a prominent factor in the Wall street rise. Large blocks of St. Paul were bought on the opening call and the price ranged from 194 to 195, a net gain of 1% to 2% points. Union and Southern Pacific opened at a net gain of 34 to 1/2 and 5/8 to 7/8 respectively. In the Pacifics a large amount of stock came out on the opening rise, and the bulk of the initial gain was soon wiped out, but St. Paul moved upward with little interruption, reaching its best level at the close with the price standing at 198, a net gain of 5% points, and within % of the highest price ever reached, which was paid in 1902. Atchison also moved upward continuously, selling during the final hour at 107, a new high level, and a net gain of 2% points. The early recession brought out good buying orders for the Harriman issues and prices rose in unison with the other speculative favorites, both Union and Southern Pacific selling fractionally above opening figures during the last hour. Profit-taking again appeared, however, and the close found Union Pacific % net lower and Southern Pa-

All Developments Favor Reactionists, But Market Responds Poorly. Final Prices Little Higher

Epecial to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Aug. 25 .- All roads led to the cotton reactionists' camp today and the all-time bulls grew somewhat enthusiastic over the rather promising outlook for vindication of their contentions of the past ten or twelve days, as indicated by a wealth of gossip and overnight developments favorable to their cause. Despite this the reaction did not make much progress today, owing to the prevalence of evening up orders from longs who bought lower down, although yesterday's high level was touched and prices showed a small net gain at the

The Journal of Commerce summarized conditions in the Carolinas as bullish the Chronicle resume of the crop situation was of a less favorable tenor, and Liverpool prices at the close were several points above expectations. The only item which had a tinge of bearishness was the week-end statistics, although weather indications were favorable. Price issued a report, estimating condition of the crop as 67.8 as compared with 71.2 last month, and 65.7 in 1904. The market acted rather stubborn from the start and never did develop the strength due as a response to the day's news, opening figures being 7 to 9 points higher, which was not a full response to the foreign advance, while prices immediately showed a disposition to react from the initial advance, easing off gradually during the day, the close being steady at the lowest,

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25.-While the gossip in circulation today included a large share from the pen of the erstwhile bull leader and the extremely favorable action of the foreign market might, with all justification, have elated the reactionists and brought about a sharp rise in values, the cotton market behaved in a very disappointing manner and in truth almost entirely ignored the enhancement in English values, opening prices being only 3 to 5 points above yesterday's finals instead of 14 points higher as due in response to the foreign advance. CHICAGO GRAIN CATTLE AND HOGS VIEWS ON THE MARKET

Market Review for the Week The week just past marks a gain in receipts in all branches of the live stock trade. Marketings were as fol-

Hogs5,150 Sheep1,100 Horses and mules 420 For the previous week supplies aggregated: Cattle, 8,312; calves, 6,-852; hogs, 3,519; sheep, 586; horses and mules, 420.

Steers In the steer trade, light marketings have been followed by considerable strength in the market, both in beef steers and feeders. The latter have been forced up in price because packers have been short of killers and have resorted to the better class of feeders, those showing flesh and beef lines, in order to eke out their supplies. For much the same reason beef steers have strengthened in price, supplies having fallen below the needs of consumption. In the matter of short supply of beef cattle, this market has stood alone the past week, all northern points reporting largely increased supplies. The steer run for the week was overwhelmingly made up of straight grassers. Dry lot cattle in this territory are confined to a few scattered bunches, and cake fed stuff is about exhausted, leaving the main dependence to be placed on grass steers, whose degrees of excellence will from now on depend on the absence or presence of the fall rains, They may be expected to be in good fix if moderately dry weather shall supervene between now and the first of October. The market for beef steers closed the week 15c to 20c higher on nearly all killers. Monday and Tuesday brought in so few good killing steers, compared with the demand, that prices naturally advanced. Wednesday and Thursday were about steady and Friday made another gain, the notable feature being on eight loads of grassers from Clay county, averaging 1,118 pounds, on which the price was $3.70, compared with $3.60 for weightier and smoother territory grassers sold earlier in the week. The best steers on the market for the week made $4.25, good steers sold from $3.60 to $4, pretty good steers around $3,40 and light fleshed animals at $2.80@3.15. A few loads of canner steers sold at $2.30. Cows Butcher cows have come to market | 59... 226 in moderate numbers, though they have formed the bulk of all mature cattle receipts. Bulls

Bulls have been in better demand the greater part of the week, with prices stronger in the first half. Later, a decline set in that brought prices nearly to the level of a week ago. Calves

Calf receipts have been very liberal, the largest in any week for a month Monday opened with a steady to strong market, but since then prices have gradually tended downward, leaving choice calves 10c to 25c lower than at the close of last week. All calves of less degree have sold unevenly lower, being quoted from 25c to 50c below ruling prices a week ago. New Orleans stuff gained a quarter early in the week, but lost it all later.

Hogs All market points recorded higher prices on light receipts in the early part of the week. Here, a strong outside demand brought prices up sharply to the extent of a dime. When midweek passed with the outside support withdrawn the market rapidly declined losing all and more of the advance on light hogs, but closing the week fully steady on good mid-weight and heavy hogs. Light and range hogs declined fully 25c. Pigs declined a quarter for the week.

Sheep The market on sheep was firm during all days until Friday, when demand fell off and a load escaped bids. Supplies have been larger than for the corresponding period in some weeks. Good wethers sold from $4.75 to $5; yearlings at $5, and choice lambs at

Three loads of half fat medium weights sold at $3.75. This was steady. One load of heavy calves, averaging 311 pounds, made $3.25, a price that looked strong. On the late market the best light vealers sold at $4, about steady with the week's decline,

Cotton-Liverpool did her share toward a reaction today, but domestic traders were rather shy about doing much, though there was considerable activity among the professionals and the bull leader had out a crop estimate showing deterioration of about 31/2 points in past month, putting condition at 67.8 compared with 71.2 last month and 65.7 last year. There was nothing in the market after the report came out and prices failed to hold what strength they had, losing several points, indicating how much confidence the trade put in the figures. The weather map showed showers in most of the belt, though light, and forecast called for further showers over Sunday, but sentiment was not affected thereby, though sellers were made cautious. The Journal of Commerce report on the Carolinas was not bearish, yet it did not furnish bulls with matter on which to base activity, merely telling of some damage from too much rain, but not being so bad as to indicate a small crop. Some complaints came from other sections but they are not serious and have no effect upon the market. Altogether weather, crop reports and conditions are for a very good crop if not a bumper one, providing of course that nothing very serious happens. Spot demands show no signs of picking up, while movement of new crop holds up well and offers by spinners said to be increased with some professionals playing for reaction. C. T. VIVION.

With good cows the same amount of feed will produce milk and butter and certainly will bring in more money, if fed to cows that come in in October or November than those that are fresh in the spring. As a good deal of the milk is secreted during the milking, the quicker milking should get the most milk and the quantity should keep regularly up to the standard yield so long as the same quick method is practiced.

(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) able Special to The Telegram. BY COUNT DE CASTELLANE.

PARIS, Aug. 25.-A new, and if somewhat eccentric, certainly pretty fashion, has been introduced by some of our dainty mondaines. This new mode is for dogs, and consists of adorning their necks with velvet collars harmonizing in tone with their owner's gowns. The most fashionable and by far the most decorative large dog for having about the house is the greyhound, particularly the long silky haired Russian variety known as the Borzoi. These animals are greatly in favor with our pretty Parisiennes, who have imagined this new method of further enhancing their decorativeness. The beautiful Countess Viturinni, ho recently spent a few weeks Paris, was the first to introduce the fad. She has a magnificent pure white porzoi. When in the house her dog is as much her inseparable companion is are most women's diminutive King harles and other miniature spaniels. When the lovely Italian receives in a pale-blue mousseline de sole gown her orzoi wears around its graceful neck band of pale blue velvet fastened with a bucklet set with turquoises. If madame wears pink, the dog has a rose velvet collar with coral buckle. On very grand occasions when its mistress wears pure white, the dog has a white velvet collar with an antique buckle set in brilliants. In the street the dog's collar is of dark velvet, in harmony with the tailor gown of its beautiful owner, and the buckle is invariably of gold or silver without

There is something in all this, the Italian beauty and her bedecked dog that reminds one of the stories by Boccacio, of Florence in the fifteenth century, of the days when people were not ashamed to indulge their tastes for the bizarre, and life was gayer and more full of color in consequence.

BOMB KILLS THREE

Killing of Jew by Officer Results in His Death

By Associated Press. BERLIN, Aug. 25.-A dispatch to the Tageblatt from Kattowitz announces that a bomb was thrown in Bendzin. Russian Poland today, killing Police Captain Jakubik and two policemen nd dangerously wounding another policeman. The bomb evidently was intended for Jakubik, who commanded the patrol which on Monday killed a Jew. The explosion destroyed the district police office. A detachment of Cossacks fired several volleys and wounded a number of passers by.

WEST TEXAS BOOMING

J. J. Goodfellow Enthusiastic Over Conditions J. J. Goodfellow, county surveyor, has just returned from west Tevas, where he has been for some time surveying large tracts of land that will be put on the market. Mr. Goodfellow surveyed 25,000 acres of land for S. W. Swenson & Son in Jones, Haskell, Shackelford, Dickens and King counties that will soon be placed in the market, and besides he surveyed a large area of railroad lands that will also be placed on the market in a short time. "I never saw better conditions in any country than there now are in the section of Texas where I have been working. West Texas has been blessed with abundant and seasonable rains and growing crops are better than ever known in that section. Lots of cotton in west Texas will make a bale to the acre."

Ware's Black Powder STODDARD CAMPBELL'S LETTER

CURES DYSPEPSIA Catarrh of Stomach and Bowels, Constipation,

est disease in the world. The word dyspepsia means difficult digestion. There is every possible form of it from the slightest eructation and heartburn to the most horrible everpresent agony. The mildest cases are always relieved by a teaspoonful of the Black Powder taken immediately after meals. There is a form of dyspepsia accompanied by a great deal of heartburn. Persons so suffering should take Lactic Acid and make a half glass of water sour with 10 or 15 drops of it, and drink before meals. No Dyspeptic ought to diet himself to death. If you know any articles that agree with you, LIVE ON THEM ALONE, and use the Powder after every meal. You can never recover from Dyspepsia nor any other stomach trouble without an action daily from your bowels, and it ought to be secured, IF POSSIBLE, without a purgative. Take an injection every morning immediately after breakfast, of a quart of lukewarm water, or use a glycerine suppository. But secure an operation WITHOUT PURGATIVE and you will recover.

Milford, Texas, June 3, 1906. Ware Black Powder Co., Dallas, Texas. I have used Ware's Black Powder, and can say that I am entirely cured of stomach trouble. It is worth its weight in gold. I could not eat or sleep before I commenced using it, and now I can eat anything I want, and work all day, when before I could not work but just a few hours at a time. Just think that I have spent hundreds of dollars with doctors, but they did not do me much good. You cured me sound and well for $3 (three bottles of Ware's Black Powder). I thank you many times. BY STODDERT CAMPBELL, LONDON, Aug 18 .- All the world is watching Spain. These tremendous struggles between the vatican and the states of Europe are of intense interest everywhere, and especially in England. The Church of Rome no longer sends its armies into the field to wage real war in behalf of the church, but the vatican has a surer and a less bloody method of forcing a rebellious state to its knees. Sometimes the vatican fails to bring the refractory one into submission, and, as in the case of England, fails of its purpose-as in the case of France continues the struggle until the headline of "Church and State" is a standing nightmare from Thorne, 404 Gaston Avenue, Dallas, one generation to another. And now we are watching Spain. It is announced that the government will, if possible, avoid a breach with the vatican, but it has determined to defend the supremacy of the state. Let us

Of all the lands in all the world, none has been more under the Church of Rome than has Spain or her onetime colonies. Not only has she worked with the church as one man with another for a common purpose, but she even gave, as in the Philippines for so many generations, the actual government of the people over to religious orders. This proceeding has nowhere been acceptable to the people governed. The Filipinos went to war three times to put an end to the control of the priests and the friars, and the only two countries where the friars still have a hand in the affairs of state-Bolivia and Columbia-are the most backward in all Latin-America. Today even Spain, where was the stronghold of the Inquisition, is coming to do that for which she fought the Filipinos for years on end-throw off the control of the church in civil affairs.

It all comes about from the simple but vital question: Shall a Catholic man or woman, married according to the civil rite and not by the church, be buried in consecrated ground, or lowered to his last rest in ground where the church is not, outside the walls of the "holy field?" The church says no, and the state says yes. The vatican is briging remonstrances to bear, and the state continues to stand firm. The latest exchanges were pretty nearly in the form of an ultimatum from the pope, but the Spanish ministers have not receded an inch. France has just gone through it, with the result we all know, and there is reason to believe Spain is on the threshold of France's experience.

This very point, that of eternal rest in the "holy field" or on the roadside, was one of the bitterest of the quesiard, and if any one thing could have been said to have lost the islands to Spain, this was the thing. Spain has killed many a brown Filipino because he insisted upon this same privilege which Spain now declares shall be the | Turkish empire, but this may not come right of all Spaniards. How Russia Blows Its Nose I was speaking today with a young until bullets began whistling over the "I have a good bump of curiosity," he said, "and I wanted to see all I could. I think I would make a good newspaper man. The governor is in France, you know, and I took some friends up there to buy sable. I would have stayed had not some timid guests wanted to get away; otherwise I might have brought you a 'good story.'"

I asked him how he found the Russian people. "It's unfair to judge the many by the few," he answered, "but a certain thing I noticed in St. Petersburg made its impression on me, and I'll give it o you for what it's worth; and I had an interesting talk with a baron banker, to whom I had given a letter on finances. I'll tell you about that, too. "One evening our party went to a famous restaurant on the Nevsky. The most empty, the dinner hour being over. We sat down and ordered, and then amused ourselves looking about "Soon there came in a general, an old man, in full uniform. The door porter rushed to meet him, relieved him of his cloak, his sword, his hat, big room on the first floor was aland his rubbers, and the head waiter ushered him to a table covered with a white cloth. "A waiter came to take his order, but instead of calling for something even to drink, the general asked for the city directory. Then for half an hour he sat there, turning the pages, grumbling and taking notes. When he had finished he reached down, took up an end of the table cloth, and blew his nose on it. Then he got up to leave. At the door he found the same porter, who, just as respectful and assiduous as before, handed him his cloak, his hat, his saber and his rubbers. Then the general left, having neither eaten nor drunk anything, without even giving tip to the waiter or the porter. "This little scene shocked no one except ourselves. You must remember, that in Russia three-quarters of the population, peasants, workmen, soldiers, officers, nobles who never have

eft the country, never carry handkerchiefs. "This fact, to my mind, shows that we are wrong to try and judge Russia or Russians according to our lights, and to deduct and assume that the history of the continent will repeat itself in Russia. There are many reasons why a people that uses handkerchiefs cannot understand and cannot correctly judge a people that does not. Russia, it seems to me that our people have little actual concern. Of course, we are interested in the making of history, and stories of disorders and sensational assassinations make good reading, but we are safe and secure in our position of outside observers. France is really the country concerned.

I believe it was Prince Napoleon who said in the French senate, under the empire: 'One can do everything with bayonets except sit on them!' This, however, is just what the autocrat power is trying to do. We will watch and see how it succeeds, and how long this power will keep its seat if it is

Kaiser and German Journalists

Emperor William does not like newspaper men. He made this plain to a French journalist who interviewed him recently, and he has often said so before. In the imperial entourage members of the fourth estate are never referred to except in terms of disdain, 'washers of dirty linen" being a favorite term. This aversion, furthermore, is no new thing. Several months after William came to the throne, Oct. 27, 1888, he expressed himself with regard to newspaper men as follows: "While I have sacrificed my health and devoted all my strength to peace and the well-being of the fatherland, the newspapers of my capital discuss my affairs in a manner which never would be tolerated by a private individual. This has not only created a painful impression, but has aroused my just indignation. I have been particularly annoyed by the comment of the press upon the relations between my father and myself."

It is a curious thing that while Emperor William has always dealed himself to German newspaper men, he has on several occasions talked with representatives of the foreign press. He has said, furthermore, that in his opinion foreign journalists, as opposed to Germans, show more comprehension and good-will in dealing with affairs of state. Upon the occasion of the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia to the United States, Emperor William, in cautioning the prince of the pitfalls in his path, told him that every American newspaper man was a "general of the pen," and only a short time ago Ambassador Tower entertained Emperor William at dinner and had among his guests a prominent American newspaper man stationed in Berlin. Therefore, German journalists are feeling slighted, and there are liable to be approaches to lese majeste in the German press in efforts to "get

Emperor William's speeches have always an interest for the public above those of any other monarch in Europe, and it is consequently of interest to know how he prepares them. For political speeches, William himself furnishes the plan and principal ideas, conferring for the details with the minister within whose province the subject in question falls. This method, however, does not apply to speeches from the throne. For these addresses one of the councilors prepares a draft on ideas submitted by the chancellor of the empire, who adds and edits and submits the result to the emperor. Then the emperor edits and adds. The shades of meaning, the careful and friendly phrases, are inserted by William himself after careful consideration and thought, and the address in its entirety is made by him to conform to the demands of the occasions and the interior and exterior policy of the

These are the weighed words of the emperor, the careful utterances given for publication and outside consump-They are seldom as interesting, however, as the speech made to the officers of some regiment at a luncheon which the emperor does not intend shall reach the press, but which some newspaper is always ready to print, if it dare, possibly to "get even" for the emperor's slurs on German editors and reporters.

How the Sultan Prays

A flutter of excitement passed through the chancelleries of Europe last week. It was whispered: "The Sultan does not go to pray today." For reasons good and sufficient, the report, following on the heels of the reported indisposition of the "sick man of Europe," was received with a sense of grim but very real satisfaction here in London, where, for some time, the Sulfan has been giving a great deal of worry. The death of the Sultan prob-ably means the dismemberment of the without war and a great deal of snarling over the remains. But for the present the excitement has died out-for it is saidt "The Sultan goes to pray." The Sultan goes to pray, and official diplomats and the reputable visitors to the Turkish capital, who are vouched for by their respective embassies, and are therefore permitted to watch the "sick man of Europe" going to his prayers, crowd to a terrace outside the white walls of the Yildiz Klosk every Friday at noon and watch an old man, bewhiskered and petulant, clad in a long, hot, black coat and a fez, drive down a hill and disappear in a white house. Then a muezzin appears at the top of a slender, needlelike minaret, dazzling white against the hot blue sky, and calls in a loud voice to Allah. The soldiers, who have been brought from every part of the empire to line and reline every foot of the way from the palace to the church—they are the pick of the Turkish army-rest on their arms in the hot sun and light cigarettes, the dogs, the everlasting, interminable, mangy dogs of Constantinople, begin fighting and scavenging again in the road lately traveled and made holy by the head of Islam, and the people wait. The sun beats down and the foreign ladies on the terrace try to raise their parasols, but the guards tell them this is not allowed. The diplomats let their Turkish coffee settle and smoke cigarettes stamped with the birdlike insignia that is on every Turkish coin and postage stamp -newcomers hide theirs in their clothes to show to friends-and weary, hot minutes drag on while the old man prays in the white mosque and spies pass among the visitors with ears intent to catch a word of the many spoken in contempt of the whole proceeding.

Constantinople goes to waton him. The

A bugle call brings the soldiers, and the spectators of one of the best and cheapest military vaudevilles on earth, to attention, and the old man comes back up the hill, followed by the best in his empire, councilors, ministers, statesmen, generals and admirals, in disgusting exhibition of cringing servility, each one striving to outdo the other in deferential obeisance, clinging, literally fighting among each other to cling to the coat tails of the "sick man" as he rides up the hill back to his This we dismissed with an expression of disgust, preferring to crane our necks to catch a sight of his four favorite women, who follow him in closed carriages. We saw nothing but the edges of a Paris gown and a bejeweled hand holding a fan of Spain. The old man is so afraid of sudden death by a subject that he never lets it be known just how he will come back up the hill. He has at the door of the mosque two or three carriages and half for a horse, only to send it away, then signal for another, and finally make up his mind to go back in the wicker phaeton. If the i ople knew what carriage he would use they might set a bomb in it. But last Friday all this did not happen. Everybody was there but the 'sick man;" he was undergoing an operation for appendicitis, and when this' became known, the diplomats and the visitors, and the faithful, sweating Turkish subjects all went back their several ways, the foreigners regretting they had missed an interesting break to the ceremony, such as the attempt to blow him up a year ago last July. As soon as it was over every diplomat telegraphed home that the Sick Man was sick indeed. Every premier in Europe was at once informed, and statesmen the continent over began industrious consideration of an event for which all Europe claims to be prepared, and concerning which no one knows how any part of Europe will act.

SCHOOL OR CITY HALL

Hillsboro to Vote on $20,000 Bond Is sue for New School

Epecial to The Telegram. HILLSBORO, Texas, Aug. 25.-The property owners of the city of Hillsboro will next Thursday, Aug. 30, vote on the question of issuing school bonds to the amount of $20,000 for the purpose of building a high school in this

Some opposition to the bond issue has been manifested by the members of the fire department and some of their friends, on account of the refusal of the city council to call an election for the issuance of bonds to build a city hall here. The city council, as a body, declares that Hillsboro needs schools more than a city hall, and it is thought that the proposition will carry
