

By Jack McCarty

Oil is still the big topic hereabouts and the new outpost producer brought in last week on the John Harris tract in the Scott Field was good news to everyone here. From our view (behind a battered typewriter) it appears that Cross Plains cannot help but grow and prosper from this oil activity for the next few years, at least, and our chief concern now should be to provide housing and utilities for all those who want to make our city their home. Housing, of course, is one of our biggest problems but it is the opinion of this department that adequate housing would be made available here if ample supplies of water and gas were made available to residents. A city cannot possibly grow any larger or faster than its utilities and we believe that a concerted effort should be made immediately to secure additional water and gas supplies.

This community suffered a real loss this week, when Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Evans moved to Prosper, Texas, where he will take over the duties as pastor of the Presbyterian Church there. Rev. and Mrs. Evans were intelligent and consecrated citizens of our community and they will be greatly missed in our midst. He was known throughout this area as a deep thinker and a straightforward, Christian gentleman who spoke his convictions without hesitation. This world would be Utopia if everyone held to the high principles of this lovely couple. May they be happy in their new home is our wish for them.

Don't forget... this week is Public Schools Week in Texas and every citizen of the Cross Plains area is extended a cordial invitation to return to school here today (Thursday). Local school officials and members of the board are anxious to have everyone visit the local schools and observe teaching methods. You are invited to visit classrooms and have lunch with the students in the school lunchroom at noon. Let's show our faculty and school board that we are interested in their work by returning to school... even if it is only for a day!

While it will probably be of little interest to the citizens of this area, we want to inform everyone that this department and S. F. (Fos) Bond have buried the hatchet on the business of weather and for the time being, at least, we are going to go along in harmony and see if it has any effect on local weather conditions. Right now, neither of us are making any predictions but we plan a combined effort in wooing Mother Nature and hope that our efforts will spell the finish to the prolonged drought conditions now existing. Now, don't get us wrong... this department is not conceding anything to Fos and are only going into this project on a trial basis. We sincerely hope that this new deal is not blamed for the unseasonably cold weather new blanketing this area.

Our congratulations are extended to members of the local Girl Scout Troops upon the occasion of their 42nd birthday anniversary which will be celebrated across the nation next week, March 7-13. May your organization continue to grow and wax good works throughout our land.

Mrs. Gwynn Elliott Re-elected President of P-TA Tuesday Night

Mrs. Gwynn Elliott was re-elected president of the local Parent-Teachers Association during a business meeting held in the school gymnasium Tuesday night. Bayou Philosopher Scores Political Expert For Worrying Over Possible Candidate Shortage

Editor's note: The Bayou Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the Bayou has now taken to worrying over other people's worries, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:

I was out here the other afternoon watchin a couple of baby calves lay around, there's nothing happier than a frisky calf on a warm sunny afternoon this time of the year, unless it's a politician who has just been no-billed, and I pulled a paper out of my pocket I'd been carrying around for several days and straightened out the wrinkles and spread it out on the ground and stretched out and looked it over.

Over on the editorial page I ran into an article by a political expert who reported there is considerable worry among the Republicans in some states in trying to find a candidate to run against the Democrats, particularly in states that are Democratic strongholds.

Personally, I believe the expert was having a hard time that day to find something to write about.

I have never seen an office somebody wasn't willing to run for or a piece of land somebody was not willing to work or a man some woman wasn't willing to marry. I don't care how hard the race might be and how little the pay, or how sorry the land or the man

Members of the Cross Plains Future Farmers of America Chapter won seven places in the first annual Callahan County Livestock Show held in Baird on Saturday of last week.

Chapter members brought home blue ribbons in three of four divisions entered.

Jerry Foster took top honors for local exhibitors when his Holstein cow was named grand champion in the dairy division.

Other chapter winners were: Harold Merrill placed first and third with his Ayshire and Holstein heifers; Mike McClure won first with his Angus heifer in the breeding beef heifer division and Merrill placed second in the same class. Harold Gary took first place with his pen of White Leghorn hens in the production hen division and Orville Grider placed fourth with his Duroc gilt in the breeding divison.

Winford Gardner, 16, Eula 4-H Club boy, took the grand championship of the fat steer division on his "scramble" calf, a steer which he purchased from Edgar Davis, Abilene Hereford breeder, with money he won in the Houston Fat Stock Show calf scramble in 1953.

It is a heavyweight milked calf. Winford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Gardner of Eula.

Gardner took the heavyweight milked calf to the 1954 Houston show, but elected to bring it back home, rather than sell at Houston. The steer will go to Abilene for the district show.

Robert Park, Baird FFA member, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Park, showed the champion drylot calf, a heavyweight, which was named reserve champion of the show. The calf was bred by R. H. Seale, Bryan rancher.

The grand champion lamb was shown by Bill Lewis, Callahan County 4-H boy. The lamb was a cross-breed which was first in the 110-pound and up fat class. The animal was from the flock of Halbert & Fawcett of Sonora.

The reserve champion was also a crossbred lamb, shown by Mark Garoutte, Callahan County 4-H boy, and was bred by B. M. Halbert, Jr., of Sonora. Mark's lamb was first in the class under 110 pounds.

David Lynn Canada, Callahan 4-H, exhibited both the grand champion and reserve champion gilt of the show. David Lynn is a member of the Clyde 4-H Club.

Rev. and Mrs. Evans Move To New Pastorate

Rev. A. C. Evans, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here for a number of years, with his wife, left Tuesday of this week for Prosper where they will make their new home and where he will take over the duties of pastor of the Presbyterian Church there.

Their many friends in this area regretted to see them leave but wish for the best of everything in their new home.

either, there's always somebody willing to give it a try.

Coffee may be scarce, as well as uranium and plutonium, but I don't believe there will ever come a time when there's a scarcity of candidates or workable land layin out or when a bachelor can't get married.

Of course you understand there is some land that ought to lay out, the same as there are some offices, but hope in the Spring will never play out, and neither will the supply of candidates.

I have worked land that ought to lay out, but I've also voted for candidates that should have too, and while it's true you don't get anymore out of a piece of land than you put into it, at least that's the saying although I doubt if it's true or I wouldn't be livin, the same is not necessarily true with a candidate. I've known lots of office-holders who got a lot more out of an office than they put in it, and on occasion more than the law intended.

That political expert ought to rest his mind. When ever there's a vacancy on a ballot, candidates flow into it like air into a vacuum.

With all the things we got to worry about, worrying about not finding somebody to run for any office ought to come last.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

NOT ENOUGH: Department of Agriculture economists predict farm income will be about the same this year as it was last year — unless, that is, "abnormal developments" occur in either the weather or the national economy.

Net cash farm income in 1953 was over four billion dollars below net cash farm income in 1947. Texas farm income was 17 percent less last year than in 1952.

The farmers' share of the national income was not enough last year. We need to do better this year.

PURCHASING POWER: Farm purchases were down last year along with farm income.

Retail sales of farm equipment and machinery ran about 17 percent below 1952 sales. Gross investment in farm buildings, motor vehicles and other machinery and equipment dropped by $600,000,000 — a decline of 11 percent.

We must not adopt a farm program which would further reduce the purchasing power of the farmers.

GREAT TEXAN: General Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, was in Washington to receive from the Venezuelan Ambassador the Order of the Liberator, bestowed upon him for his many years of service in the cause of oil and natural gas conservation.

Texans do not need to be told that this honor and the many others won by General Thompson are well deserved. He is a great Texan, a great American and, I am proud to say, my good friend. The General was accompanied by his lovely and charming bride.

WOOL TRADING: Senate voted last week to put trading in wool futures under supervision of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Exchange Authority, the purpose being to prevent manipulation of prices. Twenty other commodities are under CEA regulation.

The bill still must pass the house.

Washington

"As It Looks From Here"

OMAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

Washington — A strong proposal is before the tax-writing committee of the Congress to increase the personal exemption on income taxes from 600 to 700 dollars. Thus far, the majority of the committee have turned it down. Such an increase is estimated to lower Federal income by approximately two billion dollars.

As a matter of fact, an increase in the personal exemption would mean more to those with modest incomes than any reduction in the rate which could be passed in the Congress.

The amount saved those with lower incomes would increase the purchasing power of the nation, and certainly this would be good for business.

Also, a motion was made in the Ways and Means Committee, which handles the tax laws, to put a ceiling of 10 percent on all excise taxes. The Committee Chairman ruled the amendment out of order. There will be proposals for adjustment of excise taxes, but it remains to be seen what they will be.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell has endorsed a compulsory FEPC. Mr. Mitchell testified in favor of an FEPC measure introduced by Senator Hubert Humphrey, Democrat of Minnesota, and Senator Irving Ives, Republican of New York. A bill of this kind raises its ugly head every once in a while, but I must say it is very disappointing that it is backed by the Secretary of Labor and to assume that it has the Administrations blessings. As I recall during his campaign President Eisenhower said he favored a "voluntary" Fair Employment Practices Act.

Republican Senators Williams of Delaware and Aiken of Vermont have introduced legislation to cut oil and gas depletion allowances from 27 1-2 percent to 15 percent. The committee of the House of Representatives handling these matters left it alone, but a fight may be made to lower the allowance when the tax bill reaches the Senate.

Many people not familiar with the oil and gas industry, which includes many members of Congress, simply do not understand how vital the 27 1-2 percent depletion allowance is to the industry. It is the only thing which has kept the small independent producer in business, and he is responsible for about 85 percent of all oil discoveries.

There are a lot of people in the North and East, and in Washington in official positions, who think that the oil man only has to go out and drill a hole in Texas to be guaranteed oil and riches.

On Tuesday of last week my colleague Congressman George Mahon introduced an amendment to a supplemental appropriation bill providing for a 30 million-dollar loan increase for the Farmers Home Administration. The amendment was defeated. This means that the lending power of the FHA may be rather tight.

Like all other things, there may be some mistakes in individual cases, but, all in all, the FHA has done one of the finest jobs of any governmental program in existence. It has saved a lot of farmers from ruin and has put them back on the road to successful operations without cost to the tax-payer. The over-all record of this agency is one of great accomplishment.

Loose talk and irresponsible statements are very old products in Washington, but in the midst of it I am often reminded of the old saying—"As hard as it is to say something, it's often harder to say nothing."

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Browning and son of Brownwood visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Baum, and other relatives Sunday.

BURKETT NEWS

By Anita Strickland

Church services are being conducted each night this week, Monday through Friday, by the pastor.

About the most exciting news this week is about the car accident in which four Burkett boys were injured. Lincoln Herring, Jr., driver of the car, a Plymouth coupe, suffered bruises and the loss of some teeth and the other boys, Roy Dale Porter, suffered a broken wrist and cuts on his head. Roy Don Biehl and Jimmie Porter were less seriously injured, suffering only from bruises. The accident occurred a mile north of Burkett when the car left the road and landed in a ditch.

Mrs. Belle Barnett celebrated her 31st birthday Sunday, February 28, at the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Barnett. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett of Cottonwood, Mr. and Mrs. Judd Barnett and Belva of Cross Plains, and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Barnett and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. White and daughters and H. D. Barnett all of Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Neff and children recently moved to the Edmondson place west of Burkett. The Neff family formerly lived in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Bludworth and Patsy of Bakersfield, Texas, visited relatives here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. McCormick and children of Fort Worth spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Evans.

Those visiting here from Aransas Pass over the week end were Mmes. J. E. Burkett, Howard Strackbein and Raymond Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Strickland and daughters, Miss Fannie Strickland and W. R. Strickland visited in the J. W. Davis home at Coleman Sunday and attended the fourth Sunday singing.

George Williams, an employee of the Amarado Oil Company, retired February 28, and was honored by the residents of the camp Saturday night with a barbecue supper. He was presented with an electric band saw and Mrs. Williams was presented a "lazy susan".

Mrs. Mildred Bagley and Gail of Chicago have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Herring. Mrs. Herring is still a patient in the Coleman hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Tomlinson and J. W. visited relatives in Brownwood Sunday.

The local high school boys basketball team won the first two tournament games played in Brownwood Friday with Carrollton and May but lost their game Saturday morning to Avoca by five points.

The local high school girls basketball team will play for Regional championship Friday and Saturday of this week at Brownwood.

The high school girls team played Early girls Monday night and lost by a score of 52-34.

Mrs. Lloyd Boyle is home after undergoing surgery at Santa Anna Hospital several days ago.

Mrs. Carl Bludworth is a patient in Overall Hospital, Coleman.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox Gives Advice To Heart Patients

Austin—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, says that far too many people worry over symptoms they believe to indicate heart trouble and their fears keep them from seeing the family physician. This is unfortunate because many times an examination would reveal that they do not have heart disease. Persons whose examination shows heart impairment have a much better chance to live a happy, constructive life if they follow their physicians advice.

If one has heart disease his doctor will advise that he do all things in moderation, if necessary outline vitamin deficiency needs, eat sensibly and if overweight tell him how to reduce, in order to take some of the strain of his heart.

It is a protection to your heart if you have all the rest you need. When you rest you give your heart a chance to slow down and get the rest it needs. So keep reasonable hours, especially on work days.

Refuse to let yourself be rushed. If you think something must be done on the run, change that attitude to allow yourself more time. This applies also to driving a car. Aside from the danger of sudden death in a high speed accident, fast driving at any time makes your nerves taut, raises your blood pressure and burdens your heart. Also, refuse to worry, be afraid or to become angry. If you allow yourself to indulge in these wasteful emotions, your own heart is being punished.

Dr. Cox has one last word of advice. If you have heart disease, cooperate with your physician. The physician's objective is for the patient to realize the maximum of their capabilities within the limits of their disabilities.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cooper of Newcastle visited in the home of Mrs. Thompson's brothers, Mack and Lonnie Gray, at Pioneer over the week end.

New Texas Highway Travel Map Released

Austin — Publication of the Official Highway Travel Map for 1954 was announced in Austin today by D. C. Greer, State Highway Engineer and it is now available for free distribution.

Incorporating many changes and new features, it is believed that this is one of the best travel maps the Highway Department has published. Greer stated. For the first time this year type has been used for all names and symbols appearing on the map, instead of the hand lettering previously used. This greatly improves legibility of all names.

A different size and type face was selected for the various categories of names that appear on the map; counties appear in one type, cities of similar population density will have the same size type; mountains will have their own lettering style, while rivers will appear in still another size and type face, Greer stated. In all, thirty-three different styles and sizes of type were ordered for the new map.

Over 1300 villages, towns, and cities are to be shown on the new guide. Each of these falls into one of the five population categories - towns of less than 1,000 persons, towns up to 5,000, those with 25,000, and cities with populations up to 100,000. After a city's population passes this mark, Greer said, it will be shown as a stippled outline of the city limits. Thirteen insets of Texas' largest towns showing highway routes through these towns are continued in the margins of the map again this year.

For the past two years the Department has been attempting to develop a relief base for the travel map that would succeed in showing the contours of the land to better advantage without adding to the expense of the printing, Greer said. This year a method has finally been developed to show a true relief which can be reproduced in brown, conforming to all standard cartographic relief practices.

Also to improve the legibility of the map and to allow for the showing of more detail, the width of the highway bands has been reduced in size on the 1954 map. This is a particular advantage around cities where several highways converge, Greer pointed out.

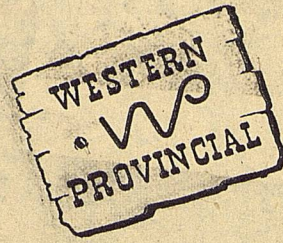

He went on to say that Texas is so large that any attempt to map it at a scale that will accommodate all information of interest to tourists would not be practical. The size of road maps has been fairly well standardized all over the United States, and any attempt to squeeze Texas onto the same size sheet of paper required by the average state must necessarily prohibit the use of much interesting information.

All items that render service to the traveling public are clearly designated including roadside parks, historical points of interest, state and national parks, and tourist information bureaus. A mileage index, which shows the distance between principal cities in Texas, is also compiled for the users assistance. The Department usually receives about one-half million requests each year for a copy of the travel map. Copies may be obtained free of charge from any of the district highway offices in the state, the travel information bureaus, or by writing direct to the Texas Highway Department, Austin 14, Texas.

Mrs. Bill Ramsey of Putnam underwent bone surgery Monday of this week in Hendrick Memorial Hospital, Abilene. Mrs. Ramsey fell several months ago and suffered a broken hip. Her many friends here wish for her a speedy recovery.

Commissioner Makes Statement Concerning Public Schools Week

From J. W. Edgar,
Commissioner of Education

The present State Board of Education, in making its fifth (Thirty-sixth) Biennial Report to the Governor and Legislature of Texas, prefaced the report with a list of 16 basic policies for the state's public school system. Heading this list of policies was a statement which read:

"1. We believe that a sound education system requires the thinking of the whole people. Accordingly, we have sought and will continue to seek the advice, counsel, and thinking of people from all walks of life, as well as the teaching profession, in the formation of regulatory and administrative policies. We believe that every citizen should become acquainted with, and remain constantly alert to, the changing education problems of our vast and varied communities."

This statement continues to remain one of the guiding principles of the Texas public educational system. It is based on the idea that Texas schools should be run according to the express wishes of the people, and that they will be good schools just as long as the people want them to be, and as long as the people keep themselves informed on their conditions and strive for their improvement.

Public Schools Week in Texas is one method we have for putting this principle into practice, and for promoting closer cooperation and understanding between schools and communities.

The State Board of Education and both houses of the Texas Legislature have passed resolutions setting March 1 through 6, 1954, as the time for the fourth annual observance of Public Schools Week. During this special week, local citizens

President, Governor Recognize Work Of Texas 4-H Members

President Eisenhower and Governor Allan Shivers have issued statements regarding the work of 4-H clubs. The greetings were made in recognition of the rural youth organization as its members observe another year of progress during National 4-H Week, March 6-14.

President Eisenhower said, "I am delighted to learn that your national theme for 1954 is Working Together for World Understanding. Working together has long been an important feature of 4-H Club work. As you learn new skills, as you test new ideas, and as you find better ways of applying science to agriculture and home economics, you are sharing exciting and valuable experiences."

"To all 4-H members," he continued, "I send my very best wishes for another year of stimulating, enjoyable work in the 4-H clubs of America."

Governor Shivers in a special proclamation recognized the 122,000 Texas 4-H club members. He said, "Among these young people are many of our State's future leaders, not only in agriculture but also in religion, business, government and citizenship." "In our state," he continued, "the 4-H program is directed by the Agriculture Extension Service of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College System. County extension agents are key people in the organization and work of the 4-H clubs. They receive invaluable cooperation from thousands of parents, volunteer leaders, and other interested citizens, as well as from the young people themselves."

Both leaders urge all citizens to are urged to visit their schools, and by seeing the teachers at work and the institutional programs in operation, to get a better understanding of the problems being met by the schools.

The growing interest in this special observance during the past three years has more than proved its value and justified its continuance. By actual count, more than 1,000,000 school visitations were recorded during Public Schools Week in 1953. We are truly grateful for this widespread interest of citizens in Texas schools.

The year 1954 is the Centennial Year of the founding of the Texas public school system, and has been so designated by the Texas Legislature. The state educational system has made a great deal of progress in those 100 years, and in practically every instance that progress has been fostered by local tax-paying mothers and fathers who wanted their children to have better and better educational opportunities.

We hope that citizens in every school community in the state will take a closer look at their schools and a greater interest in them throughout the 1954 Centennial Year, and particularly during Public Schools Week in Texas.

Texas Public Schools are Democracy in Action. They have been veritable strongholds of Democracy during their first 100 years of progress. We are confident that, through active interest and cooperation of the individual citizens who support them, they will stay that way through out the next hundred years.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hefner of Sabanno and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bishop of Loop, Texas.

Girl Scout Week To Be Observed March 7-13

The Girl Scouts of the Heart of Texas Council of which Cross Plains is a member will join with more than two million members of the organization throughout the country in celebrating Girl Scout Week, March 7-13, and the 42nd anniversary of Girl Scouting in the United States on March 12.

According to Mrs. James Alexander, local girl scout chairman, this will be the first time that Girl Scout Week will be observed in March. Previously Girl Scout Week occurred in October, but by vote of the Girl Scout national convention last fall, the dates of Girl Scout Week were changed to coincide with the annual celebration of the Girl Scout anniversary on March 12.

Theme of the week will be "Know Your Neighbors—Know your Nation." The seven-day observance will open on Girl Scout Sunday.

During each day of the subsequent week Girl Scout Troops throughout the community will feature an activity typical of the Girl Scout program.

Friday, March 12, will be the 42nd anniversary of the founding of Girl Scouting, Mrs. Alexander states. It was on this day, in 1912, that the late Juliette Gordon Low organized the first Girl Scout troop in her home city, Savannah, Georgia, and started what has become the largest organization of its kind for girls in the world.

Plans for the observance of the Girl Scout Week and the Girl Scout Birthday include the sale of girl scout cookies in Cross Plains, which will be carried out jointly with the two local troops having a part. They will make a house to house canvass of the town and will also have a stand on the street so that you may pick up your cookies.

As was stated in an early copy of the Review the local troop will get .05 of the sale and the other profits will go to the council for help in financing the construction of a permanent campsite for the girls in the Heart of Texas Council. The camp will be located on the north side of Lake Brownwood only 15 miles from Cross Plains.

One of the features of the Girl Scout Birthday celebration will be an in-gathering of Kits for Korea; a project which Girl Scout troops throughout the nation are carrying on to aid the children of that war-ravished country.

Dr. Cox Discusses Sanitation Problem

Austin — At this time of the year Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, asks "What will you have — flies, rats, diseased hogs, stench, smoke, unsightly messes dotting the landscape, polluted streams, or fewer flies and rats, cleaner air, less disease, unblemished landscapes, cleaner streams and reclaimed land? You can take your choice and the best will prove to be the most economical."

Safe, sanitary and economical disposal of refuse is a serious public health problem in most communities in Texas. Poor methods of refuse disposal increases the potential spread of disease by flies and rats that thrive in such insanitary conditions. Indiscriminate dumping of refuse along highways and streams is a filthy habit, mars much of the State's beauty and pollutes streams.

Four smoke from burning dumps is unpleasant to everyone. The sanitary landfilled method of refuse disposal is practical and within financial reach of most communities, even those in rural areas. A regular collecting system, designated dumping areas obtained by the city or country court with small landfill equipment moved about by trucks in coordination with the collecting system can solve this serious health problem.

The Texas State Department of Health will be glad to consult with any community regarding this basic sanitation problem. When all refuse is properly collected and disposed of, Texas will have better health and a more enjoyable environment in which to work and play.

Prominent Speakers On Oilbelt Teachers Program March 12-13

Speakers Dr. Kenneth Wells and Dr. William Ross will make up a part of the well rounded program scheduled for the Oilbelt Teachers Convention in Abilene March 12 and 13.

Ken Wells, interested in the problems of industrial leadership, joined the National Association of Foremen, and four years later became its vice president and manager of Organization. This largest foreman's organization, a nation-wide organization, is dedicated to the fundamentals of the American free way of life.

Wells' lectures of the economics of the dynamic capitalistic system have brought about his speaking on the campuses of forty principal colleges and universities in the Nation.

In 1946-47 he taught courses in Executive Controls and Industrial Organizations, and Advanced Public Relations at the University of Southern California.

He is now on the lecture faculty of Boston University, University of Southern California and the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Wells left Los Angeles in January, 1948, to become Director of National Operations for the advertising industry's program on economic understanding, established by the American Association of Advertising Agencies and the Association of National Advertisers.

In 1948, Wells received the National Association of Foremen award for outstanding contribution in the advancement of human relationship in industry.

In 1951 he received the National Award of the Military Order of the Purple Heart for distinguished service to disabled veterans. He is also president of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower recently said of Dr. Wells, "My old friend, Ken Wells, for whom I have warm regard, gets my salute. He believes so much in our Country he does something about it."

Dr. Ross, 52-year-old native Coloradan, is now president of Colorado State College. Beginning his teaching career as an instructor in mathematics, he has coached debate and athletics and served as an engineer in World War I.

He is a member of the American Legion; Izack Walton League, state president, 1940; Colorado Archaeological Society, divisional president five terms; was a Fifth Army Community Counselor; a member of the Rotary Club and a Thirty-Second Degree Mason.

Specialist Says Now Is Time To Control Scale

Scale attacks many of the state's most popular ornamental plants and can cause serious damage even before the home owner knows they are present.

It's a good idea, says Sadie Hatfield, extension homestead improvement specialist, to examine the limbs and branches of ornamentals around home so proper control measures may be taken before these scaley insects sap plants to death.

Scale infestations are oftentimes mistaken for a natural aging of bark. Closer examination, however, reveals thousands of tiny round scale-like formations.

Flowering quince, pyracantha, roses, hedge and Euonymus are among plants most susceptible to scale, Miss Hatfield says.

In warm weather when the insects are young and in the crawling stage, parathion gives good control, she says. However upon maturing the insects grow a "water proof roof over their heads" and control measures must be more concentrated.

Sprays of lime sulphur are recommended during the dormant season on all plants which shed their leaves during the winter. Ornamentals which do not lose their leaves such as hedge may be treated with three percent winter weight oil emulsion.

Summer weight oil emulsions are recommended on ornamentals with growing foliage, Miss Hatfield points out.

Mrs. T. J. Garrett visited in Brownwood Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Barr and family and Mrs. Red Usery spent Sunday in Baird with Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Whitehorn.

Austin—March 15 is tax time in Texas in more ways than one. It's Federal income tax paying time, and it marks the opening of a specially called tax assessing session of the Texas legislature . . . to raise the pay of teachers.

Members of the legislature will assemble at noon on March 15 for the beginning of what may prove to be a stormy session. Stormy because there are repercussions any time you assess a tax.

Most everyone seems to feel that Texas teachers merit a salary raise . . . so long as somebody else pays for it.

The legislators' job is to put the finger on somebody to foot the bill. That's when the fighting will start.

It will take about $24 million per year to up the teachers' pay by $402.

Governor Allan Shivers said, in calling the special session, that he would recommend a "replacement tax". By that he meant that he would suggest a revenue bill to take the place of one, passed by the last legislature, that was ruled out by the U. S. Supreme Court. It was a gathering tax on gas.

Attorney General John Ben Shepherd prepared three bills that would bring in about $36 million per year from the natural gas industry.

House Speaker Reuben Senterfitt warned that it will not be easy to pass the tax bills—and some House leaders agreed with him.

Speaking to the legislative council and legislative board, Senterfitt said Shivers had put the lawmakers on the spot by calling the session.

"You and I have no choice in the subject matter before us," Senterfitt said. "That responsibility rests upon the governor, and you and I can only do our best at the job that is handed us."

As if the teacher pay headache were not enough, the governor had had two other propositions to place before the Legislature: providing more funds for building programs at Southwestern Medical Branch at Dallas, the Dental College at Houston, and Texas School for Deaf, Austin; and to set penalties, including death, for Communists.

Absent from the session will be Representative H. A. (Salty) Hull of Fort Worth, who died after a long illness. A leader in the House, Hull's sharp wit often served to quiet turbulent debate. He was serving his seventh term as a legislator, had been known as an able committee chairman, and last summer was named to the Texas Commission on Higher Education.

New laws are needed to protect Texans against insurance evils, says District Judge Charles O. Betts of Austin.

His comment was made in granting a temporary injunction against continued operation of two El Paso companies, United World Life Insurance Company, and United Lloyds Insurance Exchange.

"The public is suffering by reason of the fact that so many companies already are in receivership," Judge Betts said, adding:

"Under various special laws, the public is not properly protected. The insurance commission has no way of maintaining the proper protection."

Quick to agree with the judge was Garland A. Smith, chairman of the State Board of Insurance Commissioners.

Smith blamed some banks for their willingness to help insurance promotion schemes.

"As presently written, the laws encourage speculation in which the insured and not the organizers undergo the risks," Smith said.

Secretary of State Howard Carney also is advocating changes in the laws. His department supervises most insurance stock sales, and he points out that no state agency inspects the securities which insurance companies offer to the public, unless the company voluntarily submits its stock issue for examination.

Dr. Henry A. Holle, a native Texan and a New York City public health administrator, has been named Texas state health officer to succeed Dr. Geo. W. Cox, 73, who has headed the department for 17 years before resigning last month.

Dr. Holle, a native of Brenham, attended Texas A&M College and is a graduate of the Texas Medical School. He will receive $10,600 a year, but a member of the health board said an increase would be asked to bring the salary up to $15,000 or more.

Recent visitors in the J. W. Foster home at Pioneer were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Palmore of Dublin, Fred Harrell of Levelland, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Williams of Blake, Mrs. Joe Lile of Nimrod, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Day of Abilene and H. Jones.

Deep Rock Oil Corporation Considers Plans For Further Expansion Of Waterflood Program In The Cross Cut Oil Field

Deep Rock Oil Corporation of Tulsa, Oklahoma has announced that its 170-acre waterflood project near Brownwood may be expanded to include 600 additional acres if present operations prove as successful as anticipated.

The Deep Rock project is located two and one-half miles east and three-fourths of a mile south of Cross Cut.

There are now 15 oil wells and 19 water input wells in operation in the Brown County waterflood program.

This project is part of a long-range secondary recovery program planned by Deep Rock. In 1953, the company's progressive waterflood program played a major role in enabling Deep Rock to produce the greatest amount of oil in its 35-year history.

The Brown County project was under consideration by Deep Rock production officials for some time before it was finally decided to tackle the big problem. In 1951, a pilot flood was completed in the area in which an experimental test was conducted on a five-acre representative area to establish the probable success of the over-all operation.

Results convinced officials that the pay sand would respond to water-flooding. H. G. Bowers of 2601 Vine Street, Brownwood, is the Deep Rock field supervisor in charge. He and his wife, who is cashier at Hotel Brownwood Drug Store, moved to Brownwood from Kansas when the Deep Rock project began.

The pay formation in the Deep Rock project is the Cross Cut sand which is found from 1,225 feet to 1,250 feet. General water injection was started late in 1953 and all new wells were placed on production. Although it will take time to create enough pressure to cause the producing formation to react to the flood, production officials confidently predict a sizeable increase in production in the field during the year.

Deep Rock's waterflood project in the area has drawn the attention of numerous operators in the Cross Cut area, all of whom are watching the operation with a view toward perhaps setting up projects of their own.

Recognized in recent years as one of the most aggressive and successful companies of its size in the country in secondary recovery operations, Deep Rock has adopted some of the latest techniques known to the waterflooding business in its Brown County project.

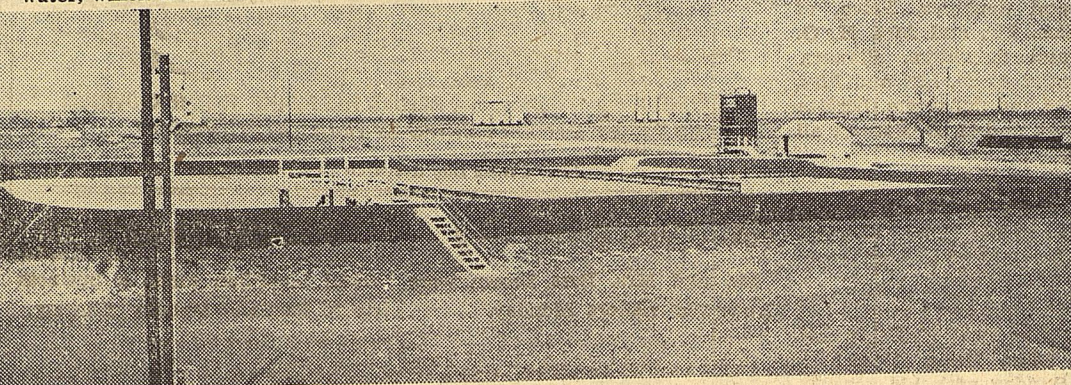

All drilling on the project was done by small portable rotary units. A high-capacity pump has been installed in the water source well to pump water from the Ellenberger formation, which is found at 3,235 feet in the area. This water appears to be the same mineral water which flows into the Brownwood Hot Wells Swimming Pool.

Since all water used to flood the oil sand formation must be treated and filtered to avoid clogging up the sand face, the most modern treating units have been installed. Sedimentation ponds, the aerating equipment and a chemical treating house incorporate the newest techniques used in the business.

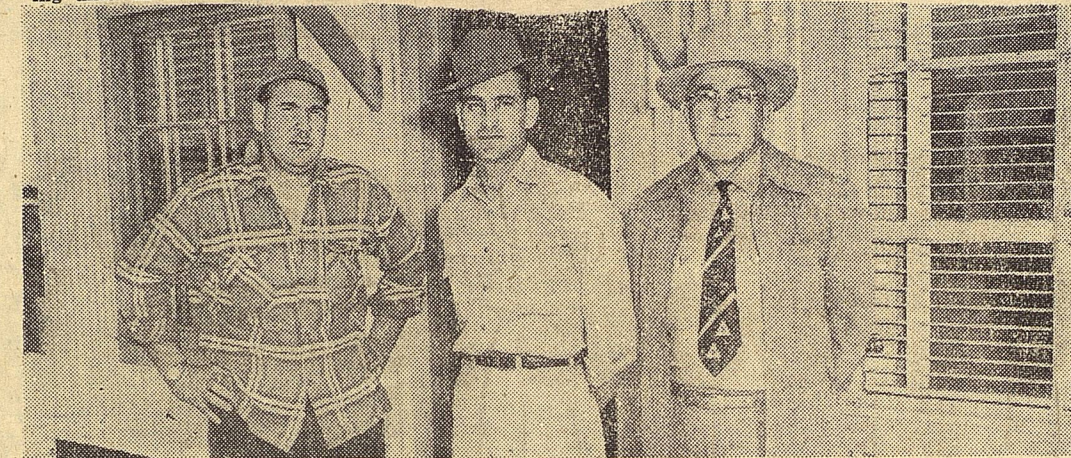

For greater efficiency, Deep Rock

MODERN HIGH-PRESSURE PUMP—Shown at right in this picture is the completely modern, all-electrical high pressure pump. It is entirely automatic. The filter unit is shown at left. The units have a capacity of 8,000 barrels in each 24-hour period. The water in the secondary recovery program is not pure enough when it first flows into the storage tanks. This unit takes impurities out of the water, which is then stored in a large tank near this building.—(Bulletin Photo).

WIDE VIEW OF DEEP ROCK FACILITIES—This picture was taken from the top of the water storage tank near the Deep Rock pump house. In the foreground are the two storage tanks for water used in the waterflood project. The water is similar to that which is used in Hot Wells Swimming Pool here. At right is the aeration tower. The small building to the right of this tower houses the chemical treating unit. In the background are oil storage tanks, one for each section under operation by the firm.

has centralized the meter reading units to that a reader can immediately tell at one central location how much water is being pumped into several input wells in the area. Previously meters were installed on each well, necessitating travel over miles of territory.

Electricity is used throughout the entire waterflood project. This permits more efficient operations overall, and in addition allows closer control on pumping time by the use of automatic off - and - on time switches on each pumping well.

Tank batters for the 170-acre project have all been consolidated at a central location as another means of furthering the efficiency of operation.

Expert Gives Tips On Television Viewing

Television is growing up in a hurry and is prompting marked changes in home living habits of Texans.

Several pointers on watching your set will help make the family's viewing even more enjoyable, says Bernice Claytor, extension home management specialist at College Station.

A TV set should be located neither in front of a source of light such as a window nor so direct light rays will fall upon the screen. Mrs. Claytor suggests set placement so that any light entering the room will be at right angles to the line of vision.

Never operate a set in a totally dark room, she emphasizes. Television screens are about 10 times brighter than movie screens and many times smaller. Viewing in complete darkness causes severe eye-strain, she points out.

Light should be from an indirect source in the room and not from an adjoining one. For your eye-sight's sake, Mrs. Claytor says, use an indirect lighting fixture placed on the wall or on furniture on either side of the set. A floor lamp with a small wattage bulb will do the trick.

Most people agree the best viewing distance is nine to fifteen feet, depending upon screen size. An occasional glance away from the screen will further help prevent tired eyes.

Many authorities, Mrs. Claytor concludes, believe that television viewed under proper lighting conditions will not strain the eyes any more than reading, sewing or watching the movies.

Dale Bishop is in Mineral Wells this week attending a Chevrolet salesman school.

TEXAS RANGERS

The Texas Rangers have played an effective, valiant and honorable role throughout the early years of conflict within its borders. Stephen F. Austin employed them as early as 1823 to protect frontier colonies against the Indians. Each Ranger provides himself with a good horse, a rifle and a brace of pistols. One of the most celebrated exploits came in 1871, with the killing of Sam Bass and his robber band at Round Rock. The Texas Rangers of today are charged with the enforcement of laws governing major crimes.

Agiculture

Released by
The Texas Department of Agriculture
By John C. White, Commissioner

The choking shroud of dust which smothered the state in the last few days of February poses an ominous threat to the future of Texas agriculture.

It means our soil is blowing away at a rate greater than at any time in the past 15 years. Our soil moisture content is at such a low ebb in some sections that early crop prospects are very poor. If the dust storms continue, then much of our cropland in West Texas can be counted out of production this year.

These recurring dusts raise the question "What is wrong with the extensive soil conservation methods advocated and practiced during the past two decades?" Where did we go wrong?

The truth is, we didn't go wrong. We just haven't gone far enough in the right direction. We have done wonders in some sections, but our soil saving measures have broken down under the constant buffeting of a three-year drought.

We need to exercise every known conservation practice to the "nth" degree in all sections of our state. One good pasture or crop can be eradicated or buried by a nearby blowing field where no soil and moisture saving plan is in effect. Conservation is a state-wide, full time job.

The task now rests with the state, the county and the individual farmers. The federal government has already announced it will not provide funds to initiate soil and pasture restoration programs which were recommended by the drought states.

A study of 17 states, including Texas, showed that on pasture restoration alone, some 308 million would be needed. And this is merely for seed, lime and fertilizer required to restore about 39 million acres of land.

Actually, this 39 million acres includes only land within "major disaster" areas. The figure would be considerably increased if pastureland were included where the weather conditions have been bad, but not severe enough to warrant designation as a disaster area.

Since we cannot turn to federal aid in this time of need, then Texas must depend upon its farmers to do the best they can under the circumstances. It is a job that must be done!

Dairymen Face Milk Surpluses This Spring

Texas dairymen may face near-record milk surpluses this spring unseasonable war weather gets most of the blame.

"Dairy farmers should give thought now to the possibility of surpluses since the overflow will increase later in the spring," says R. E. Bursleson, extension dairy husbandman at A&M College.

Surplus conditions can be greatly relieved if operators will put more emphasis on production per cow instead of cans of milk per herd.

Bursleson advises producers to dry up all cows giving 10 pounds of milk daily or less. DHIA records indicate that a cow producing 10 pounds in her tenth month will approach a 5,000 pound record in a 305 day lactation. Such animals, he says, just about break even and a cow which produces less than 10 pounds stands a more remote chance of being a profitable milker.

Cows milking less than 16 pounds daily during the sixth month of lactation should be considered as prospective culls or nurse cows. This is also true of cows producing less than 20 pounds in the third month, Bursleson adds.

Dairymen with production records should analyze their herds closely to locate unprofitable cows and possible culls.

The specialist advises dairy farmers to observe their individual market needs and surplus situations as a basis for determining the rate of culling their herds.

Don't sell cull cows to other dairymen. This is no way to eliminate the low producers from the state's herds. Use such animals as nurse cows or send them to the butcher he says.
