AFTER LIFE STUDY SAYS LEPROSY NOT CONTAGIOUS

No Hope for South American Segregated Colonies MALADY CURABLE Disease Pronounced Hereditary by Noted U. S. Consul—Reports to Government

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—After displaying rare heroism by devoting a life time to the study of leprosy, Eugene H. Plummer, American consul at Maracaibo, Venezuela, decided the dread malady is not contagious, but is hereditary to a degree not reached by any other disease. He made an exhaustive report to the state department, telling of his personal attendance upon lepers afflicted in the most revolting form.

His report indicated leprosy was curable, but there is little hope in Venezuela or other Latin American leper colonies, where nutritious foods and expensive drugs are rarely provided. Dr. Plummer was appointed to Maracaibo in 1873. It was through his efforts the "tutu" plant used in treating the disease is now planted in all countries which have leper stations.

Photographs Discussed At the request of these scientists, Dr. Plummer took many photographs of lepers, personally removing the bandage of afflicted that the best results might be attained. He was allowed to visit secretly many lepers in Maracaibo concealed by families to avoid their being sent to perpetual banishment to the island. Under a secret which he obtained through Dr. S. C. Bothwell, now marshal of the supreme court in Porto Rico, he experimented with it on these private cases.

To Continue Investigation Ten lepers were given into his special charge. His reports point out the treatment produced much good results but lack of proper food made absolute cure impossible. Dr. Plummer says in his report, as he was successful and full of hope for continued good results, he concluded he would rather drop the society of his friends in the colony than abandon the lepers.

Newspapers Criticise Closeness. Groom Well Known, But Has No Cash

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—A cablegram from Berlin printed here today says: Frau Krupp, widow of the great gun-maker of Essen, and her daughters Bertha and Barbara has just been here, the object of their visit being to buy the daughters' trousseau. Notwithstanding their immense wealth, not more than $250 was spent for each outfit. This modest outlay is quite in accordance with the remarkable simplicity with which the girls were brought up. Some newspapers criticise their expenditures, contending that the possession of riches demands proportionate expenditure.

Fraulein Bertha Krupp is the richest woman in Germany, she being the principal heir under her father's will. She is engaged to marry Gustav von Bohlen und Halbach, under secretary of the Prussian legation to the Vatican. Barbara Krupp, although not so rich as her sister, is worth $12,500,000. Her fiancé is Baron Telo von Wilowski, son of the governor of Prussian Saxony. Neither bridegroom-elect is wealthy.

Zeke Paris, Noted Outlaw and Hunter, Still in Business

HANGED 11 MEN No Indian Murderer Ever Escaped Him When He Took Up the Trail

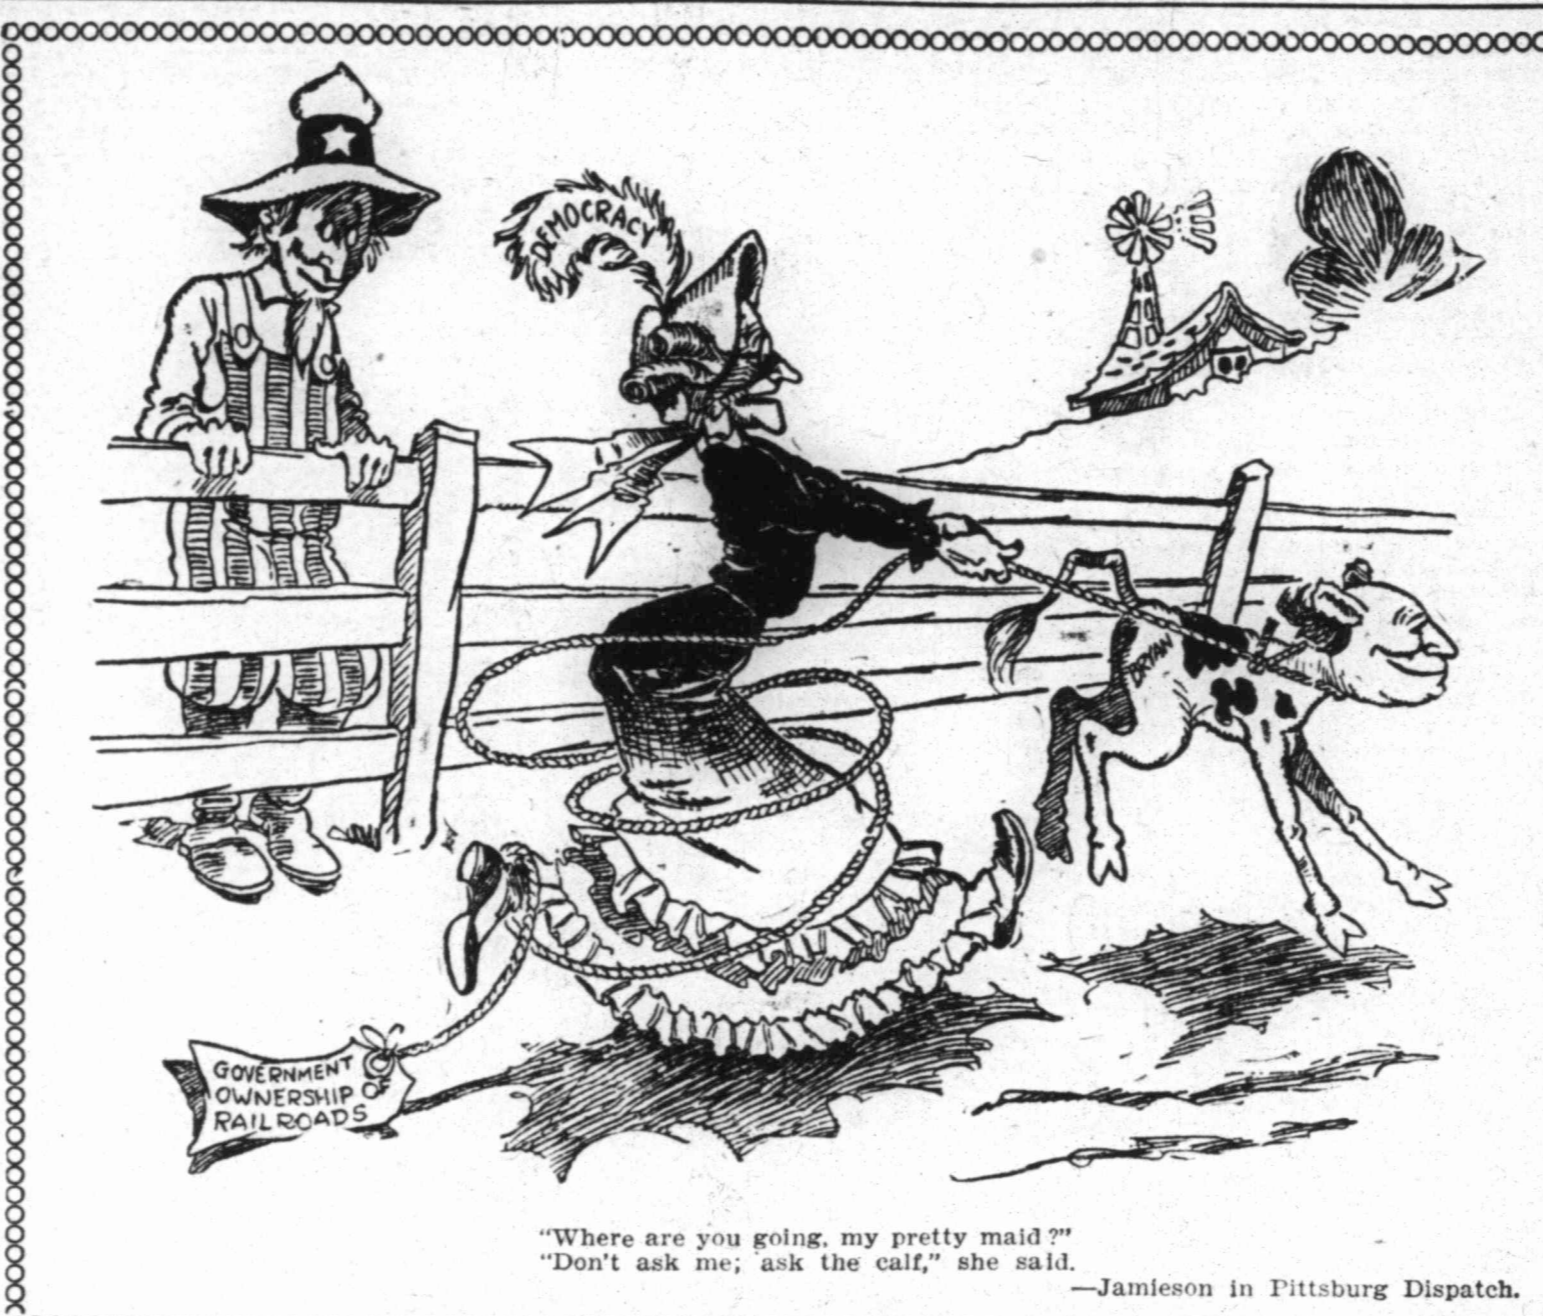

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Sept. 13.—Zeke Paris of Tahlequah was in this city today with his old friend Tom Bassett, having business with the Indian department in the matter of removal of restrictions. Paris is a Cherokee Indian and served as a United States marshal for about eighteen years and is one of the most noted outlaw hunters now living. He is a nephew of the notorious Zeke Proctor, the most noted fighter and man slayer the Indian Territory ever saw, and therefore comes from fighting stock.

A Noted Hangman Besides being a United States marshal, Paris was sheriff of Tahlequah district for a number of years under the Cherokee Indian laws, and has hanged more men than any other hangman now living in the new state. Of the fourteen men hanged in the Cherokee nation, Paris hanged eleven, among whom were some of the most desperate outlaws in this country he ever produced. One of the worst men he ever tackled was Bald Christie, brother of the notorious Christie, who killed so many deputy marshals and was finally captured by firing his home, which was surrounded by a large force of deputy marshals.

Hunted Christie Twenty Days Bald Christie for a while defied the Cherokee authorities. He was a full-blood, and scouted among the hills and valleys over the same ground now occupied by the Wycliffes. He had friends everywhere who helped him out of tight places. Sheriff Paris hunted him for twenty days before he set his hands on him, when he was herded in a mountainous gorge by Paris and his deputies to the number of twenty. There was nothing for him to do but to surrender, which he did. He was taken to Tahlequah, tried and convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but died in jail.

Bearpaw Worst Yet The worst case that Paris ever tackled was a fullblood Cherokee Indian named Thompson Bearpaw, the terror of the Cherokee hills, having killed no less than eleven men. Bearpaw swore that he would never be taken alive, and that he would kill any person who attempted to touch the matter in hand and sought him in his native haunts. Died As He Lived He chased him all over the Cherokee hills, through Flint, Tahlequah and Golingsnake districts, never letting up night or day, for thirty-one days, and finally got the drop on him and took him to Tahlequah where he was tried, convicted and finally hanged.

Bryan Explains His Government Ownership Idea

OPINION UNSHAKEN

Thousands Greet Nebraskan on Arrival South—Cheers Frequent During Speech

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 13.—On the occasion of his entry to the south, where his recent declaration as to government ownership of railroads has aroused the most opposition, William Jennings Bryan made last night a more explicit statement as to his position in the matter. In dead silence he read a lengthy statement elaborating his position, but declared that the "making of platforms rests with the voters of the whole party, and I never have and never will attempt to force my opinions or those of any few men on the people."

While thus indicating that the doctrine of government ownership is in the hands of the voters, Mr. Bryan's speech indicated plainly that nothing was as yet occurred to shake his belief in the ultimate necessity of it. He declared that he would gladly make any sacrifice in exchange for the assurance that regulation instead of government ownership would answer the needs of the people, but expressed grave doubts as to whether regulation would ever be adequate to present arguments to convince his hearers that government ownership of trunk lines and state ownership of state lines, "not only preserve the rights of the state, but will permit the people of each to adopt government ownership when they are ready for it."

A tremendous yell when at the finish of the statement Mr. Bryan, recalled to his hearers that whenever I saw a danger threatening the people I have spoken out without asking anybody's permission or querying what the effect might be on me."

Won Fortune in New York—Is Claimed by Dreyfus Family in Paris

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Seventy relatives of Charles Rubens, who died in Paris on June 1, last, leaving a fortune which is estimated at $2,000,000, are interested in a contest over the probate of a will executed on Jan. 2 and a codicil signed on March 6 last.

Mr. Rubens was a retired banker of this city and was more than 80 years of age when he died. He was a native of Paris, his name in youth being Samuel Woog. More than half century ago he came to this city, was naturalized and received authority from the courts to assume the name of Charles Rubens. With his wife he returned to Paris to spend his remaining years.

Gifts to Forty Mr. Rubens' fortune consists of gilt-edged securities and other personal property. His nearest relatives are nephews. In his will he makes a few charitable bequests, and remembers forty relatives and friends with gifts of between $5,000 and $100,000 each.

Claims Undue Influence In contesting the probate of the will it is alleged that the aged man was a resident of France and that the surrogate's court of this city has no jurisdiction over the estate, and it further charged that he was not mentally able of making a will or codicil at the time these papers were executed and that they were obtained by undue influence on the part of Mrs. Heidelberg and her husband or some other parties. It is also alleged that he assumed the name of Charles Rubens after becoming an American citizen without authority of law.

The city will take the matter in hand through the Commercial Club and without doubt will make a good offer for the school. One city has promised to give $100,000 to secure the institution.

Boy Lives and Doctors Consider His Case Remarkable

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 13.—Lonnie Roberts, a 5-year-old boy of Stockdale, is here in the Santa Rosa hospital with his brain oozing through his skull in three places, but yet alive. He was brought to this city by his mother who hopes to save his life by having an operation performed. The boy was playing near one of his father's mules when he received a kick on the head that shattered his skull. That the boy has lived as long as he has is considered very remarkable by the attending physicians. They will attempt an operation, but have little hope of its proving successful.

One With Arms and Legs Broken Held Over Deep Abyss by Rope

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—A cable dispatch to a morning paper from St. Michael de Maerene, France, says: Four Alpine climbers, while returning from an ascent of the Aiguilles d'Arves on Sunday evening, were swept by an avalanche of stones upon a glacier fifty feet below. All were stunned.

The first to recover his sense was a man named Maige, who found two of his companions lying seriously injured on the edge of a crevasse of unknown depth, in which the fourth climber, a man named Questo was dangling by the rope with which the party had been linked together. The accidental wedging of this rope in a cleft alone saved all the men from falling into the abyss of the crevasse.

Maige vainly tried to haul him up and, finding the others broken, he further secured the rope and started to obtain aid. It was nine hours before he returned with helpers. The rope had not broken and Questo was found still swinging from it, but he was unconscious and soon died after being rescued. He was known in Italy as a writer on Alpine subjects. The others are recovering.

INDIANS VOTE TO QUIT POLITICS

Secret Organization Worries Leaders in Territory

TULSA, I. T., Sept. 13.—Political leaders of both parties are worried over the attitude assumed by the Ketchowahs, a secret organization among the Cherokee Indians, in regard to the white man's politics.

At the recent annual meeting of the Ketchowahs at the historic meeting place at Bug Tucker's Springs, ten miles north of Tahlequah, after a heated discussion lasting two days, the society voted by a large majority to let politics religiously alone.

Chief among the opposition or non-progressive element was Dave Muskrat, an old full-blood, prominent in Cherokee councils for more than a quarter of a century. Dave Muskrat was a soldier in the union army during the civil war and is the one Indian on whom the republicans of the Cherokee nation have relied upon.

SAVES FATHER IN RACE WITH DEATH

Boy's Prompt Action Offsets Snake Bite

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 13.—Little Louis Voelcker, a 12-year-old son of Louis Voelcker, a farmer living fourteen miles from the city, has just saved his father's life, the prize being a race with death. The boy's father had been bitten by a rattlesnake, and the boy's presence of mind unquestionably saved his life. Voelcker was bitten while he was at work in a cane field. The snake struck him between the knee and the ankle, and he killed the snake and ran to the house. The boy was just returning from school in a buggy. He helped his father into the buggy, where he saw a horse in a gallop and a piece of rope around the leg showing the wound, as a tourniquet. He stopped at the first saloon and made the horse run the remainder of the distance. A physician was found at the first drug store, the father was taken to an infirmary and is now out of danger. The physicians say that father owes his life to the good judgment and quick action of his son.

BACK FROM HOME OF REVOLUTION

Cuban Revolution Started on W. H. Irwin's Ranch

W. H. Irwin, formerly of Fort Worth, has returned to this city from Cuba. This announcement was made by leading news to Mr. Irwin's friends in north Texas, but it is not half so interesting as the experiences which were undergone by the revolutionists on Mr. Irwin's $2,000-acre ranch the revolution, which is now snaking the island republic from one end to the other, had its inception. That is, it broke out there.
It broke with such a suddenness that Mr. Irwin's suit case which he planned to bring with him on his return trip to Fort Worth was seized by the revolutionists and while waiting for government soldiers to catch the revolutionists and recover his property Mr. Irwin had small opportunity to observe Cuban fighting.
It is his belief that the ultimate settlement of the present difficulties will be the annexation of Cuba to the United States.
Before leaving Cuba he made arrangements with the Palma government to return to this country, and this is the object of his present visit to Texas.

SCRUB CATTLE ON HIGH-PRICE LAND

In the last five years prices of land of all kinds over the territory covered by Wallace's Farmer have advanced at least 50 per cent. The result is that the price of land, or anything like it, is more abundant than any other.
In the show rings of the last twenty years have shown the difference between every type of Shorthorn, Aberdeen, Angus, Hereford and Galloway, and the price of land, or anything like it, is more abundant than any other.
No farmer, however, can afford to use anything but the best of these breeds. He cannot afford to purchase an inferior individual at any price, because there are nine chances out of ten that he will perpetuate that inferiority, and hence his progeny will be unworthy to consume either the grain or the high priced land.
One of the greatest obstacles in the way of stock improvement has been the fact that the inferior individual piece of white paper called the pedigree. A piece of paper don't perpetuate merit; it is not prepotent; it has no power to improve the stock. It is simply a record of the family history of the animal, which may be good or bad. A first-class pedigree belonging to an inferior animal, or one once discounted, the pedigree should show itself on the back in the general appearance of the animal. If not, it is not worth the paper on which it is written, and an examination of it will usually show some animals of very great merit, but they will ordinarily be at the bottom of the pedigree instead of the top. We, therefore, urge our readers in selecting improved stock of the breed of their choice, that they insist on first-class individuals, and then see that the pedigree corresponds.
Again, if we are to make money on this high priced land, as between breeds, it is largely a matter of taste. Some prefer the Shorthorn, others take kindly to the black, the comely "Doddie," Aberdeen Angus. Still others admire the Hereford, and others take kindly to the shaggy Galloway. Any of them are good enough, but get the best that you can. Don't go crazy after families or animals taken from herds that have achieved great renown in the show ring. It doesn't follow that because some breeder has made a great success in winning prizes that therefore all animals sold at his sale or even of his breeding are desirable.
Get an ideal of the best type of animal fixed in your mind. Then do your utmost to secure sires and females for the herd that approximate as closely to this ideal as possible. Even then you will fail unless you maintain the conditions on your farm that will perpetuate the ideal. That means that you must have good farming, you must have big grass, you must have proper shelter, though necessarily expensive, and must feed a more or less approximately balanced ration.
Again, we will have to make some changes in our feeding outside of balancing the ration. We cannot feed steers as long as we did when land was cheap, corn cheap and wild grass abundant on the prairies. We will have to learn to produce the same weights in a shorter time, and that can be done only by keeping the animal growing from start to finish, whether you fit them to sell as baby beef or two-year-olds.
All this requires study and observation. The copper king, who charges libel. According to Senator Arzoo, the new... will probably be issued in Europe.

BOY SAVES LIFE

Boy Sucks Poison From Nine-Year-Old Bitten by Snake

Special to The Telegram. ANNONA, Texas, Sept. 13.—A few days ago while Ennis and Otto Bearden, aged 12 and 9 years, and sons of Bush Bearden, were about a mile from home a rattlesnake bit the older boy on the ankle. Otto, the younger brother, was greatly alarmed over the condition of Ennis, but did not lose his presence of mind. Placing his mouth to the wound made by the fangs of the snake the heroic boy at once began to suck the poison from the wound and he kept up the work until his undertaking was well accomplished.
After he had finished his thoughtful job, the boy took a target rifle and proceeded to hunt for the snake, and finding it, he ended its career with a well aimed bullet.
The boys then proceeded home, and the one bitten by the snake has experienced no trouble or inconvenience except a little stiffness in the ankle that was struck by the snake. Key West and they were so far from home at the time the older boy was bitten that it is believed he would have certainly died but for the thoughtfulness and heroism of his little brother.

You will have no difficulty in procuring rest and sleep if you will let Dr. Miles' Nervine soothe and strengthen the tired, agitated, weakened brain nerves. THE SULTAN'S SOLDIERS "BEATING IT" TO SAFETY.

Here is a remarkable photograph of the soldiers of the Moroccan government being driven through the streets of Tangier by the followers of Raisuli, pretender to the throne. They all have dropped their arms and are dodging through the narrow streets of the metropolis, while the balconies and rooftops are crowded with the European residents watching the rioting in safety.
During August the loyal troops and the Raisulis had a hard fight in Tangier in which 300 were killed. At first the Raisuli men were successful, but ultimately Raisuli's supporters were driven out of the city.
Raisuli will be remembered as the bandit chief who captured Ion Perdicaris, a naturalized American citizen, and held him for ransom. After a big diplomatic stir Perdicaris was given up, Raisuli giving as his motive for not capture that it was intended to show that the sultan of Morocco was not able to guarantee security to foreigners. Since then Raisuli has been of more or less political importance, setting up his authority in the district contiguous to Tangier in rivalry to the sultan's.

SHE WAS BOUND TO GET MARRIED

Legal Complications Confusing, But Woman Determined

The exaction of cost bonds in divorce cases before he will issue citation and the payment of costs before he will write up decrees by District Clerk John A. Martin is bearing fruit, and there is a marked decrease in the number of pauper orders for holding order and damage petitions. The refusal of the clerk to write up a decree of court in divorce cases without the costs are paid will in nearly every instance cause the parties to come up with the cash, even if it is a long time after the decree was granted.
Thursday morning a woman who was granted a divorce September a year ago applied to Deputy Clerk Mart H. Harden and told him she wanted to pay the costs in the divorce case. She failed to pay the costs and the clerk refused to write up the decree; and until the decree was written up the minutes of the court the plaintiff could not legally marry again.
It was this fact that took her to the clerk's office Thursday with money to pay costs in the case tried a year ago. The costs amounted to about $4, and when she paid it she said to Deputy Clerk Harden:
"Now this will go on the books, will it?"
"It will go on the records when your lawyer appears in court and gets permission to write up the decree nunc pro tunc."
The woman looked at him for a minute as if she was not wise to what he meant, and said:
"Nunc pro what? See here! I want to get married again this evening, and I want this thing fixed all right."
"You can't get married until this decree is written up nunc pro tunc, and it can't be written up until your lawyer comes into court and secures an order to have it done."
"Well, he'll be here; you can bet your life on that. For I tell you, I want to get married this evening. Oh, yes; he'll be here!"

JUDGE C. K. BELL WEDS MISS SMITH

Daughter of Pioneer Family Is Bride of Former Candidate

Unexpectedly, except to a very few intimate friends, Judge C. K. Bell, ex-congressman, former attorney general of Texas and a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in the recent democratic primaries, married Miss Florence Chaffant Smith Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Peter Smith, in West Third street.
Immediately after the wedding Judge Bell and his bride left for New York. They will be absent two weeks and after their return will live at the Delaware house of congressmen's attorney general of Texas and a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in the recent democratic primaries, married Miss Florence Chaffant Smith Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Peter Smith, in West Third street.
No wedding involving Texans of prominence has ever taken place more unostentatiously than that of Judge Bell and Miss Smith. Judge Bell has been in Texas public life nearly thirty years, serving with distinguished ability on the bench in the legislature, in the lower house of congress, as attorney general of the state, and as chairman of the state democratic executive committee. His recent campaign, prior to the democratic primaries, took him into every county of the state and his platform appearances introduced him to thousands of fellow Texans who had heretofore known him only by reputation.
His bride is a daughter of a family which has been identified with Fort Worth history almost from its beginning. A monument to John Peter Smith, her father, stands in the triangular park near the federal building and building this city during his lifetime here. In the minds of many Fort Worth never had a citizen who did more for his adopted town than John Peter Smith.
Aside from the prominence her family has had in Fort Worth's history, Judge Bell's bride has held a first place in the circle of acquaintances is limited by the borders of the state.
At the wedding ceremony Wednesday evening Bishop Garratt of Dallas was the officiating minister. The guests were Mrs. Florence Peak Howard Peak, William Beall Smith, Sam Smith, Miss E. E. Young and Judge R. F. Milam and Miss Ollie Peak.

HEAVY FINE IMPOSED

One Hundred and Fifty Dollars and Three Years in Jail

For theft of property under the value of $50 in two cases, Judge Robert F. Milam of the county court imposed fines of $150 with three years in the county jail on George Armstrong Thursday. Armstrong entered a plea of guilty in both cases.
This is the heaviest punishment imposed of late in the county court for a long time, and if Armstrong satisfies the sentence of the court by "laying out" the necessary part of the judgment, he will be four years in jail for stealing less than $100.

downright funny to hear Chairman Lyon talking seriously about investigating.

The things that Bell, Brooks and Colquitt said about Tom Campbell in the recent state campaign are not a circumstance to what they could have said about Edmund J. Davis, the last republican governor of Texas, and some of the recent republican gubernatorial nominees in Texas.

There may not be but one bona fide republican organization in Texas, but Chairman Lyon cannot designate it. The next national republican convention will be called upon to settle the point as to which is which in Texas. Ned Green has a long roll and knows just exactly how to use it.

And Ned Green is going to keep Chairman Lyon very busy from now until the day of the election.

THE CONFESSION OF PIERCE

H. Clay Pierce, president of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, has at last been cornered and compelled to admit the domination of his company by the Standard Oil company. In St. Louis a day or two ago, Attorney General Hadley of Missouri dragged some very compromising facts out of him, but the part of his testimony in which the people of Texas are directly interested is as follows:

"When the license of the first Waters-Pierce Oil company to do business in Texas was revoked and we sought to settle with the state so as to be able to continue business there I was told very frankly by a prominent citizen of Texas that the people of that state would not tolerate the methods of the Standard Oil company and that no corporation controlled by that company would be permitted to carry on business in Texas.

"I explained the situation fully to the executive committee of the Standard Oil people and they agreed that I should organize a new company, the stock of which I should hold, and that I should manage and control the company absolutely free from any dictation or direction of the Standard Oil company. This was done and in order that the company should conduct its business in strict accordance with the laws of every state in which it was operating, I placed the attorney of the company on the executive committee with instructions to examine all reports and transactions to the end that no law should be violated. I earnestly desired the company to respect and obey the laws of every state and I felt under special obligations to comply strictly with the laws of Texas. Up to the spring of 1904 the Standard Oil company made no attempt to interfere in any way with my management and control of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, but at that time they transferred the stock which had stood in my name to Mr. M. Van Buren and began in other ways to assume a control over the affairs and operations of the company.

"I protested against this conduct as a violation of my agreement with me and as contrary to the representations which I had made to the people of Texas. After frequent interviews and discussions on this point the management and control of the company were again committed to my direction and my son, Clay Arthur Pierce, is now president of the company and conducting it as an independent business company."

That "prominent citizen of Texas" referred to is doubtless Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, who was instrumental in having the Waters-Pierce Oil company readmitted to Texas. And Senator Bailey should have gone further. He should have told President Pierce that subterfuge would not work in this state and a simple transfer of stock would not answer the requirements of the situation.

BEEF SCANDAL DID NOT HURT.

The beef scandal revelations made this year do not appear to have hurt the output of the big Chicago packing houses in anything like the proportions generally estimated. In fact, their domestic business for the first seven months in the year, during the greater part of which time the country was agitated by the exposure of conditions alleged to be prevailing in the packing houses, actually increased.

This showing is made in the report of the department of commerce and labor of domestic trade movements in July, and for the seven months of 1906 from Jan. 1. Shipments of packing house products from Chicago during July amounted to 203,552,930 pounds, in contrast with 192,490,724 in July, 1905, and 136,569,716 in 1904. During the first seven months of the present year similar shipments aggregated 1,675,436,262 pounds, nearly 3,000,000 in excess of corresponding movements in 1905, and over 250,000,000 greater than in 1904. The three largest items were 679,941,665 pounds of dressed beef, 510,712,163 pounds of cured meats and 248,929,252 pounds of lard.

Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company, says that the increased domestic trade was due largely to the big cotton crop in the south. "The south has had an enormous crop of cotton, and the country is full of money and prosperity," he says. "There has been considerable of a demand for beef, and a big demand for ham, bacon and other hog products. The south has never given us so much trade before. There has been no yellow fever there, the factories are running, and the people are living off the fat of the land. In a general way conditions are more prosperous than ever before. The population is increasing, there is more money per capita, more money in the savings banks, more employment, and the same at better wages. It would be strange indeed if the meat industry, even with the backlog it received a few months ago, did not reflect this general prosperity."

J. Ogden Armour says: "The domestic trade has remained reasonably firm in spite of the attacks made upon the packers. What trade we lost is gradually coming back. The exports are still pretty low, but we hope to regain lost ground. The moral effect of the new inspection service is fast recovering our trade for us."

"I am surprised," says Louis F. Swift, "that the domestic trade has stood up so well. Exports have dwindled down to such a degree that I have been giving that situation my entire attention."

CROWDING THE CATTLEMAN OUT

D. E. Ramsey, a prominent stockman of Lockney, Floyd county, was here yesterday on business with the comptroller's department. Mr. Ramsey is also a relative of the late comptroller, R. M. Love. Mr. Ramsey said that the cattle in his section of the state are being driven out at quite a rapid rate, due to the fact that the land values have increased in that part of the Panhandle country to such an extent that it is too costly for pastures, and, consequently, the stockmen have to seek new quarters. Mr. Ramsey, who owns an extensive ranch in Floyd county, is now on his way back home from El Paso county, where he has been making an effort to buy a large tract of land to move his ranch. He said that there is a great deal of land in the central part of El Paso county, but in order to make it worth anything, not only for cattle raising, but for agricultural purposes, artesian wells would have to be bored and the land irrigated. Lands which have been devoted to pastures heretofore in Floyd and adjoining counties and sold for $3 and $4 an acre now cannot be bought for less than $10 and $15 an acre, and in some instances it cannot be purchased at these figures.

The stockmen are selling their lands at these figures and seeking new quarters. Mr. Ramsey said that they are finding this more profitable just at this time, as the cattle raising industry is being rapidly demoralized on account of the beef trust keeping the price of cattle down to a minimum. In fact, he said this industry is practically ruined by the trust.—Austin Statesman.

There is no portion of Texas that is improving so fast as the great Panhandle country. In no other portion of the state is there such a steady and persistent demand for lands, and land values have enhanced until they are now at a figure regarded as impossible only a few years ago. The big ranches have disappeared before this demand for homes like chaff before a stiff Panhandle breeze, and there is nothing left for the cattlemen to do but to give place to those who are coming after them and developing the country along new lines.

There is something peculiarly pathetic in the passing of these old-time Texas pioneers—these rugged and honest blazers of the way for an advancing civilization. And in their retirement from the scene of their former usefulness and activity, they are carrying with them the best wishes of all the people. They are the ones who have made this later development possible, and upon their shoulders rested all the early burdens incident to the first settlement of the country. Their work was so well accomplished that it has made other things much easier for those who came behind.

At St. Louis William J. Bryan gave evidence of harkening to the storm of adverse criticism that was produced by his government ownership of the railroads proposition. He said at St. Louis: "It is government supervision that I stand for first. If that fails, then we must try more radical measures." But that is not the way he talked at Madison Square Garden. It is evident, however, that William J. Bryan is not too old to learn a thing or two.

The capacity of the cotton mills at Sherman is to be considerably increased, and similar action has been taken by the other mills operating in the state. There is so much prosperity attached to the operation of these manufacturing institutions that it is surprising there is not a rush to build more mills in all parts of Texas.

Fort Worth is growing at a rapid rate these days, but houses cannot be constructed fast enough to fill the very active demand. Both business and residence property are falling far short of the actual requirements.

The democratic election law should not be permitted to stand in the way of a fight to a finish between Colonels Cecil Lyon and Ned Green. No harm can come to democracy through the impending political engagement between those gentlemen.

Colonel Tom Campbell, the Texas gubernatorial nominee of the democratic party, has gone to Hot Springs to spend some time for the benefit of his health. The best wishes and applications for office of his friends will follow him.

It was very inconsiderate in Colonel Tom Campbell to furnish his postoffice address for the next several weeks before leaving Texas. And during the time he is resting he will continue to hear from his loving friends.

The Roosevelt majority of 36,000 in Maine was reduced to about 8,000 by the democrats in the recent state election, and it will be conceded on all sides that this is going some.

The friends of Colonel Tom Campbell should not crowd him too closely. He is not yet in position to distribute the pie.

THE TEXAS PRESS

At Temple the attorney of ten young men, accused of stealing watermelons, asked the jury in the course of his argument if any of them had, in the days of their youth, swiped a watermelon. It was natural that a verdict for acquittal was rendered.—Gainesville Messenger.

The question to the jury was a leading one and struck home with such force that it knocked all the cases out of court. There are few men who have not been tempted in this manner and fewer still who were proof against temptation.

One thing is certain: If Bryan should by chance win out in his government ownership of railroads, it is safe to bet that he wouldn't do so much junketing on them.—Austin Statesman.

As Bryan is a man who always pays his railroad fare, and has repeatedly refused the use of special trains, it is evident that the Austin paper is drawing rather heavily on its imagination.

What does the President want to shorten the word "kissed" into "kist" for? Who wants "kiss" shortened? If he had recommended that it be lengthened somewhat after this fashion, "kississseeeeee," there would have been some sense in the "reformed" method of spelling it. An abbreviated kiss is a sort of a deputy smack.—Texarkana Courier.

The man who would abbreviate such an ecclesiastical procedure certainly has no poetry in his soul and little regard for the good things of life. But it may be the loss of such things is but the natural consequence of Rough Riding.

When Texas and the southern states manufacture all the cotton grown, the United States will have to annex the British Isles and issue railroads to them to keep them as a luxurious possession.—Gainesville Messenger.

When Texas begins to manufacture all the cotton produced within her borders our people will begin to enjoy the full measure of prosperity they are entitled to from the production of more cotton than any other state in the union.

The Kansas City Star suggests that one way to grapple with the apple barrel shortage this year is to let the hogs eat the Ben Davises. The question is, will the humane society allow it?—Houston Post.

VERIFIED THAT RING

THE LASS BENEATH THE BONNET

When the triumphs and the conquests of the heart are counted o'er,

When they tell of love that flourished in the days of nevermore,

When they weigh the charms of loving and the amorous dwell upon,

'Round whose tender recollections music echoes, roam and run;

When the world has worn one weary with its flammour and its flash,

With its chain of charming maidens carrying hearts with sweep and dash,

Then a vision looms before me and a song sounds sweet and low—

Ah, the lass beneath the bonnet that I loved so long ago!

The old-time, striped sunbonnet, where she used to hide her face,

The sweet, old-fashioned lilacs that she carried with such grace,

The curls that used to dangle where her shoulders sloped so sweet,

The little schoolgirl figure with its touch of grace and petite,

The little checkered apron and the skirt of Highland plaid—

Ah, the vision makes me merry and the echo makes me sad,

For through tides of time that flow not another lass I know,

Has smiled beneath a bonnet as she smiled so long ago!

Purple splendor of adventure marks the marches of the heart,

Modern love is like a measured and a very mundane art;

Hands are offered, hearts are bartered, Cupid wears the dollar mark,

And the sweet, old-fashioned spirit dies upon the circling dark.

John Glenarm, a roving young engineer, is willed an estate near Anandale, Ind., by his grandfather, on condition that he lives there a year, else it will revert to Marian Devereux, New York, niece of the elder Glenarm's friend. Young Glenarm, returning to New York from Africa, is informed of the terms of his grandfather's will by Pickering, a lawyer, his former schoolmate, whom he greatly dislikes.

He accepts the term of his grandfather's will, and, starting for Indiana, accidentally meets his chum, Lawrence Donovan. The two dine at Sherry's, and see there Pickering, accompanied by a young woman whose face impresses Glenarm.

While Glenarm is seated in his grandfather's house, the first evening of his arrival, a bullet whizzes by his head and flattens itself against the wall.

He accepts the terms of his grandfather's will and goes to Indiana. On the night of his first stay he is shot at while seated by the fireplace, but fails to discover his mysterious assailant. Next morning he takes a walk to the nearby village and returning sees a fight between his lone servant, Bates, and Morgan, a villager.

Twice, returning to the house, Glenarm hears voices and once while walking in the woods at night he catches a glimpse of a woman in the shadow of his grandfather's house.

After a parley, Morgan flings his hammer at Glenarm and the latter fires his revolver, but both miss. Morgan becomes convinced that Bates and Bates are rogues in league and that it was Morgan who fired at him through the window the first night of his stay at his grandfather's house.

This belief is further strengthened when, after a tour of his grandfather's house, Morgan, comes across Morgan and the two have a three-revolver battle. Morgan is wounded and Glenarm learns next day through Rev. Paul Stoddard, chaplain of St. Agatha's school nearby, that Morgan wishes word of his condition sent to Pickering.

FAIR OF LEAVES-DROPPERS.

When I came down after dressing for dinner, Bates called my attention to a lettered mail. I pounced eagerly upon a note in Laurence Donovan's well-known hand, bearing, to my surprise, an American stamp and postmarked New Orleans. It was dated, however, at Vera Cruz, Mexico, Dec. 15, 1901.

Dear Old Man: I have had a merry time since I saw you in New York. Couldn't get away for a long time, but I am now on my way to be taking my case seriously, and I was lucky to get off as a deck chair on the southbound boat. I expected to get a slice of English prodigal veal at Christmas, but as things stand now, I am grateful to have even in this God-forsaken hole in the British bulwark is eager to insert its teeth in my trousers, and I was flattered to see my picture bulletined in a conspicuous an air of assurance, and I heard him address someone who had been waiting. The mist was now so heavy that I could not see my hand before my face, and I stole forward, until I could hear the voices of the two men distinctly.

"Bates!"

"Yes, sir."

I had my feet scraping on the stone floor of the porch.

"This is a devil of a place to talk in, but it's the best we can do. Did the young man know your name for you?"

"No, sir. He was quite busy with his books and papers."

Humph! We can never be sure of him.

"I suppose that is correct, sir."

"Well, you and Morgan are a fine pair, I must say! I thought he had some sense, and that you'd see to it that he didn't make a mess of this thing. He's in bed now with a hole in his arm and you've got to go on as usual."

"I'll do my best, Mr. Pickering."

"Don't call me by name, you idiot. We're not advertising our business here."

"Certainly not," replied Bates, humbly.

The blood was roaring through my head, and my hands were clenched as I stood there listening to this colloquy. Pickering's voice was—and is—unmistakable. There was always a purring, husky undertone to his voice, and me at school of a sleek, complacent cat, and I hate cats with particular loathing.

"Is Morgan lying or not when he says he shot himself accidentally?" demanded Pickering petulantly.

"I only know what I heard from the gamester's house at school. You'll understand, I hope, that I can't be seen going to Morgan's house."

"Of course not. But he says you have played fast and loose with him, even attacked him a few days after Glenarm came."

"Yes, and he hit me over the head with a club all the while, and he said, 'You are a damned liar, you are!' He wanted to go through the library in broad daylight, and it wasn't any use, anyhow. There's nothing to tell."

"But I don't like the looks of this shooting. Morgan's sick and out of his head. But a fellow like Morgan left Bates to shoot himself accidentally, and now that it's done the work's stopped and the time is running on. What do you think Glenarm suspects?"

"I can't tell, sir, after his mighty little. I should say. The shot through the window the first night he was here seemed to shake him a trifle, but he's quiet settled down now. I should say, sir."

"He probably doesn't spend much time on this side of the fence—doesn't have the chance. He is a good fellow."

"Lord, no, sir! I hardly suspect the young gentleman of being a praying man."

"You haven't seen him prowling about analyzing the architecture—"

"Not a bit of it, sir. He hasn't. I should say, what he is doing is—"

Hearing yourself discussed in this frank fashion by your own servant is, I suppose, a wholesome thing for a young man, but it stands behind your chair may acquire, in time, some special knowledge of your mental processes by a diligent study of the back of your head. But I was not half so angry with these conspirators as with myself, for ever having entertained a gentleman's thought, and to know that Morgan was lying to Pickering, and that my own exploits in the kitchen were known to the people who were to be the nearest target for it. I went to the kitchen, where the usually spent his evenings, to vent my feelings upon him, only to find him gone. I climbed to his room and found it empty. Very likely he was off condoling with his friend and fellow conspirator, the caretaker, and I fumed with rage and disappointment. I was thoroughly tired, and I went to bed, but I wished, in my impatient anger against myself, to induce an utter weariness that would drag me exhausted to bed.

The snow in the highway was well beaten down and I swung off countryward past St. Agatha's. A gray mist hung over the fields in whirling clouds, breaking away occasionally and showing the throbbing winter stars. The walk, and my interest in the alternation of star-lighted and mist-wrapped landscape won me to a better state of mind, and after tramping a couple of miles, I set out for home. Several times on my tramp I had caught me whistling the air of a majestic old hymn, and smiled remembering my young friend Olivia, and her playing in the chapel. She was an amusing child; the thought of her further lifted my spirit; and I turned into the school park as I passed the outer gate with a half-recognized wish to pass near the barracks where she spent her days.

At the school gate the lamps of a carriage suddenly blurred in the mist, and I was not surprised to find that this was the familiar village hack that met trains day and night at the Glenarm station. Some parents, I conjectured, paying a visit to St. Agatha's; perhaps the father of Miss Olivia Gladys Armstrong had come to carry her home for a stay at his home, than Sister Theresa's school afforded.

The driver sat asleep on his box, and I passed him and went on into the grounds. A whim seized me to examine the crypt of the chapel and examine the little group of school buildings a man came hurriedly toward me and turned toward the chapel.

I first thought it was Stoddard, but I could not make him out in the mist and I waited for him to put twenty paces between us and he followed along the path that led from the school to the chapel.

He strode into the chapel porch with

Evidently, chewers cannot resist the flavor and they cheer SCHNAPPS because SCHNAPPS cheers them more than any other chewing tobacco and every man that chews SCHNAPPS passes the good thing along—one cheater makes other cheaters—until the fact is now established that there are many more chewers and pounds of tobacco chewed, to the population, in those States where SCHNAPPS tobacco was first sold than there are in the States where SCHNAPPS has not yet been offered to the trade.

SCHNAPPS is like a cup of fine Java coffee, sweetened just enough to bring out its natural, stimulating qualities. SCHNAPPS pleases all classes of chewers; the rich, because they do not find a chew that really pleases them better at any price; the poor, because it is more economical than the larger 10c. or 15c. plugs and they get their money's worth for the real snappy, stimulating flavor so appreciated by tobacco lovers. All imitations contain much more sweetening than SCHNAPPS. They are made that way to hide poor tobacco improperly cured.

For the man who chews tobacco for tobacco's sake, there is no chew like SCHNAPPS.

MAYOR MILLER EXPECTED

Coming from Weatherford to Attend K. of P. Encampment

Responding to an invitation sent to him last Sunday, Henry Miller, grand keeper of records and seals of the Order of Knights of Pythias, Tuesday wrote that he would try to come to Fort Worth to be with the Uniform Rank members at the encampment the two Fort Worth companies will have at Lake Erie Sunday and Monday next ensuing. If he can come, Mr. Miller will be here Sunday.

GARTERS FOR KNIGHTLY COP

Woman Makes Present of Supporters as Reward

One of the officers of the city police recently promoted to the ranks of patrolmen, made a recovery of some lost property belonging to a woman in the exuberance of her gratitude at the recovery of her belongings she sent the patrolman a present, and when it was opened in the corporation court Wednesday morning the present proved to be a pair of flaming red stockings supporters.

No, Maude, dear; talking machines were unknown in the days of Adam, but still he had Eve.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period. BUY LOT FOR CHURCH

Swedish Lutherans to Build at Broadway and Jennings Avenue

The Swedish Lutheran Gustav Adolfs church purchased a lot Wednesday on the southeast corner of Jennings avenue and Broadway. The consideration was $4,000, of which one-third was paid in cash. The lot is 100x100, has a beautiful location and is well suited for the missionary work of the church, the Scandinavians being located in various parts of the city. The congregation was organized Nov. 8, last year, with Rev. Theo. Seashore pastor. Services have been held in Wells Mission, in Texas street. The congregation is yet small, but has to all appearances a bright future. There are quite a number who take active interest in the work. The Dorcas Ladies' Aid Society has a membership of about twenty-five and the Y. P. S. Concordia numbers over thirty. It will be the aim of the congregation to push the work of subscription so that the lot may be paid for and a suitable place of worship erected. In this way the Swedish Lutheran church, which now in the United States numbers over 25,000 members, will be admirably represented in Fort Worth.

JOHNSON GRASS BUSY

Hemphill Street Lots Furnish Opportunity for Spread of Pest

At the corner of Hemphill street and Cannon avenue, extending south on Hemphill, nearly a half block, there is a luxurious crop of Johnson grass that threatens to take that portion of the city. The grass is now fully ripe and high and there is only a two-foot pass-way through it for pedestrians to walk along. This grass just after a shower has a sticky, glutinous quality and there is general complaint in that part of the city against existing conditions. About two blocks north of the above mentioned grass is on the opposite side of the street, there is another promising and much larger crop of Johnson grass growing like wild fire on a plot of ground nearly three-quarters of a block in area. This ground was recently filled with a lot of soil hauled to it and since then the Johnson grass has taken almost entire possession of the block.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

Is worth a pound of cure. There are many poor sufferers, consumptives who are hopeless of getting well—who, if they had taken care of themselves, would now be well. A cough is the foundation of Consumption. Horshoed Syrup will cure that cough. Mrs. S.—Great Falls Montana, writes: "I have used Edward's Horshoed Syrup in my family for years—my children never suffer with coughs." Sold by Covey & Martin.

NEW YORK STOCKS Spinners Becoming Anxious—Heavy Liverpool Sales Stimulate Local Market. Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—An excellent demand for spot cotton with surface indications that spinners are becoming more interested, as reflected by the relatively heavy Liverpool sales—1,200 bales being taken—along with reports of firm markets throughout the south, frightened the shorts, with the result that bulls had easy sailing today on the local futures market.

NEW YORK COTTON New Orleans Cotton Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13.—Distinctly favorable foreign advices regarding the spot situation paved the way for successful bullish operations on the local cotton market today, and while the crowd seemingly took but little interest in the game, the significance of the large Liverpool spot sales could not be ignored and a rise of 7 to 8 points in the market was followed by another jump of 2 to 3 points in the first few minutes, due to active covering by shorts. But even this could not dispel the lethargy which surrounds the market and on the advance trading was reduced to the minimum scale. However, scattered covering was noted at all times and the gain was maintained up to the noon hour.

CHICAGO GRAIN Wheat Prices Rise Almost a Cent on Dull Market—Strength of Cattle and Hogs Causes Advance. Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 13.—The wheat crowd was bullish almost to a man today, higher Minneapolis prices and the strength of coarse grains being the cause for the change of opinion. But despite this sentiment trading was not heavy and the principal characteristic of the session was its dullness. Nevertheless, buyers in the pit found offerings very scarce and it was a comparatively easy matter to shove prices up 7/8c, the market being firm at all times and finally practically at the best.

CATTLE AND HOGS Steers Steady to Strong—Cows Steady With Week's Decline—Calves Easy—Hogs Strong. Special to The Telegram. CATTLE MARKET. The market for a liberal run, 3,400 head and half the supply consisted of calves. Steers. Beef steers firm almost entirely from the territory, north Texas supplying a few loads. All the beef cattle were grassed, though some loads had been previously winter fed. Packers were active in the trade, but having materialized over night. This activity strengthened prices, two loads of choice grassy making $3.50, four loads $3.50, and from that point the price dropped to $3.25 on the just good steers.

DISCUSS COTTON RATES Waiving of Thirty-Day Provision is Urged by Georgian. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—Further hearing was given by the Interstate Commerce commission today on the question of waiving the thirty-day notice to propose changes of rates on the shipment of cotton. One of those who took part in the discussion was Samuel Brown of Albany, Ga., farmer and banker, who yesterday urged the waiving of the thirty-day provision. He was asked if the New York people skinned the farmers, to which he replied: "They skin everybody they can. Any man who is fool enough to put money in the New York Cotton Exchange ought to be skinned."

QUIET IN WARSAW RIOTS IN ODESSA Citizens Are Urged to Massacre All Jews. Warsaw, Sept. 13.—This city is quiet. The authorities are suppressing every slightest attempt to start anti-Jewish attacks. On account of the large German interests in the banks and commerce in Warsaw, German intervention is feared in case of serious disorder. URGED JEWISH MASSACRES ODESSA, Sept. 13.—Anti-Jewish agitation is rife. Wall spaces, sides of houses and telegraph poles throughout the city are plastered with proclamations issued by the "Triad of Russian People," urging the patriots to combine to exterminate the Jews. This action has aroused grave apprehensions among the Jewish community, both Jews and Christians. It is reported the Jewish town of Koppin, district of Kamenez, was burned down by peasants.

UNFAIR DECISION CAUSE OF ASSAULT

Roy Hartzel

"The umpire has his troubles in all leagues," according to Roy Hartzel, the third baseman who was purchased for $2,500 by the St. Louis Americans from Denver last season. "The Western League was no exception to the rule. I remember a rather strenuous time the Denver club had with Umpire Schuster at Stone City in 1904. Both teams were fighting for the pennant. We had men on first and second when a fly was knocked to right field. The fielder misjudged it, and fell as he got his gloved hand on the ball. He sprang to his feet with the ball in his bare hand, and Schuster allowed his claim of a caught fly, when it was palpable that he had knocked the ball down with one hand and picked it up with the other."

"Big Bill Everett protested against the decision, and was put out of the game. In the next inning Schuster called one of our men out at second when he was safe by a step. There was lots of kicking, and the umpire slapped on a few fines. Next Randall, our first baseman, grabbed him by the throat, and while they were struggling little 'Nig' Ferring struck the umpire in the face. The game ended in a row, the fans declaring we were right in our protests. That night Perrine and Randall were arrested, and the next day they were fined $10 each in police court. They were suspended for three days by the president of the league. Umpire Schuster did not fine either of the men for assaulting him. Randall threatened, if he were fined, to send Schuster to the hospital, and I believe he would have done it, too."

Commission Engineer Recommends Improvements

Special to The Telegram.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 13.—There seems to be a big demand in the eastern cities just now for cowboy husbands. Postmaster Stevens of this city has received letters from Louisville, Ky., Pittsburg, Pa., Knoxville, Tenn., and other cities from young ladies asking him to send them addresses of cowboys. The only qualifications specified is that the men are "real cowboys," honest and sober.

The two first is easy, but the latter provision may be a stumbling block in the paths of some of the cowboys that might aspire to the hands of the eastern belle.

Mr. Stevens is thought to know just why the cowboys are above par in the matrimonial market, but is inclined to think it is due to the reading of some of the late novels that make heroes out of the Texas riders of the range. Letters were received today by the postmaster from Miss Archedy Kule, a black-haired, brown-eyed girl of 18 at Knoxville, Tenn., and one from Miss Anna Pauley, a blonde and blue-eyed young lady of 22, of Fincal street, Twenty-fifth ward, Pittsburg, Pa.

The report of Engineer Thompson of the physical condition of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway was made last night in Austin Wednesday. The report generally criticises the light rails in use on a part of the track, lack of sufficient ballast in places, ties too low, and other things, and recommends the substitution of heavier steel for that now in use, of more ties and an rebuilding of the roadbed where it is needed. A part of the delays in the passenger service have been caused by derailments and part by the inability of the road to handle the increased traffic which has come to the line. The unprecedented wet weather, the use of heavier equipment and the remarkable increase in the tonnage of the line are also adduced as causes for the troubles which have come to the line and which gave some basis for the complaints.

The Denver road has 387 miles of the entire 454 miles, from Fort Worth to Texline, laid with heavy steel, by which the road is carrying six to six and one-half million tons of freight a year. The other sixty-seven miles are laid with sixty-pound steel. There are forty-five miles of road with one hundred-pound steel, beginning at Childress and extending south. The other in use is eighty, seventy-five and sixty-five pound.

Supply of Steel Delayed

Superintendent Cotter regards the report as a fair one, and, from the railroad's point of view, practical one by a man who understood what he was investigating. Orders have been placed by the Denver for over a year for steel for the track, but the management of the road knew was necessary. But they cannot get the steel from the mills and they will be glad of any increased supply of steel that will help them in this respect.

They are also over 100,000 ties short of orders placed last year for delivery this year, and while the steel laying schedule, it was in contemplation of use this year. The program for improvements of the line contemplate the laying of light rails that will be out of the track by the first of March, 1907.

One of the serious troubles has been the matter of ballast. When it never rained or rained but little a shortage of ties and a relatively small supply of ballast did not make so much difference. Recently, however, the good supply of fine ballast has been found and will be used as fast as possible. The rebuilding work will proceed as fast as those who are to furnish the material comply with their contracts. The rebuilding work will go forward as fast as the road can get the men to do the work. They want many more men than they have now and will need all they can get.

Concluding Mr. Thompson in his report submits the following propositions as necessary to relieve the Fort Worth and Denver City railway of the conditions complained of and which, when effected, will avoid the trouble and delays incident to the present situation, viz.:

1. The replacing of all 56 and 58-pound steel rail with a heavier rail, but more particularly those portions of the line where the rails are forty miles; from Bellevue to Henrietta, sixteen miles; from Wichita Falls to Oklahoma, forty miles; from Goodnight to Deer Creek, twenty miles. The remainder of the road, with here and there a few car loads of ballast, can be made to safely carry the traffic until the first portions mentioned are completed.

2. The removal of from 10 to 15 per cent of the ties on the average over the entire road.

3. The reduction and rearrangement of the present passenger train schedules to such an extent that until the betterments suggested and proposed are completed these trains will be able to, approximately at least, run on their published time.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. The deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface of the Eustachian tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

ADA, I. T., Sept. 13.—This city was visited last night by the heaviest rain ever seen at any time by any of its inhabitants. A small branch, running through the west part of town, overflowed its banks and the water was over 100 yards wide. The houses along its banks and along the Prisco rail-roads stood from the water, and the water. The people had to abandon their homes. Women and children were carried out on horses at 1 o'clock this morning. The water was about one block south of Main street, was impassable, while Main street was from one to three feet under water. The damage to furniture, grain, fences and houses will reach into the thousands.

Nothing has been heard from the country, but it is thought that the damage to crops will be enormous. The bottom crops were almost ruined by previous rains, and it is thought that the rain last night has ruined them. On Aug. 1 there was never a finer prospect for a crop; at this time the prospect never looked darker.

Rain in Indian Territory Cripples Santa Fe Service

Special to The Telegram.

ARDMORE, I. T., Sept. 13.—The Santa Fe's train service north of here is completely tied up on account of heavy rains which washed away a portion of the track. The southbound trains were annulled and no trains were operated south of Purcell.

A large number of passengers were held for several hours between a washout. It is reported that on the Shawnee branch of the Santa Fe several hundred feet of track has been washed away and train service is crippled. A large force of workmen is repairing the breaks in the track.

The rain in the territory yesterday was very heavy and much damage to crops will result.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 13.—The little plant guatule, which looks so much like a weed, is still giving the state authorities trouble, and to property classification. If it can through any stretch of the imagination be classified as timber, it will enable the state to sell the land on which it is located at a much higher figure than to let it go as straight grazing land.

The plant yields a very fine quality of rubber, and lands on which it is located are coming into great demand from promoters of the rubber industry. The attorney general has just had specimens of the plant sent him from Brewster county forwarded to New Orleans for analysis.

Girl Drinks Carboic Acid When Told to Go to School

Special to The Telegram.

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 13.—To keep from going to school, Lillian daughter of John S. Stevenson of this city took about three teaspoonfuls of carboic acid Saturday night, the result of which she suffered agonies, and there is very little hope held by the attending physicians for her recovery. She had protested vigorously to her father, against going to school, but he insisted that she must go.

She came to town that afternoon and purchased the carboic acid and nothing more was said about the school until that night, when she went to her father, put her arms around his neck and said: "Father, do you love me?" He answered, "Yes, of course I do." Then she said, "Do I have to go to school?" He told her that she would and she replied, "Well, I may not be here Monday morning," retiring to her room.

NOW A SUBURBANITE

Former Alderman Henderson Living at Step 6

John F. Henderson, the district manager of the Southwestern Telephone and Telegraph Company, is now well located at "Step 6" on the Interurban, and expresses much pleasure with the conditions which now surround his home life. He has quick, regular and frequent facilities for going to and from his home and place of business in the city and yet has all of the advantages of the rural life, even though his home is nearly 900 feet from the street car line. But then, he says, it is sandy out there and even in wet weather offers no such inconveniences as he has suffered heretofore when he lived down in an unpaved part of the Seventh ward.

LETTER TO TURNER & DINGEE, Fort Worth, Texas.
Dear Sirs: If you could get the exclusive sale of a sweeter sugar for five miles round—5 1/2 as sweet as a pound of usual sugar and cost no more—you'd jump at it, wouldn't you?
There wouldn't be 100 lb of any other sugar sold in a year in your town; you'd gobble the trade; and it wouldn't hurt your whole business.
Devoe is like that among paints; it is twice as sweet as some; it is sweeter than any; not one exception; one gallon is two or one-and-a-half or one-and-three-quarters.
Ester than that; paint has to be painted; that costs $2 to $4 a gallon. A gallon saved is $2 to $4 saved in labor, besides the pains; it is sweeter than any; not one exception; one gallon is two or one-and-a-half or one-and-three-quarters.
Even that isn't all. A gallon Devoe put-on wears as long as two gallons put-on at a cost of $2 to $4 a gallon and two gallons more put-on at $2 to $4 a gallon. Count all that. The paint that wears double costs less by 3 gallons of paint and 3 gallons of painter; that's about $15 a gallon for those superduo gallons.
That's as good as a double-sweet sugar, isn't it?
Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO., New York.
P. S.—Brown & Vera sell our paint.

Colonel Mills of El Paso Dies Suddenly at New York Convention

Special to The Telegram.
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Cheers and good natured banter directed toward herself were ringing in the ears of a young woman who left a balcony at Carnegie Hall at the Independence League convention last evening in response to a summons from the stage. She went smiling from the place to learn of the death of her father, who had only a few moments before escorted her to her seat. He was Colonel Theodore B. Mills, a delegate from the Fourteenth assembly district. He had taken his daughter, Mrs. C. O. Horner of El Paso, Texas, to a box in the auditorium. Then he stepped to the street door and fell dead of apoplexy.

PEDLER SNATCHES PURSE

Man Visits Houses on Prominent Street, Making Haul at One

Special to The Telegram.
WACO, Texas, Sept. 13.—Considerable excitement was caused in the Austin street along the residence portion here yesterday, when an itinerant pedler snatched a purse from the hat rack of a prominent citizen's home and fled. He was followed by a crowd of men who held out with it. He selected the principal street of the city upon which to operate and then went into only the most imposing residences.
In many instances he did not wait to knock, but merely opened the door and went in to search for the lady of the house. When he would find her he called in each instance that he had stolen to see if any old clothes were for sale. He was ejected from the premises, as he wished to purchase them. He was ejected forcibly from several places, but continued his quest undaunted.

A CRISIS AVERTED

George Nelson stopped to comfort his wife before leaving on his morning trip to the office. A slump in the market had brought them to the edge of financial ruin, and while he doctored his nerves against odds all day, care and despondency were put aside in the home. Things had reached such a crisis, however, that the doctor's aid would be of little avail. It is claimed he could only urge her to be brave.

"The best we can do will be to start over again. I shouldn't mind going down if I hadn't to drag you with me."
"It's three weeks, dear," she said, "and the market may advance. Besides we have been living extravagantly. I will be able to get along with ever so little. It's no disgrace, you know. Many people have failed. You've been unlucky, that is all."
"Worse than that," he exclaimed. "I've been a fool and a criminal to engage in speculation that will bring me to this."
Almost three weeks later Mrs. Nelson walked disconsolately up and down her drawing room. Settling day, which she had expected to see a few days distant. She was surveying the treasures of the home with which they were soon to part company. All the contents of the luxury would be sold to be exchanged for the bare necessities of life. She shuddered at the thought.

"Mr. Hertton," announced a maid, and a few minutes later the visitor was ushered into the room. Tall, cord, with heavy eyes, fashionably dressed, he looked the part of the rich idler. He had amassed millions in the market and the thought flashed upon Mrs. Nelson that perhaps he might help. The stocks were bound to rise in a month. Mr. Hertton could carry the amount of the slightest effort.

Tactfully she directed the conversation from light to deeper channels and then frankly told of the calamity that was now at hand.
"Why not let me help?" he asked. "It would be a small matter."
Gratefully she stammered her thanks and impulsively she held out both hands to him. "We shall repay you every penny," she said.
Hertton took the outstretched hands and drawing her slightly his way, said:
"It is such a trifling matter I ask no thanks; nothing, only one little kiss."
Chilled with horror the woman withdrew her hands. "How dare you!" she exclaimed, "I have by a supreme effort regained her composure, she ordered him from the house.
With shining eyes Nelson dashed into the house that evening. He embraced his wife and then exultingly told her how he had sold the shares at a price that not only replaced his investment but left a small profit.
"We shall go to the play tonight, and forget all our troubles." Then he added, "I see Hertton has been here. Do you know I thought once of asking him for money enough to tide us over, but I feared he would want to

SEES TEXAS' GROWTH

Kansas City Railroad Man Impressed by Signs of Development

A. L. Fisher, traveling agent of the Chicago and Northweg agent of the headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., is in the city Thursday morning, returning to his home after a week's trip through the state. Mr. Fisher says he is supposed to come down and do Texas about four times a year for the business the road gets out of the state justifies more attention than they have been able to give it lately; his trips now come under the annual head, for it was July of 1905 when he last made a trip in Texas.
"But," said Mr. Fisher, "it has one value, that long interval. It brings more forcibly home to me a realization of the vast improvements all of live Texas cities are making, and then I come into a much higher appreciation of the stories of Texas prosperity, of which we see so much in print now. They are not up to the truth, that's all. I have been far away from Galveston, Houston, Dallas, and indeed, all of the more important places in the state, and everywhere it looks very good to me."
