At 9 o'clock the governor, accompanied by his staff and many prominent citizens, proceeded to the Juarez theater, where they listened to the reading of the declaration of independence and the singing of the national hymn by a prominent vocalist.

Band concerts were given on the various plazas during the afternoon and evening. At 5 o'clock a grand military pageant, participated in by thousands, was formed and marched through the principal streets of the city until 7 o'clock, when it was disbanded. There was not the slightest disorder to mar the celebration, and so peaceably was the affair carried out that the authorities say it will tend to counteract the effects of rumors of an antiforeign feeling which have been rife for some months past No reports of trouble have been received from any point in the states of Tamaulipas. Nuevo Leon or Coahuila, the three states traversed by the lines of the merger system and the Mexican Central. Cheer Roosevelt

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 17 .- Reports from all points throughout the country, including the cities of Monterey, Saltillo, San Luis Potosi, Tampico, Torreon and hundreds of smaller towns, show that not the slightest disturbance marred the celebration. Patriotic speeches were a part of the program in the majority of the towns and cities, platforms having been erected in most instances on the main plaza or in front of the municipal building. A most noteworthy event in the celcbration of the day occurred in the city ci San Lils Potosi, one of the largest in Mexico, teing the capital of the state of the same name. One of the speakers referred to Pres-Gent Roosevelt and spoke of the binging friendship existing between the two countries and then referred to the part played by the Presidents of the sister republics in bringing about peace between Honduras, Guatemala and Salvader during their recent trouble. Upon concluding his speech the thousands of people present burst out in a mighty roar of "vivas" for Presidents Roosevelt and Diaz.

The demonstration was perhaps the first in the history of the country made in favor of a foreign president. San Luis Potosi has a good-sized American colony, it being the center for both the National and Mexican Central railroads, and the good feeling displayed by the citizens of Mexico on their national holiday toward the Americans and their President is considered as one of the best indications of the lack of any anti-foreign feeling on the part of the citizens of this country for their northern neighbors.

Juarez Celebration

Special to The Telegram. EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 17.-Independence day in Juarez passed off without an unpleasant incident. The absence of drunken men was particularly noticeable, due, of course, to the fact that the saloons were all closed tight. There was not a street fight or brawl; in fact, better order prevailed than on any previous Sept. 16. The crowd was perhaps the largest in the history of the city, due to the fact that the bull fight season opened. Americans from El Paso had no hesitancy about crossing the river, and attended the celebration and the bull fight in larger numbers than usual.

The celebration consisted of a big parade in the morning, band concerts and popular diversions in the afternoon, speeches by prominent citizens, and a grand display of fireworks at night, together with more band concerts. No reports have been received here of trouble anywhere in the re-

Sullivan Declares Nebraskan Will Be Forced to Drop Senator from Party

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Sept. 17 .- The Chicago Record-Herald says:

"What will William Jennings Bryan do with Senator Joseph Bailey after yesterday's testimony by H. Clay Pierce in the Grute case at St. Louis?" was the question Illinois democrats, more especially those of the Roger Sullivan and John P. Hopkins brand, were gleefully asking today. These men insist that Bryan must not only read Bailey out of the party, but practically chase him out of the political pasture.

"Bryan cannot make fish of one and fowl of another," said Roger Sullivan. "If he proposes to put me out of the party because I have an interest in Ogden Gas, a small local concern, he must take fully, if not more, drastic action concerning Senator Bailey, whose close connection with H. Clay Pierce of the Standard Oil Company was shown in the testimony at St. Louis."

Mr. Sullivan had just read the testimony of H. Clay Pierce, who, in de-fending a suit for alleged salary filed by Grute, testified that he had turned Grute over to Bailey to be used as he saw fit, and that he had also turned over to Bailey oil and railway stocks to the amount of $13,000,000 to handle as he deemed best, as he (Pierce) was too busy to attend to this trifle.

Illinois democrats believe Bryan will have to cudgel Bailey off the political map or soften appreciably in his attitude toward Roger Sullivan and other men of the party who are connected with "certain corporation interests," There was much chortling in the

Sullivan camp, for it is figured that if Bryan starts out to demolish every democrat who is earning a penny through the corporation questions asked," he will soon have a sorry following and there will be a tremendous void in the campaign fund's

Mayor Dunne said: "Throw out all these alleged democrats who are connected with corporations." The Hearst wing also is hostile to Senator Bailey for the first time, and all the democratic factions of Illinois are united on the propriety of reading out Senator Bailey.

TALE OF A DOG AND ALSO A MULE

Crowd of 300 Persons See Comedy in Main Street

A dog catcher, a mule, a yellow coundramatis personea in an exciting scene on the public square Monday morning that created more interest in a big crowd than anything since the circus was in town. A mangy, yellow, sneaking country dog was standing at the corner of Main and Weatherford streets, calmly taking in the sights and watching the street cars roll by, when the dog wagon entered upon the scene and the dog catcher, a tow-headed boy, caught onto the dog from the country. In a jiffy the boy had a lariat around the dog's neck, and then there ensued a struggle that beat the band. The dog reared, pitched, howled and pulled and finally got under his master's wagon, the boy still holding to the rope, not watching where he was being steered. The dog was wise, however, and pulled the box right behind the heels of the mules hitched to the wagon, and the mule, not liking the situation, fired away with his left hind foot and landed on the boy's short The boy went out from under the wagon with a well-developed pain in his make-up, and the dog started off toward Benbrook. The boy caught his wind, however, and connected with the end of the rope around the dog's neck at the corner of Houston and Weatherford streets. He held on manfully to his prisoner and called out to the driver to bring up the dog ambulance, in which was a big white bull dog and several other canines. The racket made by the boy and the country dog excited the buildog and he pitched onto his fellow prisoners and choked one of

WOMAN KNOCKED DOWN Woman Struck by a Team and Painfully Hurt

In crossing Main street at the corner Twelfth street, at about 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, Mrs. F. S. Hutto was run down by a team of horses hitched to a light buggy while in company with her husband, sustaining several slight bruises on the body and slight fractures of the right wrist and the left foot. It is presumed by the physician that the horse's hoof only struck her foot, as no bones were broken. The wrist was sprained by the fall to the pavement. Mrs. Hutto is slightly deaf and says that she did not hear the warnings of the driver in time to avoid the accident. Her injuries are not of a serious nature.

ruptcy case of J. W. McGaughy of Aledo, Texas, Monday by W. B. Paddock, referee in bankruptcy. J. J. Parker will leave for Galveston Monday evening to accompany Mrs. Parker to that city. Mrs. Parker is suffering from hay fever and has decided that she will derive great benefit from a month's residence on the sea coast and with the chances favoring a permanent cure. There will be an important busi-ness meeting of the All Saints Hospital Association in the hospital building at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The building is located at Eighth avenue and Magnolia street. L. C. Maynard, clerk of the local United States court, returned Sunday night with his wife and little son after a three weeks' vacation visit to relatives at Rock Island and Canton, Ill.

He reports a very pleasant trip. The firm of L. Eppstein & Son has sold to J. W. Champ the city lot located between the two telephone buildings in Throckmorton street, south of Tenth. The deal was closed last Saturday by Buck Smith, the consideration being $5,500. Ownership of this lot and two adjoining lots was transferred last March in the office of Tempel & Modlin, the amount involved being but $13,500, which goes to show the rapid increase in property values in this section of the city.

"There is really more truth than fiction in the seemingly exaggerated stories of the development of the Panhandle country," said Britain R. Webb, who returned vesterday from a trip to New Mexico and the Panhandle. He is confident that Amarillo will soon be a city of 25,000 and the metropolis of the great plains country. The town is growing by leaps and bounds, he says, while the west part of the plains land surrounding it is likewise taking on a healthy growth. He states that a fair estimate of the immigration pouring into the Panhandle and Pecos valley of New Mexico will approximately reach 25,000 people each month. He reports conditions in the Pecos valley country flourishing with prospects of still greater development of the un-limited resources during the coming fall and winter. Apples, the greatest fruit crop of the valley, he reports, are being shipped out by the train loads, while other classes of fruit are raised in abundance this season.

With all the phenomenal growth and development of Northwest Texas and the Pecos valley of New Mexico, Mr. Webb thinks that Fort Worth outclasses it all in permanently of growth and development and believes that the Panther City is threatened with enlargement to such an extent that Dallas may in the course of a short time be entirely absorbed.

F. & M. BANK IN NEW HOME

Office Has Been Enlarged and Luxuriously Furnished

The employes of the Farmers and Mechanic National Bank were kept especially busy Monday entertaining compliments paid on the magnificent new banking room in the Hoxie building, by many friends and visitors. The offices were beautifully adorned with vases of La France roses and ferns and tall palms were stationed in the main rotunda.

The room is one of the prettiest for its use in the city, all office cages opening into the rotunda. The offices are faced with Tennessee marble, trimmed in brass, with brass gratings, while the inside of each is finished in mahogany. With the president's open office first at the left and the cashier's office second, come the cages of the tellers, bookkeepers, collectors, etc., the line ending on the epposite side of the room. White tile flooring and cream colored walls and ceiling frescoed in old gold give out a saft bright light. On darker days and at night stained glass bulls' eyes throw a subdued light from the heavy columns in the center of the room, one over each check desk. Clusters of incandescent lights are arranged on the ceiling between the decorated joists. 'The plan of illumination is a new departure in local architecture. Hostilities Suspended
By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 .- Secretary Taft's departure for Cuba had a beneficient effect of suspending hostilities in Cuba. By the time Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon arrive at Havana, both parties to the insurrectionary troubles will be prepared to confer with them as to the restoration of peace and a permanent suspension of hostilities. Advices received today and overnight at the state department simply tended to confirm the press dispatches from Havana of arrangements making for the suspension of hostilities until the subjects of differences will be considered with Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon Palma's Proclamation cablegram received from Mr. Sleeper, the American charge at 'Havana, confirmed the statement that President Palma had issued a proclamation directing active operations against the insurgents be suspended for a time except in instances where self-defense was necessary.

Mr. Sleeper also indicates that the insurgents too indicated their intention of suspending military operations until they have had an opportunity to consider the situation with Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon. In the situation as developed within forty-eight hours, Commander Colwell is not in position to take any definite action, pending the arrival in Cuba of Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon. The state department was notified today by cable companies that the cable connecting Bermuda with Cienfuegos had been interrupted, and as the land that lies between that city and Havana was cut last week, there is no means of communicating with Havana except by messenger.

Agree to Quit Fighting

HAVANA, Sept. 17 .- The insurgent eaders, Marquetti and Carillo, have withdrawn their forces from Guanajay and agreed to a suspension of hostilities pending peace negotiations. Other insurgent leaders, so far as they have been heard from, are also agreeing to a suspension of hostilities.

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 17 .- J. T. Cleere aged 44, died on a street car this morning while en route to the city from his home on Montgomery avenue. He had been feeling badly and a few moments after boarding a Highland Park car was seized with convulsions, expiring as the car was running down the busy main street. FAMOUS TRAMP OPERATOR DEAD

Frank Carpenter's "Circuit Breaks" at Las Cruces, N. M.

"Carp," the chief tramp telegraph operator of the United States, who succeeded "Bogie," or Bogardus, who was the chief in his day, is dead. He died Thursday at Las Cruces, N. M., and was buried there.

"Carp's" preper name was Frank K.
Carpenter and there was no better known telegraph operator in the United States than he was. He had tramped the world all over, working tew days at one place, and would then pull out for the next town, where there was a telegraph office. There were few better telegraph operators in his day than "Carp" was, and when not "boozing" he was competent to hold down any job. But there must have been Gypsy blood coursing through his veins for he was never known in twenty years to stay at one place over a week. Like "Bogie," or Bogardus, who he succeeded and who succeeded Ellsworth, "Carp" was eternally on the tramp, and for twenty years was never known to have as much as $15 at one time, a day after he would quit work. "Carp" would always strike a town dead broke, and his first operation would be to interview some operator with a job and negotiate a loan of from 25c to 50c. This he would repeat with others of the craft until he had got enough together for a bath, a shave. a square meal and a clean shirt, and then he would open up negotiations for a few days' work, which he invariably secured on promising to be good during working hours-that is, that he would not "booze." From Maine to California he tramped, and from the great lakes to the Rio Grande he took in all the telegraph offices in his day.

For twenty years he made Fort Worth, and here he always fared well, for the boys all like him, even with all his faults and all his weaknesses. At the time of his death he was about 50 years of age. Where he originally came from is not known, for about himself and his past "Carp" was ever silent. He was often asked:

"'Carp,' where are you from?" And his invariable answer was: "From everywhere except here," and hat was all that was known of "Carp's" past. In getting about the country "Carp" usually used railroad trains, but it was sometimes the case that a conductor was "ugly" and "Carp" would have to hoof it or wait for another train. He made a boast during his life that he never had to take "truck passage" on a train and was not often compelled to resort to the platform of the blind baggage. He was almost as well known to railroad conductors as he was to telegraph men, and was a walking encyclopedia of railroad names, routes and officials from emen up to general managers.

Cole and Johnson

A well known manager once said: 'If Bob Cole were white, I should consider myself fortunate to have him on my salary list at $500 a week, for he is certainly one of the cleverest farcuers on the American (or any other) stage today."

If Cole is a great comedian, his partner, J. Rosamond Johnson, is equally prominent, as a composer and planist and singer. Johnson is a man, although his flowery appelation would suggest the gentler sex. This really talented duo-for years famous as "headliners" in the best vaudeville houses-with Proctor, Roh, etc.-will this season be under the management of Melville B. Raymond, who will star them in a musical, farcical production written by themselves, entitled the 'Shoo-Fly Regiment," which is said by experts to be the cleverest bit of satire given to the stage since Charlie Hoyt's first great successes.

Manager Raymond has surrounded his surrounded his stars with the best colored company ever organized, no expense being spared, and includes such names as Tom Brown, Sam Lucas, famous for many years as one of the best negro comedians; Bob Kelly, etc., Anna Cook, Inez Clough, Mollie Dill, Elizabeth Williams, etc., not forgetting Siren Navaro, the greatest of all Afro-American dancers—toe dancing being her specialty—and a selected chorus of forty. Cole and Johnson will be seen at Greenwall's opera house tonight and tomorrow night.

"A Pair of Country Kids" "A Pair of Country Kids" will be at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday, matinee and night, Sept. 19.-C. S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

The demand for S. S. S. has steadily increased since it was first placed on the market until it is now recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers. It has won its way to success because IT CURES DISEASE, and there are few homes where "S. S. S. for the blood" is not a household saying. As the blood is the very life of the body, nourishing and supplying strength to every part, disease in some form is sure to follow when it becomes contaminated. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Boils, Pimples and the various skin affections are due to an over-acid and impure blood-supply. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood diseases and will continue to grow worse and more danger-ous as long as the impurities and poisons which produce them remain in the blood. In all blood disorders S. S. S. has proven itself a perfect remedy, and well earned the right to be called the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes down into the circulation and forces out all poisons, impurities, humors, and unhealthy matter, and makes this life-stream rich, pure and health-sustaining. S. S. S. reaches inherited blood taints and so enriches the circulation that diseases of years standing are permanently cured. It contains no harmful minerals and is nature's real blood purifier. WATTERSON AND BRYAN

Colonels Watterson and Bryan seem to have adjusted their differences and each are now engaged in saying all manner of nice things about the other. but it is interesting to recall some of the honest expressions that Watterson has penned concerning Bryan, together with some of the things the great Commoner has said concerning Watterson. When Bryan was invited to speak in Louisville two years ago, Colonel Watterson said in the Courier-Journal:

"What has Mr. Bryan been doing these same ten years? Their advent found him a bright young member of congress. By a series of accidents, culting in a camp-meeting furore at Chicago, he was snatched from obscurity and whirled heels over head into the party leadership. • • He made no effort to reunite the party. He rather repelled peace-making. All this while, however, he was feathering his own nest, as the saying hath it. He started unknown and poor. He is now rich and famous. He started professing the equality of all. He now sets up for a lordly dictator. But yesterday the party was everything. Today it is ng. He it is who is everything.

"Yet, as a patriot, what sacrifices has he made? As a general, what victories has he won? It is not alone that, preaching Man against Mammon preaching is as though no one had ever preached it before-he appears in the courts struggling with a dow for the greater part of her husband's estate, the will and attendant nents prepared by himself in his own house—the testator not a relation, nor even an old friend—but it is given out, and all the circumstances is and all the circumstances indicate, that he is making common cause with a candidate who will appear before the next democratic national convention literally loaded down with gold; his sole, entire strength derivable from the lavish use of money.

"He is being used, and he will continue to be used, by the republicans as their best exhibit; to divide and fuse democrats; to stimulate and embolden the grafters; to make the eded diversion everywhere deemed nsable to the re-election of elt; and he lends himself to these uses by throwing himself into the breach, backed by Mr. Hearst's millions, to demand his own supremacy and the continuance of policies notori-

"Yet, all this while, Mr. Bryan is not forgetting either his money interest as the owner of a newspaper which lives s which can only flourish whilst he keeps in the foreground of national affairs. No party leader, from Henry Clay to James G. Blaine, ever thought of making such draughts upon the popular credulity. No party leader ever ed of setting up such an autocner, insanity or thrift; but is it sible that, without any other rhyme or reason except the Faith Cure, it has power to lure into its support any sane ocrat who loves his country and his party, and preserves in himself the least spirit of manhood or pride of

Colonel Bryan filled his Louisville engagement and devoted a large part of his speech to Colonel Watterson, In the course of his remarks he handed out the following warm ones to the great democratic editor:

"I have been somewhat in doubt as to what subject to take tonight. I had thought some of money and morals, that being the title of a lecture delivered by Mr. Watterson throughout this country, and I thought as you had heard the subject discussed by one who had neither it might be proper that you should hear it discussed by one who had both. I can prove by Mr. Watter-

WEST OF THE RESIDENCE THE STATE OF THE STATE son that I have money—I only wish I had as much as he thinks I have. I can prove by his editorials that I am a can prove by his editorials that I am a moral philosopher, and therefore must have some claim to morals. My friends, when I say he has neither money nor morals I do not mean to say it in an offensive sense, for if he had money he would not charge it against me as a crime, and if he regarded morals as of more importance that political sagacity, he would not blame me for being a moral philosopher instead of a politician. My friends, I believe we ought to treat those who speak unkindly of us in a different way from that in which they treat us. I have several times been tempted to sit down and write a reply to some of their criticisms, and I have sometimes written replies that I thought might possibly compare in vehemence with such criticisms, but I usually waited until the next day before I had them printed and then I would make up my mind that we ought to fight on a higher plane; the result was that I always tore up what I had said that was unpleasant and offensive, preferring to meet the attack in another way. I do not want to say anything unkind of the gentleman who has spoken unkindly of me. I have learned from experience that there is such thing as total

The worldry woman had been coning the story she said: depravity, and while I have seen some cases that strained my judgment a little, and my theory, I want to say to you that in my judgment there is no one who is not within the reach of held their breath she explained: reason and where reform cannot be mother-in-law." "I read of a character in a book, 'Quo DEGREES OF CONFUSION Vadis,' that impressed me very much.

I have been thinking of this character and I have thought of it in connection with the editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, and it is because I have thought that possibly he might have an end as this character had in one respect, that I have felt constrained to meet his criticism with more xindness of spirit than he has employed in making it. In this book-and I hope you will read it, because I was wonderfully interested in it-in this book there is a character, a desperate character in many respects; one who sold himself to anyone who would employ him and was prepared to betray one as readily as another, but after this vile career, he once was brought in the presence of those who were suffering because of his treachery and finally his better nature gained supremacy in the presence of one whom he had wronged, in the presence of one who suffering because of his betrayal, his conscience got the better of him and he changed completely, and, knowing that it meant punishment and even death, this changed man rose and said, "I, too am a Christian,' and it has given me hope that this man with his devious career and his many betrayals will some time allow his better nature to get the best of him and will rise up and say, I, too, am a democrat and would rather be a democrat in defeat, even death, than wear my pants out at the knees crawling on the ground looking for the trail of a band wagon or a pie wagon.'

GEORGE T. ANGELL If, after the manner of the ancient writers, one might imagine a convention of dumb animals assembled to decide as to who is the most useful man of his generation, there is little doubt that Geerge T. Angell of Boston At the age of 83. Mr. Angell is one of the most interesting as he is the best loved man living today. The work that he has done for the suffering brute creation, accomplished often through great difficulties, makes his name unique in the annals of beneficence. Nearly every law on our statutes for the prevention of cruelty to animals has been put there through the direct or indirect efforts of Mr. Angell. And the public sentiment required for the passage of such laws was largely created by him. For fifty years this grand good man has traveled over the country at his own expense, preaching the gospel of kindness to all the lower creatures. In order to do this work he gave up lucrative law practice and has given his long life, great abilities and insistent energies for the sake of those living creatures who cannot speak for themselves. He began his work in the '60s when there was little public sentiment and scarcely no law for the protection of dumb animals. He often faced detraction, ridicule and mobs. In 1882 Mr. Angell started the American Bands of Mercy, which now comprises an army of 3,000,000 American boys and girls pledged to be kind to harmless living creatures. His endeavors to have the horrors of war and the blessings of peace taught in the public schools constitute a distinct benefaction For forty years Mr. Angell has printed "Our Dumb Animals." face of the little monthly is familiar to every newspaper office. The good man sends it free to every editor. And

In addition to lecturing, instituting suits, editing tons of literature, etc., Mr. Angell was the organizer of the American Humane Education Society which has done good work in spreading humane ideas, and also of the American Social Science Society, which labors in the interests of the public health.

This is an Arabic saying: "When man dies men say 'What property did he leave? but the angels say, 'What good deed has he sent before him?" Mr. Angell will not leave much property. He has spent it for the prevention of cruelty to man and beast, spent time and money and herculean energy to teach the blessings of kindness and mercy and peace. And upon his good, gray head rests the benediction of angels and of men.

Stensland, the defaulting Chicago bank president, who was captured in Morocco, attempted to commit suicide after his capture, but was prevented from settling the account in that manner. Death would doubtless be welcome to him now, but he is going to be compelled to square the account with a reasonable amount of hard labor.

The number of suicides that are constantly occurring via the carbolic acid route should suggest to druggists the propriety of being a little more careful in the sale of this deadly noison. And the laws of the state should make it just a little more difficult for carbolic acid and kindred poisons to fall into the hands of the purchaser.

The Trinity and Brazos Valley railway has filed an amendment to its charter moving its general offices to this city from Cleburne. And it was the only proper procedure. Fort Worth is the railway center of the south-

That Reminds Me

WHAT THEY WOULD DO In a certain school district one of the trustees was a crank on the sub-ject of fire, and when he visited a school with the examining inspectors he always confined his remarks to a question addressed to the pupils as to what they would do in case the building caught fire. Knowing this little peculiarity, the master had coached his pupils as to the answer which they should give. When the visitor called, however, he simply said to them: "You boys and girls have listened so attentively to your master's remarks that I wonder what you would do if were to make you a little speech?" To the consternation of the master a hundred voices shouted in unison:

A city clergyman, detained at a country inn by an accident to his carriage, called up his family on the long distance telephone. No sooner was he in communication with his wife than he was informed that she had two friends and their families with her for the night; that all was confusion and he must hurry homeimmediately.

"My dear," said the clergyman, smiling into the inanimate transmitter, "really, you don't know what confusion is. Why just now about a dozen thirsty German tourists entered this inn and the excited proprietor can't find a mallet with which to remove the bung."

MUST HAVE GUESSED A young club member met a fellow member the day after he had been made a happy father. "Congratulate me." he said, "we have the finest baby in the world at our

After the regulation routine opening exercises the names of visiting comrades was called for and W. R. Waller and J. J. Mullin of Seymour being reported present, they were invited to seats on the platform. The card of withdrawal of T. H

A picture of the home of Stonewall Jackson, presented to the camp Ly Mrs. Arch Earle, was received and thanks of the camp voted the donor. Historian C. C. Cummings for the committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of J. C. Wilson, a member of the camp, read the resolutions and delievered a brief address eulogizing deceased as a soldier and citizen. He also read an extract from the National Veteran regarding the next national reunion, which will be held at Jamestown, Va., telling that there will be there from Tennessee a full regiment of veterans of the war between the states, uniformd and equipped with modern acoutrements. Sergeant Tom Rattan read well the poem, "Growing Old Gracefully," but wished it understood that the poem had no reference to himself, as he was still a youngster. Snap shots taken of the late Confederate reunion at Confederate Park, were presented to the camp by S. T. Blessing and accepted with thanks. The election of a sponser for the camp at the Dallas reunion was on the program at Sunday's meeting and, on motion, it was taken up. Only members of Julia Jackson Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, are eligible to this honor. Adjutant W. M. McConnelll put in nomination Miss Margaret Burney and made a brief talk in her behalf, saying her election as sponser would be a proper acknowledgement of her effective work in selling tickets to the Bob Taylor lecture; besides she was in every other respect well worthy of the honor. The Mexicans at the fair grounds are nonsectarian and antirevolutionary junta work which has already caused much trouble.

FAVOR TWO-CENT FARE West Wants Reduction But Says Time Is Not Ripe

Special to The Telegram. HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 17 .- S. M. Williams, secretary of the Pennsylvania state Board of Trade, has made public copies of letters received from the governors of several states on the movement to obtain uniform legislation throughout the United States for a 2-cent maximum fare on all steam railroads. Mr. Williams recently communicated with the governors of all the states with a view of obtaining their sentiments on this question. A number of the governors are personally favorable to a 2-cent fars, and in a few instances they tell of the movements in their states to obtain, the passage of such legislation by the legislatures. Governors of some of the western states say that because of the sparsely settled condition of their states the time is not yet ripe for a radical reduction of fares, but that such reform will come about when the population increases. The western governors express their approval of the movement so far as it applies to the thickly populated states of the east.

RUNAWAY FATAL

Boy Dragged Over Ground and Skull Is Fractured Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Sept. 17 .- While the 14-yearold son of Thad Eddins, a Delta county farmer living on Craig Prairie, was returning home on horseback from Cooper yesterday evening the horse became frightened and ran away. The boy was thrown from the saddle, but his foot caught in the stirrup and he was dragged a considerable distance. Some men ran out into the road and tried to stop the horse, which caused it to shy. The boy was raked along the side of a wire fence, the sharp barbs cutting and tearing his flesh. His head struck again a fence post, fracturing the skull. The boy was rescued more dead than alive. His recovery pronounced hopeless.

MEXICAN CROPS FAIL

Duty on Grains May Be Removed on October 1

Special to The Telegram NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17 .- H. W. Nathan, commercial agent of the National Railroad Lines in Mexico, received a letter from Assistant General Freight Agent J. H. Drake of that system today stating that the Mexican government will probably remove import duties on corn and other grain, effective Oct. 1. This contemplated action, it is said, has arisen as a result of the crop failure in Mexico, particularly corn. Mexico is a large consumer of American grain.

WITTE DENIES ATTACK Ex-Premier Says His Life Was Not Attempted

Special to The Telegram HAMBURG, Sept. 17 .- Count Witte, ex-prime minister of Russia, who is being treated here for polypi of the nose, is much annoyed at the utterly untrue report published in the United States that an attempt was made on his life by an anarchist named Rosenberg at Soden, Saturday. Count Witte is taking no precautions, as he is not in fear. He is out of Russian public life now, his friends say, and is not regarded as the object of a terrorist Synopsis of Previous Instalments John Glenarm, a roving young enneer, is willed an estate near Anhandale, Ind., by his grandfather, on condition that he live there a year, else it will revert to Marian Devereux of New York niece of the elder Glenarm's friend. Young Glenarm, returning to New York from Africa, is informed of the terms of his grandfather's will by Pickering, a lawyer, his former schoolmate, whom he greatly dislikes.

He accepts the term of his grandfather's will and, starting for Indiana, accidentally meets his chum Laurance Donovan. The two dine at Sherry's, and see there Pickering, accompanied by a young woman whose face mpresses Glenarm. While Glenarm is seated in his grandfather's house, the first evening of his arrival, a bullet whizzes by his head and flattens itself against the He accepts the terms of his grandfather's will and goes to Indiana. On the night of his first stay he is shot at while seated by the fireplace, but fails to discover his mysterious assailant. Next morning he takes a walk to the nearby village and returning sees a fight between his lone servant, Bates, and Morgan, a vil-Twice, returning to the house, Glenarm hears voices and once while walking in the woods at night he comes across Morgan sounding the wall of his grandfather's estate with a hammer. After a parley, Morgan flings his hammer at Glenarm and the latter fires his revolver, but both miss. Glenarm becomes convinced that Morgan and Bates are rogues in league and that it was Morgan who fired at him through the window the first night of his stay at his grandfather's

This belief is further strengthened when he, after a tour of his grandfather's house late at night, comes across Morgan and the two have a flerce revolver battle. Morgan is wounded and Glenarm learns next day, through Rev. Paul Stoddard, chaplain of St. Agatha's school nearby, not of finality. "I was there by in-tention, and"—there was another hint that Morgan wishes word of his condition sent to Pickering.

"You little know us," I declared, for Pickering's benefit, "Life at Annandale is nothing if not exciting. The people here are indifferent marksmen or there'd be murders galore." "Mr. Glenarm is a good deal of a with my broadest salaam. CHAPTER XV.

I Make an Engagement The southbound train had not arrived and as I turned away the station agent again changed its time on the bulletin board. It was now due in ten minutes. A few students had boarded the Chicago train, but a greater number still waited on the farther platform. The girl in gray was surrounded by half a dozen students, all talking animatedly. As I walked toward them I could not justify my stupidity in mistaking a grown woman for a school girl of fifteen or sixteen; but it was the tam-o'-stanter, the short skirt, the youthful joy in the outdoor world that had disguised her as effectually as Rosalind to the eyes of Orlando in the forest of Arden. She was probably a teacher-quite likely the teacher of music, I argued, who had amused herself at my expense. It had seemed the casiest thing in the world to approach her with an apology or a farewell, but those few inches added to her skirt and that pretty gray toque substituted for the tam-o'-shanter set up a barrier that did not yield at all as I drew nearer. At the last moment, as I crossed the track and stepped upon the other platform, it occurred to me that while I might have some claim upon the at tention of Olivia Gladys Armstrong, a wayward school girl of athletic tastes, I had none whatever upon a person whom it was proper to address as Miss Armstrong, who was, I felt sure, quite capable of snubbing me if snubbing fell in with her mood. She glanced toward me and bowed instantly. Her young companions withdrew to a conservative distance: and I will say this for the St. Agatha girls: their manners are beyond criticism, and an affable discretion is one of their most admirable tratts.

"I didn't know they ever grew un so fast-in a day and a night!" I was glad I remembered the number of beads in her chain; the ttem seemed at once to become important "It's the air, I suppose. It's praised by excellent critics, as you may learn from the catalogue.' "But you are going to an ampler ether, a diviner air. You have attained the beatific state and at once take flight. If they confer perfection like an academic degree at St. Agatha's, then-" I had never felt so stupidly helpless in my life. There were a thousand things I wished to say to her: there were countless questions I wished to ask; but her calmness and poiss were disconcerting. She had not, apparently, the slightest curiosity about me; and there was no reason why she should have-I knew that well enough Her eyes met mine easily; their azure depths puzzled me. She was almost, but not quite, some one I had seen before, and it was not my woodland Oli-Her eyes, the soft curve of her cheek, the light in her hair-but the memory of another time, another place, another girl, lured only to baffle me. She laughed—a little murmuring

"I'll never tell if you won't," she said. "But I don't see how that helps me "It certainly does not! That is a much more serious matter, Mr. Glen-

"That matter is closed. Wherever you are on Christmas Eve I shall find you," I said, and felt my heart leap, knowing that I meant what I said. "And the worst of it is that I haven't a single thing to say for myself. It wasn't the not knowing that was so "Good-by," she said, turning away.
"I'm sorry I shan't ever chase rabbits utterly stupid-" "Certainly not! It was talking that ridiculous twaddle. It was trying to flirt with a silly school girl. What will do for fifteen is somewhat vacuous for—" at Glenarm any more."

"Or paddle a cance or play wonder-ful celestial music on the organ."

"Or be an eavesdropper or hear pleasant words from the master of Glenarm—" She paused abruptly, colored and "I'am twenty-seven!"
"And I am just the usual age," she

CROP GOING TO WASTE Tom Green Farmers Refuse to Employ Negroes and Mexicans Scarce

Special to The Telegram. SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 17 .-Owing to the fact that the farmers of Tom Green and the surrounding counties will not employ negroes or permit them to reside in that section even temporarily the cotton fields are reported to be going to waste for lack of pickers. In that section of the state the negroes have never been permitted to come and farmers declare that they would never have their crops gathered if they had to employ negroes to do the work. Heretofore Mexicans have done the work, but owing to the stricter immigration laws and the demand for labor all over the state this class of labor cannot be secured this year.

olds that the southern and other cotton-carrying railways operating in the erritory east of the Mississippi river and south of the Potomac and the Ohio rivers may have permission to equalize export rates on cotton, cotton seed and make changes in their export rates on these commodities without the thirty days' notice required by the new rate

The commission holds that carriers may legally issue through bills of ladng from the interior point of shipment to a foreign destination, which specify the interstate rate to the port of export and the ocean rate from the port

The commission orders that "no published rates on cotton shall be advanced except upon thirty days' notice; which the rate will continue in effect." As to cotton seed and its products and lumber, the petition is denied. Freight traffic officials attach unusual importance to the hearings by the subject of import and export freight rates, which began in Chicago Monday and will continue perhaps for several days. The hearings began in Washington last Wednesday and adjourned, to be resumed in Chicago Monday afternoon. The hearings in Chicago will over export and import rates on coton, grain and commodities and at the some other large shipping center for

At a meeting of the Gulf Foreign Freight Association, an organization of foreign freight agents, held in Chicago last week, the interstate commerce law relating to export and import rates was the principal subject discussed. This question has been the source of many perplexing situations and the many conferences which the foreign freight agents have had with the commission and among themselves has resulted in no conclusions enabling them to agree on the privileges and restrictions imposed upon the operation of three departments by the new interstate commerce law. Many of the railroads have taken a bold stand, contending that the new law does not pro-hibit indiscriminate changes in joint ocean and rail rates ,owing to the constant fluctuation of water rates.

NO MATINEE FOR SCHOOL GIRLS

Cleveland Board of Education Proposes to Stop Theater-Going Special to The Telegram.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 17 .- The board of education proposes to inaugurate two sessions daily at the high school to keep the girls away from the theaters. The school board does not approve of the matinee. "The theory that the half day session gives pupils a clear afternoon for study does not work out that way," said Member S. P. Orth, "Many boys spend the afternoon at athletics and the girls attend social functions or the matinee."

the regular meeting Monday evening are the sidewalk obstruction, the question of the amendment or repeal of the anti-skating on the sidewalk ordinance and the franchise tax on the rights granted for the building of street railway lines recently voted to the Northern Texas Traction Company, if that question comes before the city council. There are several ways in which that can be done, though any action Monday evening is not the most highly probable thing, for the reason that the vote on the question has not yet been sub-mifted to the city council and that body has not had its final say in the matter. Up to noon Monday there were no matters of importance to the general public filed for the consideration of the council at the Monday session.

W. S. Knight bought two bales of middling cotton Saturday in Houston street at 9 cents. He stated that during the day he saw five bales pass his store, all appearing to be about the same grade.

"Judging from the reports brought to me by farmers through this section am expecting to see nearly 100 bales here during the next week. Of course it can't be extra cotton, in view of the reported damage by rain and weevil ravages, but there will be several buyers on the streets and it all will be taken up. Practically No Changes in Texas Temperatures

Clear weather prevails over Texas Monday, with practically no change in local temperatures. Wharton county reports a local rainfall of 1.74 inches Sunday night, Cooler weather is pre-dicted for Monday night and Tuesday, with scattered showers. Heavy rain in Florida and light showers in Louisiana, Virginia and North Carolina are reported. Otherwise the cotton belt region is enjoying clear weather, with slight and unimportant changes in temperature. Freezing temperature is noted in middle Wyoming, resulting from the high barometer now overlying in Rocky mountain regions. Clear and cool weather is the rule over the entire northwest. Low pressure is noted over Iowa. Kansas and as far south as the Texas Panhandle, causing rains day night and Monday morning. New York reports a minimum of 60 degrees and such cool weather is the rule through the entire northeast section of the country. The southeast parts report low barometer with rains onday in North Carolina and Virginia. High winds are noted over the Carolina coasts. Temperatures reported from extreme sections are: Spokane, 70 and 46; Chicago, 82 and 72; Knoxville 82 and 62; Galveston, 88 and 80, and Amarillo, 86 and 54.

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17 .- The approach of a bureau is already being felt in many ways. People come into the market only for quick turns and as a bullish bureau is a certainty any decline in the market attracts buying by shorts. The result of all this is a narrow market and a small fluctuation. Spot demand is good for special purposes only, as for instance to file early salling stations but the general run of business is slow.

Futures gradually worked up to 9.25c for December. There is no change in the fundamental composition of the cotton situation, but one of these periods seems to have arrived during which one faction has the advantage of temporary conditions and circumstances and as the bulls are the favored ones at the moment, bears use reserve and caution for the time being.

NAME CENSUS WORKERS

Superintendents of the Various Wards Appointed

Plans for taking a religious census of Fort Worth were completed at a meeting of the Fort Worth Sunday School Superintendents' union, held Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist

At the meeting on the previous Sunday J. G. Reeves was elected general superintendent of the whole work of taking the census, and he in turn at yesterday's meeting appointed a superintendent for each ward and suburb as follows:

First ward-W. E. Bilheimer. Second ward-B. G. Leake. Third ward-Yet to be supplied. Fourth ward-J. C. Foster. Fifth ward-H. B. Cerveny. Sixth ward-M. E. Hindman. Seventh ward-Judge Ocie Speer. Eighth ward-O. S. Lattimore. Ninth ward-W. S. Matney. Glenwood-Jurant Shepherd.

North Fort Worth-I. T. Valentine. These ward and suburb superintendents will divide up their territories into districts and appoint a superintendent for each district.

The information which will be sought at each house will be if all or any of the family belong to any church. If so, to which, if not, for what church have they a preference; also if the children attend Sunday school, If so, which, and if not, where their preference would be for attendance.

It is the desire of the superintendents to take the census of the whole city in one day, and possibly in half

Several hundred names of workers who have pledged to devote their time to the work Tuesday, Sept. 25, the day set apart to take the census, were handed in at the meeting.

A program was arranged and a call was made for a great mass meeting of all superintendents, pastors and workers at the First Baptist church at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. A part of that program will be to simplify the details of all the work of taking the census. No less than one thousand to fifteen hundred workers are expected at this meeting.

The first Florida oranges of the season were received Monday morning by a local fruit firm. The shipment consisted of 200 boxes of the golden fruit and came from Tampa, Fla.

For oranges to be coming in from Florida at this period of the year is something unusual in that here!ofore the fruit was never placed on the Fort Worth markets until the latter part of September.

The oranges received foday are of exceptionally fine quality, being quite sweet and comparatively free of seeds.

OLD PACKING HOUSE REPAIRED

Will Be Used For Ice Making and Desiccation

The Southwestern Mechanical Company, which has general charge of the repairs of the ice-making machinery and all of the other machinery in the two packing houses, in the matter of repairs over and above the minor repairs, which any competent machinist can make, is overhauling and rebuilding the machinery of the old or Hoxie packing house, burned some months ago, which will be operated as soon as finished for ice making and for fertilizer deslucating. The work is under the supervision of J. Caldwell, who has very recently moved here from Kansas City, Mo., and who will live permanently in Fort Worth.

Mr. Caldwell is a practical engineer who has made a specialty for years past of water pumping machinery, and may be induced to give some views about the more economical management of the water pumping at the Fort Worth city water works.

BOY BURGLAR CAUGHT

Found in House and Held for Police Officers

49,321 The police got a hurry call about 2 o'clock Monday for an officer to go, instanter, to Bryan avenue to take away a boy who was locked in the house. The telephone story to the chief is that the boy was found in the house, and they locked him in the room where he was discovered. They did not want him, and, naturally, sent in the call for the officer. The mounted men were both out on duty, Sergeant Newby was at dinner and the services of Jack Jarvis were impressed, the chief loaned his horse and Jarvis went after that boy

Arrests Numerous There were forty-seven arrests made by the police from about 9 o'clock Saturday night to Monday morning and of the number twenty-eight were negro vags of the male sex, who, the city marshal said, could be doing good work in the cotton fields just now, or working on some of the railways, where they were short handed.

Special to The Telegram. BACON AND EGGS DISH FOR KINGS

Henfruit Now Selling at Thirty Cents a Dozen

 The bride and bridegroom are among the most prominent and popular young people of the so cial set. Among the many valu-• able and costly presents they re-• ceived was one dozen of eggs.— • • Extract from Telegram's society • • news, Sept. 17, 1908.

Are we coming to the time when hen fruit will be more costly than strawberries in December?

Fort Worth grocerymen who are asked that question, after quoting the price of strictly fresh egsg at 30 cents a dozen, say they don't know. Then they politely suggest that you might find storage eggs just as good at slightly lower figures.

Anyone who has ever met a storage egg unmasked knows as well as the grocer that in a pumpkin pie nobody can tell the difference, but poached and on a piece of toast-well never The old standard dish of bacon and eggs, dear to the palate of anyone who has ever lived on a plantation or ranch where fowl were abundant and hogs raised only for domestic consumption. is no longer for any but the luxurlous. Bacon at less than 25 cents a pound has qualities suggesting equality with cold storage eggs, and the result is the favorite combination dish takes its place among relishes and dainties. No one professes to know why the hens have struck at this particular season of the year. It is too late for a summer vacation, the weather has not been unseasonably hot, and in this year of abundant prosperity all over Texas, no chicken ought to have cause for complaint at not getting enough to

CAMPERS IN DRILL

Pythians Put Through Paces at Lake Erie

Drill of the Uniform Rank companies, Knights of Pythias, at Lake Erie was well attended Sunday afternoon. There were about six or eight sets of fours in the drill and the time was devoted mostly to field movements. Gen Tiller commanded the two companies, with Captain Chollar and Lieutenant Strathdee acting as the lieutenants, and some of the work done was really creditable for the short time the new men of Ruby have been in the rank. The tents held from four to six men each and were well filled Saturday and Sunday nights. The commissary was well managed and there was a bountiful supply of barbecued meat, coffee, camp kettle beans, bread, crackers, fresh tomatoes, onlons and bacon, in addition to those things which were sent out, already prepared, from the homes of the members, Grand Keeper of Records and Seals Henry Miller, the mayor of Weatherford, and Major Shoup of Terrell, the latter on the brigade staff, were visitors during the afternoon of Sunday.

There was a basket picnic Monday and the camp will close with a grand ball at night, which will be the last ball of the season at Lake Erie, other than strictly private balls.

The little experience has been of decided value to the men and they will not have so many new wrinkles to learn when they go to New Orleans, as many or most of them will.

FARMERS ANXIOUS FOR RAILROAD

Georgetown-Fort Worth Project Causing Much Comment

The people along the route of the proposed Fort Worth-Georgetown Railroad are evincing a great deal of interest in the proposition. The last issue of the Killeen Messenger contains several letters from prominent citizens of various interested towns, giving words of encouragement and in cases pledging material support. A meeting was held at Killeen Saturday afternoon, at which delegates to the Fort Worth meeting, in furtherance of this road, were selected. That meeting is set for Sept. 24. Among the letters a few may be named. One is from W. W. Gardner, secretary of the Farmers' Railroad club of Florence. A pledge of support is given and the promise is made to send a delegate or more if desirable to the Fort Worth meeting. John R. Beaver writes from Godley strongly in favor of the proposed road, and gives some statistics showing the importance of that community as a freight producer. Mayor Davis R. Hall of Gatesville is much in favor of the plan and will co-operate with the Gatesville Board of Trade, to the extent of his ability, and is sure that the citizens will do all they can. P. A. McCarthy, a civil engineer of high standing, writes from Lufkin that he is familiar with the country through which the line is planned, thinks the project is feasible and is sure of good business if built. These are only fair samples of the interest evinced along the proposed line.

ent peculiarities Practice Not Prohibited by Law, but that're hard for the Attorneys Declare to Work Unfair ordinary tailor to Advantage to Certain Attorneys

> It is talked around the court house that the grand jury now in session has been looking into the matter of lawyers employed by men and women charged with crime furnishing bonds for said parties. There is no law against a lawyer becoming security on the appearance bond of his client and it is not know what object the grand jury could have in investigating a practice that has been engaged in to considerable extent at Fort Worth Some lawyers who are not so situated from a property standpoint as to be acceptable as bondsmen have been heard to complain that they have no show at the criminal business for the reason that the lawyer who will sign the bond of a man charged with crime has a cinch on getting employed to defend the case. It is not positively known that the grand jury has been investigating this matter, but developments give color to the report in circulation that such an investigation is going on. A number of lawyers have been approached and asked if they would sign an agreement not to sign bonds in criminal cases. Quite a number have agreed to enter nto such an agreement and others have declined to do so on the ground that there is no reason why they should; that they have not indulged in the practice of making bonds for their clients in the past and do not propose to do so in the future. Quite a number of lawyers who do not practice in the criminal courts have not been asked to sign the agreement.

The records of the courts show that bonds in criminal cases to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars are signed by the attorneys for the defendants, and the records of the assessor's office show that some lawyers have not rendered for taxation property valued at one-twentieth of the amount called for by the bonds on which they are se-
