THE CORN-HOG CONTROL GETS FARMERS O. K.

Bailey Co. Joins In 3-1 Favorable Vote, May Increase Hogs.

AAA officials, expressing delight at the overwhelming endorsement of a 1936 corn-hog control program in a nation-wide farm referendum, began plans last Monday to increase pork production for next year. First of the week indications were the program carried in last Saturday's vote about seven to one.

Officials indicated the hog increase would be 25 to 30 per cent over this year. Present high prices of pork have been much under discussion recently with critics of the new deal stressing them, and AAA officials saying that the shortage of hogs was caused by the drought, not by the AAA policy of controlled production.

While the aim will be to increase production Secretary Wallace was quick to assert that efforts will be made to avoid "excessive overproduction in subsequent years."

Farmers in 48 states voted in the referendum Saturday. Incomplete returns showed that 317,994 favored an adjustment program who signed contracts to control their production in return for government benefit payments, and others who did not.

Under direction of the local American Legion post, a committee composed of W. B. McAdams, Curtis Taylor and Connie Gupton, has assumed direction of improvement and upkeep of the Muleshoe cemetery, located about three miles northwest of town, and plans are being prosecuted to beautify the grounds, making them more attractive than has heretofore been the case.

Better irrigating facilities are to be installed, more trees and flowers will be planted, graves now existing will be well mounded, streets and driveways will be improved and graded, perhaps additional land secured, and the entire plot is to be modernized and improved in keeping with other beautiful burial plots of this area.

TURKEYS WILL BE HIGHER THIS THANKSGIVING, A SURVEY SHOWS TEXAS CROP IS CUT ONE-THIRD

"The goose hangs high" is an old adage, and present indications are that the turkey is going to be hanging right beside it this year at the same altitude. While prices may not be increased to the point that householders are buying turkeys when they go to buying turkeys for Thanksgiving or Christmas, yet they will pay a little more for them than they did in 1934. Many factors have contributed to boost the price. While one old "baggoo" high cost of living, has not reared his head in public print yet, prices of farm products have shown a steady increase over the past 12 months.

Figures supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture, Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates, show the farm prices on turkeys this year in September averaged 14.4 cents a pound compared with 11.8 cents in 1934 and 10.7 cents in 1933. The increase on turkeys was 2.6 cents a pound while for chickens for the same period the gain was 2.7 cents. Incidental to increased prices is the

Warren Declares This Valley Good Aggi Plant Future

That the Blackwater valley around Muleshoe has one of the best opportunities as an agricultural manufacturing plant, is the statement of Fred Warren, Chicago, manufacturer in this section, before the Kiwanis club last Friday. Mr. Warren had just returned from a tour of New Mexico and several other southwestern areas where he made detailed investigations regarding agricultural assets, and interestingly declared his view on other sections that impressed him so greatly as this one, as to fertility of soil, wide range of crop adaptability, climatic favor, pure water, cheapness of irrigation, marketing, auto railroad, and truck service to central markets.

Tax Discount Not Valid Says Supreme Court In A Ruling

A Supreme court ruling handed down last week has voided an attempt of the State Legislature to speed tax collections by offering discounts for early payments of assessments, according to information received here last Friday by Tim Cook, Bailey county tax assessor and collector. The court held "absolutely unconstitutional and void" a law passed by the Forty-third Legislature offering a two per cent discount for payment in October, two per cent in November and one per cent in December.

More Than $1,500,000 Saved The State of Texas by Auditors Office of Certificate Investigations

Austin, Oct. 29.—"More than a million and a half dollars has been saved the State of Texas by an investigation of deficiency certificates held by local officers for felony case fees," said State Auditor Orville S. Carpenter about a report completed this week. "Four years ago the audit was started by the Senate Investigating Committee in conjunction with the State Auditor and the State Comptroller. At that time a number of sheriffs were indicted and two other officials committed suicide."

Much discussion has rife regarding the real identity of this elderly man now claiming to be 47 years old at the recent Confederate reunion held at Amarillo, many claiming he is not the original Jesse James of bandit fame during the hectic days of the Civil war, while others declare he is. Those attending his lecture Friday night will have opportunity of judging for themselves. A small admission will be charged.

TURNING A NEW LEAF IN HISTORY

The reception of a new model automobile is just like starting a new year with us. And on New Year's it is always the sub-conscious idea to review the past year and plan the next. Ford Motor Company has done just that, and decided to retain all its good features of the past year and add the beauty of line and the refinements of interior to its offering to the motoring public for 1936!

Editorial

Although you may not understand genius or the way to generate it, your reading, history and biography show so many instances of it springing up due to accidental opportunity that you are pretty safe in guessing a lot of it never budded because the intellectual climate wasn't right. You as students may not be able to create genius, but you can make opportunity. This is another argument for universal education. It can supply the soil and sunshine for the nurture of the seeds of genius which Nature distributes among the poor as well as among the well-to-do. Ambition to make the best of our talents for the benefit of all mankind is certainly commendable.

Attention Sleeping Beauties

You can determine whether your disinclination to work is laziness or real fatigue by pushing your unwilling self into a task. If after half an hour you are uninterested in going on, either you are tired and should stop, or you have a bad case of laziness and should go on. This is like telling an old squirrel from a young one. Put a nut into the cage. If the old one eats it, he's old; if the young one, he's young.

Yellowjackets Are Victorious

Friday, October 25, the Muleshoe Yellowjackets won their first conference game of the season when they defeated the Spring Lake eleven in the small score of six to two. No scores were made until the third quarter, when Elrod covered a fumble behind Spring Lake's goal line, giving the Yellowjackets six points. Spring Lake scored two points when Muleshoe's punt was blocked and rolled behind their goal line. Border picked the ball up but was tackled before he could get back across the goal line, thus giving Spring Lake a safety.

We are looking forward when Muleshoe will play Amherst here Friday, Nov. 1. Muleshoe and the surrounding communities are invited out to see Muleshoe score another victory. The support is needed.

High Point's Game

The game was characterized by a new and successful change in tactics which showed real strategy on Coach Stevens' part.

During the game Hart punted for 60 yards from behind his own goal line.

Sonny Griffiths surprised himself by making a real tackle.

That boy Woddie Lambert is a real hustling player.

Ralph Border and Bill Falkner made consistent gains throughout the game. Wonder why Ralph would not let Sonny finish laughing during the game?

Pep Squad News

If the people of Muleshoe could see the throats of the Pep squad girls, they would not wonder why Muleshoe won the football game Friday. The game was enjoyed by every girl who attended, because it was one of the best games we have seen the boys play this year.

The football team has worked hard this year and is just now receiving its reward. As Coach Stevens said at the beginning of the year, "a bad beginning has a good ending."

Texas May Show A Large Population Gain In Future Yrs.

Texas may easily increase its population by more than 40 per cent by the year 1950.

The national resources committee made public recently an estimate of the Texas State Planning board which indicated a possible population of 9,332,000 persons in 1950, compared with an indicated 6,526,000 in 1940 when the next census is taken.

The board, in a semi-annual survey, said the Texas population increase of natural proportions could be accelerated by encouraging removal of families from the cities to the farms and by a more intensive application of public health measures.

The board went on to say that Texas is not approaching a static population condition as rapidly as many east and northern states where land is almost all developed.

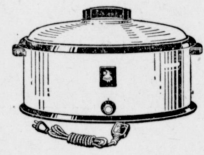

Texas still presents enormous possibilities for growth," the board declared. "Its farm lands on the basis present sage are scarcely half developed. With bettered and more intensive use of its lands, the support of treble the present population is very likely possible, involving a density of only 166 persons per square mile as against its present 83 persons per square mile on its humid to sub-humid area."

Foreign born white persons are greatly in the minority in Texas, the planning board reported, and those of foreign or mixed parentage are becoming Americanized. The Mexican population in the state seems to be decreasing.

The Story of the Constitution
by CALEB JOHNSON

The two-party political system under which the nation had grown from its earliest days was threatened in 1822, when the so-called Populist movement, originating in the wheat-growing West, swept the Western country and part of the South. This new People's Party elected many members of Congress, and its candidate for President, General James B. Weaver, received 22 electoral votes. This had a profound effect upon the Constitution of the United States, for the demands for Constitutional changes, made by so large a group of voters, could not be ignored.

One of those demands was the income tax, which, as has been pointed out, was later adopted.

Another demand of the People's party was for a change in the Constitutional method of electing United States Senators; they should be chosen by direct popular vote instead of by state legislatures. The new states that had been carved out of the public domain had little of the tradition of state independence which prevailed in the older East. They were creatures of the Federal Government, with no previous independent existence. To the people of the West, there was nothing especially sacred in the original plan of the Constitution, which regarded the State Governments, as represented in their legislatures, as somewhat superior to the people. The West had no especial reverence for its own legislature; its people were mainly farmers, with all of the farmer tradition of personal liberty and "rugged individualism."

Another of the demands made by the People's Party for a Constitutional change was equal suffrage rights for women.

The Democratic Party, in 1896, captured the People's Party by adopting most of its tenets. Thus, therefore, became partisan political issues, so it was not until the Democratic Party had obtained control of Congress that these People's Party amendments to the Constitution could be submitted to the states for ratification. Like the income tax amendment, it took 20 years and more of public discussion to bring about the 17th amendment, for direct election of Senators, which was ratified in 1913.

The 19th amendment, giving nationwide suffrage to women, in 1920. Prior to 1920 women had been granted the right to vote in 22 states, beginning with Wyoming. This was another great popular movement, which, like Prohibition, had its origin in the East but its strength in the West.

When the United States entered the World War the majority of the states had already voted themselves dry. As a war-time emergency measure Congress enacted a temporary national Prohibition act. The opportunity was seized upon for the submission of a Constitutional amendment for the perpetuation of national Prohibition. This, the 18th amendment, was ratified in January, 1919. After 14 years of unsuccessful efforts to enforce prohibition, this 18th amendment was repealed by the 21st amendment, ratified in 1933. This is the only instance of a Constitutional amendment being repealed by another amendment.

It has been pointed out that Supreme Court decisions have rarely resulted directly or indirectly in amendments to the Constitution. One Supreme Court decision, however, holding a law of Congress unconstitutional, brought about the submission of an amendment which has been awaiting ratifications for 11 years. It would prohibit interstate commerce in the products of child labor.

The 68th Congress enacted a law which was intended to prevent the exploitation of children in industry, but before its provisions became effective the Supreme Court held that this was an invasion of the rights of the states and therefore beyond the power of Congress. The 68th Congress, in 1924, submitted an amendment removing that restriction upon Congressional authority. Only 21 of the 48 states have as yet ratified the child labor amendment, which must be ratified by 36 states before it becomes a part of the Constitution.

State Health Doctor Warns Of Increase Of Diphtheria Cases
Austin, Oct. 29—Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, urges all parents of children from six months to 10 years of age who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to the family physician and have this done at once. Last month there were 265 cases of diphtheria in Texas reported to the State Department of Health. This is an increase over the month of August and shows the need of stressing immunization of the children in this age group.

It was not so long ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of the inability to prevent or cure this scourge. Now that we not only know the cause but also the remedy there is no reason why this disease cannot be completely eliminated.

As diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, it is of the highest importance that immunization be given early. What is more, in young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has been proven to give absolute protection. It is in the power of the parents of this State, cooperating with their physicians and the health department, to eliminate the disease.

Most children can be protected against diphtheria by a single treatment—with what is known as Toxoid. However, in about six months the child should be given a Schick test to determine if a second treatment is

"HARVEST TIME IN DIXIE"
The harvest days are here again,
The gladdest of the year;
Old Dixie's face is all aglow,
Her heart is full of cheer!

The cotton fields are fleecy white,
The crop is wondrous fair;
The pickers' song is brisk and strong,
There's gladness in the air.

The wheat is garnered in the barn
The corn is in the shuck;
And sorghum juice for winter use
Is waiting in the truck.

The men awheel with ribs of steel
Emblow seas of hay;
White urchins tease the apple trees
Throughout the gladsome day.

The pies are crusting in the pans,
The spareribs in the pot;
And biscuits brown and light as down
Are crisp and piping hot.

Oh, harvest time is here again,
The gladdest of the year;
Old Dixie's steps are airy light,
Her heart is full of cheer!

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Wherefore do the wicked live, become old, yea, are mighty in power?—Job 21:7. If the wicked flourish, and thus suffer, he not discouraged; they are fated for destruction, thou art edified for health.—Fulter.

NEWSPAPER AND BUSINESS CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED

That trade follows newspaper coverage, is a statement beyond controversy. Again and again this fact has been proven. Business comes from points where newspapers go with their messages of news and advertising.

If the average business man will take the trouble to make a list of his customers, he will find the majority of them to be people who read newspapers, most of them subscribing for and reading their local newspaper, and the wider the range of a given newspaper the wider the trade territory of a given town.

The automobile and good roads have made distance a minor consideration today in the choice of trading centers. The average farmer will now go any reasonable distance to trade in the town he and his family like best—the town with the most attraction and best prices to offer on given commodities.

Price, quality and variety are the three things that draw trade, and where people are not advised of these three prerequisites through the medium of their local newspaper, they are likely to trade where such important advice is given them.

Muleshoe has a newspaper of which it may boast without apology. The editor of such newspaper may well make such statement without being accused of egotism, for that statement is merely the echo of hundreds of others who have made the same declarations. Advertisers patronize it for its quality as well as its quantity circulation. It goes into the homes of the most intelligent and thrifty people of this trade territory. It is looked forward to each week by its interested subscribers and other readers. It carries prestige and influence wherever it is mailed.

It is Muleshoe's best, cheapest and most complete means of carrying advertising news to the customers of this trade territory, costing the average advertiser less than one-fifth of a cent per reader for the messages carried in its columns. Many local business concerns realize this fact and miss scarcely an issue without having some message contained in it to their present and prospective customers. Foreign advertisers, also appreciate its value as an advertising medium by increasing the space used in this newspaper, year after year.

As a matter of fact, there has not been a consistent foreign advertiser in the Muleshoe Journal during the past this world with certain chances of acquiring a working capital of a round half-million, which sounds like the U. S. Constitution's statement of all people being born equal. But Pitkin has reference to hours, not dollars, and he insists those hours will be paid in full, if he are skillful enough and lucky enough to stick around until we reach the age of three score years and ten. No doubt humanity's greatest sin is the measuring of everything in terms of money. Realizing the necessity of money to get along in this old world, we substitute almost entirely the money standard for the time standard, forgetting largely that the real aim of life is that of getting the most out of the minutes that are ours, making every minute count for happiness, growth, service, peace and contentment.

Too many failures of life are caused by men burning themselves out piling up wealth and then spending the sunset of life sitting on the porch of some sanitarium watching the healthy but poor go by. They failed to use rightly the crisp, bright moments that came to them out of eternity. Perhaps you and I are committing the same falacy, for in the accumulation of dollars we have sacrificed thousands of hours of happiness.

After all, though we may learn it too late, the stuff life is made of is time, not money.

LOOKING BACKWARD

You have only to look about and see that women around Muleshoe are doing these days to occupy their leisure hours to realize that this generation is looking back to the days of its forefathers.

It is a fact that more women are engaged in quilting, knitting and crocheting than at any time in a quarter of a century. In many communities that is forsaking the breaking of the pink tea for the quilting or crocheting "bee," as did their mothers and grandmothers.

The economic pinch of the past five years has had to do with it, for women now realize leisure time can be used to advantage, and also made to yield a generous measure of enjoyment.

So, thanks to the depression, knitting needles are clicking as never before in this generation, and the family pocketbook is benefitting in proportion to the amount of good things the country it still more of the customs of grandmother's day were adopted.

ABOUT PRONOUNCIATIONS

It is gratifying to learn from the National Board on Geographic Names that the right way to pronounce the name of Adhis Ababa, the capital of Ethiopia, is as if it were spelled "Adhis Awawa," with the accent on the first syllable of each word.

That goes to show how little most of us know—or care—about the right way to pronounce the names of foreign places. Practically every American pronounces "Paris" the way it is spelled instead of calling it "Paree," as the French do. Anybody talking about "Mathreeth" would be regarded in these parts as a sissy, but that's how the Spaniards pronounce the name of their Capital City, Madrid. As far as that goes, most of us are as careless with Italian names, as we are with those of Ethiopia. If we've got to say "Adhis Awawa," why aren't we under equal compulsion to say "Roma," "Napoli," "Firenze" and "Genova" instead of our slished American way of pronouncing Rome, Naples, Florence and Genoa the way we spell them?

Most of us, anyhow, feel like pronouncing this whole Italian-Ethiopian war a mistake.

A SAFE RULE

The fall and winter season do far more than change the picture outside your door—they set up hazards that must be guarded against.

Among these is the danger arising from carbon monoxide, or auto fume, a danger which, despite the annual warning of newspapers, claims many lives annually. Carbon monoxide cannot be seen, and it cannot be detected by its odor. Its effect is so swift that death can result before one is aware of its presence. These chilly mornings make it a hazardous every game in Muleshoe and car owners who do not guard against it face a danger far more deadly than they can encounter in any kind of traffic.

There is but one sure safe guard against death from carbon monoxide gas, and that is to simple anyone can apply it. It is this—never start the motor on a chilly morning without first being sure the garage doors are wide open.

Always do that and your name will not be added to the long list of those who will meet death this fall and winter from carbon monoxide gas.

points, his regular circuit being 138 miles in circumference. Day and night wet or dry, hot or cold, this veteran warrior of the Gospel has been true to his trust, delivering his messages, holding revivals, building churches, marrying young couples and burying the dead.

The economic depression has hit him perhaps harder than it has most of his communicants. During the past year he has bought for himself just one shirt and one 40 cent straw hat, no other clothing, no shoes, not even a necktie - but he has gone on just the same, faithful and true to his trust and calling of the ministry.

During the 35 years Rev. Fort has been in the Methodist ministry, he has held nothing but "hard" appointments. Limited in his early education, he was never a member of the Methodist conference, always acting as a local preacher; supply; but notwithstanding his handicaps he has been a most successful than have many college preachers with numerous degrees tacked on to the end of their names. He has been a real soul-winner and a constructive minister.

Scarcely has there been an appointment read out to him that some time during his ministry there he has built one or more churches, some costing up to $5,000 each.

Now he is finishing his work. During the past year he has traveled consistently over the largest church circuit in West Texas, he has built churches, improved others, had perhaps more conversions here for charge than any other West Texas preacher and while his salary will not be nearly paid in full when he comes to the annual conference and he will not raise all his benevolent appointments, yet he has wrought a spiritual work that counts much greater and which will extend on into the numberless ages of eternity.

Returning from the annual meeting at Plainview he will be from the circuit parsonage in Muleshoe to his little home in Lubbock where he will spend the declining days of his life as his sun sinks slowly into the western horizon.

The editor of this newspaper having known somewhat intimately Rev. Fort during the past year, takes this opportunity of paying tribute to his magnificent Christian character, his untiring devotion to the cause in which his life years ago was consecrated, to the countless sacrifices he has made and to the glorious labors of accomplishment he has performed. It is men like that that really count in this life and leave the world better for having lived in it. Sad indeed, it is that there are too few of them.

History records that when Anna Bolyne, mother of Queen Elizabeth, was on the way to her coronation, she passed down the streets thronged with an admiring populace, beautiful furs, the fringe of which were hung with little bells, tinkled with each movement as the passing breeze unfurled their folds. She herself was dressed in the purest silk with streak of rich velvet, fingers circled with diamonds and brow gleaming with rubies, mounted upon a snow white palfrey, her royal charger being led by the elect of the realm, she rode into Westminster Abbey where, amid the ringing of bells, the blowing of bagpipes and the shout of the populace, she was crowned queen of Henry VIII.

But all this honor and magnificence will be incomparable to the welcome that shall be accorded the humble of this world when they come into the royal temple of the New Jerusalem of the Skies; to be honored as one of Eternity's children; to have a pick of the robes and crown; and palaces; to have a seat at the right hand of the Son of God; to be crowned a royal prince of eternity - this will be the greatest honor a humble Methodist minister can ever claim.

In the meantime, there will be plenty of other preachers who have had fine churches, magnificent choirs and pipe organs, cushioned pews and loving congregations here on earth, who may file by the throne of God and take what is left. It will be but right, fair and just. Great will be the reward of those who on earth have performed their tasks, fulfilled their duties, accepted their sacrifices in humble manner, and finally ascended into that City of the Skies where justice, without fear or favor, inevitably prevails. Me fancies that in the not distant years Rev. Fort will "receive his salary in full" and he can report to the heavenly conference, "all appointments have been paid in full; he will hear the blessed assurance, "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Well did thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of the eternal reward.

The old circuit rider, the trail-blazers of the Gospel, are now rapidly passing to their eternal rewards. They have been valiant soldiers of the cross. They have been heroic fighters for the Christian cause. They waded creeks, swam rivers, rode numerous miles horseback in the bitter cold to their appointments, lived on starvation salaries; but they chopped off more heads of Pillars than you could count in a half day.

Many of them, not members of any church conference, association or organization, were true to their trust, delivering their messages, holding revivals, building churches, marrying young couples and burying the dead.

Revolution Against Dust Storm Is Seen By U. S. Soil Expert

The spread of erosion control methods among western farmers strikes the government's chief soil conservation expert as the beginning of an "agricultural revolution" that will end the western dust storms.

H. H. Bennett, Washington, D. C. back in his soil conservation office after a 20-day inspection tour through practically all the states west of the Mississippi river, said last Friday that progress on demonstration projects was "most encouraging." "If they'll give us another year and we get a little rain, we'll stop the dust storm damage in the five-state western area," he predicted. "It is getting to the point where a farmer will be considered inefficient if he doesn't take some steps to prevent erosion."

"Considering the brief time the work has been under way," he said, "the accomplishments thus far portend a veritable agricultural revolution—the throwing off of the shackles of soil misuse and abuse that had their origin in a national misconception with respect to our supposedly inexhaustible supply of crop and grazing lands."

New projects may be started early next year on land of almost every farmer who wants aid, he said. Part of the existing personnel probably will be transformed to experimental work altogether.

The whole program, Bennett said, will depend on availability of funds. Congress made a $27,500,000 appropriation for soil conservation service but only a small part has been made available.

BUILDERS CLASS HAS RECORD

The Builders' Sunday school class, still feels that it deserves an extremely high place in the ranks of the Sunday school classes of the town. Only one pupil was absent last Sunday morning and those present were all one hundred per cent in their grades.

We truly intend to live up to our name, "The Builders," for we have a real teacher and a classroom of girls who really mean to work.

We do not want our building to become dilapidated in any way so we hereby extend an invitation to you who are girls between the ages of 14 to 17 to join our class, unless you are already a member of some other class.—Reporter.

Pipes in Church

One of the little-known sights of London is a briar pipe factory which was once a chapel of the "Strictly Particular Baptists." The machines are set in parquet flooring, and to gain entrance you must knock on an unmarked church door. Briar roots are kept in the church vaults, and the old oak beams and stone arches are plain to see.

MEDICAL TOPICS

CANCER

The direct cause of cancer is not known. However, there are a number of things that doctors do know which are of great importance to those who are anxious not to be afflicted with this dreaded disease.

Among the conditions that precede and predispose to cancer are scaly or irritated places on the skin especially about the face. Tumor-like growths on any part of the body—most cancers begin with a small tumor.—Sores on the body that do not show a tendency to heal readily—certain kinds of warts and moles that seem to be easily irritated. Some persons hesitate in having these conditions removed for fear they will start cancer. There is no ground for this fear if a competent physician is consulted. Thousands of lives would be saved and great suffering avoided each year if these conditions were attended to early.

Panhandle Refining Co. Announces New Noxless Gas On Sale

Elsewhere in this issue of the Journal will be found an announcement by the Panhandle Refining Company, stating that effective October 26, the company announces a change in one of its products, whereby what was formerly known as Noxless-Green gasoline becomes "Panhandle Noxless" gasoline, claiming a new and highly improved gasoline that is destined to become very popular with the gasoline buying public. It will be the color of new, unvarnished copper.

The announcement states this new and improved product will be found to be all one could possibly ask for in a standard noxless gasoline. It has better starting, more power on hills, quicker get-away and better mileage, the company claims.

The Panhandle noxless is especially adapted to winter use when motors are hard to start and sluggish after starting. It is also especially refined for high compression cars, giving quicker starting, less carbon, better motor lubrication, less gear-shifting and a noxless motor, it is said.

This new and improved gasoline will be sold at all Panhandle service stations located through West and North-west Texas, Southwestern Oklahoma and the eastern section of New Mexico.

Every Panhandle service station is equipped to give the motoring public the best possible service, both in the matter of free service and when purchases are contemplated. You are invited to call at any Panhandle station at any time for your needs for your car.

THE CORN-HOG CONTROL GETS FARMERS O. K.

continuation of the control measures, being as follows:

Precinct	Signers		Non-Signers
	Yes	No	Yes	No
1	18	1	4	—
2	17	2	2	1
3	15	0	5	0
4	26	1	1	—
Total	76	7	9	6

The vote throughout the entire State of Texas was overwhelmingly in favor of the measure, according to information tabulated at College Station, the vote of contract signers being 92 per cent in favor and that of non-contract signers being 70 per cent in favor.

Commending the producers for their favorable vote, Wallace said: "They realize their triple duty: to the consumer; to the cause of soil conservation, and to the maintenance of a fair income for themselves."

Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, said the early returns indicated the total vote might exceed the 570,716 ballots cast last year and added: "In that event we would, in my opinion, have an expression which would effectively represent the views of the men who produce most of the country's corn and hogs."

He also asserted the farmers did not make a political issue of the question of whether there should be a 1936 program, saying they had voted "economically, not politics."

There was much speculation as to what effect the referendum would have on the 1936 political campaign. Some republicans have been hammering away at AAA as "un-American regimentation," while others have shown a disposition to refrain from attacking this new deal policy strongly, or even to favor some of it. Whether the poll would lend strength to the latter school of thought was a subject under discussion.

In analyzing the first returns, Davis called attention to the fact that non-contract signers voted against a program last year whereas this year they voted nearly two-to-one in favor.

The vote was:

Contract Signers		Non-Contract Sgrs
YES	NO	YES	NO

TOWNSEND CLUB MET SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Methodist church, a meeting of the Mulshoe Townsend Old Age Pension club was held.

Arrangements were made for hearing the address of Dr. F. E. Townsend, proponent of the old age plan bearing his name, who was speaking from Chicago during the afternoon to a crowd of delegates from all over the United States assembled there for a conference meeting. A radio and loud speaker was furnished by the Western Drug Co. and installed in the church and just before the address was to start all of the electric current power was shut off all over Mulshoe for the purpose of working on the lines.

Rev. J. Frank Luker spoke on the necessity of organization in Townsend clubs, and O. N. Robison talked on various phases of the club.

Miss Ely, music teacher in the Mulshoe schools, put on a special musical program with several of the music pupils.

A small collection fee was taken up to help pay the expenses of advertising the meeting.

A good crowd from Mulshoe and neighboring communities attended the meeting. No definite date was set for the next meeting.

"Yes, I proposed to you five times before you said 'yes', and then my look failed."

YOUNGSTER DOING FINE AFTER BIRTH AT BOTTOM OF WELL

Sanford, N.C.—The seven-pound son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jordan is healthy and happy, as is also his mother, even if he was born at the bottom of a well.

Mrs. Jordan, of near Gulf, went to a well at her home to draw water. She became faint and toppled over, falling down the shaft into several feet of water.

Her husband, attracted from his work nearby by cries of his children, rushed to the well and pulled up the mother—who was holding a newly-born son.

Mother and son were rushed to a hospital here. Attaches said both were progressing satisfactorily.
