SOME PERTINENT POLITICAL HISTORY

It has been reserved for Judge A. C. Terrell of Austin, the former statesman and Texas patriot, to shed some additional light on the Bailey situation and make plain some of the gentleman's very peculiar actions. In a speech in the city of Austin Thursday evening, Judge Terrell said: "Now I am going to tell you a dead-end parallel—one that has not been made before. Bailey met Pierce for the first time in Dallas in 1890, and very early that year the supreme court of the United States, ousting the United States Oil Company, was deposed in this very court. By a strange coincidence Pierce failed to tell Bailey about that? What did Pierce want? Not a lawyer, for he had George Clark. He wanted vengeance."

COMPROMISE FAILED

Government officials could not settle Southern Pacific strike. HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 5.—Grand jury charged the strike of the Southern Pacific firemen. With the departure of Commissioner Namm, the firemen's commerce and labor from Houston last night, a conference between the railroad officials, the engineers and the firemen, the affairs of the local situation were placed in the hands of the great massier and a committee is now at Chicago, Tex., to handle the situation.

It is just as important for everybody whose business depends on agriculture as it is for the diversified crops this year. Unless the farmers of Grayson county had off the boll weevil in conditions which were distinctly discouraging when picking time came, the famous nearness to the boll weevil would better sit up and take notice. A FAMOUS ITALIAN

Special to The Telegram. DENVER, Colo., Jan. 5.—Augusto Franzoni, one of the most famous Italian explorers, and who more than any other person brought about peace between King Humbert of Italy and Menelik, the famous negro king of Abyssinia, is in Denver. After spending a few weeks in Colorado Franzoni will sail for South America and will explore that country and the people, especially those living in the tropics. Franzoni is an Italian newspaper man and has written several books. In 1892 he was sent by the Independence League, a publication of Belgium, as a special correspondent on an expedition to Tripoli Africa. His breast and arms were covered by scars as a result of attacks upon him by the natives of Africa, and many times had narrow escapes with his life. During his exploration among the natives he fought three duels. On his return to Italy he received an important appointment in diplomatic circles and after the war between Italy and Abyssinia Franzoni was sent by King Humbert to secure the release of Italian soldiers held by King Menelik.

Special to The Telegram. DENVER, Colo., Jan. 5.—Augusto Franzoni, one of the most famous Italian explorers, and who more than any other person brought about peace between King Humbert of Italy and Menelik, the famous negro king of Abyssinia, is in Denver. After spending a few weeks in Colorado Franzoni will sail for South America and will explore that country and the people, especially those living in the tropics. Franzoni is an Italian newspaper man and has written several books. In 1892 he was sent by the Independence League, a publication of Belgium, as a special correspondent on an expedition to Tripoli Africa. His breast and arms were covered by scars as a result of attacks upon him by the natives of Africa, and many times had narrow escapes with his life. During his exploration among the natives he fought three duels. On his return to Italy he received an important appointment in diplomatic circles and after the war between Italy and Abyssinia Franzoni was sent by King Humbert to secure the release of Italian soldiers held by King Menelik.

NEW JUDGE TRY

Special to The Telegram. CALDWELL, Idaho, Jan. 5.—Judge Smith of the Idaho county district court will call for the bench today and will be sworn in to preside at the trial of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, officials of the Western Federation of Miners, charged with the murder of ex-Governor Steunberger of this state. No charges will be filed until a final court of the west has determined as wide fame as this one, and that the accused men are able to laboring men. From all the great labor centers of the country, and even from Europe, thousands of dollars have been poured into the coffers of the federation for the defense of its leaders. Disturbing agents, headed by Clarence Darrow of Chicago, have been engaged by the miners and an equally formidable array of legal talent has been summoned by the state. Meanwhile, the accused men—mere peasants in the eyes of the law—wait in the jail, waiting until the powers that be are ready to begin the action that for them is a matter of life or death. They are convicted, organized labor will also be convicted in the eyes of millions, if they are acquitted or sent to prison. Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone are hanged the Western Federation will be throtted in the same gallows. Regardless of the guilt or innocence of the accused men, the prosecution now has the upper hand. It can be denied that there are powerful financial interests in the mining industry—great corporations that would consider the lives of three men but a small price to pay for the abolition of the hated union. These interests have the backing of the state government. The issue is not whether they are an endorsement of his activity in the case. The appeal to the United States supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in a vain effort to get the case out of the hands of the court was not called upon to consider any evidence tending to prove the guilt of the accused men. The state has engaged several detectives and incidentally an expense account of thousands of dollars for the taxpayers to settle. Several of the accused men were engaged in watching every movement of John F. Nugent, the local attorney for the state, who never goes anywhere unaccompanied.

QUEENS OF ENGLAND.

[Note.—A series of brief biographical sketches of the Queens of England will be a feature of this page for some time to follow.]

Matilda of Flanders, consort of William the Conqueror, was the first queen of England to receive the full distinction of her exalted position.

That William the Conqueror and his consort, Matilda, should break the time-honored court customs by calling Matilda "regina" much displeased the Saxons.

those times, "seven long years of stormy debate intervened before the courtship of William was brought to a happy conclusion."

At all events, whatever the act of William was that brought the amiable Matilda to terms, it is a fact recorded that she was a most dutiful, obedient and loving consort, and a true, self-sacrificing mother to the many children she bore.

LEGAL NOTICE
THE STATE OF TEXAS, in the District Court, Tarrant County, Texas, February Term, A. D. 1907.—To the Sheriff or any Constable of Tarrant County, Greenlee: You are hereby commanded, That by making publication of this citation in some newspaper published in the county of Tarrant eight weeks previous to the return hereof, you summon W. W. Walters and his wife, Jane Walters, and their unknown heirs, whose residences are unknown to the undersigned, to appear before the undersigned in the District Court, to be held in and for the county of Tarrant, at the court house thereof, in the city of Fort Worth, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1907, the same being the 11th day of said month, and then and there to answer the petition of E. P. Wei-rauch and his wife, S. N. Weirauch, as plaintiffs, filed in said court, on the 18th day of December, A. D. 1906, against W. W. Walters and his wife, Jane Walters, and their unknown heirs, as defendants, in and to the numbered 25384, the nature of which demand is as follows, to wit: Plaintiffs sue to remove cloud from the west half of the north half of lot No. 1 block 19, Jennings' South addition to the city of Fort Worth; and also the west 50 feet of south half of said lot, both of the north half of lot No. 1, Tarrant county, Texas. Said cause grows out of a misdescription of land in said block, said misdescription having been caused by an excess of 47 feet in said lot, being on the east side of said lot. Plaintiffs allege that defendants, William and Jane Walters, made defendant's conveyance by which they intended to convey said property, but because of said excess they failed to describe same in their deeds, and the successive purchasers of said property, as defendant's heirs, groups all intended to purchase and sell said property down to plaintiffs. Plaintiffs claim title by limitation.
Herein said court but have you then with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same. Witness, my hand and seal, A. MARTIN, Clerk of the District Court of Tarrant County.
Given under my hand and seal of

NEW YORK STOCKS
ARE BERT BULLISH
Conditions Shaping For Sharp
Advance

Special to The Telegram.
NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The earlier market situation had a very bullish effect on the stock market, and the covery made Friday was reflected in the quotations on foreign cables quoted American stocks on the London exchange at an advance, except in a few cases where the market was pected, and the market is more bullish today on general conditions. Money at the opening was down to more normal rates, especially for call loans, and trading was quite animated for the short session. The investigation of the Harriman situation, which has in progress, instead of furnishing the bears with ammunition, has so far been without effect, and in fact, instead of furnishing the bears with ammunition, has come sooner than expected, the market being viewed from the point of view of the future of the market along the line. Coal stocks were very quiet, but there was a slight advance in the market for oil stocks, and

NEW YORK COTTON
Special to The Telegram.
NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The cotton market held up well today and showed considerable strength. The big port receipts seemed to have effect on the market and the quotations on the boards showed an advance at the opening with a fair net gain at the close.
The spot demand continues good with a few exceptions, and the market element seems to be fixed of waiting for the slump that seemed to them.
The weather conditions are favorable.
But in the face of heavy movement,
and the forecast bearish bureau report, the market is more bullish. The department of agriculture, Tuesday, the market has behaved in a way that is most disappointing to the bears. The well known statisticians have expressed the opinion that the bureau report will be bullish rather than bearish and that the present advance in cotton is caused by this influence.
The weather conditions now have but little influence on the market further than to delay the picking and marketing of the cotton. The crop is large, and the demand is even greater on the American side than in the past. The market is confidently expected.

Special to The Telegram.
CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The wheat market made further declines today, and remained very weak, the fairly steady movement with the principle operators taking the long side. Commission houses were on both sides of the market, but the market was fixed on either side. While the sentiment from all logical viewpoints, should be inclined to the bull side, still there is no improvement in prices. It is claimed, however, by the bull side that the heavy movement that is just starting is the depressing influence, and when the stocks which are now stored in both private and public elevators are well out of the way, that more attention will be given to trading operations. While there are many local longs, who have large holdings, they do not seem to be in the least nervous while the quality was fair, and they expect the demand that it is claimed must soon be apparent, will force prices up. While the sentiment from all

ing of the cotton. The crop is large,
market is confidently expected.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
Special to The Telegram.
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—The cotton
boards showed an advance at the opening with a fair net gain at the close.
for the slump that seemed to them.
The weather conditions are favorable.
But in the face of heavy movement,
and the forecast bearish bureau re-
department of agriculture, Tuesday,
the market has behaved in a way that is
report will be bullish rather than bear-
ish and that the present advance in
cotton is caused by this influence.
little influence on the market further
ing of the cotton. The crop is

A HARD YEAR FOR CATARRH

Local Physician Gives Advice How to Cure Catarrh.

Unless all signs fail, this will prove a hard winter for those who are subject to catarrhal disease. Predictions for the coming months in this section are cold, wet weather with lots of snow and sleet which means a damp, slushy winter and a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers unless great care is taken to dress warm and keep the feet dry.

This is the advice of a well-known local physician and should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it will prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.
