CITY BUT VISION

New Revelations Show Other Banks Were Worked for Large Sums

HILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 8. -A city which never existed except on paper is now said to have absorbed $2,000,000 of the money which is reported to have disappeared from the Real Estate Trust Company's vaults pefore its president, Frank K. Hipple, mmitted suicide. This town was to have been built utside of Alexandria, Va., and was

o be known as New Alexandria. It consists today of a lot of Potomac marshes and the breezes blow across without let or hinderance as far as ulldings are concerned.

City Still on Paper Hipple had faith in it, and it was his dream to build there factories and homes for the workmen were to patonize the projected car linese, burn he gas that Hipple and his associates vere to supply. The factories are still on paper and the gas and street car lants are as yet figurements of a stempered vision.

Worked Other Banks

Bonds of this city and enterprises were sold by Hipple and then bought in. Then the old bonds, as worthless as Confederate currency, were pledged not only at his own company by him, but at other confiding banks to the extent of hundreds of thousands of

This is the town that it was his ambition to wn. The bonds were worth possibly scant $10,000 if put on the market. It was the discovery of these bonds that put District Attorney Bell upon the track of the Hipple town. There was known as the religious financier from Philadelphia.

The district attorney learned that most of the money that Hipple did not dump into the maw of Segal went into his Virginia enterprise. This was at least two millions. There is pracically nothing to show for it. He also found that Hipple had been so conclentious in looting the Real Estate Trust Company that when a balance of $11,000 remained out of a loan sunk into one of Segal's enterprises, he carefully placed that amount to the bank in his own account.

BUCKET SHOPS KNIFE PUBLIC

Public Anxious to Put Cash in Speculations

DISGUISE ROBBERY

Swindled Patrons Fail to See Through Game and Take More Stock

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- The drift of public speculative sentiment toward the stock market is too plain to be ignored. Because of the state tax law in New York the Wall street evidence of this speculation is not so plain as that which appeared in bucket shops and in the legitimate markets. Recent failure of a large bucket shop present in vast numbers. The tax of two cents a share on stocks makes a very material difference with the rader and the public in order to avoid hat tax is trading with the bucket shops. The bucket shops are robbing he people in three distinct ways. First, they rob them of the legitimate influence of their buying and selling orders on the market. Second, they rob them by deliberate manipulation of the real stock market, so as to wipe out margins. "Welching" Traders

The last method of robbery is to welch" when the traders win, as was done in the "A!" Adams case. Because the crime of bucket shops is not thor oughly understood by the general public it is probable that thousands will go ahead losing their money in these gambling houses and in the end will blame Wall street. The fact that the public is present in such large numbers in these gambling houses shows that there is a disposition on the part of the public to dabble in stocks. The managers of the campaign realize this thoroughing for they observe the bucket shops carefully to learn the state of public sentiment. Crop Movement Pushed

They are encouraged now to press the campaign forward with renewed energy. The money market is the only obstacle to a successful campaign which cannot be discussed freely, the other considerations being largely matters of sentiment. While money threatens to become very light, it must be remembered that this year there are no clique attempting to persuade farmers to hold back their tremendous crops as there have been in times past. The speculators are urzing early crop movements and this promises to furnish an unusually large supply of bills of exchange early in the season, both for grain and cotton.

In the Street

Today's sales of stocks were 462.200 shares against 315,339 a year ago. The par value of bonds sold today was $732,000 against $1,045,000 a year ago. The bank statement today was the worst in several years, showing a deficit in surplus reserve of $6,577,925. This is a decrease of $9,447,320 from last week. The statement also shows a loss of cash amounting to $17,529,-000 and a decrease in deposits of $7,-843.100.

Big Gold Imports

This astonishing statement had little effect on the stock market. In fact, leading issues became strong and advanced after it was published. It is known that at least $15,000,000 gold will be imported next week, while about $30,000,000 will come before the movement ends. Secretary Shaw will also deposit money in the banks out of the treasury surplus. The hold-over cotton cry is spreading in the south, where some planters are conjured not to sell below the bread and meat line, which is 10 cents a pound. Deterioration, since Aug. 25, is the note sounded as a warning against acceptance of

There was a lot of gossip on the Great Northern ore lands deal which was said to have reached its last stages. All the signers of the treaty but Judge Gary were understood to have gone through the formality of signing. The rest of those concerned were not among the conspicuous features of the market. Wall street has a way of its own of accepting denials and is disposed to use its discretion in accepting the statement that the United States Steel Corporation has been purchasing the Pennsyl vania's holdings of the Cambria Steel

AUTO CAUSES RUNAWAY

Steam Bubble Wagon Frightens Horses and Leads to Wreck

A steam automobile driven by two Fort Worth men caused a runaway near Birdville Friday evening in which a buggy was completely smashed, but its occupants escaped without injury. Seeing the approach of the automobile, the two young men who were driving, got out and tried to hold their horse. The driver of the auto slackened his speed, but the horse became uncontrollable, broke away, and ran the buggy against a tree.

"PURITY" SCORNED

Kansan Uses Warm Words in Resenting Attacks on His Record

Special to The Telegram. LEOIT, Ken., Sept. 8.—Senator Chester L. Long spoke here this afternoon, opening the state campaign in this part of Kansas. Senator Long opened his address by referring to the remarkable record made by congress the last session, which he said had not been excelled by any previous session of congress. Then he said:

"Some few weeks since Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin delivered several Chautauqua lectures in this part of Kansas. He took occasion in these speeches to criticise severely my record on the railroad rate legislation and censured me for voting against some of the amendments. He also advised the people of this state whom to elect next winter to the senate, thus relieving the legislature from this somewhat arduous and difficult difficulty.

Takes Lafollette to Task

"I will not discuss the propriety of Senator Lafollette coming into this state and in our absence attacking me and my colleague, Senator Benson, Each senator must determine for himself whether such a course is in good taste, is nonorable and fair. Senators are somewhat accustomed to attacks by the public press, but it is very unusual for one senator to attack another outside of the senate and in his ab-

"In doing so Senator Lafollette only shows what he considers fair, just and appropriate and without further reference I shall leave to the people of Kansas to determine whether his course is commendable or not. He comes into this state and makes these attacks, not for the purpose solely of enlightening the people of Kansas upon the record of their representatives or to benefit the public, for it must not be forgotten that these attacks are made at so much per attack and that the senator has been paid for all the speeches that he has made Wisconsin Senator "Peerless" "He has not confined his attacks to members of the senate, but has also extended his denunciations to the members of congress from this state. It is indeed gratifying to find one senator who is so pure and virtuous that he can sit on all his fellows. Senator Lafollette assumes to be such a senator and those whom he blacklists are unworthy representatives, and those who vote with him alone represent the people's interests. Says Lafollette Radical

"I have had some experience with populism. I was four times a candidate for congress against the leader of that faith, and I say to you today that Senator Lafollette advocates propositions that are as populistic as any ever advanced by Jerry Simpson, the difference between the two being that Simpson was the more conservative,"

TANGIER, Sept. 8 .- Stensland was removed today from his luxurious apartments in the Hotel Bristol to the house of the American banker near the United States consulate. These apartments are the ones which were offered yesterday. When the prisoner was taken from his hotel but one detective accompanied him. This was to avoid the possibility of a crowd. Prior to the removal of Stensland the apartments were thoroughly inspected and disinfected.

Guard Increased The guard provided by the sultan has been strengthened. Instead of three soldiers there are now eight on hand, of which four stand guard inside while an equal number are stationed without. They are on duty every minute of the night and day, No one is allowed to see the prisoner on any pretext, and his meals are sent in from the hotel by a waiter who is watched with the closest scrutiny.

VICTORY GOES TO CAMBRIDGE

Boat Race Is Lost by the Harvard Crew

FIGHT TO A FINISH

Time Nineteen Minutes and Fiften Seconds Under Record, Held by Oxford

Cable Special to The Telegram.

PUTNEY, England, Sept. 8 .- In one of the greatest races ever rowed on the Thames, Harvard went down to defeat today before the sturdy oarsmen of Cambridge, while a million spectators cheered the victors and vanquished without discrimination.

The time was 26 seconds slower than the record for the course, but all things considered, it was a magnifi cent struggle. The Harvard men were practically beaten from the start, but with a courage that never flagged they hung on till the last stroke had been pulled and even then their friends were confident but for an evident accident to the rudder of its boat the Harvard crew of crimson would have been to the fore at the end. The time was 19 minutes 16 seconds.

Held by Oxford

The record is held by Oxford, whose crew went the distance in 18 minutes 50 seconds. Although at the finish the Cambridge boat had more than a length of open water from its stern to the bow of the Harvard boat, it was a heart breaking fight with the Americans all the time trying to make up the advantage lost at the start, succeeding only to lose it again.

Fight at Finish It was not until the finish line was neared, however, that the result of the race was at all certain. Then the open water began to appear between the racing shells and the hope cherished by the Harvard supporters among the spectators of seeing the first American college crew win a victory

The day was as perfect for the contest as if it had been made to order. The sun shone hot with no clouds to even threaten to extinguish it and the strong southwest wind that blew over the water in the morning died down in the afternoon, feaving the racing Even the waves that the wind stirred up in the morning disappeared before

The good weather brought out crowds enthusiastic for the contest and allowed them to wear clothing that added a touch of color to the scene without fear of pneumonia. The throngs lined the banks of the stream. Putney bridge was full; Hammersmith bridge was crowded and even the Barnes railroad bridge near the finish els were commanded by Guzmann and

CONTEST OVER MOST POPULAR GIRL ENDS IN FIERCE FIGHT

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 8.-A voting contest to determine who is the most popular and most beautiful young woman in Deer Lick, a small town in Green county, ended in a first rate riot there, and half the male population of the place have broken heads or serious bruises. Miss Emma Stringer, one of the contestants in the popularity race, was badly injured in the fight, in which knives, revolvers and all sorts of improvised weapons were Six youths are under arrest and several prominent men in the community left town to avoid arrest when they heard that warrants were to be sworn out for them.

The question of popularity probably will never be determined. For several weeks the contest had been waged furiously. It was carried on in connection with a series of entertainments and every day the fight became more bitter. It got to a white heat when Miss Stringer and Miss Anna Belmont became the only two surviving contestants.

Both are handsome girls, with dozens of admirers of the rough and ready country type, who would not hear any disparaging criticisms of "their girls." but are usually willing enough to criticise the other fellow's girl. The vote being bounted, the judges would have announced their decision in a few minutes, when the fight began. Executive Denies He Is Treat ing With Rebels

TRUCE DENOUNCED

Insurrectionists Begin Active Fighting and Government's Position Is Hopeless

Cable Special to The Telegram.

AVANA, Cuba, Sept. 8 .-Trapped and badly whipped in a battle almost within sound of the palace in this city, the insurgents in this province are scattered and demoralized. Colonel Asbert, who commanded the insurgents, is among the seriously wounded. The list of dead is said to be large. As far as is known the fight grew out of a misunderstanding on the part of the insurgents. They had been told that an armistice had been declared and were coming into Havana when they were met outside the city by a detachment of rurales and a fierce fight ensued. For more than an hour the rebels stood their ground, but at last they were forced to retire, taking their wounded with them and leaving many dead behind them. Colonel Asbert, although desperately wounded, made his escape. Palma Sees Treachery

Later in the day when seen at the palace, President Palma said: "The fiercest fighting that there has been since the beginning of the wat took place today, yet the newspapers printed a report that a truce had been officially proclaimed. As this false news was first spread by apparent friends of the government, I consider it an act of treachery.

Upholds Dignity of Government

"I have never said or done anything which could be interpreted as recogn nition of the belligerency of the rebe els. When General Menocal asked for permission to see the rebels to induca them to make peace without grant ing them anything contrary to the dignity of the government, I consented, but not with the idea of stopping the war for a moment.

Denounces Truce Publication

"If General Menocal succeeds in bringing about a compromise between the political parties the government will be glad, but I will not take any part in compromise. I consider the publication of the news of a truce as a dastardly trick, designed to promote the interests of the revolution. But proof of its falsity is given by yesterday's battles at Cienfuegos and in the province of Pinar del Rio." Loyal Troops Ran Away

News comes from Pinar del Rio that an armored train sent against General Guererra has been forced to turn back. The commander seems to have learned that a freight train ahead has been stopped by an armed force and he lost no time in taking to the woods. In spite of the fact that he had two machine guns he made no effort to test the strength of the rebels. The version given by the government is that the engine ran out of water and was compelled to back up to Los Palacious, but this is derided. There seems to be no doubt that the loyal troops got a bad scare and ran away. Insurgents on Offensive Encouraged by their success the insurgents are now threatening to blow up more bridges and are assuming the offensive in every direction. According to a report given out today by Gen. Monalvo, the battle near Cienfuegos yesterday went on until night. Then both sides withdrew to their positions. Over twenty were killed and many were wounded on each side. The loyalists at night received reinforcements from the city. The reb-

Would Force Intervention

The Cienfuegos Correspondencia says that Guzmann declares he will take particular care to destroy the property of Americans in order to force intervention by the United States. He said to leading Spanish merchants who visited his camp that Spaniards would be respected, for he had no hope that Spain would induce the United States to assume any attitude.

The government wires connecting with Pinar del Rio were cut last night by the insurgents so that no telegraphic news from the province has been received in Havana today, but it is known that the whole province is almost in a state of anarchy. Revolt Grows Hourly

Non-combatants are panic-stricken and are seeking refuge in Havana. It is growing more evident to intelligent observers that the only hope for peace lies in the intervention of President Roosevelt. President Palma declares that there can be no compromise and yet the revolt grows with every hour. The worst feature of it all seems to be the unwillingness of either side to venture a decisive battle. The truth is that the Cubans are not fighters and never have been. A thousand American marines would sweep the island from end to end and keep the peace for a generation.

confusion and turmoil. Those in a position to know declare that the now famous army of liberation which held Spain at bay for years and finally brought on the war that brought freedom to the island with the aid of the United States was a mere handful of ragged guerrillas without discipline. RUSSIA AT THE PARTING OF THE WAYS

By PROF. PAUL VINOGRADOFF, of the University of St. Petersburg

Some eighteen months ago the revolution in Russia might have been averted by a strong and clear-sighted government if it had either taken the lead, in the political movement of the upper classes and conducted it into the channels prepared by the Zemstvos, or else if it had boldly played the game of the lower orders and overawed the intellectuals by an authority derived from great democratic reforms. But, of course, strong and clearsighted leaders were required for either of these policies, and if the government had possessed them it would not have been driven to the extremities which render heroic measures absolutely necessary. The measure of its strength and insight is to be gathered among other things from the woful collapse of its most clever personality, Count Witte, who has only himself to thank for the universal distrust and disapprobation bestowed on the colleague of M. Dur-Nor is Goremykin likely to avert the

than that of Count Witte, and his ability certainly less, while by his side appear such striking representatives of the old regime as M. Stishinsky and Prince Shilkmatoff.

But, after all, these personal questions are of infinitesimal value now. Events are moving on by their own weight, as it were, and a kind of historical fate rules the actions of the protagonists of the great drama. One of two courses may be adopted by the czar: He will either make a stand from the very first against the duma majority on one or the other of the vital questions raised or else he will try to pacify the assembly by sweeping concessions. The ultimate result is not likely to vary in either of these eventualities. Matters will come to a head more rapidly in the first case, while the main decision may be staved off for some time in the latter. But there is sure to be a breach in the end; nor is it improbable that the crucial question of the disposal of the army may come to play a decisive part in bringing about a struggle.

The leadership of this force the sovereign cannot give up without surrendering himself, and, on the other hand, the assembly would be ever haunted by apprehensions in regard to such a force, even in the case of The compromises effected in this respect in Germany and Italy are maina coffee control and the control of the attention to the control of the control o

Already in Austria-Hungary the case different. As for Russia, the best solution-a frankly monarchical army organization with an effective control of the financial side of it by the representatives of the nation-is rendered exceedingly difficult by the mutual distrust of the powers concerned and by the lamentable inefficiency of the imperial rule in the army. Perhaps the most ominous aspect in the facts themselves, but in the feelings. The points at issue could possibly be arranged by a round table conference between level-headed men. But the leading personalities who have looked into each other's eyes in the Tauris palace have been brought up in hatred and contempt for each other -those who have now the upper hand have suffered so long and so much in the past that they are unable to rec-

Far be it from me to assume that the adoption of the radical program presents the desirable solution of the crisis, but in one way or another it will mark a stage in it. This stage is of a rather crude importation of principles supplied by French democracy, American federalism and German socialism is necessary in order to get rid of the mischievous absurdities of the old regime.

But by and bye the Russian nation vill realize, as other nations have done before, that a living organizati cannot transform bones and singles at pleasure; that the future has deeper roots in the past than the present is inclined to grant; that, as the emperor very properly said the other day, there are blessings of order as well as of liberty; that public authority and public force cannot be dispensed with, least of all in periods of violent social unrest; that Russia cannot give way before the aspirations of all the nationalities composeing it without ceasing to be Russia.

FT. WORTH MEN STRIKE IT RICH

Col. Pennington Finds Good Pay Dirt in Oregon

During the forepart of this week Col. J. L. Pennington of Fort Worth, Texas, who is operating the Blackwell mines, three miles from Gold Hill, Ore., opened a pay chute that runs about $12 a pound. The extent of the pay chute has not been determined yet, but it is thought that the values will keep up approximately. The Blackwell mines are known to have been immensely wealthy in the early days of Gold Hill and there is no reason to believe that the values have to any great extent diminished. Col. Pennington. although he has only been operating these properties for a snort time, feels confident that his men have opened a body of ore that will ultimately prove the assertion of many that the Blackwell hill still contains rich deposits of gold and that by work and perseverence they will be uncovered. There'are a number of Fort Worth citizens interested in the venture.

Beyond the shadow of a doub has been a marked deterioration in the condition of the cotton crop in the part of the state and the reports from those cotton growing sections more remote are not as good as could be de sired, to the south and east of F Worth. The excessive rains, a can be said almost unexamt weather, has favored the boll and the boll weevil and their mated ravages run all the way about 50 per cent damage to total Some of the farmers coming into Worth Saturday say that none of the later growth of squares is being held by the plants, a result due to the ravages of the pests named.

Rank growth of the plant, du to the combination of the high tem perature of the sun and the moisture in excess from the rains, have caused a very rank growth of the plant and complaints of the rotting of the fruitage and the leaves near the ground have been received.

Standing out in the brightest of trast to these dismal reports are the statements made Saturday afternoo by Robert Duringer, living ten mile to the southeast. Intending to plan some more wheat than he did plant in the fall of 1905, he prepared the ground for the wheat seeding. Mr. Duringer said he had gathered cotton from his field which had ever seen any bale-to-the-acre cotton he had some now. But I damage has been done by boll wo and the boll weevil damage is not Mr. Duringer is one of the prog sive farmers and he is confident the fall plowing of the land, and freezings to which it was subje during the winter, killed out the insects and that is the reason his cotton has escaped injury. While it was entirely unintentional, at the time of the plowing, he is also convinced that the remarkably healthy growth the plant made before there was even a possibility of insect injury is due to the thorough preparation of the ground. He thinks he will try that plan again and thus learn if that is the secret of the success he has had in his cotton growing this year, when even those farming adjoining places have lost nearly all of their cotton. He has a little more than thirty-five acres in the field. One of the best summaries of the general co tion, embracing a large part of the cotton growing regions of the sta north of the extreme southern col growing belt, is this which follows: About half the week has been favor able, while during the other half we have had rain, which was not at all a Reason"

EVER GO TO A "BRAN DANCE"?

Old Time Scuthern Institution Has Disappeared

NOTHING SUCCEEDS IT

Before War Social Pastime Which Sometimes Lasted a Whole Week Is Almost Forgotten

BY J. B. ROBERTS The old time "bran dance" is now out of date, but there are yet living men and women who in designating the most enjoyable time of their lives point to the "bran dance" fifty years ago. It was an institution in Kentucky and Tennessee just preceding and following the war between the states, but since the country belles have become rivals of their city sisters in wealth and popularity, and excelling them in many instances in beauty and accomplishments, the "bran dance," where erstwhile love ran riot and on account of which staid parents nearly went crazy, have been sidetracked for the stiff formal functions, the chief feature of which is the exhibition of fine clothes and sparkling gems.

I want to say right here that from a viewpoint of genuine enjoyment a "bran dance" as it was conducted and participated in forty-five years ago ad more real enjoyment, more genuine fun and innocence in it, than a half hundred of the stiff, formal, wealth displaying dances of today. A man or a girl who couldn't enjoy a "bran dance" couldn't enjoy the defights of that celestial life beyond the grave that the preachers talk about, The "bran dance" was just as much a southern institution as the camp meeting or the barbecue was and it had a stronger drawing quality than a circus has now. It was a neighborhood, sometimes a county institution, and any girl who loved to dance forty-five years ago would have swapped her hope of heaven for a chance to attend a "bran dance" in Dixie. Bran Used on Floor

The "bran dance" got its name "om the fact that instead of a waxed floor for the dancers bran from the mill was danced on, and there is no better surthe to trip the "light fantastic toe" on than wheat bran. One who has never enjoyed the delightful experience of gliding over a bran covered surface with the girl he loved for his partner would possibly conclude that it was a laborious proceeding to get through the loose bran with anything like ease but right there he would be mistaken The surface of a bran floor. while it is soft, is springy and slick. and girls and boys, old men and women today, can tell you that gliding over the bran is just the next thing to slid-

There was another feature about the "bran dance" in the old south that made them the rivals of protracted meetings; they too were protracted, sometimes continuing from Monday morning until the clock tolled the hour of 12 Sunday night, and even then, it the fiddlers kept sawing away, there was no such thing as the beaux and belles stopping until the end of the set, and often the last set would extend until the sun began to rise in the east. When the "bran dance" was in its flower sedate dames who would no more think of attending a ball in an ordinary ballroom than they would have thought of hanging themselves. would just accidentally happen in at the dance, dance like any young girl and then go home and ask the good Lord to forgive her their sin (?) and let them be led noto temptation no more. These pious sinners would talk blush ingly of their escapade afterward, but would always contend that they "never had such a good time in their lives," and they never did. A "bran dance" was in the open and the dancing space was often large enough for one hundred couples. Weeks before the great event was inaugurated a committee of young fellows would have a broad expanse of earth leveled in a shady grove and Courier-Journal.

have erected over it a rustic roof, made of the leaves of trees with the leaves on them laid on a frame work of posts and cross poles. On the levelled ground there would be spread about three inches of fresh, clean wheat bran, and in the center of this bran covered area a stand would be erected for the musicians who were to furnish the music. The band would generally be two negro fiddlers, a negro banjo picker and another negro with a triangle that would fingle to the notes of the other instruments, and if you don't think they made music you are mistaken. Such music to dance by is never heard nowadays except in the country districts. No, not even there, but there is an imitation of it. The old time negro fiddler fiddled like the old time preacher preached-like his heart was in the business, and no better dancing masse was ever played. They would play "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Natches Under the "Money Musk," "Arkansaw Trav-"Carry the News to Mary," "The Devil on Two Sticks" and a score of other old airs dear then to the south, but now almost forgotten and rarely

Drew Enormous Crowds

The old time "bran dance" attracted the young people from miles away, the crowd often going up into the thousands. The best people in the country would attend them and from he towns the young folks would go out to have a good time. At these dances there would be restaurant and eigar stands and notwithstanding it was a violation of law strong drink vould be sold. This latter frequently led to trouble, to the killing of a man or two, but nobody ever knew a killng to break up a bran dance in Kentucky or Tennessee unless the fiddlers were ki'dd. Even in that event if there were and er fiddler in reach he would be secured and the dance go on under the rustic arbor while maybe a funeral was going on just across the creek. As a general thing the old folks were firning t bran dances for the reason that they were not assured that when their girl went to one she would bring

WHEAT TAKES SUDDEN DROP

Decline Goes Down to 5/8 With Little Doing

FALL EXPECTED

Corn and Oats Were Active at the Opening, But Become Slow in the Pit

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Sept. 8 .- The movement of spring wheat was seen before the opening to be now in full force. Northwestern receipts were much heavier than of late, and fully up to what was received a year ago. When that hould take place the trade had been told in advance that then the fuse would be applied to the charge that would blow the wheat market into smithereens. It started a lot of liquidation as soon as trading commenced and resulted in half a cent decline within a few minutes of the start. The disaster to the price was not so extremely serious as it might have been had it not been that the long-heralded explosion that was to accompanay the first general movement of the spring wheat crop had been gradually prepared for, and as it is generally expressed, pretty well discounted. Depression of feeling was none the ess very pronounced and the demand for the offerings in the pit far from active even at the reduced price. Long wheat came dribbling out to the close, and when it occasionally halted it was squeezed out. At the close September and December were each %c lower and May was down %c. These are the lowest prices seen for wheat in the last three years.

Corn Declines Little In the corn market there was a sharp rattle of trade at the beginning, like the dumping of a load of coal in front of a house, and then everything was quiet again until within a few minutes of the close. Sellers of corn were in the majority while the early orders referred to were being executed, but half cent decline for September caused a little better demand or that month and caused a rally of about half first declines. September had a second weak turn near the end during which it sold as low as 461/20 and it was only 1-16c over the low point at the close. December lost %c for the day and May from %c to 1/2c.

Oat Trade Slow The bulk of the transactions in the oat pit was consumed in the first half hour of the session. Trade after that was slow, only a few orders occasionally and of too small volume to move the price materially in either direction. September closed strong at 1/4 c were from 1/4c to 1/4 @ 1/4c lower.

improvement but the later deliveries Some demand appeared for lard and ribs at the opening, which gave the market for the hog products an appearance of strength at the time, but hose being filled, weakness spread from the grain pits and the tendency in the greater part of the session became slightly downward. Local run of hogs for the day was 12,000 and for the week 125,000.

BULLET FOR RIDICULE Girl Shoots Man for Mocking Her

Carrying Pistol

Special to The Telegram, SHERIDAN, Wyo., Sept. 8 .- Miss Edna Irvine, daughter of the state treasurer, considered one of the most beautiful girls in Wyoming, is charged with intent to kill because she fired two bullets into the hip of George E. Knighton, her father's foreman, when ne ridiculed her for carrying a big revolver strapped to her waist. The door of a barn on Red Ranch, her father's property, where Mrs. Irvine is spending the summer, was left open recently and some cattle got into the granary. Knighton blamed Miss Irvine for leaving the door open. She replied by saying:

"Pull your gun, for I'm going to kill you." Knighton laughed at her. Then she shot. She contends that Knighton made a move to draw his weapon.

Knighton says Miss Irvine is not to blame as he ridiculed her before a crowd of hands.

TO ASSIST DR. FRENCH H. S. Anderson Engaged By Broadway

H. S. Anderson, formerly assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Dallas, has moved to Fort Worth with his family, having been engaged by the Broadway Presbyterian church as general secretary and pastor's assistant. Mr. Anderson has been a Y. M. C. A. secretary for several years and has just closed his special work at Camp Mabry among the soldiers at Austin. Being familiar with military tactics, he will reorganize the "Broadway Boys Brigade," which, it will be remembered. was a uniformed military company of 120 boys under the command of Capt. Butte and accomplished great good several years ago. Mission work, Sunday school work, and the publication of the Monthly Visitor will be looked after by Mr. Anderson. The Broadway Presbyterian church has over 750 members and the employment of Mr. Anderson is in line with the aggressive spirit of pastor and people.

DIVORCE GRIST STILL CONTINUES

Nine More Suits Filed in District Court

Nine divorce suits were filed in the district clerk's office Saturday afternoon and in five of them paupers' oths were filed. This contemplates that the district clerk will issue citation without any prospects of the costs in these cases being paid. District Clerk John A. Martin says that the paupers' oath business in these divorce suits and in damage suits against corporations has reached an acute stage with him, and that he will refuse to issue citations unless there is some security for the legal costs. The determination of the district clerk has created a sensation in legal divorce cases and there is talk of mandamus proceedings to compel him to issue citations in all cases where paupers' oaths are filed.

Perfect Malt Perfect Beer The Exclusive Pabst Eight-Day Method a Guarantee of Age, Purity and Strength. ABST for sixty years has been the pioneer in perfecting processes of brewing along the most highly developed scientific lines, and to-day he leads in the manufacture of the purest and best beer because he never rests in his studies and researches, never spares expense to make the best. Pabst Beer is made only from Pabst eight-day malt. This means that it contains the highest amount of nutrition obtainable out of malt. This, coupled with sixty years of practical brewing experience, makes Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer unequalled as a nourishing tonic and a delicious, refreshing beverage. Equal in importance to eight-day malt is cleanliness, and in this again Pabst excels; not only is the mammoth Pabst Brewery a model of neatness in every department, but the beer from mash-tub to keg or bottle is never touched by human hands. Every known safeguard is established to prevent any possible contamination. Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is given to the public only when science and the test of time show it to be perfect in age, purity and strength; the best beer brewed. Special to The Telegram. PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 8.— The trouble which occurred between Martin De Vaughn and John Carey, two Baltimore & Ohio brakemen, at the Jennings house in this city this afternoon, resulted in the former being shot and instantly killed by Carey, who was landed in the county jail after a chase by policemen.

The men have had a grudge against each other for more than a year, resulting from some trouble about a girl who resides at Grafton, and the argument which resulted in the murder this afternoon, it is alleged, was a renewal of the old dispute. Both thep rincipals are young men, the 'relatives of De Vaughn residing at Walker station, while Carey is said to be a member of prominent family of Morehead, Ky. Carey was charged with murder in ton, N. Y., tells how Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey transformed her from weakness into strength after a terrible nine weeks' siege of typhoid fever. She regards this medicine as a life saver for her. The following are her own words:

"I regard Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a life-saver for me. I had been down nine weeks in the City's Hospital with the terrible typhoid fever. When I was discharged, of course I was very weak and could hardly stand on my feet. I had read so much of your medicine and its cures that I resolved to give it a fair trial. I took three bottles on the start; in two weeks I was able to walk half a mile without tiring, and I can really and truly say it saved me from a relapse. I still keep it in the house, as it is the only good medicine to have around as a preventive in any kind of sickness. I hope you will publish this, that others may know where to find a medicine that really has such merits. Yours very truly. Mrs. EVE-LYN B. BARNARD, Station R, Box 97,

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

It is recognized everywhere as the unfailing specific for the cure of typhoid, cramps, dysentery, diarrhea, cholera morbus, stomach ache, congestion, sunstroke, heart failure, fainting, weak stomach, malaria, chills, fevers, prostration and the hundred and one ills of summer. All can be cured and prevented by taking a teaspoonful of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in each glass of water you drink. It will destroy the germs. It is absolutely pure and contains no fusel oil. It is prescribed by doctors of all schools, is used in all of the leading hospitals of the world, and is the only whiskey recognized as a medicine. Medical advice and a valuable booklet on diseases sent free.

Imperative Selling of New Autumn Goods!

Made Necessary Because They Cannot be Displayed During Our Rebuilding

Thousands of dollars' worth of new autumn merchandise has arrived; contracts that were made months ago are now coming in, besides goods bought by department people who have recently returned from the East, pouring in upon contracted space. What shall we do? We frankly confess that we face the predicament ct not being able, while rebuilding, to care properly for the merchandise. But one alternative—SELL THE GOODS AT ONCE; in other words, it's a trade movement that means a distribution of values without a precedent, and a time for buying that surpasses any other event you have known at this time.

This sale is planned and arranged at this time chiefly with the view of supplying dressmakers who buy in quantities, but all may participate in the great saving afforded. Elegant new high-grade Taffeta Silks, fresh from the looms. with the "LIFE," sparkle and brilliancy only to be found in good weight, pure varn dyed taffeta silks. They will be greatly used for fall dresses, waists, drops and fine linings, 19 inches wide, fast edge (not split); actual 75c grade for 50c, in the following colors:

Womens New Fall Suits, Coats, Waists and Skirts Underpriced

If you could see the high piles of packing cases that each day reach us from the manufacturers, containing the first shipments of Women's Coats, Suits, Waists and Skirts, in the new fall styles, and then take a look at the already crowded condition of the department for these garments, you would wonder where we are going to put them all. Well. frankly, we hope to put them into the possession of our customers in rapid-fire order. We expected to have our new, enlarged departments to give appropriate display to these handsome new fall garments, but builders (like time and tide) are to be hurried by no man, and our disappointment is very keen; but as Kipling says, "that is another story." We are confronted by a condition—we MUST move these garments quickly, for the present space of the departments cannot possibly contain them, with the additional shipments that our contracts with the manufacturers call for. (We placed these contracts when we had more confidence in the promise of the builders than we have now), so you see you may come to the store looking for the most splendid offerings in new fall feminine apparel as the following quotations indicate.

Simplified

as adopted by the Simplified Spelling Board will be used by this store. This simplified idea comes easy to us. It is quite in keeping with our plan and method of merchandising: Getting results in the simplest, easiest way. We apply the idea to our business in this way: Carrying the minimum quantity of stock with the largest possible variety and assortment, thus eliminating the waste occasioned by goods going out of style or deteriorating thru age before being sold.

Selling strictly for cash, sav-

Spelling of the reformed words | ing the expense of "slow money." Selling standard goods, of approved quality, losing no customers thru the sale of unsatisfactory merchandise.

> Pricing and selling every article on its merit, so uniformly low that the merchandise sells itself and brings other custom, thus doing away to a large extent with great advertising expense.

In a word, simplified business, like simplified spelling, means the elimination of waste, a saving to you of time and money.

The Texas Bithulithic Company of Dallas, is doing

The Becoming Ambers

If amber were the crystallized tears of the sorrowing sea birds, as Moore poetically calls it, the sea birds would have had to have been particularly sorrowful to have provided all the amber which is being worn this season. The beautiful age darkened amber has been considered the most desirable, but the pale-clouded amber is becoming even more popular and it has a better effect when worn with light summer dresses than the dark amber. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish wears on almost all occasions a ong chain of the pale clouded amber beads, very large and oval in shape, on which hangs an exquisitely colored piece of amber the size of a silver dollar. Hat pins with the heads of pear-shaped pieces of amber are used more than any other variety. Amber combs are now the fad of even darkhaired women, in whose hair the brownish amber tones well, while the pale amber makes, of course, the most becoming style for the blondes.

The Suitable Gown

Wearers of peek-a-boo waists needn't grieve because they have been made targets for many caustic comments by critics who feel that even when the thermometer registers 100 in the shade there is no excuse for the open-work designs, for neither peek-a-boo girls

nor any other are immune from the faultfinders, In England they are "going for" the Sunday night for Kansas. C. C. Hall, representing "Southwest," a magazine, is in Fort Worth arranging preliminaries for the visit of a photographer who will take views of Fort Worth and vicinity for publication in the magazine. Deputy Sheriff W. P. Royster and wife and children who have been visiting friends of Mr. Royster at his old nome, Rattoon, Ill., for five weeks, have returned.

Martin Casey of the firm of Martin Casey & Company, who for six weeks has been ill with typhoid fever and who is just convalescent, was at his place of business Saturday afternoon and was given quite an ovation by his host of friends. At one time it was feared he would not recover.

County Superintendent George F Ramsey has been holding a teachers' examination the latter part of the week, fourteen applicants being before him seeking teachers' certificates. Of those who went through the examination ten were whites and four colored, all the colored applicants being women. Of the whites six were females and four males. Four whites were applicants for first grade certificates, six for second grade, all the negroes being applicants for second grade certificates

Phelps, Dodge & Co. Said to Be Back of Scheme

TO ARIZONA FIRST PLACE

Fact That Firm Controls Rich Mining Properties in Territory and Mexico Gives Color to Story

hereafter, probably is the first publication in relation to an important railway project which has for its ultimate purpose the building of another transcontinental line, with San Diego as the Pacific coast objective.

The new company which is said to be in command of almost unlimited capital will use as a part of the line the El Paso and Southwestern, which has in actual operation about 350 miles of railway reaching the great copper mines at Bisbee and from Douglas south into Mexico to the wonderfully rich copper region at Nacozari, Mexico, about 50 miles to the south and a mileage which is not included in thte above estimate of 350 for the reason that it is not in the line toward the Pacific coast. Intimately allied with the El Paso and Southwestern system is the El Paso-Northeastern system, judging by the officials who are in control of the several roads which make up that system and that gives especial point to the information contained in the El Paso dispatch, to which reference is made above, and which dispatch is here quoted: "El Paso is to have another railroad, is the report that comes to this city through several sources. It will be the Kansas City, Lawton and Pacific railway. The line will run from Kansas City through El Paso to the Pacific coast, with San Diego as a western terminal point. It is said that the company has $40,000,000 back of it and that the building of the road will be commenced at no distant date. The story is, and some of the facts are generally known, that for some reason, which has not been disclosed, Phelps, Dodge & Company of New York, who own the El Paso and Southwestern, who own much if not practically all of the Bisbee copper mines and the mines and much of the undeveloped copper property in the region about Nacozari, want a line to the Pacific. The El Paso and Southwestern is one of the few independent railreads in the United States which is on a paying basis, and which is not a part of any of the big systems of the country. The firm of Phelps, Dodge & Company have that financial standing which warrants the assertion that if they were to enter on any railway project, no matter how extensive, they could command almost unlimited capital for the fulfillment of their plans. That there is the intent to build another line is one of those things which has been known for some time back, but just the way and the wherefore of the work is not a public matter. No offer, however, looked to the sale market." is about all of the satisfaction that the inquirers in that direction ever elicited. What interests inspires this move is one of those mysteries in the railway world which is a secret until the time is ripe in the judgment of the persons interested for the making of the disclosures.

How to Sweep a Carpet

It is an easy matter to sweep well, at any rate, if we may judge by experience; for when a broom is put into the hands of the uninitiated, more harm than good generally results from

Without the greatest care and some ittle knowledge, furniture and paint, by being knocked about with the broom, may soon receive an irreparable amount of damage. Before sweeping rooms the floors should be strewn with a good amount of dry tea leaves which should be saved for the purpose: these will attract the dust and save much harm to other furniture, which, as far as possible, should be covered up during the process. Tea leaves also may be used with advantage upon drugget and short-piled carpets. Light sweeping and soft brooms are here desir-

Many a carpet is prematurely worn out by injudicious sweeping. In sweeping thick-piled carpets, such as Axminster and Turkey carpets, care should be taken to brush always the way of the pile; by so doing they may be kept clean for years; but if the broom is used in a different way all the dust will enter the carpet and soon spoil it.

The Renewal a Strain. Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the re newal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may avert much serious trouble and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

BUSINESS RUN IN DEPARTMENTS

Winters-Daniel Company Has Work Systematized

The Winters-Daniel Company, whose full page advertisement appears elsewhere, is one of the strongest and oldest real estate concerns in Texas. The members of the firm consist of J. N. Winters, a native of Indiana, who has resided in Texas for thirty years, and J. B. Daniel, a native of Mississippi, whose residence in Texas covers the past twenty-five years. Both members of the firm have been actively engaged in handling Texas real estate for more than twenty years. There are but few men in Texas who have a more extensive acquaintance with lands, with values, conditions, etc., in all parts of this state. The business of the firm is conducted under three separate departments, viz: Ranch Department, Farm Department and City Department. The ranch department is devoted to western land, including stock ranches, large bodies of lands for colonization, investments in low priced lands, etc. While the business is largely confined to Texas, it has promoted deals in Mexican lands as well as the sale of some large ranches in New Mexico. Among the recent larger sales made by this department are included the following: The V. V. N. ranch, 90,000 acres, in Cochran and Bailey counties; a half million acre ranch in Coahuila, Mexico; the Bird & Barnard ranch in Randall county; the George A. Wright ranch in Knox and Baylor countles: the Moon ranch (J. B. Gray, owner) in Cottle county, sold to Hugh and J. S. Lewis; the J. H. Herring ranch in Throckmorton county, sold to Harle & Owens; the William Hurt ranch, 86,-000 acres in Bailey county, sold for $344,000 to parties who will colonize it; the G. R. Hoge ranch in Gray The farm department is confined to listing and selling improved farms in all counties and sections of Texas; it is thoroughly organized and systematized, supplied with active and efficient salesmen and handles a large volume of choice business. The firm is justly proud of its city department, devoted exclusively to Fort Worth city and suburban property under the control and management of experienced and reliable salesmen and office assistants. The office is supplied with block books, all late maps, and has every facility for rendering prompt and satisfactory service to both the buyer and the seller. All business, in every department is handled strictly on commission, hence buyers get the advantage of owners' lowest prices.

The Winters-Daniel Realty Company is recognized as one of the substantial, progressive and reliable business institutions of Fort Worth and is commended to our readers as such.

PUBLIC FOND OF LINER ADS.

Growth of Liner Business Has Wonderful Development

John Smith had forty tons of hay To sell; and nary buyer had, Although he searched, until one day He tried a two-bit liner ad.

The rest of the story can better be old in prose. The classified ad appeared one evening in The Telegram and before he went to sleep that night Smith's telephone had been rung twice by livery stable men who wanted to know what his price was. Next morning's mail brought him six letters asking the same question and before he was through eating breakfast, a man came all the way out to his house in South Hemphill street to see the hay and close a bargain for it at

By night Smith figured up he had received orders for just 680 tons of hay, but as he had sold the forty tons to the man went out to his house, for a dollar a ton more than he had first expected to ask, he had to content himself with thinking of the profits he had lost by not having a larger supply before he began advertising. Smith told his experience to his neighbor Jones across the street. Jones had an old piano and wanted a new one for his daughters. So he followed Smith's example, tried a classified advertisement in The Telegram and within four days his daughter was playing "Every Little Bit Helps" on e a brand new grand.

Every Day Examples

What Smith and Jones did are merely two-bits picked at random from the multitude of stories to be found every day in the classified pages of any newspaper. In Fort Worth the stories are to be found in The Telegram, for this newspaper has the largest amount of classified or liner advertisements carried by any evening newspaper in the state. And the reason for it is that the public likes that kind of advertising and gets the best results for in The Telegram.

Time was, even the youngest and prettiest stenographer in the downtown district, can remember, when the classified pages of a newspaper were used only when a person had lost something, wished to find help or a situation, or had some personal message to deliver without resorting to the United States mail.

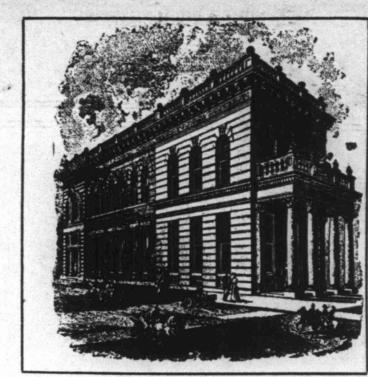

The development of the new idea in classified advertising, "using classified ads to sell something," has been within the past few years, almost within the last half dozen. And with the development of the idea and the knowledge of the public that through the classified columns of a newspaper having a large local circulation, articles may be bought and sold at profit, quickly, the classified business of daily newspapers has grown by leaps and bounds. Magazines See It Classified advertising is primarily a newspaper method of reaching the public for the purpose of securing something which the advertiser does not have, but it has not been confined to the dailies. Within the past few months leading magazines which have heretofore looked down with complacent dignity upon the classified form of advertising, have suddenly begun to realize its value and today there is practically not one which does not now have a classified department in its advertising section.

The comparative cheapness of classified advertising, and the even more pertinent fact THAT IT IS ADVER-TISING WHICH THE PEOPLE AL-WAYS READ has made its success from the start and its success is of the kind which keeps on growing. Even Preachers Use It which formed in youth will crown old age with happiness. Always remember that there is a dollar at each end of a thousand and the first one is the biggest. The secret of wealth lies in four letters-by the classified advertisement. Not many months ago a clever evangelist started in a Chicago newspaper's classified columns the insertion of scriptural texts and the invitation to attend his religious meetings. The result was that a religious interest was awakened among a class which could have been reached in no other way, the evangelist's meetings were packed by first curious, then in terested people, and surrounding churches which affiliated with the evangelist reaped the benefits in increased membership. When the first New York daily newspaper appeared not so long ago, a single half column would cover all of the advertising belonging under the head called classified. Now their Sunday issues devote whole sections of from sixteen to thirty pages of solid classified advertising and the people read it. If you have never thought before of the power of a classified or liner ad, and its wonderful effectiveness encompassed in such small space, why not try one the next time you need anything, or have something which you do not want and which you think somebody does? Smith's and Jones' experience will be

There is not a single field of human endeavor which is not now reached

FORGER IN JAIL

Smooth Swindler Who Worked Fort Worth to Be Tried

Special to The Telegram. HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 8 .- Clarence Hughes, the self-confessed forger who says he toured Europe on money obtained on forged paper on leading bankers and in jail here and identified by three bank cashiers as the man who passed forged drafts on them, worked successfully in Fort Worth. Chief Ellis of the Houston police this afternoon received a dispatch from Fort Worth saying Hughes would be indicted in that city next week, as it was found he had victimized a bank in that city. Hughes says he worked many north Texas towns before coming to Houston. He was arrested ten days ago in San Antonio. At the preliminary hearing and to the officers when warned, he admitted he had passed bogus drafts on three Houston banks.

Books of Goods Found Near Santa Fe Track

Resumption of merchandise thefts from cars in transit which caused much annoyance in Fort Worth several months ago, is suspected by the police who were called Saturday to investigate the finding of a box of notions near the Santa Fe track not far north of the Orphans' Home in the northeast part of the city. Officer Tom Snow responded to the call and found, 200 yards from the Santa Fe track, and almost completely hidden in tall weeds, a box of notions, including combs and other articles of small value, although the aggregate value of the goods in the box was considerable. The box appeared to have been thrown from a freight car while the train was in motion. Some of the goods were wet by recent rain. The box was consigned from the Ely Walker Dry Goods Company of St. Louis to W. H. Newsome of Coleman. Texas.

SUNDAY REST FOR PARIS?

Shopkeepers Up in Arms Over Government's Suggestion

Americans Have Been the Only Spenders in French Capital. Business Has Been Light

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

Cable Special to The Telegram. PARIS, Sept. 8 .- Everything and everybody seem to have conspired against the Parisian hotel owner and shopkeeper this summer, so that instead of reaping a harvest of gold he must thank his lucky stars if he pulls through without running into debt.

First of all, the summer has been so hot that even the souls in inferno would feel relieved to get back to that place after an excursion to the metropolis of the world. The result has been that everybody who could possibly get away left Paris for the seashore, and the usual crowd of tourists was much smaller than during the last few years, and most of those who came were of a class which doesn't spend much money and which is rather unwelcome, to say the least.

The only welcome guests have, in fact, been the Americans, who, as the Parisian says, have the "piece facile" that is, who are accustomed to pay high prices and give large tips. As a matter of fact, the American is now the only "tourist of first quality," since the famous Russian princes are nothing but a memory. Times are hard in the empire of the czar, and the Russian who throws roubles out of the windows and who breaks up china and glassware in the night cafes, merely for the pleasure of the thing, has entirely disappeared. The Russians we now see in this city are nale revolutionists, who live on stxty francs-that is, about $12-a month, and who even out of this small amount save something for the manufacture of

The Englishman is not stingy, but he s never extravagant. Taking all the year around, he is far the best custobecause he comes by the thouis and leaves behind him a good number of guineas. The "entente ordiale" has indeed been a boon to the

The Germans are, on the other side, anything but welcome, not because of the hatred against their nation, but because they give the impression that they come to Paris mainly to save money, and the Parisian shopkeeper, who is an expert in saving money himself, is thoroughly disgusted with other people who have the same habit.

Therefore he loves the American better than any other man living, for the American who comes to Paris for any other purpose but to get rid of as much of his money as possible still remains to be found. This doesn't, however, include Mr. Rockefeller, who, since his visit here, is held in great contempt; but he is after all, only one exception which proves the rule.

Sunday Rest Threatened

The new danger which threatens the prosperity of all, and which would entirely change the appearance of Paris, emanates from the government which in its wisdom has declared that every Frenchman must have one day's rest out of every seven and that all shops, cafes and terraces should be closed on Sundays.

No one can imagine Paris without its cafes, with their gay throngs, sipping aperitifs and bocks on Sunday afternoons; and owners of the great world renowned cafes on the boulevards, who regard Sunday as their weekly harvest day, are strenuously opposing the new regulation; and they have the cordial support of their waiters and employes, for whose benefit the Sunday law was framed. The outcome will probably be an arrangement whereby the large establishments will comply with the law by allowing their waiters a day off in ro-

wearing of this old-fashioned piece of headgear is in a tropical temperature, a young Paris physician wore a recording thermometer inside his hat during the hot weather, and sent the result of the experiment to the Academy of Medicine. In the early morning when the doctor was walking in the Bois de Boulogne, while the temperature was 77 degrees, the instrument inside the hat recorded 90. At noon, when the outside air was 94, the temperature inside the hat was 116. During the whole time of the experiment the lowest temperature recorded by the thermometer was 98 degrees in a very cool evening, when a cool breeze brought the street temperature down

The "Ligue Maritime Francaise" has taken the initiative and proposed not only to erect a statue of Fulton near the Champs Elysees, but also to commemorate the anniversary by an international exposition in this city next year. In asking for subscriptions to the monument the president of the league says that although the real inventor of the steamboat was an American by birth, it should not be forgotten that Fulton was inspired by the experiments, now almost forgotten, of a Frenchman, Jouffroy d'Abbans, and suggests that the monument for Fulton be in the form of a column bearing at the top a likeness of the Amerfrom inventor, and resting on a square hase with portrait medallions in re-Hef, of Denis Papin and Jouffroy d'Ab-

Other cases are recorded of similar devotion, recalling the Decembrist revolt of 1825, when young women belonging to the richest and most powerful families in Russia accompanied their husbands and sweethearts to the salt mines of Nertchinsk.

Fight for Wife

As the result of a drunken orgy, Vladimir Hviuren and Alexis Likatchof, two rich landowners in the Russian province of Toula, are fighting for the possession of a wife, the 18-year-old daughter of a local official. Hyluren, the priest of this estate, and a numerous company cerebrated the dissolution of the duma at the official's house. While the official lay drunk nuder the table his daughter was subjected to somewhat rude attentions from the tipsy guests; and the priest suggested that she should undergo a mock marriage with Likatchof, who was not present, but who had been paying her persistent attentions Hviuren suggested that he should act as Likatchoff's proxy. For fear that worse might befall her, the terrified girl submitted. The priest ; in the Crimea a boy of 10 was drowned performed the ceremony. The guests finally fot so drunk that they collapsed on the floor, whereupon the bride fled through the rain to her aunt's house, some miles away.

Toys Revolutionary

Bombs, revolvers and daggers are superseding dolls and India-rubber elechants as the everyday playthings of Russian children. Hatred of all forms of authority and admiration for political assassins have spread so far that nurseries are becoming as dangerous as police stations. Seldom a week passes without some tragic incident resulting from children playing at revolution with real weapons.

At Hungerburg, a Baltic watering place, a group of children built a model of the SS. Peter and Paul fortresses and "plotted" its capture. As no child would agree to play the odious role of defender, the attackers placed in the fortress a 2-year-old baby, whom they pelted with bombs fabricated from fireworks. The child was burnt badly and blinded in one eye. At Kursk, children set fire to the house of their own uncle, an ex-police master. At Yalta while engaged in an imaginary mutiny on an imaginary warship.

At Warsaw a school boy of 11 became a revolutionary in fact. Tying a string across a narrow lane, he waited until a passing policeman stumbled, once his face was very serious. and then jumped on his back and stuck a knife into his neck.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria is to have a public auction of 1,700 orchids of rare beauty and value at his palace at Schonbrunn, near Vienna,

The imperial collection of orchids now numbers more than 20,000 plants, and the greenhouses are so crowded that it is necessary to make a clearance. The emperor has gone in for orchids on an extensive scale, and his collection is considered to be one of the finest in the world. The court gardeners have worked industriously and with great skill in the hybridizacrossings have a reputation such as no other court in Europe can present. At the recent visit of the kaiser the show of orchids was one of the most magnificent ever seen.

LORD ROSEBERY WRITING A BOOK

(BY PAUL LAMBETH.) (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)

LONDON, Sept. 8.-An American named Buckle is at present in London for the avowed purpose of forming a corps of guides. He has had several interviews with some of the prominent tourist agents, and hopes to bring his scheme to speedy fulfillment. The aim is to provide men who will be thoroughly acquainted with the ins and outs of London and who are no less in ately acquainted with the "lions" of Paris, Berlin and other big contint wal centers.

Their services will, for a consideration, be rendered to the American visitors. The promoter argues that under present conditions Americans are left to the mercy of intricate guide books and miss many of the by-ways that are really more amusing than the large and better known "show" spots. It is expected that this new corps of guides will be available for the next

Rosebery in Sectusion

The voice of Lord Rosebery has not been heard either on the platform or through the medium of the press for many months. All sorts of rumors were recently current that he was ill, but it has just leaked out that the earl is engaged upon a literary work of colossal proportions, the nature of which he is keeping a close secret.

He has written nothing since his fine work on Napoleon, dealing with the last few years of the emperor's life. Some of Lord Rosebery's friends declare that he is writing the long-awaited official biography of the great Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield, a work which would have been accomplished by the late Mrs. Craigie had she felt equal to the gigantic task.

London believes that the British public will soon tire altogether of "musical comedy," and he is taking time by the forelock. "Aladdin" will be on the lines of the old Galety burlesquers without their foolishness. The very name of "Aladdin" has conjured up memories of the late Nellie Farren and the beautiful Connie Gilchrist, now

Countess of Orkney. It is remarkable, by the way, that at the Dublin horse show were to be seen the Countess of Clancarty, (Belle Bilton of the music halls), the Marchioness of Headfort, (Rosie Boote of the Gaiety) and Lady de Clifford (Eva Carrington of the Aldwych theater). All have their homes in Ireland and their dignity far exceeds that of most duchesses. The new "Aladdin" will probably add one or two more stage names to the peerage.

Glad to See Alfonso Go Popular as he was with everyone the hosts of King Alfonso of Spain, drew a deep breath of relief when he left these shores. The Earl of Ancaster was especially relieved, as there were wild rumors that well-known anarchists had been in the neighborhood of Drummond Castle during the young king's brief stay there. Lord Ancaster was in constant communication with Scotland Yard.

One of Alfonso's first requests made at the castle was for permission to sit in Queen Victoria's coronation chair, which, of course, was promptly given. Alfonso sat in it for some minutes without saying a word, and for

Spaniards Talk of Appealing to Morgan for Funds to Restore Moorish Wonder (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) Special Cable to The Telegram.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—The people of Spain are fighting a hard fight between their national pride and their love of one of the grandest buildings in the . world, the Alhambra, near Granada.

The famous palace, undoubtedly the most splendid example of Moorish art in the world, is in danger of collapsing unless enoromous amounts of money are spent to make necessary repairs. The Spanish government allows an amount of 45,000 pesetas annually to keep the palace in repair, but this is far from sufficient, and the Spanish parliament will not increase the appropriation. The old aqueducts built by the Moors centuries ago are broken in many places and the water is undermining the foundations of the palace so that the walls have cracked through and through in many places.

Being in great need of money, the committee elected by the board of directors to look after the repairs, recently took up the question whether it would not be advisable to apply to J. Pierpont Morgan, whose love of art is well known in Spain, for assistance, but this was strongly opposed by several members of the committee. The question is now being widely discussed with hot arguments all over Spain, and it is impossible to say what the outcome will be.

The famous architect, Mariano Contreras, who is a specialist in oriental architecture and who had charge of the work of the Alhambra, has grown so disgusted with the difficulty in procuring money for work absolutely necessary that he has handed in his resignation and the committee now is looking for another architect. Trees for Famous Avenue The Avenue de l'Opera is "un" and t is quite on the tapis that when fashionable Parisians return from Vichy and Mont d'Or they will have the agreeable surprise of finding the famous thoroughfare planted with trees. Such, at any rate, is the project of one of the chief engineers of the city M. Hazerolle, and it is being discussed by the leading shopkeepers and business people of the neighborhood. Opinions are divided, for while most consider that it would add greatly to the beauty and attractiveness of the street, some folks consider that it would detract from the perspective of the opera, which makes it one of the handsomest thoroughfares in Paris. Rude Americans in Rue Morgue The director of the morgue here is scandalized at the behavior of the American and English tourists who visit the place. He says they have apparently no sense of reverence in the presence of the dead, and treat the corpses as if they were a freak dime museum show.

In Paris it is the custom for me of all religious denominations whatever to remove their hats in the presence of a corpse, or when a hearse goes by, but in the morgue the tourists keep their hats on, giggle and chatter and behave in the most outrageous fashion, making vulgar jokes about the dead

Too Many Deadheads

Deadheads are so numerous in the subsidized theaters of France, such as the Theater Francais, the Odeon, the Opera and the Opera Comique, that these play houses can never make a profit.

The yearly subsidy paid to the Opera Comique amounts to $40,000 a year, but this sum is more than equalled by the tickets claimed as right by politicians. Deputies not content with insisting upon seats for themselves, are in the habit of asking for them for their constituents, so that at the end of the season there is always a deficit for the

The same practice obtains in the provinces where the theater manager is the servant of the municipality. So many free seats are extracted from the unhappy manager that it may be said that the subsidy ruins the theater. In a sensational article published in the French press M. Hughes le Roux. the celebrated lecturer and explorer who spent many months in the land of the Negus, declares that he has discovered a trace of the remarkable book, "The True History of the Queen of Sheba," according to which the Emperor Menelik believes that his direct descent from the friend of Solomon is

The precious volume disappeared some years ago, and is believed by the entourage of Menelik to have fallen into the hands of the Byzantine Monks. Few people who visit the populated streets of Paris and of the well-kept and industrious little towns in the department of the Seine would imagine that this department is wealthy in agricultural and horticultural life. Agriculturally it is highly representative of the national industry.

The latest reports presented to M. Ruau, the minister of agriculture, show that in Paris alone there are 115 .-985 horses, asses and mules, but what is still more surprising is that there are 19,637 oxen and milking cows and 4,510 sheep and goats.

All these animals pasture on the slopes of the fortifications and in the parks of the suburbs of Paris. The capital also possesses 1,632 pigs, while there are more than 200,000 fowls, geese, ducks and turkeys.

According to the advance sales of seats in Newark, where Mr. Edeson opens his season, the "gate" receipts for the new year will be considerable, with even more enthusiasm than ever from the "bleachers" benches. "The Chorus Lady," in which Henry

B. Harris will present Rose Stahl at the Savoy theater Sept. 1, is not an amplification of the one-act play of that name, but is a new and original four-act comedy by James Forbes, the basis of which is formed by the characterization of "Patricia O'Brien of the Chorus," which character has been made famous in two countries by the exceptionally fine acting of Miss Stahl, the star of the new piece.

"Babes in Toyland," is the writer of the story, while Victor Herbert eclipsed his successes in the other two plays in the music line, "Wonderland" is coming over the circuit this season, with Sam Chip, who created the original comedy role, and Mary Marble, the dainty comedienne, in the principal characters. To get away from the ordinary nomenclature of dramatic works, to secure something "different" is of itself an evidence of a high order of ability and in this direction it must be conceded that Edward R. Salter has himself to be the possessor of a faculty that approaches very closely to genius. "Ikey and Abey" owe a great deal of its success to the taking qualities of its title. This is Mr. Salter's latest effort in this direction and the title should pique the curiosity of the most particular of theater-goers. While Mr. O'Neill does not believe in telling too much about his affairs as to what he will play later in the season, the interviewer was fortunate enough to lead Mr. O'Neill to tell most of the scenario of his new play, "The Voice of the Mighty." It deals with the story of John the Baptist, beginning at the time when he emerges from the desert to preach the coming of Christ.

The story of the play contains the most dramatic incidents connected with this great man-the last of the prophets. It includes his various enounters with the hypocritical priests of the time; his upbraiding of Herod and Herodias for their unlawful ma :riage; his imprisonment and suffering which follow, and his bold defiance of unrighteousness, even in the face of death. The end of the play brings John the Baptist up to the time when he fulfills his mission in pointing out the Christ to his disciples. And to quote the words of John in the play: "It is fitting that I (John) should decrease and He (the Christ) increase as the dawning disappears in the full glory of morning.' Neil Burgess himself will present the well known production of the "County Fair," with its few tears and its world of laughter. Neil Burgess has never lone anything better than the gentlehearted spinster and as a character drawing it has no equal. His pathetic scenes bring forth tears, while the laughter that greets his humorous moments is constant and hearty. The Herbert Kelcey and Ellie Shannon, who have been presenting a repertoire of their former successful plays in St. Louis, have returned to New York to begin rehearsals in "The Daughters of Men," Charles Klein's latest play, which Henry B. Harris will present in Boston Sept. 24.

Dress rehearsals are always more or less interesting, but one which proved a novelty in every sense of the word was that given at Henry B. Harris' Hudson theater Friday evening last. It was the occasion of the formal presentation to a number of vaudeville managers and friends of the new Lasky-Rolfe musical invention, the Immensaphone, which will have its public premiere at Hammerstein's theater Aug. 27. For an hour those present were entertained by a series of songs, whistling and vocal solos, quartet numbers and military band selections. The Immensaphone is the largest musical instrument ever invented, being twenty-four feet long, ten feet in height with a mouth circumference of (after much figuring) almost thirty-one and a third feet.

Loud Enough to Be Heard

"You can't beat the Irishman for wit," says Robert Edeson, "and he takes advantage of his native proclivity in all his business enterprises. "While walking in one of the business thoroughfares of Pittsburg last winter my attention was arrested by a display of shirts in a haberdasher's window, which for variety of sunset colors, far excelled a Turner landscape when the sun is red and low, and there in glaring green type, a large sign read: Listen."

Ruth St. Denis Scores Success in Lon-

"Ruth St. Denis should go out to India and teach the Nautch girls how to dance," says a noted London critic. "Nothing is duller than an Indian Nautch. The music usually squeaks and squeals and the girls scented with musk and other heavy odors pose and stamp and wriggle, and wriggle and stamp and pose, suggesting vaguely eastern amourness, and that is all. Miss St. Denis has adopted the sinuous grace of the Nautch girl, but has added to it an intelligence that bears on the stories she represents in her dancing and the result is extraordinarily clever and graceful with the glamour of the eternal east about it." During her London engagement this little American girl created such a furore that she was bidden to dance before the king and also appeared on several occasions at private houses before audiences made up entirely of titled personages.

After a four weeks' engagement at the Theater Marigny in Paris, Miss St. Denis will return to America and under the direction of Henry B. Harris will appear in a number of the larger American cities.

"I'm going to college for a third term," said Robert Edeson to a friend recently when asked as to his plans for the coming season. "I like that col-

Here is an old suggestion renewed: Scrapbooks are cheap and the amount of valuable general information published in the papers on all sorts of topics is immense in the aggregate. Hence clip out what interests you and start a "Clip Library." Many prefer to use a uniform size of stiff paper and paste the clippings on one topic on the same sheet or sheets. Assemble the loose sheets, which then number in their maps, and make a register on the map. Keep for quick reference.

DEAF AND DUMB MAN STRUCK BY STAGE

We do not mean by that, that a poor unfortunate has met with an accident. We simply mean to confer the idea that Silas Willetts of 1360 Fawn street, Philadelphia, deaf and dumb, for many years stage struck, has made application to Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman for a position with "Simple Simon Simple" on the road. Willetts witnessed the first performance of "Simple Simon Simple" during its long Philadelphia run and noticed therein a part quaint and original as the Lone Fisherman of "Evangeline" fame. The part was that of a tramp who goes through the three acts of the play and never says a word. Willetts called at the office and made formal application in writing, of course, for the part. He explained in his communication that he was stage struck and had for years sought just such an opportunity and this was the first time he had ever seen a part that would suit him. The entire interview used up almost a page of Willetts stationery, but there were no points broken and no profanity exchanged. Willetts in "dumb went through every movement made by the tramp in question and is being considered for the part. In talking over the cast after the interview Manager Nirdlinger, general manager of the Nixon & Zimmerman enterprises, explained that he thought very seriously of giving the boy a chance. "He certainly couldn't do us any harm and it's a cinch if we don't have any kicks from him. At any rate, no vociferous ones that would be loud enough to make any one lose their temper. This will certainly be a novelty-a dumb man playing a part. But this is the age of novelties and our hats are off."

time she has ever donned male attire. Instead of this being the last season for "Holty-Tolty',' the Weber & Fields merry musical skit, as was announced early in the summer, Manager Joseph M. Gaites is now organizing another company, so great has been the success of the first one. "A Good Fellow," Eva Tanguay,' new play, is in three acts and is said to be one loud explosion from curtain rise to finale, with the cyclonic comedienne on a perpetual spring.

At the dress rehearsal of the big Julian Mitchell spectacle, "Wonder-land," Wednesday night, it was discovered at the last moment that every one of the forty-five chorus girls had red hair. Nobody connected with the company had noticed this fact during rehearsals until Manager Joseph M. Gaites attended the final one. He was not averse to having a dozen or more red-headed girls in one company, but forty-five was too many. It was too late to get a new lot of girls, so Mr. Gaites had recourse to the wigmakers, and now there are thirty-five red-headed girls in "Wonderland" who wear blonde and brunette wigs.

While the "Maid and the Mummy" was playing last week at Milwaukee, Manager Willis E. Boyer had a caller that made him think he was dealing with a lunatic until matters were explained. The man wanted to know if Mr. Boyer had any mummies for sale. It seems that he was a color maker and wanted a mummy to grind up. The best known color known is made by grinding up pieces of mummified Egyptians and mixing with olive oil.

There is a very funny line in Tom Water's new piece, "The Mayor of Laughland," where, after he has been elected mayor, the director of public safety tells him that the population of the town just doubles up in summer time. "You don't say so," says Walters as the mayor-"summer boarders of green apples?"

Thomas E. Shea has added to his aleady popular repertoire Robert Mantell's greatest success, "The Corsican Brothers," and Robert Downing's famous play, "The Gladiator." Both of which will be seen during his forthcoming engagement in this city. Porter J. White in E. H. Sothern's The Proud Prince," has an exceptionally strong and well-balanced company and one that is destined to make a record for itself during the season just opened. The field of vaudeville and burlesque has certainly been of great aid to the big producers in the last year or two, for besides McIntyre and Heath, and Victor Moore, whom K. and E. have corralled for "The Ham Tree" and Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," Messrs, Nixon and Zimmerman have copped Tom Waters, who they are starring in a musical comedy entitled "The Mayor of Laughland," and Welp and Browning, who will be seen as Simon and Hulda in "Simple Simon

Mary Emerson, who was a few seasons ago leading lady for Louis James and made quite a reputation for herself in the middle west, and who has since been seen at the head of her own company in "Will o' the Wisp" and "His Majesty and the Maid," has enered the Nixon & Zimmerman fold and will be seen in a beautiful revival of the last named piece during the early part of this season, supported by an excellent company; later on she will present a brand new play, for which preparations are now being made. Frank Deshon, who is exceedingly popular in every section of the counry and who is favorably remembered through his work in "The Office Boy" and "Miss Bob White," is now busily engaged in the managerial capacity as sort of a general stage director for Nixon & Zimmerman, together with Lewis J. Morton of the New York roof garden and William Parks, late of E. H. Sothern's company, who will this year act in similar capacity for Richard Mansfield. Mr. Parke by the way staged the original "Proud Prince" for Mr. Sothern, has had full charge of the stage direction of the Porter J. White production, which is replete with electrical and scenic novelties. Maude Adams opens her season early in October, continuing in her greatest success. "Peter Pan."

Ethel Barrymore will be seen on tour "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," the J. M. Barrie comedy, in which she scored so marked a success last season. John Drew inaugurates his fifteenth season under Charles Frohman's management at the Empire Theater, New York, Monday, Sept. 3. He will be seen n A. W. Pinero's new play, "His House the new A. W. Pinero play, is so great a success in London is because he thinks the piece is different from anything that has been seen. It is novel, and a remarkable thing about the play is that there is no special love interest in it. You begin by disliking the leading female character, but before the play is over you find yourself liking her. There is a remarkable influence that holds you all evening, that of suspense. This is the great element, in his opinion, of success in this play; like William Gillette's plays, "Secret Service" and "Sherlock Holmes," it is suspensive from act to act. It possesses the extraordinary novelty of holding you with such a grip that you do not feel disposed to leave your seat until the end of the play, not even during the entre acts. Another remarkable thing about the play is that it has a dead woman for a heroine.

"Toddles" is the name which Charles Frohman has given to the play "Tripplepatte," in which he will present Cyril Maude under his management as star in London at the Duke of York's theater Sept. 1. It is in three acts and five scenes, and the new company that will support Mr. Maude includes Lottie Venne, Gertrude Kingston, Alice Crawford, Helen Ferrars, Nancy Price, Kenneth Douglass, Ivon Dawson, Alfred Bishop, Lytton Grey, Betty Greene, Betty Callish. Each evening previous to "Toddles" Mr. Frohman will present Pauline Chase in a oneact pantomime play arranged by Alfred Chevalier with music by William Jones of the Vaudeville theater, London. Miss Chase made a great success in Mr. Barrie's one-act play, "Pantaloon," and Mr. Frohman has taken her from musical comedy work for good. During the winter Miss Chase will create a new part in a comedy in London, Mr. Frohman will also produce "Toddles" in New York.

PUBLIC LETS GO $250,000 AT RACES BLAME HEART DISEASE

Demund Fools the Crowd and | Was in Good Health Saturday Morning. Takes First

Special to The Telegram. SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The bookmakers took over $250,000 from the public on the seven races run during the afternoon. Most costly of the disasters to the public was the Flatbush Stakes of $10,-000. Here Fountain Blue, for which "Diamond Jim" Brady recently paid $25,000, was made a 7 to 5 favorite with Electioneer, winner of the futurity, and sold yesterday to Felix Isman of Philadelphia, a 11 to 5 second

Thousands of dollars poured in on these horses, but they both finished outside the money. Demund, standing at 20 to 1 in some books, won in a gallop. Ballot, a 5 to 1 shot, ran second, just in front of Dinna Ken, back-

Electioneer Not in It Electioneer ran second to last nearly all the way, while Fountain Blue, under Martin, was unable to untrack himself. Neither liked the curves around the circular course and did not run up to their form. Radtke sent Demund to the front at the outset and was never in bad trouble afterward, just galloping all the way, winning by

The $20,000 Century Stakes went to Bedouin, at 9 to 5. Fine Cloth ran second. Fine Cloth showed the way to the stretch where Shaw came up with Bedouin. The two nung together for a minute and then Bedouin drew away and won by a head.

Steeplechase Race

The Great English horse John M. P., won the Great Autumn Steeplechase after a grand race, leading nearly all the way. The fifth went to Water Grass, at 12 to 1, with Deutschland second. Pater, at 3 to 1, was played

John A. Drake won a little over $32,-000 on his 2-year-old filly Royal Lady in the sixth race. Royal Lady broke in front and galloped all the way.

Macey Jr., at 20 to 1, won the seventh race. Ed Ball and L. J. Hayman led to the final furlong, where Macey Jr. came from behind and won. Sheephead summaries: First race, selling, five and one-half furlongs: Ellicott, 99 (Koerner), 10 to 1, won; They're Off, 101 (Frierson). 15 to 1, second: Eldorado, 98 (Pope), 20 to 1, third. Time, 1:07. Second race, Great Autumn Steeplechase, about 2 1-2 miles: John M. Since Husband's Death Had Taken Active Part in Business

Alarmed at the non-appearance of his mother at the store up to 1:15 p. m. Saturday afternoon, John T. Rogers of the firm J. A. Rogers & Son., 911

Houston street, accompanied by a negro boy who works in the store, hastened to the family residence at the corner of Lake and Broadway, and was horrified at finding Mrs. Rogers dead, having been drowned in a bath tub or died from heart disease while J. A. Rogers, husband of Mrs. Rogers, and head of the firm of J. A. Rogers & Son, died about three months ago, since which time Mrs. Rogers had virtually taken his place at the head of the firm, which is the oldest plumbing establishment in Fort Worth. Before her husband's death, Mrs. Rogers regularly attended the store and even before gave a great deal of attention to the business and was really regarded as a member of the business firm.

Failed to Come Down Town It was the custom of Mrs. Rogers to come to the store about the middle of the morning, but Saturday she failed o come down. Nothing was thought of this until after 1 o'clock in the afternoon, when her son, John T. Rogers, alarmed at his mother's not coming to the store, and hearing nothing from her, got into his buggy with a negro who works for the firm, and drove to the Rogers home. When John Rogers arrived at the house he found the front door locked and water was running from inside the house outside onto the gallery. He had a key and unlocking the door entered and found the lower floor flooded with water, running down the stairway from the upper story.

Rushing up the stairway, following he stream of water the son was lead to the bath room, and there in the bath tub found his mother dead.

Heart Disease Blamed Justice John L. Terrell was immediately notified and went to the Rogers home to make an investigation and after getting all the testimony he could, took the matter under consideration. While there is no positive proof as to the cause of death the belief is that Mrs. Rogers was stricken with heart disease while bathing and was drowned in the tub. It was either that or she died from the stroke. When her son reached the bath room the faucet through which the water passed into the tub, was still open and the water running from it and overflowing the bath tub.

At 10 o'clock Mrs. Rogers was in apparent good health and was out in the yard giving some instructions to a negro boy whom she wished to do some work about the place. Afterwards she went into the house and was seen alive by no one afterwards. Mrs. Rogers with her husband came to Fort Worth over twenty years ago, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She, like her husband, was a native of England, but in all their likes and dislikes were thorough Americans, and she had a large circle of friends among the good people of Fort Worth. Mrs. Rogers was born December 17,

Houston Street Store Robbed of $500 in Goods

That there are in Fort Worth a number of the most expert thieves and burglars there is no doubt, and they have been plying their vocation. It is quite probable that the police authorities know this to be true but the fact has been withheld from the press, if the police have been informed of the facts.

The dry goods establishment of H. C. Meacham, corner of Second and Houston streets, was burglarized on Wednesday night and goods to the retail value of over $500 were stolen. and so far as can be learned the victim of this burglary has no clew to the thieves, and so far as known there is no probability that there will be any secured by him. The property stolen from the estabment consisted chiefly of new pattern silks, the thieves refusing to take silks of the summer pattern. That's the way the story goes. Mr. Meacham was seen by a Telegram reporter Saturday night and asked to give particulars of the robbery, but other than stating that his store had been burglarized he declined to go into details. He did say, however, that when he went down to open up Thursday morning he found the front door, which he had locked Wednesday night, open. He is satisfied that the thievese gained entrance by means of false

SUBURBAN NEWS

NEW BUILDINGS ARE IN DEMAND

Firms Looking to North Fort Worth for Location

J. Goldgraber of North Fort Worth is now in correspondence with an ofncial of a furniture manufacturing company in Tennessee regarding a ease on the new Goldgraber block in the horse and buggy he was driving North Main street. It is understood that for some time past this company has been desirous of opening a sales house in Texas and a location in Fort Worth has just been secured. It is in view of the rapid growth of North Fort Worth resulting from valuable inducements offered by that city, chief among which is the railroad facilities, being especially tempting to factories, hat the Tennessee company sees prosperity in another house here. Mr. Goldgraber stated Saturday that the official of the company is negotiating for two of the rooms and had expressed the possibility of their taking the entire building of three rooms. The building is now ready for occupancy.

Construction Starts 800n It was stated Saturday that construc tion work on the Long and O'Keef business buildings to be located at Main street and Exchange avenue North Fort Worth, will probably be started in the very near future. Initial steps toward the upbuilding of this already busy corner were taken several months ago when Exchange avenue was opened west from Main street to Dillis avenue, Messrs, Long and O'Keefe are owners of the two west corners and it is understood that plans are made for a two or three story brick house for each.

To Improve Streets Property owners in Exchange avenue, North Fort Worth, are now planning on improving their street with gutters and curbing as a relief from the almost continuous presence of mud holes along the sides of the highway. The street and alley committee recently graded the street several inches high in the center, which has proved to be a much appreciated improvement, as the road proper is generally dry. But the drainage arrangement along the gutters to the Marine creek bridge is not so good. Joe McCarthy and J. Goldgraber are leaders in this movement and it has been stated that work will start at once. The gutter will be made

AFTER HORSE THIEF

Dallas Deputy Sheriff Is Now in North Fort Worth

Deputy Sheriff Ledbetter of Dallas county passed through North Fort Worth Saturday forenoon in hot pursuit of a man alleged to have stolen near Dallas. The officer arrived about noon and in the absence of City Marshal Montgomery from the city hall at that time City Secretary Proctor telephoned to Azle to inquire if the alleged thief had arrived there, having heard that he was proceeding in that direction. Information came from Azle to the effect that a party answering the description given by the owner of the rig had just been seen in that town Mr. Montgomery, accompanied by the Dallas officer and the owner, left at once for Azle. It is known that Satuday morning a man answering this same description offered for sale a horse and buggy at one of the horse markets in Exchange avenue, but on his failure to sell drove away from the stockyards. It is presumed here that if the party seen in Azle is the same party negotiating at the stockyards he also attempted to sell in Azle.

NORTH FT.WORTH SCHOOLS READY

Fall Term Opens Monday, Expected Attendance 700

The fall and winter term of school in North Fort Worth will open Monday and all pupils are expected to report at the office of Superintendent Moore by 8:45 a. m., or earlier, for enrolment. From all indications during the past few weeks the number appearing the first morning for enrolment will be in excess of last year by possibly fifty. Fully 700 pupils are anticipated by the faculty the first session. The scholastic census taken last spring by Judge Smith shows 1,085. It is quite probable this number will be increased during the first couple of having teachers with greater experience, a most successful term is certain. Last year the school accommodations were rather unsatisfactory for both school and faculty, it being necessary to carry on the class work in one story temporary buildings pending the completion of the new building. But this term opens with no obstacles in sight. Friday afternoon the members of the faculty met and the courses of studies were reviewed that class work might be started with as little delay as possible. The faculty follows: M. H. Moore, superintendent; A. B. Fincher, principal; J. F. Wharton, assistant principal, and H. C. Sanders, second assistant principal; Misses Mazie Erskine, Florence McFadden, Lucy Boyd, Julia Christian, Sadie Moore, Nannye Ozee, Mary Rogan, Maggie Moore and Grace Burkett and Mrs. Eva Williams, teachers. In charge of the negro schools are Emma J. Guinn, principal, and Mary Poe, assistant principal. About forty negro pupils are expected at the opening, though it is probable that at the close of the cotton picking season this number will be increased to 75 or 100. The following compose the board of school trustees: T. B. Littlepage, president; F. P. Hopkins, treasurer; J. A.

JOHN D. DEFEATED AT EVERY TURN

Trial Expected to Occur During October

Special to The Telegram. FINDLAY, Ohio, Sept. 8.-John D. Rockefeller will have to stand trial here on the charge of violation of the Valentine anti-trust law. His trial will likely start the first week in October, unless his counsel finds a way to delay it. Attorneys for Rockefeller and the Standard Oil Company were defeated today at every turn.

Judge Banker this morning overruled motions to quash information filed by Prosecutor David, in the cases of the state against the Standard Oil Company and John D. Rockefeller, the state against the Manhattan Oil Company and F. T. Cuthbert and E. R. groom is comparatively speaking a Curtain, and the state against John J. I young man.

O'Brien, manager of the Buckeye Pipe

Line Company. Only the attorneys interested in the case were present today, the excitement attending the preliminary examination having subsided. After learning of Judge Banker's decision, the attorneys for the defense filed pleas in abatement which were overruled by the court.

Their next move was to file a motion for a new preliminary hearing on motions to quash. This motion was promptly overruled. The attorneys for Rockefeller and the Standard Oil Company were given until Tuesday, Sept. 11 to file motions.

MAYOR INSPECTS BLOCKED STREETS

Investigates Crowded Sidewalks in Wholesale District

In order to personally investigate the reports of crowded sidewalks in the wholesale district of Fort Worth, Mayor Harris visited the section occupied by wholesale houses east of Main street and north of Front Saturday morning, spending some time going over the different streets.

a get information first hand for use when the sidewalk committee of the council meets to discuss means for preventing the blocking of sidewalks and traffic in the business district. Serious complaint has come recently from both merchants and citizens that the rights of the public to the use of sidewalks are wholly disregarded especially by contractors erecting new buildings. Along Houston street, where there is much construction. most complaint has been made. One merchant whose place of business is near a large effice building now being built near the Carnegie library said to a Telegram reporter Saturday night that he believed his loss of trade in rainy weather when customers rather than going out in the street to get around the obstructions and get to his store would go somewhere else had amounted to several hundred dollars during the past few months.

Ordinance Insufficient The abuse of the sidewalks to the detriment of the rights of the pedestrians is no new thing, and the city attempted to cure the most flagrant evils by a punitive ordinance. But it left the matter of making complaints to the discretion of the city marshal. The corporation court held that that was a delegation of the legislative powers of the city council to the marshal, who was thus vested with the authority to say who should and who should not be punished.

The city attorney was directed to cure the defect and he did so by cutting out all of the clause which left enforcement of the ordinance to the discretion of the marshal. That gave the ordinance a sweeping character which threatened the very continuance of the wholesale business of the city in the opinion of some of the aldermen, and as soon as that was made plain there was a motion to shelve the whole question. A cooler regard for the rights of the citizens generally prevailed and the question of the amendment of the ordinance, so that it will still be effectual in its intent to protect the rights of the pedestrians, and yet work no hardship to the commercial business of Fort Worth, was referred to the mayor and the street and alley committee of the city council. Visits Third Ward

Mayor Harris wanted to see for himself just what the conditions are and Saturday he went over the entire territory in what may be called the wholesale district and especially that part of the business district which is in the Third ward.

He wanted to see, and he saw, matters just as they are, and he saw enough to convince him that the people living on the east side needed some relief. Just what form that should take is not settled, even in outline, in the mayor's mind, but after going over the region affected, and even more than that which might come under the sidewalk obstruction features, the mayor is decidedly of the opinion that there is a well grounded cause for complaint on the part of the citizens and he has a strong hope that the wisdom of the council will evolve some way by which the relief can be af-

The result is that when the street and alley committee comes together in consultation the mayor will have a thorough understanding of the demands of both sides and can act, if need be, in his advisory capacity to the committee, with more thoroughness than if he had not seen the lay of the

Dunlap Says Committeeman Has Given Out False Insinuations

Special to The Telegram. JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Sept. 8.-M. F. Dunlap, replying to the attack made on him by Roger Sullivan, said: "Sullivan's statement that I was Judge Thompson's go-between contained a cruel, false and base insinuation. Sullivan, whose general reputation is that of a professional boodler, would charge anyone he hates with any vice or crime to divert attention from himself or in his desire to drag others to his level. "During Gov. Yates' administration the bank of Dunlap, Russell & Co., with which I am connected, was the depository of two state institutions and during Governor Yates' administration the account of the school for deaf was kept with us. We have never had any other state funds except while Mr. Hinrichsen was secretary of state, he deposited with us through the Illinois National bank, at Springfield. I fail to see what the charge that our bank has had some accounts from Democratic officials and others had he not desired to convey a false impression.

Walsh With Sullivan But there was one banker who did nots upport Bryan, but he stood with Sullivan, representing themselves as defenders of national honor, that was John R. Walsh, his bosom friend and political associate. Sullivan seeks to raise a false issue now as he did in his circulars sent broadcast from the Peoria convention.

890 Saloons in Louisville Keep Open on Sunday

Special to The Telegram. LOUISVILLE, Ky., S ept. 8 .- Judge John McCann in the police court today handed down an opinion that the 890 saloons doing business in Louisville may keep open on Sundays for the sale of soft drinks and cigars. It is believed all of the saloons will remain open tomorrow and that this will be the opening wedge for all saloons to keep open on Sunday and sell all kinds of drinks they desire. Judge McCann held that it would be an unlawful decision to forbid saloons from doing what the drug stores were doing every Sunday. It will be recalled that Governor Beckham and Magistrate Hoffman have been having a controversy about the enforcement of the Sabbath observance laws. Judge McCann takes about the same view as the magistrate and insists that if the Sabbath observance law is to be observed at all, it should be enforced against all alike.

Rejoice Over Bryan It is proposed to have Missouri take the lead in starting the Roosevelt boom. Each chairman and secretary will be asked to have his county and district go on record in favor of Roosevelt's nomination. The fear that Bryan would prestige to the Democratic campaign n this stat is no longer apparent at Republican headquarters. There is general rejoicing in the Republican camp over Bryan's advocacy of state and federal ownership.

NELSON LOSES BRIDE Defeat by Gans Turns "Cow Girl" Against Him

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 8 .- Pretty Miss Blanche Savoy, "Cow Girl" and actress, is on a fast train speeding toward Chicago from San Francisco, after giving Battling Nelson the first knock-out of his career, when she jilted him after he lost the fight to Joe Gans in Goldfield, Colo. She hurried to Goldfield a week ago to be present at the ringside and watch her hero battle for the championship, but when he lost she let him know that he was no longer her betrothed. They were to marry, but when she a loser, her chagrin overcame her and she went to San Francisco without even letting Nelson see her. She remained only a few days in San Francisco and then set out for Chicago.

Special to The Telegram. NEWPORT, L. I., Sept. 8.—That Mrs. Regi Vanderbilt has had a bad turn at Sandy Point farm, is generally believed in the summer colony. Three weeks ago Mrs. Vanderbilt was brought from Saratoga and was very sick and within four days after her arrival was operated on.

At an early hour this morning Reginald Vanderbilt's sprinting automobile stripped of everything but machinery and two seats, made a dash from Sandy Point farm to get Dr. Flint, and one of the fastest trips ever made over the Island was done in this machine. Three times today Dr. Flint has gone to the farm. It is learned the patient sat up for a short time Friday and over-taxed her strength and she suffered a fainting spell during the early morning hours of today.

(BY J. B. ROBERTS.)

The announcement sends a thrill of not anticipate the delight that the youngsters do the announcement has pleasure in it even to them. It carries them away back to the days of their childhood, when circuses were not

There may be a world of pleasure in the circus of today, but there cannot be more than there was in the one-ring affairs of forty years ago when old John Robinson, Dan Costilla, Dan

Stickney and Orton Bros., toured the country in wagons. Circus day then meant something-a holiday for white and black, and the boys saved up their in order to have a good time at the

On the day a circus came to town

forty-five years ago, no boy in that town could be caught abed after the sun rose, and none of them had much appetite for breakfast. It would be known on which road the circus would enter town and out that road the boys would tramp, walking miles and miles to meet the caravan of red painted wagons, iron barred cages and the gilded band wagon, called the charlot.

No sun was too hot, no road or weather too rough to keep the boys from making this tramp. No matter if they did have stone bruises on their feet or had subbed toes tied up in rags,

they would limp along the country road until the vanguard of the circus was met and then their happiness had a single elephant and a pair of drome-darles or camels in the cortege, heaven itself had no charms for the boys like the circus had. They never thought of dinner and when the circus caravan reached the show grounds and the work of putting up the tent began there wasn't a mother son of a boy who didn't do as much work as any canves man on the ground. They would bring water, pull canvas, do anything just to be able to say that they had worked for the circus. And when the parade took place just before noon, if a boy could succeed in being engaged to lead a camel or ride one of the Shetland ponies in the procession,

there was no king on earth so happy

as he, and for weeks after the circus left town association with him was at a premium. He was the hero of the town and a bigger boy than the one

First Bareback Rider

There are people living today and plenty of them who remember what a furore Jim Robinson created when he appeared as a bareback rider in the old John Robinson circus in the late

60s. Up to the time that Jim Robinson did his bareback act, which was the best in his days, nearly all ring riding was on pads, the pads being nearly as broad as the democratic platform of today. Men and women danced and cut capers on the pads and did all manner of things that would not be tolerated in a circus today, and the people went wild over them; but when Jim Robinson appeared as the great and only bareback rider in the world, and picked up a hat from the ground as his horse loped around the ring, no conquering hero ever received such applause as he did. He was a bigger man in a small country town

then than Teddy Roosevelt is in Washington today, and the man outside of a circus who had the honor of a speaking acquaintance with him was justified in snubbing former acquaintances for hurt or stolen by the circus people.

The circus is coming to town.

Wooda Cook was another great artist in his day. He also traveled with Charley Noyes as well as with the Robinsons, Next to Jim Robinson he was the most daring bareback rider in the profession. There was a vast difference in the two men in that Cook never drank intoxicants, while Jim Robinson frequently had to be pulled out of saloons to get ready for the afternoon performance. Cook was a favorite until he met another sawdust favorite, M'ile Tournour, who he induced to leave her mother at Jefferson, Texas, and run down to Shreveport, La., where they were married. M'lle Tournour was the best aerial performer in the circus business at that time, but after she met and married Cook the two were so wrapped up in each other that they neglected their business and soon ceased to be favorites. M'lle grew stout and would get lazy and that was the end of

First Circus with Two Clowns

The first circus that ever had two clowns in the ring in the southern states was old John Robinson's, and that fact was played up on the billboards. The clown was a star character in the circus in the old times and his witty sayings were quoted until the next circus came, a year later. The tilts between the clown or clowns and the ringmaster, who was costumed then like a brigadier general with ostrich plumes in his hat were main features of the show, and people never got tired of talking about what a fine clown the circus had.

To get into a circus tent without paying has been a weakness with some people ever since the circus was invented. Men have been known to spend $5 "setting 'em up" to circus employes in order to get a free ticket to the show when the price of admission was only 50c, and there are still people of this kind everywhere. They take pride in telling their friends and acquaintances that " it didn't cost me anything to go to the show," and a boy would risk his hide tanned by a canvassman by crawling under the canvas and then hardly dared breath for ten minutes for fear he would be caught and "turned out." Boys sneak under the canvas now, but there isn't that thrill attending it that there was in the old days. But a circus is a circus, and it always will be a circus, and the biggest drawing card in the world. The smell of the sawdust, the "whoop-la!" of the riders and the "this way, Mr. Merryman," will have a fascination for mankind as long as mankind is. There is an aroma about the circus tent, a charm in the circus lemonade and music in the foghorn voices of the sideshow barkers that will attract people even when church bells are calling

GANS AT LAST HAS MADE GOOD

Victor at Goldfield Demontrated Real Ability

BY CHIP.

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Sept. 8 .- Joe Gans, has vindicated himself. The despised black man has fulfilled his promise to make good and in such complete fashion has he accomplished it that the fickle public, which but a few months ago ridiculed the idea of Gans' fighting on the square, is now falling over itself in its eager desire to pat him on the back and assure him that he is their ideal long ago. In this age people expect

> Well, Gans deserves all that has come or will come to him as a result of his victory over Nelson. Not only did he best the Dane, but he did it in such a thorough and workmanlike manner as to leave no doubt on the minds of those who witnessed the fight or who have carefully analyzed the reports of the battle that he was easily master of his bulldog antagonist at ail stages. Furthermore, Gans endured patiently the foul tactics employed by Nelson almost from the outset, interposing only an occasional objection, and for his own part fought a clean battle from first to last, although the temptation to meet foul with foul must have been a strong one. There is but little doubt that Nelson's final offense, which lost him the fight, was either the result of advice from his corner or was committed under the impulse of the moment, but in either case, done deliberately. For forty-odd rounds he had rushed at Gans with about as much effect as a wave dashed upon a rock. The colored boy had successfully withstood the attack, displaying a variety of method in so doing that had brought the baffled Dane to the pitch of desperation, and meanwhile inflicting terrible punishment. The much vaunted endurance of the younger fighter was beginning to wane and victory seemed no nearer than at the beginning. He had done so much foul work that possibly he believed he could do a little more. But he overreached himself, finally, and lost not only the fight, but also renounced all claim to the sympathy that would have been his had he fought a fair and square battle.

It seems to be the case that right now, Nelson is in deeper disgrace even than Gans ever was. The latters act were always condoned in a measure, by the fact that he was obeying instructions. For that matter, Nelson probably was, after a fashion, but no manager of Gans ever influenced him to fight foul. It is pretty certain that Nelson will never be able to fight again under the guidance of his present manager, Nolan. Now that the Dane is dethroned Nolan can no longer dictate cutthroat terms, such as he has been in the habit of imposing and through which he has succeeded in getting himself so universally disliked that a number of the more prominent promoters have declared their intention of refusing to negotiate with him at all.

Nelson Badly Bruised beating that a fighter has ever experienced since the days of bare knuckles and it will be many weeks before he can even think of entering the ring. It would have been infinitely better for him all around, had he stood up and fought, in which case he would have gone out inside of ten or twelve rounds.

Goldfield has tasted blood and is already talking of another big battle, Gans and Britt being mentioned as the most probable opponents, with a purse of satisfactory magnitude, $25,000, and possibly more.

It is to be hoped that if the liberally disposed Nevadans pull off another pugilistic event, they will begin by securing the services of a promoter who understands his business. Such an individual was badly needed to engineer this last affair. The first duty of this functionary would be to see that whatever men are matched, they should not be obliged to make a weight that would force them to fight at anything less than their very best condition. Then there would be a fight that would be infinitely superior to the Gans-Nelson battle, which, after all is said, was a most unsatisfactory affair, chiefly from the reason that not only Gans, but Nelson also, made far too low a weigh for a finish contest.

Berger Looking Ahead Sam Berger has been doing an exhibition stunt at a local theater for the past week, and has made a good many admirers among the Chicago sporting fraternity. To them he has imparted his ambition to tackle-not at present, but in a couple of years, perhaps—the mighty Jeffries. Berger believes by that time he will have progressed both in strength and all around experience until he will be a match for the giant. Right now, Berger looks like Jeff's most logical opponent, should the latter be induced to put 'em on once more. The youngster is as tall as Jeffries, has about the same reach and weighs over 200 pounds, trained right down. What he lacks, however, is the experience that he figures a couple more years as a professional will give him. Jeffries has lately coyly admitted that if there were any more $30,000 purses hung up, he could probably be induced to try for one of them. Whether he will wait two years for Mr. Berger to perfect himself however, is rather doubtful,

Other Labor Day Fights While Nelson was getting his at Goldfield on Labor day, several other promising fighters were being similarly treated. Probably the most noteworthy case was that of Billy Mellody, at Chelsea, Mass., who was forced to succumb to Joe Thomas, after eleven rounds of terrific battling, in which the Californian showed himself to be one of the very best welters now in training. Thomas has been coming steadily for the past few months and seems to be the logical champion at that weightamong the palefaces, at least. In the other Labor day events, Jack Dougherty was beaten by Mike Sullivan after a desperate nineteen round struggle at Butte and Abe Attell pummeled Frank Carsey so fiercely at Davenport, Ia., that the Italian quit in the third round. Abey had ample satisfaction for Carsey's claim that he had the best of the first battle, fought only a few weeks ago at Grand Rapids.

SAID THE ROSE "I am weary of the garden," "For the winter winds are sighing, All my playmates round me dying, 'Neath the snows!"

Said the rose. "She will take me to her chamber. Where the honeysuckles clamber, And I'll bloom there all December, Spite the snows. "Swifter fell her lily finger

"But I hear my mistress coming."

Than the bee. Ah! how feebly I resisted, Smoothed my thorns, and e'en assisted, As all blushing I was twisted From the tree!

"Then she fixed me in her bosom, Like a star; And I flashed there all the morning, Jasmines, honeysuckles scorning, Parasites forever fawning, That they are!

"And when evening came she set me All of rare and radiant metal, And I felt her proud lips settle On my leaves, till each proud petal Touched her face!

"And I shone above her slumber Like a light; And I said instead of weeping In the garden vigil keeping. Here I'll watch my mistress sleeping, Every night!

"But when morning with its sunbeams Softly shone In the mirror where she braided Her brown hair, I saw how faded, Old and colorless and jaded I had grown!

"Not a drop of dew was on me, Never one! From my leaves no odors started, All my fragrance had departed, I lay pale and broken-hearted In the sun.

"Still," I said, "her smile is better Than the rain; Though my fragrance may desert me, To her room she will take me, And with crimson kisses make me Young again!

'So she took me-gazed a second,

Heaved a sigh-

But (alas! can hearts so harden, Without ever asking pardon) Cast me back into her garden, There to die? 'How the jealous garden gloried

In my fall! How the honeysuckles chid me, And the sneering jasmines bid me Light the long gray grass that hid me Like a pall! "There I lay beneath her window

In a swoon! 'Till the earth worm o'er me trailing, Woke me just at twilight failing, While the whippoorwill was wailing To the moon!

But I hear the storm winds rising n their lair! and I know they soon will lift me In their giant arms, and sift me Into ashes as they drift me Through the air!

'E'en I pray them in their mercy Just to take From my heart of hearts, or near it, The last living leaf, and bear it To her feet and bid her wear it For my sake!

THE BORAX INDUSTRY

Mr. Charles G. Yale, of the United States Geological Survey, contributes of Uncle Sam's annual volume of Resources of the United States' a report on the borax industry, extracts of which we give.
"Almost the entire production of borax in the United States continued to come during 1905 from California— San Bernardino, Ventura and Inyo counties, although surface deposits in Nevada, near the California-Nevada boundary line, now produce a small quantity. "A bulk of the borax production comes from colemanite deposits at Borate, San Bernardino County. The outout here increased during 1905, and the 'roasters' at Marion are now runthat more low-grade material is being mined now than formerly. All ore that averages 35 per cent. or more is shipped East directly. All the lower grade is first concentrated at Marion. Eastern refineries are now manufacturing several new products, such as borax soap, taloum powder und bath powder, which, having been well advertised, are popular, and have increased consumption of "Conditions would warrant a greater cutput from the mines, though this has not been possible."

In July, 1906, a railroad will be completed from Ludlow, Cal. (in San Bernardino County on the Sante Fe), to Bullfrog, Net., past the Amargosa Valley in Inya County, near Death Val ley, where there is a manmoth borax nine called the Lila C. This road will carry out the ores from Bullfrog and Tonopah and transport into that mining region needed supplies and materials, and it will also make this Lila C. borax mine a factor in the borax trade, and probably increase the output to a more adequate supply of the demand. This factory manner, and has disclosed a large body of colemanite of rich The Tonopah and Tidewater Raffroad after it reaches Bullfrog in July will be rushed on to Tonopah, and it will help develop not only the Amargosa and Death Valley, but will have a tremendous influence in the development of the Nevada gold fields and the whole

In Death Valley there are large de-posits that have not been worked for some time. These ores from these deposits were originally brought out by 20 Mule Teams, and gave to the Pacific Coast Borax Company's products their well-known trade-mark name-20-Mule-

Team Brand.

The American has constantly used more and more borax in the last forty years. The total output of borax in the early days was about 60) tons annually, and at present it is more than 50,000 tons.

Twice, returning to the house, Glenarm hears voices and once while walking in the woods at night he comes across Morgan sounding the wall of his grandfather's estate with a hammer. After a parley, Morgan flings his hammer at Glenarm and the latter fires his revolver, but both miss. "You're a fool," he growled. He was recovering from his fright-I knew it by the gleam of his teeth in his yellow beard. His eyes, too, were moving restlessly about. I did not know what to do with him now that I had him at the point of a pistol; and in my ignorance of the night of his first stay he is shot | his motives and my vague surmise as to the agency back of him, I was filled dow! I heard his hands on the wall as he felt for it. Then a breath of cold FALL MILLINERY Fir swept the passage, and I knew he must be drawing himself up the opening. I fired and dropped to the floor. With the roar of the explosion I heard him yell, but the expected return shot did not follow.

The pounding of my heart seemed to mark the passing of hours. I feared that my foe was playing some trick, creeping toward me, perhaps, to fire at close range, or to grapple with me in the dark. The cold air still whistled into the corridor, and I began to feel the chill of it. Being fired upon is disagreeable enough, but waiting in the dark for the shot is worse. I rose and walked toward the end of the passage. Then his revolver flashed and roared directly ahead, the flame of it so near that it blinded me. I fell forward confused and stunned, but shook myself together in a moment and got upon my feet. The draft of air no longer flew into the passage. Morgan had taken himself off through the window and closed it after him. I made sure of this by going to the window and feel-Golden Rule ing of it with my hands. I went back and groped about for my candle, which I found without difficulty and lighted. I then returned to have been opened without the aid of tools. I tried it at every point. Not only was it securely fastened, but it could not possibly be opened without an expenditure of time and labor.

There was no doubt whatever that Morgan knew more about Glenarm House than I did. It was possible, but not likely, that he had crept past me n the corridor and gone out through the house, or by some other cellar window. My eyes were smarting from the vexation and perplexity not, I fear, grateful for my safety. It was, however, some consolation to feel sure I had winged the enemy.

I gathered up the fragments of Morgan's lantern and went back to the library. The lights in half the candlesticks had sputtered out. I extinguished the remainder and started to

Then, in the great dark hall, I heard muffled tread as of some one following me-not on the great staircase, nor in any place I could identify-yet anmistakably on steps of some sort beneath or above me. My nerves were already keyed to a breaking pitch, and he ghost-like tread in the hall angered me-Morgan or his ally, Bates, I reflected, at some new trick. I ran nto my room, found a heavy walking stick and set off to Bates' room on the third floor. It was always easy to attribute any sort of mischlef to the fellow, and undoubtedly he was craw!ing through the house somewhere on an errand that boded no good to me. It was now past 12 o'clock and he should have been asleep and out of the way long ago. I crept to his room and threw open the door without, I must say, the slightest idea of finding nim. But Bates, the enigma, Bates, the incomparable cook, the perfect servant, sat at a table, the light of several candles falling on a book over which he was bent with that maddening gravity he had never yet in my presence thrown off. He rose at once, stood at attention, inclining his head slightly. "Yes, Mr. Glenarm." "Yes, the devil!" I roared at him, astonished at finding him-sorry, I must say, that he was there. The stick fell from my hands. I did not doubt he knew perfectly well that I had some purpose in breaking in upon him. I was baffied and in my rage floundered for words to explain myself.

"I thought I heard someone in the house. I don't want you prowling about in the night, do you hear?" I glanced at the book he had been reading. It was a volume of Shakespeare's comedies, open at the first scene of the last act of "The Winter's

GETS $250 FOR 20 MINUTE DANCE

28 Cents a Second Is Isadora Duncan's Price

BY MALCOLM CLARKE. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) Special Cable to The Telegram.

BERLIN, Sept. 8. - Miss Isadora Duncan, the San Francsico classic dancer, has divided Berlin into two warring factions. Her classic dances are modelled essentially on the poses of the dancing girls of ancient Greece. At every big social function given in Berlin, the leading question of the hour was "What is your opinion of "The Duncan'?" The fact that her adherence to the Greek form of dancing robe caused her to appear upon the stage with bare feet brought her the burg and earned her the sobriquet of the "barefoot dancer."

But Miss Duncan has become the raze of artistic Germany. All the leading artistic lights are her adherents. The famous Lenbach has painted her. Professor Engelbert Humperdinck, composer of "Hansel and Gretel" has written music for her to dance o, Frau Cosima Wagner has paid her he signal honor of asking her to lead the dance of Venusberg in the famous performance at Bayreuth. Miss Duncan has through her dancing amassed a fortune in Germany. She has bought as a residence one of the enormously costly villas in the plutocratic Grunewald colony and filled it with valuable works of art.

Recently one of the wealthiest newspaper -proprietors asked her -what would be her terms to dance at a private soiree. He received a reply that would be establishing a precedent for the dancer to appear in private, but she would be willing to appear for $750 an hour. The wealthy man replied that he did not wish to spend to much money upon the entertainment, but would she dance twenty minutes for $250? She accepted and established a record price.

HE New Waist styles will show for the most part short sleeves of the principal material, with an extension of the deep lingerie cuff from a similar guimpe. The sleeves will taper from being full at the shoulders, into a fitted cuff at or just turning Waists will be more bloused than for seasons past, and fitted girdles will be a prominent feature. Deep side plaits promise to be popular, and high crush collars are almost invariably used. The fastenings, depending more on the style of the garment, will be in the back of the more elaborate models and in the front of the simple shirt waist styles. Braids will be extensively used, matching the color of the garment, and a very pretty idea in connection with this trimming is buttons made of the same.

Taffeta will be a most popular material, among which plaids will be very prominent, with soft chiffon materials as a second choice for favor. However, there will be a wide choice both as to texture and color. Short descriptions of three dainty models—

The Caucasian has the subjective more particularly the Anglo-Saxon, is dominant and domineering, and pos-negro is in direct contrast by reason of a certain lack of these powers, and a great development of the objective qualities. The negro is primarily affectionate, immensely emotional, then sensual, and, under provocation, pas-show, of ostentation, of approbation.

He loves melody and a rude kind of poetry and sonorous language. There is undeveloped artistic power and handicraftsmen. They are deficient in judgment, in the formation of new ideas from existing facts, in devising hypotheses, and in making deductions in general. They are imitative rather than original, inventive, or constructive. There is instability of character incident to lack of self-control, es-

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

In Molly Elliot Seawell's new novel, "The Victory," which D. Appleton and Company announce for autumn publication, an intimate picture of life on a great Virginia plantation during the days of the civil war is given with little of the familiar stock in trade of such stories. The novel is said to be unusual in its denotement of the baleful effect of the war upon social life, and, though the book ends happily with ove and marriage, Miss Seawell has unfolded with something of a tragic elentlessness the domestic panorama I loss and suffering.

A Baffled Playwright Some are born dramatists; some achieve dramatic fame and fortune; ome have its glittering possibilities thrust upon them. Arthur Henry Vesey, whose novel, "The Castle of Lies," was published by the Appletons last spring, thinks he may fairly lay claim to distinction in the last class. The late Nelson Wheatcroft was to collaborate with him in dramatizing his first story, "A Cheque for Three Thousand." Mr. Wheatcroft died before the scenario was completed. Edward W. Townsend titillated the author's hopes by ffering to take Mr. Wheatcroft's place, but realized his folly before the contract was signed. The head of a theatrical agency tracked Mr. Vesey to his retreat in the Pocantico nills, and appeared in the bucolic wilds a dazaling vision in frock coat, silk hat, and chrysanthemum, offering to inrest a cheque for five thousand in his Cheque for Three Thousand." But that vision faded into thin air. Harry du Sruchet was the next tempter. He thought he saw another "Friend from ndia' in Mr. Vesey's book. "A Pedgree in Pawn." But presently it appeared that he was only fondly dreame late Kirke la Shelle actually signed .: contract for the dramatizaon of the same book. He, too. died. month ago one modestly designating herse,! This respite was only a temporary one for the would-not be dra-matist. For six weeks before the ap-

Dearance of his new story, "A Castle of portraits of Irving in all of the im-

Lies," a dramatic agent wrote to him that an advance notice of the book in the New York Times had come to his attention, and that both story and title seemed from the rather bald description to have strong dramatic possibilities, and would the author call and discuss the matter? He would not.

Book Notes

A book that promises to be of importance as a summary of the results of modern research and higher criticism is about to be published by Herbert B. Turner & Co. under the title of "The Historical Bases of Religions: Primitive, Babylonian and Jewish." Its author, Hiram Chellis Brown, sees in religion a natural and progressive growth from the crude and cruel conceptions of primitive man to the refined and highly spiritualized religious sense of cultured Christianity. To explain the religious sense he believes it unnecessary to look beyond purely natural causes. His critical review of Babylonian and Jewish religion will be instructive and interesting to both layman and clergy.

Truly humorous stories are very scarce, and when an author appears who has the true sense of humor the public is quick to give him a hearty welcome Such has been the experience of Ellis Parker Butler, the author of the little gem of humor, "Pigs Is Pigs." He is about to issue another book through the house of Herbert B. Turner & Co., containing eight delightfully funny stories, entitled "Perkins of Portland: Perkins the Great." One of the most interesting biographical works of the year will undoubtedly be Bram Stoker's "Reminiscences of Henry Irving," which will be published by The Macmillan Company this fall. Mr. Stokes was associated with the late actor for thirty years in the most intimate way, as friend and as business agent. He began to realize many years ago the demand that would undoubtedly be made on him for a biography of the most prominent actor of his time, and he accordingly took careful and voluminous notes of his intercourse with Irving. Few men in the last thirty years had a larger acquaintance with distinguished contemporaries than Irving, and Mr. Stoker's "Reminiscences" are full of amusing and characteristic anecdotes of such men as Gladstone, Disraeli, Tennyson, Sir Arthur Sullivan, Liszt, Sir Richard Burton and many others. Among the illustrations there will be a politician, is a man with a superstition. On this theory is explained his predilection for the letter that forms the initial of his own name. It will be recalled that "The Celebrity" was his first published book, and that his first great success was "Richard Carvel." Following these came "The Crisis" and "The Crossing." Cornish was his home when he entered politics as a member of the New Hampshire legislature, where he successfully introduced a bill relating to bridges over the Connecticut. In "Coniston," his latest book, he turns his political experience to good account in the drawing of the principal character, a political "boss" whose original he found at Croydon. It is this latest book that brought him prominently before the public as a candidate for governor of New Hampshire, and it is more than possible that when the contest is over Churchill of Cornish will be Churchill of Concord.

Someone has discovered that Winston Churchill, who is an author as well as

Roy Rolfe Gilson, whose new novel, 'Katrina," will be published Oct. 1 by The Baker & Taylor Company, has just returned from a two years' residence in Italy, Mr. Gilson and his family went to Italy to live, and not as urists, dividing their time between Sorrento, the lake region, Venice and Florence. In Venice Mr. Gilson's second child was born, "Katrina," however, is distinctly an American story, intinged apparently by the influence

Owen Johnson, the author of "Max Fargus," which will be issued Sept. 15, y The Baker & Taylor Company, is a ale man of the class of 1900. He is the son of Robert Underwood Johnson, associate editor of the Century Magazine, and began his literary career as editor of the Lawrenceville (school) Literary Magazine. His first book, "The Arrows of the Almighty," was published in 1901, the year following his graduation from college, and not only was it an immediate success in point of sales, but it attracted a very extraordinary amount of attention on account of the strength and real quality of its style. Following this, he spent two years in Paris studying the scenes and literature of the French revolution, the result of which was an intensely realistic picture of the reign of terror in his second book, "In the Name of Liberty." The present volume returns to New York and depicts a tragedy which grew out of the machinations and knavery of a shyster lawyer. Max Fargus, rich and miserly, married to a woman who is an adventuress against her will, discovers the lawyer's trickery, and takes a remarkable revenge.

The Baker & Taylor Company announces that it has just sent to press for the eleventh time "My Mamie Rose," Kildare's autobiography. The constant demand for the popular art books of The Baker & Taylor Company continues in such a manner as to indicate the growing interest in the real appreciation of art in this country. Editions have just been ordered of the following books: "The Appreciation of Sculpture," "The Appreciation of Pictures," "How to Judge Archi-tecture," "Pictorial Compositions" and "Landscape Painting and Modern Dutch Artists."

No more interesting career has been lived by an American than that of the portant characters he assumed in his Oregon boy and man who lends his name to Mrs. Eva Emery Dye's "Mc-Donald of Oregon: A Tale of Two Shores," to be published by A. C. Mc-Clurg & Co. next September, McDonald was the son of a chief factor in the employment of the Hudson Bay Company when a Japanese junk with three castaways drifted to the Oregon shore. Nursed back to life and strength by Dr. John McLaughlin, these little brown men inspired the lad with a desire to visit their country in turn. He ran away, after various adventures landed in New York, and was eventually himself cast away among the Ainus, those primitive Japanese who inhabit the northerly islands of the archipelago. Before leaving the empire, he had established a school in Japan, and it was the English learned by his pupils that enabled them to interpret the desires of Commodore Perry years after. Mrs. Dye adds to this authentic story, told in part in McDonald's own language, a series of historical facts regarding the Indians of old Oregon, their chief Kamiakin, in particular, which make veracious history read like the most thrilling ro-

Imagine yourself an author of reputation, with a feeling that your manifest talent failed of proper appreciation at home. Suppose, too, you thought a woman other than your wife could give you that sympathy and inspiration of which you were deprived and that you were constantly in her company. How would you feel if you discovered that during your period of neglect your wife had produced a book decidedly more clever and popular than anything you had achieved? This is the situation Miss Netta Syrett handles with literary grace and human charm in "The Day's Journey," which A. C. McClurg & Co. will publish next September. It is the first of Miss Syrett's excellent stories to appear in America, although they are well known in England. It is announced by the publishers D. Appleton & Company, that in consequence of the large advance orders being received for Robert W. Chambers' new novel, "The Fighting Chance," the printing order has been increased to 50,000 copies before the book is off the press.

One of the most attractive books of the fall season will be Lloyd Osbourne's automobile story, Speeds Forward," to be published by the Appletons. The book is unusually well illustrated, with decorative designs. Mr. Osbourne has almost preempted the automobile for purposes of fiction.

D. Appleton & Company will bring out this fall a book of advice to women, edited by Clara E. Laughlin. The title will be "The Complete Beauty Book," and the volume will be companion book to "The Complete Hostess," recently published. A third book, also edited by Miss Laughlin, will be "The Complete Home."

In "Thirteen Men," by W. A. Fraser, D. Appleton & Company announce a collection of short stories of Canadian and East Indian life that are said to be of unique interest. No writer of the day knows Canada better than Mr. Fraser, and Rudyard Kipling has borne testimony to the same author's intimate knowledge of India. Nearly all of these thirteen stories are concerned with animals.

One of our foremost writers of "society fiction" is Robert W. Chambers, who has just completed "The Fighting Chance," serially, in the Saturday Evening Post. In book form the story has already appeared. As a delicate and skillful delineator of character, Chambers excels. His narrative in this last story is fairly well sustained, although his situations are at times forced. Chambers is a mature writer the sense of having been the author of many stories. But his last story shows a marked tendency to rush through the ending as if the reader desired nothing so much as to be hrough and to let "them live happily orever after," without going to the rouble of drawing the last situation the book with as much skill as was ised at any previous climax. Satisfactory Examination

There is a story told about a famous New York surgeon. It was that when the doctor was young in practice he had as a patient a certain Mr. Darlie, of Woonsocket, R. I., whom he treated successfully for a painful tumor on the neck. One day the doctor called on Mr. Darlie after a long interval and, despite the patient's assurance that his general health was greatly improved, the surgeon advised an immediate operation.

"But dinna ye tell me yoursel' an operation wasna necessary?" demanded the patient, "I'm feeling better than I ha'e twa year gone, and wha' d'ye want to cut me up noo for?" "Well," confessed the young surgeon, with some embarrassment, "you see I need the money." "Oh," said Mr. Darlie, much relieved, "If it's the siller ye're after, a' richt! I was afraid ye war overanxious for the experience."

No Substitute In the course of an oral examination one day at the Maryland University Medical School, a professor addressed a bright pupil and said: "James, if you were called in to see a patient who needed quinine, what would you give as a substitute for that in case you could not get it?" James thought a minute and replied: "Why, I would give him quinine, of course." "But suppose you could not obtain that drug?" said the professor. James thought the matter over again and said: "I'd give him quinine, Professor, sure."

The old professor became exasperated, and said: "It is plain that you are seeking to evade the question. Now, work less.

I want you to suppose that there is not any quinine within 5,000 miles. James hung his head in deep thought, and finally answered: "Pro fessor, I'd give him quinine if I had to go all the way to the North Pole

The foreman gave Pat an ice saw (ice in those days was cut by hand) and told him to go on the pond and go to work cutting ice. Now Pat had seen a cross-cut saw that is used in cutting logs that requires a man on either end, and, as the saw that the foreman gave him resembled the cross

OUR LAY SERMON

"For with the same measure that ye mete withal It shall measured unto you again."-Luke, vii, 38,

"If thou shouldst be given tomorrow, The mete thou hast measured today; Would the scantiness force you to borrow, The meed of thy needing to pay?"

In all probability it would. The human race is prone to the "one weight for me and another for you" doctrine and not many I warrant would relish the measure they mete. Not that there are no adherents to the golden rule, occasionally we meet some niember of that almost extinct creed, but the encounter is seldom enough to cause us to survey them with a sensation of regret-regret that they are not more common, and with what a fervent reverence they are remembered. Most of us tip the scales a little with our hand and if a protest comes to haunt us we bid it begone and stifle the accusing monster with the plea of "commercial necessity," saying to that wee, small within us, "there is no other way if I would live." Yet the words of the lowly Nazarene warn us that every man maketh his own measure in heaven by the measure he metes on earth.

To disobey the mandate of the Father is to create a future misery and expiation, yet the busy world moves on and everywhere the cry is heard of a measure that is not mete. This wrong is the parent of many sorrows, but the greatest sorrow of all is that it turns each year so many hearts from God. The overworked widow who misses the few words of encouragement that would have filled the measure of her frozen life with fresh vigor and hope and strength lifts her heavy eyes to the darkened skies and a little of her faith is lost. Each time she finds her measure lacking she takes away an atom of her trust in God and by and by her heart is chilled and though she shuts its icy bitterness back of her teeth the scarcely perceptible tightening of the songless lips betrays to the observer the story she does not take the trouble to

She goes her way, uncomplainingly perhaps, but the mischief has been done and she listens to the churchgoer sermonize, outwardly calm, but her inner self laughs their words to scorn. In the final judgment somebody will find the measure by their door lacking in its fullness in the widow's name.

The timid little child is made to cower and shrink from the rasping tones of one who should be kind. Instinctively it misses the level of gentleness and drifts toward the ocean of crime. For want of a bit of the love-wealth which is its natural right and heritage from maturity it puts a careless foot on the treacherous timber of the first bridge of error and is lost. Its measure was unfilled and by that same measure the vendor of the bitter tones shall some day receive his mete. There are many measures—the grocer who takes a little from the pound-weight of his patronsthe iceman whose heft of ice never reaches the duemark-the butcher who tosses in the scales of meat a little too much bone and fat-the druggist who exacts a little too much for the needed drops-the physician who falls just a little short in his duty of as-ting the sufferer from his bed-the lawyer who arges the lion's half of a collection made-all these and a thousand other false-bottomed measures snall some day come and stop at the door of the measurer. For the shortened ounce falls heaviest on the poor and the Christ has said, "inasmuch as you do unto the least of these ye have done unto me," and the eyes of the poor look straight into the eyes of God and He will keep His covenant with them. But the god of gold and greed stands between the commercial measure and the hand that would fill it to overflowing. Today a dollar is worth more to humanity it seems. than the promise in the Holy Writ. God avengeth His own and in that day of vengeance every measure that misses its full quota will be remembered when the Son of Man shall come to take possession of His lingdom. And like the poor the rich MUST DIE, and the gold they have amassed shall lose forever its luster for their eyes. Its beloved ring will never break the silence of eternal sleep. Why then the constantly stinted measure? The busy hands of today are the folded ones of tomorrow and blessed forsooth are those for which the poor shall weep, for the word of God has spoken of a great day and fortunate indeed are they who in that mighty Presence can say: "I measured with a heaping hand." Blessed will be that man or woman of whom some gentle voice will say, "In that he meted out to me with generous hand I pray Thee measure unto him the fullness of Thy mercy."

We know mankind must die-forever we witness the Silent Reaper plying his scythe. Let he who loves his gold too well take his eyes from the shining heap long enough to see the reeds falling around him and remember that some day this thing must come to him. Remembering this let him, therefore, mete unto his brother with fair, just hand, for "by that mete it shall be measured unto him again in that inevitable

CATTLE BUSINESS OF THE FUTURE

That Mexico will one day replace Texas as the great range cattle producing country of the world within a very few years, seems to be the opinion of many cattlemen, who are keeping an eye on the situation. W. J. Merrill, manager of the famous Solodad ranch, which is located down in the republic of Mexico, is among the number who take this view of the matter. He says Texans are purchasing great tracts of land in Coahuila and other states and stocking them heavily with cattle, and he thinks this action will grow in the future, as the big Texas ranches. are cut up into small farming tracts and sold out to colonists.

The Solodad ranch is located near Sabinas, Coahuila, and has under fence more than a quarter million acres of land. It was formerly the property of the late Collis P. Huntington, who acquired it while tailding the Mexican National railroad. It is now owned by the Mexican government, and Mr. Merrill, is its manager. Over 20,000 head of cattle are grazing on the fine grass of its ranges. Speaking of the situation in Mexico, Mr. Merrill says:

"Many Texans have already purchased vast tracts of land for ranches in Coahuila, and have moved their stock over from Texas. Among the pioneers in the movement are former United States Marsha! Hanson and associates of Houston. Others are following. Even with the duty there is plenty of money to be made in raising cattle in Mexico and shipping them to the inited States. The world must soon look to Mexico for its meat, for Texas is fast becoming a great agricultural country. And there is plenty of good range

There is no doubt about a number of Texas cattlemen looking with favor on the Mexican proposition, but there are others who have made a close investigation of conditions prevailing in that country who have not been so favorably impressed. It is true that land is cheap and can be acquired in large bodies, but the Texans who have wrestled with the cattle situation in West Texas for the past twenty-five years have a lively recollection of the dry years that have been scattered over that period. They have been educated up to the idea that Mexico is the home of drouth, and when they get down into that country and meet up with a fairly average dry spell they always come back to this state with the emphatic remark that while Texas is not what it used to be, still it is good enough for

It is this feeling of loyalty to Texas and Texas institutions that is now causing such an influx of cattlemen into the territory west of the Pecos river. Lands in that section are being acquired as fast as cossible and cattle are being moved to the new ranges. Of course, it will be impossible for that section to accommodate all the range cattle industry of the state, but it looks very much as if the time must soon come when the range cattle industry of Texas must very largely adapt itself to the circumscribed area of that section. Such seems to be the drift of affairs, and time will soon disclose what is really involved in the

But there is one plan on which the cattlemen of Mexico have their Texas brethren badly skinned, and that is in the marketing of their cattle. In Mexico the producer says to the buyer I will sell you as many at such a figure, delivered at the railroad. The buyer is compelled to come out to the ranch, inspect the cattle and pay a stated price for them delivered at the shipping point ready for shipment. In this way the producer avoids the expense and annoyance together with the losses incident to shipping. The buyer of Mexican live stock has to assume all these taings for himself, and it is a rule that works favorably for the producer.

That it does not affect the sale of stock is proven by the celerity with which buyers invade the Mexican range country and buy the stuff directly on the ranges, and if Texas producers would jointly adopt the same rule they would find it working admirably. Let shipments to market stop for a few weeks and buyers representing the big packers would soon be thick in the range country looking for the cattle they need in their business, and this thing of delivering the stuff at the doors of the big packing plants at figures named by the packers would soon play out entirely. Another advantage of this plan is that it would effectually do away with the too common practice of glutting the markets by excessive shipments and price would remain more uniform. The man who produces a bale of cotton or a bushel of wheat for market does not deliver it to the mills in an eastern city. He simply delivers it to the buyer at the nearest shipping point, and when the live stock producers of the country can arrange to handle their product on the same kind of a basis they are going to be greatly pleased and benefited by the result.

JOY LACKING IN CHILDLESS HOMES

The Telegram has often referred to the noble work being done by Rev. I. Z. T. Morris of this city in the finding of homes for homeless children, and has insisted more than once that the nobleness of the work is not generally appreciated. Rev. Morris contends that in his work there is a two-fold blessing-one to the child, the other to the home it enters. From observation it is hard to tell which receives the greater blessing. A few weeks ago Rev. Morris found a homeless babe, a little girl, and having an application for just such a child of about four years' standing, he wrote the parties and they came after the little one, traveling about 200 miles for the coveted blessing. The lady in the case was greatly pleased with the little tot and spent a day in the city purchasing an elaborate wardrobe for her new daughter. She had lost a litle girl about the age of this child, and as she expressed it, she never dreamed of any event in her life producing such happiness as the finding and adopting of this child. Upon arriving home she wrote Rev. Morris the following letter:

"I just write to tell you how nicely our little daughter has behaved herself. We made the trip home with so little trouble, and she is just the sweetest in the world, and she surely is one of the very best babies I ever saw or heard of. We are indeed proud of our baby. You should have seen her last night upon our arrival home. She held a royal reception and all made obeisance to the queen. All of the friends in the neighborhood came in and how they did admire little Dorothy. Such an ovation I never saw given one so young. Well, I could write all day about this little treasure, but must stop now. Again thanking you, and with a repeated invitation to visit us, I remain sincerely and gratefully, Mrs. ----

This, Rev. Morris says, is a sample of many letters he receives, and justifies him in saying that one great cause of unhappiness in this world is childless homes. He says as a rule the applicants for divorces in our courts are childless people, and that means there is something wrong in that nome or there would be childish voices in that house.

Rev. Morris says if those peeple who want children could only know what happiness children carry to a home they would not hesitate and be so exacting as to the kind of a child they want. There are now in his care one girl six months old, another two months old, and a third three weeks old; also a boy three weeks old. These children need homes and will carry the same joy into childless homes as the one did in the letter quoted above if taken in the right spirit. He says in a few months after taking these children nothing could induce their new parents to give them up.

It is believed that Senator Bailey is preparing to knock the smithereens out of Bryan's government ownership proposition, and it may be that if such is the case it will be done in the hope that the Presidential lightning will strike somewhere in the vicinity

The little daughter of Andrew Carnegie-his only child-is a helpless and hopeless cripple, being afflicted very much like little Lolita Armour. Efforts have been made to induce Dr. Lorenz, the famous Austrian expert, to operate on the little girl, but he fears she is now too old for the operation to prove successful.

NEW YORK PRESS ON BRYAN SPEECH

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP UNDESIRABLE

Mr. Bryan says nothing alarming, but he brings back to America a predilection for two foreign ideasan income tax and government ownership and operation of the railways.

A tax on incomes, involving an inquisition into every man's private affairs, may work well enough under monarchical governments, but it would be out of place in this republic

Government ownership and management of railways may likewise be practicable in an empire like Germany, with its compact little area of 200,000 square miles and its 30,000 miles of lines. Even on that miniature scale, and with poorly paid operatives, the service is inferior to our own and the charges are much higher.

The ownership and operation of the 220,000 miles of lines spread like network over our 3,000,000 square miles of territory would be another matter. Government regulation is essential, government ownership an undesirable and remote possibility, but government management-never!-New York Herald.

. . . . CALLS IT SOCIALISM

How can a man who pretends to oppose centralization and to favor individualism advocate in cold blood such a leap toward state socialism as would be involved in the national government's owning and managing all the trunk line railways and the various states owning and managing all the other railroads within their bor-

However, the democratic politicians have blindly committed the party to anything that Mr. Bryan says and does, and his speech of last night is the party platform. Mr. Bryan has defined the issues on which he expects the campaigns of 1906 and of 1908 will be fought, and the party bound itself in advance to take these issues "blindly and unseen."-New York World,

. . . . SOCIALISTIC EXPERIMENT

As Mr. Bryan puts it, the crucial issue is that of regulating production, transportation and commerce, checking monopolistic growth and reviving the old system of competition between individuals. The Nebraska statesman states that he is an individualist and not a socialist. Yet he purposes to combat socialism by compromising with it and encouraging socialistic experiment on a vast scale as the only means of stamping out existing private monopoly.-New York Tribune.

* * * * SHREWD AND FORCIBLE

It is as he addresses the workingman and plays upon the motive of discontent and unrest, that Mr. Bryan makes himself most formidable to the republican plan of campaign. He clearly outbids Mr. Roosevelt for the labor vote. His proposed revival of the income tax, with other legislation designed to hit corporations and help the community, will out-trump any card that the republicans seem likely to play. And even his dream of government ownership of the railroads, held up before eyes made accustomed to such visions during the past four years, will probably attract more voters, in the present state of the public nerves, than it will affright. All told, and looking purely at the party effect of Mr. Bryan's homecoming speech, it will have to be pronounced shrewd and forcible.-New York

* * * * WEARING STOLEN GARMENTS

Mr. Bryan and his friends have been saying that President Roosevelt stole his clothes. The returned Nebraskan's address in the Garden last night disclosed him as himself wearing two sets of stolen garments.

He got one set of garments from the republicansthe assertion of the power of the central government to do about anything it wanted to do, regardless of so-called "state's rights." This never has been democratic doctrine and always has been republican doc-

He got the other set of garments, as the World says, from Mr. Hearst-a demand that the government at once put into force all the vast inherent powers, take over the railroads and other public utilities, and lodge in the executive the authority to ruin absolutely every large business enterprise.-New York Mail.

* * * * BRYAN AND DEMOCRACY

In his speech last night (and we shall have more to say of it later) Mr. Bryan showed his accurate conception of public opinion in declaring that the question of questions today is the evil of the trusts. He made it clear that his aim, as a democrat, is to exterminate the trusts. But was it inadvertence, or misapprehension, when he spoke of the aim of William Jennings Bryan as the aim of the democratic party?-New York Press.

. . . . COZZENING THE LABORING MAN

A large part of the speech of the Hon, William Jennings Bryan at the Madison Square Garden last night was devoted to the laboring man. As laboring men ourselves, we note the fact with interest. At the same time, we cannot fail to see that there was little novel about the subject or its treatment. It has been a favorite one with orators ever since politics ceased to be a form of diversion and was developed into a trade or profession.-New York Sun

PETTY GRAFTS IN WASHINGTON MANY

Perquisites Smooth Pathway of High Officials

MAIL FRANK IS FRUITFUL

Many of the Practices Are Time-Honored, But They Cost Money to Government Just the Same

BY GEORGE ROBERT AGNEWS.

Special to The Telegram

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 .- Congress men and senators are not the only office holders in Washington who enjoy a lot of perquisites at the expense of the people. Federal office holders generally, of the higher grades, are in a position to get much for nothing. The way is open to petty grafting, and some of the officials find it early in their career. Some of the "perquisites," which are really small grafts, more or less questionable, have the respect that comes of great age. It would be a difficult task to root them out, if an extraordinary congress should be so disposed. With the usual congress, which is only too glad to have its share of the soft things of life, it is out of the question to suppose that it will put a stop to the soft snaps enjoyed by federal of-What is nicer, after a hard winter, than a trip to Europe, with all expenses paid? Many office holders seem to think nothing is so pleasant. The bugologist-in-chief of the agricultural department, for instance, hears of a new, strange worm in Egypt, and in the pleasant springtime he arranges to take his wife and go on a hunt for the reptile. The hunt is tedious and tortuous, and leads up the Nile, across to Sicily and Greece, and back through the Riviera and France. The people pay the bill. Sometimes the worm is captured, and sometimes the trip bears no further fruit than an elaborate report, with photographs of scenes along the Nile, and a sprinkling of bugological terms.

Alaska a Fertile Field

The agricultural and geological mysteries of Alaska have a great charm to the scientific corps in Washington -in summer. No one ever heard of a scientist leaving Washington in winter. But when the asphalt begins to squirm, and the Potomac turns to muddy vapor, and horses don their coquettish bonnets, the scientist hies to the Muir glacier, and frolics with polar bears until it is safe to return to Washington. Of course, Uncle Sam pays the bill. It would not be right to subject scientists to the scorching Washington summer. Only department clerks are capable of withstanding "the heats of July," to use Senator

Hale's phrase. Cabinet officers, if they are inclined to graft at all, find the opportunities ready made. Their underlings take delight in showing them their "perquisites." A cabinet officer need not hire a coachman, a footman, or a chauffeur, unless he chooses. If he is a little easy in such matters he will find such servants at his elbow. smiling and ready, and drawing their pay from the treasury. Formerly it common to see men carried on the rolls as "clerks" and "messengers" who were kept busy hoeing the garden, currying the horses, driving the wife and baby, waiting on the table, doing the marketing, and otherwise smoothing the thorny path of a cabinet officer. Of course, no such horrible examples can be cited nowadays

-or if they can, the writer prefers to let somebody else cite them. The pleasant graft of free horses and carriages has been largely curtailed by congress, which, finding that the graft did not extend to senators and congressmen, indignantly put its foot down upon this luxury of the office holding class. Until recently the assistant secretaries sported their own carriages or commandeered those of their superiors when their superiors were out of town. They do so yet, once in a while, but as a rule the horse-and-carriage perquisite is confined to cabinet officers.

Loeb Has His Carriage

Of course the President's secretary has a spanking little rig at his beck and call, and the President's assistant secretary, who carries messages to the capitol, does not have to foot it up Pennsylvania avenue. But the good old carriage graft is not what it used to be.

back to Washington. This official was greatly envied by his less clever associates when the trick was explained to them on the quiet. High officials in the departments do Press Agent Claim Blocked

Congress and the newspapers last winter heartlessly exposed and killed what promised to be one of the prettiest little grafts in the government service. This was the "press agent" The isthmian canal commission originated it, and the idea was so fetching that it bade fair to spread to every department of the government. The canal commission, smarting under the criticism of the press, hired a gentleman at $10,000 a year, gave him the title of "historian," and set him to work as press agent. It was his duty to offset the press reports by reseate stories of work at Panama: to meet newspaper men and give them the right "steer" as to what was going on at Panama, and otherwise to see that the public got from Panama only the bright sweet side of things. Of course, the press agent was required to defend the commission when it was brutally attacked by the newspapers.

This novel plan of using the people's money to hoodwink the people was introduced by former railroad men, who testified before the congress committee that press agents were indispensable in all big corporation enterprises, and they did not see any difference in the case of the government They thought $10,000 a year was well expended if the press agent succeeded in convincing the public that the commission was always right and doing exactly the right thing.

There were signs that other departments of the government were about to adopt the brilliant "press agent" idea when congress squelched the thing. The President took a hand, too, and nominated Mr. Bishop, the press agent in question, to be a member of the commission and its secre-9 tary at a higher salary than he had been receiving as press agent. Congress, however, failed to confirm this nomination, and Mr. Bishop has subsequently been left off the commission. He remains its secretary, but his usefulness as press agent is obscured, if not eclipsed. The early discouragement of the "press agent" graft by congress was a great disappointment to several high officials, who saw in it an admirable method of counteracting painfully frank criticism. If each executive department had a good, lively press agent, there would be a much more cheerful view of the situation in Washington. This, of course, would reassure the people throughout the country, and the national health would be correspondingly benefited. The greatest factor of American nervousness and dyspepsia is worry. The press agent plan would have prevented worry and substituted a halcyon and roseate assurance. Official circles are not at all pleased with the officiousness of congress in this mat-

Naval Junkets Are Tempting

Sometimes, however, there is a little growl from the press when one of the assistant secretaries of the navy finds that an inspection tour of the navy yards is necessary to tone up his health, and takes a big naval vessel for his conveyance. These inspection trips are nothing more than costly junkets at the expense of the treasury The navy yards are so temptingly located, however, near fashionable summer resorts that the average assistant secretary has not the moral

Franklin County Candidate Perplexed by Two Positions Special to The Telegram

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 8.—C. R. Deit is presumed that the downtrodden vall, democratic nominee for county and district clerk of Franklin county, is in the city consulting with State cuted by another high treasury official Chairman Carden over a peculiar tangle. Since the primary in Franklin it developed a sufficient number of people were in that county to have both a county and district clerk, and the question bothering Mr. Devall is whether he has a right to resign either place in case the district clerk's office is created or whether he shall quit both and announce himself for county clerk, the place he wants, as there is little money in either job in small counties. Chairman Carden has given no opinion. Mr. Devall is editor of the Mount Vernon Herald.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is a powerful, invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. The local, womanly health is so intimately related to the general health that when diseases of the delicate womanly organs are cured the whole body gains in health and strength. For weak and sickly women who are "worn-out," "run-down' or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office or schoolroom, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, and for nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proven a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strength-giving powers.

As a soothing and strengthening nerv-"Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea, or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womanly organs. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and Cures obstinate cases. "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of "female weakness," painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus or falling of the pelvic organs, weak back, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration.

Dr. Pierce's medicines are made from harmless but efficient medical roots found growing in our American forests, The Indians knew of the marvelous curative value of some of these roots and imparted that knowledge to some of the friendlier whites, and gradually some of the more progressive physicians came to test and use them, and ever since they have grown in favor by reason of their superior curative virtues and their safe and harmless qualities.

Your druggists sell the "FAVORITE PRE-SCRIPTION" and also that famous alterative, blood purifier and stomach tonic, the "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." Write to Dr. Pierce about your case. He is an experienced physician and will treat your case as confidential and without charge for correspondence. Address him at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is chief consulting physician.

Ware's Black Powder

CURES DYSPEPSIA Catarrh of Stomach and Bowels, Constipation, Sick Headache, All Stomach and Bowel Troubles

Dyspepsia

It is the commonest disease in the world. The word dyspepsia means difficult digestion. There is every possible form of it from the slightest eructation and heartburn to the most horrible everpresent agony. The mildest cases are always relieved by a teaspoonful of the Black Powder taken immediately after meals. There is a form of dyspepsia accompanied by a great deal of heartburn. Persons so suffering should take Lactic Acid and make a half glass of water sour with 10 or 15 drops of it, and drink before meals.

No Dyspeptic ought to diet himself to death. If you know any articles that agree with you, LIVE ON THEM ALONE, and use the Powder after every meal. You can never recover from Dyspepsia nor any other stomach trouble without an action daily from your bowels, and it ought to be secured, IF POSSIBLE, without a purgative. Take an injection every morning immediately after breakfast, of a quart of lukewarm water, or use a glycerine suppository. But secure an operation WITHOUT PURGATIVE and you will recover.

Milford, Texas, June 3, 1906. Ware Black Powder Co., Dallas, Texas. I have used Ware's Black Powder, and can say that I am entirely cured of stomach trouble. It is worth its, weight in gold. I could not eat or sleep before I commenced using it, and now I can eat anything I want, and work all day, when before I could not work but just a few hours at a time. Just think that I have spent hundreds of dollars with doctors, but they did not do me much good. You cured me sound and well for $3 (three bottles of Ware's Black Powder). I thank you many times. Bulls Retain Confidence-Prices Elevated on a Very Dull and Slow Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- Stock exchange trading was on a very limited scale today, but bullish confidence was reflected in the way prices were held up despite adverse conditions and a very poor bank statement. London offered no help, being very irregular for American securities. Nevertheless, after an irregular opening the market was plainly disposed to respond to bulish efforts, which, despite the fact that hopes of easy money have received a setback owing to Secretary Shaw's announcement yesterday, were not diminished owing to the expectation that more gold would be engaged An extremely light volume of busi-

in the open London market Monday. ness was transacted during the first hour, only 194,000 shares changing hands during that period, and it was toward the close that the market exhibited its best tone and prices reached the high of the day.

Yesterday's favorites were again conspicuous in the trading, Reading and Republic Iron and Steel selling 11/2 to 14 respectively above yesterday's finals. Steel common and Erie had a sharp upward movement, the price cf the first advancing a point, while Erie sold at a net gain of 2 points. The bulk of the list attained fractional gains and the market closed steady with prices near the best.

Tables Turned-Bulls More Anxious to Even Up Than Shorts-Prices Not Changed Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- The weekend proximity of the bureau report contributed to dullness in the cotton market today, trading being limited throughout the half session, with no feature of particular importance. Although Liverpool took favorable action, there was no response here and the tables were turned, for instead of shorts seeking cover, which has been the rule for the past few sessions, it was the longs who were anxious to even up before the bureau. Aside from the action of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association and Liverpool's favorable action, there was nothing in the day's developments favorable to the bulls, and short confidence, as a matter of course, was to a certain extent restored. However, neither side could claim a victory for the day, as the range of fluctuations were very narrow, and although a net loss of 3 to 5 points was recorded during the session, there was still a few shorts who wanted cover and all was changed to 2 points higher. Spot market ruled quiet, prices being unchanged at 9.80c for middling. Sales, 20 bales.

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.-As natural considering the week-end and the fact that Monday will furnish important developments, trading at the Cotton Exchange was restricted today and price changes inconsequential. Liverpool closed with prices a shade higher than due and the effect on the local market was an initial advance of 2 to 4 points in the near months, but this attracted hedge selling from the interior under which prices dropped 5 to 8 points from the best, recovering a part before the close, which was steady with prices a point lower

The future market had a steady tone throughout the brief session and although opening prices were 6 to 7 points lower, against a decline of points as due, fear of unfavorable developments over Sunday caused considerable evening up of short commitments under which a portion of the loss was regained, finals being at a net loss of 21/2 to 4 points.

Modifies Views Regarding Cotton T. O. Vogel, who has recently returned from a ten days' visit to Wichita county, had a few words to say to a Telegram reporter today regarding weather conditions and cotton crop prospects.

"I was in the cotton business for a number of years," said Mr. Vogel, "and naturally take a great deal of interest in the staple, and as a result of my trip I have been compelled to modify my views as to the size of the crop, for although every one in the section I visited seemed to be optimistic over the situation, I have made occasional trips to that country for the last twelve or fifteen years and never saw as much rainfall there as occurred during my stay this time, and from my study of conditions while engaged in the business I found that a wet season never produced as large a yield as a dry one, all other conditions being equal. From a glimpse at the fields out of the car windows one would draw the conclusion that the crop could not be in better condition. but it is when a closer investigation is made that the real facts are ascertained, for while the stalk has abnormal growth, fruitage is poor and bottom bolls are not maturing, in fact many are rotting. The boll worm is also in evidence, consequently, as I said before, while I always take a conservative view, I am positive that prospects for a large crop are not near so good as was the case two weeks sin

Wheat at New Low Line-Continued Fine Weather Causes Further Slump

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 8 .- The continuation of perfect weather conditions throughout the wheat belt resulted in an easy market for the week end, fluctuations following a downward course throughout the session. Opening prices were lower, and although the crowd bought some on account of reports of heavy Minneapolis buying, sellers were in the majority and there was never any semblance of a rally, prices breaking through 72c for September and touching a new low level, the close being weak with prices at the bottom for the day, showing a net loss of 1/2 c to %c. Receipts were slightly under the estimate, being 67 cars, as compared with 30 this day last year.

Corn The corn market had a weak undertone at all times, owing to liberal selling by cash houses. Although there was a little buying by commission houses, it was not sufficient to hold the market and the close was weak with prices showing a net loss of %c to 1/2 c. Local receipts, 425 cars, as compared with 459 this day last year. Oats Oats market was quiet and feature-a net loss of 1/4c to 1/4c. Local receipts 197 cars, against 336 cars this day last Provisions Provisions were again under pressure and prices for all products were lowered as a result, finals being 5c to 15c

LEWISTON, Maine, Sept. 8 .- Carl Smith, the aeronaut, who is dying in the Central Maine hospital from the terrible injuries caused by a fall from his balloon at the state fair grounds, when the rope of his trapeze broke, is believed to have been the victim of a deliberate plot to murder. SECURED SOLDIERS' CASH

Men Disguised as Officers Draw $30,-000 From Bank

By Associated Press. VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 8.—By means | cases the sooner the cultivation is of a bold artifice, a party of revolutionists today obtained possession of $107,000, which had been sent here for the Thirtieth regiment. Three men attired as officers and two soldiers in the uniform of that regiment appeared at the bank where the money was on deposit and withdrew the entire amount. The men disappeared immediately and later it was learned they were imposters.

The difference between firmness and obstinacy is merely the difference between will power and won't power.

Market Review for the Week Receipts of cattle on the local market for the past week, compared with the corresponding week in 1905, were Cattle 9,800 Calves 7,750 Hogs 4,800 pers of cattle the past week. Light supplies, feeder competition and greater consumptive demand have been the chief factors in putting a strong phase

sisted of grassers, and these were mainly of indifferent quality. As an offset to this, the best load of grassers of the season topped the market one day of the week. A few loads of part fed cattle have come on sale, but they have been inferior to the best grassers. While light grass steers have been in the majority, compelling packers to outbid feeder buyers in order to secure any sort of a supply of killing cattle, the market has gradually strengthened on all grades of steers, regaining the loss of last week on the barely good kinds and adding 15c to 20c to the better sorts. Fair to medium grass steers have sold from $3.20 to $3.50; just decent killers, close to $3.10, and two lots of high grade territory grassers at $3.60 and $3.70, respectively. No strictly good cattle were on sale. The part fed cake cattle referred to above, sold from $3.35 to $3.50. Packers paid as low as $2.50 @2.85 for common grassers.

Stockers and Feeders Best few dry lot feeders have come on the market for supplies, the principal buying of short weight steers being by pasture men. But little change is shown in the market, and that in such as were good enough to sell at $3 or better. These are perhaps a dinie better than the close of last week. Thin young cows have sold from $1.55 to $1.65, to go to pasture. Butcher Catttle

Butcher cows and heifers closed the week with a decline of 10c to 15c on all grades above canners. These were already so low that the price would not cover the value of the hides and horns Fat cows of an extra good class sold in car lots up to $2.60, with the bulk of the week's receipts making $1.90@ 2.25, and the latter priced cows wer pretty good killers. The old skins of canners were slow sale even at 75c to Bulls Bulls have made no change in market values.

Calves Light vealers and the better sort of medium and heavy weight calves have had an active trade under diminished eipts during the latter part of the week, with prices strengthening 25c to 50c at the close. Common heavy calves show no improvement over last week's low prices.

The market supply of hogs still continues to lack something of filling the market demand, though receipts have shown an increase over the light runs of recent weeks. The market has had its usual see-saw movement. Some strength was shown on Monday, a letdown was noted on Tuesday, which had grown to a dime loss by the close of Wednesday. Some of this was regained on Thursday and all of it on Friday. The week closed strong with last Saturday.

Pigs have gone the same course as hogs, ending the week 10c to 15c high.

Sheep. Supplies of muttons have been of a very desirable class the past week and the market is stronger. Contract weth. ers, clipped and fat, made $4.85, and choice Shropshire wethers sold at $5 The same sort of lambs sold strong at

Receipts of cattle were confined to three loads, one being steers, for the early market, with five loads reported to arrive after the noon hour. Estimated receipts for the day 260. Steers

Beef steers had a slow and unsatisfactory movement, buyers appearing disinclined to make satisfactory bids At a late hour the only load of steers on the market remained unsold.

Vivion Commission Company FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 8 .-The cotton market today was quiet, as expected, and net changes were of no importance. The shadow of the coming reports was over traders and they didn't show disposition to extend committments, Liverpool came a little better than expected, after having opened fully responsive to our weakness at yesterday's close. The weather was more favorable, but reports continued to come. in. The movement of the new crop is not increasing rapidly enough for some of the shorts and there is a little leaning to long side in some quarters.

The visible was cut down during the week and while 'spinners' takings were not up to last year, there were signs of improving demand for the actual. The general opinion is that the bureau will come around 78 or 79 Monday but with the deterioration that has come since Aug. 25 such figures might be followed by an upturn, though it would hardly extend far unless the ginning report should be more bullish than expected. If the percentage should be a point or two worse than expected sharp upturn is likely. The action of the Southern Cotton advising holding cotton for 10c, no matter how large or how small the crop may be, is of no importance, though considered conservative. No attempt to estimate the crop was made. Forecast calls for more cloudiness and showers over tomorrow, Market Monday will hinge about the reports.

An Opportunity Overlooked

Thanks to a plentiful supply of noisture furnished not only by connecting river branches, but by numerous artesian wells, wheat, corn, oats, hay and cotton crops flourish luxuriantly, and the Dallas country rejoiced in the blessings of plenty bestowed by bountiful nature. Yet it was not until a few years ago that the stock raisers of this fortunate region awoke to a realization of the fact that they had studiously neglected an industry which properly handled, promises large financial returns at a comparatively small outlay. The secret of this new commercial success lay in the homely arcass of the humble and festive hog For a decade the productive porker ad been neglected, but pigs have their day as well as dogs, and at last he was scheduled to enter into his kingdom. One of the chief objections urged by the early stock raisers in northern Texas to the exploitation of the hog industry was that the feeding of hogs on corn in the then short condition of the corn crop would prove too expensive an item and eliminate whatever profit there was to be made on the porkers. But there were not wanting certain ambitious speculators he matter, and, thanks to their efforts, the notion that hogs could be raised speedily shown to be a fallacy.

successfully only on a corn diet was It was demonstrated that hogs fed on mile maize, kaffir corn and alfalfa were just as hard in finish and would kill out every bit as well as those nourished exclusively in the corn belt lands. The doubting Thomases who had heretofore refused to recognize the value of the hog were quick to acknowledge their error. Many farmers forsook to a certain extent the production of corn and cotton and joined the ranks of those who were actively ngaged in hog raising.

They found a practically limitless field for their operations. The climate was favorable and the market beyond question. In fact, the demand for hogs greatly exceeded the supply, and this condition prevails at the resent day. Statistics show that the value of hogs in the Dallas district has increased from 8 cents to 61/4 cents pound within the last five years, and he demand, which naturally regulates the price, is steadily increasing. Unless is materially increased, the price will mount still higher.

All Meals Look Alike

The commercial beauty of the hog lies in the fact that he is an omnivorous feeder. All meals served in his trough look alike to him. He will laugh and grow fat on the leftover rubbish and yield good returns for a lifetime of a year, or even eight

Therefore, to the man of limited means who lacks the capital necessary for stock raising on a large scale, hog raising offers tempting possibilities. Also in this section of the country the long season for growing pasture is a tremendous advantage in the production of cheap pork. The severe winters in other states act as a check to

For many years one has been accustomed to associate the mention of Texas with that of a state given up mainly to the propagation of longhorned cattle, wild of eye, gaunt of build, and a living menace to the hapless tenderfoot who chanced to stray into the midst of the untamed herds. But this was only the case in the beginning of things. The modern Texas presents quite a different aspect

The wonder working hand of old Father Time has wrought marvelous changes in the make-up of the Lone Star State. The exertions of the ambitious agriculturist have met with their just reward, and the Texas steer

Local and Long Distance Telephones No. 410

FORT WORTH, TEXAS

We have been engaged in handling Texas real estate for more than twenty years. We are personally acquainted in nearly all counties and neighborhoods of Texas; we know the character of the land, to what it is beat suited, its value, relative conditions of different sections of Texas. We are acquainted with owners of desirable lands in most counties; we know what are not good investments. All of our business is handled on a commission basis, hence in dealing through us buyers get the benefit of the owner's lowest prices, besides an opportunity to choose from a selected list of best bargains.

OUR BUSINESS

Is Conducted Under Three Separate and Distinct Heads or Departments:

The City department confined exclusively to Fort Worth City and Suburban Properties, well equipped with offices, block books, maps, files, etc., with efficient, active, reliable salesmen, good = teams. No trouble to show properties, a pleasure to answer inquiries. We sell residences from $500 to $50,000 in value; vacant residence lots $100 to $5,000 in value; acreage and suburban properties for homes and investments, as well as all classes of improved and unimproved business properties in Fort Worth.

The Farm department is also well organized and thoroughly systematized. We never enter a farm for sale until after we have personally inspected it, and only then in case we believe it to be de-= sirable and worth the price at which offered. Our list embraces nearly 300 selected, choice farms, ranging in size from 40 acres up and in prices from $10 per acre up. We can meet any reasonable demand and can save buyers money. Write what you want and let us send you descriptions of our best bargains to correspond with your requirements.

The Ranch department includes West Texas lands, improved stock ranches, large and small bodies of western lands for investment, large tracts of land suitable for colonies, etc., etc. There is hardly = a county in West or Northwest Texas with which we are not personally well acquainted. We know the lands, know what tracts are for sale, know prices asked, know the values, know the owners and in making up our sales lists we are always able to control the best lands and to get them at LOWEST possible prices. As we sell for owners' prices, buyers will (and do) save money by dealing through us. We have sold nearly two million dollars' worth of western land within the last twelve months. If in the market to buy any quantity of western land, from 640 to 100,000 acres, it WILL PAY YOU to communicate with us.

A Few Special Bargains in Each Department

are described below. These are sure sellers. They are selected and advertised here because we know them to be real bargains. But remember, these are only a "few"—there are others. If we have not advertised the KIND or VALUE of property you want, then see us, or write to us, or phone. It is, at least, worth your while to ascertain what we can offer.

And Remember, Too,

that all titles are guaranteed. We furnish with every sale a certified abstract and allow you plenty of time to have the title examined by an attorney before asking you to pay for the property

City Property

GALVESTON AVENUE, cottage of 5 rooms, new and in excellent condition, well built and well arranged, barn, wood and coal shed, etc., water and sewer connections. Price $2,250. Will accept $250 cash and give easy terms on balance.

CORNER ON JENNINGS AVENUE, lot 67x100 feet, 7-room dwelling. in excellent condition, beautiful grounds, with lawn, shade trees, flowers and shrubbery, barn and other outbuildings; can sell on easy terms. Price $3,800.

BRICK COTTAGE, on Hemphill street, new, throughly modern and strictly up-to-date in all particulars. It is useless to undertake description. You must see the property. The lot is one of those large, deep lots, 80x200 feet. This is a home that will give perfect satisfaction. It can be bought for $6,500. We want you to see it. Call or phone us. NEW AND NEAT, 5-room cottage, one block east of Hemphill car line on lot 50x104 feet, water connections, electric lights, gas on street and sewer in alley (not connected). This is a modern style attractive home. There is a stable, buggy shed, etc. Price only $1,700.

NEW, MODERN, CHEAP, and in location desirable, applies to a 5room cottage on Fairmount Hill, two blocks from street car line, east front, deep lot. This is one of the most complete and satisfactory cottage homes in the city, five large rooms, reception hall, bath, screened porch in rear, mantel and grate, stationary wash basin, water, sewer and electric light connections. Price $2,250.

ON LIPSCOMB STREET, fronting east, we have for sale one of the prettiest and most desirable cottage homes in the city. It's a beauty modern in construction, artistic in finish and convenient in arrangement. It's new. The dwelling has five large rooms, bath room with first-class fixtures. Space upstairs for two rooms, screened porch in rear, excellent barn and woodshed. The rooms in dwelling have large closets, flues are built from the ground up, house is wired for electric lights, has water and sewer connections. We will take pride in showing this property. It will please the most fastidious. Price only $2,650. AND WE NOW WANT TO TELL YOU of an opportunity to make an investment where every possibility of loss is eliminated and where there is reasonable assurance of big profits and quick results. FAIR-MOUNT HILL is recognized as one of the very best residence sections in Fort Worth. Lots 50x140 feet, well located, are usually sold at prices of from $800 to $1,000 each; values are constantly appreciating. We have about a dozen of the best lots on Fairmount Hill, all belonging to one man. This man is COMPELLED TO SELL. He is compelled to sell quick. We are instructed to sell this week, regardless of price. We have a splendid conveyance and plenty of time to show you the lots. The only question is, can you raise $3,000 cash quick, and will you consider an investment if we can convince you that there is big money in it? If you answer this question in the affirmative, the next step is to call on us or phone us.

"A THING OF BEAUTY" combined with excellence of material and workmanship, perfection in the conveniences of its arrangement, artistic in finish, and in all respects guaranteed to be "a joy forever" to its fortunate owner, is a model, modern and brand new home on Fairmount Hill. People who are fastidious, critical and hard to please, ought to see this place. It is beyond all doubt A BEAUTIFUL HOME. The location is a corner on two of the best streets. The lot has a depth of 140 feet, giving plenty of room for the barn, buggy shed and other outhouses in rear. The lot is enclosed with first-class fence. The dwelling is just being completed, has six large rooms, broad porches on front, side and rear, beautiful tiled hearths and elegant mantels, china closets with mirrors at sides and rear, bath room and complete fixtures, in fact one MUST SEE the place to get a fair idea of it. It won't require much of your time to look. Let us call for you and show you this elegant home. You have only to phone and our number is 410.

At her Present Rate of Increase, Fort Worth will be a city of 100,000 by 1910, and will have a population of 200,000 by 1920. This is no mere idle speculation, but based upon actual experience of her past history, as shown by the following incontrovertible figures:

Marvelous Increase in Value

Within the last few years bank clearings and postoffice receipts have grown 100 to 1,000 per cent. A great deal of property, which five years ago could be bought for $2 per front foot, is now selling at $20 to $30 per front foot. Figures show that 5,000 houses have been built within the last five years, 200 of them within the past year. This means a square mile of new houses every year, and yet rents are as high as ever and the building permits swell in volume month after month.

Just Beginning to Grow

The same factors that have made Fort Worth a city of 61,000 already are increasing ber growth all the time and will swell in proportion as the years go on, and give a greater impetus than ever to the rise in real estate values. Those who get in now with their investments will reap the benefit of this flood-tide of wealth, such as was never dreamed of before in this country. No property in the city is in position to receive as much benefit from this marvelous growth and prosperity of the city as our Arlington Heights suburb.

It is in the very center of the section which must necessarily be the highest class residence property in the city. High, beautiful, accessible by street car and boulevard, perfectly graded and graveled streets, with numerous homes already built and building; it is the only first class, highly improved subdivision left around Fort Worth which can be bought for less than twice the prices we offer. It is sure to double in value in a few years. Prices and terms are within the reach of all, but the opportunity will soon pass.
