HARVESTING ESTIMATED 4,800,000 POUNDS OF SUDAN IN MULESHOE TERRITORY WAS BEGUN LAST WEEK

300 Pounds Per Acre Reported Average Yield, Some Heavier; Germination Runs High But Price Quotation Low.

The harvesting of sudan, one of the leading crops of this section, was begun last week, with indications of a fair yield. Field scouts for this grass completing their survey last week report there are between 16,000 and 20,000 acres of sudan planted in the Muleshoe territory, about a 60 per cent normal crop being indicated. Average yield is placed at around 300 pounds per acre, though there are some fields that will produce as much as 800 to 1000 pounds per acre while irrigated tracts in the Blackwater valley near Muleshoe will top that figure, two or three hundred pounds. There is an indicated yield of 4,800,000 pounds of sudan seed in this trade territory.

The sudan crop has been considerably damaged in some sections from lack of moisture at the proper time, favorable moisture conditions being required at the flowering period for heaviest production. Some sections farther south in this plains area have been entirely burned out, according to report of dealers, and much of it was cut a week or two ago for fodder.

Below the cap rock there are some good yield reported, but germination tests are said to be running low, from 40 to 60 per cent germination. Sudan crops in the vicinity of Muleshoe and Sudan are also reported as being of good prospect, many fields indicating a heavy seed yield.

It is common knowledge among those familiar with sudan conditions that this area produces the finest sudan seed grown outside the native belt of Africa. It invariably has a much higher germination than seed grown anywhere else, 85 to 95 per cent germination being common. There is something in the altitude and weather conditions here at harvesting time which seems to give sudan grown in this section an advantage over seed grown in other places.

California is reported raising 20,000,000 pounds of sudan seed this year, but because of the high cost of raising such in that state, and the low price for which it will probably be sold, it is questioned if growers there will attempt it again on such a large scale. Sudan virtually has no market rating at this time, 80 cents per hundred pounds being the nominal quotation. Locally, no price being offered at this time, though it is anticipated fair offering will be made by dealers later on. Sudan went to $10 and $12 per cwt last year, and may go to $4 or $5 this year, though no dealer seems to be certain as to the price just now.

AAA ALLOWS AN INCREASE IN 1936 WHEAT ACREAGE

New Contracts Provide For Adjustment Of Past Years.

The AAA has reduced from 15 per cent to 5 per cent the acreage reduction to be required in wheat crop contracts for 1936.

At AAA headquarters in Washington it was said the change would increase wheat acreage in 1936 by 5,200,000 acres above that contemplated when the 15 per cent reduction was announced several weeks ago.

Secretary Wallace said at a press conference that the change was decided upon after the August 1 crop report indicated total wheat production this year would be reduced to 608,000,000 bushels, largely because of black rust and heat damage.

The step was taken, Wallace said, to assure ample supplies for domestic consumers. He added it was expected to place this country in a strengthened position in the world export market.

Wallace said there would not be much decrease in benefit payments as a result of the altered policy.

AAA officials said they expect to place under contract approximately 32,000,000 acres this year.

It was also said that "adequate powers" are contained in the AAA amendments now before Congress to meet any situation which might arise in event of unusually large yields in 1936.

New contracts provide that adjustment in subsequent years may be as much as 25 per cent of the farmer's base acreage.

Baseball Tournament At Clovis Is Entered By Muleshoe 12 Others

The Muleshoe baseball team has entered the Clovis, N. M., sectional ball tournament which begins next Saturday, the drawing for position, plays and teams to be held Friday night. There will be 12 teams in the competition, including Hobbs, Roswell, two Clovis teams, Amherst, Otton, Muleshoe, Friona, Fields, Tucumcari, Ft. Sumner and Carlsbad.

In previous playings the Muleshoe team has either broken even or beat most of these teams entered, and the local team is to be considerably strengthened by its best players in the tournament. Manager Viv Walden declares he is putting his bunch of swatters into the melee with the idea of bringing back home some of the financial bacon.

Local business concerns are co-operating in a fine way toward defraying expenses of the team going up the line for honors. Last year at the tournament first place won $462; second place $277 and third place $184. Awards this year are expected to be similar.

Most of the Muleshoe ball lads are all round good players, having batting scores of which they need not be ashamed, some of them measuring up well with big league swatters. One thousand per cent is considered a perfect batting record; 300 per cent is good big league batting, and it will be noted from the below list that several of the local lads are well up in hitting ability. Their percentage this year, is as follows:

Dameron 360, Givens 333, Walden 333, Towry 333, Young 308, Bigham 301, Moore 300, Lumpkins 290, Cates 266, Hegall 240, McWilliams 215, Walker 112.

Desires of securing a good early start the first meeting of the Parent-Teachers association for this year will be held next Monday night in the High school auditorium beginning promptly at 8:15 p. m.

Installation of officers for the ensuing year will be a feature of the meeting as follows: Mrs. J. J. DeShazo, president; Curtis Taylor, vice-president; Mrs. C. R. Stevens, secretary-treasurer. There will be talks and several musical numbers rendered.

The public generally is invited to attend.

MAY REJECT ALL THE AMENDMENTS

Present indications, resulting from prevailing reports, are that the tricky and hazardous seven amendments proposed to the Texas Constitution may go down to defeat at the polls next Saturday. Published interviews with leading citizens, comments of people in general and editorials of the majority of newspapers throughout the state all point in that direction.

So questionable are most of these amendments as to virtue, legality and advisability, that many newspapers not generally taking any definite public stand on important questions have pronounced equivocal distrust in them.

At least three of these amendments are in direct violation of provisions of the National Constitution. Others are so poorly written, so vague in their meanings, so capable of various interpretations, and leave so much for decision of a questionable Legislature, that many earnest citizens are afraid of their future outcome. Believing firmly in the measures, yet because of their treacherous formation and questionable wording, they will vote to reject them.

True, some of these proposals carry a definite appeal, but their incongruity makes them doubtful. Theoretically the old age pension is one to inspire support. West Texas would favor revisions of the amendment providing a change of per capita state school funds on the basis of attendance rather than enumeration if it were not for the free text book clause, furnishing such to religious schools, which is generally considered an illy advised entering wedge and furnishing precedent for more and dangerous legislation in the future.

No doubt some changes should be made in the jury system; but the proposal for committing people to the insane asylum without due process of law opens the way for much "railroading" of innocent but mentally sick people being incarcerated for ulterior reasons—such having actually happened under the jury system. Furthermore, suspended sentences do not act as a crime deterrent, and it is generally believed that to allow further suspension of sentences will not remedy the situation, even under probationary or parole privileges.

Nearly all citizens know something of the evils of the fee system, but this amendment is so poorly written there is some possibility the change might be worse than the present system, bad as it is.

Even the prohibition amendment is about as clear as mud. The utterness of previous prohibition fights in Texas had led many to believe this amendment would overshadow all other proposed amendments, but such has not been the case. It is generally conceded the larger cities will go wet while smaller towns and countryside will vote dry, although there will be a very large number of citizens who are so undecided regarding the real worth and merit of this amendment they will scratch it along with the rest of them. At any rate, it is being conceded, which ever way the vote on this amendment carries, it will be by very small majority.

Present indications, as this newspaper is being published, are that practically all these amendments will receive the same kind of swat as is given the common house fly.

Would Test Cows For Malta Fever In Bailey County

That plans are now in the process of arrangement for the testing of approximately 20 herds of cattle in Bailey County for possibility of infection of undulant (Malta) fever, is the statement of J. B. Waide Jr., county farm agent, who is making these arrangements with J. B. Mims Jr., veterinarian of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, for tests in the near future, without cost to owners.

Regular application for such test must be filled out by owners at Waide's office. Where such disease is found and the animal is condemned, it is understood the government pays the owner the difference between the appraised value and the amount received from sale of such animal, in no case to exceed $25 for grade animals and $50 for registered pure bred animals.

Mr. Waide suggests any stock owner desiring such test should see him at once for reservation.

Directors Will Plan Plainview Show For Dairy August 30th

Plainview, August 20.—Directors of the Panhandle-Plains Dairy show and many county agricultural agents will gather in Plainview Friday afternoon August 30, for the purpose of deciding on dates, committees, educational programs, and making general plans for the ninth annual dairy show. The meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce office and President H. B. Hales of Amarillo will preside.

An executive committee to handle details of the 1936 show will be named, and superintendents of the various departments will be selected at the Plainview meeting. Possibilities of a horse show, a rodeo, and other entertainment features will be discussed. The meeting begins at one o'clock and will be dismissed in sufficient time for all those who desire to do so to attend the meeting of the existents of A & M college in the evening.

BAILEY COUNTY TO EXHIBIT AT REGION FAIRS

Excellent Prospects To Give Fine Specimens For Plains Show.

That Bailey County will be represented with a fine agricultural exhibit at both the Tri-State fair at Amarillo and the South Plains fair at Lubbock is the statement of R. L. Brown, who started out this week to gather the necessary commodities to fill the score cards of these two big show windows of West Texas. Brown will be assisted by J. B. Waide, county farm agent, and Miss Alma Stewart, county home demonstration agent, in selecting and assembling the various items to compose the exhibit.

For several years past Mr. Brown has taken a great interest in gathering and preparing the Bailey County agricultural exhibit at these two fairs and has never failed to bring back premiums. Because of the exceptionally fine crop prospects of this county this year it is anticipated at the outset that Bailey county may be among the leading premium winners at these fairs this fall.

Brown requests that farmers and gardeners who have especially fine specimens of vegetation called for in the score cards please mark it in their plots or fields and promptly notify either him or one of his assistants.

Last year there were 140,000 people attended the Panhandle South Plains fair at Lubbock, probably a still greater number attended the Amarillo fair, and these people seeing the Bailey county farm exhibit become an excellent source of publicity for this section.

Although it occurred nearly a week ago, the entire nation, young and old, ordinary citizens and high officials, are still mourning the death of two great characters, Will Rogers and Wiley Post, who met instantaneous death 15 miles south of Barrow Point in Arctic Alaska, Thursday of last week.

Flying toward the northern tip of civilization in a new plane recently completed for them at Burbank, California, these two intrepid men are now being their way back to earth on the great adventure of futurity.

Rogers and Post crashed a few miles south of the Point as they were arising from a river on which they had intended to seek information of natives as to direction and distance of Barrow Point. The plane had lifted only about 50 feet when one of the engines missed fire, the ship going out of control nose-diving toward earth. One wing was torn off, the engine forced by the impact back into the body of the plane striking the occupants and killing both instantly. Post's watch with crystal broken, stopped at 8:18 p. m. Both bodies were bruised by the impact.

Rogers and Post had left Fairbanks for Barrow, but heavy clouds and rain had impeded their progress. They knew they were close to Barrow but how far away they were not certain, hence they came down to seek the plane on the river and get definite information.

Information was sent out of Alaska by Sergeant Stanley R. Morgan, U. S. Signal Corps, operating at Barrow, who also stated the bodies had been promptly recovered and taken to Barrow where they were turned over to Dr. Grier, manager of the Presbyterian hospital at that place. The Federal government did everything within its power to assist in probing cause of the tragedy and getting the bodies back to the United States. They were shipped back by airplane.

Rogers' body will be temporarily interred at Los Angeles, California, and probably later buried in the soil of Oklahoma. His native state, the body of Post will be buried at Mayville, Oklahoma, the home of his parents.

Will Rogers was intimately known in and around the Muleshoe, having visited here at least once a year for several years past. He was a great friend of the Halsells, owner of the Muleshoe ranch, a few miles east of Muleshoe, where he frequently went during the fall cattle round-ups, his son spending some time on this ranch this summer. Rumor has it that Rogers had intended to buy this ranch sometime this fall for his son.

MODEL T STOLEN THURSDAY

The Model T Ford car belonging to a man by the name of Taylor, living about four miles northwest of Muleshoe, was stolen sometime after midnight Tuesday. Neighbors immediately took the search, locating the car about a mile north of town, where, turning a corner the thief had broken off a wheel, having to abandon it.

The thief is said to have been identified by a blanket which, in his haste he forgot to take along with him. Sheriff Cook has been on the watch since and expects to locate him shortly.

MISS MITCHELL ENTERTAINS

Miss Ruth Mitchell entertained a few of her friends last Saturday night at her home in the City of Hurley, four miles northwest of Muleshoe.

The party was of the overall and apron type, rustic conditions prevailing. It being of a delectable nature for a large cellar and storehouse recently completed which is to house the country products of that utopian socialistic project.

Games of various kinds, radio and phonograph music and general sociality were enjoyed until a late hour, when rainfall forced the guests into the City hall, where a wide variety of refreshments, including grapes grown on the plaza, of that commonwealth, were served all present.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY AND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

A vital principle in the very foundation of our Federal Government is the separation of Church and State. The Federal Government uniquely and deliberately denies itself of all legislative control over religion and refuses all religious organizations any right or jurisdiction in State affairs.

This was a departure in the history of State and Church craft. The founders of our Government took the broad position that there should be no impeding activity which would tend to destroy the independence of either the civic or spiritual realms. They placed no shackles, therefore, upon religion and denied the prerogative of any religion to trammel the secular government which they established.

In interpreting this principle, the Supreme Court of the United States said in Watson vs. Jones, 13 Wall 679 (1871): "In this country the full and free right to entertain any religious belief, to practice any religious doctrine, and to teach any religious doctrine which does not violate the laws of morality and property, and which does not infringe personal rights, is conceded to all. The law knows no heresy, and is committed to the support of no dogma, the establishment of no sect."

In a speech delivered in Fredericksburg, Va., October 16, 1932, at the National Celebration Commemorative of the Religious Character of George Washington and the Separation of Church and State, Governor Pollard of Virginia stated succinctly the mind of the framers of federal and state constitutions on religious liberty and the prohibitions in the latter constitutions of aid to sectarian schools by the states. He said:

"This (religious liberty) was America's greatest and most distinctive gift to the science of government. Acts of toleration had before been passed, but never before had any government put all religions on a footing of perfect equality. To the minds of some, religious liberty means liberty to Christian denominations only, and to other religions simply toleration; but the word 'toleration' has no place in our political vocabulary, for it carries the implication, that we, by our grace, may extend to others the privilege of worshipping God as they please, while as a matter of fact men do not worship God according to the dictates of conscience by virtue of any man-given right. The gift is direct from God. It is born with us."

All state constitutions prohibit restraints upon religion. They likewise prohibit support of religion by taxation or otherwise. There are, therefore, no state churches in the United States. Religious instructions in all American public schools, as a part of the curriculum, is prohibited by the state constitutions. Support of sectarian schools is prohibited by the organic and statutory laws of all the states. These precautions were taken by the framers of the institutions because they had found from their experience, religious instruction in public schools or the support of sectarian schools by public taxation opens wide the door for a union of Church and State.

The evolution of education, from the control of the various sectaries in the early Colonial Days to public control, fills the most remarkable chapter in American history. It is remarkable because of the factors which contributed to it. It is remarkable because it was achieved at all, and remarkable because with it came the definite separation of Church and State, that inebrius to ancient and modern civilizations.

Their first educational system established under civil auspices in America was in the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1647, but it was surrounded with a vigorous church atmosphere with content ecclesiastical intrusion. In other words, despite its civic implications, education was bound up with religion, for every town was governed by the Church and civic affairs were administered by the same groups of persons. Teachers were selected whose religious convictions and standing were as much, if not more, considered than were their scholastic attainments.

The religious motive for these early tax-supported schools is shown by Dr. Charles Austin Beard in his Rise of American Civilization (New York) 1927, 1:177: "The idea of elementary schools supported by taxation, freed from clerical control and offering instruction to children of all classes found no expression in Colonial America. Indeed, it was foreign to the experience of the Greeks, Romans and Europeans of the Middle Ages whose psychology still dominated the West."

Edward H. Reiter states in his The Evolution of the Common School (New York) 1930, pp. 44-45: "The pastors of the churches were the supervisors of the schools, and the main materials in instruction were the Bible and the tenets of the Calvinistic religions."

The same educational policies obtained throughout New England. The early history of Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Maryland, however, shows that the governments of these colonies took advanced steps in the matter of civil control of education, as well as religious liberty. But a great deal of ground gained in the 17th Century was lost in the early part of the eighteenth century. In Pennsylvania, public instruction was placed with several religious denominations. In Maryland, in 1786, the system of education became a mixture of civil, ecclesiastical, and private enterprise. The Church of England dominated the educational and religious life of Virginia and the Carolinas. In the other colonies ecclesiastical activities were somewhat confused with no definite, organized policy in control.

With the immigration of the European Baptists; the Presbyterians from Northern Ireland and Scotland; the Quakers and Huguenots, all of them aggressive and intellectual sectaries, religious equality rapidly took shape. They not only stood for separation of Church and State, but they well knew that as long as education, either by taxation or private means, was under the control of religion, there could be, in fact, no separation of Church and State.

These humble Protestant sects, dissenters from the Church of England,

OUTDOOR MEALS

AS PICNIC days are here again, we turn to our lists of good things which we have enjoyed and plan a picnic lunch. Those who find some food hard to digest will enjoy them and have no discomfort when eaten out of doors after a brisk hike, or even a stroll through the woods.

When packing a lunch, remember to put some of the goods that add zest such as green onions, fresh radishes, cucumbers and a few pickles, sweet and sour, Pickled beets, onions, chow, are all relishes which are enjoyed with the other food.

The sandwiches may be cut and made just before serving with lettuce, a slice of cucumber and onion, as filling. Baked bean sandwiches are always enjoyed for a hearty meal. Serve them with sliced sour pickle.

Most picnic lunches are made up of starchy and sugar foods. Some of these are needed but the alkaline foods will be needed or headaches and indigestion will result.

Fruits, green vegetables, celery, tomatoes, are all good to combine with the sandwiches, rolls and cakes. Meats are acid forming foods and should be used sparingly.

With the crisp lettuce carried in a towel, well wrapped, add sliced oranges or tomatoes or apples and serve with a french dressing all prepared and carried in a tight jar or bottle.

With all the disadvantages, snakes, mosquitoes, poison ivy, the more we go on picnics, the more we learn what to avoid and the more pleasure we get from them.

Where there is a stream of clear water or a spring, all the green things may be kept cool and fresh as if taken from a refrigerator at home. Much can be said of the sunshine, the glorious out of doors, green trees, grass and flowers, sun baths, swimming, games and just loafing when you picnic. They all outweigh the discomforts, which upset stomachs and disturb the regular routine.

fought among themselves for religious and political liberty in the New World-out of the crucible, out of their travail came the crowning glory of all the Ages of man-political and religious liberty under laws that "know no heresy, and are committed to the support of no dogma, the establishment of no sect."

Nothing brought forth without travail ever meant much to the individual or to a civilization. What does the anguish and despair of our ancestors over the centuries, in achieving political and religious liberty, mean to us? Do we make our heart throbs harmonize with their feelings, their emotions and their glory for the race's advancement? Do we today place the proper value upon their achievements? During the last century and up to recent years, thousands of our fine American families did. Their appreciation is to be seen in the general trend of our court decisions and legislative acts in questions pertaining to protection of our public schools against their enemies and in questions affecting Church and State.

But during the past two decades, it would seem that organized religious groups have taken on new life, as noted in their appeals to the State for the teaching and enforcement of their dogmas, for preference, for cash appropriations, and for services, paid for from taxation, such as the use of free buses, free school books, and the like.

What will this generation do about the efforts that are being made to obtain favoritism of the states and to break down our public system? "Etternal vigilance is the price of liberty." Let then the welfare of our public schools be the object of every American patriot. Let him watch the treasures of our townships, our cities, our counties, our states, and our Nation, that sectarian schools may not receive appropriations or other forms of subsidies—Scottish Rite News Bureau, Washington, D. When the sun is blazing hot, your motor heat goes up, too!

To protect your motor, use Germ Processed Oil, which has 2 to 4 times greater film strength and is less affected by extreme motor heat!

YOUR MOTOR runs lots hotter in Summer. That's why you must have oil that maintains high film strength under extreme temperatures to get safe lubrication. Otherwise, the lubricating film ruptures and the bearings and cylinders suffer damaging wear.

Plain mineral oils have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing methods have even less. As motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

You'll get better motor protection with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Timken machine tests prove that it has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil and that heat above 225° does not lessen this advantage.

More proof—supervised road tests were made in identical cars with the new alloy metal bearings used in many 1935 cars. The bearings lubricated with a high-quality plain mineral oil showed 45% more wear than those lubricated with Conoco Germ Processed, the first alloyed oil.

You'll be certain your motor is safely lubricated even at high temperatures if you say "O. K.—Drain" and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil—the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON THE BANDITS WASTE THEIR TIME

A YOUNG "hand" describing a criminal career which will put him behind bars probably for the best part of his life, announced that his whole "career," which included a number of robberies and hold-ups, had netted him only $50.

The stigma of crime, a medium of harm to his fellow men, his life ruined—for $50! The comment is obvious that a similar amount of interest, enthusiasm and effort expended on constructive work would have brought this delinquent young man at least a good living, peace, security, respect. And it might have brought him a good moral dose. It might have brought him success, leadership, distinction.

It is the age-old story of trying to get something for nothing. And it is not only in the pursuit of crime that we find constant evidence that this does not pay, that it leads always to tragic failure. There are ways beside crime in which people try to get something for nothing. There are petty little ways, of attempting to get something for nothing. These are brought to mind perhaps more by women than by men, for men are more business-like and it is unbusiness-like to try to get something for nothing.

It is always a waste of time and energy. It never pays—this trying to get something for nothing. And in addition there is the unpleasant feeling of dissatisfaction which every normal person must feel with the consciousness of "trying to get away with something."

Coyotes May Be Benefit Instead of Doing Damage Suffering from the results of a bad reputation which he has been building up for a period of years the coyote finds that he is a pretty badly treated animal, says Pathfinder Magazine. The average human is pretty apt to act without making a very thorough investigation and therefore the coyote is shot at, sight, trapped and poisoned.

Feed for Dairy Cow Feed for a dairy cow depends upon the individual animal but as a general rule each cow will require two tons of legume hay, two acres of pasture, 16 bushels of corn, 16 bushels of oats, and 600 pounds of cottonseed meal. Where wheat bran is available this may be substituted for a part of the oats, pound for pound. Good producing animals are necessary for profit and the herd should average between 250 and 300 pounds of butterfat to the cow. If this average is not maintained then the animal is not paying for her feed and should be taken from the herd.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely; and be content with your wages.—St. Luke, 3:14

No man, for any considerable period, can wear one face to himself and another to the multitude, without finally getting bewildered as to which may be true.—Hasthorne.

WHY WE ARE HERE

Everyone puzzles at times over the great mysteries of existence. Why are we here, where did we come from and where are we going? None of these questions can be answered very satisfactorily, but that does not prevent us from asking them. One has expressed the inconsistencies of life in these words:

"Man comes into this world without his consent, and leaves it against his will. During his stay on earth his life is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings. When he first arrives everyone wants to kiss him. Before he passes out everyone wants to kick him. If he dies young there was a great future before him. If he lives to a ripe old age he is simply living to save funeral expenses, and is in the way. This life is a funny road. But we all like to travel it just the same."

CHANGING TIMES

Times do change, no doubt about that, and if the average old Muleshoe person living today will just sit down in retrospective manner for a few minutes, letting their mind wander back in reconnoitering manner, they can recall any number of different modes and manners from the customs of grandfather and grandmother and numerous things we have today which were not theirs.

For instance, to start off with you would have to put down "old-age pension," federal relief, divorce, auto, airplane, radio, cigarettes, electricity, searum for every ill, hundreds of chemicals, elements, electrons, cosmic rays, X-rays, appendicitis operations, canned thought, photo-electric cells, television government loans, income tax reports, bathing beauty shows, stream-lined trains, dog tags, Sunday movies, and so on ad infinitum.

Of course, we are better off today in many ways than were our ancestors, yet with all this civilization, we are still prone to sometimes doubt it.

VOTE SATURDAY

Saturday of this week is going to be another day wherein people of Texas may display their interested citizenship, as they understand it, in the welfare of the state, and every vote has a poll tax receipt should go to the polls and exercise their franchise in voting for or against the proposed amendments to the State Constitution.

It is the duty of every citizen to carefully and critically study these various amendments to be voted upon or against them—never be neutral. The Journal has very pronounced convictions on these proposed amendments and the editor of this newspaper will back up his convictions at the polls next Saturday.

The important thing is that every legal voter shall exercise his privilege as a Texas citizen next Saturday and vote. In the final analysis, these measures may not go the way you or this editor see them; but we will at least have performed our duty as good Americans in behalf of the state or our residence. So, be sure to vote!

HIGH TAX VALUES

A news item carried in the daily papers a few days ago regarding a 13 story office building in Dallas, Texas, that was to have the 10 upper stories torn down from it to save taxes, is apparently in keeping with the general procedure now in vogue in numerous other towns and cities, large and small to sale all the tax money possible, of which Muleshoe is no exception.

Of course, there are in every municipality citizens who are chronic tax dodgers and perpetual kickers on their tax assessments; but there are also many, and they are in the majority who gladly accept their assessments, when they are fair and equitable—and they promptly pay them when they become due.

There are not, however, many property owners who appreciate the old "chamber of commerce system" of increasing property values and decreasing tax rates. It is claimed this system brings in the required amount of money needed for defraying city expenses the same as if property values were decreased and tax rates increased, which is practically true; but it is not based on actual facts, but rather done principally for the purpose of impressing prospective real estate buyers with the value of property (although a fictitious one) and the low rate of taxation.

This system in vogue in Muleshoe for several years past carries with it pernicious results. Last week when the City Board of Equalization met there were a large number of citizens who were sought to render their property for taxation purposes at its real value who were called before the board to show why such renditions should not be increased. Members of the Board declared their purpose was to "equalize" taxes, which they doubtless did, but on too high a basis and one that was not in keeping with actual values, at least one of the members of this board admitting the basis of rendition was not in keeping with real intrinsic value.

Watering realty values is just as reprehensible as watering stocks, and really should come within the province of the only system that is equitable, property banning such procedure. It has never been the intention of the State and should not be of any municipality to unduly inflate values. Assessing property at its real value and then placing on such a tax rate necessary to raise required funds for city expenses is the only system that is equitable, fair and just. While both systems bring in the required funds, the one is based on fiction and the other on fact.

Furthermore, Muleshoe has been deprived of many added citizens because of this fictitious system of taxation. Scarcely a week goes by but one or more people visit this little city desirous of becoming citizens here; but are forced to leave because there are no buildings vacant that may be rented for residence or business purposes. Muleshoe has lost many very desirable citizens because of this condition. There have been buildings moved out of this city because of excessive and unreasonable property valuations for city and school tax purposes, and thousands of dollars worth of buildings and repairs have been withheld because of this chamber of commerce system of imposing fictitious values on property.

True, Muleshoe citizens are more interested in a town of quality rather than one of quantity; but at any rate property contained in it should be rendered for taxation nearer its true worth and salable value than is now the custom.

Howard Cox, local Ford-hook bean raiser, reports finding a four-eyed rattlesnake, seven feet long, having 27 rattles, nicely coiled up on one of the hot plates of his wife's electric range. Most Muleshoe people can believe that, but what is difficult to understand is that Howard declares the snake was so small that it crawled out of the house through the insulation around the wire that led the current to the stove.

Practically all of the big ocean vessels have equipment for distilling salt water into fresh water, but this is done only in emergency, because of the scarcity and the slowness of the operation. PUBLIC CONFIDENCE RESTORED BY BANKS

American Bankers Association Describes Its Activities to Create Better Understanding Regarding Banks

NEW YORK.—Eight different lines of activity through which the American Bankers Association is constantly working to promote better public understanding and opinion in regard to banking and the attitude of bankers toward legislation are described in detail in a statement made public here by R. S. Hecht, president of the association.

The aim, he says, is "to strengthen the real basis for good opinion in regard to the banks," through fostering informative bank advertising in the newspapers and in other ways. The statement was issued in reply to suggestions received urging a nationwide public educational program in regard to the business of banking and its place in the life of our country.

Mr. Hecht declares that "we have tried very hard to convince the public that the banking industry has not only profited by the lessons of the past, it is determined to approach all questions of banking policy from the broad viewpoint of public welfare and is prepared to carry its full share of the burden in connection with all efforts to restore sound prosperity in this country."

The Means Employed In describing the various measures of the association "to exert a beneficial influence on public opinion regarding the functions, methods and operations of banks," Mr. Hecht enumerated the following activities:

1. The Public Education Commission, which prepares plain language leaflets, also prepares plain language leaflets and others before schools, club clubs and other places for the use of the American Bankers Association, installed in many banks a better informed and more sympathetic attitude among their customers regarding banking.

2. The Publicity Department, supplying city and country daily and weekly newspapers with news stories, news items and allied subjects and furnishing the public with information regarding the activities of the association.

3. The Executive Officers and the Committee on Public Relations, who are active, particularly at Washington, in consulting with the Federal Reserve Board and other agencies in formulating proposals for the improvement of banking laws and public welfare.

RAINS SPOT THE COUNTY

While there have been no definite general rains over Bailey county, yet several communities have suffered with falling water from gentle showers to heavy rainfall.

Rain up to one inch is reported in various sections of the south and east part of the county falling last Friday.

Saturday night there was very light rainfall at Muleshoe, extending west and getting heavier as it traveled in that direction.

Lamb county received a heavier down pour. West Camp area, most of it needing moisture, has been somewhat relieved and crop prospects brightened.

Gold Discoveries in Colorado

Most of the early gold discoveries in Colorado were made in the years 1858, 1859 and 1860, ten years after the sensational California gold rush. From everywhere they came, these adventurers, and their slogan, "Flies Peak or Bust!" was seen on many of their wagons. The Indians resented this invasion of their territory, but that was only a small obstacle when "thar was gold in them thar hills."

The rush was so great that at the end of 1860 most of the placer claims had been staked out along the eastern slope of the Colorado Rockies, and many on the other side of the Continental divide.

THE O. E. S. PICNIC MAY BE S. O. S. FOR THE MEDICOS

ONE INITIATE MEETS MYSTERIES OF EASTERN STAR; WATERLOO BULLETS IN SOCIAL SCRAP.

Thursday evening of last week members of the O. E. S. met in a call session at the Masonic hall.

After the opening of the chapter, president over, in her usual gracious manner, by Worthy Matron Mrs. Hattie Griffiths, Mrs. Jackie Tate was given the initiatory work.

A memorial program in honor of Rob Morris, founder of the Order of Eastern Star, was then enjoyed. Mrs. Bonnie Isaacs gave a sketch of his life and works in such an inspiring manner as to add zeal to all women present to be more energetic in their work in the order.

Mrs. Faye Elrod gave an appropriate reading, which everyone thoroughly enjoyed.

A duet, "Memories of Galilee," composed by Rob Morris, was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Lema Cook and Mrs. Ruth McCarty.

Before closing the chapter some of the members, who had not been present since the installation of the new officers, gave short talks of a complimentary nature, commending the officers on the excellency of their work. It has been stated that the general enthusiasm pervading the entire chapter bids fair to make it one of the best years in all lines of accomplishments this chapter has ever had.

Miss Thelma Clark of Post, gave a short and complimentary speech declaring she had learned many points of interest which she planned taking home to her own lodge.

The new member, Mrs. Tate, gave a highly commendatory speech of the order to which she had just been pledged, and expressed her earnest desire to do her part to become a worthy member.

The 26 members present were then escorted to the Legion hall where delicious ice cold watermelon was served by the refreshment committee, Mrs. Grace Osborn, Ruth McCarty and Elizabeth Gardner. A lively social hour followed, wherein Mrs. Naomi St. Clair and Mrs. Lema Cook, after devouring a goodly half of the toothsome favorite of Ethiopia, kept the rest of the members dodging while they indulged in the youthful pastime of seeing who could shoot seeds the farthest, being the only part of the melon they hadn't eaten.

Thursday night of this week the members of the O. E. S. and their families will meet at the hall at 7:00 p. m., with well laden baskets, from which place they will tie themselves to some chosen spot, which the committee on arrangements is keeping a cherished secret, to spend an anticipatory hour partaking of a glorious feast in the style of an old-fashioned bachelorette picnic. All doctors of the community have been asked to stay near their phones that evening with pill bags in readiness, as no doubt there will be many cases of indigestion which will require their pain alleviating skill, after the picknickers have gorged themselves on the delicious viands the ladies are said to be preparing for the occasion.

AS SEASON ADVANCES EVERY COTTON PICKER WILL BE TAKEN OFF RELIEF ROLLS AND TOLD TO GET A COTTON SACK

Austin, August 20.—As the cotton picking season gradually spreads over Texas, Relief Commission officials are re-emphasizing their demands that every available cotton picker be taken off the relief rolls and told to get a cotton sack.

District administrators have been told to see that no able-bodied relief client be allowed to stay on the relief rolls so long as there is a job for him in the cotton fields.

Despite pest infestation, the cotton crop in Texas apparently will be appreciably large, it is indicated, and relief officials insist that there be a commensurate crop in the relief load in cotton picking areas.

What effect getting off Federal Emergency Relief Administration rolls now to pick cotton will have on a client's chances of being certified to the Works Progress Administration rolls late in the fall when the cotton picking season is over, has been explained thus:

It will not jeopardize his chances at all. An unemployed able-bodied person who was on the FERA rolls in May this year and is registered with the National Reemployment Service is automatically eligible for a job with the WPA. The minute a cotton picker or anyone else who is a relief client in May has worked himself out of a job in private employment, he becomes eligible to work on WPA projects.

In view of this and the sharp reduction in relief funds, Relief Commission officials are insisting that relief rolls in heavy cotton producing areas should be reduced by as much as 50 per cent if not more during the cotton picking season.

Despite misgivings over sharp reductions in funds and consequent cuts in relief allotments, Texas Relief Commission officials here the past week were able to look at the relief situation in Texas with some confidence, hinging their hopes on seasonal employment in the cotton fields and the increasing speed of Works Progress Administration activities.

There are about 85,000 employable men on the relief rolls in the cotton picking areas of Texas, and it is hoped at least half of these will be employed a month and a half or two months in the cotton fields. The employment of all at one time but will move progressively from south Texas northward through the state, relieving the case load one time or another in the next three months by at least 40,000 persons.

In the meantime, the WPA is expected to be in full operation, aiming at taking off the relief rolls the entire bulk of 146,000 employables in the state. As the cotton picking season ends pickers formerly on the relief rolls are expected to be taken into the WPA, certain to be well under way by then, it was emphasized.

Also, the Civilian Conservation Corps is now in the midst of its enlistment program, which will have on September 1, 15,000 Texas youths between 18 and 28 whose families are on the relief rolls. This will bring the total enrollment for the state to 30,000. The monthly checks, $25 apiece from these boys to their families will go a long way toward easing the relief situation, officials stressed.

The Texas case load this spring has decreased consistently, from a high of approximately 176,000 in January this year, dropping to 170,000 in June, the latter month comparing with 190,000 for the corresponding month in 1934. Figures for July have been delayed pending complete returns from all counties, but are sure to show a continuing drop, it is estimated.

Obviously, relief officials point out if relief funds can be stretched to keep relief clients going until the WPA is in full operation, the relief situation for the corresponding month is improved, save for that considerable residue of unemployables who will be left on the rolls and will have to look to some source for aid. What source that will be has not been indicated, but, State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson emphasized, as President Roosevelt has stated positively that there will be no more direct relief funds, and the balance of the funds are not sufficient to take care of the unemployable, it is self-evident that they will have to find some method of their own for care.

Kiwansians Discuss Various Topics At Meet Last Friday

At the meeting of Kiwanians last Friday noon Judge J. E. Adams told of his attendance at the meeting of county judges with the State Highway commission held in Dallas last week when two resolutions introduced by Chairman Harry Hines, of the Commission, were voted down by judges and county commissioners attending.

Judge Adams stated no solution to the completion of the North and South road in this county had yet been decided upon. However, application is being made to WPA office, Lubbock, for approval of a plan for cutting down the Hill on this road near the Paul ranch in the southern part of the county.

J. B. Waide, Jr., gave a brief but interesting report of a delegate trip to College Station when 34 representatives from Bailey county were taken to take in the A. & M. Short Course. He declared everyone attending from this county was greatly benefited and anxious to go again next year.

Miss Alma Stewart spoke briefly about the same trip and extended Kiwanians an invitation to attend the county home demonstration picnic that was held at Robinson's ranch, near Baleyboro Wednesday of this week.

R. L. Brown emphasized the adaptability of this section to raising of grapes, urging farmers with irrigation wells plant at least one acre of this fruit.

Grover Hill, Amarillo, was present and spoke joyfully to the members, complimenting the State Highway Commission upon the efficiency of their engineer who had charge of the detouring on state highways, declaring he had certainly been on the job in efficient manner for the past three years. He also declared from present indications it looked like saw mills were going to have to be imported into Bailey county to handle the bumper crops being grown, ordinary harvesting machinery being generally too small for the job.

300 Attend Swim Carnival Held At Pool Sunday P. M.

There were 300 people attended the water carnival at the local swimming pool in Muleshoe last Sunday afternoon, being the first competitive splash event held in aquatic competition in this city, according to George Snapska, manager.

Competition was keen and close in practically all events, $30 in prizes being awarded the winners, the most interesting of which was the Divers' Grab Bag, wherein $10.00 in small denominations was thrown into the pool, all participants being given a chance to win. There were 45 swimmers took part, lining up on the sides of the pool and jumping in together. For a few minutes following the plunge of nymphs, Atlantic-like waves tossing up from the pool like a school of porpoises at play, besplattered onlookers and held up the diving seaweeds until the aqua party became more placid. It was impossible to tell who, if anyone, got the lion's share of the tossed-in coins, but it was probably pretty equally divided.

Miss Marie Bucy, Muleshoe, won first place in the girls' diving and swimming events; Miss Cleo Stiles, from Oklahoma, won second place, and her sister, Faye Stiles, third place. Bill Snapska won first place in boys' swimming and diving contest, with Jim Burkhead second, and Jack Stone, of Sudan, third.

Raleigh Taylor won the Log race and Bill Snapska lead in the Turkey Bill Acres of Sudan demonstrated his prowess as an under-water swimmer in that event.

Various business concerns of Muleshoe co-operated in the carnival by giving merchandise prizes to winners of the various events.

Forrest Hogue, of Friona, Mr. Johnson, of Goodland, Deer Floyd, of Danmitt were judges of the events.

EXPERIENCES OF GARDNERS

"A sub-irrigated garden is not half as much trouble as the surface irrigated one and the vegetables on the sub-irrigated land do not wilt like the ones on surface-irrigated land," said Mrs. E. L. Smith, farm food supply demonstrator of the West Camp home demonstration club. Mrs. Smith put out her tomatoes July 3 and the vines have lots of green tomatoes now.

"I find rape and kale to be the best kind of greens. They bear until frost," said Mrs. E. E. Hughes, cooperator of the West Camp home demonstration club. Mrs. Hughes planted carrots and mustard spinach for her two new vegetables this year. She has canned 20 quarts of beans, dried with several neighbors and served fresh beans to her family four several weeks off of 150 feet of Kentucky wonders.

4-H Club Boys And Girls Have A Big Rally Day Tuesday

Tuesday was rally day in Muleshoe for boys and girls all over Bailey county who were members of the various 4-H clubs organized by the county. The rally was held at the court room with Jack Aldridge as master of ceremonies.

Judge Adams gave the address of the occasion, after which each member present made introduction of themselves, following which there were several 4-H club songs and yells indulged in by the boys and girls. The boys, then several games were played.

Reports of the Short Course recently held at A. & M. college were given by W. G. Harlan and Mrs. B. B. Dickinson. West Camp speaker, after which there was adjournment for noon luncheon, held under the shade of the trees in Santa Fe municipal park.

The afternoon as grooming demonstration was given the girls by Mrs. Paul Basinger, local beautician, at the same time the boys elected officers for their county wide club, as follows: Billy Dotson, president; Horace Williams, vice-president; J. C. Hughes, secretary-treasurer; Jack Aldridge, reporter.

The youngsters then made a trip through the county jail, the sponsors Miss Alma Stewart and J. B. Waide being careful that none of them were left behind when the big iron doors were closed and locked following their investigation of the local battle.

Then the entire bunch of about 40 children went to the Palace theatre, where Manager C. F. Moeller had prepared a special picture showing for them: Shirley Temple in "The Little Colonel," which was very attractive and of great interest to the boys and girls. Members of the local Kiwanian club also assisted in sponsoring the picture for 4-H members.

Many of the youngsters expressed themselves as having enjoyed one of the best days and as wishing for more more just like this one. Those enjoying the rally day were: Regna Daniel, Nora Lee Dotson, Bernice Herington, Leroy Hughes, Bennie Francis Waller, Catus Waller, Emma Lou Herington, Leroy Hughes, J. C. ANOTHER LOCATION FOR AN OIL TEST IN COCHRAN CO.

Another location at which an oil test is to be spudded in by September 1 has been designated in Cochran county, five miles west and four miles south of Lehman, is the report of B. A. Warren, local Conoco wholesale agent, who was in that section during the early part of the week.

Excavation was in progress for a slush pit, and the construction of a derrick is supposed to begin within the next few days. Mr. Warren was told that drilling would begin not later than September 1 to comply with the existing contract.

The name of the company to make the test has not been made public, although it is supposed to be one of the two drilling concerns announced as signing contracts something over a year ago. The location is on the Slough or lands in what is known as the "Scrapeout Pasture." This well will be near one of the tests made by Continental Oil Company five or six years ago—Herald, Loveland.

$800 Raised For New
Church And Expenses
Closing Day.

The Methodist camp meeting, held at Needmore, 13 miles south of Muleshoe, closed last Sunday night in a blaze of spiritual impetus, accompanied by a shower of financial blessing.

Between 75 and 80 converts during the week's service are reported, about 66 of them joining that denomination. There were six conversions and 14 received into the Methodist church at the closing night service.

Just before the benediction was pronounced it was announced that P. F. Hunter had given two acres of ground located just opposite the Lowry store at Needmore, for church purposes, and following the announcement, $800 was quickly subscribed for the building which is to be constructed of adobe brick, work to begin in a week or 10 days. Also, about $70.00 was raised during the closing day for meeting expenses of the services during the past week.

Rev. W. L. Tittle, Methodist presiding elder of this district, from Plainview, did the preaching throughout the entire series of services, putting forth his best efforts and greatest endeavors in this direction. That his sermons were not in vain is readily proven in the large number of professions announced, the many who took membership in the Methodist and other denominations, the amount of money raised and the general tidal wave of spirituality that swept over that community during the past week.

During the revival people came from 100 to 150 miles away to attend the services, while there were a large number who drove from 15 to 25 miles daily to take part in what is said to be one of the greatest religious awakenings ever held in this section of the country. Several pitched camps on the grounds during the entire meeting while many others arrived in the mornings and spent the entire day there attending and taking part in all five services held daily. Barbecue of beef, pork, mutton and chicken was gratuitously furnished those who attended all services regularly, the dinners being donated by interested citizens living in that section of the county.

It is stated practically every town and community within a radius of 30 miles around was represented by citizens who were present to attend the last day of revival services.

The camp meeting was in charge of Rev. G. R. Fort, pastor of the Muleshoe church, who has previously proven himself a great religious general in handling such occasions. Sometime ago Rev. Fort realized the need of a church of some denomination being located at Needmore, and, knowing of no reason why that church should not be a Methodist, he began plans for the camp meeting.

Citizens of that and surrounding communities gave him the finest kind of co-operation in assisting in preparing the camp grounds, erecting the big tent in which the services were held, and in donating food of various kinds for the barbecue. Throughout the entire service, the gray haired minister could be seen almost anywhere on the camp grounds giving directions, making suggestions and encouraging every movement that was calculated to be of benefit to the meeting. Much credit is due this elderly church warrior for the big success of the occasion.

Rev. Tony Dyess, Cumberland Presbyterian minister, of Petersburg, had charge of the big choir which completely filled one end of the spacious tent and which soon became so compactly filled the walls were bulged out, finally removed entirely, so additional seats could be provided, and there was more than one night service when standing room in its vicinity was at a premium. Rev. Dyess proved himself a great song leader, and exceptionally good soloist and director in general of the musical department of the meeting, which is considered of vital importance for favorable results in any such undertaking.

Contributing very greatly to the song inspiration of the meeting was the playing of Miss Edsel Jones, pianist from Whiteside, in Motley county. A charming little lady, talented to a high degree, exceptionally winsome through her Christian character, possessing a remarkable talent of technique for embellishing the playing of sacred music on the piano, her fingers flitting over the keyboard ivories brought forth such inspiration as made every songster lift his or her voice to the skies in pouring forth the soulful melodies.

Rev. F. R. Pickens and his talented and consecrated wife, of the Y L community, gave valuable service during the meeting. Both of them taking a very active part in the music, prayer meetings, Bible study and personal work, thus contributing much toward the ultimate success of the occasion. Occasional preachers from surrounding communities and several laymen attending, also took active and decisive parts in the services adding to the joy and total of spiritual benefit obtained.

"Net results of the meeting can not now be entirely totaled," said Rev. Tittle, at the close of the meeting Sunday night. "The good work has only begun in this community. With the building of the church it is expected the de-inite results of this camp meeting will become firmly stabilized and effective reaching in its results."

People Are Warned
To Beware Of The
Undulant Fever

Austin, August 21.—Undulant (Malta) fever is a disease which is transmitted to human beings by infected animals. Individuals may acquire the disease as the result of direct contact with infected animals or following the use of raw dairy products obtained from infected dairy cows. If the disease is due to contact with infected animals or their waste products, the germ gains entrance to the human body through the skin, stated Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer.

Persons who live on farms are more subject to undulant fever than those who live in cities. On farms, the disease is more apt to affect men due to the fact that men come in contact with hogs and cows to a much greater extent than do farm women. Farmers have direct contact with animals during leading and unloading for market. The handling of infected cows or sows and of the young at time of birth, represent hazardous types of contact. The danger of undulant fever may be reduced greatly by avoiding as much as possible, all forms of direct contact with animals which may be infected. The wearing of heavy gloves if contact is unavoidable, should aid in protecting the skin against exposure.

Urban residents have little or no occasion to come in direct contact with infected animals. Undulant fever acquired in city or town, is due, as a rule, to the use of milk, cream, and butter which lack certain safeguards. Prevention of undulant fever, whether due to contact with infected animals or to ingestion of contaminated dairy products, is dependent to a further extent, upon the eradication of contagious abortion from farm animals and careful pasteurization of dairy products.

A massive tunnel 30 yards long was discovered last Friday under the state prison at Huntsville, leading nearly to the prison wall from which prisoners planned to escape. Manager Lee Simmons declared it was a deep plot and in a few days more would have been ready for a general exodus of prisoners.

Doorway Lights Aid Visitors;
Lighted House Number Helps, Too

The illuminated house number and entrance lights lend an air of hospitality to the home, and make it easy for callers to find the address.

By Jean Prentice

HAVE you ever started out on an evening for the home of friends, then upon arriving at their street, had difficulty in finding their house number?

I have, and it's such a nuisance. No reason for it, really, when attractive illuminated house numbers and doorway lights are so easy to install. The charm of a carefully planned home is first revealed in its entrance. And if it is cheery and inviting, and the number plainly visible, we instantly feel that we are welcome.

● Arch-brackets and doorway lanterns, which are so much in favor in the better districts, should be selected with an eye to the architectural design of the house. There are, on the market, styles for all the principal architectural designs, that harmonize with the house exterior. To be practical, they must have open bottoms, so that the steps and porch will be lighted.

An illuminated house number is a convenience that should be part of every hospitable home. This feature may be incorporated into the porch lighting unit itself, or a separate illuminated number may be used, operated by a small bulb. Otherwise, the number should be so placed that it is illuminated by the entrance light. Side and rear porches each call for their individual lights. A single fixture on the door-opening side is suggested.

The Story of the Constitution
by CALED JOHNSON

CONGRESS THE SUPREME POWER

The form of Government set up by the Constitutional Convention was a compromise between the loose alliance under the Articles of Confederation, and the plan of a single nation with completely centralized powers. The small States insisted upon an equal voice with every other State. The large States felt that their wealth, size and importance entitled them to a larger voice in the affairs of the country. These conflicting views resulted in what historians call the "Connecticut Compromise."

The colony of Connecticut from its earliest history had a dual system of representation in its legislature. One house represented the towns as equal units. The other house represented all the people as individuals. This plan became the basis upon which the Congress of the United States was set up.

The Constitution provides for equal representation of all the States, large and small, in the Senate, and for representation of the people in the House of Representatives in proportion to the number of inhabitants.

The Convention was a unit in agreeing that all power to direct and regulate the affairs of the country should reside in this representative organization, the Congress. Section 1 of Article I of the Constitution reads: "All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate, and House of Representatives."

That provision of the Constitution has never been altered. It has recently been brought to the front of public discussion through the decision of the Supreme Court that certain acts of the 73rd Congress were unconstitutional because they run contrary to this first and fundamental provision of the Constitution drafted in 1787. Congress cannot delegate to the Executive, or to anybody else, the power to enact laws or to issue regulations having the force of law unless it puts clear and definite limitations upon its regulative authority. Members of the House of Representatives, elected directly by a vote of the people, must be at least 25 years old and be inhabitants of the state in which they are elected. There is no constitutional requirement for dividing states into districts, or for members to live in the districts they represent. That is something for each state to determine. In New York, several members live outside of their districts. In Missouri there are no Congressional districts. The 13 representatives are elected at large by the voters of the whole state. Senators must be 30 years old and residents of their States.

As the body originally closest to the people, the House of Representatives was given in the Constitution the exclusive right to originate bills for raising revenue.

The insistence of the smaller States brought about another restriction upon Congress; it forbade the levying of any direct tax except in proportion to population. This was later changed by the income-tax amendment, which became effective March 1, 1913. That is the only exception to the rule established in the original Constitution, intended to provide that direct taxes levied by the Federal Government shall bear equally upon all citizens.

The Senators, as the direct representatives of State governments, were to be chosen by the legislatures of the States. That prevailed until 1913, when an amendment was ratified providing for the popular elections of Senators as well as Representatives. A still later amendment, the twentieth, ratified in 1933, changed the date upon which the terms of office of Senators and Representatives begin, from the 4th of March to the 3rd of January and provided that date for the annual meeting of Congress, instead of the first Monday in December, as originally provided in the Constitution.

Beauty Lovers In Question Of Winner Of Roswell Contest

Notwithstanding Miss Betty Jean George, Bartlesville, Okla., won first place in the Southwestern Beauty contest held at Roswell, N. M., last Saturday, in competition with 25 other beauties from three different states, Miss Adelia Beavers, Mulshoe, won over this honoree and 25 others in the revue held at a Clovis theatre Tuesday of last week.

It was the second time Miss Beavers had won the beauty honor in this contest, having been previously crowned as Miss Eastern New Mexico in the preliminary contest.

The decision and award was made by three movie cameramen and two movie picture experts, one of whom was a director, according to information.

While pulchritude lovers appreciate very much the beauty and charm of the Oklahoma lady, many citizens of West Texas and East New Mexico still insist their decision in favor of Miss Beavers is correct.

Miss Beavers declared the contest was well worth all the effort, since it was one continued round of social pleasure from its very inception to the end. Beginning at Clovis Tuesday of last week, the entrants were given a delightful luncheon at the Fox drug store, following which they were taken on a ride over the city, later going to the municipal swimming pool for a bathing revue and to have pictures taken. That night there was the big appearance at a local theatre, after which they were given a dance at the Clovis hotel.

The following day they were taken to Rudosa, enjoying luncheon at the Navajo lodge, going on to Carlsbad that afternoon with dinner at the Grand cafe there, and accommodations at the Cactus hotel. The next morning they were taken out to the big national cavern, going through it and enjoying the wonderful sights and mysteries of the interior sights and mysteries of the big cave. Returning that afternoon, they were favored with a banquet at the LaCaverna cafe, making an appearance that night on the stage of the Cactus theatre in Carlsbad, after which another dance was added to the courtesies extended them.

Friday they were in Roswell being treated to a banquet at the Nixon hotel, where all were introduced and made brief speeches over the radio. That night there was a pulchritude appearance at the Yucca theatre. Saturday motion pictures were taken of all the young ladies in a bathing revue held at the lake following which there was a trip to the New Mexico Military Institute where pictures in evening dress were again snapped by the movie photographers.

Friday night there was another theatre appearance made at which time the entrants were reduced to the leading 10 Miss Beavers being in that favored group from which the final selection was made for the favored queen of the Southwest. That selection was made at the Yucca theatre Saturday night following which the Queen's ball was held all the contestants participating.
