Quilt Sale Planned At Pioneer Homecoming

By Mrs. Delma Dean

All you folks who read the Cross Plains Review are reminded of the Pioneer-Liberty School reunion to be held under the tabernacle in Pioneer Aug. 11. Bring along some extra money and buy one or more of the beautiful quilts to be auctioned off at the reunion.

We have five ready to go and one more to quilt if we have time, for the Pioneer Cemetery fund. Mrs. John Inabnet of Stephenville donated three tops, cotton and linings. One is a beautiful lone star and two more are made up of pieced smaller stars. Maggie Burkett donated a lovely flower garden top, cotton and lining and Carroll Westerman donated a top, lining and cotton for a most beautiful quilt, which is a pieced tulip design with applied stems. I think the Liberty ladies will also have some. We have a top which Dora Tate of Abilene donated. So come prepared to buy one. You will be glad you did.

We club ladies would like to express our thanks and appreciation to every lady who helped quilt the quilts. Many were present almost every time, some coming from Cross Plains, Sabanno and all help was greatly appreciated.

Drillers End Season With 13-11 Victory

Cross Plains Drillers, junior teenage baseball team, ended its season here Friday night on a winning note.

The locals dumped the De Leon Eagles 13-11 in the season finale at Illingworth Field. It was a make-up of a game which was rained out earlier in the season.

Cross Plains spotted the visitors five runs in the first two frames before the Drillers found pay. In bottom of the second inning three Drillers crossed the plate cutting the deficit to two tallies 5-3 on three walks and two singles.

Then the Drillers gushed eight runs into the books in the bottom of the third. Thirteen oilmen batted and the eight runs came on three hits, a fielder's choice, two hit batsmen, an error and four bases on balls.

De Leon counted a sixth run in the fifth, but Don Scott countered it after walking and scoring on David Merryman's single. The Eagles challenged the Drillers again in the sixth with a trio of scores cutting the margin to 9-12.

Joe Dodds scored for Cross Plains in the last half of the inning after gaining base on an error and scoring on Richard Pope's single. De Leon rallied for two more runs in the seventh, but fell short of the necessary total.

Merryman was the winning pitcher going six innings. Pope hurled the last frame.

The Drillers posted a 4-6 season record under direction of Eules Parker, R. C. Merryman, Jr. and B. M. Lusk.

GOBS OF GOEBERS — Edwin Schaefer, an Eastland County farmer who is attempting to increase his production through the use of modern experimental methods, is shown here with his 60-day-old peanut crop, which some observers predict will yield around 150 bushels per acre. The crop is located about two miles east of Sabanno.

Edwin Schaefer Has Peanut Patch That Promises 150 Bushels To Acre

By Jim Gilmore

Five and two-tenths acres of land planted in peanuts wouldn't ordinarily be enough to excite anybody, especially hard-core central Texas farmers.

But if that same plot of ground promises a yield of around 150 bushels of nuts to the acre, just 60 days after planting, then that's enough to arouse some interest in even the most skeptical advocates of "old time" farming methods.

Edwin Schaefer, an Eastland County farmer, is experimenting with just such a project.

The 5.2 acres is part of a 14 acre field which he planted two months ago. Now, after 60 days of fertilization, irrigation and growing time, a number of area farmers who have viewed the crop predict that by harvest time the test acreage will produce anywhere from 100 to 200 bushels per acre.

That staggering estimate is contrasted with Eastland County's annual dryland production average of 18 bushels per acre.

Schaefer began his experiment by spreading 200 pounds of fertilizer to the acre over the entire 14 acres. Then, he plowed the field about nine inches deep before bedding and leveling the turf.

J. R. Rector, another Eastland County farmer who has utilized modern farming methods to profitable advantage the past several years, planted the jumbo peanut seed.

The 5.2 acre test plot was planted with 100 pounds of seed to the acre and an additional 200 pounds of fertilizer per acre. The remainder of the field, however, received only about 65 pounds of seed to the acre and no more fertilizer.

"Average planting for this area calls for anywhere from 25 to 50 pounds of seed to the acre and about 150 to 200 pounds of fertilizer an acre," Schaefer explained.

He irrigates the entire crop from three wells which, combined, can produce about 450 gallons of water per minute. The crop was artificially inundated with about two inches of water the first part of June. Then, about the middle of that month, a five-inch rain soaked the area, and the Eastland experimenter was able to suspend irrigation activities temporarily. Since the first of July, the crop has received about four more inches of irrigation water.

"Most experts claim that peanuts this size can use a quarter of an inch of water a day, on until they are 100 to 110 days old," Schaefer told a Review writer last week. "I'll probably dig them when they're 120 to 140 days old," he added.

Now after two months growing time, the test plot is obviously far exceeding the remaining nine acres in growth and yield.

"The crop will get about six or eight more inches of water during the next two months before time to dig it," the Sabanno man opined.

"I've got about $90 to the acre invested in the test plot, not including the electricity cost for irrigation. I won't know for sure whether the increased production is enough to make up for the extra expense until I dig the crop, probably in late September."

Schaefer has received much of his information and advice concerning this particular type program from the Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University, Stephenville office.

Another source of valuable data for the project has been a field representative for a well known corn oil products company, with whom the Eastland County farmer has been in contact.

Asked how he plans to use the information he gains from the experiment, Schaefer replied: "Even if something like this proves out, you can't just forget everything else the next year and sink everything into the new method. For one thing, it's too expensive for most small farmers. And, it might not work as well the next time, especially on an advanced scale. However, I do intend to increase the amount of land in the project next year if this year's crop proves worthwhile."

Whether the experiment will produce the phenomenal yield some have predicted is still anybody's guess, and Schaefer isn't making any predictions one way or the other. But you can bet that come September there's going to be quite a few interested onlookers waiting to profit from his experiences.

Sabanno Loses Family But Gains 1 New One

By Mrs. Edwin Erwin

We have had scattered showers in and around our community, with more in some places than others. Mr. and Mrs. J. R.
Rector, Sr. reported an inch at their farm. Rainfall was somewhat less to the north but it was all appreciated.

We have lost one family in our community and gained another. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Belew and little son, Butch, sold their farm (known as the Noel Black home years ago) to Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Moore who are from the May community. They are the parents of three children. We welcome them to our community and wish the best for the Belews in their new home south of Cisco.

We want to again mention
the Pioneer homecoming. Mrs.
Kate Watson, secretary of the committee on arrangements, extends an invitation to all of the Sabanno people to come and enjoy the get-together with old frinds.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. King were in Abilene over the week end where he was honored with a birthday dinner at the home of his daughter, Mr. and Mrs.
Lawrence Kelley.

We extend our sympathy to Mrs. Ben Williams and children in the loss of her husband and the children's father, Mr. Ben Williams, who passed away Saturday in an Eastland hospital.
He had suffered a heart attack
several days before.

Miss Peggy Erwin is in Richardson visiting with her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Erwin
and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scott have returned from a visit in San Antonio with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. King
and children.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Wilcoxon and Joe visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilcoxon, in Cottonwood Sunday.

The Edwin Erwins visited with Mrs. Arthur Erwin in Green Acres nursing home
Friday. Mrs. Erwin's condition was described as "weakening."

Mr. and Mrs. Wordis Erwin attended the funeral of Delwin Chambers in Rising Star Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Jim Clark of Clyde, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Holcomb, will enter a Comanche hospital Monday and have surgery Tuesday. We wish the best for Ruby.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Brandon visited with his mother in Baird Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Casey were expecting their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs.
Scott of El Paso, for a visit
Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinney and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parkinson of Romney visited with Mr.
and Mrs. Truett Dawkins Friday evening.

Mrs. Gus Brandon visited with her aunt, Mrs. Ida Williams, at Rising Star Rest Home
Friday afternoon. She also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Marshall who are patients at the home also.

NOTEBOOK—PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

INDUSTRIAL SITES AND BUILDINGS

...basic for new and expanding industry

Industries' requirements for land and buildings are one of their most important interests when selecting a town in which to operate.
Each industry has its own peculiar needs. Therefore, a wide variety of different type industrial sites gives a community increased chances of obtaining new industry as well as helping its existing industry to expand. Planning and zoning by a community is important to the community as well as to industry. Land is now available in West Texas. Wise planning for the future can easily be accomplished.

INDUSTRIAL SITES — range from industrial parks, planned industrial districts, individual sites (with all utilities) to raw land to be developed. Communities desiring new industry should have the following information on firmly committed industrial sites . . .

PLATS — Showing size, shape, location of utilities, access to transportation and topography.

LOCATION — Inside or outside of the city and any zoning restrictions.

PICTURES — Aerial photos tell an excellent story on an industrial site.

INDUSTRIAL BUILDINGS — existing buildings are very important as they are usually available at a lower cost than building new ones. In addition to the above information on sites, a community should have the following information on buildings. . .

FLOOR PLAN — Showing the size and dimensions of building, wall and ceiling heights, floor bearing capacity, office space, whether it has sprinkler system for fire protection and what type heating and air conditioning would be available.

PICTURES — Show the type construction of the building
as well as many other items of information that industry would be interested in.

VIP (Very Important Part) — Have firm commitments in writing on all industrial sites and buildings as to sale price and/or lease price, cost of extending utilities or roads and basic construction costs in the area for new facilities.

Ask your WTU local manager for additional information and services available.
