Magnificent Ovation Tendered Nebraskan in St. Louis

Avoids Discussion of Railroad Ownership and Attacks Republican Record

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.-William J. Bryan received in St. Louis yesterday the greatest of all the ovations which Missouri Democrats have tendered him in the last ten years. Fifteen thousand persons packed the vast auditorium of the Coliseum at 8 o'clock and as many thousands clamored vainly outside for admission. It was a sweltering, perspiring mass of humanity, but neither the jam nor the heat nor the manifold discomforts thusiasm for the great commoner, returned once more to his own estate

When Mr. Bryan appeared the great audience broke forth into cheers that even his magnetic hand was powerless to still. For full fifteen minutes the tumult continued, 15,000 throats, 30,000 hands and 10,000 flags affording such a demonstration as the great Nebraskan has seldom received. National Committeeman William A Rothwell essayed in vain to make an introductory address. The cries of "Bryan! Bryan!" drowned his voice.

"The Democratic platform declared for railroad rate revision," said Mr. Bryan, "and a Republican President owes what popularity he has to his willingness to follow Democratic doctrine. If a Republican President can attain such popularity by adherence to Democratic policy part of the time, what would be the popularity of a Democratic all the time?"

Mum on Railroads

Many of Mr. Bryan's auditors were disappointed that he did not express his views on government ownership of railroads.

Mr. Bryan intimated that he would have something to say on this subject later on, but said that for the present he deemed it sufficient to say that the Republican President of the United States owes what popularity he has to following a plank in the Democratic platform, "which I wrote myself."

Mr. Bryan attacked the Republican record on the trusts and the labor questions. He counseled the laboring men that they could not expect to get from Republicans after an election the legislation they failed to get before

He declared that the Republican Philippine policy has cost the country enough money to build the Panama canal or to irrigate all the arid lands of the west or to construct a highway from New York to San Francisco that would forever settle the matter of railroad regulation.

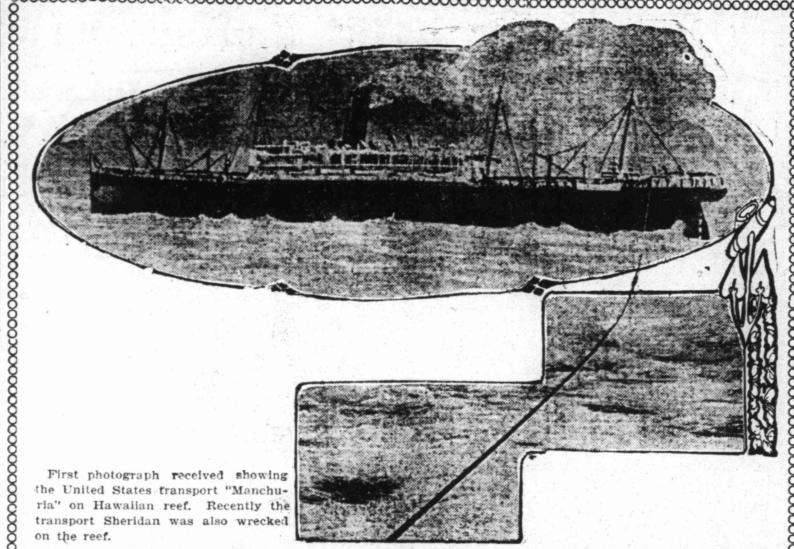

Mr. Bryan was frequently interrupted by applause that would not be stilled. He was a bit hoarse from his three extemporaneous speeches of the day, one at the Missouri Pacific immigration bureau agents' convention. another at the Merchants' Exchange and a third at the Jefferson club this afternoon, but he was compelled to address a monster overflow meeting in front of the music hall after the Ovations All Day If there had been any doubt as to Bryan's popularity in St. Louis it must have been dissipated, for from the time he arrived at the union station at 7:30 till the time he retired, his appearance in St. Louis was one prolonged ovation. Mr. Bryan was followed from place to place by a cheering, howling crowd, which formed an informal procession and cheered him as he passed through the most strenuous day he has spent since his return to America. At the Merchants'Exchange and in his address before the immigration agents he stated that he had been unjustly accused of being antagonistic to business interests. He said that he had no objections to railroads so long as they did not seek to oppress the people, and that the railroads themselves are responsible for the fact that the people have acquired the "notion that the railroads own the government." Governor Folk and State Chairman Evans were the only prominent Democrats in Missouri who did not participate in the Bryan reception. Mr. Bryan deprecated the idea that there is a feud between Senator Stone and Governor Folk, and smiled at the intimation that he and Folk are no longer in sympathy.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 12 .- The hearing in the ouster proceedings of the state of Missouri against the Waters-Pierce, the Standard Oil and the Republic Oil companies was resumed yesterday. H. Attorney General Hadley stated that he desired to complete the taking of testimony in behalf of

In his cross-examination by Attorney General Hadley, H. Clay Pierce explained what he termed the virulent usurpation of authority in the Waters-Pierce company, of which he was president, by R. P. Tinsley, who had been sent here by H. M. Tilford of the Standard Oil company to assume the duties of auditor. Pierce declared that Tinsley discharged 200 employes of the Waters-Pierce company and filled their places with Standard men. In numerous places, he asserted, the employes substituted by Tinsley were incompetent. "He became so virulent," asserted Pierce, "that his refusal to obey instructions annoyed President Finlay to the extent of breaking down his health and forcing him to go to Europe to recuperate."

Q.-When did you make your protest against Tinsley? A .- I made the protest, I think, in the months of April, May and June, Q .- After the commencement of this

A .- I believe so. I do not recall the date of the suit.

Q.-Let us call your attention to your testimony yesterday, when you made this statement: "In the spring of 1904 the Standard Oil company made no attempt to interfere in any way with my management and control of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, but at that time they transferred the stock which had stood in my name to M. M. Van Buren and began in other ways to assume control of the affairs of the company. I protested against this conduct, but this protest was not made until the year after." Now was that the year after the spring of 1904? A .- There is nothing in the statement that shows the protest was made in 1904. The stock was transferred in the month of June, 1904, I think. Attorney General Hadley caused Mr. Pierce considerable annoyance by asking him who wrote the typewritten statement he read at the hearing yesterday concerning the Waters-Pierce Oil company agreement with the Standard Oil company in Texas, resulting from negotiations constructed by an inexperienced agent. Mr. Pierce re-

Mayor Harris Denies Fake Dispatch to Northern Press

DEMANDS AN APOLOGY

Editor of Michigan Masonic Weekly Makes Bitter and Unjustified Attack on Panther City

A press dispatch with a Fort Worth date line, was in July sent out from this city giving as facts a tissue of misstatements of the alleged torture of Monk Gibson, to induce him to confess complicity in the Conditt family murders at Edna. Texas.

The dispatch was used by several papers, with flaring headlines, and was then copied into a Masonic paper, the Tyler-Keystone, published at Ann Arbor, Mich., and made the text for an editorial diatribe against the Masons of Texas and Fort Worth in particular, and the state and city for a lack of civilization and other failings. Mayor Harris wrote to the editor of the Tyler-Keystone on the subject and the letter of reply, briefly summed up is that he needed a text for a sermon on the failure of Masons to do their duty when such things were possible in a city where Masons dwelt.

The editor of the Tyler-Keystone assumes that the story of the revolting cruelties heaped on Monk Gibson is true, because they were printed. Some of the statements in the dispatch are that officers, their feet armed with great Texas spurs, jumped on the boy until he begged for mercy; that he was lashed until the blood was cut from his body; that he was then well fed, until restored to health, and tortured again; that Captain McDonald's rangers rescued him from a "mob" and then the rangers were chased by the "mob" until they, the rangers, were safe in jail; (the idea of a "south Texas mob" chasing Captain Wm. McDonald and his rangers); that the tortures were continued by the rangers until the mother of the "boy," who was confined in the same jail, was driven insane by the agonized screams of the "tortured article and especially in making the You say that it may be a hobby of ours that Masons are not doing their full duty. You also say "we have written much on this subject and when we read the startling news from your city we found in it just such a forcible argument as we needed." etc. Further on you say you would be delighted if I could show you that the whole story was a fabrication and also say "indeed we would not have used it at all had it not served so well to point our argument." Allow me to say that it is most unfortunate and a sign you ought to ride some other hobby awhile; that you have written so much upon one theme in the past and become so zealously set in your purpose to find something to enforce your argument that you will blindly and recklessly assail the fair name of a distant city and reflect upon its public officials. I mean by this statement to assert that you have blindly and recklessly cast reflections upon the name of the city of Fort Worth and its public officials. After printing an article which you say was Fort Worth press dispatch, you say "and Fort Worth claims to be a civilized-even a Christian-community. what a grim jest. There Justice has sheathed her sword and cast away her scales. Foul vampires defile her abode and besmirch the fair name of a mighty state. And yet Fort Worth is a dwelling place of Masonry." You also then proceed to ask has Masonry "done nothing all these years to make Fort Worth a city to be honored and respected by decent men?" And continuing you say, "Show us only something tangible, useful, of real value in the life of this disgraced city, in the character of her officials. Show us how Masonry has ennobled Fort Worth. Show us how she has made the citizens of that city high-minded, honorable, charitable citizens." Now, my dear sic, let me ask, if all which is asserted in the sensational article quoted by you were in fact true, then, wherein and how would you hold Fort Worth responsible for any part of it? Are you not aware of the fact that the place where it is claimed Monk Gibson committed crime and the place where he was arrested and imprisoned and tried is 300 miles from Fort Worth? If you are not aware of it, you are inexcusable for not knowing it. 12-year-old school boy by consulting his geography could have informed you. How would you like for Ann Arbor to be held responsible for all of the crimes and outrages, real or alleged, which have been perpetrated within 300 miles of her city limits? Waere would be the reason or justice in so holding Ann Arbor responsible? I cannot accuse you of being ignorant of the location of the place where it is alleged Monk Gibson offended and was mistreated and the location of Fort Worth, nor of the distance between the two places. It is not for me to say either how much of your want of care in this matter is due solely to sectional prejudice. You deny that sectional prejudice influenced you. I hope it did not. But you have had a hobby, and you needed an argument, and you in effect shut your eyes to the fact that Fort Worth is 300 miles from Edna, Texas, and proceed to write. In another part of your explanations you say "We would like to believe that the entire story was fabricated, had absolutely no foundation in fact, but that is unbelievable. In any event our argument would be the same," etc. Well this looks like a confession that you had to make an argument. Now as to how far short Masonry is failing of doing its full duty I do not know. I am sure, however, that the fraternity has never reached the point where it will excuse any one assuming to be an editor in shutting his eyes to the facts as you have done in your article. As to how far the officials who were responsible for the treatment Monk Gibson received exceeded their legal authority I do not know. That the article copied by you was much overdrawn I I am quite sure is true. It is my be-

You need to stir around more. Possibly one reason you get communications from the south of the sensational character you do is because it is well known that you seize upon and enjoy and gulp down all such sensational things with such blind indifference. Those who write are tempted, no doubt, to give you what they feel you want and often color their statements to suit your taste. I think you should explain to your readers just how careless you were in yours of the 20th ult. Tell them that you failed to mention that Fort Worth is 300 miles away from the scene of the Monk Gibson affair. Tell them that Fort Worth and Fort Worth officials had no connection with it-no jurisdiction over it and were in no manner responsible for any cruelty if any was inflicted. RANCH SELLS FOR $265,000

W. H. Godair, Pioneer Cattleman, Closing Out

MERCHANTS BUY IT

Big Tract Goes to Dublin Merchants at $5 an Acre—6,000 Cattle to Be Sold

News of one of the biggest ranch deals this year was confirmed for The Telegram Tuesday by W. H. Godair, a pioneer cattleman of West Texas, who stated that he had sold his entire holdings of 53,000 acres in Dawson county, about forty miles northwest of Big Springs, to Higginbotham Brothers. merchants of Dublin, Texas, at $5 an acre, making a deal involving $265,000. Mr. Godair also announced he will sell his 6,000 cattle on the ranch as soon as possible and expects to realize $100,-000 more for them. The sale of the Godair ranch is taken to indicate that the big tract, located in the heart of a fertile plains country, will be put on the market for settlers. although this is not confirmed by the Higginbothams. The location and character of the land make it excellent for Came to Texas 25 Years Ago

W. H. Godair was among the early men who, realizing the coming possipilities of West Texas, came, saw and bought some of the Texas soil a quarter of a century ago and with steadfast faith has held on to it up to within a few days ago. To a Telegram reporter Tuesday he

"Yes, I have sold out my land holdings in Dawson county. "I came to Texas from Chicago some wenty-five years ago and invested in a ranch and cattle. At first it was called the Chicago and Texas Company, and the little town and postoffice that has grown up around the headquarters of the ranch was called Chicago, but since then the name has been changed and it is now known as Lamesa, and has grown to be a town of some 500 inhabitants with stores and shops. The ranch property consisted "On the ranch are 6,000 head of cat-of about fifty-three thousand acres. tle, all good grades on the range coun-By the sale just completed my lands go to Higginbotham Brothers of Dublin, Texas, the big merchants, and they paid me $5 per acre for it. They propose, I suppose, to cut it up and sell it to farmers and thus secure another trade center for their increasing business. There are numerous farms now in that section of the state, and as the land is fine for cultivation there will be no failure to settle it up with a good class of agriculturists. If the conditions continue as they are now for another year or two this sale may be called below the market prices of such properties out there, but should there come a dry year then my sale is a good one.

To Go Out of Business "I intend to sell my cattle as soon as possible and think I should get something like $100,000 for them, as they are good stuff and fat. As soon as I get rid of my cattle I shall give up the cattle raising business and confine myself to other business that does not require so much of a man's time going and coming. The country out in Dawson was never in better shape since I have been out there and there is no doubt that the range will go into the winter in good shape. A few years and that will be another of the garden spots of Texas and will be settled with a contented lot of American farmers and churches and schools will then show their civilizing features in every valley and on the hilltops, where but a short time ago there was nothing to be seen but waving acres of grass and wandering herds of cattle. The change is truly wonderful, and it is hard to realize, but the day of the ranchman has come and gone, never to return, and the man with the hoe has assumed his place in the economic shaping of the destiny of this great

Miss Beulah Hudgins Asks $10,000 Damages

SHOT ON A CAR

Rosen Heights Railway Company Is Named as Co-Defendant in Action

Miss Beulah Hudgins of Fort Worth, who was accidentally shot while on a Rosen Heights street car on the night of Aug. 11 by Sheriff Seth Dinwiddle of Red River county, hasa filed suit against Dinwiddle and the Rosen Heights Street Railroad Company to recover $10,000 damages.

The petition in the case alleges that on Aug. 11, 1906, Miss Hudgins was a passenger on a Rosen Heights car and that Dinwiddie was also a passenger on the same car; that Dinwiddie became involved in a difficulty with another passenger and began beating him over the head with a pistol; that the pistol was discharged, the ball entering Miss Hudgins' back, coming out the front of her body.

The accident on which this suit is based grew out of an attempt by Sheriff Dinwiddie to compel a negro to vacate a seat he was occupying in the car in order that a woman who was standing up could sit down. The negro refused to give up his seat to the woman and in the difficulty that ensued Sheriff Dinwiddie's pistol was discharged, the bullet striking Miss Hudgins.

Miss Hudgins makes the Rosen Street Railway Company a party defendant to the suit on the alleged grounds that it was the legal duty of the company to protect her while she was a passenger on the company's

New York Firm Issues Comprehensive Summary

A comprehensive review of the last cotton year and the outlook for the growing crop and prices has just been issued by Latham Alexander & Co. of New York. It is as follows: "Following the largest crop of cotton the new year opened on Sept, 1 with large stocks in the hands of producers, as well as in the markets of the world, and spinners' wants well supplied. "Spot cotton in New York was selling at 10.95c, and the months for future delivery averaging about 10.75c per pound. The outlook for business was promising and the impression prevalent that prices would not be greatly depressed, because estimates of the growing crop were small, ranging from 9,500,000 to 11,250,000 bales. Such a crop, together with surplus carried over, was generally believed would be necessary to comfortably meet the re-

"Notwithstanding the estimates were small and the season unfavorable for growing cotton, during the week ending Oct. 14 the price of middling uplands in New York, on account of large stocks and heavy receipts, declined to 9.85c; from this point it soon reacted, and did not fall so low again until near the end of the cotton year, when it declined to 9.80 on August 29. "Adverse reports of the crop and small estimates during November caused activity in the market and a material advance in prices ensued. March contracts selling on Nov. 4 to 10.40c and advanced to near 12c by the latter part of that month after wide

"During the greater part of December the demand was good and prices continued firm, May contracts advancing to 12.55c, just previous to the Christmas holidays. "For several months after the new prices were well maintained and the crop was marketed freely, although during this period crop estimates were increased and other influences were not so favorable for the holders of "The money stringency in New York in the spring, political complications in Russia and the favorable planting of a new crop, with an increased acreage had but little effect on prices, for the demand continued good and middling uplands were selling as high as 11c the latter part of June.

"August proved to be the most eventful month of the cotton year. During the spring and summer a large amount of cotton had been bought by operators in this city and elsewhere, upon the belief that prices were too low, and that the acreage and condition of the new crop did not justify the belief in a large yield.

"This cotton was confidently carried through all the vicissitudes of the market until about Aug. 3, when continued favorable reports of the growing crop and heavy sales of contracts, principally for southern account, provoked its liquidation. December contracts which were selling at 10.35 on Aug. 3 declined to 8.90g on Aug. 29, with but slight reactions-this was the lowest price touched for the month during the cotton year. 'At the end of the cotton year Aug. 31 middling uplands in New York were quoted at 9.80c and December contracts at 9.01c. Crop Exceeded Estimates

"The total crop of the United States for the year was 11,345,988 bales and exceeded the most conservative estimates. This may mainly be accounted for by the receipt of some 350,000 bales of old cotton from the unprecedented yield of the previous year, when the acreage was the largest ever known and the season the most continuously favorable one. "Reference to weekly fluctuations will show that the average price of May contracts was above 11c, and as prices for this month practically cover the marketing season it will be seen the southern planter had received remunerative prices for the entire crop. "Foreign and domestic spinners had taken 11,588,154 bales from the total supply of last season. This was a record absorption, if we except the phenomenal takings of American cotton the previous year, when they amounted to 13,464,439 bales. "The department of commerce has the following to say touching our ex-"'Cotton is king in the export record of the United States for the fiscal year just ended. 'The total value of raw cotton exported for the first time crossed the $400,000,000 line and exceeded by far the value of any other article of merchandise sent out of this country. The exports of breadstuffs of all kinds reached $186,000,000, those of provisions $211,000,000 and those of iron and steel manufacture $161,000,000. "'Cotton exports during the last five years have increased very rapidly. It was not until 1901 that it crossed the $300,000,000 line and in the five years it has grown to more than $400,000,000, or an increase of about 33 per cent. This growth is due in part to an increase in the quantity exported, but in part also to the advance in price since the quantity exported in 1906 was about 700,000,000 pounds less than in 1905, while the value was $21,000,000 more than in 1905.

"Exp rtations of manufactured cotton were also greater in 1906 than in any earlier year, amounting to $53,-000,000 against $50,000,000 in 1905 and $22,500,000 in 1904. The growth in exports of manufactured cotton has been quite as striking as that of the raw material. "'Europe is, of ocurse, the principal customer for raw cotton. The United Kingdom took last year $177,-000,000 worth. Germany $101,000,000, France $45,000,000 and Italy about $27,-000,000, while the other countries of Europe took $32,000,000 worth. Japan is also a customer for our raw cotton, but very irregular in the quantity bought, since it only buys largely of American cotton when prices are low, relying upon India and China in years when American prices are high. The value of cotton exported to Japan in the fiscal year of 1906 was in round terms $8,000,000. In 1905 $17,000,000, and in 1904 less than $3,000,000.

"'In manufactured cottons China by far our greatest customer. The total value of all cotton manufactures exported in the fiscal year 1906 was $53,000,000 in round terms, of which about $30,000,000 went to China. Practically all of the cotton goods sent to China was in the form of cloth. The total value of cotton cloth exported to China in the year being $29,641,188, and of other cotton goods $172,867." The Year's Increase

"We sum up the year's business in cotton as follows: Total cotton crop of United States 1905-06.11,345,988 bales Estimated value of total crop$600,000,000

"This certainly is a favorable exhibit of the cotton industry for the year in the United States. Outlook for the Growing Crop

"In summing up the conditions of the growing crop it may be said that they are at this date very favorable for a satisfactory yield. It must be taken into consideration, however, that it is yet two months before a large part of the crop can mature and be assured; hence, it is pure guess work to count upon the number of bales of cotton to be secured and predicate prices upon such an estimate.

"There are always elements of uncertainty about the outcome of a cotton crop until it has been harvested. Only two years ago the great spinning interest of the world manifested great alarm that the supply of raw cotton at reasonable prices would continue inadequate to meet their wants comfortably, and they sought to find new sources of supply other than the United States to overcome the deficiency-thus far, we believe, without success. Today the same element seems apprehensive that an oversupply of the raw material might result from the present growing crop, and this delusion has depressed prices nearly two cents per pound. "The production of cotton now is far more expensive than ten years ago; erhaps 11/2c per pound have been dded to the planters' expenses, by increased land, mules, plantation utensils, supplies and particularly labor, hich is scarce and high priced in all sections of the southern states. "In round figures the last two crops of American cotton have amounted to 25,000,000 bales, and were sold in the markets of the world for some $1,200 -000.000.

"This enormous supply of cotton was eagerly purchased and went into consumption at highly satisfactory prices to the most sanguine producers, and we are encouraged to believe that even a larger proportionate consumption may be confidently expected during the ensuing year. "The spinning capacity of the world

been increasing at an enormous rate for several years either by the erection of mills or the application of improved machinery to old ones. "Our advices are that the stocks of raw material in the hands of manufacturers are in very moderate supply, and many mills are under contract far into the future for their entire output; hence, there is likely to be an active demand for the new crop.

"Universal prosperity everywhere seems assure for some time to comein the United States particularly business conditions were never more favorable for large consumption of cotton goods. Labor is not only fully employed at high wages, but scarce. Crops of all descriptions are bountiful, and the great consuming masses of the people will have the capacity to buy cotton goods liberally. "In view of the foregoing, it seems to us that continued prosperity may be expected in all branches of the cotton trade for a long time to come and that present low prices have already discounted a very large crop not yet assured."

YOUTH, ANGRY, ENDS HIS LIFE

Claud Preston, Aged 22, Drinks Acid at Home

Claud Preston, aged 22 years, died at his home, 212 East Hattie street, at 6:30 Tuesday afternoon, from carbolic acid poison, taken with suicidal intent. The only cause known as to why he should have taken his life was an ungovernable temper. About 5 o'clock Preston returned to his home from a gravel pit, where he had been working with his stepfather, A. Schultze, and he appeared to be in a bad humor, conducting himself in a violent manner in the house in the presence of his mother, who protested and endeavored to quiet the young man. She did not succeed, and Preston left the house, returning shortly afterward, with a bottle of carbolic acid, which he exhibited and said he intended to kill himself. No attention was paid the threat by his mother, as she did not believe he meant what he said; but shortly afterward, hearing a noise in an adjoining room she entered it and found the young man in the throes of death. He died before medical assistance could reach him. Justice Rowland held an inquest on the body and rendered a verdict that death resulted from carbolic acid poisoning, self administered, as a result of intoxication.

Young Preston was raised near, or at, Big Springs, Texas.

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE

Under this head the Boston Sunday Herald of Sept. 2 revises the position of William J. Bryan on the matter of the government ownership of railroads. The editorial of the Herald is instructive, in that it sets forth how impossible it is for a candidate to make a platform issue for a campaign when the people make another. It is a very ably written argument and well worth serious consideration by the reader. The Her-

In his speech at New York Mr. Bryan said that "at present the paramount issue in the minds of the people is the trust issue." The comments and criticisms upon this speech by the leading men and journals of his own party, as well as the republicans, are confined almost entirely to what he said as to government and state ownership of the railroads. And the tenor of these comments must convince Mr. Bryan that he was quite justified in his doubt whether a majority of the people, or of the democratic party, are ready to espouse this doctrine. No democratic newspaper or leader of standing and influence has accepted his dictum on this question. Inasmuch as Mr. Bryan expressly presented this as his individual view, and did not assume to commit his party to it, nor advocate its immediate adoption, but only as "the ultimate solution" of the problem, it has seemed to us scarcely fair to single this out as the real "keynote" of his speech.

Yet Mr. Bryan has had the instruction once before that the people decide for themselves what issue they shall accept and pass upon as "paramount." The national democratic convention in 1900 declared that "the burning issue of imperialism is the paramount issue of the campaign." But the voters did not so regard it. The question of imperialism was so overshadowed as almost to be lost sight of in that campaign. The "paramount issue" was created by Mr. Bryan's fatuous obstinacy in making his candidacy depend upon the adoption by the national convention of a plank declaring: "We reaffirm and indorse the principles of the democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1896, and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system, and as a part of that system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1. without waiting for the consent of any other nation." This resolution rendered nugatory all the other planks of the platform, several of them sound and pertinent. And it was upon this issue of an honest and stable currency that Mr. Bryan was for the second time defeated as a Presidential candidate by an increased popular and electoral majority.

And so now, although the great majority of the democratic party and a considerable number of the independent republicans approve of what Mr. Bryan said as to international arbitration, Philippine Independence, campaign contributions, opposition to trusts and monopolies, tariff reform, the election of senators by direct vote and an earlier meeting each new congress, all of these would be relegated to the background should he be the nominee of his party for President, and the issue which he has raised of the national and state ownership and management of the railroads of the country should be embodied in the platform. This would, under these conditions, as surely be the "paramount issue" in 1908 as free silver was in 1896 and

Governor Folk who professes great admiration for Mr. Bryan, says "he is a most sincere man," and though "he might not insist on the embodiment of every one of the ideas expressed by him Thursday night in the democratic platform, those who know him realize that he voiced his opinion of what the platform ought to be, and that he would insist that the principal planks, including the government ownership of railroads, the abolition of trusts and tariff reform be written into it." Mr. Bryan's course in insisting upon the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform in 1900, and the statement in his Madison Square speech that "my theory is that no man can call a mass convention to decide what he himself shall think," and that he has "reached the conclusion that there will be no permanent relief en the railroad question until the railroads are the property of the government in the interests of the people," tend to support Governor Folk's opinion. Yet, ter all, the southern democrats opposed to this policy, for reasons of their own, and the most prominent democrats of the north and east against it for very different, but equally conclusive reasons, it is difficult to see how Mr. Bryan is to force it upon his party. It is peculiarly the property of Mr. Hearst as a political | Feople.

issue, and the democratic party is not likely to join in an attempt to deprive him of it. Should Mr. Bryan insist upon it as the condition of his candidacy, the party might, and most probably would, seek another candidate, in spite of the present furor in his behalf.

and the property of the second and the property of the propert

It must not be forgotten that the country is to have the benefit of two years of stringent Federal supervision of the railroads before their acquisition and management by the government can become an issue in the Presidential election. Should the new rate law prove as effective as its supporters anticipate in preventing rebates and discriminations and insuring fair freight tariffs the "hot air" would go out of this issue of government ownership as gas escapes from a punctured balloon. If, on the other hand, it shall be found that the law operates disastrously against the interests of many states and sections-New England, for example, as Senator Lodge expressed a foreboding that it might, and as many shippers believe that it willthe revulsion might work in the other direction, and the people be disposed to relegate the management of business to business men and business principles, and let the government attend to strictly governmental con-

But if the government ownership and management of more than 1,000 railroads, operating nearly 300,000 miles of tracks, with total assets of $15,000,000,000, gross earnings of nearly $2,000,000,000, and having more than 1,300,000 employes, shall really become an issue in the election, it is not difficult to foretell what would be the fate of the candidate and the party supporting it. It is indefensible politically, impossible financially and crazy as a business proposition. The American people have never yet taken the "plunge over Niagara" in a Presidential election, and we do not believe there is any danger that they ever will.

COLD IN THE EAST

It is a very chilly reception that William J. Bryan's government ownership of railways proposition has met with in the east. Not only are the republicans and independents fighting the Bryan proposition tooth and toe nail, but leading members of the democratic party are arraying themselves solidly against

And it seems peculiarly unfortunate that Colonel Fryan should have sprung this new issue just at the time he did. Never was there a more popular idol of the masses. State after state has swung into line and indorsed him as the next Presidential candidate of the great democratic party. Party leaders who had become estranged and wandered off after false gods had climbed back on the democratic bandwagon and were riding with Bryan to what they believed was certain victory. But, alas, for human hopes.

Just at the time when the prospect seemed the brightest and when every indication seemed to denote a democratic victory in the next Presidential campaign that would sweep from one end of the country to the other, the great Commoner puts a club in the hands of his enemies which they have quickly brought into action.

It would have been better for Colonel Bryan and the democratic party if there had been no reception and no speechmaking in New York. It would have been better to have let the Peerless One return unheralded and unsung and given him time to have sprung his new proposition upon party leaders in privacy, where a determined effort could have been made to keep it from being openly advocated. But this was not done, and while the expression is but an individualism of Colonel Bryan, the effect cannot but be disastrous to the great party of which he is the acknowledged leader. Following are some of the opinions expressed of the Bryan proposition in Boston, which may be regarded as typical of eastern sentiment:

Josiah Quincy, chairman of the state democratic committee: "Opinion on the merits of this momentous proposition and upon the political policy of bringing it forward at the present time will, of course, vary

"He could not claim that it is yet recognized as a party doctrine. His advocacy of the doctrine undoubtedly brings it within the sphere of practical discussion." Congressman John A. Sullivan: "I think that his advocacy of government ownership of railroads will be even by democratic newspapers throughout the coun-Boston Transcript: "He fears that unlimited ownership of the railroads would obliterate state lines, so he proposes a compromise, which is an exact measure of his lack of logic and his ignorance of economics."

Herald: "Unless the democratic party is desirous fiercely attacked by republicans, by independent and of another term of probation in the wilderness, it will refuse to take up this climax of centralization." Record: "It resembles the silver issue of 1896 and 1900. In some future welcome home from Australia or Patagonia he will return with bland gesture and drop it in the wastebasket."

DANGER IN CENTRALIZED GOVERNMENT

But Mr. Bryan, in calling attention to the danger in the railroad rate bill has emphasized the greater and graver danger of his proposed government ownership of railroads, which would vastly increase the army of government employes and, in the language of the Dallas News, would double over and over again the power of the administration in charge of them, and would so enlarge the present power that no incumbent of the high office would have to give up unless he preferred to do so.

"With the power the present administration possesses already," says the News, "Mr. Bryan has learned just how difficult it is to win the Presidency. If we had today the government ownership which Mr. Bryan approves, what man or party on the outside would stand any show at all?" Under a government entrenched with such power, perhaps, nothing short of a revolution could bring about a change of administration and a successful revolution against such a centralized power would be almost impossible. We seem to be getting deeper and deeper into the tolls as our new-fangled ideas of government take the place of the old-fashioned democracy which founded and has so long sustained the republic and may be after a while we will call a halt to get our second wind .- San Antonio Express.

And there is another feature of the situation that should not be lost sight of. It has been but a few years since every democratic newspaper and democratic politician in the country was engaged in denouncing the populist party, which grew so strong in the south and west as to constitute a positive menace to the democracy. Not only did the populists come in for generous and wholesale denunciation, but their peculiar doctrines were constantly held up to ridicule.

The government ownership of the railways is disfinctively a populist proposition, and utterly at variance with the democratic idea of a proper form of government. Democracy has steadily and persistently opposed every form of centralization as applied to this boasted free government of ours, and the democratic party will continue consistent to the end.

There is no necessity for government ownership of the railways. We have just succeeded in placing those great corporations under government regulation and control, and that is an experiment that is going to be watched with eager interest by millions of the American people. There are many who think the government has even exceeded its legitimate functions in the step already taken, and certainly at this time it behooves the great party of the people to stick as close to the old democratic moorings as possible.

The old democratic idea that the best government is that which governs least is just as applicable today as it was when first enunciated. The less government interference we have with the affairs of the people the better it will be both for the government and the Captain Joan T. Lytle, secretary and general manager of the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, has gone to his ranch in Mexico to recuperate, and will spend some time in that section. Captain Lytle has been in bad health for some time, the result of overwork and close application to the duties of his position, and his many friends unite in the hope that when cool weather comes he will be able to return home completely reinvigorated.

Senator Bailey, it is announced, will refrain from paying his respects to the Eryan idea of government ownership of the railways until after the congressional elections. And in the judgment of The Telegram, Colonel Bryan has seriously impaired democratic chances of success in those elections by his ill-timed suggestion. Certainly, his participation in the campaign under the circumstances will be of very doubtful benefit.

The Gould interests have two surveying parties in the field running a line for the proposed extension of the Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Northwestern railway into New Mexico. This road will come into Fort Worth over the tracks of the Texas and Pacific from Weatherford, and is going to prove an imtortant link in a great new transcontinental line.

The newspapers of the country are apparently dissatisfied with the magnitude of the revolution in progress down in Cuba, and are doing their level best to pull off a bigger event of the same kind in the republic of Mexico. But that man Diaz is something of an insurmountable obstacle to the spread of revolutionary doctrine in the sister republic.

Outside cattlemen are beginning to respond very liberally to the call of Fort Worth for assistance in the fat stock show enterprise, and it is believed the entire required subscription will soon be in sight,

Texas should roll up the biggest democratic vote in all her history in November. The nominees and platform are well worthy the fullest indorsement of the

One of the strongest arguments, it seems, against government ownership of railroads is the tremendous addition of power it would give to the government. There are evils connected with private ownership, it is true, but we believe in the doctrine of the development of waterways by the government as the safest and best means of fighting these evils.—Crowell

Government ownership is a proposition sprung by the populist party, and has always been repugnant to the cardinal principles of true democracy. The democracy of this nation has always opposed centralization and the building up of that form of govern-

The comptroller's department has received the tax olls of about 175 counties in the state, all of which, with one or two exceptions, shows a material natural increase in valuations over the previous year. From what has been received it is estimated that the increase in taxable values this year will be approximately $45,000,000 over last year. This will net the general revenue fund under the present ad valorem rate of 20 cents about $160,000. The increase last year was $57,-000,000, accordingly the natural wealth of the state has increased $122,000,000 in the past two years.-Austin

It will be a bad proposition for Texas to amend her onstitution, allowing $1,000 salary to legislators, unless before doing so the present number is cut down about half. The point is, if we pay more we must have a better quality.-Austin Tribune.

There is not much danger of the people of Texas coting to increase the salaries of members of the state egislature to $1,000 per annum. There is a very general belief among the people of this state that the average legislator already comes too high. * * * *

The Farmers' Union has decided on eleven cents as he minimum price for middling cotton. This means that thousands of farmers will refuse to sell their cotton for a less sum and only time can demonstrate the wisdom of such a course.-Waco Times-Herald.

What is the difference between fixing a minimum price for cotton and a minimum price for lumber, meat, flour or any other neecssity? In fixing the price of their cotton the farmers are apparently guilty of the act they are so prone to condemn in others.

If Tarrant and Dallas counties have that joint local option election on the day we vote for state officers. there is no doubt they will top the state in bringing out the full vote of each county. Under a convention system they would have strength in the next gathering of the democracy.-Houston Post.

Such an election will doubtless bring out every qualified voter in the two counties, and it will be a warm contest from start to finish.

* * * * It will be gratifying to the cattlemen of Texas to learn from Washington that the work of extermination of the cattle tick is progressing satisfactorily to the department of agriculture. This tick is supposed to be responsible for the splenetic fever among cattle and its extermination would mean much for the cattle interests.-San Antonio Express.

If the cattlemen of Texas co-operate with the Federal officials in the proper manner the tick question will soon lose much of its importance in Texas. The plan for wiping them out is entirely practical, as has been clearly proven by intelligent and careful experi-

The unfortunate trouble in the democratic ranks, and especially in the south, caused by the speech of Colonel Bryan on government ownership of railroads ought to be conclusive to him that he is on the wrong track, and that he ought to desist from pressing the matter if he expects to be the democratic nominee in 1908.—Denton News.

REWARD OUT

Fellow Countrymen Have Posted Money With Police

HAS DISAPPEARED

Highbinder Theory Is Scouted. But Reason for Woo Chang's Leaving Is Mysterious

A reward of $100 has been posted with the Fort Worth police by local Chinamen for information leading to the location of Woo Chang Taao, who disappeared from Fort Worth Sept. 2.

Woo Chang Taao was one of the most prominent and best liked Chinamen of Fort Worth. He was in good financial circumstances and was conducting a successful restaurant business at the San Antonio restaurant, on Main street, near Eleventh. Sunday the 2d instant, he disappeared and since then his fellow countrymen have not heard of him in any way.

The $100 is offered as a reward for any information which will lead to the discovery of his whereabouts. Some of the best known Chinamen here are in consultation with the poice department and together they are striving to solve the mystery of the disappearance. They think Woo is still in the state and that he has, for private reasons, gone from the city. The most careful investigation fails to disclose any financial difficulties, Woo Chang is about 35 or 40 years old and of medium height. For the local Chinese to raise a reward for any purpose is something unusual in local police records. It is taken to indicate they are completely baffled and have no means of learning what became of their countryman.

COUNCIL WANTS TO CLEAN UP

City Will Make Effort to Get Rid of Stagnant Water

The question of draining ponds of water that have stood in low places, pied attention during the major portion of the meeting of the North Fort Worth city council Tuesday night. Many recommendations were made, bringing much discussion for and against proposed plans and at various times discussion became acrimonious. Chief attention was given the alley in the center of the block between Main | teresting inquiry. and Lake streets and Central avenue and Twelfth. Some time ago it was proposed that ditches be cut from the pond to the streets. Upon hearing this many complaints have been filed with the street and alley committee. Tuesday night a letter from Miss Florence Colson, who is a property owner in this block was read, in which she recommended filling in the low lots and the low places in the alley, that the entire block might be above the danger line. A question of law brought up by this was: "Can the city compel property owners to improve their holdings even for the betterment of conditions in the city." And "Would the city be liable for damages if the alley were raised, thus throwing the water on the low lots?" It was finally referred to the city attorney and the street and alley committee, with power to pursue in their judgment the best course to improve the condition. It was reported that no action has been taken by Sam Rosen toward repairing the alley back of the Rosen Inn. This matter also was turned over to the attorney and street and alley committee with instructions to see that early repairs were made. Chairman Daniel of the police committee reported that a contract has been closed with Mr. Calloway to feed

all city prisoners for 162-3 cents a Sanitary Officer Clardy reported progress made by his department in pursuance of instructions to clean up the city, having stagnant water pools drained where possible. He stated that a number of property owners had expressed their willingness to co-operate in the movement and some effective steps are now certain. A petition was read from several property owners near Central avenue and Lincoln complaining of the poor condition of the street, resulting from recent heavy rains. The matter was referred to the street and alley committee with power to act. The need of new pipe and specials for the waterworks system was again brought up and the council voted the sum of $500 to be used by the chairman of the waterworks, purchasing and finance committees for the purhase of such necessary material The board of equalization made its last report to the council, showing a total valuation of $3,559,632 on the city's property. A new official map of the city was asked for by the city assessor and the city secretary was instructed to ascertain from City Engineer Hall if the tracings of the last official map have not been preserved. The secretary was instructed to secure a report from M. L. Waller, architect on the fall plans, announcing that the work has been completed according to speecifications. Upon a favorable report the secretary will issue warrants to J. E. Crain in payment of the contract building work. The waterworks committee asked that the secretary make a date with Mr. Blue of Fort Worth, at which time he will replaster intake well res-The city tax rate was fixed as follows: Advalorum, 50 cents; street, 15 cents; school, 35 cents. It was voted that the council meet at 7 p. m. instead of 8 o'clock from

"A Message From Mars"

The dramatic architecture of "A Message From Mars" reflects great credit upon its author, Richard Ganthony. Mr. Ganthony was before turning playwright a newspaper writer of recognized ability. "A Message From Mars" is his first play and it was a success from the beginning. All the scenes of the play, as was proven when the play was seen here two years ago, are worked out in a series of acts of infinite ingenuity. This play will be seen here at Greenwall's opera house Saturday, matinee and night, Sept. 15, at which time, David Proctor, about whom so much has been said and written during the past two years of his starring career, will make his first appearance here.

Big Tent Theater

Tonight at the Big Tent theater, corner Fifth, Taylor and Throckmorton, H. D. Rucker's famous Korak Wonder company will be seen in one of their strongest plays, "Brother Against Brother," a strong sensational melodrama in five acts. The play was written from facts, which happened in and about the great Portland prison in England. There is a good vein of comedy all through; one minute you cry. the next you laugh. Thursday night they will present the strongest Irisn play that was ever penned by an author, entitled "Kathleen Mayourneen." Friday night Charles Frohman's great "The Gambler's Wife," and Saturday night, "The Lost Mine."

USES DIAMOND TO STEAL KERCHIEFS

Fastidious Burglar Has Problem to Baffle Police

Here's a problem in criminology that gives opportunity for some amateur detective to display his skill and catch

A burglar who is prosperous enough to wear diamonds broke into a men's furnishing goods store in Main street between Tenth and Eleventh Tuesday night to steal some handkerchiefs.

He broke in through the back door, which, unlike most back doors, is partly of glass. That the burgiar wore diamonds is proven by the fact that a neat hole was cut in the glass, evidently large enough for the burglar to thrust his arm through and unbolt the crawl through, but the last suggestion is scouted as improbable.

After getting inside the store the burglar stole a few dainty handkerchiefs and then left. Aside from the proof, which to some people will be startling, that burglars at times really do use handkerchiefs, the robbery opens up a field for in-Why did the burglar want several handkerchiefs instead of just one, and why was he in such desperate need that he had to break into a store at the dead of night to get them?

Was he invited out to an evening party and after leaving his rooms did he discover that he had failed to tuck a bit of linen in one of his dress suit

Did he have hay fever?

Whether or not he stole monogram handkerchiefs, the police were not notified, and the chance for a clue in that direction is lost.

The owner of the handkerchiefs is not worrying particularly over their loss, but together with the police, he would like very much to know "Why?" And also "What for?"

MIAMI, TEX., GROWING

County Seat of Roberts County Thriving Town Special to The Telegram.

MIAMI, Texas, Sept. 10 .- Miami is located on the Southern Kansas railway that runs from Amarillo to Kansas city and is the county seat of Roberts county. It has been established for about twelve years, and while it is yet a small town, it is growing quite fast for a small village. There is one county east and one county north of Roberts to prevent it being a border county. The famous Canadian river runs through the county from west to east, and the small streams and draws that drain the country make considerable breaks and some canyons in the county. However, there is much land in the county that is plains land and is being successfully and vigorously farmed. There is a large lot of the ground, however, that is and will be used exclusively for pasturage on account of the roughness of its surface. as well as the plentitude of the water. Some native timber along the creeks, principally of cottonwood and elm. Miami itself is situated in Red Deer canyon, which the railroad traverses from Pampa, in Gray county, to Canadian City, where it empties in the Canadian river, the distance being about forty miles, and Miami being about half way and at the widest point along this stream, which is usually dry for more than half way. However, it is only a few miles on the south and north till one strikes the average plains. What is meant by average is that they are the same character of lands as are seen east of Amarillo. Miami has a population of about 600. It has a graded system of schools with four teachers and an enrollment of about 150. It has one bank, about half dozen mercantile establishments, one newspaper, one elevator and a mill and elevator combined and a pressed brick plant. There are four religious denominational organizations. There are three church buildings and a large membership in each. There are six different secret organizations with large membership in each. There are five cement or artificial stone buildings, two of which are two stories, and one very large brick store. Crops have been the best in this vicinity ever known, and the variety is large. Wheat has averaged about twenty bushels, corn about forty bushels and other crops in proportion.

TELEGRAM STORY HELPS GROCERS

Short Weights Cease When Practice Exposed

The meeting of the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association of Fort Worth, held Tuesday evening at the rooms of the association, was one of the most largely attended of any in the history of the association, and it was unusual, in the sense that some of the older members, even those who were among the starters of the organization, were present and bore testimony to the value the association had been to them. One of the speakers said there was scarcely a day that the information furnished by the secretary of the association was not of as much or even more value to him in the conduct of his business than his monthly dues amounted to. The necessary business was transacted and then the meeting was resolved into a social gathering for a number of visitors were present. The entertainment committee had provided a spread for the refreshment of those present, and about 10:20 o'clock the eating and smoking part began, and that and the chatting took up an hour or more, to the pleasure

Harry Adams of the special committee on the pedlers' ordinance, reported that a clause would probably be addeded to the sidewalk obstruction orlinance, which would most likely cover the case, and the committee was con-

Chairman Luther of the committee on wholesalers, advocated action that should bring the country and general produce men into the same relation with the association that was held by other grocery jobbers, for as the grocers handled all of the kind of stuff he could not see any reason why the same rules should not apply to the produce dealers as to others with whom they dealt, Mr. Harris of the Interstate Grocer of St. Louis, told of the fight his paper was making in favor of just weights and measures and gave many examples of shortages found by gauging, measuring, weighing or counting, naming the concerns which, he said, had packed and sold the goods short. D. B. Beverly, 705 Vickery boulevard; Wilmeth & Murray, South Jennings, and L. M. Whitsitt, Elizabeth street, were admitted as new members. This was followed by some brief talks on the grocery business, and methods of the present day, as contrasted with times but lately gone by. Among the more prominent were Messrs. A. S. Dingee, Gernsbacher. Harry Adams, Harris of St. Louis, Curtis of the Burrus mill, and others. Professor Bason of the Carter-Hunt Grocer Company gave an enjoyable recitation, the experiences of a Texan on his first visit to Chicago and the strange sights he saw there. The statement was made that one department store would, in the next few days, ship to Fort Worth seventeen carloads of catalogues from their mail order department for distribution out from here, one of the express companies having the contract to carry the packages to destination. The catalogues would come two or three carloads a week, and the firm had sent two men here already to supervise the distribution of the catalogues. Harry Palmer of the weights and measures committee, in telling of some of the experiences they had with short counts bore testimony to the aid given by The Telegram's reports of their meetings. Recently it was stated at one of the meetings that some of the produce men, handling fruits which came in boxes, as lemons, oranges, pears, the finer apples, etc., "ran" them and threw out the defective fruit, but age. That was reported in The Telegrain and it prompted one of the salesmen of one of the houses to take it as an imputation on the business

"The result is," said Mr. Palmer "and that publication helped a whole lot, that we have no more complaints about some of the houses, and we made a reclamation for shortage which was allowed and others of the members report a similar experience," said Mr.

From their experience much good advice was given the clerks present by members, and then, like one big family, the meeting gathered about the tables where was spread the refreshments, to enjoy the good things pro-

Even if mercury and potash could cure Contagious Blood Poison the condition in which these strong minerals leave the system would make the cure worse than the disease. But they cannot cure the vile disorder; they can only cover up the symptoms for awhile to break out with renewed vilence when the treatment is left off. When the virus of Contagious Blood Poison enters the blood the entire circulation becomes poisoned, and the loathsome symptoms begin to appear. The mouth and throat ulcerate, hair and eyebrows come out, glands of the neck and groin swell, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and in severe cases sores and ulcers break out, and even the bones become diseased. S. S. S. is the only certain, safe cure for Contagious Blood Poison; thousands have been cured by it after failing with the mineral treatment, Hot Springs, etc. It is the only remedy that is able to get at the root of the disease and force out the poison so that no signs are ever seen again. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made of roots, herbs and barks, and never leaves any bad effects, but instead, tones up the stomach and digestion and builds up every part of the system while removing the poison from the blood. GREAT TIMES IN PANHANDLE NOW

Crops Running Races to Make Records for Yield

Colonel Stuart Harrison, the wellknown breeder of Shorthorn cattle in Tarrant county, whose residence and farm are out Arlington Heights way, returned Monday from a trip up the Denver and was thus enabled to make the following report upon what he saw and heard:

"My trip took me as far north as Quanah and I visited in rotation the cities of Vernon, Iowa Park and Wichita Falls. I also made short trips into the country and had every opportunity to see conditions as they were and not from reports of others. That section is certainly in as fine condition as any in the United States and the people are simply happy and enjoying their pros-

The only thing, however, that I thought might be improved was the grass. The mesquite is at least twelve inches high and growing vigorously, but it is very sappy and getting stalky and unless warm weather comes and a cessation of rain it will be wiped out when frost catches it. The cattle look all right, but are not as fat as they should be, but are simply full of grass, and if shut away from food for twenty-four hours would show up badly. Of course this will end as soon as the grass has a chance to cure, and with a few warm dry days this will take place. Cotton is all right and will make a large yield. The flies are troubling the stock to some extent and causing

"I never in all my life saw such crops of forage as are to be found in the Panhandle country. Sorghum, kaffir, milo maize and others. It looks as if they had enough to last two or three years. There is no manner of doubt but that the country is safe up there this year. Apples? Why, I saw some as fine as I ever saw in my life, and also saw wagon after wagon on their way to some other place to sell their loads of apples. I went into the fields and looked at the crops and can say that nothing has been exaggerated in the accounts that have been heretofore sent out as to the general prosperity of the section of Texas known as the Panhandle. Land is selling fast and at a good price, and with such crops as a prospective home-seeker would see if he went there now there is no doubt on earth that he would return home, pack up and get all his neighbors to do likewise, for it would beat anything that he or any of his folk had ever

"Wichita Falls has every appearance of a big growth and a forward movement. This can be said, of course, of all the towns, but Wichita is far in the lead up to date. In addition to her other attractions the big lake that she has built for irrigation purposes gives her a marked lead. I enjoyed my trip you may be sure, and certainly will avail myself of the first opportunity to pay another visit."

IN BROWN COUNTY

F. T. Lacy Says Cotton Will Make Big

Frank T. Lacy came in with some cattle sent to market by a shipper, and was pleased to say: "Things are very good down in old Brown county and cotton will make a big crop. Of course there is more or less talk about worms, but the truth is that there will be more cotton than can well be picked, and along about Christmas time, when everybody is tired out and willing to quit, you will find that what I have said is the truth. Corn was cut short because at the time it needed rain it did not come, but there is plenty, think, to supply the home demand. Grass and cattle are in good fix, although grass is a little sappy, owing to so much rain. We certainly have had a superabundance this summer. but we ought not to kick, for there may be summers, as there have been in the past, that will make us long for any amount of rain. It is a pity, however, that some means could not be invented or discovered whereby the surplus which falls such as fell this year could be stored for future use. I suppose some day this will be done. I am not in position to say anything about what the prospects for feeding are. It depends upon how the feed

WORMS IN COTTON Some Damage Reported from Taylor

County "I am just in from the west," said Tom Coggins, "and left everything at home in Taylor county and at Merkel, my home, in excellent condition and people hopeful for the future. There is some talk of worms in the cotton, but then, farmers always talk of this more or less each year, but I do not think there is much the matter with the crop. It certainly looks fine and should from appearances make fine returns to the owners. The forage crops, of course, are simply immense and will make more than the country can possibly consume in one year. Cattle are re-ported doing well and lands are hold-ing their own in price and possibly a

F. Albert is a citizen of Gainesville, Cooke county, and came in with some marketable stuff Tuesday. "We are all right up our way, everything being good to the eye and makes the owners of things feel jubilant. I am an old settler in Cooke county and have never seen our affairs in much better shape than they are now. Cooke county used to be called a dry county and not fit for agricultural purposes, but now she is up among the best and is shouting too much rain. Corn is good and cotton, too, as far as I can learn, and grass and cattle better than ever."

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Sept. 12.-Speculators have been likened unto a flock of geese which places implicit confidence in one of the number and follows him blindiy until some catastrophe overtakes him and his course is reversed. The comparison is not a bad one, for the master spirits which operate on the stock exchange have long been famous for their versatility and happy knack of attracting adherents to their immediate cause, whatever it may be.

One of those sudden changes in the trend of speculation which are matters of such frequent occurrence took place turing the early hours of trading today, and while conditions if anything were more propitious for a bear drive than yesterday, when the whole list weakened under an unexplained selling movement, as the London news was distinctly disturbing, stringency in the foreign market and the calling of loans by the Bank of England, causing heavy selling and a drop in prices of American securities. While a rise in discount rates tomorrow is anticipated, the bull crowd picked up the thread where it was broken Saturday, and although the opening was weak with prices showing a full response to the foreign slump, a rally was effected almost immediately and while trading was by no means active, sales for the first hour being but 280,300 shares, within a short space of time initial losses had been recovered and at noon prices for most of the list had regained a portion of the loss incurred yesterday. Money rates were easy, call loans commanding 5% to 4 per cent, and during the afternoon the upward movement of prices continued without interruption, the session being conspicuous for its strength in the final hour. Gould stocks were again among the favorites and both Missouri Pacific and Texas and Pacific derived substantial enhancement in value, the first named touching par for the first time in several weeks, while the latter reached a level almost 2 points above yesterday's

More Desire to Buy and Offerings Are Readily Absorbed, But Market Continues Narrow

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Sept. 12 .- Another dull and narrow cotton market was the best offered the talent today. Liverpool set the pace for a decline, ignoring our cables and quoting lower prices on the call, whereas an advance was expected, and also relative ease in the spot department. But, while initial prices here showed a response to the foreign weakness and bears endeavored to make the most of their opportunity, they found offerings readily absorbed, and the only recompense obtained for their efforts was a temporary slump of 4@5 points. The desire to buy seemed more urgent at the decline than at any time recently, a predicted cold wave for the southwest being probably responsible for the demand and while the market was

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12-The cotton market today was not interesting from a speculative standpoint, being even more inert than during yesterday's session. While the prediction of a cold wave for the southwest and splendid demand for the actual reported from all points seemingly offered a good opportunity for bulls to dominate the market for the time being, they were singularly inactive and appeared perfectly satisfied with the moderate volume of short covering which occurred and the notable dearth of selling pressure, consequently prices had a narrow range, recovering a little more than the initial loss of 3@5 points before the noon call. There was no feature worthy of note during the afternoon session and the market closed steady with prices practically unchanged. Spot cotton market ruled steady, prices being unchanged at 91-4c for middling. Sales, 1,450 bales on the spot, 600 f. o. b.

Special to The Telegram. LIVERPOOL, Sept. 12.-For some reason rather shrouded in mystery, although some ascribe it to the stringency of the London money market. that buoyant tone which the cotton market exhibited yesterday was lacking today in both departments and bulls sustained reverses. The demand for the actual relapsed into a small affair, sales being but 7,000 bales, including 6,100 American, and 500 for speculation and export, with prices at a decline of 3 points, middling being quoted at 5.51d. Imports, 2,000 bales of which 1,600 were American,

Opening prices for contracts were at a decline of 1@2 points, whereas an advance of 1 point was expected. Disappointment over the market's failure to respond to American advices led to some selling, which added to the initial loss. Corn commanded higher prices throughout the entire session, strength being derived from several sources. Negro Seriously Injured in Accident in Hemphill Street

George Boughton, colored, was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon, a big gash being cut on the left side of his head and his left shoulder blade being broken. He was riding a horse that was hardly bridlewise and was jogging along Hemphill street when the animal became frightened at a passing street car and became unmanageable, and threw the negro against a telephone pole, knocking him senseless. The negro's head struck the pole first, the impact causing a cut just above the ear three inches long.

The steer supply consisted of around ten loads of grassers, none of them strictly good. Packers had orders for ing to Bradstreet's report issued tobeef and took kindly to the supply, nosing out feeder buyers on the best of the feeder class. The broad demand quickly cleared the pens, tops being $3,50, with some sales at $3.35, $3 and down to $2.85 on the medium feeder class. Steer quotations were on a steady basis for the day. 7... 144 4.75 Hog receipts were somewhat larger than they were yesterday, about 800 head coming in for the early market, with a few drive-ins. Later arrivals swelled receipts to 1,400 head. The bulk of the receipts came from north of the thirty-fourth parallel with seven loads only from Texas points and generally showed good finish, being for the most part corn fed. There were but few heavy packers on the early run, the heavy end being mediums, ranging in weight from 166 pounds to 198, with only two part loads of lights. Late receipts were largely heavy weights. Wagon hogs brought from $6 to $6.20. The market was 5c higher than yesterday's closing. The packers were inclined to buy early and the supply did not last long. Two loads of territory medium weights brought $6.35, the top of the day. Heavy packer tops were $6.30. Pigs were few in number, being cut from mixed loads, and sold strong to 15c higher. Sales of

The fellow who is always talking about his alter ego needs someone to alter his egotism.

Vivion Commission Company FORT WORTH, Sept. 12.—Cotton traders did little in either direction today, although the advantage was plainly with the bulls and had they availed themselves of the opportunity a different story might be told. Even though trading was very limited there seemed to be more disposition to buy than has been shown recently, and sellers at all times founr their offerings eagerly snapped up, consequently grew wary and after the first half hour in New York there was almost a total lack of offerings. Liverpool furnished an incentive for a decline, prices there being lower for both contracts and spots, with a poor deering and eventually a slight net gain was attained. A severe cold wave reported approaching from the northwest was the principal feature of the weather news and should it materialize would do

FIGHT IS ON FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY

Ask Dick to Resign Holcombe of Cuyahaga county moved that "it be the sense of this convention that Senator Dick be requested to decline to act as chairman of the state executive committeee and that he cooperate with the state central committee in the selection of a chairman thereof to manage the pending state campaign." Congressman Burton immediately took the platform and spoke briefly but vigorously in support of the motion. Cheers from the delegation for "Foraker" brought the senator to the front of the platform, and by unanimous consent the senator addressed the convention briefly, declaring that he "knew of no reason why a man who was good enough to be chairman for William McKinley and who was acknowledged to be one of the best chairmen ever known not to be continued in that position." The convention was in a turmoil as he concluded, and the chairman had difficulty in securing order.

Uproar in Convention Finally Harry Daugherty, associated with Burton in the anti-Dick contest, was recognized. He declared there was "nothing personal in politics with me," and the convention was again in a roar of disorder. At last he said: "I am not here to pluck feathers from the honor of any man." He declared himself ready to sign any agreement that he would never be a candidate for any office. He recognized the superior qualities of the chairman, but maintained that under the existing conditions a change was advisable.

Congressman Nevin followed in a strong "protest against humiliation of the man who has served you so long and so ably as Senator Dick."

A vote was taken and the roar "no" was followed by a prompt declaration that the motion was lost. On demand the roll call was ordered. The motion was lost, enough negative votes being cast to defeat it long before the roll call ended. The votes announced were 284 year and 574 nos.

NEGRESS BROUGHT BACK

Charged With Murder of Negro Here

Three Years Ago Deputy Sheriff Purvis returned from Holdenville, I. T., Tuesday night, having in charge Gertrude McCollom, a negress, who he had located at that point after a search of eighteen months. She is charged with murder. About three years ago a negro man named Ely was shot in the back and instantly killed at the Gray Mule saloon on Twelfth street. Gertrude Mc-Collom was arrested and afterward indicted by the grand fury. She was admitted to bail, Scott & McLean, her lawyers, being on the bond. About eighteen months ago the woman disappeared and was not heard of until short time ago, when Deputy Sheriff Purvis heard of her near Holdenville and secured her arrest.

HOME COMING PLANNED Alabama Issues Invitation to Former

Citizens Special to The Telegram. BRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 12.-A home coming week for the children of this great state who have strayed afield, has been arranged for the week of Oct. 15 to 20, next, and about on the same lines as the very successful

Kentucky home-coming was. It is known that there are over 360,-000 natives of Alabama distributed throughout the southern state and Oklahoma and Indian Territory. Of that number there are 129,945 in Texas and the proximity of that state and the convenience of railway travel warrants the belief that the attendance at the home-coming week festivities from Texas will be large.

Governor Jelks has issued a proclamation directing the attention of all of the Alabamans out of the state to the occasion and inviting the wandering Alabamans home.

HIS ARM MANGLED

Hillsboro Citizen Injured While Working With Gin Saw

Special to The Telegram. HILLSBORO, Texas, Sept. 12. Early this morning W. C. Robinson, a prominent gin owner and alderman of this city, while endeavoring to move a saw in one of the gins here, in which he is interested, got his left arm caught and before he could get loose all the flesh and muscles were completely mangled. The bones are not thought to be injured and attending physicians are yet uncertain whether amputation will be necessary.

Good Kansas Grass J. D. Earnest of Big Springs, Texas, who is pasturing a large string of cattle near Sedan, Kan., brought in today sixteen carloads of steers, cows and bulls. One more shipment will bring in the last of these cattle, when Mr. Earnest will begin the shipment of cattie from his ranch in the Big Springs country. "The grass in Kansas this season is the best I ever saw," remarked Mr. Earnest. "And our cattle are in fine condition. The year so far has been very satisfactory, as we have had good feed, and marketed our cattle under fairly good circumstances. But down in Texas is where everything looks rosy. The country is flooded with land buyers, and the ranchmen are selling off slices of land at good prices, and making all kinds of money. Then the crops of forage and all kinds of grain raised in that country made a big yield this season, which will be a great benefit to the land owners. All these things are benefiting the land owners, as well as the stockman."-Kansas City Drovers' Telegram.

tal of $37,000

The dry goods stock, fixtures, book accounts and horses and wagons of the firm of Parker-Lowe & Co. were sold in bulk at auction sale held Wednesday morning in the Parker-Lowe store at the corner of Houston and Seventh streets, to N. Harding, vice president of the Fort Worth National Bank, as representative for the bank's interests, for the sum of $37,000. Bidding was slow, though there was good attendance of city and out-oftown business men. Several dry goods men were present and most of the bidding against Mr. Harding was done by

George W. Steere, receiver of the stock conducted the sale, and the following amounts were bid on the various stocks separately: Dry goods stock, $29,000, by Mr. Harding; store fixtures, $3,750, by W. C. Stripling; entire book accounts, $1,300, by William Monnig, and four horses, two wagons and four sets of harness, $340, by L. Gilbert.

for sale in the bulk and Mr. Harding awarded the stock for $37,000, his being the highest bid; also higher than the total of the various separate bids. The report of the sale will be filed Wednesday afternoon with W. B. Paddock, referee in bankruptcy. It is anticipated by George Q. McGown, attorney for the creditors, that the sale

She ceased suddenly with a little sigh and struck her hands together, for the place was cold. As she reached up to put out the lights I stepped forchancel stens.

"Please allow me to do that for you?" She turned toward me, gathering a cape about her. "Oh, it's you, is it?" she asked, looking about quickly. "I don't remember -I don't seem to remember-that you were invited." "I didn't know I was coming myself," I remarked truthfully, lifting my hand to the lamp. "That is my opinion of you-that you're a rather unexpected person. But thank you, very much." She showed no disposition to proong the interview, but hurried toward the door, and reached the vestibule bafore I came up with her. "You can't go any further Mr. Glenarm," she said, and waited as though to make sure I understood. Straight before us through the wood and beyond the school buildings the sunset faded sullenly. The night was following fast upon the gray twilight and already the bolder planets were aflame in the sky. The path led straight ahead eneath the black boughs. "I might perhaps walk to the dormitory, or whatever you call it," I said. "Thank you, no! I'm late and haven't time to bother with you. It's against the rules, you know, for us to receive visitors. She stepped out into the path. "But I'm not a caller. I'm just a neighbor. And I owe you several calls,

She laughed, but did not pause, and followed a pace behind her. "I hope you don't think for a minute that I chased a rabbit on your side of the fence just to meet you; do you, Mr. Glenarm?"

"Be it far from me! I'm glad I came, though, for I liked your music imnensely. I'm in earnest; I think it quite wonderful, Miss Armstrong." She paid no heed to me.

"And I hope I may promise myself the pleasure of hearing you often." "You are positively flattering, Mr. Glenarm; but as I'm going away—" I felt my heart sink at the thought of her going away. She was the only amusing person I had met at Glenarm, and the idea of losing her gave a darker note to the bleak landscape. "That's really too bad! And just when we were getting acquainted! And was coming to church every Sunday to hear you play and to pray for snow,

"Oh, if you know her! Perhaps you're a spy, too! It's just as well we should never meet again, Mr. Glenarm," she declared haughtily. "The memory of these few meetings will always linger with me, Miss

* DELICATE CHILDREN

* In the care of delicate children nothing can be looked upon as too trifling to be unworthy of consideration. It is on trifles, as a great poet has said, that the sum of human things depends.

The life of many a delicate child bas been sacrificed or it has been prevented from outgrowing its delicacy by the forgetfulness of its parents of this important fact. Take, for instance, the feet. It seems trifling matter for a child to be put to bed with cold feet. It is, perhaps, not of very much moment if the child is robust and has a good circulation. Only in this case the child's feet are seldom cold, or, if they are, they will soon warm in bed.

With the delicate child of slow circulation it is different; the feet do not get quickly warm. They remain stone cold long after mother or nurse have gone downstairs.

Their coldness affects the whole body injuriously, and often is the unsuspected cause of intestinal derangements or of coughs-perhaps of both The feet of the stockings worn by a child whose circulation is feeble will generally be found to be both cold and damp when taken off at night; but very often no one troubles to feel

May Be Injurious They are probably dry again by morning, but the perspiration has dried into them. This is just what we should avoid. Remember that the perspiration of the body always contains some of the waste, and, therefore, poisonous matter of the blood. When this dries into the stockings whether they are so or are not.

and they are put on again next day the impure matter is reabsorbed and without doubt this is injurious to the child's health This shows us the importance of warm, dry and clean stocking feet. It you would do your best for a delicate child, never let it wear stockings which have been wet with perspiration and are merely redried They would be well rinsed out first to remove the perspiration. It is not necessary to wash the whole stocking each time, but merely the feet.

The injury done to children, and more especially to delicate children, by overfatigue is not sufficiently recognized by many mothers and nurses. Too long walks, games that call for too much exertion, which must be kept up until the end, too late hours for going to bed, or too early hours for getting up, are all causes-everyday causes-of over-fatigue. Now mark this, fatigue from work or play, or bodily exercise of any sort, is the reverse to injurious to those who are physically strong. If we are in good health and vigorous, it does us no harm to go to our beds tired at night. BROWNSVILLE GETS ROAD

CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My husband and five children were all afflicted with eczema. They had it two years. We used all the home rem-edies we could hear of, without any relief, and then went to a physician and got medicine two different times, and it got worse. It affected us all over except head and hands. We saw Cuticura Remedies advertised and concluded to try them. So I sent for $1.00 worth, consisting of one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Ointment, and one vial of Pills, and we commenced to use them. I do not know how to express my joy in finding a cure, for two of my chil-dren were so bad that they have the brown scars on their bodies where they were sore. If it will be of any ben to you, you can publish my letter with pleasure. Yours truly, Mrs. Maggie B. Hill, Stevens, Mason Co., W. Va., June

Time, 1:39 3-5. SHOWERS GENERAL

Amount of Rainfall Exceeds Normal Throughout State Special to The Telegram. GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 12 .- Following is the summary of the past

week's weather:

The week just closed was marked by numerous light to copious showers in nearly all parts of the state and no day passed on which there was not a shower in some locality. In the beginning of the week the showers were general, and during the remainder of the week they were scattered. The amount of rainfall exceeded the normal in all the divisions of the state, except in the southeastern and extreme western counties, where it was below the normal. The heaviest rainfall occurred in McLennan county with over four inches. In Lampasas and Neuces counties the rainfall exceeded three inches, and in a number of other counties it exceeded two inches. The great amount of precipitation caused a corresponding decrease in amount of sunshine. Damage resulted in a number of localities from the wet weather, and field work was interrupted on account of it. Less rain and more sunshine are now needed in many counties. There were but few electrical while they were not unusually severe, the lightning caused some damage in a few instances. The temperature averaged either normal or slightly above the normal, except in a number of western, southwestern and northern counties, where it was cooler than usual at this time. The day temperatures were not unusually high, nor the night temperature unusually low. The first days of the week were comparatively warm, with maximum temperatures generally well into the nineties, while the remaining three days were comparatively cool. The highest temperatures reported ranged from 82 degrees at Dublin to 99 degrees at Beeville, and the lowest from 46 degrees at Henrietta to 74 degrees at Corpus Christi. The week closed with generally fair weather over the state, except that considerable cloudiness prevailed over disturbances during the week and

CARPENTERS END MEETING HERE

W. S. Berry of Dallas Elected State President

The night session Tuesday, at which time the new officers were installed preceding a social evening, closed the annual convention of the state council of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners held in the Labor Temple. The delegates held four executive sessions while here and feel well pleased with the work accomplished. President Berry stated Tuesday evening that they were compelled to pass over several questions of importance on account of the brief time now remaining before the national council will meet at Niagara Falls, Sept. 17. It had been hoped that the matter of establishing a universal wage scale might be discussed and some action taken, but this was delayed until the next state convention, which will be held at Corpus Christi in August, 1907.

Other than a general discussion of the progress made by the council, the election of officers for the ensuing year was of greatest importance at the Tuesday afternoon session. Officers are: W. S. Berry, Dallas, president; S. E. Willis, Corsicana, first vice president; John H. Dalton, Fort Worth, secretary, and R. M. Means, Dallas, treas-

S. E. Willis of Corsicana was appointed state organizer in the field at a salary of $4 a day and expenses. Quite a number of the delegates here are to act in the same capacity at the national meeting, some of them leaving for Niagara Falls Wednesday. The delegates from the local union are: S. Lutzenhiser and Frank Frush. They will leave Thursday morning.

ERROR IN ZOOLOGIES

Parents of Tenth Grade Children Must Buy Twice

When the list of books to be procured by the pupils of the various grades in the city public schools were furnished to the pupils among them was, for grade No. 10, Packard's zoology No. 7. Soon it was discovered that someone had made a mistake and the book intended was Packard's zoology No. 5. Many of the parents of the Tenth grade pupils had bought the books, as required by the lists, and when the error was found they were notified that they must get the proper book, and now the aforesaid parents pelled to pay for some other person's mistake. They followed the lists sent out, which were sent to them as the correct list. The dealers who bought for sale to the school patrons, according to instructions, are loath to saddle themselves with a lot of books for which there is no demand and the parents do not see why they should pay for the other fellow's error.

BOY CAN HEAR BUT CAN'T TALK

Case of Frank Rutledge Puzzles Relatives and Doctors

Special to The Telegram. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 12,-Frank Ellsworth Rutledge, aged ten years, is just as bright as any boy of his age in the land. Moreover, he a genuine boy. But he cannot talk He can hear just as good as you car hear. Frank has never in his ter, years uttered an intelligible word. How to give him an education is what in puzzling his parents and his friends His parents are not able to employ a private tutor.

The state deaf and dumb authorities refuse to educate him because he not deaf. The city and township schools refuse to take him because he can The usual avenues to education are closed to Frank Ellsworth Rutledge who, at the age of ten, is endowed with perfect body, good health and enthusiastic spirit, but who cannot by word of mouth make himself under-

The mother of the boy says: "We do not know what to do, for if he grows up in ignorance he cannot earn a living. We once decided to have him educated at a Catholic school by paying a small fee, but we fear we ca succeed at that." The county and city authorities are trying to devise some way in which to educate the boy, but as yet have failed to arrive at any decision. One of the boy's aunts did not talk until she was nine years old. This woman is now a successful teacher in an Ohio city. This gives hope that some day Frank will learn to talk.

Roosevelt's Hard Sense

"In speaking to you, men of the greatest city of the West, men of the State which gave to the country Lincoln and Grant, men who pre-eminently and distinctly embody all that is most American in the American character, I wish to preach not the doctrine of ignoble ease, but the doctrine of the Strenuous Life-the life of toil and effort, of labor and strife; to preach that highest form of success which comes not to the man who desires mere easy peace, but to the man who does not shrink from danger, from hardships, or from bitter toil, and who, out of these wins the splendid ultimate triumph."-Speech at Chicago.

Those who knew how the weak boy, Roosevelt, stripped himself of the things which made him weak, and, by application, made himself the magnificent man of today, can appreciate what may be accomplished by resolute determination to be and to do. This gives the opportunity to say here that any boy or man who finds himself held back, with hands tied (metaphorically) by some unnatural habit, say for instance Coffee drinking, and finds the physical body working badly, liver and nerves disordered, and unfit for that life of keen effort when the state of the Roosevelt speaks of and which leads up to success, can use his common sense, cut out the enemy and strip off the load that holds him back. Try leaving off Coffee. Use Postum Food Coffee and get the double value, i. e. a release from the drug habit and the strong natural stimulus of the rebuilding food elements presented in Postum.
