HARRY COPPINGER, 66, KILLED INSTANTLY IN PICKUP-TRUCK ACCIDENT TUESDAY

William Harry Coppinger, 66, local cattle buyer, was killed instantly about 5:30 Tuesday morning in a truck-pickup collision at the intersection of Highways 36 and 279 in the south part of town.

Coppinger, who was making preparations to attend the cattle auction in Abilene, was traveling south in his pickup and the truck driven by Joel R. Harper of Plains, was traveling east. Harper suffered a bruised knee in the accident.

Coppinger was thrown from the pickup, which was completely demolished.

After the collision, the truck, which was loaded with 38,000 pounds of sesame seed, careened off the highway and crashed through the west side of the pipe shop at the Cross Plains Machine Shop. No estimate of damage to the shop, which is operated by James Hickman, had been made Wednesday morning.

Funeral rites for Mr. Coppinger were conducted at the First Baptist Church here Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. with the pastor, Rev. V. D. Walters, officiating. Burial was in the Cross Plains Cemetery under the direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home.

Mr. Coppinger was born July 4, 1892 at Athens, Tenn., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Coppinger. The family moved to Cottonwood in 1900.

He was married to Mary Varner Dec. 19, 1915 at Cottonwood and they made their home there until 1942 when they moved to Cross Plains.

He was a deacon in the First Baptist Church here and had been a member of the Masonic Lodge for 35 years.

Mr. Coppinger was the fourth son in the Coppinger family to have met death violently. A brother, Bart, was killed in France during World War I; a second brother, Audrey, lost his life in an oil rig accident in New Mexico in the 1930s, and another brother, Stanley, was killed while serving with the U. S. Navy on Saipan during World War II. Also preceding him in death was a sister, Miss Minnie Coppinger, and his parents.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Billy Mac, social studies teacher in the Cross Plains Grade School and ward school coach; four brothers, L. W. and E. K. Coppinger, both of Cross Plains, and Parker and R. G. Coppinger of Abilene; six sisters, Mrs. B. H. Freeland of Baird, Mrs. Jim West of Stamford, Mrs. Jim McGowan of Odessa, Mrs. D. Van Pelt, Electra, Mrs. Tom Earl Bryant of Farmington, N. M., and Mrs. Jess Sparks of Cottonwood.

Serving as active pallbearers were Lee Bishop, J. H. Balkum, Earl Pyle, Donald Baird, Richard W. Thompson and R. T. Watson, all deacons in the Baptist Church, with other deacons of the church serving as honorary pallbearers.

Graveside Masonic rites were conducted.

Oil Well Fire Destroys Well Service Rig Belonging to A. B. (Buck) Dewbre

Fire which broke out in the oil well belonging to Neal Dillard on the C. J. Newton lease in the Cross Cut community, completely enveloped the well service rig belonging to A. B. "Buck" Dewbre of this city, completely destroying it in a matter of minutes.

The oil and gas fire broke out about 6:00 p.m. Tuesday of this week, while the service crew was endeavoring to run tubing in the well. According to Dillard the well began flowing through the casing and sparks from the rig motor set off the inferno which was still burning out of control at 9:00 p.m.

According to reports from the scene the well was heading over 25 minutes and shooting fire 100 or more feet into the air.

The Newton lease is three miles west of Cross Cut. The well is producing from the Cross Cut Sand at a depth of 1,150 feet.

The Dewbre service rig was valued at approximately $8,000, it was reported.

Garmond Parrish Promoted By Insurance Company

Garmond Parrish, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Parrish, has the past week been promoted to branch manager of the San Angelo office of the American Life and Accident Insurance Company, and with Mrs. Parrish will move to San Angelo this week to take over his new duties.

Garmond is reported by the company to have received such a promotion faster than any other employee in the company's history, as he has only been with them for the past two months.

A graduate of Cross Plains High School, Garmond was recently discharged from the U. S. Air Force after four years of service. He and his wife made their home in Abilene for a short time before moving to Cross Plains, where they have been at home in the Baldwin rent house, located in the southwest part of town.

Several Families Make Moves Here Recently

Several families in this area have recently moved to new locations in and around Cross Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander and family, who have lived on their farm at Pioneer for the past several years, moved the past week to the George Neel place, across from the school, on North Main Street, which is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chambers of Georgetown. The J. S. Clower family, who have occupied the Chambers house since moving to Cross Plains from Fort Worth, have moved to the place recently purchased just north of Cross Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hicks and daughters have recently returned to make their home in Cross Plains after having lived in Odessa for the past few years. The Hicks family are at home in the W. A. Williams place.

County TB Ass'n. Thanks Citizens for Their Help

The Callahan County Tuberculosis Association wishes to express its appreciation to all who have contributed to the 1958 seal sale. Returns to date amount to $1,182.67. This is a little short of last year's returns, but very gratifying, nevertheless.

Plans are in the making for a patch test program to be held in the schools throughout the county in the near future. Dates will be announced later by Mrs. Lynn Ault, who will be in charge of this program.

At an executive meeting held in the home of Mrs. W. P. Brightwell, Jan. 23, 1959, Mrs. S. L. McElroy was re-elected as a representative director on the state board and Mrs. W. P. Brightwell and Mrs. Homer Driskill were elected as delegates to attend the state convention which will be held in San Antonio in March.

As the 1958 seal sale does not officially end until March, it is still not too late for any contributions that may have been overlooked by any individual or organization.

Part of every dollar contributed to the Callahan County TB Association is spent to finance research on tuberculosis which may someday lead to an "easy" means of protecting everyone against TB. Meanwhile we must continue to do it the hard way—by finding the people with TB and getting them under treatment. Through rehabilitation, we must help the ex-patient stay well. We must educate people to keep a high general level of health to fight off infection and disease. The prevention activities of our TB association must be continued and increased or the gains already made against TB may be lost.

INCOME TAX TIPS

"Don't fret if that tax refund check from Uncle Sam doesn't show your full name," says Ellis Campbell Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue Service.

Due to mechanical limitations on the high speed electronic machines now printing tax refund checks, only the taxpayer's first initial of the given name, or names, is being used.

In rare instances, where a taxpayer's surname is unusually long, one or more letters at the end of the surname may even be dropped.

The IRS representative advises taxpayers to endorse their refund checks exactly as drawn. Then, if letters are omitted at the end of a surname, a second endorsement should be made showing the full surname.

Assistance Available For Soil Conservation

Is conservation being left out of your farm plans because of the cost involved? Would you include it in your plans if you could receive financial assistance and procedural advice?

If you answer "yes" to both of these questions you may be interested in some program that can help make this increasingly important practice a part of your operations, suggests Lynn Pittard, extension assistant soil and water conservation specialist.

The Farmers Home Administration has money available to lend for soil and water conservation work, Pittard explains. As much as $25,000 may be borrowed and paid back in 20 years or less.

The Agricultural Conservation Program is a cost-share program which provides up to 80 per cent assistance for conservation practices.

This program is designed to encourage and assist farmers and ranchers in carrying out conservation work, Pittard points out. Information on this and other programs and facilities for which you might be eligible may be obtained from the office administering the program or from your county agent.

PHILOSOPHER CLAIMS CAR MAKERS MIXED UP ON WHY PEOPLE WANT SMALLER CARS

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Bayou Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the Bayou is talking about new cars this week, in a theoretical sort of way.

I know it hard to park one of the long models, but if you cut it half in two and sold it to two people instead of one, both of 'em would still be contending for the same parking space. I know some people say in horse and buggy days we didn't have any parking problems, but if we had as many horses and buggies as we have cars, the problem would be worse, or have you ever measured the distance from the head of the horse to the tail end of the buggy? And have you ever tried to park in a buggy?

What appeals to a lot of people when it comes to foreign cars isn't the fact they're foreign, it's not that they're easier to pay for and cheaper to drive. People don't mind how much car they get for their money, what stumps them is how much money they give for their car.

Of course though I could be wrong. I don't own any automobile-making plant and advice is cheap. Most of the advice I've had on farming has come from people who don't own a farm. Everywhere you look, you see new cars. And it's a good idea too. If you don't look, one of 'em will hit you.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Dear editor:

I have always contended that American business must know what the American public wants, as it always manages to keep the latter's income tied down in installment payments for months and years ahead, but I read an article in a newspaper last night that makes me wonder.

According to it, car manufacturers, waking up to the fact more and more of those little foreign cars are showing up on the streets of this country, have decided to go into the small car business themselves.

But, the article pointed out, while the cars will be shorter and generally smaller, their price won't be a lot less than present cars.

This is what I'm talking about. I don't think anybody really objects to a long car, it's the long payments that hurt. It's not the fact that riding around in a all-finished, chrome-plated automobile is embarrassing, it's just that it's sometimes embarrassing to pay the gasoline bill to keep the thing

FOR SPACIOUSNESS—Want to make a small room seem larger? Use some of these decorating tricks. Paint or light-colored walls, rugs, and fabrics give the illusion of additional space, as do scenic windows or mirrors. Furniture, like the attractive French Provincial piece in the photo, should be scaled to the size of the room.

Smith-Calhoun Wedding Held in Brownwood Church

Miss Beatrice Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Smith of Brownwood, became the bride of Robert Calhoun Saturday afternoon, Feb. 14, at 5 o'clock in the Melwood Baptist Church in Brownwood.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. E. A. Calhoun of Brownwood, formerly of Cross Plains, and the late Mr. Calhoun.

The Rev. Travis Gibson, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony before the altar, flanked by baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, and a background of palms. Lighting the altar were tall white tapers in candelabras with large satin bows. Family pews were marked with white bows.

Mrs. Arnis Sikes, pianist, presented traditional wedding music and accompanied Walter Reese as he sang "Because." "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Robert Fortner of Abilene. She chose a hair-length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta tulle. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped neckline outlined with lace applique and sleeves tapering to petal points over her hands. Her finger-up length veil of illusion fell from a heart-shaped hat of lace. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white covered Bible topped by a bouquet of white feathered carnations surrounded by gladioli and ribbon streamers tied in love knots.

Attendants.

Miss Beulah Stovall was maid of honor. She wore a red velvet-teen sheath dress with three-quarter length sleeves and red carnations. Her heart-shaped bouquet was of feathered carnations.

Russell Calhoun of Burkett served his brother as best man. Karon and Brad Calhoun of Burkett, niece and nephew of the groom, lighted candles, and flower girl was Gayleen Fortner of Abilene, niece of the bride.

Feminine attendants were dressed of red velvet-teen with red accessories. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Smith wore a navy linen suit with black accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Calhoun chose a gray sheath with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the annex of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered by an arrangement of red and white carnations.

The tri-tiered wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom. Presiding at the serving table were Misses Martha Miller, Monnette McCoy and June Bond, all of Fort Worth. Mrs. Billy Holloway was at the register.

For a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., and Carlsbad Cavern National Park, the bride wore a brown linen, two-piece suit with brown and beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Upon return, the couple will reside at 2520 1/2 Durham Street, Brownwood.

Mrs. Calhoun, a graduate of Brownwood High School, attended Howard Payne College and is presently employed in the business office of the Southwestern States Telephone Company.

Her husband, a graduate of Cross Plains High School and Callahan County Vocational School, is representative of the Great American Reserve Insurance Company.

Pharmaceutical Elegance

"Pharmaceutical elegance" is a trade term little known outside of pharmacy. It has to do with the final form in which a drug is dispensed by your pharmacist.

In many instances, a tablet may reflect pharmaceutical elegance merely by its pleasing shape or color, or a liquid preparation may have an appetizing taste. But these are only the obvious signs. Unseen and unnoticed are many more important recent developments in the art of pharmacy.

Now, a variety of delayed or sustained-release tablets and capsules prolong the effectiveness of short-acting drugs. Two-layer tablets solve the problem of incorporating incompatible drugs into a single tablet. Intricate coatings protect sensitive drugs from destruction by body enzymes and acids.

Ever more effective drugs, compounded with pharmaceutical elegance, make your prescription a modern medical miracle.

Your pharmacist adds pharmaceutical elegance to your prescription by packaging it in clean, usually glass, containers. Lots of the more modern drugs require packaging in moisture proof containers to avoid them taking up moisture and dissolving. The effectiveness of some medications can be impaired if they are not properly packaged.

When your doctor writes you a prescription, which he usually does if you need medicine at all, bring it to us for prompt, accurate compounding, at a fair price.

"As It Looks From Here"

OMAR BURLISON
Congressman
17th District

Washington, D. C.—This column on several occasions has tried to point out that the Congress actually has the exercise of discretion over a relatively small amount of government expenditures. Twenty per cent is a fair estimate in each year's appropriations. This is true if the percentage for national defense remains the same as now recommended. This amounts to approximately sixty per cent of the $77,000,000,000 budget.

A similar situation exists with reference to the general powers of government. The Federal Government has grown to such proportions that it is impossible for the Congress itself to keep absolute control over the committee, the bureau and commissions which in recent years it has created.

The Congress passes the laws, but under our system the Executive Departments, headed by the President, administer those laws, and the Supreme Court passes upon their Constitutionality. The Congress does not attempt to spell out administrative procedures for the application of the laws it passes. It necessarily delegates the authority for the administration either to the Executive Department or these myriad bureaus and commissions created for that purpose.

Agencies such as the Federal Communications Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Securities and Exchange Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, and a long list of others, at some time or other touch the life and business of most everyone in the country. They make their own rules and procedures to carry out what supposedly is the intent of the Congress. There is, however, always the matter of interpretation of the intent of Congress, and while a Congressman's duties may involve trying to assist a constituent in getting service from a bureau, a commission, a committee or a department of some kind or other, there come times when he must also protect his constituents against their encroachment. Problems of this nature constantly arise.

It is sometimes wondered if, during these last 25 years or so as Government has grown bigger and bigger, the Congress has created a sort of Frankenstein which is becoming bigger than the Congress, the Executive and the Judiciary, in control over the lives of our citizens. These accumulated agencies have powerful control over about everything we do—What we eat, what we wear, our travel, when and how we invest our money; over telephone, telegraph, radio and television communications; over the fires on our hearths and the gold in our teeth.

This second-hand type government control can reach proportions dangerous to our system of government. The intent and purpose of this "fourth" branch of government is, I suppose, necessary. On the other hand, it should warn us that it can grow to the proportions that our nation will be governed by people who were not elected and who are not directly answerable to the people. We should be warned against the continuous growth of a Federal Government which makes more boards, commissions and bureaus necessary.

Each time a new provision of law is enacted or a new service furnished, it becomes necessary that some agency of government administer it. If it is not under the direct jurisdiction of one already in existence, another is created. This suggests that bigness begets bigness, and that the Federal Government in Washington becomes the "central" government warned against by our forefathers who created the system.

MAXINE DAVIS SAYS... HELP KEEP YOUR WHOLE FAMILY "THE PICTURE OF HEALTH" with Bexel Vitamin Insurance

Maxine Davis — one of the most respected medical writers in America, author of such best sellers as "The Sexual Responsibility of Woman", numerous articles in leading magazines, and the popular column "The Picture of Health".

"The whole family needs vitamins, just as they need air to breathe and water to drink. They are essential elements of diet, literally indispensable to the life of every man, woman and child of any age. Everyone must get them — either from food or a supplemental source.

"You feed the family a diet which contains all the necessary vitamins and minerals, you HOPE! But you can't be sure. Nowadays, food which is transported thousands of miles, refrigerated and cooked to taste may lose part of the vitamin strength it had when it started. Moreover, the body's requirement for each element varies according to its age and health.

"This is the reason why BEXEL vitamins and minerals are so valuable; highly-trained scientists in the laboratory have measured and capsuled the average person's daily requirements of vitamins. That is the reason there is a member of the BEXEL family of fine vitamins for each member of your family — young and old.

"The insurance that is packaged in BEXEL vitamins is certain vitamin protection no intelligent person should neglect."

 his environment it was al that Dave learned to in life. Fact of the matter is, Dave guided many a fisher- man out of the Florida Everglades when he was only 11 years of age.

 Later, Dave helped his father, Capt. O. L. Hawk, open and operate lure factories in California, Okla- homa, Missouri and Arkansas, pro- viding bait for those specific areas. These factories were sold to nation- al manufacturers, who incorporated Hawk lures into their own lines.

One November day in 1955, a rep- resentative of a large Texas lure manufacturing company stopped in for a visit at the Hawk Lure fac- tory in Harrison, Ark. In short order he purchased the firm's entire line... lock, stock and barrel. That put Dave out of a job. But it also brought him to Texas as manager of the Corpus Christi firm, the Padre Island Lure Co. Six months later he was elected president.

Dave remained there until Sep- tember of 1958. In November he started his own firm in Austin. Today, when he isn't fishing, he's making Extractor and other brands of Dave Hawk lures.

That, in brief, is the background of Dave Hawk, champion fisherman and author of "80 Years on Bass." I say champ fisherman because Dave's the gent who, in 1958, won the State Bass Tournament, won the Behren's Drug Tackle Tourney for tackle representatives, shared the Port Aransas Salt Water Tour- nament, set a tentative world rec- ord for ling on light tackle at the Port Isabel Tournament, and was runner-up in the National Profes- sional Fisherman's Tournament in Arkansas.

This, all in one year's time, mind you.

Only a fisherman with Dave Hawk's background and proven ability could get away with some of the comments he makes in his book—without a challenge—for he is very frank and doesn't hesitate to express an opinion.

Some of the suggestions Dave makes are startling ones.

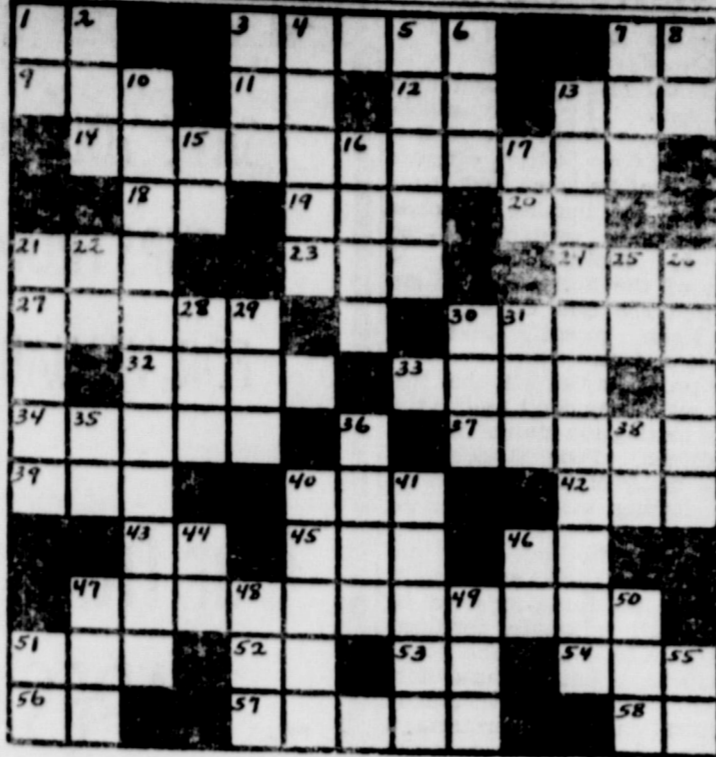

For instance, his first recom- mendation is to discard all swivels. But he doesn't just tell you to do it—he explains why you should.

He backs his contention with these statements: They increase lure losses and fish losses. They reflect light, unbalance a lure, catch in the line and tempt one to catch lures too often.

Dave believes in black line be- cause it reflects less light. "Light lines look like a ribbon of reflect- ed light," says the author.

He prefers leaders 15 to 20 feet long. This, because the long lead- er will put the line and leader so far ahead of the lure that the fish's attention will not be drawn until the lure comes into his view. "Many a hit—and miss— can be attributed to the fish strik- ing the line-and-leader knot in- stead of the lure," he warns.

"Added advantage of the long leader," says the author "is that the line-and-leader knot will be around the spool several turns during the last few minutes of landing a fish and thus prevent a separation.

Dave urges as much reverence for a line as for a lure. He points out that a good fishing line costs slightly more than a lure, yet the fisherman expects it to last for- ever. He not only recommends fre- quent change of line, but suggests reversing the line every 10 trips. This, to keep the most flexible part of the line next to the lure. "As lines stretch and tighten—change ends—" he admonishes.

"And rod longer than five-feet, seven-inches, is a buggy whip, not a rod," says this champ fisher- man. "So, select a rod that will knot so far ahead of the lure that the fish's attention will not be drawn until the lure comes into his jerks the line and this in turn plants the hook."

How the long rods and heavy rods work against the fisherman were explained by the author. He points out that every time you attempt to set the hook the tip of your rod first travels toward the bass. So, if you are using a long and solid rod, the fish has more oppor- tunity to free itself.

The Hawk method of finding fish is pretty well outlined in one chap- ter of the book. Another chapter tells how to tempt them after you locate them.

Here are some more of his sug- gestions:

Stay with dark colored, under- water lures if there is a wind blowing, or the season of the year rules out flying insects.

Work the light colored top-water lure if there are insects out and the wind is not blowing more than a two-inch ripple.

In the early morning and the late evening (during insect seasons), use a dark top-water lure, as these are the times of day when frogs move from the bank to the water and back.

Top-water fishing always is the most productive during the first few minutes of daybreak—because bass are on the prowl to feast on the victims of nature's little acci- dents that have occurred during the night. Also the light is not at the best for underwater lures at that time of day.

Fishing near plant life, lily pads, duckweed or grass is productive—because not only does the plant life offer cover for the fish, but it also gives off oxygen that the fish must have. Hence the fish are in such areas.

Never make your first cast your best cast, is the author's recom- mendation. Make it short, but to a definite spot. Then cast a little farther out. Then farther and farther. Reason: If you make your longest cast first and you get a strike, you will have to drag the bass through all the water in be- tween.

SCD NEWS NOTES

Conservationists Try to Check Fishponds Correctly
The number of fish stocked in a pond is almost always estimated by the fisherman rather than the conservationist. Officials of the Soil Conservation District and State Fisheries are concerned about the number of ponds which are being overstocked—too many fish. Biological Verne E. Davidson of the Soil Conservation District said the Soil Conservation District Board recently that the problem is serious.

"Most people want all the fish they can get. They don't realize the danger of getting too many," Davidson explained. Poor stocking—either too many or too few—results in poor fishing after a year or two.

"We use two stocking rates per surface acre for bass and bluegills—100 and 1,000 for ponds to be managed with adequate fertilization, and only 50 and 500 for ponds which will have only natural fertility. Of course we recommend full fertilization which protects a pond from unmanaged weeds and plants five to 10 times as many pounds of fish per acre. But some folks still feel they cannot afford to use fertilizer. They should stock at the lower rate."

Overstocking results from any one of three common errors. Whenever a few fish happen to be in the pond or are put there before hatchery fish arrive, they spawn and grow by overstocking the water about over night. A pond owner who fails to measure his pond's size carefully, usually guesses its surface acreage to be more than actual. Some owners will take a double order or several other surplus fish available when the fingerlings are delivered. The fishpond owner who understands about fish, carefully avoid these mistakes in stocking.

The Soil Conservation District of Dallas, Soil Conservationists, County Agent and State Wildlife officials agreed to urge pond owners to avoid waste and disappointment of overstocking.
