MANY WATER MAINS LEAKY

Wholesale Waste of Supply for Which Citizens Pay

PIPES ROTTEN

Complaints of Muddy Streets Come From All Over City as Result of Breaks

Numerous leaks in the Fort Worth Pater mains, of greater or less degree, have been found lately and it may be that some of the waste of water, which undoubtedly exists, is due to that fact.

There are a variety of causes for the leaks and, it even may be, most of them are due to the rotting out of pipes. This is especially true of the service pipes in the older part of the city where the pipes have been down a long time and, it may be, were not of the best material when laid. Some of these pipes, called mains, are but an inch or so in diameter.

There was a time in the history of the water supply of Fort Worth that "the cheapest was the best." Poor water that could be sold at a high price, and deficient in quantity at that, was the rule until the present policy was inaugurated of the best mility of water in abundance at the lowest cost to the consumer.

Many of the service pipes small, and still are where they have not been replaced. Some laid to a depth too slight for protection from the frost, suffered from freezes, bringing strains which they, weakened by corrosion and rust, could not resist. Some of these leaks no doubt, which are being found now, started last winter or even longer, back than that. If the water from the leaks found no vent at the surface, but made for itself a passage way under the earth instances have been found recently. the leakage must go on for months without discovery, and therefore with-

An example in point is a break in the main on Main street near the corner of Main and Fourth streets, though it is not implied that this is one of the breaks which came from a weakening or actual breaking of the pipe from expansion of water in a freeze, but an example of one finding an outlet away from the break. Attention was called to this break in The Telegram some time ago and the water works department patched up the street where the water found vent, through the brick pavement in front of the Delaware hotel, though on the #### east side of the street car tracks. Leak Not Stopped

No effort was made to find and stop the leak and the result is the water continues to flow from that break only, as its vent to the surface is stopped where it had before made a hole in the street pavement by the softening of the earth beneath, it now finds an outlet along side of the street car tracks, but lower down the street and in front of the Western Union office. There it comes to the surface along the line of the rails of the street car tracks and then flows on down the street, damaging the street car tracks and keeping the place muddy all of the time. It is not a serious loss of water but, if it is not remedied before freezing weather comes there will be trouble for the street car company and, it may be,

This is only cited in support of the assertion that it is almost impossible to tell the exact place of the small breaks in the pipe, for the water will find its way to the surface along the line of the least resistance, whether it be directly above or some distance, feet or even yards, away from the actual leak. Not long ago, down in the southern part of the city, in South Main street most annoving condition developed in the street, and the Northern Texas Traction Company, to keep its rails above the surface of the street, put in load after load of gravel without avail. The street, besides the tracks, was also muddy, but the street car company was the worst sufferer. An investigation under the surface of the earth at last discovered there was a break, evidently in a water supply pipe, or a new spring had come into existence without the intervention of a Moses and his rod. The actual break was found yards away, remedied, and that was the end of the muddy condition at the point complained of. A few days ago an insignificant leak appeared where the first part of the main flight of steps to the front entrance of the court house is connected with the cement sidewalks about the court house square. A plumber went to work, and he had to follow up the pipe for about twelve or fifteen feet before the leak was and, and then it was discovered in one of the old one-inch pipes which been laid when the court house vas built and which had rusted out or had been eaten out by the chemicals in the water until even the water pressure was sufficient to cause a rupture brough which the water was forced in stream several inches long, though but a thin stream an eighth of an inch or so in thickness.

Electrolysis Blamed

While it is true that many of the breaks are due to the normal or the greater fire pressure on the pipes, reakened by long use, it is also the fact that many of the leaks are caused electrolysis, that is, the destructive tro-chemical action due to grounding so many of the electric wires of street car companies, the electric ight and electric power companies and even the telegraph and telephone coiniles. The destructive effects of this ction on iron water or gas piping is of the things that is as well known s the rising of the sun is sure for prrow morning, but the remedy is so sure. Remedial measures have n applied, but they are all more or ess imperfect and ineffectual. One scholder in the southern part of he city had the expensive and annoyg experience of destruction of his ater pipe about every three months, ough there was one occasion, when itions were unusually favorable than two months after thorough repair with the best of galvanized pipe used in the instance cited. At last the plumber who did the repair work in each case suggested the use of ordinary drain tile, and the next time the repairs were made the water pipe was inclosed in an ordnary three-inch drain tile, and though that was three years or more ago, there has not been a complaint since. The thoroughness of the remedy in this case is the more remarkable for the reason that the plumber would not guarantee that the tiling would be a remedy, and, for that reason in part at least the expense was made as little as possible and the tiles were laid without cementing the joints. Of course, if damp earth were to get into those joints, and it is entirely possible it could, a conductor action again come into force. Such inclosure, it is said, is one of the accepted means of counteracting the destructive effects of electrolysis in the cities of the east, where the soil is naturally damper than here, which means that the soil is a better conductor, for dry earth is not a good couductor of electricity, and where the trouble, danger and expenses has been one of the problems long combatted by those charged with the preservation of iron pipes laid in the earth in proximity to wires carrying electricity or so that the ground current, seeking the best conductor, is made so near the iron pipes that the current follows would be afforded and the destructive them to their destruction. The waterworks department has had much to contend with in this respect and will have until a way is found of rendering the currents of electricity passing through the ground harmless, problem which is yet unsolved as to electrolytic action. Out in Front street near the Haberzettle place leaks have come which were undoubtedly caused by electrolysis, and one was only found and repaired by the waterworks departnent during this week. For several months past those who came by the corner of Henderson and Peter Smith streets have noticed there was a leak from some source that made the gutter muddy all of the time. The street gang in cleaning out the gutter Friday uncovered the leak and the water came to the surface beneath the gutter accumulations in a plainly visible stream. The flow of water from that break was plainly to be seen down

as far as Broadway. May Account for Discrepancy

But then it is useless to multiply instances. There is no gainsaying that because of the natural wearing out of the older-laid water pipes, because of the destructive effects of electrolysis, which can be remedied by prevention in part at least, leaks in the water mains are frequent, and even now there may be many which follow some underground line of the least resistance into the sewers in cases, or by other ways make an outlet that is not seen but still is the cause of serious wastage of the water.

Some of the great discrepancy in the quantity of water sold to meter consumers and the quantity of water pumped may thus be accounted for, and until the leaks show and are remedied must continue.

SOUTHERN VIEWS ON BRYAN SPEECH

Gov. Blanchard and Major E. G. Hale Give Opinions

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 .- The Times today quotes Governor Blanchard of Louisiana, who is a member of the democratic national committee from Ms state, as follows, regarding Mr. Bryan's speech at Madison Square

"Mr. Bryan's speech was an able, bold, fearless, courageous exposition of the opinions of a man recognized as a leader of the democratic party, but it should be remembered that Mr. Bryan did not propose to outline the next platform of the democratic party. "A good many things may happen between now and next democratic national convention. "Mr. Bryan's speech will undoubtedly please thousands of people in the south, but many will take exception to that part of the speech which had to do with the ownership of railroads by the national government and the states. So far as I personally am concerned, any opinion I may hold on that question is purely tentative. I have not studied the subject enough to discuss it for publication. "I sat with the members of the dem ocratic national committee and I heard some of them express dissent from Mr. Bryan's views on that question." Major E. G. Hale of Fayetteville, N. C. who was one of the members of committee on platform at the Chicago convention of 1896, said: "We are moving along rapidly in the south. The democrats of North Carolina have passed resolutions favoring an income tax and a constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of United States senators. But Mr. Bryan's ideas on government ownership was a sticker for me. I could not quite digest that part of his speech. "I think the chief strength of Mr. Bryan with the old line democrats is due to the fact that with new ideas he combines a broad mind and a seeing eye, which render him the real conservative force in the party at the present time, and that we had better support him for fear the leadership might pass into the hands of some one far more radical than he. In the may be, that the break came in less | main I liked his speech."

Tries to Extinguish Fire Alone and Is Injured by Explosion

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 1.-While 8 crowd of young folk were laughing and screaming as they attempted to make their way up the "funny stairs' which wiggle and shake in Steeplechase Park, Coney Island, last night, Edward J. Tileyou, the manager, noticed a small puff of blue smoke coming from a closet under the stairs. In this closet is the electric light wire connection for that part of the park. An attendant was about to turn in a fire alarm, "Don't call the engines," whispered Tileyou, "or we will have a anic on our hands.

The park was crowded at the time and Tileyou was quick to see what might happen if a stampede for the entrances began. Grabbing a hand fireextinguisher, he opened the door to the closet, and darting in, slammed the door after him.

In a twinkling there was a fierce report, the door flew open and Tileyou was hurled out among a crowd of merrymakers unconscious. The -extinguisher he carried into the closet had exploded. Other employes put out the flames and summoned physicians. They found Tileyou had three fractured ribs, internal injuries and that his right wrist had been crushed. He was hurried to his home nearby and was in a critical condition early today.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 .- Bishop Charles C. McCabe of the Methodist Episcopal church says he meant every word that was in his letter to Judge Alton B. Parker given out in New York yesterday regarding the address of the international policy holders committee. When seen last night he said:

"I mean every word that is in that letter. My particular criticism was aimed at the executive committee for its course in sending out a number of newspaper clippings. My name, as a member of the committee, was signed to that report and I never knew anything about it. The report was not submitted to me and had it been I certainly should not have signed it. It contained attacks on the managethat are wholly unjustified by the facts. My opinion is that the newspaper clippings were gotten together by one or two men and all the names of the members of the committee signed to the report without first securing the consent of the committee members.

"I have given this matter much thought and hard study, and I have come to the conclusion that the best thing the international committee can do is to approve heartly the administration tickets of both companies. "The men now at the head of both

By Associated Press. NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 1.-Due to the failure of stevedores and ship agents to sign the new contract the 'longshoremen of the river front, white and black, suspended work today, the three years' contract which terminated the last strike ending today. For some a new agreement. The 'longshoremen have not asked for an increase of pay, but want conditions by which they may change rules. Under this reservation any gang would have the right to call on the foreman for additional help when work became too heavy to handle. The stevedores and ship agents say this would increase the cost of loading and decline to sign any agreement which does not provide there will be no change from the present rules. Both parties to the controversy are holding sessions today. It is expected the city authorities and exchanges will intervene and seek to force a settlement in order to prevent any serious interruption of the cotton and other traffic.

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 1 .- A cable dispatch to a morning paper from Paris

After eleven weeks' vacation in Europe, Mayor George B. McClellan of New York will sail for home today on the steamship St. Paul, prepared to support and fight for Jerome as a candidate for governor of the state if the democratic convention nominates him. "I am going home," he said, "to fight for decency in politics and decency in democracy, and my friends are going to fight with me. The mayor said he had no direct recent information on the situation, but had seen nothing to change the views he held when he left New York. "I thought then and I think now."

he said "that Jerome would be the strongest candidate before the convention and before the electorate. He has made an excellent fight in the people's interests for decent politics. "I think the people of the state want him as a candidate for governor, and if nominated he will make a splendid fight and a campaign of real life. I speak as a democrat."

The last sentence was in response to a question as to whether he meant jerome as a candidate of the democratic convention or as an independent.

BIG FUTURITY SET FOR TODAY

Famous Sheepshead Event to Be Run at 4 O'clock

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 1 .- Futurity day, toward which turfman and lovers time there have been negotiations for of the sport of thoroughbred racing have been looking with the ever increasing interest born of a craving to roclaim a champion, has arrived, Down at Sheepshead Bay, regarded by many as the most beautiful race course in America, all hands were busy yesterday completing the preparations for handling the greatest crowd of the racing season and putting the last touches on the famed Futurity course, which has been raked and harrowed and rolled until it is as fast as human ingenuity and the expenditure of money can make it. Brillian racing weather is promised for this afternoon, the unsettled conditions of the past week or ten days having given away to deep blue skies with just a haze of early autumn on the horizon. Considering the caliber of the 2year-olds named to go in today's big race, and the splendid condition of the track, horsemen are looking forward to a record-breaking performance over the six-furlong course which leads to victory and a prize estimated in value at nearly $50,000. No higher class field of thoroughbred youngsters has ever gone to a futurity post than will respond to the bugle at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It is not a race where one or two horses stand out from the rest as was the case in 1904, when the immortal Sysonby and Artful and Tradition were the contenders, and again in 1903 when Hamburg Belle romped nome alone in a sea of mud. This year's field also is in striking contrast to that of last year in which Ormondale had a comparatively easy victory over a poor lot of 2-year-olds, who, ordinarily should have been left in their barns on a futurity day.

Ten Horses Look Good The more horsemen consider today's race, the more open the contest looks and there are at least ten horses out of the sixteen, which, on public performances or private trials have an excellent chance of annexing the richest turf prize of the year. James R. Keene, with three horses named to sport his silk, including Peter Pan, who has earned top weight by his many victories this year, seems to have the best chance of winning the futurity of 1906. Peter Pan is a host in himself and since his recent performance in carrying 130 pounds to victory in the Hopeful stakes in Saratoga in fast time there are many students of the turf who are willing to accord him first place among the colts of the year. As running mates Peter Pan will have Hope Joan, declared by many to be the fastest filly of the year and Zambesi, a new one, scheduled to make his debut this afternoon in the highest of thoroughbred society. Mr. Keene's entry will be the favorite unquestionably. Horace E, owned by Roy Rainey and Demund, for whom Paul Rainey paid $45,000 after a sensational half mile, workout in the early spring are both highly fancied for the futurity, with Horace E having just a shade on Demund, whose staying qualities are questioned. For half a mile there is not a horse in the country probably that can keep step with Demund, but the futurity journey lacks just two furlongs of being a mile, and this may be beyond the range of the fleet-footed Oran, from the Ormondale stable; Conville, a Madden and Hitchcock trick, who will have Golf Ball as a running companion; Electioneer, and Kentucky Beau, all will be heavily backed to win and it would not be a great surprise to anyone if the victor should come from this assortment. Yankee Girl, Altuda, Purslane, Old Honesty, Don Enrique and May Rowe seem to bring up the rear in the field of futurity possibilities.

OUTBREAK GROWS

Americans, Fearing for Property, Appeal to Palma Government for Protection

By Associated Press. HAVANA, Sept. 1-It became known today the insurrection has spread to the province of Puerto Principe. Seventy men have taken up arms at Horon in that province led by Garcia Canizares, speaker of the house of representatives during the liberal ascendency in that body. Members of the band openly equipped themselves and left the town in an orderly manner, The mayor of Horon soon summoned pose of engaging them. Later the governor of the province of Puerto Principe notified the authorities here a mounted party of 200 men has taken up arms at Arroyo Blaco near Ciego de Avilla, twentytwo miles southeast of Horon. This force is commanded by Dellon San-the rural guards in the vicinity and followed the insurgents with the purchez- ex-revolutionary general. Governor Silvia of Puerto Principe has begun enrolling volunteers. The city is in a state of great excitement. A band of insurgents numbering about 200 men raided a ranchuelo near Cienfuegos, province of Santa Clara, yesterday, taking all horses and the contents of the treasury, $1,700. Thirty rural guards have started from Cienfuegos for Santa Clara on an armored train. The city hall at Cienfuegos has been fortified. The authorities of the city of Pinar del Rio organized a large force of 300 special police and a hundred city militiamen.

Situation More Serious

Special to The Telegram. HAVANA, Sept. 1 .- The situation is far darker than at any time since thr insurrection broke out. News of an uprising in Santiago province, while not yet published here, is spreading about the city and causing the gravest concern. When Mr. Sleeper, the American charge d'affaires, was told the contents of the Associated Press Santiago dispatch he endeavored to verify it through the state department, but was told that it was untrue. Subsequently the dispatch was verified from private and newspaper sources. The extent of the uprising in Santiago is not known, but it is the opinion here that the worst calamity of all to the Palma government would be an insurrection in eastern Cuba. According to two eye witnesses, Cardenas, which has been considered a peaceful city, was the scene Thursday of desultory fighting between police and rural guards on the one side and roving insurgents on the other.

Trains Looted The Associated Press correspondent at Cienfuegos telegraphed yesterday that there are 3,000 armed insurgents in that vicinity and that all the small towns in Santa Clara province are controlled by insurgents, who attack and loot trains and seize the property of foreigners as well as of Cubans. Trinidad is surrounded by insurgents, and the government appears powerless to protect the property of Americans and other foreigners. Railway trains are held up at will and passengers searched. The Cuban Central railway has declined to assume responsibility for the safety of passengers and freight.

Recruiting for government forces is making good progress here and the government continues to make headway wherever there is open fighting. Guerra Not Found

The government troops in the western portion of Pinal del Rio province have not yet come up with Pino Guerra and according to the Assoclated Press correspondent with the column there is no present likelihood of their doing so, as the troops might march ten years and all the while Guerra would still be just ahead of them in the hills. There are thousands of mountain trails with which the insurgents are familiar and which lead in all directions. If Guerra cared could be killed off by sharpsho The government has no cavalry at Pinar del Rio and the only real soldiers are the artillerymen, but as they are often afoot they cannot compete with the well-mounted insurgents. Guerra does not want to fight. His scouts can always be seen at a distance from the government lines of Americans who come to the legation to ask for protection for their property are answered by an immediate call upon the government of Cuba, which promises to do the best it can for them. Charge d'Affaires Sleeper advises all such callers to file their complaints in the local courts and forward copies of the papers to the legation. There are many rumors in circulation as to what may happen Sent 1 unless a new election granted

Insurrection Growing The American Protestant mission-

aries in Havana say that the reports from outside are practically unanimous in stating that the insurrection is sweeping the country districts in the western half of the island. The increasing gravity of the situation has revived discussion of the pos-sibility of intervention by the United States Le Discussion, the semi-official organ of the administration, in an editorial this evening depicts the result of intervention as follows: "Permanent intervention would be worse than death. It would be pref-erable if the Caribbean should engulf the Pearl of the Antilles."

The article appeals thus: "The colored race may tremble before the possibility of intervention Americans hate and despise negroes.

Even their own negroes with whom they have been in contact for 200 years are treated like dogs, lynched and hardly considered human. If it is so with negroes of their own land and language, what would happen to the

Government Ownership of Railroads Criticised

WATTERSON DOUBTFUL

Laments Injection of Radicalism Into Madison Square Garden Speech. Bailey Is Dissatisfied

Special to The Telegram.

.CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 1 .- The Record-Herald today says: "The same old Bryan."

This expression has passed thousands of times from democrat to democrat in New York today:

"Conservative" democracy, which in the last few months has been acclaiming the leadership in 1908 of the man it would not follow in 1896 or 1900, is considering the advisability of taking back its indorsement. Harmony has received an awful jolt, and the prospect of the old fight between radicals and nonradicals for control of the next democratic national convention loonis high above the horizon.

Bryan's Madison Square Garden speech has transformed the whole po-litical atmosphere, and while the Hearst element is wildly elated over his new platform, the Nebraskan's "sane and conservative" followers are in the dumps. National and state ownership and operation of railroads—that's too drastic a dese for the staid old-timers. It was the hope of the conservatives who took up Bryan with a flourish recently that his home-coming speech would be a home-coming speech and nothing more. If he did talk politics it was hoped he would treat the subject on broad democratic lines and avoid injecting any new issues or isms into the situation.

Why didn't he leave out that one thing-government ownership?" was asked again and again today. "There were plenty of pressing reforms to which we all could have agreed," said the kickers, "without springing a radical idea that isn't ripe for an issue at this time, and wouldn't be thought of as a democratic platform plank unless the leader forced it. Here was Bryan's great chance to become our leader, to be elected President and accomplish something definite. He has spoiled everything.

Of course this is the view of one side only, but it is the view that commands interest.

Watterson in Courier-Journal Special to The Telegram.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 1 .- "The suggestion of government ownership of railroads as a plank in a democratic platform at this time is not only impracticable in the highest degree," Henry Watterson says in today's Courier-Journal in discussing Mr. Bryan's Madison Square Garden speech, "but if it were adopted as a fighting line it would cost us the election. It could not be carried out as a policy, even if by some cataclysm we should come into power in spite of it, and it ought not o be adopted as a policy by any party having the real good of the people at heart. It is un-American and undemocratic, illogical to all our professions on the side of the simple, efficaclous and upright government-like the winged horse in the Irish legend, "impossible to catch, and not worth having when caught." This paragraph is the keynote of a strong but kindly arraignment of the Nebraska statesman by the dean of the Kentucky democrats in this particular point. Continuing, Mr. Watterson at-tempts to point out the fallacies into which the twice defeated democratic candidate for President has fallen.

"It is with positive lamenting," says the editor, "that we read, mark and inwardly digest what he says of the ownership of the railways, because we not only think it the height of unwisdom from the political point of view, but of error from the democratic and republican point of view."

Bailey Dissatisfied

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1 .- Sen. ator Bailey of Texas passed through Washington yesterday en route to his home in Texas, and, although he would not give permission for his remarks to be quoted, he indicated plainly his dissatisfaction with William J. Bryan's once more espousing the government ownership of railroads idea, Although Mr. Bryan might be the lemocratic nominee for President in 1908, Mr. Bailey remarked with some feeling that he could not also make the platform for that campaign. In other words, the democrats of the country, in Senator Bailey's opinion, would not permit Mr. Bryan to be both the nominee and platform. He considered the objections to government ownership too fundamental to need discussion, and he expressed doubt that the proposition would take well among thinking men in the south.

Representative L. F. Livingston of Georgia, senior democratic member of the appropriations committee, who also witnessed the home-coming celebration, stopped long enough here on his way south to show his dissatisfaction with the government ownership proposal.

Criticism in Boston

Special to The Telegram. BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 1.-Of Bryan's railroad ownership views, Josiah Quincy, chairman of the democratic state committee said: "Opinion on the merits of this momentous proposition and upon the political policy of bringing it forward at the present time will, of course, vary "He could not claim that it is yet recognized as a party doctrine. His advocacy of the doctrine undoubtedly brings it within the sphere of practical Congressman John A. Sullivan: " think that his advocacy of government ownership of railroads will be flercely attacked by republicans, by independent and even by democratic newspapers throughout the country."

Boston Transcript: "He fears that imited ownership of the railroads would obliterate state lines, so he proposes a compromise, which is an exact

Record: "It resembles the silver issue of 1896 and 1900. In some future welcome home from Australia or Patagonia he will turn with bland gesture and drop is in the waste basket."

On the way from Bridgeport Mr. Bryan was asked what he thought about the argument of certain republicans that President Roosevelt will be the next logical republican candidate for President. Mr. Bryan said:

"If it were true, as many republicans declared, he has completely destroyed the democratic party, there ought to be dozens of able republicans who would be available as candidates, as it would appear that almost any reputlican could win with the democratic party wiped out.

"With such an easy victory for republicans ahead, why," he asked, "should not somebody else be given a chance?"

When asked what he thought of the criticism by the democrats of his idea of Federal ownership of railroads, Mr. Bryan said he had never advocated anything that was not opposed in some quarters. He was told that some of the southern democrats seemed alarmed lest Jim Crow cars should be eliminated by the adoption of his ideas of Federal ownership.

Mr. Bryan in reply to this said: "If the various states owned the lines within their borders local laws would continue to be enforced." He was asked if he meant that negroes and whites would be separated if the state had a Jim Crow law, to which he replied that state laws naturally hold good on local lines.

He did not care at this time to discuss the details of how the plan would affect the carriage of whites and negroes on through lines under Federal

Mr. Bryan this afternoon will attend an informal reception at the National Democratic Club. Later he will return to Jersey City, where he is expected to deliver three speeches. He then will return to New York in time to attend a dinner given him by newspaper men.

CONTEST CLOSE FOR PENNANT

Fort Worth, Dallas and Cleburne Near Rivals

The contest for the Texas League championship, second half, has reached the critical stage and it all depends on the outcome of the four games between Fort Worth and Cleburne, which series begins this afternoon. If it is an even break Fort Worth and Cleburne will have a percentage of .585, and if Dallas, which is to play four games with Waco and is to play off the tie of Friday with Fort Worth, wins that game from Fort Worth and all of the Waco games then the Giants will also have a percentage of .585. The tie game with Dallas is to be played here Monday morning. Labor

Day, and the Dallas fans have already discounted that game and marked it down as won. But there is nothing in the playing of the two clubs, Fort Worth and Dallas, during the season of 1906 to warrant the certainty professed by the Dallas fans. So it seems that the Dallas club may be eliminated from consideration and that the real contest is between the present leaders in the contest, Cleburne and Fort Worth. Fort Worth has five games yet to play. The Friday tie, which is to be played off with Dallas Monday morning, and the four games with Cleburne.

Fort Worth, it is true, is weakened by the loss of Erwin, but it is not an irreparable loss. The club is a strong one in many respects and may defeat the Cleburne team two or more of the games, and then should take that Dallas game with but little trouble. Even if defeated as to this second series, Fort Worth having won the first half, will have the right to play sundry "saw-off" games as may be agreed upon, and thus the end would be simply postponed, not settled, by the results of the Monday contests.

Dallas is most anxious to come out ahead in the last half, but the signs of the times point to such a Cleburne victory as will blast their hopes, even if Cleburne is not herself defeated, so as to settle the championship for the season of 1906, without any "saw-off" games, in favor of the present champions, Fort Worth.

Mike Erwin Sold Mike Erwin, catcher, who has developed so wonderfully in the latter part of the season, has been sold to St. Paul, and left Saturday morning for his new field of work. Erwin is a conscientious player, works well with curately to bases and is a fair batter. He is a young man yet in ball playing and should make a good name for himself in a faster league than the Texas League before he retires from the diamond.

LIGHT ELECTION VOTE IS POLLED

Referendum Opporunity Neglected by Citizens

The franchise referendum election which is being held in Fort Worth today looks like a flasco as far as the The voting at every poll in the city polling of votes is concerned. is light, very. There is but little interest being manifested and at several polls it was asserted that it looked as if poll tax payers had forgotten there was such a thing as the franchise election. Unless voters come forward in bunches during the afternoon the vote will hardly run over

The Northern Texas Traction Company has been busy today. It had workers in the field early. It is doing all it can to whoop up things and poll an overwhelming vote for the franchises. One of the leading tracion company officials was seen by a Telegram reporter at the Fourth ward polls shortly after noon. He stated that he felt positive that the franchises would be a go. Possibly more interest is being manifested in the Eighth ward than in any other. Property owners in that section who have realty that will be improved by the granting of the franchise for the South side tracks were up bright and early this morning hustling after voters. At noon 53 votes had been cast in the Eighth ward. The heaviest vote is expected there this afternoon. At the Seventh ward polls things looked rather dull and only 30 votes had been received up to the noon hour. In fact each and every voting place was as quiet as a tomb and the election officers declared they never saw such a "dull day." The polls will close at sundown this evening and the count will be made at the Fourth ward polls at the city hail.

BIG INCREASE IN SCHOOL CHILDREN

Nearly 1,000,000 in Texas Are Within Scholastic Age

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 1.-The state educational department today gave out a summary of the scholastic population and apportionment of the school fund for the scholastic year, beginning Sept. 1. The summary shows the total number of children in Texas of the scholastic age of 7 to 17 years to be 869 .-829, which is an increase of 71,154 over last year.

Out of the total number this year 686,865 are white and 182,964 colored children. The per capita this year is $5, the total state apportionment for the scholastic year 1906-07 is $4,349,-145, against $4,193,043 for last scholastic year. This remarkable increase in children of scholastic age in Texas is due principally to the fact that the age has been made lower, 7 to 17 years, it heretofore being 8 to 17 years. The number of male children enumerated is 441,892 and female 427,937.

JAPANESE CLOVER GROWING WILD

Major K. M. Van Zandt Makes Valuable Discovery

Lespedeza, or Japanese clover, one of the best forage plants known, is getting a good foothold in Northwest Texas and with proper handling may become an important product in the pastures. Some years ago Major K. M. Van Zandt brought a number of lespedza plants to Fort Worth and planted them on land near the city. but for some reason they did not thrive and since then there has been no effort to establish the plant here. A few days ago while looking over the grounds at Confederate Park Maior Van Zandt came upon quite a growth of this plant, which appeared to be growing wild and thriving amid the scrub oak growth at that point Major Van Zandt regards this as an mportant fact, as he says the lespedeza plant is one of the most nuritious plants for stock that is grown. The Japanese clover resembles in some respects our native clover, so far as the leaf goes, but it is more of a vine than our red or white clover is. The leaves are smaller than those of red clover and a little larger than those of white clover and grow more scattering on the stem. The flower of lespedeza is small and bright purple in color without any fragrance, but it is equally nutritious as the leaf. Both cattle and hogs are very fond of this

Rooms in Trammell Building Are Now Ready

The rooms of the University Club in the new Trammell building on Houston street between Seventh and Eighth streets will be formally opened tonight with a smoker to members and their friends. The billiard table and draperies are not vet in place, but so much delay has been experienced in getting furnishings that it has been decided to have the opening at this time. The rooms are elegantly furnished and offer every comfort to members which a clubroom should afford.

FASTER TRAINS FOR THE KATY

Lower Schedule to St. Louis Being Considered

What has been hinted at has become certainty, and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas will put on additional fast trains for the St. Louis and Oklahoma and Texas business, which has grown out of all proportions to expectations. Assistant General Manager Maxwell says that the new train will be somewhat faster than the Katy Flyers. They will leave St. Louis about 2:15 p. m. and Kansas City about 9 p. m., connecting at Parsons, Kan., and will reach Oklahoma City and Fort Worth about noon. They will leave Dallas and Fort Worth about 2 p. m., and arrive at Kansas City about 7 a. m. and St. Louis about 1 p. m. Consideration has not been given to the suggestion for operating the trains south of Dallas and Fort Worth.

For the service the road will secure brand-new motive power and equipment. Locomotives, baggage cars, coaches and sleepers will be made expressly for this traffic. The intention of the management is to begin running the trains as soon as the new locomotives and equipment can be secured. These trains will be additional to present trains, and they will be faster and better. Travel has increased so greatly between St. Louis and points n Oklahoma and Texas that the Mis-

need of extra train service

But Shippers Must Look After Elevator and Wharf Charges

The status of affairs as to the reluced rates made on grain shipments through Galveston is thus defined by H. D. Butts, manager of the Santa Fe elevator B at Galveston:

"It was the practice for the railways to absorb the wharf and elevator charges at Galveston and they decided, beginning Sept. 1, that they would abandon the practice. They will take the grain to the elevators, but they ask the shipper to care for it after that and take care of the elevator charges. "However, at the same time the railroads cut the rates more than enough to compensate the shippers for the change in the rule. Notwithstanding this cut in the rates the Santa Fe Elevator Company decided at once to reduce elevator f. o. b. charges, that is, the charge for unloading the cars and putting the grain aboard the ship, and have done so, and beginning today the charge will be 1c per hundred pounds, instead of 1c per bushel. We have also made other concessions. We will allow twenty days' free storage instead of fifteen days, as formerly, and only charge 1c per hundredweight for storage every thirty days or fraction there-

'Formerly the free storage lasted only fifteen days, and a charge of 1/4c per bushel for every ten days thereafter. This reduction, together with the reduction in freight rates, is all in favor of the shipper, and should be the means of greatly increasing the movement of grain through this port." At New Orleans it is stated that the new Galveston rate cannot go into effect until after thirty days' notice, because of the Hepburn bill, but the Galveston lines will try it anyway.

The rate at New Orleans is, for the elevator charges, 1%c on coarse grain and 1 2-3c on wheat. Because of proximity to the grain growing regions of the west part of the country, Galveston has a natural advantage, which this reduction in elevator charges will surely add to re-

URGING CHINESE TO DIG CANAL

Chief Engineer Stevens Said to Be Back of Efforts

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1 .-There is beginning to be a hint of scandal in the effort being made to employ Chinese instead of Jamaicans on the Isthmian canal. Stories are floating about which involve Chief Engineer Stevens, who, by the way, is slated to succeed Shonts, and ex-Sentor James K. Jones of Arkansas. People who have been in the Isthmian service almost unanimously declare that the Jamaican negro is far preferable to the Chinaman, and they say there is ample experience, right on the zone, to prove it.

Chief Engineer Stevens is the per-son declared to be responsible for the demand to oust the Jamaican and take on the Chinaman. Mr. Stevens, it is explained, has about as deep-seated a case of race prejudice as could easily

UP TO THE CATTLEMEN

Fort Worth has met the requirements of Messrs. Armour and Swift in the matter of the guaranty of the permanency of the fat stock show, so far as this city is immediately concerned, but when that has been accomplished the work only remains half done. The requirements of the situation are that the sum of $50,000 must be raised, and the promoters of the enterprise have stipulated that Fort Worth should subscribe half this amount and the outside live stock interests the remainder. It is probable the entire sum of $50,000 could have been subscribed in Fort Worth as readily as the $25,000 that has been raised, but the desire is that just as many stockmen as possible shall become interested in the enterprise. The more people who have stock in the undertaking the more interest will there be and the more work insured to make it a success.

- It is earnestly desired by those who are promoting the fat stock show that 250 members of the new organization shall be obtained outside of the city of Fort Worth, and to carry out that part of the program letters have been written the leading stockmen of the state soliciting them to take at least one share of stock, the shares being $100 each. A vigorous canvass is being made of the members of the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, and the indications are they will respond liberally. Following is a copy of the circular letter that is being sent out, over the signature of Captain S. B.

"The Fort Worth Stock Yards Company has proposed to the stockmen of the Southwest to build at Fort Worth an exhibit building similar to the one at Chicago, and of sufficient size to take care of the future requirements of this rapidly developing section of the country, on condition that an association be organized on a plan and with sufficient membership to insure its permanency. "The plan proposed is that an association of 500 members be organized, one-half of whom shall be residents of this city and the other half nonresidents, each of whom shall pay $100 for a life membership in said association. This fund of $50,000 is to be held in escrow for the period of ten years. If at the end of that time the association is still in existence, as it will be, then the $50,000 will be returned to the association, but if the show should be discontinued during this period from lack of support of the people of the Southwest, the $50,000 will go to the stock yards company to indemnify it to some extent, for the | educator afford a marked contrast injury it would sustain by having a lot of useless buildings on hand. We have incorporated this association under the name of the National Feeders' and Breeders' Show, and have secured the required 250 members in this city, and now come to you to aid us in securing the additional 250 memberships on which the success of the enterprise title you, during your entire life, to all of the rights of a stockholder in a corporation, and in addition to that, to free entrance to the exposition at all times and in all departments, which of itself will be worth more to you than the amount you advance. You will incur no liability of any character by becoming a member, and there will be no future dues or assessments. You will not be asked for the amount of your subscription until the necessary number of subscribers have been se-

"The exhibit buildings will no doubt surpass anything of their kind in the entire country, costing approximately $200,000. The liberality of the stock yards company's proposition and the advantages of this annual live stock exposition are so apparent that it is unnecessary to mention them.

"This is an opportunity that we stockmen of the Southwest cannot afford to neglect, and we hope that you will feel enough interest in this matter to not only subscribe, but to obtain other subscriptions from among your friends. We inclose you blank subscription contracts for that purpose, and trust that you will aid this great enterprise by being one of the first to return them properly signed. We inclose list of Fort Worth subscribers."

Stockmen generally seem very enthusiastic over the proposition, recognizing in it an opportunity to make the fat stock show in this city second to no similar undertaking in the entire country. There is a general disposition to subscribe for stock, and it is confidently believed that but a very short time will elapse before the required 250 outside members will be safely secured. A few favorable responses have already come in, and it is expected that during the coming week the bulk of the subscriptions will have been secured.

EARNINGS OF TEXAS RAILWAYS

A study of the figures representing the earnings of the various lines of Texas railways for the fiscal year just closed discloses a very healthy state of affairs, for every one of them shows a very substantial increase over the Gross earnings of the Southern Pacific for the year were $10,000,000, an increase of $500,000 or over 5 per cent. Gross earnings of the Texas and Pacific were $13,000,000, an increase of $445,000, or 31/2 per cent. Gross earnings of the Fort Worth and Denver City were $3,400,000, an increase of $867,000, which is over 34 per cent. The Pecos Valley lines in Texas earned $465,000, an increase of $115,000, or 33 per cent. The total gross earnings of all Texas roads for the year were $78,000,000, involving an increase of $6,000,000.

The greatest individual gain was ic the Gulf. Colorado and Santa Fe, which earned $1,000,000 more than it earned during 1905. Next comes the Fort Worth and Denyer City, with $867,000

Freight earnings account for twothirds the total increase, and by a curious coincidence, the per centage of increase is exactly the same for both gross earnings and freight earnings,

The gross earnings of the railways exceeded operating expenses by $20,-000,000, out of which, of course, must come all fixed charges. Texas roads earned about one-twenty-fifth of the total earnings for the United States. Freight earnings in the United States at large make up about three-fourths the total, while in Texas the proportion drops to two-thirds, due to the sparse population and comparative unproductiveness of some sections having extensive through mileage.

The north and south roads show a larger proportionate gain in passenger earnings, while the east and west roads show a larger proportionate gain in freight earnings. This indicates a heavy movement of homeseekers, and an increase in transcontinental freight

People of Texas are gratified to note the prosperity of the Texas lines of railway, which is within itself ample evidence of the general prosperity of the people of Texas. When the peo. ple prosper all interests enjoy prosperity, and Texas at this time is enjoying an era of unexampled pros-

BOOKER WASHINGTON TALKS SENSE

Booker T. Washington, president of the Tuskegee Institute, addressed the National Negro Business League in Atlanta a few days ago, and gave utterance to some truisms well worthy the careful and serious consideration of members of his race throughout the country. Among other things he said:

"We believe that while the world may pity a crying, whining race, it seldoni respects it. We believe that the influence of one great success in really accomplishing something that the world respects will go farthest in promoting our interests. Let constructive progress be the dominant note among us in every section of America. We have a duty. Our leaders should see to it that the criminal negro is gotten rid of whenever possible. One of the elements in our present situation that gives me most concern is the large number of crimes that are being committed by members of our race. The negro is committing too much crime, north and south. We cannot be too frank or too strong in discussing the harm that the committing of crime is doing to our race. Let us stand up straight and speak out and act in no uncertain terms in this direction Let us do our part and then let us call on the whites to do their part." These utterances from the negro with those by other negro leaders at Harper's Ferry a few days before, and serve to show that Booker Washington is a very deep thinker and sound

The criminal negro is today the greatest enemy to the negro race, for it is through his actions that the race as a whole is made to suffer. And so long as there is a disposition on the "The certificate of membership part of some negroes to almost delfy which will be issued to you will en- | that criminal element which is made | ing.

to pay the penalty for the great wrongs it inflicts upon society, law and order, just so long will the race as a whole be compelled to bear a heavy and unyielding burden,

The shielding of a negro from paying the penalty for crime, or the inflaming of the negro mind on account of summary vengeance inflicted upon the transgressor of the law cannot bring anything to the race that is calculated to make the white people think any more of them. They should be just as eager to bring all culprits to justice as are their white neighbors and exert themselves to make peaceable and law-abiding citizens. The criminal element must be gotten rid of, the race must be purged of those who seek to defy law and custom, and when it does this there will be no longer any real issue between the

And there is another feature of the situation that should be carefully considered. Dallas needed the water for the navigation of the Trinity. . . .

The Sixth congressional district of Texas has managed to get into a snarl by reason of differing interpretations of that fearful and wonderful document, the election law, Rufus Hardy has been declared the nominee, but Dick Mays maintains that he had a majority of the delegates and was euchred out. Mays is going to the courts for redress, and as he has been fighter from his youth up, the fur will fly.—San Antonio Express.

The Terrell election law is continually bringing about embarrassing complications in the state, and the effect upon the people will be reflected in the action of the next state legislature.

The men who will plead with T. M. Campbell for appointment to office will be the men who did practically nothing to assist him in his race for governor. The average place-hunter works only for himself.-Tyler Courier.

That is a cruel reflection on East Texas, which prided itself on the effective work done for Tom Campbell. East Texas did work nobly for Campbell, even if the inspiration behind the effort was an appetite for pie.

People seem to have gone crazy over West Texas lands and prices are doubling almost monthly. When a drouth comes the bottom will drop out of the boom.-Granbury News.

But the drouth may be slow in coming. West Texas has enjoyed good seasons now for several years in succession, and bumper crops have been 0 0 0

The mysteries of the Terrell election law are to find their way into the upper courts through a contest from the Sixth congressional district. The wise judges have had many difficult problems to solve, but if this case does not force them to resign they are better than the traditional nine Philadelphia lawyers.-Austin Tribune.

The Terrell election law in the courts will be watched with much interest by the people of all Texas. And the judges who have to dig out its real provisions from under the prevailing mass of ambiguity deserve the sympathy of the

The Smith county farmers are getting up a poultry show for this fall, and the business men of Tyler have called a meeting in the Commercial Club rooms of that city for the purpose of organizing and perfecting plans to make the show a success The poultry business is getting to be one of the leading industries of Texas, and especially is this so with fancy poultry.—Sherman Register.

All of East Texas has been engaged in a big poultry show ever since the nomination of Tom Campbell. It is true the show has been confined exclusively to rampant roosters, but there is no gainsaying the fact that the poultry business is now booming in

This will never do at all. More girls than boys are being born in San Antonio, Will somebody please tell the stork to quit overstocking the old maid market.-San Antonio Gazette. The stork evidently knows its busi-

Palma evidently prefers a peaceable solution to the Cuban revolution, if that is possible, and he offers the revolutionists unconditional amnesty if they will be good Cubans in the future.-San Antonio Light. Palma would be glad to have the revolution stopped upon almost any kind of terms, but the average Cuban considers it part of his natural duty to revolute. The outlook for peace on the island is not particularly flatter-

Booming Cone Johnson

There is no question but that the nomination of Colonel Tom Campbell is going to provide Senator Bailey with an opponent for the United States senate, and as Senator Culberson also took part in the state campaign, it is natural he too should have an opponent. But The Telegram does not believe it possible for Cone Johnson to defeat Chrales A. Culberson before the peoole. It may be true that Culberson displaced the veteran Roger Q. Mills. but it was at a time when the people of this state believed Mills had not been true to his trust. Culberson is man who has measured up to the demands of the situation in the most thorough manner possible and is a statesman of the broadest type. Cone Johnson can preach very good lay sermons, but when it comes to statesmanship he is not in the Culberson class. -Fort Worth Telegram.

Cone Johnson is an East Texas man young, ambitious, strong, of the best type; he is in the current more than that he is in anybody's class for any thing in Texas, in fact, allowing at the good things said of Senators Culberson and Bailey, and Johnson is more on the order of a statesman than either of them. Yes, Cone Johnson will bear watching.-Gilmer Mirror.

Campbell's Official Family

The most interesting feature of the Campbell gubernatorial campaign is now developing, in the form of loud clamors from the faithful who want ood places at the ple counter. It will be remembered that an official slate was arranged for Colonel Campbell during the early days of the campaign and the public is auxiously waiting to see how near it was correct. And in the meantime, those patriots who saved the day will make life miserable for the man who captured the gubernatorial nomination.-Fort Worth Tele-

There have been many rumors as to the official family of Governor-to-be Campbell. The quality of a governor's administration is indicated pretty clearly by the men with whom he surrounds himself; and Colonel Campbell's action in this respect will be watched with interest.-San Antonio Express.

WOMAN WINS MEDAL Mrs. Adolph Topperwein Surprises Crack Shots Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 .- One of the urprises of the year's meet of National Rifle cracks on the range of Seagirt, N. J., is a clear eyed handsome young woman who four years ago had never handled a gun, much less fired a shot out of a gun, rifle or revolver. She is Mrs. Elizabeth Topperwein of San Antonio, Texas. She opened the eyes of the veterans at the Butts on Tuesday by scoring fifty-nine out of a possible seventy-five in five shots each at 200, 300 and 500 yards. She thus qualifies for enrollment as a member of the National Marksmen's Reserve.

This position of the young woman is just now puzzling the executive officers of the National Rifle Association, for in past none but men had been so honored. Even the representatives of the United States government are in a quandary. Just the same, however, she received her medal from the board of range officers as a qualified marksman. Although her shooting would indicate it, Mrs. Topperwein is not a native Texan. Before her marriage she was Miss Elizabeth Servaty of New Haven, Conn., and until four years ago, as she said, "was like every other woman, mortally afraid of firearms."

Old Children

The present reunion at Confederate Park has furnished abundant proof that it is hard for people to grow old. Today was a banner day for the merry-go-round and that popular institution was not monopolized by the young people by any means. Men who fought in the war between the states and who voted for John Breckenridge for president in 1860 rode the ponies and enjoyed the fun as much as the youngsters, and one old mother whose boys fought for the south in the '60s took a whirl on the merry-go-round and liked it so well that she took anther one. Many people, on whose heads the whitening frosts of three score years have fallen, have yielded to the mad whirl and gone around on the ponies, and they act just as young as the youngest.

Rumor Says Archbishop Will Become Cardinal

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 .- That Archbishop Farley of New York is likely to get the coveted red hat very soon, perhaps before the end of the present year, was the statement made today by Former Judge John Palmieri, who was a passenger with Mr. Bryan on the North German Lloyd steamer Princess Irene. Mr. Palmieri said also that it was his belief that the honor of the cardinalate seemed to lie between Archbishops Farley and Ireland, and that the former was apparently in the greater favor with the pope. "In an interview with the pope, lasting more than three-quarters of an hour," said Mr. Palmieri, "the holy father spoke in terms of the greatest enthusiasm of Archbishop Farley. There was more than a hint in the pope's remarks that the archbishop of New York would be advanced to. cardinalship and Merry del Val, the vatican secretary of state, seemed to me to make this absolutely plain when he bade me give Archbishop Farley his warmest greetings.

"'Tell the archbishop,' said the secretary, 'that I hold him in the very highest esteem.' "That statement, coming from so high a church dignitary at Rome, seemed to me to more than hint that there would soon be another American "The manner in which the pope spoke of Archbishop Farley," said Mr. Palmieri last night, "and the way in which he seemed to be interested in the archbishop of New York indicated to my mind a strong tendency on the pope's part to favor him. While I do not profess to know when the promotion of Archbishop Farley will take place, I am certain that it will be within a year from now. It may before then. ## GOOD PROGRAMS ENTERTAIN VETERANS AT REUNION CAMP

Music and Speeches at Afternoon and Morning Sessions

CROWD REMAINS LARGE

Many Leave for Home, But Are Replaced by Others From Fort Worth and Surrounding Country

The attendance at Confederate Park Friday was a little shy of what it was the day previous, but still there was a good sized crowd, estimated at 1,500 people. Many went home the night previous and others left Friday morning, but as wagon load after wagon load would pull out, others would come in. This changing of the population at Confederate Park will go on up to the last day of the reunion.

Old Time Speech

Friday was a genuine Confederate day. The speech of Rev. Randolph Clark of Thorp Springs had more ring of old times in the south than any speech that has been made at this gathering and the speaker was accorded the most hearty applause. The day was warm and it was hard to pull the people out from the shady nooks where they were taking their siestas, but after much work a big crowd was collected in the pavilion when old time music and talk of old time customs in the south and the grandeur of the men of the south furnished themes that made up a most enjoyable

There was both a morning and an evening program at the pavilion. Albert J. Baskin, for Sons of Confederates, speaking in the forenoon and W. D. House for the Sons and Rev. Randolph Clark for the Confederates in the afternoon. Preceding the speaking, both morning and afternoon, Grandpa J. E. Clifton and his two granddaughters, Misses Pearl and Clara Vernon, on violin and guitar, discoursed the best and most enjoyable music that has been heard at the park. They played "Dixie," and that brought out the old time "rebel yell," and they played "Natchez Under the Hill." which was the occasion for a demonstration. Peekaboo waists and "apple blossoms" followed and the "Bonnie Blue Flag That Bears a Single Star" set the crowd wild. It was a good meeting and everybody enjoyed it. Judge C. C. Cummings, master of ceremonies, introduced A. J. Baskin at the morning entertainment and paid him a high compliment as a Texas product, a man who had "growed up" in Texas and from the crude product had become the refined article he presented today. This made Baskin blush to the roots of his hair and when he arose to speak, as a matter of course, he had to acknowledge the pretty compliment paid him. He said that Judge Cummings, in the kindness of his heart, had given him (Baskin) too much credit. "But all I am," said he. "I owe to Judge Cummings and his advice and encouragement. I studied law in his office and when my heart would fail me when I contemplated the serious problem of life, I would have given up the battle had not Judge Cummings urged and encouraged me to press on. He made me what I am, make much." Beginning his speech, Mr. Baskin said his remarks would be not only to the Sons of Veterans, but to the Veterans themselves, and to the friends of his boyhood days-to them who knew "me and my early environments:" he was not going to talk about the Confederate soldier and the cause he stood for, for he could not find words sufficient to do justice to the valor of the one and the holiness of the other, but he would speak briefly of the causes that led up to and precipitated the war between the states -the greatest conflict of great armies said the speaker. "I deny this. A greater principle was involved-a principle that is not yet dead and which will live until eternity begins and time is no more." That the right of local self-government-state rights-was the underlying cause that lead to the great war was Mr. Baskin's argument and he said that history would back him up in the position he took. The government was young in those days, he said, and new states were knocking for admission with the union, when it was proposed to entail certain conditions upon the applicants that were in violation of a principle of the constitution, the right of states to settle their own affairs. Slavery was among the institutions recognized by the constitution and it was for the states coming into the union to say whether or not that institution should exist in the new states. The effort to take away from the states this right was the main cause of the war. It was a principle, not an institution, that caused the war between the states. The speech of Mr. Baskin was well received and heartily applauded. Afternoon Program

At 2 p. m¼ Judge Cummings called the crowd together and announced that there would be more music before eloquence, and Clifton, the Vernon sisters and John Baker on the piano rendered a number of popular southern melo-

Miss Martha Cozsby recited "Life's Game of Ball." Wallie D. House of Mansfield, for the Sons of Veterans, was introduced and spoke for fifteen minutes on the south, its people and its customs. There were two things he said the south could be proud of: The story of its heroes and the story of its courtships. No country had greater heroes or more enthusiastic lovers, and no country 'n the world had more cause to be proud of its history than the south did. The speaker drew a pretty picture of the old south, the men, the women, the old slaves and old customs that had been wiped out by the war, leaving the

be met, the problem of building up on

"But I fear that solution. Take the history of the negro equality movement, the Niagara movement and the recent meeting at Harper's Ferry, the John Brown movement and there is in them threatened that which should be feared, but must be met."

The speaker took the position that education and isolation was probably the best solution—the negroes a nation to themselves. If they were capable they would succeed; if not they would fall. If they would make themselves respected they must make theinselves useful.

Mr. House gave graft a side wipe, saying if the money involved in graft could be available it would pay running expenses of the governments and leave a balance, and there would be no additional taxes.

Mr. House paid a high compliment to the old southern citizenship, and said the war had wiped out the old southern aristocracy. "But when the old veterans are gone there will be here their descendants to honor their memory and upon the wreck of the old aristocracy they will build up-are building up the present great southern citizenship. After a glowing tribute to southern women and their devotion during the war, the speaker closed. Rev. Randolph Clark

Rev. Randolph Clark of Thorp Springs was the next speaker, and he talked as a representative of the Veterans. His speech was one of the best that has been delivered at the reun-It was an echo from the old south, and touched the heart of every old soldier who heard it. He said in some parts of the country a Confederate reunion was looked on as a treasonable gathering, not as an occasion of rest, recreation and enjoyment. "True." he said. "the old soldiers at these reunions talk about the war; but there are things about the war we have the right to talk about, because of the impression it makes on the minds of the young generation. We are often spoken of as 'rebels,' which I resent, and which all Confederate soldiers resent. Why call men 'rebels' who saved the constitutional government the only two times it was ever saved? History tells that the principles we fought for were recognized by the northern soldiers in the revolutionary war; for northern soldiers in Pennsylvania refused to cross their state line to fight the English, leaving the south to take care of their end of it. It was southern soldiers who won the Mexican war." The speaker argued that in the war between the states, the south did not fight for human bondage, but for human liberty, civilization and state's rights. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was touched on, the Stonewall Jackson memorial window in the negro church at Lexington, Va., put in by negroes in honor of the great southern leader, who would buy negroes in order to give them their liberty was told of and the speaker said that instead of indorsing slavery as right morally, Lee, Jeff Davis, Stonewall Jackson and other great southerners often manumitted slaves. "The north never knew how the south treated the slaves. There were people in the north who believed the negro was worked all day in the field and then fed out of a trough like a drove of hogs." The speaker then told of the war, the going home to poverty and desolation of the southern soldier, of his rebuilding the south on the ruin he found. Texas and its grandeur was told of, and the heroes who fought for their homes here were extolled. The speech was applauded at the end with a roar from the old soldiers and a clapping of hands by the women. The program at the pavilion Thursday afternoon and evening was full of interest and embraced features not originally on it. The addition of the old settlers' talks was one of the most amusing features of the day and they will be continued, and a recitation by Miss Martha Cozby of Azle of H. L. duced Green Cole, one of the old settlers of Tarrant county, who, the judge said, came up Red River with Columbus when he discovered America before Texas was annexed to the United States. Mr. Cole said he was not a public speaker, but as a single-handed talker to one man on a woodpile he could spin as long a yarn about old times in Texas as anyone else, and he proceeded to tell about his arriving at Dallas in 1843, when the first court house, a long building, stood where the present grand court house now stands; how he gathered nuts where the Sanger store is located and how he killed his first deer where the Oriental hotel now stands. From Dallas he came to Fort Worth, where he secured work in the county clerk's office, and related interesting stories of the peculiar methods resorted to by old-time lawyers to get their law-breaking clients out of trouble. His talk was purely reminiscent without any attempt at oratory. The next old-timer was Captain Wil-

"I am going to tell you about the first time I ever saw Cole. He had a little box-house saloon in Fort Worth with a pine board billiard table, two bottles and one glass, and if two men came in together to get a drink one would have to wait until the other finished to get a drink; ain't that so,

Captain Orrick told of the times when he located in the White Settlement neighborhood, when there were only two houses in the section and nothing on the prairies but wild cattle that was common stock when beef was wanted. He told of the gradual development of the county until the beef packing business had to stop; how one year he was out of corn and there was only fifteen bushels in his neighborhood, and how he cleared up three acres of brush land for one bushel of it. "But we have got over all that now. Fort Worth has grown into a grand city and Tarrant county into a thicklysettled county with well-to-do people. Captain John Harwell was the next talker, and he, too, went over old days in Tarrant county, telling of the then as compared with now most interest-

W. T. Shaw, speaker for the Confederate Veterans, spoke on "The Confedcrate Veteran As a Soldier and a Citizen." His address was carefully prepared and was an interesting review of the war between the states, the causes that led up to it, the heroism of the Confederate soldier in battle, the suffering he endured and the patience with which he endured hardship. But great as was the accomplishment of the Confederate soldier in war, when war was over they were no greater than his accomplishments in time of

Lauds Confederate Soldier

"The Confederate soldier." he said 'sprang from the race which carved out the independence of America in the war with England; from the men who followed Francis Marion Morgan and Green at King's Mountain, the Cowpens at Yorktown and hurled back the minions of King George from southern soil. They were of a race 600,000 of which had for four years eld at bay 2,500,000 soldiers of the United States government and won the vorld's plaudits for their valor.

"It should be remembered," said the speaker, "that the south itself furnished many troops to the union army, and that from Europe there was enlisted over 400,000 men to fight us. With the 400,000 foreign soldiers, 150,000 white and hundreds of thousand negro soldiers from the south, the north had over 1,000,000 men to fight our 600,000 without taking a single soldier from the northern population. The European, white southern and negro soldiers in the northern army were 50 per cent more than the entire number of enlisted men in the Confederate during the war, and ordinarily should have been sufficient to sweep our army off the face of the earth; but the Confederate soldier was fighting for his home and for the right." The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the women of the south and urged upon the sons and daughters of the south to be untiring in their efforts for them and to never cease effort until the lawmakers of Texas had provided a home for the widows of the Confederate soldiers.

It is remarkable what suffering some persons put up with just to satisfy an appetite for something.

A Mich. woman says: "I had been using coffee since I was old enough o have a cup of my own at the table, and from it I have suffered agony hundreds of times in the years past. "My trouble first began in the form of bilious colic, coming on every few weeks and almost ending my life. At very attack for eight years I suffered in this way. I used to pray for death relieve me from my suffering. I had also attacks of sick headache, and began to suffer from catarrh of the stomach, and of course awful dyspep-

"For about a year I lived on crackers and water. Believing that offee was the cause of all this suffering, I finally quit it and began to use Postum Food Coffee. It agreed with my stomach, my troubles have left me and I am fast gaining my health under its use.

"No wonder I condemn coffee and tea. No one could be in a much more critical condition that I was from the use of coffee. Some doctors pronounced it cancer, others ulceration, but none gave me any relief. But since I stopped coffee and began Postum I am getting well so fast I can heartily recommend it for all who suffer as I did." Dandy Dixie Minstrels

Quite the most pretentious organization of Afro-American performers to be seen in this country has been engaged for the Dandy Dixie Minstrels, which comes to Greenwall's opera house Thursday matinee and night, Sept. 6. Headed by John Rucker, the greatest exponent of comedy among colored lyric players today, Messrs. Voelckel & Nolan have secured the famous "Cotton Pickers" band of solo musicians. The company includes the Spiller Musical Bumpers, Mac Allen, the Torreys, Williams and Stevens, H. S. Wooten, Richard Barrett, James Crosby and Robert E. Leach among its principals, together with a host of singers and dancers who go to make up the most novel first part ever attempted. An olio of exceptional merit is followed by the latest negro afterpiece, entitled "A Fowl Affair," in which Rucker interprets the leading role of "Judge Yazoo."

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Sept. 1 .- Union Pacific vened what was otherwise the most gnant session of the stock exchange en for quite a while by a spectacular light to a new high level, the price sing 3½ points during the brief ses-ion, the high point being a gain of points from the previous best level the week. This issue was paraant in the trading from the start and after opening % to % higher the rice moved up continuously, although me stock came out from time to ime. The best price was touched in he final half hour, and even the bad bank statement was without material ffect. While the volume of business was unusually small, sales for the first nour being 131,400 shares and to noon only 436,000 shares, the balance of the list was favorably affected by the strength of Union Pacific, as well as he current belief that the monetary tringency would be relieved during the holidays, which caused some covering of short holdings and engendered a rise in prices of all the leading issues. New York Central sold at a net gain of 14, while St. Paul, Southern Pacific, ling, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific and the Copper stocks, as well as other industrials, gained a point or nore, there being a firm tone in evidence at the close, while prices were near the best for the general list.

Liverpool Cotton Cable

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 1 .- The cotton market developed a very poor tone during the brief session today, and prices dropped sharply. With the American markets closed, traders on that side of the water operated here to a certain extent, although the bulk of the trading was for professional account. Foreign news was bearish and from the start prices trended downward, opening figures being 4 to 5 points down as compared with an expected decline of 3 points, while finals showed a net loss of 8 to 10 points. Beginning today transactions will be made in half points as well as full points. . The spot market ruled dull, prices being 6 points lower at 5.35d for

Wheat Deliveries Two to Three Million-Market Has Firm Tone. Prices Slightly Higher

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Sept. 1 .- Wheat deliveries were lighter than expected today, approximating 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 bushels, and the market behaved exccedingly well.

Bulls were inclined to take a cheerful view of the situation and offered good support at all times. Prices at the start were 1/4c to 1/2c higher and as there was comparatively little selling pressure, the market displayed a good tone at all times, prices working up a full cent for the September option. However, there was quite a little come out on hard spots in the distant deliveries and the initial gain was not increased. The market closed firm with prices at a net gain of 4c

Local receipts, 54 cars, of which 29 were contract grade, as compared with a total of 22 this day last year. Estimated Monday, 92 cars. Broomhail estimates world's shipments at 10,000,-000, of which Europe will take 8,800,-000 bushels.

There was no snap to the trading in the future market, but the comparatively light deliveries caused some covering of short contracts and the dullness was accompanied by a firm undertone. Final figures showed a net gain of %c to %c. Local receipts, 374 cars, including 205 of contract grade, as compared with a total of 516 this day last year. Estimated receipts for Monday, 415

Oats Oats delivered on contract approximated 535,000 bushels. The contract market was dull with a firm tone throughout the brief session. Final figures showed a net gain of %c to 1c. Local receipts, 240 cars, including 33 contract grade, as compared with a total of 286 this day last year. Estimated for Monday, 203 cars.

MODERN MOSES OF UTTERMOST TEXAS

steady; sheep, $3@6; lambs, $4@7.

When Moses smote the rock with his staff and caused a stream of living water to gush forth he wrought a wondrous miracle.

Here is the story of the Moses of Uttermost, Texas, Using a drill instead of a staff, this man has caused not one but many streams of pure water to pour forth, and has thus delivered his people from a despotism-not that of a Parach, but the despotism of drouth. This modern Moses is R. J. Kleberg. manager of Santa Gertrudes ranch, the largest estate in the United States owned by a private individual, and, perhaps, the largest in the world. His discovery of a great lake of artesian water underlying plains three times the area of the state of Connecticut, lying between the Nueces and Rio Grande, is but one of a record of big

To appreciate fully the significance of Mr. Kleberg's discovery, it is neces. sary to bear in mind something of the history of the country beyond the Nueces. One of the first spots within the boundaries of the United States to be trodden by the foot of the white man, this territory has fascinated all who beheld it, for nearly four centuries; yet until a short time ago, it baffled every attempt to do more than raise a few cattle upon it.

Ages ago the whole country was a part of the Gulf of Mexico. When the shallow waters had carried sediment thither until a soil of extreme richness had been deposited to a depth of thirty to sixty feet, the shore line advanced, creating a plain 150 miles long and 100 miles wide. Without a water course or a marsh or a stone or a hill or a tree in his way, a skillful plowman could have turned an unbroken furrow in a perfectly straight line from the Nueces southward 150 miles to the Rio Grande. In March and April the whole plain was carpeted with a waving mass of wild flowers of every hue of the rainbow. No wonder France and Spain quarreled over the possession of this seeming paradise, nor that the quarrel was handed down to Mexico and the republic of Texas, and continued by the farmer and the ranchman. But the farmers, though they tried again and again, were always glad to escape with their lives at the sacrifica of all their scanty possessions, for the climate was hopelessly arid. It was concerning this part of Texas that Phil Sheridan, then a sub-lieutenant in General Taylor's army, uttered his famous profane epigram, that if he owned hell and Texas, he would rent Texas and live in hell. When the cattlemen were left at last in undisputed possession of the country beyond the Nueces, they divided it into ranches ranging in size from vast estates one and a half times the area of Rhode Island down to modest little homesteads of a hundred thousand

Foremost among the larger ranches was Santa Gertrudes, which was founded by Captain Richard King, a Mississippi river pilot, who had been engaged with his friend, Captain Miffin Kenedy, to handle the steamboats which transported supplies along the Gulf coast and up the Rio Grande for the American forces during the Mexican war. Captain King was fascinated with the Gulf coast country, as many others had been, and set out to establish the biggest ranch in the country.

He was successful in this undertaking. At the time of his death, twentytwo years ago, he owned 800,000 acres well stock within the usual native cat-When Captain King died his widow intrusted to her son-in-law, R. J. Kleberg, the management of Santa Gertrudes. Mr. Kleberg, who was born within 150 miles of the ranch, is descended from a Prussian who once performed a distinguished service for the king of Prussia. In gratitude for this the king obligated himself to provide means to pay for the education of the Kleberg children for all time. But the family prospered in America, and Mr. Kleberg contrived to secure a college education and study law without availing himself of the royal bounty to which he was entitled. Ranch life on the dry plains of Texas was more attractive to him, however, than the still dryer profession of the law.

Mr. Kleberg undertook to carry to completion the ambition of Captain King. The first step was to perfect titles to the land, a work that had hitherto been impossible on account of the incomplete judicial machinery of the new country. After this constructive work was begun, he bought land in small parcels until Santa Gertrudes had expanded into a domain of 1,200,-000 acres. The area of Rhode Island, measuring Narragansett bay and all, is 800,000 acres. But with yearlings $8 a head the income from so large an estate was not satisfactory, even when stocked up at its full capacity of one steer to ten acres. He undertook to improve the cattle, and bought blooded bulls by the carload. The bulls inrariably died within a few days after reaching the ranch.

Old cowmen said acclimation fever was the cause, and that it was useless to try to bring in cattle from other localities; that they always died. The explanation was not satisfactory. Mr. Kleberg observed that the strange buils only sickened after they had been bitten by a species of tick common to the country.

He wrote to Secretary Rusk, then the head of the agricultural department, that he believed the bite of the tiicks caused the fever and asked that a man be sent to help him investigate the problem. An expert came, and aft. er two years' study, with the assistance of Mr. Kleberg, mastered the cause of Texas fever in cattle and provided a means of prevention by inoculation. The preventive has proved almost infallible. Mr. Kleberg's idea has resulted in the saving of countless millions to the livestock industry of the nation for the Texas fever ravaged the local herds wherever Texas cattle were bating the fever, the work of breeding up the cattle went on smoothly enough until every hoof on the ranch was from one-half to fifteen-sixteenths Hereford or Durham, and the value of the stock had been more than doubled. But always the problem of an adequate water supply for the thirsty herds on the arid plains grew more and more pressing. Surface wells were duz and equipped with windmills, but within twenty miles of the coast the water was brackish and everywhere the supply was insufficient and unsat-

Having found the weapon

When it began to look as if it was a question of finding water or going out of business. Mr. Kleberg hired a gang of well drillers and ordered then to keep right on boring until their drill came out on the other side of the earth unless they found water sooner. When the well gang arrived at the scene of their labors one morning after reaching a depth of 800 feet they found water flowing out of the well. Another of Mr. Kleberg's ideas had borne fruit of momentous importance. After a second well with a flow of 250 gallons a minute had been brought by way of verifying the discovery Mr. Kleberg drove to the nearest telegraph office, twenty miles away, and wired an order for four well boring outfits and a dozen carloads of casing. The work of boring wells went forward without interruption until 125 wells on Santa Gertrudes were spouting at the rate of 25 to 400 gallons a minute. Other ranchmen who, on learning of Mr. Kleberg's discovery, also bought well boring outfits and undertook to tap the underground reservoir, encountered a difficulty with which the original Moses did not have to contend, and that was the difficulty in taking care of the water after they

The artesian belt was found to dip toward the gulf, so that while the water lay deeper near the coast, the flow was very much stronger. While boring at the depth of 1,200 feet on La Parra ranch one day the drill suddenly shot out of the ground immediately in advance of an impromptu geyser. The next instant the men around the derrick took a nice cool unpremeditated douche bath. The geyser threatened to drown out the gang and wash away the outfit before it could be controlled.

It was necessary to fasten a section of pipe to the top of the well tubing. with an elbow and another section of pipe to turn the stream horizontally to carry it away from the well. Any one who wants to get a working idea of the pleasure of the task can do so by trying to put a new faucet on the bath tub without shutting off the water in the cellar. It took three hours to accomplish the task, and when it was done there was nothing in the appearance of the men nor of the adjacent landscape to suggest an arid climate. The net result achieved up to the present times is a grand total of 275 artesian wells on an area 75 by 125 miles, with an aggregate flow of 40,000,000 gallons every 24 Now, on the dry plains, where cattle once wandered weary miles in search of water and not infrequently died of thirst at last, numerous lakelets, which are constantly increasing in size and number, the overflow from artesian wells, shimmer in the brilliant sun. Myriads of water fowl have eagerly appropriated them for their summer home, instead of continuing on to the less hospitable shores of Canada. At Santa Gertrudes ranch, where salt mackerel was once the only fish known, a pond fed by an artesian well keeps the table abundantly supplied with black bass. Plans for stocking the larger lakes with bass are under consideration which may vet make arid Texas the rival of northern Wisconsin as a fishing resort

GANS' WEIGHT

Scores Clever Point

Believed Negro's Chances Will

Be Affected by Necessity to Reduce Flesh to 1311/2

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Sept. 1.-The camp today is talking of the way

Manager Billy Nolan contrived to shave an extra pound or two off the fighting weight of one Joe Gans. The sports here, who, by the way, are learning something new about the pugilistic industry day by day, are not admiring the mild-mannered young man who guides the ring destinies of the durable Dane. They consider him too unbending." They think he crowded

Gans a little too far and incidentally ran a monumental bluff on the enterprising athletic organization at the Goldfield Athletic Association. But

Billy don't mind these temporary evidences of disfavor. "I am in this business to do the best for Nelson and I am not overlooking anything," said he.

day evening to determine whether Nolan was justified in demanding that Gans weigh in at the ringside in full championship rules, and if Gans is not prepared to comply we will forfeit our

$5,000 and walk out of town tomorrow."

This was the bluff, according to sidewalk arguments today. The offshift miners and others who go to make up the population of this desert beehive say that Nolan would as soon part with one of his eyes as turn back on that $20,000 certainty, his own $5,000 and

The club officials did not evince any immediate consternation when Billy made this threat. Where there are a half dozen men with mutual interests sitting in conclave they divide the

those who are advising him he came back into the room and said he would fall in with Nolan's views, even though he had to go to the scales in a costume that has all-summer bathing suit this match," said Gans, in stating his Ordinarily the club men would have aken no more interest in the wrangle than would be sure to insure the mater being settled before the pugilists went to the ringside. It so happened, nowever, that all the officials remembered that the question of providing screens for the nude fighters while weighing in was discussed and decided upon at the first meeting in the matchmaking line. They therefore upheld

Gans' claim that there was a distinct understanding that ring costumes should not be donned until the men

Nolan denied all knowledge of a decision or agreement of this kind. He did not say the directors, the newspapers and Gans were mistaken, but simply that he could not recall that part of the deliberations. Every other thing he could remember distinctly, but on this particular subject his mind was a world's championship, with all the hopes and fears and doubts that attach to it, is on the boards. Everybody here seems to think that the thing might have worked out differently if Gans had had a manager to fight his

Gans Needs Guidance

Of course, Larry Sullivan is helping nim and is beyond doubt loyal to the colored lad's interests, but the trick of piloting a pugilist is not learned in a week or a month. What Gans wanted in the present instance was someone trained in prize fight manipulation. It may cause a shudder to link the names of Al Hereford and Gans, but if Hereford had assisted Gans in the making of this match the negro would not have to knock under almost every point.

Neither would he have been made to attend meetings lasting far into the night and subject himself to the nervous tension involved in bitter wrangles while his prospective opponent was curled up in the blankets

The question now is, how will the new arrangement about the weight af-

After the hurried consultation with the moving picture properties.

"What I ask is in accordance with war paint and feathers, Nolan said:

During the emergency meeting Tues-

Special to The Telegram.

"I make a study of this business," said Nolan, "and I know that Gans has weighed as low as 131 in other fights. Manager for Battling Nelson Of course, he will be stronger with a few pounds more, and I am free to confess that Nelson would be stronger at 135 than at 133. That's aside from the question. Gans and everybody else may have overlooked the fact that AFFECTS BETTING championships call for ringside weighing in full regalia, but I had the thing in mind the first day the match was spoken of and always keep it in view. I knew that Nelson could make the notch without trouble and I was determined that the other fellow also should." Nolan says he got the idea that Nelson can defeat Gans at any weight through what happened at the Gans-Walcott fight.

"The weight was 142 pounds, and while Gans did not scale anything like that, he was doubtless at the notch that suited him best. Anyway, he should have been, with no weight-making to worry him and nothing to train for but speed and good condition. Well, he outpointed Walcott, but he did not hurt him, and I am sure that if it had been a fight to a finish, as this one is. Wolcott would have worn him down. I compare Nelson to Walcott in any way, and believe that Nelson is a more dangerous man for Gans than Walcott. Walcott is rugged and strong, like Nelson, and he fights close, but not with the persistency that Nelson employs. Nelson never lets up, and while if it were a twenty-round match I might see danger of Gans outpointing Nelson, I feel in my bones that with the two men cast loose for a battle to the bit ter end there can be but one resultvictory for Nelson."

Nolan admits that he believes th point he insisted on in regard to the style of weighing in might influence the betting and possibly cause the mer to sell at even money. It was his in tention, he said, not to draw attention to what championship rules exacted until the end of the present week, be ing of the opinion that Nelson's friend: had the right to avail themselves o whatever odds might be forthcoming on Gans. A chance question projected the dispute as to Gans' right to weigh in dressed, and then there was nothing for it but to have the question argue and settled.

It was the same old thing at Gans' training quarters today. Road work in the forenoon and bag-punching, ropeskipping and pulling and hauling and the like indoors in the afternoon.

Nelson a Pink Tea Boxer It was ladies' day at Nelson's quarters and the best seats were reserved for the fair sex when Bat appeared to exercise.

It is wonderful what an effect these pugilistic pink teas have had on the granite-faced Dane, as anybody who remembers him at his Colma training quarters with his Happy Hooligan grin and his shock of hair would not re ognize him now. He wears a violetcolored costume, an emerald breechclout and a new flag belt. His top thatch has surrendered to the barber's shears and when setting to with Lundie he is spruceness personified.

storm which threatened Fort Worth late Friday afternoon and ail the evening drifted around to the east and gave the country southeast of town and extending east of Dallas a good drenching. All it could do for this town was a brief pattering of scat. tering drops early in the afternoon, which the weather bureau officials re-

Ballinger, where J. Pluvius has been unusually liberal with his goods this year, received another donation last night, amounting to 1.94 inches. At Abilene 1.78 inches fell; at Henrietta. 86, and at Greenville .36 inch. The Dallas shower amounted to .24 inch. No rains were reported from outside of Texas which were as heavy as the Abilene and Ballinger rains. At Oklahoma City 1.10 inches fell and at Wil-mington, N. C., 1.40 inches, but other showers were scattering and light. Thunderstorms occurred in the Dakotas, Montana and Iowa. The cotton states are clear today, with normal temperatures. Texas also has cleared and the weather is warm

Boles was hit rather freely in the first inning Friday and also gave one base on balls. When the inning had been finished it was found that the visitors had put three runs on their side of the fence. After that Boles worked well and the Giants could not get in another run.

In the eighth inning Farris let down to a great extent and the team behind him went to pieces. He became wild and was hit, while one error and some very slow playing was made behind him. This resulted in the score being tied.

After that both teams went in for blood, but it was no use. The pitchers had the best of the thing after the tenth inning, as it was getting dark fast and it was hard to see the ball. Cleburne opens here today. Score:
