EVELYN NESBIT THAW REVEALS LIFE STORY

While Her Husband Lays Bare His Whole Soul FOR THE FIRST TIME She Tells of Her Past—Confides in New Attorney for the Defense

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Not only has Harry Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, bared his whole soul for the inspection of a keen-eyed lawyer from the west, Delphin Michael Delmas, of California, engaged to defend him for a fee of $100,000, but his wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, to save her husband, for the first time has told at one sitting the whole story of her life, her secrets and of the matters before and after her marriage to Thaw that led to the killing of White.

Harry Thaw, in a talk—a confession—lasting nearly three hours in the Tombs, placed his earthly life in his lawyer's keeping. In like manner the young wife today reveals the whole story of her life to the man from the west. This afternoon she is expected to have another long conference with the lawyer.

Pinning his whole faith to his listener, Thaw talked to the keen-eyed man of fifty as a small boy might have pleaded his way out of a rash act. The young millionaire's lips moved rapidly. He got up and walked and talked in the corridor of the Tombs, wagging his arms and when toward the end his nervousness made his life story a bit rambling, the little man got up suddenly, with an energetic play of his short body. "Are you going?" asked Thaw, somewhat in protest.

"Yes," said the little man, adjusting his nose glasses and brushing the black string back from his cheek. "I'm going to prove to any jury of twelve men that you should not be punished for your act." He smiled, shook hands with Thaw and went away.

The trial is set to begin on Monday, Dec. 3, but the lawyer will doubtless have many more conferences with his client and his wife before the young prisoner faces the court. This little portly man is Delphin Michael Delmas of California. The power of the Thaw millions has reached 3,000 miles to bring him to New York to defend the actor of the "House-to-Save" the young man from the frightful horror and disgrace of death in the murderer's chair at Sing Sing.

The man's fate had reached the ears of Harry Thaw's mother. She had been told of him that he is a legal wizard and that to face with a jury he possesses a splendid eloquence, compelling to the limit of being hypnotic.

OLD CHARGES ARE REVIVED Conduct of Indian Tribes Commission Criticized

Special to The Telegram. MUSKOGEE, I. T., Nov. 16.—Sensational charges were filed Thursday before the congressional committee of senators by Webster Ballinger, an attorney of Washington, against the conduct of the commission of the Five Civilized Tribes toward certain claimants and Chickasaw Nations. The charges have been reduced to writing and filed with the committee, copies of which were furnished Chairman Tamm Saturday in the day and to which he will reply specifically today.

"The committee, anxious to secure all information possible regarding Indian affairs in the territory, consented to go into the matter and did so at the night session. Ballinger represents certain claimants who, it is alleged, have been discriminated against in the matter of their enrollment as citizens of either nation and that the commissioner to the Five Civilized Tribes was instrumental in securing subsequent congressional legislation sustaining his position. The alleged discrimination appears in the enrollment of certain children of Indian and negro parents. The charges also criticize Secretary Hitchcock for his rulings and those of the department particularly bearing on the matter at issue.

Three witnesses were introduced. Wirt Franklin, Charles von Weise and Albert J. Lee all attorneys of Ardmore, the two first named having been formerly employed by Commissioner Bixby in the commission's work. In each case the oath was administered. At 10:30 o'clock the committee adjourned. This matter will not come up during the daylight sittings, it having been agreed to consider it at night until disposed of.

Commissioner Bixby said last night that the commission's work, in each case, had been almost identical. It is announced tonight that the charges preferred are almost identical and its course had been followed by the department by the people now concerned in their presentation. Six months ago the department exonerated the commission. Tonight the committee will introduce testimony to show Beall has no connection with the cases cited or to be cited.

KING RECALLED Cabinet Crisis is Approaching in the Spanish Empire. MADRID, Nov. 16.—King Alfonso has been hastily recalled to this city from a hunting expedition. It is believed that the cabinet crisis is impending. War Minister De Luque is resisting the pretensions of Generala Weyler and Polavieja to field marshalship, while attempts are being made to the death of Count DeCasta. Weyler and Polavieja base their claims on "victories" in Cuba and the Philippines.

TRACKS TOO CLOSE

City Engineer Investigates Complaint Against Traction Company. Complaint is made to the mayor that the tracks of the Northern Texas Traction Company approach too close to some private property, where the turn is made from Deagott avenue to Wheeler street, and the city engineer's office is investigating the complaint. The streets are narrow there and to get the curve from one street into the other it may be necessary to go quite close to the sidewalk.

"Why have you changed your opinion on that matter?" "My dear sir," answered Senator Sorghum, "I am far too progressive in my ideas to hold on to an out-of-date opinion when I find it can be replaced with one that is modern, convenient and profitable."—Washington Star.

N. Y. CENTRAL IS FOUND GUILTY

Convicted of Granting $26,000 Rebates to Sugar Company

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company was convicted in the United States circuit court Thursday of granting a rebate of $26,000 to the American Sugar Refining Company and the trial of the latter company for having accepted that sum as rebates began today in the same court. The jury was out about two hours and immediately upon the announcement of its verdict of "guilty" counsel for the defendant company moved to set aside the verdict, which Judge Holt promptly denied. In denying the motion Judge Holt said he thought the Elkins act sufficiently binding upon the accused and that there was sufficient evidence to send the case to the jury. The words "shall be" in the law, Judge Holt held, did not relate to future transportation alone, but to discrimination that might be or had been attempted to bring about shipments at less than tariff or published schedules. United States District Attorney Stimson, who is prosecuting the argument for the government, said that the Elkins act had been passed when unjust discriminations had been made the situation between carrier and the unrecognized and unfavored shipper intolerable. Mr. Stimson said the contract had been made by Mr. Pomeroy and Mr. Elkins to get the business. He then argued that the violation of the law had not been fully completed until the $26,000 check had been paid over to the sugar company. It was a brazen evasion of a well known law, Mr. Stimson declared, and of the known will of congress. He asked if there was anything wrong if illegal about the transaction why the secrecy and the necessity to have it completed in an irregular manner? Judge Holt in his charge reviewed the evidence and the history of the Elkins act and said it was for the jury to determine with what intention the $26,000 check had been paid, whether it had been for rebate or a legitimate overcharge. In his charge to the jury Judge Holt reviewed the reasons advanced, as well as the history of the passage of the Elkins act. Judge Holt fixed Nov. 20 as the date for argument on a motion to arrest judgment.

FOUR TRAINS DAILY

Two New Trains Fort Worth to Wichita Falls

In order to satisfactorily accommodate its passenger business, the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway will change its passenger train schedules Sunday, Nov. 18, and at the same time place in service two additional daily trains between Fort Worth and Wichita Falls, thus affording its patrons an exceptional service of four daily trains in each direction. These latest additions are numbered 5 and 6 and their particular mission will be to maintain quick communication between the two cities, whether Texas territory and numerous points on connecting lines in central, southern, western and eastern portions of the state, resulting in a saving of time for travelers which has hitherto been impossible; also enabling many patrons to minimize lay-overs en route and to avoid the measure of night travel, late hours in reaching destinations in all directions which would be impossible under other circumstances. The trains will leave Fort Worth at 6:05 p. m. and arrive at Wichita Falls at 10:55 p. m., and will leave Wichita Falls at 6:15 and arrive at Fort Worth at 10:25 a. m. daily. These figures admitting of the maintenance of several important connections. In addition to the foregoing, train No. 7, operating between Fort Worth and Texline, now leaves Fort Worth at 9:15 p. m. instead of 8:45 p. m., and No. 8 now arrives at Fort Worth at 7:15 instead of 7:45 a. m., thus making a difference of about thirty minutes at points intermediate to Fort Worth and Texline.

STORY OF THE HEEL FLY

The question as to whether or not there is such a thing as a heel fly has been argued among Texas cattlemen for many years, and with all that has been said and printed the amount of real information concerning this insect existing among even the old time cattlemen is quite limited. Very early in the spring, as early as January or February in Southwestern Texas and later northward these flies begin to appear about cattle and frequent their legs, especially that portion just above the hoof, for the purpose of depositing their eggs. It is from this common habit of placing their eggs on the part of the body named that they get the name in the South and West of "heel fly," and it may be for this reason in part that cattle almost invariably seek running water in which to stand as protection from the fly. It has been noticed that the fly does not seem to approach animals while standing in or above the water, even if the part where the eggs are likely to be placed are above water, as in the case of cattle standing upon rocks in running streams.

The eggs of the heel fly are occasionally placed on the flanks and lower portion of the animal's body. Down on the Pordenas river it has been noticed by cattlemen that cattle will come to the water as early as 9 o'clock in the morning, in order to escape the persecutions of the flies, and remain there for the most part, standing on exposed rocks in the stream until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. It was noticed that the flies were quite abundant along the banks of the stream, but none of them seem disposed to approach the cattle out in the water or on the rocks, where many of them were resting.

One of the most noticeable features connected with the presence of this fly among cattle is the intense excitement which it causes, often amounting to frenzy, stampeding the stock and causing them to run violently thru shrubbery or to water, where the fly will not follow them. This terror is evidently not inspired by any pain caused by the depositing of the eggs, and is believed to be from the instinctive dread among the animals of the consequences. The injury done to cattle fattening on the range in the early spring by these flies is very great. A cow quietly grazing will suddenly spring forward, throw up her tail and make for the nearest water at a headlong gait. Seemingly deprived at the moment of every instinct except the desire to escape, she will often rush over a high bluff in the way, and in many instances is killed by the fall. This with miring in water holes and the fact that the cattle are kept from grazing, is what is responsible for the loss.

As observed in the act of egg-laying, the flies approach the cattle very swiftly, being almost too quick in flight to be observed except at the very moment of placing the eggs. The eggs are fastened to the hairs usually four to six in number. The structure of the lower portion of the egg is of such a nature that it clasps the hair almost entirely and forms a very strong and firm attachment. The eggs once in position, the larvae rather than the eggs are carried into the mouth by means of the licking of the leg and the region about the hoof and flank of the animal. The eggs has the larvae already in it when deposited, and it is believed the young larvae escape from the egg as soon as it reaches the mouth of the animal. The young larvae being carried into the mouth, soon penetrates the esophagus by means of its strong spines. These young larvae have been found in the walls of the esophagus, and it is not until about the end of December that they appear in the back of the animals and show up as the warbles or "wolves," as they are called by many people.

This, in brief, is the history of what is known as the heel fly among Texas cattlemen. The adult insect is about the size of the common honey bee. It is about one-half inch long, the general color black, and is clothed with yellowish-white and reddish-brown and black hairs. A few months ago there was quite a discussion among stockmen as to whether or not there was such a thing as the heel fly, some of them maintaining that the insect was a myth, but a number of them were caught and sent to doubting Thomases right here in Fort Worth, and there now seem to be but little question as to the fact that there is such an insect.

The heel fly seems to be pretty well distributed thruout the South and West, and its actions are the same in each locality. The animal that discovers one of these insects in its vicinity loses no time in seeking another location, and the antics that some of them cut in passing are positively ludicrous.

THE SCARCITY OF RAILWAY EQUIPMENT

The people of Texas and the Southwest are being subjected to some loss and a great deal of annoyance and inconvenience on account of the shortage in railway equipment. The unprecedented prosperity that has come to Texas and the Southwest has caught the railway companies absolutely unprepared for the contingency that has arisen, and while they are just as anxious to relieve the situation as the public could possibly be, it is going to take time to attain this much desired end. Illustrative of the desire and determination existing among the railways to provide the necessary equipment it may be mentioned that the great Rock Island system has just awarded contracts for $6,000,000 worth of new equipment, which is to be delivered during the year 1907. Orders previously given this year by the Rock Island for engines, freight and passenger cars aggregated about $5,000,000, making the company's total expenditures this year for new equipment about $11,000,000.

All new equipment will be of the most approved construction. Passenger coaches, chair, dining and observation cars must be built by the Pullman company. Some of the new equipment is especially designed for the Golden State and the Rocky Mountain Limited trains. It is asserted they will not be surpassed by any trains in the country.

Nearly all freight cars will be steel thruout or have steel underframes. Each box car will have the capacity of forty tons. All other freight cars will have more than the average tonnage capacity. A part summary of the new equipment just ordered is as follows: 2,000 box cars, steel underframes. $2,300,000 400 furniture cars, 300 tons capacity. 360,000 250 stock cars, steel underframes. 255,000 100 Rogers ballast cars, steel. 110,000 650 steel coal cars. 817,000 300 steel flat cars. 300,000 250 steel frame hoppers cars. 275,000 50 cabooses. 600,000 30 consolidated engines. 450,000 20 switch engines. 250,000

The total expenditure for freight and passenger cars and for new locomotives is $5,902,000. Despite enormous expenditures made by the Rock Island in the last five years for new equipment, like all other big systems in the country, it is suffering now from a shortage of cars. The new contract calls for prompt delivery, commencing February 1.

Now, let some of the other great Southwestern systems proceed to do likewise and provide the growing, booming, boundless West with all the transportation facilities that are necessary. The people are furnishing the roads with the business. It only remains for the roads to make proper preparations to handle the business.

WALK—LIKE ADAM DID

No better exercise has ever been discovered than that which the first man took. Adam walked.

Walking combines exercise and fresh air, both of which are Nature's great restorers. One is ailing exercise and fresh air will do more for him than medicine. If one is in good health they will go far toward keeping him so.

Walking is the natural method of locomotion. When in the evolution of the ages man assumed an upright position and began to walk on his "hind legs" he began to amount to something.

Walking is a natural pleasure. Especially so at this season when there is the touch of frost and the tang of ozone in the air.

When one has walked a brisk pace for a couple of miles he arrives at his daily work with every nerve center all a tingle and the blood running naturally and strongly enough to last the day.

Don't ride. Walk. Many a man has kept himself fit physically by this natural exercise. Afterwards he got rich, rode in a glass house on wheels—and died. His friend who kept on walking is yet on earth.

What so becomes a man as the upright position and the use of the legs the Lord has given him?

But any morning of the year you may see business men and clerks and professional men—men tied to desk and counter all the day—waiting for minutes at a time for a car, unable seemingly to walk for even a few blocks.

Is it any wonder men die in their prime? Walk. If necessary to get down by a certain time, get up earlier. Walk. Keep at it. Note the results. It will make a man of you.

Walk—like Adam did in the beginning. It will make you healthy, hearty and happy.

THEY STOLE TOO LITTLE

The other day a band of Ute Indians stopped the driver of a wagon and helped themselves to enough flour to keep themselves from starving.

Eh! but the soldiers were soon after Lo, the poor Indian. They chased him all over the sage brush pastures to get a pot shot at him.

You see the trouble was the Utes were not incorporated for purposes of high finance.

They had no patent to steal after the manner of the statutes made and provided.

They had neglected to organize a trust that would evade the Sherman law—and the soldier.

This is how the noble red man misgled it. He should have put the standard much higher. Instead of stealing a little flour he should have formed a corner and stolen the output of a whole mill.

Or— He should have organized a trust and taken profits by means of special privilege. Able lawyers could make or interpret laws by which he could be able to exploit the public treasury or rob the people of the whole country by means of a monopoly. And if brought to book he could hire more lawyers.

By hiring lawyers the Utes could escape the soldiers.

But the ignorant aborigines had neither lawyers nor letters of incorporation. And they took only what was necessary to keep them alive.

Think of it. They stole only a few sacks and turned the balance and the wagon and horses back to the driver.

Every trust magnate of our 300 must give a smile of pity at the generosity of the Utes.

And each trust magnate must be greatly outraged at the crude methods of the Indians and will doubtless declare that such bunglers at the game of robbery deserve to be chased down by the soldiery.

It is now coming to light why the Standard Oil Company got off with a $5,000 fine in the state of Ohio. One of the jurors who tried the case modestly confessed that he twice refused a bribe of $500, but fails to say whether or not the offer was increased.

There is going to be trouble in the republican party over the tariff question. There are some standpatters who are going to oppose any tinkering with the tariff. They are standing squarely upon the protection issue, and represent the real republicanism of the country.

Anna Gould has succeeded in having the tie severed that bound her to a miserable little insignificant Frenchman who posed as a count, and whose highest ambition was to dissipate the Gould millions. She should return to America a wiser if a sadder woman.

President Roosevelt and party have arrived safely at Colon, getting in ahead of schedule time, and the President was extremely gratified by the very flattering reception accorded him.

There is too much talk of what the attorney general is going to do to the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. The people of this state would be pleased to see a little more hard work and a little less bluster.

The indicting of John D. Rockefeller by an Ohio grand jury a few days ago, will doubtless be the signal for another rise in the price of oil and gasoline in a few days.

Castro is reported dead over in Venezuela, and it is feared that there will soon develop grave trouble in that quarter.

THE TEXAS PRESS

The dry fall, which North Texas is enjoying, should mean hundreds of miles of good roads, as in most localities the people have awakened to the importance of good highways. One hundred miles of good roads leading to Gainesville would mean an enormous business for everybody along those roads.—Gainesville Messenger.

Good roads are an investment that never fails to pay out for the town or community that provides them. In the winter and spring there are many sections of Texas whose roads are only roads by courtesy.

Dallas is a great pace setter. Its council created the office of city chemist; now Fort Worth is clamoring for a city chemist. Dallas has a freight bureau; Fort Worth is clamoring for a freight bureau. If Dallas had a smallpox epidemic Fort Worth would be clamoring for a yellow fever invasion. Dallas is a great pace setter.—Dallas Times Herald.

Few good things ever originate in Dallas, and for that reason Fort Worth occasionally emulates the Dallas example for the mere purpose of encouraging that town to get right and stay right.

The Salvation Army all over the country is making preparations for the annual free dinner to be served to the poor. When it comes to Christianity, pure and undefiled, the Salvation Army is head and shoulders above all other organizations.—Terrell Transcript.

The Salvation Army is doing a great work in a field that is neglected by the other religious denominations. It is an organization that should receive the proper support and encouragement for the work it is doing all over this broad land.

The Northern Texas Traction Company operating the interurban between Fort Worth and Dallas has given out a statement of the earnings of the company, showing that during the year ending September 30, the road made gross earnings of $795,808 and net earnings to the amount of $293,550.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

And yet it was predicted when this line was built it would not pay. The same line of argument is used concerning the proposed line to Mineral Wells, when here is living proof to the contrary.

A Washington paper says Cortelyou "is doing the gum shoe work" for the administration in this campaign. That means, of course, that he is bleeding the trust magnates and Wall street bankers of some of their hard earned cash to bolster up the party that protects the trusts and lends the public money to the favored banks without interest.—Austin Statesman.

Cortelyou, the man who successfully milked the corporations, is to be made secretary of the treasury, and Garfield, the man who turned the beef trust a loose, is to be promoted to a cabinet position. Truly, virtue has its own reward in this day of Republican rule.

This is one law that the governor should insist on the legislature amending. The manner in which some grand juries are selected is far from what the law ever contemplated. In many of the large counties after the jury commissioners finish with their labors, the members of the grand jury get excused, and then the sheriff goes out and selects such men as he sees fit to serve on this important body. This sort of manipulation should be stopped right quick.—Houston Chronicle.

There is urgent need of reformation in this particular, and such a law would put a stop to a great abuse. And there are other jury reforms that are crying necessities.

The Republicans are boasting of their two-thirds majority in the senate of the Sixtieth congress. They claim sixty-one senators against twenty-nine for the Democrats, a majority of thirty-two, which is a two-thirds majority. But before the regular session of the Sixtieth congress begins, Oklahoma will send two Democrats to the senate, making the political complexion of that body sixty-one Republicans and thirty-one Democrats. This will break the Republicans' two-thirds majority even if they can count on La Follette at all times, which is doubtful.—Houston Post.

Oklahoma has proven a grievous disappointment to the Republicans, and if it had been known that two Democratic senators were in sight from the new state, statehood would have been indefinitely postponed.

CONSULAR SERVICE

For the first time in sixteen years American consular fees are larger than the expenditures, the excess being $19,722. By naming business men instead of politicians the service could be made a profitable investment.—St. Louis Republic.

FROM DIANA'S DIARY or, How Lovelorn Diana Dillpickles Found Romantic Stock Star to Citrus

"IT CERTAINLY DOES LOOK AS IF HE IS CHASING ME." My love for Tremayne Marblebrow, the gifted star of the Dyrlic Stock Company, is progressing swimmingly, like a fish. Today he really came into Taffeta & Balbriggan's to purchase some FANCY hosiery, and as he passed you should have seen the girls brace a p and hastily primp. As he passed me I nearly fell into a swoon, then I noticed that he wore in his buttonhole a PINK CARNATION. I am SURE it was the one I dropped in his lap in the street car. OF ALL the misses who strained their necks rubbering at him, I was the only one which had the proud consciousness that PERHAPS he had come purposely to be near me, for it certainly does look as if he is CHASING ME. I can almost see myself Tremayne Marblebrow's bride and holding his hat behind the scenes. (To Be Continued.)

DRIFT OF POLITICS

INDEPENDENTS IN WEST AND MIDDLE WEST

It was in the middle west and the west that the independents and democrats made a showing. In Indiana the democrats easily made inroads in the congress delegation and cut down the republican plurality. In Illinois the democrats won back many of their congressmen, and they did the same thing in Ohio. In Wisconsin Senator LaFollette combined with the democrats and punished those who had fought him. Representative Babcock, former chairman of the republican congressional campaign committee, opposed by LaFollette, was defeated by a democrat in whose behalf the LaFollette followers campaigned vigorously. In addition, LaFollette all but turned over Milwaukee county to the socialists. Wisconsin elected Davidson, whom LaFollette opposed for nomination, as governor. While Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas acted according to the forecasts, Colorado was more strongly republican than had been anticipated, and California likewise affords no encouragement for democrats. Missouri slid back into the democratic column with ease on the congress fight. Governor Cummins of Iowa, while winning the fight that party treachery forced upon him, is probably out of the Presidential race. He was elected by 20,600 majority against the usual 70,000 Iowa majority. It seems remarkable that Governor Johnson of Minnesota, a democrat, who ran as an experiment two years ago, and was elected by a vote of 147,992 to 140,130 for Dun, his republican opponent, should be re-elected by at least 60,000 plurality. Roosevelt carried Minnesota in 1904 by 161,000 plurality. There was no fight this year against the republicans, and they elected all the state officers excepting governor. It is the case of New York reversed. Johnson is popular with the Swedes. He is a poor man and has a romantic history. In discussing the victory Governor Johnson said: "I recognize the fact that this is not so much a partisan victory as an independent movement on the part of the people who are coming to recognize the necessity of putting public service above partisan prejudice."

MILLIONS AT STAKE IN RHODE ISLAND

The new Rhode Island governor, James H. Higgins, is but 30 years of age, and he will be the youngest state executive in the United States. Another fact of interest regarding him is that he is a Catholic, the first of that religious faith ever to become governor of a New England commonwealth. Higgins is a Democrat and succeeds a Republican. He is at present mayor of Pawtucket, and a character in his way. Since he has come into public life Higgins has tried to educate himself. He is earnest and honest and is a poor young man. The great stake in Rhode Island is the United States senatorship. Three millionaires are in the field, and the scramble for seats in the legislature was like a crowd breaking into a free show. It is a matter for comment the country over that whenever there is a senatorial election in Rhode Island the Democrats suddenly become strong and win the governorship, while the Republicans get the legislature and the senatorship. Rhode Island, it is claimed, is the most corrupt state politically in the country. The candidates for United States senator are the present member, George Peabody Wetmore, wealth about $7,000,000; Colonel Samuel P. Colt, head of the firearms trust, wealth about $10,000,000. The Democrats and Independents have endorsed Colonel Robert H. I. Goddard, wealth about $7,000,000. If Colonel Goddard should be eliminated from the fight and the battle get down to Wetmore and Colt the Democrats and Lincoln Republicans would have to be considered. It is probably many mortgages will be canceled as soon as the election for United States senator is decided.

A MATRIMONIAL TRAGEDY

The full disclosure of Count Boni de Castellano's contemptible character should not surprise any person. Count Boni has given evidence frequently in the past that he is a very low wtype indeed, a fortune hunter of the frankest sort, a farceur in politics, a profligate society, a scoundrel at home. The marriage was in the beginning a mockery of matrimony. No one could sensibly expect any other outcome. The details of the tragedy are unpleasant as well as superfluous, and it is fortunate that thus far the wife's counsel has kept them from the public. Sufficient is stated in court and can doubtless be proved to warn every American heiress who may be casting eyes toward Europe and a coronet that in that direction lies not only mental but possibly physical misery. The spectacle of Count Boni beating his wife because she would not assent him in securing a larger allowance from her family ought to prove a service in preventing further mistakes.—Washington Star.

Complain of Car Shortage
Special to The Telegram.
HEREFORD, Texas, Nov. 16.—There seems to be a general complaint among the cattlemen of west Texas over the car shortage which has existed since the shipping season began. The cause of this is perhaps twofold. First, the lack of power to pull cars, and secondly that more cattle are being shipped this season than usual. The large volume of immigration and local freight business this season has called into service every engine which the Santa Fe could furnish, leaving no regulars to pull cattle trains. On the other hand, the situation has been made worse from the fact that many small stockmen have sold their ranches and are now shipping to give possession, thus throwing a heavy volume of business at this particular time. There are now orders out for about 300 cars at this point alone.

Stock Pens Quarantined

Old Saddles Found
Special to The Telegram.
COLORADO, Texas, Nov. 16.—On last Thursday while Beart Robinson and Ivan Webb were out hunting they found old saddles buried in a cliff on Champion creek in H. C. Landers' pasture about six miles from town. The saddles showed to have been buried some time, the leather being badly decayed and rat eaten. Both saddles were made in San Angelo by J. W. Dunn. The incident of finding the saddles recalls to mind that in the winter of 1901 two horses were found by Mr. Landers in this same pasture, having been ridden there and turned loose by unknown parties. From their brands John Lovelady recognized the horses as being the property of Joe Funk, who ranches in Irion county, and the animals were turned over to Mr. Lovelady who in turn sent them to their owner, receiving in a few days a letter from Mr. Funk stating that the horses had been stolen, he supposed, by Tom Ketchum the noted train robber who had been operating in that section at the time. The supposition is that when the horses were turned loose the riders buried the saddles and took the train, either at Lorraine or the water tank this side, leaving no trace behind except the horses, that could lead to their whereabouts or identity.

MAN WITH MONEY BEATS BASS DRUM
Has His Own Band and Makes Much Fuss

Special to The Telegram.
NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Worth $13,000,000, the greatest pleasure in Simon E. Bernheimer's life is beating the bass drum in his own band. Bernheimer is 57 years of age, a bachelor, living in Fifty-ninth street and a member of the firm of Bernheimer & Schwartz, brewers. He has been beating the bass drum, and it costs him about $20,000 a year. He beats the big drum in the Amelita Amateur Band and is also the bass drummer of the orchestra of the exclusive German Lieberkranz Club. Bernheimer, who is known among his friends as the millionaire drummer, worked the way from a laborer in a brewery to great wealth. When he became rich, Bernheimer bought a bass drum and began to indulge his musical tastes. He found that there were objections from neighbors who did not like bass drum solos. Then he offered his services and became bass drummer for the Amelita Orchestra, a private organization, formed in 1886. When the Amelita was dissolved in 1900 he was disappointed. Finally six years ago he formed the Amelita Amateur Band of sixty-five pieces. When a member dies he bears the burden of expenses. The band plays only for pleasure and once a year gives a concert that packs Carnegie Hall. Bernheimer has never been known to miss a rehearsal.

CASE IS REMANDED
Thompson's Suit for Damages Was Tried in Error

Special to The Telegram.
AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 16.—The supreme court yesterday reversed and remanded the case of the Chicago, Rock Island and Texas Railway Company at C. B. Thompson, from Tarrant county. Thompson was a brakeman for the road at Chickasha, I. T. He made a contract with the company that if he were injured while in the discharge of his duties he would notify the representatives of the company within thirty days of such injury, before he instituted suit. He was injured while in employ of the company in Oklahoma Territory. He sued for damages and recovered in the trial court. The defendant company offered in evidence the contract together with evidence to show that it was valid under the laws of the Indian Territory and Oklahoma, and that the notice had not been given as agreed upon. This evidence was accepted by the jury and the verdict in favor of the company. The supreme court held that it was error on the part of the trial court to exclude the contract from the jury. The law of Oklahoma does not apply to Texas; it is only by virtue of the principles of comity that an action is permitted to be brought in one state when the cause of action occurred in another. The court says: "His right to recover must be given by the law where his injury occurred, whether that law be ascertained by proof or by presumption in absence of proof."

Gained Ten Pounds in Two Weeks

Mr. J. B. Cooper of Scottsville, Ark., who wasted away from 180 pounds to 150 pounds in a few months, praises Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for restoring his health. It required only two bottles to effect a cure and increase his weight 10 pounds, according to his own statement, written June 6, 1906, which follows:

"During my seventeen years as a salesman of general merchandise I have lost about six months' time only recently, when I contracted a severe attack of bronchitis which made me feel as though I had consumption. "I had been bothered with a slight cough for eight or nine months. I lost in weight, from 180 to 150 pounds. My doctor recommended Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as the best cure for consumption, so I decided to try it, and after using two bottles sweetened with rock candy, I gained ten pounds in two weeks. "It certainly does all the doctor told me it would do, and is the most effective tonic and stimulant I have ever taken. The doctor had me order some of it for his patients, so you can see what he thinks of it." Respectfully yours, J. B. COOPER.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic, it builds up the nerve tissue, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces, it makes digestion perfect and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens the system, is a promoter of good health and longevily makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a form of food already digested, it contains no fusel oil and is the only whiskey that is recognized as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

Sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct, in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1. Insist on the genuine, and see that the "Old Chemist" trade-mark is on the label. Beware of refilled bottles and spurious malt whiskey substitutes offered for sale by unreliable dealers. They are positively harmful and will not cure. Medical booklet and doctors advice free. DAILY KNITTING CHATS

BY LAURA LA RUE.

CAPE AND HAIRPIN WORK. Designed with Bear Brand yarns.

I have been charmed lately with the beauty of hairpin work when made with wools. When wool is the material the effect is prettier than when cotton or silk is used. Then everything is different. In the first place, a great big hairpin is used and that, combined with the fluffiness of the wool, is just the loveliest thing one could imagine.

Then picture how low it is all finished. The flounces are cream white on top and made of that loveliest of all wools—zephyr Shetland—so that they tumble all about in the prettiest kind of a way whenever the thin breeze strikes them. And when they do that one catches a glimpse beneath them of a pink or blue lining made of less airy wool if such a term can be applied to Shetland fling.

What strikes me as so pretty about this cape is the shape of the yoke, which left full and round in that hopelessly unpractical way that most crocheted ones are apt to have. This is nearly straight all across the back, with just the slightest curve to make it fit well, and it comes straight over the shoulders and slightly down in the front, with a pretty V neck that may be worn closed or open. Then the stoles that hang down the front are so graceful and have such a softening effect upon the entire costume, giving it softness and fascination.

I will mail full directions for making this pattern to any of my readers who are interested. There will be no charge for sending them. Kindly address Laura La Rue, Knitting Editor, The Telegram.

as you would despise me for my ignorance.

With a strong effort he drew himself from the girl's embrace and went from the room as one in a dream. He said no word of farewell and she made no effort to detain him. As he passed from the house Edith went to the window and watched his retreating figure. "Is there no such thing as friendship?" she asked herself aloud.

A dark, dreary day in November, seven years later the vines on the young physician's home in Walton were dead and covered with snow. The ground was white and little flakes filtered thru the air. Luke Clark was dying. From hard work the people of the village said.

A pale little woman, almost a child in appearance, dressed in deep mourning, made her way thru the house, much to the alarm of the one servant, who feared for her master's safety. She insisted on seeing the patient and she would not be satisfied until Dr. Clark's sister came to see the strange visitor.

With the sister's consent the little black figure hurried to the sick chamber. She threw herself on her knees beside the bed, her hands, bereft of rings, clasped the hand of the dying man. involuntarily he opened his eyes. A faint smile crossed his face.

"Luke, do you know me?" Edith asked.

"Of course I do," he answered feebly. "There is a great change in both of us."

"Have you forgiven me?" she asked with a sob.

"Long ago," he whispered. "Have you forgiven yourself?"

"Never!"

"Then do so for my sake. God bless you, Edith, darling, goodbye!"

And then it was all over.

Dressmaker Just Back From Paris Talks of Fads

BY CYNTHIA GREY

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—I talked today to Mrs. Rose E. Livingston, a dressmaker at Detroit, Mich., who had just returned from Paris, where she represented her firm.

"Of course I began to ask her about French winter dresses. A few moments later President Roosevelt was greeted by President and Mrs. Amador and at 10:30 o'clock the President and Mrs. Amador left for the trip across the isthmus was made slowly in order to permit the Presidential party to have a good look at all the points of interest along the route. Several stops were made and at each station school children came down and sang patriotic airs.

Their train arrived in front of the Tivoli hotel at 10:30 o'clock. Here President Amador left the party and went on to Panama, while the American President continued to La Boca, the Pacific entrance to the canal. Here President Roosevelt boarded the steamer Bolivar, made a trip around Panama bay and came back to La Boca for luncheon.

In the afternoon the President came from La Boca to Panama City. He drove from the railroad station to the cathedral plaza all the way by the cheering of the crowds. At the plaza President Amador delivered an address of welcome and President Roosevelt replied. The President, escorted by the officials of the Panama republic and a body guard of 200 mounted members of the Panama aristocracy, then returned to the Tivoli hotel for the night.

President Roosevelt was welcomed by unbounded enthusiasm by the people of Panama.

fales robes, switces, everything false. To be right in style in the hair and one must have loads and loads of hair. There is where the old fashioned pictures come in again. The old paintings show many a woman of hairdress which are today quite the rage."

"Do the French women pad more than American women?"

"Yes, the French women are not so well formed as the American women. They do not carry themselves so well, and they have decidedly less style about them. Any French costume is made smarter by an American touch."

"What is the prevailing style in dress?"

"Empire effects, decidedly. The woman who can't wear the empire gown will do well to wear some adaptation of it."

"What is new in suits?"

"Everything to be just right must be a three-piece suit. For instance, a wine colored suit consists of a skirt and coat and a cream colored bodice of lace trimmed with the suit material in medallion, button or strap effects. In some way the bodice worn with the suit must match the suit. In these three-piece suits the Eton jacket is quite the thing. The Prince Chimp coat is going out. The Pony is still worn a little."

"Are separate coats worn?"

"Yes, the long, loose ones are the smartest. Some are semi-fitting. They are trimmed with braid."

"What are evening coats?"

"Nothing especially new. They are long, loose, with large sleeves, and are trimmed with lace, velvet and ribbon."

"How are skirts made?"

"Very full, seven and nine gores and plaited. Princess gowns are good."

"What are the evening gowns?"

"Chiffon gowns trimmed with bands of broadcloth of the same color are good. Lace gowns are worn a great deal. They are made with touches of color to give them character. Blue is used with black. I saw a beautiful black lace gown made with a blue girde and a blue bow at the front of the corsage."

"Is chiffon velvet still used?"

"Yes, for both evening and street."

"How about the length of skirts this season?"

"The skirts are longer. The street skirts just escape the ground, while the evening gowns are now made with a demi-train."

"Tell me something about shoes."

"In Paris I saw nothing but white and black. If a white gown were worn

BUSY DAY, SPENT

President Sees Much of Isthmus and Canal

Special to The Telegram.

COLON, Nov. 16.—President Roosevelt has spent a busy Thursday on the Isthmus of Panama. He crossed from Colon to Panama, seeing much of the canal and the famous Culbra cut on the way. He has taken a trip around Panama bay and he has been entertained in Panama City, which lies outside of the canal zone, by President Amador and other officials of the Panama republic. The day passed according to schedule. It has been in every respect successful and no untoward or unusual incident has occurred.

President Roosevelt left the Louisiana early in the morning and went to the Colon dock. Here he was welcomed by Canal Commissioner Shouns, Chief Engineer Stevens and other officials and the school children of Colon sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "America" for his benefit. A few moments later President Roosevelt was greeted by President and Mrs. Amador and at 10:30 o'clock the President and Mrs. Amador left for the trip across the isthmus was made slowly in order to permit the Presidential party to have a good look at all the points of interest along the route. Bishops Says He Doesn't Understand Racial Resentment

Special to The Telegram.

TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 16.—The nineteenth annual session of the Central Texas Conference of the African Methodist church opened with Bishop Evans Tyree of Nashville, Tenn., president and about 150 preachers in attendance.

During the opening address Bishop Tyree delivered himself of the following sentiment:

"I do not understand why the race which claims to be the superior race should be continually crushing the inferior race. There is something wrong with it. I do not understand why some white men should try to crush the life out of us and why any man should advocate the taking of our lives and putting them in the hands of foreigners who come here with anarchy, strike and murder, when we have been loyal for 300 years, and when persecuted retaliate on our knees only. Continue to preach a doctrine of love and peace and God will take care of us."

STUDENTS SUSPENDED

Action Follows Demonstration Over Athletic Rule

Special to The Telegram.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Nov. 16.—Seventy-eight members of Augustana college in this city have just finished a term of suspension for what was called by the faculty a "mob demonstration" over the refusal of the board of directors of the college to rescind its student's actions against intercollegiate contests in athletics. Girls as well as boys came under the rule and the order affected all but three of the young ladies rooming in the ladies' hall.

The students sought to make amends by offering an apology to the members of the board who were subjected to public derision at the homes of faculty members and while at the Rock Island railroad station in Rock Island. A committee was sent to Omaha at the expense of the student body to offer apology to the board members there, and this apology was accepted by the aggrieved directors. Resolutions of humble apology to the college faculty, college officials and others who were the target for the demonstration were also adopted.

Railway Commission Threatens to Reduce Pullman Charges

Special to The Telegram.

In view of the demand for sleepers which the Pullman company cannot supply, even though it is constantly building new cars, many of the railroad men are inclined to think that if the threat of the railroad commission to reduce sleeping car rates is made effective that the Pullmans may all be withdrawn from the state. There is no power that can force them to be run in the state, unless by some construction of the law the state could compel the railroads to provide sleepers for the patrons of the roads.

"WATCH KRESS' WINDOW"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

WHERE IT ENDED

"And, Luke, where do you expect all this to end?"

"End? I hope it never will end. I don't see why it should."

Folding up a little pink note Luke Clark put on his hat and went to visit some of his patients.

"How little men know the hearts of women!" his sister ejaculated as Luke left the room.

In a luxurious house in one of the fashionable residence districts of Philadelphia a dainty creature was reclining with a novel in her hands when a servant brought in a card. This was six months after Luke had taken up his residence in Walton.

"Say I will be down in a moment," the girl told the maid.

When the door closed she jumped to her feet, went to the mirror and stood admiring herself before going down.

In the drawing room stood a young man with a fine head and clear cut features. Hearing the rustle of silks on the stairs, he turned and caught her hands held out to greet him.

After a short conversation in which he told her how much pleasure her letters had given him since taking up his residence out of the world, he burst forth in expressions of love. He told of his poor prospects in Walton and asked her if she thought she could share them with him.

"I would not go," was the startled reply.

Luke drew back, hurt, stunned, unbelieving.

Edith Lovrie remained fixed in her resolve. Her eyes were wide open and her figure was erect. She watched her lover as he hung himself into a chair and shaded his eyes with his hands.

She gazed to his side, sat on the arm of his chair and even smoothed his hair with her jeweled fingers. In her felt her caresses he did not respond or even move.

"My dear, dear friend," she began. "What would you do with me. It is your ideal that you love, not me. You would soon find that out and then—"

Her hands fell among the folds of her dress. She crumpled the silk between her fingers as she spoke. "These silks, this lace, these jewels, the pictures, books, the soft carpet beneath my feet, are all simple necessities to me. They are not objects of my love, but part of my daily life. Without them I would not be what I am, nor what you think I am. Think of me at Walton in an old calico dress, bungling over my work. Your sister would be a very queen beside me, and she as well

REV. CALDWELL STATES HIS FAITH

Says He Adopts Confession of Faith Without Reservation

The following statement was made by Rev. William Caldwell to the Presbytery of Fort Worth in answer to the heresy charges which were filed against him.

Dear Brethren: In view of the fact that the presbytery of Fort Worth has been instructed by the synod of Texas to investigate the matter of certain overtures sent from the presbyteries of El Paso and Paris, "calling for an investigation of the doctrinal soundness of Rev. William Caldwell," and in order, if possible, to satisfy the minds of all fair-minded members of the presbytery, I beg leave to offer the following doctrine found in the scriptures.

1. I adopt without mental reservation the confession of faith and catechisms of the church as containing the system of doctrine found in the scriptures. I heartily accept and reverently cherish the fundamental truths of our system known as Calvinism, and believe they rest upon the teaching of the scripture from Isaiah to Paul, and that they are grounded in the words of our Lord Jesus Christ.

2. I wish to affirm most positively and sincerely that the suspicion that I have adopted the destructive criticism is groundless and untrue. On the contrary, I wish solemnly to affirm that my faith in the Old Testament as God's word has been deepened, and strengthened and purified by the last six years of study. Within the field of Biblical criticism I hold the attitude of a reverent student of God's word, seeking to know for myself and at first hand what he has said for us men and for our salvation. I have arrived at no conclusion which impairs either the integrity, inspiration or authority of the scriptures. Further, nothing has so deepened my faith in Calvinism as my year's study of the doctrine of creation in the Old Testament and after thirteen years interest in the field of Old Testament studies I do not am in the danger of having my confidence shaken that our standards contain the system of doctrine found in God's word.

3. I came to Fort Worth, following, as I believed, divine guidance, to preach the simple gospel of Christ and to help his people in faith, as it has been my privilege to do in undisturbed peace for thirteen years. This I have striven to do in spite of disturbances arising from the easily won fame which has been my lot. Any statements which have been made that I came to Fort Worth for any other cause are wholly false. My studies have not unduly interfered with my preaching and I do not give anything like a true picture of the fight.

Gans gave out the statement when he was shown a recent interview with Billy Nolan, manager for Nelson, saying that Gans was afraid to fight the Dane again and that the pictures told why.

"I have stood about all of this nonsense that I intend to," said Gans, "and I will now say something that should quiet Nolan and his four-flushing near-champion for a while. "The fight pictures are being shown all over the country as the real pictures of the first twenty and the last six rounds of my fight with Nelson; they are doctored all out of shape and do not in any way tell the real story of the battle. This is especially true of the last six rounds. "If Nolan denied this I will post a forfeit of $1,000 that I can prove what I say is true."

Gans was promptly asked why he had remained quiet on this subject for so long a time. He replied: "I am willing to admit that it was purely a matter of business for a time, until I realized that the pictures were not what I thought they were, and that they were doing me a great deal of harm and injustice."

PICTURES LIE SAYS JOE GANS

Lightweight Declares Moving Films Were Doctored

Special to The Telegram.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 15.—Joe Gans, lightweight champion of the world, who is doing a theatrical turn at a local playhouse this week, started sporting circles today with the statement that the fight pictures of the Gans-Nelson battle at Goldfield are badly doctored and do not give anything like a true picture of the fight.

Gans gave out the statement when he was shown a recent interview with Billy Nolan, manager for Nelson, saying that Gans was afraid to fight the Dane again and that the pictures told why.

"I have stood about all of this nonsense that I intend to," said Gans, "and I will now say something that should quiet Nolan and his four-flushing near-champion for a while. Seldom Wear Out

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain—not only once, but as many times as it is necessary to take them. Many persons who suffer from chronic ailments find in them a source of great relief from the suffering which they would otherwise be compelled to endure. Their soothing influence upon the nerves strengthens rather than weakens them. For this reason they seldom lose their effectiveness.

"I am 62 years old and have suffered for 42 years from nervous troubles, rheumatism, neuralgia, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and pain around the heart. The Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have been a blessing to me. I don't know what I should do without them, and they are the only remedy I have ever used that either did not wear out in less time than I have been using them, or else the injurious results which I would be obliged to cease their use."

MRS. S. C. ROBINSON, 27 Carter St., Chattanooga, Tenn. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, or by mail, for $1.00 per box. The first package will benefit. If it fails, he will return your money to you. 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

MAY GET HIGHER SALARIES LATER

Congressman Says Is in Favor of Increase in Pay

In a letter to Postmaster Lon Barkley, Congressman Oscar W. Gillespie states that he is willing to aid in the work to secure an appropriation for increasing the pay of postoffice clerks, but at the same time the tone of the letter indicates that the congressman doubts that the matter can be secured for this session of congress.

Congressman Gillespie states that the budget of expenditure has been made out for the session of congress, and will probably be adopted by the postal committee of the house practically as it is turned over to the members of that committee. In the same paragraph he intimates that the postmaster general, while calling for increased expenditure in other lines, will not ask for it in order to increase the pay of clerks, because he does not seem to approve of that until expenditures in other lines are cut down.

In speaking of the last point Postmaster Barkley said that he thought that Mr. Gillespie had the wrong notion of the status of the postmaster general on the subject, as he was one of the first to say that the clerks ought to have higher pay.

The bill in regard to which the letter is written is known as the "Wilson bill" and was introduced into the house of representatives by Congressman W. W. Gillette of New York, and calls for the classification of the salaries of clerks employed in post-offices of the first and second classes. Such classification which will allow for the promotion of clerks who have been in the office for any length of time and who have become proficient at the work, whereas at the present time they have to continue at the same pay.

Measures for the promotion of this bill have been taken in every section of the country and the clerks and postmasters are almost unanimous in their desire for it. At present the service in the various postoffices is handicapped by the fact that clerks who have become educated to the work leave it on account of the salary limitation for work in the railway mail service and other lines. At present there are about 40,000 clerks in the Fort Worth office who intend to leave as soon as they can take and pass the railway mail service examinations. There have had offers of better positions, but they have signified their intention of remaining with the post-office here until after the matter of the increased pay of clerks is settled. They raise the matter as they are satisfied with everything in the post-office here except the pay.

In his letter G. W. Gillespie calls attention to the fact that the post-office ran $10,000,000 behind for the past fiscal year and that the increase in the pay of this class of employees would mean a big thing when the total number of employees throughout the country is considered.

STRUCK BY STREET CAR

R. M. Purcell is at His Home, Badly Injured

R. M. Purcell was painfully injured by a Third ward street car at the Boaz street viaduct in East Fort Worth, Wednesday night. He was taken to his home at 214 East Twelfth street, in North Fort Worth, and a physician called to attend to his wounds. He is considered serious. He was bruised about the body and received a severe scalp wound and a bad cut on the neck, and one leg was badly bruised.

According to the best information as to how the accident happened, it seems that Purcell was under the viaduct when the car struck him from behind one of the supports just as the car was approaching, and he was struck by the car.

NERVOUS COLLAPSE

Sinking Spells, Headaches and Rheumatism All Yield to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Lizzie Williams, of No. 416 Cedar street, Quincy, Ill., says: "Ever since I had nervous prostration, about thirteen years ago, I have had periodical spells of complete exhaustion. The doctor said my nerves were shattered. Any excitement or unusual activity would throw me into a state of lifelessness. At the beginning my strength would come back in a moderate time after each attack, but the period of weakness kept lengthening until at last I would lie helpless as many as three hours at a stretch. I had dizzy feelings, palpitation of the heart, misery after eating, hot flashes, nervous headaches, rheumatic pains in the back and hips. The doctor did me so little good that I gave up my treatment, and really feared that my case was incurable.

"When I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills my appetite grew, my food no longer distressed me, my nerves were quieted to a degree that I had not experienced for years and my strength returned. The fainting spells left me actively after I had used the third box of the pills, and my friends say that I am looking better than I have done for the past fifteen years."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recommended for diseases that stem from impoverished blood such as anemia, rheumatism, debility and disorders of the nerves such as neuralgia, nervous prostration and partial paralysis. They have cured the most stubborn instances.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills agree with the most delicate stomach, quiet all nervousness, stir up every organ to do its proper work and give strength that lasts. Sold by druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Batesville, N. Y.

HIGH RATE ON CORN

Grain Dealers Say New Tariff is Not Fair

The recent raise in the tariff on ear corn with shucks on by the railroads is causing a great deal of adverse comment among the grain dealers. It is very probable that the matter will be brought before the interstate commerce commission, as it is claimed that it is a discrimination against that kind of corn.

The new tariff calls for a rate 25 per cent higher than the rate charged on other corn, for ear corn with shucks on, while ear corn with the shucks off goes at the old rate, which has not been raised. Many of the shippers of this state and the territories handle corn for feed purposes in this manner and it is from them and also the consumers of the same corn that the greatest protest is coming.

Social Tragedy

Women Who Brave Death for Social Honors.

In the midst of one of the most brilliant social functions of the season, a noted society woman started suddenly from her chair with a scream of agony and fell insensible to the floor.

A few hours later the distinguished physician told her anxious husband that she was suffering from an acute case of nervous prostration brought on by female trouble, and hinted at an operation. Fortunately a friend advised her to try

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The result was that she escaped the surgeon's knife and to-day is a well woman.

The derangement of the delicate female organism sets every nerve in the body quivering with pain. Headaches, backaches, torturing bearing down pains and dragging sensations make women nervous and hysterical.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was troubled for eight years with irregularities which broke down my system and brought on extreme nervousness and hysteria. I could neither enjoy my meals nor sleep nights, became easily irritated and nervous and very despondent. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved to be the only medicine which helped me. After taking the third bottle, my general health began to improve. At the end of the fifth month I was well and could attend to my household and social duties and enjoy life.

Mrs. CHESTER CURRY, 42 Saratoga Street, East Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Curry, whose portrait appears on the right, is the leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra. The following letter is from Miss Goode, President of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I tried many different remedies to try to build up my system, which had become run down from loss of proper rest and unseasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. Mother is a great advocate of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it herself some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to be out of bed and out of doors, and in three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since.

MEN ACCOMPLISH A STUPENDOUS FEAT

Drive Thirty Thousand Sheep One Thousand Miles A THRILLING STORY Is Told by the Man Who Led Seventeen Herders On Tremendous Task

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—To travel 3,000 miles on foot with 30,000 sheep is a stupendous undertaking, yet this feat was accomplished recently by seventeen herders, headed by R. H. Daly, a live stock dealer and ranchman of Omaha and Stevenson, Neb.

contracted with a Mexican living in Santa Fe to buy 30,000 sheep. "Owing to a difficulty with the railway company in the matter of freight rates, I determined to have the sheep trailed thru' Nebraska, which, in western parlance, means driving them overland. I selected my men at the same time I contracted for the sheep. I also procured two of the heaviest 'grub' wagons I had on my ranch, four strong mules, and two good saddle horses, together with all camp utensils and other necessities for the trip. The wagons, mules, etc., I sent down to Santa Fe by freight. Altogether there were seventeen men in my employ detailed to bring the sheep thru'.

there, was 'rounded up' and got ready to run thru' the open corral, which were constructed side by side with only a division fence between them. From the first corral a V-chute with a narrow gate at the end led to the second. The sheep were driven into the second. One thing which added to the difficulty of counting was the fact that the corral was not large enough to hold the whole number at once. I had to count part of them first and then turn and hold them together while I counted the rest.

"It turned out later that gave us all plenty to do, and besides furnished abundant chances for fraud. The corral was filled with sheep, and when they stamined at the chute to count as they came thru'. Now, it is mighty daisy work to count sheep. I could count up to about 500, and then I would become so dizzy watching the swiftly moving stream of animals that I would have to shut the gate. This done, I would jot down the number in my notebook, and then let my foreman, John Martin, take my place as long as he could stand it. We were getting along nicely, and had counted to 6,000 when Martin made a discovery. The gate which was the entrance to the first corral was next to the partition fence, and the 'greaser' who was tending the gate was forcing sheep thru' the loose fence back into the first corral, so that they would be counted the second time!

Detected a Trick "Martin at once informed me of the fraud and I stopped the count and hailed our Mexican friend. To our amazement he replied with a dignified 'No sabe.' Martin then hustled up the swarthy interpreter, and we gave them some talk that would look bad on their part if it were printed and undisturbed. His interpreter finally told us the greaser 'wouldn't do it again,' but that did not settle for what had been done. There was no time to do but begin all over again. The delay was annoying, and it took us the whole of that day to count the wethers, and the next morning we could hold them safely that night.

whole days, in intense July heat, we hadn't a drop for ourselves. We chewed our dry bread and salt bacon, and thought how good a cold drink would taste. On the evening of the second day the cook took a mule and rode over to a little town eleven miles away to get water. He hung a jug over one side of the mule, and then, to make it balance properly, hung a small demijohn on the other. Every man had a roaring headache the next day.

Stampede to Water "The sheep had five days without water when we approached the river. We were fully a mile from the bank when the poor animals scented the water and stampeded. In one mad, whirlwind rush, gathering speed as they went, the bands crowded together and reached the river in a dense, struggling mass. They plunged in, climbing over each other, and piling up until it looked as if we might lose them all. We, of course, plunged after them, and found them in a mad, swirling mass, gathering speed as they went, the bands crowded together and reached the river in a dense, struggling mass. They plunged in, climbing over each other, and piling up until it looked as if we might lose them all.

"Of course, we had to replenish our stores occasionally, and our cook would go across country to some town near us when we needed something. Our principal fare was bread, bacon and gravy. Bread was baked every day in the camp kettles and I can assure you it takes a considerable quantity to feed nine hungry men. It might be supposed that we had mutton for dinner sometimes, but we did not, tho' we had 30,000 sheep in front of us. Very few sheep men will eat mutton. I myself would have to be very hungry indeed to eat it.

we did. On the further side stood a man with a shotgun waiting for us. "Twenty dollars, and not a cent less," answered the farmer. I paid, and on we went.

"We reached the little town of Stevenson on the 24th day of September—just about five months from the day we started. The second band had overtaken us, and we went thru' the town to my ranch in the outskirts with the 29,000 odd sheep. The fog of dust we raised nearly smothered the place. "The sheep came thru' the entire drive in good condition—much better than if they had been shipped in."

"We followed no roads, but struck out across open country wherever forage was good. At night we always tried to find a hillside for the camp. Sheep have a great many peculiar notions, and will only lie down quietly on a hillside. We made only about eight miles a day, as we gave the sheep plenty of time to graze; but we were always tired enough to crawl into our tarpaulins at dark, and had no time in going to sleep. While the rest of us slept the night watch went his rounds, moving about the edge of the camp and keeping a sharp lookout for wolves.

HER IS MADE TO MATCH FUNDS Display of Society's Finery Gauged by Purse

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—It blows hot or it blows cold for women these days, in accordance with the size of their pocketbooks. One day last week in an avenue of Washington, Mrs. Victor Metcalf, wife of the secretary of commerce and labor, walked along with Miss Chabot of Oakland, both garbed in embroidered white linen, with lace and frills. They wore white felt hats, with black and apple green ostrich plumes. But in the same avenue at the same time, was Mrs. Hope Slater of Boston, whose summer messenings had included Russia and the North Cape.

"On the following day Martin and I undertook the 15th day of the journey. As on the first day, we were well under way when we discovered another fraud. One of my men detected a 'greaser' and then proceeded to drive a small band which had been counted and turned out, around thru' a ravine and back toward the hosts of sheep waiting to be counted. I had no time to stop the swindler in time, however. I then scattered my men out at all points, where fraud might be attempted, and then proceeded with the count. A peculiarity of these Mexican gentlemen is that they do not seem at all embarrassed when detected in dishonest tricks. A faller or two were detected from trying it again at the first opportunity. "Our 18,000 lambs were run in six bands, with a herder in charge of each. We left Santa Fe on the first day of May, and the weather was hotter than blazes. On the second day we discovered that the wethers ahead of us were getting the best of the feed and not leaving enough tender stuff. So we made a circuit around their camp, and the next morning the lambs were leading the way. "Dust Greatest Bother "New Mexico is always a dry region, and the spring had been unusually dry, so that the grass was not very good and the dust was dreadful. Dusty by the way, is always the worst feature of the trail. The cloud that hangs over the flock looks, from a distance, like the smoke from a prairie fire. Our faces were black most of the time, but we all wore shields of tinted isinglass to protect our eyes, otherwise some of us might have gone blind. The soil of the region, I should explain, contains some alkali, which makes it doubly irritating. The waters are also full of alkali, and this hurts the lips and throat. "From Las Vegas on into Colorado the grass was burned brown with the drought, and water was scarce. Of course we had to depend on ponds or streams for our water supply. Some of it was pretty thick—'thick enough' as one of the boys said, 'to carry on a gunny stick.' But a man is not at all particular when he is on the trail. Sheep are not great drinkers, and can go without water if they have heavy dew on the grass. But on this occasion the air was so dry that dew was very light, and much of the time there was none at all. Finally, we were without water altogether, and for five days the sheep had not a drop of water. "We hoarded the little we had, but at length it was all gone. For two

EATER OF PHOSPHORUS NEWEST POISON FIEND

Special to The Telegram.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 15.—Because his son has become a "phosphorus fiend," as a result of working in a Mexico match factory, Lie Marcos de la Torre of Chihuahua, a wealthy ranchman, was in the city today arranging for special cars to convey himself and his son to New York, where the latter will be put under the treatment of the best specialists in the hope of effecting a permanent cure, of which physicians of Mexico have despaired.

The case, as related by the father, seems to be unique in medical science and is remarkable for being the first case on record where a person has formed the habit of eating match heads as a stimulant.

About twelve months ago, says Mr. de la Torre, he placed his son in a match factory he owns outside of the city of Chihuahua to learn the trade in order that he might later take charge of it.

Soon after the boy went into the factory it appears he began to lick the phosphorus off his finger tips and in that manner formed a taste for the poison. The other employees often dared him to eat more and more, until he finally got so he could consume a great quantity without injury. His father on learning of his condition removed him from the factory, but has been unable to restore the boy to his accustomed health, so he determined to take him to New York for treatment.

The symptoms of the young man, according to the description by his father, are that his eyes have become watery, his cheeks red and that he has to turn his entire head to change his range of vision. They are also touchy and in the dark are often phosphorescent. His teeth and gums are black and his hair is also falling out. The latter has turned a most unearthly golden hue from its former color of black. He is practically stiff in his joints. His father says he will spend his fortune if necessary to cure the boy.

18 TO GO ON TRADE EXCURSION

Probable Active Work Will Begin Monday

The total number of business houses and others who have signed as willing to attend the traders' excursion which is planned to run out of Fort Worth on Dec. 3 is now eighteen and work for the excursion will have to be completed soon if it is to be a success.

Captain Paddock, secretary of the Board of Trade, said Friday morning that it was very probable that active work in regard to the excursion would be taken up on Monday when committees will visit every firm in the city who are desiring to have a member in the excursion and bring the number of those who will attend up to the required number of fifty.

Plans will be discussed as to the direction that the excursion will go, nothing in that line having been done as yet. Several of the prominent business men of the city have spoken in favor of the traders' excursion and have promised to aid in the pushing of the plans for it and it is probable that when they get their hands to work that success will accompany the idea from the very start.

Railroad Rumbblings

The state railroad commission has cancelled the authority for the absorption of switching charges at Amarillo.

The orders placed by the Rock Island, Wabash, Northern Pacific, Burlington, Santa Fe and the Hamilton lines for new equipment aggregate the enormous total of $61,135,000.

A temporary injunction has been granted Ward Roper a trustee to prevent the Texas and Brazos Valley from building some overground oil tanks in what is alleged to be a dangerously close distance to his residence.

If the legislature approves, the Cotton Belt will take over the Eastern Texas, a line of road thirty miles long, between Lubbock and Kountze, which it now operates, as it has for some time past.

The executive officers of the western railroads have decided to cut off all of the train service which might by any construction of the law be construed as a violation of the rate bill.

A vast deal of interest is being exhibited in the coming exposition of state devices which is to be held in New York city, beginning Jan. 28 and extending to Feb. 10. The exposition is under the control of the American Institute of Social Science.

E. M. Mahl, mechanical engineer of the Southern Pacific, has been appointed chief engineer of the Colorado and Southern, effective Nov. 15. This is another fact pointing to the Southern Pacific control of the Colorado Southern.

The meeting had been called to discuss this law, as well as to attend to other less important business, but the interest in the banking law was the most important thing on the docket.

Last night at the Rice Hotel a banquet was given to visitors by the official force of the Union Bank and Trust Company.

B. B. Poore Files Suit Against the Rock Island

B. B. Poore of Wise county has filed a suit for $35,000 against the Chicago Rock Island & Gulf Railroad in the district clerk's office for alleged personal injuries.

The petition alleges that on Aug. 17, 1906, plaintiff was a passenger on one of defendant's trains between Fort Worth and Dallas, and that while on train was being backed out of the yards at Fort Worth it was run into by another of defendant's trains, causing plaintiff to be thrown from the train and broken timbers, causing him serious and permanent injuries. The injuries sustained are specified as follows: "Plaintiff was held like in a vise in a strained, cramped condition and all the time being mania in various portions of his person by his rescue by the timbers between which he was caught, and in this way he sustained serious compression, bruising and distortion of his bones, muscles and nerves, tendons and ligaments and was crushed and mangled about the hips, shoulders, back, head, abdomen and other portions of his body."

Special to The Telegram.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 16.—Thousands and thousands of tons of cotton seed are rotting in the state of Mississippi because of the inability of shippers to secure cars.

The car famine has become serious all over this state and industrial plants here are complaining of an inability to secure cars to move their products. The cotton seed people are feeling the famine an especially because picking cotton has advanced so rapidly during the past three weeks with the fine weather.

A Test of the Waterworks Plant Is Made

Thursday afternoon the city waterworks department of North Fort Worth made a test of the present water supply, before installing the Butler pumping device, which was ordered put in by the council at its last session.

The test showed that the present available supply is 219,298 gallons in twenty-four hours. The test was only made in the deep well, as the shallow well has not yet been equipped for pumping.

Under the proposition from Mr. Butler, which was accepted by the city, he was to install two of his devices, one in each of the city's wells, at a cost to the city of about $500, including the cost of labor and piping. The wells will likely be fully equipped by the first or middle of next week.

Under Mr. Butler's proposition, the wells are to produce at least 25 per cent more water than without his device, otherwise there will be no cost to the city other than a small bill for labor.

A test has been made by members of the waterworks committee that the supply will be increased at least 60 per cent, and that the shallow well, which has heretofore not been used by the city, will supply the city's needs.

The packing plants and stockyards which have been using about one hundred thousand gallons a day from the city, which is all the available supply, but an unlimited quantity can now be sold. This will increase the revenue of the city.

GAIN IN CONVENTION

Tarrant County Will Cast More Votes Than Dallas

The next state convention will spring a number of surprises, all due to the lack of interest taken in the election that was held at Dallas, Nov. 6. The vote cast at that election will be the basis for representation in the convention and in the apportionment of the convention vote it will be frequently the case that the smaller counties will cast a larger vote than counties with a larger voting population. Tarrant county cast 1512 votes for Governor-elect Tom Campbell, while Dallas county cast but little more than 3,500.

This is not only the case as between Dallas and Tarrant, but in small counties where there was a contest for offices a vote was polled for the democratic ticket nearly double that cast in some of the larger counties.

WEATHER IS MADE TO MATCH FUNDS

Display of Society's Finery Gauged by Purse

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—It blows hot or it blows cold for women these days, in accordance with the size of their pocketbooks. One day last week in an avenue of Washington, Mrs. Victor Metcalf, wife of the secretary of commerce and labor, walked along with Miss Chabot of Oakland, both garbed in embroidered white linen, with lace and frills. They wore white felt hats, with black and apple green ostrich plumes. But in the same avenue at the same time, was Mrs. Hope Slender of Boston, whose summer maiderings had included Russia and the North Cape.

She had bought a great loose sabie coat lined with the palest of blue and reaching below the knees. She had donned her costly garment, for it is conceded November is the month in which to appear in new furs and she knew her business if the weather man did not know it.

On the same promenade girls in orange with the lightest of silk wraps and linked arms with girls in new seal jackets.

INDIAN CHIEF TO HEAD RAILROAD

Pleasant Porter, President of Indian Territory Line

Special to The Telegram. MUSKOGEE, I. T., Nov. 15.—An Indian chieftain as a railroad president is a rare thing, but that is what Pleasant Porter, chief of the Creeks, is. His railroad, the Indian Central, it filed its charter at Guthrie and is capitalized at $15,000,000. It contemplates the construction of 460 miles of railroad in Indian Territory and Oklahoma within the next two years. The road begins at Ponca City and runs southeast to Paris, Texas, with a branch line running from the Red river northwest to Oklahoma City. The other corporations are E. T. Hathaway, Edward Overholser, William C. Reeves of Oklahoma City, and Edward Haisell of Muskogee.

The incorporation of the company will be in Oklahoma City, but the construction office and the headquarters of the operating department will probably be in Muskogee, home of the president. A number of the promoters of the road were here this week and from them interesting information relative to the new road was obtained. The road, according to a preliminary survey, begins at Ponca, in Kay county, O. T., and runs southeast into the Osage nation, crosses the Midland Valley near Skiatook, crosses the Osage nation line and enters the Cherokee nation on Hominy Creek; crosses the Santa Fe near Collinsville and the Missouri Pacific in Claremore, all in recording district No. 4. From Claremore the road runs due south, crossing the Arkansas river near Stonebluff and passing about half way between Muskogee and Okmulgee, crossing the Missouri, Kansas & Texas and the Rock Island to the coal belt in the vicinity of McAlester, thence southeast to a point on Red River opposite Lamar county, Texas, and then direct to Paris. The branch line will begin at a point in recording district No. 25, in the Choctaw nation, eighteen miles north of the Red River, and taking a northwesterly direction will run direct to Oklahoma City. The main line from Ponca, to Paris is three hundred miles, and the branch line is 160 miles, making a total of 460 miles.

Will Develop New Territory. It was stated by Chief Porter that the road is an independent line, built for the purpose of connecting the Kansas system of the Missouri Pacific with the Texas system of the Pacific coast. There will have to be bridges built over the Arkansas in two places, the Verdigris, Deep Fork, North Fork, two Bogies, Brushy, Blue South Canadian and the Red River. In addition there will be three tunnels in the Choctaw nation, one 1,800 feet long and another 1,500, while another will be 450 feet in length.

GERMAN NAVY IS 4TH IN WORLD

United States Third in List With England First

Special to The Telegram. BERLIN, Nov. 15.—In the face of the recent decision taken by the British naval authorities to reduce the vessels of the navy in active commission by a considerable number, the list of comparative strengths of the six largest naval powers, just published by "Nauticus" one of Germany's greatest naval experts, may be of some interest.

"Nauticus" the pseudonym for a high naval officer, groups the different powers as follows: On April 1, 1906 (1) Ton—(2) Ton—No. nage. No. nage. England 56 775,024 67 632,461 France 26 261,891 20 176,433 United States 18 214,028 12 133,562 Germany 19 213,181 12 91,477 Japan 11 139,455 11 95,618 Italy 11 137,899 9 74,382 (1)—Battleships launched in 1882 and later. (2)—Large cruisers launched in 1887 and later.

On April 7, 1910 (1) Ton—(2) Ton—No. nage. No. nage. England 60 888,225 74 753,526 France 32 408,862 23 230,475 United States 29 398,962 18 210,536 Germany 26 323,498 15 129,827 Japan 14 242,589 16 187,378 Italy 11 137,899 9 74,382 (1)—Battleships launched in 1886 and later. (2)—Large cruisers launched in 1891 and later.

These tables are used by "Nauticus" to emphasize the necessity, which he avers exists, for Germany still further to increase the naval armaments, which will only then fulfill their purpose when able to ward off effectually all attacks made on the German navy.

The "Niki" battleship, invented by the Grand Duke of Oldenburg and named by him after the heir to the throne, the hereditary Grand Duke Nicholas, has been occupying the attention of the German naval authorities for some time past. Experiments made with several ships, including the North German Lloyd boat, Seydlitz, on a voyage to Asia, show that the new propeller possesses the following advantages as compared with the old screw: Higher speed with smaller coal consumption and the absence of vibration. It is also found that the new propeller enabled a vessel to be stopped in shorter space of time than was the case formerly, the twin-screw steamship Wangerooge, for instance, being stopped in sixty seconds as against eighty second under the old system. It is stated that the German naval authorities will introduce the "Niki" propeller on the Duke of Oldenburg on all their warships in the future.

LOCAL PAY DAYS

Thousands Paid Out by Texas and Pacific. The night of the 15th of each month, except when that date falls on Sunday, is the best night in the month for Fort Worth merchants, said a leading dealer in the necessities of life. "On that day the Texas and Pacific railroad pays off its army of employees in Fort Worth when the men knock off from work in the afternoon excursions are made by husband and wife and other paid off employees into the shopping districts and the heart of the business man is glad. Business in all lines takes a spurt and clerks are kept busy waiting on customers and the shops present an appearance of the greatest prosperity. This is the condition when the Texas and Pacific pay falls in mid-week, but it does not begin to compare with the night of the 15th when that date falls on Saturday. When the latter is the case the streets of Fort Worth have a carnival look about them and the sidewalks are being wide enough for the crowds they overflow into the streets until far into the night. "The Texas and Pacific pays out to its employees $50,000 on the 15th and when that date falls on Saturday the amount is swelled into the hundreds of thousands by other concerns that pay off every week. O'DEA GREAT KICKER

Former Wisconsin Player Made World's Record

Edward B. Cochems, an old Wisconsin football star and coach of St. Louis University, is a great developer of punters. He believes in a "kicking game." Here are some of his interesting reminiscences: "Pat O'Dea of Wisconsin, the greatest kicker that ever stepped upon a gridiron, knew nothing about spirals, and simply booted the ball end over end. Had he known how to properly manipulate the ball with his hands and strike it with his foot, his kicks would have astounded the players of today. "His exhibition record at Madison for a punt was 87 yards and 10 inches, and his drop kick record that same day was 76 yards. However, I have seen him do much better. In fact, before practice began, he would often offer to bet that he could stand on the 75-yard line and put the ball between the posts. To my sorrow I took him up one day. Phil King, Wisconsin's coach, used to lose right along. "I played end under O'Dea's kicks in '98 and '99, and while they covered 70 yards, they were so high that we invariably tackled the runner in his tracks. At Evanston in '99, he kicked a 65-yard drop goal against Northwestern University, which stands as the world's record in a game. The ball went squarely between the posts, and over the end bleachers, and was easily an 80-yard drop. "This came in the second minute of play and was so audacious that 'Slam' Anderson, the end opposite me, thought it was going to be a punt, and ran down the field instead of blocking for a drop kick. We had made a bargain with the coach for a champagne supper if we scored in two minutes; hence O'Dea's effort. "In our game with Yale we stood on our 10-yard line, and Pat booted the ball from behind the goal line to Yale's 5-yard line. McBride, Yale's kicker, was forced to place his punts so that they crossed the side line, and he was practically helpless. His kicking was child's play in comparison. "Herschberger of Chicago was the only man who compared favorably with O'Dea, even when he fell much below the Badgerman's standard."

COTTON BURNED

Dwelling on South Jennings Almost Total Loss

Fire alarm from box No. 45 at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon called the department to the residence occupied by F. G. Fields and owned by T. P. Boyd, at 413 South Jennings street. The flames were quickly extinguished by the structure before the discovery was made by Mrs. Fields and the origin is not known. The building contained four rooms and is nearly total loss, covered partially by insurance. No insurance was carried on the contents. "The third alarm of the day came from the corner of Third and Main streets, where but slight damage to property was sustained by the explosion of an oil lamp. "Fire from what is feared by the railroad officials to be of incendiary origin damaged a car load of bale cotton to the extent of about $2,500 in the Santa Fe freight yards in East Ninth street at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. For a brief time the flames fanned by the stiff winds threatened the total destruction of the cotton, which was loaded on a flat car, but the quick run made by the department save a large portion of the load. "The cotton was consigned to Anton Unkraut & Sons, Green, Germany, and was shipped from Dublin, Texas.

MIRRORS TO ADVANCE

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Prices on all kinds of mirrors will be advanced from 20 to 30 per cent after Jan. 1, according to a resolution adopted at the meeting of the western mirror manufacturers here yesterday. W. B. Jackson, a member of the executive committee, appeared before the twenty-five delegates and said that the increase in the prices of raw materials and the scarcity in mercury is responsible for the necessary advance in the cost of the finished product. He said the new rate law has advanced freight rates to such an extent that raw material has advanced 100 per cent.

NO GAMBLING HERE

Retiring Sheriff Makes Farewell Tour of Town

Sheriff John T. Honea, accompanied by his deputies Ralph S. Purvis, W. P. Royston and W. H. Lennon, paid a farewell call Thursday night to the places where gambling was in full blast four years ago when he took charge of the sheriff's office. He wanted to be sure that "the tiger" was no longer in his lair when he surrendered the sheriff's office to his successor. "If Sheriff Honea expected in this last raid to find the law being violated he was disappointed, for in the halls where erstwhile the cry of the roulette men that "the little ball goes 'round and 'round" was heard, and where the gamblers presided over the ivory bones would announce, "craps, and the gentleman loses," there was dust on the tables, dirt on the floors and the stillness of death within the walls. "Gambling in all the places visited was still defunct and there was about all the haunts of "the tiger" a last year's bird nest look that told a tale of law's enforcement and the dispersing of the law's violators. Sheriff Honea will turn over to Sheriff Wood a town free from gambling so far as public gambling is concerned. "When I took charge of the sheriff's office four years ago, Nov. 17, I did so with the understanding with myself that public gambling in Fort Worth must cease. How well I have kept the promise I made to myself the public can judge," said the retiring sheriff.

Farmer's Organization Federation of Farmers' Organizations

Special to The Telegram. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. Embodiment of a membership of more than one-sevenths of the country's population, the National Farmers' Union, which is affiliated in with the American Labor, now in convention locally the entire day, devoted to the presentation of a platform of action, with the State Committees recommending where the members and its affiliated bodies should stand on the various proposals, while the farmers agree to purchase no made goods. The chief objection proposed affiliation with the Society of Equity, where "farmers" organization turned out to be one of the "strik stock" to common laborers, and numerous cases young rushed into the cities of industrial conflict strike-breakers. "Were you out in the field today, you'd see the young Vassar. I was merely of the rain that descended immediate vicinity."—St. Paul.

S.S.S. OUR PHYSICIANS. While we have the utmost confidence in the curative powers of S. S. S. in all blood troubles, yet we realize that in some cases cases unknown to the patient often hinder the best effects of the medicine. For this reason we have maintained for many years a branch to our business known as "Our Consultation Department." This department is composed of regularly graduated and licensed physicians who have made blood and skin diseases their special study, and who are employed solely to advise and help, without charge, those who use S. S. S. Thousands of people have been cured of blood and skin diseases of every kind by the use of S. S. S., and many of those who, perhaps, at first did not find the results entirely satisfactory, wrote our physicians a full statement of their case, and a little advice has tended the cure. We have nothing to sell you, and the only reason for wanting you to write to us is that we may use every effort to see that you get the best result from the medicine. You can then help us by advising your friends to use S. S. S., which you will know from experience is all we claim for it. You can write with the assurance that all correspondence is held in strictest confidence, and that our physicians will give you helpful advice without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Wall Street Confident Now That Monetary Atmosphere is Clearer—Call Money at 4 1/2 Per cent

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The expected reduction in the minimum rate of the Bank of England, the decrease in call money rates and the clearing of the monetary situation and now that those factors plus the proximity to the time when money will flow back from the west, has given a decidedly easier tone to the monetary situation and now that those factors plus the clearing, Wall street has assumed a good feeling of confidence all around. This was expected.

The consequence, therefore, is a wholesome undertone in the stock market.

Leading lights are buying for investment such stocks as Pennsylvania, Baltimore, Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Amalgamated and the Harriman steel issues, etc.

The slight setback right after the opening this morning afforded the opportunity sought by those of long sight and accordingly, after the small loss, good buying boosted prices past those established Thursday.

By noon 655,900 shares had changed hands, with call money at 4 1/2 per cent. The confident ones put a little powder under the market and had offered a loss of 2 points. The price quickly climbed to 27.

There was noticeable activity in the Island opening at 10:30 here and to 31, and fairly well balanced trading kept the price at and around the first mentioned quotation.

Southern Pacific tumbled one-half point, but steadied up around 95. New York Central advanced sharply from the start, reaching 130 1/4, a gain of 1 1/2 points. Louisville Reading, which did a skyrocket stunt to the extent of 3 1/2 points, to 139 1/4.

Erie exhibited steadiness around 44. Paul was well absorbed on account of the favorable development expected, at one time showing an advance to 184 1/4. This stock, because of its recent ascendancy in points, should not exhibit irregularity, but held up excellently.

SOCIETY AFFILIATED

Farmer's Organization Joins With Federation of Labor

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 16.—Embodying a membership of over a million, claiming to represent more than one-seventh of the entire population of the country, the American Society of Equity, the recently formed National Farmers' Union, Thursday became affiliated in a limited degree with the American Federation of Labor, now in convention here.

Practically the entire afternoon session was devoted to the preparation of affiliating with the Society of Equity. Committees recommended a plan whereby the members of the federation and its affiliated bodies agree to demand union farm, garden and orchard produce, while the farmers specifically agree to purchase nothing but union made goods.

The chief objections made to the proposed affiliation with the American Society of Equity, were that heretofore "farmers' organizations" have turned out to be beneficial principally to the "silk stocking" element and not to common laborers, and that in numerous cases, posing as farmers, they rushed into the cities during the times of industrial conflict and acted as strike-breakers.

"Were you out in all that rain?" asked Mary.

"No," said the young woman from Passar, "I was merely in the portion of the rain that descended in my immediate vicinity."—Stray Stories.

Futures Again Advance—Big Bears Spots Covered and Activity in Speculators' Argument

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Along with the substantiated reports of increased activity in spots came Hester's fight for the week, against 503,513 and 529,865 for corresponding weeks of 1905 and 1904, respectively.

At this juncture a few of the heavy foreign firms, made a bid to buy, which elicited a sufficient following to jerk the market up.

Big fellows here and at New Orleans had the market open up quickly until it had reached 10.52 here and 10.70 at the southern market.

An unfavorable turn in the weather, which counteracted the weight of statistics.

The elimination of the outside interest and the reduction of bear accounts have, on the other hand, caused friends of the market to pause and think over the situation, for the $4 per bale enhancement is a pretty big amount in advance of the ginners' report.

January settled around 10.23, December 10.23, March 10.38.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—After a heavy scurry of scalpers, who expected a low opening, professional speculators quickly rushed to the market, causing an advance of 12 to 14 points.

The coming report of ginlings up to and including Nov. 15, is necessarily the chief topic of economic discussion. This report will compare with 7,501,180 to Nov. 14, 1905, and 9,736,646 for corresponding period of 1904.

An authority estimates that the census figures next Wednesday will be to the tune of 8,700,000 to reassure bears. This would mean a mean ginling of 1,308,000 within twelve working days. Should they fall below 1,700,000 there might be considerable effect in favor of the bulls.

The bulls in the meantime are arguing along the line of increased consumption and point to the flattering statistics of the weather, the firmness of the market for the finished product.

The bullish inclined have, therefore, a couple of good props upon which to lean, while the bearish are clinging the depressors of prices as suits the fancy of the former.

But it must be remembered that the cotton market is a limited degree in a susceptible position for a reaction should the discount already accumulated upon a bullish census prove too exacting.

December is up 23 points, January 21 and May 17 over closing bids yesterday.

Spot are in exceedingly good demand.

Wheat Fairly Steady at Slightly Lower Prices—Coarse Grains Quiet—Pork, Lard, Ribs Are Higher

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Wheat: Liverpool cables sounding a good firm tone at an advance of 1/4 at the opening, the market here opened up steady at 79 1/2, the 21st inst., made a bid to buy, which elicited a sufficient following to jerk the market up.

A prominent southern miller, who was here from Louisville Thursday afternoon and who is one of the leaders of the southland, caused cash wheat sellers to sit up and take notice. Said the miller: "We are having a good trade in flour and have been behind our orders all year. This however, is our normal condition. I do not anticipate any advance in wheat and think prices are high enough. There is about 40 per cent of the crop still in farmers' hands in our territory, but this will be held until spring. We are buying the wheat in the west of the Mississippi river and north of Ohio."

Corn: Higher cables from abroad tended to imbue the trade here with confidence in higher prices. The situation was dull at and around 42 1/2 for December and a cent higher for May deliveries.

A Kansas City man, who is pretty well posted, gave out this statement today: "Line shippers report large purchases of corn. One company with trucks in the west is buying its corn in South Kansas and Oklahoma are full and filling on the ground."

A full movement of cars is expected. The wheat and the steady alcohol of low grade corn, etc., is influencing some holders to keep their grain back. This, too, perhaps, has a tendency to stimulate demand for May corn around 45c.

Oats: Contracts opened unchanged to 1/2 higher quotations and buyers were uninterested. The market was quiet. May rubbered around 35 1/2. December deliveries settled around price established yesterday of 34 1/2 to 34 3/4.

Lard: A message from an exporter to the effect that a good deal of cash lard that has been bought has been ordered shipped here, prices here being high.

A New York exporter advises: "Can't interest buyers." May is up 10 points and interest in hedges are 5 better. Pork and ribs are steady at slight advances.

ROOSEVELT IN PANAMA

Orchestra Played "The Star Spangled Banner"

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—President Roosevelt left his hotel at 11 o'clock this morning with Mrs. Roosevelt to make an examination of the Culebra cut. He returned to Laboca at noon and made the trip to La Taboga. Later the President returned to the hotel, where he received the heads of the canal department after witnessing the display of fireworks in the bay from the balcony of President Amador's palace.

Last night President Roosevelt, President Amador and wives attended the reception at the Commercial Club. As the party entered the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner." There were more than 300 persons present, including representative citizens from Colorado and Panama, and wives, who heartily cheered Mr. Roosevelt.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt and President and Senora Amador walked around the parlor. Representative Jos. E. Lefevre welcomed President Roosevelt on behalf of the youth of Panama at the national assembly. The President replied in highly complimentary manner, saying he always believed in the future of Panama. At 10:45 p. m. President Roosevelt and party returned to the hotel.

NORTH FORT WORTH

CARNIVAL QUEEN WILL BE ELECTED

Plan to Make North Side Carnival Annual Event

One of the features of the celebration of the fourth anniversary of North Fort Worth will be the election and coronation of the queen of the carnival. The Commercial Club and the management of the Cosmopolitan Amusement Company are arranging voting plans by which one of the popular young women of North Fort Worth will be chosen queen of the carnival, and at the coronation she will be presented with a handsome diamond. The plan of voting has not yet been decided upon. In addition to the coronation prize, other prizes will be offered.

The plans for making the carnival a great success in every way are maturing rapidly. The Commercial Club is active in completing details, and something new and interesting is developing every day.

The prime object in bringing about this celebration is for the better advertising of North Fort Worth. Already the effects are being felt away from Fort Worth. People from other towns are talking about it and have caught the idea that it will be a mammoth outdoor entertainment, and the out-of-town visitors will be numerous. The special excursion rates that will be put on all railroads will be a further

A COMPARISON

WE ARE WILLING TO TRUST THE PUBLIC TO COMPARE OUR STYLES WITH OTHERS

Almost every man and certainly every woman can see at a glance the difference between a poor coat and a good one, and between a fairly good and a very good one!

Therefore, we say, compare our coats with others. The only way to test a coat is by trying it on. The man who merely looks at the material, seem but a comparatively unimportant part of the garment. Who looks at the fabric you wear as you promenade down the street? It's the shape and fit that catch the eye, and that is what you want most of all.

STYLISH HATS

As no man would look right if the hat were not in keeping with the suit, we have been very careful to select the most correct styles for young as well as the mature gentleman.

Inducement to the people from other towns to attend.

In speaking of Fort Worth co-operating with North Fort Worth in this celebration, a member of the North Fort Worth Commercial Club stated that while the advertising matter will all bear the name of North Fort Worth and that the attractions will all be located there, that the city of Fort Worth will ultimately reap the benefit.

"We are all working for a greater Fort Worth," said he, "and it is to be expected that the city will lend encouragement for a selfish interest if for no other reason. But as for that matter, the city has ever regarded its interests and those of North Fort Worth as mutual, and there has at all times existed a friendly spirit of co-operation. We have plenty of desirable factory sites, and it is to the interest of the coming greater Fort Worth to locate more factories and commercial enterprises here. If the north side has the advantage of better factory sites, it is to the interest of Fort Worth in its entirety to aid in locating them here.

"This will be one of the objects in bringing about this annual celebration. While the Commercial Club has not by resolution made this an annual feature, the unanimous feeling among all concerned is that it be made an annual event. This is necessary from an advertising standpoint. After the first event is past the people will begin to look forward to the date of the next entertainment, and much valuable advertising will be had in that way.

"It has been suggested that some name be given to the annual event that will carry with it a distinct individuality. Several names have been suggested, and the Commercial Club will be called upon to officially designate one before time to begin advertising the next event."

The dates are Nov. 26 to Dec. 1 inclusive. North Fort Worth invites every one to attend and spend a few hours each day in needed recreation. "If pleasure interferes with business, quit business," says Jake Schwarz.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Schools of North Fort Worth Will Hold Exercises

The North Fort Worth public schools are preparing to hold appropriate exercises on Thanksgiving. The exercises will be held on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 25, and Thursday following, which is Thanksgiving day, will be observed as a national holiday, and no school will be held.

The plans for making the afternoon, from 12:45 to 2 o'clock, will be devoted to exercises by the pupils of all grades below the sixth, and from 2 to 3:30 those of the sixth and higher grades will be given the auditorium, where the exercises will be held.

The exercises will consist of readings, songs, declamations, and all will be of historical nature, giving the origin of Thanksgiving and why it is observed as a national holiday.

There will be a song in which the pupils of the entire school, 750 in number, will join. This has not yet been selected, but will consist of some appropriate poem, set to music of some of the popular airs.

The patrons of the schools and all who are interested in the North Fort Worth schools are invited to attend.

The schools are progressing and North Fort Worth is proud of them. The attendance this year is almost double that of last season, which is one of the many indications of the growth of the city.
