A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Vain man would be wise, though man be born like a wild ass's colt.—Job, 11:12.
Vanity is the foundation of the most ridiculous and contemptible vices—the vices of affectation and common lying.—Adam Smith.

KEEPING OUT OF WAR

All this means much to motorists, for only motorists know what good roads really mean. Good roads are added pleasure to passenger car travel, and they cut down traveling and hauling expenses of both the autoist and the trucker. Good roads mean more jobs for the unemployed, who are anxious to get away from their long-enforced idleness.

Good roads mean that Federal funds are finding their way into worthy channels, gas tax money is being spent where it ought to be spent, and this happy combination, though it may make us frown when we run up into a "detour" sign, yet we will eventually smile—perhaps the very next time we pass over that particular road and find it nicely paved.

SHOWING APPRECIATION

A few words of sincere appreciation will often work wonders in creating good feeling and make the pathway smooth for us and others. You may say "Thank you" in a way that will make it a pleasure for others to do you a favor, or you may take it with a grunt so they will say "never again." Here is an appropriate letter which a Japanese customer wrote to an American manufacturer.

He had bought a new vending machine for his back this "joyful" letter: "High Honorable Sir—We receive her fine shipment Tokyo come one machine from your honorable firm. She much well do. Cause he make 42 yen. Japanese, first day. Congratulations. We decide maybe buy more her fine machine from honorable firm soon yet. Be sure to get him ready make ship Tokyo as before. Wishing you thousand years luck, many fine flowers. Farewell, Honorable Sir, to honorable family, to damn fine machine come later."

THE CHURCH'S OPPORTUNITY

This is the fifth year of the depression, but as everyone around Muleshoe is aware churches remain alive and continue to grow. No institutions in this country have done better, and few have done as well.

In 1926 church membership in the U. S. was set at 43,500,000 by the federal census. Today this membership is slightly in excess of 50,000,000 persons. This does not include children under 13 or baptized infants. Thus it is evident that in times of stress the men and women of this nation are willing to turn to religion and the church for moral and spiritual aid and guidance.

Herein lies opportunity for the church and its ministers. Both are entrusted with obligation of tremendous importance. How is it being discharged? This is for the church and its ministers to answer.

ABOUT DETOURS

It would be hard to find a single Muleshoe motorist who likes a detour, and yet the return of the detour is accepted generally by all motorists as proof that better times are also returning.

For the past six years this nation has witnessed a general decrease in road-building, the in this section there has been some improvement going on during this time. For the past two years Muleshoe motorists have been making wide detours to Lubbock, toward Plainview and toward Clovis, N. M., yet generally speaking the amount of road work improvement has not been up to par.

Bailey county and all the other counties of this section, as well as elsewhere in the state have been holding out for more and better roads, and getting very little comparative response from its State Highway commission. Present indications are that much money owns, who seem to still be pretty starry-eyed. There are plenty of Muleshoe men who would like to marry a beautiful woman and an intelligent woman, if bigamy wasn't illegal.

Many modern Muleshoe citizens do not know how lucky they are. Suppose there were no autos and lodge meetings for either sex, and their practice was all that one could stir up in the way of a thrill.

Some Muleshoe people say a smart wife can make a dumb man succeed, but a smart woman would never have married him.

Most Muleshoe citizens can understand why a fool and his money are soon parted. What they can't understand is how they got together in the first place.

Some Muleshoe men admit they are self-made; but most of them blame it on their wives.

Most Muleshoe girls now days spend more time making up their faces than they do their minds.

Some Muleshoe people doctor their lives when it is really their dispositions that are ailing.

SNAP SHOTS

In politics, as in the home, the boss is the one who makes the most trouble if he is not allowed to boss.

People have always supported the leisur class. The only difference now is that the new one is not dressed up.

A bigamist isn't really so in any man who thinks he can handle two women at the same time.

Detroit officials report they have 30,000 pairs of cotton stockings that women don't want. Poverty prefers silk.

We hear it isn't considered an unfair trade practice now days to under-sell the fellow who charges too much.

A scientist says alligators are entirely harmless if their mouths are shut. That is also true of human beings.

Why spend four years in college when a fellow can marry a schoolman and get an education for the rest of his life?

The ant is a lucky little fellow. He has no government to take his savings and distribute them among the grasshoppers.

Middle-age is that period when the doctor examines you casually and says it probably is just a touch of rheumatism.

WANTED: To borrow a one-horse licker and a one-horse Fresno.—Ray Ecker.

"Some people give their time to a good cause," asserts Good Hardin, "and some give their money. It depends on which hurts less."

I kissed her tempting ruby lips—An act quite diabolic. For, since I stole those honeyed joys I have the painter's colic.

D. O. Smith suggests if any Muleshoe citizens are tired of life and don't know what to do, to just go over to Germany and cry out: "Down with Hitler!"

Neil Rockey last week planted a fall crop of automobile casings around his sales lot on Main street. He expects to harvest a big crop of Firestone tires in the spring.

Clay Beavers suggests maybe the Garden of Eden seemed perfect because there were no in-laws coming now and then for a week on month's visit.

Toy Young says he learned a good word ago that those joy-killers who were all the time saying, "Never count your chickens before they are hatched," took a large part of the pleasure of poultry raising away.

Ye editor's wife has a birthday anniversary the ninth of this month and, considering the advancing price of pork, he is now seriously considering whether to give her a slab of bacon or a new automobile.

Dr. Gibbs was listening to a Muleshoe woman describe an operation she recently had, and as she concluded the vivacious narrative, he asked her, "Did you have a local anæsthetic?" "No," she replied, "I went to a hospital in Lubbock."

E. R. Hart, perhaps Muleshoe's busiest man, suggests he discovered some time ago one of the best ways to enjoy a vacation was to stop at a filling station, borrow a map and then go home and spend two weeks in a hammock looking it over.

Nearly everybody in Muleshoe knows Vic Walden is a rank baseball fiend; but few people knew he was acquainted with many of the movie stars of younger days, until last week, while playing in the Clovis tournament. Vic admitted he knew Babe Ruth when she was a chorus girl.

Ken Umberson is the baby button this week for brightness. A woman was in his jewelry store the other day, and incidentally, asked why a colic

Goodland News

We have had about two inches of rain during the last week.
The wedding bells rang freely in our community during August. Miss Nina Turlington and Mr. Claude Brown of Bula were quietly married August 10. Miss Gertrude Carpenter and Tom Clark stepped up to wait on her. She was suffering much, what was the growth, could they do anything for him, etc. "No," calmly replied the Mayor "I just had my hair cut."

A young woman tripped into the Variety store the other day and Irvin St.-Chair stepped up to wait on her. She wanted to know if he kept sheet music, and after being informed he did, she said, "Have you Kissed Me In The Moonlight?" Irvin stuttered and blushed for a moment then replied: "No, madam, I am quite sure I haven't, because I haven't been out nights without my wife for nearly a year."

Our revival meeting closed Sunday night.

Traffic Increase Cheers Business

Traffic in New York plaza of the Holland Tunnel.

VEHICULAR traffic in the New York Metropolitan District seems to be on the upward swing judging by the use of the two big Hudson River arteries—the Holland Tunnel and the George Washington Bridge—since January 1.

In fact, all five of the interstate crossings owned and operated by The Port of New York Authority showed sizable gains for the first quarter of the present year over the corresponding period of 1934 and the outlook for April and the summer months was considered most encouraging.

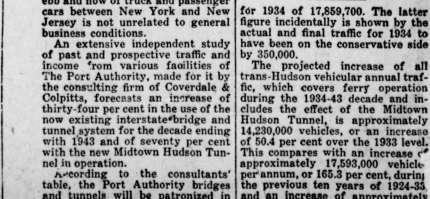

The report is especially interesting to those who consider that the Colpa and flow of truck and passenger cars between New York and New Jersey is not unrelated to general business conditions.

An extensive independent study of past and prospective traffic and income from various facilities of The Port Authority, made for it by the consulting firm of Coverdale & Colpa, forecasts an increase of thirty-four per cent in the use of the now existing interstate bridge and tunnel system for the decade ending with 1943 and of seventy per cent with the new Midtown Hudson Tunnel in operation.

According to the consultants' table, the Port Authority bridges and tunnels will be patronized in 1943 by 30,696,000 vehicles. This represents a seventy per cent growth from the former's estimate for 1934 of 17,859,700. The latter figure incidentally is shown by the actual and final traffic for 1934 to have been on the conservative side by $50,000.

The projected increase of all trans-Hudson vehicular annual traffic, which covers ferry operation during the 1934-43 decade and includes the effect of the Midtown Hudson Tunnel, is approximately 14,230,000 vehicles, or an increase of 50.4 per cent over the 1933 level. This compares with an increase of approximately 17,859,000 vehicles per annum, or 165.3 per cent, during the previous ten years of 1924-33, and an increase of approximately 8,204,600 vehicles per annum, or 148.2 per cent, for 1916-26, with ferry alone in operation.

SOUTH PLAINS IS WARNED AGAINST COTTON LEAF WORMS; METHODS OF CONTROL GIVEN AGAINST MENACE

While there are prospects for a bumper cotton crop in Bailey county, yet many farmers have begun to worry over worm infestation. It being declared frequent fall rains are raising the danger signal in such fields. Already reports are rife that farther east in the South Plains area cotton worms are doing considerable damage to growing plants, a few Bailey county farmers have already begun noticing these crawly pests in their fields and are becoming apprehensive of future destruction.

The drouth of this area last year did away with this pest almost entirely; but more rainfall this year offers opportunity for a much larger insect crop of all kinds. Generally speaking, what leaf worms there are in this section, appear too late to produce much defoliation of cotton plants which hastens maturity of premature bolls before well filled with the fleecy staple.

This year millers working on cotton are reported excessively abundant, laying innumerable eggs which hatch out in from seven to 10 days, giving promise of abundant worms in the near future, to consume the leaves, squares and sometimes the bolls.

However, expert agriculturists claim these worms may be easily controlled in large measure, calcium arsenate dust being considered the best chemical for use in this section and should be applied at a rate of from five to seven pounds per acre. It will cost approximately 1 cent per pound.

Arsenate of lead solution, composed of one and a half pounds of the arsenate to 50 gallons of water, or a solution of five pounds of calcium arsenate in 50 gallons of water may be used as a spray on the cotton with decidedly effective results. Arsenate of lead adheres longer to the foliage Paris green may also be used; also should be mixed with flour for better adherence and with hydrated lime to offset the danger of burning the plants, in proportions of about 1 part Paris green, one part flour and five parts lime. This preparation, if used dry, may be shaken from a thin flour sack onto the plants, early morning operations when dew is still on the foliage being preferable. A pole tied to the bag makes it handier to handle. Do not allow the bag to get wet.

Wet solutions should be applied with spraying outfits, using long nozzles through which the fluid mixture is forced by pump. All spraying mixtures should be mixed freshly as applied, Paris green and other heavy mixtures being kept thoroughly agitated, thus holding the weighty chemicals in suspension and insuring a more even flow of the poison onto the plants.

Teachers College At Canyon Opens With 5-Year Course Given

The West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon is opening this fall as a five-year college, in response to the demands being made upon it by the advancing standards of Northwest Texas schools and the acknowledgement of the soundness of the premise that teachers should have even better preparation than before, and especially that they should receive their higher training in a college dedicated to that special field of education. This college has the distinction of being the first teachers college in Texas to receive permission to do five years work, which privilege may soon be extended to the other six State teachers colleges.

Although the college at Canyon does highly specialized work in the field of teacher training, it also offers all the advantages of a liberal arts college.

The investment in the plant of this college is being increased during the period of 1934 to 1936 from approximately $1,400,000 to $1,650,000. Some of the special expenditures are as follows: Boys' dormitory, $40,500 addition to Cousins hall, $62,000; ten cottages for light housekeeping, $33,750.

Particular attention is directed to the increased facilities for students who care for dormitory student life in practically fire-proof buildings, with the most modern equipment.

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

No one major phase of the Constitution gave the delegates to the Convention of 1787 more trouble than that of working out a feasible plan for the execution of the laws adopted by the Congress. There had been no executive authority under the Articles of Confederation. One of the first things the Convention decided was that the new Government should consist of three independent branches, Legislative, Executive and Judicial. But how should the Executive power be set up?

Should we have a king? That was seriously debated, and rejected. Should there be an executive committee of three to administer the laws? That was considered, but dismissed. It was finally decided that the Executive would consist of one man. Then for weeks the debate went on as to how that one man should be chosen and for how long. Some delegates wanted the Executive to be appointed by the Senate and removable at pleasure. Another group wanted the Executive elected by the House of Representatives. And there was a strong element in favor of a seven-year term for the Executive. Several other delegates thought he should be chosen for life.

Agreement was reached at last upon the plan of vesting the Executive power in one man, with the title of President. He must be 35 years old and a natural born citizen of the United States. He is elected by the states for a term of four years. A Vice-president is chosen at the same time to provide against the President's death or disability. Under the original Constitution, the States voted only for President, and the candidate getting the second highest number of votes became Vice-President.

Each State has as many electors as it has Senators and Representatives in Congress. If a State wants to have its Presidential electors appointed by the Governor or the Legislature, as was the early way of doing it, every State permits all voters to vote for Presidential electors, but the President is not elected by the national popular vote. The electors of each State meet and vote as State body, and the candidate who gets the votes of the larger number of electors—not of citizens—is elected President. Several Presidents have thus been elected by a minority of voters.

The President is Commander-in-Chief of the army and navy. He has authority to pardon offenders against the laws of the United States. He can make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators concur, and this same two-thirds vote of the Senate is required to confirm his appointment of Ambassadors and judicial officers and others. He is required to "report to Congress from time to time on the state of the Union" and to recommend such legislation as he thinks necessary. He can call Congress together in a special session, and if they don't agree as to the time of adjournment, he can declare Congress adjourned. And he is required, in the language of the Constitution, to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

Very early in our national history conflicts began to develop between the President and Congress. Some Presidents have acted upon the theory that they were authorized to do whatever was not forbidden by the Constitution and the aivcs of Congress. Others have taken the opposite attitude, that they were not authorized to do anything specifically granted in the Constitution and statutes. In the course of 147 years, however, the powers of the Executive have been gradually enlarged by custom, statutory law and judicial interpretation, until the Executive is no longer merely the servant of Congress for the execution of Congressional enactments, but is also responsible for the initiation of policies.

ANTIPODES, EQUATOR AND SEMI-TROPIC REGIONS CONTRIBUTE TO VARIETY BAILEY CO. GARDENS

for it is declared by its proponents that several instances are already on record in that Progressive community wherein husbands have again fallen in love with their wives, sad wives now looking from 10 to 15 years younger because of the amorous revivification while some families of that community are now planning their second honeymoons as soon as the crops have been gathered.

Mrs. D. L. Sanderson, of Goodland county, is raising a peculiarly elongated vegetable which she calls "Quay," reputedly a New Mexico product from the county of that name and supposedly originated by one Paul Dodge, a newspaper editor of Tucuman. Incidentally anyone who knows Paul can readily believe that statement, for Paul can originate almost anything he desires, there's no "dodging" that fact!

This particular example of vegetable growth is only about an inch in diameter, but frequently grows 36 inches long. It is of variegated green color, darker on top and of lighter hue underneath where it lay on the moist ground. Growing in a semi-circle shape, and because of the enlarged bulb head where the blossom was pushed off, it resembles somewhat a green garden snake lying dilly coiled up beside the vine ready to strike at the unsuspecting gardener walking through the plot, so realistic, in fact, that Mrs. Sanderson has learned to look two or three times before reaching down to pick one of them for fear it might be a snake.

Someone has suggested that, after all, the story of Eve being seduced in the garden by a snake may all be a myth; that what she saw was merely a Quay lying coiled up there, and since this particular vegetable is used for pickles, it has been further suggested perhaps Madam Eve just ate too many pickles, got a terrible tummy ache, and hatched up the snake story to bring Adam to keep him from getting sad at her. (It is reported some wives are just that way even in this twentieth century.)

There are numerous other mysterious vegetables being grown in this county this summer; but to delineate upon the peculiarities and varied merits of each would require an editor of the Journal similar to a Dallas Sunday newspaper, and this publication trying to carry quite sufficient advertising to warrant such a bulky product. However, it is being generally declared that the new, original and quasi-original ideas being introduced in Bailey county are well worth her salary. In fact, some farmer men insist she is working entirely too cheap. Any woman who can bring greater convenience and happiness into Bailey county farm homes, giving the women more leisure time and the men something better to eat, is three welcome to the domain of this political subdivision.

Miss Stewart has promised to have a sample of all these various weird plants on display here at the Bailey County fair to be held October 7 and, with the assistance of her numerous club demonstrators, stands ready to give further proof of the veracity of the Journal's statements contained in this story.

EXPERIENCE OF GARDENERS

"Since I am the farm food supply demonstrator for Baileyboro club, I weigh everything that I get out of the garden. We have raised 29 head of cabbage and the average weight of the heads is 7 lbs.," said Mrs. Oscar McCrary.

"I have gathered eight or nine bushels of cucumbers from my garden and the vines are still bearing. The vines that are on the sub-irrigated land are much better than the surface irrigation," said Mrs. R. L. Jones, farm food supply demonstrator of the Mulleshoe home demonstration club. "I cooked some of my new Italian squash, which resembles a gourd, and we like it very much," said Mrs. Jones. "I cook this like egg plant and we like it better than egg plant."
